

Bringing the City to the Country

TH following from Colliers is so neatly expressed and says so much in a little space, according to our notion, that we offer no excuses for its reproduction:

We read in a local paper of a town on the Mississippi:

THIS IS SOME BIT, FOR TONIGHT
FORD STERLING IN "LOVE AND RUBBISH"

Mr. Sterling is positively the best comedian in motion pictures. You remember him as Zu Zu in "Zu Zu, the Band Leader!" This is him—tonight.

There you are. You pass your dime and you see your show—for all the world as if you were living in Chicago or Kansas City. Once the dweller in the little town—with its occasional "Uncle Tom's Cabin," creaking melodrama, or tawdry burlesque—grew disgruntled when he read of the range and splendor of nightly entertainments in the metropolis. The being-out-of-things feeling ceaselessly galled youth and turned the footsteps of the younger generation away from the country. Even the sociologists who specialize on comparisons of city and country has not dwelt enough on the irritation of reading about famous plays and players whom you may not see just because you happen to live in a town on the "kerosene circuit." But now, what a change! The brotherhood of "movie fans" circles the earth. It was a shrewd man who wrote in a London review:

Mr. Bunny's fame is international. It transcends the barriers of language and race. When Mr. Bunny laughs people from San Francisco to Steppen Green laugh with him. When Mr. Bunny frowns every kingdom of the earth is contracted in one brow of woe. When Mr. Bunny shuts one eye the Old World and the New wink familiarly back.

This means happiness. Hence content in one's environment. All the books and scholarly articles that have been written on the subject have not done so much to check the exodus from country to city as have the pictures that throb and live upon white screens.

An Appeal From Women's Clubs

The arrival of cold weather and coming of the Christmas season when the thoughts of all the kind-hearted people turn toward the relief of the poor and the unfortunate should make every thoughtful citizen of New Mexico consider the conditions in this state, standing practically alone as it does, among the states of the Union, in making absolutely no provision for public charity. There was a time when it was proudly asserted that New Mexico boasted of her lack of poor-houses and poor-funds, a lack which should be a cause of shame instead of pride unless the state could also boast that there were no poor within her borders. Unfortunately, "the poor we have always with us," in New Mexico as well as the rest of the world, a fact which may be quickly corroborated by application to any one of the various benevolent organizations scattered over the state, which, run the gamut from tag days to charity balls, in their efforts to coax a few dollars from the pockets of the public, to relieve the suffering in their several communities.

In New Mexico, as elsewhere, the greater part of this relief work is carried on by women, either as individuals or in organizations, so it seems very fitting that the New Mexico Federation of Women's Clubs, representing as it does women's organizations all over the state, should take the lead in urging some legislation which will compel some public aid to the poor and helpless, and will provide the necessary means for giving this aid. While much is done by the charity of individuals and organizations, and while

Against Surprise Tests

Threats that the enginemen of western railroads will strike if the board of arbitration fails to regulate surprise tests in a manner which will eliminate danger to the men, were made before the board at today's session.

The threats were made by Warren S. Stone, grand chief engineman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and William S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, representing the men. They were occasioned by remarks of W. L. Park, vice president of the Illinois Central, and F. A. Burgess of the engineer's organization, both members of the board, and by James M. Sheehan, attorney for the railroads.

Sheehan stated that the railroad managers had assured the officials of the brotherhoods that only such surprise tests as took into the consideration the safety of the men surprised would be used. This brought Carter and Stone to their feet.

"I will inform the board," said Stone, "that we have heard this assurance before. In 1906, 1907 and 1910 we tried to get the roads to eliminate dangerous efficiency tests, and each time we went back to the men and told them that it was all right, that the roads would conduct only fair tests, and just as regularly the roads did nothing of the kind."

"Now if the assurances of the railroads do not remove this danger to the lives and limbs of our men; if federal and state laws do not, and if this arbitration fail to do so, I can assure you that the men will. I do not wish to try to intimidate this board, but the strength of the men will be used if necessary to protect themselves when all else fails."

