

Closing Exercises County High School

Lincoln County High School at Capitan will close Friday, June 4, one week later than announced in last week's paper. By continuing the session until that date a full nine months term of 180 actual teaching days will have been completed, thus complying with the recommendation of the state department of education.

There are no graduates this year and consequently no regular commencement exercises will be held, but a closing program will be given on the evening of Wednesday, June 2, this date having been chosen with the idea that an entertainment of the kind contemplated should become an annual feature of the closing week and should be given at a time which will not interfere with future graduation exercises usually held on the evening of the last day of school.

An interesting program consisting of music, both instrumental and vocal, impersonations and readings, and the play, "The White Shawl," is being prepared. Rehearsals for the play and other numbers of the program have been going on for some time, and judging by the enthusiasm shown by all members of the cast and others on the program, and by their painstaking efforts to make thorough preparation this entertainment bids fair to be the best of the several during the two years the County High School has been in existence.

Piano Solo, selected. Miss Irvin
"The White Shawl"—Act I.
Reading, selected, Mrs. E. C. Price
"The White Shawl"—Act II.
Piano Duet.
Miss Irwin and Mrs. Price
Good Night Song.
..... The High School

After the program the audience is invited to visit the domestic science room to see some of the work done by the sewing and manual training classes during the year; and to be served with light refreshments by the cooking class.

Italy Proclaims War

The kingdom of Italy formally declared war against Austria-Hungary Monday, the 24th. Germany was not included in the declaration, but Germany has since included herself and it is said will lead the fight against Italy. Germany's hostility is based on two grounds, viz.: Italy's attack on the dual monarchy, and second, Italy's violation of the agreement in which she was one of the Triple Alliance.

What really induced Italy to go to war, as everyone knows, is to recover a large portion of Austrian territory, largely inhabited by Italians and once a part of Italy's dominions. While Italy's action can scarcely be commended from a moral standpoint, yet her action is no more sordid than some of the other warring nations, with this exception: She has broken a formal agreement with Germany and Austria.

There are now eleven nations engaged in this momentous conflict, three on one side and eight on the other, as follows: Germany, Austria-Hungary and Turkey forming one, while on the other are Great Britain, Belgium, Russia, France, Serbia, Montenegro, Italy and Japan. The indications are that three more nations will enter the conflict at an early date, on the side of the allies, and they are Greece, Bulgaria and Roumania.

I. M. Harkey Dead

We just learned this week of the death of I. M. Harkey, which occurred at Plainview, Texas, several days ago. Mr. Harkey had for a number of years suffered from cancer, had undergone a number of operations, and in doing so had spent practically all his years' accumulations, but to no advantage to his condition, which continually grew worse. About three months ago he left here, accompanied by his family, for Plainview, with hopes of bettering his physical condition. That such hopes were not to be realized is shown by this announcement of his death, which is regretted by many in this section who deeply sympathize with his family.

Should Have Been "Attorney"

Last week we had an editorial concerning the senate journal and inadvertently used the word "court" when "attorney" should have been used. The error was not discovered until the paper was published and can, therefore, be corrected only by a statement in this issue. Not only was the word quoted above wrong, but the article was incomplete and lost any effect it might have possessed, except one; and that was to put the writer in the attitude of attacking the courts, which was not the thought.

Big Percentage of Lambs

The lambing season is over and the sheepmen have tallied up their increase. We have not been able to get specific information from many sheepmen, but from those with whom the matter was discussed we have gratifying information. J. B. French, for instance, marked 95 per cent; Gal-lacher Brothers, who lambed beyond the Jicarillas, report about the same; and the results generally are believed to be around that figure.

Memorial Day

Next Sunday, May 30, is Memorial Day. On this day has been the custom, people will gather at the cemeteries to decorate the graves of the dead. Primarily, the ceremonies were confined to the decoration of the graves of Union soldiers, but as time passed all soldiers' graves, whether of the Blue or the Gray, have been decorated by loving hands, until it is now difficult to tell, by the flowers spread thereon, which flag inspired the form, once instinct with life, now reposing beneath the mound. And the custom has further grown to the decoration of all graves; and next Sunday will witness the greater portion of America engaged in performing the beautiful sacred service—bedecking the graves of the departed with sweet flowers.

Teachers' Institute Notice

Lincoln County Teachers' Institute will be held in Carrizozo, June 14-26. Fee, $2.00; examination, $1.00 extra.

One of the requirements of the teachers of New Mexico is Institute attendance for at least ten days. All persons expecting to teach in this county must record with the county school superintendent, this attendance before a teacher's contract is signed.

Address any inquiries to

Tice-Krooner

At Santa Rosa Monday morning, May 24, Dot Tice and Mrs. Lucille Krooner were married. The couple returned to Carrizozo Wednesday and will set up house-keeping. To say that the wedding came as a surprise to our people would be putting it mildly; for, although both contracting parties are well known and have many friends, the approaching event was so well guarded that it only became known Monday morning about the time the ceremony was taking place. This shows that man and woman can keep a secret, which is contrary to general belief. The News joins the friends of the happy couple in extending best wishes.

To Silver City

A number of teachers and pupils are preparing to go to Silver City to attend the Normal, some of them to go tonight and others later. We have not been able to obtain a full list of those who will attend, the following being only a partial list: Mrs. W. W. Brazel and daughter, Miss Beulah, Miss Schimp, Miss Olivia Kennedy and Miss Blanche Garvin.

New Ball Team Formed

As additional evidence of Carrizozo's growth, we call attention to the formation of another ball team this week. This team is fully organized and is ready to meet all comers. An organization was effected with John E. Harrison as manager and Ben Lujan captain. The players and the positions to which they have been assigned are: A. Lucero, catcher; J. Martinez, pitcher; Ben Lujan, 1st base; V. F. Vigil, 2d base; Conrado Salazar, 3d base; Tomas Serrano, short stop; Porfirio Chavez, Jr., left field; John E. Harrison, right field; Marcial St. John, center field, and Ramon St. John, substitute.

Federal Tax Payers

The following notice has been received from the collector of internal revenue at Phoenix, Arizona.

