

Someone Hurt

IT is evident, from a reading of the proceedings of the republican state convention, in connection with the platform adopted by that same convention, that Governor McDonald has, in some manner not explained in the platform adopted, become "offensive, pernicious," etc., to some republicans powerful in their party councils.

One of the indictments urged against the Governor is his attempts to collect certain shortages in some of the counties. This is, indeed, reprehensible. For many years it was a very general custom in New Mexico to permit officials to be short in their accounts, if they wanted to, and, according to the expressed republican idea, no self-respecting governor should make any politician dig up money owed to the people. Until the present writing the state records show that the "offensive and pernicious" activities of the governor have been responsible for finding a grand total of about $75,000.00 or more to be due the different counties from defaulting officials. Of that amount about $10,000.00 has been collected and $20,000.00 secured. Large sums were found to be outlawed. It is barely possible, of course, that some of the gentlemen behind that resolution of condemnation have been touched.

Mr. Hernandez stands on that platform, which also accuses Governor McDonald of "causing to be published false statements concerning shortages," or something of that kind. If Mr. Hernandez believes that platform, and he should believe it if he is running for office that way, he should tell the public in what particular way the Governor has become "offensive" to him by such actions.

Jicarilla

Mrs. Mary Campbell is very sick at her home here.

Willie Hays left for the lower country Wednesday last, to join his family on the homestead.

Bivian Brookin returned from Pines Altos a few days ago to visit home folks a while.

The bean threshing is about over, and now the farmers are beginning to cut the cane, kafir and milo crops.

There has been many rattle snakes on the east side this summer, and many fatal bites among animals.

Last Saturday evening a cow was discovered to have fallen in a placer hole near the American well. Four men worked until the early morning hours to extricate the brute. We are glad to say that she came out none the worse for the fall.

Miss Irene Price, of Ancho, was visiting in the camp the last of the week.

George Current visited friends here a short while, on his way to his home near Patos, the last of the week. He is just in from a long absence in Arizona and other points.

Mr. M. A. Price was in the camp a short time last week on business, from his Ancho place.

White Oaks

Miss Isabel Lee is seriously ill at the home of her parents with typhoid fever. Mrs. Shelton, a trained nurse, came up from Alamogordo Wednesday to take charge of the case.

Mrs. Dixon and daughter, Mrs. Proudfoot, are here from San Antonio, Texas, visiting the family of Phil Reasoner.

D. L. Jackson left last week for a short business trip to El Paso.

Mrs. R. H. Taylor accompanied her daughter, Nita, to Carrizozo last week. Miss Nita is now reported seriously ill at that place with typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Haskins moved in from Jicarilla Friday and are occupying the Redville house on the north side.

George Reddy has moved his family in from the Bonito country and is working for the Wild Cats.

Several families are moving in from the country for the opening of school, which is next Monday. A good attendance is anticipated.

Mr. Smithson was in town Monday night with his moving pictures and entertained a good crowd.

Several more homes have been wired for electric lights the past week. Mr. Lane is doing the work.

J. E. Collard came up from El Paso last week and is again employed at the mill.

J. M. Smith has been awarded the contract for hauling ore from the mines to the mill, and left Tuesday morning for El Paso to purchase additional equipment. W. S. Collins, who has had charge of this work, will leave in a few days for his old home in Ohio.

Mrs. Baca Dies at Lincoln

MRS. Juanita Baca died at her home in Lincoln Sunday morning and was buried the following day in the Lincoln Cemetery. She is survived by a husband, Captain Saturnino Baca, and two daughters, Mrs. James R. Brent, of Silver City, and Mrs. Frank Salazar, of Lincoln. Mrs. Brent arrived from Silver City in time for the funeral but before her mother had passed to the Great Beyond. The Bacas are among the oldest settlers of Lincoln county and have for more than forty years been closely identified with the county's history. Mrs. Baca was known far and wide for her generosity and splendid womanly traits and all early settlers who knew her so well and appreciated her many virtues sincerely regret her passing. Requiescat in pace.

In support of the republican platform we suggest the calling of a state convention of burglars and other law-breakers, and the passing of resolutions "condemning" the officers of the law for their "offensive and pernicious" activities, when they are active in New Mexico.

An Efficient Government

(From The New York Evening Post.)

Whatever of evil the war of special praise for cooperating nations may have brought upon us Americans, the country is indebted to it for a clear revelation of the efficiency of the administration of President Woodrow Wilson. The great machinery of government has functioned quickly and well. If we have seen in England a fairly amazing subsidizing of popular passion, but yesterday threatening civil war, we have witnessed on this side of the water a similar and a most praiseworthy readiness to rise above partisanship and stand by the President in his effort to take in all possible sail and render the ship of state as safe as may be in the hurricane that has suddenly burst upon it. Quietly and effectively every disposition has been made, without the slightest blowing of trumpets or hurrahing about it; if anything has been overlooked which might have been foreseen, it has yet to appear.

While the credit for all this belongs to many men, the chief praise is, of course, due to the captain, who, face to face with a most distressing personal bereavement, yet continued to wreak himself upon his work precisely as if his mind were completely at ease as to all private affairs. He has met the national emergency with the same poise and skill with which he has held Congress to its work from the very inception of his administration. The accredited college professor has shown again not only what it means to have communed with the world's philosophers, but has demonstrated the supreme value of rigid mental discipline as well. His hand on the helm has never wavered; his own coolness and steadiness under conditions which might have snapped many a physically stronger man have won him the unbounded admiration of the corps of newspaper men who have daily found him about the only outwardly unruffled man in the intense heat and fearful strain of Washington. They will not soon forget the eloquent words with which he outlined to them the gravity of the war crisis and the duty of the press—words spoken primarily for them, but which they demanded for publication. And the public will not forget that his message tendering the good offices of this Government to the warring nations of Europe was written at the bedside of his dying wife. In every way in this grave emergency he has given fresh proof of his marked fitness for the headship of the nation.

It was Mr. Wilson who seized the opportunity to press for the confirmation of the nomination of Mr. Warburg, and quickly selected Mr. Delano to fill the vacancy created by the withdrawal of Mr. Jones. Under his direction the Aldrich-Vreeland act, providing for an emergency banknote currency, was put into force, to the great relief of the financial world. The President himself moved to have Congress amend our shipping laws to meet the emergency on the ocean; as the result of this is not yet clear, it is certainly a step in the right direction, and will doubtless be followed by others. And his administration is entitled to special praise for cooperating vigorously in the organization of strong committees to deal with all phases of the business situation as the emergencies may arise—a bit of constructive statesmanship deserving higher praise and greater attention than it has received. To all of this must be added the prompt measures for the relief of the stranded Americans abroad—all of which were submitted for Presidential approval—and the constant, keeping in touch with our foreign ambassadors, who have had to assume heavier burdens than have ever fallen to the lot of American diplomats. The administration has also acted vigorously and most wisely in dealing with the enforcement of our own neutrality; the President himself writing a letter directing army and navy officers to refrain from all comment on foreign happenings, and particularly the military operations.