Carter said: "Safety first is a good advertisement but we want a system that will not cause an engineman, suddenly confronted with a red light, to jump, when there is no real danger. We invite efficiency tests. There is not in the world a body of men who conform to the duties of their positions so closely as the enginemen, and if the law cannot protect them, it has not in Kansas, the men will protect themselves by their united strength."

The Federation, therefore, begs that the citizens of the state will give this matter their thoughtful consideration during the time that will elapse before the convening of the legislature, and requests advice and suggestions, from all who are interested. Especially are those public officials and officials of organizations who have disbursed charity funds in this state or others urged to give the Federation officials the results of their experience. Notes from Panama-Pacific Exposition

Exhibits from all patrons of the world are reaching San Francisco for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. On the 1st of those already received it is predicted that the exhibits in variety, extent and interest will far excel any ever shown at a previous international exposition. On December first exhibits had been received from fourteen foreign countries, and tons of foreign and domestic exhibits were arriving daily on the docks of the exposition grounds, deposited there by ocean freighters coming in through Golden Gate from all parts of the world, or switched in freight cars over the exposition terminal railway system directly into the exhibit palaces where the displays are being installed.

A total of eleven million dollars has been expended in the establishment of the Zone, the great amusement section at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. Among the concessions is a huge working model of the Panama Canal, or so extensive a scale that visitors seated in comfortable theatre chairs will be carried along the route of the canal upon a movable platform and a dictaphone at the arm of each chair will describe each scene as it comes into view.

A novel amusement feature will be provided by working submarine boats of sixty-five tons displacement, which will operate in an artificial lagoon.

The Aeroscope, a huge inverted pendulum operating like a giant see-saw, with a balancing weight on one end and a car for passengers at the extremity of its longer arm, will raise sight-seers more than 325 feet above San Francisco bay, affording an unsurpassed view of the exposition palaces and the Golden Gate.

The first ship load of the United States government exhibits consigned to the various exhibit palaces at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition will be brought to San Francisco by the big naval collier Caesar. The consignment which weighs 1,500,000 includes elaborate exhibits covering the most modern achievements of the United States Government in education, social progress, human welfare, agriculture and mining.

A wall of heavy green foliage brightened by myriads of pink blossoms, six feet through and twenty feet high, is being built around the grounds of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. The foliage first grows upon a frame work containing rich soil and covered with wire netting, which is raised to place when the flowers have started to grow. Experiments were made with hundreds of plants before one was found that would answer all the requirements of an acrobatic garden. The one chosen flaunts a name almost as long as the wall; it is Mesembryanthemum.

Methodist Church

Rev. E. D. Lewis, Pastor

Where is it? You don't know? Well, how strange. Evidently the greater part of the population of Carrizozo is ignorant of the location of the church, or else indifferent to its existence. They have not found the way to it. I would rather think of it as due to ignorance than indifference. How does it look for a town of fifteen hundred people, more or less, only twenty or fifty of that number attend church? How do you suppose it impresses a stranger or visitor? Are you one of the absentees? Come Sunday to the Methodist church morning and evening. Look for the school building and for the bank and you will find the church between them. Do you know where the moving picture hall is? Then look northwest from the northeast corner of the hall and the big concrete building with large gothic pillars in front is the church. Come.

As It Should Be

In the school-house in Belleville, Wis., a few evenings ago, upon motion of the Catholic priest, the Methodist minister was elected president of the community's social center for the coming winter.

Three basket ball teams were formed, including the priest, the minister, the blacksmith, the editor, a farmer, the keeper of the village restaurant, a dentist, a shoemaker, a tinsmith, a druggist, a garage owner, the banker, the saloon keeper, a hardware merchant and a house painter.

They differed in religion, in politics, in income, in social status about as widely as men can differ. But in the common school building, in the free democracy of the social center, they agreed to lay aside their differences for the novel purpose of discovering how much good fellowship there was in meeting together, now and then, as equals, as brothers.

