Sellers For Governor

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 18.—The sentiment throughout the state for Col. D. K. B. Sellers for governor on the Democratic ticket is increasing daily.

"I do not believe in beginning the campaign until after the Liberty Loan drive," said Colonel Sellers, "but immediately after that, adopt the offensive and go to it. We must win the war, and in order to aid in doing so we must make an effort to develop the natural resources of the state and give the live stock industry the very best state co-operation. We must make our natural roads a quick asset by proper system of maintenance. We should have a revision of our taxation law, and I believe in our state endorsing the National Prohibition law and bettering our educational system wherever possible. I believe in being FAIR to the high and the low, to the rich and the poor, to the strong and the weak. I am for our Flag, our Boys, President Wilson, and the State of New Mexico."

Killed in Action

Last Saturday morning Mrs. Martha Hamilton received a wire from the department conveying the sad intelligence that her son, Roy, had been killed in action in France. Besides the old mother who lives here, two sisters also reside here, Mrs. W. M. Barnett and Mrs. Calvin Carl. The son and brother was not with the Lincoln county contingent, having gone with the Californians. On his way to France he came by Carrizozo and saw his aged mother and two sisters.

Germany Cheats Russia In Exchange of Prisoners

Petrograd, August 10, via Vladivostok.—Intant only upon further looting helpless Russia, Germany is exchanging invalided tubercular prisoners for sound strong German prisoners held in Russia. Germany returns prisoners who are a drain on the economic resources of Russia and takes in return Germans capable of strenuous fighting on the west front.

"Germany has a committee here choosing their own men to be exchanged," says a Young Women's Christian Association secretary in charge of the Blue Triangle Club. "They choose only the most fit and will not let the Russians exercise a like privilege. The condition of the returned Russian soldier is alarming. They are skeletons, physical wrecks. Over seventy per cent are in the last stages of tuberculosis."

"The poor fellows are stunned by changed conditions in Russia. They are filled with utter scorn for those responsible for Russia not doing her part, and they want to go back and fight. So after all, Germany, missing the spirit, seems to be defeating her own purpose by returning the fiery spirited wrecks who are setting the souls of Russia against the oppressor."

"And when, from their inspiration, Russia girds up her loins and returns to the fight, Germany will, perhaps, finally realize that those she sent home to spread disease and death, stirred the soul of the country to throw off the oppressor."

Wrong One Locked In

Paris, France, happening.—A frightened cat and a girl from Salina, Kansas, were joint but unconscious causes of some embarrassment to a French professor and much amusement to the American nurses at one of the army hospitals near Paris during the recent German drive. The professor, at the invitation of the Young Women's Christian Association secretary at the hospital, had come to lecture on France, accompanied by Mme. Guillemin, who was to sing French folk songs for the overworked nurses.

Just before the lecture began, a homeless kitten slipped into the room, and becoming frightened, began yowling. Efforts were at once begun to eject the homeless one, which in its fright had scurried out of sight. Thereupon Miss Mable Warner, with real Kansas ingenuity, decided to lock the doors, capture the kitty and eject her so the lecture might proceed.

"The door of a small room off the salon did not close well," writes Miss Warner, "and I thereupon turned the key to keep it shut. After the indignant little cat had been ejected and normal conditions restored, our lecturer was missing, and in a few minutes search I was dismayed to find I had locked up the guest of the evening, where he had gone to look over his notes before beginning his address."

A. J. Rolland, O. T. Nye and Jno. A. Haley spent Monday and Tuesday in Roswell. They were accompanied upon their return by C. C. Kueles, of the New Mexico Iron & Steel Corporation.

Prairie Dog War On In Lincoln County

The Biological Survey, co-operating with the county agents of New Mexico, are carrying on a very extensive prairie dog campaign. This campaign will include every county in the state and will have for its purpose the complete eradication of all rodents. The work in Lincoln county has started and will continue for the next two or three months under the supervision of Mr. F. R. Miller and the county agent.

A fairly accurate estimate of the infested area in this county places it at 200,000 acres. The work will be carried on by townships in order to get thorough and lasting results, each township being covered completely. In order to avoid accidents, no poisoned grain will be sent to individuals unless Mr. Miller is present to supervise the distribution of the grain.

The strychnine and saccharin will be sold to the ranchers at $1.25 and forty cents per ounce respectively, which is a great reduction from usual prices.

The chief advantages of this campaign will be: it will be supervised by experienced men, it will reach every infested area in the state, it will be cheap, and the results will be for all time.

The importance of this work both as a war-time and a peacetime measure and as a business proposition can be readily realized when data collected following this work shows that where eight sheep can be pastured on an infested range, the first year following twelve can be pastured, and the second year following fifteen can live where only eight originally did.

We can use at least 200,000 acres of range land in this county to much better advantage than at present, and are asking for all men with infested ranges to send us their names and the township and section infested at their earliest convenience.

So far we have received the hearty cooperation and support of all stockmen interviewed and the work will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible. The results secured so far have been very satisfactory, getting from 90 to 99 per cent of the dogs the first application. As this work is being done all over the state it will be but a comparatively short time until the entire state is free from this very destructive pest.

STUART STIRLING,
County Agent.

CHAPTER XXV—Continued.

When we took over the front line we received an awful shock. The Germans displayed signboards over the top of their trench showing the names that we had called their trenches. The signs read "Fair," "Fact," "Fate," and "Fancy," and so on, according to the code names on our map. Then to rub it in, they hoisted some more signs which read, "Come on, we are ready, stupid English."

It is still a mystery to me how they obtained this knowledge. There had been no raids or prisoners taken, so it must have been the work of spies in our own lines.

Three or four days before the big push we tried to shatter Fritz's nerves by faint attacks, and partially succeeded as the official reports of July 1 show.

Although we were constantly bombarding their lines day and night, still we fooled the Germans several times. This was accomplished by throwing an intense barrage into his lines—then using smoke shells we would put a curtain of white smoke across No Man's Land, completely obstructing his view of our trenches, and would raise our curtain of fire as if in an actual attack. All down our trenches the men would shout and cheer, and Fritz would turn loose with machine-gun, rifle, and shrapnel fire, thinking we were coming over.

After three or four of these dummy attacks his nerves must have been near the breaking point.

On June 24, 1916, at 9:40 in the morning our guns opened up, and hell was let loose. The din was terrific, a constant boom-boom-boom in your ear.

At night the sky was a red glare. Our bombardment had lasted about two hours when Fritz started replying. Although we were sending over ten shells to his one, our casualties were heavy. There was a constant stream of stretchers coming out of the communication trenches and burial parties were a common sight.

In the dugouts the noise of the guns almost hurt. You had the same sensation as when riding on the subway you enter the tube under the river going to Brooklyn—a sort of pressure on the ear drums, and the ground constantly trembling.

The roads behind the trenches were very dangerous because Boche shrapnel was constantly bursting over them. We avoided these dangerous spots by crossing through open fields.

The destruction in the German lines was awful and I really felt sorry for them because I realized how they must be clicking it.

From our front-line trench, every now and again, we could hear sharp whistle blasts in the German trenches. These blasts were the signals for stretcher bearers, and meant the wounding or killing of some German in the service of his fatherland.

Atwell and I had a tough time of it, patrolling the different trenches at night, but after awhile got used to it.

My old outfit, the machine gun company, was stationed in huge elephant dugouts about four hundred yards behind the front-line trench—they were in reserve. Occasionally I would stop in their dugout and have a confab with my former mates. Although we tried to be jolly, still, there was a lurking feeling of impending disaster. Each man was wondering, if, after the slogan, "Over the top with the best of luck," had been sounded, would he still be alive or would he be lying "somewhere in France." In an old dilapidated house, the walls of which were scarred with machine-gun bullets, No. 3 section of the machine gun company had its quarters. The company's cooks prepared the meals in this billet. On the fifth evening of the bombardment a German eight-inch shell registered a direct hit on the billet and wiped out ten men who were asleep in the supposedly bomb-proof cellar. They were buried the next day and I attended the funeral.

CHAPTER XXVI.

All Quiet (?) on the Western Front. At brigade headquarters I happened to overhear a conversation between our G. O. C. (general officer commanding) and the divisional commander. From this conversation I learned that we were to bombard the German lines for eight days, and on the first of July the "big push" was to commence.

In a few days orders were issued to that effect, and it was common property all along the line.

