OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO

VOLUME 19

CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1918.

NUMBER 37

Monday Night's Patriotic Meeting

A large crowd gathered at the Carrizozo Theatre Monday night in response to a call for a patriotic meeting. Dr. Crile, president of the A. & M. College, could not be here but was represented by Prof. John H. Vaughn, dean of the college. Preceding the address, a very pleasing musical program was rendered, the orchestra rendering the national airs, the audience singing "The Star Spangled Banner" and Misses Uja Edmiston and Carrie Roberts each giving a solo, all of which was very appropriate and highly pleasing. The speaker made a very interesting and entertaining address, outlining the purposes of registration, its effect upon the war and the great need for the mobilization of our manpower. He also outlined how the young men from 18 to 21 might enter the A. & M. College and 200 similar institutions for military training and urged those qualified to take advantage of the liberal terms offered by the government. A number of our young men will no doubt attend this institution.

Local Casualty List

Two weeks ago we published a statement to the effect that Tom Burleson, of Lincoln, James Howard and Carl Fisher, of Capitan, had been wounded. It develops, however, that the report concerning Tom Burleson was erroneous; at least no confirmation of his being wounded has been received by his family. On the contrary, the family has received information that forces the conclusion that he is unharmed.

However, the other two, Howard and Fisher, were in the casualty list, both having been wounded, and to their number is added this week three more Lincoln county boys, viz: Charles Bell, Picacho, reported missing; Marcial St. John and Lieut. Henry Lutz, of Carrizozo, wounded; the former in the shoulder and not thought to be of a severe nature, while the latter, mention of which is made elsewhere, quite seriously.

Registration Day

Yesterday was a red letter day in America. It was the second notice to the Kaiser that America's manhood was getting ready for a trip across the Rhine. The registration included those between the ages of 18 and 45 who had not previously registered. It is estimated that 13,000,000 men registered in America yesterday; 50,000 in New Mexico; 1,500 in Lincoln county, and in this precinct the list contains 338 names.

Dr. Baker Locates

Dr. Perry M. Baker arrived this week and has begun the practice of his profession here. Dr. Baker was recently discharged from the regular army, in which he held a captaincy, for physical disability, having served for three years and a half. Before entering the army Dr. Baker practiced medicine in Roswell and Artesia a number of years. The doctor has an office at the Lucas hospital.

Lieut. Lutz Wounded

Henry Lutz and family received word Sunday that Lieutenant Lutz had been seriously wounded in action, "somewhere in France." He wrote from a hospital on the 8th of August and also another letter on the 22d, and the fact that he was able to write several days after having received his wound was pretty good evidence that the danger period had been passed. He wrote that he had been wounded by a bursting shrapnel, having been hit five times.

"One shot penetrated the left leg, his right leg was broken, he lost two fingers on his right hand, had one shot in the wrist and one in the shoulder. But withal he said "Don't worry about me; I hope to be out again soon and back in the service." He spoke in the highest terms of the medical attention he was receiving and said words could not depict his feelings for the Red Cross, saying: "Dad, give all you can to the Red Cross; it is the finest organization in the world, and every dollar you give will be the best investment you ever made."

The young lieutenant has displayed the proper spirit—the spirit of young America; the spirit that is winning the war. An early recovery and rapid promotion is the wish of a host of friends, lieutenant.

'HEAVEN, HELL OR HOME BY CHRISTMAS'

Predict Lincoln County's Boys Hunting Hun In France

Sergeant Gallacher and Comrades Send Home Cheerful Greetings

Somewhere in France, August 13, 1918.

Dear Mr. Haley:—Have intended writing you a letter for some time, but of course the usual excuse still holds—have been too busy. At last, here I am, and aspic and span as one could wish to be.

We boys who left Carrizozo together are still with the M. P. organization, and being near one another has made our life as soldiers very much more enjoyable. We have had a wonderful time, and experiences that money could not have gotten for us; nor can money get them out of our memories. I only wish we could be in New Mexico again right now; but it won't be long, from all indications, until we will be telling you all about it.

Our train ride through the United States was wonderful and one never to be forgotten. Leaving Kansas, we went to Camp Mills, Long Island, and as we went from one state to another we would see such beautiful plac-

Commits Suicide

Lewis England, a prominent and substantial citizen of Capitan, died by his own hand Tuesday afternoon. He borrowed a gun that afternoon, declaring he desired to shoot some rabbits. When he failed to put in appearance that evening searching parties were formed and the body located that night in an abandoned garage. The continued illness of his wife, who is in a sanitarium, and financial difficulties, though he possessed considerable property, are thought to have weighed upon his mind and caused the rash act.

Our stay at Camp Mills was just grand. Never have I—and I do not think many of the other boys have—enjoyed myself for three weeks as at Camp Mills. Everyone was so good to us and there were so many places of interest, that during the three weeks we were there we never were "down on the earth." Oh! that butterfly life is grand beyond explanation—until we return Xmas.

Then this trip across the sea.

Democrats Elect Delegates to State Convention

The Democrats of Lincoln county met in the court room at Carrizozo Saturday afternoon, pursuant to call. Frank W. Gurney, county chairman, called the convention to order and read the call authorizing the convention. The central committee recommended for temporary organization, Jno. Y. Hewitt, White Oaks, chairman; C. C. Merchant, Capitan, secretary; H. G. Norman, Carrizozo, interpreter. The convention ratified the committee's action and the chosen officials assumed their duties.

A motion was adopted that the chair appoint a committee of five on three committees, viz: Credentials, permanent organization and resolutions. The chair named for the credentials committee, M. B. Paden, H. D. Murray, A. J. Atkinson, John L. Bryan and Joe Clements. On permanent organization, Paul Mayer, A. S. McCamant, R. C. Sowder, H. G. Norman and C. A. Perkins. On resolutions, Jno. A. Haley, A. H. Norton, G. B. Barber, F. W. Gurney, C. C. Merchant, and, by motion, Jno. Y. Hewitt was added. Convention took a recess for twenty-five minutes in order to give the committees time to report.

Upon reconvening, the report of the credentials committee was adopted, showing the presence of forty-eight delegates and proxies.

The committee on permanent organization recommended that the temporary organization be made permanent, which was adopted. The committee on resolutions presented the following, which was adopted:

"We, the Democrats of Lincoln County, New Mexico, in convention assembled, reaffirm our allegiance to the Democratic party and pledge anew our support of its policies.

"We point with pride to the accomplishments of the present Democratic administration, believing President Wilson, supported by a Democratic congress, has added to the glory and achievement of the entire nation in the conduct of the present war, which has shaken the whole world, and has given to American diplomacy and American arms the highest place ever accorded any nation.

"Therefore, be it resolved; that we urge all true Americans to give whole-hearted support to President Wilson's administration to the end that America may present a united front to the enemies of mankind and give strength and power to our allies and to all nations, large and small, in their struggle for democracy and humanity against the overpowering ambition of autocracy."

The following delegates were then elected to represent Lincoln county in the state Democratic convention which meets in Santa Fe:

Jno. Y. Hewitt, White Oaks; A. S. McCamant, Corona; R. C. Sowder, Picacho; W. O. Norman, Capitan; F. W. Gurney, Carrizozo; J. J. Reeves, San Patricio; G. J. Weishar, Jicarilla.

The convention then adjourned, after extending the usual thanks to its officers.

SAVE SUGAR IN CANNING—Even with the present serious shortage of sugar, it is a crime to allow food to waste. Consult your Food Administrator—He will have you informed how to can many fruits without sugar, and he will make it possible for you to get all it is necessary to have. Food is ammunition; don't waste it. Stop before the second lump—There is one lump or two teaspoonfuls of sugar at each meal for every one. This must do for our cooking, as well as table use. Share sugar with the Allies.