In the democracy of play, in the democracy of frank, fair discussion of public questions, they are finding out, these differing men of Belleville, that as human beings, they're amazingly alike, once you get below the surface. And out of this agreeable discovery will come, for Belleville, more tolerance, more kindness, more feeling, more give and take than it had ever known before. Even when they shall differ again—as, course, they often will—it won't be with as much bitterness, as much bigotry, as much mean hate as of yore. It's a wonderful solvent, is brotherhood.

Grandma Bennett Dies

Grandma Bennett died at her home in Mausogordo last Sunday morning after only a few hours illness. The funeral took place the following day, and was attended by many relatives and friends. The Dingwall brothers, grandsons of the deceased, attended from here. The Bennetts were early settlers in this section, having lived in Lincoln county years ago, and were regarded very highly by all who knew them.

Serious Accident To Ed Rutledge

Word has been received here by John E. Bell, that his brother-in-law, Ed Rutledge, who visited in this place for sometime about a year ago, and who is a railway conductor, was on the 16th of this month, with his brakeman, caught in a rear end collision. Mr. Rutledge was in the caboose at the time it occurred, and sustained some very severe bruises and had his leg cut off. Mr. Bell heard from him Thursday of this week and the report says that blood poisoning has set in, and that his condition is very serious. Mr. Rutledge's home is in Indiana. The News and his friends here wish for his speedy recovery.

HOW THE POPCORN MAN WAS "STUNG"

Story of Humphrey and the Amusement Resort Which He Purchased.

STRUGGLE FOR DECENCY

How He Drove Away the Saloons, Gave Everyone Value for His Money, Kept the Place Decent, and Finally Won.

By RICHARD SPILLANE.

Humphrey's father left the farm to him. Some persons may find pleasure and profit in tilling the soil, but hard as he worked, Humphrey made little headway.

One thing Humphrey liked was popcorn. He doted on it as a boy and his appetite for it did not diminish as he grew older.

No one knows more about the art of popcorn making than Humphrey. The corn should be of a special growth and it should be kept three years to season and it should be cooked just so, or it will not have the flavor and delicacy that real popcorn should have.

Humphrey sold popcorn to the Beach Park people. That was one of the few things sold at the park for which the people got the worth of their money.

Although Humphrey prospered, the owners of the Beach Park did not. The reputation of the big amusement place did not improve.

As the years went on, respectable people began to avoid the park. There always is an element that delights in riot and roar, but it is not altogether profitable.

It is one thing to want to sell and another to find a purchaser. Men willing to buy lakeside parks and having money to pay the price are scarce.

It seemed ridiculous when his name was suggested, but investigation showed he had considerable money, and when the proposition was put up to him he gave it consideration.

Bought Beach Park. It seemed ridiculous when his name was suggested, but investigation showed he had considerable money, and when the proposition was put up to him he gave it consideration.

The popcorn man, not being partial to strong waters, closed the bar the first day he was in charge.

Her of thirsty gentlemen who hurried out to the park the following Sunday. It was hot—frantically hot—and their thirst had not been cooled by the five-mile ride from the center of the city in the crowded trolley cars.

The closing of the bar was bad enough, but worse followed. Gentlemen who sought the pleasures of the dancing pavilion and east aside their coats and vests as they had been accustomed to do in order to be cooler and more comfortable while they danced, were fighting angry when informed that no one would be permitted on the floor unless properly clad.

Next year Humphrey had a desperate time. Every day meant a loss, and his capital dribbled away steadily. He had to make a lot of popcorn, old-fashioned candy and sugared peanuts to meet one week's deficit, but he went about his business as usual and kept his own counsel.

The third year Humphrey was in possession tested his courage to the limit. The days when the receipts equaled the expenses were rare. The days when the losses were big were many. The popcorn man had to raise and scrape and make sacrifices to keep up appearances. His brother, who had joined forces with him, helped him out with money and cereals, but even with his aid it was the tightest kind of a squeeze to get through without a visit from the sheriff.

It had been proved so conclusively that the public would have nothing to do with Beach Park that no one supposed Humphrey would be so foolish, after that experience of the third season, as to waste more of his time and hard-earned money on it.

Both Decent and Paying. Before that fourth season closed Beach Park was paying expenses. It opened next year with an excellent business, and in a month or two it was having a patronage such as it never had known before.

