

Grand Jury's Report and Recommendations

Carrizozo, N. M., Nov. 2, 1915.
Hon. E. L. Medler, District Judge.
Sir—The grand jury, empaneled on the 25th day of October of the present term of court, having completed its work, respectfully submits the following as its final report. Eight days have been occupied in its deliberations; 95 cases have been investigated; 127 witnesses have been examined; 280 days attendance and 7168 miles traveled by witnesses have been allowed. Seventy-three true bills and twenty-two no bills reported.

In several instances, cases have been sent up for action by the grand jury, that should have been settled in the justice court; this would save the county much unnecessary expense and the ends of justice be much better served. During this session the investigation of cases has, in several instances, been seriously hindered, and in some results practically defeated, by the failure of justices of the peace to furnish transcripts of their dockets showing names of witnesses recognized, etc. Failures of this kind have occurred in White Oaks, Rabenton, Capitan, Arabella, Picacho and Corona precincts.

It has come to our notice that a very large number of prisoners, several held for serious crimes, have been allowed to escape from the jail during the past year. None of these escapes, we understand, were effected through the use of force or violence but solely through the carelessness of the employees of the sheriff's office. In this connection we desire to recommend that a suitable fence be erected around the jail as a precaution both against the escape of prisoners and the approach of persons from the outside.

We suggest that a suitable and permanent screen be placed around the toilet in the jail. The thin calico curtain at present in use for this purpose does not secure proper privacy and we recommend that a substantial screen with door be built in and maintained in proper condition to secure the usual seclusion.

Within the past few months many of the public roads of the county have been fenced up. In most instances gates have been provided, but in many places the roads have been entirely obstructed by these fences. We recommend that this matter be energetically taken up by the proper authorities and the roadways of the county kept open. A number of witnesses were examined concerning the violation of the Sunday law, and the sale of liquor to minors. We find that it is very difficult to secure evidence in these cases. We believe that an active enforcement of these laws by the proper officials would result in a material advancement of the interests of the community.

It has come to our notice that the condition of the public school building in Carrizozo is very unsafe. The windows of the entire building are covered with solid, heavy wire screens, the removal of which would be impossible from the inside of the building in case of fire. A part of the doors opening into the school rooms swing in instead of out. Under present conditions, the building would prove a veritable death trap in case of fire or panic. We recommend that the proper officials and the community secure the immediate erection of proper fire escapes connected with every room in the building.

We desire to thank the county officials, interpreters and bailiffs

Rivals in Vandalism

(Santa Fe New Mexican)

Enemy biplanes dropped bombs on St. Mark's cathedral, Venice, a week ago. Since Germany is not officially at war with Italy, it is assumed that the bomb dropers were Austrians.

Is Francis Joseph trying to rival his ally in vandalism? Is he attempting to match the brutal blundering that wrecked the cathedral at Rheims?

It would seem so. St. Mark's is located in Venice, but it belongs to the world. It is one of the noblest cathedrals on earth, and it epitomizes the long and dramatic history of one of the world's strangest republics. It has not and cannot have the slightest military value. If it were destroyed tomorrow the world would be poorer, but Italy would not be the weaker by a single rifle. Yet Austrian fliers come on a long and dangerous journey through the night in the effort to destroy this priceless jewel of the past.

And still, says an exchange, Germany and Austria wonder why they have no friends.

Fur Below

(St. Louis Times)

Having braved the rigors of summer by the use of heavy furs, she's back again, ready for a strenuous winter. With the first autumn wind she shows how well she is fitted for the struggle. In the early morning you can find her on the street cars chattering away between, or among, shivers. You know it's getting cold—albeit you have not felt the blast yourself—for the reason that she wears a low-neck dress. You feel yourself getting ready for a long cold spell, for she wears no furs. Lately she has adopted the Russian bath-towel effect, thrown over one shoulder, but that is because the summer still lags. As soon as it gets reasonably cold she will discard that heat producer. She is wearing shorter skirts. Far be it from her to be caught some cold morning with her lower limbs covered. It may drop to the freezing point any day now, and she wants to be sure that the frost will not find her smothered under long clothes. She has furs on the top of her boots. She had to have fur somewhere, and she decided that the shoe tops were the safest place. Furs on the shoes will not generate any extraordinary amount of heat. And then again, in case there should be any great warmth in the fluffy leg adornment she has very properly left a little space between the furs and the lower edge of the skirt. This will give the winds a chance, and the men a subject for conversation. She'll cross her "limbs" when the opportunity offers and that, of course, will help things out. With a lace waist she'll be ready for zero at a moment's notice.

Just received, a car of fine Colorado Potatoes. Also a car of Cotton Seed Meal and Cake. Humphrey Bros.

for the courtesies shown us, and especially our district attorney for the efficient help he has rendered us in our work.

Various committees were appointed to examine the offices of the different county officials and their reports are attached to and made a part of this final report.

