

International Soil Products Exposition

At El Paso, for eleven days—October 14-24—will be held the greatest session of the International Farm congress that this active body for farm promotion has ever staged. Ten years of ever-increasing success have clearly demonstrated that this is the greatest exposition of soil products in the world. Here are annually displayed the results of modern, scientific, up-to-date farming from twenty states, and from many nations and provinces. Here are to be found those object lessons which exert such a tremendous influence toward a better agriculture. Delegates from a majority of the American states, from all the Canadian provinces, and from twenty other countries are always present, to study the exhibits in all lines.

The latest and most improved farm implements and machinery are displayed and demonstrated at this exposition. Progressive farmers can well afford to, and do, travel hundreds of miles to attend, as they are thereby enabled to keep fully abreast of all development affecting agriculture and allied industries.

A dairy show and sale, and a show and sale of beef cattle, hogs and sheep, will be a strong section of the exposition at El Paso. Breeders who desire to consign stock to this show and sale, or those who desire further information concerning it, should write for special folders.

The greatest single exhibit is that of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This exhibit represents an investment of more than one hundred thousand dollars, and additional special features are provided for by an appropriation of $20,000, made by the government.

The Canadian government will have a large and splendid exhibit. The United States Reclamation Service and the Indian Bureau will each be strongly represented with up-to-date exhibits.

Twenty states of the United States, several provinces of Canada, and a number of nations, will fill the Interstate and In-

H. S. Hanner Takes a Bride

H. S. Hanner, of White Oaks, and Miss Myrtle Barnard, of Anguilla, Mississippi, were married at the home of the bride Monday evening, September 18. Immediately following the ceremony they left for a trip through Tennessee, Kentucky and the east, where they will visit various fairs, and will return to the bride's home by boat down the Mississippi.

The bride is a most talented young lady and has a wide circle of friends in her home state. Her father is a well known business man of that section. The groom is widely known in this county, having lived at White Oaks a number of years, and his friends extend felicitations upon his marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Hanner are expected home in the near future.

International building with displays illustrative of their agricultural, industrial and commercial resources.

The Commercial and Varied Industries Exhibits, Motor Car and Accessories Show, Dairy and Live Stock Show, Gas and Electric Show, Mining Machinery Exhibit, "Silo Show, Boys' Pig Exhibit, Woman's Achievement Department and other sections will all have ample space.

AMUSEMENTS
Bands of national and international fame, including the famous United States and Mexican military bands.

A complete "Circus Royale" presented from a mammoth, specially constructed stage, embracing a dozen complete acts of a most highly sensational and amusing character, and requiring two hours each afternoon and evening.

The entire exposition is blended into one harmonious whole, constituting an opportunity for entertainment, instruction and amusement probably never before offered.

The annual session of the International Irrigation Congress will be held at El Paso, October 16-18, after formal assembling of the organization at the Elephant Butte Dam dedication, on October 14.

Democratic Candidates Meeting Cordiality Wherever They Speak

THIS IS A DEMOCRATIC YEAR IN NEW MEXICO

Santa Fe, Sept. 27.—That this is a Democratic year in New Mexico; that the Democrats of the state are alert, determined and aggressive, and that Independent Republicans—men who refuse to stand for machine rule and corruption, regardless of the fact that it bears the party label—are with them in their fight for public decency and good government, have been conclusively shown by the first speaking tours of the Democratic candidates.

At every point visited the candidates were received with the greatest enthusiasm, and record-breaking audiences turned out to hear them.

The Pecos valley was invaded by Governor McDonald, Lieutenant-Governor E. C. de Baca, Democratic candidate for governor, and former Governor M. A. Otero, Democratic candidate for state auditor, and their trip was a series of ovations. In his speech at Roswell Lieutenant-Governor de Baca, the able, honest, upstanding, fearless American that the people of New Mexico are going to place in the executive office, made a tremendous hit. Among other things he said:

"Enemies of mine say I am too partisan to be a fair governor. In my home county of San Miguel, to be a Democrat is to be a martyr. I have always fought for honesty and fair dealing, and have always fought for my party, because I believe it the most honest and just party; and for my friends, who have been persecuted for their political principles."

"I propose to fight for the principles of honesty and justice, and to stand by my party and my friends when they are right. If that be partisanship, let them make the most of it."

Former Governor Otero, the territorial executive who separated Frank Hubbell from office in Bernalillo county on charges preferred by Frank W. Clancy, then district, and now Republican attorney general of the state, scored the indefensible records of Hubbell and Bursum, and said:

"Five years ago I went out with Governor Hagerman to do what we are going to do today—defeat a corrupt political gang that is trying to foist on the people of the great state of New Mexico two men who are unworthy of filling the exalted places they seek."

