

News Notes from Outside Points

FORT STANTON

The new organ for the library hall meeting has arrived, and was dedicated last Sunday evening. It is the gift of Mrs. E. Ralph, of Washington, who is also the donor of the large Estay Reed organ in the chapel. Mrs. Ralph is one of the Washington's leading charity workers and is the main benefactor for the local Sacred Heart chapel.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Lovett expect to depart for their new home up in Oregon on or about April 10. Miss Mildred will accompany them.

Rev. J. H. Girma, of Lincoln, visited with the Chaplain a few hours last Friday while on his way to Carrizozo and other missions of his extended charge.

Mr. Lee is again with us and has become quite popular. He is getting points with the intention of going out to boost for Ft. Stanton as the greatest sanatorium in the country.

This being Passion Week, special services are being held daily in the chapel. Next Sunday being Palm Sunday, the Palms will be blessed and distributed by the Chaplain just before the 10 o'clock mass.

Miss Emma Acuna is in full charge of the choir in the chapel being the organist as well.

The topic treated last Sunday evening by the chaplain during the Non-Sectarian services was "The Two Cousins: Intemperance and Gambling." A large attendance was had and it is to be hoped the lesson given on this all important subject will be remembered and practised.

Mr. and Mrs. Brockway have returned from a week's visit with relatives at Pichaco.

The "movies" at the Post Theater last week were as follows: Pathe No. 63, The Gold Brick; Home Sweet Home, in two reels. The last named deserves special mention for the very impressive view given of a real home, which question is vital at the present day. The usual pictures seen on this subject are always making light of the question, by the appearance of some frivolous scene from the same quality of participants. Such pictures as above does not appeal to the fickle minded and to those who have never known what a real home may be. But to the cultured mind it is inspiring and affords a real pleasure.

For the latest in "shoe-repairing" you are invited to call at the Houston-Gorey apartments on the License row. Special delivery twice each day.

William Brockway we note is again with us, and just what he has to say for the Golden State where he has been for some time we are anxious to hear, especially his comparison of the sunny state to our dear Old New Mexico.

Messrs. Hanna and McCorkle, proprietors of the Hanna-McCorkle Spinach farm expect to harvest the first crop of the season as soon as their razors are returned from the foundry, where they are being sharpened.

J. J. Brown made a business trip to Capitan last Friday afternoon in the Vanant run-about.

Extracts from Chaplain Frund's Temperance lecture last Sunday evening:

"This malady of intemperance now ravages and devastates the whole world. There is no country free from its inroads. For many centuries it has decimated humanity, and has been the ruin of the working classes.

It is such that it not only kills the body, but even destroys the soul, and its lamentable influence extends beyond the grave. Drunkenness is the habit of drinking moderately. Intoxication is a synonym for drunkenness. "Be not deceived," say the Holy Scriptures; "drunkards shall not enter the kingdom of God."

Intemperance debases and degrades man. What distinguishes man from the brute? Is not reason the noblest prerogative? and when intoxicated do I not destroy that gift at least for the time? making the dog that passes by a nobler animal than the intoxicated man?

Intoxication is a destroyer of health, and therefore what must you patients of this sanatorium think and treat it?—If a destroyer of health much more dangerous is it to the sick. You are here to try and build up that body which in many cases has been so weakened by your knowing over indulgence in intemperance in more than one way.

A friend slaps you in the face, what are you doing in return? yet that same so called friend offers you a drink of whiskey, and what do you do? in the former he does not injure you one tenth as he does with the latter, and still love him for the last and hate him for the first. The unreasonableness of the intemperate man, and how funny it would seem or at the least you make it out to be funny when you hear of your friend being on a big drunk; you hear of that same friend being insulted by another, and you get angry, but another is the cause of getting your friend intoxicated and you laugh?—is not this the part of a fool? yea a fool will not laugh at it and therefore you place yourself below him.

And as to gambling, have you ever witnessed a poker game where there was not a supply of intoxicating liquors? the two go together for we seldom hear of the temperance man being a gambler. You may say that you play for the fun there is in it, but I dare you to prove to me that sooner or later all friendship ceases, because once we touch the pocket-book there is no friendship found to remain. It is a means of arousing jealousy, enmity, and a desire for revenge.

All this plays into the hands of the liquor lover. It tends to build him up in a spirit that demands something to take away his reason, and thus how often do we hear of the criminal trying to escape under the plea of being intoxicated and therefore void of his senses?

Boys; you are here for a last stand, you are here at Ft. Stanton to extend if possible life, and therefore be on your guard of that demon who comes to you under the cloak of a "good fellow" a friend and wants you to take that which to you as tubercular patients is more than whiskey, it is poison.

Your friend may hand you a knife to injure yourself, yet the wound from same can be healed, but that friend handing you the glass of whiskey is stabbing you to death, for the poison he gives you cannot be taken from that poor weak make up of yours and thus the fatal result.

White Mountain.

H. S. Scheffey recently purchased the range mares of Clark Hust, near Carrizozo.

Jack Fall was a visitor here during the week.

Mr. Edward Harris has been busy this week gathering horses.

Fred Smith, of Carrizozo, is working with the Harpers helping gather stock.

J. O. Nabours spent several days at the Hughes ranch near Carrizozo looking after his cows in pasture at that place.

Miss Florence Nabours represented this "neck of the woods" in a party organized at Three Rivers to take in the circus in El Paso.

Messrs. Norman Riggs and H. S. Scheffey spent a couple of days at the Fall ranch at Three Rivers this week.

Norman Riggs was away a day or so this week helping Mr Scheffey bring in some recently purchased mares and colts.

The filaree is very bad around here this year, having spread rapidly in the past two or three years.

Jicarilla

Mr. Sparks, the forest ranger was in Camp the past week, on business pertaining to his life of work.

Martin May, from the Nogal country, came in the last of the week with a load of apples.

Mr. Phil Reasoner of White Oaks, was resting-up here the last of the week, and will remain a few days of this week.

At a meeting of the school directors Wednesday last, Mr. Edwards of Fort Sumner was chosen teacher for the school term beginning April 1st.

Mrs. E. E. Wilson and children paid a visit of several days to friends in Camp.

A dance at Ancho Saturday night, was the inspiration for many of our people to "vamos."

As March goes out, the weather is fickle, and though not at all cold, it snowed and the sun shone at intervals all day Monday.

The ground was never in better condition for farm work than it is now, and almost every one is busy planting early vegetables or field crops.

Judge Kennedy had his field planted in oats a short time ago, and it is now a mass of green, so rapidly did the seed respond to the warm earth.

Max Guebara is erecting a casa on his place on the east side.

John Dale has bought an automobile, and his family is greatly enjoying the outings made possible by the horse emancipator.

C. L. Kennedy was out from White Oaks the last of the week, visiting his sister, Mrs. Hamilton.

E. E. Wilson came in Sunday from the east side to accompany his family home.

There were cattle buyers through this section a short while ago gathering in the yearlings at thirty-two per head.

Lewis Smith and A. H. Norton, each, made a business trip to White Oaks the last of the week.

Maurice Brookin rode in from the ranch on east side Monday.

The post office has been granted another lease of life, pending the application of some one who has an inclination that way. This is one job that goes a-begging.

Big Road Meeting

THE COMMERCIAL CLUB called a meeting Tuesday night to discuss roads, and the citizens, generally, were invited to participate in the deliberations of the meeting. A large membership was present and many citizens of town and community, who were not members of the club, were present.

One of the propositions discussed was the laying out of a road to the Gran Quivera. This was prompted by the receipt of a letter from the Torrance County Good Roads Association, directed by its secretary at Mountainair, in which the Mountainair people agreed to put the road in good condition from their town to the old ruins if the people here would attend to this end of the road. This was a very attractive proposition; for our people have, for years, been anxious to have a road to the ruins, as many tourists coming via Roswell or El Paso would like to make that point.

It was asserted by Messrs. French and Spence, who are acquainted with the Gran Quivera road, that the road was now in a passable condition, and that about the greatest difficulty to be encountered was a bed of sand at the ruins themselves. Messrs. French and Spence have agreed to log and post the road from this point to the ruins. The secretary was instructed to notify the Torrance county association of our willingness to act with it and also to persuade the Mountainair people to name the date that they would come to Carrizozo to discuss the matter more fully, as the letter suggested they would do. The road, thus established would give a splendid connecting link between the Roswell-Carrizozo-El Paso road and the Roswell-Albuquerque road, which goes through Mountainair. Besides it would give tourists the means of visiting some of the oldest and most interesting ruins in America—an attraction that would be very beneficial to this town and community.

Another proposition was to present to the road board the necessity for the construction of a bridge across the canyon north of town, between the Bar W ranch and the railroad. Efforts will be made to have the state engineer, whose arrival is daily expected, examine the crossing and give an estimate on the cost of the bridge, so that the matter can be intelligently presented to the road board at its next meeting. The road leading north is now said to be almost impassable and the condition is a very pressing need.

Still another proposition was the straightening of the road leading south, and upon the representations of citizens of Polly and Oscuro that they desired the straightening of said road, a resolution was adopted announcing it as the sense of the meeting that the road should be surveyed along the railroad right-of-way, leading from the town south, and that a committee be appointed to confer with the property owners along the proposed route, to the end that a right-of-way might be secured and to present the action of the committee to both the county commissioners and the county road commission. The committee named was: Jno. A. Haley, J. B. French and H. B. Dawson.

H. S. Campbell was appointed a member of the local road-committee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of A. T. Roberts. The other members of that committee, appointed last year, and whose tenure of office seems to be perpetual, are T. A. Spencer and Jno. A. Haley. The meeting also recommended for road foreman of this district W. M. Barnett, and the county road board will be asked to name him for that position.