Respectfully submitted,

Winter Care of Roads Necessary

Water, not cold, is the cause of deterioration of roads in winter, according to the specialists of the department of agriculture. Cold weather does not in itself injure roads, no matter whether they are earth, gravel or macadam. In fact, an earth road will stand more traffic when it is solidly frozen than at any other time. Excess water, however, is always detrimental to a highway. When cold weather turns this water into ice, the damage that it does is greatly increased. Ice occupies considerably more space than the water from which it is formed, and every person who has lived in a cold climate is familiar with the powerful bursting effect of water when left to freeze in a confined vessel. The same action takes place when a wet road freezes to any considerable depth. It simply bursts, or, as we term it in road parlance, the road heaves. Later, when the frost leaves, the road is disintegrated and ruts badly. If this process is repeated a number of times during the winter, a gravel or macadam road may be practically destroyed, while an earth road may become entirely impassable.

A dry road will not heave. Rock, gravel, sand, and even clay when perfectly dry contract slightly on freezing. In order to expand on freezing, these materials must contain or be mixed with water, and the more water they contain the greater the expansion which takes place. But so long as the road remains frozen the damage does not become apparent. Hence the frequent and erroneous idea that it is the thaw which injures the road. The injury was done when the water in the road froze and the particles of the road surface—broken stone, sand or still finer particles of earth or clay—were pushed apart by the expanding power of the freezing water. The thaw merely allows the ice to melt and assume its original volume as water.

The remedy is self-evident. Keep the water out of the road. The time to begin preventive measures is early in the fall before the fall rains have begun. If the road goes into the winter thoroughly dry, with the surface and drainage in good condition, the chances are extremely favorable that it will come out all right the following spring.

Keep the ditches and drains open. Remove all accumulations of weeds, grass, etc., which tend to retain moisture and obstruct drainage. Furthermore, do this work early, while the ground is still dry and hard. Vegetation and litter hold water like a sponge and allow it gradually to soak in and soften the earth. The job before the road man is to keep the hard, dry surface formed in the summer time from becoming softened by the fall and winter rains and snows. When the fall rains begin the earth or gravel road should be dragged frequently to prevent the formation of ruts and the collection of water. All ravelled places on macadam surfaces should be carefully filled in and consolidated.

During the winter, whenever a thaw is coming on, the cross drains and side ditches should be opened as far as possible so as to prevent water collecting along the roadway. If the thaw is so pronounced the roadway is softening, the drag should be used; and sometimes one round trip of the drag, with the hitch reversed, will entirely rid the earth road of

Ten Reasons For Preparedness

Commodore J. Stewart Blackton, author of the photoplay, "The Battle Cry of Peace," and leader of the "preparedness" movement in the United States, has evolved ten reasons why the United States should prepare for war. They are:

1. Because the preservation of our country, our liberty and our homes demands it.
2. Because by preparing now we will save our mothers, sisters, wives and daughters unutterable shame and suffering.
3. Because geographically we are no longer inaccessible to foreign countries. Progress has reduced the size of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans to one-half the size of Lake Michigan.
4. Because every American citizen is strictly accountable to his government in time of need.
5. Because every sane, conscientious human being is against war and for peace—and preparedness makes for peace.
6. Because, as a peaceful nation, we must not only be champions of peace and the laws of humanity, but we must have the power to enforce those laws—the power to insure that peace.
7. Because not to be prepared is to send our sons and brothers and friends to certain slaughter as "cannon fodder."
8. Because to prepare halfheartedly is like saying, "God bless you—to a certain extent."
9. Because preparedness is a "call to arms against war."
10. Because the way to spell peace is by the good, new, phonetic way, p-o-w-e-r.

Peter Duffy Dies

After lingering for months in the "Valley of the Shadow of Death," the long, bitter struggle is at last over and Peter J. Duffy passed into eternity Monday morning at The Fort Stanton sanatorium.

Mr. Duffy was a native of Maryland, but lived in the city of Washington the greater part of his life; and it was at the capital that his mother lived and there he leaves a sister. A veteran of the Spanish-American war, Mr. Duffy contracted malaria in the Philippines and later on developed tuberculosis. He came to Fort Stanton about four years ago and made a gallant fight, surviving the past few months by sheer force of will. While living in the shadow he ever had a bright smile for his friends—and his sunny disposition won him legions—who will cherish his memory.

J. J. and Manuel Aragon, formerly prominent business men of Lincoln but now living in El Paso, were here this week attending court.

slush and melting snow and leave the road surface practically dry. Don't get the idea that the drag is not needed on your earth and gravel roads in the winter time. Instead, keep it where you can get at it readily, for if the winter is an ordinary one you will need it many times.

Winter destruction begins in the early fall. The best way to prevent such destruction is to forestall it. Keep the road dry and remember that so long as it remains so it will not be seriously injured by frost. Keep the drains open, the ditches clear, remove all vegetation and litter, and use the drag frequently. If the road is kept dry to a depth of two feet below the surface there will be little trouble from the coldest winter.

School Notes

The beginning of the third school month finds an unusual interest in all phases of the work, on the part of both teachers and pupils, and the enrollment has materially increased as compared with any previous year. Attendance is showing a higher percentage than ever before, and there is much cause for gratification over the educational outlook in Carrizozo and District No. 7.