"I have known Mr. Bursum many years—knew him when I was governor and he a senator from Socorro county; and I had to watch him all the time to keep him from putting over such bills as the infamous Hawkins railroad damage suit bill, which was annulled by congress after it was passed by my veto."

In his speeches in the Pecos valley Governor McDonald drove home the fact that the Republican candidates cannot get away from the records they have made; that they must stand on them in this campaign.

Not An Issue

(From The Christian Science Monitor.)
The Republicans, thus far, mistakenly as many impartial onlookers believe, have undertaken to make capital out of the administration's Mexican policy. Mexico might once have been, but it is not now, and cannot be made, an issue. Fair-minded people are pretty well agreed that, on the whole, the Mexican

Not a vote less than 5,000 Democratic majority in the counties of Eddy, Chaves, Roosevelt and Curry is the declaration of the enthusiastic Democrats of southeastern New Mexico. They expect to make it much larger.

New Democratic history will be made this year in Taos and Rio Arriba counties, and in San Juan county larger Democratic majorities than ever before will be rolled up for A. A. Jones and the rest of the Democratic candidates.

In San Juan county the voters are laughing over Bursum's desperate attempts there to garner a few votes by extravagant promises of road construction, and by admitting that the outrageous county salary law, which he had passed over the governor's veto after he had prepared the way by throwing out four duly elected Democratic members of the house, was a hold-up; stating that it was the best possible "under the circumstances," and that if the people would only elect him governor all would be remedied. The people of San Juan, along with the people of every other section of the state, know Mr. Bursum as the Great Promiser—who never fulfills. They know that he and his crowd have been in control of every New Mexico legislature for many years; they know that he could have secured the passage of any law that he desired; they know that the laws he desired have been passed; they know that every piece of Republican machine legislation—measures inimical to the interests of the people of New Mexico—bear the Bursum brand; they know his record as penitentiary superintendent and as Republican boss. In a word, THEY KNOW BURSUM.

The sandbagging county salary law was the best possible "under the circumstances." Bursum was one of the chief "circumstances."

In Taos and Mora counties Frank Hubbell has evidenced his fitness for the dignified position of United States senator by personal abuse of Democratic candidates; by mud-slinging of the rankest sort; by referring to Governor McDonald as a "devil with horns." Even the nerve of the Republican press bureau hasn't been equal to putting out anything that Hubbell said.

The Republican gang of New Mexico is without an issue in this campaign. It has nothing to fight with but misrepresentation and political slander, falsehood and intimidation. Its cuttle-fish press bureau is desperately endeavoring to muddy the waters. But the people of New Mexico are not to be deceived. They have been hoodwinked for the last time. They are determined this year to repudiate, decisively and finally, the Republican gangsters, who are seeking power solely with the object of exploiting the state for selfish and unscrupulous ends.

Bond Issue Proposed For Lincoln County

Dr. S. M. Johnson, of Ruidoso, one of the most consistent road boosters in Lincoln county, is advocating the issuance of bonds by this county to the extent of $55,000, to be applied on the building of roads. Dr. Johnson has discussed the proposition with many of the heaviest taxpayers of the county and says the proposed issue of bonds is meeting with general favor.

The petitions that are in circulation call for the expenditure of the bond proceeds on specific roads, as follows:

The Carrizozo-Corona road	$4,000
The Carrizozo-White Oaks-Jicarilla road	1,500
The Lincoln-Arabela road	3,000
The Devil's Canon road	1,500
The Gavilan Canon-Alto-Angus-Nogal road	3,500
From Angus to the Capitan-Nogal road	500

The remainder of the fund to be divided equally between the three following roads, and be so specified in the bond election.

The road from Picacho hill to Lincoln; the road from Lincoln to Carrizozo; the road from Hon-do up the Ruidoso to the Mesalero Reservation.

Dr. Johnson's letter outlines the reasons for the issue and the purpose of designating particular roads, and is herewith given in full:

Ruidoso, N. M., Sept. 21, 1916.
My dear Mr. Haley:
Enclosed please find copy of petition for a Bond Issue for Roads in our county, also for transfer of certain unused funds now in the Treasury to the Road Fund.

Also letter of Governor McDonald relative thereto. Copies of the petition are being circulated.

While it requires the signatures of only ten per cent of the qualified voters to authorize the calling of the election, we wish the signatures of a majority, because our applications for federal aid must be filed by October 1, in order to share in this fiscal year's appropriation, and by January 1, next, in order to share in next year's appropriation; and we must state in our application if we will put up our half of the required money.