Owing to the large number of new tax payers who are not familiar with the method of paying federal taxes, attention is called to the fact that collectors of internal revenue can accept only cash, certified checks, or money orders. All personal or cashier's checks will be returned for certification.

CARRIZOZO, RAH!

We're loyal to you, C. H. S.,
We're faithful to you, C. H. S.,
We'd have you to stand as the best in the land,
And we'll shout C. H. S. Rah! rah!

Now rings forth our song on the air,
Let all who are croakers beware,
For we'll make you see
Just as plain as can be
There's a live bunch at C. H. S.

We're constant, true-blue, C. H. S.,
We'll all root for you and stand up for you, too,
While we shout C. H. S. Rah! rah!

May we who shall leave you this year
Go forth in the world without fear,
For the fight will be won
And our duty be done

Ancho

Dr. J. B. Hughes, of our place, returned yesterday from Duran, after a short visit to Dr. Gregory, an old friend of that place.

Andrew McBryer came down from Jicarilla yesterday in order to have a splint put on a broken finger.

We had the pleasure, and trust the profit, of a lecture Tuesday night by Mrs. Green, representing the W. C. T. U. It was very remarkable to see her use both hands at the same time with equal facility in drawing her cartoons, which were exceedingly fine.

Mrs. Chris Grube, who has been visiting her mama, Mrs. F. M. Deel, will return to Clouderoft next Sunday. Come again, Mary; we are all glad to see you.

Mr. and Mrs. Ad Carey are the proud parents of a baby girl, born Thursday, May 20, and they call the little stranger Dorothy.

We are to meet at our graveyard next Saturday in order to finish cleaning up the graveyard and fence the same. We anticipate a good time, as we are to have dinner on the grounds and have an all day meeting.

It is with regret that Dr. W. B. LaForee and wife make their departure for their Iowa home tomorrow. They will remain in Plainview, Texas, for a few days. We part with them very reluctantly, as they have made their visit so very agreeable.

Quite a number of Anchoites will take advantage of the reduced rates in order to take in the tournament at El Paso.

Mr. W. P. Bixell, the bookkeeper for the Ancho W. C. & G. plant, has just returned from El Paso, his old home, where he has been visiting for a few days.

Several of our community are anxious to visit Jicarilla next Sunday as there are to be religious services conducted morning and afternoon, and of course dinner on the grounds. You would enjoy a visit, ye editors, so much on an occasion of the kind at that

Will Germany Equal France?

The initial successes of the Teutons have led to the belief that the disastrous European war may be prolonged indefinitely. There is some justification for this belief when it is remembered that France, single handed, not only held Europe at bay for twenty-five years, but also invaded practically every continental country of that grand division and carried the French tri-color to Africa and Asia as well. But France had Napoleon, whose genius was equal to a half a dozen allies, while Germany has Austria and Turkey for allies, but no genius.

In addition to having allies, which France never had except when enforced by the sword, Germany, it is well known, was well prepared for this war, not only in men and means but also by a strong military spirit that had been fostered since her last successful war. On the other hand, France had just undergone the most disastrous revolution of all times, the king had been overthrown, royalty deprived of its privileges, its estates confiscated and the French nation divided into two hostile camps.

But in spite of this condition a citizen army turned back the invading host of Teutons, the battle credited by Cressy as one of the fifteen decisive battles of the world, and then came Napoleon! He made and unmade kings; he fought Italy, Austria, Prussia, Russia, Spain, Portugal, Holland and England; he sought of his own naming in every country of Europe, practically, save England and Russia, and one time brought the Muskovite to his knees; he kept Europe in turmoil for almost twenty-five years and was finally defeated, through the treachery of one of his marshals, at Waterloo just one century from the 18th of the coming June.

Can Germany equal that record? Authorities say not; and yet she made a more auspicious start, had years to prepare for it, and has two powerful allies which France lacked—and still she is not equal to France—France had a genius—a military genius unequalled in all the ages.

By the first of June we hope to have our building complete. So, of course, it will be greatly appreciated if those who have made pledges to the building fund could pay same at once, either to brother Perry or myself.

ALONG SIMPLE LINES

NEWEST GOWNS DEVOID OF COMPLICATED DRAPERY.

Picot Edge Much Used Instead of a Hem—Jet Retains Its Popularity—Organdie Embroidered in Colors a Feature.

Simplicity in line is a strong feature, and it shows the straight path along which the winds are blowing. There is no complicated drapery or ornamentation. Naturally, the French designer uses more skill in the manipulation of material and effects are usually simpler than the methods when the American sewing woman goes to copy them.

One of the well-known Fifth avenue importing houses in New York said that it was no easy matter to rush out new gowns these days. The trick they turned in other times of taking an order for a frock on Saturday afternoon and delivering it on Wednesday morning was too difficult to contemplate now.

The fashion for putting a picot edge everywhere has gained in importance, and when there are yards and yards of it on one frock time must be allowed for such work. And yet this trick of putting the tiny pointed edge instead of a hem contributes to the seeming simplicity of a frock.

Jet is used in quantities, as everyone expected. Jenny likes it well and puts it under tulle more than she does over it. There is a strong feeling for the styles of 1840 and 1870, both of which call for quantities of lace and artificial flowers. Often the latter is used under the former or to loop it up into the festoons which the empress of France liked. That 1840 pointed basque, with its straight décolletage, also copied by Eugene to show her lovely neck and shoulders, is used by Callot as well as by other houses.

There is also the medieval décolletage, which is cut in a straight line across the collar bone and which is distressingly ugly. (Heruit and some of her followers almost discard the deep décolletage line and bring the frocks well up on the chest. The square front with the high back is smart.

Although the high collar is reckoned as a first fashion, the best houses sent over the neck which is opened in a V in front, outlined by a

FROCKS OF COLORED LINEN

Charming Models Are Being Shown, Made Up in Variety of Styles That Seem Endless.

Linen frocks of more or less severity are made up in the very soft linen and in lovely colors. Very frequently the linen is used only for a skirt and an overblouse of some kind, while the long-sleeved underbody is of finest cotton voile or sheerest white linen. Russian blouse lines reappear insistently in these overblouses and in silk frock blouses, too.

