

County Teachers' Association, Capitan

BY PROFESSOR C. Y. BELKNAP

When the Lincoln County Teachers' Association meets at Capitan next Friday and Saturday, March 10 and 11, it will undoubtedly be the most enthusiastic gathering of school men and women which has ever met in this county. From present appearances, judging by the letters received at Capitan, nearly every teacher in the county will be in attendance, although when plans were first made for the meeting it was not expected that more than a third of the teachers, at the most, would attend. At the date of writing it is definitely known that forty-two teachers are planning to be present without fail, with the possibility that others will come if possible.

Almost without exception the teachers who have planned to be at Capitan for the meeting of the association are also planning to bring with them strong exhibits, which will be entered for the prizes offered. In order to solve the difficulty which often attends the arrangement of such competitive exhibits as the one at Capitan, each school will compete only with schools of equal rank as regards the number of teachers; thus, it is hoped, doing away with an old-time complaint of unfair competition. The schools of the county will compete in the following classification:

Section I, schools employing one teacher in grades 1 to 8—San Patricio, No. 2; Glencoe, No. 5; Encinosa, No. 6; Nogal Mesa, No. 9; San Patricio, No. 10; Nogal, No. 11; Alto, No. 12; Rabenton, No. 14; Alto, No. 15; Parsons, No. 16; Arabela, No. 17; Government Springs, No. 18; Meek, No. 22; Lincoln, No. 23; Tinnie, No. 24; Alto, No. 25; Jicarilla, No. 26; Lincoln, No. 27; Lion Mountain, No. 28; Corona, No. 30; Arabela, No. 32 (?); Glencoe, No. 35; Jicarilla, No. 43. Section II, schools employing two teachers in grades 1 to 8—Ruidoso, No. 3; Lincoln, No. 1; Piacho, No. 4; Corona, No. 13; Oscuro, No. 19; Hondo, No. 20; Ancho, 21; Tinnie, No. 23. Section III, schools employing three teachers in grades 1 to 8—White Oaks, No. 8; Capitan, No. 28. Section IV, schools employing more than three teachers in grades 1 to 8—Carrizozo, No. 7.

It is very possible that there are some errors in the above classification. These, however, may be corrected when exhibits are entered. A very complete prize list, specifying the articles for which first and second prizes will be awarded, was compiled from the suggestions of the teachers of the county, and has been in the hands of the teachers for some weeks. There is every reason to look for a large exhibit, since prizes will be awarded for one hundred and fifty articles in each section.

A feature of the meeting in which the schools of the county are manifesting great interest is the contest work in Spelling and Arithmetic, the former in particular calling forth a large amount of attention. The spelling contest will be held on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, and will be entirely written work, since it is now realized that oral spelling is a useless task and a worthless accomplishment, so far as its use in life is concerned. A list of fifty words, chosen from certain specified pages of the upper grade text in spelling, will be made up

Parsons

Mrs. Hugh Combs has returned home after a month's business trip to Oklahoma.

Otis Lucas and his sisters, Lola and Viola spent Sunday with Miss Bertha Bragg.

T. D. Roberts and son, David, were the first couple this year to view the world from the top of Nogal peak.

Willis Jennings has gone into the turkey business. Those desiring a fine bird for Thanksgiving want to get in their orders early.

Herman Consbruch spent Sunday at his home ranch on the Bonito. Ed Peters, who is holding down a claim, reports some very fine copper prospects up Crout gulch, where he is working.

Solly White can be seen most any day bowling up and down the Bonito valley in his new car. When a few more residents of the valley have an attack of the auto fever it will be wise to cut out a few points along the road to avoid collisions.

The Leisure Hour Circle will meet Wednesday afternoon of this week with Miss Charlotte Rice.

Chief Engineer Sitton, wife and son, motored up to Parsons Sunday. They were accompanied by Mrs. Sitton's niece and Louis Falconi, of wireless fame.

Mrs. Ed Pfingsten and children made a short visit the last of the week with Mrs. Pfingsten's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Robison.

The Get Together musical club enjoyed the first of a series of musicals at the Rice home Sunday evening.

Mr. Luttrell, of the Vera Cruz mine, and George Hand, of Chicago, were visitors at the Rice home recently.

The Ford agent at Tularosa was here one day trying to convince some of our citizens that they need a car. He stayed for dinner at the home of J. J. Reeves, who has a plethoric feeling in his pockets and we shall be surprised if he doesn't have to take the treatment prescribed in such cases.

The new poles have been put up and the telephone line re-strung. Dr. Laws and a telephone man were around going over the phones and house wiring and now the people have a line as good as the best.

Best Poultry Breed

"What is the Best Breed of Poultry?" This question is practically and carefully answered for readers of THE NEWS who are interested in domestic fowls, by Rupert L. Stewart of the New Mexico State College. There are certain breeds of poultry best suited to this climate. Learn what they are and raise those kinds only.

And this is but one of the many useful interesting, sometimes necessary special articles, by expert thinkers and workers, that appear on the inside pages of THE NEWS, week to week. Drive this into your mind—so you will remember it in weeks to come—you don't get all there is in THE NEWS when you read only the "local" pages. There are a lot of real minds making our "insides"—as a doctor might say. Get in touch, keep in touch with them. They'll help your "dome."

TWELVE DISTINCT CLASSES OF CHICKENS

Columbian Wyandotte, White Leghorn and White Wyandotte.

(By RUPERT L. STEWART, New Mexico State College.)
 "What is the best breed of poultry?" This is a question that is so often asked that a few words by way of explanation might not be amiss.

In the first place there is no such thing as "the best breed" for all locations and conditions. There are so many things that enter into the selection of a breed of fowls that one can readily see how utterly impossible an accurate answer is to so general a question.

In the second place there are some twelve distinct classes of chickens, and in each class there are from three to six breeds, and these breeds divided into from six to twelve varieties. Each class, breed, or variety has some points that make it particularly well adapted to the purpose for which it is intended. And right here lies the important point in deciding upon the kind of poultry to keep. First of all decide whether you are to raise chickens for eggs, meat, or both, and your problem is more than half solved.

There are three classes of chickens that the farmer needs to consider in selecting his farm flock, viz:
 (a) Asiatic class, including the Brahmas, Langshans and Cochins, which are large in frame, rather coarse and fairly clumsy, somewhat unproductive, exceedingly broody in temperament, but make poor mothers because of their clumsiness. As meat producers they are not very popular because they are heavy eaters; they are, however, good as heavy roasters. The Brahmas are the most popular breed of this class.

(b) American class, which includes the Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes and the Rhode Island Reds. This is a dual-purpose class, having reasonably good production and excellent meat qualities. They are hardy, attractive, and have good material qualities. The Plymouth Rocks are the most popular breed generally, but all of the three breeds in this class are of wide distribution. The Orpington breed belongs to the English class but has the same general characteristics as the breeds in the American class.

(c) The Mediterranean class includes the Leghorns, Anconas, Minorcas, Hamburgs, Spanish, Andalusians, etc. This is distinctly the egg laying class, and are active, prolific, nervous, small, non-broody but very hardy. The White Leghorns are the most popular variety in this class. They lay a white egg of medium size and reach the period of production earlier than any other class of birds. In other words, the White Leghorn hen is the most practical egg laying machine that we have today.

BUYERS DISLIKE SCALY LEGS

Unightly Disease Renders Plumpest of Chickens Difficult to Sell—Grass Range Helpful.

The unsightly poultry disease, known as scaly legs, is exceedingly injurious to the marketability of chickens. Making them objectionable sights to buyers. Moreover, it is extremely contagious, one diseased fowl being enough to infect an entire flock in short order. This information should be especially interesting to South Carolina poultrymen, since the extension poultry husbandman of Clemson college states that he has seen more of the scaly leg disease in this state than anywhere else he has ever been.