OVER THE TOP AN AMERICAN SOLDIER WHO WENT ARTHUR GUY EMPEY MACHINE GUNNER, SERVING IN FRANCE

Just as he finished speaking, the welcome "pup-pup" of a machine gun in their rear rung out, and the front line of the onrushing Germans seemed to melt away. They swayed, but once again came rushing onward. Down went their second line. The machine gun was taking an awful toll of lives. Then again they tried to advance, but the machine gun mowed them down. Dropping their rifles and bombs, they broke and fled in a wild rush back to their trench, amid the cheers of "D" company. They were forming again for another attempt, when in the rear of D company came a mighty cheer. The ammunition had arrived and with it a battalion of Scotch to re-enforce them. They were saved. The unknown machine gunner had come to the rescue in the nick of time.

With the re-enforcements it was an easy task to take the third German line.

After the attack was over, the captain and three of his noncommissioned officers, wended their way back to the position where the machine gun had done its deadly work. He wanted to thank the gunner in the name of D company for his magnificent deed. They arrived at the gun, and an awful sight met their eyes.

Lloyd had reached the front line trench, after his company had left it. A strange company was limply crawling up the trench ladders. They were re-enforcements going over. They were Scotchies, and they made a magnificent sight in their brightly colored kilts and bare knees.

Jumping over the trench, Lloyd raced across "No Man's Land," unheeding the rain of bullets, leaping over dark forms on the ground, some of which lay still, while others called out to him as he speeded past.

He came to the German front line, but it was deserted, except for heaps of dead and wounded—a grim tribute to the work of his company, good old D company. Leaping trenches, and gasping for breath, Lloyd could see right ahead of him his company in a dead-ended sap of a communication trench, and across the open, away in front of them, a mass of Germans preparing for a charge. Why didn't D company fire on them? Why were they so strangely silent? What were they waiting for? Then he knew—their ammunition was exhausted.

But what was that on his right? A machine gun. Why didn't it open fire and save them? He would make that gun's crew do their duty. Rushing over to the gun he saw why it had not opened fire. Scattered around its base lay six still forms. They had brought their gun to consolidate the captured position, but a German machine gun had decreed they would never fire again.

Lloyd rushed to the gun and, grasping the traversing handles, trained it on the Germans. He pressed the thumb piece, but only a sharp click was the result. The gun was unloaded. Then he realized his helplessness. He did not know how to load the gun. Oh, why hadn't he attended the machine-gun course in England? He'd been offered the chance, but with a blush of shame he remembered that he had been afraid. The nickname of the machine gunners had frightened him. They were called the "Suicide club." Now, because of this fear, his company would be destroyed, the men of D company would have to die, because he, Albert Lloyd, had been afraid of a name. In his shame he cried like a baby. Anyway he could die with them and, rising to his feet, he stumbled over the body of one of the gunners, who emitted a faint moan. A gleam of hope flashed through him. Perhaps this man could tell him how to load the gun. Stooping over the body he gently shook it and the soldier opened his eyes. Seeing Lloyd, he closed them again and, in a faint voice, said: "Get away, you blighter, leave me alone. I don't want any coward around me."

The words cut Lloyd like a knife, but he was desperate. Taking the revolver out of the holster of the dying man he pressed the cold muzzle to the soldier's head and replied: "Yes, it is Lloyd, the coward of Company D, but so help me God, if you don't tell me how to load that gun I'll put a bullet through your brain!"

A sunny smile came over the countenance of the dying man and he said in a faint whisper: "Good old boy! I know you wouldn't disgrace our company."

Lloyd interposed: "For God's sake, if you want to save that company you are so proud of, tell me how to load that d—d gun!"

As if reciting a lesson in school, the soldier replied in a weak, singsong voice: "Insert tag end of belt in feed block, with left hand pull belt left front. Pull crank handle back on roller, let go, and repeat motion. Gun is now loaded. To fire, raise automatic safety latch, and press thumbpiece. Gun is now firing. If gun stops, ascertain position of crank handle—"

But Lloyd waited for no more. With wild joy at his heart, he took a belt from one of the ammunition boxes lying beside the gun, and followed the dying man's instructions. Then he pressed the thumbpiece and a burst of fire rewarded his efforts. The gun was working.

Training it on the Germans he shouted for joy as their front rank went down.

Traversing the gun back and forth along the mass of Germans, he saw them break and run back to the cover of their trench, leaving their dead and wounded behind. He had saved his company, he, Lloyd, the coward, had "done his bit." Releasing the thumbpiece, he looked at the watch on his wrist. He was still alive at "3:33."

"Ping!"—a bullet sang through the air, and Lloyd fell forward across the gun. A thin trickle of blood ran down his face from a little, black round hole in his forehead.

"The sentence of the court had been 'duly carried out.'"

The captain slowly raised the limp form drooping over the gun and, wiping the blood from the white face, recognized it as Lloyd, the coward of D company. Reverently covering the face with his handkerchief he turned to his "noncoms" and, in a voice husky with emotions, addressed them:

"Boys, it's Lloyd, the deserter. He has redeemed himself, died the death of a hero—died that his mates might live."

That afternoon a solemn procession wended its way toward the cemetery.

In the front a stretcher was carried by two sergeants. Across the stretcher the Union Jack was carefully spread. Behind the stretcher came a captain and forty-three men, all that were left of D company.

Arriving at the cemetery, they halted in front of an open grave. All about them wooden crosses were broken and trampled into the ground.

A grizzled old sergeant, noting this destruction, muttered under his breath: "Curse the cowardly blighter who wrecked those crosses! If I could only get these two hands around his neck his trip West would be short."

The corpse on the stretcher seemed to move, or it might have been the wind blowing the folds of the Union Jack.

CHAPTER XXV.

Preparing for the Big Push.

Rejoicing at well after the execution I had a hard time trying to keep my secret from him. I think I must have lost at least ten pounds worrying over the affair.

Beginning at seven in the evening it was our duty to patrol all communication and front-line trenches, making note of unusual occurrences, and arresting anyone who should, to us, appear to be acting in a suspicious manner. We slept during the day.

Behind the lines there was great activity, supplies and ammunition pouring in, and long columns of troops constantly passing. We were preparing for the big offensive, the forerunner of the battle of the Somme or "Big Push."

The never-ending stream of men, supplies, ammunition and guns pouring into the front lines made a mighty spectacle, one that cannot be described. It has to be witnessed with your own eyes to appreciate its vastness.

At our part of the line the influx of supplies never ended. It looked like a huge snake slowly crawling forward, never a hitch or break, a wonderful tribute to the system and efficiency of Great Britain's "contemptible little army" of five millions of men.

Huge fifteen-inch guns stacked along foot by foot, by powerful steam tractors. Then a long line of "four point five" batteries, each gun drawn by six horses, then a couple of "nine point two" howitzers pulled by immense caterpillar engines.

When one of these caterpillars would pass me with its mighty monster in tow, a flush of pride would mount to my face, because I could plainly read on the name plate, "Made in U. S. A." and I would remember that if I wore a name plate it would also read, "From the U. S. A." Then I would stop to think how thin and straggly that mighty stream would be if all the "Made in U. S. A." parts of it were withdrawn.

Then would come hundreds of limbers and "Q. S." wagons drawn by sleek, well-fed mules, ridden by sleek, well-fed men, ever smiling, although grimy with sweat and covered with the fine, white dust of the marvelously well-made French roads.

What a discouraging report the German airmen must have taken back to their division commanders, and this stream is slowly but surely getting bigger and bigger every day, and the pace is always the same. No slower, no faster, but ever onward, ever forward.

Three weeks before the big push of July 1—as the battle of the Somme has been called—started, exact duplicates of the German trenches were dug about thirty miles behind our lines.

Bloodhounds in Ancient Days.

In Old-England, before the day when men could write, hunting was an important factor in providing meat for the family table. The bloodhound was held by a strong rope, and the dog would go ahead of the man and the animal, with nose to the ground, would follow the scent of a deer and track it to a thicket. The dog was then taken in a circle around the thicket to find whether the deer had made an exit on the other side. If no trace was found the game was then said to be harbored. Then the deerhounds, of the greyhound type, that hunt by sight only, were brought up by the huntsmen and the race was on. The bloodhounds never entered the race.

Isinglass From Fish Bladders.