The selection of specific roads to be improved by this fund, and the amounts specified in each instance, are the outgrowth of

Good Industrial Work In the Local Schools

The club year closed each week, and it is a pleasure to state that a goodly number of the members have finished one or more of the club projects. From these members were chosen the delegates to the State Fair at Albuquerque. The person making the highest score in any one of the projects was entitled to go. Those in class B, were not able to finish their project, owing to their leader being away during the summer. While they were not entitled to a delegate from their number, it is the purpose to continue the work till the project is finished.

Those who finished projects in class A are:
Sewing Project - Rachel Hughes, Clara Brazel, Ula Edmiston, Margaret Lacey.
Poultry Project - Dero Stevens, Urano Stevens, Gladney White.
Cooking Project - Ula Edmiston, Margaret Lacey.

Those chosen for the trip to Albuquerque this week were Gladney White, Clara Brazel, Ula Edmiston and Margie Lacey; Mrs. M. L. Blaney accompanying the pupils.

Having enlarged our feed yard, and added a camp house, we are now prepared to offer the public first class service in this line. We also have a good supply of flour and feed in stock. Humphrey Bros.

In conferences with many of the leading men of the county, the County Road Board and the State Highway Commission.

While some might have preferred some other arrangement, it is "well for" all to recognize the fact that this is the only arrangement possible, and is one on which we can unite and pull together for a better Lincoln County. There has been enough of dissention; we now have a chance to prove what team work will do.

Should anyone hesitate to sign the petition on the ground that we cannot afford it, let him reflect that we expect to get a dollar's worth of road for an investment of fifty cents, and that the entire cost of the bond issue, both in interest and sinking fund, will be only fifty cents a year on each one hundred dollars assessed valuation of his property.

The improvement of a road will do more for a backward community than a railroad, a school, or a church. Can we afford to try to get along with bad roads any longer? Cordially,
S. M. Johnson.

What a Real Poet is Really Like

Men who knew James Whitcomb Riley and his work intimately tell something about the great Hoosier who played upon the heartstrings of a nation with his songs of common folk and manners

RILEY'S LAST PUBLIC APPEARANCE

Nowadays a poetic genius doesn't look like one. On the street, you might guess him to be a business man or a lawyer or a preacher or a photographer. Not since the time of Edgar Allan Poe have real poets worn their hair long—in the comic picture—or affected the soulful expression. Nowadays when a man wears his hair like Spanish moss on a Florida oak he is suspected of being hard up. And if he exhibits what is supposed to be his soul by certain shifting and staring of his eyes he is pitted as one whose mental gearing has gone to 11.

Illus Carman, former editor of the Independent and a poet of note, was one of James Whitcomb Riley's closest friends. After the Indiana songster's death on July 23, Carman told much about Riley to Mr. Joyce Kilmer of the New York Times Magazine and Mr. Kilmer in turn told it to the public.

Some 50 years ago Carman was introduced to the already famous Hoosier. Riley's keen bird-like eyes surveyed the tall frame of the new and young acquaintance: "Gosh, you're a sight, ain't you?" he remarked, grinning. "I guess your parents must have trained you on a trolly."

Then, as reported by Mr. Kilmer, Carman went on to say: "The next time I saw Riley was in Philadelphia. I went to read before the Browning society, and I don't mind telling you that I was scared to death. When I got out all alone on the stage and saw a thousand people staring at me I felt more like running away than doing anything else. But when I saw Riley down in the audience, looking at me in his quaint, friendly way, then I felt all right. I wasn't afraid to read my poetry to Riley."

"After the reading was over Riley tucked me under his arm and said: 'Now, let's get around to the hotel and we'll take off our shoes and get a chew of tobacco and be comfortable.'"

"You know, such remarks as this were all the more poignant because Riley was so very punctilious and scrupulous in all his personal habits. He always was immaculately dressed. I never knew him even to make so much of a concession to comfort as to put on a smoking jacket or a lounge coat. But he liked to go to his room and stretch himself on his bed and talk. And he never talked about anything but literature, chiefly poetry."

"Riley had a great fund of knowledge of poetry and knew lots of out-of-the-way homely verse. He delighted particularly in ridiculously bad newspaper verse."

"Riley liked to read poetry aloud. When I went to his house on an evening, he generally was waiting for me with some favorite book, ready to read aloud."

"What sort of poetry did he prefer?" "His tastes covered a wide range. Two poets to whom he was especially devoted were Longfellow and Swinburne."

"Riley liked Longfellow's directness and simplicity. The things that pleased him in Swinburne's work were the music and the deft craftsmanship."