The disease appears only on the legs of fowls and is caused by the ravages of a mite which bears the name Sarcoptes mutans. It is more likely to be found where fowls are kept in a small yard or on the bare ground. A good grass range is helpful in overcoming the disease.

To treat scaly legs, thoroughly cleanse the legs by washing with hot water, soap, and a handy brush. Dry them and immerse them in a solution of equal parts of coal oil, (kerosene) and cottonseed oil. Treat the fowls' legs in this way twice daily for a few days and then once daily until the shanks resume their natural appearance.

GOOD TREATMENT FOR COLDS

Whooping or Difficult Breathing of Fowl May Be Doctored With Lard and Turpentine.

Before you shut up the poultry house for the night, especially in bad weather, listen for any chance whooping or difficult breathing. If you hear anything of the kind locate the fowl immediately and put it by itself in some well sheltered nook. Never leave a fowl of this kind with the whole flock.

Colds are catching in fowls as well as man. A first good doctoring with warm lard mixed with half turpentine, and a little coal oil added, will often be all the doctoring needed to rout the whooping or rattling.

For a grown fowl give a teaspoonful of this three times the first day and grease the throat outside with the same preparation.

Dust the Hens Occasionally.
 Hens should be dusted with insect powder occasionally, but the presence of a good dust bath will make these necessary occasions far fewer. Mix about one pound of powdered sulphur with each bushel of dust for the best results.

Very Few Sick Fowls.
 The poultry breeder who studies the condition of his fowls and gives them comfortable surroundings is the man who succeeds and has very few sick fowls.

KEEP THE LAYING HENS BUSY

Fowls With Long Toenails Are Good Egg Producers—Keep Birds in Condition.

The success of egg production depends largely upon the activity of the bird. The reason the Leghorns excel in egg production is largely because they keep themselves in good physical condition. They exercise. The hen that is inactive and shows long toenails is seldom a good producer. The hen that is first off of the roost in the morning, keeps busy during the day and is last to go to roost at night is the profitable hen.

Some birds have the disposition to take exercise; others have to be forced. This is especially true of the heavier breeds. Strains of Rocks and other breeds are inclined to be lazy and in a short time get so fat that they cannot produce eggs in satisfactory quantities. The circulation of blood to the ovary is restricted by the excessive fat. This unquestionably interferes with the normal functioning of the ovary and reduces egg production.

Exercise can best be encouraged by not overfeeding. The poultry house should be bedded with a foot or more of straw and the grain buried in this. The skill of the poultry feeder is tested by the manner in which he compels the hens to exercise.

Overfeeding causes inactivity, which will be manifested by few holes being dug in the straw. Egg production is quite largely dependent upon keeping the birds in condition. In summer it can be encouraged by sowing the yards and letting the hens dig up the grain.

BEST RESULTS FROM LAYERS

Wisconsin Expert Recommends Animal and Ground Food, With Generous Supply of Green Stuff.

"Animal food, ground food and a generous supply of green stuff produces the best results for laying fowls," says J. G. Halpin, head of the poultry department of the University of Wisconsin.

An experienced poultryman says that when his hens and chickens had had access to charcoal he has never had a case of bowel trouble in his flock.

Watch for Slight Colds.
 Keep a sharp look out for "slight colds." Give light doses of epsom salts in mash or in drinking water. Make sure of dry floors and litter, plenty of air, but no drafts and—let the sunshine in!

Fancy Eggs.
 Eggs are "fancy" when fresh, clear and full bodied; when shells are sound, clean, bright and of uniform color; when they weigh 21 ounces or more to the dozen. It pays to produce and market fancy eggs.

INDIGESTION, GAS OR SICK STOMACH

Time! Pape's Diapepsin ends all Stomach misery in five minutes.

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, get this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

You feel different as soon as "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food. Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or bad stomach. Adv.

THE PROFESSOR'S STATEMENT.

Prof. Aug. F. W. Schmitz, Thomas, Okla., writes: "I was troubled with Backache for about twenty-five years. When told I had Bright's Disease in its last stages, I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. After using two boxes I was somewhat relieved and I stopped the treatment. In the spring of the next year I had another attack. I went for Dodd's Kidney Pills and they relieved me again. I used three boxes. That is now three years ago and my Backache has not returned in its severity, and by using another two boxes a little later on, the pain left altogether and I have had no trouble since. You may use my statement. I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills when and wherever I can." Dodd's Kidney Pills, 50c. per box at your dealer or Dodd's Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

 Mr. Smith—Give it away.

BILIOUS, HEADACHY, SICK 'CASCARETS'

Gently cleanse your liver and sluggish bowels while you sleep.

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Adv.

BACK TO OTHER DAYS

MODISTES WOULD REVIVE EARLY VICTORIAN IDEAS

Possibility That the Suggestion Will Not Be Received With Great Enthusiasm, for Good Reason—Chignon More Popular.

In the near future we shall have to see to it that our shoulders are in perfect condition, writes Idalia de Villiers, Paris correspondent of the Boston Globe. White, plump and slightly sloping! Yes, it is true that some of the most important dressmakers in Paris are turning their eyes, longingly, to the early-Victorian evening corset. Even at the present moment Beer is making a specialty of this outline and our smart women seem to find it attractive.

It cannot be denied that the early-Victorian evening corset makes considerable demands on one's figure. We have become athletic since those days. Our girls have gone in for outdoor sports of all kinds. The "clinging-vine woman" has gone out of fashion. And to carry off an early-Victorian evening dress with real success one must be, or seem, slightly clinging!

It seems to breathe the femininity—as femininity was understood in the middle of the last century. The sloping shoulders of those days seemed made to carry shawls with exquisite grace. They seemed made to carry the burdens of fashion, and those only.

Since then we women have changed—in spirit and in body. We have become vigorous and emancipated. We certainly have lost the art of "carrying" a shawl. What then are we going to do with the décolleté corset which leave the whole of shoulders bare at every point? We shall see.

All that concerns me at the present moment is the unfolding of the latest fashion schemes of famous Parisian dress artists.

The Beer evening corsets of the period just suggested are quite charming.

Coffure Showing the High Chignon and a Curved Tortoise Shell Comb Inlaid With Silver.

They recall the wonderful costumes worn by the Empress Eugenie in the days when Winterhalter painted his famous portraits of "the most beautiful women in Europe."

There is no sign of a shoulder strap, even one composed of diamonds; the shoulders are quite bare and the corset falls off in a way which would strike terror into the heart of an ordinary individual who did not understand the little ways of great dressmakers.

It must be recorded that though

PRETTY STYLES IN LINGERIE

Flounces and Frills in Profusion on Petticoats—Silk Underwear is Given Decided Preference.

While radical changes in lingerie do not occur as frequently as in the outer garments of one's apparel, a change in fashion can be traced in the undergarments to some extent. For instance, petticoats are abloom with flounces and frills where but a short time ago they did not even exist. There are lovely new petticoats, all calling for admiration. Picture a skirt of soft black taffeta with a wide ruffle of black chantilly lace. Under this is an accordion-plaited flounce of flesh pink chiffon to show off the beautiful pattern of the lace. Another petticoat for evening wear is entirely of white net with quillings of the same edging square tabs, inserts of flowered chiffon in diamond shape are edged with ruffles of the net.

There is a decided preference for silk in underwear. Lovely hand embroidery is seen on chemises, silk vests and union suits even of flesh-colored crepe de chine or the pussy-willow taffeta. The silk underwear, while apparently a luxury, justifies the initial expense by its long life and beautiful laundering.

Among the night robes there are beautiful models of taffeta, crepe de chine and a soft washable satin. Fagoting, hemstitching, picoting and some embroidery trim these gowns. There is a marked absence of lace and frills, which makes even a plain silk gown not such an expense after all. Many gowns are sleeveless, showing a "handkerchiefs" top caught on the shoulders

Blouse of Silk Jersey.
 Another new feature is a blouse of silk jersey material with collar and cuffs of plain color and the blouse itself of a changeable plaid. A patch pocket has an elastic run in the top to prevent its sagging, a small but very interesting item to the person who has had experience with the ordinary sweater pocket and its ever sagging mesh.

