

Grandfather Clause Decried Invalid

Washington, June 21.—In probably one of the most important race decisions in its history, the supreme court today annulled as unconstitutional the Oklahoma constitutional amendment and the Annapolis, Md., voters' qualification law, restricting the suffrage rights of those who could not vote or whose ancestors could not vote prior to the ratification of the fifteenth amendment to the federal constitution.

Chief Justice White, a native of the south and a former Confederate soldier, announced the court's decision, which was unanimous.

By holding that conditions that existed before the fifteenth amendment, which provides that the right to vote shall not be denied or abridged on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude, could not be brought over to the present day in disregard of this self-executing amendment, it is generally believed that the court went a long way toward invalidating much of the so-called "grandfather clause" legislation of southern states. The immediate effect of the court's decision was to uphold the conviction of two Oklahoma officials who denied negroes the right to vote in a congressional election and to award three Maryland negroes damages from election officials in Annapolis who refused to register them. The court held that these election officials could not ignore the potency of the fifteenth amendment in wiping out of state constitutions her word "white" as a qualification in voting. In the Maryland case the court's decision established the point that the fifteenth amendment applies alike to municipal as well as to federal elections.

Ancho

Mrs. Cutter, wife of night operator, returned home the 19th inst. after a ten days' visit with friends in Narayisa. She reports having a very enjoyable visit.

There was a very enjoyable party at Mrs. Richardsons Saturday evening, given by Miss Leona, her daughter. Quite a good many were in attendance. One very interesting feature of the occasion was that four generations were represented in the gathering. The young people and, in fact, everyone else made it a very enjoyable occasion.

We feel shocked and grieved in sustaining the loss of one of our most accomplished young ladies, in the person of Mrs. Gladys Mason, nee Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wilson. She and her husband took the train yesterday for Kansas City, where they will visit among friends a few days, and then go on to Des Moines, Iowa, where they will make their future home. Much joy to Ralph and Gladys.

Had a good and much needed shower of rain in our vicinity on the 22d. Indications are favorable for more to follow.

Mrs. F. M. Deal is having a new hen house built to give better quarters for her poultry—an example worthy of imitation by some of the rest of us; anyway, the writer of this communication.

Mrs. N. J. Price, of our community, is greatly elated over the fine fruit crop in her orchard in the Jicarillas. Mr. J. E. Wilson has a fine crop in his orchard, three miles above Ancho, as can be found anywhere.

Mr. Meaton, manager of the Carson Trading Co., was a recent visitor to our place.

State Organizations Boosting the Fair

The financial institutions of the state are doing their share toward making a success of the 1915 state fair. In answer to a request from the fair management, they are giving special prizes amounting to $10 to be awarded in the various departments of the exhibits, the donors to choose the departments where their money is to be paid. Already a large number of the banks have responded to the request, much to the satisfaction of the officers of the fair, who are making a strenuous effort to unite all the localities of the state into one interested mass for the good of the New Mexico exposition.

One of the big features of the fair this year will be boys' and girls' encampment on the fair grounds under the supervision of men and women, members of the staff of the agricultural college. While this encampment will be held primarily for the numbers of the industrial club which is encouraged by the college among the boys and girls on the farms of the state, any boy or girl, interested in agriculture may attend by securing from his or her county superintendent a permit. It is expected that hundreds of boys and girls will attend, as all expenses during the stay will be taken care of by the fair.

The industrial club is an organization made up of the juvenile farmers and stock raisers of the state, and they exhibit their products at the fair in a special department. While they are at the fair this year, they will listen to lecturers on stock raising and farming and will be given practical demonstration of helpful devices for the farmer and stock raiser.

University Director Goes East to Investigate

Albuquerque, N. M., June 24.—The board of regents of the State University has sent Ralph H. Hutchinson, the university's director of athletics, physical education and hygiene, on an eight weeks' tour of the big universities of the east, where he will spend the time from now until the opening of college on August 16th in familiarizing himself with the latest athletic methods employed in Princeton, his alma mater, Columbia and Yale. Mr. Hutchinson, as an undergraduate at Princeton, was one of the athletic stars of the big college world. Later as head coach at Princeton and Dickinson College, he produced winning teams. He came to the university from the Texas University in 1912. While he has produced no sensational athletes or teams in New Mexico, he has established a high standard of thorough physical training in the university and has raised the standard of athletics all over the state. He inaugurated the annual interscholastic track meet at the university for New Mexico high schools, which has proved immensely popular. As the first step in its comprehensive improvement program the university this summer is doubling the size of the gymnasium to permit of basketball, indoor baseball and indoor track work. Showers and individual lockers are being installed, and when Mr. Hutchinson returns he will install an absolutely complete equipment of the most up to date gymnasium apparatus, giving the New Mexico University a physical culture and athletic equipment as complete and efficient as that at any state university west of the Mississippi.

WHITE OAKS GOLD PROPERTIES SOLD TO EASTERN MINING MEN

Deal Involves a Number of Groups Covering Greater Portion of the Camp's Gold Producing Area

CONSIDERATION IS NEAR A QUARTER MILLION

One of the biggest mining deals in our history and involving some of the most celebrated gold producing mines in the state was consummated at White Oaks this week, or, to be exact, the negotiations that have been in progress for some time were closed this week. Included in the transaction are the Wilson properties, the Old Abe group, the Harrison group, the Homestakes, owned by the Wild Cat company, and a number of adjoining properties. The coal property and power plant of the Wild Cat company were not included in the transaction.

This stirring transfer of Lincoln county mining property had its inception some months ago. Two gentlemen came up quietly from El Paso, looked the field over, secured an option on a property in the center of the group mentioned above, organized a company and started development work. They are W. M. McDonald, a well known mining engineer who had operated throughout the southwest, west and in Mexico, and Thos. N. Stanton, a mining man of large experience not only in this country, but also in Mexico and South America, and who was in touch with mining capital.

Soon after the organization of the company, Mr. McDonald visited the east, where he remained about a month, the greater portion of the time in the city of New York, while Mr. Stanton remained here making further investigations and paving the way for the acquisition of other properties. In the meantime, the visit of Mr. McDonald was producing results, as he found men eager to invest in gold properties; but one difficulty he faced was that, to interest men of large means, he didn't have sufficient property to meet requirements. He then returned, bargained for more properties, and the eastern parties sent a man out to look over the field. This man is Mr. Richard Wightman, himself a wealthy man, and associated with other men of means.

Mr. Wightman came, as we have noted in previous articles, looked the proposition over and was quite well pleased at the outlook. However, it was desirable to have other properties in order to carry out the plans formulated, and further options were secured.

Again Mr. McDonald went east and in St. Louis met Mr. Wightman, who had returned to his home. In St. Louis, the home of John W. Harrison, the Harrison group was acquired. Both Mr. McDonald and Mr. Wightman returned to White Oaks and this week papers were executed whereby the Homestakes became a part of the transaction.

Naturally, time will be required to finally close up the numerous agreements, involving as they do so many properties and interests, but as an evidence that the entire transaction bears the mark of good faith, several thousand dollars were paid over to the White Oaks mine owners. And Mr. Wightman has again gone east with a real proposition, which means the handling of a large group of mines on a vast scale—a scale that is calculated to treat a maximum amount of ore at a minimum cost per ton.

This transaction practically includes all the well developed properties on Baxter mountain. Among the well known mines are the Old Abe, that has produced over a million and has a shaft down 1,500 feet; the Harrison group, in which are the Lady Godina, Little Nell, Rita, Soltaire and Large Hopes, some of them quite well developed and all of them well located and each having shown rich bodies of ore; the Wilson group, which has not been so well developed, but in which some very rich pockets have been found; and last, the North and South Homestakes, which have shafts 1,000 to 1,400 feet deep, from which hundreds of thousands of dollars in gold have been taken, and which were owned and being worked by the Wild Cat company, and which have given very substantial returns.

But these properties were not sold on their past production alone; they have a present value, the actual ore in sight, though much of it a lower grade than that worked in former days, that attracted big capital and gave evidence of good returns when treated on a vast scale and the element of cost reduced to a minimum. It was this feature, then, that appealed to the engineer, and when his figures were presented to the investors it made the proposition easy. Vast bodies of low grade ores were found, and vast machinery and means will be required to handle them.

Aside from the first cost of the property, which is a tidy sum, the company plans a campaign of improvement and development that will mean the outlay of half a million dollars. Power will have to be arranged for, which will probably be stationed at some point on the railroad, and current from the plant transmitted to the mines where machinery for treating the ore is to be located. It will require time to bring about all these things, but while in progress they will mean the employment of many men, the expenditure of vast sums of money and the consequent upbuilding of White Oaks and a benefit to all Lincoln county.

Four Hundred Million From the Comstock

The famous Comstock lode of Nevada is a great fissure vein, 4 miles long, along a line of faulting in the tertiary eruptive rocks of the Virginia range. It crops out on the east side of Mount Davidson. The mountain range, but not the summit, may be seen in clear weather from Reno by looking up the open valley to the southeast. The ore, which is of high grade, carries silver and gold in quartz. In the old days it occurred typically in great bodies called "bonanzas." The district was noted for the large scale on which everything connected with the mining, including the speculation, was carried on. The size of the old dumps and the kind of machinery employed show that great things were done here: About $400,000,000 in gold and silver, in the ratio, by value, of 2 of gold to 3 of silver, has been taken out of the Comstock. Considerable ore is still being mined, but the great bonanzas have all been worked out—(Overland Guidebook, Bulletin 612, U. S. Geological Survey.)

Fort Stanton

The Rev. Mr. Gass, of Albuquerque, held a Presbyterian service in the hall last Sunday morning at 10:30, when he delivered a most interesting sermon in keeping with the day and date.

The Rev. J. B. Henken, D. D., professor at St. Joseph's Seminary, New Orleans, arrived last Saturday to spend a few days visiting his old friend, Chaplain Frund, P. H. S. He left Thursday for St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. J. J. Brown, Miss Delphilia Brockway, Mrs. McKensie and Mr. Oscar Brockwell motored to Capitan last Sunday morning to attend the dedication of the new Sacred Heart church.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Rolland, of Carrizozo, visited friends at the Post last Sunday, and also took in the ball game.

Hon. J. A. Haley, postmaster of Carrizozo and editor of the Carrizozo News was over Sunday to see the ball game and shake hands with his many friends here.

Mr. Bernie Humphrey, one of Carrizozo's leading boosters, took in the ball game here Sunday. Bernie's smile would lead us to believe that our defeat Sunday was in his line, but we love Bernie just the same.

Chaplain Frund left today, Friday, for Los Angeles and San Francisco on an extended vacation. While in San Francisco he will be the guest of former U. S. Chaplain McQuaide, rector of the Sacred Heart church on Fillmore Street.

Messrs. Murray, Smith and Dobbey, residents for the present at No. 10, sure informed all that they were at the ball game Sunday. And to hear Murray coach one would be led to believe that he is an ex-member of some team in one of the large leagues—we will ask him some day.

ROSWELL 5—FORT STANTON 3

Last Sunday we had the pleasure of attending another excellent ball game, as played between the locals and the Roswell Stars. An exceptional large number of fans were present from all parts of Lincoln county. The weather, perfect for such events, made us all the more happier no matter if our team was defeated. Again we congratulate the boys from Roswell, and the progressive city from which they hail for the

N. M. State University Opens Middle August

This issue of the News contains a display advertisement of the opening of the New Mexico state university which is notable for three outstanding features. The first is that the advertisement itself shows that the state university is reaching out in an intelligent way after New Mexico students for whose education it is maintained by the state; second, that we have a state university of high standards and efficient work since its credits are accepted at all the great colleges of the country. This means that after completing freshman and sophomore years at our state university the student, if he wishes to do so, may enter the junior class of Columbia, University of Chicago, or any of the great state universities of the east, without an examination, and just as if he had done his early college work there. The third is the low cost of living at the university. The total necessary cost, board and room and university fees is $195, probably the lowest in the United States, and at the same time the living provided at the university dormitories is substantial and comfortable. It means that almost any New Mexico boy or girl can afford a course at the state university, which means a thorough college education.