That all of this has been appreciated by the public is obvious from the changed political atmosphere in Washington. So far from being impatient to return home, Congressmen are ready now to stay on as long as the leader in the White House demands it. The Senate has speeded up its own business so that its deck may be cleared of the trust bills, and it may be ready for any action the situation may then warrant. That so keen a politician as Mr. Roosevelt has called off his proposed criticisms of the amateur in the White House is clear proof of the changed status at Washington. It is no longer the thing to talk about the Democrats' certain loss of the House. If a financial depression is impending, the Democrats are not likely to suffer from it; no Republicans would have the face to lay this at their rivals' door, though they have done about as unwarranted things in the past. If anything like this should be attempted, the answer can readily be imagined. It will be sufficient to silence any critic by simply asking him what he thinks of Mr. Wilson's handling of the war situation, and whether at any period in our history we have ever had a smoother-working Governmental machinery in a grave national crisis. It is a record of which the whole country may justly be proud, and one that will be all the more creditable as time passes.

How Unthoughtful

If this country had been enjoying the benefits of a republican protective tariff for the past year and a half, instead of being under the Underwood democratic makeshift, it would not now be confronted with the necessity for imposing the always hated internal revenue war tax in order to meet the expenses of government, and that, too, all because of a war in which we have no part.—Socorro Chieftain.

How unthoughtful to tear down that high tariff wall? If that wall still towered skyward, no doubt, the warring nations of Europe would be hoisting immense ship loads of goods over it. "Come on, Tony, let's sing 'Darling Club.'"

Bluffed Into a Mistake

THE state republican bosses are certainly demoralized, with a good prospect of becoming more so immediately after the votes have been counted in November.

Some months ago Eliego Baca, Larrazolo, and a few others, started a race issue in an attempt to force the nomination and election of more Spanish-Americans, on the republican side. They made so much noise that the republican leaders stampeded with fright, and, in a frantic attempt to prepare for what they believed was a coming storm, they nominated a so-called Spanish-American for congress in the person of one B. C. Hernandez, of Rio Arriba county.

After the convention, with the fright somewhat worn off, they realize that they have made a fearful mistake, not in nominating a Spanish-American, but in selecting for the nomination a man without one single qualification, and not of congressional caliber.

Mr. Hernandez is one of those gentlemanly, easy-going beings who can make a fairly good county official—and that is all there is in him. The republicans are in the hole and will now fight it out on the race issue, at least in those counties where they believe the race issue will get votes. Larrazolo will be used to create enthusiasm, because the candidate can not.

The majority of leading republicans privately admit a coming defeat, but some of the party boosters believe that they can make enough votes in Spanish-American counties to elect their man.

They overlook the fact that the democratic Spanish-Americans continued with the party through some sixteen years of defeat, are highly intelligent as citizens, are satisfied because they have about the representation their numbers call for, and are democrats from principle, so can not be carried away by any such foolishness as a race issue. There is no race issue in the democratic party, never was, and probably never will be.

And when the votes have all been counted republican leaders will be wiser than they are now.

A Message from Life's Other Side.

Fellow Citizens, Lend me your ears for a few minutes. Lest you forget we desire to call your attention to a most important phase of your town life. Town pride is an essential element in the success of any burg and is always commendable in her citizens—such pride is growing. This form of patriotism takes shape in several different ways, namely, good streets, clean alleys, a desire for a reputation for a clean moral citizenship, and commodious public building, prominent among these are churches. When we came last fall we found a cozy neat parsonage in which to live, a beautiful commodious church building, a monument to local pride and Christian liberality. There is nothing left to make it an object of pride to any town. Many towns twice the size of ours have no such church. It is the property of your town and its offers are made to you and your children. The pastor who from time to time is sent here is to help you and to receive mutual help in turn from you. His scope of usefulness is broadened or lessened by your co-operation or failure to co-operate. It is a notion among us that attendance upon the services to be prefaced by an invitation by the pastor; but it is your church and your service, provided you come. Attendance upon services are never so large during summer as during winter. For some months first one and another have been leaving for a vacation, some to the mountains, some to their ranches, and some to the east. They have been going hither and thither throughout the land seeking rest and finding some. Next Sunday is the first Sunday in September, summer vacations are over and school is to start Monday morning. Children are to turn their faces that way and the people in home life will have to adopt themselves to its program. Many have taken vacations from their duty to themselves, to the church, and in some instances, to the best interests of their families. They have desired to be kind to this higher purpose, but have gone their way. In some cases they have offered excuses to their neighbors and, for the time being to all outward purposes, their excuses were accepted. But there is a higher One, and is it your opinion that they have been or are now sufficient excuse to pass His censorship? We meet many on the street whom we never see in church, men of good hearts, business men, men of affairs, and men of families. They are kind, even cordial, towards the pastor. They are courteous and gentlemanly to some friend or family who have sorrows. They are regular in their attendance upon their business obligations and frugal; but higher than material things seem scarcely to ever engage their attention. "Man cannot live by bread alone." Again, there are others who are very severe critics of the church, who have not been to church for years. They have some historic charges against the church and have paid little attention to its better growths. Destructive criticism is useless if you do not like the religious trend of today, come and help to make it what you desire for tomorrow. We are "incurably religious".

Sunday school pupil, you who have been absent for several Sundays, come next Sunday. Church member, you who have been very irregular in the past months, make a new start Sunday. You of the world who fail to attend, turn over a new leaf and come next Sunday. We will expect you.

J. W. HENDRIX,
Pastor of the Stone Church.

LOCAL & PERSONAL

Dr. J. W. Compton, optician, who recently located here, reports a thriving business.

Mrs. J. F. Kimbell and daughter Harriet are visiting the Rice family at Parsons this week.

"Finest I ever saw," is the way Conde Skinner put it in speaking about crops on the Mesa.

F. A. Scherer, who has been running out of El Paso the past few months, has been transferred to Tucumcari.

Mrs. R. T. Lucas left Sunday for St. Louis, Missouri, to attend the bedside of a brother who is dangerously ill.

Mrs. J. A. Adams is in charge of the treasurer's office during the absence of Dr. Watson, who, with his family, is visiting in Ohio.

Miss Leora Jones came up Tuesday from Roswell and is the guest of Mrs. G. T. McQuillen. She expects to remain three weeks.