The school regrets the loss through resignation of Miss Eva Felton, who has had charge of the primary department since the opening of the present term. Miss Felton's employment was regarded as a fortunate move on the part of the local school authorities and the entire community feels that they have lost an expert. Miss Felton has decided to take a year off and spend the time in recreation with local friends; remaining in charge, however, until a satisfactory substitute could be obtained.

Mrs. Moore, of Albuquerque, took charge of the primary room Monday morning and the amount of confusion caused by the change of teacher has been negligible. Mrs. Moore is a young lady of excellent qualifications, and has had ample experience in primary work. She did not intend to teach this year, but was attracted by the opening in the Carrizozo schools and accepted the position proffered her. A feature which makes her doubly welcome to the school faculty is her ability as a musician, especially in the organization and training of a school orchestra. She is proficient both in piano and violin and will make an appreciated addition to the local choirs.

Mrs. Clunn, supervisor of music, still can accommodate two or three more piano pupils for two lessons a week. Mrs. Clunn is working on a guaranteed salary, but is very anxious to increase her earning capacity for the school, and we unqualifiedly recommend her instruction to all who wish to take lessons on the piano.

Humphrey Brothers are busy this week delivering the supply of coal for the winter. Thus far the coal bill has been negligible, but "alas, thus it cannot be always," and the black diamond will no doubt come in rather handy later in the season.

A Peculiar Accident

It is the usual thing for the man who gets struck by an engine or a moving train to suffer bruises, broken bones or possibly forfeit his life; but the unusual happened in the local yards Saturday night. O. S. Stearns was riding on the foot board of the switch engine which was making its way down the track. No. 93 was coming into the yards and two pedestrians dodging No. 93 jumped in front of the switch engine. The moving engine caught them, threw them against Mr. Stearns and hurled both to one side, clear of the rails, but the impact against Stearns drove him so hard against the cross bar that he has since been hors de combat. The two pedestrians are still going.

S. J. Woodland came in this week from the Block ranch country and will remain some time. He will make some repairs at the Bar W ranch.

C. C. Merchant, U. S. Commissioner at Capitan, was here yesterday and the day before.

Governor McDonald has spent a week here from Santa Fe.

Edith Cavell's Death Was Plain Murder

The death of Miss Cavell at the hands of a German firing squad caused a wave of indignation to sweep over the civilized world. Naturally, the allies and their sympathizers condemn the horror in the severest terms, but the world does not have to rely on their indignant protests. The following expressions of condemnation come from German sympathizers and from papers published in Holland, near the scene of the tragedy. The first quotation is from the New York Staats-Zeitung, the most influential German paper published in America. It says:

"It is a terrible thing. It seems too awful that such things should have to happen. There should never be a necessity for the execution of a woman under any circumstances. Had Miss Cavell's case been taken before the Kaiser she would probably have been pardoned. There are times when German commanders may do things in the heat of war in which even their own people will not support them."

This from the Nieuws van den Dag, Amsterdam, Holland:

"We feel that on such an issue neutrals and all who try to hold the balance of judgment fairly between the two parties must not allow their words of protest to be smothered. There must be no quibbling about pro-German or anti-German, and no trucking to any side, no matter how powerful. Against such things one must rebel openly in the cause no less of humanity than of Germany herself."

And this from the Amsterdam Telegraaf is the bitterest arraignment of all:

"She was fired on by a party of twelve and only one bullet touched her, but did not kill her. It was after this that the officer of the firing party drew his revolver and, putting it into the woman's ear, fired. A priest who was present at the execution was overcome by horror and is now suffering from a nervous breakdown.

"Under the fatherly government of von Bissing, the Belgians at present have cause to envy the Parisians of 1793, in the Reign of Terror. Not a person is sure of his life, and certainly not an honest and brave person, for the German Reign of Terror seeks by frightful examples to make the whole of Belgium a nation of traitors and cowards. Love of country, which the Germans themselves claim to honor as the highest virtue, they punish in the enemy as the most frightful crime. The sentence executed by them has caused the whole civilized world to shudder with horror. We wrote once in this journal: 'Holland is incapable of shuddering any more.' We were wrong: the death penalty on a brave woman has caused the whole of this country to freeze with horror. The German nation has now given up all make-believe of respect for the laws of nations. Openly and unashamed she makes herself a nation of outlaws against whom in future every possible measure of reprisal must be counted as warranted."

Mrs. Myrtle K. Hopkins, field worker for the Children's Home, Albuquerque, has been here this week in the interest of that worthy institution. Mrs. Hopkins formerly resided at Carlsbad before taking up this work.

John C. West, a merchant of San Patricio, was here a day or two this week.

N. M. Educational Meet Will Be Greatest Ever

Quite the biggest thing that has happened yet in the arrangements for the approaching convention of the New Mexico Educational association, to be held in Albuquerque during Thanksgiving week, is the announcement made from Santa Fe that through the instrumentality of the state corporation commission a rate of one fare for the round trip has been made by every railroad in New Mexico for the convention. The rate will go into effect on November 13, the final limit being December 1.

