Probate Clerk

OLDEST AND LEADING NEWSPAPER IN CIRCULATION IN THE COUNTY OF LINCOLN, NEW MEXICO

VOLUME 20 | CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, MAY 2, 1919. | NUMBER 18

Former Kaiser and Others To Be Tried

Washington, April 28.—The trial of the former German emperor for "a supreme offense against international morality and the sanctity of treaties" has been determined upon by the allied and associated powers. Holland will be requested to surrender the royal refugee for arraignment before a court composed of five judges named by the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

The state department made public today proposed articles for insertion in the peace treaty, to be considered this afternoon by the peace conference in plenary session, providing for the trial of William II of Hohenzollern, and also requiring Germany to deliver all persons within its borders charged with having exercised acts in violation of the laws and customs of war, for arraignment before military tribunals of the allied and associated powers whose nationals suffered through such offenses.

Thus the peace conference commission on responsibility for the war has solved its most weighty problems. The state department's announcement of the solution was received here generally with surprise, because it was known that Secretary Lansing, chairman of the commission, had steadfastly opposed any attempt to bring the former kaiser before an international tribunal. Mr. Lansing contended there was no law by which such an offender could be reached by the conference and that it would be contrary to the constitution of the United States for the American delegates to participate in the the execution of a sort of international ex post facto law. At that time, however, it was proposed to charge criminal and military offenses, and it was suggested today that the decision to base the indictment upon violation of international morality and the sanctity of treaties was taken to meet the American viewpoint.

Specific provision for punishment of individual enemy officers and officials who order or permit violations of the established rules of war is found in "rules of land warfare," the official handbook of the United States government on this subject. Under the head of "Punishment of individuals," the following passage occurs:

"Commanders ordering commission of such acts, or under whose authority they are committed, may be punished by the belligerent into whose hands they fall."

Offenses levied against the military forces of the central powers, it was said, may be grouped under three general heads: Crimes against opposing armies; crimes against opponents in marine industry; crimes against non-combatants and civilians.

Under the first group would come the employing of "projectiles which have for their object the diffusion of asphyxiating or deleterious gases," prohibited in the Hague convention of 1899; use of muskroon bullets and other weapons leading to useless unnecessary suffering, prohibited in the Hague convention of 1907; destruction of Red Cross and hospital personnel and material; pollution of water supply sources and mines of dugout traps.

Crimes committed by the enemy's naval forces which would render individual officers culpable would include the sinking without warning of merchant craft, declaration under any conditions of hospital ships, bombardment of undefended ports and sinking of life boats and rafts laden with survivors.

Offenses against civilian populations of occupied districts prohibited strictly in the American manual, include:

Imprisoning enemy subjects en masse; expulsion of civilians from occupied territory; use of prisoner labor on operations directly connected with the war; internment under conditions of hardship; compulsory enlistment; debasement of currency; wanton destruction of property; abrogation of civil government.

While the punishment to be inflicted for such violations is not set forth in "rules of land warfare," reference is made to the severe penalties to be imposed in cases where American officers or enlisted men are guilty of any of the crimes mentioned. It is thought probable that, in cases where a military tribunal representing the United States was sitting, the procedure laid down to govern army court martials would be followed and the penalties in every case would be the same as provided while the defendant is a member of the military establishment of this country."

The manner in which the state department follows:

"Following are the proposed articles regarding penalties, for insertion in treaty of peace to be considered at plenary session of conference today, Monday, April 28th, 3 p. m., Paris time.

"Article One—The allied and associated powers publicly arraign William II of Hohenzollern, formerly German emperor, not for an offense against criminal law but for a supreme offense against international morality and the sanctity of treaties.

"A special tribunal will be constituted to try the accused, thereby assuring him the guarantees essential to the right of defense. It will be composed of five judges, one appointed by each of the following powers, namely: United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

"In its decision the tribunal will be guided by the highest motives of international policy with a view to vindicating the solemn obligations of international undertakings and the validity of international morality. It will be its duty to fix the punishment which it considers should be imposed.

"The allied and associated powers will address a request to the government of the Netherlands for the surrender to them of the ex-emperor, in order that he may be put on trial.

"Article II—The German government not having caused the punishment of the persons accused of having committed acts in violation of the laws and customs of war, such persons will be brought before military tribunals, of the allied and associated powers, and if found guilty, sentenced to the punishments laid down by military law.

"The German government shall hand over to the allied and associated powers or to such one of them as shall so require, all persons accused of having committed an act in violation of the laws and customs of war who are specified either by name, or by the rank, office or employment which they held under the German authorities.

"Article III—Persons found guilty of criminal acts against the nationals of one of the allied and associated powers will be brought before the military tribunal of that power.

"Persons guilty of criminal acts against the nationals of more than one of the allied and associated powers will be brought before military tribunals composed of members of the military tribunals of the powers concerned.

"In all cases the accused will be entitled to name his own counsel.

"Article IV—The German government undertakes to furnish all documents and information of every kind, the production of which may be deemed necessary to insure the full knowledge of the facts incriminated, and the discovery of offenders and the exact appreciation of the responsibilities.

"The German government undertakes to address a request to the government of the Netherlands for the surrender to them of the ex-emperor, in order that he may be put on trial.

"Article V—The German government undertakes to recognize the military tribunal which will be set up by each of the following powers, namely: United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

"In the event of the non-establishment by the Netherlands of the surrender to them of the ex-emperor, the tribunal will be composed of five judges appointed by each of the following powers, namely: United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

"The tribunal will be guided by the principles which the constitutional authorities of the allied and associated powers apply to their own military courts."

Parsons Paragraphs

The eight months school term expired Friday, April 18, and instead of the usual closing exercises the event was celebrated by a community picnic and dinner was spread under a big pine tree on Turkey creek. Men ploughing in nearby fields, as well as those working at the sawmill, joined the picnicers, and all enjoyed the ample refreshments furnished by the ladies of the party.

Although there were fewer pupils in the Parsons school this year than for some time, Miss Cook, the teacher, was as conscientious as if she had had a larger number to work with and the advancement made by the children is a source of pride to and gratitude from the parents. They, in appreciation of work well done, have invited Miss Cook to take the school for another year.

Mr. Vincent moved his family last week into the Byrd house in Tarbark canon.

Mrs. James Robinson and children have gone to the Ruidoso to be with Mrs. Robinson's mother, who is very ill. Mrs. Robinson was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Doris Gray of Three Rivers.

James Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Wells were visitors in Carrizozo this week.

Mrs. Eric Brunell of the American mine was a guest last week of Mrs. J. H. Fulmer.

Motoring parties from Capitan and Carrizozo are taking advantage of the good weather and passable roads to enjoy picnic dinners along the Bonito.

Mrs. De Arman and a party of young people enjoyed an Easter egg hunt up South Fork Saturday.

Mr. Herbert Reddy and family made their annual move last week. This time it is into the Jennings house. We are glad to have the Jennings back in the Parsons neighborhood again.

Those interested in Red Cross work met at the house of Mrs. Rice last Saturday and sewed on hospital garments.

Foot Amputated

I. E. Schaeffer, who has been in Hotel Dieu, El Paso, the past three weeks, underwent a second operation this week. His foot was amputated, the grafting process attempted by the first operation having been unsuccessful. The unfortunate patient, who has had far more than his share of suffering, was reported doing well. Gene lost his other foot eighteen months ago in a railroad accident.

Manager Dingwall has arranged for one performance Monday, May 5, of the famous Reese Bros. minstrels and Jubilee singers. Big 2-hour show, a musical production.

Vera Cruz Milling

The Vera Cruz mill is now going night and day on a good grade of ore from the mine. An additional mill has been ordered and when installed will double the capacity of the plant. The values are being saved by the mill, and the operators feel confident the returns will be even better than the tests have indicated. A new body of higher grade ore than formerly uncovered has been encountered, and this will give better returns than at first believed.

Sunday's Ball Game

The El Paso & Southwestern shop team came up from El Paso Sunday to meet the local nine on the home diamond. It was not only the first game of this season, it was the first for two seasons, and attracted a very good crowd, several from different points of the county coming in to witness the game.

Aside from a few errors it was a splendid game, as shown by the score—3 to 2 in favor of the visiting team. The local boys had the visitors going at one stage of the game and had the game all but won. A costly error or two and a little bad luck turned the scale in favor of the visitors, and at the conclusion of the game the score stood as given above.

The batteries were:

El Paso, Mendez and Chacon; Carrizozo, H. Norman and W. Norman.

District Court

The regular spring term of District court convened Monday, Judge Edwin Mechem presiding. The judge arrived Sunday afternoon and all other court officials, not already here, came in that night, viz., Benson Newell, court reporter, and P. S. Pedregan, interpreter. The district attorney, sheriff and clerk were also on hand.

The list of grand jurors was called and those present were examined. After excusing some a special venire was issued to complete the panel. At the afternoon session the requisite number had been secured, sworn in, charged, and O. Z. Finley appointed foreman. Miss Grace Jones was appointed reporter for the body.

The grand jury concluded its labors yesterday and was discharged with the thanks of the court. Twenty-one true bills were reported, the allegations running from fence-cutting to murder. Twenty no bills were returned.

The petit jury was organized Wednesday. The court had previously set the docket and now that the grand jury has reported the decks are cleared for action and business will be prosecuted with vigor.

Judge Mechem states that court will remain in session until the 17th inst., at which time adjournment will be taken in order to open the Torrance county term of court. If, however, the business of the court is not satisfactorily concluded by the 17th, Judge Mechem announces that he will reconvene court in the summer—probably July—and clear the docket.

Peace Treaty Adopted

The terms of the treaty of peace on which representatives of the allied and associated governments have been preparing for the past five months, has been completed and was adopted without a dissenting vote of the members present. Italy was not represented at the session at which the covenant was adopted, but Italy appears as one of the members of the league.

President Wilson was recognized at the beginning of the meeting and made a detailed explanation of the amended covenant. He recited the textual changes that had been submitted, and named Belgium, Brazil, Greece and Spain on the league council and also on the committee to prepare plans for the first meeting of the league. Later it was announced that the first meeting of the league would be in October, and that the meeting place would be Washington, D. C.

The Japanese delegation introduced the race question, but did not push the matter, contenting themselves with the statement that the question would be submitted at a later meeting.

