OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER --- DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO

VOLUME 19

CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 4, 1918.

NUMBER 1

Red Cross Using

over the Top

The much heralded campaign of the Red Cross for "ten million new members by Christmas," which opened on December 10, was hardly more than a few hours and away when telegraphic reports to National Headquarters at Washington indicated an enrollment in excess of the goal. Early and scattering returns for the first day of enrollment, which was Monday, showed that several of the thirteen national divisions of the Red Cross had gone over their quotas for the day, with hundreds of chapters unheard from. The city of Seattle alone reported an enrollment practically equalling the day's quota for the entire Northwest Division, which embraces the States of Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

Early in the campaign week it became a matter of rivalry between the divisions not to see whether they would reach their quotas, but to see how far above the quota each division might push its enrollment by Christmas Eve. Millions of Americans await eagerly the final word from Washington as to how many crosses were illuminated on service flags in the windows of Red Cross homes on Christmas Eve.

Ancho

Mrs. F. M. Duncan, of Dearborn, Missouri, is spending the holidays with friends in and around Ancho.

There will be a dance at Ancho Saturday night, January 12th, a lunch will be served to all dancers. The best of music, and a cordial invitation to all lovers of music and dancing is extended by the Ancho people.

A very sad accident occurred at Corona last Saturday night when the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Locke caught on fire and burned to the ground in a few moments. Mr. and Mrs. Locke lost every thing except the clothing they wore. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp.

Bryan Hightower is at home spending the holidays. Bryan is a young man with a host of friends who were made very happy by his return from the training camp in California, where he had been for several weeks.

The Ancho school has been closed during the Christmas time.

Prof. Funk spent the holiday week with his family in Alamogordo. School started again Wednesday with renewed interest after a week of rest.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Dulany, of Webb, Arizona, are spending the holidays with their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Glenn of Luna. They came overland in their car from Arizona and report a fine trip.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Kelly, who has been in the training camp for some time, came home on a furlough to spend the holidays with his folks here.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cooper entertained their folks and a few friends New Year day. Their spacious home was full of good cheer and the day was a happy one to begin the New Year of 1918. Music was a special feature and the turkey dinner was heartily enjoyed by about thirty guests. Mrs. Cooper is a fine hostess.

Every one is cordially invited to attend the entertainment at the Ancho school home on Saturday night, January 12. Part of the proceeds will be given to the school. The school is open for purchase of the house. These are the terms: $1000.00 cash or $200.00 per month for 6 months. The house will be sold to the highest bidder. The school will be given to the highest bidder. The school will be given to the highest bidder.

Watch-Night Party

Say! Have you heard about the party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Stevens Monday night. I never tell any thing unless I am by myself or with some one, but I would like to slip you a word about the fine bunch of Epworth Leaguers. I never before saw so much real life. They had fun, fun of the good wholesome kind. They were not contented to operate at one place. In a body, about fifty strong, they visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fetter, to wish them every good blessing for the New Year. After a pleasant hour at the Fetter home, they returned to the Stevens home to watch for the coming of the New Year and to say good bye to the Old.

When Father Time drew the curtain on the old year and opened the doors of the New the young folks entered with glad hearts, each resolving, in his own words, for a higher life. If you are not in line with those youngsters, my advice is to "line up." They will pin a smile on you, which is the most beautiful bouquet known to the human race; and if you are not very careful it will take root and grow on you. They say the League is to have another social soon. If it does not rain you can count on my being present. If it does rain I will give the credit to that bunch. If it rains on people according to their hospitality the Stevens are sure to drown. "Null Sed."

"I would like to join a good Bible class." "I would. Then come and join our class, the Friendly Bible Class, which meets every Sunday at the Baptist church at 10 a. m." "I did not know you had an Adult Bible Class." "Well we have and it is growing and aiming to get every man and woman in Carrizozo who will do so to join and we would like to see you in the class next Sunday." "Well I believe I will come and visit you any way and if I like the class I will join." "I am sure you will like the class just fine, good-bye."

A Call for Help

Funds are needed to pay or partially pay Mrs. Rowden for her partaking care of Mrs. Green and the Green children. This is a case of the sick man at our door. Please be a good Samaritan. Leave money at either of the banks and oblige.

THE TWO ATLARS

By Will M. Maupin, in Kearney, Nebraska, "Hub."

Jack Smith belonged to the Y. M. C. A.;
Pat Meehan to the K. of C.
Both marched away 'neath the flag one day,
To fight for the Land of the Free.
Jack bowed his head as he said a prayer;
Pat knelt with his parish priest;
Then they stood up square to go "over there"
To grapple the Hunnish beast.

Now, their altar calls were not the same,
Though they messed in the same old shack,
But just the same 'twas the same Great Name
They worshiped, both Pat and Jack.
While Jack stood straight as he humbly prayed,
Pat knelt at a candle's light,
But the same God heard each whispered word
That harkens to yours and mine.

They didn't agree, did Jack and Pat,
On methods of worship true;
But what of that? They went 't the mat
For the old Red, White and Blue.
They knelt apart, but 'twas side by side
They fought for their homes and right,
And the blood-red tide of the Kaiser's pride
They battled by day and night.

Each buffed its billet has got, they say,
And always will find its mark.
And Pat and Jack in a trench mud black
Lay side by side in the dark.
Their life's blood ebbed with a falling tide
As they came to the great unknown;
But hand in hand from that far-off land
They knew they were not alone.

So "over the top" to the Glory Side
Where never is war nor tears;
Where the true and tried in God's love abide
With nothing of doubt nor fears,
And the God they met as they entered
Where the souls of all men are free
Was the God of Jack's Y. M. C. A.
And the God of Pat's K. of C.

Special Tractor Course

A special tractor 6 weeks' course will be given at the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, commencing Farmers' Week, January 14 to 19.

As many farmers are well aware, this country is faced with an enormous shortage in farm labor, and in fact the success of our armies in the present conflict may depend upon the ability of the American farmer to increase the food supply of the world. This farm labor shortage is being met in practically all the western states by turning to tractor farming. In New Mexico itself the number of tractors in use have increased materially during the last year, and the outlook is that their use will continue to grow by leaps and bounds. The tractor is a piece of farm machinery that has come to stay. At the present time there is a great shortage of men, properly trained to handle tractors and keep them in repair. So great is this that editors of agricultural magazines and other influential men have requested that the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts this year give a short course on the upkeep and operation of gas tractors. Many of the tractor manufacturers have agreed to cooperate with us, and we will have on hand excellent equipment to carry out this plan. The work will be taught by a man who has had practical farming experience with them. It will cover a general understanding of gas engines and tractors, together with experience in repair and operation.