When it is considered that this is the first time that such a concession has ever been granted the teachers of New Mexico, and that this is the same rate that was allowed on the occasion of the state fair, some idea may be gained of the importance that the teachers' convention has attained. It was only four years ago that the enrollment of the association was only a little over 400. Last year it was approximately 1,700, and it is confidently predicted that this year will see a total of not less than 2,000 enrolled in the association.

The program which has been arranged is one that must necessarily attract all who are interested in the cause of education. The best men and women in the United States who were available have been secured for addresses. No expense has been spared in securing the ablest talent, and the teachers who come to Albuquerque for the convention will be assured of full value received in the way of benefits from the lectures and the other features that have been prepared for them.

Secretary J. H. Wagner, of Santa Fe, made a special trip to Albuquerque on Saturday to confer with Superintendent John Milne, of the Albuquerque public schools, in regard to the arrangements for the convention. The national guard armory, the most commodious building in the state, has been secured for the bigger events of the convention, and the indications are that it will be crowded to capacity. The sectional meetings will be held in the Albuquerque high school auditorium, which has a meeting capacity of 850.

There is no getting around the fact that this year's convention will be the biggest that has ever been held by the educators of the state in the history of the New Mexico Educational association.

ning yet. We heard of Americans who could, or said they could, whip their weight in wildcats, and really believed them superior to anything on the top side of earth. But, alas, how the great have fallen! We know now how the people of the entente powers feel after one of their armies has "met" the Germans. We hope to see the American boys who were in the argument (for a short time) entered in the next Marathon as Lincoln county's champion runners.

Felipe Saiz was arrested by Constable Gallegos last Friday for stealing and burning cattle and Saturday was lodged in the jail at Carrizozo to await the action of the grand jury. The ranchmen of the neighboring country have been missing stock, and a lookout has been kept for stolen stuff. Mr. Gallegos notified Mr. Purcella, of the Diamond A ranch, that he had located some stuff, and Thursday evening Mr. Purcella came up. It was midnight before they finally got into communication from Lincoln with District Attorney Hamilton, and then they came back across the hills to where the cattle, after being herded back in the hills all day, were watered at night. About daylight they caught Felipe Saiz driving the cattle to water and took them away from him. After protesting that the cattle were his, Felipe started for Lincoln to get a warrant for the arrest of Gallegos and Purcella. Having in the meantime found as suspected, that some of the cattle were burnt, Gallegos overtook Saiz and arrested him. Saturday, Mr. Dean, the inspector who had been sent for, came and found that four of the burnt calves and steers were Diamond A stock, one Flying H, and five, the ownership of which could not be determined, are being held for the sanitary board. Since then one more calf has been found, making six held for the board. Friday morning, when Messrs. Gallegos and Purcella took the cattle away from Felipe Saiz, his brother was getting ready to take charge of the cattle, but seeing how things were going he made his escape. Only a couple of weeks ago Ramon Maes had some chile stolen and Saiz's house was searched for it. The officer did not find the chile but did find fresh beef. No one knew where the beef came from, but as they were not looking for beef nothing was done about it. It is hoped that this will stop not only the disappearance of cattle, but of corn, fruit, vegetables, etc., for a while anyway.

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

Julius Kruttschnitt
On the Business Pond

Mr. Julius Kruttschnitt when asked to give his views on the business outlook of the nation from the railroad standpoint said in part:

"Business, as today organized, may be likened to a great pond, in which numberless waves are started one after another by the purchases and sales of the many individuals and companies, these waves spreading in all directions, crossing and recrossing, until their force is spent. "Everybody appreciates what would happen if a great bowlder like the European war should suddenly be dropped into the business pond, but not everybody appreciates the effect of the slackening of activity at some important center of wave force. The effect of a reduction in the purchasing power of farmers, following a season of bad crops, is generally understood. But how about the purchasing power of the great transportation industry? With the steady march of operating expenses upon revenues, without corresponding increases in rail way charges, the railways have been driven to curtail all expenditures and even stop entirely many customary purchases for extending and improving their facilities. The business pond is too big, and its wave activity too complex, to say that this is the sole cause of the present quiescent state of its surface, but it unquestionably is a cause of the greatest importance. How important this cause will appear from the amount of railway expenditures. "Take, for example, the year 1913, the last for which complete figures are available. In that year the railroads spent $2,170,000,000 in expenses for operation, of which $1,373,000,000 was for wages and salaries. In addition, they spent $426,000,000 for interest, $260,000,000 for dividends and $180,000,000 for new tracks, locomotives and cars or for additions or betterments to property already in existence. The total expenditures for 1913 amounted, therefore, to about $3,350,000,000.