On the afternoon of the eighth day of our "strafing," Atwell and I were sitting in the front-line trench smoking fags and making out our reports of the previous night's tour of the trenches, which we had to turn in to headquarters the following day, when an order was passed down the trench that Old Pepper requested twenty volunteers to go over on a trench raid that night to try and get a few German prisoners for information purposes. I immediately volunteered for this job, and shook hands with Atwell, and went to the rear to give my name to the officers in charge of the raiding party.

I was accepted, worse luck. At 9:45 that night we reported to the brigade headquarters dugout to receive instructions from Old Pepper.

After reaching this dugout we lined up in a semicircle around him, and he addressed us as follows:

"All I want you boys to do is to go over to the German line tonight, surprise them, secure a couple of prisoners, and return immediately. Our artillery has bombarded that section of the line for two days and personally I believe that that part of the German trench is unoccupied, so just get a couple of prisoners and return as quickly as possible."

The sergeant on my right, in an undertone, whispered to me:

"Say, Yank, how are you going to get a couple of prisoners if the old fool thinks 'personally that that part of the trench is unoccupied.'—sounds kind of fishy, doesn't it mate?"

Receiving First Aid

I had a funny sinking sensation in my stomach, and my tin hat felt as if it weighed about a ton and my enthusiasm was melting away. Old Pepper must have heard the sergeant speak because he turned in his direction and in a thundering voice asked:

"What did you say?"

The sergeant with a scarlet look on his face and his knees trembling, smartly saluted and answered:

"Nothing, sir."

Old Pepper said:

"Well, don't say it so loudly the next time."

Then Old Pepper continued:

"In this section of the German trenches there are two or three machine guns which our artillery, in the last two or three days, has been unable to take. These guns command the sector where two of our communication trenches join the front line, and as the brigade is to go over the top tomorrow morning I want to capture two or three men from these guns' crews, and from them I may be able to obtain valuable information as to the exact location of the guns, and our artillery will therefore be able to demolish them before the attack, and thus prevent our losing a lot of men while using these communication trenches to bring up re-enforcements."

These were the instructions he gave us:

"Take off your identification disks, strip your uniforms of all ornaments, medals, etc., leave your papers with your captain, because I don't want the Boches to know what regiments are against them as this would be valuable information to them in our attack tomorrow and I don't want any of you to be taken alive. What I want is two prisoners and if I get them I have a way which will make them divulge all necessary information as to their guns. You have your choice of two weapons—you may carry your 'persuaders' or your knuckle knives, and each man will arm himself with four Mills bombs, these to be used only in case of emergency."

A persuader is Tommy's nickname for a club carried by the bombers. It is about two feet long, thin at one end and very thick at the other. The thick end is studded with sharp steel spikes, while through the center of the club there is a nine-inch lead bar, to give it weight and balance. When you get a prisoner all you have to do is just stick this club up in front of him, and believe me, the prisoner's patriotism for "Deutschland ueber Alles" fades away and he very willingly obeys the orders of his captor. If, however, the prisoner gets high-toned and refuses to follow you, simply "persuade" him by first removing his tin hat, and then—well, the use of the lead weight in the persuader is demonstrated, and Tommy looks for another prisoner.

The knuckle knife is a dagger affair, the blade of which is about eight inches long with a heavy steel guard over the grip. This guard is studded with steel projections. At night in a trench, which is only about three to four feet wide, it makes a very handy weapon. One punch in the face generally shatters a man's jaw and you can get him with the knife as he goes down.

Then we had what we called our "come-along." These are strands of barbed wire about three feet long, made into a noose at one end; at the other end, the barbs are cut off and Tommy slips his wrist through a loop to get a good grip on the wire. If the prisoner wants to argue the point, why just place the large loop around his neck and no matter if Tommy wishes to return to his trenches at the walk, trot, or gallop, Fritz is perfectly agreeable to maintain Tommy's rate of speed.

We were ordered to black our faces and hands. For this reason; At night, the English and Germans use what they call star shells, a sort of rocket affair. They are fired from a large pistol about twenty inches long, which is held over the sandbag parapet of the trench, and discharged into the air. These star shells attain a height of about sixty feet, and a range of from fifty to seventy-five yards. When they hit the ground they explode, throwing up a strong calcium light which lights up the ground in a circle of a radius of between ten to fifteen yards. They also have a parachute star shell which, after reaching a height of about sixty feet, explodes. A parachute unfolds and slowly floats to the ground, lighting up a large circle in No Man's Land. The official name of the star shell is a "Verg-light." Verg-lights are used to prevent night surprise attacks on the trenches. If a star shell falls in front of you, or between you and the German lines, you are safe from detection, as the enemy cannot see you through the bright curtain of light. But if it falls behind you and, as Tommy says, "you get in the star shell zone," then the fun begins; you have to lie flat on your stomach and remain absolutely motionless until the light of the shell dies out. This takes anywhere from forty to seventy seconds. If you haven't time to fall to the ground you must remain absolutely still in whatever position you were in when the light exploded; it is advisable not to breathe, as Fritz has an eye like an eagle when he thinks you are knocking at his door. When a star shell is burning in Tommy's rear he can hold his breath for a week.

You blacken your face and hands so that the light from the star shells will not reflect on your pale face. In a trench raid there is quite sufficient reason for your face to be pale. If you don't believe me, try it just once.

Then another reason for blackening your face and hands is that, after you have entered the German trench at night, "white face" means Germans, "black face" English. Coming around a traverse you see a white face in front of you. With a prayer and wishing Fritz "the best o' luck," you introduce him to your "persuader" or knuckle knife.

A little later we arrived at the communication trench named Whisky street, which led to the fire trench at the point we were to go over the top and out in front.

In our rear were four stretcher bearers and a corporal of the R. A. M. C. carrying a pouch containing medicines and first-aid appliances. Kind of a grim reminder to us that our expedition was not going to be exactly a picnic. The order of things was reversed. In civilian life the doctors generally come first, with the undertakers tagging in the rear and then the insurance man, but in our case, the undertakers were leading, with the doctors trailing behind, minus the insurance adjuster.

CONSTANT FIGHT WITH FLIES

Camera Men Bothered With the Pests, Which Persist in Circling in Front of the Lens

Flies give the technical department of the movie companies some of their hardest battles, writes Robert Wagner in the Saturday Evening Post. Flies are worse camera hogs than actors; they wouldn't be so bad if they'd stay at the table and eat, but between courses they up and fly in droves all round the camera, just to be in the close-ups, and when they pass directly in front of the lens they take on the proportions of buzzards.

When we stage a banquet scene it is a banquet—not pasteboard cats, such as they have on the stage, but the real Peruvian doughnuts. And when out of these great open-air feasts—for, alas, our banquet halls are usually shy two or more walls—is announced and the diners sit down to their happy feed they soon discover that every fly from as far north as Inyo county is also in attendance.

As wicked as it seems to use poison gases at a banquet, we often have to do it just to keep the flies out of our artistic ornament. It was because these creatures liked burnt sugar so much that we had to give up that sticky camouflage for our strong waters; our Martinis are now drier than every.

is Anyone Old in New York? In Bruce Barton's novel, "The Making of George Groton," the author says: "No one is old in New York. They drain in every year from all parts of the country—millions of men, young and vibrant. They stay and work, and grow into middle age; and then suddenly they vanish. One may walk for blocks on Fifth avenue or Broadway and hardly see anyone over fifty. Where do they go to? No one seems ever to die; no funerals clog the traffic. There are plenty of funerals, of course, but you don't notice them as you do in a little town. I have wandered for hours in the big woods, wondering where the birds go when they die; and never yet have I run across the body of a dead bird. What becomes of old birds? What becomes of old New Yorkers? These are twin mysteries to me. I cannot unravel them."

Strange Trades. Some curious trades may be found in the vacant situations column of our daily paper. "Consol Operators" are not, as you might think, something on the stock exchange; they operate in leather on a boot bench. A "Commissary Hanger"—which sounds wildly anachronistic—is merely an artist in wall papering. A "Budget Trimmer" is an expert in finance, but works in the confectionery trade. But what shall we say to the demand for a "Kaiser Molder"? One would think that, like the "Vienna Hand," this particular subdivision of bakery had ceased.—London Chronicle.

GIRLS! USE LEMONS FOR SUNBURN, TAN

Try It! Make this lemon lotion to whiten your tanned or freckled skin.

Squeeze the juice of two lemons in to a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion whitener, at very, very small cost. Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands and see how quickly the freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.—Adv.

IN BAD WAY PHYSICALLY

Physician's Verdict Made Recruit Wonder if Any Disease Had Got Away From Him.