Two Ball Games at Fort Stanton

Arrangements have been completed whereby the Carrizozo ball team will play two games with the Fort Stanton team, the games to take place Sunday and Monday, July 4th and 5th. Fort Stanton has played two good games with the Roswell team since our boys crossed bats with them and are in splendid form. Our boys have rested on their laurels since their double victory three weeks ago, not having met a team since that time. A large crowd will probably attend from Carrizozo and two days of excellent sport are anticipated.

Jack Young in France

D. J. Vent is in receipt of a card from Jack Young, mailed on the firing line in France. He is with the Canadian contingent which has given such a good account of itself. Mr. Young will be remembered by many of our readers. He was a dispatcher in the service here for quite a while, leaving here the latter part of 1911.

general and individual make up of the team. It was nobody's game until the end, which means with but one or two exceptions real ball playing on both sides. The exceptions were such that come in large leagues among the professionals and all were satisfied at results.

We feel sure that our game next Sunday with our boys from the city of Carrizozo will prove just as interesting and that regardless of who comes out victorious all will be satisfied.

The line up of the Roswell-Fort Stanton game was as follows:

FORT STANTON	ROSWELL
Hightower, G. . . . .	Jennings
Norman, W. . . . .	Higgins
Coc. . . . .	Audrian
Roberts. . . . .	Hall
Goodman. . . . .	Jones
Norman, H. . . . .	Good
Sullivan. . . . .	White
Phillips. . . . .	Green
Dixon. . . . .	Aumouette

Summary: Strike-outs by G. Hightower, 9; by Jennings, 6; Hits, Ft. Stanton, 6; Roswell, 5. Errors, Fort Stanton, 3; Roswell, 1.

Folk We Touch In Passing

By Julia Chandler Marz
© 1918 MISCLENE NEWSPAPER SYNDICATE

BYE AND BYE.

When it was noised around that The Man had secured his divorce his friends congratulated him and said that he had done the right thing. They told him that no man had a right to encumber a career with a woman who could not keep up with the pace he set. They said it was a crime against himself to hang such a millstone about his neck, and that they were heartily glad that he had not let any sort of maudlin sentimentality keep him from putting The Woman away before she ruined the splendid success The Man had made of his life.

And The Man received this commendation with a grateful smile. He said that he had tried honestly to pull her along with his own swift moving procession, and that each new year told off by the calendar had found her more hopelessly in the rear. He declared that The Woman was broken and old before her time, and that he had not been willing to be dragged back by her when he was just in the prime of his life with many successful years of splendid activity ahead of him.

And even while The Man thus justified himself to his friends who had sided and abetted him in the matter of the divorce, The Woman sat alone in the home she had made him—the present an unreality, slipping from her at the touch of memory which took her back along the road of yesterday when she stood in the soft draperies of her white satin gown, almost enveloped by the billowy folds of her wedding veil.

She could not now remember which little brood sometimes found it difficult to keep the tears in bounds when in a tired voice she told herself "bye and bye."

But the phrase had become her slogan, and she believed that beyond the skimping and pinching, and sacrificing of the years when the children were young lay the "bye and bye" that meant different things for herself.

So she worked from sunrise to sunset—and often beyond that.

The Man leaned upon her strength and judgment. He drew inspiration from the sweet, clean home The Woman made him; from the sweet, clean children she sent out to meet him at the close of each day's work, and he never stopped to ask how she accomplished so much with so little.

And if, sometimes, The Woman's heart was still so young that she viewed her habitual shabbiness with a sigh, and stifled her longing for a new and pretty frock, she stifled the yearning and whispered to herself: "Bye and bye."

As the children grow older the old song on The Woman's lips was less frequent, for with the years her burden increased. The children not only demanded a greater number of expensive clothes, but The Man was putting money now into a business which he had built on the firm foundation of all The Woman's strong young years of service and sacrifice—and every penny counted.

So it was that The Woman skimped and saved and sacrificed as before, until one day she realized that the last young birdling had stretched his wings and flown out of the home nest to make a home of his own, and that The Man had reached a point in business where there would be no longer any need of sacrifice.

The "bye and bye" had evolved itself out of all the spent years of The Woman's splendid youth, and strange indeed did it seem to her that now—when her promise to herself had been fulfilled—she did not care in the very least.

One day The Man told her that his place in the business world demanded much of his wife; that people looked to her to become a shining social light; to entertain his friends as became his standing.

The Woman listened and was silent.

She was awkwardly conscious of her work-stained hands, and the stoop of her tired shoulders; she knew that her life—as numbered by years—was but at its prime, but nevertheless she felt the relentless grip of old age upon her, and for the first time since she began her years with The Man she was afraid.

For she knew of a certainty that the demand he made of her was impossible of fulfillment.

The autumn sunset bathed the quiet parlors of The Woman's home in its golden glow as she sat in the home she had made for The Man.

Memories of the years which had passed the full strength of all the years of her radiant, splendid youth took flight, leaving her free to face with the present—and what there remained of the future—alone.

The Woman Sat Alone in the Home She Had Made for Him.

had dominated her emotions—love or pride, as she heard his clear, manly promise to "love, honor and cherish" as they should journey together down the full length of life's trouble road, so intermingled had been the two.

In the years which, followed their marriage she always believed in him, even when her own father pointed out to her that The Man was very poor and that his future looked none too brilliant.

The Woman was an excellent manager. She had been taught by a practical mother how to make the pennies go a very long way, so she just smiled up into her father's face when he threw cold water on her enthusiasm, and began her work.

So it was that The Man was surprised to find himself very comfortable and happy in the little home The Woman somehow managed to eke out of his ridiculously small salary, and never once did he stop to ask how it was accomplished.

As she turned and twisted her own clothes until they were worn threadbare that he might make a good appearance, and hold the respect of his fellow-men as well as his own, she found out that it cost her to be sometimes whistler "bye and bye."

For, you see, she believed in tomorrow.

Then came the children—one by one, until there were four, and, although The Man's appearance of prosperity made possible by The Woman's personal sacrifice had won him personal promotions—the mother of the

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

White House Gardeners Heave Sighs of Relief

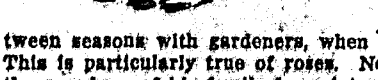

WASHINGTON.—Some of the gardeners connected with the propagating gardens, near the old bureau of engraving and printing building, have been heaving sighs of relief over the semi-official news at the White House which has had to do with the president's plans for the summer, the understanding being that President Wilson is likely to remain at the White House for most of the heated term, although the woman members of his family are expected to go to the summer White House at Cornish, N. H.

From the propagating gardens are supplied the flowers for the White House tables, corridors and decorations of that character for friends of the family. This is in between seasons with gardeners, when they plan to get ready for next year. This is particularly true of roses. Not knowing whether the president and the members of his family have intended to remain at the White House for a part of the summer, and unaware of whether a large quantity of cut flowers would be needed for the White House throughout the summer, the gardeners had not dared to take up their established plants.

The White House depends very largely upon the propagating gardens for cut flowers, and when there was once a discussion of taking away from the Monument grounds the propagating greenhouses, near the bureau of engraving and printing, President Roosevelt put a stop to the plan for the time being by demanding to know:

"Where am I going to get my roses?"

Washingtonians who were frequent dinner guests at the White House in former administrations have always been grateful to Mrs. Roosevelt for doing away with the superfluity of flowers at formal dinners and other functions there. It was the custom, one woman was recalling the other day, to bank all the mantels, mural tables, and even the window niches and other spaces that could be filled in, with masses of cut flowers and tropical plants. Mrs. Roosevelt inaugurated a more simple style of table decoration and of having vases set here and there with graceful clusters in them.

Washingtonians who were frequent dinner guests at the White House in former administrations have always been grateful to Mrs. Roosevelt for doing away with the superfluity of flowers at formal dinners and other functions there. It was the custom, one woman was recalling the other day, to bank all the mantels, mural tables, and even the window niches and other spaces that could be filled in, with masses of cut flowers and tropical plants. Mrs. Roosevelt inaugurated a more simple style of table decoration and of having vases set here and there with graceful clusters in them.

Postage Stamps Shown in the National Museum

ONE of the finest museum collections of postage stamps in the world is owned by the United States government. The public is now, for the first time, given the privilege of viewing these stamps in tabulated and orderly form. Their arrangements in brand new mahogany cases of most modern construction has been completed by Joseph B. Leavy, the government philatelist, and they now form a permanent exhibit of the division of history of the national museum.

This $200,000 collection is installed in the southwest corner of the old building of the museum in the finest equipment of its kind in the world.

The foreign countries are arranged in alphabetical order, and where there are colonies or possessions they are displayed in alphabetical order directly after the mother country in geographical sequence.

This collection is by no means complete; even from the United States issues a few of the stamps are missing. But even so, the history of the growth of the United States post office is practically reviewed as one examines the collection. The oldest specimens are those of the city issues of 1845—the first postmasters provisionals in this country. These were issued five years after the birth of stamps in Great Britain. The dates bring the fact startlingly to mind that postage stamps have only been in use a little more than fifty years. The first government issues came out in 1847.

One of the gems of the collection is the display of 20-cent stamps of 1869 with inverted medallions. The 20-cent stamp is the rarest square of paper in the entire collection and is worth $1,500.

The foreign countries are arranged in alphabetical order, and where there are colonies or possessions they are displayed in alphabetical order directly after the mother country in geographical sequence.

This collection is by no means complete; even from the United States issues a few of the stamps are missing. But even so, the history of the growth of the United States post office is practically reviewed as one examines the collection. The oldest specimens are those of the city issues of 1845—the first postmasters provisionals in this country. These were issued five years after the birth of stamps in Great Britain. The dates bring the fact startlingly to mind that postage stamps have only been in use a little more than fifty years. The first government issues came out in 1847.

One of the gems of the collection is the display of 20-cent stamps of 1869 with inverted medallions. The 20-cent stamp is the rarest square of paper in the entire collection and is worth $1,500.

Dr. Carroll Fox Is Uncle Sam's Expert on Fleas

DR. CARROLL FOX of the United States public health service knows practically all there is to know about fleas. He has a full understanding of fleas' habits and characteristics and is almost able to catch the flea point of view. A flea is not always the romping, carefree individual he appears to be. Many fleas are temperamentally wicked—a great deal more wicked than an elephant for example, even though considerably smaller than an elephant in stature. A flea will move into a community that has never given it the slightest motive for revenge and begin to plot against it, spreading disease by means of germs that it carries about on its person—germs even smaller than itself. That is one of the wicked caprices of many an innocent appearing flea. It is because of these sinister traits that Doctor Fox of the health service has found it advisable to make fleas a life work. A person who knows just what line of germs a given flea carries in stock is naturally able to tell just how far one should go in shunning the society of that particular flea. The whole proposition is simply a matter of daily routine with Fox. He has little if any more regard for the average flea, personally, than you or I have. He is a serious-minded scientist.

Now, being a serious minded scientist, Fox is not given to cracking jokes—particularly not about fleas. Yet, a while ago when Fox made the acquaintance of an entirely new genus of fleas, he gave the genus a name that is not untinged with a certain suggestion of humor. The flea was discovered in the dark interior of Africa. Fox has named it the Rooseveltella!