The News has been the recipient this week of two sweet, juicy melons from the Forman farm, for which it extends thanks.

Mrs. Wallace L. Gumm, County Superintendent of Schools, went up the line Wednesday to visit the schools in the north end of the county.

Henry Lutz, who has been seriously ill at his home in Lincoln with typhoid fever, is reported to be improving, although it will be some time before he is able to look after business affairs.

W. A. Peacock returned Monday from San Antonio, Texas, and went out to his home near Nogal. He reports everything in a flourishing condition in the part of the big state he visited.

J. H. C. Pope returned Sunday from the Texas Panhandle. He reports excellent crops in that portion of the Lone Star State and that the people are jubilant over the high prices of their products.

A large party went out to Water Canyon yesterday to be gone until tomorrow. In the party were Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Hendrix, Mrs. Norby, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Arrington and Professor and Mrs. Andrew McCurdy.

The Methodist Sunday School on Sunday morning voted its thanks to the auto owners who so kindly volunteered to convey the picnickers to and from the picnic grounds on the Thursday before. It was a treat that was appreciated by all.

Rich Hyst was down Tuesday from his Nogal Canyon home with a load of fruit. He says he not only has an excellent fruit crop but one of the best farm crops he has ever grown. He says his section will produce 40 bushels of corn to the acre this year.

Dr. Guido Ranniger was here yesterday from Oscuro. He had with him a basket of fine grapes, the Tokay variety, that had been grown on his farm. It was another evidence of what this soil will do, when supplemented by intelligent effort. Any one desiring any of these fine grapes may secure them by addressing the doctor at Oscuro. He has sufficient to supply the local demand.

Gurney-Green

At Deming, New Mexico, last Saturday, Frank W. Gurney, the popular manager of the Carrizozo Eating House, and Mrs. Pearl Green, of El Paso, were married. The newly wedded couple reached Carrizozo Sunday night. Best wishes.

Criminally Misleading

There is certainly reason in the storm of protest that is going up in eastern Lincoln county over the outrageous discrimination in road matters against the valley of the Hondo and that of the Ruidoso. These two sections are the richest in the division. They contain practically all of the agricultural wealth of the county. They are traversed by the auto mail line. They will certainly be the route of the great Southern Highway. Money is being poured into the road on the west side of the mountains that traverses an "unspeakable desert" that will be traveled by far less tonnage and much fewer people than the eastern paths. It is certainly a mistaken policy, to say the least, and there is reason for the righteous anger of the people so discriminated against.

The above is taken from the Roswell Morning News of its issue dated August 28. This paragraph is an editorial expression from that paper and has been followed by subsequent editorials to the effect that the people of the valley precincts were insisting on a road law that would permit the expenditure of road funds in precincts where it was derived, and all the way through it appears to be a studious attempt to array one side of Lincoln county against the other. Whether the foregoing statement was made for the deceptive purpose of arousing another sectional controversy in this county, or whether the information furnished the writer of the editorial paragraph was from a judicial source the result of such a statement is calculated to do great harm. We can hardly overstate the editor of the Morning News presenting such an unfair, untrue and scurrilous article to the readers of his paper, of his own volition, and are disposed to believe some irresponsible individual wanted to sweat the Lincoln county road board and that some quite responsible individual in Roswell was not averse to the promulgation of such an article, inasmuch as it, by innuendo, implicates in the State Highway Commission. In either case the article is wrong, criminally misleading and to add to the wrong comes from an outside source that shows by the statement made it is without knowledge of the situation.

That the roads are not as good in this county, or this state, for that matter, as they should be, goes without saying. That every section of the county is crying for road money is too patent to deny, and that no section of the county has received what it would like to have is just as true. We wish to deny that money is being poured into the "road on the west side of the mountains that traverses an unspeakable desert," and in the refutation of the statement will say the records of the county road board show the charge to be absolutely false. The regrettable part of the situation, forgetting the firebrand that the Roswell Morning News has so unceremoniously cast into Lincoln county affairs, is that no section of the county has had what it wanted, or deserved in road matters, nor can it have until we have more money to apply on road work. In the meantime the road board has distributed its funds in such a way as would produce what it thought would bring the best results, and in the distribution we aver that the "unspeakable desert" has not had the lion's share.

We have examined the proceedings of the Lincoln county road board from the time of its organization to the present date, and find that there has been expended on road work during that time, not including steel culverts, tools, etc., which are used by the entire county and are, therefore, not chargeable to any particular section, the sum, in round numbers, of $12,813.00. Of this sum the "unspeakable desert" received $5,185.00 and the other portion of the county $7,628.00. Or to put it another way, dividing the county into three sections, two of which are east of the mountains, and for convenience sake may be called the east and middle, the west covering the "unspeakable desert," it may be divided as follows:

The east received	$4,020.15
The Middle received	$3,608.79
The West received	$5,184.64

In the foregoing table the middle item, as well as the east, was expended entirely beyond the mountains, all of it in and nearest the valleys than the "unspeakable desert," but, presumably, every cent of it where it was badly needed.

As to the proposition, to spend the money in the precincts from which it is derived, we have no desire to enterpose an objection. The "unspeakable desert" would fare much better under that arrangement than at present. To take the tax rolls for the year 1913, which gives the latest authentic figures, we find that the "unspeakable desert" paid taxes on a one-third property valuation amounting to the sum of $2,065,507.00, while the one-third valuation of all other portions of the county was $533,978.00. Or, to again divide the county into three divisions as before, we have for taxable values:

The east	$ 260,173
The middle	252,745
The west	2,086,577

To follow the suggestion of our esteemed contemporary, then, would give the "unspeakable desert" about 75 per cent of the road fund. Therefore, we repeat, we have no objection to his, or his informant's, proposition to specify the road funds in precincts from which they are derived.

A little foreboding, mixed with "Watchful Waiting," would have been more efficacious for the European patient that the allopathic dose of war that has been administered.

When a Bernadillo county politician goes to bed at night he knows not who will be his bedfellow before morning. Just think of Hubbell and Romero sprawling into the same bed!

A roll call of the republican state convention disclosed the fact that all the old bosses, once repudiated by the people, were there. The work of the convention shows that the bosses were still in control of the party machinery.

At the republican state convention Catron, as temporary chairman, made a regular old-time stand-pat speech, which was announced as a "keynote". Later, as permanent chairman, Ely, of Luna county, also a "keynote", but his speech was progressive. The republicans evidently intend to catch those votes going and coming.

If the republicans overlooked anything in the way of "keynote" speeches, having caused two chairmen to discourse along different lines, they will call a special convention and have a few more "keynoters" on hand. A prominent republican leader once said in congress that platform promises were to catch votes with, not to live up to, and New Mexico republicans have improved on the platform business by introducing temporary and permanent convention chairmen to specify according to the imagined needs of the times on matters unsafe to be introduced into platforms.