Baseball Season Opens

A local baseball enthusiast furnished the following write-up of Sunday's ball game—the initial one of the season, and the suggestive line-up. He also urges the cooperation of the town in the effort to support a good team, in which we most heartily join. Our sport writer says:

The Carrizozo Base Ball team participated in its first workout last Sunday afternoon and a very good showing was made.

Mr. (Shorty) Dawson and his cow-punchers received an awful drubbing from Dolan's colts, by the tune of 24 to 4.

Although a practice game to get a line on a regular team it showed that Carrizozo has the best material that it has had in the past four years. And we hope that the business men will get together and organize and handle the ball team.

The following is a line-up that can be whipped into a first class amateur team and be able to compete with the best teams in this section of the country:

Pitchers Dolan, W. Gallacher, and Blakemore; Catchers Van Schoyck and Norman; First baseman J. Gallacher; Second baseman W. Dingwall; Shortstop La Gross; Third baseman W. Gallacher, Blakemore or La Gross; Outfielders Nickel, Dawson, Harter; Utility O'Bannon and Grumbles. The above is the best crop Carrizozo has had to pick from this early in the season and a very good team can be developed. So start the ball to rolling and have some good drawing this summer, besides giving Carrizozo a good advertising card.

School Notes

We have been advised that the Ladies' Civic League, at their last meeting, voted to have installed in the school building some lights of a higher efficiency. In this way, the stage in the auditorium will be well illuminated, and the halls will also have something else besides moonlight. We truly appreciate the ladies' interest in this special need which has been felt ever since the school auditorium has been popularized as a public gathering place. The building will always be available for all worthy purposes.

One feature of the New Mexico school exhibit at the Panama-Pacific Exposition will be pictures of the coterie of Indian girls who recently entertained in "our quiet town." The pictures were made Thursday morning. Not only this feature, but others of more than usual interest will be presented from time to time.

The 8th grade examinations will be given Friday and Saturday of this week. This by no means indicates that the work of this department is completed. It hardly stands to reason that a full nine months course could be finished in barely seven; so let everyone remember that the remaining work of the year is very important.

An afternoon programme will be given by the pupils of: Miss Spellman's room on Friday afternoon of next week. A small admission of ten cents will be charged and the high school pupils will offer for sale entables of some description. We feel confident this entertainment will be well attended for many expressed a regret that the other afternoon affair was not generally known, and even then the receipts far exceeded our expectations.

The Arbor Day exercises last Friday afternoon were a decided success. A programme of twenty-one numbers was well rendered. The party then repaired to the school grounds where six hardy trees were planted. The senior class tree was of especial interest. A bottle was interred at the roots of the tree, it contained the name of the school, faculty and respective position, members of high school by classes, school board and county superintendent. The trees seem to be already full of the spirit of spring. We hope the pupils will keep them thriving during the summer months, for they will make delightful shade in a very few years.

The order and attendance on April first was all that could be asked for any day. We feel that the attitude towards this day has been materially changed. Innocent pranks were indulged in at will during recess time, but it was a day of earnest work just as any of the rest of our days are accustomed to be. School was dismissed at three thirty. We thank the parents and pupils for their co-operation in our desire to make the day worth while.

Sincerely,
ANDREW MCCURDY,
Principal.

Comes Back

Dr. H. S. Hanner has established a Bachelor's sanitarium up at the old Fauvet ranch near White Oaks Springs. It will be a sort of cabaret, free lunch counter and Keeley cure combined. A system of manual training will be introduced in which the inmates will be given their choice, cooking, hoeing in the garden or roping steers for which the place is supplied with a convenient corral. Doc Randles will do the root grubbing and the tamping, having just laid in a stock of babbet metal for this purpose.—Carrizozo Outlook.

White Oaks, N. M.
March 30, 1914.

Editor News,
Carrizozo.

Dear sir:
In the Outlook (a weekly paper published in Carrizozo) of March 20th appeared the enclosed clipping. I am writing you hoping that you will publish this letter, so that I can present my side of the matter in a respectable paper.

The Fauvet ranch is not a Keeley Cure Sanitarium, free lunch counter, or cabaret, and is run on strictly agricultural lines and I defy the White Oaks correspondent of the Outlook, who I believe to be suffering from senile atrophy and softening of the brain, to prove his assertion.

While I do not believe the article in question could do me much damage here in White Oaks where people are conversant with the situation, yet people in the outlying parts of the county might put some credence in it. In which I am in fellowship always,

H. S. HANNER.

LOCAL & PERSONAL

Bert Provine was here Saturday Monday from Capitan.

Something new arriving daily at Paden's.

Fred Beitter was down a short time Monday from his home above the clouds—way up on Loma Grande.

The board of county commissioners will meet here Monday, it being the date for the regular quarterly meeting of the board.

John H. Boyd, the genial postmaster and merchant of Oscuro, spent Monday here. He returned on Tuesday morning's early train.

Rich Hust drove down Saturday evening in his new Ford. Rich handles the throttle with the same ease as he once guided the broncs.

Attorney Edward Mechem was here this week from Alamogordo, assisting District Attorney Hamilton in the prosecution of Dan Sheffield on the charge of murder.

Do you enjoy good, fresh, pure Candies?—Call at Paden's.

Captain R. L. Van Zant passed through Wednesday enroute from Ft. Stanton to El Paso. The captain expects to return next week.

R. H. Beddow, state coal mine inspector, spent two or three days here and in the surrounding country the past week. He visited the mines at White Oaks and also the McIvers mine near here.

WANTED—Business lot centrally located. J. T. Darby, Ft. Stanton, N. M.

A wedding ceremony was performed by Justice Massie in his office Wednesday night, April 1, in which Lee Luttrell and Miss Maude Caldwell were made husband and wife. The groom resides at Three Rivers and the bride was living at Capitan.

$45.00 will buy 1 1/2 H. P. Galway Gas Engine and pump back in good repair. Sec W. W. Stadtman. 3-131f

Mrs. T. A. Spencer came in Saturday from Santa Fe. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. McDonald, who will remain at the ranch home for sometime. They were joined by the governor Sunday, who left the following day, however, via El Paso, for Santa Fe.

FOR SALE—25 head full blood Hereford Bulls coming; two year old. Welch & Titsworth, Capitan, N. M.

E. G. Raffety was here Wednesday from Oscuro. Mr. Raffety had just recently returned from Chicago, where he had undergone a hearing and from which he came out with flying colors. He is enthusiastic over prospects around Oscuro, and is beginning a more active campaign for its development.

Paden's—for pure drugs and drug sundries. A nice clean stock.

FOR SALE—One Half Block of land in good location in Highland addition to Carrizozo. Well improved with good frame house with iron roof; six rooms and porch all finished, a good chicken house with large chicken pen fenced with woven wire, a large garden fenced and piped for irrigation with water from two windmills. Cash price $1000.00. For further information see W. W. Stadtman.

School Ball Game

THE boys from the regular county high school, accompanied by Professors Schreck and Thompson, came over from Capitan Saturday, and played a like team on the local grounds that afternoon. A very good game resulted, the teams being very evenly matched, and at its close the score stood 8 to 7 in favor of Capitan. Our boys expect to retrieve the defeat at an early date.

Where in Worship

Baptist Church

HERBERT HAYWOOD, Pastor
Bible school at 10 a. m.
Subject of the morning sermon at 11 o'clock will be: "Scriptural Baptism; What is it? An Act of Love."
Young People's Meeting at 6:45.

Preaching service at 7:45, when the subject will be discussed: "Will one go to perdition as easily for breaking the fourth commandment as for breaking any of the others? as for instance committing murder?"
Special music at each service. You are cordially invited to worship with us.

Woman's Missionary Union meets every Wednesday at 2:30, p. m., and a course in Bible is begun for two Wednesdays in the month, the other two will be used for a mission study and social hour. The next social gathering will be with Mrs. Dinwiddie, April 8th.

Methodist Church

J. W. HENDRIX, Pastor.
Next Sunday is the time set apart for the holding of the third quarterly conference. Rev. Geo. H. Givan, presiding elder of the district who lives at Albuquerque, is to be here, preaching both morning and evening.

In the Methodist Church there are five different conferences:

The CHURCH CONFERENCE which is called and presided over by the pastor, and has to do with revising the church roll, dropping names of members who are gone, discontinuing names of unworthy members, and looking after things of local interest. The QUARTERLY CONFERENCE, called by the presiding elder who resides, concerns itself with the number and state of the Sunday school, the Epworth League and the spiritual state of the church. The DISTRICT CONFERENCE, called at such time as the elder sees fit and such place as the preceding conference may decide, has to do with the reports of pastors and conference as to best methods for the solution of various problems of its work. Its members are composed of the superintendents of Sunday schools, presidents of Epworth Leagues, and pastors of the churches in the district. The ANNUAL CONFERENCE meets at such place as the conference may set apart and such time as the bishop may set in his episcopal plan. This conference has to do with the record of membership, of churches built and funds raised, and pass upon the moral character of the ministers and assign them to their places of pastoral service for the next year, usually in May, made up of delegates of equal ministerial and lay from each annual conference at large, presided over by the senior bishop or one whom he may suggest.

This is the conference which makes the laws and orders the policy and elects the officers of the church at large—heads of parent boards, mission, church extension, education, etc., and elect editors to various publications, managers of publishing houses, and general superintendents, or bishops.

The quarterly conference meets here Sunday and the next in ascending order—the district conference meets here some time in June. We are to have these privileges in our church. Let all of us take advantage of them.

Next Sunday morning service: Anthem, by choir.
Apostles Creed and prayer.
Song, (selected) by choir.
Scripture reading from the Psalter.

The Gloria Patri.
Scripture from the New Testament.

Offertory.
Duett, "Give Me Jesus" (Weiss) by Mrs. Hendrix and Mr. McCurdy.
Sermon by Rev. Geo. H. Givan.
Doxology.

Apostolic benediction.
Evening services:
Anthem, (selected) by the choir.