"After Riley had received his degrees from some of the colleges, he seemed to feel that he ought to be known as a poet, rather than as a humorist and writer of dialect verse. He tried hard to live up to the name of poet, and wanted his nonsense rhymes of his vernacular forgotten. Yet his vernacular verse, or, as he called it, his dialect verse, was his chief contribution to literature."

"Riley was just a poet. That was all he ever cared to be. He was not interested in anything but poetry. He knew nothing of politics—he had not voted for 30 years. And as for philosophy, he had nothing but contempt for the modern thinkers."

"There was something very pathetic and charming about Riley's tenacity in holding the serious poet pose. His nonsense was just one of his ways of writing which happened to prove popular; when he got a chance to write in another way, how eagerly he seized it, and how persistently he clung to it!"

"His last years were the happiest of his life, I think. He had his own car and rode around Indianapolis and its suburbs every day, generally taking with him some friend. He was honored and loved, and I think he felt that life had been good to him."

"Riley's father was a lawyer. His grandfather came to Indiana from Pennsylvania. His grandmother on his mother's side was Pennsylvania Dutch. His father was Irish. Riley had many prejudices. He disliked Poe very much. He disliked Poe's character so much that he could hardly read his poetry. Of course, he must have liked Poe's music and splendid metrical effects."

"Of course, you know the story of Riley's famous imitation of Poe? He had taken a position as the staff of an Anderson, Ind., paper, and the editor of a rival paper kept ridiculing him. Riley wanted to get even with him, so he wrote his imitation of Poe, and had it published in a paper in another part of the state with an elaborate story about the discovery of the manuscript.

"At once it made a great sensation all over the country. It made so great a sensation that Riley was terrified, and feared that he would be accused of literary forgery. Meanwhile the editor of the rival paper wrote: 'No doubt our young friend Riley will belittle this poem and say it is not the work of Poe. But it is Poe, and Poe's best manner.' The sensation grew to such proportions that Riley had to confess that he had written the poem. And then the editor of the paper discharged Riley because he had not published it in his paper."

"Then the Indianapolis Journal gave him a job, which he held for years. He wrote reams of nonsense verse, and wrote up in verse the shops of the merchants who advertised in the Journal."

"Riley's first book was called 'The Old Swinburn' Holo and 'Leven More Poems.' He published it himself. It sold so well that it was soon taken over by a publisher, and passed through many editions."

"Riley's exqu沿海 penmanship showed the ease with which he wrote. Originally he wrote a careless and rather illegible script, but he had so much difficulty in getting the printers to read his writing, and printing his dialect verse correctly, that he took up the study of penmanship. He was careful always to get the dialect of one part of Indiana as distinct from the dialect of any other part."

"Any man's character," he said, "is best remembered, I suppose, by some of his habitual gestures and expressions." I remember Riley as very deliberate in his motions, especially in his last years. Smooth shaven, ruddy, well groomed, he looked like a benign old English bishop more than anything else."

Mr. Don Marquis of the New York Sun aptly considers Riley and his poetry from an entirely different angle.

"James Whitcomb Riley," says he, "was the companion of fairies in Arcady; for the Hoosier belongs to a race apart. And while some are captured and broken to trade, the gentle poet escaped and kept always the vision of hidden things."

With these prefatory remarks the writer goes on with his essay: "There are two sorts of Indianan—the ordinary Indianan, who is not so very different from the Ohioan or the Illinoisan, and the Hoosier."

The Hoosier belong not merely to a race apart, but to a separate species. He is human, but with a difference; he is aware of the kinship between humanity and the so-called lower animals (and even the plants and streams) on the one side, and on the other side of the kinship of humanity with the elves."

"When the moon turns the mists to silver and the owls wail and the frogs wake up along the creeks and lakes and the fairies saddle and bridle the fireflies and mount them and go whirling and flashing off in search of airy adventures the Hoosiers steal out of the farmhouses and hamlets and creep down to the bottom lands and dance and sing and cavort under the summer stars. They do so secretly, dodging the mere humans, for secrecy is the essence of their midnight, whimsical revels."

"In the daytime they pretend they are just ordinary Indianans; their own brothers and mothers may not realize that they are Hoosiers. But in Indiana, as elsewhere, there is a business and the need to attend to it. There must have been even in Arcady—somebody owned the hocks and herds of Arcady and turned them into butcher's meat and leather, and the shepherds only piped on the reverence of their commercial-minded masters. These Hoosiers, these wild birds and prancing, long-legged lovers of the moon, are often captured and broken and tamed to trade and industry by the more sordid citizenry. They are yoked to the handle end of the plow, chained to the desk by the hundreds and thousands; they become clerks and salesmen and railroad presidents and novelists and business men of all sorts.