OF LEOPARD SKIN

Small neckpiece and pillow muff of leopard skin lined with brown satin. The fur is mounted flat to the satin in the neckpiece. The muff lining is shirred across the ends, leaving only a small opening for the hands.

These corsets seem very décolleté they are not, in reality, unduly so. Little slip bodices made of white or flesh-pink pongee silk are worn underneath and these bodices are so well boned that they remain in position without shoulder straps.

The profile head shown in the sketch displays the much-discussed chignon at the back of the head. It also shows one of the new tortoise-shell combs, which are placed very low down on the head and which jut out abruptly. The chignon is becoming more and more popular. Some smart women wear it low down on the neck, after the manner of the beauties of 1860-1865.

Others prefer the chignon which gives a Grecian outline to the head. The hair is very slightly waved, or not waved at all; it is drawn softly back from the face, one or two loose curls being left near the ears.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Crystal bead trimming is much in vogue. Blanket sports coats have large plaids and fringes.

Bright colored trimmings appear on white voile waists.

The high crowned hat implies the new close hairdressing.

Deep Chinese blue is a favorite shade for evening gowns.

Tub silk waists with stripes in strong color are the latest.

Sometimes entire trains are formed of ribbon sewed together.

The newest hats for every day wear are turned up sailor shapes.

Elaborate sport coats of colored velvet have white fur borders.

Colored stitching forms the only decoration on some tailored suits.

Painted Furniture is New.

It is remarkable what artistic talent has been awakened by the craze for hand-painted furniture. Girls, rich and poor, are painting their own pieces of furniture, and varnishing the surface to make the pictures lasting. This new furniture is very pretty; landscapes, flowers, birds, butterflies, are painted on a white or black background and varnished, and sometimes small medallions of highly-finished work are set on a plain ground. One charming room had a white and gray wall, and the moldings and furniture were painted lavender.

Frenchwoman's Clothes.
 An American woman who has lived some years in France and is a keen observer of the Frenchwoman and her ways, writes, apropos of war-time economy:

"In France you will never stop Frenchwomen buying one new frock a season, and certainly no preaching of anything or anybody will make her clothe herself unbecomingly. There is not a woman to be seen about the streets of Paris at the present moment who has not had a new frock last autumn, but she has paid for it according to her means, in all probability. Even as Frenchwomen have never spent so recklessly on clothes as Americans, neither will they become so rabidly economical in that direction. At the present moment they are buying neat little hats in black velvet, neat little cloth dresses or tailor-mades. They will pay less in both than in ordinary years perhaps, but not necessarily, and they will wear them longer."

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR A CHILD'S BOWELS

It is cruel to force nauseating, harsh physic into a sick child.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

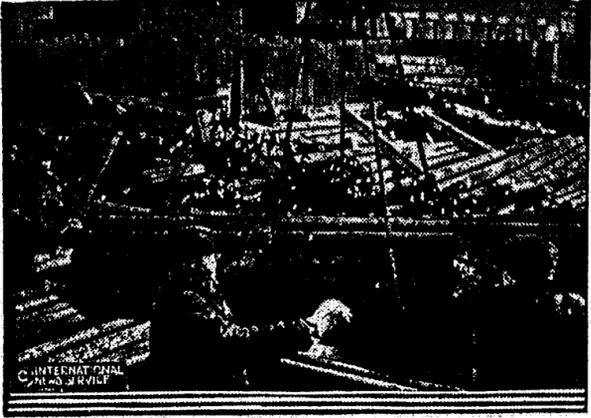

Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Adv.

German Soldiers Teach Children in Poland.

Lieutenant Helliwig Writes of Interesting Experience—Remarkable Progress Made by Pupils After Discipline is Established.

Berlin.—Lieutenant Helliwig, who was a schoolteacher in Nassenau before the war broke out, writes to the Allgemeine Schulblatt, an educational monthly published at Wiesbaden:

"We are stationed in a small town east of Warsaw and have very little to do, so we are far behind our front. Recently I received orders to organize a school for the children of the town. After several conferences with the local authorities I started my work, using the vacant residence of a wealthy lumber dealer who had fled to the interior of Russia for a schoolhouse. In a storage house I found a number of benches, which formerly had done duty in a Jewish private school, and I also procured a blackboard and a few other necessary things.

"The children of the town, most of whom never had been inside of a schoolhouse, were notified by the police that they would have to present themselves for instruction. About two hundred boys and girls between the ages of six and fourteen years appeared and they were a sorry looking lot.

"With dirty faces and unkempt hair the boys noisily rushed into my improvised hall of learning. Most of them wore fur caps that had been left behind by Cossacks and their principal garments were large fur coats.

"Although the ground was frozen many of the boys wore no shoes, while the footwear of the others consisted of old knee boots that once belonged to father or mother.

"The girls, at least a few of them, were not quite so dirty. Some even had combed their hair, but their dress consisted of all kinds of old, cast-off garments of adults and only a few wore stockings. Only the Jewish girls were really tidy and their intelligent faces and neat appearance distinguished them favorably from the rest of the crowd.

"It was almost impossible to keep the children quiet, but I finally succeeded in getting their attention and started to divide them into classes with the aid of a sergeant who speaks Polish. Most of the Jewish children understood at least some German and I organized them into a special class which I am instructing myself. About forty Polish and Russian boys and girls who have received some instruction in private schools were taken in charge by Lieutenant Harbeck, who is trying to educate them with the help of our Polish-speaking sergeant.

"The rest of the children, about one hundred, were turned over to a Polish woman teacher who has been engaged Experts Will Comb Country for Information.

Plan Perfected to Enroll and Classify All the Industries in the United States—Approved by the President.

New York.—The naval consulting board has perfected a plan for the enrollment and classification of all industries in the United States. In this way the government will come into possession of accurate information respecting every description of industrial need at a time of emergency and will be able at the shortest possible notice to turn this country into a comprehensive war machine.

Announcement of the plan was made by W. L. Saunders, president of the American Institute of Mining Engineers and vice chairman of the naval consulting board.

It is proposed to use the members of the five great industrial societies of the country, all of them experts in their departments, to gather and classify the required information. These societies are the American Institute of Mining Engineers, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the American Chemical Society.

The four societies together have a membership of some 38,000 men. They have branches and numerous representatives in every state of the Union. In gathering the material the work will be allotted by states, the factories and industrial capabilities of each state being enumerated by its respective branch of the national organization.

In this way it is proposed to discover all of the plants capable of manufacturing munitions, automobiles and everything, in short, which the government in time of war would need. It is expected that with the 38,000 experts available for gathering the information the work can be done in a comparatively short time.

Mr. Saunders produced a letter from President Wilson in which he formally instructed Mr. Saunders to proceed with the organization necessary. The letter was as follows:

"The work which the American Institute of Mining Engineers has done through its members on the naval consulting board is a patriotic service which is deeply appreciated. It has been so valuable that I am tempted to ask that you request the institute to enlarge its usefulness to the government still further by nominating for the approval of the secretary of the navy a representative from its membership for each state in the Union to act in conjunction with representatives from the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the American Chemical Society, for the purpose of assisting the naval consulting board in the work of collecting data for use in organizing the manufacturing resources of the country for the public service in case of emergency. I am sure that I may count upon your cordial co-operation. Cordially yours,

"WOODROW WILSON."

GUARDIAN OF THE DUGOUT

CATCHES RAT BIG AS CAT

Kentucky Man Thinks a Large Rodent Devoured Two Smaller Ones in Trap.