If any farmer is contemplating the purchase of a tractor and is not familiar with its operation, he can come here, take this short course and go back with a knowledge of his machine that means success of operation during the first year. The greatest drawback in the use of farm machinery is the lack of understanding of its construction, and just such a course as this is what is needed to make its use successful. In such states as Iowa, Kansas and other large grain-growing states, tractors have come to stay, and through courses of this kind at the agricultural colleges, farmers have found out how to properly handle this machinery. For young men this course is especially valuable for, although they may not expect to own a tractor, there will be excellent opportunities in this region for work as operators, and it is a trade that commands a good wage.

Application blanks and further information can be had by addressing Dean of Engineering, State College, N. M.

Ancho Red Cross

(Communicated)

The ladies of Ancho gave a pie supper Monday evening for the benefit of the Red Cross. The house was very prettily decorated by Mrs. Henderson and Misses Sadie and Lucy Straley. Roy Perkins led in prayer then Mr. Straley gave a brief talk on the Red Cross work. The ladies realized the next sum of twenty-five dollars and were well pleased with the results. The ladies are very enthusiastic over their work. They have now secured 33 members for the Red Cross. Most of the ladies have worked hard and deserve praise for their work.

Geo. W. Olney has purchased the Billiard Parlor on El Paso avenue formerly owned by H. S. Campbell. Mr. Olney has been manager of the business for a number of years and has a wide acquaintance with the public.

Red Cross in France

Works Fast

The degree of organization of the American Red Cross abroad, and the speed with which it can formulate and execute plans, is shown in its recent achievement of equipping a hospital and organizing its staff within two weeks after the hospital property was placed at its disposal.

The new link in the chain of institutions which the American Red Cross is forging to regain for France the health of her citizens is the Sainte Eugenie Hospital, at Lyons, for tuberculosis repatriates.

A cable dispatch from Paris headquarters of the American Red Cross, announcing the opening of the hospital, said in part:

"Sainte Eugenie is lent to the American Red Cross by the Hospital Board of Lyons, which supplies the building with heat, light, water and sanitation without cost to the Red Cross, and with food, linen and disinfection at cost. The American Red Cross provides the nurses and doctors and hospital supplies.

"Often as many as 65 tubercular repatriates arrive at Evian in one week, coming from occupied France and Belgium. Returning to their homes, they have spread infection. The new hospital cares immediately for 200 patients in five new hospital barracks and in the main building."

Watch Party

A large party gathered Monday night at the Wetmore home to "watch the old year out and the new year in." Whist furnished the amusement until about 11 o'clock, following which a dainty lunch was served. Mrs. Kimbell was awarded the prize for the highest score—a pair of hoes.

Just as lunch was ended—5 minutes to midnight—bells were rung, tin pans beaten and every other form of noise indulged in to make night hideous. The noise kept up until after twelve and was superseded by the whistles at the round house and shops. After quiet was resumed some amusing pranks were pulled off, everybody suffering and enjoying the sport, until finally about one o'clock the merry makers wended their way home, having spent a most enjoyable evening—and part of the night.

School Re-Opens

School re-opened Wednesday, with a full corps of teachers on hand to meet the children after the holidays. Miss Ida Schimpff did not return having tendered her resignation. After a visit to her old home in Kansas she went to Los Angeles and was there wedded yesterday to a Mr. Mason. Miss Minnie Zuch of Sherman, Iowa, was registered to take her place. Mrs. W. L. Gannon was added to the faculty, having charge of the school work. The track was transferred to this side.

Each Con was given a list of all another school building to have one built. The school has grown to be a fine one.

Local Board Highly Praised by President

November 25, 1917.

To the members of the Local and District Boards:

You have now practically completed the great work of selecting the first contingent of the National Army. Upon you was devolved the difficult task of selecting those who can best serve with the battle flags from those whose duties and responsibilities require that they serve at home. The successful performance of this duty has undoubtedly brought to you a proud satisfaction in the privilege to serve the Nation in the hour of need. Commendation can add little to such satisfaction, but I would not be true to my own feelings did I not extend this expression of gratitude to you for the success of this great achievement.

Many members of the Boards have felt that they should render this service without compensation and as a testimonial of such action I have directed that a copy of this letter bearing a notation of such service be sent individually to those who have thus so generously served.

"A Poor Little Rich Girl" To-morrow at Crystal

"A Poor Little Rich Girl" will disclose Mary Pickford in a picture which, although of typical Pickford charm, presents the famous girl-star in a character quite different from anything in which she has appeared heretofore. For instance, who ever heard of Mary Pickford being a regular little bob-cat when it comes to fighting? Yet this is just what proves to be the case in "Little Mary's" new film when a gang of street urchins attack her at her palatial home.

In the luxurious conservatory, with its lily pond and gigantic palms she battles with a half dozen sturdy youngsters and finally sets them to route at the cost of such expensive furnishings as well as her own immaculate appearance. Battered from head to foot with mud (from the erstwhile lily pond and severely scratched she stands triumphant as the remains of the gang are set to flight. The urchins used in these scenes were instructed to give real battle and in fighting them off the popular little star had her hands full in every sense of the expression—as well as her teeth and feet. After this fight

Miss Pickford's activities for the day at the studio ceased right then and there and those who will witness the affair on the screen of the Crystal theatre Saturday, January 5 will easily understand why this was the case.

To the Oil Fields

Mayor Lutz left yesterday for Electra, Texas. He was accompanied by Liu Branum and A. J. Labann, who are stockholders in the New Mexico-Electra Oil Co. Frank Pau is also expected to join the party at Amarillo.

Mayor Lutz let a contract for two wells while in the field recently, one in the shallow well section, on the lot area, the other on the 60-acre tract in the deep well section. The mayor says he will have all before he returns, and all New Mexico stockholders have confidence in his ability to do so. But the good work goes on, and we believe in you.

THE FARMERS' WAR

Let us think for a while how the war concerns the farmer.