"Some details of railway purchases of materials and supplies for 1913 are as follows. For fuel for locomotives, $250,000,000; for lubricants, water and other supplies for locomotives on the largest roads alone, $25,000,000; for stationery and printing, $20,000,000; for station supplies, $12,000,000; for advertising, $9,000,000; for rails, ties and other materials for repairing and maintaining track already built, $104,000,000. It should be noted that these statistics of actual purchases cover only what is needed to keep the railway plant in the minimum of working condition. More abundant revenues would not only result in higher and more generous maintenance, but in new construction work in the public interest.

"A question deserving thoughtful attention is: If railways should be allowed a slight increase in charges and relief from costly restrictions upon details of operation, would not the increased buying power that would be precipitated by the addition to their available revenues agitate the business pond to a desirable degree of wave activity?"

Educational Opportunity

Time was when a liberal education for ones sons and daughters meant long separation; miles of travel and expense that meant serious pinching at home to meet the bills. That time is past and the father or mother who seriously wishes to give the boy or girl a liberal education generally can do it if there is a will to do it. It is not alone the boys and girls of this generation who are fortunate in this regard. The parents are fortunate too; for education is not the terribly costly item of family expense it once was. The fact is brought home by an advertisement in this issue of the News announcing the opening on January 1 of the second semester of the state university at Albuquerque. The university authorities invite correspondence with the parents of New Mexico, and it would seem to be the duty of every thoughtful parent to investigate carefully the splendid opportunities the state has provided for our children in this institution. It provides as broad and thorough educational facilities as can be had in any of the great colleges, and living cost at the university has been brought so low that any father who can maintain his children at home can maintain them at the state university. It is not only the parents of boys and girls of college age who should be getting acquainted with the state university; the little tots will be ready for college almost before we know it, and they, too, have a right to demand a flying start in life; the kind of a start that is now possible for every parent to give his children.

The Russian and Austrian names of fortresses were bad, the Bulgarian and Serbian are worse, and the Turkish will be worst of all the three degrees, as it were.

The Fall Elections

The smoke of battle has cleared in the fall elections, in some of which woman suffrage occupied a prominent part. New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts voted on the suffrage question and in all three states the proposition to give votes to the women was defeated overwhelmingly. In New York an adverse majority of almost 200,000 was given, in Massachusetts almost 100,000, and in Pennsylvania 50,000. Three debatable states elected governors, and the results in all were very close. In Massachusetts the republicans were victorious, electing their candidate for governor by 6,000 votes, although the democratic candidate polled the largest vote ever given a democratic candidate in the state. The progressive vote in the state was almost wiped out, the candidates on that ticket casting only about one-third the number of votes that the prohibitionists did. A great many of the progressives went back to the republican party, and yet a large number cast their lot with the democrats, as is shown by the extraordinarily large vote given the democratic candidate and the small plurality given his republican opponent.

Maryland and Kentucky also elected state officers, and in both the democrats were successful and will control the legislatures. In Maryland a democrat will succeed a republican governor.

The prettiest sentiment with which we have come in contact, growing out of the present European war, was expressed by Lord Cromer when he said, "If the French are overcome the world will lose its smile."

It looks as though the "sick man" of Europe might wield the knife instead of furnishing the fowl for the Thanksgiving coming.

The ? Box

When home from work the "daddy" comes. As tired as he can be, A certain little Curly-Head Climbs up upon his knee; The workings of one little brain Psychologists might vex; The questions that a child can ask Might Solomon perplex.

"Daddy, what are horses bones made of? Daddy, do man crocodiles eat their young? Why? Daddy, why do spiders have so many legs?"

I answer them as best I can, But still he thinks of more; He quite exhausts my modest stock Of cyclopedic lore; Had I the wisdom of a sage I couldn't meet the task Of answering the questions that My little son can ask.

"Daddy, if the world came to an end suddenly, and you were up in an airship, where would you land when you came down? Daddy, if all the people in the world should holler at the same time, could you hear them in the moon?"

The Greek and Latin that I learned In school do not avail, And yet, such is his trust in me, I do not dare to fail; To him mine is the wisest dome Ever crowned with flowing locks; 'T would never do to disappoint This little Question Box.

"Daddy, where does a fire go when it goes out? Daddy, what makes a ball bounce? Daddy, why don't cows eat meat?"

LAD RUNS BIG FARM

City Youth Makes Good as Manager of Ranch.

Proves That Boy Born and Educated in Big City Can Take Charge of a Farm and Make Money at It.

Ada, Okla.—Can a boy born and reared in a big city and educated in a fashionable school leave the rush of the crowds, go hundreds of miles away, take charge of a farm and make money? Kenneth Wickett has demonstrated that it can be done.

Wickett, who is only nineteen years old and has been on a farm but one year of his life, is manager of one of the best farms in Pontotoc county. He is succeeding, if success on a farm is to be reckoned in dollars and cents.

Wickett was born in Chicago and, save for a time he was in school in New York, has spent practically all of his time in Chicago. A year ago he came to visit on Blue Valley farm, a farm of 1,000 acres that his father had bought a few years before.

While he was down here the manager left. Knowing little about farming, but having plenty of nerve and the determination to win, Wickett tackled the job himself and has been with it ever since.