French representatives also presented amendments calculated to give France greater security. The two amendments, however, were not pressed to a conclusion and may come up at a subsequent meeting of the league.

The league, or covenant, as adopted, contains a number of amendments and several new matters, much of which was introduced by the American delegates with the hope of meeting the objections that were made to the original document. The Monroe doctrine, for instance, is specifically mentioned and is recognized by the document as a binding and international principle.

Throughout America expressions favoring the approval of the league as adopted have been quite general, and there appears little doubt at this time concerning the action the United States senate will take on the matter. Even before the amendments were prepared and published expressions, aside from partisan politics, gave the league plan overwhelming approval, but the new covenant has practically wiped out the most serious opposition, some of which was genuine, much of which was without foundation, and all of which should now disappear. The entire matter will be presented to the American senate at an early date, probably as soon as President Wilson returns and calls a special session of congress, and the biggest thing in all history will be presented to the members of that body for its consideration.

S. R. Moss is here this week from Arabela. Mr. Moss has interests that bring him to Carrizozo often, but he spends most of his time in the eastern part of the county.

Pecos Oil District

El Paso, Texas, April 30.—Dr. Hugh Tucker, expert geologist known throughout the oil districts of the country, has once again had his judgment vindicated, according to late reports from the Laura well, situated on the property of the Sunshine Oil corporation, near Pecos, Texas. A telegram from Alfred Tinally, president of the company, from Pecos to stockholders in El Paso said:

"The Laura well is going down through twenty feet of blue shale and limestone. Have sent you by express some samples of it. Prof. Elliott of San Antonio, who is examining other properties in Pecos district for eastern capitalists, has visited the Laura well, and declares it sure big winner. Three more companies have organized here, and are getting ready to drill."

The famous Laura well of the Sunshine corporation is 47 feet in shale and blue limestone, and down 800 feet according to late reports. It is expected that some decisive developments will occur within the next few days.

The El Paso-Sunshine Oil company, which is headed by a number of leading El Paso business men, and headed by a former mayor of El Paso, C. E. Kelly, has almost perfected the construction of its rig, and actual drilling will begin very shortly.

A la Kipling

Mrs. Henry Dixon handed the News a copy of a poem, "The Yankees On the Marne," which was sent to her by her husband, Lt. Harry Dixon, who is yet in France. The copy sent by Lieutenant Dixon contains an explanatory note to the effect that the composition is an anonymous one and that the composer must be a student of Kipling. At any rate, it is probably a pretty fair portrayal of what was in the minds of the English, especially as they had been leading in a foot race for four years.

Victory Liberty Loan

The generosity of the business men of Carrizozo, in combination with the two other banks in the county, Corona and Capitan, made it possible for the News to devote a larger portion of its space to the Victory Liberty Loan last week. With the same aid it is doing so this week, and next week finish the job. A great deal of publicity matter, direct from the treasury department, has been sent throughout the county and good results are expected. The invitation to buy bonds goes to every nook and corner of the county.

Attorneys Here

A Fine Dinner

That heading is somewhat of a misnomer, so far as we're concerned, for to us it was a fine supper. The ladies of the Methodist church served a real meal—dinner or supper, as you like—at Lutz hall from 5 to 8 p. m. yesterday. The service, a la mode or a la carte, as you choose, was par excellence, and the tables were crowded during the hours mentioned. It hit the spot and was entirely satisfactory.

Come Across, Say the Men On the Rhine

(The following clipping was sent to W. M. Reily by his son, Morgan, "on the Rhine." There is nothing in the clipping to indicate the paper from which it was taken, but the presumption is that it was published in the "Stars and Stripes.")

Press dispatches state that President Wilson will issue a call for 50,000 volunteers to serve in the Army of Occupation in Germany. They will replace a similar number of men now serving on the Rhine who wish to return home.

Come across, boys! Come across!

Now is your chance to replace your silver chevron with a gold stripe.

We of the Third Division who have served through the campaigns from the Marne to the Argonne and are now reveling on the Rhine will welcome you.

We would regret deeply leaving this land of bosche and snow. Nevertheless, we do not wish to appear selfish.

We know there are thousands of young men in the States who are rearin' to come across.

We know, because we read the papers. We have read of men who wept salty tears when the armistice was signed, because they were deprived of doing their bit over here.

We are willing to give them a chance to win that gold stripe.

Of course, things are a bit slow now. No longer do the G. I. cans bleney around us. Heine no longer comes across in his bombing machine with the tail-gate wide open. Those little surprise attacks at dawn are no more. Going over the top to cash in front of the bosche machine gun nests is but a memory.

Besides, the chow has changed. Corn willie and hardtack are passe. Goldfish is almost unknown.

But if you can carry on under these hardships and disadvantages, why—

Come across, boys, come across!

Still, Rhineland has its advantages.

Even after July 1, Germany has no prospect of going dry—not so long as the Rhine flows.

And you can smoke a cigarette here without hiding behind the barn as if you were committing a deadly sin.

Also, the underground system of fraternizing with the German mamselles is well worked out.

Thanks to us.

When you come here you will find the system in perfect working order.

German madchens dote on boys in O. D.

Also, on shockolade and soap. Bring liberal quantities with you.

And think of this!

One dollar good U. S. is worth five francs.

Five francs are worth ten marks.

So a buck private, instead of getting 33 dollars per month, receives 330 marks.

Some money!

330 marks will buy anything in Germany.

So come across, boys! Come across!

It's a great life, if you don't weaken.

And win that gold chevron!

THE YANKEES ON THE MARNE

Oh, the English an' the Irish an' the 'owlin' Scotties, too,
The Canucks an' Austreyleyuns, an' the fairy Franch Poilu—
The only thing that bothered us a year before we knew,
Was 'ow in 'ell the Yanks 'ud look, an' wot in 'ell they'd do.

They didn't had no tryonin', they didn't know the gyme,
They 'adn't never marched it much, their shootin' was the syme;
An' the only thing that bothered us that day in lawst July
Was 'ow in 'ell the Line 'ud 'old if they should run awy.

Them leggy, nosey new 'uns, just come acrost the sea,
We couldn't 'elp but wonder 'ow in 'all their guts 'ud be;
But the only thing that bothered us that day the chase begin,
Was 'ow in 'all to stop 'em 'fore they got into Berlin.

They didn't 'ave no tactics but the bloody manual,
They 'adn't learnest no Borders but "Oorsy!" an' "Give 'em 'ell!"
But the only thing that bothered us about them leggy lads
Was how in 'ell you get the beggars to understand "Kamerade."

TOO SWIFT FOR OLD ALMANAC

March of History Causes Gotha Publication Considerable Trouble.

PLACES 'EX' BEFORE KAISER

Some Strange Entries in Latest Edition as Result of the War—Can't Keep Up With Affairs in Finland, Poland and Ukraine.

Paris.—The swift march of history which has reduced to waste-paper value most of the existing works of reference about European state affairs has been too rapid for the old Almanach de Gotha. In peace times this compendium of statistical data concerning princes and potentates and their dominions went to press about the end of October, when its information was supposed to hold good for another year, and it generally did, barring some coup d'etat or other in South America.

Now, however, its issue of 1919, which went to the printers in December, is affected in several important respects by sudden developments involving many of the former ruling houses of Europe.

Amusing to students of Germany's eastern border policy is the naive prefatory remark that "the editors regret that, after having prepared three new articles on Finland, Poland and the Ukraine, they were obliged to cancel all three, owing to the change in the course of events."

Two Important Changes.

In other words, Prince Frederick Charles of Hesse, brother-in-law of the former German emperor, will never seat himself upon the throne of Finland, and there is to be no Prussian predominance in Poland and the Ukraine.

The downfall of the houses of Hohenzollern and Hapsburg has not caused the compilers of the almanach much racking of brains. The prefix "ex" is apparently held to be sufficient to define the present status of William II and Charles I, although the former is still credited with his full 53 titles and the latter is still styled, among other things, "King of Jerusalem, Prince of the Trentino and Lord of Trieste."

Much the same treatment is given to the score of German princes and princelings who abdicated. They appear in the almanach as they were—but for the "ex."

Democratic infiltration in Germany has set in from the top, instead of from the bottom. For although the administrative branches of the German government are filled with the usual array of excellencies, professors and councilors, yet at the head of that government stand the names of Ebert, Scheidemann, Dittman, Landsberg and Barth. Nobody is supposed to care about their Christian names.

The German national colors are still given as black, white and red, and the war flag still blazons the Prussian eagle.

This year, "provisional" governments abound. There is Poland, described in the almanach as "an ancient kingdom," whose "chief" is General Pilsudski. Finland, "formerly grand duchy," has no president, but General Mannerheim is the present "regent."

Puzzle About Ukraine.

The Ukraine is described as "a constitutional monarchy on a republican basis," with General Skoropadski as hetman. A footnote, however, explains that "according to news received December 15, 1918, the hetman has abdicated and the power is in the hands of a directorate consisting of Winnitshenko, Petliura, Schwetz and Andrejevski."

Russia, or to give it its modern name, the "Federative Socialistic Republic of Russian Soviets," at whose head Lenine (Vladimir Oullanoff) and Trotzky (Leon D. Bronstein) figure, is in a chaotic state as far as its internal administration is concerned. The almanach enumerates the eleven "more or less independent" states into which the empire has fallen, as follows: Poland, Lithuania, Baltic states (Courland, Livonia, Esthonia), Finland, Ukraine, Bessarabia (occupied by Roumania), Georgia, northern Caucasus, territory of the Don and territory of Astrakhan, Turkestan and Siberia.

Vanished is the pomp and panoply of the sonorous sounding names of the Russian aristocracy that once filled the higher administrative posts in the old empire. The seven members of the "council of commissaries of the people" are immediately followed by the dignitaries of the Greek Catholic church. If there are any excellencies or other functionaries or officials in present-day Russia, the almanach does not give them.

As for the diplomatic corps at Petrograd, all the ambassadors and ministers, except one from Spain, are significantly designated as "absent."

One curiosity is that Albania shares with San Marino the distinction of having a government indicated by blanks.

NEED GIRL LINGUISTS

Are Very Much in Demand at Peace Meeting.