We went to war with Germany partly because the rulers of that country refused to let us send to Europe our ships laden with grain and cotton. They sunk the ships and cruelly murdered our sailors. Now suppose we allowed them to stop all our shipping, where would you, be? None of your goods would be sold in foreign countries, with the result that you would get nothing like the prices which you get today. This war is being waged partly that you may obtain fair prices for your goods.

What is going to happen if we lose this war? Prices of farm produce will drop; the Germans will impose taxation upon you which will cripple you for the next twenty years. Worse than that, if the Germans get over here, they will treat you in just the same way as they have the farmers of France, Belgium and Italy. In these sections farm houses have been shot to pieces, crops wasted and burned, even fruit trees chopped down, the cattle stolen, the men sent into slavery to work for German masters, their women ill-treated in ways that cannot be talked of in print, their little children have had their hands chopped off in order that they may never fight or do any more useful work again.

You may say "such things will not happen here." They said this in France in Belgium and in Italy. Such things will happen here just as sure as you are alive unless we smash the Germans so utterly that they are unable to reach this country. The German fleet and the German army will take just one week to get here if we are beaten. They have made up their minds that America shall pay.

Is there a farmer who will stand forward now and say, "This war does not concern me?"

You have money that you do not need at present. Loan it to the government at good interest, when you want the money back again, you can borrow on your bond or sell it. Uncle Sam will take care of your money until you need it and pay you interest on it.

and buy a Liberty Bond tomorrow.

The banks have some bonds on hand. They are holding them for people like yourself.

Don't be a slacker, and don't fool yourself with the idea that you are so far away from the war for it to hurt you. Remember 1914, when the Germans upset the world's shipping, and you took what you could get for your products.

Think of the twenty years starvation prices ahead of you, in case we are beaten.

This is your war, and if you won't get in it you deserve to lose your American citizenship. Call in at the bank tomorrow, and talk it over.

ABOUT THOSE CHILDREN OF YOURS

One word to the women of America who live peaceful lives in happy homes.

Let us draw a picture for you of a scene at Evian, in France. Six hundred and eighty Belgian children are leaving a train—thin, sickly, from four to twelve years of age—children of men who refused to work for the Germans and of mothers who let their children go rather than let them starve. They are pouring off the train, little ones clinging to the older ones, girls all crying, boys trying to cheer. They have come all the long way alone. On the platform are the Red Cross workers to meet them. Those children who can walk at all search along crying, "Meat, meat, we are going to have meat." Their little claw-like hands are significant.

Two such trains pull into Evian every day.

Another picture—it appeared in the illustrated papers recently. It showed an English widow with her eight children and the wording underneath ran as follows: "If the mother recovers from her injuries she will have six less mouths to feed—a bomb smashed their poor little home to pieces."

Do you care to see a picture of Italian life where women and children are marched in front of the German army in order that the Italian soldiers may kill them if they fire?

Would you care to think of such scenes as are described in these words: "All along the Piave River (in Italy) last night we could hear the screams of women in the hands of the Germans?"

Women of America, it is to save your children from such a fate that you are asked to economize and save and loan to the government all the money you can.

CALLED HER FAMILY TO HER BEDSIDE

Six Years Ago, Thinking She Might Die, Says Texas Lady, But Now She Is a Well, Strong Woman and Praises Cardui For Her Recovery.

Merse Oak, Tex.—Mrs. Mary Kilman, of this place, says: "After the birth of my little girl... my side commenced to hurt me. I had to go back to bed." We called the doctor. He treated me... but I got no better. I got worse and worse until the misery was unbearable... I was in bed for three months and suffered such agony that I was just drawn up in a knot... I told my husband if he would get me a bottle of Cardui I would try it... I commenced taking it, however, that evening I called my family about me... for I knew I could not last many days unless I had a change for the better. That was six years ago and I am still here and am a well, strong woman, and I owe my life to Cardui. I had only taken half the bottle when I began to feel better. The misery in my side got less... I continued right on taking the Cardui until I had taken three bottles and I did not need any more for I was well and never felt better in my life... I have never had any trouble from that day to this.

Do you suffer from headaches, backache, pains in sides, or other discomforts, each month? Or do you feel weak, nervous and flustered? If so, give Cardui, the women's tonic, a trial.

DIDN'T KNOW WHAT TO DO WITH HIS MONEY

A farmer came to one of the biggest business men in the Southwest last week and said: "I have done pretty well this season. I've $200.00 that I can spare. It's earning me nothing in the bank. You know something about investments, tell me what to do with it."

"Well," said the big fellow, "You can put your money into Railroad Stocks, you can buy Standard Commercial Stocks, or you can take long chances and buy stock in some Gold Mine, which may or may not make you a Millionaire. Do you know anything about stocks, shares, or investments generally?"

"Not a thing."

"Well, what is your first requirement in an investment, do you want high interest, or absolute safety?"

"Absolute safety—no chances for me. Why I wouldn't sleep nights and my wife would never quit worrying if I took chances."

"Well," was the reply, "I can advise you to buy some good Commercial Stock but I want to warn you that owing to trade conditions being upset of course the Stock might be low just when you wanted to sell. Would you mind that?"

"Yes, I believe I would. Of course, I know all stocks go up and down a little in price, but I must have something that can't go down too low, because I might want my money any time, and I can't afford to lose 5% to 10% of my investment just for the sake of securing 5% to 10% interest."

"So you want something that is so safe it will not cause you one moment's worry, you want something that you can purchase, hold, and feel safe about without your having to learn anything about stocks, shares, or market prices."

"That's it, exactly."

The business man had known right along what investment this man needed, but he wanted the farmer to sell himself first. "Well," he said with a smile, "What's the matter with investing with the United States Government? You won't have to sit up nights wondering whether they are going to fail. You don't have to know one thing about stocks, shares or markets, in order to get in on the proposition, and your little 4% comes around twice a year regularly."

"Oh, you mean buy a Liberty Bond?"

"Yes, why not?"

"Well, I guess I can't do better."

"Better, why, man, you can't do as well. It's the only kind of investment for a fellow like yourself who knows all about farming and nothing about finance. Your bond is the best collateral in the world, you can always sell it if you have to, and believe me there is a feeling of satisfaction about owning one of these bonds that you can't buy with any other security. The bond is Uncle Sam's certificate that you are an American in good standing and you feel that you are helping our boys in the great fight. Look at it any way you like, it's the safest investment in the world."

OUR OWN PEOPLE IN THE WAR

THE STORY OF A HOME REGIMENT THAT IS TRYING TO PULL THE KAISER FROM HIS THRONE.