The mixed breed of hogs that he found on the place were supplanted by purebred Poland Chinas. The scrub cattle that roamed over the hillside pastures in this short space of one year have given way to purebred Angus.

A score of acres have been added to the alfalfa acreage, and dozens of other improvements have been made by this youthful manager.

H. F. Wickett, a banker of Chicago, bought Blue Valley farm some years ago, and until a year ago did not make very big dividends. But for the last year, in fact, ever since young Wickett took charge—the farm has paid wonderfully well. Much of the money has gone back to improve the place.

A mammoth barn, dozens of white-washed hoghouses, big silos, shower baths for the workmen, a beautiful place.

MANY SHELLS WASTED

Hundreds of thousands of dollars are wasted each day in the failure of some of the big shells to explode. The photograph shows an Austrian 305-millimeter shell which had fallen into an Italian camp and had failed to explode, although it had fallen from the enormous height of the Austrian battery in the Alps. Note the size of the shell in comparison with the height of the man.

residence for the manager, another for the housekeeper, waterworks with running water in every house and barn, scales by the silos to regulate the quantity of feed, electric lights—these and other things have been installed. The conveniences of the city and country both—that is what one finds on this farm.

"Did you know anything about farming when you came down here?" he was asked.

"Not much," he replied modestly. "I have learned a great deal since I came."

"You expect to stay here, and make farming your future work?"

"I didn't intend to when I came down here. I am going to stay until I get things to going the way I want them to, however."

"Don't you suppose you will get to liking the work so well you will not want to leave it?"

"I can't say about that. It is mighty interesting."

PINE ENRICHES THE INDIANS

Chippewas on Reservation in Wisconsin Get Property Valued at $320,500.

Ashland, Wis.—Pine timber valued at $320,500 on the Bad River reservation, near Ashland, will be distributed among 647 Indians, many of whom are children, according to official notice received by the Indian office from the secretary of the interior.

In addition to the timber each Indian will have title to the land on which the timber stands, averaging about 80 acres for each person.

It is claimed by government experts that the Chippewa Indians of the Bad River reservation are the richest tribe in America, with one exception. They have more than a million and a half dollars to their credit in the vaults of Ashland and Duluth from the sale of pine from former allotments.

INDIAN RECHRISTENED AT 92

"Many Tall Feathers" Is Named "Grows New Teeth" After a Visit to the Dentist.

San Francisco.—Chief Many Tall Feathers, ninety years of age, and prominent in the Indian colony at the exposition, possesses a single tooth—gnarled and battered by many years' service.

"The white brother may have his teeth replaced—why not the Indian to whom the Great Father in Washington promises all things that are good?" pondered the aged chief.

Many Tall Feathers conferred with Chief Bull Cair, and now that Many Tall Feathers has been measured up for a new set of pearls his tribe has rechristened him "Grows New Teeth."

She Was a Movie "Fiend." Loganport, Ind.—Mrs. Manando McCabe, thirty-eight years old, was declared insane by a commission in Justice Field's court here. She had been a regular attendant at the moving picture shows, and during the last few weeks has been under the hallucination that she is "Queen of the Movies."

Saved His Life. Gregory, S. D.—Struck by the fangs of a rattlesnake, while on a load of hay, Carl Hoblit, employed on the farm of Benjamin Ballew, saved his life by his presence of mind. Immediately after the fangs had penetrated his arm he cut open the wound with a pocketknife and then sucked out the poison.

Stole Her Gold Tooth. Hellshire, O.—While she was sleeping quietly several nights ago, someone entered Mrs. Russell Gordon's room and took a gold tooth from her mouth, deftly prying it from the crown. Police are looking for one of her boarders.

THEIRS FOR ASKING

40,000 Settlers and Others Get Timber Without Cost.

Wood Taken From National Forests Free During Fiscal Year Worth Over $200,000—565,754,000 Board Feet Sold to Others.

Washington.—Of the 688,922,000 board feet of timber cut on the national forests during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915, according to statistics just compiled by the United States forest service, 123,168,000 feet was taken under free-use permits given to settlers and others living in or near national forests. There were 40,000 free-use permittees, and the value of the timber they cut was $205,464.13.

The remainder, or 565,754,000 board feet, was cut under sales contracts, for the most part with lumber operators, but including 19,246,000 feet sold at cost to farmers and settlers, as required by a special provision of law. The prices received for all sold timber varied from 50 cents to $4 per thousand feet, and the total value was $1,179,448.39.

The statement shows that the forests of Alaska are furnishing a large amount of timber for local consumption. More than 37,000,000 feet, according to the forest service, was cut under sales contracts during the fiscal year in the two national forests of Alaska, and it is estimated that the quantity taken under the free-use privilege amounts to at least ten per cent of that cut under sales. No figures are available on the Alaskan free-use cut, as residents of the territory are allowed, on account of the relative sparsity of the population, to take all the timber they need for personal use without going through any formalities.