Women Who Know Several Languages Can Demand Their Own Terms.

London.—The woman who knows other languages besides her own is reaping a rich harvest now and she is likely to become more valuable as time goes on, not only to herself, but to her country.

For months before the peace conference in Paris, the British government searched through the thousands of women and girls employed in different departments, finding out those who could speak and write French fluently, those who were able to translate one tongue into the other idiomatically, using the words which have come into currency in the last few years in both. As the English are not a nation of linguists there was not a great harvest, but those who had tongues in their heads are receiving their reward in generous proportion.

The chief members of the British and American delegations have confidential woman secretaries, who have been chosen as individuals because they had special qualifications; those who are able to speak three or four languages—English, French, Italian, German and Russian—are so much in demand that they can command their own terms. Incidentally they stand to be killed with overwork during the next six months.

But of course, just being a linguist is not enough in these days of delicate international relations. In order to be of any use to their chiefs these women have got to be Anglo-Saxon bred, and must be right up to the minute in questions of the day in their own countries. And they must have one other gift which every day is proving more and more valuable; they have got to possess political instinct, which it has lately been proved a great many women do possess in even larger proportion than men.

MOTHER'S BIBLE SAVED LIFE

Waukegan Soldier Says Book Deflected Bullet That Hit Him.

Waukegan, Ill.—A little green Bible, which was given him by his mother, Mrs. Enoch Palm, when he went to war, and which he carried in the right-hand pocket of his vest, saved the life of Corporal William Palm of this city, who returned home from overseas with two wound stripes and a series of stories about his adventures in the Argonne woods.

"The shells were coming over real lively," declared Corporal Palm, in relating his narrow escape, "and I was hunting for a nice comfortable shell hole. I spied one and saw a dead soldier in it. It is regarded as bad luck to refuge in a shell hole where there are dead, so I looked further. Just as I leaned over to peep into another one, a bullet struck me. It plowed through the book and exploded. While it wounded me, the book had deflected it so it did not penetrate far. The fact that I leaned over just at the right moment and the presence of the book saved me from getting a place beneath the daisies."

478 TO BE ENSIGNS

Annapolis, Md.—The fact that but one member of the First, or graduating class of the Naval academy was deficient in scholastic work during the term just closed insures that the number of graduates will be 478, unless something unexpected happens.

It is seldom that a midshipman who reaches his final term drops by the wayside. The class is larger by 50 per cent than the largest class which has preceded it at the Naval academy and nearly three times as large as the normal class of recent years.

With slightly more than 3,000 regular officers in the service when the United States entered the war, the commissioning of nearly 600 ensigns will mean that officers can be spared to carry out necessary steps in service.

Young officers will be retained for post-graduate work at the Naval academy and many temporary officers will be returned to civil life or to the grades they previously occupied in the service.

The graduation of this class will mark the restoration of "June week," the commencement period at the Naval academy, to the brilliancy and interest of former years, but greatly increased in every way.

"June week" has been a rather somber affair for the last two years. Graduation was a serious business, as the graduates were going out to active duty with the fleet under war time conditions. There was none of the usual social gayeties, and the ceremonies and exercises were reduced to a minimum.

The restrictions placed upon the visits of the public to naval stations prevented the assemblage of the usual great crowd, and altogether there was little of the gayety and interest of former years.

Next June all of these things will be back again, but with an increased interest in keeping with the larger class and the growth of popular attention to everything connected with the Naval academy. For a week there will be a programme of drills and exercises, interspersed with gay social events and ending with the presentation to the graduates of the diplomas which mean commissions as ensigns.

PREPARE FOR OVERSEA TRIP

French Aviator to Go From Cape Verde to Pernambuco, Brazil, in Near Future.

Paris.—Captain Coli, who recently crossed the Mediterranean and made the return trip within 24 hours, will soon make a flight by way of Madrid to Fez and Agadir, Morocco. He will make a special study of conditions over the sea in view of his intention to make a flight from Dakar, at the extreme point of Cape Verde, to Pernambuco, Brazil, within the next two months. He will, on his flight, operate a special machine, which is equipped with a fuselage which will keep afloat for ten hours and permit the aviator to wait for assistance in case of a breakdown while over the sea.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Think of the importance of friendship in the education of man. It will make a man honest; it will make him a hero; it will make him a saint. It is the state of the just dealing with the just; the magnanimous with the magnanimous; the sincere with the sincere; man with man.—Thoreau.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME TABLE.

The value of wholesome food well prepared and well seasoned, cannot be overestimated.

Veronique Soup.—Add one cupful of stewed and strained tomatoes, to which is added one-eighth teaspoonful of soda, to three cupfuls of veal broth. Thicken with one and one-half tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour cooked together; then add one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, a dash of cayenne, one-half cupful of cooked rice, one and one-half pimentoes cut in strips, and one-fourth cupful of heavy cream.

Rhubarb Tapioca Pudding.—Soak two-thirds cupful of pearl tapioca over night in cold water to cover. Drain, put in a double boiler, add one and one-fourth cupfuls of boiling water and two-thirds teaspoonful of salt; cook until the tapioca has absorbed the water. Peel rhubarb and cut in one-fourth inch pieces—there should be three cupfuls; then sprinkle with one-third cupful of sugar. Add to the tapioca and cook until the tapioca is transparent and rhubarb soft. Turn into a serving dish and accompany with sugar and thin cream.

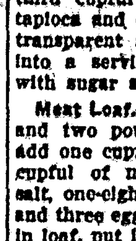
Meat Loaf.—Chop one pound of veal and two pounds of beef. Mix and add one cupful of bread crumbs, one cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper and three eggs slightly beaten. Shape in loaf, put in pan and lay across the top six slices of fat salt pork. Roast one and one-half hours, basting every ten minutes at first with one-half cupful of hot water and the fat in the pan. Remove to a hot platter, pour around a tomato or brown sauce and garnish with parsley.

Stuffed Figs.—Mash cream cheese, moisten with heavy cream, and season highly with salt and cayenne; make into balls three-fourths inch in diameter. Wash and dry figs, make an incision in each and stuff with the cheese balls. Arrange in piles on a plate covered with a lace paper doily.

And the finest fellow of all would be the one who could be glad to have lived because the world was chiefly miserable, and his life had come to help some one who needed it.—George Eliot.

MORE STRAWBERRY DISHES.

A pint of nice berries will furnish plenty of dessert for a family of five or six, if the berries are used wisely. A most dainty dessert is either angel food or sponge cake cut in rounds, heaped with crushed berries mixed with whipped cream or the berries may be covered with the cream.



Cottage Pudding Strawberry Sauce.—Bake a cottage pudding in an angel cake pan, or a simple sponge cake mixture may be used. Remove from the pan to a serving dish, fill the center with sweetened and flavored whipped cream and pour around it a sauce using some crushed berries to make juice, sugar and a few sliced or quartered berries. Keep warm until serving time.

Strawberry Ice Cream.—Wash, hull and mash one quart of berries. Sprinkle with a cup of sugar and let stand for three hours, then mash and squeeze through a double thickness of cheese cloth. Mix one and one-half cupfuls of heavy cream, one and one-half cupfuls of milk, the whites of four eggs beaten stiff and a little salt. Freeze to a mush, then add the strawberry juice and continue freezing. More sugar may be added if the fruit is quite acid.

Steamed Rice-Strawberry Sauce.—Cook one cupful of rice in milk until well done but whole. For the sauce take three tablespoonfuls of softened butter, add one cupful of powdered sugar, mixing it until creamy, then stir in a half cupful of whipped cream and a pint of sliced strawberries, which have been slightly sweetened. Serve at once.

Lenox Strawberries.—Fill sherbet glasses with sliced strawberries that have been well chilled. Pour over the following mixture: Mix the juice of half an orange, four tablespoonfuls of sugar and a tablespoonful of charged water. Garnish with a ring of piped whipped cream around the edge. Allow this quantity for each portion.

A few strawberries add much to the appearance and flavor of any fruit salad, and as a garnish for ice cream nothing is nicer than fresh berries crushed with sugar, using equal parts of each. Berries, the small ones, when crushed and mixed with equal parts of sugar, will keep indefinitely if in a cool place. This preserve may be used in countless ways.

GOOD-BYE BACKACHE, KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLES

For centuries all over the world GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has afforded relief in thousands upon thousands of cases of lame back, lumbago, sciatica, rheumatism, gallstones, gravel and all other affections of the kidneys, liver, stomach, bladder and allied organs. It acts quickly. It does the work. It cleanses your kidneys and purifies the blood. It makes a new man, a new woman, of you. It frequently wards off attacks of the dread and fatal diseases of the kidneys. It often completely cures the distressing diseases of the organs of the body allied with the bladder and kidneys. Bloody or cloudy urine, sediment, or "brickdust" indicate an unhealthy condition.

Do not delay a minute if your back aches or you are sore across the loins or have difficulty when urinating. Go to your druggist at once and get a box of imported GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are pleasant and easy to take. Each capsule contains about one dose of five drops. Take them just like you would any pill. Take a small swallow of water if you want to. They dissolve in the stomach, and the kidneys soak up the oil like a sponge does water. They thoroughly cleanse and wash out the bladder and kidneys and throw off the inflammation which is the cause of the trouble. They will quickly relieve those stiffened joints, that backache, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, gallstones, gravel, "brickdust," etc. They are an effective remedy for all diseases of the bladder, kidney, liver, stomach and allied organs. Your druggist will cheerfully refund your money if you are not satisfied after a few days' use. Accept only the pure, original GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. None other genuine.—Adv.

New Paris Wraps Appeal to Women

Sketched this week is one of the loveliest evening cloaks it is possible to imagine. It is one which was recently designed by Paquin for the peace-conference festivities. The material of this regal wrap was deep smoke-gray charmeuse with a lining of gleaming silver tissue and fringes composed of long silver tassels on the wide, cape sleeves.

The whole thing, writes a Paris correspondent, was so exceedingly original and rich that one felt in the presence of a fairy-queen-garment. And yet the color was so subdued and subtle that the wrap might quite well be worn going to a restaurant dinner or an ordinary theater. It was only when it was thrown open and the dazzling lining revealed that its richness made itself felt.