There are many little platted overblouses belted a trifle high, with very short full poplins, among the twist season models in crepe and soft silks and a popular little frock of this type is rose crepe. Its overblouse and skirt are entirely platted in narrow box plaits, except where the fullness of the skirt is shirred in a hip yoke, to develop into box plaits below. The long sleeves are of rose chiffon and the chemisette and high flaring collar frill of fine cream lace with a bow of smoke gray velvet to match the narrow ribbon girdle of gray velvet.

Valuminous Vails. One of the new vails of the voluminous sort, has a small embroidered flower in bright color placed so that it will come over one cheek. Another big veil is unusually voluminous, and is a big, irregular circle with a circumference of almost three yards. It is thrown over the hat so that the center of the veil and the center of the hat coincide, and the wide edges hang unevenly down over the arms and back and chest.

WORKING IN FANCY LEATHER

Innumerable Pretty Designs for House Decorations May Be Easily and Quickly Made.

The woman who is skilled in needlework or handicraft of any sort will need no preliminary training for making small pieces of leather work suitable for house decoration. First of all take a stationary folder, for instance. It may be made any desired size, though each end should be made to fold inwardly to touch the center line to make the top cover. A good grade of soft black morocco leather, with black satin lining, would be a good combination, and the edges could be stitched with black silk thread or else bound with leather glued in place.

Corner pieces should also be cut and glued into place. These can be fancifully cut with an eyelet punch, and with the assistance of a pair of manicure scissors many artistic designs can be produced. For the holder use a piece of leather of any desired color, any fifteen by thirty inches square. Fold the ends toward the center and crease along the folded edges, after which at the pastebord to what will be the bottom of the folder.

Make the lining, but before attaching it stitch two satin pockets, on each end, which will be folded under with the overlapped corners. Bind the edges in any preferred style. If a monogram is desired cut the initials with a small eyelet punch and place satin back of it. This should be shown on one of the overlapped pieces.

If you care to furnish the folder with writing equipment in the pockets with stationery and add a black penholder and lead pencil.

WHAT FASHION HAS CHANGED

Silhouette of Skirt Most Noticeable—Modification of Clinging Draperies is Most Apparent.

The most radical change is in the silhouette of the skirt. From the narrow clinging skirt of last year to the wide flaring, circular model of today is a long step, both figuratively and literally. The change, nevertheless, is not so difficult as it may appear at first sight. For example, the long tunic skirt can be charmingly disguised and renovated by the addition of a wide band of embroidery or of goods of some contrasting color at the hem. This band will give tunics the necessary length and flare of the new skirts. The draped skirt often has in it material enough to be entirely recut, or it may be lengthened from the waist by the addition of a new, wide girde or yoke attached to the fullest part.

For the most scant and clinging of last year's skirts only one renovation is possible, but it is a charming one. Using the skirt as a foundation, build on this a series of ruffles or flounces, or veil it with a full, flaring over-skirt.

Dark Blue Patent Leather

Leaping from philosophy to detail, there was never such a fashion for patent leather as now. It has been brought out in dark blue, an absolute innovation. Belts, collar and cuffs, hems to street suits, pockets and many other accessories are fashioned of it.

Khaki colored serge and gabardine are in favor, more so than the khaki itself. Short jackets that have huge pockets above and below the belt, fastened over with a pointed snap and a brass button, are made by all the tailors. And as for military buttons, there is no end of insignia on them, though, of course, the proper ones, used by the allied armies, is not permitted.

PICOT WITH RIBBON VELVET

Charming Models Are Being Shown, Made Up in Variety of Styles That Seem Endless.

One of the New Shapes With a High Point of the Straw Forming Part of the Trimming—From This Mounts a Great Bow of the Ribbon Velvet.

Velvet for Little Girls

Girls from twelve to fifteen are following the example of their elders for afternoon in the wearing of velvet frocks. These usually have overblouses or long-waisted effects with the top skirt of velvet and the short underskirt of satin or platted chiffon. A collar of real lace and a satin belt or sash completes a very smart little costume which can be worn without a coat as winter weather approaches.

ZEPPELIN ANGRY WITH CAPTAINS, BUT IS CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

Commanders of Dirigibles Must Press Their Expeditions This Summer No Matter What Wind and Weather They Encounter, is Count's Order—Monster New Air Dreadnaughts, Protected by Aeroplanes, Will Take Offensive Soon.

By STEVEN BURNETT. International News Service Correspondent. Berlin.—Count Ferdinand Zeppelin, with Von Hindenburg, the idol of the German people, assembled the commanders of his giant dirigibles a few days ago and spoke a few plain words. The Fatherland depended upon them, he said, and they must press their expeditions this summer no matter what wind and weather they encountered. Such lectures of commanders in chief to their subordinates are not infrequent, as all close students of military history know. British and French critics, however, hasten to picture the count as a disappointed old man, disgruntled over the failure of his plans, and seeking to put the blame on the maladroitness or overcaution of his air captains.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. The count is as confident in his great idea as ever. The German people are behind him equally with the Kaiser. Germany now has at least thirty Zeppelins in commission, most of which cast the best air dreadnaughts of even last summer in the shade.

From these the count expects an offensive of the most effective sort. It has been argued that the Zeppelins so far have done nothing of military value, have only killed civilians and a few soldiers. This overlooks the destruction of factories where the French were working night and day on munitions of war, which took place on the last Paris raid.

But those close to the councils of the general staff inform me the Zeppelin activities up to the present are largely experimental. Soon the dirigibles will take up their task in earnest. Protected by flotillas of swift aeroplanes as the battleships of the sea are surrounded always by destroyers and other lesser craft, the products of the Friedrichshaven factory will attack fortifications, large bodies of troops on the march, supply depots, railroad points and staff headquarters; besides co-operating in what Germany longs for most of all, an onslaught on the British grand fleet's line of battle.

Bigger Than a Battleship. On a recent trip to Friedrichshaven, the best known of the Zeppelin factories because so close to the Swiss border that the little neutral nation can watch the birth of the dirigibles, I found about two thousand workmen engaged, and the force increasing daily.

