T. W. Stoneroad is suffering from a protracted spell of rheumatism.

We learn that W. A. Franklin is expected to arrive about the twentieth.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitts moved to the Talbert ranch Sunday last.

A little unpleasantness at the last dance brought the court together Monday last, which resulted in a transfer of thirty-five dollars to the school fund.

Grass is coming rapidly now, and the same conditions are fostering the deadly loco. We notice it thriving in abundance every where.

Out in the woods, among the wildings, we discover many early spring flowers in bloom.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

"We dream today in foreign climes
Of olden scenes and glories;
And hear again the pleasant chimes,
And linger o'er old stories."

Tuesday, March 17, is St. Patrick's Day. By the customs coming from a very remote period, and by the fragments of legendary lore, some times called history, we are enabled to reproduce a small portion of his life's work. That St. Patrick "was a gentleman and came of decent people" all of those who are "a wearing of the grane" will declare. But he was something more than this, he was Ireland's patron saint. Long years have passed since, those events have transpired which gave him the devotion, the honor and glory that has followed his name through the interminable space of time; and the mystery of time, and superstitions of the unfinished stability of our early religion, have woven about his name legends of supernatural potency, which in the advanced study of our century, are accepted only as a possibility, against the ancient chronologist's actuality. This seems a rational conclusion, when we meditate on the fourteen hundred and eighty or ninety years intervening in the space since these chronicles were made; since St. Patrick's Day was first celebrated, and since he founded the first church which actually was the beginning of his fame. But erroneous to the opinion of many, the seventeenth of March is not honored as St. Patrick's natal day, it celebrates the fulfillment of his dream of success in completing the first church dedicated to Christianity. This occurred on the seventeenth of March, 425, and it was built near Strangford

Lough, county of Down, Ulster. In all, he founded 365 churches and baptized twelve thousand persons. His birth place was at "Banavem Taberniae," the locality of which has never been known. Some writers place the ancient seat in Scotland, near Glasgow, others hold that Banavem was near Bologne, France. One conclusion we may make of pirates when very young and sold as a slave; he worked for years as a missionary and was exalted to every rank of ecclesiastical power or importance, including the sacred rites of canonizing his name as patron saint and apostle of Ireland. His real name was Succath, which means courage and bravery even in battle. The Romans gave him the name of "Patrick," or "Patricius," as the name is in Latin, and he assumed this name at his ordination. Many fabulous things have been written of him in all ages; including the banishing of the snakes, toads, etc., from Ireland; but besides the incredible stories, there are many points of interest and a great deal concerning his personal affairs which have been generally accepted as truth. It is claimed the "autobiographical confession," and the "Epistle to Coroticus" is genuine. His thoughts and expressions are quaint and similar to the ancient writers, there is a crude method of construction in the words and sentences. There is a laborious effort to make plain his simple thoughts, in a language so imperfect, that it was difficult to bring himself to a concise point. There is great divergence of opinion concerning his death, though he probably was buried at Down in Ulster; but that he did live, and was not a myth as some say, seems an assured fact. Anyway, it would be an impossibility to discred St. Patrick to those "a wearing of the grane."

White Mountain.

Messrs. Riggs and Scheffey gave a bachelor dinner party Thursday night to Walter S. Robn, who leaves shortly for the east. Among those present were Jack Fall, John Terry, John Williams and Gene Montague.

Mrs. Harper and a party went to Carrizozo Saturday in their new Haynes automobile.

J. O. Nabours made a business trip to Oscura this week.

W. H. Reber and wife were up Sunday from Alamogordo, visiting the Benkendorfs.

The Baptist Revival

THE protracted meeting under progress at the Baptist church began last Monday afternoon with a better attendance and interest than former meetings during the present pastorate. The outlook is very encouraging for a good series of services. Quite a number are expressing appreciation of the good preaching by Evangelist Cooksey, also of the good singing rendered by the choir. The congregational singing is also very helpful. The Evangelist, the Pastor, the Church, and all the Christian friends who are interested in the religious work of the town are desirous of doing the best possible work during this meeting. You come, help by your presence, and in turn you will be helped in the things pertaining to eternal life. That Carrizozo is greatly in need of a genuine revival is the belief of many of the Christian citizens. Then let's have one. We are ready to do our utmost for this gracious end. The good preaching and singing will be kept up; let the good attendance also keep at the high mark, and undoubtedly great good will be done.

