OLDEST AND LEADING NEWSPAPER IN CIRCULATION IN THE COUNTY OF LINCOLN, NEW MEXICO

VOLUME 21

CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, JUNE 17, 1921

NUMBER 24

"The Baron"

Last week we had an article announcing the appearance of Baron James V. Auricemma Sunday night at the Crystal Theatre in behalf of the Salvation Army, and the title of a number of musical selections. At that time we knew no more of the entertaining qualities of the Baron than did our readers, except the press clippings from places where he had given concerts. Now, that we have heard him we have no hesitancy in saying that he deserved everything that was said of him in advance notices and our only regret is that more of our people throughout the county did not get to hear him; for we believe they missed the opportunity of a lifetime. With the foregoing statement we think that the placing of "The Baron" at the head of this article can be easily appreciated.

Sunday night's mass meeting was a very successful gathering, netting the "Army" $86.50, in addition to furnishing a most delightful entertainment. Chairman Sager of the advisory board presented a brief statement of what had been accomplished in Lincoln county during the first year's work and showed how the funds had been handled. Capt. Shannon, of Albuquerque, made an address which was followed by short talks by others, and then Baron Auricemma gave us some selections that equaled that any one present had ever heard and excelled what most of us had ever had the pleasure of listening to. A duet by Mrs. Boone and the Baron was on the program. The Baron's rich tenor, blending with the soft melody of Mrs. Boone's, struck a responsive chord in the hearts of the assemblage; and when all present were invited to join in singing "Let the Rest of the World Go Dry," or something like that, and the voice of young Raymond Lackland rose above the others, he was called to the stage, and the house nearly raised the roof. It was good; it was better than that; it was excellent.

However, the big concert came Monday night. The Baron was approached and asked to appear the following night, and good-naturedly consented, with the understanding the proceeds were to go to the Salvation Army. To this, of course, assent was given, the hall secured, tickets printed and the concert advertised. A program was arranged, including local talent, and when the feast of song began another big crowd was present to enjoy the entertainment par excellence. In addition to the vocal, the audience was treated to some pleasing selections by the Ferguson-Pitts-Bamberger orchestra.

The local talent, which had been coached by the Baron during the day, endeavored to make itself worthy of its distinguished association, and succeeded very creditably; but—and it is no lack of appreciation of the local talent to say—the Baron shone resplendent as director or principal and, by his savoir-faire, gave to the affair a character, an artistic atmosphere, that is seldom witnessed by people in small towns. So, notwithstanding the "Baron" says his title was wished on him, we feel justified in saying Baron or no Baron, he's a Prince—a prince of song; a prince of good fellows, a generous prince.

The following is the program rendered Monday night:

1. Chorus—Nightingale—Girls
  2. (a) Il Trovatore, The Tempest of the Heart—Verdi
(b) Garden of my Heart—(The Star) Auricemma
  3. Whispering—Raymond Lackland
  4. Selection—Pitts, Ferguson, Bamberger
  5. (a) Gentle Spirit from Favorites—Donizetti
(b) Absent—Metcalf (Rosary)—Nevin Auricemma
  6. The Barefoot Trail—Mrs. H. G. Norman
  7. Roses at Twilight—Mrs. Boone and Auricemma (Sierra Sue)
(My Rosary for You)—Violin Obligato, R. C. Pitts Auricemma
  8. Dear Old Pal of Mine—Claire Adams
  9. (a) Pagliacci, Arioso—R. Leoncavallo
(b) Your Eyes Have Told Me So—E. Ball (Somewhere a Voice is Calling)—Tate (O Sole Mio)—Capuo (Mari Mari)— " (Let the Rest of the World Go By) Auricemma
- Miss Lorena Sager, Mrs. T. E. Kelley and Miss Ivy Lindsay at the piano.

Miners' Time Limit

Washington, June 13.—Another suspension of mining claim assessment work was voted today by the senate. The bill by Senator Bursam suspends work for the six months ending July 1, and makes the assessment work begin on that date instead of January 1 as heretofore. The measure now goes to the house.

Over the Top

The drive for the Salvation Army in Lincoln county made the grade, which was steep in places, climbed the hill and went well over the top. In Carrizozo money and pledges amounting to $364.30 were received. From tentative reports from other localities we are safe in saying the drive was successful—the goal was reached and passed.