Somebody asked him how he happened to pick the name of Rooseveltella for the new brand of flea.

"Well," Fox replied, in substance, "Theodore Roosevelt did a lot of valuable work in the same locality where the flea was discovered and it seemed rather fitting that it should be named after him."

is one of the wicked caprices of many an innocent appearing flea. It is because of these sinister traits that Doctor Fox of the health service has found it advisable to make fleas a life work. A person who knows just what line of germs a given flea carries in stock is naturally able to tell just how far one should go in shunning the society of that particular flea. The whole proposition is simply a matter of daily routine with Fox. He has little if any more regard for the average flea, personally, than you or I have. He is a serious-minded scientist.

Now, being a serious minded scientist, Fox is not given to cracking jokes—particularly not about fleas. Yet, a while ago when Fox made the acquaintance of an entirely new genus of fleas, he gave the genus a name that is not untinged with a certain suggestion of humor. The flea was discovered in the dark interior of Africa. Fox has named it the Rooseveltella!

Somebody asked him how he happened to pick the name of Rooseveltella for the new brand of flea.

"Well," Fox replied, in substance, "Theodore Roosevelt did a lot of valuable work in the same locality where the flea was discovered and it seemed rather fitting that it should be named after him."

Moving Picture Machines Bought for the Army

THE war department, through the office of Quartermaster General Aleshire, has let a contract for 66 moving picture machines for the use of the army. This means the war department has set out on a new plan whereby Uncle Sam will endeavor to furnish amusement and instruction for his soldiers. A moving picture machine will be sent to the chaplain of each post and each locality where troops are stationed.

Not only will each garrison have the use of a machine, but machines will be provided for troops in the field; in the large field camps, and at places like Texas City and Galveston, where large bodies are assembled for possible use in Mexico.

Army officers are convinced the moving picture machine will be well worth the money in that it will provide amusement, entertainment, and also instruction for soldiers. It will tend to make the soldiers better satisfied and to reduce desertions. Also it will tend to keep soldiers in camp at night.

There is a constantly increasing demand on the part of medical officers of the army for films which may be used in moving picture machines as an aid to lectures at army posts and camps in emphasizing the necessity of the enforcement of sanitary measures and of personal habits which shall be conducive to individual health. Sometimes an effort was made at Fort Totten to develop a film which would illustrate the protective value of typhoid immunization, but the results were not entirely successful, and those who had arranged for the pictorial development were not satisfied with the results of their labor.

NEW FASHION FREAKS PRETTY HAT FROM PARIS

THE WAR IS RESPONSIBLE FOR POPULARITY OF SILK.

Crisper Fabrics in the Lead and Patterned is Preferred to the Plain —A Revival of the Grand Old.

New York.—A curious study for those interested in the history of costume is the widespread results of an accidental cause in the national adoption of some detail of fashion. A great king, for example, develops a scalp trouble and loses his hair, so every gentleman of his day shaves his own locks and adopts a periwig to be in the movement.

A modern emperor has a defective left hand and wears a bracelet to aid him in using table implements, and every young officer in his empire with any pretensions of smartness, promptly puts a bracelet on his own left arm. A great officer loses an arm, and the one-sleeved jacket is assumed as the distinguishing mark of a Hussar forever after.

Perhaps if we knew the real inside history of every radical change in the mode, we should find many queer reasons, and quaint stories. The immense vogue of silk this season is said by the cognoscenti to be due to the fact that war has closed the woollen mills of northern France, while the more southerly silk factories are still turning out materials, and the production of the Italian mills is uninterrupted.

Whatever the reason, the fact is undisputed and indisputable—silk is triumphant. Though for a time it seemed as if the French supply were threatened, the makers have rallied themselves, and huge shipments are being exported to the American market. Domestic silks are so much improved of late years that our choice is truly a wide one.

A very smart Paris design in millinery is a military effect made on a wire frame with a narrow band of the same material joined at the front with a buckle forming the sole adornment. For street wear this could be made of silk of any shade to harmonize with the suit with which it is to be worn, and for practical wear or rainy days it could be made of covert cloth to match the raincoat.

To start in, pedagogic fashion, from the general and proceed to the particular, it may be said that the crisper silken fabrics are in the lead and that the patterned is trying hard to supersede the plain. All the designs and colorings are discreet. The Polrot colors and Martini patterns are now only found in the occasional lining of a neutral-colored topcoat. Black and white combinations are simply legion, and stripes have imposed themselves upon everything. In these two particulars, indeed, it behooves the woman who likes to be a bit exclusive in her dress, to be rather careful.

Along with the crisp fabric there is a very noticeable revival of grenadine, and, above all, of voile, of which more anon. Fabrics, of course, are the foundation of dress. The question of which comes first—the fabric or the fashion—reminds one of that other hoary-headed interrogation— which comes first—the hen or the egg? This season it seems as if the fabrics have it, and as there lives not the woman who does not fancy herself in silk, let us rejoice in our blessings and buy a silk gown.

Taffeta undoubtedly leads so far among the weaves, whether patterned or plain. Very charming are the new taffetas with small self-colored figures, a stripe, a spot or a small flower. When the small flower in several pastel colors appears upon a plain ground, like an old brocade, it seems made for a flowing skirted, tight-bodied, elbow-sleeved gown, like the ones in which the redoubtable Charlotte continued cutting bread and butter. For street wear, the hair-line stripe of white on a dark blue or black ground is very satisfactory. For evening the new pale shades are ravishing even to read about—primrose pink, buttercup yellow, orchid lavender—even the names are irresistible.

Newer than taffeta for evening gowns is the gros de Londres, with its slightly ribbed surface, and its suggestion of old-fashioned richness of material. It is flexible and gathers well, but there is a firmness about it which recalls the silk that would "stand alone."

Striking Frock of Blue Silk With a Pointed Flaring Tunic of Blue and Green Stripes.

their forces, and huge shipments are being exported to the American market. Domestic silks are so much improved of late years that our choice is truly a wide one.

To start in, pedagogic fashion, from the general and proceed to the particular, it may be said that the crisper silken fabrics are in the lead and that the patterned is trying hard to supersede the plain. All the designs and colorings are discreet. The Polrot colors and Martini patterns are now only found in the occasional lining of a neutral-colored topcoat. Black and white combinations are simply legion, and stripes have imposed themselves upon every-

IDEAS FOR EVENING DRESS

Bodices Cut Straight From Shoulder to Shoulder Are Popular—Skirts Always Full.

The new evening gowns are particularly suited to Victorian styles where a charming simplicity and grace is required. A favorite model is of taffeta in any of the new tones, made with a full shirred skirt and a wide draped belt that forms the bodice. Velvet ribbon shoulder straps seemingly hold up the belt and a scrap of lace forms the sleeve.

Very pretty are the bodices cut straight from shoulder to shoulder and filled in with a shirred guimpe effect which leaves the shoulders bare. The skirts are all full, sometimes being cut circular, sometimes shirred at the waist line and permitted to stand out full or gathered in slightly at the ankles. It is not unusual to note the use of a haircloth lace, cable cord or very fine wire employed to keep the skirt standing off from the figure. Quite new is a fall rose ruche, fully three inches wide, set on to a full-skirted skirt at the hips, and giving the effect of a minaret turret. Finer ones are seen filled on to one another until the width at the hem is fully five yards. Such skirts are made with three, five or seven rows. Laces and ribbons are lavishly used on evening dresses.

A beautiful evening dress is called the drapery, on account of the beautiful iridescent tones of the finest being closely simulated in its make-up. The beauty of the dress is due to the combination of materials and colors. The foundation is of metallic cloth in thing. In these two particulars, indeed, it behooves the woman who likes to be a bit exclusive in her dress, to be rather careful.

Along with the crisp fabric there is a very noticeable revival of grenadine, and, above all, of voile, of which more anon. Fabrics, of course, are the foundation of dress. The question of which comes first—the fabric or the fashion—reminds one of that other hoary-headed interrogation— which comes first—the hen or the egg? This season it seems as if the fabrics have it, and as there lives not the woman who does not fancy herself in silk, let us rejoice in our blessings and buy a silk gown.

Taffeta undoubtedly leads so far among the weaves, whether patterned or plain. Very charming are the new taffetas with small self-colored figures, a stripe, a spot or a small flower. When the small flower in several pastel colors appears upon a plain ground, like an old brocade, it seems made for a flowing skirted, tight-bodied, elbow-sleeved gown, like the ones in which the redoubtable Charlotte continued cutting bread and butter. For street wear, the hair-line stripe of white on a dark blue or black ground is very satisfactory. For evening the new pale shades are ravishing even to read about—primrose pink, buttercup yellow, orchid lavender—even the names are irresistible.

Newer than taffeta for evening gowns is the gros de Londres, with its slightly ribbed surface, and its suggestion of old-fashioned richness of material. It is flexible and gathers well, but there is a firmness about it which recalls the silk that would "stand alone."

Lace Edging. A few extra stitches will often do much to improve the appearance of an embroidered piece of linen. This statement is proved by a centerpiece which is embroidered in blue forget-me-nots. The scalloped edge is buttonholed in white, and around the buttonholed edge is a blue edging made by making a rather loose loop or buttonhole of embroidery thread and inside of the loop, near the center, buttonholing three times. The extra stitches not only add beauty to the centerpiece, but they prevent the material from fraying.

a wonderful iridescent blue, and this is veiled with chiffon in a dark greenish sort of blue, while all of the trimmings are in blue tones.

FITTINGS FOR THE VERANDA

Care in the Selection of Suitable Furnishings is Worth More Than a Little Thought.

A charming breakfast porch may be equipped entirely with kitchen furniture painted and decorated like the expensive "peasant" and "cottages" sets which are in vogue at present. One of the heavy, plain ironing tables that can be converted into a settee is the best type of table to buy, and the chairs should be of the plainest. Get your furniture in the natural wood and paint it any color you wish—though green, on the whole, is most satisfactory. Make or buy a stencil of some simple design; conventionalized flowers, like the decorations on the Swedish or Hungarian pottery, are good. Stencil a border of these around your table and on the backs of your chairs. Paint it in bright "peasant" colors, and when these are dried go over the decorations with a water-proof varnish.

This is not work that demands any great skill, but it calls for time, patience and extreme neatness. The effect is well worth the trouble, for with the outlay of a few dollars you will have a set of furniture that you could not buy for five times that amount.

Dairy benches and stools decorated to the same way make very attractive fire garden furniture.

Secrets of the Courts of Europe

An Old Ambassador's Revelations of the Inner History of Famous Episodes Heretofore Cloaked in Mystery

Chronicles by ALLEN UPWARD

A SCANDAL AT THE ELYSEE

"There was the MacMahon affair, which was not without interest, and to which, moreover, those miserable journals never really obtained a clue." I caught eagerly at this name of the great marshal, whose sudden and unexplained resignation of the French presidency had formed one of the most startling episodes of modern history.

"Is it possible that you are in a position to throw light on the events which brought about the fall of this president?" I ventured to exclaim.

"It is precisely that of which I was about to speak," he answered. "But it is my duty to warn you that this story is one of great delicacy, involving the honor of a lady—one for whom I cherish a peculiar esteem. It will, therefore, be necessary for you to promise me beforehand that you will not allow yourself to entertain any ideas regarding the conduct of this lady which are not consistent with the most scrupulous respect."

"But, M. l'Ambassadeur!" I was beginning, when he stopped me with a gesture.