Few people know that there is a regiment in the Southwest playing a great part in the war. In its ranks are to be found a girl school teacher; a confederate veteran of 77, maimed for life in the war; there is an alderman, some locomotive engineers, a doctor, and several clergymen. Many women are in the ranks of this strange regiment.

The uniform consists of well-worn civilian clothing, the regimental motto is "Service"; its standard the Stars and Stripes. To explain further, there is in a certain city in the Southwest of about 12,000 inhabitants a set of people, drawn chiefly from those not rich in this world's goods, who have made up their minds that they must personally help win the war. They have read carefully the advice given by the Government, they have devised ways and means of their own to accomplish their object, and they have placed themselves on record in writing, over their signature, that they have done certain things, and will do certain things in the future, to win this war.

Their records and pledges constitute Human Stories of the Deepest Interest

Here are a few of them:
"Doing without meat, give up my only boy for the cause."

"I am raising quite a nice garden, and trying to save while my husband is away in the army."

"I am seventy-seven and one-half years of age, half of my face was shot away in the Civil war. Have nothing but the rent of a very small farm. Took $100.00 Liberty Bond—one-fifth of all I had."

"Helpless with a broken limb, but paying $4.00 monthly for a Liberty Bond."

"Preserved lots of food for winter use, teaching thrift and helped to sell Liberty Bonds in school. Purchased one Liberty Bond, and intend to buy more. Managing my mother's business while two brothers in the army."

"Father is a soldier, two brothers soldiers, two sons soldiers. No money because have to try to keep my own and relatives' families."

"Family of five. Try to live entirely on goods we produce. Bought Liberty Bond, and will buy one of each issue. Supporting Red Cross and Young Men's Christian Association. Am a teacher and pastor, preaching the needs of the Government."

"Am an old man of seventy-seven. Will do my best every day, and invest every dollar I can spare in Bonds."

"Buy half what I used to. Make more stuff on the farm. Bought a $80.00 sow and pigs. Made more than twice as much farm products this year than ever, and expect to make more next year. Bought two Liberty Bonds and expect to buy more."

"Am doing work that I used to employ others to do. Will set aside money regularly for purchase of Bonds."

"Reduced living expenses to minimum. Putting aside 10 per cent of income for Bonds. Will invest everything I possess if necessary to win the war."

"Using practically no meat. Will buy $500.00 worth of each issue of Bonds. Am working to produce more."

"Am an alderman. Economizing and working for greater efficiency in Departments under my care."

"Am a teacher. Living on half my salary, and investing the other half in Bonds."

"Am a boy. I bought Bonds, and am raising pigs to help feed our soldiers."

Hats Off to Them!
True Americans everywhere pay their deepest respects to you brave little woman "carrying on," while your loved one is fighting, and to you M'am, toiling night and day to keep the home together while brother is away. They pay their tribute to you old soldiers, still trying to "do your bit" in spite of age and poverty, and to you men, who unable to accept the heavier burdens of youth, are still denying yourself of food and recreation in order that you may help financially to win the war. They honor you men who are preaching the gospel of patriotism and service, and you one enlightened farmer producing "over twice as much as ever before." To you doctors trying to conserve health, to you men cutting down unnecessary labor, to you boys who are raising a pig to help the world's food supply, honor and credit is due.

What of the Reverse Side of the Picture:

You will note that not one of the members of the Regiment referred to writes in this way: "I am a merchant. I have done a splendid business owing to good conditions in this section. Out of gratitude to the country that has educated and protected me I propose to cut out extravagances and subscribe 10 per cent of my savings to the Liberty Loan."

The one solitary pledge from a farm owner brings into strong relief the attitude of several hundreds of men in this community referred to who, undoubtedly, own farm lands. We hoped to have been able to report many replies along the following lines:

"I derive my income from products of the land. I have made more money this year than ever before. I feel it to be my duty to subscribe to the limit of my ability to the Liberty Loan, and to raise or encourage the raising of hogs, winter wheat and every thing else which will help feed our soldiers."

Unfortunately, there is but one such reply. In fairness it should be said that the farmer living out on his farm was not approached to enlist in this regiment, but the fact remains that many an owner of farm-land lives in this purely agricultural community.

Again, not one said, "I have made money to the extent that I do not have to work now. I cannot remain idle, I will get to work producing something needed by our boys 'over there'. My little fortune is at the disposal of the Government."

Hundreds of trim little houses, automobiles, and well dressed people lead one to believe that there are plenty of people in this thriving little city who could have written in this strain—They did not do so.

Without These People the War Cannot Be Won

It is useless for the tired little school teacher to wear herself out, for the war veteran to "do his bit" clear through to the grave. It will be in vain that the mother and the wife gave their flesh and blood and their dearest possession in life, unless the wholesale and retail merchants, the farmer, the lawyer, all come forward, throw off that indifference, which hangs like a pall of death over so many of our communities, and come out strong as preachers and practitioners of economy, production, and self-denial.

May the blush of shame, and the resolution to amend come to many as they read this little story—every word of it true.

ISN'T IT TRUE?

When the power and resources of this Country can be applied effectively, the war will be won. Are you doing your share?

It has been reserved to the producer of today to feel the satisfaction derived from patriotism and personal profit at one and the same time.

It is not money, but goods and service that will win the war.

But as goods and services must be bought, the Government sells Liberty Bonds.

Be doubly a patriot by producing, making money, and buying Bonds.

It was evening on the broad Hempstead Plain, Long Island, where the Rainbow division was spending its last night before embarking for France. It had been raining hard in the afternoon—a cold, steady autumn downpour—and there was nothing to suggest the rainbow in the outward aspect of the camp. Lines and lines of sodden canvas housed 27,000 men, gathered from 27 different states. The ground was dotted with pools and quagmires. Under the wet, penetrating chill, lit by flickering candles, the tents were far from cheerful shelter for a man's last night in his native land. But there were seven big tents where electric lights, numbers and friendly faces made the night pleasant. They transfer more love from one

Music, Games, Good Reading and Correspondence Facilities in Y. M. C. A. Building.

In each of these a soldier was strumming on a piano; others were reading books and magazines; hundreds were writing letters home. Behind the raised counter at one end three or four young men were busy passing out notepaper and envelopes, selling stamps and weighing parcels, which the men were sending home. One of the soldiers said to me as I stood in the tent used chiefly by men from Iowa: "We came all the way here from Des Moines, and we were mighty lonely. Then we found the Y. M. C. A. on the job, and it's been a home and more than a home to us. It gave us what we wanted when we needed it most. We'll never forget it. The boys' best friend is the Y. M. C. A."