BIG PRIZE VOTING CONTEST

WILL CLOSE WED., MARCH 18

Only a Few More Days in Which to Work for the Beautiful Piano and Other Prizes

There are now but a few more days in which the candidates engaged in the News' popular voting contest have to work for the several prizes offered. The voting comes to an end on Wednesday, March 18, at 1 o'clock and immediately thereafter the count will be commenced to see who shall be declared the winner of the splendid Obermeyer piano and the other beautiful and useful articles offered to those who are making an endeavor to land the premiums. It is not believed by those who have given the matter careful thought that any particular person has the grand prize cinched at the present time but there are several in the race who have a good chance to land it if they only will hustle.

If you have not yet seen the fine piano offered in this contest come to the News office and take a look. Many of our citizens have examined the instrument as to its quality and appearance and there is yet the first one to say that it is not a fine one. It is of a plain rich mahogany, and a prettier piano was never unloaded at Carrizozo. Musicians of this vicinity have tested it as to its quality of tone and volume and every one of them say it is fine as silk.

There are several young ladies who appear to have the best of the contest but none of them have a sure cinch of being the ultimate owner of the first prize. If one of these contestants who is way down the list should take it into her head that she was going to win the big premium she could do so. She would have to do some work to make it, but that was what was expected when the contest opened. Several bunches of seven new subscribers or renewals in the groups of seven would put the lowest candidate in the race up among the leaders.

For those who wish to vote without any competitor seeing them. The News desires to state that cash with your subscription, telling where the paper is to be sent and to whom the votes shall be given can be placed in an envelope and deposited in the bank. The judges will open these envelopes as soon as they start to count and will credit all votes including bonus votes. In order to secure bonus votes on merchant's coupons they must be counted in the News office before being voted.

Miss Lola Highfill was in the lead at the last count. Several others are well to the front and are putting forth every effort on the home stretch to win the coveted prize. Either of these ladies can land the prize if they will take the time to get out and solicit new subscriptions and renewals. Every bunch of seven new subscriptions means 14,200 votes and seven renewals will bring 9,500 votes and the way to win is to get these new subscriptions and renewals, as they count up rapidly and they carry with them the big bonus offers which contestants should be seeking.

From now on until the close of the contest, which will be on Wednesday, March 18 we will give the following bonuses. These will positively be the last bonus offers, and they will hold good until the close of the contest.

For every seven new subscriptions a bonus of 10,000 extra votes, making a total of 14,200.

For every seven renewal subscriptions a bonus of 8,000 extra votes, making a total of 11,500.

For every seven back subscriptions a bonus of 6,000 extra votes, making a total of 8,000.

For every 40 merchants' coupons brought into this office and counted by the publisher, a bonus of 1,500 votes will be given, making a total of 2,500.

For every three 5 year subscriptions received at one time we will issue a bonus of 25,000; added to 15,000 makes 40,000 in all. These subscriptions may be either for one, two or three persons.

For every two 20-year subscriptions received at one time we will issue a bonus of 75,000, added to 60,000 makes 135,000 in all. These subscriptions may be either for one or two persons.

These merchants' coupons may be collected from any and all merchants who are giving coupons, and must be brought to the News office in bunches of forty tickets to be counted by the publisher before the coupons will be issued.

Wednesday, March 18 the voting will cease and the final count will be made that evening. This is but a short time ahead and it is worth the while of the candidates to get out among the people and work like Trojans from now until the ballot box is closed at 1 o'clock in the afternoon of the day mentioned. No ballots will be received after 1 o'clock under any circumstances, no matter who may have them or what excuse they may present for not getting them in at the proper time.

The contest is on the square and there is to be a fair field and no favorites.

All bonus votes that are to be cast must be accompanied by the number of coupons stated on the bonus or bonus votes will not be counted or allowed to be given to the contestants.

Remember that there are many handsome prizes given by various merchants around town. After the piano is awarded, the next contestant has first choice of the other prizes; the next one has second choice, and so on until all are claimed.

The following is the standing of the contestants:

CANDIDATE	PREVIOUS COUNTS	3RD COUNT	TOTALS
Miss Lola Highfill	123,300	44,300	167,600
Alma Roberts	103,875	27,525	131,400

TANGO MANIA HAS NEW YORK IN ITS GRIP

Great Personages and Very Small Ones Clamor for the Privilege of the Dance That Intoxicates.