Song, by the choir.
Scripture reading.
Offertory.
Solo, (selected) Mr. McCurdy.
Sermon, Rev. Givan.
Duett, "How Can I Look on Calvary's Cross?" (Benks) Mesdames Hendrix and Bell.
Benediction.

All are cordially invited to come and take part. It is for you and your children as many as you may invite.

HOURS FOR RENT
W. W. STADTMAN.

Court Takes a Recess

THE District Court was busy from Wednesday of last week, at which time the work of securing a jury in the Sheffield murder case was begun, till Wednesday morning of this week, at which time the jury, after having been out all night, brought in a verdict of not guilty. Attorney Edwin C. Mechem assisted the district attorney in the prosecution, while Prichard and Barber represented the defendant.

Court then took a recess until next Monday morning, as there was little else to do, it having been held that the grand jury was illegally drawn and the indictments of no effect. The responsibility for this fauxpas is yet to be determined.

Judge Medler left for home Wednesday afternoon, but will return Sunday and reopen court the following morning to hear the presentments against the two county officials, the clerk and the sheriff, which have been set for that date.

For the Thirsty Ones

DR. PADEN installed a new soda fountain this week. Roland Bros. have recently replaced their old fountain with a new one; so, now it will not, necessarily be such a long time between drinks. One swallow does not make a summer, but two soda fountains promise a number of swallows during the long days ahead.

Poll Tax Payments Extended

BY special arrangement, the time limit for the payment of poll tax has been extended to the 15th of this month. Suits by the board to enforce collections will, therefore, be withheld until that date. Receipts will be issued by Jno E. Bell, Clerk, or Ed. Massie, Justice, up to the date mentioned.

Andy Wilson Dies

ONE of the oldest settlers of what is now Otero county, Andy Wilson, died at Hotel Dieu, El Paso this week. The deceased settled in the Tularosa section after the civil war, having come to this section with the California column. He was past seventy at the time of his death.

Dissolve Partnership

THE law firm of Spence & Sherry has dissolved. George Spence, the senior member of the firm, will retain his present quarters in rooms over the Bank, while Prosper Sherry, the junior member, will move to other quarters in the town.

Restoration to Entry of Lands in National Forest
Lists 3-3022, -3024, -3068.

Notice is hereby given that the lands described below, embracing 257 acres, within the Lincoln National Forest, New Mexico, will be subject to settlement and entry under the provisions of the homestead laws of the United States and the act of June 11, 1906 (34 Stat. 233), at the United States land office at Roswell, New Mexico, on June 2, 1914. Any settler who was actually and in good faith claiming any of said lands for agricultural purposes prior to January 1, 1906, and has not abandoned same, has a preference right to make a homestead entry for the lands actually occupied. Said lands were listed upon the applications of the persons mentioned below, who have a preference right subject to the prior right of any such settler, provided such settler or applicant is qualified to make homestead entry and the preference right is exercised prior to June 2, 1914, on which date the lands will be subject to settlement and entry by any qualified person. The lands are as follows: The S 1/2 SE 1/4 Sec. 34, T. 11 S., R. 15 E., N. M. P. M., 80 acres, listed upon application of Leslie Avent, Ruidoso, New Mexico; List 3-3022. The N 1/2 SE 1/4 SE 1/4, the S 1/2 NE 1/4 SE 1/4, Sec. 6, T. 9 S., R. 17 E., 40 acres, application of Steve A. Pearce, Lincoln, New Mexico; List 3-3024. The E 1/2 NW 1/4, the NE 1/4 SW 1/4, the E 1/2 NW 1/4 SW 1/4, Sec. 25, T. 7 S., R. 15 E., except a strip of land 50 links wide off the east side, the net area being 137 acres, listed upon application of Harvie Titus, Meek, New Mexico; List 3-3068. March 12, 1914, C. M. BRUCE, Assistant Commissioner of the General Land Office. 3-27-14

NEWS and GOSSIP OF WASHINGTON

Recalling the Bloody War of the Broken Egg

WASHINGTON.—The subject of eggs came up at luncheon time in the senate restaurant. The proposition of efficient economy was under discussion when Senator Carroll S. Page made the startling statement that in the discussion of tariff and currency, one important element of cost and loss had been overlooked. He referred to the report from the secretary of agriculture, declared that in one year over 1,500,000 eggs were destroyed in transportation to New York city. This loss represented 9 per cent. of the total supply. With a twinkle in his eye, Senator Page suggested that some one might acquire fame and fortune by inventing a safe and sane egg-carrier that would avert the smashing of 10 per cent. of the eggs laid by the American hen. The farmer's boy of years ago can recall the time when eggs sold at from five to ten cents a dozen, and even under those conditions the smashing of an egg was a real calamity.

The omnipresent egg on the breakfast table recalls the story told by the late Senator Allison of a broken egg that led to an Indian war in Minnesota. In 1802, several Sioux Indians appeared in a farmer's dooryard and saw a nest of eggs with a hen sitting on it, as an industrious hen is wont to do. An Indian picked up one of the eggs, and his companions warned him not to break it as it belonged to a white man. Having a general contempt for all pale-faces, the brave could not resist smashing the egg. He proceeded to break the others in the nest, while another Sioux shot the hen, scared from her nest. A third Sioux, to show his heroism, sent a bullet through the farmer's cow, which brought the farmer to the door, rifle in hand; and a fourth Indian, to show his supreme bravery and his contempt for the white man, shot the farmer dead. This bloody outrage was completed by massacring the farmer's wife and children.

Thus from a bit of mischief started by a broken egg, there followed a revolt at the Indian reservation.

Chance Must Have Been a Little Too Caustic

REPRESENTATIVE ADAMSON wrote to M. O. Chance, chief clerk of the postoffice department, a little while ago in behalf of a clerk, A. E. Moody, a colored man from Georgia. He said to Mr. Chance that the clerk was a pretty good fellow, so "if he has done wrong don't discharge him, but cuss him out a bit."

Well, in a few days along came a letter from Chance to Representative Adamson, saying that the cussing-out process must have been a little too caustic, for the clerk had resigned, leaving a letter informing Mr. Chance that a minister of the gospel had flown from their midst. This is the letter:

"Hon. Mr. Chance, Chief Clerk of the Postoffice Department.—Dear Sir: I do hereby send in my resignation to you. I truly hope that you will receive it. Please your honor sir: I am a gospel minister. I have been called a long time ago to preach the gospel by the God of heaven and earth. I cannot do it successful and hold my job in the government service, and I will pray for the blessing of God to rest on the Postmaster General and his cabinet in the Post Office Department. But I may miss the envelope that is handed to me twice a month from the disabusing clerk, Mr. Moody, but I rather miss that than to miss eternal life. Wee be unto me if I preach not the gospel, for it is the power of God unto salvation unto every man that believe. I know that my white friends of Newnan, Ga., my home, will be surprised when they hear of this. Mr. Hon. William C. Adamson, the Congressman of said district and Mr. Hon. M. Bell of Georgia. By their influence I came in the service. They have stood by me because they have my record from Newnan, Ga., as a negro, but I must go and preach the gospel in fall. REV. BLANK"

After which Representative Adamson wrote "Brother" Chance: "I have your favor of the 4th instant, inclosing copy of a letter from Rev. Blank. I was not aware of the fact that he was a minister, nor do I know whether he has verified his call to the ministry or not. If he has correct advice in his credentials from on high you people in the postoffice department are in a bad fix."

Saddest Complaint One Ever Hears in Washington

WORKING for Uncle Sam, which at first is a vocation, oftentimes becomes a disease, and an incurable one. The saddest complaint one ever hears in Washington—sadder than the wail of the rejected office seeker—is that of the helpless and hopeless government clerk lamenting his unhappy lot. He realizes that he is "in bad," and yearns for one more chance to right himself. He is in the net and cannot escape. He would like to extricate himself, but that is impossible. Perhaps his head has whitened and his hands have paled in the service, and his years of steady employment are unrepresented by a dollar saved. His fate is sealed. Gloomily he trods his weary way. Perhaps he is a man yet capable of throwing off his government harness and hitching himself to something better outside the cramped, grinding world of clerical slavery under official tyranny, but he has a family and cannot afford to take a chance. He has certain fixed expenses, and his income must be uninterrupted. He has not saved a penny, because his salary, which looked quite sufficient when he was a single man, now is woefully inadequate under the added strain of the obligations of a family.

He could fill satisfactorily most any position requiring clerical ability and experience, but he cannot let go his government job to find something even equally as remunerative. He is afraid to take the chance.—National Magazine.

TO THINK I'VE BEEN SUCH A FOOL — TO SPEND THE BEST PART OF MY LIFE AS A GOVERNMENT CLERK —

As Everybody Knows, "Findings Is Keepings"

A PIERCE winter's wind went tangling down the avenue the other day, with a derby hat dancing along. But it wasn't a "hesitation" dance. It romped and danced and rolled onward for three whirlwindy squares, until the man who had been sprinting, after it gave up the chase.

And as he gasped and wheezed—red and wind blown—this is what a batch of fellow men heard him yell—every last man of them chuckling at the poor chap—which is the way of man, except when he's chasing a hat of his own:

"You can keep it up to Jericho, if you want to. I'm done—you unholy roller, you." He shook himself with the disgusted emphasis which dear Darwin could have told him he had inherited from some prehistoric web hen, and then turned and plodded back. The hat, however, had no notion of taking a trip to Jericho. It stopped the instant its owner turned, and slid into a sheltered curb ledge, where it lay until another man came along and picked it up.

He was undoubtedly an honest man, for he looked about for a claimant, but the owner was already merged in the crowd, and, as everybody knows, findings is keepings.

The man brushed the hat with his sleeve, saw that it was an almost new derby, with the latest kink in ribbon bands, and—judging by his grin, as he looked inside—just his own also.