Instead of the sidewalks and fakes, Humphrey had charming pavilions, shady nooks, rustic paths, grassy lawns and groves. There were roller coasters and miniature railroads and some really entertaining but by no means noisy, shows. And the restaurants! The town never had had better. Everything was at moderate price. You could get a sandwich for five cents, and everything else in proportion.

In addition to the joys of good eating, good surroundings, cleanliness and decency, there were the delights of boating and bathing and fishing. Humphrey had changed everything at the lakeside. All the boats were new. All the bathhouses were neat and well kept.

From being neglected, Beach Park suddenly sprang into favor. Its former evil reputation was forgotten and was used as a base for expressing its new worth.

All the persons who went to the park were not drinkers of soft stuff. Various gentlemen, seeing what crowds were being attracted to the park, wished they could induce Humphrey to let them have the bar privilege at his newly-made gold mine.

Humphrey did not like his saloon neighbors. He determined to get rid of them. Rigging up powerful searchlights in his grounds, he directed the rays of the searchlights upon the saloons. Nobody could enter without being truly in the spot light. Decent men didn't like to make exhibitions of themselves, so they dodged those saloons. The liquor men threatened lots of things to Humphrey, but went no further than to sue out an injunction restraining him from using his batifolich searchlights.

The Chinese have great esteem of eggs, which they take hard boiled. These are to be had in all the roadside places for refreshment. While the Chinese have an expression, "eggs of a hundred years," it is not to be understood that their eggs are always a century old, though one may be able to procure those that are of many years' standing.

The Chinese evince a preference for the egg of the duck or of the goose. These are placed with aromatic herbs in slaked lime for a varying period, the minimum being, it is said, five or six weeks. Under the influence of time the yolk liquefies and takes on a dark green color, and the white coagulates and becomes green.

This can be made with veal alone, chicken or any nice meat. It can also be made similar to the Irish stew with leftover meat and adding a little fresh meat. Meat can be used alone or with a flavoring of vegetables. Cut up small and simmer, as the Irish stew is made, then put in a deep baking dish and cover with a biscuit crust or a mashed potato crust rolled out with flour. Bake a rich brown in moderate oven. Serve in the baking dish. Veal stew, which is made by cutting a pound or two of veal into six pieces, makes a good pie.

Vinegar will moisten plaster of paris better than water in using it to stop up a hole or crack. It is easier to manipulate, as the vinegar makes it more like putty. It does not dry out as soon as water. The mixture will not harden until you are through handling it.

A really delicious dish is prepared from about six good-sized tomatoes, one onion and a half cupful of bread crumbs. Chop the onion and mix it with the tomatoes, which have been peeled and cut into pieces, add a little salt, a little pepper and an even tablespoonful of sugar, stew gently for about twenty minutes, add the bread crumbs, re-heat and serve.

WITH GINGER FLAVOR

MANY APPETIZING DESSERTS AT COMMAND.

Compliment is Also Recommended for its Health-Giving Properties—Should Have More Definite Place in the Larder.

Preserved or canned ginger gives a most interesting flavor to many desserts and really deserves a more definite place in the larder. For it can be kept always on hand and therein possesses a great advantage over many other fruit flavors.

Dates freed from their pits and stuffed with slivers of preserved ginger, then rolled in granulated sugar, are a delicious sweetmeat.

Ginger Bavarian cream is a dessert with an almost elusive flavor. To make it chop half a cupful of preserved ginger into small bits and mix it with half a cupful of sirup. Then add half a package of gelatin, which has been soaked and dissolved in a cupful of water. Whip a pint of cream stiff and add it to the other ingredients. If necessary add chill. Serve with whipped cream, garnished with bits of preserved ginger.

Chopped preserved ginger can be added to rice pudding before it is baked to give it an unusual flavor.

For a baked custard ginger sauce is delicious. Make it by simmering a cupful of sirup to which a quarter of a cupful of chopped preserved ginger has been added. Serve hot.