This is a leading note of many of the new Paris models for evening wear. There are still considerable difficulties connected with getting about in the evening. Quite unexpected people find it necessary to walk to their friend's houses, or even to the theaters, instead of driving, as formerly.

Taxicabs are few and hard to find. There are still stringent rules connected with private automobiles. The metros and omnibuses are crowded to overflowing, hence the frequent necessity of walking in evening dress. For this reason our best dressmakers are creating evening wraps which can, as indicated, be worn in the street at night without attracting undue notice.

Satins and velvets in soft neutral tints are very much in demand, but the linings of these demure wraps are something to dream about. I have seen gorgeous gold and silver tissues worked over with brilliant silks and beads and then converted into linings for theater coats.

Metallic Threads, Glistening Beads.

I have also seen exquisite effects produced by the introduction of metallic threads and glistening beads on fine Chantilly lace, the latter being mounted over an underlining of bright-hued silk. The outline of the Paquin wrap is very new and it represents the latest notion of a famous dress artist. As you will see, the sleeves are so wide that they give the impression of capes, while the collar is exaggeratedly large and vague in outline.

This model would look charming if copied in black, with black jet tassels as a fringe for the sleeves and a lining of some bright-colored satin or brocade, or it might be made of a soft camel's hair cloth, the jet tassels being retained and a lining of Chinese blue satin being introduced. I saw a driving wrap fashioned on very much the same lines as the model here illustrated.

In this case the material was pale beige cashmere, with a lining of brocaded silk which showed blue flowers on a dull rose ground; there was a heavy fringe of beige silk tassels on either sleeve and a large roll-over collar of beaver fur. An admirable driving wrap, I can assure you.

Beautiful Evening Cloak in Deep Smoke-Gray Charmeuse Lined With Silver Tissue. Long Silver Tassels.

The second model, full-length figure, shows a quaint early spring wrap made of Venetian red bure, with a row of gray bone buttons down one side and handsome embroideries worked in rough gray wool. This is a Bear model and one which has been greatly admired. The outline is simple, the wrap falling in long straight lines, but the sleeves are distinctly novel in outline, spreading out at the wrist in leg-o'-mutton fashion.

Collar Muffles the Neck.

Here again you have a "vague," very large collar which muffles up the neck and makes a delightful frame for the face. The combination of Venetian red and gray is very fashionable just now. It is reasonable and cheerful, two excellent qualities in Worth's showrooms I recently saw a splendid driving wrap made of Venetian red camel's-hair cloth which had a deep cape-collar of sable and a lining of tete de negre satin embroidered in black, white and dull blue silks.

This wrap was very long, reaching to the hem of the dress, and at the shoulders it seemed ample, even unusually bunchy; but the hem clung in about the ankles and gave the peculiar outline which is typical of 1919.

A lovely young actress—one of the adored beauties of Paris—had just launched a most effective novelty. This novelty takes the form of a thick cord, with long tassel, of bright scarlet silk.

Quaint Early Spring Wrap in Venetian Red Bure, With Handsome Embroideries of Rough Gray Wool.

In front there was an antique ornament, in plaque form, suspended from the cord, and at the back a big tassel weighted it down and made a splendid flash of color. This idea was taken from the scarlet cords and tassels worn by choir boys in some churches on ceremonious occasions.

The color of the cord and tassel was the brightest and most vivid scarlet, the ornament in front being of an antique nature, with a slight suggestion of "church" in its composition. On the head was one of the new cut jet bands which are placed very low on the forehead, almost touching the brows, and which completely circle the head and hair. The best cut jet is used for these pretty bands.

Draw Hair Right Off Forehead.

It becomes more and more the fashion to draw the hair right off the forehead and to arrange it very high on the top of the head, the only soft curls showing being "those which thrust themselves forward over the ears. This style of headdress is very distinguished but rather trying to any one who is not possessed of a small nose and pretty profile. But all sorts of women, with all sorts of profiles, are adopting the fashion of drawing the hair away from the forehead, severely. And nowadays the hair is only very lightly waved, if waved at all. Side by side with this fashion we have a revival of "cropt" effects, the sort of headdress that Mrs. Vernon Castle has made so fashionable.

The hair is not really cut short, but it is skillfully tucked away at either side to give a cropt outline. "Headache bands" are again very popular; quite large bands of soft silk or metallic tissue which are folded round the head and tied at one side in a coquettish bow.

Craze for Jet Earrings.

There is a craze for ultra-long jet earrings raging in Paris at this moment. Thin, finely cut jet pear drops, suspended from miniature chains of diamonds or seed pearls. These earrings are so long that they touch the neck. They are exceedingly decorative and with certain afternoon and evening dresses they give splendid results.

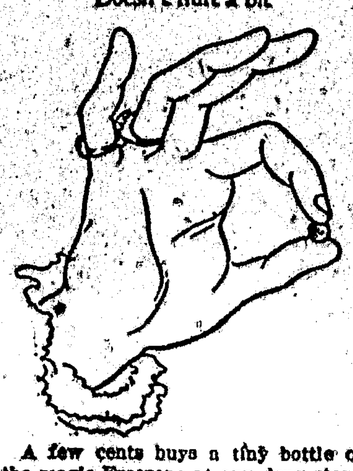
I am not in favor of long earrings in the day time, in the street; nevertheless they are the fashion, and it is a fashion which seems likely to develop into an absolute rage. Cut jet in various forms is popular just now. At a recent important "first night" I saw a well-known Parisian beauty wearing a high dog collar made entirely of cut jet, and this with a fragile costume of palest rose chiffon. The strong touch of black was rather startling, but the ensemble was good, the note of jet being repeated in a square comb which held the high loops of fair hair in place. Cut-jet plaques attached to black silk cords are often thrown over a light-colored house dress, a long black silk tassel hanging low at the back.

The Crepe De Chine Skirt.

Crepe de chine is a favorite material for the silk bobble skirt which is studded and has deep borders of petal or shirred ruchings.

WITH FINGERS! CORNS LIFT OUT

Freezone is magic! Corns and calluses lift right off—Doesn't hurt a bit



A few cents buys a tiny bottle of the magic Freezone at any drug store. Apply a few drops of Freezone upon a tender, aching corn or a callus. Instantly that troublesome corn or callus stops hurting, then shortly you lift it out, root and all, without any pain, soreness or irritation. These little bottles of Freezone contain just enough to rid the feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes and the calluses on bottom of feet. So easy! So simple. Why wait? No humbug!

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. —Adv.

A Quick Freeze.

In freezing ice cream remember that time will be saved if you do the freezing in a warm place, as the more rapidly the ice melts the more quickly the ice cream or sherbet will be frozen.

Cuticura for Pimply Faces.

DON'T DRUG KIDNEYS RUB BACKACHE AWAY

Instant relief! Rub pain, soreness and stiffness from your back with "St. Jacobs Liniment."

Kidneys cause backache? No! They have no nerves, therefore can not cause pain. Listen! Your backache is caused by lumbago, sciatica or a strain, and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Liniment." Rub it right on the ache or tender spot, and instantly the pain, soreness, stiffness and lameness disappears. Don't stay crippled! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacobs Liniment" from your druggist and limber up. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache, sciatica or lumbago pain. "St. Jacobs Liniment" stops any pain at once. It is harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

It's the only application to rub on a weak, lame or painful back, or for lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, sprains or a strain.—Adv.

FOR BETTER ROADS

GREAT ROAD BUILDING YEAR

Thousands of Miles of Improvement Arranged and More Will Surely Follow.

From the passage of the federal aid road act to December 15, 1918, 755 projects were approved by the secretary of agriculture. These projects involve the improvement of 7,867 miles of public roads at a total estimated cost of $57,632,000, of which the federal government has been requested to contribute $21,602,000. There have been actually completed to date twelve projects, involving a total of fifty-one miles of road, costing approximately $617,548, and on which federal aid in the amount of $260,660.19 was paid.

Altogether there are more than 7,500 miles of road, for which most of the steps preliminary to construction have been taken so far as the bureau of public roads is concerned. Numerous other projects not yet reported to the department have been completed or are under construction, so that the sum total of the road work now in progress under federal aid is greater than appears in this summary.

From Florida to Maine, through the North to the Pacific coast and down to Mexico road building work is going on. Every state has accepted its contribution from the government, and while no organized effort has been made along those lines to the present time, the states are working gradually to the system of national highways.

Coupled with plans already outlined for expenditures on the roads is the legislative program now before congress, which provides for $500,000,000 to be expended over a period of seven years by federal aid. It is estimated that in the event of the passage of this bill, which would make available immediately $75,000,000 for use in federal aid, it would be possible for the government and the states to build 34,000 miles of highways this year if labor could be obtained.

VALUE OF POULTRY MANURE

Increased Supply of Fresh Vegetables May Be Obtained By Applying to Garden Soil.

The droppings from fowls, if carefully saved and applied to the garden soil, will increase the supply of fresh vegetables. Poultry manure is rich in nitrogen and is well worth the effort it requires to save and apply. The droppings from an average farm flock will amount to considerable fertility during the year.

AUTO TAXES TO GO TO ROADS

Committee Appointed in Alabama to Request License Fees Be Applied to Highways.

The Birmingham (Ala.) Automobile club has appointed a legislative committee which is to appear before the state legislature with the request that all automobile license fees and taxes be applied on the cost of improved roads in the state. The funds thus diverted would amount to $1,500,000 annually.

Slow in Road Building.

With all her development, America has always been slow in the matter of road building.

Phosphorus Needed.

It is now generally agreed by experiment station professors and practical farmers in our eastern states that the greatest fertilizer needed by our soils is phosphorus, and that the best method of supplying it is in the form of acid phosphate.

Great Need of Farmer.

If there is any one thing that the farmer needs more than another, it is good highways. Every other business is on the line of progress, so why not the road business?

DESERT FOR MANY REASONS

Every Soldier Who Flees the Colors in Times of Peace Is Not Necessarily Disloyal.

The reversion to peace is welcomed by most men, but there is a group in the army and navy posted as deserters who must be uneasy in their minds.

Desertion in the army implies absence without leave for 22 days, and entails a court-martial if the individual is reclaimed, says a writer in London Answers.

In time of war it was a serious business, and a man risks his life almost as much by running away from danger as by running into it.