BEAUTY and CHARM of LATIN AMERICAN WOMEN

Senora Castellano, wife of Minister from Nicaragua

Malvina Perez, daughter of Minister from Uruguay

Senora Elena Calderon, daughter of the Bolivian Minister

Miss Marta Calvo, Daughter of the Minister from Costa Rica

Mme. Pezet, wife of the Minister from Peru

It must be admitted that her wealth in worldly possessions does add to her attractiveness to many eyes. The continent is filled with impecunious younger sons of varied brands of aristocracy, and few would in the least mind marrying the newest American girl because of her great wealth. Still, even without her wealth she would deserve all the praise that has been heaped upon her.

The new American girl of the Latin states is a strangely composite of the old and the new order of things which her land has known. In the modern world's capitals and fashionable centers she is indeed a woman of the present, but in Latin-America she is a woman of the past. In her native home still persists an order of things which in many respects is almost medieval. The stamp of Spain, so strongly seen on her, is also seen on the religion, the language, and the social creed of this girl. The laws and the landscape of her people alike are still dominated by this ancient influence. Indeed, Spain itself has infinitely more variety in speech and custom than is seen in the vast territory it has peopled and the people of Valparaiso, Bogota, and Caracas speak better Castilian than usually is heard in Madrid and Cadiz.

Hence it is that the Latin-American woman has but little of the freedom enjoyed by the American girl who now would rival. There still exists between the sexes that armed neutrality which is a tradition of the Spanish blood. Matrimony still is a lottery. The would-be husband never sees his wife alone until they are married. His negotiations for her hand are largely because the Roman Catholic church dominates all society, and it recognizes no divorce. In addition, the Latin-

American woman, wrapped up in her family, for children generally are numerous, endures many indignities rather than separate from her husband and babies.

The United States knows them best and most pleasantly through their representatives connected with the diplomatic corps in Washington. They are almost without exception representatives of the modern trend in Latin-American development. They have won for themselves in official society a regard based primarily upon their own beauty and charm, and only secondarily upon their official position.

One of the most prominent of these women is Mme. Pezet, wife of the minister from Peru. She is considered a great beauty, and is a leader in diplomatic society. Of equal charm and beauty are Mme. Malbran, bride of the first secretary of the Argentine legation; Mme. Suarez, wife of the minister from Chile; Senora de la Cueva, wife of the first secretary of the Mexican legation; Mme. de Naon, wife of the Argentine minister, and Senora Castellano, wife of the new minister from Nicaragua, who is a recent arrival at Washington.

Among the younger Latin-American women who have charmed social Washington, and whose beauty vies with that of their northern sisters, are Senora Dona Luz Mendez, daughter of the minister from Guatemala; Senora Marta Calvo, talented daughter of the minister from Costa Rica; Senora Amelia Mejia, daughter of the minister from Salvador, and the young bride of Don Alejandro Herquinio, of the Chilean legation, who before her recent marriage was Senora Malvina de Pena, daughter of the minister from Uruguay.

HOW TO TELL COUNTERFEITS

The hand is quicker than the eye in detecting fraudulent bank notes. The "feel" of the distinctive paper used by the government is the first warning signal that the money tendered is bad. This paper is distinctive not alone because of the introduction of silk fiber in the bill itself, but because of the treatment the stock receives in printing. The silk threads are sometimes imitated by pen-and-ink lines, but these do not bear close examination. The engraving has been the greatest protection, for even photo-engraving fails to bring out the proper color values, and retouching by the graving tool makes the lines heavy and irregular. Photography also fails in reproducing the color of the seal, which must be washed in with water colors, the black lines of the engraving showing through in counterfeits. The most dangerous counterfeit is that in which a genuine bill of lower denomination is bleached out and a false plate showing a high denomination placed upon it. Here is a genuine bank bill. It has the "feel." The silk threads are present. If the engraving is fairly well done and the color of approximate correctness it becomes a dangerous counterfeit and bankers are at once warned to be on the watch for it. In this connection the "check letter" often comes into play. All government notes are printed of one denomination, four on a sheet, and are lettered respectively A, B, C and D. Each note bears a treasury number. If, when that number is divided by four there remains one, the check letter should be A; if two remains, the letter should be B; if three, then C, and if there is no remainder, D. If the result shows otherwise then the numbering is wrong and the note is a counterfeit. All denominations from $1 to $1,000 have been counterfeited, as well as all our coins. The most usual method of defrauding when gold coins are handled is to saw the coins in half, extract the interior, and fill with base metal.

JUST ONE LETTER.
Lady at card party who had exchanged seats with her partner.—What excellent luck. Why is this thus, partner?
Partner—Because U and I have changed places.
HE KNEW.
"You know, my son, it is your first step which is your undoing," said the parent.
"Guess I'd better take dancing lessons then, pop, before I go into society," replied the boy.

WOMEN of the United States, look to your laurels!

You've carried off all the worth while prizes in international beauty contests for a long, long time. Your good looks, your superior intelligence, your keen wit and airy grace, to say nothing of your numerous other surpassing qualities and accomplishments, have won for you an enviable position among the women of the world.

In fact you have worked your way up until in recent years your supremacy has been unquestioned. You are conceded the most beautiful, the most accomplished, the most sought after woman in the world.

Beware! Your supremacy is threatened. Your pedestal is insecure. The world's admiration, which you so long have held, at some not distant day may be transferred to the women of another quarter of the globe.

Your competitors for the world's admiration are close upon your heels. They have come upon you all unawares, so quietly, in fact, that it's a two to one wager you don't even know who they are.

Who are they?

The women of Latin-America. Probably you won't believe this. You'll laugh and say that the principal business of Latin-America is to raise comic opera revolutions, not women capable of wresting from you the laurels which your beauty and charm have won.

If you think that way, just read what Mrs. Shortill, the wife of the American minister to Argentina, has to say about the women of the southern republics.

"They dress better, look better and have finer manners than any other women in the world," declares Mrs. Shortill. "They are enchanting creatures, and now Europe is learning of their wonderful charm. They are fond of home life and make ideal mothers, although they are not domestic to a sordid degree. They are as fond of society as the women of the United States, only they are absolutely without the faintest trace of snobishness, which is probably due to their breeding. They are vastly well informed and well bred women, and strangely enough their social obligations are never such as to interfere with their home life. The women are good mothers and are devoted to their large families."

Europe, where the Yankee girl has so long ruled a favorite, has fallen victim to the Latin-American girl's charms. Whether she appears in her favorite Paris, or in other centers of fashion or recreation, she is surrounded by a crowd of admirers. She has the entire exclusive drawing rooms. At her chateaux, which she loves to hire for the season that she may entertain on her own account, she is always sure of as many guests as she desires. She is the joy of continental modistes, and the despair of those who would wear gowns such as hers.

The house passed canal repeal bill Tuesday by a majority of 86 votes. It was a wonderful victory for the president, not only because he successfully urged congress to reverse its former action, but for the larger fact that the action was opposed by the party leaders in the house. Speaker Clark, floor leader Underwood and Fitzgerald and Kitchin, two powerful committee chairmen; Mann, leader of the minority, and Murdock, leader of the progressives, all opposed the measure. It was a signal victory—one of the biggest ever won.

The Struggle at Torreon

ALL reports from Torreon practically agree that almost continuous fighting has been going on at Torreon for two weeks. As to the result, however, there is a difference of opinion. Notwithstanding these differences, it appears quite certain that Villa has captured all the outlying points surrounding the city, has the federals cooped up in a very restricted area and may be in full possession as this is written. The losses of both federals and constitutionalists have been great. This has been the most stubborn fight, perhaps, in the history of the Mexican republic.

An Object Lesson

THE storming of the jail in the capital city of Santa Fe one night this week by an armed mob; the dragging of a murderer therefrom, and the slashing with knives he received at the hands of the mob, in the city's streets, where he was left for dead, and his death following a few hours later, all furnish an object lesson so plain that he who runs may read. The patience of men finally becomes exhausted; the laws delay; the technicalities that are resorted to to defeat the ends of justice are but the means that produce such results as were enacted in the streets of the capital city when the formality of a trial was dispensed with.

Statistics show that with one single exception—and in that Russia bears the palm—there are a greater number of homicides in the United States than of any civilized country on the globe. And in the building up of this unenviable reputation New Mexico fails not to supply her share, and Santa Fe county seems determined not to be the least among other counties in the homicidal race; though there are other counties that are crowding her closely for first place.

A little bit of recent history of homicides in Santa Fe county will be sufficient to show why men will take the law into their own hands. Three defendants have been turned loose, from one cause or another, mostly, it appears, by reason of some technicality, and the most recent was so flagrant that it is little wonder that the people of the city became desperate when a brute cut his wife's throat and slashed her wrists in such a manner that death followed—it is scarcely cause for wonder, we repeat, that men should become infuriated, storm the jail and give the slayer the same kind of treatment he had given his wife.

Mob law is deplorable, and besides that it has another distinction: it usually gets the perpetrator of a heinous crime while the law much more often turns him loose. In other words, punishment by law does not keep pace with the increase of homicides. The conviction, therefore, grows in the minds of men that when so-called strong arm of the law becomes so palsied that it becomes helpless, and juries will not convict, other and surer means are adopted for the protection of society.

War Averted is a Triumph

WE have heard a good deal about the policy, or lack of policy, of the administration in dealing with Mexico. As is always the case, one agitator in a community can and does make more fuss than all others in that community. So it is with a jingo. He is always sure of an audience and secures more notoriety than a hundred other men who are abler, but more sober than he.