Ginger custard sauce is made by simmering the milk from which the custard is to be made with some chopped ginger in it for 15 minutes. Then strain and proceed with the custard sauce in the usual way.

For ginger water ice boil a quart of water and a pound and a quarter of granulated sugar together for five minutes with the rind from four lemons and one orange. Cool and add the juice of the lemons and orange, strain and freeze. Pound four ounces of preserved ginger to a paste and cut two ounces into shreds and add to the ice when it is hard. Pack for a couple of hours.

Ginger ice cream is made in this way: Pound six ounces of preserved ginger to a paste and add slowly two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Mix a pint of cream with half a pound of granulated sugar and add slowly to the ginger mixture. Press through a fine wire sieve and freeze.

The Chinese have great esteem of eggs, which they take hard boiled. These are to be had in all the roadside places for refreshment. While the Chinese have an expression, "eggs of a hundred years," it is not to be understood that their eggs are always a century old, though one may be able to procure those that are of many years' standing.

MADE THE VICTORY CERTAIN

Gunner's Announcement Naturally Brought Joy to the Heart of Artillery Captain.

With a ringing cheer the enemy advanced to attack the intrenchments. "Fire!" hoarsely shouted the artillery captain, and the roar of the guns responded, but without checking the steady advance of the enemy.

One piece remained undischarged. "Why don't you fire?" demanded the captain. "I don't know if it's loaded," responded the gunner.

A gleam of joy lit up the stern features of the commander. "Then victory is ours!" he shouted. "Fire it and let's find out!"

The discharge moved down the advancing column and the assault was repelled. "Twas ever thus.

"By Wire." Louise Randolph smilingly confirms this tale told of her the other day: She was in her dressing room preparing to go "on" when the call boy announced that she was wanted at the telephone.

"I can't go now," she replied; "take the message." The boy returned shortly, slightly embarrassed. "You had better come, Miss Randolph," he said. "It's your daughter, and she wants to give you a kiss over the phone."—Green Book.

Justice of Peace Election

For Justice of the Peace

We are authorized to announce the candidacy of Ed. Massey for re-election, for Justice of the Peace for precinct No. 14, Carrizozo, Lincoln County, New Mexico, at the ensuing January election, subject to the will of the people.

Christmas

Once again Christmas is with us. Once again old and young enjoy the great annual festival. It is a season of good cheer, kind thoughts and ennobling aspirations. The enmities of the past are forgotten and the season is given over to rejoicings; in giving and receiving gifts. In a word, it is the season when the pure Christian world forgets its petty jealousies and each and all join in the grand anthem of "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men." It is the time for extending to all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. The world takes this opportunity to send that wish to all.

The ball opens in Santa Fe on the 12th of January. What is the harvest to be?

Intimations of the radical change the New Mexico legislature is likely to pursue are not likely to be democratic satisfactions.

That two-thirds in the New Mexico legislature, if secured, will be a mighty handy thing for certain slate-makers.

Heavy orders are being received from across the water for material which only our fields and factories can supply.

The traveling auditor's office will quite likely be abolished, if the legislature can arrange it, because of its "pernicious activity."

The supreme court of the United States has ruled that Harry Thaw must go back to Mattaewan from whence he escaped some months since. That'll do Harry for a while.

Uncle Sam is sending some war craft to the canal to enforce neutrality. It is sometimes as difficult to remain neutral and enforce neutrality as it is to make war.

The west has not felt the depression that overtook the east at the outbreak of the war that is, the depression has not been so marked. In the west farm and ranch products have had a steady demand, whereas the east, engaged principally in manufacturing, felt the full effects of the blow.

Mexico appears to have quieted down to some extent, although an armed camp exists in every portion of the republic. When the next eruption will take place is beyond the ken of man.

Food, clothes, iron, steel and many other commodities are now being supplied Europe from this country. The year 1915 gives bright promise of prospects in this country, even though Europe is engaged in fratricidal strife.

The railroads of the east have been granted, by the Interstate Commerce Commission, an increase of five per cent in rates. If that was all that was necessary to bring about prosperity perhaps the heads of the various systems will stop shouting calamity.