I watched a trial trip of the latest addition to Germany's aerial fleet. Although not allowed to inspect operations closely, I learned that this Zeppelin had been assembled in 12 days. From a distance of five miles the giant beat of its powerful engines could be heard. It climbed to a great height and descended quickly. It hovered, under perfect control, over the waters of beautiful Lake Constance. It steered to perfection, executing so-called "figure eights" and other evolutions.

Its speed was what astonished me most. I secured no figures concerning this, but when the monster, dwarfing the largest warship, started in a direction away from me, it disappeared from view entirely in a few minutes. Then it reappeared and seemed to grow like a cyclone, so rapidly did it approach.

It should be mentioned here that while approaching end-on the new Zeppelin is nearly invisible. This is due largely to an ingenious color arrangement. When presenting its side, however, the Zeppelin makes a good target for artillery. Here is a weak point in the Zeppelin. With hostile aeroplanes it does not have to reckon—these will be left to the attendant monoplane or biplanes.

British airmen have attacked the Friedrichshaven works several times, dropping bombs which did slight damage. When they come again they will find it difficult to assail the factory, for enormous defensive works of concrete have been erected.

Count Zeppelin has just written his reminiscences, which are now appearing in the magazine Der Gref here. He was a military attaché attached to the northern army in the American Civil war, and narrates many amusing and enlightening incidents of that great struggle.

First Ascension in America. It is not generally known that Zeppelin's first balloon ascension took place in the United States at this time. He conceived the central idea of his dirigible in 1863 and has been working on it 53 years, expending almost all his personal fortune of about three million dollars, besides much money contributed by wealthy friends.

TRENCH MAKERS PAUSE FOR LUNCHEON

Germans in Poland pause in their work of digging trenches for their midday meal.

Here is Count Zeppelin's account of meeting President Lincoln:

"Through the good offices of the Prussian ambassador I was able to obtain an audience with President Lincoln. I solemnly donned my frock coat and high hat, but found no special pomp attaching to the ceremony. "At the White House I was taken into the room where the president worked. From behind the writing table a very tall, lean form arose, with a large head, long, unkempt hair and beard, and strikingly projecting cheekbones, but shrewd, kindly eyes. During my short talk with the president his private secretary, Reed, sat on the writing table, swinging his feet rhythmically to and fro—they stuck far out of his trouser legs and were incased in a pair of shoes resembling moccasins.

"President Lincoln expressed himself as much pleased at my coming and my plans, and wished my success in the studies which I proposed to make."

There was apparently no iron discipline in the federal army, such as the count had been accustomed to in Prussia. Telling of his arrival at the headquarters of the Army of the Potomac, he says:

"Headquarters was a gigantic cluster of tents, standing in long rows in the midst of a clearing. To find my way about in the midst of this chaos of tents—concerning which I shall have more to say later—struck me as far from easy. I felt by no means at home there, especially as my servant was not to arrive until the next day with my baggage, my horse, and a second mount furnished to me by the government. I had a letter of introduction to the commander of the army, General Hooker, which I was to deliver to him in person, but as he had gone to Washington over Sunday, I could not present my credentials, and found the greatest difficulty in getting shelter and food, especially as my English in those days was very meager. Eventually a Swede, Captain Rosenkrantz, who spoke good German, took me into his tent."

Meets General Hooker. He later presented himself to General Hooker with a pass.

"He received me very kindly and assigned a tent for my special use. From that time on he showed his friendliness toward me by asking me to take a whiskey with him every time he saw me. He was, in fact, far more a genial toper than an army command-er to be taken seriously, yet he ranked

With the best military who had gone through West Point.

"Soon I was well known about headquarters. This became especially apparent in the number of drinks offered to me, it being the general custom for men to invite acquaintances into their tents to partake of one. I must confess I rarely got past a tent safely.

"Among the more important officers whom I met was General Butterfield, chief of the general staff. When he was postmaster general he had organized the first post delivery system for San Francisco, and the talent for organization which he had then displayed had caused him to be looked upon as the best man for the important military position which he held when I met him.

"In planning operations he attached special significance to knowledge of the probable weather conditions and for this reason he became especially fond of an excellent aneroid barometer of mine which I had obtained from London and paid good money for.

"General Butterfield saw this instrument in my tent, borrowed it from me, and then found it impossible to separate himself from it. Longer and longer he would keep it, each time he borrowed it, until at last he failed to return it at all. When I was about to leave the army I requested him to return it again and again, and became finally so pressing that I compelled him to go into his tent to fetch it out.

"After waiting outside a long time, I followed him into the tent. It was empty. With my barometer in his hand he had crawled under the canvas and disappeared."

PATIENT FASTED 56 DAYS

And Buttermilk "Did Taste Good at the End"—Lost Nearly One Hundred Pounds.

Warsaw, Ind.—After establishing a record for continuous fasting, Jim Robinson asked for a glass of buttermilk and as he slowly swallowed it admitted that it tasted good. "This was the first nourishment taken by Robinson, who is an inmate of the county infirmary, for eight weeks.

His long fast was due to lack of appetite and the fact that the taste and smell of food nauseated him.

Physicians here declare his case has no parallel in medical history. Fifty-five days was held to be the limit of man's endurance, yet Robinson passed that mark by more than a day and is still alive.

During that period he lost nearly one hundred pounds. Except for being weakened, his general physical condition was not affected.

IRONING BOARD ROUTS THIEF

Intruder Makes Hasty Exit When Landlady Uses the Weapon.

Greenwich, Conn.—With an ironing board as her weapon, Miss Louise Lehman, a landlady in the home of George L. Storm, fought a burglar and forced him to climb out of a window and drop 30 feet to the ground.

Miss Lehman heard a noise in Mrs. Storm's room, and, looking through the keyhole, saw a man inspecting diamond rings and other articles of jewelry in a bureau drawer. "What are you doing there?" said Miss Lehman, entering the room. "Leave this house at once."

After the landlady had struck him several times in the face with the board he left.

His Height Saved Him.