The curiosity of Henry James who applied for enlistment in the United States Marine corps at Los Angeles remains unsatisfied.

James was taken before Dr. G. J. Hildebrand, the examining physician, and, after the usual physical examination, was told that he failed to meet the requirements.

"What's the matter with me?" queried the prospective Hun destroyer.

"You've got scollodis, phthisis and synoditis," was the surgeon's reply.

The would-be marine blushed to be told so frankly what prevented his becoming a devil dog, and turned to go out, when the doctor shot a few hot parting words after him.

"Not only that—you're troubled with slight astigmatism, otitis media and chronic furnunculosis."

"Gosh," was all the lad could say as he fled in confusion.

Memorable Vacation.

Having a week off on account of being overworked, and by advice of our physician, our wife suggests that it will be a corking opportunity to go over the house together and find the loose ends of things and fix them up. She has laid out half a dozen blinds and rollers that need fixing, a carpet that could be beat without hurting its general reputation, a number of pans to solder, a piece of gable that's loose on the roof, some rain spouting that needs attention and a few old family pictures that could be tightened, dusted, polished, frames re-varnished, etc. and stuck up in the parlor.

All in all, our week's vacation is going to be something to remember.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

FROCK FOR A GIRL

May Be Developed in Georgette in Any Desired Shade.

Some Design Might Be Used for Wash Dress, Using Printed and Plain Voile or Silk Gingham.

The smart little frock shown in sketch, designed for a young girl, may be developed in georgette in any preferred shade with bandings of embroidered or plain satin. Small wooden beads edge the satin band on the Russian blouse peplum, on the sleeves and at the neck. This same design might be used for a wash dress, using printed and plain voile or checked silk gingham with plain color chambray or handkerchief linen.

For the half-grown girl whose figure is not sufficiently developed to make the straight, chemise-type dress becoming, these little Russian blouse effects are perennially popular, regardless of season.

A graceful feature of the dress pictured is the wide sash of self-fabric tied at one side. This may be plain, as shown, or the ends may be banded in satin edged with beads.

On the little tailored serge dresses now being shown for fall wear, innumerable small round fabric covered or crocheted buttons are used as trimming. Frequently panels, which appear on all sorts of garments, are edged all about with buttons set close together, and again a slanted skirt of serge will be edged with buttons, and open over a petticoat of satin. Buttons and fringe share honors as trimming, with embroidery holding its own, and it is interesting to note that one of the very new types of embroidery is that done in a heavy silk twist, so heavy and so firmly twisted as to appear like cord. This silk twist or cord is often used in a color contrasting with the serge of which the frock is made, to form a button-hole stitch all around the edges of panels, sleeves, collar and sometimes sash or belt, and with very good effect.

Simple Instructions for Making the Ever Handy Convenience Needed in Every Home.

A piece of blue and white flowered ribbon, half a yard in length and six inches wide, a bit of the same ribbon three and a half inches square, a bit of white satin ribbon of the same dimensions, a piece of white satin ribbon half a yard in length and two inches wide, a yard and a half of white silk cord, some white embroidery silk and a cardboard circle three inches in diameter, are all that are required for the manufacture of the bag itself.

The cardboard circle is covered on one side with the small piece of blue and white ribbon, and on the other with the white ribbon, the whole whipped neatly together with white sewing silk. This forms the bottom of the bag, with the blue and white ribbon on the outside and the white on the inside. To it is tacked the half-yard length of blue and white flowered ribbon. QUILTING IS EVER POPULAR

Style of Trimming Is Smart and Serves in Various Capacities to Add Beauty to Garments.

No manner of trimming is smarter than quilting this season, and beautiful quilting is quite as difficult to do as beautiful embroidery. The stitches must be tiny and perfectly even, and the lines of the pattern must be perfectly spaced, so that the design will show up effectively.

A very handsome frock of midnight blue taffeta, seen the other day, had a tunic bordered with 8 inches of quilting, and the pattern was repeated on the sleeves and on panels at back and front of the bodice.

To make quilting of this sort the material is underlaid with very thin sheet wadding, and the quilting stitches are set through the outer material and wadding. Then the quilted portion is faced with thin silk or with the material of the frock, if it is not too heavy. Quilted angora is especially smart just now. Vests of quilted angora show in the open fronts of new cape coats, and there are waistcoats of quilted angora for wear with street suits.

Such a waistcoat accompanies a taupe cheviot suit, the waistcoat being in lighter taupe shade, and the quilting is done with still lighter taupe silk. A blue cloth cape is lined with scarlet satin and has a blue angora vestee quilted elaborately with red silk.

NEAT NAVY BLUE SATIN GOWN

The stylishly dressed woman delight in having this navy blue satin gown with a loose panel weighed with fringe.

along the outside of the bag, with the white silk. Through this is drawn the white silk cord. The ends are cut and knotted and the outside of the bag is then finished. The white satin ribbon is hemmed neatly together and whipped along its lower edge to the inside of the bag, just above the cardboard bottom. Feathered stitching of the white silk, on the outside of the bag, divides the white satin ribbon into 10 neat little compartments, each with its pocket top left open.

Renovates Silk Embroidery.
Silk embroidery may be cleaned with a camel-hair brush dipped in spirits of wine and rubbed over the embroidery. The brush should be frequently rinsed in some spare spirit to remove the dirt. The embroidery need not be removed from the garment it trims.

A Camisole.
An unusually pretty camisole is a collection of pinkness, the top being of georgette, embroidered in flowers, and the lower part, beneath the hem-stitching, is satin.

HADLEY WILLING TO FORGET

Subject of Dislocated Jaw Seldom Selected for Conversation by Head of Yale University.

Arthur Hadley, president of Yale university, is an honored authority on many subjects, but he declines to include among them dislocated jaws. Thereby hangs this tale.

The educator was sharing his stateroom on a Fall River boat with a pleasant gentleman who had otherwise slept on a cot in the open cabin, when, well along toward morning, he heard, coming from the upper berth, sounds of gagging and gargling and moaning. Jumping up and switching on the light he saw his acquaintance was suffering greatly. His chin was on his breast, his mouth rigidly open, his eyes tight-closed and perspiration on his forehead.

"Be calm, sir," cried Mr. Hadley. "I know just what to do."

Wrapping a towel around his thumbs to save them from the release, he clambered up beside the man, knelt by his shoulders, began to work the jaw into its place—and then spent the rest of the night trying to explain himself! For it was only a case of nightmare.

Another Understatement.
In the Companion for May 9 there was a joke entitled "Well Within Bounds," which has reminded a reader of an accident of her youth.

We had a mean-tempered colt, she says, which we had all urged father to sell, but he would not. One morning when he was bedding down the animal it kicked him viciously. Several members of the family were in the barn, and they all ran to see if he had been hurt and to hear what he would say about such an unprovoked attack.

Father, who, by the way, was not a Yankee, picked himself up, rubbed his well-nigh fractured shin and remarked to the colt, "Well! Well! I'd think just as much of you if you hadn't done that!" and then went on with his work.—Youth's Companion.

Not Crazy With the Heat.

"Say, you," yelled the policeman at a fellow who walked smilingly by, arrayed in a light pair of trousers, a silk shirt, a panama hat, but with a pair of ear muffs on, as the mercury flattered around the 100 mark and threatened to go over the top at any moment. "What bug house did you escape from?"

"I didn't hear you," said the man, as he began to retrace his steps.

"I say, what's the idea of the ear decorations? Have you got a short circuit in your mental apparatus?"

The man grinned. "Now, nothing like that. Merely taking a precaution against hearin' too well. This is the open season for the boob who asks you if it's hot enough for you."

"Neither can I see it. But it's in the bank, all right."

"Not a bit. I never look at a thermometer."

This Rookie a Giant.

The last Worcester draft contingent included Edward T. Scanlon, the largest rookie sent by Massachusetts so far. He is six feet two inches tall, and weigh 287 pounds. He has a brother, James W. That Stumped Him.

I was taking the examination for the aviation signal corps when a young fellow came into the room to take the examination. While the sergeant was examining the one ahead of this man he was studying the letters on the eye card intently. The sergeant noticed it, so when he got to the eye test he said, so that all could hear him: "Well, I suppose you know this side pretty well by now, so I guess we will turn it around and read the other side."—Exchange.

YOU know the real human doctors right around in your neighborhood; the doctors made of flesh and blood just like you; the doctors with souls and hearts; those men who are responding to your call in the dead of night as readily as in the broad daylight; they are ready to tell you the good that Fletcher's Castoria has done, is doing and will do, from their experience and their love for children.