The traveling auditor was considered quite essential before he began to audit, but when he began to find things his activities became "pernicious." Under the old system the auditor made it convenient to forget or overlook what later audits proved to be wrong, or, at least, gross negligence.

Southwestern Progress

That the situation in the copper mining industry of Arizona is gradually improving, is the opinion of Mining Inspector Bohm, who has returned to Phoenix after an inspection trip through the northern portion of the state. Additional men are being put to work each week, says the inspector, and the general feeling is that conditions are easier than they have been for some time. Another factor that has tended to relieve the situation materially has been the slight increase in the price of copper, which has not been without its effect upon the amount of work now being done.

The Commercial club of Carlsbad, N. M., has been studying ways and means for increasing immigration into the territory tributary to that town, and has reached the conclusion that the good roads movement in that section can be made a very important factor in bringing about the desired results. The club has decided to subscribe to the fund of that organization and will urge its general support. Publicity in connection with the road work will be specially looked after, and there will be an active campaign in all the territory covered by the association.

Many farmers residing in the vicinity of San Angelo, Texas, are busy plowing their crops of unpicked cotton under the soil, in the process of wheat sowing. Inability to get the cotton picked on account of the general scarcity of labor, is the cause of this action, which will result in considerable loss.

There is always something doing at the live and progressive little town of Melrose, N. M. For instance, Melrose is just winding up the shipment of 100 cars of wheat, 100 cars of maize and 89 cars of broomcorn. It is estimated that 1,000,000 rabbits will be shipped to market from that point by the first of February, and the daily cream shipments average about $100 per day. It is evident from this showing that there is very little occasion for nibbling around Melrose.—El Paso Morning Times.

IOWA MAN STUCK

WITH PITCHFORK

A farmer living in the Northern part of Iowa stuck himself in the leg with a pitch fork. The wound would not heal and for two years he had a running sore. He tried all the common salves and liniments and sometimes the sore would heal, but it always broke open again. Finally he healed it up to stay healed with Allen's Ulcerine Salve.

This salve is one of the oldest remedies in America and since 1869 it has been known as the only salve powerful enough to cure chronic ulcers and old sores of long standing. Allen's Ulcerine Salve acts by drawing out the poisons and healing the sore from the bottom up. It is so powerful that it heals new cuts and sores in one-third the time that common salves and liniments take. And it heals burns and scalds without a scar.

Domestic Menace.
On matters of feminine dress we seldom venture to express an opinion unless it be occasionally a word in defense of that liberalism which permits a woman to consider her freedom and comfort as well as her appearance.

But we are prompted now to utter protest against the progress of American fashion designers, who, with a free field for the first time in history, can think of nothing better than to imitate the military uniforms of Europe.

Is it not enough that we should have the horrors of the war thrust upon us by the news, filling our imaginations, coloring our dreams? Is it not enough that there should be signs of a military epidemic in all our magazines, articles on strategy, stories of fighting and bloodshed? Must we have the world's nightmare intensified by the very clothes the women wear?—Chicago Post.

Starting the Day Wrong.
There was a gloom on the face of the New England farmer.

"What's the matter, Elijah?" asked his nearest neighbor. "Flapjacks given out over to your house?"

"Worse'n that," said Elijah. "You know, 'twan't apple year, and wife says we can't have any more apple pie for breakfast."

"Can't you make out if you have apple pie noon and night?"

"I can, because I've got to," said Elijah, "but I tell you, it upsets me, starting in the day wrong like that."

CONTRAST IN COLORS

OPPOSING MATERIALS ASSOCIATED WITH MUCH SUCCESS.

White and Black in Combination is One of the Smartest and Most Pleasing—Illustration Gives an Idea of the Effect.

Nothing that concerns fashion is more interesting than the amazing way in which apparently opposing materials are placed together with results that leave no question as to their success. And colors—with what reckless abandon are the strongest contrasts brought into pleasing proximity.

There is no contrast so striking as pure white and lustrous black, and in this season the combination bids fair to remain inordinately smart. The sketch presents a clever use of black and white in a coat and skirt costume. These long, full-skirted coats are extremely stylish, following the lines of the redingote and polonaise, while showing the military influence so noticeable in most of the present-day clothes.