Few reports have been received from other communities as to the collection of cast off clothing, but when all reports are in we believe the amount of useful garments will be considerable. Here, a large number of bundles have been collected and stored. The clothes will be repaired, folded and laid down in moth balls, and kept for time of need; and when a call comes from any district of the county that the poor need to be clothed the local advisory board will be in position to supply the necessary clothing.

Victory Medals

A great many of the ex-service men of this state have not received nor have they made application for their Victory Medals. It is the desire of the War Department to furnish every man with the medal and bars that he is entitled to receive. Every man who served in the Army between April 6, '17, and Nov. 11, '18, is entitled to a Victory Medal, and it is the desire of this office to get in touch with every man in this state who has not received his medal so that we may aid him in getting it, which can be accomplished by sending to Santa Fe his name and serial number, statement as to any battles or engagements in which he took part, and where. He will receive one bar for each battle in which he was engaged.

All ex-service men concerned should apply at once for his Victory Medal. A great many men are not aware that they are entitled to this Victory Medal, or they confuse it with the Victory Star, etc. If all military organizations, civic bodies, churches, newspapers, individuals, Red Cross, Vocational Training, and American Legion members will call attention to the subject it will result in many men making application for the Victory Medal. Ex-service men address the Adjutant General, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Sheep and Lambs Dying

Albuquerque, June 12.—Altho the recent rains have provided the ranges all over the state with enough moisture to last for the entire season, reports reaching here state that hundreds of shorn sheep and many of the little lambs are dying from the effects of the cold and wet weather of the past week. In the southern and western part of the state some of the sheepmen claim that the season's lamb crop will be from a quarter to three-quarters loss and in some cases the lamb crop will be a total loss on account of the death of the older sheep.

Talk Without Action

(New York World)

Speaking at Valley Forge Sunday, President Harding said:

I can think of an America that can maintain every heritage and yet help humanity throughout the world to reach a little higher plane.

Most Americans can think of that kind of America. More than 9,000,000 of them voted for it directly at the last election, and other millions voted for Mr. Harding in the belief that it could also be achieved under Republican leadership. But what is Mr. Harding doing to bring it about? Merely thinking about it will not get the president or humanity very far. Government must deal with concrete things.

The Tribune tells us that the President is deeply interested in international problems, but "Mr. Harding, of course, is not able to express his thoughts in exact words." There are advantages, however, in having Presidential thoughts expressed in exact words, especially when they relate to policies and programmes of government.

Quite apart from the League of Nations, toward which Mr. Harding maintains the ridiculous Henry Cabot Lodge pretense that it interferes with American "independence," there have been opportunities for action which do not remotely interfere with what the President blandly describes as "every heritage." One of them was presented by the Borah resolution for an agreement between the United States, Great Britain and Japan for a naval holiday which would end competitive armament in sea power.

Nothing more practical or feasible has been proposed by anybody. It is practical because these three nations are the chief competitors in armament. The others can be disregarded. It is feasible because there is a strong and aggressive sentiment in all three countries in favor of agreement. The resources of Great Britain, Japan and the United States are all strained by the naval programmes of these governments. There can be no important reduction in taxation which does not begin with naval armament, but no nation will take the initiative while the other two are spending enormous sums to develop sea power.

To reach an agreement among many nations might be difficult, but to reach an agreement among three nations is comparatively simple, and it would set an example that would stir the world. What has been Mr. Harding's attitude toward it?

First, he opposed the Borah resolution on the ground that it was an invasion of his executive prerogatives for Congress to authorize him to enter into negotiations for a naval holiday. Finding that he was likely to be beaten in the senate, he quietly withdrew his opposition and started a backfire in the House of Representatives. The Administration plan in the House is so to broaden the the Borah amendment to the Naval appropriation Bill that it will include both land and sea forces, which means that nothing can or will be done. Conditions in Europe make it practically impossible to arrive at an agreement at this time in regard to land forces. Economic conditions in Great Britain, Japan and the United States make it relatively easy to reach an agreement in regard to naval forces. Accordingly, Mr. Harding has rejected the thing that can be done for the thing that cannot be done.