Isinglass is made from the sounder or swimming bladders of fish. One ton of hake, says the Popular Science Monthly, will yield from 40 to 50 pounds of sounds. These are dried, soaked, cut in pieces, rolled into sheets and cut into ribbons. The ribbons are dried and wound on wooden spools. One ounce of isinglass will clarify from 200 to 300 gallons of wine and one pound will clarify from 100 to 500 barrels of beer. It is used for making cement for mending glass and pottery and for adhesive plaster and enters into the manufacture of many textiles and waterproof fabrics.

Endure Adversity.

Flowers never emit so sweet and strong a fragrance as before a storm. Beautiful soul! when a storm approaches thee, be as fragrant as a sweet-smelling flower.—Blaise.

The layout of the trenches was taken from airplane photographs submitted by the Royal flying corps. The trenches were correct to the foot; they showed dugouts, saps, barbed wire defenses and danger spots.

Battalions that were to go over in the first waves were sent back for three days to study these trenches, engage in practice attacks and have night maneuvers. Each man was required to make a map of the trenches and familiarize himself with the names and location of the parts his battalion was to attack.

In the American army noncommissioned officers are put through a course of map making or road sketching, and during my six years' service in the United States cavalry I had plenty of practice in this work, therefore mapping these trenches was a comparatively easy task for me. Each man had to submit his map to the company commander to be passed upon, and I was lucky enough to have mine selected as being sufficiently authentic to use in the attack.

No photographs or maps are allowed to leave France, but in this case it appealed to me as a valuable souvenir of the great war and I managed to smuggle it through. At this time it carries no military importance as the British lines, I am happy to say, have since been advanced beyond this point, so in having it in my possession I am not breaking any regulation or cautions of the British army.

The whole attack was rehearsed and rehearsed until we heartily cursed the one who had conceived the idea. The trenches were named according to a system which made it very simple for Tommy to find, even in the dark, any point in the German lines.

These imitation trenches, or trench models, were well guarded from observation by numerous allied planes which constantly circled above them. No German airplane could approach within observation distance. A restricted area was maintained and no civilian was allowed within three miles, so we felt sure that we had a great surprise in store for Fritz.

INDIAN WORKED WITH BRAIN

Buck's Ingenious Explanation for Not Aiding Squaw to Carry Their Domestic Burden.

A group of people who were touring Alaska one summer were disgusted at the laziness of the buck Indians they saw in the villages and along the trail. One day when they were taking a side trip they came upon a couple of Indians who were evidently packing into the mountains to stay a while. The squaw was staggering under a tremendous burden. She lugged all of the bedding and provisions, and a papoose for good measure. The old buck was slumping along lazily ahead of her, smoking his pipe and looking down at the trail.

One member of the tourist party hailed the Indians and when they stopped he inquired, somewhat out of patience:

"See here, buck, how comes it that Nikawana is carrying all of the baggage and you are slouching along enjoying your pipe? Why don't you take at least half of the load off your squaw, you big lazy Indian?"

The buck stood silent as a sphinx for a few moments, then granted to himself and, pointing his index finger to his forehead, he exclaimed in deep, guttural tones:

"Huh, me all time think!"

"Fittest" Under the Arctic Circle.

We think of Greenland as a frozen and desolate land, fit only for the abode of the hardy Eskimos. And yet in Finland, in a severe northern climate, has grown up a hardy and virile race. Perhaps it was because only the sturdiest could survive under such conditions, for isolation bred self-reliance and industry was necessary to existence. At any rate the fact remains that the Finns have developed a civilization that is unique and of interest. It is not surprising, to one familiar with the Finns and their history, to know that a republic has been proclaimed. No people are more truly democratic. Under the autocratic rule of the czars Finland maintained her democratic institutions, and it was the only part of Russia where the traveler was free to move about without having a demand made almost daily for his passport. The Russian calendar which is 13 days behind our own was ignored and in every way the public and social customs differed from those of the Russians.—Nevia O. Winter, in the Christian Herald.

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound over since and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss FLO KELLY, 476 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition and as a result her nervousness disappeared.

WASHINGTON SIDELIGHTS

General Wood's Daughter an Accomplished Rider

WASHINGTON.—She hoped to go to France with her father, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, former chief of the army staff. Now that he is not, his charming daughter, Louisa Wood, is a very much disappointed young woman.

Athletic, fond of all sorts of outdoor adventure, Miss Wood, when she was twelve years old, set a record for long-distance riding for girls. In October in 1913 she galloped into Fort Myer, Va., with her father and Col. H. C. Heston at the end of the last 45-mile dash of a 90-mile ride. Ever since she has set the pace in hard and long-distance riding for girls. Miss Wood is about eighteen years old.

From the time she could walk Louisa has been a rider. She learned horsemanship from the troopers at Fort Myer and soon became as proficient a rider as any of them.

Always a favorite with the men, she grew up spending half her time around the stables, never so happy as when with the horses.

From her father she inherits a naturally robust physique, for General Wood even today is a powerful man, and in his youth was one of the finest all-round athletes in the army.

That first long ride she undertook when a twelve-year-old girl was when her father and Colonel Heston were obliged to ride that distance in compliance with army regulation to the effect that such a trip be made by officers once a year in the army test.

It has been indicated that Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, who has been left without a permanent command since he was detailed overseas service, might command the American forces. Although only a major general and ranked by March and Pershing, who have the rank of general by brevet, General Wood is by seniority the ranking general officer of the United States army. If chosen to lead the American force he might, as a matter of courtesy, be given supreme command of the expedition.

One Man Who Might Have Evaded His Military Duty

LOST chords a-plenty, but how about lost questionnaires? Ever since the war department made the questionnaire well known to 10,000,000 young men and all their parents and friends there has been wonder on the part of some as to whether one of those millions of documents might get lost some time.

Each of the approximately 5,000 local boards of the nation guards its questionnaires with its life, of course, but since local boards are composed of human beings, and since even the greatest of human beings is not perfect, well—why say more?

I have at last heard of a lost questionnaire.

Right here in Washington, too. It seems that a certain registrant left the city and was working on necessary government work in a nearby community. The work he was engaged in gave him good ground for deferred classification.

But he got tired of the work and came back to the national capital. He secured himself a position in the fire department, I am told, and the very first day meandered down to his local board to ask about his standing in the draft.

It may as well be stated right here that this man was willing to go to camp any time called upon.

His local board members and the clerical force began to hunt up his questionnaire. But they couldn't find it high or low.

The questionnaire was lost, that was all.

"We wouldn't have known we had you on the rolls," said a member. "But, now that you're here, we'll send you to camp tomorrow."

Ever Hear of a Sparrow That Had Sense of Gratitude?

THE sparrow that adopted a man also may be added to your list of worthies. This natural biplane, being but a few weeks old, had his motor go back on him one day in a downtown street and fell into the gutter. A kind man saw the fall and hurried to the scene of the disaster. The little sparrow winked his bright eyes, and growled in pain. Didn't you ever hear a sparrow growl? No? Well, what has that got to do with the story, anyway? While you are thinking-up-the-answers-to these three questions let us follow the man and the sparrow.

The man picked up the half-starved little fellow and carried him to his home. He took him to his room and fed him bread crumbs soaked in milk.

Soon the sparrow revived. He grew fat. In four days he could fly around the room at a lively rate.

"You are old enough now to take to your elemental heath," said the man. But the sparrow would not leave him.

The bird insisted on perching on his shoulder and even wanted to travel down to the office that way.

In order to escape from him the man had to suddenly dart from the room and close the door with speed.

The last I heard of the sparrow he was sitting out in a tree waiting for his master to come home.

Hezekiah Got Some Satisfaction for His Beating

A LONG time ago in a turpentine camp in the South, Lloyd Jackson and Hezekiah Brown had a falling out. The scrap was never settled because Hex got cold feet and ran away. Several weeks ago Lloyd got wind of the fact that Hex was in town working on a government building.

He snooped around the man for a few days—but Hex always had a stick or something in his hand and Lloyd was afraid to tackle him.

Thursday evening while the parade was going on, Lloyd detailed his girl, Ann Crump, to lure Hex within striking distance.

Hex was bound to fall for this and he did. Anne was only a few minutes in persuading Hex to leave the crowd he was with and follow her. She lured him into a house in southwest Washington and whispered some poisonous language in his ears. And when she was sure that he had no gun or razor on him, she gave Lloyd the signal.