Wabash, Ind.—Blondell Berry, former county surveyor and one of the county's tallest men, owes his life to his height. Mr. Berry recently went down to a ditch that was being dug in the rear of his home at Laketon and hardly had he reached the bottom than the sides caved in, burying Mr. Berry with the exception of his head. His calls for help were heard by his wife, who summoned neighbors and he was dug out.

Well, and "what's the answer?" What did YOU say? He said to me and I said to him, "It was a game, all right, and we certainly had a good time." Who? Everybody.

As to "who is who," we have not heard who it was that put "Cha" in Chant, or "Fis" in Fisher; but we do know who put "High" in Hightower. Now, honestly, we have been taking up enough of the News' valuable space for the past games and we are most grateful to Mr. Haley for his kindness, and it's almost a crime to ask him for so much this time, since you know Mr. Haley is one of the chief mourners; so, for his kindness we thank him, and for his ball team and their regular defeats we extend sympathy, exhorting him to get Mr. Rolland off on the quiet and see if something cannot be done for Carrizozo. The defeat of El Paso S. W. should inject some vim in the Sand Crabs, and we promise to do all we can to encourage them.

Along the seventh inning, it being self-evident that Stanton had the game, here and there stragglers began making from the field, autos began getting cranky, especially those that came miles to pipe for El P. S. W., and so a third funeral was celebrated with a real Chant making the Requiem the more solemn; for, George, those big lungs of yours are good Chanting; hymns for the dead, but nothing doing when you try to help the living. Better see Bill Linsey and probably you can loan him some of that wind to be used on a team well worthy of good "cheering."

Line up: FORT STANTON. Fisher, Goodman and Hightower. Lawrence, Norman. Hammond, S. G. Hightower. Chant, Roberts. Martin, Burleson. York, Dixon. Hardtug, Sullivan. Connors, P. Hightower. Le Laurence, Phillips.

Runners: E. P. S. W.—Fisher, 11. Ft. Stanton—Goodman, 6; Hightower, 3. Base on balls: E. P. S. W.—0. Ft. Stanton—Goodman, 4; Hightower, 1. Left on bases: E. P. S. W.—12. Ft. Stanton—6. Umpires: Van Schoyck and Carr. Scorers: Board—Edward Raymond; book—C. U. Babbs.

NOTES ON THE GAME: What a waste of gasoline—for all those cars to come from the sandstorm district to attend their third funeral.

Van Schoyck—cut off the Van and insert a for o, cut out the C, and you can join the Fisher gang. A shark is a dangerous fish, but mostly in looks. Now try and learn the game, note the difference between a fowl and bull; remembering that, you may be able to get a job by writing the editor of Boyland, El Paso, as the kids sometimes get older ones to carry water during the game.

Just try if you can and imagine Bill Linsey trying to yell louder than Chant—probably your imagination will answer we doubt it. Question—why did McElhone forget his toothache?

Question No. 2. Why did Mr. Furgerson go to Carrizozo when a big game is on? Patriotism sacrificed for—that's true now we forget that in order to run fast the auto needs weight, and since the more the better and above all in this FREE country Mr. Furgerson you are all right. Have you seen Hanna's Christmas gift just received? The war was the cause of the delay, however. James says not everybody gets a Mayday present.

Visiting ball teams will please note where they tread hereafter while guests of the Post. They will please remember that we have flower beds, lawns, etc., instead of cactus and sage brush, and our florist here has his troubles keeping the quadruped kingdom off, let alone the Chicago pads.

LAST WE FORGET: We are enjoying a prosperous ball season, and therefore we should not forget to give credit where it is due. The team is doing well, but who are the parties financing the game? Without their hard work our team would be minus, and we would be out all this entertainment. Our most grateful thanks to every fan and patron of the subscription list. Those are the parties who have a right to enjoy the game, and as well give their open views in the way of making suggestions to the proper authorities. It is easy to go out and enjoy the game for ten or fifteen cents, but is it as easy to be on the jump night and day arranging, practicing, etc.? Mr. Leach, you have our sincere thanks. With our contributions, small they may sometime be, you have placed Fort Stanton on the sporting map as far as baseball is concerned, and we are ready at all times to back you. So keep up the good work, remembering that after finances, good wishes, faithful rooters and congratulations help all to enjoy the games.

Memorial Day Proclamation

It is now more than half a century since the clouds of war rolled away, let us hope forever, from our fair land. The lessons of peace have emphasized the horrors of war. A united people now gladly do honor to all, both living and dead, who risked their lives for the sake of home and country. "The animosities perish; the humanities are eternal." NOW THEREFORE, I, WILLIAM C. McDONALD, Governor of the State of New Mexico, do hereby proclaim, in the State of New Mexico, and request that all of our people lay aside their ordinary tasks so far as this may reasonably be done; that they unite with the patriotic organizations in an earnest, genuine observance of the day, that the schools prepare such exercises as shall impress upon the young mind the glory of the past, and the respect and honor due those who played such a noble part in the great drama, and at the same time emphasize above all things the blessings of peace and good will among nations and men. Done at the Executive Office this 17th day of May, 1915. Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of New Mexico.

(Seal) WILLIAM C. McDONALD, Governor of New Mexico. Attested: ANTONIO LUCERO, Secretary of State.

University Alumni Endows Scholarship

The Alumni Association of the University of New Mexico has raised by subscription among its members a fund which is to be used as an endowment for a scholarship in the university to be won in competition among students in the various high schools of the state. Exact conditions of the competition have not been determined as yet, but these will be announced before the opening of the high schools next fall, when the conditions will be made public in plenty of time.

This scholarship will provide sufficient money to pay the expenses of the student who wins it, through his Freshman year in the university, and will amount to a considerable item in cash. Living expenses at the university dormitories have been reduced to the lowest minimum consistent with comfortable room and substantial meals. It has been the policy of the university management to make the dormitories barely self maintaining and this policy has reduced the actual living expense of the student, for board and room, to $162 a year. It is probably the lowest cost for living at any college in the country where the dormitory system is maintained; yet the fare is excellent and rooms comfortable. This item, and necessary expense for text books, etc., in fact the actual expense of the student for the Freshman year, will be met by the Alumni Association's scholarship.