Outside of Alaska permits are issued to those entitled to share in the free-use privileges, as a means of preventing its abuse and to regulate this form of utilization along lines which will tend to improve the forest conditions. The material taken by free-use permittees is restricted largely to dead, insect-infested, or diseased timber, thinnings and inferior species. Forest officers often set aside suitable areas from which those granted free use under the terms of the law may help themselves under certain general rules, but where green timber will be cut the trees to be used are designated just as in all timber sales. The amount of free-use material allowed individuals is limited to $20 worth yearly.

Montana leads the national forest states in the amount of timber cut under sales, with more than 101,000,000 feet, but takes second place in the free-use cut, with 18,000,000 feet. Idaho leads the free-use list, with a cut of nearly 25,000,000 feet, and is a close second in the amount of timber cut under sales contracts, with over 100,000,000 feet. Oregon, Colorado, Washington, Arizona, California, Wyoming, Utah, New Mexico and South Dakota. In the order named, contributed from 60,000,000 to 24,000,000 feet under both free use and sales.

IS OLDEST MESSENGER 'BOY'

Snowy Haired "Uncle John" of Luling, Tex., Speeds With Telegrams at Eighty-Four.

Luling, Tex.—J. E. Palmer of this city probably enjoys the distinction of being the oldest messenger "boy" in the world. At the age of eighty-four he works for the Western Union from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m., delivering messages from one end of the city to the other.

Palmer was born in Flemingsburg, Ky., January 29, 1832, and fought all through the Civil war. "Uncle John," as he is better known, came to Caldwell county in 1836. He is snowy haired and slightly bent.

Folk We Touch In Passing By Julia Chandler Manz

WHAT WILL THE HARVEST BE?

When The-Mother-of-Five dropped in for a friendly chat with the mother of The Little Maid she found her frantically sewing on a filmy lace frock for the child, who stood at the window, her great, wistful eyes watching the children at play in crisp winter air.

"I have had a wonderful tramp," said The-Mother-of-Five. "The winter air is such an excellent tonic to the nerves. It is beautiful out. Why don't you put up your sewing and take The Little Maid out in the glorious sunshine?"

"O, I can't," answered The-Mother-of-Five, in a superior tone. "The Little Maid is to dance for the Twentieth Century Club today. I have worked for a week on her dress. It is just about finished now, and I am too tired to go out."

"Margaret, for goodness sake, stop that fidgeting and fretting," she ended, irritably, addressing the five-year-old girl who stood at the window.

The Mother-of-Five glanced at the finery on the speaker's lap—the finery that had shut both mother and child away from the life-giving air and sunshine for a solid week.

But, what of that! Isn't a lace dress in which to show off The Little Maid's tricks of more importance than the air, the sunlight, and the throb of the earth?

"There," said The-Mother-of-Five, "it dropped into a moving picture show. When they had slipped into their seats and their eyes had become accustomed to the darkened room they saw that they sat beside The-Mother-of-Five and The Little Maid.

"Margaret did her dance just beautifully," said the mother of The Little Maid proudly to The-Mother-of-Five. "She was so tired that I thought I would just drop in here for a little rest," she went on to explain.

Rest! What a place for a little girl of five summers to rest at 10:30 in the evening!

The first film was that of "The Night Riders." When the masked men bound their victim to a tree and lashed him into seeming insensibility The-Mother-of-Five took the hand of The Little Maid into her own and felt its convulsive quivering, and she was not surprised, for the horrors depicted on the screen set her own quills leaping, and tore at her own nerves until they were on ragged edge.

Then what of this frail little child who should have been in bed hours ago after a day spent largely in the great out-of-doors?

The-Mother-of-Five looked from The Little Maid to The Mother-of-One.

THE-MOTHER-OF-ONE WAS LAUGHING.

At 11:30 The-Mother-of-Five passed the home of The Little Maid as she made her way home with her John,

It Was Pretty Enough—the Swirling Little Figure in the Soft Lace Frock. is finished. Come here Margaret and let's try on your new frock."

A light flickered up in The Little Maid's eyes and brightened her waxen features as she came to her mother's feet.

"OH!" exclaimed The-Mother-of-Five, shocked.

"Yes; I wish she would die," insisted the husband of The Mother-of-Five. "It would be a mercy if she did. For if she lives—"

"What will the harvest be?" came the singing voice of The Little Maid, to the passing couple, and with its shrill and weary tone was mingled the loud applause of the foolish Mother-of-One.

Got Him at Last. Old Eben was walking along the street one morning and one of his arms was in a sling. Mrs. Horton, who had often employed the old fellow for odd jobs, happened to meet him and asked:

"Why, Eben, have you met with an accident?"

"Yes, ma'am," replied Eben. I did. I've done up now, for sho! You see, dis arm in de sling, ma'am, don't you?"

"Yes, Eben," said the woman sympathetically, "what has happened?"

"Well, ma'am," the old colored man answered, "I'll be seventy-one years ole nex harvest. I done some lots ob trubble in my day, ma'am, but by de grace er God I miss do Kuklux an' I miss do Whitecaps, ma'am, an' I miss de Vigilance Committee an' de Regulators, an' now, ma'am, here in my ole age dem waxinators notched me!"