Notice is hereby given that the lands described below, embracing 200.00 acres, within the Lincoln National Forest, New Mexico, will be subject to sections of the Homestead laws of the United States and the act of June 11, 1906 (34 Stat., 283), at the United States land office at Roswell, New Mexico, on October 15, 1914. Any settler who was actually and in good faith claiming any of said lands for agricultural purposes prior to January 1, 1908, and has not abandoned same, has a preference right to make a home-stead entry for the lands actually occupied. Said lands were listed upon the application of the persons mentioned below, who have a preference right subject to the prior right of any such settler, provided such settler or applicant is qualified to make homestead entry and the preference right is exercised prior to October 15, 1914, on which date the lands will be subject to settlement and entry by any qualified person. The lands are as follows: Section 2 of NE 1/4, Sec. 34, T. 12 N., R. 11 E., N. M. P. M. 163 acres, application of Aurora Gabaldon, Applicant, New Mexico; List 3-3130. Lot 1, Sec. 5, T. 9 S., R. 17 E., 100.30 acres, application of Henry B. Morris, Lincoln, New Mexico; List 3-3211. August 5, 1914. C. M. The question of annually getting into a dry town at El Paso has been established by a desire on the part of the people of the United States to emphasize the dignity and importance of all labor. A good citizen should recognize that it is to labor both of the hand and the brain that we owe our marvelous industrial development and our wholesome prosperity as a nation. Toil of the hand and of the brain are complements, one to the other, and one is as important as the other in attaining and preserving a people's welfare. Properly directed labor and thrift are the greatest moral and material assets a community or state can have, while idleness and extravagance lead to ruin and moral degradation. Those who know what it is to "eat bread in the sweat of thy face" make our best citizens.

NOW, THEREFORE, for the purpose of honoring the forces of labor, of which all worthy Americans form a part, I, WILLIAM C. McDONALD, Governor of the State of New Mexico, do hereby proclaim

Monday, the 7th Day of September, 1914, as LABOR DAY and a legal holiday in the State of New Mexico. I recommend that it be universally observed by the people as a real holiday; that business be suspended so far as practicable; that the children in our schools be instructed as to the honor and value of labor, and the dangers of idleness to the end that the efforts of each may be more beneficial to all.

Done at the Executive Office this the 22nd day of August, 1914.

Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of New Mexico.

WILLIAM C. McDONALD, Attested: ANTONIO LUCERO, Secretary of State.

The European War

It is difficult to secure the exact facts in relation to the death struggle now going on throughout Europe. The dispatches are conflicting and unreliable, because highly colored by a strict censorship, regardless of the source from which they emanate. The German and Austrian dispatches convey the impression that their armies are sweeping everything before them. The Russian dispatches tell of magnificent victories for the armies of the Czar operating against Germany and Austria. French and English dispatches, while admitting the falling back of the French and English armies before the onslaughts of the Germans in the west, minimize the German victories.

What appears to be the situation, gathered from all sources and a careful reading between the lines, is that the Russians are slowly, but surely, advancing, in overwhelming numbers into Prussia, with Berlin as an objective point, and, though the Germans have, apparently, inflicted heavy losses on the invading foe, the weight of numbers that the Czar is throwing into German territory is telling. The Russians appear to be disposing of the Austrian army without any great difficulty. Serbia, with whom Austria began the war, seems to be having a respite, as the Austrians have been called to other fields of action.

In the west the Germans are invading France from the north, and, in almost continuous battles, are steadily pushing the French and their allies toward Paris. No distinctive battle at any one point, that could be called decisive, has yet been fought; the line of battle covers a distance of over 200 miles, and, notwithstanding the immense numbers engaged, the conditions have been such that the concentration of a large force at any particular point is small. The mass of conflicting reports, the feature that stands out most in that the war promises to be of much longer duration than was at first predicted, and that the longer it lasts, the less chances have Germany and Austria to win. The cost of blood and money, before the conclusion of peace, will be the greatest in history.

Willow Springs Coal Co.

A local coal company, of which the above is the title and J. J. Ayres, general manager, is operating the mines at Willow Hill six miles south of Carrizozo. This same property largely supplied the coal for the domestic uses of the town last winter and will be in still better position to do so this winter, and at a lower figure.

A survey has been made to the mines from a point about one mile this side of Polly, and the company hopes to have a narrow gauge road built in the near future, the distance being only two miles. A tippie will be erected, a 60-horse power boiler installed, also engine and hoist and all necessary arrangements made to handle the product economically. The company is now working on a 40-inch face of coal and the vein is increasing with depth.

WARNING!

No one can legally close any well established road or put gates upon same, or in any way obstruct or change roads without permission from the Road Board.

Citizens in localities where gates, fences or other obstructions are placed without legal permission having been granted by the Road Board have a perfect right to remove same without appealing to this Board.

Case For Thankfulness

It is easy to guess that fully ten million voters in the United States are thankful that Theodore Roosevelt is not now president. With a situation calling for the utmost caution to keep this country out of trouble with one or more of the belligerents, we may congratulate ourselves that we have at the helm a man who is seeking a way to keep this country at peace with all the rest of the world. Had we a president with a "chip on his shoulder," trouble would be upon us at any moment. Should we avoid actual war, the paralyzing dread of it would hang over every industry of the land, a blight upon the opportunities presented for grasping the world's commerce.—Albuquerque Morning Journal.

The people are watching with a grim smile while the Democrats are vainly trying to transform the old ship of state into a merchant marine, now that the war in Europe has brought home to this country the upbuilding of American shipping along lines advocated by the republican party for years.—Socorro Chieflain.

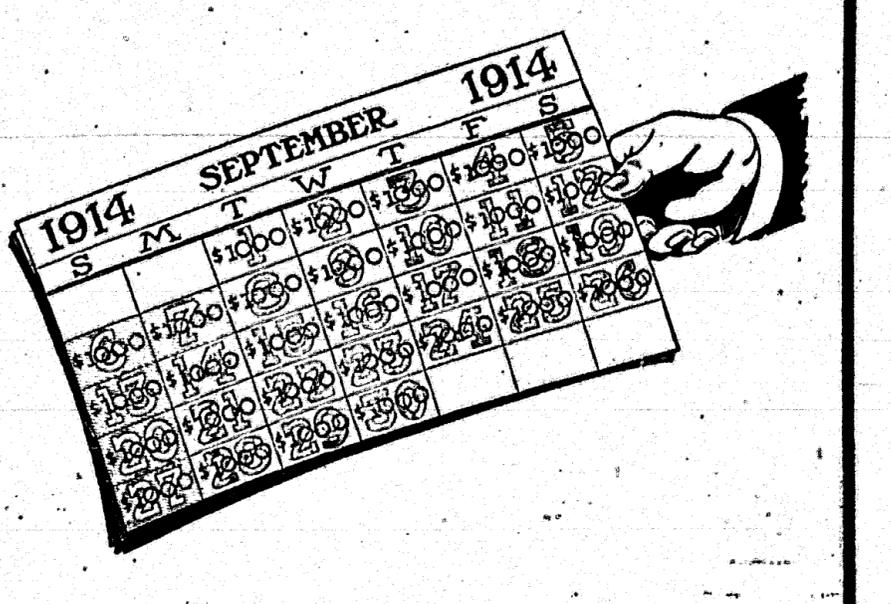

Yes, Tony, the republicans "advocated" this for full forty years, but it required less than eighteen months for a democratic administration to accomplish it.