But in peace times there is sometimes an element of humor in desertion from the forces. Men run away for such trivial reasons, sometimes merely to join another unit.

Men desert chiefly because they are daily confronted by irritating restrictions, personal animosity of superiors or for private reasons.

Sometimes an attractive uniform like that of a lancer regiment will seduce an infantryman. I have in mind a corporal who was chased by military police in Aldershot two years after the desertion, one of the M. P.'s having known him in his former unit.

A man still living left the navy in a hurry in 1874. An officer had called him a liar, a charge he countered with his fist, for which he was placed in irons. A fire on board that night gave him his chance. He roamed Australia until his ship went out of commission, when the charge automatically lapsed.

Discontent with existing conditions is a frequent cause of a man breaking away. In 1915 a private who held an army skilled trade certificate was deputed to examine applicants for special enlistment in that branch.

He prepared the tests and examined the finished work.

Those who qualified were created staff sergeants a week later, with pay amounting to four times his own.

His repeated requests for promotion were turned down, as he was a regular. While on leave he deserted, joining another regiment immediately, and after 18 months in Saloniki he was discharged under an assumed name with heart trouble.

A kindly C. O. has been known to give an incorrigible a few days' leave and a sovereign, with the advice to lose himself—in the rosy times of peace.

Chinese Foundling in Luck.

A Chinese baby named Anna Michaelson became Anna Lee Chin Wore, legally adopted daughter of Chin H. Wore, wealthy proprietor of a New York restaurant, by order of Justice Cohalan in the supreme court. Incidentally the story of how the child was saved from death in infancy and acquired the surname by which she has been known, was disclosed. Ten years ago Patrolman Michaelson was walking his beat in Chinatown when his attention was attracted by the piercing wail of an infant. In an alley ash barrel he found the Chinese child, in no suit of clothing, and blue with cold. The policeman wrapped the waif in his overcoat and took her to the police station, whence she was later taken to the New York Foundlings' home. At about the same time the childless Chin H. Wore, who is prospering in business, and his white wife visited the institution in search of an infant for adoption. Their hearts went out to Anna Michaelson, and they took the child home—the first Chinese girl legally adopted in New York county.

Sewer Swallowed Auto.

During a recent heavy rain a considerable area of a well-paved Philadelphia street suddenly caved in, swallowing a heavy touring car which had just stopped at the curb. The owner of the car stepped from it only a few seconds before it dropped into a hole 30 feet deep. The collapse of a 14-foot brick sewer, flooded beyond its capacity, was the cause of the failure of the pavement. A second heavy storm immediately following brought another rush of water through the broken drain. Although a guard was promptly thrown about the opening, the car, which was lying on its side in the crushed sewer, entirely disappeared without leaving a trace either in the sewer or in the creek which receives its outflow.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

May Be Life on Venus.

From what we know of the surface conditions and climates of the various members of the solar system, Prof. Svante Arrhenius concludes that Venus is the only planet besides the earth where life is possible. Venus has a dense, warm atmosphere of high humidity. With everything dripping wet, life near the equator should be luxuriant, though of low order on account of the uniform climate and lack of need for specialization; but nearer the poles the climatic diversity is greater, suggesting a more varied development. Absence of any atmosphere makes life on Mercury and the moon impossible. Mars, too, must be uninhabitable with a temperature averaging about 37 degrees C. below zero and scarcely rising to freezing point even at noon on the equator, and its water supply is small.

THEMES FOR THE NOVELIST

Good Material Might Be Found in the Personal "Ads" Inserted in London Times.

For the unique in advertising the columns of the London Times are almost unrivaled. What pictures might be conjured up by the following ad:

"It is hoped that the irate colonel who, metaphorically speaking, sat on an unoffending subaltern in a West end tube train a day or two ago, has now discovered his mistake and makes peace with the third party."

And what possibilities for a present-day Dickens are contained in this:

"Bank of England note received. We thank unknown friend, whose gift relieves much anxiety."

In lighter vein, but of serious purpose is the following:

"Notice—If the pet goat left with me October last by Mrs. H. L. is not claimed within seven days, it will be sold to defray expenses."

And here is something that E. Phillips Oppenheim ought to look into:

"Will the officer whose champagne glass was overturned at Cafe Royal Wednesday evening, January 22, communicate at Savoy hotel with gentleman whose card he has?"

Had It Down Pat.

There is a little Chinese boy who attends night school regularly and is decidedly bright, says the Los Angeles Times. The other night, however, in a test, he met his Waterloo. The question was:

"Where are glacial moraines found?" and Ging Lee answered in his very best style:

"Moraines allee samee b'long United States. Some flight in air, some flight in the ocean and some flight in Flance. Allee samee everywhere flight like —. Ask kaiser, him say she does!"

Health About Gone

Many thousands of women suffering from womanly trouble, have been benefited by the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic, according to letters we receive, similar to this one from Mrs. Z. V. Spell, of Hayne, N. C. "I could not stand on my feet, and just suffered terribly," she says. "As my suffering was so great, and he had tried other remedies, Dr. —— had us get Cardui. . . I began improving, and it cured me. I know, and my doctor knows, what Cardui did for me, for my nerves and health were about gone."

TAKE

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

She writes further: "I am in splendid health . . . can do my work. I feel I owe it to Cardui, for I was in dreadful condition." If you are nervous, run-down and weak, or suffer from headache, backache, etc., every month, try Cardui. Thousands of women praise this medicine for the good it has done them, and many physicians who have used Cardui successfully with their women patients, for years, endorse this medicine. Think what it means to be in splendid health, like Mrs. Spell. Give Cardui a trial.

To Reorganize K. P. Lodge

Louis W. Gallos, deputy grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of New Mexico, came in Wednesday, and will spend several days here in the interest of the order. A thriving Knights of Pythias lodge was in running order here for several years, but many of the members moved away and the war intervened interfered with its operation. Many of the old members still reside here and others are expected to become members, and it is believed a good working and interesting lodge can be re-established here. The old lodge retained its paraphernalia and will be ready to reopen as soon as Deputy Chancellor Gallos gives the word.

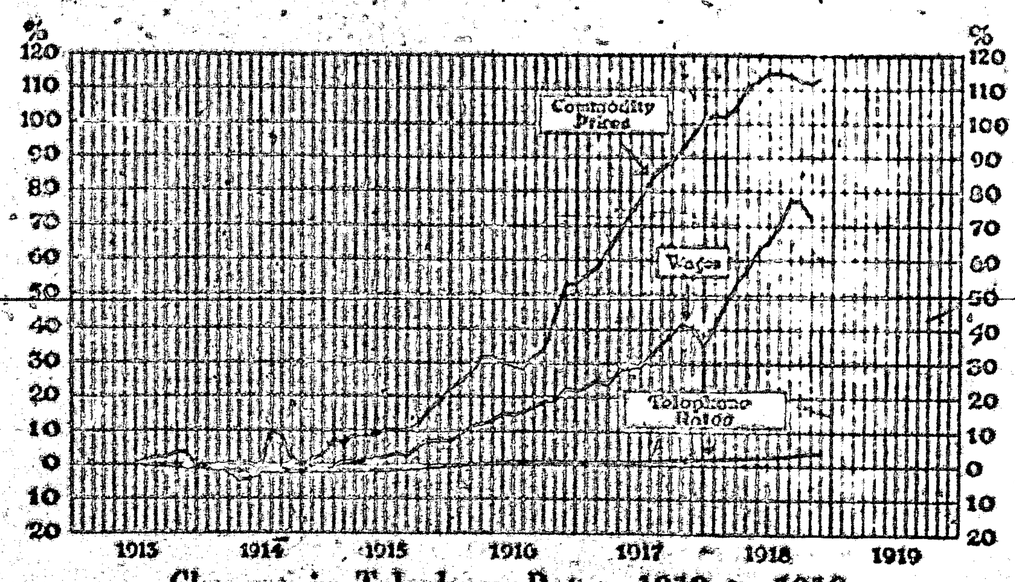
High Costs Affect Operation

Greater Revenues Required



Changes in Telephone Rates--1913 to 1918 Compared with Changes in Wages and Prices

SINCE 1913 there has been a steady increase in the price of all commodities and the products of industry, which has not been reflected in a corresponding increase in telephone rates. In order to meet the past and present high cost of telephone operation, a revenue in just proportion to the expense must be secured.

The reason is simple. The cost of telephone operation has steadily advanced both because of the increased cost of material and the increased living cost of employes. The consumer has realized the necessity of paying more for rent, for food, for clothing and for transportation. The telephone industry has been affected by the same conditions which have produced higher prices in all of the necessities of life.

Between 1913 and 1918, commodity prices advanced 112%, wages advanced 72% and Telephone rates the country over advanced only 4%. Adequate rates are needed if the service is to be maintained efficiently and on a comprehensive scale, so as to meet the increasing demands of the public.

This company is operating its telephone property under the direction of the Postmaster General for the United States Government and must secure sufficient revenue to cover the cost of rendering the service.

ROSA AND HER COMPANIONS, FACING STARVATION, ARE FORCED TO LEAVE THEIR HIDING PLACES

Synopsis.—Don Esteban Varona, rich Cuban planter, hides his money and jewels and the secret of the hiding place is lost when he and the only other person who knows it are killed. Donna Isabel, stepmother of the Varona twins—Esteban and Rosa—searches vainly for years for the hidden treasure. Johnny O'Reilly, an American, loves and is loved by Rosa. Donna Isabel falls to her death in an old well while walking in her sleep. Esteban's connection with the Cuban insurrectos is discovered and he and Rosa are forced to flee. O'Reilly, in New York on business, gets a letter from Rosa telling of her peril and he starts for Cuba. Pancho Oseto, faithless manager of the Varona estates, betrays Esteban and Rosa, leading Colonel Cobo, notorious Spanish guerrilla, to their hiding place. Esteban, who is absent, returns just in time to rescue Rosa. O'Reilly's efforts to reach Rosa are fruitless and he is compelled by the Spanish authorities to leave Cuba. Esteban wreaks a terrible vengeance on Pancho Oseto. A fierce fight with Spanish soldiers ensues. Esteban escapes, but, badly wounded and half conscious, he is unable to find his way back to his camp.