He came in from a back room and jumped on Hex and almost beat him to a jelly.

The woman disappeared, otherwise Hex would have had her arrested also. Because he was mad about the way in which he had been trapped. However, the court avenged him. Lloyd got 60 days—and if Anne ever shows up she will get hers, too.

Packers' Costs and Profits

How much do you think it costs—

- To dress beef, cure hides, and prepares all the numerous by-products?
- To cool the meat for two or three days before shipment?
- To freight it to all parts of the country in special refrigerator cars, iced daily?
- To carry it in hundreds of branch houses, each with its refrigerating plant?
- And to deliver it to the retailer—sweet and fresh—in less than two weeks after dressing?

Swift & Company did all this for you in 1917 at an expense of less than 2½ cents per pound of beef sold, including an average profit of ¼ of a cent a pound.

Political Announcements

DEMOCRATIC

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS
Herewith I announce myself as candidate for the nomination of Superintendent of Schools of Lincoln County, subject to the deliberations of the Democratic party. J. B. KOONCE.

I respectfully announce my candidacy for Superintendent of Schools of Lincoln County, New Mexico, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

(MRS) LORINDA B. SPELLMAN.

REPUBLICAN

DISTRICT JUDGE
We are authorized to announce the candidacy of LYTTON H. TAYLOR of Las Cruces, for the Republican nomination for District Judge of the Third Judicial District, composed of the counties of Lincoln, Torrance and Dona Ana.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS
I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination to the office of Superintendent of Schools of Lincoln county, subject to the will of the Republican party.

ELIZABETH A. GUMM.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination to the office of Superintendent of Schools of Lincoln county, subject to the will of the Republican party.

MRS MAUDE L. BLANEY.

Wonderful War Record

The winning of the war for democracy is the big thing today that holds the attention of every American. For more than a year and a half, confronted with the stupendous task of massing and equipping an army, transporting it over seas, feeding it and putting it in shape for the great drives which are now being made against and through the Hindenburg line, President Wilson, his cabinet and his war boards, assisted by patriots of every party, have accomplished a task which is the administrative marvel of the world's history.

Political critics, by their caviling and carping, seeking to make capital from minor deficiencies, have not been able to obscure the fact that practically 1,800,000 men are in France and that we are six months ahead of our schedule.

It is patriotism rather than partisanship to say that every loyal, 100 per cent true-blue American regards this wonderful achievement as a matter of individual pride and that he is too honest to permit partisan mustard gas to cloud the fact in his eyes that President Wilson is more largely responsible in the broad sense for this magnificent accomplishment than any other man.

It is going to be the business of the American people to decide very soon whether they propose to go the full length and endorse that record by giving the president a congress in hearty sympathy with him, or whether they propose to give him merely lip service by sending to Washington men who will seek every partisan opening to harass him, while at the same time endeavoring to make a "war record" by their formal votes.

Men can scarcely be credited with an excessive amount of patriotism who are continually picking flaws in the war program and yet, when measures come before congress, support them. Both houses contain that character of men and New Mexico has one distinguished member of the upper house who is the bell weather of the flock. This kind of criticism clogs the war machine worse than a company of pro-Germans.

For Superintendent

In this issue will be found the announcement of Miss Lorinda B. Spellman for County Superintendent of Schools. Miss Spellman announces her candidacy subject to the will of the Democratic party. Miss Spellman is a native of Ohio; graduated from the high school at Granville and attended the Denison University at the same place. Later she graduated from the University of Illinois. She taught school in Illinois; came to New Mexico several years ago and has taught a number of years in Lincoln county and is now teaching in the Carrizozo schools. Miss Spellman has also had excellent training in library work, having been employed in the Cleveland, Ohio, Public Library and also in the Carnegie Library of El Paso. By training, experience and educational attainment, Miss Spellman is eminently qualified for the position she seeks and she, has many friends who, acquainted with these qualifications, feel that her nomination and election would give the schools of the county an able, energetic and intelligent school executive.

Even the Grasshoppers

Patriotism is not confined to the genus homo, Bill Moore avers. Have him show you one of the big grasshoppers—they wear the national colors, red, white and blue. One year of war has produced wonders in this country, when even the grasshoppers don "Old Glory's" colors.

Movie Picture Production of 'My Four Years In Germany' Tells Most Remarkable Story

The most important film production of the year is the big super-ture made from Ambassador James W. Gerard's startling book, "My Four Years in Germany." The picture vividly shows the incidents that forced America into the war and the intrigues of Germany's militaristic leaders. Beginning when the first war cloud began to gather on the European horizon, the picture begins with the Zehren incident, the cutting down of a lame shoemaker by a young Prussian officer, then follows Gerard's presentation at the Imperial German court. The gradual rise of the spirit against militarism. The defiance of the Reichstag. The shooting at Sarajevo. The Kiel celebration in which the British fleet took part. The meeting of Sir Edward Goschen and Hollweg and the proposal that England stand by while France is beaten. The announcement of danger of war on July 31. The ultimatum to Russia. Gerard's futile efforts to avoid the war. The order to mobilize. The address of the Kaiser on August 4th. The rape of Belgium. The taking over of the British Embassy by Gerard. The exodus of Americans. The Kaiser's explanation of the war, so different from that of Von Bethman-Hollweg. The scene before the Japanese Embassy. The battles of the Marne and the Aisne. The raid on the American Embassy. The cruel treatment of prisoners in camps. The attacks of the press on America. The sinking of the Lusitania. President Wilson's notes. The unrestricted submarine warfare. The Kaiser's threat that he would stand no nonsense from America after the war. The Fryatt shooting. The Roger Casement incident. The deportation of Belgian women and children. The dinner to the Ambassador, so soon to be followed by the break of relations between America and Germany. Mr. Gerard's detention as a virtual prisoner. His return, and America's answer to the Kaiser in the troops going over, the top and the armies over there.

AT THE BASE HOSPITAL, FT. SAM HOUSTON

Clean white beds, the very best of attention from the surgeons and nurses, and plenty of cheer-up consideration from the Army Y. M. C. A. secretaries make confinement at the base hospital as attractive as illness or injury can be made. Mothers and other relatives and friends with their beloved soldiers in the hospital can find comfort in the fact that their boys are not being neglected. The "Y" man supplements the regular ministrations of the military and the Red Cross with frequent and regular visits, bringing books, writing the patient's letters, and complying with his every wish as nearly as it is possible for him to do so. The Y. M. C. A. secretary in the picture is making his regular afternoon visit at the base hospital, distributing books to the soldiers.

When the soldiers reach the convalescent period, the "Y" furnishes movies, entertainment, and music for the convalescing soldiers.

KEEPING THE HOME FIRES BURNING

Here is a little bit of home which may be found in any Army Y. M. C. A. building in the Southern Department. The big open fireplace, the curtained windows, the cozy corner, and the little feminine touches which have been added by friends of the "Y," all contribute to the comfort and morale of the soldier away from home.

Here the soldier will find a happy substitute for the home fireside, with music if he prefers it—the home paper—good magazines—a game of checkers with his chum, and a lot of other things that help to make life interesting for the soldier. This is the social room which may be found in nearly every Army Y. M. C. A. hut. This particular one is enjoyed by soldiers from the Southwestern states at a Texas camp.

The headquarters offices of the Southern Department, Army Y. M. C. A., are at San Antonio, Texas. William E. Adams is the executive secretary.

A SOLDIER "TRIG" CLASS

Educational classes at the Army Y. M. C. A. huts are proving popular with the soldiers. Thousands of young men who left school to go into the service are continuing their studies and classes while in the army. Many educational institutions are arranging to give credit for the work done in this way, so that students may not lose anything while serving their country, and can resume their studies on their return, with credit toward degrees and graduation for the class-room work in the army. The picture shows a group of college men continuing their study of trigonometry at one of the Y. M. C. A. schools. It will make them better artillerymen.

In addition to advanced classes, the Y. M. C. A. conducts classes for illiterates and foreigners, teaching them to read, write and speak the English language. The War Department is giving the Army Y. M. C. A. hearty co-operation in this work.