WOMEN ILLOGICAL?

By ELMER PHILLIPS.

Doctor Syntax was not more than forty, though he seemed bowed beneath the weight of his recondite investigations.

When Aloysius Benton, his friend and colleague, died, ten years before, leaving his twelve-year-old daughter to Doctor Syntax, it was the most natural thing in the world that the kindly old doctor should take the child into his household.

And now certain persons had whispered that it was not proper for an unmarried man, even a professor, to live alone in the house with the girl.

With Milly! Why, she ruled him with an iron hand, caressed in velvet though it was! Did a north wind blow, his peace of mind was not worth a moment's purchase unless he put on his comforter to step across the campus.

Doctor Syntax had been in love when he was a young man. The object of his devotion had married another, but, though he had long ceased to think of her, the memory of that first love had clung around him like a radiant cloud, softening his spirit and fitting it for high idealism.

But when the ultimatum went forth that society considered Milly ought to be relegated to another sphere, the professor had a ridiculous dream. It was absurd, to hope that Milly, the belle of the little town, and he an old fogey of forty! But he continued to dream it. Even a professor of mathematics has the right to dream.

At any rate, he must tell Milly. And he did so, when he met her in the library after dinner, which the professor always took alone, because he had to read and eat at the same time.

"My dear," he said, "I have an unpleasant thing to say to you. It is a problem—"

"Can't you solve it by algebra?" inquired Milly, looking at him with a twinkle in her eyes.

"And so it can, my dear," said Doctor Syntax. That was one of his pet theories.

"You remember how you found your spectacles," pursued Milly mischievously.

The discovery of Doctor Syntax's lost spectacles had really been a triumph of deductive-algebraical application. X was supposed to be the place where they had been placed, Y the spectacles, Z the unknown coefficients, N the known ones.

"But this is serious, Milly," said Dr. Syntax. "Some people in this town have apparently been putting their heads together and have come to the conclusion that it is not right for a single girl, even an adopted daughter, to keep house for an old bachelor like me."

"Well, I have come to the same conclusion myself," said Milly calmly.

"What!" exclaimed Dr. Syntax. He had expected a scene, strife, war—and here was Milly calmly acquiescing in his decision.

"No one need regret the carelessness of that Highland laird. Lock Awe is now one of the most exquisite of beauty spots in Great Britain—a charming sheet of water, studded with pretty islands, white around the shores are many places associated with interesting legends and historic incidents of the Highlands."

Points on Advertising

The Tailor Who Paid Too Much

I was buying a cigar last week when a man dropped into the shop and after making a purchase told the proprietor that he had started a clothes shop around the corner and quoted him prices, with the assurance of best garments and terms.

"Enterprising fellow, that; he'll get along."

"But he won't," I replied, "and, furthermore, I'll wager you that he hasn't the sort of clothes shop that will snare him to."

"What made you think that?" queried the man behind the counter.

"His theories are wrong," I explained, "he's relying upon word of mouth publicity to build up his business and he can't interview enough individuals to compete with a merchant, who has sense enough to say the same things he told you, to a thousand men, while he is telling it to one. Besides, his method of advertising is too expensive. Suppose he sees a hundred persons every day. First of all, he is robbing his business of its necessary direction, and besides he is spending too much to reach every man he solicits."

"I don't quite follow you."

"Well, as the proprietor of a clothes shop his own time is so valuable that I am very conservative in my estimate when I put the cost of his soliciting at five cents a head."

"Now, if he were really able and clever he would discover that he can talk to thousands of people at a tenth of a cent per individual. There is not a newspaper in town the advertising rate of which is $1.00 per thousand circulation, for a space big enough in which to display what he said to you."

"I never looked at it that way," said the cigar man.

"It's only 'the man who hasn't looked at it that way' who hesitates for an instant over the advisability and profitability of newspaper publicity."

Newspaper advertising is the cheapest channel of communication ever established by man. A thousand letters with one-cent stamps will easily cost fifteen dollars, and not one envelope in ten will be opened because the very postage is an invitation to the waste-basket.

If there were anything cheaper rest assured that the greatest merchants in America would not spend individual sums ranging up to half a million dollars a year and over, upon this form of attracting trade.

The Dollar That Can't Be Spent

Every dollar spent in advertising is not only a seed dollar which produces a profit for the merchant, but is actually retained by him even after he has paid it to the publisher.

Advertising creates a good will equal to the cost of the publicity.

Advertising really costs nothing. While it uses funds it does not use them up. It helps the founder of a business to grow rich and then keeps his business alive after his death.

It eliminates the personal equation. It perpetuates confidence in the store and makes it possible for a merchant to withdraw from business without having the profits of the business withdrawn from him. It changes a name to an institution—an institution which will survive its builder.

It is really an insurance policy which costs nothing—pays a premium each year instead of calling for one and renders it possible to change the entire personnel of a business without disturbing its prosperity.

Advertising renders the business stronger than the man—Independent of his presence. It perpetuates systems of merchandising, the track of which is left for others to follow.

A business which is not advertised must rely upon the personality of its proprietor, and personality in business is a decreasing factor. The public does not want to know the man who owns the store—it isn't interested in him, but in his goods. When an unadvertised business is sold it is only worth as much as its stock of goods and its fixtures. There is no good will to be paid for—it does not exist—it has not been created. The name over the door means nothing except to the limited stream of people from the immediate neighborhood, any of whom could tell you more about some store ten miles away which has regularly delivered its shop news to their homes.

It is an shortsighted for a man to build a business which dies with his death or ceases with his inaction, as it is unfair for him not to provide for the continuance of its income to his family.

The Perambulating Showcase

The newspaper is a huge shop window, carried about the town and delivered regularly into thousands of homes, to be examined at the leisure of the reader. This shop window is unlike the actual plate glass showcase only in one respect—it makes display of descriptions instead of articles.