"I'll be enough. I know well that you do not possess the gross mind of your countrymen. One more stipulation: I did not receive the particulars of this strange affair from the duke of Magenta, but from a person who is still alive, and whose name must, therefore, not be mentioned between us. Swear that you will respect my reserve on this point also!"

I renewed my assurances, with increased warmth.

"The duke of Magenta, as you know, without doubt, was an Irishman by descent, and was not free from the impulsive temper of his truly generous countrymen, who have always been so much esteemed by France. He was at the same time a sincere patriot; and in spite of the fact that he owed his marshal's baton and his dukedom to the third Napoleon, he remained faithful to the republic of the fourth of September. History will recognize this when the death of living persons permits an explanation of the remarkable circumstances which brought about his fall, and which have left so melancholy a shadow upon his name.

"Everyone who knows anything about MacMahon is aware of too extreme fondness for flowers which always distinguished him, and his friends frequently sent him offerings of flowers. It did not cause him surprise, therefore, on taking his seat at the breakfast table one morning towards the latter part of his term of office, to perceive on his plate a tiny bouquet of lilies. These exquisite flowers had obviously been chosen with great care, and they were arranged with an elegance in which the president quickly divined the agency of a woman.

"But when he came to look for the card which usually accompanied such tributes, he was disappointed to find that the donor had chosen to remain anonymous.

"Distracted by another matter which claimed his attention, the president laid aside the delicate offering after a few moments, and dismissed the incident from his mind.

"But on the following morning, at the same hour, he was, at once astonished and charmed to find a second bouquet, similar in all respects to that of the day before. This time the marshal, piqued by the mystery, made inquiries among his servants.

"At first no one seemed able or willing to furnish any information; but on the president becoming insistent, a favorite page at length confessed that he had been bribed to place the flowers on his master's plate, without disclosing the source from which they were received.

"The marshal was now thoroughly interested. He questioned the page further, and in the end the lad betrayed the fact that he had received the two bouquets from a lady who had contrived to intercept him each morning in the Champs Elysees. The lady, it appeared, had been closely veiled, but had nevertheless impressed the boy with the idea that she was both young and beautiful.

"No more was needed to complete the fascination of the old marshal, who retained to the end of his life that ardent devotion to the fair sex which is the distinguishing mark of a soldier and a Frenchman—a foible of which I who speak to you have also sometimes been accused, and of which I am not, perhaps, sufficiently ashamed.

"MacMahon gave the page strict orders to look out for the lady again the next morning, in case she should mean to repeat her delicate attention. 'Do not allow her to know,' he continued, 'that you have said anything to me; but be careful to tell her of the extreme pleasure with which I have received her bouquets, and describe the anxiety I have displayed to learn the identity of my unknown benefactor, for whom I already cherish the most tender sentiments in advance.'

"The page faithfully carried out his instructions. The next morning a new bouquet of lilies, even more elegant than the former two, rewarded the impatience of the marshal. But the page was unable to gratify his curiosity, with any fresh details with regard to the mysterious donor.

"Thus repulsed, the president was compelled to stifle his eagerness, and to await the pleasure of the fair unknown. The following two days saw the offering of the bouquet renewed in the same manner, but on the third morning MacMahon's hopes were roused to the highest pitch by the detection of a tiny piece of paper, secreted among the bells of the flowers. He snatched it forth, and deciphered with some difficulty the perfect but microscopic penmanship:

"Why do you not wear my flowers?"

"This was the whole message. But, laconic as it was, the marshal perceived that it contained a promise of something more. It was evident that these lilies were to be regarded as a signal of communication, and that his obedience to the hint conveyed in the note would be taken as an evidence of his wish to gratify the unknown.

"Every day, towards four o'clock, it was the custom for the president to drive out in public to the Bois de Boulogne, where his carriage led the procession of fashion around the famous lake. On this afternoon MacMahon drove forth as usual, but it was observed that, contrary to his usual habit, the president wore in the buttonhole of his coat a superb bouquet of flowers, which completely concealed his Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor.

He had rounded the lake for the last time, and was preparing to return home, when he saw a small but handsome carriage approaching, drawn by a single horse, in which a lady closely veiled was seated by herself. The panels of the carriage displayed no crest, and there was nothing distinctive about the ivory of the coachman. As she came opposite the presidential equipage, the occupant of the carriage raised a small bunch of flowers, corresponding to that worn by the gallant marshal, in her hand, as though to inhale their fragrance. The president started forward on his seat, and at the same moment the lady turned her head slightly, and allowed him to perceive that she was imprinting a kiss on her bouquet. Before he could respond, or do anything further to challenge her attention, the two carriages had passed each other, and the lady of the lilies was lost to view.

"The following morning he received another bouquet, to which a morsel of paper was attached, inscribed with the one word—'Thanks!'

"Encouraged by so much, the president again wore his flowers during the afternoon drive; but this time he was better prepared, and the moment the carriage of the unknown appeared in sight he detached his lilies from his buttonhole, and raised them to his lips with eagerness as she came opposite to him. He was rewarded by a faint but perceptible bow from the lady, who had drawn her veil far enough to disclose a chin of exquisite delicacy, and lips of perfect shape and redness.

"It was with the most intense eagerness that the president descended to breakfast on the following morning. He had a presentiment that the affair was about to take a more practical turn, and he was not deceived. Accompanying the flowers which again adorned his plate, there was a note, exquisitely scented, and sealed with the impression of a dove bearing an olive-leaf in its beak.

"Dismissing his attendants, lest they should observe his agitation, the marshal cut open the missive with the utmost care, and read the contents: 'If you care to accept my flowers from my own hand, let your page bring me a key to the small gate of the Elysee gardens; and expect me tomorrow night at ten. I confide in the honor of an officer of France.'

"That was all; but it was enough. Overcome with joy at the prospect of soon meeting and conversing with the alien who had bewitched him from a distance, the marshal took care to procure the desired key, which he entrusted to the page with the necessary instructions.

"You will not expect me to enter into the details of this meeting. On her arrival the lady again wore a veil, but in response to the pressing solicitations of MacMahon she at length consented to lift it so far as to disclose the lower half of her face, the charms of which more than fulfilled the expectations of the enamored marshal.

"M. le Marechal, she said, addressing him by his military title, instead of as chief of the republic, 'although the steps which I have taken to obtain this interview may wear a romantic aspect, I beg you to believe that I have some serious reasons for wishing to converse with you.'

"Nay, mademoiselle, returned the president, 'what can there be more instructions. The next morning a new bouquet of lilies, even more elegant than the former two, rewarded the impatience of the marshal. But the page was unable to gratify his curiosity, with any fresh details with regard to the mysterious donor.

"Thus repulsed, the president was compelled to stifle his eagerness, and to await the pleasure of the fair unknown. The following two days saw the offering of the bouquet renewed in the same manner, but on the third morning MacMahon's hopes were roused to the highest pitch by the detection of a tiny piece of paper, secreted among the bells of the flowers. He snatched it forth, and deciphered with some difficulty the perfect but microscopic penmanship:

"Why do you not wear my flowers?"

"This was the whole message. But, laconic as it was, the marshal perceived that it contained a promise of something more. It was evident that these lilies were to be regarded as a signal of communication, and that his obedience to the hint conveyed in the note would be taken as an evidence of his wish to gratify the unknown.

"Every day, towards four o'clock, it was the custom for the president to drive out in public to the Bois de Boulogne, where his carriage led the procession of fashion around the famous lake. On this afternoon MacMahon drove forth as usual, but it was observed that, contrary to his usual habit, the president wore in the buttonhole of his coat a superb bouquet of flowers, which completely concealed his Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor.

He had rounded the lake for the last time, and was preparing to return home, when he saw a small but handsome carriage approaching, drawn by a single horse, in which a lady closely veiled was seated by herself. The panels of the carriage displayed no crest, and there was nothing distinctive about the ivory of the coachman. As she came opposite the presidential equipage, the occupant of the carriage raised a small bunch of flowers, corresponding to that worn by the gallant marshal, in her hand, as though to inhale their fragrance. The president started forward on his seat, and at the same moment the lady turned her head slightly, and allowed him to perceive that she was imprinting a kiss on her bouquet. Before he could respond, or do anything further to challenge her attention, the two carriages had passed each other, and the lady of the lilies was lost to view.

"The following morning he received another bouquet, to which a morsel of paper was attached, inscribed with the one word—'Thanks!'

"Encouraged by so much, the president again wore his flowers during the afternoon drive; but this time he was better prepared, and the moment the carriage of the unknown appeared in sight he detached his lilies from his buttonhole, and raised them to his lips with eagerness as she came opposite to him. He was rewarded by a faint but perceptible bow from the lady, who had drawn her veil far enough to disclose a chin of exquisite delicacy, and lips of perfect shape and redness.

"It was with the most intense eagerness that the president descended to breakfast on the following morning. He had a presentiment that the affair was about to take a more practical turn, and he was not deceived. Accompanying the flowers which again adorned his plate, there was a note, exquisitely scented, and sealed with the impression of a dove bearing an olive-leaf in its beak.

"Dismissing his attendants, lest they should observe his agitation, the marshal cut open the missive with the utmost care, and read the contents: 'If you care to accept my flowers from my own hand, let your page bring me a key to the small gate of the Elysee gardens; and expect me tomorrow night at ten. I confide in the honor of an officer of France.'

"That was all; but it was enough. Overcome with joy at the prospect of soon meeting and conversing with the alien who had bewitched him from a distance, the marshal took care to procure the desired key, which he entrusted to the page with the necessary instructions.

"You will not expect me to enter into the details of this meeting. On her arrival the lady again wore a veil, but in response to the pressing solicitations of MacMahon she at length consented to lift it so far as to disclose the lower half of her face, the charms of which more than fulfilled the expectations of the enamored marshal.

"M. le Marechal, she said, addressing him by his military title, instead of as chief of the republic, 'although the steps which I have taken to obtain this interview may wear a romantic aspect, I beg you to believe that I have some serious reasons for wishing to converse with you.'

"Nay, mademoiselle, returned the president, 'what can there be more

"One moment before you go!" interposed the marshal. "May I have any other name by which to dream of you than 'the lady of the lilies'?"

"If you like you may reproach me as 'Mademoiselle Fleur de Lys.'"

"And with these words she was gone. The door closed behind her, and immediately afterwards he heard the sound of a carriage rolling away.

"MacMahon returned more infatuated with his unknown charmer than ever, and he contrived, in delightful reveries on her fascinations, to forget the serious nature of the intrigue in which she evidently wished to entangle him.

"But in the meantime the affair had already produced its grave consequences. The spectacle of the president of the republic driving out day after day with a Royalist emblem in his buttonhole had created the most profound impression in Paris.

"The fact was that MacMahon had never been looked upon as an extreme Republican. At the time that our statesmen were engaged in constructing a new government after the terrible events which brought about the fall of the second empire, there was a question, as you may have heard, of restoring the ancient dynasty in the person of the Comte de Chambord. The chief obstacle which presented itself in the course of the negotiations which took place, was the question of the flag. The Comte, actuated by a sincere belief in his hereditary rights, demanded that the lilies of the Valois should again be recognized in the national standard of France. It was MacMahon himself (who, speaking in the name of the army, insisted on the retention of the tricolor, that flag so gloriously associated with the great memories of Austerlitz and Jena. This obstacle proved fatal; the third republic was constituted, and 'Henri V' was left without a throne.

"Nevertheless this affair had left

two lustrous eyes as beautiful as sapphires, which gleamed through the darkness as though they were about to be filled with tears.

"MacMahon was the president of France, but he was at the same time a man. Overcome by this touching spectacle, he forgot the graver aspect of the situation, and remembered only that he had caused distress to a woman. He instantly stepped to the side of the young girl, as he now perceived her to be, and began to reassure her.