Fine, Clean-Cut, Uprighting Fellows. How close those benches were packed with men, bending over the long tables absorbed in their writing! What an appeal to the sympathies of these great groups of soldiers make! Fine, clean-cut, uprighting fellows, some of them mere boys, one thinks immediately of the sacrifice they have made for the rest of us and how precious they are to some one back home. Somewhere, in far off farm or village or city street, there are parents or brothers or wives who would give all they possess for one glimpse of those unburned faces as you and I see them on their last night before going across. And it was with a throbbing heart that I watched them, bent over their letter paper, in one after another of those seven big tents.

These were the tents of the Y. M. C. A. On that last night in America the association was serving the soldiers in the best of all ways—giving them an opportunity to write home. On previous nights they had enjoyed boxing bouts, movies, concerts, dramatics and a score of healthy entertainments as well as religious meetings. But on this last night home ties were strongest. And perhaps that is the keynote of the splendid work the Y. M. C. A. is doing among our men in uniform—keeping them in touch with home.

Magic Words, "With the Colors." In these times there are some letters that mean more to us than any we have ever read before. They are written on sheets of paper stamped with the Stars and Stripes and the red triangle of the Y. M. C. A., and they bear the magic words, "With the Colors." There are many more than a million such letters in the mails now as you read this. Perhaps one at least is on its way to you. Each one of our 16 cantonments, where the new national army is being trained, is using more than a million sheets of this paper every month. In the draft army alone that means 16,000,000 shipments of love every month reaching out from the great encampment where the men are being trained into the greatest army this nation has ever dreamed and binding them to the hearts at home. Multiply that by thinking of all the other places where Uncle Sam has men with the flag—penetrating chill. Lit by flickering candles, the tents were far from cheerful shelter for a man's last night in "Over There" in France. In all these places men are writing home. Those untassling little sheets of notepaper where electric lights, numbers and friendly faces made the night pleasant. They transfer more love from one

PARISIANS PLACE BUSTLE IN FRONT

New York.—France puts a bustle in front of a gown, and America puts it in the back. Such is the interesting struggle going on between designers. Two men, one of this continent and one of that, were responsible for the 1917 bustle, and it may be confidently asserted that no woman designer had a part in its creation or development. It took the public just six weeks to level the fashion to the common-place. It is because of this public acceptance that the style must be dealt with generously by the reporters of fashion who usually can give only passing attention to each new idea as it is shot across the battlefield of apparel. One man's idea attracts attention, but that attention is deflected by every other man's idea, but when this individual idea is multiplied a thousand times by buyers and sellers, by women who pretend to be fashion-able and by those who care nothing about the world, then the fashion becomes "the style," as we term it in this country.

If you talk correctly with those who deal in exclusive clothes, you will hear them say that the silhouette must change and that it is more than probable that the bustle will become more of a feature in the spring among high-class designers than it is today.

There is no disposition on the part of the American woman to give in the buying of clothes despite all the propaganda on this subject, and no matter what comes later, if the war continues, the process of buying goes on merrily today.

No Return to Fullness.

There is not the slightest idea of a return to fullness in frocks or coats. There are two good reasons for this announcement—a scarcity of material in certain quarters and the wish for strict conservation, and also the fact that we have been over-sufficed with fullness in clothes and the very sight of such a gown gives us a squeamish attack of sartorial indigestion. It is almost unbearable today to look upon a looped, panned, befrilled or befringed costume. We wore hoop-skirts, even though they were disgraced under the name of the farthingale, until we felt ashamed to look at a barrel, and it is not possible for either the French or the American designers to compel us to turn our attention to such clothes in the immediate future.

We want slimmness, we look our very best in slimmness, and we are quite willing to wear less material than since the Civil war, but we are tired of tonics. Our trouble is that we don't want a return to the small waist, we will not have more material put into our clothes and we insist upon a straight line from armpit to hips, but something must be done with our skirts if our palate for clothes is to be held any further.

Under the influence of this impatience and annoyance with a continuity of line in clothes, there is no reason why something approaching the tie-back skirt and the bustle of 1870-80 should not appear quite gradually over the horizon for the better class of clothes.

Nothing More Than Soft Drapery.

You know by this time, of course, that the bustle is nothing more than a Misson word for a bit of soft drapery arranged to break the light and seem artistic line across the figure at the end of the spine. This drapery is the saving grace on certain types of broad, stout figures. It may be almost impossible to believe that among this race of flat-hipped, long-limbed, slim-chested, big-waisted American women, which the last ten years have produced, there are still women, and many of them, who have what is called the ancient figure. Of course, it is not the ancient figure at all, for that is the new figure to which all modernists aspire, but what the dressmakers mean by the phrase is the 1880 figure, which has never been controlled or suppressed or even treated with contempt by a certain segment of American women. Chests out, stomachs in, hips rounded and waists tightened is the artificial figure that was stamped upon three generations of American women and has not entirely died out.

There are other women who have long since forgotten that they ever had a waist, but they cannot submerge the flesh around their hips and back and they look their worst in chemise, tunic and sandwich gowns. Therefore, the bustle drapery is for them. If the dressmakers can handle it in a manner that suggests novelty and achieves artistic results, we shall probably see it in the foremost fashions.

Now as to the French bustle—it was copied from the Directoire period and taken, like all the Directoire clothes, from the fashions of a century before Napoleon aspired to control of France. It merely transposed the drapery as the Americans use it, from the back to the front.

Bullock is the apostle of this bustle, if you can call the drapery in front by that name. Bullock, through his color schemes and his daring, has assumed something of the widespread authority in clothes that Paul Poiret held, undisputed, until he went to war. Bullock dips his hands deep into history, pulls out anything his fingers can grasp and puts all that he finds into the most modern of clothes. Two years ago his efforts were not taken seriously in this country; today, all the designers over here who wish to enter to an exclusive patronage, buy freely of Bullock.

The hallmark of his work this season is that drapery across the front of the figure below the waist. It is dainty done. This drapery really stinks into the surface of the skirt and drips down into the cascades that run below the knees at each side.

Uplifted Line in Skirt.