But we are about to get away from the subject which we are desirous of presenting to our readers. From the Review of Reviews we have taken two paragraphs—one commending the president for avoiding war, the other, very much akin, the Benton case. We believe the two items in this great magazine to be representative of the best thought of the country, and it is handled in such a way that all partisan political reference is eliminated; indeed, the magazine cannot, by any stretch of the imagination, be called a democratic organ: hence the sober, sound, sensible manner in which it deals with these disturbing questions is a distinct relief after having heard the howl of the jingo. We quote:

The great triumph of President Wilson lies in the fact that he has kept us from the terrible calamity of war. He has done all that he could to persuade Mexican leaders to adopt a compromise plan and cease their civil strife. He has not been guilty of neglecting Americans, and he has from the very beginning done all that he could to persuade our citizens to withdraw from the area of storm and danger. He is in a position to realize more keenly than most other Americans the full extent of the sufferings of our own citizens south of the Rio Grande. He is conducting himself with the same kind of patience and dignity under criticism that President Lincoln showed again and again in his difficult work. Great property interests were created in Mexico by outside capitalists upon a basis of false hope and security. That all legitimate investments may in the long run be conserved is indeed a just and reasonable wish, and a proper object of influence and effort. But it is not the business of our government to follow adventurers or speculators into unstable or revolutionary countries, with the idea of guaranteeing their projects at the cost of the treasure and blood of those who pursue less adventurous careers here at home.

Thus, the readers of newspapers should be on their guard against losing their sense of proportion when a great issue is made of some individual outrage. If, for example, the British subject named Benton had been killed in times of peace, attention could be properly focussed upon it and prompt redress could be demanded and in some way obtained. Benton had lived in Mexico for many years, enjoying advantages which had made him one of the great landowners. He had not become a Mexican citizen, but had kept his British citizenship as a thing to fall back upon for protection. The large things that are at stake, in our endeavor to maintain international peace while the Mexicans are embroiled in civil strife, cannot be sacrificed merely because Benton, who was in every real sense a resident of Mexico, had retained in the technical sense his rights as a British subject. Benton was taking his chances in Mexico; and in trying to save his property interests he lost his life. It is the business of foreigners to keep out of the way under such circumstances. Benton should either have identified himself fully with Mexico, and borne his share of responsibility for the fate of the country, or else when the period of strife made his residence in Mexico impossible, he should have remained safely in Texas, or, better still, gone back to the country whose technical citizenship he was relying upon. We gave every warning to American citizens that if they remained in Mexico they did so at their own risk and peril. It is our duty to maintain the Monroe Doctrine, but it is not our duty to safeguard British subjects who choose to remain in Latin-American countries in periods of civil strife. The time will come for the presentation of claims. But the time has not arrived for intervention in Mexico by European powers on the flimsy pretext of wrongs perpetrated against traders in cattle and rifles.

Road Board Meets Soon

DR. J. W. LAWS, chairman of the road board, wishes to announce to the general public that the Lincoln County Road Commission will hold a meeting at Carrizozo in the near future. The chairman was unable to announce the exact date, because the board is awaiting certain developments before holding a meeting. The chairman also advises all who have claims against the board, to prepare them on the regular form, acknowledge them before some proper authority and mail them to Paul Mayer, White Oaks, who is secretary of the board.

Respect for Flag is Urged

CHAPLAIN FRUND has been making every effort at the Post, to arouse more patriotism, respect for the flag, etc. He says that a marked improvement has already been shown. Every Sunday evening National hymns are sung during the non-sectarian services in Library Hall. A fine reed pipe organ, the gift of Mrs. Elisabeth Ralph, of Washington, D. C., was installed and dedicated last Sunday, the first hymn played by special request was "America." The following taken from the associated press was sent us by the Chaplain, asking for its publication in the liveliest paper in New Mexico, THE NEWS, so he says:

"Patriotic societies from the Atlantic to the Pacific are engaged in a campaign to effect greater reverence for the American flag.

"In New York this morning a resolution was presented to the school board making it mandatory to sing at least one stanza of 'The Star Spangled Banner' each day and to salute the flag both before and after the daily Bible reading.

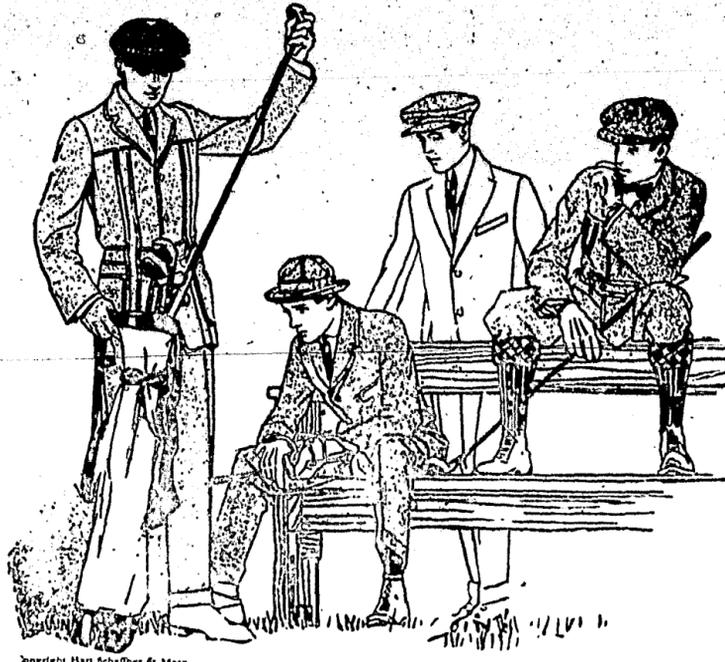

"In Denver the Ladies of the G. A. R. yesterday entered a flaming protest against any change to the national emblem—'The oldest flag in the world standing for unity, freedom, fraternity, charity and loyalty.'

The outburst is caused by the several bills in congress to rearrange and change the color of the stars in the interests of symmetry and high art."—Associated Press.

Life Among the Eskimo

GROUP OF ESKIMO ON STEAMER

On the roof of the world is the Eskimo country. Few are its flowers. Of trees there are none. Inhabitable are its summer muskegs and its eight-month winter snows. Yet the Eskimo is as jovial a soul as any that ever came from southern lands where life is a joy. He is a humorist, although he feeds on blubber and rotten fish, a sportsman, although he knows not soap and water, and a good fellow, although the shiftless crew despises him and calls him in insult "hukky."

Scattered over a wide area of the north, living in tribes distinguishable to the traveler by slight linguistic differences and local habits and customs, the Eskimo from Greenland to the west coast of Hudson bay, are one and the same people. They have the same physical characteristics, live in much the same way and think much the same thoughts on hunting and life as their visitors, the white men. Even the fierce Nechilliks and Igloods of the far, far north (with whom the various trading companies deal as a rule through other tribes acting as middlemen) have the same taboos and angakoks (witch doctors) and quaint legends.

People of Dirt.

Stunted, squat men seldom averaging over five feet and a half, they are muscular and strongly built, but slow of limb and mind. With their curious Chinese slanted eyes and inflated nostrils, they are a people of dirt and laughter. Their heavy black hair is worn by the males over the shoulders to protect their large ears. Across their thick lips comes the flash, as a rule of perfect but discolored teeth. Such is the Eskimo gentleman—the real lord of the north.

As for the Eskimo belles, they, too, have their virtues. Beauty is a question of taste and probably the Eskimo would not exchange his flat-faced, strong and sturdy mate with dark brown eyes and natural bust, for the fairest chorus girl. Very often, too, when these girls have European blood in them their looks are far from uncomely.

But to arrive at a real understanding of the Eskimo you must spend a year at least among them. Thus only can you arrive at a complete picture of their strange life wherein trains and banks and offices and telephones have no part. For they, like all primitive races, are a nomadic people living under the bright stars. So we may see an Eskimo's health, wealth and content. So, too, you may face starvation and hardship with him. And again you may watch the wages of the civilization that leave him robbed of furs, pillaged of livelihood and branded with disease.

The Eskimo lives by the chase for the neighbor ploughs nor farms. By means of the chase come his food and reindeer and the fuel that is to warm him through the long northern winter. His winter mansion is the igloo or snow house, his summer home a tupik or tent of seal and deer skins.

When the days of the north begin to spread out in January comes the Eskimo's hard time. For two months or more life is a burden, intolerable and bitter, yet fiercely clutched at for all its uncertainty. The ice is storm seized and the seal on which the Eskimo depends keep out in the open water. And it is in this season the southern Eskimo strikes his annual trail for the trade post, where he will barter a winter's pelts for ammunition, tobacco and white men's baubles. First provisions for the way must be found and at no other time are they so hard to obtain. So it comes to pass that with a little deer meat reserved over from the fall and with a scant stock of seal, the company sets forth. The long narrow komatiks are lashed, the dogs harnessed to them and the trail goes on in stages. Generally two or three families make them together. An old woman leads the way. Then come the dogs and the sleds while scouting on each side hater the men in search of seal holes on the ice. The short day wanes and a small snowhouse has to be built from a convenient hummock.

Building a House.

First a veteran tests the snow of the neighborhood with his knife. The drift must be a single storm's work for then the snow is more compact. An oblong hole about five feet long, two or three feet wide, some two feet deep is next cut. Blocks are then taken from its clean face. Each block is about half a foot thick, a foot and a half deep and two and a half feet long. One man wedges the blocks and another builds them round in a circle the size of the intended house. The first layer completed, the blocks cut downward diagonally so that the next layer will take a spiral form and continue to curve up until the dome is closed by a key-block. Women mortar the block chinks with soft snow. The door is cut and inside opposite it is piled the snow-bed, while outside a wind shield of blocks protects the door from a drift. It is now the women's task to make the place homo within while the hukky bucks feed their dogs.

On the bed pile go mats of closely woven willow branches, then deer skins and deer skin sleeping bags. The soapstone lamp is lighted and placed on a snow shelf between the door and bed. In it a wick of dry, pulverized moss is fed with deer fat or seal blubber. The kettle is now slung over it.

The sleds outside are now denuded and the dogs bedded. The most valuable of the sleds are ivory shod, otherwise they have whalebone runners. During the cold months they are sheathed with muck and frozen so there is least friction and for this the ice coating is renewed daily. The Eskimo now sets their traps and go in for the night. So the trail goes on day after day, night after night until they come, in two months or so, to the lonely traders of the north.