"James Whitcomb Riley was a Hoosier who happily escaped; he was never captured, never enslaved; the things hidden from the rest of us, or revealed only in flashes, remembered but vaguely from the days of our own happy Hoosierdom, he continued to see steadily; he lived among them familiarly to the end, and until the end was their interpreter to us."

"But come here to your uncle a spell," says Riley in effect, "and I'll show you not only a fairy, but a fairy who has for the moment chosen to be just as much of a Hoosier as the Raggedy Man, or Orphan Annie, or Old Kingy, or the folks at Grigsby Station."

"The critics and the learned doctors of literature are already debating as to whether Riley had imagination or only fancy. (It would be a terrible calamity to some of them if they said it was imagination and it was officially declared later to be merely fancy; that is the sort of mistake that damns a critic and makes the sons and grandsons of critics meek, humped, apologetic young men.) And doubtless the point is exceedingly important. For if a poet has imagination they say his work is significant. And if he has only fancy his work is not significant."

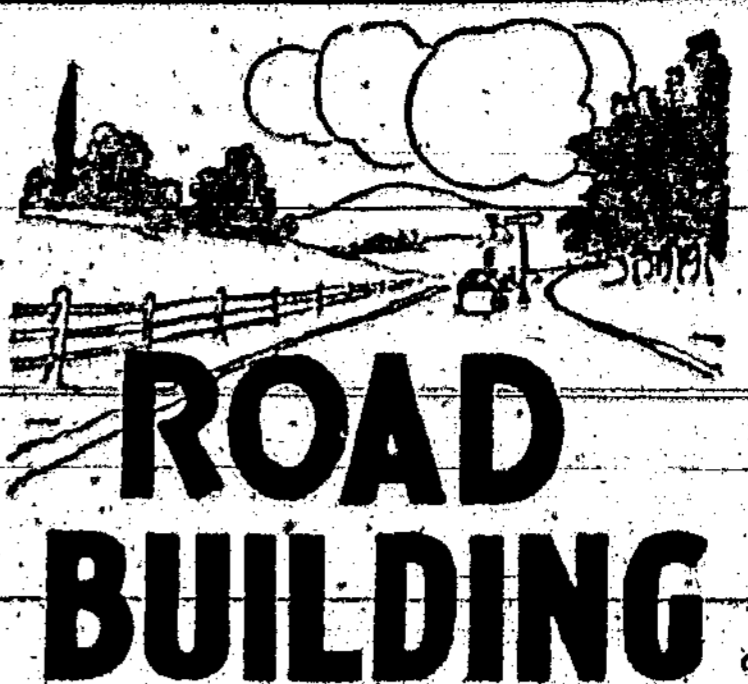

The chief merit of Riley's dialect verse—which is the most popular part of his production and the part with which the critics chiefly concern themselves—is its effectiveness as a medium for character portrayal. Whimsical, lovable, homely, racy, quaint, salty, pathetic, humorous, tender are his dialect poems; essentially, he has shown us life as a superior writer of prose sketches might do, adding the charm of his lyricism."

"But, personally, we never like him so well as when he is writing sheer moonlight and music. Probably no poet who ever wrote English—certainly no American poet—got more luscious language than Riley. A sweetness that is not so sugary that it cloy, having always a winy tang. For instance, from 'The Flying Islands of the Night':

In lost hours of lute and song,
When he was but a prince—I but a mouth
For him to lift up sippingly and drain
To his most ultimate of stammering sobs
And maudlin wanderings of blinded breath. . . .

"There is no better evidence of the gentleness of Riley's sentiment, particularly in the dialect poems, than the discretion with which he touches the pathetic chord when he touches it at all. One of the most popular poems he ever wrote was 'Old-Fashioned Roses,' and one word too much, one pressure the least bit too insistent would have made the thing as offensive as a vaudeville ballad. The taste which told him to be simple and the sincerity which begat the taste save the verses from the reproach."

"His verses for children and about children could only have been written by a man whose love and understanding of children was real, for children are quick to detect and repudiate anything of the sort that is 'pumped up' for effect, and they contributed enormously to the general feeling of affection for him. The regard of the children was in a way a testimonial to his penetrating youthfulness of spirit; he was still their playmate; perhaps it is an earnest of immortality, if immortality can be. Certainly love endures longer than anything else, and this man with the children's sweetness in his soul goes from us loved as few men have been."