NEW YORK.—Castle House was very still in the after-luncheon hour. An expectant hush fell over all its shiny, polished-up surfaces. Everything was ready for the junior dance. The long serving table on the little balcony at the far end of the room was laden with tea things and platters heaped high with diamond and heart-shaped sandwiches and tiny fairy cakes, and decorated at each corner with a miniature Christmas tree.

The mirrors set in the French gray paneled walls, reflected countless holly wreaths that looked as though they just belonged there for always, with their crimson berries and ribbons, exactly the color of the cushions on the benches ranged along the walls.

The funkey at the door assumed his stiffest and haughtiest pose, chin drawn back, nose tilted in air and spotlessly white gloved hands at his sides.

Suddenly, as though of their own accord, the glass chandeliers flared up into hundreds of lights, that turned into thousands as they were caught in the mirrors and reflected from the floor. Through the open doorway leading into the smaller ballroom came a flood of rosy light, setting everything aglow with warmth and color. At the same time several darkey minstrels wandered in with banjos and drums, took possession of the piano and burst in the strummingest, most rollicking one-stop. In another moment a pretty, shining-faced little girl, looking proudly conscious of her very best dancing frock and fluttering ribbons, came dancing out into the middle of the floor. The debutante into the arms of Mr. Vernon Castle himself.

Extremes Find Means to Dance. What a picture they made! It was certainly a case of the long and the short of it. Long and lean, with arms like two wisps of a straw and legs that look as though they'd snap in the middle when he walks, he bent over her befrilled chubbiness and danced her gallantly through to the end. Under the immense butterfly bow perched on top of her golden head she peered out anxiously, her dark eyes fastened every now and then on the floor, as though watching in trepidation lest her fat little legs and turned-in toes should get entangled in her partner's dangling ones. Finally with a sigh of relief she returned to the safe harbor of mamma's side, while her cavalier bowed himself away to seek a partner for the next dance.

The junior "after-luncheon dance" at Castle House is the latest development of the craze that has swept like a storm over the land. Dancing, dancing everywhere, by every one, at every time. Nothing matters nowadays but the tango. The debutante listens impatiently to mamma's accounts of the list of virtues of a certain eligible, and burst out with:

"Yes, yes, I know, but—does he tango?"

The hostess, in her quest of that rare species, the social male; asks not whether he be fat or thin, old or young, gallant or boorish, good to look upon or homely as a barn, but—does he tango? And, worse and more incredible than all, the intellectual, the college prof, the highbrow, the man of letters, the rigid anaerobic care not whether a woman as lovely as Venus, as wise as Minerva and as wonderful to look upon as a fashion plate; the only matter of any import is—does she tango?

The Damsel-De. When the dancant was first introduced people raised their eyebrows and looked at one another in mild questioning. What were things coming to with the awful prevalence of the unspeakable tango? Now, instead of the dancant, we have rather the dancant-the, in which tea is a mere incident generally overlooked in the excitement of the dance.

And not only that, but we have the dancant sandwiched in between an after-luncheon dancing-class and a dinner-dancant, the newest evolution of the dance-while-you-eat habit. Whereas, last year the leading hotels and popular eating houses advertised the excellence of their food and sought only to please their patrons by concocting rare and toothsome dishes, today they seek to attract the multitudes in this wise: "Dancing every evening in the magnificent ballroom de luxe; dinner dancant every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday; dancing until morning on the fastest floor in New York; tonight at 10:30 in the ballroom, dancing by Mlle. Frou-frou de Chic and M. Stelch-in-the-Mud in society's latest dances.

Truly can it be said these days that Milady Buttery dances through life. From the moment she wakes until she drops exhausted in her fluffy nest of a bed her day is just a continuous round of dancing. After breakfast the more ambitious of her will migrate to the studio of a dancing master, usually a young man of foreign importation and unpronounceable name whose dexterous movements in the tango and the maxixe cast a spell nightly over the feminine portion of his audience in some big eating and dancing palace. Here she will cheerfully surrender 20¢ of papa's good, honest American dollars for one hour's private instruction in the intricacies of the latest variety of the tango.

Her Tango Toilet. After a hasty luncheon at home she sprinkles a drop of tango perfume on her tango frock, adjusts her tango veil over her freshly powdered little nose, grabs her tango bag, and hikes off to an after-luncheon dancing class, where she whirls and twirls in joyous abandon. Then, after a dancant in any one of the numerous gorgeously appointed places devoted to this fad, she joins the merry throng on the ballroom floor of a dinner dancant restaurant, where she dances away until the wee hours of the morning.