Furs are given in and counters on a graded scale received—a white fox counting as one skin and some silver foxes as much as forty. The Eskimo then hand over the counters, their tokens for white man's plug tobacco, his killing powder and shot and his needles and fish hooks and what the trader can attract him with.

Old-fashioned little girls. They still exist, it is asserted, although hidden from the worldly-minded.

Where are the little girls of yesterday? Where are the little girls who sewed "doll rags," who hung on the front gate, who romped and climbed fences with their brothers? Gone, all gone—that is, in the large cities where houses have crowded out the fields, and where busy days have swallowed the hours of leisure.

It was most interesting for one of the editors, the other day, to visit in a little town near Columbus, and there to find the same little girl that used to play 40 years ago in Columbus. There was the visiting of several small maidens with bags of "pieces," and with china and wax "children" to be clothed.

"The thpring ith comin'" lisped one, "and Hether haint got anything to wear, an' I'm juth worried to death for fear I won't get her thingth done in time for Eathier."

"Just the same with my Marian," quoth another. "I feel terribly about the Parls styles. They don't suit Marian at all, and—"

"My Bortha is really very sensible," said the third. "I told her this morning that I could not possibly afford—"

Dear me, dear me! The old days over again, when we used to foregather in the dining room after the table was cleared, and in front of the coal fire in the grate and after mother's admonition: "Now, children, don't poke the fire, or you'll get burned," we sewed, and sewed, and sewed for the family of dolls.

Where is the little girl of yesterday?

You sometimes find her, but she is hidden from sight of the worldly-minded.—Columbus (O.) Dispatch.

Maybe so.

Farmer—Your cow bells are no account. They don't ring loud enough.

THAT LEAKY PIPE

By HAROLD CARTER.

Yours very truly, John Forsythe & Co.

Miss Priscilla Howe's pencil tripped over the lines and came to a stop. She looked up at Mr. Forsythe inquiringly. "Er—that's all, Miss Howe," said the young man. "No, there is one thing more. Won't you take lunch with me today? Stop! Stop! You're taking that down."

"Is that a personal inquiry, Mr. Forsythe?" inquired his stenographer severely.

"I'm afraid—I mean yes, it is," he answered.

"That is the third time you have asked me, Mr. Forsythe," said the girl. "I must tell you again my mother doesn't care for me to have lunch with gentlemen whom she doesn't know."

"But you have worked for me two years, Miss Howe," pleaded John.

"Mother says that doesn't make any difference," answered Miss Priscilla, rising to put on her hat.

John Forsythe sighed. For over a year he had felt that the capable, Puritan Miss Priscilla would make him an ideal mate. And obstinately, doggedly, she had refused to let him make any advances. There was nothing against his character; he was young, good-looking, and reasonably rich. No, it was—

"Er—Miss Howe! One moment!" he called. "Won't you let me ask you something? Don't be offended with me. Are you engaged?"

"Certainly not, Mr. Forsythe," answered the girl indignantly. "If I were, I should not be working here."

"But, Miss Howe, I was speaking of luncheon," he faltered. "Oh, dear," he muttered, as she swept out of the room, "now I have put my foot in it badly, and if she gets angry she'll leave me."

Miss Priscilla did not seem very angry when she came back from luncheon, but her looks were quite severe enough to send a tremor through For-sythe's breast. However, he was in for it now if that fortress surrendered it would be to storming.

"You Don't Distrust Me, Then?"

"Miss Howe," he suggested, as she was going home, "might I be permitted to call on your mother some afternoon?"

"I'll ask her," Miss Priscilla answered. But the next morning she informed him that her mother was not well enough to receive visitors for the present.

Now Miss Howe was not at all indifferent to her employer's advances. But her mother had impressed certain facts upon her very forcibly before permitting her to take a stenographer's position. The death of her father had necessitated this means of support. The conditions were these:

"Since every large city is the haunt of unscrupulous men, never offer any man an opportunity to make advances to you."

"Never lunch with your employer."

"Wear tailor-made dresses of a plain cut and severe color in office hours."

"A girl accepts only books, flowers and candy, and then only from intimate friends of her mother's."

Meanwhile John Forsythe languished in unrequited love; and in Miss Priscilla's breast there smoldered the eternal fire born of propinquity to an engaging young man. But how to pierce that icy armor, which covered the embers was Forsythe's problem.

"If I could win your mother's confidence, would you go out to lunch with me?" asked the young man one day.

"Yes," said Miss Priscilla.

"You don't distrust me, then?"

"No," she admitted. "But I always obey my mother."

"Humi!" said John Forsythe.

It must have been three weeks later that the girl came in toward mid-day. She apologized as she hung up her hat.

"The pipes in our house froze last night," she said, "and you know the plumbers are all on strike. We've had an awful time. Poor mamma has had to stand by with a pail to catch the water from the leak."

"Have you got a plumber?" asked Forsythe.

"No. The water will have to be shut off from the main," said the girl.

"I'm sorry, Miss Howe," he answered. "However, I guess it will be all right. I have an appointment this afternoon, and may not be back, so please take charge while I am away."

Miss Priscilla waited in the office impatiently. For once in her life she was watching the clock. If the water was not shut off at the main—why, poor mother would be standing under that leaky old pipe all day. At five o'clock, since Mr. Forsythe had not returned, she put on her hat and hurried home.

When she entered the little flat an amazing sight was seen. Upon the lounge sat Mrs. Howe; under the leaking pipe, philosophically watching the water drip into the pail, sat John Forsythe. As the pail filled he thrust another one under the leak and hurried the full pail into the bathtub.

"Mother!" exclaimed the girl, petrified with amazement.

"My dear," faltered her mother, "this young man, kindly offered to help me. Such a respectable-looking young man, and he speaks so nicely. He wanted work and said you had recommended him and he came in the nick of time!"

John Forsythe emerged from the bathroom, carrying the empty pail.

"It's running more slowly now," he said, looking at the leak. "Confound those authorities, whoever they are! Why can't they turn it off? Ah!"

The authorities had evidently awakened for the trickle of water gradually thinned until it ceased, and John Forsythe looked up triumphantly from his pail.

"Here is a dollar for you, my good man," said Mrs. Howe, producing a bill from her reticule. "And you have certainly earned it. I am very much obliged."

"Thank you, madam," said John, putting on his coat. He opened the door quickly, but he lingered long enough in the hall for Miss Priscilla to catch up with him.

"How dared you!"—she began, but then, seeing the look in his eyes, relented.

"You'll take lunch with me now," he said convincingly. "Won't you—Priscilla?"

"Yes," answered Priscilla. And, as the door closed, she added—"dear" under her breath.

Not like the old times. Busy Man Notes Considerable Change in Demeanor of Life Insurance Collector.

"All this talk about the life insurance companies might have grown stale except for one thing," said the man on the suburban car who had just been consulting his memorandum book. "I refer to the life insurance canvasser. There was a time when an average of five per day called on me at my house or office, and they were the hardest men in the world to get rid of. It has been two whole months since I have seen one, and he can't have a bit of the old-time gall about him. He came into the office so quiet and humble that I thought he wanted a place as gardener. When I asked his business he fidgeted around for a spell and then replied:

"Mr. Blank, do you believe in life insurance?"

"Under certain conditions, yes."

"I am an agent for the Blank Life Insurance company. If that company could show you that it had been honest—"

"Yes."

"Had been honest and straight, and it's president hadn't been paid a salary four times too large—"

"Yes."

"And he hadn't rugg all his relatives into a good thing and paid them double what they are worth—"

"I see."

"And all the company losses had been promptly paid, and it's spare money invested in the safest and best way—"

"Yes, yes."

"And if everything was running all right, and would continue to run all right, and you got a low rate and were perfectly satisfied, would you consider taking out a small policy with us and thus securing our eternal gratitude and good will?"

"I told the man I would think of it, and I didn't have to add that it was my busy day. He got out of his own accord, and I presume the smile didn't come off for a whole day."

Too Nifty.

Theodore Dreiser, at a luncheon in New York, given in his honor, warned his fellow authors against hysterical writing.

"Look at the fake of the muck-raker," said the author of "Sister Carrie." "He has lost his popularity and one cannot but feel pleased at his disappearance, for by his outcries did he more harm than good. I am sure that he wishes now that he had been milder in his denunciation. He can sympathize with the dentist's wife."

"Awakening with a bad headache the morning after a G. A. R. banquet to celebrate Lincoln's Birthday, a suburban dentist missed, not unpleasantly, on his last evening's spree. But suddenly his wife appeared and, advancing to his bedside, shouted hysterically:

"You wretch! What will the neighbors say at your coming home drunk last night?"

"But, my dear, nobody saw me," the dentist protested.

"Nobody saw you? What if nobody did see you? You know well enough they all heard the way I carried on when you got back!"

For Handy Boys and Girls to Make and Do

By A. NEELY HALL. By DOROTHY PERKINS.

A TOY ELEVATOR. If there is a kitchen porch to your house, it will be easiest to build the toy elevator to run from the ground up to that porch, as illustrated in Fig. 1; and if you live in an upper story of an apartment building, your elevator can be made to run to a much greater height, which, of course, will be a great deal more fun.

Figure 2 shows a large detail of the supports for the elevator cables and guides. Cross strips A, B and C should be 18 or 20 inches long, about 2 inches wide, and 1 inch thick. At a distance of about 1 inch from one end of strips A and B, screw a screw-eye into one edge, and 8 inches from these eyes screw a second screw-eye (D, Fig. 2). Screw-eyes with 1/2-inch eyes are large enough. A dozen of these can be bought at the hardware store for 5 cents. The elevator guides are fastened to them. Besides the screw-eyes you must have two clothes-

CANDY BASKETS. The three pretty little baskets shown in the illustrations are splendid receptacles for candy dainties for the dinner table.