"Believe me, he said, in a voice which combined respect with a certain tenderness, 'when I tell you that I regret nothing which has procured me the pleasure of your charming acquaintance. It is, on the contrary, I who ought to ask pardon for my presumption in daring to imagine that an old man like myself could inspire any interest other than a political one in a person so young and exquisite as yourself.'

"The girl before him blushed, and pretended to turn her eyes away in embarrassment.

"But you must consider that I have deceived you, she murmured. 'I have obtained access to you under false pretenses. Take back this key, which you will no longer be willing that I should avail myself of.'

"The marshal waved back the key which she held out to him, with a gesture of reproach.

"Ah, mademoiselle, do not inflict on me so great a punishment! Do not tell me that my society has already become intolerable to you!"

"Then you are willing to continue to receive me—even in the character of a conspirator?" she cried.

"Oh, as for that, it is not for us mortals to complain of the character of which our goddesses may choose to reveal themselves to us."

"I will give you time for reflection, M. le Marechal. When you desire to meet me here again at this hour, you have only to repeat the same signal."

"And that is?"

"The president himself was, of course, the last person in Paris to whom these whispers were likely to penetrate. Carried away by his desire to meet his 'lady of the lilies' again, he did not hesitate to fulfill her instructions by once more driving out with the fatal signal in his buttonhole. While all Paris was reeling under this fresh shock, the unconscious marshal sought his reward at the little door of the garden.

"The unknown was faithful to her appointment. She was again veiled, and greeted him at first with a shy reserve, which did not prevent her from allowing him to bestow a kiss upon her delicate fingers.

"Are you beginning to overcome your repugnance to my poor lilies, M. le Marechal?" she asked, as soon as they had exchanged greetings.

"It has never been your lilies for which I have felt repugnance, protested the marshal; 'but only for those with which the Comte de Chambord had sought to replace our glorious tricolor.'

"A moment before you go!" interposed the marshal. "May I have any other name by which to dream of you than 'the lady of the lilies'?"

"If you like you may reproach me as 'Mademoiselle Fleur de Lys.'"

"And with these words she was gone. The door closed behind her, and immediately afterwards he heard the sound of a carriage rolling away.

"MacMahon returned more infatuated with his unknown charmer than ever, and he contrived, in delightful reveries on her fascinations, to forget the serious nature of the intrigue in which she evidently wished to entangle him.

"But in the meantime the affair had already produced its grave consequences. The spectacle of the president of the republic driving out day after day with a Royalist emblem in his buttonhole had created the most profound impression in Paris.

"The fact was that MacMahon had never been looked upon as an extreme Republican. At the time that our statesmen were engaged in constructing a new government after the terrible events which brought about the fall of the second empire, there was a question, as you may have heard, of restoring the ancient dynasty in the person of the Comte de Chambord. The chief obstacle which presented itself in the course of the negotiations which took place, was the question of the flag. The Comte, actuated by a sincere belief in his hereditary rights, demanded that the lilies of the Valois should again be recognized in the national standard of France. It was MacMahon himself (who, speaking in the name of the army, insisted on the retention of the tricolor, that flag so gloriously associated with the great memories of Austerlitz and Jena. This obstacle proved fatal; the third republic was constituted, and 'Henri V' was left without a throne.

"Nevertheless this affair had left

two lustrous eyes as beautiful as sapphires, which gleamed through the darkness as though they were about to be filled with tears.

"MacMahon was the president of France, but he was at the same time a man. Overcome by this touching spectacle, he forgot the graver aspect of the situation, and remembered only that he had caused distress to a woman. He instantly stepped to the side of the young girl, as he now perceived her to be, and began to reassure her.

"Believe me, he said, in a voice which combined respect with a certain tenderness, 'when I tell you that I regret nothing which has procured me the pleasure of your charming acquaintance. It is, on the contrary, I who ought to ask pardon for my presumption in daring to imagine that an old man like myself could inspire any interest other than a political one in a person so young and exquisite as yourself.'

"The girl before him blushed, and pretended to turn her eyes away in embarrassment.

"But you must consider that I have deceived you, she murmured. 'I have obtained access to you under false pretenses. Take back this key, which you will no longer be willing that I should avail myself of.'

"The marshal waved back the key which she held out to him, with a gesture of reproach.

"Ah, mademoiselle, do not inflict on me so great a punishment! Do not tell me that my society has already become intolerable to you!"

"Then you are willing to continue to receive me—even in the character of a conspirator?" she cried.

"Oh, as for that, it is not for us mortals to complain of the character of which our goddesses may choose to reveal themselves to us."

"I will give you time for reflection, M. le Marechal. When you desire to meet me here again at this hour, you have only to repeat the same signal."

"And that is?"

"The president himself was, of course, the last person in Paris to whom these whispers were likely to penetrate. Carried away by his desire to meet his 'lady of the lilies' again, he did not hesitate to fulfill her instructions by once more driving out with the fatal signal in his buttonhole. While all Paris was reeling under this fresh shock, the unconscious marshal sought his reward at the little door of the garden.

"The unknown was faithful to her appointment. She was again veiled, and greeted him at first with a shy reserve, which did not prevent her from allowing him to bestow a kiss upon her delicate fingers.

"Are you beginning to overcome your repugnance to my poor lilies, M. le Marechal?" she asked, as soon as they had exchanged greetings.

"It has never been your lilies for which I have felt repugnance, protested the marshal; 'but only for those with which the Comte de Chambord had sought to replace our glorious tricolor.'

"A moment before you go!" interposed the marshal. "May I have any other name by which to dream of you than 'the lady of the lilies'?"

"If you like you may reproach me as 'Mademoiselle Fleur de Lys.'"

"And with these words she was gone. The door closed behind her, and immediately afterwards he heard the sound of a carriage rolling away.

"MacMahon returned more infatuated with his unknown charmer than ever, and he contrived, in delightful reveries on her fascinations, to forget the serious nature of the intrigue in which she evidently wished to entangle him.

"But in the meantime the affair had already produced its grave consequences. The spectacle of the president of the republic driving out day after day with a Royalist emblem in his buttonhole had created the most profound impression in Paris.

"The fact was that MacMahon had never been looked upon as an extreme Republican. At the time that our statesmen were engaged in constructing a new government after the terrible events which brought about the fall of the second empire, there was a question, as you may have heard, of restoring the ancient dynasty in the person of the Comte de Chambord. The chief obstacle which presented itself in the course of the negotiations which took place, was the question of the flag. The Comte, actuated by a sincere belief in his hereditary rights, demanded that the lilies of the Valois should again be recognized in the national standard of France. It was MacMahon himself (who, speaking in the name of the army, insisted on the retention of the tricolor, that flag so gloriously associated with the great memories of Austerlitz and Jena. This obstacle proved fatal; the third republic was constituted, and 'Henri V' was left without a throne.

"Nevertheless this affair had left

two lustrous eyes as beautiful as sapphires, which gleamed through the darkness as though they were about to be filled with tears.

"MacMahon was the president of France, but he was at the same time a man. Overcome by this touching spectacle, he forgot the graver aspect of the situation, and remembered only that he had caused distress to a woman. He instantly stepped to the side of the young girl, as he now perceived her to be, and began to reassure her.

"Believe me, he said, in a voice which combined respect with a certain tenderness, 'when I tell you that I regret nothing which has procured me the pleasure of your charming acquaintance. It is, on the contrary, I who ought to ask pardon for my presumption in daring to imagine that an old man like myself could inspire any interest other than a political one in a person so young and exquisite as yourself.'

"The girl before him blushed, and pretended to turn her eyes away in embarrassment.

"But you must consider that I have deceived you, she murmured. 'I have obtained access to you under false pretenses. Take back this key, which you will no longer be willing that I should avail myself of.'

"The marshal waved back the key which she held out to him, with a gesture of reproach.

"Ah, mademoiselle, do not inflict on me so great a punishment! Do not tell me that my society has already become intolerable to you!"

"Then you are willing to continue to receive me—even in the character of a conspirator?" she cried.

"Oh, as for that, it is not for us mortals to complain of the character of which our goddesses may choose to reveal themselves to us."

"I will give you time for reflection, M. le Marechal. When you desire to meet me here again at this hour, you have only to repeat the same signal."

"And that is?"

"The president himself was, of course, the last person in Paris to whom these whispers were likely to penetrate. Carried away by his desire to meet his 'lady of the lilies' again, he did not hesitate to fulfill her instructions by once more driving out with the fatal signal in his buttonhole. While all Paris was reeling under this fresh shock, the unconscious marshal sought his reward at the little door of the garden.

"The unknown was faithful to her appointment. She was again veiled, and greeted him at first with a shy reserve, which did not prevent her from allowing him to bestow a kiss upon her delicate fingers.

"Are you beginning to overcome your repugnance to my poor lilies, M. le Marechal?" she asked, as soon as they had exchanged greetings.

"It has never been your lilies for which I have felt repugnance, protested the marshal; 'but only for those with which the Comte de Chambord had sought to replace our glorious tricolor.'

"The President of the French Republic Cannot Betray His Oath."

"Are you beginning to overcome your repugnance to my poor lilies, M. le Marechal?" she asked, as soon as they had exchanged greetings.

THE CARRIZOZO NEWS

Published Every Friday at Carrizozo, Lincoln County, New Mexico

Entered as Second-Class Matter at the Post Office at Carrizozo, N. M., June 2, 1908

Subscription Rates, $2.00 per year; six months, $1.00

HALEY & DINGWALL

Publishers

Chief Carranza declines all suggestions of compromise or mediation. He is determined to defeat Villa, or was before a large part of his own army suffered such a disastrous setback in its attack upon Mexico city. The aged chief has quieted down to some extent since receiving that body blow, and may be ready for any kind of compromise soon, or may even take to flight.

The Italians are reported to be making great headway in their invasion of Austria. It is now said they have occupied a larger area than they demanded from Austria as the price of peace. But it should not be forgotten that there is sometimes a vast difference between "taking" and "holding" a country. Look at the Russians.

If Bryan said to the Austrian ambassador that the note on the Lusitania was not to be taken seriously, but was a sop to public opinion, his enemies might well rejoice, for it would go a long way to justifying their attacks. But, of course, Bryan said no such thing, nor did any other American outside of an insane asylum.

Indications are that the patience of the Washington government has been worn to a feather edge concerning the Mexican affair. Failure on the part of the warring chiefs to come to a peaceful understanding points to an early and radical action by our government.

In the well written literature which we are permitted to see concerning the European conflict, the Kaiser is the most prominent target. However, it doesn't seem to greatly disturb the German ruler as his heavy guns do his talking.

Since the recent disastrous defeats of the Russians, Greece is said to be hesitating about going to war on the side of the allies. In other words, she can't guess which way the cat is going to jump.

The visiting editors certainly saw some country while they were in New Mexico, and were shown everything that time and opportunity permitted.

The country is again to have a view of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. She is to be called to testify what she knows about Harry.

And now they say Harry Thaw never was insane. Harry is quite willing to verify that statement.