Even a Dance Magazine. And now we have a magazine devoted to the dance, and last, and more important than all, an entire house given over to the one-stop, the hesitation waltz, the Brazilian maxixe and the terrible tango.

Castle House is an exquisite little place, all white and gray, and rose both inside and out, situated at No. 26 East Forty-sixth street, opposite the Ritz-Carlton hotel. On any day between the hours of four and six you may find a string of motors and limousines ranged along the curb outside, reaching well into the middle of the block. The neat silver lettering above the door frame assures you that you are at Castle House and no mistake, and once admitted by the aforementioned pompous funkey you need no further assurance.

The moment the door is opened the ear is pleasantly assailed by the strumming of music and the gentle pitter-patter of slippers feet on a glass-like floor. You are vaguely aware of a beautiful little stone-floored reception hall, where a trim maid relieves you of your heavy wraps while you watch the playing of the lovely fountain with the regulation goldfish and ferns at its base.

A Momentary Jolt. It's all like a glimpse of fairyland— that is, all but landing on the little stone stairway, where a pleasant-faced lady at a tiny desk smiles sweetly at you while she demands the two dollars admission fee. For a moment—just the moment it takes to surrender your two perfectly good paper dollars—you are rudely awakened to grim, material reality; then, up four or five more steps, and into fairyland itself.

You wind through the maze of awaying couples, dodging here an elbow and there a fierce-looking protruding feather and wishing that your stout walking boots (for you have come to look on as a spectator) had some of the clinging qualities of a fly's legs, so that you might walk with a little more dignity over the treacherous floor, you finally succeed in reaching the section of the furthest corner of the room. Here you ensconce yourself comfortably in a cushioned chair and look agog upon the gay scene before you.

Almost Senior Juniors. Junior dance? Yes, there are two or three juniors, but for the most part you are quite surprised at the size and apparent ages of the majority of the "juniors." There are some in natty, tailor-made, with filmy blouses and big fur muffs; there are a few young girls, in pretty afternoon dancing frocks and ruffly girlish hats; and boys, fine young chaps, sons of the Vanderbilt and Harbman families, just home from college for the holidays.

In a few moments a maid enters with an enormous tray of lemonade glasses and a platter of cakes, and you sip and munch while listening to the way of the rag and watching the rhythmic swinging of countless couples.

Now they come toward you advancing, then retreating, gracefully, awkwardly, flexibly, stiffly. Here comes a beautifully gowned society matron, one of the patronesses, on the arm of a boyish young man with a blond pompadour and an air of assurance, dancing the one-stop with polite dignity. You get a fleeting glimpse of blue velvet and ermine, topped by a hat laden with a mass of black agrettes, and crane your neck to see more, but alas! they glide away and give place to another pair.

The Lengthy Mr. Castle. It is Daddy-Long-Legs Castle himself, with a very pretty, very shy debutante. She is wholesomely plump, and seems very conscious of the fact that she was chosen for the dance by none other than the most perfect dancer there. So, while Mr. Castle looks a trifle bored, as though he were performing a painful duty, Miss Bud's pretty face is softly flushed, and her big eyes look out seriously from over his shoulder.

Next comes a college youth, who comes dancing along with big strides, his enormous hand sprawled over the entire back of the sweet young thing on his arm. Her fluffy blonde hair peeps out from under a demure brown toque, and she has one arm slung through a velvet and fur muff decorated with orchids.

They spin out of sight, and directly in front of you looms the figure of a tall, serious chap, completely overshadowing his tiny partner. She is a sweet sixteen-year-old, with skirts just reaching her ankles and she wears a hat of black velvet with a single gardenia blooming at the back.

You watch them all till the end of the dance, when you discover that there is no end! Ye shades of Terpsichore! No sooner does the orchestra in one room reach the end of a dance when another trio of minstrels in the adjoining room burst out strumming and drumming, and the dancers pivot right through the doorway without even pausing for breath. There is nothing for you to do but gather yourself up and follow, for you cannot miss a single dance.

Watching Feet, Not Faces. For a while you decide to watch feet instead of faces, and you look down and are amazed at the variety of them. There are flying feet that leave a blur of shiny patent leather and sparkling rhinestones, and substantial men's feet that measure their distances with care.