Fletcher's Castoria is nothing new. We are not asking you to try an experiment. We just want to impress upon you the importance of buying Fletcher's.

Your physician will tell you this, as he knows there are a number of imitations on the market, and he is particularly interested in the welfare of your baby.

HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES IF YOUR BACK ACHES

Do you feel tired and "worn-out"? Are you nervous and irritable? Don't sleep well at night? Have a "dragged out," unrested feeling when you get up in the morning? Dizzy spells? Bilious? Bad taste in the mouth, backache, pain or soreness in the loins, and abdomen? Severe distress when urinating, bloody, cloudy urine or sediment? All these indicate gravel or stone in the bladder, or that the poisonous microbes, which are always in your system, have attacked your kidneys.

You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately. The oil soaks gently into the walls and lining of the kidneys, and the little poisonous animal germs, which are causing the inflammation, are immediately attacked and chased out of your system without inconvenience or pain.

Don't ignore the "little pains and aches," especially backaches. They may be little now but there is no telling how soon a dangerous or fatal disease of which they are the forerunners may show itself. Go after the cause of that backache at once, or you may find yourself in the grip of an incurable disease.

Do not delay a minute. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. In 24 hours you will feel renewed health and vigor. After you have cured yourself, continue to take one or two Capsules each day so as to keep in first-class condition, and ward off the danger of future attacks. Money refunded if they do not help you. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand, and thus be sure of getting the genuine.—Adv.

MISS MAUDE L. BLANEY.

WOULDN'T UNDERSTAND

General Bullard or General Bundy, commanding the American forces at the Marne at the time the Germans were turned back, is credited with saying: "The American flag has been forced to retire. This is unendurable, and none of our soldiers would understand that not being asked to do whatever is necessary to repair a situation which is humiliating to us and unacceptable to our country's honor. We are going to counter-attack."

These were the boys who, in the face of a murderous machine gun fire, advanced to attack the Germans through a broad wheat-field, cleaned up the German machine gun nests, silenced their batteries, and captured the enemy positions; a feat the Germans had declared "impossible."

To these brave boys have been added thousands of other Americans who have shown themselves to be of the same caliber. In the St. Mihiel sector the Germans were driven back to the Hindenburg line, 20,000 prisoners taken, and also a great many guns and large quantities of supplies. Nobody but the Germans discounted the fighting spirit of the Americans, and the arguments adduced by our troops must now be convincing, even to the Huns.

The draft law, while one of the most equitable ever adopted, has not worked out, in New Mexico, quite as well as expected. Some counties have sent more than their just proportion because other counties have not sent enough. This is the fault of the local boards; in some cases, where politics has entered into calculations. Some politicians can't be honest even when the greatest crisis in our history exists and when every section, every community, should do its part.

RANGE CONDITIONS

Range conditions in this section are not as good as first reports indicated. Locally, stockmen hope to pull through, and in some particular localities grass is very good. A closer study of range conditions throughout the county, however, reveals the fact that the rains have been of a local nature, and a number of places report that practically no rain has fallen. Therefore, many stockmen will be compelled to ship out their stock to market or find pastures elsewhere.

The losses from drought have already been severe and large sums have been spent by our stockmen for feed.

These conditions are discouraging, especially when it is recalled that it was the local portions of the county that received as much rain as we enjoyed here. Prompt action will be necessary to prevent further serious losses.

TO ARMS, CITIZENS!

The immortal words of the French battle cry of freedom ring out again today to the American nation.

We are called upon to take up arms and fight to the death - if need be - for freedom, Justice and Those things that make life worth living.

In this profound crisis is the test of citizenship.

The highest form of duty is to fight with our armed forces - to have enough to eat, enough to wear, a few dollars in your pocket, and to devote the balance of your earning power - your life if need be - as an offering to your country.

The next best form of duty is to stay at home and produce - allowing yourself enough money to purchase the bare necessities of life and to conduct business, essential to the war, and to devote the balance of your earning power to your country in the form of subscriptions to Liberty Loans.

One or the other duty you must assume.

If you can bear arms you will do so.

If you are unable to bear arms you will supply the money and material for those who can - you will enable them to bear your arms for you.

TO ARMS, CITIZENS!

"WRITING HOME"

When the soldier is on duty he may employ and amuse himself in many ways, but one of the first things he is sure to do is to write to home folks. Writing paper, envelopes, ink and pens are furnished free to the men by the Army Y. M. C. A.

This is a picture of a "rush hour" of letter writing and magazine reading in a "Y" building in a large camp of the Southern Department.

THE MAN AT THE COUNTER

He is one of the busiest men in the world - the "Y" man at the counter. He is as much a part of the military scheme of things as "chow" and taps. At least the soldier thinks so. The counter is crowded all the time, and the man at the counter proves his versatility by answering a thousand varieties of questions, selling stamps, giving advice, distributing stationery, helping the boys send money home, passing out good cheer, handing out literature, and doing all the other things that a "Y" man is expected to do.

This is a typical counter scene in a Y. M. C. A. hut. The picture was taken at Camp Pike, near Little Rock, Ark., one of the large cantonments of the country.

To Lend the Way They Fight.

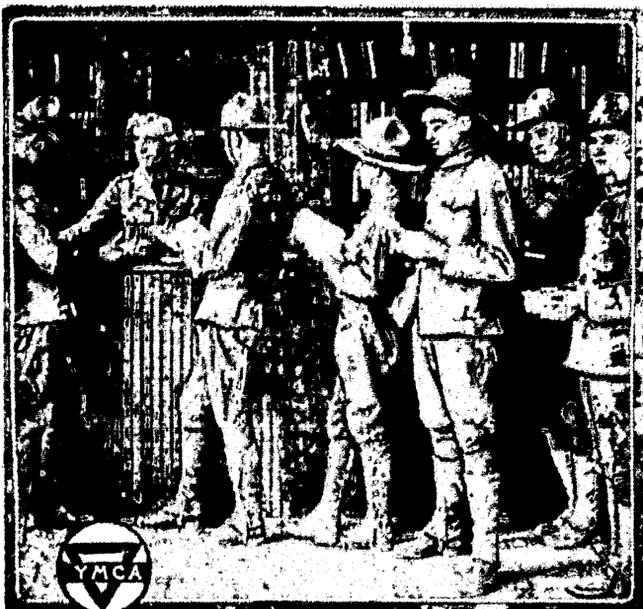

Dedicated to Our Boys "Over There"
By the Central Liberty Loan Organization Eleventh Federal Reserve District.

To lend the way they fight—for me,
What splendid lending that would be!
Such radiant strength of heart and hand
Lights up the waste of No Man's Land!
Such scorn of danger as they go,
With smile and song to meet the foe,
Such zeal to know the VICTORY won,
To know a soldier's duty done;
To lend the way they fight—for me,
What splendid lending that would be!

To lend the way they fight—for me,
What selfless lending that would be!
For ever through the battle's haze,
The bullets' hail, the field-guns' blaze,
They dream of home and love and life,
Of child and mother, sweetheart, wife;
For these they fight and laugh at pain,
And blind with blood fight on again;
To lend the way they fight—for me,
What selfless lending that would be!

To lend the way they fight—for me,
What glorious lending that would be!
For ever with them as they fight,
Flames out the great white sword of Right;
And up above the bursting shell
The pall of smoke, the war's red hell,
It writes some message in the sky,
That makes it even sweet to die;
To lend the way they fight—for me,
What glorious lending that would be!

FURNISHING BOOKS TO SOLDIERS

The American Library Association and the Army Y. M. C. A. cooperate in their plan to encourage good reading among soldiers. This is a corner of a Y. M. C. A. building in the Southern Department utilized as a library for the soldiers. "Foxy Grandpa" behind the counter is popular with the men, and each of the five hundred books in the little library are passed out on an average of twice each month. "Foxy Grandpa" has another responsibility. He presents a new khaki-covered new Testament to every soldier who asks for it, and a surprisingly large number of the men request the little book. In fact, most of the soldiers have made it a part of their equipment. They are furnished free by the Army Y. M. C. A.

LEND AS THEY HAVE GIVEN

By T. Q. MARTIN, Chairman Dallas County Registration Committee

It is unfortunate that the heart can be stirred in times like these by only the slightest calamity.

If appeals to reason could reach the deepest emotions, our Government would have all the money it needs.