Hazard, Ky.—John Sexton tells a rat story. He says he baited his rat trap one night and the next morning he found that two of the rodents had become enmeshed, so he thought he would just let them remain in the trap over the next night. On the second morning John again inspected his trap and found—only one rat, but he, as John described him, was as large as a tom cat! The two caught on the previous night were of ordinary size—"full grown," John said. There was a mystery. "What became of the first two rats you caught?" was asked, and John solemnly declared that "the big rat had eaten up the other two, cleaning 'em up as slick as a button—not leaving hide nor hair."

THE BUILDING OF A COUNTRY

The Natural Pride of Those Who Take Part in It.

To those who have built railroads through and across the prairies of Western Canada, connecting that great empire of grain and cattle, horse and sheep with the world's markets in the east, must be awarded the privilege of looking upon their work, and its results with pardonable pride. If they reminiscence, and tell of the hardships and the privations, why shouldn't they? The broad prairies on which the buffalo roamed and fed, are now alive with cities, towns and villages. Farms—large and small—on which machinery has chased the bugaboo of laborious work off the farm, and making farm life one of the most pleasant and prosperous of occupations—are being cultivated by men of the highest stamp of manhood. Many of these have inherited from their forebears the physical strength and the high type of manliness that was theirs in the days when they hewed their homes out of the virgin forest, and made them what may be seen today, beautiful farms in the east. On the whole the western prairies breed a high type of manhood, wrest from him faults and diseases which would be his were it not for the uplifting influence and character of prairie life.

When the builder of the western Canadian prairie looks upon the result of his work, why shouldn't his chest expand? It was probably some of this feeling of pride that took possession of Sir Donald Mann, vice president of the Canadian Northern Railway the other day in Winnipeg, when he said:

"I am not in the habit of giving advice, but I have no hesitation of advising the young men of Canada, every young man, to get out and get a piece of western Canada's land that now can be had for the asking and be their own masters."

"It was 26 years ago when I first came to Winnipeg," he said. "At that time there were less than 150,000 people west of Lake Huron in Canada, and the only bit of railway in operation was between St. Boniface and Emerson—about sixty miles. Today there are nearly 20,000 miles of railway in actual operation and the population is over two and a quarter million, a wonderful achievement in such a short period you will agree, when you have contemplated it a moment."

"At that time all the flour, meat and many other supplies for our contracts were brought from the States. Now consider what the west is doing today. You have a grain production exceeding a billion bushels and yet only a comparatively small area of the tillable land of the country is occupied. Five years hence you will be more than doubling that."—Advertisement.

Retort Courteous.

He was an estimable young man, whose life happily had not intimately acquainted him with the etiquette of the barroom, but he had evidently picked up some knowledge of this from hearsay and reading.

"Here," said his fellow worker, in reaction against the toll of the holiday "rush," "is to hell with Christmas!"

The young man bowed gravely, and clicked his glass. Perhaps the din of the place a bit confused him. "Same to you," he said in a polite voice.

WOMEN SUFFERERS NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness and may be despondent and irritable.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, restores health to the kidneys and is just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a fifty cent or one dollar bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Her Mistake.

"The man I marry must have common sense," she said blushing.

"He won't," replied he bitterly.

Not Gray Hairs but Tired Eyes make us look older than we are. Keep your Eyes young and you will look young. After the Movies Murine Your Eyes. Don't tell your age. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago, Sends Eye Book on request.

Correct Answer.

"Because it is knot!"

WIDE ROADS ARE IMPORTANT

Time That Highway Builders Await Opened to New Conditions—Involves Safety and Convenience.

The road builders of today are neglecting a very important point.

The motor car is a new thing in the world and creates entirely new conditions.

The travel of the future will be very great.

The fashion should be set at once for a 100-foot right of way on all main roads.

One half should be developed first; the other could be used by the former owners under a free lease from the counties until it is needed. It will surely be needed some day.

Allowing ten feet for a sidewalk the first hard-surfaced road should center on the remaining 40 feet. The model to be worked to is two 40-foot road ways, two ten-foot sidewalks and three rows of shade trees—a most proper plan for a hot climate.

All travel of course takes the right hand road. The grade should allow crossing from one road to the other.

On a single road with a 60-foot right of way, two ten-foot sidewalks and 20 feet for vehicles, when autos are standing at each curb there is not room for safe passing of vehicles going in opposite directions and this difficulty and danger increases with the traffic.

A single-track road should be 60 feet wide.

The middle line of new roads is generally on a section line or other line between two owners. If the fashion is set for a 100-foot right of way owners will give the 60 feet.

If county commissioners will insist on the 100 feet and make it a state-wide rule supported by public opinion, owners will fall into line and give the land.

The double-road plan allows speed with safety and the speed of motor cars will in the future be increased on long runs.

The point is that it is the duty of the pioneer road builders of today to provide for the travel of the future.

Fifteen years ago in Chicago a street a mile long between Grant and Lincoln parks was widened from 60 to 200 feet. It cost $10,000,000.

If the people who laid out that street could have looked ahead the expense would have been only the amount of the surveyor's bill. In less degree such things will happen some day in Florida wherever narrow roads are built.

California has awakened to the idea and has some main roads 100 feet wide.

As soon as Florida gets hard roads the travel by tourists and citizens by motor car and motor truck will rapidly increase and will grow in time to enormous proportions.

The climate and the motor car will accomplish it and it is time that the road builders awakened to these entirely new conditions. Besides the question of safety and convenience there is the question of beauty, of civic pride and the satisfaction of building right for all time.

Road builders must realize that the motor car has brought entirely new conditions.

They must lay out the roads wide enough for all time, while the land can be got for nothing. It is a duty.

Kindness to Cow Pays.

Be kind to the dairy cow. You can't pound milk out of her with the milk stool or run milk out of her with the dog when bringing her from the pasture to the barn. Get on good terms with the dairy cow, and her friendship will be seen by increased profits in the milk pail.

Surfacing Footpaths. For surfacing footpaths, gravel, mixtures of sand and clay, and cinders will, in general, give good satisfaction.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foat tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from any store that handles drugs which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—Adv.

Not So Good.

"Any good skating on the lake these days?"

"The ice is good, if that's what you mean. The skaters are a lot of dubs."

A GLASS OF SALTS WILL END KIDNEY-BACKACHE

Says Drugs Excite Kidneys and Recommends Only Salts, Particularly if Bladder Bothers You.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Day Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/4 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any drug-gist can put this up for you can mix it at home at very little cost. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

The Advantage.

Announcement

We wish to announce to prospective candidates, who may desire to present their claims to the people through these columns during the approaching campaign, the terms and conditions for such announcements in the NEWS.

Candidates announcing for county offices will be charged the sum of $10.00, and district and legislative announcements $15.00, cash to accompany the announcement. Each candidate announcing will be given a short reading notice, calling attention to his candidacy, but not an elaborate one. If candidates desire more space it may be secured by the payment of our regular rates for line readers.

"Do we need preparedness?" the peace party shouts. If France had not been partially prepared the Teutons would now be running the municipal government at Paris, and treating France as a conquered province, as well.

As a great little pacifist Henry Ford leads the van. He is using pages and pages in the daily press and also in the magazines. It's costing him a pretty penny, but it keeps Henry before the public, just the same.

The greatest battle of the war, perhaps, has been fought during the past ten days around the French fortress of Verdun, and the end is not yet. The Germans have made some terrific onslaughts, gained some positions and lost others, and while doing it have paid an awful price. Their opponents, likewise, have suffered terrible loss.

If the president and congress would heed the advice that is being bestowed upon them by the press, some of the most valuable emanating from New Mexico, all international questions could be easily solved. However, the advice is cheap and, even if not accepted, costs nothing.

One hundred and fifty thousand men is said to be the price the Teutons paid for two miles advance beyond the French trenches. The capture of Paris, which seems to be the objective, at a corresponding rate of loss, will leave few Germans to enjoy the victory.