In this case the coat is of oyster white broadcloth with white fur collar and cuffs. The fronts are cut short at the waist line (slightly empire) and cross each other at an angle with a close line of cloth covered ball buttons as a fastening. Below the waist the skirt portion of the coat is cut out, leaving a panel-like opening broken at the hip line by a loosely knotted sash of self-material, either end of which is started just over the hips, between the stitching together of the skirt and body of the coat.

The skirt is of black velvet, very simply made, with a few evenly arranged folds of fullness around the belt. By topping it with a brocaded or oddly embroidered girde a fascinating glimpse of the same will show just under the slanting waist-line of the coat.

And in these little things, as well as the big ones, each new model is distinctive; the commonplace does not even have to be considered. We have to look back over the past ten years to actually realize how different this year is from others in matters of dress.—Washington Star.

CHILD'S PLAID DRESS

Very, very dark green formed the ground of this wool plaid and was crossed by lines of red and white. The frock was made in Russian style with an invisible closing at the center front and two box plaits running from shoulder to hem in front and back. A sash of red moire is drawn beneath these plaits and knotted to the left of the front. The little white lawn collar and cuffs have an embroidered design picked out in red. The bonnet worn with this was covered in black velvet, and the joining of crown and brim was hidden beneath a platted ribbon of red moire with ends and loops falling at the back.

HINTS FOR THE MIDDLE AGED

Black Net and Chantilly Lace Again in Fashion—Gown of Ribbed Violet Velvet and Crepe.

There is always a period of indecision, more or less, and this is never more so than with the woman of middle age who is very particular about her clothes. At the same time clothes must be bought.

Black net and chantilly lace have returned to fashion. In material, too, the silk voiles, plain and embroidered, will make gowns that can be worn both afternoon and evening.

One of the best of these new models is a black satin dress with a long, full tunic of black silet net banded at the hem of three spaced velvet bands, each about five inches broad. The corsage, instead of surplice fronts, has wide surplice satin bands that start from a yoke each side of the fronts, cross, tie loosely, dropping in the back.

Another gown, in a reddish violet, is of ribbed velvet and crepe. The drop skirt is of the velvet; there is a three-section tunic all box platted. There is a long one in front, with two at the back, one longer than the front tunic, the other overlapping it and stopping some inches short of knee length. These have pleated edges. The surplice is of the velvet and is draped surplice to the waist line and wrinkled beneath. The idea is to get an almost, but not quite, fitted long corsage that passes over the skirt. The surplice edges are outlined with brown fur bands.

To Clean Black Satin. Peel and slice two large raw potatoes, put into a pint of water with a pinch of salt and let stand all night. Next morning sponge the satin on the right side with this mixture and wipe lightly with a cloth. Then iron on the wrong side.

BLACK AND WHITE

A narrow brim saves this hat from the furban class. It was of black velvet with a tailored band of grosgrain ribbon about the crown and a huge white wing or wings outspread across the front of the crown as trimming.

Net Neck Ruffs. Some new neck ruffs are made of Brussels net, instead of tulle. These ruffs are made just like those of tulle. The net is left with a raw, cut edge and it is gathered or box platted and held through the center with a band of velvet or tulle or satin, that sometimes ends in a bow, sometimes under an artificial rose. The Brussels net is decidedly more durable than tulle, which always loses its freshness and collapses almost to nothing in moist and rainy weather.

GOOD ROADS

MAKING DIRT ROADS BETTER

Foreman Must Know What, How and When to Plow—Avoid Building Up Too Much at One Time.

(By E. VAN BENTHUYSEN.)

With a sandy soil and a subsoil of clay, or clay and gravel, plow deep so as to raise and mix the clay with the surface soil and sand. The combination forms a sand-clay road at trifling expense.

If the road be entirely of sand a mistake will be made if it is plowed, unless clay can be added. Such plowing would merely deepen the sand, and at the same time break up the small amount of hard surface material which may have formed.