The endowment will make the scholarship available in competition for high school students each year, beginning with the next school year.

Saved Girl's Life "I want to tell you what wonderful benefit I have received from the use of Thedford's Black-Draught," writes Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky. "It certainly has no equal for a gripe, bad colds, liver and stomach troubles. I firmly believe Black-Draught saved my little girl's life. When she had the measles, they went in on her, but one good dose of Thedford's Black-Draught made them break out, and she has had no more trouble. I shall never be without."

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT in my home. For constipation, indigestion, headache, dizziness, malaria, chills and fever, biliousness, and all similar ailments, Thedford's Black-Draught has proved itself a safe, reliable, gentle and valuable remedy. If you suffer from any of these complaints, try Black-Draught. It is a medicine of known merit. Seventy-five years of splendid success proves its value. Good for young and old. For sale everywhere. Did you see Mr. Bursum shy at that tax law of his? It is loaded with political dynamite, and Bursum put it there.

Another week has passed and no statesman has stepped into the limelight with a denial of the charges made by Lieutenant Governor De Baca, that the senate journal had been falsified. On the other hand it has been made plain in the hearing before the supreme court that the journal, or the alleged journal, was even changed after it was returned from Las Vegas.

The organization of state democratic clubs in every precinct is a move in the right direction. Such an organization can be made of great assistance to the state organization of the party, and it is receiving the encouragement of all prominent democrats. Those interested can secure full information by addressing the secretary of the Santa Fe club, J. H. McCutchen.

Sunday, the 23d, Santa Fe turned out en masse to do honor to the memory of Rt. Rev. J. B. Lamy, archbishop of New Mexico for many years, who had thousands of friends in the territory. The occasion was the unveiling of a bronze statue of the first archbishop of New Mexico, who spent thirty-five years of his life in this field. Besides the dignitaries of the church many state officials were present.

The members of the tax commission have had sufficient experience with Mr. Bursum's tax law to see where he is wise to refuse to serve in any capacity in an attempt to make it do what it was advertised to do. That tax law was simply a political measure intended to embarrass the democratic administration, and is a living evidence of the fact that members of that old political plunderbund will sacrifice the interests of the people for any political advantage, real or supposed. The members of that crew will be welcome to all the political hay they cut with that tax mow. The people know who built the machine, and it will not take them long to discover the whyness of it.

The governor of this state is doing the right thing in trying to secure expert advice on organization and co-operation of fruit and produce growers from the department of agriculture. Many moons ago the News was advising the growers of this section to organize, as the only way to market their produce and at the same time protect themselves from the sharks in control of nearly all the markets where there are no co-operative institutions working. The department of agriculture also informs the growers of methods of marketing directly to the consumer.

Lest We Forget

The voters of this state should not forget that certain men, men in public life and supposed to be sworn to truly represent the people, have falsified the state records and are now seeking to force their iniquities upon the taxpayers and the people of this state.

Such men are not fitted to represent intelligent and progressive communities in public capacities, and their names should be carried throughout the state in connection with this crime against the constitution and the people of the state, in order that at the next election the voters can deal out to them exact political justice.

New Mexico has left behind the day when such things could be done and the perpetrators of the outrage continuing in public life as honored servants of the people. Men who insist upon conducting the public affairs of this state according to the methods and rules of the past, must themselves be sent to the political graveyard, and the sooner it is done the better for the good name of the state.

Justification Lacking

A stranger reading the report of Sunday's game at Fort Stanton, which appears in this issue, might readily conclude that the Carrizozo team was playing against Stanton under a pseudonym. And he also might be led to believe our entire population shed crocodile tears over the success of the Stantons. Nothing is further from the facts. Sentiment in Carrizozo was fairly well divided, Fort Stanton, if anything, having the greater number of friends. And if, as our correspondent seems to think, Van Schoyck's decisions were bad, there are others who think Carr's were worse.

However, the "most unkindest cut of all" is the assumption of our correspondent that our people—for he indicts the whole community—don't know a rose from a cactus. That, of course, could be taken only as a reflection on our intelligence, and lack of the proper botanical training. That someone overturned a flower pot, plucked a rose and thus wounded the aesthetic taste of the inhabitants of the Fort can scarcely be regarded as sufficient grounds for reflecting upon the intelligence of an entire community. Our correspondent should remember that one boor does not, of necessity, make a community foolish, any more than one swallow makes a summer.

Personally, while an eye witness of the game and enjoying every minute of our stay in the historic old Fort, the criticism doesn't touch us—hence no individual protest; for in our peregrinations our footsteps were guided by officers or attendants, our voice was subdued to a whisper, and we could not have been guilty of the faux pas had we been so inclined. So this friendly protest is made on behalf of our people, many of whom witnessed the game, and a reasonable percentage of whom are regarded as gentlemen. Fort Stanton, we have reason to know, possesses some very fine gentlemen—equal in number, perhaps, with a community of the same population, and we would fain have them respect our pride—even though our judgment on baseball is sometimes erroneous. Our correspondent, who is a pleasant gentleman, of charming personality, has simply dipped his pen in vitriol, which has not only made his criticisms caustically specific but comprehensively general.

MAHER, COLO., WOMAN SAVED FROM KNIFE

Mrs. Ora Porter of Maher, Colo., suffered for twelve years with stomach and liver troubles. Her case was diagnosed as gall stones and she was advised to undergo an operation.

She got Mayr's Wonderful Remedy in time.

The first bottle proved to her what the remedy would do. She wrote:

"I am sending in a few of the names of my neighbors I believe will be glad to know of your wonderful remedy. The first I took was a month ago. I have now taken four bottles and no one could imagine the difference in my feelings. I was so yellow, the whites of my eyes were even yellow. I had yellow jaundice twice—then a good doctor was called and said I had gall stones. I never had such hard attacks after doctoring with him, but I never saw a well day."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.—Adv.

Selfish Automobillist.

In an argument about world politics—welt politik—Senator Lodge said the other day in Boston:

"The morality of too many governments seems as frankly selfish and as frankly unjust as the man Smithers."