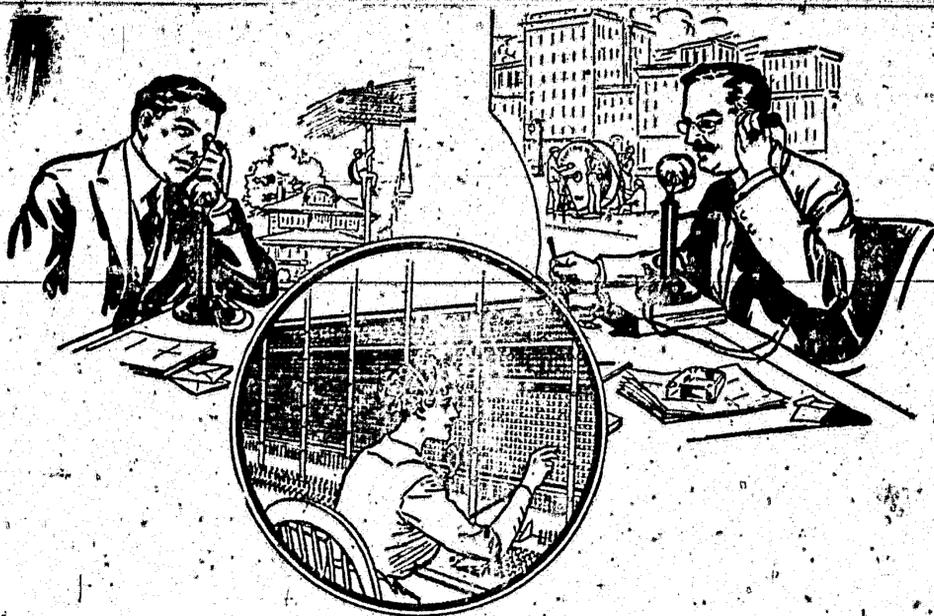

The torpedoing of one of our troop ships would bring it, in a grim determined hurry, but at the same time it would be perilous for our future. The wrath of our country would be kindled to the fury of hell, and we might commit some overt act that would count against us at the peace table. To avoid such a possible tragedy, and consequent result, it is the duty of every citizen to furnish our Government with all the funds it needs without the asking, so as to eliminate the enormous expense of these head driven and release for other war activities the splendid services of the hosts of men thus aroused.

I want to say a word to the hundred dollar a month man without dependents in an endeavor to bring him to a realization of his responsibility in this great war, which we will win; and what I say to him can be applied, in the same ratio, to every man earning one hundred and twenty-five dollars, and upwards, per month. It costs our Government close around eighty dollars per month to maintain each brave man that is fighting for the liberty of the world. Based upon the cost of the most menial labor the soldier is, at least, a hundred dollar man. He, therefore, is not only giving up his home ties; is not only offering his life, but he is actually giving our Government, with no expectancy of return or hope of reward, twenty dollars every month, in order that you may have an opportunity of earning your one hundred dollars per in perfect safety.

Are you giving twenty dollars per month to our Government to help win the war? No? Well, will you not lend our Government twenty dollars every month for the duration of the war at 4 1/2 per cent interest? Is it not the least you can do, and, honestly, is it not your duty to do the best you can?

After this war is won, probably before, there is going to be another Draft. A Draft Before the Board of Public Opinion, and all men are going to be classified. There will be a class for the miser and a class for the slacker, and—may God pity them, for their fellow-men will not.

Responsibility for Good Service

IT IS tremendously important in these days of stress that the public be given good telephone service. It is vital to the Government's progress.

The responsibility for telephone facilities rests with the company; but the public has a partnership in the responsibility for good telephone service.

There are three human factors involved in a telephone call, represented by the person calling, the operator and the person called. The quality of the service depends upon the cooperation of all three.

The operator can make the connection but no words can be heard at one end of the line if they are not properly spoken into the transmitter at the other end of the line; if they are not spoken distinctly to an attentive listener.

The public can serve the service by answering promptly, speaking distinctly into the transmitter, and listening attentively.

Many a kid brother is sporting his soldier brother's Sunday silk shirts and best serge suits these days, and brother doesn't mind, because he is wearing the very latest style for men—khaki of the regulation military cut. The Army Y. M. C. A. helps the rookie soldier with his civilian clothes problem. "Y" furnishes wrapping paper, and a "Y" man is on hand to help with the wrapping, furnishes the twine, and assists with the addressing of the bundles of "civies" (military parlance for civilian clothes). These bundles are sent back home to be packed in moth balls until after the war, or worn out by the kid brother.

Students Registrant Military Training

September 14, 1918, Captain J. C. Reid, U. S. A., addressed a letter to the newspapers of New Mexico, concerning combined schooling and military training, as follows: "Arrangements have been made whereby registrants may enter and continue courses heretofore begun in certain educational institutions in the state designated by the War Department as training schools for the Students' Army Training Corps. The schools in this state which have been designated are the A. & M. College at Las Cruces, New Mexico, the State University at Albuquerque, and the New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell.

"Registrants who are qualified for general military service and are graduates of the eighth grade or higher will be inducted into the service and have schooling and military training until such time as they are called for active service. Any registrants being interested in continuing in a school and at the same time securing military training should immediately address the president or superintendent of one of the above named institutions on the subject."

War Savings Societies Organizing

East Las Vegas, N. M., Sept. 19.—The War Savings society is the most active and effective influence yet found for encouraging persistent, systematic buying of War Savings Stamps, according to Hallett Reynolds, state director of War Savings for New Mexico. As the result of an active personal campaign carried out by Mr. Reynolds and his assistant, G. J. Wolf, societies have now been organized in nearly every county in the state. Raton alone has 24, Albuquerque has 10, and there are two or more in Clayton, Taos, Gallup, Clovis, Carlsbad, Artesia, and many other towns. It is expected that the number of these societies in the state will reach 1,000 by October 1st. Membership in the War Savings society involves no obligation of membership dues, but simply a pledge to buy War Savings Stamps regularly according to the means of the individual.

You Can't Eat Meat 100 Miles Away. Preparing meat is only a part of Swift & Company's usefulness. The finest meat in the world wouldn't do you any good one hundred miles away from your table. Swift & Company efficiency has made it possible to place complete lines of products in the smallest and most remote communities. To be sure the work is done well Swift & Company, through its branch houses and car routes, brings the meat to the retail dealer for you. Swift & Company lays out car routes covering towns—big, little, medium size—which are not served by a Swift branch house. Salesmen find out in advance what is wanted by the dealers in every town. They are followed by refrigerator cars loaded with retailers' orders, which are delivered at each town—fresh, clean, and sweet—once or twice each week. Swift & Company operates a large number of car routes like this, from fourteen distributing plants. This is a necessary and natural part of the packer's usefulness. It fits into the industry in an orderly, effective way. It makes better meat cheaper from one end of the land to the other. Swift & Company, U. S. A.

Finds Million Are Consumptive

National Tuberculosis Association Asks for Plans for Cheaper Hospital Buildings

Need for increase of hospital facilities to accommodate tuberculous persons, said to number more than a million in the United States, is asserted in a statement issued by the National Tuberculosis association. The statement says in part:

"It was recently reported that the capital issues committee would probably not approve anything except the most inexpensive temporary structures. The association feared it might mean the holding up for the duration of the war of any increase in hospital accommodations.

"Something more than a million persons are now suffering from this disease in the United States, and the previous shortage in accommodations has been rendered more acute by the problem of providing proper care for men rejected in the draft.

"We have gone into the question with the capital issues committee and find that the attitude of its members is one of open-mindedness. The committee does not pass upon building projects which do not require the issuance of bonds, or those which can be covered by capital issues not exceeding $100,000. Permanent structures may be approved if the difference in cost is not too large.

"Plans and estimates as to the most economical types of permanent buildings and of practicable temporary structures have been requested, to submit to the capital issues committee.

Jim Vaughn Has a Varied Assortment of Curves and Is Puzzling Hard Hitters

"Is Vaughn as great a pitcher as Alexander?" Bill Killefer, who ought to know a great deal about it, says "Yes." Bill was the battery mate of Alex the Great. He also has officiated behind the plate donning the mask and spanglers when Hippo is on the hill.

Batsmen would rather see almost anyone on the firing line than Vaughn.

Jim Vaughn.

The brawny southpaw of Mitchell's staff has averaged about five strikeouts a game this season. "Alexander is a wonderful pitcher," said Killefer recently. "So is Vaughn. I've handled them both and, take it from me, there's little to choose between the pair. Vaughn is the equal of Alexander, all things considered, but their styles are different. Alex is a side-arm pitcher. Vaughn has a varied assortment of curves and he has a great hook that is puzzling to batsmen."