We should have more confidence in Mr. Harding's fine words at Valley Forge if his Administration were trying to give them life and purpose. Nobody could have desired a more brilliant opportunity than he has had, and nobody could have made less effective use of it. The trouble with Mr. Harding is not that he is not able "to express his thoughts in exact words" but that he fails to give them any definite form of expression whatever.

Last Sunday's Game

The Carrizozo ball team went to Alamogordo last Sunday and played the boys at the fat cotton-woods, a game of ball. It was a good game, say the fans who attended, ending in a score of 3 to 6 in favour of Alamogordo. Our team made more hits, our pitcher made more strike-outs and we also had fewer errors credited to us, and yet we lost the game. The element of luck entered into the results and our errors were more costly. The boys will try their best to win next Sunday afternoon when they meet the Alamos on the local diamond.

Mrs. Rudisille Dies

Mrs. M. M. Rudisille died in Los Angeles Saturday, June 11, from heart failure. A letter from John Patton to Mrs. W. C. McDonald conveyed the intelligence. Mrs. Rudisille was well and favorably known in this county. She came to White Oaks in the early 80's with her husband and lived there until a few years ago when she accompanied her husband to California.

Mr. Rudisille died about two years ago, and Mrs. Rudisille made California her home until called by death. She was living with a sister when the summons came.

Mrs. Rudisille was an educated, refined woman, greatly interested in school work and civic improvement, and her death is a distinct loss to her community, and is sincerely regretted by her many friends here.

FRESH AIR

Methuselah lived to be 969 years old.

If you live to be 50 you will be beating the law of mortality averages by something like 15 years.

Life might become a bit stale if we all lived a thousand years these days, but the 20th century American has fallen back to the other extreme.

Methuselah's famous span of life was lived in the simplicity of open air and outdoor environment.

As you plan your scheme of daily life to include simple exercise and as much fresh air and outdoors as possible, so will you be able to increase the years before you become a customer of the undertaker.

It's easy to go home in the evening and sit down inside with the newspaper or a book and let your muscles grow flabby with disease.

But it's easy to die before your time. If you don't believe it look at the mortality column in your newspaper and notice the ages of those listed there.

The greatest medicine in the world is fresh air, and you can write your own prescriptions.

A daily walk in the evenings is the simplest and most available exercise for most of us. Get out in the outskirts of town and smell the flowers. Let the evening breeze get into your lungs. The smell of the grass and flowers will be worth all the trouble. Watch the stars come out in the sky. It's cheaper and better than drug store medicine.

Dr. P. M. SHAVNE, Chairman Nursing Committee, Lincoln County Chapter, A. R. C.

New Legislation

Santa Fe.—One hundred and twenty-eight new laws, all those passed by the Fifth New Mexico legislature not carrying the emergency clause went into effect Sunday at noon.

These include a "blue sky" anti-wildcat-promotion act, the act authorizing a $200,000 addition to the state capital, a stringent anti-gambling law, one of the most severe in the country, an act closing all "redlight" districts and making the second offense a penal one, a law reimbursing Santa Fe, Hidalgo, Grant and Luna counties for interest paid on railroad bonds, an act placing the traveling auditor directly under the governor instead of the state auditor, an act making district judges juvenile court judges and increasing their salary and number and others of lesser importance.

THE SANDMAN STORY

THE GUINEA HENS

IT WAS four days since the Guinea Hens had been placed in the barnyard and the animals were still puzzling over their queer looks.

"Who ever heard of hens with faces like those?" said old Brown Hen. "So white and those fiery red ears. I think they look frightful."

Just then Red Rooster came strutting across the yard as fast as his dignity would allow. "I have some news for you," he said, pausing for breath.

"There is a circus down the road," he said, "and I heard the farmer's boy

"WHO SAID THOSE NEW HENS WERE CLOWNS?"

say that he saw queer things down there, and one was a clown with a white face painted with red in places."

"Oh, those new hens look just like that," broke in old Yellow Hen. "Now we know what they are. They are clowns and came from the circus."

"They better go back where they came from," said old Yellow Hen, "for no hen in this barnyard will have anything to do with them."

That night when the hens went to bed it was very, very dark, and those that had little ones cuddled them close under their wings.