The entire dressmaking world of Paris was a bit touched with this fashion. When you look at all the new gowns that smart women appear in, and when you gaze at the shop windows to try to choose the frock you would like to wear, you may notice that a common thread of ideas runs through them all in this uplifted line in the front of the skirt.

This trick, as you remember, is not new to the twentieth century. It belongs to the days out of which Goethe created Faust. Throughout the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, there was a disposition to drag the clothes up in the front and tie them in loops and drapery below the waistline by running a cord under the fullness.

It looks as though a revival of this fashion were upon us. The skirts are dragged up so definitely in front either by the cut of the hem or by the placement of the lace or fur, that we have become accustomed to watching for that upward tilt in every new frock that appears. The house of Callot has always tilted the movement of her skirt at its hem upward in the middle of the back or the middle of the front, but this is a different type of fashion and it is taken from more primitive days.

New Shades in Neckwear.

The newest shades in satin neckwear are tea and coral; the first a delicate shade just off the white, the other a deep rose.

NEWS and GOSSIP OF WASHINGTON

Her Many Journeys on "The Way of the Sorrowful"

WASHINGTON.—"The Way of the Sorrowful" is one name for the long, straight mile that leads to an iron gate. The directory calls it the Bladensburg road. One woman who was going that way overtook another laden with chrysanthemums enough to decorate a ballroom, rather than a grave. When the offer to help with the basket was accepted, the one who owned it explained the cause of profusion.

"This is the anniversary of our wedding. When we stood up I held a bunch of white chrysanthemums—like these—and he wore one in his coat—like this. The supper table was gay with dark red ones—like these—and the parlor was dressed out in bushels and bushels of yellow ones—like these. My husband was a dear lover of posies, and though he worked long and hard, he had to have his hour's time every morning in his garden. He was such a handsome young man. Everybody remarked it. His hair was light with a wave to it, and he had blue eyes and a skin as fair as a baby's. Oh, ma'am, isn't it heart-breaking? But God's holy will be done—I feel that he is waiting for me at the heavenly meeting place to welcome me fondly when I come. He wasn't out of his twenties when he was killed in the war, and I haven't missed coming to his grave a single Sunday, except for sickness at times, since I laid him here, August 14, 1863."

If a mathematician had been around he could doubtless have calculated how much 52 trips a year for 54 years would amount to, if reckoned by miles. But only the God who made a human heart could compute the sum of its devotion.

And as the younger woman climbed the cobble to a place of grass and gray stone she wondered—and wondered—what the woman of the chrysanthemums would do if the youth who was blue-eyed and fair as a baby failed to recognize the toothless old creature at the eternal gates? And if all else that heaven could give her would compensate?

Old Man Found Comfort in Silent Companion

HE WAS so old that he might have been twin to Father Time, and so young that his skin bloomed like a pink rose on a bush. He was so busy that it was taking a kit of tools to fix a door knob, and so idle that he paused at his tinkering, under the impression that a woman at a table ought to know the history of his life.

"Yesum, it's a nature for a man to want companionship, and if he can't do any better, he takes to dumb critters—and he might go farther and fare worse. I got so lonesome one time last year that I paid out a dollar and a half for a duck, and that duck, ma'am, is almost as much company as an entire family."

"Yesum, a duck is real sociable when you can't do any better. Some of these here writer men claim that dumb critters lacks sense, but I tell you, mum, it seems to me that duck has got the knowledge to talk, if so be it must. It has got bright, knowin' eyes—and it's a right purty little thing, too, with fine bluish, greenish feathers and a sort of speckled down under its tail and wings."

To fight for one's country, and to suffer for it for more than a half century, and to have nothing better than a fowl for one's intimate comrade rather touched the woman, for she shoved aside the pencil and asked with real heart interest:

"What kind of a duck is it?"

"A stuffed duck, mum."

Zoo Symbolical of the Future of the World

LITTLE Miss Ellen Wilson McAdoo, daughter of the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. McAdoo, wandered through the zoo one bright Sunday afternoon. She went past the bear cages without so much as a glance at the variety of brains to be seen there. Children never look at the bears. It is a strange fact, but true.

Small Miss McAdoo was intent upon her doll, which she wheeled in a little doll baby carriage. Down the path she went with her precious burden, the sun glancing on her bright face.

A man loomed in her path. He was a big fellow.

"Watch out; you'll get run over," smiled Miss McAdoo. And the man jumped out of the way of the oncoming doll baby carriage, wheeled by the little more than baby girl. Someway or other the child made me think of the good forces of the world, and the zoo represented to my mind the world itself, and the animals therein the restrained forces held in leash.

So will the world, be, some day, when the unrestrained evil forces of Germany are put behind the bars by the stronger forces of humanity.

Old "Blood and Iron" will be put in a cage at last. The "Will to Power" will lead a somewhat uneventful life where he can harm no longer. The "Hated Fists," whose habitat was Germany, will eat peanuts from the hands of Uncle Sam and his family.

All Uniforms Looked Alike to These Frenchmen

FIVE dashing French soldiers were walking up F street toward the treasury the other afternoon. The guests of the nation were the center of all eyes. Though their country lay bleeding across the water, and the sorrows of their land were deeply etched in their hearts, the French soldiers could not but respond that afternoon to the crisp fall weather, the approving glances of the people they met, the thrill of life itself.

Washington was very beautiful. The people of the capital of America were very kind.

The soldiers of France walked in a little group, and every time they passed an American soldier they saluted gravely. A man in khaki passed them. The French officers saluted. Next they met an American naval officer. The French officers saluted. A marine came next. Pupillously the officers saluted. No brave ally, no matter what uniform he wore, should escape the courtesy due him.

Now thereafter along came a young man in a neat, blue uniform. The French officers took one look at the neat blue uniform, and at the cap which surmounted it, and then all saluted as one man.

On the cap which they saluted was written: "Western Union."

CAPITAL OF WURTEMBERG

Street Scene in Stuttgart.

WHEN the German army a little while ago bombarded the beautiful and ancient city of Bar-le-Duc in France, the French promptly retaliated by an air raid on the model city of Stuttgart.

No two cities could be more unlike or more characteristic of their respective countries than Bar-le-Duc and Stuttgart. As Bar-le-Duc is the symbol of poetry, romance and antiquity, Stuttgart is the personification of all that is modern, scientific and military.