The pacifists tell us that "men sitting around a table, not men dying in a trench, finally settle the differences, anyhow." It would be difficult to convince the soldiers who have met around Verdun, where about a quarter of a million have been slain, wounded or captured, of the practicability of such a statement.

Henry Ford is using pages in the metropolitan press, for which he pays a good, stiff price, advocating peace and fighting preparedness. A friend sent us a copy of the New York Journal, which contains a page from Henry's pen, and says, with reference to the effusion: "I thought this might interest you. Of all the Ford jokes, the greatest is 'Henry'!"

Mrs. Donaldson's 'Children' Recite

Many, many years ago—before the personal recollections of even this writer—a great and good man spoke of children: harmoniously; he must have had music in his mind, the music of children. A houseful of Carrizozo's people did at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Donaldson Thursday evening, guests who gathered at a recital of Mrs. Donaldson's nearly two dozen pupils, who made an evening of pleasure as they exhibited their musical proficiency acquired during the past two months; since the recital by Mrs. Donaldson's pupils in December, given at the Club House.

There was assistance of adults in accompaniments; Mrs. Fairbank on the mandolin with the singing and piano; and there were numbers in song and on the piano. But the limelight of interest played upon the children. And this is what they did—as this writer's memory serves, and hopes none overlooked.

Mr. Gauchat and Miss Eula Edmondson, piano duet. Herndon, piano solo, and Japanese song—dressed for part Evelyne and Maggie, piano duet. Rue, song, "The Broken Doll." Maxine, song with own accompaniment; and duet with teacher. Laurel Brown, Gene Watson, and Baby McQuillen, recitations—all by their individual selves. Lois and Catherine, piano duet. Lorine, piano solo. Miss Kimbell, song, "The Coronation of the Rose"; and recitation, "From the Back Seat"—moting's a misery, anyhow! Lois, piano solo. Mrs. Daniels, song. Mrs. Fairbank and Mr. Gauchat, mandolin and piano. Miss Bessie White, songs. Miss Cora Cole, piano solo. Miss Ruth Edmondson, piano solo, and song. Six hand piece, Miss Eula Edmondson, Miss Cole, Mr. Gauchat. Miss Peters, song, "Mother Machree." And there were other numbers that have escaped the musical memory of the writer.

Coffee, and cakes which children like, were served; and the adults, being there, partook with appreciation.

by the contest committee not earlier than half an hour before the contest itself, thus obviating any possibility of criticism in regard to favoritism. Since all the work in planning contests and so forth has been done at Capitan, it is the wish of the Capitan teachers that none of them be included in the membership of contest committees.

The arithmetic contest, which will start at 9 a. m. Saturday, immediately preceding the spelling contest, will be based on Thompson's Minimum Essentials, and will be conducted in a manner similar to the spelling contest. In each of these contests, every school in the county is entitled to one representative, without restriction as to grade, but with an age restriction of 17 years.

In both of the above contests the prize will be a gold medal offered by the Capitan Commercial Club, to which sincere thanks are due from the entire school system of the county for the public spirit shown by the organization, which in addition to the above medals also offers a medal for the High School declamatory contest, which will occur on Friday evening. On Saturday afternoon the club will take the visitors for an automobile tour of the beautiful and picturesque country surrounding Capitan.

A debate between the Carrizozo High School and the Lincoln County High School of Capitan will take place on Saturday evening, the subject being the question of a literacy test to restrict immigration, Capitan having the affirmative, Carrizozo the negative. The representatives from Carrizozo will be Dan Mayes and Louis Adams; from Capitan, Maude Bryan and Seth Smith.

The generous action of the Capitan Commercial Club in coming to the support of the meeting is only typical of the interest and enthusiasm displayed by the people of Capitan. Every preparation has been made for the welcoming of the visitors, who will be shown Capitan's best brand of hospitality. All visiting teachers, speakers, and contestants will be provided with all accommodations while at Capitan. A dinner, Friday evening, served by the domestic science department of the Lincoln County High School, will be followed by another, on Saturday evening, given by the ladies of Capitan.

The program of the meeting, so far as it can be given at the present time, follows. Attention is especially called to the splendid list of speakers, which has been mentioned before in these columns.

I wish to take advantage of this opportunity to assure all visitors of a hearty and cordial welcome at Capitan, emphasizing the fact that all the people of the county are invited to be present at any and all of the sessions.

County Democratic Committee Meets

Pursuant to a call by Secretary W. O. Norman, democratic committeemen from various points of the county met at the court house Saturday afternoon. B. R. Wood called the meeting to order, the regular chairman, W. J. Doering, being absent. The purpose of the meeting was to select a chairman, Mr. Doering having tendered his resignation.

Upon motion of George Kimbrell, of Picacho, seconded by W. O. Norman, of Lincoln, Frank W. Gurney, of Carrizozo, was unanimously chosen chairman of the county committee; and Mr. Gurney, not being present, was notified of his election by a committee duly appointed for that purpose.

Vacancies in the committee, caused by resignation, death or removal, were partially filled and the chairman was authorized to fill vacancies still existing. W. O. Norman was continued as secretary of the committee.

The committee is now composed of the following members from the various precincts: Precinct 1, W. O. Norman; 2, H. D. Murray; 3, Antonio Cordoba; 4, George Kimbrell; 5, J. P. Gannells; 7, A. H. Norton; 8, Paul Mayer; 10, Lon Hunter; 11, L. A. Skinner; 12, F. W. Skinner; 13, A. J. Atkinson; 14, B. P. Goff; 16, Juan Romero.

The following resolution was adopted:
Whereas, Our retiring chairman, W. J. Doering, who has served this committee and his party faithfully and efficiently for the past five years, and retires therefrom because of a change of residence; and
Whereas, W. O. Norman, who has served as secretary during the same period, ably seconding and assisting the chairman, committee and party;

Therefore, Be It Resolved, that

The Red Circle

Albert Payson Terhune

AUTHOR OF "THE FIGHTER," "CALEB CONOVER," "SYRIA FROM THE SADDLE," ETC. NOVELIZED FROM PATHE PHOTO PLAY OF THE SAME NAME BY WILL M. RITCHEY.

SYNOPSIS.

"Red Circle" Borden, named from a red birthmark on his hand, has served his third prison term. One in each Borden generation, always a criminal, has borne the Red Circle mark. Jim and his son Ted are the only known living of the Borden. Max Lamar, a detective, is detailed to keep an eye on Jim June Travis and her mother meet Jim as he is released. Jim and Ted are killed. Next day Lamar sees the Red Circle on a woman's hand outside a certain automobile. June, marked with the Red Circle, robs a bank, a loan shark, Mary June's nurse, discovers her theft and tells her she is "Red Circle Jim's" daughter, though Mrs. Travis does not know. Mary tricks Lamar. June, dressed as a boy, recovers Mary's coat from the police. Lamar visits "Bulling Barn," Jim's old crime partner. At the seaside, June steals war engine plane from Todd Drew and sinks them in the sea with her boy's clothes.

SIXTH INSTALLMENT "FALSE COLORS"

Halfway down the pier, on her way back to the beach, June turned to look seaward. There was nothing to prove that, only a minute before, a large bundle, heavily weighted and containing invention plans worth a million human lives had plunged to depths.

She bent to pick up a broken shell that was lying on the edge of the pier. A particularly brilliant ray of sunlight caught the back of her hand, making the red circle look like a scarlet welt on the white flesh. She covered the little mark with her other hand, and looked around guiltily.

"Reached there the old, stark fear cut into her heart for a moment. As her keen, searching eyes found the beach she sprang to her feet and started toward a little building on the pier, that had been used for a boat-renting office. Once safe in the shadow it cast, she looked shoreward again.