To the Critics Back Home

From "The Stars and Stripes," a copy of which was handed us this week by Mrs. Edith R. Smith, we take a short editorial that we believe should appeal to every American. "The Stars and Stripes" is published by and for the expeditionary force in France, and from it may be gleaned first hand information from our boys "over there."

The editorial under the above caption reads:

There are certain patriots back home who admit that they are willing to support the Army program up to a certain point, but who insist that they have a right to rise up at any moment with any criticism they may care to make.

They begin their support with a brick held in the right hand, looking for the first chance to let the brick fly.

No such fifty-fifty support is wanted by the A. E. F. This is no fifty-fifty war in any sense. There is no fifty-fifty stuff in the soul of the soldier who swings out over the top under heavy fire.

Those back-home patriots who do not intend to go the whole distance with the A. E. F. with all they've got should never start at all. They are merely clogging up the road. They may mean well enough, but they are not hooked to our kind of a war.

There are but two kingdoms ahead—the kingdom of Liberty and the kingdom of Kaiserism.

"Under which king, Bezonian? Speak, or die!"

Mrs. Carpenter Dies

Mrs. J. F. Carpenter died at Joplin, Missouri, last week and the body, accompanied by husband and father, was taken to the old home in Ohio for interment. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter lived in White Oaks in the nineties and were well known throughout this section. Mrs. Carpenter's father, Prof. B. H. Dye, was at White Oaks when he received word of his daughter's illness, and at once hurried to her bedside, but reached there after death had claimed her. The sorrowing husband and father have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends.

A TYPICAL SOLDIER GATHERING

The Army Y. M. C. A. is the gathering place of the soldiers in every camp. It is his substitute for home, and he soon learns to go there when he is threatened with homesickness. He is seldom disappointed, for the "Y" always is "something doing" all the time.

This crowd was too big to get inside the building, so they had the program outside. The soldiers are listening to a lecture on mental and physical cleanliness by Dr. Clark, a noted sex lecturer. The picture was taken at Camp Travis, San Antonio, Texas, where thousands of soldiers from Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, and other states receive their training for the big adventure.

ARMY Y. M. C. A. CHIEF

WILMAN E. ADAMS,
Executive Secretary, Army Y. M. C. A.
Southern Department.

Direction of all Army Y. M. C. A. activities in the entire Southern Department is the large responsibility given to Wilman E. Adams, Executive Secretary, by the National War Work Council early in the development of the extensive program of the Y. M. C. A. in its efforts on behalf of the soldiers.

Mr. Adams is the administrative head of the territory made up of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, and Arizona, in which is located a large per cent of the army camps of the entire country. Under his administration the operations of the Army Y. M. C. A. have grown until there is now in operation, or in process of construction, one Y. M. C. A. building for every 3,500 soldiers located in these Southwestern states. When it is remembered that there are several hundred thousand soldiers in training in the Southern Department camps, including Camp Travis, Camp Pike, Camp Bowie, Camp McArthur, Camp Cody, Camp Danphan, Fort Sill, Camp Beauregard, Kelly Field, and the other great flying fields of the department, it will be understood that Mr. Adams occupies a position of similar importance to that of a Major General.

In addition to the camp activities of the Army Y. M. C. A. directed by Mr. Adams and efficiently executed by his army of men in the uniform of the Red Triangle, the Southern Department executive secretary has under his supervision the Army Y. M. C. A. activities along the entire Mexican border, from Brownsville, Texas, to Yuma, Arizona, where many Y. M. C. A. stations are located, and where a fleet of eighteen auto trucks take to the soldiers in isolated places the comforts and pleasures of the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Adams is one of the pioneers of the Army Y. M. C. A. movement. He was actively identified with the Army "Y" work with the troops on the border and in Mexico.

Again This News is prevented issuing promptly Friday. Partly printed paper, a portion of this edition, shipped 15 days ago from Denver, has not arrived in Carrizozo Friday night.

Registrants May Become Training Corps Students

Under date of August 30, 1918, the newspapers of New Mexico have been furnished the following:

"The following communication in regard to registrants of this state is quoted for your information:

"1. Arrangements have been authorized by which registrants of the new age groups proposed in the legislation now enacted shall be admitted to the Students' Army Training Corps by voluntary induction. They will enter college in the usual way and be inducted on a date yet to be fixed.

"2. Such men will be on furlough status under military instruction until reached in the draft and will be called to active duty at the time when their age groups and order numbers are reached. They will then ordinarily be sent to camps and cantonments, but certain specially qualified students of technical subjects, and men showing promise as material for line officers may be assigned to continue their military instruction and studies at the college for a time. In what cases and for what periods these exceptions shall be made has not been determined. The above arrangements apply only to schools having units of the Students' Army Training Corps; that is, institutions of collegiate grade.

"The schools recognized by the War Department in this state are the University of New Mexico, the College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, and the New Mexico Military Institute

Good music at every service. Mrs. Donaldson is director of the church music. Miss Edna Conway has charge of the music in the Sunday School. These two facts, coupled with the other fact that we have as good talent as the state affords, assures the people of the best in the music line.

The two leagues are doing excellent work from every point of observation. There are five services each Sunday. Come, we want you.

Emergency Service: Call to Children

The War Department has issued an emergency call to club members and all children to provide at once for our soldiers in the trenches materials for gas masks.

The call has come for all to do a vital war service collecting, saving, drying and storing peach, cherry, apricot, plum and prune pits and the shells of walnuts or other nuts - the meat of the nuts is not necessary. Seven pounds of nutshells or two hundred peach pits make a respirator for a gas mask when they have been reduced to carbon, which readily absorbs the poisonous chemical gases.

If club leaders or teachers will notify me, I will make arrangements for storage in Carrizozo until the War Department sends shipping directions for this county. Collections to be in storage by October 30th.

Remember seven pounds of walnuts will make a gas mask that may save a brother, a father, a cousin, or a friend. Can you not provide for at least one mask? Address any questions or information to Mrs. Elizabeth A. Gumm, County Club Leader, Carrizozo, N. M.

Bernalillo Democrats Elect Delegates

The Democrats of Bernalillo County held their convention Monday for the election of delegates to the state convention at Santa Fe. It was decided to send 48 delegates with one-half vote each and was voted to send the delegation entirely uninstructed as to any candidate. However, Col. D. K. B. Sellers was honored by receiving the largest vote cast for any one delegate.

League Preparing Play

The Epworth League is preparing to put on a home-talent play soon in the interest of war relief. This play is one of the most popular of the new dramas. Watch for announcements.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Burrell returned this week from a visit to Arizona.

Hunter Hobbs was here yesterday from Tinnie. He is the same jolly duffer as of yore.

A. J. Lahann returned yesterday from Alhambra, California. Mrs. Lahann and children will spend the winter at Alhambra, but while A. J. didn't say so, it is quite evident by his return that Lincoln county beckoned.

What is a Branch House?

The Branch House is the place in the packing organization where what the packing plant does for you is put where you can use it.

Both are the natural result of growth and development in the living thing they belong to.

Swift & Company Branch Houses are located in distributing centers all over the country. They are fitted out with refrigerating equipment to keep meat cool, sweet and fresh.

Each one is in personal charge of a man who believes in what Swift & Company is doing for people and wants to help do it.

They are directed by men who have spent years learning how to get better meat cheaper to the places where it is needed.

Meat is shipped to the branch houses direct from the packing plants in Swift & Company's refrigerator cars, in such quantities that it can be disposed of while fresh and sweet.

Your meat dealer comes here to buy your meat for you—unless someone else can treat him better than we can.

So you need the branch house in order to live well, and the branch house and the packing plant need each other, in order to be useful to you.

New Mexico Gains As War Stamp Buyer

East Las Vegas, N. M., September 12.—War Savings Stamp purchases in the United States had reached $750,000,000 on Monday, August 26th, according to information received here today from the national headquarters in Washington, while the number of war savers had mounted up to 35,000,000, or approximately one-third of the total population of the nation.