Stuttgart is the capital of Wurtemberg and before the war had a population of 280,000, which included some of its suburbs and a garrison of 52,000 men which was stationed there. It is delightfully situated, surrounded by attractive suburbs and amid vine-clad heights. It is two and a half miles from the Neckar river, in the valley of the Nesenbach. All around it are vineyards which cover the nearby hills, while the distant mountains are in sight.

It is a thoroughly modern town, although its charter goes back to 1229. There are few buildings of an earlier date than the nineteenth century and many of them are of architectural importance. The stately appearance of the city is owing to the pronounced adherence of its architects to the Renaissance type of building. Instead of the varieties of styles most cities permit. Nowhere else in the world is the revival of the Renaissance style as well illustrated as in Stuttgart.

Some of its Great Buildings. A spacious street, the Konigsstrasse, extends diagonally from southwest to northeast through the city and borders the beautiful park, the Schlossplatz, which is adorned with statues, flower beds and pleasure grounds. In the center is a jubilee column in memory of William I. The most prominent buildings are clustered around the Schlossplatz. Among these are the old palace, from the sixteenth century; the new palace, from the eighteenth century and containing 270 apartments; the splendid Konigsbau, a huge modern building with a fine colonnade containing ball and concert rooms; the Akademie, formerly the seat of the Karlsruhe where Schiller received part of his education; the Royal library, the Court theater, the palace of the Duchess Vera of Wurtemberg and the palace of the crown prince. Besides these there are numerous fine churches, museums and other institutions. Not far from the Schlossplatz are the court of justice, the royal stables, the new post office, the Central railroad station, the finest in Germany, and many fine statues. Besides the jubilee column there is another to the memory of Emperor William I; one to Duke Eberhard the Bearded; a really splendid one to Schiller by Thorwaldsen and one to Christopher, duke of Wurtemberg.

The art galleries and museums of Stuttgart are numerous and valuable. The Museum of Art has a fine collection of pictures, casts and engravings. The Royal library contains about 603,000 printed volumes; 5,550 manuscripts, many of them of great value, and the largest collection of Bibles in the world, there being 7,300 volumes in more than a hundred different languages. There are 2,400 specimens of early printing. It is perhaps the finest library in Germany and is considerably larger than our own Carnegie library of Pittsburgh.

The Industrial Museum contains samples and specimens of the textile fabrics, machines, tools, patterns, models, etc., of nearly every country in the world, all labeled with specifications of patents, trade marks and price lists. The importance of this collection to the German industries cannot be overestimated. Of French and English fabrics alone there are 280,000 samples, while of French and German carpets there are 70,000 specimens. There is a museum of natural history that is wonderful and valuable. In one of the palaces is a collection of Majolica vases that was purchased in Venice in the eighteenth century. The Wurtemberg Museum of Antiquities contains every sort of relic imaginable from royal cabinets and armor to a pack of cards painted in the fifteenth century. To see all the objects in these museums and galleries would take a lifetime and then one would not have seen half.

Stuttgart is the center of a network of railroads. It is also the center of the bookmaking and publishing industry of south Germany. It is noted for its excellent educational institutions, and especially its Conservatory of Music, where many Americans have received their musical education. It has a technical high school that confers the degree of doctor of engineering, also a veterinary high school, and a school of art.

Home of Famous Men. There are a number of great men who have lived in Stuttgart. Among them are Hegel, the philosopher, who was born in 1770; Danneker, the sculptor, also claimed it as his birthplace; the poet Schiller was educated there, his father being the inspector of the gardens of the Karlsruhe; Gustav Schwab, the poet, lived there and is buried in the Hoppenlau cemetery; and the tomb of Johann Heuchlin, the humanist, is in one of the churches.

We can imagine the pride the Germans have in this beautiful city, which is a model for all municipalities, and the consternation there must have been when it was attacked by airplanes. It seems an outrage to destroy what is beautiful and valuable, and when the Germans realize the danger and perhaps loss of some of their own art treasures it is to be hoped they will recognize the perfidy of their own act in destroying the cathedrals of Louvain and Belm.

Beau Brummell Story. In Gen. Sir George Higginson's "Seventy-One Years of a Guardsman's Life," there is a good story of Beau Brummell. The author had it from the late Lord Lyndhurst, who knew him well. Someone, who no doubt wished to discount him by allusion to his parentage, asked in the presence of some of his admirers: "Pray, Mr. Brummell, how are your good father and mother?" "Thank you," was the reply, "quite well when I left them half an hour ago; but by this time they have probably cut their throats!" "Good heavens!" exclaimed several of the bystanders, "you must be speaking in joke." "Not at all," he said with a quiet tone of appreciation of the motives of his questioner; "they were eating peas with their knives."

Conscience Satisfied. "Lizzie, will you be mine?" "Not on your life!" "Don't you love me?" "No, I don't, and never did." "Are you sure?" "Absolutely sure! I would rather be shot than marry you!" "Thank you for them kind words, Lizzie. I had to ask somebody to marry me in order to do my duty, but now that I have been refused I will never have to ask anybody else. Now my conscience will allow me to be a merry old bachelor and have money for my old age."—Exchange.

Why That Lame Back?

Morning lameness, sharp twinges when bending, or an all-day back-ache, each is enough to suggest kidney trouble. Get after the cause. Help the kidneys. We Americans go it too hard. We overdo, overeat, and neglect our sleep and exercise and so we are fast becoming a nation of kidney sufferers. 72% more deaths than in 1890 is the 1910 census story. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands recommend them.

A Wyoming Case

Mr. Miller, painter and painter, says: "I suffered severely from back-ache and stiffness. It was caused by a cold settling on my kidneys, also from straining and bending over my work. My back got so bad that I could not work. I tried all kinds of sharp pains catching me. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me of this trouble and I have taken them since, and they have brought me fine results." Doan's is Any Store, 50c a Box. DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS. Best Soldier a Middleweight.

It isn't the big 170-pounders that the examining boards who have been choosing recruits for the new National army greet with enthusiasm, says Milestones. It's the lithe chap who weighs about 140 and hasn't a pound to spare that is the real prize for military service.

Tests made at Princeton and in the training camps go to show that, weight for weight, a man of this build handles himself more effectively. He scores relatively low in strength tests, but remarkably high in endurance. He is adaptable when it comes to the modifications of diet that life in camp makes necessary and he can stand inspection with full equipment on a hot day and smile, while the big fellow wilts and falls out.