On the beach, running around a corner of the battered shack she saw Max Lamar and Count Freel. As she watched they ran down to the sea, and stood looking about blankly. Their loud agitated dialogue drifted out to her faintly. She caught the words "Which way? Find her!"

A wave a little heavier than the rest washed, noisily under the pier. Something knocked against one of the piles. June turned in sudden fear. She saw the ends of a perpendicular, wooden ladder showing above the edge of the stringpiece.

Leaving over she noted that an empty rowboat was tied fast just below her. She descended untied the painter and pushed away from the side of the pier. Then dropping on to the rower's seat she adjusted the oars and pulled with long easy strokes.

When she felt that she was at a safe distance she rested on her oars and looked toward the shore. Too far away to distinguish faces and well content at her clever escape, June tried not to scan the shore too carefully for the two men who were searching for her.

A man on the beach who had just raised his glass to learn what the Mary Dodged Down Behind the Chair, white spot on the horizon might be covered it again before he had a chance to look. Two excited individuals, talking to each other, had come across his line of vision—in fact, one of them had actually stumbled over his white canvas foot and had gone on without apology. He looked after the unmannerly clump, with a half-said-to-follow and demand redress.

suited were talking to a remarkably pretty fourth, who was sitting on a rock.

Suddenly one of the fellows who broke through the little group, abruptly seized the right hand of the pretty girl, looked closely at the back of it and dropped it just as abruptly. The girl, her eyes blazing with anger, reached for the closed parasol that was lying at her side and raised it in midair, to strike.

The two men backed away, uttering object apologies and loud protests before the sudden onslaught of indignant femininity; then they broke into a run and made for the esplanade. Slipping his marine glass into his coat pocket, the onlooker, amused, started in pursuit.

He saw the same impudent fellow approach a girl, dressed in a sailor suit, seize her right hand, scan its surface hastily, then drop it and attempt a getaway.

But the girl was too quick for him. Getting hold of the man's injured hand she hung on, calling for help at the top of her lungs. A policeman, a block distant, came running, just as the curious onlooker reached the spot.

"You're under arrest!" thundered the patrolman. "What'd you mean, anyway, by walking around the streets annoying ladies, eh?"

"I wasn't annoying ladies," argued the squirming prisoner. "It's a mistake. I never did such a thing in my life!"

The younger man twisted his arm free and reached into an inner pocket. Drawing out a cardcase, he snatched a bit of pastebord from it and shoved it under the sniffing nose of this minion of the law.

"That's who I am," he howled ferociously. "Todd Drew, son of the great inventor. Just now, when Count Freel and I were talking business, in a little shack on the beach, someone barricaded the door, reached in through a hole in the wall and stole the plans of the greatest war invention the world has ever known. They're worth a fortune. The hand that reached in and grabbed those papers was marked with a Red Circle—and the person (whoever it was) had on a girl's sailor suit."

"I corroborate all he says," added the count, hastily. "I wish to say—"

"Well, your story sounds grand!" decided the policeman, "but I think you're both liars. So, come along with me."

An hour later, Harry Gage Lamar's confidential clerk, came into his employer's private office and handed the crime specialist a telegram that read: Gupton, Aug. 2.—Mr. Max Lamar, 512 Black Edg.

Father's war instrument plans stolen. Circular birthmark on back of hand only clue. I am held by police here on charge of annoying girls. Come at once. Todd Drew.

Lamar's brows contracted suddenly as he read, "Circular birthmark!" The Red Circle, of course—and at Surfton! "I'm off to the beach—Surfton! Anything important comes up, phone or wire. Red Circle!"

Arriving at Surfton Lamar jumped from the step of the car and ran toward a little group of three men, one in a policeman's uniform. He grasped the hand of the youngest of the three and shook it heartily.

"It's the most terrible mix-up all around!" this man said to Lamar. "Imagine them holding me for annoying women! Say, for pure imbecility, recommend me to the police of a one-horse burg like this!"

"See here, you!" interrupted the omniscient of the law, "that'll do! I'm—"

"That's all right, officer," Lamar broke in soothingly, "my friend is naturally excited over his arrest. I'll be responsible for both."

"So you thought you saw a Red Circle on this person's hand, eh?" he continued suavely as they moved off the station platform.

Just within hearing distance, a woman with a suitcase started suddenly.

"Thought nothing!" retorted Drew emphatically, "I saw it. It was as distinct as—or—as anything."

Drew uttered a sudden grunt and pointed ahead of him. The two other men stopped short and looked.

"A sailor suit!" whispered Drew excitedly. "Another one! Shall we—?" Lamar's face lighted up. He put a detaining hand on the agitated fellow's arm.

"I'm afraid you will have to leave this sailor suit alone, Drew," he said. "The young lady is a very dear friend of mine—Miss June Travis. I want you to meet her. She's charming."

Within ten feet of them, June, looking out over the water, had been unaware of their approach. Staring into Lamar's face, now, she lost her composure for the merest fraction of a second. The next instant she had extended her right hand and placed it between his two eager ones.

Drew and the count, suspicious of any and all sailor suits, crowded up, intent upon the hand that Lamar held prisoner. A smooth white surface with just the faintest golden brown freckle on one knuckle met his eye. He laughed at the other two in sheer amusement.

"May I present Mr. Drew, Miss Travis? And Count Freel, Miss Travis. It's strange you people haven't met before. Surfton is a small place."

"It is strange you haven't met at some of the functions that have been given at the hotel. You men are stopping there and I'm sure Miss Travis attends all the dances," said Max.

"I do, indeed," said June gaily. "There's to be a ball there tonight, by the way. Mother and I are going. Won't I see you all there?"

"I'll be there," he promised firmly. "And I'll bring the count and Drew with me, Miss Travis."

"Just look at the crowd!" June exclaimed with delight, as their car turned into the drive leading to the hotel. "This is going to be the best dance of the season."

An attendant in livery helped them from the car. June took hold of Mary's hand and helped her up the steps.

"Just don't you let me catch you flirting—that's all," she whispered wickedly in the old woman's ear; and Mrs. Travis wondered what Mary's sudden indignant exclamation was about.

"Everyone's going inside, dear," the nurse said, as they reached the top of the steps. "Let me take your things to the coat room or you'll be late for the first dance."

"Oh, I don't care about the first dance. I haven't promised it to anyone. I'm going to see who's here first. Stay out here with me just a minute." She walked to one of the long French windows and looked inside. The scene was gay enough to dispel any shadows. Yet over in one corner, leaning against a pillar, his arms folded, his chin held closely in one hand was Lamar, in a brown study.

Emblazoned on the Back of the Hand Was an Irregular Circle of Scarlet!

Mary crept up beside her and looked over her shoulder. Her eyes fell on Lamar; and she started so violently that June put out an arm to steady her.

"There's nothing to be frightened about," she said, soothingly. "Nothing at all, only—"

"Only what?" asked Mary, quaveringly.

"Only I'm going to put on my gloves."

A minute later she entered the ball room with her mother. Presently she was surrounded by men imploring her to allow them to autograph her dance card. Lamar glanced up, saw her and started across the floor in her direction.

Mary, sitting on a little settee against the wall of the ballroom saw him take June's hand and bend over it. She half rose from the seat, then remembered where she was and sat down again; gripping the arm of the chair and watching every move of the little group.

Suddenly a woman appeared at one of the pillars—a woman who attracted attention by her daring attire. She wore a gown whose foundation was of flesh color chiffon. The overdress was simply a network of jet. The costume was daintily décolleté, and was held in place over the shoulders by a delicate chain of jet beads. Among the pretty, girlish dance frocks it looked bizarre—all but indecent.

Just for a moment she leaned against the pillar, waving a huge, black ostrich fan to and fro. Over the soft tips of the graceful feathers her eyes met those of a venturesome young man. She signaled. He obeyed. Mary watched, until the two were lost in the maze of dancers. Then her eyes wandered back to June, who was still deeply engrossed in what Lamar was saying.