Before the opening of the fourth Liberty Loan drive practically every state in the union will make some form of special effort to encourage additional War Savings pledges, the object being to raise the number of war savers to fifty million. In New Mexico the campaign will center in Pershing Day, Friday, September 13th, when in every county in the state committees will seek to add to the number of war savings pledges.

New Mexico has made some gains in its standing, among the states in War Savings during the past sixty days. It has still far to go in order to catch up with its proportionate annual quota. The total of stamps owned and pledged in the state now totals approximately $3,000,000.

Do the best you can, And keep on trying— Or you'll do nothing. Angels can't do more, Than try; And angels may Get their wings singed. But all don't. So, keep on trying— And you may be An angel, With whole wings.

LIVER DIDN'T ACT DIGESTION WAS BAD

Says 65 year Old Kentucky Lady, Who Tells How She Was Relieved After a Few Doses of Black-Draught.

Meadersville, Ky.—Mrs. Cynthia Higginbotham, of this town, says: "At my age, which is 65, the liver does not act so well as when young. A few years ago, my stomach was all out of fit. I was constipated, my liver didn't act. My digestion was bad, and it took so little to upset me. My appetite was gone. I was very weak... I decided I would give Black-Draught a thorough trial as I knew it was highly recommended for this trouble. I began taking it. I felt better almost at once. My appetite improved and I became stronger. My bowels acted naturally and the least trouble was soon relieved with a few doses of Black-Draught."

to appropriate the Public Waters of the State of New Mexico. Such appropriation is to be made from White Oaks Arroyo at a point where the NE corner of Sec. 2, Twp. 7S., Range 10 East, bears N. 36° 30' W., 418 feet distant. (Note: The controlling location and description is shown by survey, the field notes and maps of which under this application always showed the location as now herein set forth. The permit granted by this office under No. 1189 was for the diversion and appropriation of water from White Oaks Arroyo of three acre feet per acre delivered on the land, by means of fallow water works through which five cu. ft. per sec. is allowed to be diverted in times of flow to be conveyed to lands in Sec. 2, Twp. 7 S., Range 10 East, N. M. P. M., by means of main canal and laterals, and there used for the irrigation of 40 acres and domestic purposes.

Any person, firm, association or corporation desiring that the granting of the above application would be truly detrimental to their rights in the water of said stream system shall file a complete statement of their objections substantiated by affidavits with the State Engineer and serve a copy on applicant on or before the 2nd day of November, 1918, the date set for the Engineer to take this application up for final consideration unless protested. In case of protested applications all parties will be given a reasonable length of time in which to submit their evidence in detail or arrange a date convenient for a hearing or appoint a referee satisfactory to all to take testimony. Appearance is not necessary unless advised officially by letter from the State Engineer.

Seventy years of successful use has made Theford's Black-Draught a standard, household remedy. Every member of every family, at times, need the help that Black-Draught can give in cleaning the system and relieving the troubles that come from constipation, indigestion, lazy liver, etc. You cannot keep well unless your stomach, liver and bowels are in good working order. Keep them that way. Try Black-Draught. It acts promptly, gently and in a natural way. If you feel sluggish, take a dose tonight. You will feel fresh tomorrow. Price 25c. a package—One cent a dose. All druggists.

It was the climax of excitement, and for that same number of days I wouldn't have missed it. Very few of the boys were upset and wanting to feed the fishes. If one has never tried the ride, he cannot appreciate the enjoyment of riding on the water—just standing around on deck, looking in every direction until one is tired out. Then to go below, eat your supper and get into that hammock—only to awake the next morning twice as tired as you were. But if one could ever get used to it I imagine "life on the waves" would be great.

Though the water was so nice, I would like to say "Bonnie Scotland" looked good to me, and a great number of others. So did England and France; and I might add that France continues to look good, but just because it is a "ground hog case."

Right now we wouldn't trade places with the boys "there," though we do hear the continual roar of cannon and occasionally see and experience the air raids of Jerry when he comes across the line.

It is a grand sight when one is very unexpectedly aroused by a shell bursting within a few hundred feet and pieces of everything imaginable flying through the air. It is then the good use of gas masks and dugouts come to view. We are now where we realize what General Sherman and President Roosevelt said of war and this war. Sherman said "War is Hell!" and Roosevelt said "This is a Hell of a war."

We agree with them in every way, but we are going to see it through with, if all goes well. The French people are very kind to us, but we pay for all we get. I haven't any idea of these countries before the U. S. soldier made his appearance. Surely, if they have made any advancement since the appearance of the United States soldiers, they were feverishly away, away back in life. Right now all you hear is, "Give me the U. S. A." And every word of it is meant.

Morgan says, "If we can just pass the first sensation." Now, weigh for yourself the meaning!

Jeff says, "When these old Western boys go up and call on Fritz and Jerry, they got to come through!"

Ralph Dow, Rolla Parker, Brown and all the boys are just fine. There is a little village every "throw of a stone," each with its great, big church, and every block is one solid house of stone. The people and animals all live in the same house. We are all understanding and making ourselves understood in French pretty well.

Past it all, there's no place like "There" for us; and, bet y'r life! if things turn out to our expectation, and to Pershing's idea, it will be "Heaven, Hell or Home" by Christmas.

Love and best wishes to every one from Lincoln County Boys by WM. W. GALLACHER, Sergeant, Troop A, 314 M. P. Censored by V. E. Tangle, Capt'n. Inf., N. A. P. S. I'm learning the lingua

A Bird in the Hand

(Special Information Service, United States Department of Agriculture.)
ARE CHICKENS TRESPASSERS?

Hens and a Garden in the Same Back Yard.

INJURY DONE BY FORAGING FOWLS

Local Laws Determine Question of Fencing Garden or Confining Chickens

SHOULD GO HAND-IN-HAND

Agricultural Department Urges the Practice of the Principle of Co-operation and the Theory of Live-and-Lot-Live.

The address of the home gardener against the intrusions of the neighbor's chickens will depend on the laws of the state or ordinances of the town or city in which the gardener lives. In some states owners are liable for damage done by stock running at large. In other states the person who wishes to grow a crop must fence it against depredation. In most of the Eastern states owners of stock are required to keep it under fence.

Response to Queries.

These facts are set forth by the United States department of agriculture in response to queries by gardeners who have neighbors raising chickens that harvest the products of Liberty gardens before such products are mature. The department is not prepared to say which type of food-raising is the more profitable and praiseworthy, but says that both can go hand-in-hand if there are proper fences. Whether the poultryman or the gardener must provide the fence depends upon local statutes, or ordinances, and the rights of the case would be determined under general principles of law.

It is related that a Liberty gardener and a Victory poultryman lived side by side. One morning the poultryman saw the gardener industriously digging.

"What are you doing?" asked Egbert.

"Replanting some early peas," replied Corn-elia.

"But that looks like my brown leg-horn lying beside that hole."

"It is," said the gardener; "my first planting of early peas is inside of her."

Not Humorous Subject.

The legal authorities of the department say that the chicken-and-garden question, far from being a subject of humor, is undoubtedly a serious one, and has probably led to as much trouble, dispute and ill-feeling between neighbors as any other single cause.

The department believes, however, that in war time there will be more of a principle of co-operation, and a theory of live-and-let-live. With everyone interested in a maximum wartime food production some way can usually be found out of the difficulties that may arise through the proximity of chickens and gardens.

Overcoming Objections.

Objection is frequently raised to the keeping of poultry in towns and cities because of the odor which may result and also because of the noise which is made by roosters crowing, particularly in the early morning. There is no necessity for the poultry flock to become a nuisance to neighbors.

If the dropping boards are cleaned daily and the houses and yards are kept in a reasonably clean condition there will be no annoying odors. The soil in the yard should be stirred or spaded up frequently if not in use in order to keep it in the best condition.

This will not only tend to keep down any odors which might arise, but also allow the droppings to be absorbed into the soil more readily and therefore keep the yard in better condition for the hens.