ROAD BUILDING

ROAD ENGINEER IS ESSENTIAL

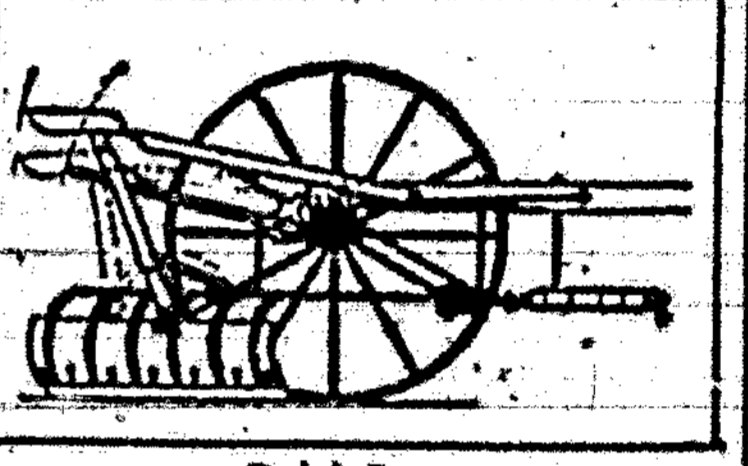

Expert Points Out Reasons Why Highway Improvement Work Is Inefficient in Many Places.

James Leland Stamford, a highway engineer who made a nation-wide investigation of road work for the national committee on prisons, which is interested in promoting road building by convicts, says in regard to the lack of efficient supervision of road work generally: "In 44 states county road work is carried on under the supervision of county commissioners; in other states it is under the control of the sheriff. These authorities are not trained for their work and the road work is costly and inefficient. All counties carrying on road work should obtain the services of a county road engineer who is acceptable to the state road authorities and able to work in co-operation with them."

ROAD DRAG IS A NECESSITY

Split-Log Affair Was First, Cheapest and Easiest Made—Various Patent Types on Market.

Road building becomes more a necessity and less a luxury every year, though the advance of the automobile in the farming business is largely responsible for the awakening in the rural districts. The split-log drag was the first, cheapest and easiest made, that appeared in the central West, and it is still popular. Various patent types have appeared on the market, the latest patent being granted on the drag shown here. The angle of the cutting blade may be varied by means of a lever—Farming Business.

Road Drag.

Massachusetts, Ohio and Indiana Lead in Number of Schools and in Better Highways.

There are about 2,000 consolidated rural schools in the United States, with Massachusetts, Ohio and Indiana in the van. It is significant to note that about one-third of the roads in these states have been improved. The boy or girl, who formerly stayed away from school because the road was a sea of mud, is transported in school-wagons, which are sent out every day to gather up the children and to take them home again in the evening. All the children within a radius of several miles are thus provided with modern school facilities.

ROUNDED ROAD SHEDS WATER

Big Essential Is Disposition of Surface Water—Proper Drainage Is Solution of Problem.

Good roads means mainly disposing of the water. Nearly always a good dirt road can be made by proper drainage. The King-dragged road is easily made and sustained by running a split log or plank drag over it when it is wet from a previous rain. The surface of this dragged road bakes and makes a rounded roadway that sheds water, stays smooth and solid, and makes the best all-round highway on earth.

AID FOR YELLOWSTONE TRAIL

Item of $5,000 in Government Appropriation Bill to Assist in Improving That Highway.

The government appropriation bill contains an item of $5,000 for the benefit of the Yellowstone trail, to assist in improving that transcontinental highway across the Standing Rock Indian reservation in South Dakota. This item is there because of the recognized value of the Yellowstone trail as a transcontinental road, and the money that counties and states and individuals are putting into the improvement of the road.

Cattle and Seed

The cattle will soon be on pasture. One necessity is salt, and plenty of it. It should be conveniently placed, so the animals can get it when they choose. A box full of salt kept under a shed is best.

German Millet Seed

German millet requires nearly 100 days to mature and must be sown in May, following corn. Much of the so-called German millet seed on the market is Hungarian or common millet or a mixture of them.

ROLE WAS FORCED ON DADDY

Really Had No Desire to Act as Father to the Girl, but He Had Been Forestalled.

The dowagers and chaperons whispered their surprise that so young and so pretty a girl should have devoted herself the whole evening to a man so much her senior. True he danced well enough and was known as a man of many millions. Still they had never thought Meta mercenary.

Half way through the evening the couple disappeared onto a balcony. The girl sat down and the man stood gazing down at her. Without the slightest warning he asked her to be his wife. He was a widower, as she knew, "but did not expect this," she said. "It is the unexpected that happens," he said with a smile.

"I'm sorry," she said, "and I'm glad at the same time. I have been trying to make you like me."

"Why?" "I like you so much as a father."