You have often been impressed by the difference between the decorations of two window-trimmers, each of whom employed the same materials for his work. The one drew your attention and held it by the grace and cleverness and art manifested in his display. The other realized a little of the possibilities in the materials placed at his disposal that unless some one called your attention to his decorations you would have gone on unconscious of their existence.

An advertiser must know that he gets his results in accordance with the skill exercised in preparing his verbal displays. He must make people stop and pause. His copy has to stand out. He must not only make a show of things that are attractive to the eye, but are attractive to the people's needs as well.

The window-trimmer must not make the mistake of thinking that the showiest stocks are the most salable. The advertiser must not make the mistake of thinking that the showiest words are the most clinching.

Windows are too few in number to be used with indiscretion. The good merchant puts those goods back of his plate glass which nine people out of ten will want, once they have seen them.

The good advertiser tells about goods which nine readers out of ten will buy, if they can be convinced. Newspaper space itself is only the window, just as the showcase is but a frame for merchandise pictures. A window on a crowded street, in the best neighborhood, where prosperous persons pass continually, is more desirable than one in a cheap, sparsely settled neighborhood. An advertisement in a newspaper with the most readers and the most prosperous ones, possesses a great advantage over the same copy in a medium circulating among persons who possess less means. It would be foolish for a shop to build its windows in an alleyway—and just as much so to put its advertising into newspapers which are distributed among "alley-dwellers."

The Difference Between Amusing and Convincing

An advertiser must realize that there is a vast difference between amusing people and convincing them. It does not pay to be "amart" at the line rate of the average first-class paper. I suppose that I could draw the attention of everybody on the street by painting half of my face red and donning a suit of motley. I might have a sincere purpose in wishing to attract the crowd, but I would be deluding myself if I mistook the nature of their attention.

The new advertiser is especially prone to misjudge between amusing and convincing copy. A humorous picture may catch the eye of every reader, but it won't pay as well as an illustration of some piece of merchandise which will strike the eye of every buyer. Merchants secure varying results from the same advertising space. The publisher delivers to each the same quality of readers, but the advertiser who plants flippancy in the minds of the community won't attain the benefit that is secured by the merchant who imprisons clinching arguments there.

Always remember that the advertising sections of newspapers are no different than farming lands. And it is as preposterous to hold the publisher responsible for the outcome of unprofitable copy as it would be unjust to blame the soil for bad seed and poor culture. Every advertiser gets exactly the same number of readers from a publisher and the same readers—after that it's up to him—the results fluctuate in accordance with the intelligence and the pulling power of the copy which is inserted.

Cotton Staple Cloth Material

The world's production of raw silk increases little, if at all. Japan shows a considerable gain, which is offset by losses in other silk-raising countries. The world's wool clip is stationary or declining. The festive goat of angora persuasion is multiplying his offspring and his fleeces, but it will be many a day before mohair takes a leading position in the textile trade.

Meanwhile the population of the world is increasing, and the average individual uses more clothing than ever before.

This condition throws a heavy and increasing burden on cotton, which more and more is becoming the staple clothing material. Our southern planters are ready to bear this burden—for a consideration—but it is not a healthy state of affairs for the world at large. Viewing the situation broadly, one can understand why any experiment which promises a new cloth-making material is followed with such eager interest by scientists, manufacturers and governments. — Chicago Journal.

Most Disheartening

Stewart Edward White tells of his greatest disappointment. It happened when he was five years old.

"I understood that those who maintained perfect deportment in school during the week would be given their choice of sweetmeats. I therefore behaved myself with extraordinary propriety. When the time came and I demanded my sweetmeats I found that it was my choice of a sealmate that had been offered. I never quite forgave that teacher, and shall always consider the week of good conduct one lost out of my life."

Perfectly Lovely Time

"She is having a perfectly lovely time."

"How so?"

"She is engaged to one of twins. They both call on her and she can't tell them apart."

In the City of Bremen

JUST at sunset it was that our boat sailed into Bremer-Haven. The sky was tinted all the shades of pink and violet with a tiny bit of yellow at the horizon. The water was white and smooth, only here and there reflecting the colors of the sky. Everywhere overhead, in front and back of the boat sea-gulls were flying. They cut great, graceful circles in the sky with their wings tilted sidewise. Some were resting on the water, moving languidly up and down with the slight motion of the wavelets, and still others were crying and fighting for the waste food that was being thrown from the back of the ship. Their snow-white wings reflected the pale sunset colors, writes a correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Slowly the boat was steered in between long, narrow points of dark green land. Silhouetted against the sky were wind-mills and tall straight trees. Nothing seemed real for we glided so slowly that we seemed to be on a phantom ship in a dream. The bustling stewards and cabin-boys broke our reverie with the exciting news that the customs-house officials were waiting to inspect our baggage that night and if anything can bring a dreamer back to earth it is a practical German customs-house officer with his formal uniform, his great mustache and his guttural withering query, "Garrison oder liquor?"

Bremer-Haven is the home of the North German Lloyd steamer officers. These men love the sea and they live as near to it as possible, even after they have retired from active service. They spend their vacations in the Harz mountains taking walking trips.

Sea Captain's History

Last June there was an ex-captain on board and he had a curious history. At first he impressed one as being very old, but when he took his cap off we saw his hair was not the least bit gray. He was dressed as much like a real captain as was possible for a man to be. He always wore dark blue with a cap on his head. He was silent and melancholy except when the Titanic disaster was mentioned, and then he defended Captain Smith and talk and let the outside world wag as it will.

Bismarck Most Popular Hero

The end of the Rathaus square is occupied by the cathedral, a tall, uninteresting looking building, with two big towers. Standing at the front door is Bismarck on a horse. It is one of the nicest statues of Bismarck yet erected. In time every city in Germany will have its Bismarck statue, for he is today the most popular German hero.

Next to the cathedral is the exchange. This exchange is neither as large nor as important as the one in Hamburg, but nevertheless a vast amount of business is done here without much apparent effort except noise. The men congregate between two and two o'clock, and seem merely to stand around in groups.

Back of the exchange is a large square where stands the statue of Gustavus Adolphus, the Swedish emperor. He is dressed in the costume of the days of Charles I, but in spite of his courtly robes, he has the fire of a great fighter in his eye. The statue was originally intended for the city of Gottenburg, in Sweden, but as it was being transported from Germany a great storm arose, and the vessel was wrecked. The statue was rescued and brought back to Bremen. The German seamen raised a fund, purchased the statue and stood it in their city.

Not far from the Rathaus is another square, which is occupied by a unique fountain. It is a boat containing a beautiful fisher boy, which three mermaids have captured, and they are dragging him into the water. It is very original in composition and design and reminds one of the pictures of Arnold Becklin.