But the time came when he could walk no farther. He tried repeatedly and failed, and meanwhile the earth spun even more rapidly, threatening to whirl him off into space. It was a terrible sensation; he lay down and hugged the ground, clinging to roots and sobbing weakly. Rosa, he knew, was just around the next bend in the trail; he called to her, but she did not answer, and he dared not attempt to creep forward because his grip was failing. He could feel his fingers slipping—slipping. His last thought, as he went whirling end over end through space, was of his sister. She would never know how hard he had tried to reach her.

• • • • • • • •

Late on the second day after the battle Asensio returned to his bohio. Rosa and Evangelina, already frantic at the delay, heard him crying to them while he was still hidden in the woods, and knew that the worst had happened. There was little need for him to tell his story, for he was weaponless, unmanned, and bloody. He had crossed the hills on foot after a miraculous escape from that ravine of death. Of his companions he knew nothing whatever; the mention of Esteban's name caused him to beat his breast and cry aloud. He was weak and feverish, and his incoherent story of the midnight encounter was so highly colored that Rosa nearly swooned with horror.

The girl stood swaying while he told how the night had betrayed them, how he had wrought incredible feats of valor before the shifting tide of battle had spewed him out the end of the sunken road and left him half dead in the grass. Asensio had lain there until, finding himself growing stronger, he had burrowed into a tangle of vines at the foot of a wall, where he had remained until the fighting ceased. When the Spaniards had finally discovered their mistake and had ceased riding one another down, when lights came and he heard Colonel Cobo cursing them like one insane, he had wriggled away, crossed the calzada, and hidden in the woods until dawn. He had been walking ever since; he had come home to die.

Asensio recovered, but he was sadly changed. There was no longer any martial spirit in him; he feared the Spaniards, and tales of their atrocities served him.

Then Cobo came into the Yumuri. The valley, already well-nigh deserted, was filled to the brim with smoke from burning fields and houses, and through it the sun showed like a copper shield. Refugees passed the bohio, bound farther into the hills, and Asensio told the two women that he and they must also go. So the three gathered up what few things they could carry on their backs and fled.

They did not stop until they had gained the fastnesses of the Pan de Matanzas. Here they built a shelter and again took up the problem of living, which was now more difficult than ever.

The Pan de Matanzas, so called because of its resemblance to a mighty loaf of bread, became a mockery to the hungry people cowering in its shelter. Bread! Rosa Varona could not remember when she had last tasted such a luxury. Raw corn, cassavas, the tasteless fruits bombi, roots, the pith from palm tops, these were her articles of diet, and she did not thrive upon them. She was always more or less hungry. She was ragged, too, and she shivered miserably through the long, chill nights. Rosa could measure the change in her appearance only by studying her reflection from the surface of the spring where she drew water, but she could see that she had become very thin, and she judged that the color had entirely gone from her cheeks. It saddened her, for O'Reilly's sake.

There came when Asensio spoke of giving up the struggle and going in. They were genuinely starving, he said, and Rosa was ill; the risk of discovery was ever present. It was better to go while they had the strength than slowly but surely to perish here. He had heard that Cuban army troops (Spanish conscripts in Havana) in such a guise they could easily manage to hide themselves; they would at least be fed along with the others.

No one had told Asensio that the government was leaving its prisoners to shift for themselves, supplying them with not a pound of food nor a square inch of shelter.

Misery bred desperation at last; Evangelina's courage failed her, and she allowed herself to be won over. She began her preparations by disguising Rosa. Gathering herbs and berries, she made a stain with which she colored the girl's face and body, then she sewed a bundle of leaves into the back of Rosa's waist so that when the latter stooped her shoulders and walked with a stick her appearance of deformity was complete.

On the night before their departure Rosa Varona prayed long and earnestly, asking little for herself, but much for the two black people who had suffered so much for her. She prayed also that O'Reilly would come before it was too late.

CHAPTER XII.

A Woman With a Mission.

Within a few hours after O'Reilly's return to New York he telephoned to Felipe Alvarado, explaining briefly the disastrous failure of his Cuban trip.

"I feared as much," the doctor told him. "You were lucky to escape with your life."

"Well, I'm going back. Won't you intercede for me with the junta? They're constantly sending parties."

"Um-m! not quite so often as that." Alvarado was silent for a moment; then he said: "Dine with me tonight and we'll talk it over. I'm eager for news of my brothers and—there is some one I wish you to meet. She is interested in our cause."

"She? A woman?"

"Yes, and an unusual woman. She has contributed liberally to our cause. I would like you to meet her."

"Very well; but I've only one suit of clothes, and it looks as if I'd slept in it."

"Oh, bother the clothes!" laughed the physician. "I've given most of my own to my destitute countrymen. Don't expect too much to eat, either; every extra dollar, you know, goes the same way as my extra trousers. It will be a sort of patriotic 'poverty party.' Come at seven, please."

That evening O'Reilly anticipated his dinner engagement by a few moments in order to have a word alone with Alvarado.

"This lady who is coming here tonight has influence with Marlquez," Alvarado told him. "You remember I told you that she has contributed liberally. She might help you."

O'Reilly had met women with ideals, with purposes, with aversions, and his opinion of them was low. Women who had "missions" were always tiresome, he had discovered. This one, it appeared, was unusual only in that she had adopted a particularly exacting form of charitable work. Nursing, even as a rich woman's diversion, must be anything but agreeable. O'Reilly pictured this Nerine person in his mind—a large, plain, elderly creature, obsessed with impractical ideas of uplifting the masses! She would undoubtedly bore him stiff with stories of her work; she would reproach him with neglect of his duties to the suffering. Johnnie was too poor to be charitable and too deeply engrossed at the moment with his own troubles to care anything whatever about the "masses." And she was a "miss." That meant that she wore thick glasses and probably kept cats.

A ringing laugh from the cramped hallway interrupted these reflections; then a moment later Doctor Alvarado was introducing O'Reilly to a young woman so completely out of the picture, so utterly the opposite of his preconceived notions, that he was momentarily at a loss. Johnnie stood blinking, looking from a pair of fearless gray eyes, and felt his hand seized by a firm, almost masculine grasp. Miss Evans, according to his first dazzling impression, was about the most fetching creature he had ever seen and about the last person in which any young man would be found. Why, she—why she was a girl that brought into the room an electric vitality, a breeziness hard to describe. Altogether she was such a vision of healthy, unaffected and smartly gotten-up young womanhood that O'Reilly could only stammer his acknowledgment of the introduction, inwardly berating himself for his awkwardness.

Alvarado placed an affectionate hand upon Miss Evans' shoulder. "O'Reilly, this girl has done more for Cuba than any of us. She has spent a small fortune for medical supplies," said he.

"Those poor men must live on quinine," the girl exclaimed. "Anyone who can bear to take the stuff ought to have all he wants. I've a perfect passion for giving pills."

O'Reilly liked this girl. He had liked her the instant she favored him with her friendly smile, and so, trusting fatuously to his masculine powers of observation, he tried to analyze her. He could not guess her age, for an expensive ladies' tailor can baffle the most discriminating eye. Certainly, however, she was not old—he had an idea that she would tell him her exact age if he asked her. While he could not call her beautiful, she was something immensely better—she was alive, human, interesting, and interested. The fact that she did not take her "mission" ever seriously proved that she was also sensible beyond most women. Yes, that was it. Miss Norine Evans was a perfectly sensible, unspoiled young person, who showed the admirable effects of clean living and clean thinking coupled with a normal, sturdy constitution. O'Reilly told himself that here was a girl who could pour tea, nurse a sick man, or throw a baseball.

And she was as good as her promise. She did not interrupt when, during dinner, Alvarado led Johnnie to talk about his latest experience in Cuba, but, on the contrary, her unflagging interest induced O'Reilly to address his talk more often to her than to the doctor. He soon discovered that she understood the Cuban situation as well as or better than he, and that her sympathies were keen. She was genuinely moved by the gallant struggle of the Cuban people, and when the dinner was over she exploded a surprise which left both men speechless.

"I'm Going Right to the Insurrectos With You."

"This settles it with me!" she announced. "I'm going right to the insurrectos with you."

"With me!" O'Reilly could not conceal his look of astonishment. "I don't know that the junta will take me."

"They will if I ask them. You say the rebels have no hospitals, no nurses—"

"We do the best we can, with our equipment."

"Well, I'll supply better equipment, and I'll handle it myself. I'm in earnest. You shan't stop me."

The physician stirred uneasily. "It's utterly absurd," he expostulated. "Some women might do it, but you're not the sort. You are—pardon me—a most attractive young person. You'd be thrown among rough men."

"Mr. O'Reilly will look out for me. But, for that matter, I can take care of myself. Oh, it's of no use trying to discourage me. I always have my own way; I'm completely spoiled."

"Your family will never consent," O'Reilly ventured; whereupon Miss Evans laughed.

"I haven't such a thing. I'm alone and unencumbered. My aim was ever so fortunate. But wait—I'll settle this whole thing in a minute." She quitted the table, ran to Alexander's telephone, and called a number.

"That's after Marlquez," groaned the physician. "He's weak; he won't refuse her anything."

"I don't want a woman on my hands," O'Reilly whispered, dismayed. "Suppose she got sick? Good Lord! I'd have to nurse her." He wiped a sudden moisture from his brow.

"Oh, she won't get sick. She'll probably nurse you—and all the other men. You'll like it, too, and you will all fall in love with her—everybody does—and start fighting among yourselves. There! She has Enriquez. Listen."

Johnnie shivered apprehensively at the directness with which Miss Evans put her request. "You understand, I want to go and see for myself," she was saying. "If you need medicines I'll give them—bushels of the nastiest stuff I can buy. I'll organize a field hospital. . . . Oh, very well, call it a bribe, if you like. Anyhow, I've fully determined to go, and Mr. O'Reilly has volunteered to take care of me. He's charmed with the idea." Miss Evans giggled. "That means you'll have to take him along, too."

There followed a pause during which the two men exchanged dismayed glances.

"She doesn't seem to care what she says," O'Reilly murmured. "Bet—I'll put a flea in Enriquez' ear."