And then—is it possible? You look down at something, fascinated, and find that every one else is looking at the same strange object. A pair of gold chain anklets, that make their owner look like a captive princess! Your eyes travel upward slowly to see what the rest of her is like, and you discover that it is Baroness de Meyer tangoing gracefully with Mr. Lou Tellegen, the young French actor.

Another turn in the dance, and you are brought face to face with a lovely, bright-faced lady, whose black eyes and vivid smile seem to radiate joyousness. You are conscious of a disturbing sense of having seen or known her somewhere, and consumed with curiosity you follow her at the end of the dance to the tea balcony. Here, while you debate inwardly as to whether you will have sandwiches or cake, and finally deciding on both, you watch her join a merry party; the central figure of which is a delightfully English-looking man, in correct dress and fawn-colored spats. Of course—Sir Johnston and Lady Forbes-Robertson!

It is, indeed, a gala day at Castle House, you think. But the truth is that all days are just as "gala."

Pe-ru-na CATARRH TONIC For COUGHS & COLDS

MR. Samuel McKinley, 1216 Grand Ave., Kansas City, Mo., writes: "I can honestly say that I owe my life to Peru-na. Traveling from town to town, and having to go into all kinds of badly heated buildings, plus my trade as a auctioneer, it is only natural that I had colds frequently. Last December I contracted a severe cold which, through neglect on my part, settled on my chest. I heard of Peru-na. It cured me, so I cannot praise it too highly. Those who prefer tablets to liquid medicines can now procure Peru-na in tablet form."

HEAVIEST HORSE ON RECORD

Figures Show Clydesdale Weighed More Than Any Animal of His Kind Known to History.

The weight of the heaviest horse ever known was 3,000 pounds. This horse, a Clydesdale, was exhibited in New York in 1889. It was 21½ hands high and although only five years old measured 32 inches round the arm, 16 inches round the stifle or knee joint, 95 inches girth, 34½ round the hip and 11 feet four inches in length. It was of perfect proportions, with a head 35 inches in length. A French authority gives the weight of horses as follows: Excluding ponies, which have an average weight of 440 pounds, the weight of horses varies from 600 to 1,540 pounds. The weight of cart horses varies between 1,100 and 1,540 pounds. The weight of car and soups horses, which is about the same as that of cavalry horses, varies between 990 and 1,056 pounds. These weights are for adult animals.

Prospects Good for Road South

IT has long been the ambition of the people of this side of the county to get a road south so that we would have an outlet to Alamogordo and to El Paso. For a number of years we have had a splendid road east running toward Roswell, but west or south Carrizozo has practically been a "jumping off" place. A fair road goes to Oscura and a passable one to Three Rivers, but a through road west or south has not existed.

Last year attempts were made to have the Lincoln county road board work in concert with the Otero county road board in the construction of a road leading south from Carrizozo and north from Tularosa. Indeed, the Lincoln county board agreed to set aside a sum of money for that purpose, providing the Otero county board would do likewise. In accordance with that arrangement a committee visited Alamogordo and secured a tentative agreement from the Otero county authorities to work with Lincoln county on the proposition. Before, however, an engineer could be secured to lay out the route both counties had exhausted their funds on other work and the matter went over until this year.

Just recently C. E. Moffett, a member of the Otero county board visited Santa Fe, consulted with the State Engineer and the State Road Board and secured a promise that an engineer would be sent down here to make the survey and also that the state board would assist financially in the construction of the road. In a talk with Mr. Moffett one day this week he confirmed the foregoing statement and assured us that the Otero county board was ready to do its part. Now if the Lincoln county board will do likewise, and we feel confident it will, and the state makes the survey and also an appropriation there is no reason why we should not soon have a good road connecting us with Tularosa, Alamogordo and El Paso. Let all work together for this much desired end.

The Unemployed

MUCH has been said concerning the unemployed during the winter that is just passing; in fact, more or less, we hear this question discussed practically every winter. It is a period of the year when employment is less plentiful and to add to the intensity of the situation the unemployed drift to the cities and thus become a care and a menace, as well, to the municipalities. As a natural result, the assembling of a throng of idle men leads to want, suffering and sometimes riot.

Unfortunately, a very large per cent of the unemployed consists of men crying for work and praying that they will not succeed in finding it. It is this latter class, as a rule, that produces the disturbances and brings odium on the honest men who are willing to work.