"Thanks," he interrupted; "I'm not decrepit yet."

"Of course not. But I came here solely to meet and be introduced to you. Why? Because last night I married your son."

Nothing More. "Your wife must be very solicitous about you."

"Why do you say that?" "She writes every day."

"She's solicitous about the canary."

supposed he had gone off on a business trip, which proved to be the case. He returned on the 18th with his bride, who was Miss Edna Richardson, of El Paso, where they were married. Mr. and Mrs. Shive will reside in Ancho and will be at home to their friends after October 10. We wish them much joy and a long, happy and prosperous life.

We regret to state that Professor Cardwell's little boy is quite sick, and has been for several days. We hope the little fellow, who is about four years old, will pull through all right yet.

T. J. Strayley, who has been off with a surveying party for some time, returned home Friday on a visit to his family, but could not remain longer than Sunday.

We miss him very much from our community.

Well, we are having dry and windy weather just now, which we are glad to see, as it will cure up what little grass we have.

Our brick and tile plant has been running on full time for the past two months.

Mr. Cude is back with us again as section foreman, after an absence of a year or more, taking the place of Mr. Rodgers, who has removed to Alamogordo.

Mr. and Mrs. Eve had quite an outing Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Cooper and Jimmie and Mrs. Cooper. They motored out to the Moulton ranch, about 60 miles distant. Mrs. Eve's guests got along all right in her absence.

Rev. J. M. Gardner was with us on Tuesday evening and rendered a stereopticon lecture on the Baptist mission work among the Indians of New Mexico, and the Mexicans on the Mexican border, which was very interesting.

Gentlemen: I wish to thank you for the prompt payment of my claim for $100.00, arising from the recent death of my husband, J. L. Lewis, who was a Praetorian. He died on the 29th of June, 1916, in this city. The complete proofs arrived in Dallas, Texas, on the 11th inst., and you mailed check to me in full settlement on the 12th. This record for prompt payment cannot be beaten by any company. I cheerfully recommend The Praetorians to any one desiring life insurance. I also wish to thank Roswell Council of The Praetorians, as well as State Mgr. J. B. Savage, for many courtesies to me.
Yours very respectfully,
[Signed] MRS. MYRTLE E. LEWIS, Beneficiary.

The Praetorians have a record for prompt payment of all claims that cannot be beaten by any company. They have the money on reserve to pay losses.

Grazing Homestead Bill Failed to Pass

For information of the public the General Land Office makes announcement that the "Grazing Homestead" bill did not become a law.

The newspapers throughout the country announced immediately after the adjournment of the recent session of congress, that a law had been enacted allowing homestead entries for 640 acres of grazing land.

The newspaper articles were based on the fact that, during the last day of the session, the senate passed H. R. 407, "A bill to provide for stock raising homesteads, and for other purposes," but with various amendments. The House of Representatives thereafter took no action on the amended bill, and hence the measure was not submitted to the president for approval.

The amended bill will probably be considered by a conference committee of the two houses upon reconvening of congress next December.

Ancho

Sunday seemed to be outing day with most of Anchoites. Two autos reached Ed Wilson's watermelon patch about the same time. Mr. Wilson being absent from home and no one in sight. We did not know what to do. There lay the melons in plain view and we sure got them. But to allay all suspicions, would say that a representative of Mr. W. was not far away and came to our relief.

Mrs. Burnett had a gathering of several of our young people. Do not know what the occasion was, but knowing Mrs. B.'s capability of entertaining, we are sure they had a good time.

Mrs. Deel took her outing at the Corn ranch. It gave her the opportunity to take Mrs. Howell's two daughters, who are boarding with her and going to school, to see their mama.

Mr. Kane, an employe of the brick plant, is in rather a precarious condition from blood poisoning. It is to be hoped, however, that the worst is over with him. Mr. Burgett, the superintendent, had him taken to the doctor for treatment at once.

Our public school, under the management of Professor Cardwell and Miss Ethel Gaddis, is making a fine record.