"As Smithers, Havana in 'mouth, came out of an expensive restaurant and started to get into his automobile a creditor held him up."

"I tell you what it is, Mr. Smithers," said the creditor, "you wouldn't go riding round in a fine automobile like that if you paid your debts."

"Ha," said Smithers, "quite right! My point of view exactly! Glad to know you're in agreement with me. The golf club, Alphonse."

Everything Higher.

The Old Skipper—"Don't you come tellin' me none of your cock an' bull yarns about waves 80 feet high. Why, I've been at sea, man an' boy, for nigh on fifty years, and I never saw none higher than 40."

The Young Sailor—"Ah, but see 'ow things 'ave growed up since then!—Punch."

DON'T VISIT THE CALIFORNIA EXPOSITIONS Without a supply of Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes or dissolved in the foot-bath. The Foot-Ease Remedy for the feet for 25 years. It gives instant relief to tired, aching feet and prevents swollen, hot feet. WOMAN COULD NOT SIT UP

Now Does Her Own Work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

Ironton, Ohio.—"I am enjoying better health now than I have for twelve years. When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could not sit up. I had female troubles and was very nervous. I used the remedies a year and I can do my work and for the last eight months I have worked for other women, too. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for I know I never would have been as well if I had not taken it and I recommend it to suffering women."

Daughter Helped Also.

"I gave it to my daughter when she was thirteen years old. She was in school and was a nervous wreck, and could not sleep nights. Now she looks so healthy that even the doctor speaks of it. You can publish this letter if you like."—Mrs. KENNA BOWMAN, 161 S. 10th Street, Ironton, Ohio.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out and drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Incorporated) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Greatest Menace to Tractor Which Could Be Put to More Use on Many of the Small Farms.

We will never be able to readily make much use of the gas or steam tractor on the farms until we make up our minds to pay more attention to our roads and bridges. Especially the bridges. They are the greatest menace to the tractor and the tractor's driver, and there has been little improvement in the type of bridges since the engine was put to work on the farms, writes William E. Rose of Iowa in Farm Progress.

It is rather strange that we are willing to use the traction engine to pull our road plows and our road graders and still refuse to build bridges and culverts strong enough to allow the same engine to pass in safety when pulling a threshing outfit or a train of farm wagons. But, it is the truth, nevertheless.

In spite of all the possibilities of the tractor, or the old-fashioned traction engine, a lot of people look upon it as an ugly contraption that ruins road surfaces, smashes culverts, breaks down bridges, scares horses and sets fire to meadows and rail fences.

It is altogether wrong. We could make splendid use of the tractor on any and all farms of more than eighty acres. Some day we will make these engines do much of the work, the heavy hauling done by horse teams, and we will save money by so doing. But that time will not come until we have better roads. And that cannot come to pass until we get a better supervision of road building than we have at present.

In many states the traction driver who crosses a bridge takes a chance not only of injury to himself and his expensive engine, but also assumes the liability of having to repair the bridge if he breaks it down. Such laws discourage the use of tractors as much as they do better road building. The bridges are the worst feature of this condition.

The tractor has a right to use the public highways. It has just as much right to the public road as the heavy automobile, the overloaded farm wagon or any other heavy conveyance. The men who build such engines and the men who would like to own and use them should insist that these machines be given that right. No one dreams of forcing the automobile off the public highways now, and the overloaded farm wagon has used the public roads since they were the merest trails. The heavy wheels and the weight of a tractor help pack the highways and make them more durable. The big wheels compact the road surface, and this is one reason why the tractor is so efficient as a road grader and builder. With good bridges and solidly built culverts there will be no trouble with the usual type of tractor, whether gas or steam.

We are going to have to pay more attention to the kind of work contractors do on our steel and concrete bridges and we will be forced to see that the original specifications make allowance for the weight of tractors.

Change to Broad Tires. A wagon can be changed from narrow tires to broad tires at a very small cost. Don't wait for a law to force this upon you. Do it for the sake of the roads, for the sake of your tax money which maintains good roads.

Encourage Travel. Good roads will encourage the country folks to come to town, and will bring the city folks out in the country for fresh air.

Good Roads Advocates. It is gratifying to observe that every owner of an automobile immediately becomes an advocate of good roads.

Having Hard Road. Good roads appear to be having a hard road.

Taking Precautions. "Mr. Mulligan," said Dennis, "you must have been blinded by the death of your mother-in-law, for whom you had small affection while she lived." "I did." "What did she leave you?" "She left me alone—Isn't that enough?" "But I understand you've been spending a hundred dollars, if you've spent a cent to get her out of purgatory."

Showing Discretion. Betty was milking the cow when the mad bull tore over the meadow. Betty did not stir, but continued milking. Observers who had run into safety saw, to their astonishment, that the bull stopped dead within a few yards of the maid and cow, turned around and went away, sadly. "Weren't you afraid? Why did he run away?" asked every one of Betty. "He got scared," said Betty. "This cow is his mother-in-law."

Cheaper Plan. "I see," said the man who reads, "that to bring sleep to insomnia victims an English woman has invented an apparatus to flow water or medicated liquids on the forehead gently until the desired result is attained. What do you think of that, Pat?" "Sure, I think it would be cheaper 't turn the hose on 'em."

Disgusted Drummer Was Willing to Accept Joking Offer if the Law Had Allowed It.

A traveling salesman for a Gansvoort street wholesale grocery firm, recently back from a trip through the rough lands of eastern Pennsylvania, tells this possibly true tale:

"One day on my last trip I had a six-mile ride to make to the county seat, and the small village in which I was had only one horse that I could hire and no other form of conveyance. I may say that a friend had landed me in the town that morning from his car and I had sold goods enough to pay the expenses of the trip."

"Well, I got away on the sorriest specimen of a horse I ever straddled, and I was to send him back by mail carrier, though not as a parcel post package. It took me two hours to cover the distance—I was sorry enough I hadn't walked—and as I passed the county jail on my old dog of bones a face grinned at me from between the bars of a small square window. I was too sore to smile, but I nodded to the grin, and the prisoner called to me. "Say, mister," he said, 'how'd you like to trade; that critter for 30 days in jail?"