The stores in Bremen are very attractive, especially if you are an admirer of hand embroidery and beautiful hand sewing. The store windows are full of dainty waists and exquisite things for babies, but a snare, however, for while they are beautifully sewn, the fit is German to the extreme, with no style whatever.

library after dinner, which the professor always took alone, because he had to read and eat at the same time.

"My dear," he said, "I have an unpleasant thing to say to you. It is a problem—"

"Can't you solve it by algebra?" inquired Milly, looking at him with a twinkle in her eyes.

"And so it can, my dear," said Doctor Syntax. That was one of his pet theories.

"You remember how you found your spectacles," pursued Milly mischievously.

The discovery of Doctor Syntax's lost spectacles had really been a triumph of deductive-algebraical application. X was supposed to be the place where they had been placed, Y the spectacles, Z the unknown coefficients, N the known ones.

"But this is serious, Milly," said Dr. Syntax. "Some people in this town have apparently been putting their heads together and have come to the conclusion that it is not right for a single girl, even an adopted daughter, to keep house for an old bachelor like me."

"Well, I have come to the same conclusion myself," said Milly calmly.

"What!" exclaimed Dr. Syntax. He had expected a scene, strife, war—and here was Milly calmly acquiescing in his decision.

HINTS ABOUT TABLE LINEN

Scheme That Will Save Much Wear and Tear—Use for White Paper or Crepe Napkins.

The careful housekeeper may at this time of year, which is rather destructive to fine table linen, try several expedients which will save it much wear and tear. If one has attractive embroidery to display beneath a glass-topped dining table is always good to have, but if the table is of fine wood, a very artistic effect may be obtained by using runners of white or Holland linen, which may be crossed in the center of the table. These, with some dainty dollies, make an ample and attractive table covering for breakfast and luncheon, and are very easily laundered.

White paper or Japanese cotton crepe napkins may also be used with great advantage for the fruit course, especially at breakfast, when juicy fruit is generally used. This makes quite a saving, as fruit stains are so destructive to fine napery.

Economy may also be displayed in the dinner cloth. The small table cloths with a band of hemstitching are not only very elegant in appearance, but take very little time to launder.

An odd and dainty appearance is given the breakfast or luncheon table by the use of the Bulgarian table cloths and dollies, which come in such gay and attractive colors and patterns. These are of great use, especially in the nursery, for dining purposes. The Bulgarian china may also be had to match them in color, and they are much enjoyed by the children.

PEPPERS IN NEW STYLES

Three Ways for Serving Them Baked or Stuffed—Different Methods of Preparing the Dressing.

1. Wash six large green peppers, put them in boiling water five minutes, cut off the stems, remove the seeds and stuff with one cupful cold meat minced fine and an equal amount of stale bread crumbs. Add salt, pepper and onion juice, with water or stock to moisten. Replace the stems, set the peppers in a deep dish, pour in as much cold gravy as the dish will hold and bake in a moderate oven for half an hour. They may be stuffed with sausage meat and bread.
2. Fill peppers with cooked spaghetti, sprinkled with cheese, one spoonful of tomato sauce added, then sprinkled with crumbs.
3. Mix one cupful cooked corn with three tablespoonfuls cracker crumbs, add salt and one egg, beaten with one-half cupful milk. Fill peppers two-thirds full, put covers on and bake. Choose peppers with thick pulp and thin skins.

Raspberry Charlotte Russe.
Raspberry charlotte russe calls for one quart of fresh raspberries, a dozen lady fingers, one ounce of gelatin, one cupful of powdered sugar and a pint of thick cream whipped stiff and sweetened to taste. The lady fingers should be split and placed in a tin mold which has been lined with white paper. Now soak the gelatin in a cupful of cold water and when soft place over the fire to dissolve. Let the gelatin mixture cool and add the juice of the quart of raspberries and one cupful of powdered sugar. Now add the whipped cream and pour the mixture into the mold and place on the ice for two or three hours before serving.

Lemon Cake.
One-half of a cupful of butter, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, two-thirds of a cupful of milk, four eggs, two and one-quarter cupfuls of flour, two level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, cream butter; add gradually the sugar, egg yolks well beaten, and milk; mix and sift the flour and baking powder, and add then the egg whites beaten stiff, bake in layers, and put together with lemon filling.

To Keep Air Out.
Bottles of grape juice, ginger ale, fruit syrup or any liquid of a like nature, which are to be kept for any period of time, should be laid upon their sides or placed bottom up to obviate spoiling.

Raisin Cakes Made Without Eggs.
One cupful of butter, two cupfuls of sugar, two cupfuls of sweet milk, four cupfuls of flour, one cupful of chopped raisins, one teaspoonful of flavoring and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Bake as drop-cakes in little tins. Frost top and sides and put a large raisin in the center.

German Salad.
Half a cup of roast or boiled veal cut in small pieces, one-half cupful of beets, one-half cupful of celery, two apples, three salt herring boiled and cut small; add a tablespoonful of capers and serve with French dressing.

Lemon Filling.
One cupful of sugar, two and one-half cupfuls of flour, one egg, one teaspoonful of butter, grated rind and juice of two lemons; mix in order given; cook, stirring constantly till boiling point is reached.

For Glass Stoppers.
A very little glycerine smeared around the glass stoppers of bottles will keep them from sticking for a long time.

Express.
A German princeling went to pay a visit of ceremony to a small but ancient and honorable city situated upon a branch line of railway. His serene highness had just stepped from his private car upon the bunting-decked station platform. Greetings had been exchanged with the local receiving party.

"And what," said the prince to the burgomaster, "are those children doing there on the tracks?"

"Serene highness," replied the burgomaster, bowing low, "those are the young maidens of the city who run before and scattered flowers in front of the locomotive of your highnesses train."

Some Headline.
At the time of the Volturno disaster a literary critic for a certain New York newspaper was acting as substitute for a copy reader who was ill. It fell to him to write a head for the story of the disaster. The story was full of thrills, of course, and he was told to condense them all in a big black line to extend across the page, leading the paper.

He thought for some time, tore up several attempts, and finally submitted this: "O Reptiles! Sea!"

Seasickness Probably Responsible for Actor's Disposition of Cargo of Potatoes.

The late William B. Smith of managerial fame and Charley Backus of minstrel fame many years ago embarked from San Francisco for Australia on a business venture.

The captain of the boat, who was an intimate friend of each, suggested that the voyagers lay in a cargo of potatoes to dispose of on their arrival there. The "Murphy's" were accordingly purchased and placed on board.