Illinois Alienists Alarmed At Increase of Insanity and Exert Effort to Effect Cures

Insanity in Illinois has increased to such an extent that the heads of the hospitals for the mentally afflicted are exerting every effort to effect cures among the patients in their charge and thus relieve the pressure for accommodations. Statistics compiled indicate that the number of cases have increased 33 per cent in ten years, far greater than the increase in population.

This ratio of increase, if maintained for 50 years, means that at the end of that period there will be 75,000 inmates, while in 100 years it will advance to the enormous number of 300,000. In every decennial period of the century the percentage of increase in insanity has been greater than that of the population. Illinois is now paying out $3,000,000 each year to care for its insane, about $900 per capita.

If the expert alienists are not successful in reducing this number, it is computed that in 100 years 28 hospitals will be needed, costing approximately $78,000,000, while the annual expense of operation will jump to approximately $25,000,000. Minimization of social diseases through a state-wide campaign has been advocated as an effective means to checking insanity. Under the present law and means at hand there is no adequate method to do preventive work outside of the various institutions. Motives are being made to stimulate interest in such educational effort as an economic proposition, an avenue of prevention being fully worth a pound of cure.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

For she must boil, And she must broil, And she must toll, And for the sake of the home.

Favorite Dishes.
We cannot all like these dishes equally well; but no doubt we may find one of which we may approve.

Flank Steak.
Take one and a quarter pounds of flank steak, slash with a sharp knife on both sides, sprinkle with flour, a half-teaspoonful of curry powder, salt and pepper to taste. Pound these seasonings well into the meat and then put into a hot frying pan with a tablespoonful of sweet fat. Add two cupsful of water, cover and let simmer slowly for an hour, adding more water as needed. If cooked at a low temperature the meat will be tender and juicy with a rich brown gravy. A delicious sauce to serve with this is creole sauce.

Creole Sauce.
Slice fine two medium sized onions, two green peppers, two ounces of lean ham and a clove of garlic. Fry five minutes and then add half a can of tomatoes, two bay leaves, four cloves and eight allspice. Let come to the boiling point, thicken slightly with cornstarch, cook until smooth, add a dash of red pepper or a fresh one finely chopped. Mushrooms will improve the sauce, not adding to the expense if gathered from the fields.

Orange and Lemon Sherbet.
To the juice and rind of three oranges and one lemon add a cupful of honey and a pint of cream; freeze as usual. For very nice occasions serve in halves of oranges or of grapefruit.

Cream Tarts.
Beat the yolks of six eggs, add a cupful of sugar and three tablespoonfuls of fine bread crumbs which have been sifted, with a teaspoonful of baking powder. Add a half-pound of dates, cut fine; a half pound of walnuts and the well-beaten whites of the eggs. Flavor with spices and bake in layers. Pat together with sweetened and flavored whipped cream.

Pineapple Fluff.
Beat the whites of three eggs until stiff, add three tablespoonfuls of grated pineapple. Beat together and put into slightly buttered cups. Fill the cups and set them in hot water and bake a light brown. Turn out of the cups and serve with whipped cream. Garnish with a little preserved pineapple.

Codfish a la Mode.
Take a cupful of shredded codfish, two cupfuls of mashed potatoes, a pint of milk and two eggs well beaten, a half cupful of sweet fat and pepper and salt; mix well and bake in a buttered baking dish 30 minutes.

New Erie Canal, 340 Miles Long, From Troy to Buffalo

The new Erie canal extends across New York state from Troy to Buffalo, a distance of 340 miles. From Troy it follows the line of the Hudson river to Waterford. Turning west it follows the line of the Mohawk river to a point beyond Little Falls. West of this point it follows the route of the old canal, but passes north of Utica on a new line, thence south of Rome and through Oneida lake. From there it follows the Onondaga river to the Seneca river at Three River point, and on through the Clyde river to a point east of Lyons. From there the old canal route is followed beyond Pittsford. Here the channel leaves the old route, crosses the Genesee river about a mile south of Rochester, joins the line of the old canal a few miles west and continues through the old channel to and through Tonawanda creek to Tonawanda on the Niagara river, which is followed to Lake Erie at Buffalo.

Signs Forbidding Peasants From Taking Potatoes, Plan To Induce Eating of Tubers

Although potatoes were early introduced into Europe by the Spaniards, they did not come in quantity for many years. The English found them in Virginia, but it is believed that the Spaniards brought them to that colony from further south.

The first attempt to introduce them into France was due to a well-known scientific authority named Parmentier. This was in the seventeenth century, says Popular Science Monthly. He imported some of the plants, set them out in a field near Paris, and by means of learned pamphlets and talk with the people tried to have the new vegetable brought into cultivation and the market.

But it was all in vain. Potatoes did not prove attractive, and when the planted ones matured it seemed that they would rot in the ground on account of the prejudice against them.

Then some wise man who knew human nature—a student of psychology, with practical ideas—suggested that peasants could not be made to try potatoes by persuasion, but might be led to adopt them if they were forbidden to eat them.

His idea was adopted. Many signs were painted and erected in plain sight, forbidding under severe penalties anyone from taking any potatoes from the field.

The peasants at once began to raid the hills, and before long most of the ripe tubers were stolen and eaten with relish.

SMILES FOR ALL

To and For.
"Everything I have in this world I owe to my wife."

"I'm almost like you, too. Everything I owe for in this world my wife bought."

Giving Details.
"Kitty married a man a good deal older than she is, so I hear."

"Older! Why he's twice her real age and three times the age she says she is."

Easily Arranged.
"How are we going to get any quotations out of these press notices?" asked the theater's advertising man.

"The most generous of them says, 'This is not a very good show.'"

"Well," replied the manager, "for billboard purposes you'll have to condense it a little."

"How?"
"Just leave out the word 'not.'"

Very Necessary.
A rotund gentleman with a perennial smile had to have his daily joke as he meandered into his club.

"I have here the most valuable motorcar accessory ever invented," he remarked.

"What is it?" asked a tall, thin gentleman.

"A bankbook," replied the first speaker.

Cause and Effect.
"That famous financier has such an angular countenance."

"No wonder; he made himself by corners."

Such is Love.
"Too bad about Jack and the girl he's engaged to. Neither of them is good enough for the other."

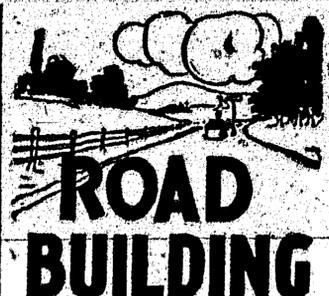

"Where did you get that idea?"
"I've been talking the matter over with both families."

Barren.
Citizen—Unless I am mistaken, you are the party I gave 10 cents to yesterday.

Beggar—I am, sir. Did you think a dime would make a new man of me?

Blonde—I hear that young Minkley has lost his head over Miss Lovely.

Brunet—Then that must be why he asked for her head.

ROAD BUILDING

MAINTENANCE IS A PROBLEM

Under Constant Flow of Heavy Traffic Main Trunk Lines Have Been Badly Broken Up.

Following the extension of the use of motortrucks for overland travel in the endeavor to relieve the railroads of the burden of strenuous wartime traffic, under which they have been laboring, it is but natural that the question of highway maintenance should come up for attention at this time.

It is now conceded that much has been done through the use of motor-propelled vehicles over the through connected highways of the country for the purposes mentioned above. Literally thousands of heavy motor-trucks are now upon the road, materially speeding up the delivery of wartime necessities. The Lincoln highway, particularly in the Eastern states, has proved a high value over and over again; other trunk highways have also been called upon to carry an exceptional burden of this freight traffic. This movement has all been carried on with the absolute approval of the federal government, and more, through the activities of the highway transport committee of the council of national defense, a further extension of this use of our public highways is being urged.

Under this constant flow of traffic the Lincoln highway, and certain other roads in the East, are rapidly breaking down, the road surface rapidly disintegrating under the pressure of the driving wheels of the massive trucks. Up to the time when truck trains were started over the roads, the Lincoln highway in its entirety across the state of Pennsylvania, was a veritable boulevard; its surface was, in the main, macadam; the road was the pride of the state of Pennsylvania; large sums were expended in its careful maintenance—expended by the state, and the highway well served its purpose in carrying local and tourist traffic in relatively light vehicles. Similar conditions applied along the Lincoln highway in New Jersey.