Our genial postmaster, S. W. Shive, disappeared—not mysteriously—some time since, but we

Methodist Church
Rev. E. D. Lewis, Pastor.
In closing out my second year as pastor of the Methodist church at this place I desire to give a few statistics by way of comparison, that the public may see the progress that has been made; not for the purpose of boasting—let the glory be to God—but for encouragement to those who have so faithfully labored for the promotion of the cause.
The year previous to our coming here the following was reported: Additions on profession of faith, none; by certificate, 6. The total membership was 46. Last year we received 10 on profession of faith, and 12 by letter, making 22 in all. The total membership was 55. This year we have received 55 in all; 32 on profession of faith and 23 by certificate; the present total membership being 109. This shows that in two years the membership has more than doubled.
Progress has been equally as good in a financial way. In 1914 the church paid for the support of the ministry $325, last year $590. This year nearly $800 will be paid. In 1914, $36.75 was paid to missions; this year $125 will be paid, and probably more. Excellent! This also shows progress.
The growth in the Sunday school has been equally as phenomenal. We have an average attendance of 125, and will begin Sunday the use of graded literature. Then, too, two years ago there were no young people's societies of any kind. Now we have a Junior and Senior League, doing splendid work. This growth is certainly gratifying and shows what can be done even in Carrizozo. Let the Christian people take courage and "forward march."

Sunday will be the closing day of this conference year, and at the morning service the rite of infant baptism will be administered to all those who desire their children christened; also, the reception of members, and the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. No night service. Let all go to the Baptist church and aid in their revival campaign.

HUSBAND RESCUED

DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.
Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side. The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair. At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardul, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its helping me, and am doing all my work. If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardul, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women; in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardul for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardul today.

COUNTY CONVENTION SELECTS ITS DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES

In session from 10 a. m. Thursday to 3:30 p. m. Friday, the doings of Lincoln county's Democrats' convention must be briefly stated on Friday afternoon we "print."

Chairman Gurney called to order, Martin Chavez of Picacho was chosen temporary chairman and C. C. Merchant of Capitan, secretary. Permanent organization: John Y. Hewitt, of White Oaks, chairman; Harry C. Norman, of Carrizozo, secretary.

The contest for sheriff occupied the convention's time through Thursday p. m. and beyond into Friday morning, when Walker Hyde was nominated on the 29th ballot. The candidates presented had been Hyde, John B. Baird and George C. Clements. Hyde had withdrawn early in the balloting, which continued until the 29th round. Then reason prevailed, Baird and Clements did the graceful act, and Hyde was saddled as the "dark horse" and a mighty good act.

Then like the "rising sun of Democracy" the atmosphere cleared, and the nominations flowed like oil, as follows:

Assessor. Presented: J. L. Bryan, Harry Edmiston, Frank Salazar. On the eighth ballot Salazar nominated with 37 to 17 for Bryan.

Treasurer. — W. O. Norman, of Lincoln (presented by Dr. J. W. Laws), nominated by acclamation.

County Clerk and Recorder. — William Kimball, of Picacho (presented by Frank W. Gurney), nominated by acclamation.

Probate Judge. — Martine Chavez, of Picacho (presented by Dr. J. W. Laws), nominated by acclamation.

Superintendent of Schools. — John E. Koonce, of Capitan, by acclamation.

County Surveyor. — R. B. Robinson, of Bonito, by acclamation.

Commissioners. — First District: Ralph Dow, Candido Chavez, C. R. Hamilton and John L. Bryan presented. Bryan nominated on second ballot.

Second District: Melvin Franks and S. R. Moss presented. Franks nominated on fourth ballot.

Third District: A. J. Gilmore, B. F. Goff and Julian Taylor presented. Gilmore nominated on third ballot.

Representative in Legislature. — Buell R. Wood and R. C. Sowder of Picacho, presented. Mr. Wood declined the nomination and Mr. Sowder nominated.

Frank W. Gurney was re-elected chairman, and Candido Chavez, secretary of Lincoln County Central Committee.

Frank B. Webster

Monday morning of this week Frank B. Webster, who had been ill the past month, passed peacefully away. H. A. Kingsley, of Topeka, Kansas, a brother-in-law of the deceased, arrived Sunday and was with Mr. Webster in his last moments. The funeral was held Tuesday morning in the Methodist church, Rev. E. D. Lewis conducting the services, and interment was made in the local cemetery.

Frank B. Webster was born in Washington, D. C., in 1874, and during early boyhood went with his parents to Hyattsville, Maryland, where his aged mother yet resides. Soon after reaching manhood he spent some years in Kentucky and later went to South Dakota. Several years ago he came to the southwest and for the past four years has been a resident of Carrizozo, during which time he has been in the employ of the Carrizozo Eating House, in the capacity of night clerk. Besides the aged mother, two sisters survive; one, Mrs. J. B. S. Norton, who lives with her mother, and Mrs. H. A. Kingsley, who, with her husband, resides in Topeka, Kansas. The Websters are descendants of an old New England family whose history is closely interwoven with the early settlement of that section.

Frank B. Webster was of a genial, pleasant disposition, made friends easily and retained them to his death. The News joins many friends in extending sympathy to the gentle, sorrowing mother and the saddened sisters in the loss of their only son and brother.