Mary wished that some of the men would come up and claim June for a dance. Anything to be rid of Lamar. The slender woman in the startling costume kept dancing into Mary's line of vision. She was leaning back against her partner's arm, looking into his eyes, a taunting smile on her thin vivid lips.

While Mary was deciding that this was quite the most disgusting type of woman she had ever seen, the strange girl and her partner collided clumsily with another couple. The woman with whom they collided—a plump blonde and beautifully gowned—got the worst of the collision.

Mary saw her bend down and rub her ankles. Then, while proper apologies were made by the woman in black and her partner, the little blonde limped away on her partner's arm and sought refuge on a settee near Mary. The acute pain in her foot must have made her feel faint. For the man immediately went in search of a glass of water and returned with it as quickly as possible.

After taking a few swallows, Mary saw the blonde girl put her hand over her heart and draw a deep breath of relief. But the expression of renewed strength gave way instantly to startled surprise. She was passing her hands rapidly over the front of her elaborately embroidered gown.

"What's the matter, Mrs. Hinkle?" Mary heard the young man say.

"I've lost my brooch—my diamond brooch!" gasped the woman. "I had it on a minute ago, I'm sure."

"Surely it must be around somewhere if you had it on just a moment ago," protested the young man. "Maybe you dropped it when we had our tumbler. Wait here and I'll go look around that spot."

"No, I'll come with you. It's made me nervous. I couldn't sit still."

As they passed several chatting groups Mrs. Hinkle announced her loss, loudly. Soon the floor was covered with people searching for the missing diamonds.

Suddenly Mary realized that June was not in the little throng of search-

"I am George Radner, the manager of this hotel, Mr. Lamar!" The man spoke hurriedly, as if distressed. "Several guests have lost articles of jewelry tonight. I am afraid a professional thief is at work among them. Can't you do something about it, Mr. Lamar? I hate to trouble you, but—"

"Oh, that's all right—that's all right," Lamar muttered indistinctly. "Has anyone who reported a loss to you said anything about a Red Circle, Mr. Radner?"

"No, I don't think so. Nobody has the slightest clue. It's the cleverest sort of theft I've ever known. There's a master crook operating here, I'm certain."

"I'll see what I can do, Mr. Radner. Just go out and mingle with the guests as though nothing had occurred, will you? I'll be out in a minute."

Lamar came back to the bench and sat down, his hands clenched tightly, his lower jaw protruding in an ugly, determined way. The Japanese silk draperies behind him moved slightly as if in obedience to a gentle breeze. June put her hand over his, soothingly.

"You are terribly worried over this mystery," she said softly. "Let me help you solve it, won't you? Who knows but that I may develop into a regular detec—er—crime specialist."

Annoyed and worried as he was, Lamar threw back his head and laughed heartily.

"All right, Miss Travis," he said gravely. "I'll appoint you my first assistant on this case. Perhaps you can help me."

June turned toward him, her face alight.

"I'll do my best," she promised. "Will you let me come to see you tomorrow morning to tell you a few more details of this case?" he inquired eagerly.

"I'd be delighted to have you come," June replied heartily. "I'm rather excited about the idea of joining forces with you and—oh!"

She broke off suddenly and put her hand to her throat. It was bare. Her pearl pendant was gone! She twisted around with lightning rapidity, dragging Lamar around with her. The portieres of Japanese silk were parted slightly. Protruding from the opening was a white hand with slender, tapering fingers. Hargling from the over-manicured fingertips was a pendant of pearls. Emblazoned on the back of the hand was an irregular circle of brilliant scarlet!

Lamar and June sat as if paralyzed, until a scraping sound shattered the spell.

Lamar sprang to his feet, jumped over the bench and tore the portieres from the heavy brass poles that supported them. He found himself in a little oblong recess. Directly in front of him was a long window opening presumably on the porch.

With a muttered imprecation he threw himself at the closed window, expecting it to give. The force of his onslaught shattered several of the small panes, but his progress was blocked by a wicker porch settee that had evidently been placed there for that very purpose.

Unable to check his speed he tumbled headlong over this settee and landed bruised against the outer rail of the porch. The frail settee had cracked under his weight and the thud of his falling body sounded unnaturally loud on the still air.

It was this sudden jarring that awakened Mary from her nap in the deep chair. With the dull gaze, or a person just roused from sleep, the old woman rubbed her eyes and looked about. In the same room, but in a far distant corner, she heard the soft rustle of a woman's skirt. Then the clink of glass against metal.

She twisted quietly in the chair until she was crouching on her knees on the seat of it, facing the back. Cautiously she raised her body until her eyes were just above the edge. What she saw made her forget her own predicament.

Over in a half-lit corner was a large square pedestal holding a bronze statuette. Standing so that its shadow half concealed her, was the daring Woman in Black, her right hand lifted so that the feeble light from the hanging lamp fell athwart its back. On it blazed a Red Circle!

Mary dodged down behind the chair top as the woman slowly turned her head. After a few seconds the sound of liquid dripping into a glass made her anxious to look again.

The woman was holding a small sponge in her left hand. She squeezed it dry into a glass half full of water. Smiling whimsically to herself, she rubbed the back of her right hand with the dampened sponge. The Red Circle disappeared.

Breathless with excitement, Mary strained her eyes to catch every move. She saw the woman take up the glass, deliberately spill the liquid on the floor, and gather a brush, tiny box of water color paints and the sponge from the pedestal. Leaving the glass where it was, she opened a false pocket in the skirt of her gown, dropped the several articles into it and quietly left the room.

Mary waited until she was reasonably sure the woman would not return, then left her chair. Hurrying over to the statue she picked up the glass and examined it. There was no mark on it except the ring that the colored water had left. At the foot of the pedestal was the large, damp spot. Mary bent to feel it with the palm of her hand; to make sure the whole thing wasn't a strange dream.

When she found her way back to the ballroom it was nearly deserted. Wand'ring about looking for Mrs. Travis and June, she came face to face with a young man who was saying good-night to one of the hotel guests.

"Why Mary?" exclaimed the man in great surprise, "where have you been? Miss Travis was looking all over for you. When she couldn't find you she decided you had gone home without her knowing it. She and Mrs. Travis have left. I'm going that way. Let me take you home in my car."

When he put her down at the cottage he warned her:

"Don't wake Miss Travis if she's sleeping, Mary. The poor girl's half dead. She danced more than anybody there—mostly with that chap Lamar. Mrs. Travis said she was going to make her sleep until noon tomorrow."

She Told of the Woman With the Red Circle.

The next morning at eleven-thirty, June ran out on the porch and clapped her hands over Mary's eyes just as the nurse was finishing her happy daily perusal of the death column—in the Morning Star.

"Guess!" she commanded. "It's my lamb," said Mary, complacently, trying to smooth her ruffled front hair.

"Aren't you a sly, old lady, sneaking home hours and hours ahead of me, last night? I didn't dare go near your room when I came in, for fear you'd wake up."

"I wasn't there, pet," Mary told her. "I didn't leave the hotel until after you did."

"What?"

With a cautious glance around, the nurse started to recount the happenings of the night before. She told haltingly, fearful that she might omit an important detail. When she got to the point of her recital where the Woman in Black left the room, June clutched her hand excitedly.

"And you let her go?" she exclaimed, almost unbelieving. "Why? Why?"

"Of course I let her go"—the old woman was offended to think her judgment in the matter was questioned—"she could have broke away from me and made her escape—and then she would have been warned. This way, she thinks she's safe and she won't hide. I'd know her again, the minute I lay eyes on her."

June pulled her up from the chair, impetuously.

"You've got to come right over to the hotel and tell the whole thing to Mr. Lamar. Don't you see how tremendously important it is to him—and to us?" she added thoughtfully.

Mary protested violently as June dragged her down the path and toward the hotel.