The argument is advocated at this time that, despite the inclination of local authorities to do everything within their power in a patriotic endeavor to further wartime interests, it is scarcely fair to expect the county and state authorities to maintain such main traveled routes as the Lincoln highway, in their pre-war condition, under the heavy traffic of constantly moving government vehicles. Government aid is solicited to keep the roads at their best.

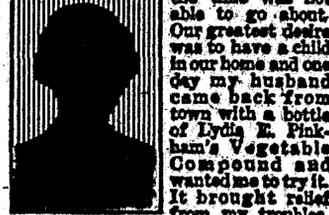

So persistent have become complaints to congress that the highways of the country have been badly damaged by motortruck traffic that some members, especially those serving on committees dealing with the nation's financial affairs, are making a thorough study to determine how the situation can best be met. As a result it is expected that congress will soon receive requests to make appropriations running into the millions. The house committee on ways and means has already given some consideration concerning aid to be given the states in road improvement. It is but reasonable to expect that the federal government will take such steps as are necessary for an equitable apportionment of the burden of expense of maintaining such important routes of travel as the Lincoln highway.

Good Roads Will Help.
Good roads will help win the war—don't neglect them.

HE WAS THERE TO SLEEP

And a Little Thing Like the Building Burning Couldn't Rouse "Dutch" From Slumber.

At camp "Dutch," as he was called, was reputedly the biggest sleepyhead and most absent-minded individual existing.

One night "Dutch" was, as usual, in blissful repose, when some of the buildings in the barracks caught fire and the alarm was spread rapidly to all parts of the camp, and the fire finally came alarmingly near the bunk where "Dutch" was dreaming of shooting the Hun into Hades.

In his sleep "Dutch" finally got up and wandered to another part of the barracks, where he crawled into someone's bunk and peacefully slept on amid the roar and clatter, flames and smoke.

Not until long after the building had burned to the ground and only cinders and ashes were left did any one think of "Dutch." After a prolonged search they finally found him, sweetly and blissfully sleeping with the cover pulled up around his chin like an innocent babe, and closely clasping in either hand his girl's picture and a safety razor.

Wasn't So Very Wrong.
Food Regulator Merritt was discussing the high cost of living and other things, and remarked, "The fluctuations come so fast that it is impossible to keep an accurate line on prices. We are all in the same position as the small boy who said to his mother:

"Why do hats cost more than houses, mamma?"

"But they don't dear. What made you think so?"

"Well, that sign says 'Hats, $10 up,' and yesterday I saw a sign that said 'Houses, $10 down.'"

Its Extent.
"My teacher gave me an awful call down because I used inter for interva, was that such a bad mistake, pop?"

"Well, my son, I would call it a grave sort of mistake."

THROWS "BABY" AT FOE'S SUBMARINE

"Woman" on British Decey Ship Decorated for Outwitting Germans.

BLOWS UP THE U-BOAT

Interesting Revelations Made Regarding Work of British Mystery Ships—Which Play Important Part in Anti-Submarine Warfare.

London.—Interesting revelations regarding the work of British mystery ships—which have played an important part in anti-submarine warfare are made by the navy correspondent of the Times. They show how British seamen have met German craft and cunning with British craft and cunning.

Until this week the public has known nothing about the mystery ships, known in the navy as the "Q" ships, although several officers, notably Capt. Gordon Campbell, have been decorated for their services on these vessels. Details now can be made public, as the Germans are becoming aware through bitter experience of the methods used against them.

"Baby" Blows Up Diver.

How a "woman and baby" accounted for a U-boat is told by the correspondent. The submarine ordered a vessel to surrender and fired a few shells into it. The boats then left the ship, leaving on board a woman who ran up and down the deck with a baby in her arms, as if mad.

The U-boat came alongside the vessel and the woman hurried the "baby" into the open hatch. The "baby" exploded and blew out the bottom of the submarine. The "woman" was decorated with the Victoria cross.

The correspondent says that the first mention of a mystery ship was in the case of the Baralong, which on August 10, 1915, sank a U-boat after the torpedoing of the British liner Arabic.

It will be remembered, he says, that the German government protested that there was nothing to indicate the Baralong's warlike character. The Baralong case was probably not the first in which a ruse was used, and since then the disguising of armed vessels as innocent merchantmen for dealing with submarines has attained considerable dimensions.

"Howls and moans," adds the naval correspondent, "went up in Germany about the treachery of British seamen, but the German allegations curiously ceased at the beginning of 1916. These allegations afforded a typical example of German mentality, for they ignored the fact that in every case the U-boat was an actual or potential assailant and any ruse of war is considered legitimate by them except when employed against Germany."

It should not be forgotten, he continues, that the Germans designed mystery ships for commerce destruction. The British commanders showed much ingenuity in devising plans for trapping submarines.

Haystack Is Floating Fort.

In addition to the "woman and baby" case, the correspondent mentions the story of a retired admiral, serving as a captain, who placed a haystack on board an ancient-looking craft. When the U-boat ordered her to surrender the Germans were astonished to receive a broadside from the haystack.

On another occasion a sea-worn tramp steamer was crossing the North sea when a submarine ordered the crew to abandon ship. So sure was the German of his prey that the bombs with which he intended to sink the vessel were brought on deck around the conning tower.

The commander of the tramp steamer by careful maneuvering brought the submarine within range of his concealed armament so that it required only a shell or two to explode the bombs and blow the U-boat out of the water.

Capt. Gordon O. L. Campbell, then a commander, was decorated with the Victoria cross and the D. S. O. in 1916, being the first to receive these orders without the nature of his heroic deed being made public. It was announced early in 1917 that the reason for his decorations would be made public after the war. He was given special promotion over the heads of about 700 officers, and current rumor in London in July, 1917, ascribed his rapid rise to work against the submarine. Captain Campbell gained the military cross for bravery in handling a tank when that weapon was first used by the British in the summer of 1916.

TANK UNIT IS READY

With the American Army in England.—Another consignment of American man power, that might be labeled "Made in England," is ready for shipment to the western front. It is the personnel of the first American tank battalion.

Trained by veterans of the British tank services and equipped with the most modern of the land war ships, the new force will give an excellent account of itself. The British coaches of the American crews have expressed their approval of the manner in which their pupils have adapted themselves to the operation of the machines and, unless they are mistaken, the men whose training in England is just being completed will be given enviable roles. Their machines have the best points of both the British and French tanks and the training of the men has been in the light of experience already gained by the fighters of France and England.

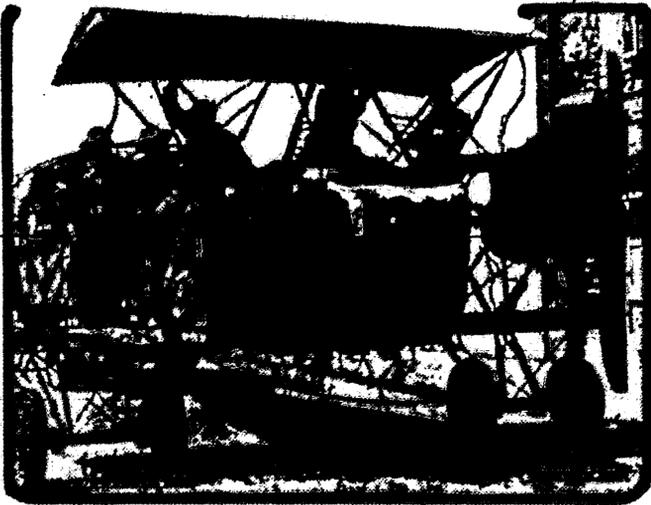

To every man in the American outfit there have been imparted the stories of mistakes made in the early history of tank warfare. Enlisted men and officers have been told what to do and what not to do; all their admonitions have been based not on theory but on actual experiences, gained in the face of German fire.

It is expected that because of the excellence of the weapon with which it will fight and the training it has undergone the American contingent will prove itself exceptionally efficient.

Further cause for believing the American Tank Corps will live up to the estimate of the British instructors is the character of its personnel, both men and officers. They are carefully selected men, picked from the thousands who volunteered when the call for tank men was made. Two basic requisites were insisted upon: First, every man must be physically fit and, second, temperamentally adaptable. The training every man has received has meant either that he is delivered to the commanders at the front as a wonderfully efficient unit or is mercilessly thrown out of the service. He is turned over to the fighting force as an expert mechanic, a man drilled in the operation of both machine guns and heavier ordnance, a tactician and strategist, and, finally, as a man with no evidence of "nerves."