The male bird need not be a nuisance. Unless it is intended to hatch chickens from the flock it is unnecessary to keep a male bird. The fact that there is no male in the flock will have absolutely no effect on the number of eggs laid by the hens. The male bird should be sold or eaten just as soon as the hatching season is over. This is desirable not only for the purpose of eliminating noise, but also to save the feed that would be eaten by the male and for the reason that the eggs produced after the male is disposed of will be infertile. Since these eggs are incapable of chick development they keep much better than fertile eggs, and consequently are superior for preserving or for market.

Poultry Yards and Fences.

Breeding stock, and especially growing chickens, should have an abundance of range, while hens kept solely for the production of eggs may be kept on a small area with good results. In rural districts the yarding of poultry is sometimes unnecessary and in such cases colony houses are used to advantage. Under this system it is easy to keep the birds healthy and the feed bill is reduced, as they are able to get a good part of their feed from the range. These houses, which hold about 10 hens, are placed from 200 to 250 feet apart and are moved from place to place as new range is needed.

When poultry fences are needed, as in the case in keeping poultry in towns and cities and in some rural sections, as few fences as possible should be erected, as they increase the cost of equipment, labor and maintenance. When very much land is available the poultry yard can often be kept in sod. On good soil this can be done by allowing 200 to 250 square feet of land per bird (217 to 274 birds to the acre) while more space is necessary on poor or light land. A large number of fowls are usually kept to the acre where double yards are used and the land is frequently cultivated.

Plymouth Rocks and the heavy meat breeds in small yards require fences five to six feet high, while a fence six to seven feet high is necessary for Leg-horns. The upper two feet of the fence for the latter may be inclined inward at an angle of 30 degrees, or a strand or two of barbed wire may help keep them confined, while it is sometimes necessary to clip the wing feathers of one wing of those birds which persist in getting out.

Posts may be set or driven into the ground. They should be set eight to ten feet apart with common poultry netting, or 16 to 20 feet with woven wire. Corner posts should be about eight inches in diameter, and be set four feet in the ground, while intervening posts may be four or five inches in diameter and set three feet in the ground. That part of the post which is set in the ground may be charred or treated with some wood preservative to advantage, while corner posts should be firmly braced or set in cement.

Rural Clubs Help.

Women's rural clubs have done much to further the employment of trained workers for the counties, such as home demonstration agents, county nurses and county social service workers. The state leader of home demonstration agents in Mississippi has said that the women's clubs in that state have been constant and earnest supporters of county extension work in home economics. They have given financial aid, used their influence to secure appropriations, bought canning club products and given the work a prominent place on their programs.

SOLDIERS' SWORD ARM OF NATION

If We Fail in Our Duty Boys in France Cannot Achieve Victory.

LOAN MONEY TO UNCLE SAM

Buying Liberty Bonds an Investment in Lives of Americans "Over There" and an Insurance for Safety of Our Country.

By CORRA HARRIS, (Author of "A Circuit Rider's Wife," "Eve's Second Husband," Etc.)

During the Thrift Stamp campaign in July, 1918, a prominent citizen was sent into a backwoods farming community to arouse the people, and if possible sell Thrift Stamps. He was not expected to have much success with the sale of stamps because the people were very poor and illiterate. The effort was to be chiefly educational.

The speaker found a dingy company of farmers and their wives waiting for him in an old field schoolhouse.

He began his address with arguments for the support of the government reduced to the simplest forms. No one seemed to listen. The men stared straight ahead as if they had something else on their minds. The women fanned themselves and looked out of the windows. He changed his manner of speech to an impassioned appeal; no one was moved. He paused perspiring before making a last despairing effort. But before he could go on a tall, gaunt farmer stood up in the back of the house and waved his hand beseechingly:

"Mister," he said, "if you are done talking, give us a chance at them Thrift Stamps so we kin sign up and get back to the field."

He gave them the "chance." They bought nineteen hundred and fifty dollars' worth of stamps, although there was not a man among them who owned property to the amount of two thousand dollars.

"We own this land," the farmer said, addressing the prominent citizen grimly as he passed up the last pledge card, "we own all this country. The government at Washington belongs to us; we made it and it is ours. The army in France is ours, too; they are our sons. We sent sixty-two boys there from this district, and I reckon we know it is our duty to work for them and take care of them while they are busy whipping them Germans."

This is the best, most servicable and intelligent definition of patriotism I have heard since this war began.

Victory at Any Cost.

This is the most expensive war ever known, still beyond our imagination to conceive of. The enormous destruction wrought by the submarines, the terrific sums spent for war materials, the loans to our allies, none of these things account for the incredible expense. The real explanation is that civilization demands that it shall cost everything. Never before has any nation spent so much to insure the health of its soldiers, never before have such provisions been made to safeguard a great army morally. More is being spent to equip hospitals, provide ambulances, nurses and doctors to care for the wounded than whole campaigns cost in former wars. Never in the history of man has such provision been made to insure widows and orphans and soldiers from the after effects of wounds and poverty. Formerly when a man entered the army to fight for his country, his country took his life, and that was the end of it if he was killed. Now the government pays, and pays enormously, for every man who lives or dies in this struggle. All this is so because as a nation we have developed a sense of justice and honor that regards any and every expense as secondary to the one tremendous obligation to its citizens.

Our allies were compelled to fight Germany to preserve their very existence, but we chose to fight her when we might have made a shameful treaty with her that would have insured a shameful peace, because we are not a craven grasping nation, but a nation built upon ideals, and it costs more to preserve an ideal than it ever costs to preserve peace, because you cannot buy them—you must achieve them.

Nothing stands between the world and this catastrophe but the American people, their honor, their energy, their fidelity and their wealth. Our troops in France are only the sword arm of the nation. We, the people at home, are the body and life of that army. If we fail at all, they must fail utterly.

We are about to make another loan of six billion dollars for war expenses. It is not a gift, but an investment we make in the lives of American soldiers and an insurance we take out for the safety of our country.

GOOD ROADS

PROTECT ROADS OF COUNTRY

Former Governor Tener Declares It Military Necessity to Keep Highways in Repair.

"It is up to the federal, state and local governments to save our highways," remarked John K. Tener of Pennsylvania, former governor, president of the Permanent Highways corporation of New York. Governor Tener declared that it is a military necessity for the proper authorities to protect the roads. "We must preserve the roads of the country, and particularly we must save the foundations if we are to protect the commerce and industries of the country which are supplying the needs of our men on the battle fronts as well as the taxes of the government and the necessities of the men, women and children who are keeping the wheels going at home.

Application of Seal Coat in Progress.

"The federal government, the manufacturer and the farmer for months have been depending on the highways for the transportation of enormous amounts of materials and supplies by motor trucks. The roads fast are wearing down and hundreds of miles of highways will become useless unless the resurfacing of these roads is encouraged so that the foundations may be saved. In road construction, the principal cost is in the foundations. The top, or road surface, naturally is the first to give way, break and finally grind up and disappear, leaving the foundations exposed.

"Foundations costing hundreds of millions of dollars now are in danger of being ruined forever, when they could be saved by proper resurfacing, but this should be done at once or else the costly foundations will have to be done all over again. In some states and localities there is a disposition to delay work until after the war on the theory that men and materials are more needed in the war work. This is a mistake which should be corrected. Without the highways the business of the country would be crippled. The roads must be preserved both for war purposes and for the safeguarding of our industries, upon which our country's revenues depend. Make-shift resurfacing will crumble in a few months and will have to be done all over again. If properly surfaced now, hundreds of millions of dollars will be saved."

BOOST FOR GOOD ROADS IDEA

Highway Magazine Does It by Asking Four Questions—Delivery Facilities Increased.

Four questions which every American is requested to put to himself are suggested by the Dixie Highway, the good roads publication of the Dixie Highway association.

Do you ever stop to consider that every bale of cotton the farmer can add to his wagonload makes his profits that much greater?

And that every pound of merchandise which can be added to the truckload makes truck haulage that much more reasonable?

And that every foot of good road over which these wagons and trucks travel increases the nation's delivery facilities?

And that every inch of bad road—of fair-weather-only road—makes hauling that much more expensive; makes the farmer's profit that much less than it should be?

Width of Earth Roads.