"Put it in writing, please." There was a wait. "Now read it to me. . . . Good!" Miss Evans fairly purred over the telephone. "Send it to me by messenger right away; that's a dear. I'm at Doctor Alvarado's house, and he's beside himself with joy. Thanks, awfully. You're so nice." A moment, and she was back in the dining room facing her two friends—a picture of triumph. "You have nothing more to say about it," she gloated. "The provisional government of Cuba, through its New York representatives, extends to Miss Norine Evans an invitation to visit its temporary headquarters in the Sierra de—something-or-other, and deems it an honor to have her as its guest so long as she wishes to remain there. Now then, let's celebrate."

She executed a dance step, pirouetted around the room, then plumped herself down into her chair. She rattled her cup and saucer rapidly, crying, "Fill them up, Doctor Gloom. Let's drink to Cuba Libre."

Johnnie managed to smile as he raised his demi-tasse. "Here's to my success as a chaperon," said he. "I'm disliked by the Spaniards, and now the Cubans will hate me. I can see happy days ahead."

O'Reilly arose early the next morning and hurried down to the office of the junta, hoping that he could convince Mr. Enriquez of the folly of allowing Norine Evans to have her way. But his respect for Miss Evans' energy and initiative deepened when, on arriving at 68 New street, he discovered that she had forestalled him and was even then closeted with the man he had come to see. Johnnie waited uneasily; he was dismayed when the girl finally appeared, with Enriquez in tow, for the man's face was radiant.

"It's all settled," she announced, at sight of O'Reilly. "I've speeded them up."

"You're an early riser," the latter remarked. "I hardly expected—"

Enriquez broke in. "Such enthusiasm! Such ardor! She whirls a person off his feet."

"It seems that the junta lacks money for another expedition, so I've made up the deficit. We'll be off in a week."

"Really? Then you're actually—going?"

"Of course. Don't be hateful, and argumentative, or I'll begin to think you're a born chaperon," Miss Evans exclaimed. "Come! Make up your mind to endure me. And now you're going to help me buy my tropical outfit."

With a smile and a nod at Enriquez she took O'Reilly's arm and bore him away.

The days of idle waiting that followed were trying, even to one of O'Reilly's philosophical habit of mind. He could learn nothing about the junta's plans, and, owing to his complete uncertainty, he was unable to get work.

At last there came a message which brought them great joy. Enriquez directed them to be in readiness in Nave Jersey City at seven o'clock the following morning. Neither Johnnie nor Leslie Branch slept much that night.

At the appointed hour Enriquez appeared with Norine Evans upon his arm. The girl's color was high; she was trembling with excitement. Leslie Branch, who saw her for the first time, emitted a low whistle of admiration.

"Glory be! That goddess!" he cried.

When Enriquez took his leave, bloodless hand in hot vocal grasp and flashed him her frank, friendly smile, he experienced instantly.

Enriquez was introducing a newcomer then, one Major Ramos, a square-jawed Socialist Cuban, who, it seemed, was to be in command of the expedition.

"My duties end here," Enriquez explained. "Major Ramos will take charge of you, and you must do exactly as he directs. Ask no questions, for he won't answer them. Buenday and good luck."

When he had gone the three Americans followed their new guide through the iron gates.

Major Ramos passed what he knew how to obey orders even though the other members of his party did not. He remained utterly deaf to Miss Evans' entreaties that he let her know something about the plans of the expedition; he would not even tell her where he was taking her, where the other filibusters had assembled, or from what port their ship would sail. When Philadelphia, Washington, then Baltimore, and finally Richmond were left behind, Miss Evans was, in truth, ready to explode, and her two companions were in a similar frame of mind.

It was not until the train was approaching Charleston that Major Ramos finally announced: "This is the end of our journey; the other members of the expedition are here. But I must ask you not to talk with them or with any strangers, for our friends are being watched by detectives in the employ of the Spanish minister at Washington and by United States deputy marshals. One little indiscretion might ruin everything."

The hotel to which Major Ramos led his guests appeared to be well filled; there were many Cubans in the lobby, and the air was heavy with the aroma of their strong, black cigarettes. As the major entered they turned interested and expectant faces toward him and they eyed his companions with frank curiosity. Miss Evans became the target for more than one warmly admiring glance.

As for O'Reilly, the familiar odor of those Cuban cigarettes, the snatches of Spanish conversation which he overheard, awoke in him a great excitement; he realized with an odd thrill that these eager, dark-visaged men were now his friends and comrades, and that those Americans loitering watchfully among them were his enemies—the spies of whom Ramos had spoken. There were at least a score of the latter, and all were plainly stamped with the distinctive marks of their calling. That they, too, were interested in the latest arrivals was soon made evident by their efforts to get acquainted.

On the next afternoon word was quietly passed to get ready, and the filibusters, carrying their scant hand baggage, began to leave the hotel in groups, followed, of course, by the watchful spies.

As the three Americans prepared for departure Norine whispered: "Listen! Everything is all right. We're not going aboard the Dauntless at all; she's here as a blind."

"Are you sure?" O'Reilly shot her a quick glance.

"Major Ramos himself gave that story to the newspapers; it's all a part of his plan. I promised not to tell, but—I just can't help myself. Gee! I'm having a good time."

Leslie Branch shook his head mournfully. "You may enjoy it, but I don't," he grumbled. "We'll end it by being pinched, and that will finish me. One week in a damp cell, with my lungs—"

O'Reilly, whose spirits had risen magically, clapped him heartily on the back, crying: "Congratulations! You're feeling better."

"I never felt worse!" the other complained.

"Nonsense! That's the first kick you've made since we hit cold weather. By the time we reach Cuba you'll be nice and melancholy and your cough will be all gone."

Ramos led his three charges to the railroad station and into the rear coach of a south-bound train, where the other members of the expedition had already found seats. As they climbed aboard a secret service agent essayed to follow them, but he was stopped by a brakeman, who said:

"You can't ride in here; this is a special car. Some sort of a picnic party. They're 'wops' or Greeks or something."

O'Reilly finds himself back in Cuba only to have his hopes of finding Rosa and Esteban receive another crushing blow. Still he refuses to give up the search. Read about these developments in the next installment.

Valuable Australian Wood.

Figured blackwood is mentioned by a consular report as perhaps the most beautiful of Australia's many ornamental hardwoods. The "fiddleback" and "curly" grains are most sought, the grain of the former being not unlike that of the North American curly maple. The color, however, is different, being a rich golden brown. The finest effects are obtained by combining the figure with the plain blackwood.

Chesterfield and Voltaire.

The fourth earl of Chesterfield was on one occasion at a grand assembly in France where Voltaire was one of the guests. Suddenly the French writer accosted his lordship with the words: "My lord, I know you are a judge. Which are the more beautiful, the English or the French ladies?" "Upon my word," replied Chesterfield with his usual presence of mind, "I am no judge of paintings."

Mr. Schleuner in Misery From Kidney Complaint. Doan's Gave Complete Relief.

Mr. Schleuner

"Heavy work brought on my kidney complaint," says Wm. Schleuner, 6408 Suburban Ave., Wellston, Mo. "One morning when shoeing a horse I was taken with a sudden pain in my back and fell flat on the floor. If I had been hit with a trip hammer, I couldn't have suffered more. I stayed in the house for five weeks and the pain was wearing the life out of me. At times, I couldn't get a wink of sleep because of the misery and I had to get up every few moments to pass the secretions that were highly colored, of foul odor, filled with ropy sediment and terribly scalding. My bladder felt as though it were afire. The pain brought stupor and a reeling sensation in my head; the torture of it cannot be described. If I got onto my feet I couldn't walk but felt dizzy and all in a flutter and everything would turn black. My head ached as it seemed as though my eyes were being dragged out. I started using Doan's Kidney Pills and I was soon rid of all the trouble."

Real Happiness.

After reading a poem about a little boy who was so happy because there were lovely flowers, beautiful birds, blue sky and running brooks, eight-year-old William remarked:

"Those things would never make me happy, Miss Jones."

"Why, William," replied his teacher, "what would it take to make you happy?"

"Saturdays!" was the prompt reply. —Harper's Magazine.

Gunner's Error Probably the Only Thing That Saved Flock of Blackbirds From Annihilation.

A party of gentlemen at a hotel were telling stories one night recently of famous shots and how many quails, partridges, ducks and other birds had been killed at a single discharge. After listening to what seemed a willful exaggeration by different narrators, a stranger who was present volunteered his experience of his only use of the fatal double-barreled gun as follows:

"I went into the field one day to try gunning. The only game discovered was an immense flock of blackbirds. I should say there were 10,000 in the flock. Slowly I crawled up to them, and when not more than four rods away the birds arose in a solid mass. I fired both barrels, and how many do you think I killed?"

Different guesses were made by the party, ranging from 20 to 100.

"Not one," said the stranger, "but I went out with my brother to look for the results, and picked up four bushels of legs. I had shot a little under."

APT DESCRIPTON OF PASTOR

Child's Characterization Well Drawn, Though Possibly Not Flattering to the Good Man.

Little Caroline and her grandmother went to church one Sunday morning recently. It had been some time since the small lady had attended and things and faces were new and strange.

After returning home she sat in a quiet study.

"What are you thinking of, dear?" grandma asked.

"Who was that fluffy man?" was the reply.

"What man, pet? I do not know which one you mean."

"That man, I mean," Caroline said with an indignant frown.

"I can't tell, dear, which one that is."

"Well," said little Caroline, evidently fully disgusted, "I mean the fluffy man that talks while we keep still."

The pastor happened to be a rather short, stout man with a good supply of hair, and this was her unusual way of describing him.

WASHINGTON SIDELIGHTS

Marines Lead U. S. Army With 664 D. S. C. Awards

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Peyton C. March gives out these facts regarding distinguished service crosses: Of the total of 3,918 distinguished service crosses for gallantry in action to American soldiers, 664, or more than double the number given to any other division, went to the Second regulars (marines). The First division of regulars came next with 300 crosses. The Third regulars, with 238, came third.

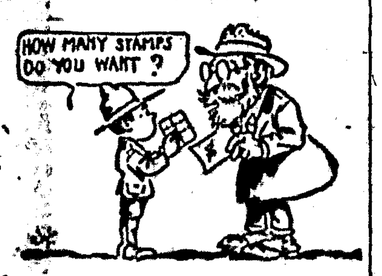
The Twenty-sixth (New England National Guard), the fourth in the list with 229 awards, led all National Guard and National army divisions. The Forty-second (Rainbow) came next with 205 and then the Thirtieth (Tennessee, North Carolina and South Carolina National Guards) with 177. The Twenty-seventh division (New York National Guard) received 169. The Seventy-seventh, also a New York division, received 148.