The new hens—they were Guinea Hens, which, of course, you have guessed before this—went to bed away up in the branches of the nearby trees as they always do, and if anything disturbs them they quickly cry with

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

THE USE OF "ANY."

KNOW the family well, and the youngest son is brighter than any of them." This sentence is incorrect and should be changed to "I know the family well, and the youngest son is brighter than any other one of them," or "brighter than any of the rest of the family."

When the sentence first quoted is analyzed—that is, taken apart and examined critically—it seems to say that the youngest son is brighter than himself; for, of course, he is one, or any one, of the family. Such a statement is absurd, and to express clearly the meaning of the writer or speaker it is necessary to insert some word or words (such as "other" or "the rest of") to show the comparison between the member of the family under discussion and the rest of the family.

If you say, "The blacksmith is stronger than any man," you imply that the blacksmith is not a man. Say, therefore, "The blacksmith is stronger than any other man."

ANITA

THE lovely Spanish favorite Anna has won almost as prominent a place among the feminine names of our country as the equally exotic Juanita which followed the song of that title. Anita, however, is much more redolent of North America than its prototype. For Anita, signifying grace, has an origin parallel with Anne.

About the time that the mother of Samuel was recorded in Biblical chronicles as the original Hannah, the etymological way was being paved for the entrance of Anita through the gateway of Spain. Byzantium, that kingdom of royal splendor, paid hom-

GOOD HIGHWAYS

FEDERAL AID FOR HIGHWAYS

Approval Given for 855 Projects Up to September 30, 1920—Western States Lead.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Federal aid for the construction of 9,830 miles of national highways has been approved by the United States Department of Agriculture. Up to September 30, 1920, approval had been given for 855 projects, which form links in one or the other of the 24 marked trails which have been laid out by private associations to cross the country from East to West and North to South.

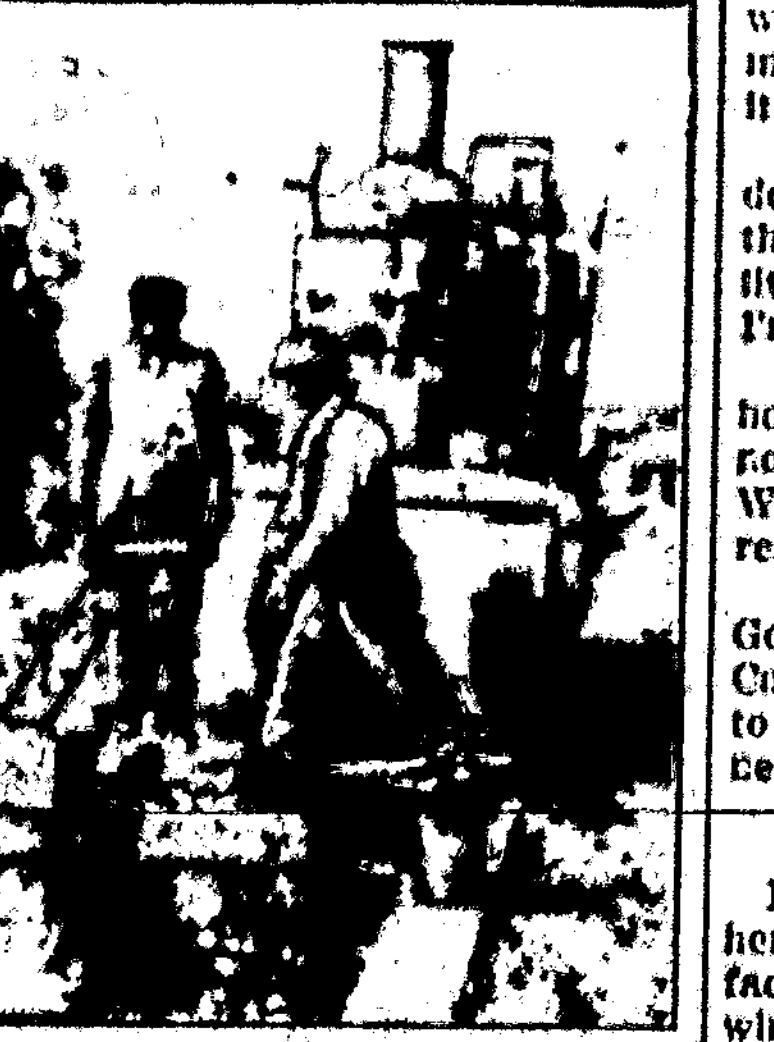

The mileage which will be constructed with federal aid on each of the several trails is shown in the following table:

Name of Highway.	Length Federal aid approved projects.
Dixie Highway	2,000
Great Trail	2,000
Yellowstone Trail	2,000
Bankhead Highway	2,000
Meridian Highway	2,000
National Oil Trails	2,000
King of Trails	2,000
National Parks Highway	2,000
Theodore Roosevelt International Highway	2,000
Jefferson Highway	2,000
Lincoln Highway	2,000
Old Spanish Trail	2,000
Mississippi Valley Highway	2,000
Dixie Overland Highway	2,000
Jackson Highway	2,000
Pacific Highway	2,000
Roosevelt National Highway	2,000
Colorado to Gulf	2,000
Elmer Peak Ocean to Ocean	2,000
Atlantic Highway	2,000
Miscellaneous	2,000
Total	9,830

The extent to which federal aid has been applied to the trails varies in the different states. Naturally, the Western states are using much more of the federal apportionments in developing roads of this character than the Eastern states. This is due to the fact that the routes in the Eastern states already had been improved to a large extent before the roads were selected by the pathfinders. This was not true in the West, where long stretches of the selected roads were still in an unimproved condition when they were designated.

Nevada leads in its use of federal funds on roads of this character. Eighty-three per cent of its entire mileage of approved federal-aid roads lies on one or the other of the trails which cross the state. On these roads Nevada will spend 90 per cent of the federal money which has been granted to her.

Indiana is a close second, with 80 per cent of its entire federal-aid mileage and 53 per cent of its money aid applied to the construction of the trails; and Oklahoma, with 76 per cent of its mileage and 81 per cent of its federal funds, is not far behind.

Florida takes the lead in the percentage of its funds which will be used for trail building, with 84 per cent of its federal allotments so applied; but this amount will be spent for only 56 per cent of the mileage which has been approved in the state.

In addition to the above, the states of Illinois, Kansas, Montana, New Mexico, Utah, and Washington are each using 50 per cent or more of their federal money for the upbuilding of the trails.

Life of Concrete Road.

The life of a good concrete road should be at least twenty years and it would seem that this country could afford to spend a large sum of money in the development of such highways if the money were put into roads which will last at least twenty years under motortruck traffic. Experts here and abroad believe that the concrete road is good for much longer than twenty years.

Intelligent Understanding.

If we are to have an improvement in the roads, then the improvement must come from an intelligent understanding of the problem.

Four Roads No Hindrance.

In spite of the absence of suitable roads, there are now between 400 and 500 automobiles in Queensland.

Marooning occasionally brings about a modern Crusoe; just as it did with Alexander Selkirk, who was put ashore at Juan Fernandez, and whose adventures gave Defoe the foundation for "Robinson Crusoe." The trading schooner, Queen Charlotte, passing a small island of the Marquesas in the South seas, land of her boat to investigate the smoke of a fire, as it was understood the island was uninhabited. Here was found a United States seaman, who had been put ashore with three shipmates by their captain on account of their mutinous conduct. The three others had died, but the man from Connecticut had contrived to live on the fish he caught, and the breadfruit and coconuts and other products which he could gather. When rescued after three years' loneliness, his utensils consisted of great shells, and two cups which he possessed, made from the skulls of his companions.

How It Started

EXPLOSIVES.

IN THE early days of warfare combatants were hurled at the enemy to help demoralize his ranks. Many experiments were conducted with the idea of producing highly inflammable material. Roger Bacon, a monk, in the Thirteenth century, while experimenting on this subject, happened to use pure instead of impure saltpetre, with the result that he nearly wrecked the place, but from this discovery came our modern powders and high explosives.

Writ of Election Issued for Senator

Santa Fe, N. M., June 14.—Governor M. C. Mechem has issued the call for the special senatorial election on September 20. The call follows:

"Whereas, with the resignation of Albert B. Fall as United States senator from the state of New Mexico a vacancy is caused in the representation of the state of New Mexico in the United States Senate, and

"Whereas, the governor of the state is directed by the constitution of the United States and the laws of the State of New Mexico to issue a writ of election to fill said vacancy by vote of the people.