The width of the earth road will depend on the traffic. As a rule, 25 or 30 feet from ditch to ditch is sufficient if the road is properly crowned. Obviously the only ditches needed are those made with the road machine, which are wide and shallow.

CALL WAS FOR "OPERATORS"

And Sapper Black Felt Justified in Believing He Came Within That Classification.

The now-formed signal company had just assembled on parade, and the O. C. was classifying his men for their various duties. "Fall out any operators," he shouted. A number of telegraphists promptly stepped to the rear, but the O. C. was surprised to notice Sapper Black among the party.

"Are you a competent operator?" inquired the O. C.

"Yes, sir," was the immediate response.

"And your speed of working?"

"Five thousand feet per hour."

"Five thousand what?" roared the O. C. "Telegraph operators don't send messages by the yard!"

"Perhaps not, sir," replied Black; "but, you see, I'm not a telegraph operator; I'm a cinematograph operator." —London Answers.

Urgent Case.

The young wife gazed upon the sleeping form of her young husband with the tender eyes of youth. As a matter of fact, hubby had got a cold, and he found it conducive to sleeplessness at night. It seemed a pity to disturb his repose, but her affection was equal to the task and, shaking him gently by the shoulder, she said:

"Wake-up, George; the doctor's just sent your sleeping draught!"

PESSIMIST IN PARIS IS 'SIREN'

Gloomy Ones Are Named for the Unwelcome Air Raid Signal.

OPTIMIST IS A "BERLOQUE"

People Have Joyous Time While Waiting in Subway Stations—Crap Game Holds Interest of the Crowd.

Paris—Two more words have been added to that very growing dictionary of war words. In Paris these two words have achieved a new significance. Pessimists are now known as "sirens" and optimists are "berloques." The significance is self-explanatory to those who have experienced an air raid in Paris. Many dread the screeching, weird, banshee-like wail of the alarm giving siren more than the actual danger from the raiders, while the "berloque," that lively little bugle call telling that all danger is past and that one may rest safely in one's bed, is indeed a friend welcome as any opium.

A Paris bookkeeper who suddenly left the city when the raids over the capital became too frequent and went to Nantes has been sued by his employer for $60 damage for leaving without notice. The case, not the only one of its kind in the French courts today, is attracting attention. The bookkeeper's explanation was that his nerves were upset by the bombs and shells and that he thought himself justified in getting out of danger. The court held that a bombardment by airplanes and long-range guns could not be considered a sufficient reason for the breach of contract and gave judgment for the amount named.

The darkened streets of Paris have caused many persons to roam around town after returning from the theater or a visit because of the difficulty in finding the streets and house numbers. An attempt to improve this condition is to be made soon by placing luminous numbers traced in little buttonlike mirrors which reflect and magnify the smallest glimmer of light on the houses of the city.

Collapse When He Faces the Firing Squad—German Paper Gives Account of Execution.

Amsterdam.—With two hours given in which to prepare for the end, Nicholas Romanoff, former Russian emperor, was taken out by his executioners in a state of such collapse that it was necessary to prop him against a post, says the Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin, which claims to have received from a high Russian personage an account of the emperor's last hours.

Nicholas was awakened at five o'clock on the morning of the day of his execution by a patrol of a non-commissioned officer and six men. He was told to dress and was then taken to a room where the decision of the soviet council was communicated to him. He was informed the execution would be carried out in two hours. The former emperor, it is added, received the announcement of the sentence of death with great calmness, but when he returned to his bedroom he collapsed in a chair. After a few minutes he asked for a priest, with whom he was allowed to remain unattended. Subsequently he wrote several letters.

When the escort arrived to take him to the place of execution Nicholas attempted to rise from his chair, but was not able. The priest and a soldier were obliged to help him get to his feet. The condemned man descended the stairs with difficulty and once he fell down.

As he was unable to stand without support when the place of execution was reached, he was propped against a post. He raised his hands and seemed to be trying to speak, but the rifles spoke and he fell dead.

SERVED AS GERMAN SPY, VINDICATES SELF

Atlanta, Ga.—Walter Wanderwel, a world-wide traveler arrested last year as a suspected German spy, having proven his innocence after five months' imprisonment to the satisfaction of the courts, is now making good in the eyes of the public by serving the United States in the office of scoutmaster of troop 31, Boy Scouts of America. At a recent street corner meeting of the boy scouts, Wanderwel finished a short talk and collected over $200 for the Thrift Stamp boy scout canvassers.

ANGELIC RUFFIAN A PROBLEM

British Lad Is Only Four, but British Colonel Seeks a Trainer For Him.

London.—The following advertisement from a London newspaper shows that a colonel had a greater problem than commanding his men:

Family, less colonel, pleasantly situated. Good parents and upbringing and a cheery disposition main essentials. No pessimists."

dice with a deftness that was delightfully reminiscent of "somewhere in Harlem," to say nothing of their proficiency in the vocabulary of the game, which Parisians have since learned is a very essential adjunct to any skill at it.

Investigation of casualties following an air raid over the capital has proved to the authorities that the greatest number of casualties are not the result of injuries received from the bombs of the raiders, but of carelessness on the part of the victims. Parisians have become too accustomed to air raids. They stay out of doors to see the bursting of the shells from the antiaircraft guns and others leave their shelters and go home before the signal.

As a result recently 23 persons were injured, some because they did not keep under cover long enough, and others because they stood at their windows watching the bursting shells as if it were an exhibition of fireworks. The police have again warned the population. "The better protector of the city," says an order, "is no reason for neglecting the precautions dictated by common sense."

VILLA'S STEPSON JOINS UNITED STATES CAVALRY

Manchester, N. H.—William Ceraco, aged nineteen, who says he is a stepson of Villa, the notorious Mexican bandit, has enlisted in the United States cavalry here.

Ceraco says that three years ago, during the border uprising, Villa shot his father and married his mother. Ceraco came north with the New Hampshire troops when they returned from duty on the border.

He says that he likes the United States so well that he has decided it is worth fighting for anywhere and was very anxious to know when he could get "over there."

My trouble was from uric acid poisoning which had gotten into my blood. My back was weak and lame and I had rheumatic pains. My kidneys were out of order and got me up at night. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they made me feel fine." (Statement given August 13, 1911). On April 30, 1917, Mr. Hill said: "I know Doan's Kidney Pills are the best medicine in the world for what they are recommended to be. I have been completely cured of kidney trouble by them."	A NEW MEXICO CASE. Mrs. Alice Dorch, 515 E. Third St., Roswell, N. M., says: "About eight months ago I had an awful attack of kidney trouble. My back ached dreadfully and for four or five months I couldn't get out of bed. I couldn't move my limbs and my back felt as if it were broken. My kidneys were weak and I was greatly bothered on this account. I often got so dizzy it seemed as if everything was whirling around. I doctored and used different kidney remedies but wasn't helped any. Finally I got to using Doan's Kidney Pills and I felt like a different woman in almost no time. I continued until I was cured of the trouble."

One beautiful summer night, when the crickets were chirping in the grass and the caterpillars were dropping from the trees, John Henry turned to the charming girl who was sitting on the veranda at his side.
"Edith," said he, a trifle timorously, "there comes to me a thought, I might say a fear."
"Well, what is it?" queried the fair girl, as the other hesitated.
"I suppose," responded John Henry, suggestively, hopefully, "that were I to steal a kiss you would have me arrested?"
"Perhaps," was the ready rejoinder of the girl, "but you could find somebody to pay your fine, couldn't you?"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Ziegler's Sugar Display

Passing Ziegler Brothers' a day this week, our attention was attracted to a novel window display: Pyramids of sugar, in 2-lb sacks, all bearing labels, such as, "Save sugar for our soldiers," "Eat less sugar," "Share alike," "Save and Win the War," etc. A photograph of the window will be taken and forwarded to the Food Administration, as a request came from that department for the display. The display is quite

How to End The War

The quickest way to win this war is to draft my wife "Liza." I'll bet a two-year-old hieffer that she can whip that Kaiser. Wouldn't I like to see her land on him, see him jump and run. Then have to stop and beg for mercy, the damned old son-of-a-gun.—Wampus Creek Contribution. tasty and many passersby stop to admire it.