The other divisions in order, from the Thirtieth, which was the sixth in precedence, were as follows: Fifth, 163 awards; Twenty-ninth, 150; Seventy-seventh, 146; Twenty-seventh, 139; Thirty-second, 134; Ninety-first, 134; Eighty-ninth, 97; Seventy-eighth, 93; Seventy-ninth, 80; Thirty-third, 76; Fourth, 66; Twenty-eighth, 58; Ninetieth, 57; Eightieth, 42; Eighty-second, 34; Seventh, 30; Thirty-seventh, 25; Thirty-sixth, 24; Ninety-second, 21; Eighty-first, 19; Thirty-fifth, 17; Sixth, 10; Eighty-eighth, 1.

In the various branches of the army the infantry, General March said, naturally led with 2,942 decorations out of the total. The air service was second with 251 awards; medical corps third, with 238; artillery, 183; engineers, 149; signal corps, 50; tank corps, 36, and the remaining awards divided among the other branches, with Y. M. C. A. attaches receiving three.

Boy Scouts Sell Millions of War Savings Stamps

BY THE savings division of the United States treasury credit is given the Boy Scouts of America with having sold $42,307,265.75 worth of stamps during 1918. The 250,000 boys enrolled secured from 2,150,005 persons the signed pledge cards. Returns so far at hand for the month of January show the boys secured 74,795 subscriptions for a total of $1,479,721.75. This was without any street solicitation or active campaigning and merely resulted from the scouts' habit of constant alertness for sales opportunities.



The champion for the United States, upon the face of the returns so far at hand, is G. Schuyler Tarbell, Jr., of Ithaca, N. Y. He sold in 1918 $77,-166.25 worth of War Savings and Thrift Stamps. Scoutmaster Hodgson of McKeesport, Pa., stands second; Scout James Campbell of troop No. 4, Loraine, O., is third, with a 1918 total of 460 subscriptions, worth $43,425.25, and fourth place belongs to Scout Gordon Bush of troop No. 1, Athens, O., with a score of 151 subscriptions amounting to $45,630.75.

The champion of the Seventh Federal Reserve district, on the face of the incomplete returns, seems to be Robert Clover of troop No. 2, La Grange, Ill. According to latest reports, young Clover had secured 633 subscriptions, for a total of $18,866.25. This will entitle him to the personal letter of thanks from President Wilson, unless later returns should bring forward some other scout as winner.

The boy scout movement is one of the great successes of the times. One cause of its success is that there is no such word as "Don't" in the scout vocabulary. The scout way puts the proposition the other end to. Just as the American fighting man at the front says, "Let's go!" the scout says, "Come on!"

Most boys would rather be good than bad, but a lot of them would rather be bad with company than good all alone. The boy scouts give a boy a chance to be good in company. At the same time the organization does not make an angel of a boy. If it did, the movement would have failed long ago.

Soldiers Keep Their Uniforms for Ceremonial Use

TOWARD the end of the Sixty-fifth congress protests against the return of uniforms by soldiers poured into congress. For example, here is part of a memorial from the legislature of Montana:

"Memorial to congress of the United States to enact such legislation as may be necessary to permit the honorably discharged soldier, marine, or sailor to retain in his possession such clothing as, under the provisions of paragraph 1165, army regulations, he is permitted to take to his home.

Whereas under provisions of paragraph 1165, army regulations, an enlisted man honorably discharged is permitted to wear one suit of uniform outer clothing from the place of termination of his active service to his home, which clothing will be returned within four months after termination of his active service, by mail under a franked label;

Whereas these soldiers, marines, and sailors have taken much pride in their uniforms and wish the privilege of keeping them in their possession; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the house (the senate concurring) that we, the members of the Sixteenth legislative assembly of the state of Montana, do hereby petition and earnestly pray the congress of the United States to enact such legislation as may be necessary to change the provisions of paragraph 1165, army regulations, and make it possible for an honorably discharged man to retain one suit of uniform outer clothing."

The result was that a bill was passed and the act was signed by the president reversing previous orders that noncommissioned officers and privates must turn in their uniforms. The act provides that uniforms and personal equipment may be retained and may be worn on occasions of ceremony.

This act applies to soldiers, sailors and marines honorably discharged since November 11, 1918, or hereafter honorably discharged.

"Port of Missing Men" Finds "Lost" Soldiers

THOUSANDS of letters are pouring into the surgeon general's office of the United States army asking assistance from its new division—the "Port of Missing Men." From all parts of the country they come, and from all classes of persons who lost track of their boys since they went to France, and are eager for any scrap of information. Some of them inclose photographs of soldiers, and some contain soiled envelopes that have carried letters to France and brought them back again, because the men to whom they were addressed could not be found. In the surgeon general's office the letters are stripped of their main facts—the name of the missing man, his company and regiment and the date and name of the place where he was last reported to be. They are then mailed to the "Port of Missing Men." This is the interesting name that has been attached to a newspaper column appearing in all the army hospital papers, including the three large ones in New York, Newport News and Washington, and the 26 small ones scattered throughout the country. The total circulation of these papers is estimated at 50,000. In other words, 50,000 soldiers read these papers and note the names of the men reported under the head "The Port of Missing Men."

Out of the 50,000 there is almost certain to be one soldier who has known one of the men reported missing in the column. Maybe he was in the same company and knew where the man was last stationed. In the majority of instances he is even likely to know what ultimately became of him. In any event, he is apt to be able to shed some light on the situation.

"Hush! It's a still."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the Mucous Surfaces.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.

Food for Thought.

He—"I am going tonight to see a mind reader." She—"What good will that do you?"

A Feeling of Security

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs.

It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses.

It is not recommended for everything.

It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

If you need a medicine, you should have the best. On sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to try this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

The Real Regretter.

"Does your wife regret that she married a poor man?"

"Not so much as I do."

WHY NOT TRY IT?

Any farmer who raises crops of vegetables knows that he raised practically no vegetables. They don't require any more room, nor any more land, but they bring many times what the grain should have. But they will not move unless. A Farmer Boomer produced 10 tons from one fertilized digester acre in 3 years. Two acres in 10 months produced 10 tons. Write for booklet. Agricultural Chemical Co., Northern Division Association, 11 Pearce Post Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The Card Club.

"Are you going to the card club this afternoon?"

"No, it's my turn to stay away and be talked about."

A man may be ignorant of the law, but the ignorance of his lawyer is always inexcusable.

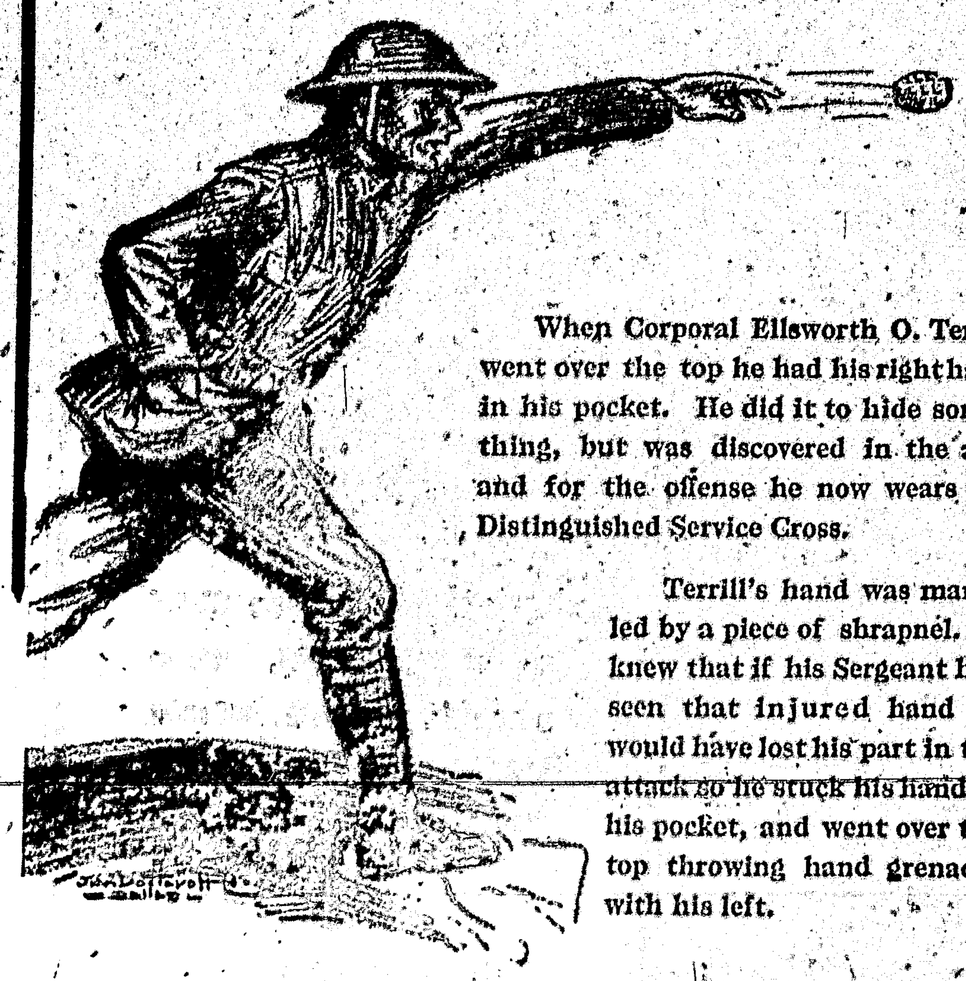
Hands and Pockets



When Corporal Ellsworth O. Terrill went over the top he had his right hand in his pocket. He did it to hide something, but was discovered in the act, and for the offense he now wears the Distinguished Service Cross.

Terrill's hand was mangled by a piece of shrapnel. He knew that if his Sergeant had seen that injured hand he would have lost his part in the attack so he stuck his hand in his pocket, and went over the top throwing hand grenades with his left.

When you put your hands in your pockets in answer to the call of the remember the hand that Corporal Terrill stuck in his pocket.