Notice for Publication
025030
DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR
U. S. LAND OFFICE at Roswell, N. M.
May 29, 1915.
Notice is hereby given that Juan Padilla y Zamora, of Lincoln, N. M., who, on June 11, 1912, made H. D. Serial No. 025030, for NE 1/4 SW 1/4, NW 1/4, NE 1/4, NW 1/4, Sec. 22, Township 28 N., Range 14 E., N. M. P. Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make final three year proof to establish claim to the land above described, before Clement Hightower, U. S. Commissioner, in his office, at Hondo, N. M., on July 9, 1915.
Claimant names as witnesses:
Quirino Padilla y Zamora, Estabillor Padilla, these of Lincoln, N. M.; Jose Trujillo, Dionisio Bejillo, these of Captain, N. M.
EMMETT PATTON,
Register,
June 4-July 2

Notice for Publication
024875
DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR
U. S. LAND OFFICE at Roswell, New Mexico,
June 15, 1915.
Notice is hereby given that James Salisbury, of Roswell, N. M., who, on June 8, 1911, made H. D. Serial No. 024875 for E 1/2 NW 1/4, NW 1/4, NE 1/4, NW 1/4, Sec. 21, Township 21 N., Range 14 E., N. M. P. Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make final three year proof to establish claim to the land above described, before Clement Hightower, U. S. Commissioner, in his office, at Hondo, N. M., on July 27, 1915.
Claimant names as witnesses:
Julian Gill Jose Portio, Manuel Corina, Macedonio Gill, all of Roswell, N. M.
EMMETT PATTON,
Register,
June 26-July 23

Notice of State Selection
Department of the Interior,
United States Land Office,
Roswell, New Mexico,
May 25, 1915.
Notice is hereby given that the State of New Mexico, under the provisions of the Act of Congress approved June 21, 1906 and June 20, 1910, and acts supplementary and amendatory thereto, has filed in this office selection lists for the following described lands:
List No. 6072 Serial No. 031978 BE 1/4 NW 1/4, NE 1/4, Sec. 17 T. 18 N. R. 12 E. N. M. Mer., 120 acres
List No. 6073 Serial No. 031979 BE 1/4 NE 1/4, NE 1/4, Sec. 20 T. 18 N. R. 12 E. N. M. Mer., 120 acres
List No. 6074 Serial No. 031980 E 1/4 Sec. 31, T. 6 N. R. 14 E. N. M. Mer., 120 acres
List No. 6082 Serial No. 032057 Lot 3, NE 1/4 NW 1/4, Sec. 30, T. 4 N. R. 12 E. N. M. Mer., 250 acres
List No. 6083 Serial No. 032058 W 1/4 NW 1/4, Sec. 23, T. 4 N. R. 12 E. N. M. Mer., 120 acres
List No. 6084 Serial No. 032059 W 1/4 NW 1/4, Sec. 15, Lot 1 Sec. 30, BE 1/4 NW 1/4, Sec. 18, NE 1/4 NW 1/4, Sec. 19, T. 11 N. R. 10 E. N. M. Mer., 315 1/2 acres
List No. 6114 Serial No. 033032 BE 1/4 NE 1/4, NW 1/4, Sec. 31, W 1/4 NW 1/4, BE 1/4 NW 1/4, Sec. 25, NW 1/4 NW 1/4, Sec. 9, T. 10 N. R. 10 E. N. M. Mer., 360 1/2 acres
Protests or contacts against any or all of such selections may be filed in this office during the period of publication hereof or at any time before final certificate.

EMMETT PATTON,
Register,
June 18-July 10

Carrizozo Lodge,
No. 41,
A. F. & A. M.

Carrizozo New Mexico, Regular Meetings,
January 20, February 27, March 27, April 24,
May 27, June 20, July 21, August 21,
Sept. 18, Oct. 16, November 20, December 18.
K. P. MILLER, Sec'y

I. O. O. F.
Carrizozo Lodge
NO. 30

Carrizozo, N. M. Regular meeting nights, 1st and 3rd Fridays in each month
O. T. Nye, Sec. T. W. Watson, N. G.

Carrizozo Lodge
No. 11
Knights of Pythias

Meets every Monday evening in the Masonic Hall. All members are urged to be present and visiting Knights welcomed.
G. T. McQuillen, E. A. O. Johnson,
C. C. K. of R. & S.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

O. O. ASKREN, ROSWELL, N. M.
BURL B. WOOD, CARRIZOZO, N. M.
ASKREN & WOOD
LAWYERS

Carrizozo Office - Exchange Bank Building
SETH F. CREWS
ATTORNEY AT LAW

Will practice in Federal and State Courts
OSCURO NEW MEXICO

GEORGE SPENCE
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Rooms 5 and 6, Exchange Bank Bldg.
CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO

R. E. BLANEY
DENTIST
Office in Exchange Bank Building
Carrizozo - New Mexico

FRANK J. SAGER
FIRE INSURANCE
Notary Public.
Office in Exchange Bank, Carrizozo.

CHARLES L. KENNEDY
LAWYER
Mining Law Specialty
Office days: Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays
With John T. Hewitt, WHITE OAKS, N. MEX.

GEORGE B. BARBER
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR-AT-LAW
Carrizozo - New Mexico

T. E. KELLEY
Funeral Director and
Licensed Embalmer
Phone 96
CARRIZOZO NEW MEXICO

DR. PHELPS & SWERINGIN
Specialists: Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, and Fitting Glasses
Bldg. 4 & 5, First National Bank ROSWELL, N. M.

THROUGH DAILY SERVICE
ROSWELL-CARRIZOZO MAIL LINE

Leave Roswell . . . . . 8:00 a. m.
Leave Carrizozo . . . . . 8:00 a. m.
Arrive Roswell . . . . . 4:45 p. m.
Arrive Carrizozo . . . . . 4:45 p. m.

INTERMEDIATE POINTS
Picacho - Tinnie
Hondo - Lincoln
Capitan - Nogal

Through fare one way $8.40.
Intermediate points 8 cents per mile.

ROSWELL AUTO COMPANY
OWNERS AND OPERATORS

foxworth-Galbraith
LUMBER COMPANY.

Shingles, Doors, Sash, Moulding,
Building Paper, &c.

Sewell's Paint,
and everything in the line of Building Material.

Carrizozo - New Mexico

ICE PHONE 65
L. B. CRAWFORD

JOHN E. BELL

Quality Groceries

FANCY AND STAPLE GOODS

The Only Exclusive Grocery in Carrizozo
Fruits, nuts, candies and vegetables in season

Stoves and Ranges. Builders' Hardware.

N. B. TAYLOR & SONS
Blacksmithing and Hardware

CARRIZOZO & WHITE OAKS
Tinware, Paints, Glass, Oils of all kinds,
Harness, Ammunition, Etc.

M-O-N-U-M-E-N-T-S

We carry the largest stock in the Southwest. Freight prepaid, every job guaranteed. Write for designs and estimates.
Bowers Monument Company
215 East Central Albuquerque, N. M.

Welch & Titsworth

WHOLESALE and RETAIL

---

WE CARRY IN STOCK:

McCormick Mowers, McCormick Rakes,
Studebaker Wagons, Studebaker Hacks,
Studebaker Buggies, Barbed Wire,
Chicken Netting, Hog Fence,
Black Leaf 40 Sheep Dip,
Cement, Dynamite, Blasting Caps, Fuse,
Etc., Etc.

---

Welch & Titsworth

CAPITAN, NEW MEXICO

Stores Close Early
Commencing Tuesday, June 15, the undersigned Carrizozo merchants will close their respective places of business at 6:30 P. M., except Saturdays. Signed:
A. C. WINGFIELD
CARRIZOZO TRADING CO.
ZEIGLER BROS.
J. E. BILL
PATTY & ADAMS

The Headlight Saloon.
Joe R. Adams, Prop. Carrizozo, N. M.
Choice Whiskies, Beer, Wines,
and Cigars. Pool Room.

The Carrizozo Bar

All Bonded Whiskey	$1.75 per Quart.
Port Wine	.50 per Quart.
Blackberry Brandy	.50 per Quart.
Old Kingdom Bleuded Whiskey	$4.00 per Gallon.

Wholesale Prices on Seipp's Beer to Outside Dealers.

THE STAG SALOON
GRAY BROS.

The Best Brands of
BOTTLE AND BARRIL WHISKIES.
Seipp's and Budwiser Beer
BILLIARDS AND POOL.
Choice Cigars.

Special Facilities
For Banquet and Dinner Parties.

Carrizozo Eating House

F. W. GURNEY, Manager.

Table Supplied with the Best the market affords.

E. E. Phillips Expert Well Driller
AND TOOL FISHER

I will guarantee to take any piece of iron or string of 100 ft out of any well or no pay. I will contract to drill a well from 100 to 1000 feet and guarantee a straight hole. If interested call on, or write me at CARRIZOZO, N. M.

YOU WILL FIND MY PRICES RIGHT

Saved Girl's Life

"I want to tell you what wonderful benefit I have received from the use of Theodford's Black-Draught," writes Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky.
"It certainly has no equal for la grippe, bad colds, liver and stomach troubles. I firmly believe Black-Draught saved my little girl's life. When she had the measles, they went in on her, but one good dose of Theodford's Black-Draught made them break out, and she has had no more trouble. I shall never be without in my home." For constipation, indigestion, headache, dizziness, malaria, chills and fever, biliousness, and all similar ailments, Theodford's Black-Draught has proved itself a safe, reliable, gentle and valuable remedy.

THEODFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

If you suffer from any of these complaints, try Black-Draught. It is a medicine of known merit. Seventy-five years of splendid success proves its value. Good for young and old. For sale everywhere. Price 25 cents.

Proceedings Of the Board of County Commissioners OF LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO.

At their regular meeting held in the Court House in Carrizozo, New Mexico, June 7, 1915

Board met at 9:00 a.m., as a Board of Equalization. Present: Hon. Melvin Franks, Chairman; R. A. Duran, member; W. H. Ferguson, member; J. B. Baird, Deputy Sheriff; O. T. Nye, Deputy Assessor; A. H. Harvey, Clerk.

In the matter of assessment of Isidro Fresquez, the board raised same six (6) head of cattle at $35.00 per head.

In the matter of assessment of Esequiel Vigil, the board raised same 15 head of cattle at $35.00 per head.

In the matter of assessment of S. M. Johnson, the board raised same $200.00 on automobile.

In the matter of assessment of Martin Chavez, the board raised same $100.00 on automobile.

In the matter of assessment of Louis Mennecke, the board raised same $620.00 on improvements on government land.

In the matter of assessment of Mocho Brothers, the board raised same $300.00 on improvements and 500 head of sheep at $5.00 per head.

In the matter of assessment of Lloyd Taylor, the board raised same $300.00 on improvements.

Adjourned until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

SECOND DAY, JUNE 8, 1915

Board met pursuant to adjournment.

In the matter of assessment of Fred Pfingsten, the board raised same 20,000 pounds corn, valuation $300.00.

In the matter of assessment of A. W. Colbaugh, the board raised same 125 head of cattle at $35.00 per head, total valuation on same $4375.00.

In the matter of assessment of B. F. Adams, the board raised $200.00 on automobile.

In the matter of assessment of Parsons Mining Company, the board raised same on "Hopeful" Mining Claim, $1,500.00.

Adjourned until eight a. m. to-morrow.

THIRD DAY, JUNE 9, 1915

Met pursuant to adjournment.

In the matter of assessment of Mrs. Alice Albro, the board raised same 20 head of cattle at $40.00 per head.

In the matter of assessment of Mrs. Lulu Boone, the board raised same 50 head of cattle at $50.00 per head.

In the matter of assessment of Mrs. Jennie Irmingier, the board raised same 75 head of cattle at $35.00 per head.

In the matter of assessment of Jose Herrera, the board raised same 25 head of cattle at $35.00 per head.

In the matter of assessment of Robert A. Hunnicut, the board raised same 40 head of cattle at $35.00 per head.

The board adjourned as a board of equalization and met immediately as a board of county commissioners.

J. N. White was allowed the sum of $1000.00 to apply on contract for building side-walk at court house, Carrizozo, N. M., and warrant was drawn for same.