Now, Mr. Backus was always recognized as a great comedian, but with the deck of a ship instead of a stage as his rostrum he wasn't so funny. In short, Mr. Backus was seasick. Mr. Smith proved an excellent sailor, and while Backus was stretched out on a chair Smith said, "Charley, in case you do, what shall I do with those potatoes?"

And Poor Backus, who thought he was dying, said: "Go to hades with them."

Aladdin Looks for Beauty.
Aladdin rubbed his lamp. Almost immediately there was a sound at the door and the slave entered.

"Bring me the prettiest girl in New York," said Aladdin, "and get a move on you, too."

The slave vanished, and almost in an instant the door opened, and the slave, bearing in his arms the prettiest girl in New York, entered and put her down in a chair. Aladdin looked at her in astonishment. She had on a shabby dress. Her hair was tousled. Evidently she was from the East side.

"What are you trying to do?" he said to the slave. "Why don't you fill your order correctly? I asked for the prettiest girl in New York."

"Here she is, your honor."

"Impossible!"

"I never make a mistake."—Life.

NEW IDEA
Helped Wisconsin Couple.

It doesn't pay to stick too closely to old notions of things. Now ideas often lead to better health, success and happiness.

A Wis. couple examined an idea new to them and stepped up several rounds on the health ladder. The husband writes:

"Several years ago we suffered from coffee drinking, were sleepless, nervous, listless, weak and irritable. My wife and I both loved coffee and thought it was a 'bracer.' (Delusion.)

"Finally, after years of suffering, we read of Postum and the harmfulness of coffee, and believing that to grow we should give some attention to new ideas, we decided to test Postum.

"When we made it right we liked it and were free of all the ills caused by coffee. Our friends noticed the change—fresher skin, sturdier nerves, better temper, etc.

"These changes were not sudden, but increased as we continued to drink and enjoy Postum, and we lost the desire for coffee.

"Many of our friends did not like Postum at first, because they did not make it right. But when they made Postum according to directions on pkg., they liked it better than coffee and were benefited by the change."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkg.

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 16c and 25c packages. Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. Made in the cup with hot water—no boiling. 30c and 50c tins.

The next few days of both kinds is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum. —said by Gessner.

VOICE OF CONSCIENCE DEAD

All the Fault of Nurse That Small Girl Could Not Walk in the Straight Path.

Maria had been naughty and mother seriously reprimanding with her, thought to press home a needed suggestion.

"I can't think why you persist in doing wrong, my dear," she said, solemnly. "It always makes us unhappy when we do wrong."

"But—but I often don't know it's wrong till I've done it," sighed the small culprit.

"But," mother urged again, "you should know, my darling. Your conscience will tell you if you listen."

"What's my conscience and how will it tell me?" wide-eyed and eager.

"Your conscience is the little voice inside you that says 'No!' when you shouldn't do things and makes you feel sorry when you've made mistakes."

"Oh, then I'll never be good!" mourned the troubled sinner. "I had a voice like that once, but nurse said it was indigestion and she gave me some medicine and it died."

ECZEMA LIKE HIVES

617 N. Gibbs St., Pomona, Cal.—"My eczema began when I was five years old. It started like hives all over my body and later it troubled me principally on my face and left ear. It was very rough and red and the itching and burning were so intense that I lost much sleep.

"I tried several kinds of salves and blood medicines but to no avail. I had been bothered with eczema for over eight years. Then I bought two cakes of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. When finished with them my cure was complete." (Signed) Miss Mildred Sweet, Mar. 6, 1914.

All the Difference.
The four persons were having some trouble in getting seated as the train rolled out of the station. One, a truthful looking old lady, insisted on taking a seat facing the front of the train.

"You know, I can never ride with my back to the engine," she said.

"But, auntie, this train hasn't got any engine," suggested one of the younger ones soliloquy. "It has a motor."

And the old lady, mollified, sat comfortably with her back to the motor.

An Ounce of Prevention

Most people who enjoy a frequent drink of beer or liquor fail to realize its weakening effect on the kidneys.

Kidney weakness sets up backache, headache, rheumatic pain, nervousness, and disorders of the urine and neglected leads to dropsy, gravel, and bright's disease.

In the early stages kidney weakness can be corrected. Doan's Kidney Pills tone and strengthen weak kidneys and are used with success all over the civilized world. There's no other kidney remedy so well recommended.

A Colorado Case
Louis Johnson, 437 Third Ave., Durango, Colo., says: "When kidney trouble came on me, I went down fast and had to quit work for two weeks. The pain in my bladder was awful and my back was so lame I couldn't sleep. The kidney secretions passed frequently at night and I lost a great deal of sleep. I was all run down until Doan's Kidney Pills came to my aid. They strengthened my back, removed the pain and freed my kidneys up in good shape."

Carrizozo Loses Game

Our sporting editor went on a strike this week and has failed to furnish the "dope" on last Sunday's game between El Paso and Carrizozo. The fact that Carrizozo lost, even though it was a hard fought battle, probably has something to do with the sporting editor's silence.

The game was quite stubbornly contested throughout—largely a pitcher's battle—Carrizozo getting four hits and El Paso five. El Paso met with better luck in bunching her hits and that combined with some costly errors on the part of Carrizozo gave her four runs, while Carrizozo secured only one. It was a magnificent game, nevertheless, and both batteries were in fine condition, the best that have met on the local diamond.

Batteries for Carrizozo, Dolan and Van Schoyck; for El Paso, Fisher and Lawrence.

The Lincoln Baptist Association At Tularosa

Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Hayward returned from Tularosa on Monday, having attended the annual gathering of the Baptist Association, which includes the churches of Lincoln and Otero Counties. The annual sermon was preached by the Pastor from Carrizozo, from which, although it is the smallest in the Association, was selected the moderator. Some sixty-five messengers altogether were present, and the meetings were also well attended by the citizens of Tularosa. The Association reached its climax on Sunday after an evangelistic service conducted by Dr. E. B. Atwood, of Albuquerque, when two were led to seek the Savior, and several others manifested interest in salvation. The next meeting of this organization will be at Alamogordo.

Perhaps the official explanation, being combined with and burdened by certain legal phases, might not exactly be in this same language, but here is one explanation of the tax troubles of the state: In some of the counties, as has long been the custom, the assessment of property is used to reward political friends and punish political enemies. In some of the counties the "friends" have become numerous that is rather difficult to find property to assess, and the safest way is to let the other counties of the state bear more than their just share of the tax burden. It is dollars to the hole in a doughnut that Rio Arriba county, the home of the republican congressional candidate, is one of the counties guilty of shifting the tax burdens in some manner. This was long the method of holding the republican strength, and may account for the eagerness of the republican leaders to elect a legislature with a majority big enough to override the governor.