If the subsoil is clay, and the surface scant in sand or gravel, plowing should not be resorted to, as it would result in a clay surface rather than one of sand or gravel.

A road foreman must know not only what to plow and what not to plow, but how and when to plow.

If the road is of the kind which, according to the above instructions, should be plowed over its whole width, the best method is to run the first furrow in the middle of the road and work out to the sides, thus forming a crown. Results from such plowing are greatest in spring or early summer.

In ditches a plow can be used to good advantage, but should be followed by a scraper or grader. To make wide, deep ditches nothing better than the ordinary drag scraper has yet been devised. For hauls under 100 feet, or in making "fills," it is especially serviceable.

It is a mistake, however, to attempt to handle long-haul material with this scraper, as the wheel-scraper is better adapted to such work. For hauls of more than 800 feet, a wagon should be used. The machine most generally used in road work is the grader or road machine. This machine is especially useful in smoothing and crowning the road and in opening ditches. A clay subsoil under a thin coating of soil should not be disturbed with a grader. It is also a mistake to use a grader indiscriminately and to pull material from ditches upon a sandy road.

Not infrequently turf, soil and silt from ditch bottoms are piled in the middle of the road in a ridge, making mudholes a certainty. It is important in using a grader to avoid building up the road too much at one time. A road gradually built up by frequent use of the grader will last better than if completed at one operation.

The foreman frequently thinks his road must be high in the first instance. He piles up material from ten inches to a foot in depth, only to learn, with the arrival of the first rain, that he has furnished the material for so many inches of mud. All material should be brought up in thin layers, each layer well puddled and firmly packed by a roller or traffic before the next is added. A common mistake is to crown too high with the road machine on a narrow road.

The split-log drag should be used to fill the ruts and smooth the road when not too badly washed. The drag possesses great merit and is so simple in construction and operation that every farmer should have one.

Road Building Habit. The road building habit is confined to no one locality. It has a footing in 48 states. All classes take to it.

For Best Results. The little attention that the earth road needs must be given promptly and at the proper time if the best results are to be obtained.

Good Roads Advocates. It is gratifying to observe that every owner of an automobile immediately becomes an advocate of good roads.

The Road Drag. The road drag is the simplest and most expensive contrivance yet devised for maintaining earth roads.

The roads between here and Roswell are in worse condition, perhaps, than they have ever been. Neither mail car, going or coming reached its destination Tuesday, the following day was just as bad, although partial service was rendered, and the equipment on both ends of the line is strong along the road. The White Oaks line continues to make regular trips notwithstanding the mud, but the horse will take the place of the car.

Temple Hotel Changes Hands.

The Temple hotel has changed hands, Mrs. J. H. Cody having purchased the property. Mrs. Cody also purchased the furnishings from the Jesse, Mrs. R. L. Howell. It is the intention of the new owner to completely furnish the building, make all necessary repairs and to continue to rent rooms. No meals will be served, we understand.

A good time is expected at the Christmas tree.

It is a mystery to the writer how the little fellows can come three or four miles to school before nine o'clock every morning. Perhaps most city people are in bed at that time.

For Justice of the Peace

By reference to another column, the announcement of Ed Massie for justice of the peace of this precinct will be found. Mr. Massie has held this office since July, 1910, having been first appointed to fill out an unexpired term, since which he has been twice elected. During this period of office of four and a half years 450 cases have been filed and docketed, of which only four were appealed, and in each instance his ruling was sustained. As an evidence of the confidence bestowed upon him by the people it is only necessary to state that of that number of cases disposed of only one jury was called. The general sentiment appears to be, irrespective of politics, that Justice Massie has made good and that his retention of the office will be to the best interest of the town and community.

James O. Nabours was up Saturday from his Three Rivers home. Mr. Nabours informed us that White Mountain post will be handling mail by the first of the year, as the bid for carrying the mail from Three Rivers has been approved.

Bowling at the Club house still claims the interest of the railroad men. As yet no teams have been organized, but no doubt in the near future Carrizozo can boast of three or four of the best teams in this section of the country.

A big boy put in an appearance last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. White.