It appearing to the board that complaint has been made that the Wild Cat Leasing Company has set poles on the public road between Carrizozo and White Oaks so as to interfere with public traffic.

It is therefore ordered by the board that the said company comply with their franchise and remove all poles which are obstructing said public highway.

The application of Southern California Iron & Steel Company for reduction of taxes for the year 1914 was presented to the board and the same was transmitted to the district attorney's office for presentation to the district court as appears from Petition No. 50 on file with the clerk of this board.

The application of Chas. Spence for correction of taxes for the year 1914 was presented to the board and the same was transmitted to the district attorney's office for presentation to the district court as appears from Petition No. 60 on file with the clerk of this board.

The application of Frank J. Sager for correction of taxes for the year 1914 was presented to the board and the same was transmitted to the district attorney's office for presentation to the district court as appears from Petition No. 61 on file with the clerk of this board.

The application of Gross, Kelly & Company for correction of taxes for the year 1914 was presented to the board and the same was transmitted to the district attorney's office for presentation to the district court as appears from Petition No. 62 on file with the clerk of this board.

The application of Harry Peterson for correction of taxes for the year 1914 was presented to the board and the same was transmitted to the district attorney's office for presentation to the district court as appears from Petition No. 63 on file with the clerk of this board.

The application of Wm. F. Jones for correction of taxes for the year 1914 was presented to the board and the same was transmitted to the district attorney's office for presentation to the district court, as appears from petition No. 63 on file with the clerk of this board.

The application of S. W. Barber for correction of taxes for the year 1914 was presented to the board and the same was transmitted to the district attorney's office for presentation to the district court as appears from Petition No. 66 on file with the clerk of this board.

The application of John J. Kahler for correction of taxes for the year 1914 was presented to the board and the same was transmitted to the district attorney's office for presentation to the district court as appears from Petition No. 67 on file with the clerk of this board.

The application of D. W. Glenn for correction of taxes for the year 1914 was presented to the board and the same was transmitted to the district attorney's office for presentation to the district court as appears from Petition No. 68 on file with the clerk of this board.

The application of A. B. Zumwalt for correction of taxes for the year 1914 was presented to the board and the same was transmitted to the district attorney's office for presentation to the district court as appears from Petition No. 69 on file with the clerk of this board.

In compliance with the provisions of Chapter 78 Laws of 1915, the board decides to accept the amounts shown below in list of tax sale certificates, said amounts to be a minimum for which said certificates may be sold:

Table with columns: Certificate Number, Taxes for Year, and Amount. Lists various taxpayers and their respective tax amounts.

Table with columns: Certificate Number, Taxes for Year, and Amount. Continuation of the tax sale certificate list.

Large vertical table listing names of taxpayers and their corresponding tax amounts, organized by date (e.g., March 3, 1902, January 1, 1902, etc.).

Large vertical table listing names of taxpayers and their corresponding tax amounts, continuing from the previous table.

December 19, 1902

May 5, 1903

May 12, 1903

November 9, 1903

November 11, 1903

December 15, 1903

November 6, 1903

Table of land sales and transactions, including names like Adolph Norbin, Chas. D. Neely, and various dates and amounts.

Table of land sales and transactions, including names like A. O. Deanna, P. Tachman, and various dates and amounts.

Table of land sales and transactions, including names like Adolph Norbin, Chas. D. Neely, and various dates and amounts.

Adjourned sine die.

Classified advertisements are the quick way to tell a lot of people your wants.

WANTED - Hand washing; call and deliver. Opposite Clark Hust's house.

Legal Notice

Exchange Bank of Carizozo, New Mexico, Plaintiff, vs. W. E. Winfield, et al., Defendants.

Application for Survey NOTICE IN HERBY GIVEN to all parties interested that the State of New Mexico has applied for the survey of the following lands:

In the District Court for Lincoln County, State of New Mexico. Under and by virtue of an order of sale and decree of foreclosure issued out of the District Court for Lincoln County, State of New Mexico, on the 24th day of April, A. D. 1913, in the above captioned action, wherein the Exchange Bank of Carizozo, New Mexico, the above named plaintiff, obtained a judgment and decree against W. E. Winfield, and Edith Winfield, his wife, for the sum of $779.12, and a judgment and decree against the defendant, Charles A. Stevens above named, for the possession of the premises hereinafter described, and the cancellation of a deed to him of said premises, on his default of payment of said sum of money to the plaintiff, on or before the day of sale of said premises as hereinafter mentioned; which said decree against all of said defendants was duly entered in the record books of said court, and the same appointed the undersigned to act as commissioner to sell at public auction the lots and premises situate at, lying and being in the County of Lincoln, State of New Mexico, and described as follows to-wit: Lot numbered One (1) of Block and Three (3) in Block numbered Thirtieth (30) in the town of Carizozo, as shown on the plat of said town, now on file in the office of the county clerk of said Lincoln County, together with the appurtenances thereto belonging.

Public notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 31st day of July, 1913, between the hours of 9 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m., of that day, at the front door of the court house in the town of Carizozo, in the county and state aforesaid, I will, in obedience to said order of sale and decree of foreclosure, sell the above described lots and premises, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy plaintiff's judgment with interest thereon and costs of suit and sale, to the highest bidder at public auction for cash.

There will be due on the said day of sale, the sum of $779.12 with interest thereon from the 24th day of April, 1913, at the rate of ten per cent per annum, and the costs of sale.

Notice is hereby given that Edward W. Harris, of Carizozo, N. M., who, on May 25, 1903, made H. E. Serial No. 015508, for 346NW1/4 and N1/2SW1/4, Section 24, Township 7-S, Range 10-E, N. M. P. Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make Final Five Year Proof, to establish claim to the land above described, before A. H. Harvey, county clerk, in his office, at Carizozo, N. M., on July 29, 1913.

Notice for Publication 015971 DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR U. S. LAND OFFICE at Roswell, N. M. May 23, 1913.

Notice is hereby given that Dennis B. Humphrey, of Carizozo, N. M., who, on June 28, 1909, made H. E. Serial No. 015971, for 346NW1/4, Section 24, Township 7-S, Range 10-E, N. M. P. Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make Five year proof, to establish claim to the land above described, before Wm. H. Osborn, U. S. Commissioner, in his office, at Carizozo, N. M., on July 9, 1913.

Notice for Publication 015972 DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR U. S. LAND OFFICE at Roswell, N. M. May 23, 1913.

Notice is hereby given that Dennis B. Humphrey, of Carizozo, N. M., who, on June 28, 1909, made H. E. Serial No. 015972, for 346NW1/4, Section 24, Township 7-S, Range 10-E, N. M. P. Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make Final Five Year Proof, to establish claim to the land above described, before Wm. H. Osborn, U. S. Commissioner, in his office, at Carizozo, N. M., on August 5, 1913.

Notice for Publication 015973 DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR U. S. LAND OFFICE at Roswell, N. M. May 23, 1913.

Notice is hereby given that Elizabeth A. Gunn, of Carizozo, N. M., one of the heirs of Andrew C. Gunn, deceased, who on January 22, 1904, made H. E. No. 4312, Serial No. 009175, for E1/2NW1/4, Section 14, Township 10-S, Range 12-E, N. M. P. Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make Final Five Year Proof, to establish claim to the land above described, before Wm. H. Osborn, U. S. Commissioner, in his office, at Carizozo, N. M., on August 5, 1913.

Notice for Publication 015974 DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR U. S. LAND OFFICE at Roswell, N. M. May 23, 1913.

Notice is hereby given that John M. Rice, of Carizozo, N. M., who, on July 2, 1903, made H. E. Serial No. 015974, for 346NW1/4, Section 24, Township 7-S, Range 10-E, N. M. P. Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make Final Five Year Proof, to establish claim to the land above described, before Wm. H. Osborn, U. S. Commissioner, in his office, at Carizozo, N. M., on July 9, 1913.

Purity Guaranteed

under all State and National Pure Food Laws. You can pay a higher price, but you cannot get a baking powder that will raise nicer, lighter biscuits, cakes and pastry, or that is any more healthful.

Your money back if K C fails to please you. Try a can at our risk.

Swift Hardly. "I have the blood of many fighting men running in my veins."

It is easier to call a man a liar than it is to prove it.

Red Cross Bag Blue makes the laundress happy, makes clothes whiter than snow. All good grocers. Adv.

The attention attracted by those who seek attention usually is complimentary.

YOUR OWN DRUGGIST WILL TELL YOU... Red Cross Bag Blue makes the laundress happy, makes clothes whiter than snow.

Opposite Cause and Effect. "I have such a poor appetite, doctor."

Cultivating Reasons. "That man certainly does cultivate country acquaintances."

We and the British Have Sweet Teeth. Britons have the sweetest teeth, and Americans come next.

Famous Feats of Archery. In the days when the buffalo was found in vast herds on the western plains there were Indians who, while riding at a gallop, could send an arrow through a buffalo's body.

Will Rent My Piano. to out-of-town private party and give privilege of buying later if suited and applying rent on price.

O'Fallon Supplies. Best quality at lowest prices. New Illustrated Catalogue FREE.

Pure Honey. Fall 10 lbs. Theobroma... Fall 10 lbs. Amber...

Panama Hats. Send for your hat to be bleached and blocked. We use the best Panama hats.

Howard E. Burton. Specimen prices Gold, Silver, Lead, Pt., Cobalt, Silver, Red Gold, Blue, Green, Copper, Si, Manganese, Vanadium and full price list sent on application.

Make the Liver Do its Duty. Nine times in ten when the liver is right the stomach and bowels are right.

Black Leg. LINGER SURELY PREVENTS... Black Leg is a disease that is caused by a germ that is found in the soil.

ROAD BREAKER IS CIVILIZER

Man's Scale is Very Correctly Tested by His Attitude Toward Some Obstruction in Road.

The civilized man makes roads; the savage does not. That is the safest test of civilization.

Among us in all communities are individuals who are not really civilized. They do not take any interest in roads.

A man's scale in civilization is very correctly tested by his attitude toward the stone which has rolled into the road, or the tree which has blown down across it.

When the snow piles up in the road the man who goes ahead and breaks the path for others bears the burden which he who has made progress always must bear.

When the snow piles up in the road the man who goes ahead and breaks the path for others bears the burden which he who has made progress always must bear.

The road breaker is the great civilizer.

DIRT ROAD IS THE CHEAPEST

Most Satisfactory Highway in Nineteenth of Territory—Big Objection to Macadamized Roads.

The time may come when we can make cement roads. They will cost from $5,000 to $10,000 a mile and they may be so smooth, if we learn to make them properly, that the children living on these lines of road can go to school on roller skates, as they do in some places down in Maryland.

There may be some satisfactory combination of sand and clay; but, speaking for the prairie lands, the best and the cheapest road we can get over nine-tenths of the territory is the dirt road.

It is really a pity that the drag is so simple and cheap. If it had cost $25 or $50, and was painted red, then the farmers would think something of it.

Someone may ask: Why is it that there was no objection to macadamized roads twenty or thirty years ago? Simply because we did not have the automobile.

Excellent Roadway in Colorado.

man from the section where Secretary James Wilson was born, was a genius. He figured that by putting stone on the road, the wheels of the wagon, especially if broad tread, would gradually wear down these stones and furnish a filler.

Extremes to Avoid. "One of the important factors in roadmaking is to control the moisture content of the soil in making up the roadbed."

Too Much Moisture on Top. Trees should not be allowed to shade the road as this keeps it too moist on the surface after rains, so that travel spells the surface.

Chocolate Soldiers.