This appears to be the situation particularly in California, where the percentage of unemployed is perhaps greater than in any other part of the country. Serious disturbances are reported from the "Golden State," and Governor Johnson appears to be of the opinion that many of California's army of unemployed shy at earning a living. The governor, working with charitable organizations of his state, arranged to give employment to some of the idle but they preferred idleness to the work tendered, even though it meant bread and a place to rest.

Therefore, the governor of California and the legislature as successors of the state, are disgusted at the "army" under "General" Keady, that invaded Sacramento, the state capital, and the repression in routes that were adapted to control the "army" are commended by the governor. In addition to giving praise to the authorities on that occasion, the governor further said that the problem was not one of men into and out of employment, but of men who preferred vagrancy to honest toil and would not work.

When it must be admitted that it is an unfortunate condition at any time or place when large bodies of men are idle, it must not be long that there are at all seasons large numbers of men who won't work. The "Sons of Rest" constitute a very important organization, when taken numerically.

Texas in the Limelight

WHEN it is remembered that Texas, when a republic, kicked Mexico out of her boots, naturally Texas, as an integral part of the great union of states, attracts a great deal of attention when she again threatens to invade Mexico. Through her governor, O. B. Colquitt, and her militant United States senator, Albert B. Fall, the invasion of Mexico is about to take place, and the government and departments at Washington are hereby warned by these famous representatives of the Lone Star state that they will stand no more foolishness. Fall and Colquitt; Lord what a team! and Texas big enough to hold them both.

A Correct Sentence

A STORY is told on one of Lincoln county's school teachers that shows commendable effort on her part, and also that young America is "there with the goods." The story runs that this particular teacher was accustomed to give her class in language a word and then ask the class to build a sentence, using the word to ascertain if its meaning was understood.

On this occasion she gave the class the word "notwithstanding" with directions to illustrate its use in a sentence.

One little boy, proud of his ability to defeat his mates in the performance of the task, held up his hand.

At the request of his teacher he read the following sentence; "Pa wears the seat of his pants out, but not with standing."

End of Contest Near

NEXT Wednesday, March 18, the final count of votes in THE NEWS piano contest will be made. Therefore, this is the last announcement to be made before the winner of the piano is known. Next week the count will have been made, the prizes awarded and in our regular issue following the successful candidates named. Only five more days remain to hustle votes, but much can be accomplished in that time. As the time for the final count draws near, much interest is manifested by the candidates and their friends. Success will depend upon the hustling to be done the next few days, and some surprises may be in store for those who think the battle won. Get busy; the reward is worth the effort.

Two Box Car Pilferers Caught

C. W. Hyde, E. P. & S. W. Watchman, has apprehended two box car pilferers the past week, and had them bound over to await the action of the grand jury. One going by the name of Jack Shields, he caught at Duran, brought him before Justice Massee at this place, where he was given a hearing and was bound over in the sum of $500.00. The other Mr. Hyde caught at Alamogordo Monday night, and he was given a hearing at Alamogordo and his bond fixed at $500.00. The accused gave his name as George Arnald. Both were remanded to jail in default of bond. Mr. Hyde, with other officers of the company, has been quite active in pursuit of perpetrators of this class and have had considerable trouble over loss of goods while in transit. The authorities think they have the difficulty located, as a result of recent arrests, and hope to put a stop to this class of depredation.

The Harper Ranch Sold

THE celebrated Harper ranch, about 20 miles south of Carrizozo, has changed hands, a Mr. Harris, of Roswell, becoming the new owner. Monroe Harper, recent owner, purchased this property about 12 years ago, investing a substantial sum in the splendid orchard and alfalfa lands watered by Three Rivers. In disposing of the property Mr. Harper becomes the owner of some valuable orchard and alfalfa lands near Roswell, and the difference was paid in cash, the consideration for the Harper ranch being $80,000.00. The sale included the cattle, horses and all livestock connected with the Three Rivers property.

Keep white potatoes in cool place, not frosty. Sprouts appear three times, never more. Break off all sprouts.

Sweet potatoes keep best in warm place, not cold. (Arguments?) Fat obtained from pork, poultry, beef equals best lard for baking purposes.

Four pounds of fish makes chowder for seven people; cost twenty cents if purchased at wholesale or sixty-four cents retail price.

Sweet marjoram, best of all herbs for seasoning, should be dried not too closely to heat, sifted finely, corked in airtight bottle.

Best soup meat is "shin" (leg fore). Tell retailers ninetenn to twenty cents pound is unfair against seven to nine cents wholesale price.