For Basket "A" cut a piece of paper 5 inches square (Fig. 1). Fold the line pulleys. These will cost 5 cents each. Screw one pulley into the edge of strip B, half-way between the two screw-eyes D (E, Fig. 2), the other into an edge of strip C at the same distance from the end that you have placed the pulley in strip B (F, Fig. 2).

Nail strip A to the porch post as close to the ground as you can get it, strip B to the same face of the same post, about 10 inches above the porch railing, and strip C to the opposite face of the post at the same height as strip B. Nail these strips securely so they will be firm.

If you cannot find a small box in the house out of which to make the elevator car, go to the grocery store and piece in half, with edges A together (Fig. 2), fold it in half again with edges B together (Fig. 3), and fold corner C over to corner B (Fig. 4). Then with a pair of scissors cut off corners C as shown in Fig. 5. Unfold the paper and it will have the form shown in Fig. 6. This is the basket bottom. Turn up the edges all around, folding along the dotted line shown in Fig. 6, and to these upturned edges paste a strip of paper 1 1/2 inches wide and 23 inches long for the sides of the basket.

Basket "B" has a heart-shaped bottom cut out of a piece of paper 5 inches by 5 1/2 inches in size (Fig. 1). Fold the paper in half with edges A you will be able to find just what you want among the grocer's empty boxes.

Figure 3 shows how the box is made into a car. Screw two screw-eyes into each side of the box, one over the other, as shown at G, for the elevator guides to run through, screw another into the exact center of the top of the box (H), to tie the hoisting cable to, and screw another into the exact center of the bottom of the box to tie the lowering cable to. Nail a narrow strip across the open front of the car, at the bottom, to keep things from falling out.

Get a heavy wrapping twine or some stoppings wire, for the elevator guides. Attach them to screw-eyes D in strip B, first, drop them to the ground, slip them through screw-eyes G in the sides of the car, and then fasten to screw-eyes D in strip A.

The counterbalance is a one-pound size baking-powder can filled with earth, sand or small stones. Fasten the lifting cable through holes punched in opposite sides of the can, just together (Fig. 2), then mark out one-half of a heart on one side of the folded piece, as indicated by the dotted line in Fig. 2, and cut out along the line (Fig. 3). Unfold the piece (Fig. 4), and slash the edge all around with a pair of scissors, making the slashes 1/4 inch long. Turn up the little pieces between the slashes, and paste them to a strip of paper 1 1/2 inches wide and 17 1/2 inches long, bent around the heart-shaped piece to form the basket sides. (Fig. 5). The handle is of the same size as that on basket "A."

Basket "C" is made from a square of paper measuring 5 1/2 inches. Fold this square in half diagonally, with corners A together (Figs. 1 and 2), then into quarters by bringing corners B together (Figs. 2 and 3), and then fold over 1 inch of edge C as shown in Fig. 4. Open the piece of paper, and you will find a great many creases in it. The dotted lines in Fig. 5 show only the creases that are needed. Turn up the edges along the creases that run parallel to the edges. Then put some paste upon the inside faces of the corners, and pinch together.

below where the edge of the can cover comes (Fig. 4). Use a strong wrapping twine for the lifting cable. After tying it to the counterbalance, run it over pulley guide F and tie to screw-eye H in the top of the car.

Washington.—Forty-four and a half million dollars increase in American exports of products of the soil, principally due to the high price of cotton, for the first seven months of the fiscal year, compared with that period of last year, was reported by the Department of Commerce. The total was $738,697,719, last year's, $694,905,980. Value of cotton exported during the seven months was $38,000,000 more than in the same period last year; mineral oil $12,000,000, and meat and dairy products, $15,000,000 more.

ENROLL 618,000 CONVERTS. Methodists Lead With an Increased Membership of 220,000.

Washington.—The actual enrolled membership of Christian churches within continental United States showed a net increase of 618,000, or 1.8 per cent, during 1913, according to statistics made public by the Washington office of the federal council of Churches of Christ in America. The Methodist church led in the increased membership with 220,000.

The other churches, in their order, follow: Baptist, 64,000; Presbyterian, 45,600; Lutheran, 36,100; Disciples, 21,800, and Episcopal, 16,500.

The actual membership of the largest churches in the United States are given as follows: Roman Catholic, 13,090,534; Methodist, 7,125,000; Baptist, 5,924,620; Lutheran, 2,838,722; Presbyterian, 2,027,593; Disciples of Christ, 1,519,369; Protestant Episcopal, 997,407, and Congregational, 748,240. These eight churches contain 34,000,000 of the 37,280,000 of actual church membership within the United States.

DEATH RATE IN DENVER LOW, Fourth Lowest, With 14.5 Per Thousand—Memphis Highest.

Washington.—The general condition of the public health is good, but there were more deaths last year than in 1912, according to mortality statistics issued by the census bureau.

The indicated national death rate for 1913 was 13.8. In 1912 it was 13.6. Of the states in the registration area New York led in deaths with a rate of 15.2 per thousand population. Minnesota was apparently the healthiest state, the rate being only 10.7; Wisconsin being a close second with 10.9. The same two states led in health in 1912 and New York was likewise the state with the heaviest death roll.

Of the cities in the registration area Memphis, Tenn., led with a death rate of 22.8, and Richmond, Va., second, with 22.4, occupying the same place as in 1912. Portland, Ore., showed the lowest death rate, with only 11 per thousand. Minneapolis and St. Paul were second, with 13. Milwaukee fourth lowest, 14.5.

Death rates per 1,000 for the following cities were announced: Los Angeles, 14.0; San Francisco, 16.7; Denver, 14.5; Chicago, 17.1; Indianapolis, 18.3; Baltimore, 19.4; Grand Rapids, Mich., 18.4; Kansas City, Mo., 16.3; St. Louis, 16.2; Omaha, 15.3; Cincinnati, 17.2; Cleveland, Ohio, 15.7; Columbus, Ohio, 16.2; Dayton, Ohio, 16.3; Toledo, Ohio, 17; Milwaukee, 14.2.

"CASCARETS" FOR SLUGGISH LIVER

No sick headache, sour stomach, biliousness or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now. Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out to-night and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret to-night straightens you out by morning. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken. Adv.

NO GUBHER. But Tells Facts About Postum.

A Wis. lady found an easy and safe way out of the ills caused by coffee. She says:

"We quit coffee and have used Postum for the past eight years, and drink it nearly every meal. We never tire of it.

"For several years previous to quitting coffee I could scarcely eat anything on account of dyspepsia, bloating after meals, palpitation, sick headache—in fact was in such misery and distress I tried living on hot water and toast.

"Hearing of Postum I began drinking it and found it delicious. My ailments disappeared, and now I can eat anything I want without trouble.

"My parents and husband had about the same experience. Mother would often suffer after eating, while yet drinking coffee. My husband was a great coffee drinker and suffered from indigestion and headache.

"After he stopped coffee and began Postum both ailments left him. He will not drink anything else now and we have it three times a day. I could write more but am no gubher—only state plain facts."

HAM IN VARIOUS WAYS

HOW METHODS OF COOKING MAY BE VARIED.

Must Receive the Best of Attention to Be at Its Best—With Aspic Jelly it Makes a Delicious Combination.

According to the way it is cooked, the same ham can be made into two different things. It can be juicy, sweet and tender—or hard, dry and tough. It should be thoroughly cooked, whether it is baked or boiled. If it is to be eaten cold and is boiled, it should be cooled in the liquid in which it was cooked. The boiling should be slow, so that the ham will be tender, but will not fall to pieces the moment a knife is put to it.

Baked ham is more troublesome to prepare than boiled ham, perhaps, but it is better. Here is a recipe for baked ham with cider sauce. Soak a whole ham for the night in cold water. In the morning remove it from the water. Mix flour and water into a thick paste and put this over the lean part of the ham. This is to keep in all the juices, so that the meat must be thoroughly and thickly covered. Bake in a moderate oven 25 minutes for every pound. Then take off the skin and the paste covering and cover the ham with bread crumbs. Brown in the oven and serve with this sauce: Boil two cups of cider for five minutes, add then add two teaspoonfuls of chopped onion, a tablespoonful of chopped celery, a bay leaf, two whole cloves and six crushed peppercorns. Reduce the cider to a cupful and serve.

Aspic jelly can be used in many ways with ham to produce delicious combinations. An easy way to make aspic jelly is to use any sort of clear meat stock you may have on hand. Flavor it with herbs and spices and for every quart add an ounce of gelatin. Ham jelly, made with aspic, is prepared in this way: Chop the remains of cold boiled ham, freed from fat and gristle, and then pound them to a paste. Measure this and to each cupful add half a teaspoonful of dry mustard, two teaspoonfuls of butter, a little cayenne pepper, half a cup of whipped cream and half a cup of cool, liquid aspic. Pour in small molds. These little molds of jelly can be served with mayonnaise dressing on lettuce leaves. The jelly can be molded in a large mold and sliced to serve in place of cold meat.

Veal and Mushrooms. Put a tablespoonful of butter into a saucepan, and when melted add a tablespoonful of cornstarch, stirring until well mixed. Pour slowly into it one-half pint of milk. Stir and cook until smooth, seasoning with a pinch of salt and a few shakes of pepper. Now put into the sauce two cupfuls of cold, seasoned veal cut into neat cubes and one cupful of mushrooms, quartered. Heat over hot water five minutes, remove from the fire, add quickly a well-beaten egg and a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Serve on toast and garnish with toast points.

Care of Brooms. If brooms are dipped in a pail of suds for a few minutes once a week it will make them tough and pliable and they last much longer.

If one keeps a pair of the cotton gloves used by the woodmen near the stove to slip on when putting wood on the fire they will save many a burned finger.

If one has to get in wood try making an apron of a burlap bag; tie on as an apron and take the bottom in your hand and fill with wood and see how much lighter the work will be.