"A Rich Man's War"

By HARVEY O'HIGGINS

He had been drafted. He had been refused exemption. He was a young back driver, with no one dependent on him. But he was not eager to fight; he had been reading The Masses. "What 'ye I got to fight for?" he argued. "It's a rich man's war."

It is. But not in the sense that he meant.

As long as this country, at peace, was supplying Europe with food and munitions the rich man gained. The munition makers drew enormous dividends. The steel trust, the coal trust, the meat trust, the railroad and the shipping magnates charged all that the war-time traffic would bear, and had no war taxes to pay. It was to their interest to keep this nation out of the conflict in order to preserve their gains. With our entrance upon hostilities, the government obtained the power to tax profits, to fix prices, to control the food supply, to protect the poor from exploitation and deprive the rich of the fruits of exploitation. That power has been sought, for how many decades, in times of peace, by how many social reformers. The war won it. If it is a rich man's war, the rich have been singularly deluded in procuring it.

And, in the matter of the draft, they have been equally blind. The first conscription act of our Civil war allowed the rich man to buy exemption by paying $300 for it. There is no such clause in the present law. In the later day of the Civil war the rich man could buy exemption by paying a substitute to take his place. He cannot do so in this war. The only exemptions allowed today are allowed to the poor man who has dependents or to the workers in the industries and professions that are necessary to the life and efficiency of a modern nation in war time.

It is a rich man's war, therefore, in the sense that the sons of the rich are the most liable to die in it. It is a rich man's war in the sense that the rich are chiefly paying for it with their lives, with their money, with their time and service, and with the loss of their special privileges, while the workingman, the small farmer, the producer, the productive laborer and the poor are everywhere comparatively exempt.

For the first time in the history of the world a war is being waged that falls most heavily upon the classes who, in times past, have most profited by war.

In this country, as yet, the results of that new aspect of the conflict are not glaringly evident. But in England they are so striking that they amount to a revolution. There, it is the poorer classes that have gained in material comfort, in political power, in control of their conditions of life, in happiness and in freedom. It is not merely that wages have been raised, that the cost of living has been controlled, that the people have taken over the direction of the railroads, and of the coal mines, and of the food supply, and of the organized industries of the nation. It is not merely that the workingman has been given a larger place in the government councils and the idle rich man a smaller place—his income taxed to the bone and his profits reduced to extinction. It is, above all, that industry itself has obtained a democratic government of its own, so that the workingman now sits with the employer at the board of business management and helps to make the rules under which he works and to regulate the conditions of his labor.

The reforms for which British socialists have been struggling for 50 years have been obtained overnight. A revolution that could not have been effected in a century of peace has been forced by three years of war. The conditions which forwarded that revolution are the conditions that are so rapidly advancing a similar revolution here. Our socialists, who cry, "This is a rich man's war; let the workingman oppose it," are as blind as those socialists in Great Britain who originally raised the same cry and similarly opposed their own advantage.

We have already obtained, in this country, measures of state socialism that looked us far away as the millennium to our socialists three years ago. We shall have to carry the still more incredible reforms that have carried in England if we are to defend ourselves as well as the English are defending themselves. We, too, shall have to "democratize industry," as the phrase is, if we expect our workingman to reinforce our battle line as the British workingman has reinforced the British front. And not only that. After the war is over, our industry and our commerce will not be able to live in the same world as British industry and commerce—to say nothing of the French and German—if our workingman is not as loyal and satisfied and happy and efficient as theirs. Our revolution will have to continue, because the life of the nation in peace, as in war, will depend upon continuing it.

A rich man's war! A war that has exterminated half the evils of oppression of which the predatory rich have been accused! A war that has reduced their power, curtailed their privileges, confiscated their profits! A war that has made England, in three years, a radical democracy, not only politically, but industrially!

Status of Arab Nation.

The Arab nation is without money for natural resources. Its territory contains neither mineral nor external agricultural wealth—but the redemption of Mesopotamia will afford the Arab of the future opportunity for aggrandizement. There, under semi-independence, after barrages on the Tigris and Euphrates have been built by British energy and cash, Baghdad may rise to a higher scale of learning, splendor and wealth than under the caliph of Haroun al Raschid.

Of the entire outcome from the war, therefore, notes a correspondent, the Arab renaissance, is assuredly not the least momentous. Historically, it will mark the advent of a new era; ethnologically it becomes a charming study of futurists of literature.

Collecting Military Stamps.

Collectors in the United States are now gathering postmarks of letters sent from the American camps in France, which are stamped "U. S. Army Postal Service." They figure that if anything definite results from the peace talk, the expeditionary force's postmark will be valuable because of its comparative rarity, as they believe that most of the letters coming to the United States from the soldiers abroad are sent to close friends and relatives who, for sentimental reasons, will have the missives, envelopes and all.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

(By J. E. Watson, M. D.)

Swollen hands, ankles, feet are due to a dropped condition, often caused by disordered kidneys. Naturally when the kidneys are deranged the blood is filled with poisonous waste matter, which settles in the feet, ankles and wrists or under the eyes in bag-like formations. As a remedy for these early recognized symptoms of inflammation caused by uric acid—a scalding urine, backache and frequent urination, as well as sediment in the urine, or uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, gout, it is simply wonderful how quickly Anuric acts: the pains and stiffness rapidly disappear, for Anuric (double strength), in many times more potent than lithia and often eliminates uric acid as hot water in the urine. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for the liver and bowels have been favorably known for nearly 50 years. Anuric is a recent scientific discovery by Dr. Pierce, Chief of Staff, at the Invalley Hotel and Surgical Inst., in Buffalo, N. Y. Send 10c there for a trial pkg. of Anuric. Large package 50c.

Queen Mother's Gift Bible. Upon one of his journeys during the Antarctic expedition Sir Ernest Shackleton was obliged to reduce his luggage to the smallest possible amount. He states that up to this point the Bible given by Queen Alexandra to the ship's library (provided by the British and Foreign Sailors' society) had been carried with the party. In leaving other things behind it was decided with reluctance that this also must be abandoned. As the Bible contained on its flyleaf a message written by Queen Alexandra, the flyleaf was cut out, also the pages containing the Twenty-third psalm and the chapter in the Book of Job which speaks of the sea being frozen. These three pages were carried to the end of the journey and brought back to this country. Sir Ernest has promised to present the three pages to the Society to be sold on behalf of its funds.