Rennet Pudding. To one quart of sweet milk warmed a little add one and a half tablespoons of rennet, stir a few moments carefully and let stand in a cold place undisturbed for three hours.

The best way to flavor with vanilla is to buy two of the best Mexican vanilla beans and put them in a quart jar filled with granulated sugar and keep tightly closed. Use the sugar instead of the extract of vanilla in making desserts that you wish to season and a delicate vanilla flavor is obtained. The jar can be refilled with sugar a number of times from the same beans.

East Indian Sauce. Chop fine a half-handful of green mint. Put into a bowl, add a little lemon juice and rub into a paste. Chop fine one large green pepper. Put into another bowl, add a little lemon juice and rub to a paste. Empty the bowl of mint into the bowl of green pepper. Put into another bowl, add salt spoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of the white sugar and more lemon juice until a thick green liquid is produced. Stir this constantly, then pour into a shallow dish and serve. This sauce must be served as green pepper, mix thoroughly, adding a piquancy will be lost. It is an excellent sauce for cold meats, fowl or game.

For July Plea. The following hints are from a writer in the Delinquent. The filling of pies sometimes presents difficulties. A very juicy filling soaks the undercrust. One remedy used for this is to bake the bottom crust before filling the pie; another is to brush it over with white of egg. The very best way to prevent the undercrust of a pie from being soggy is not to have one. Put the fruits into a fairly deep baking dish and cover with a flaky top crust. This is an English method which we would do well to follow.

Curried Potatoes. Melt two tablespoons of butter and cook in it a tablespoon of minced onion. Add a heaping tablespoon of flour and one of curry powder, half teaspoon salt and a cup of hot milk. Let boil five minutes. Strain over one pint of hot cooked potatoes.

Cabbage Salad. Use only "heart leaves," as the coarser leaves will do to boll. Chop fine. Pile on platter. Trim edges with slices of hard-boiled eggs and beets to dice. Pour boiled dressing over all.

Lincoln County High School

Perhaps there are some who are interested in the new high schools of the state and would like to know how they are progressing. Keeping that in mind and desiring to inform the people of the progress that is being made in the one with which I am connected, I shall undertake to briefly tell what we are doing in the Lincoln County High School.

School opened September 8th, with eight students in the high school. The number has since increased to fifteen and we expect to have double this number next year.

As we were not organized and did not have all of our equipment at the opening of the term, it took us some time to "get down to business" but we believe we are making a good showing at present.

We have more than met our expectations in the Manual Training Department. The boys have taken a great interest in their work and anxiously await the arrival of the period for this work. They sometimes work an hour or more after school hours in order to finish some work they have started.

After doing some preliminary work, and learning the general uses of the tools, etc., we began making things that would be of some use. We found ample opportunity to show our skill in repairing the school building, making tables, shelves, etc. No sooner had the people of the town learned that we were doing this kind of work than they began wanting us to do work for them. We have done many small jobs and now one of the boys is making a cupboard for one of the citizens for which he will receive about eight dollars. Two of the boys are making a filing cabinet for which they will receive $20.00.

We have been offered more of this kind of work than we can do. As it is the nature of an ambitious boy to try to do too much, my greatest difficulty is in keeping them doing work that is within their capacity. The school has bought a printing press and we have a class of five doing this work. We hope to print a school paper within a short time.

The Commercial and Domestic Science departments have been doing excellent work. As it is perhaps known, two of the girls took second and fourth prizes in sewing at the State Industrial Fair that was conducted through the Agricultural and Mechanical Art College.

We have established a Teacher Training Course for those who intend to teach and would not get any training before entering the school room. We do not urge any one to take this course who is able to attend a Normal school but as there are many who would not get the training otherwise this is one way in which we hope to better the conditions that now exist in the teaching profession of the county.

An orchestra, a school improvement society, and an industrial club have been organized. A play, on which we have been practicing for a short time, will be given in the near future. The proceeds will apply on a fund with which we intend to buy a piano.

I have spoken mostly of the industrial work that we are doing, we believe our other work is up to the standard. We could not be better pleased with the results that are being accomplished.

The expenses of the High School are being met by the taxes of the county. If there are parents of Lincoln county, who have children who are ready for high school work, they cannot get value received from their taxes in a better way than to send their children to the Lincoln County High School next year. We are prepared to give our students as much attention and a good service as any high school of the state.

Respectfully,
CHAS. H. THOMASON,
 Principal.