The lights in the parlor were still glimmering brightly, and sounds of revelry penetrated the walls.

"I wish The Little Maid would die," said John.

"OH!" exclaimed The-Mother-of-Five, shocked.

"Yes; I wish she would die," insisted the husband of The Mother-of-Five. "It would be a mercy if she did. For if she lives—"

F. A. English has a contract for the erection of a dwelling for George B. Barber. The building will be framed with lumber, metal lathed and plastered, and will contain five rooms.

Mrs. Thomas O. Luster, wife of the publisher of the Outlook, has been quite ill the past week with typhoid. Her condition is reported to be improving this morning.

Fred W. Jones, accompanied by his little son, passed through Monday enroute from Douglas, Arizona, to Chicago. Mr. Jones was agent at this place for a number of years, and has many friends, some of whom he met during his short stop-over here.

Punctual Pupils, Names in Newspaper

Any one can get his/her name in a newspaper when conduct is bad, but the faithful doers are overlooked. Hence the printing of the names of the pupils in the third and fourth grades of Carrizozo's school who have been neither absent or tardy during the two first school months of September and October (and it is not easy to change one's employment from vacation freedom to the routine of study) becomes the noting of commendable effort for which these pupils merit praise; and their teacher, Mrs. Ethel G. Cather, congratulation that their school work has been made so attractive.

Those neither absent or tardy were, in—

October—Aileen Haley, Tomacita Lucero, Nabora Luceras, Mary Miller, Ruth McMillan, Ella Rowland, Lois Stidham, Lois Jones, Lillian Johnson, Isidore Chavez, Flavio Chavez, Harry Cole, Beal Foster, Clayton Hunt, William Kahler, Blake Lovelace, Preciliano Padilla, Alvie Porter, Wayne Richards, Ervan Crockett

District Court Term Nearing End

The past week has been a busy one for the Lincoln county district court. A great many of the old cases have been disposed of, but the big batch of indictments returned by the grand jury—the report of which is given on page one—will probably go over to the next term, as Judge Medley will go to Silver City soon to sit for Judge Neblett. It is currently reported that court will adjourn tomorrow night.

The following is a resume of the past week's proceedings.

State vs. Tom Whitaker and Joe Gatewood, mistrial.

G. T. Price vs. Jas. B. Mocho, suit on note; settled out of court and dismissed.

G. L. Ulrick vs. Jesse May, suit on note; judgment for plaintiff.

P. G. Peters vs. D. L. Read, suit on account; judgment for plaintiff by default.

Lena B. Ayers vs. H. McIvers, suit for damages (alienation); judgment for defendant.

Mrs. Mathews vs. Carrizozo Cattle Ranch company (the Jake Springs case), being heard before the court.

State vs. Miguel Luna, assault with intent to kill; verdict of guilty; clemency recommended by the jury.

White Oaks Mine Deal

A number of mining properties have been transferred at White Oaks the past week, an eastern corporation headed by Richard Wightman becoming the owners. Included in the deal are the Wild Cat Leasing company's mines, the North and South Homesteads, also mill site and water rights owned by the same company; the Old Abe, including its various holdings; and, we understand, also the Wilson property, consisting of the Miners' Cabin and Silver Cliff lodes.

Attorney Shannon, of El Paso, is on the ground and represents the new owners and has put Edward Queen in charge of the operations. Mr. Queen was one of the original stockholders in the Wild Cat Leasing company, and has a thorough acquaintance with the mines of the camp.

We understand that the new company will push the extraction of tungsten, which is claimed to abound there as the richest high grade body of that mineral in the world. Recently a car was shipped, the car containing only fourteen tons, which brought a little over $16,000. The existence of this valuable mineral in most of the mines at White Oaks has awakened a new interest in the camp, and especially at this time when a 60 per cent grade is selling at $45 a unit, or $2.25 per pound.

Methodist Matters

The Womans' Home Mission Society will give their regular monthly sale of baked articles at the meat market of A. C. Wingfield Saturday afternoon, November 13, at 2:30. All kinds of products of the housewife's art will be offered for sale, and the ready disposition which the ladies have always made of articles contributed insures brisk business while they last.

Miss Anglin, the missionary from China, who was to have appeared at the Methodist church last Sunday evening, but was detained by sickness, will be here next Sunday evening without fail. The meeting will be interdenominational and the entire town and community is invited to be present. The evening's program will be under the auspices of the High school, and much interest is being manifested in offering some attractive musical numbers. Miss Anglin will, as previously announced, appear in the native Chinese costume.

Embroidery Club

Mrs. John Bell's embroidery club met Thursday with Mrs. Donaldson. The club is in the form of a Christmas club, and is making Christmas presents. The members are Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Cribb, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Lucas, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Mahann, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Kelley, Sr., Mrs. McCurdy, Mrs. Tennis, Mrs. Wanner, Mrs. Forrest, Mrs. Booth, Mrs. Forster and Mrs. Smith.