"Look! Oh, what luck! There is Mr. Lamar now; just leaving Mr. Radner at the entrance to the hotel. Hurry, Mary, and we'll be able to catch him."

June waved her hand excitedly. Lamar ran toward them.

"Any news?" he asked quickly.

"Tell him," June said briefly.

Mary had gotten almost through her story, when suddenly her eyes bulged in their sockets and she pointed a dramatic forefinger over Lamar's shoulder.

"There she is!" she gasped, her voice cracking in her throat. "That's the woman! The one with the suitcase, walking down the path on her way to the station. That's the Woman in Black!"

"Are you sure?" the pressure of Lamar's fingers hurt her arm. "Sure?" "I'm sure," she answered firmly. "I'd know her anywhere."

"I have to go immediately, Miss Travis," Lamar said, keeping one eye on the disappearing figure. "I'm going to trail that woman. Here's one time that Fate is playing into my hands."

They watched him walk rapidly around the back of the hotel and take a short cut to the station.

Two hours later Max Lamar strolled carelessly along a residential block in the city. Finding great difficulty in lighting his cigarette he stepped into a vestibule, just as the woman he was trailing turned the corner and entered a large apartment house.

Giving her time to get upstairs, Lamar stepped from his hiding place, sauntered toward the same entrance and leaned against one of the stone pillars, aimlessly blowing rings of smoke skyward.

"Well, my little blackbird," he mused, "your wings are clipped and your cage won't be a golden one, either. At last, the Red Circle mystery is going to be cleared—perhaps!" (END OF SIXTH INSTALLMENT.)

Ancho 'Has the Burglar'

Just as the first minutes of March were being ticked off, the safe doors of the Ancho Brick and Cement company were blown open. The burglars used big hammers to break through the doors for half an hour, then put off the second shot to get the inner door open, but failed to get the money.

The shots were so heavy many window panes were shattered. The night watchman, Mr. McKenzie, made his appearance a few minutes after the second explosion and went into the front door of the store, near the post office, which was left open and unguarded. He heard some one in the company's office and rushed out and around the block. There he found J. O. Carter, who was watching for the burglars to come out of the open door. Mr. Carter lives within forty feet of the brick company's office and was the first one aroused. He caught a flashlight at intervals and heard footsteps and the hammering very distinctly.

The sheriff arrived on the scene from at 4 a. m.

In addition to the above from our Ancho correspondent, we have talked with officers from here who responded to the hurry tip call. Sheriff Chavez and Deputy Baird arrived on the scene as soon as an auto could carry them to the point. They found the burglar had made a get-a-way, having slipped out at an unguarded point, and the watchman failing to see him. However, the officers found the burglar's tracks after daylight and trailed him to a point about one mile east of Ancho where, he must have boarded a freight. The freight was followed, but the fugitive evidently quit the train before it reached a terminal, as all trace of him was lost. The burglar got nothing from the safe, as he was disturbed before effecting an entrance to the inner vault, where were deposited the postoffice funds and some individual cash as well.

Deserter Captured

A private soldier, bearing the name of Leroy Lassure, was arrested here yesterday by Deputy Baird on charge of desertion. The authorities had a wire from the officer in command at Hachita, New Mexico, requesting the arrest, and the soldier was apprehended as stated. Mr. Baird will probably take his prisoner today to Fort Bliss, the nearest military post.

Fuller Arrested In California

Deputy Baird is in receipt of a letter from the sheriff at Marysville, California, stating that he had apprehended Harry Fuller, alias Frank Fisher, Davis, Clark, Griffith, etc. Fuller, et al, was arrested there for forgery, having used the same aliases as he used here. The checks Mr. Fuller drew here bore the signature and were drawn in favor of Fisher, Davis, Clark, Griffith or any other old name just to suit the fancy of our business men who cashed his checks about two months ago. The California authorities will probably deal with Fuller, as he has confessed to the forgery, and Lincoln county will be saved the expense of convicting him, at this time, at least.

School Notes

We were delighted to have today as our guests the official board of Directors, Messrs. P. M. Johnson, Julian Taylor and A. J. Rolland. These gentlemen found much about the school tending to evoke commendation and found much gratification in the improved system of the school, the good condition of the building and a spirit of work and progress which has hardly been equaled in time past. These gentlemen have a standing invitation, and we hope they will on occasion to visit us separately, collectively, or any other way that opportunity affords, and to repeat this performance whenever possible.

The school management is glad to announce a complete revision of the program of the music department. By consultation of the work as scheduled, aided by the earnest cooperation of all concerned, it has been made possible to give, instead of one half-hour lesson, two half-hour periods, or the to give one hour piano instruction for the same consideration as for the half-hour period heretofore given. The price of 50 cents still holds for the increased time. The school is glad that it is able to make this change, not that we wish to wipe out any old scores, but that we are able by careful scheming to extend this music period, and are more than glad to do so.

Warden's Sell Out

Warden Bros., whose headquarters ranch is near Ancho, have sold that ranch and all their sheep, retaining a ranch still farther west. The purchasers are U. S. Stewart, a banker in El Paso, and other associates in that city. The terms are not made public, but these who claim some knowledge of the transaction say the amount involved was sufficiently large to make it unadvisable for the Wardens to herd sheep the remainder of their natural lives.

Frank Gray and Price Bentley, accompanied by their boys, arrived last Friday from Magdalena, having driven across the country.

Fort Stanton

Dr. Reid, of the local medical staff, left Tuesday for a visit with friends in El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Sitton and children motored to Parsons Sunday last and report a most enjoyable trip.

A trained nurse from El Paso arrived this week, to care of Mr. Coley, who is quite ill at his apartment in No. 4.

Miss S. Brown, Mrs. F. H. McKeon, Lieut. R. Monroe and the chaplain motored to Capitan Monday last on a pleasure and business trip.

Rev. Gardner, of Carrizozo, conducted a non-sectarian service in Library hall last Friday evening, and gave an illustrated lecture on foreign missions in the same hall on Saturday evening.

The chapel exercises during Lent, which begin March 8 (Ash Wednesday), will be announced next Sunday during the mass at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. J. Q. Welch, of Dawson, New Mexico, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Weber and family, at 13 B.

Misses Gillan and Boque, of Capitan, visited the Post Saturday last, and were the guests of friends at Number 4 at dinner the same evening.

A Victrola concert was given at Number 10 by the chaplain last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brockway, Sr., motored to Picocho Sunday and spent the day with relatives.

Members of Number 4 enjoyed a box of cigars last Monday evening, the compliment of J. W. Norton.

Lieut. Roy Monroe has ordered a motorcycle. The question arises, is it built for two, or more?

The new Weber boulevard has been completed between the Post and the Lincoln county highway.

Methodist Church

Rev. B. D. Lewis, Pastor.

I will preach at Capitan next Sunday morning and evening, March 5. Let everybody come and join in the worship of God. You will feel better and will be better by it. The subject of the morning sermon, "Privileges of the Children of God." In the evening we will consider, "Is Man Immortal?"

I will preach at the school house at Lincoln in the afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Gran Quiyira Party

A party of sixteen motored to Gran Quiyira last Sunday, four automobiles conveying them. In the party were:

Ed R. Kelly, H. C. Franklin, C. F. Redfield, S. F. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Luster, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Squier, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Tifney and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Holman.

The party left at 8 o'clock in the morning and returned at 6 o'clock in the evening. They took lunch at the old ruins, driving their cars up to the front door of the old church, which occupies the highest point of the abandoned city. About three hours were spent in going over the ruins, examining the masonry, picking up pottery, etc.; a number of skulls and one skeleton.

The distance registered going out was 54 miles, and returning by another route the distance was shown to be 53 miles. The roads were good with the exception of some sand near the ruins, in which motoring was rather difficult. We will compete with the catalog houses and give better merchandise. Ziegler Bros.