Rice With Tomato and Cheese. Pick over and wash one-half cupful of rice. Place in the upper part of a double boiler with three cupfuls of boiling water and boil five minutes. Add one cupful of tomato puree, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one teaspoonful of chopped onion and green pepper, cooked until soft in two tablespoonfuls of butter. Cook in the double boiler, without stirring, until the rice is soft, then add one-half cupful of grated cheese. Stir with a fork and serve as soon as the cheese is melted.

Lamb Kidneys With Bacon. Split six kidneys in halves and remove the thin outer skin. Fry six slices of bacon until crisp. Remove them from the fat and keep hot. Dip the kidneys in flour and brown quickly on both sides in the bacon fat. When brown add hot water to nearly cover, a tablespoonful of table sauce, and cook for five minutes, keeping them just below the boiling point. Serve on a hot platter, with the bacon as a garnish.

Duchess Potatoes. To two cups hot rice potatoes add two tablespoonfuls butter, one-half teaspoon salt and yolks of three eggs slightly beaten. Shape, using pastry bag and tube, in forms of pyramids, leaves, roses, etc. Brush over with beaten egg diluted with one teaspoon water and brown in hot oven.

Table Protected. A piece of wax paper placed under the centerpiece on a polished table will prevent the linen from adhering to the table in hot weather, as well as prevent a stain from cold water or an overfilled vase or rose bowl.

Nut Custard. To make a nut custard make the custard in the usual way and add chopped nuts, any of your favorites, and when you serve the custard add tidbits and you will say it is good.

Feel All Used Up?

Ever feel that you can go no further—that you must have rest for that lame and aching back—relief from that constant, dead-tired feeling?

Have you suspected your kidneys? Kidney disease shows itself in back-ache, nervous troubles and disorders of the kidney secretions. If tired, worried, lame, rheumatic, dizzy and nervous don't let a possible weakness of the kidneys escape attention until it turns into a case of gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease.

Sick kidneys go from bad to worse. Their useful work of filtering the blood is only partly done. Poisons that should be passed out with the kidney secretions are held in the blood, circulating freely, attacking muscles, nerves and vital organs. The kidneys inflame, swell and throb, and that is the cause of sharp pains in the back, or that dull, constant heavy ache.

For quick help use Doan's Kidney Pills. No other kidney remedy is used and recommended so generally. Take them when you feel the first bad backache, or see the first disturbance of the kidney secretions. Doan's have brought new life and strength to thousands of despairing men and women, and there is nothing in the remedy to cause any harm or start a pill-taking habit.

Here's the best of proof—testimony from a grateful user.

DOCTORS' TREATMENT FAILED

Colorado Man Tells a Story of Awful Suffering.

I. M. Drake, 232 Bluff St., Denver, Colo., writes: "I was so bad with kidney complaint that I thought I was going to die. My feet were terribly swollen and I couldn't wear my shoes. My limbs swelled and my heart wasn't just right. I often had to gasp for breath. For months I couldn't work and I couldn't hold a block without sitting down to rest. For several days there wouldn't be a free flow of the kidney secretions and the passages were terribly swelling. Doctors didn't help me and one remedy after another failed. I finally wrote to use Doan's Kidney Pills and the first box brought wonderful relief. The kidney secretions got all right and the swelling went down. In a short time I went back to work in good health. Doan's Kidney Pills alone cured me and the cure has been permanent. I hope that other kidney sufferers will read about my experience and give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS. "When Your Back Is Lame—Remember the Name". Sold by all Dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., Proprietors.

Rebutting a Libel. John D. Rockefeller, talking to a Cleveland clergyman, said one day, with a whimsical but rather sad smile:

"From the stories that are told about my love of money and my disregard for humanity you'd think I was some such monster as the criminal of the anecdote.

"A judge once said to a terrible criminal: 'And you actually had the heart to murder this poor man for a matter of 50 cents!'

"Well, your honor," said the criminal, with an injured-innocence air, "well, your honor, what do you expect? Fifty cents here and fifty cents there—it soon mounts up."

ERUPTION ON ANKLE BURNED

Kingsville, Mo.—"My trouble began eighteen years ago. Nearly half of the time there were running sores around my ankle; sometimes it would be two years at a time before they were healed. There were many nights I did not sleep because of the great suffering. The sores were deep running ones and so sore that I could not bear for anything to touch them. They would burn all the time and sting like a lot of bees were confined around my ankle. I could not bear to scratch it. It was always so sensitive to the touch. I could not let my clothes touch it. The skin was very red. I made what I called a cap out of white felt, blotting paper and soft white cloth to hold it in shape. This I wore night and day.

"I tried many remedies for most of the eighteen years with no effect. Last summer I sent for some Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The very first time I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment I gained relief; they relieved the pain right then. It was three months from the time I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment until the sores were entirely healed. I have not been troubled since and my ankle seems perfectly well." (Signed) Mrs. Charles E. Brooke, Oct. 22, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 22-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Adv.

Take Your Choice of Morals.

Escape of a student who fell down the Lutschine gorge in the Alps but was caught on a rock and remained suspended for two days and nights, recalls to the London Chronicle another Granddewald escape to which Leslie Stephen tells. Returning from the chalet above the Elmeere, one of Stephen's guides, Michel, reached the edge of a cliff where a wooden rail guarded the path. Unfortunately the rail left off prematurely, and Michel had been drinking. So he stepped over and fell on hard rock nearly 100 feet below. He lay there all night and next morning got up and walked home, sober and whole. Stephen submits two morals for choice: "Don't get drunk when you have to walk along the edge of an Alpine cliff," and "Get drunk if you are likely to fall over an Alpine cliff."

To the Rescue.

An Englishman sat at a New York boarding house table. One of the boarders was telling a story in which a "dachshund" figured. She was unable for a moment to think of the word.

"It was one of these—what do you call them?—one of these long German dogs?"

Force of Habit.

"He's always tinkering with his auto."

"Naturally. He's a vivisectionist!"—Judge.

Unappreciative.

"My nephew doesn't seem to appreciate that old field I deeded him."

"Why not?"

"He has made light of it."

The Right Kind.

"What kind of a line would you recommend in a matrimonial expedition?"

"I should say, a haul-line."

HAD TOLD THE EXACT TRUTH

Lecturer's "Outpouring" Was Just as Had Been Stated in His Letter of Recommendation.

A lecturer went to Yonkers with a letter to a Yonkers citizen from a man in New Rochelle and succeeded in getting an engagement. His three-hour lecture proved dull, dry and uninteresting. Next day Mr. Yonkers met Mr. New Rochelle.

"What did you mean?" asked Yonkers, "by recommending that lemon lecturer?"

"I didn't recommend him."

"Well, I just guess you did. I've got your letter right here in my pocket."

"Better read it over again—carefully."

Mr. Yonkers did. It was purposely noncommittal:

"I have heard Mr. N.'s lecture. It is as interesting as it is instructive."

"And it wasn't either," said Yonkers.

"Then the comparison holds," said New Rochelle.—New York World.

TAKES OFF DANDRUFF

HAIR STOPS FALLING

Girl! Try This! Makes Hair Thick, Glossy, Fluffy, Beautiful—No More Itching Scalp.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable luster, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any store, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine. Adv.

Queer Sort. "What bent has this young man in the drama?"

"Straight work."

Government Wool Bulletin

If American wools were sent to market graded and put up as attractively as are Australian wools, it is estimated that an increase in price of as much as 3 cents a pound might be received by the grower. Wool growers, dealers, and manufacturers generally admit that the American system of lack of system is very bad, and at the annual meeting of the National Wool Growers' Association in Salt Lake City, Utah, considerable interest was shown in the proposal to adopt the Australian method of putting up wool. Three cents a pound upon wools selling at from 15 to 30 cents a pound is a very high percentage of loss, which can and doubtless will be prevented by growers in the future. The growers' gain in this particular is in no way opposed to the interests of the dealers or manufacturers.

Australian and New Zealand wools are graded or "classed" at the time of shearing. They are also shipped in bales instead of sacks. The "wool classers" who do their work at the shearing plant are familiar with the basis of grading wool for manufacturers' uses. No bale contains more than one grade of wool, and any one bale is a true representative of others of the same grade shorn from the same flock. In many instances the fleeces are also "skirted." Skirting is the removal from the fleece of that part of the wool shorn from the legs and belly. Such skirtings contain most of the dirt and foreign matter present in the fleece and when baled and sold separately bring their actual value and do not detract from the appearance and uniform character of the body wool.

Quite frequently the bodies of Australian fleeces are held together by a roll twisted from the fleece itself and which serves to keep the fleece intact while being placed in the bale and after the bale is opened at the market, thus avoiding possibility of injury from the use of unsuitable twine. Only a small proportion of American wool growers separate their wool into grades before sacking for shipment. Unless the flock is of very uniform character the sacks of wool must be opened at the warehouse and their contents graded before being offered for sale. Skirting is never done in America and on the majority of ranches the tags or dung locks are left with the fleeces.

The breeding of the sheep is of first importance in determining the grade of the wool. Wool growers, as a rule, are not familiar enough with the commercial grading of wool to understand into which of the grades the fleeces of a particular breed of sheep would be placed. Aside from the matter of grade, the value of wool is controlled to a great extent by the feed supply and methods of herding the sheep on the range. Lessons upon these points as well as upon the handling of the shorn wool can be brought home by the exhibit that has been prepared by the Bureau of Animal Industry. It is not too much to expect that in the next decade improved business practices will add over 10 per cent to the returns received for wool by sheep raisers.

Pasture Posted

Notice is hereby given that my pasture, containing patented and leased lands, has been posted as required by law, and all persons are warned not to hunt or kill game within said inclosure; neither is any wood to be removed therefrom. Owners of stock are also warned against permitting their stock to run within said inclosure. Anyone disregarding this warning becomes a trespasser. P. R. PHILLIPS.