"Just then I would have been glad enough to have traded, but the law wouldn't let me, and I rode on."—New York Sun.

The Beady Vine. Singing was just over in the kindergarten, and immediately a small hand flew up.

"What is it, Alice?" asked the teacher. "I want to know what is a beady vine," asked the little girl timidly. "I always wonder what kind of a vine it is when we sing that song, 'Little lives may beady vine' (be divine)."

His Fitness. "What's become of your assistant?" asked the newspaper man in the barber shop, about to get the once over. "Oh, he's quit the barber game to become a newspaper man" replied the boss barber. "What does he know about the newspaper game?" "Well, he can handle the shears, all right."

Good stories about smoking and smokers continue to fill the space in the British papers not occupied by news of "major" engagements.

The following tribute has been paid to Gen. Sir Philip Chetwode by Sergt. A. Hawley of the Fifth Signal corps, I. E., who is at the front: "I have watched him calmly smoking a cigarette when shells have been dropping all over the place. I think that if all the German army were firing at him he would carry on as usual, smoking his cigarette and giving his orders as if he were at his club ordering a drink."

In mid-February German soldiers on the western frontier received daily two cigars and two cigarettes, or an equal amount of chewing tobacco, snuff or pipe tobacco.

Plan Humane Sunday in May. The American Humane association, a federation of societies and individuals for the prevention of cruelty, requests clergymen of all denominations throughout the country to observe Sunday, May 23, as Humane Sunday, calling attention to the need for protection for suffering and helpless children, and also for unfortunate animals.

Dr. Wm. O. Stillman, president of the association, Albany, N. Y., will send literature to all persons interested in the work of humane societies.

Rooms for Rent. Even college professors furnish some of the humor of school life. It was the registrar of a large university who, to an inquiry for a suite of "large, light, airy rooms," answered: "Why, I don't just recall any now; but I've got a lot of 'em in my head."

And a flustered professor told a class of young ladies, "You may have fifty minutes of the hour to tell me what you know on the subject, and I will take the remaining ten and tell you what I know."

Knew Where He Was Headed. The story is told of a very crusty, gouty old gentleman who lost his patience with his doctor, because he did not make enough fuss over the pain he suffered. "Doctor," he cried out, twisting and turning because of the agony, "you don't understand! You don't seem to grasp the case! You talk as though there were nothing the matter with me, whereas, I assure you, I am enduring the torments of the lost!"

"What, already?" replied the doctor.

Then Was the Time. Dr. Wmington Ingram, the bishop of London, is possessed of a somewhat cynical wit. He was once engaged in conversation with a very bumptious man, who was boring him terribly. "What a fine life a bishop's must be?" exclaimed the bore, enthusiastically. "I would give anything to change places with your lordship for just one hour to experience what it must be like."

"Ah," replied Doctor Ingram, fervently, "I wish you could this very moment."

LOCAL & PERSONAL

Governor McDonald left Saturday morning on his return to the capital.

R. O. Ferguson, of Ft. Stanton, registered at the Gurney hotel Saturday night and spent the following day here.

A new girl put in an appearance Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Ferguson, on the Mesa. The Ferguson family is now a well balanced family—four girls and four boys.

A. W. Colbaugh and daughter were here Monday from Corona. Mr. Colbaugh recently disposed of his cattle and ranch in the Corona country and is now looking for a new location.

A number of people were down from Corona Saturday night and registered at the Gurney hotel. They were Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Porter, W. H. Sultemeyer, Mrs. W. Dishman and Miss Pearl Colbaugh and Alma Kelzer.

Conductor D. E. Hale, who has been in the hospital in El Paso, has recovered sufficiently to return home. It was thought he would have to undergo an operation, but evidently it was found unnecessary, as his return indicates.

Mrs. Fred North and daughter, Miss Alice, left on No. 3 yesterday for Los Angeles, and other California points, before returning to their Tennessee home. They are mother and sister, respectively, of Mrs. E. D. Lewis, and have been visiting the minister's family here.

Mrs. Samuel Kelsey became very ill Saturday after an apparent recovery from a recent illness, and was taken to the hospital in El Paso. However, she is reported much better today and is expected home tomorrow. Mr. Kelsey accompanied his wife and will bring her home.

Mrs. A. Scherer, after a visit to her parents at Capitan, passed through here Tuesday on her return to her Tucumcari home.

Ben Nabours was here Tuesday night from the Capitans. Ben is in the forest service, located at the Baca ranch, north of Lincoln.

We handle Flour, Feed and Salt. Just received a car of fine Colorado Oats, and we are always pleased to quote prices. Humphrey Bros.

J. F. Kimball and daughter, Harriet, went to El Paso Wednesday. Mr. Kimball returned yesterday, but Harriet will visit with the Farleys until Sunday.

Samuel McLaughlin is here from Plainview, Texas. Mr. McLaughlin has a number of old friends here whom he knew years ago in Texas, and feels at home among them.

Last Friday afternoon the teachers in the local schools kept open house, exhibiting the work of the pupils in the various rooms, while the young ladies served cake and punch. Quite a large number of patrons visited the rooms during the afternoon, viewing, with many expressions of approval, the evidences of training in every department, the manual training and domestic science departments being especially attractive.

In the evening the large auditorium was filled to overflowing, many coming from a distance, to witness the presentation of diplomas to the five high school graduates, viz: Misses Lea and Olivia Kennedy and Iona Stevens, and Emuel Anderson and George Barber, Jr; and Governor McDonald's address, as well as other features on the program, consisting of solos, quartettes and a chorus, and the presentation of high school certificates. Rev. R. L. Day pronounced the invocation and the benediction.

The program was entertaining and delightful throughout. The governor's address was effective, delivered without any effort at oratory—just a plain, wholesome talk to homefolk, every sentence full of thought and every thought fitted to the occasion. The governor also presented the high school graduates with their diplomas.

All told, it was a fitting close of a hard, successful year's work, bright with the promise of things still better and an inspiration to pupil, teacher and patron.