With the American Army in England.—When a soldier leaves the United States he should not feel certain he is going to win glory on the battlefield in France. part of the big army machine he is going to fit.

There are in England camps where every man who passes through is "trade indexed." This is especially true of one camp, where a large part of the airmen and motor transport forces arrive shortly after debarkation. The records accompanying them show what the men have been doing in civil life, and a further examination of them and a scrutiny of the demands often detouring the part they are to take, sometimes only for temporary duty but in some cases for an indefinite period.

From this lot are selected the men who will go into the big repair shops at once. Men experienced in electrical work are sent to stations where their services is most needed. Orders for automobile experts are filled and not infrequently the men in command of the station are called upon to supply men for following, for a time at least, exactly the same kind of work they were doing in the United States before their numbers in the draft were called.

Officers engaged in fixing the trade index of the army have boasted that from the ranks of the National army there may be found men who can do any class of work required.

NEVER TARDY IN 50 YEARS

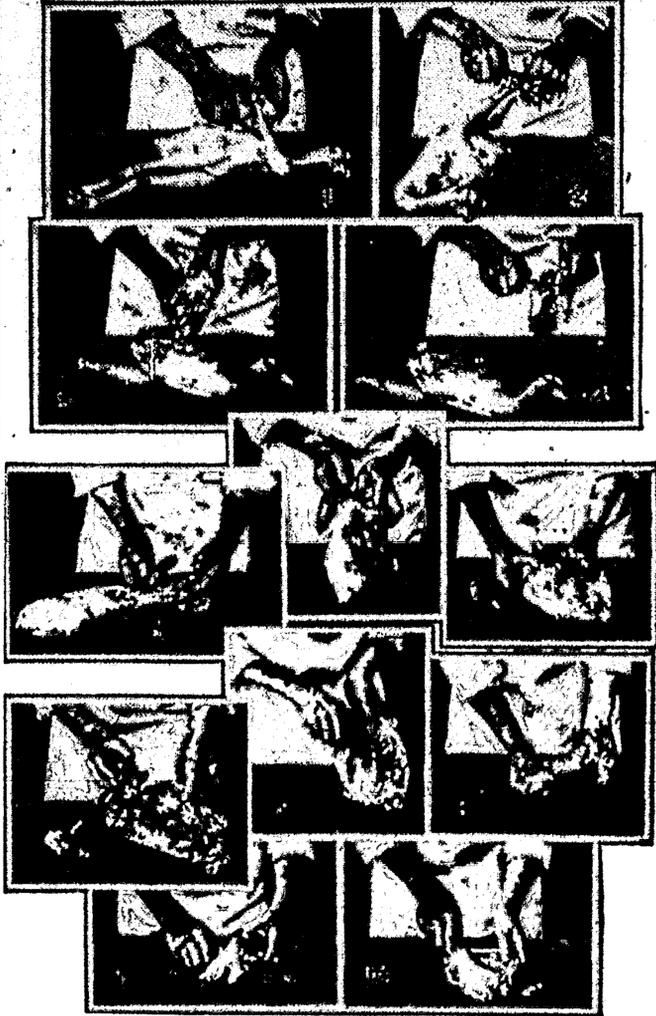

Connecticut Man Prided Himself That He Had Never Been Late at Work.

New Britain, Conn.—Henry Goodrich, aged ninety-four, who died recently at his home here and who required ten years ago after being employed for 50 years by the P. & F. When the recent daylight saving plan resulted in the pushing of the clock one hour ahead Mr. Goodrich refused to comply with the government ruling, saying that he had lived 54 years with the clock on the same schedule and saw no need of changing it.

CLEANING A CHICKEN

Steps in Cleaning and Cutting Up a Chicken.

HOW TO CUT AND DRAW A CHICKEN

Simple Method is Outlined That Makes the Best of a Very Unpleasant Task.

REAL ART IN PREPARATION

Housewife's Everlasting Bugaboo Loses Half Its Terrors When Plan Shown in Illustration is Followed Carefully.

Cleaning chickens—the housewife's everlasting bugaboo—loses half its terrors when done by this quick and economical method. There is a real art in drawing and cutting up a chicken for cooking or canning. By carefully following the directions given here, the entire digestive tract is removed without coming in contact with the meat; and the flesh and bones from a whole bird may be fitted neatly into a quart jar.

The bird should not be fed for 24 hours before killing. It should be killed by sticking in the roof of the mouth and picked dry. When the feathers have been removed and the pin feathers drawn, the bird should be cooled rapidly. As soon as it has been properly cooled it should be singed and washed carefully with a brush and light soap suds, if necessary.

Cutting Up and Drawing.

1. Remove the wings after cutting off the tips at the first joint.
2. Remove the foot, cutting at the knee joint.
3. Remove the leg at the hip or saddle joint.
4. Cut through the connecting joint to separate the thigh from the leg.
5. Cut through the neck bone at the head with a sharp knife, being careful not to cut the windpipe or gullet. With the index finger separate the windpipe and gullet from the neck, and cut through the skin to the wing opening. Leave the head attached to the windpipe and gullet and loosen these from the neck down as far as the crop.
6. With a sharpened knife cut around the shoulder blade, pull it out of position and break it.
7. Find the white spots on the ribs and cut along them through the ribs. Cut back to and around the vent and loosen it.

8. Leaving the head attached, loosen the windpipe, gullet and crop, and remove the digestive tract from the bird, pulling it back toward the vent. Remove the lungs and kidneys with the point of a knife and cut off the neck close to the body.

9. Cut through the backbone at the joint or just above the diaphragm and remove the oil sack.

10. Separate the breast from the backbone by cutting through on the white spots and break.

11. Cut in sharp at the point of the breastbone, cutting away the wishbone and also taking with it the meat.

12. Cut the fillet from each side of the breastbone. Bend in the bones of the breastbone.

Packing for Canning.

Use a quart jar. Pack the saddle with a thigh inside; the backbone and ribs with a leg inside, the leg large end downward, alongside the breastbone; the wings; the wishbone; the fillets; the neckbone. Do not pack the giblets with the meat.

Directions for the home canning of chicken, meats, soups, fruits and vegetables may be found in Farmers' Bulletins of the United States department of agriculture, and will be supplied free of charge to anyone writing for them to the division of publications.

CAN YOUR COCKERELS.

This is the season when it no longer pays to feed the males of the early hatches. Will you send them to market or eat them at home?

Can the cockerels and put a row of good chicken dinners on your pantry shelf for winter days, when the price of poultry goes still higher.

Cull the Flocks.

Much of the poultry now raised on the farm and in the back-yard flock is not as profitable as it should be. The estimated production of the average hen is not over 85 eggs per year. During 1915 about 2,000 hens under close observation in contest in this country laid on the average 151 eggs. Since these hens varied from nothing to 314 in their production, it is evident that the 151 eggs are not the maximum obtainable. All poultry raisers should cull their flocks and keep only the best layers. A study of the principles of breeding, care and feeding will enable poultry keepers to accomplish this result.

Lloyd George, the British premier, who has been quite ill, sent a note of congratulation to General Pershing on the magnificent victory gained by the Americans in Lorraine. The premier declared the news of the victory was "better and infinitely more palatable than any medicine"; to which the American commander sent the following telegram in reply:

"Your congratulations are deeply appreciated. It shall be the endeavor of the American army to supply you with occasional doses of the same sort of medicine as needed from now until the final victory has been attained. I trust this will find you fully recovered from your illness."

To Work American Mine At Nogal

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fulmer, Jr. and J. H. Fulmer III came in this week from Chicago. Mr. Fulmer is president of the Parsons Mining company and has devoted much time and money to its development. The company, in addition to operating the Parsons property, is preparing to work the American mine at Nogal.

The American is regarded as one of the best gold properties in the state, but litigation and other difficulties have prevented the working of the mine for several years. It will require considerable time to dewater the mine and install the necessary machinery, after which we hope to hear of some profitable results.

Lute Jennings and family are preparing to leave for Arizona. Naturally, old friends do not expect the Jennings to long remain away from Lincoln county.

We had occasion the past week to go over the Carrizozo-Roswell road and were delighted with the condition of the road in the Lincoln-Honda country. Peter Burison has charge of the work and is building a first class road and doing it at a nominal cost. It is well rounded up and surfaced. He is continuing the work toward Capitán.

We sell wagons at cost. The Carrizozo Trading Co.