The soldier's weakness for sweets, to which Mr. Bernard Shaw called attention when he wrote "The Chocolate Soldier," has been abundantly confirmed during the present war.

The quantity of sweets consumed by our army in France has been prodigious, while from Gairo comes the news that the Australians have absolutely eaten the places out of chocolate.

Our canteen had five times the demand for sweets and soft drinks that was expected and one-fifth the demand for beer.

DON'T MIND PIMPLES

Cuticura Soap and Ointment Will Banish Them. Trial Free.

These fragrant supercreamy emollients do so much to cleanse, purify and beautify the skin, scalp, hair and hands that you cannot afford to be without them.

"Have you been operating in the stock market of late?" "No. I've been operated upon."

The Real Thing. Tiny Toddlers—What is a heroine, maw?

If you wish beautiful, clear white clothes, use Red Cross Bag Blue. At all good grocers. Adv.

An entertaining woman is one who permits a man to talk about himself.

"MASON AND DIXON'S LINE"

Popular Misapprehension as to Meaning of Term and Just What the Phrase Implied.

Very incorrect is the general belief that Mason and Dixon's line, as originally laid out, divided the slave-holding states from the free states.

All the same, the actual Mason and Dixon's line was as much synonym for trouble and dissension in its day as was the figure of speech to which in after years it gave rise.

Unfair Advantage. "Don't you ever let me catch you kissing my daughter again, sir!"

A Warning. Doctor—You've had a terrible shock. Patient—It's up to you to see that I don't have another when I get your bill.

MRS. LYON'S AGES AND PAINS

Have All Gone Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and had no appetite.

It is true that nature and a woman's work as produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Castoria advertisement. 900 DROPS. ALCOHOL—3 PER CENT. Vegetable Preparation for Assuaging the Food and Bowels of INFANTS, CHILDREN. Promotes Digestion, Clearfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral, NOT NARCOTIC.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA. What is CASTORIA. Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance.

High-Browed Help. "I see where there is a plan on foot to make every servant girl an educated household scientist."

Are Your Kidneys Weak? Do you know that deaths from kidney troubles are 100,000 a year in the U. S. alone? That deaths have increased 75% in 20 years?

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS. Get Doan's at Any Store, Use a Box. DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS. FOSTER-LUMBER CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

HORSES FOR EUROPE. Europe is buying thousands of horses from the United States for the war. The army agents refuse all horses that are not in good condition and free from contagious and infectious diseases.

Paxtine. A Soluble Antiseptic Powder to be dissolved in water as needed. In the local treatment of woman's ills, such as leucorrhoea and inflammation, hot douches of Paxtine are very efficacious.

WHEN YOU THINK FLAGS Think of Factory Price. BROWNELL HALL. PINKHAM'S HAIR BALM.

LOCAL & PERSONAL

Mrs. Cribb is spending the week at the Brazel ranch.

A. T. Anderson was here yesterday from Parsons.

A new boy at Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Pine's this week. Dos has been incommunicado the greater time since.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cribb, Miss Bessie White, and Misses Clara and Lorene Brazel spent Sunday at Water Canon.

Mr. and Mrs. Belle Garven, accompanied by Mrs. Pelman and Miss Nellie Grant, motored to White Oaks Sunday.

M. G. Porter, of the Porter Mercantile Co., Corona, was here Saturday night, attending a convocation of the Masonic lodge.

We handle Flour, Feed and Salt. Just received a car of fine Colorado Oats, and we are always pleased to quote prices. Humphrey Bros.

W. M. McDonald and T. N. Stanton came down from White Oaks yesterday, and took No. 7 for El Paso, where they will spend the Fourth.

U. S. Marshal Hudspeth was here last Friday evening on his return from White Oaks to Santa Fe. He had been at his old home for a short visit.

A. E. O. Johnson and Ed Oliver returned this week from a ten days' trip to the Pecos Valley and southern New Mexico. They motored out and back.

The board of county commissioners are to meet here in regular session next Monday. Besides the mass of regular business that has accumulated during the past quarter, the board will tackle the tax question.

Carrizozo people will be pretty well scattered Saturday to Monday. Nogal will get a part, so will Lincoln, and Fort Stanton and Jicarilla will also be the places for still others to go.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe N. White and children went to Fort Stanton this week. Mr. White will be engaged on his building contracts at the Fort, and Mrs. White and children will enjoy the cool shade of the Bonito.

Rev. R. L. Day, until recently the local Baptist minister, was here a short time this week. Rev. Day has accepted the position of state evangelist and will, therefore, visit all parts of the state in the interest of his special work.

Ice Cold Drinks at Soda Fountain

PURE DRUGS

and all the articles usually found in an up-to-date drug shop. We believe in the Good Service Idea and will give you the best we know how. Call.

ROLLAND BROS.

Carrizozo Livery

Chas. A. Stevens, Proprietor

General Transfer and Drayage Business

PROMPT SERVICE

Livery Barns
Main Street

Best Corrals
El Paso Avenue

Phone 32

FIRST-CLASS TEAMS, BUGGIES, HACKS

Safe and Reliable Transportation Anywhere

Uncle Sam Acts

General Victoriano Huerta, former president of Mexico, was arrested at Newman, about 20 miles this side of El Paso, last Sunday morning by United States officers. This had the effect of dampening the ardor of his adherents. The ex-dictator of Mexico had a berth on the west bound train of that date, and, from information in possession of the government, was to begin a new revolution in Mexico.

The ex president and General Pascual Orozco were taken in charge by the government authorities, conveyed to El Paso and placed under bond on the charge of violating the neutrality. The arrival of the general created quite a stir along the border, which indicated that the fighting population expected something. They were not disappointed—it happened.

Special, Seven Reels.

The Crystal Theatre will put on a special subject on Friday and Saturday nights, July 16th and 17th. The subject will be the "Life of our Savior," and will consist of seven reels, four of which will be thrown on canvas Friday night, the 16th, and the other three on Saturday night.

The series will begin with the birth of the Savior and will end with his ascension. There will be six scenes, in natural colors, taken in the Holy Land on spots trodden by Christ. This series of reels will be more attractive and entertaining than the celebrated "Passion Play," and will be the best we have ever shown here. Notwithstanding the additional cost in securing these reels, there will be no advance in the price of admission. CRYSTAL THEATRE.

Great Values for the Fourth!

We have arranged, and will entertain all of our friends this week with the Greatest Values Ever Offered in Carrizozo

KUPPENHEIMER SUITS FOR MEN

$25.00 Values Go Now for . . . . .	$17.45
22.50 Values Go Now for . . . . .	15.65
21.00 Values Go Now for . . . . .	14.75
20.00 Values Go Now for . . . . .	13.90

PALM BEACH SUIT SPECIALS AT $7.50

Wilson Bros. Shirts

Values up to $3.50 at from 63c to $2.75

Men's Odd Trousers

Including Blue Serges and Light Flannels 25 per cent Discount

Come In and Investigate

Stetson Hats, Walk Over Shoes, Wilson Bros. Shirts

The Carrizozo Trading Company

Lots of Fords In Lincoln County

Carrizozo and this county has, abroad, the reputation of driving as many gas cars, for its population, as any section of the state, and the number of auto owners is rapidly growing. Monday of this week Dr. W. T. Watson, representing the Ford, received ten cars, all of which are sold, and seven already delivered, the purchasers of the seven being: H. W. McMillan, White Oaks; M. C. Porter, Corona; Geo. A. Titsworth, and Dan Larsen, Capitao; F. W. Brockway, Fort Stanton; O. T. Nye, Carrizozo; and L. H. Dow, Lincoln.

Uses University As Model for Home

Harold Bell Wright, author of "The Eyes of the World", etc., has chosen as the model for his $200,000 home and studio near Hollywood, California, one of the dormitories of the New Mexico state university in Albuquerque. "Hokons," the main dormitory for women on the university campus, was picked by the author during a recent visit, as the most representative building he had encountered of native American architecture. It is a careful adaptation of Pueblo Indian architecture to modern uses and is used throughout in the university buildings. The author's

Classified Advertisements

FOR SALE—259 acres, fenced; 1/4 mile of the Bonito, known as the Barrett ranch. G. W. Barrett, Artesia, California. 7-2-5t

WANTED—25 people to eat dinner every day at the Adams House. Best meal in Carrizozo. Try, and be convinced. 6-25tf

FOR RENT—8-room hotel, well furnished, good location. Address Mrs. E. J. Thompson, Corona, N. M. 6-11-4t.

Home rendered land that is pure. Patty & Adams.

See us for poultry, butter, eggs etc. Patty & Adams Phone 46.

Phone 46 any cut of Fresh meat. Also groceries and lunch goods.

R. L. Ransom
Plasterer & Contractor

Hollywood residence and studio

will have a frontage of 278 feet, overlooking the San Fernando valley and will be one of the most elaborate structures of a section dotted with rich homes. Since the state university adopted the pueblo style of architecture its buildings have been widely copied not only in New Mexico but all through the southwest.

Mrs. Frank A. English returned Sunday from Lincoln, where they have been visiting parents.

Harry Dixon, after a short visit to his home here, has returned to Douglas where he has a position as chief dispatcher.

Probate court will be in session next week, that being the regular bi-monthly meeting of the court.

Huge Mountain Lion

The papers throughout the state are telling about a monster mountain lion killed recently in Otero county, measuring seven and one-half feet from tip to tip. But that dead Otero lion is only a cub compared to one of the same species in Lincoln county, alive, if W. T. Dycus didn't see twice. Dycus recently returned from a fishing trip on South Fork and reports seeing a mountain lion in a cave along that stream that had a tail longer than the full measurement of the dead Otero panther, and that its head was as large as a bushel basket. Of course, we are compelled to take Dycus' estimate, as he did not stop long enough to get an exact measurement.

THE NEW MEXICO STATE UNIVERSITY

At Albuquerque
OPENS TUESDAY, AUGUST 17th
FOR THE 1915-1916 COLLEGE YEAR

The State University is YOUR institution; maintained by the state to serve you and your children. Its standards are high; its credits are accepted at all the great American colleges. Whether your son or daughter is just entering high school; whether college work is to be determined on this year or in the future, it is your duty to inform yourself now about your home state university, its fine equipment and the opportunities it offers for broad and practical education.

TOTAL ANNUAL EXPENSE PER STUDENT—$195.00.
Write today for illustrated book F. Ask for the University News, a monthly magazine mailed free on request.
Address David R. Boyd, President University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, N. M.

Start Young

There is no habit that will add so much to your general happiness as the habit of saving. Start the child right with a bank account and instill into it the saving habit. We are glad to handle the accounts of young as well as old and will open accounts for One Dollar. Send your deposit by mail if you cannot call at the bank.

THE STOCKMENS STATE BANK, Corona, New Mexico

Exchange Bank

CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO
Transacts a General Banking Business, Issues Drafts on all Principal Cities of the World. Accounts for the receipt and disbursement of money. Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

Mid-Summer Wear for Men, Women and Children

SPECIALLY PRICED NEXT WEEK

Little Boys' Wash Suits

95c

Oliver Twist and Knickerbocker Styles. Values, $1.25 and $1.50

A lot of Women's Silk Hats, Red, Green and combination colors

75c

Children's Barefoot Scuffer Sandles

SIZE 5 to 8 85c

SIZE 8 1/2 to 11 90c

SIZE 11 1/2 to 2 95c

White Striped Serge and Mohair 35c yd.

Values to 75c yd. pretty for summer skirts

Men's Silk Hats 75c

Blue, Brown and Grey

Women's Low Shoes $1.95

Patent and Gunmetal

Carrizozo's Economy Center

ZIEGLER BROS

We Live up to our Advertisements