"Now, therefore I, Merritt C. Mechem, governor of the State of New Mexico, do hereby call a general election in the State of New Mexico to be held on the twentieth day of September, 1921, for the election of a United States senator to fill said vacancy.

"Done at the executive office this sixth day of June, 1921.

"Witness my hand and the great seal of the State of New Mexico.

Dutch Oil Muddle

Washington, June 14.—The latest move of the United States in its diplomatic exchanges with the Netherlands government over America's exclusion from Djambi oil fields of the Dutch East Indies, amounts to a flat rejection of the recent Dutch contention that American interests in the development came too late to permit of participation.

In a note addressed May 27, to The Netherlands foreign minister, part of which was made public by the state department, the various steps taken by the American government, both thru inquiry by the American minister at The Hague, and direct communication with The Netherlands office, are reviewed at length. Great pains are taken to show that from the expression of American sentiment in June, the Dutch authorities have been apprised of the position of the U. S. that American citizens should be permitted to share in development of the Djambi oil regions exactly as Dutch citizens are allowed to enjoy similar concessions in the United States.

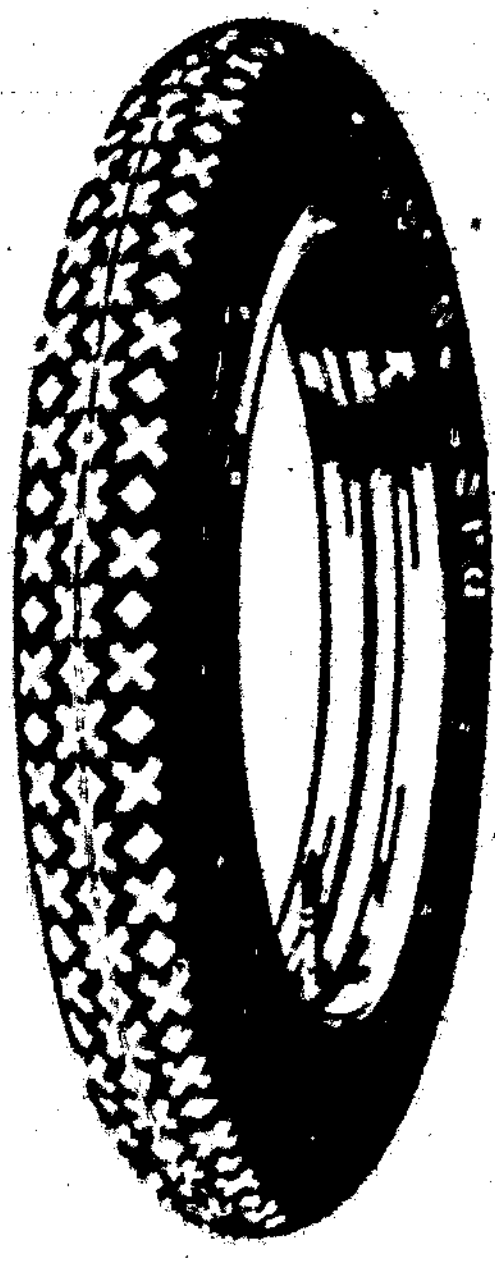

The note, which is a direct reply to the communication of the Netherlands government dispatched May 10, concludes the United States "find it impossible to regard the applications of American companies for permission to participate on its own expense of interest in the matter as having been communicated too late to the government of The Netherlands."

Minister Phillips at the Hague has been instructed to inform The Netherlands government that the United States keeps the question of oil in Djambi open for discussion.

PARSONS NEWS LETTER

Mrs. Baughrey and children of Carrizozo are at Mrs. Reddy's where they intend to spend the summer.

John Wright was here for several days this week doing some necessary work about the mill.

Arthur Givens and family have located in Bear Canon for the summer. Mr. Givens expects to work on the Robertson mines there.

Mrs. J. I. Welch and little daughter Myra-Jo from Dawson are visiting Mrs. Welch's parents. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rice.

Mack Brazil and family are on the Reddy place in Krout Gulch which they intend to farm this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pfingsten and family spent Sunday with the Graftons on the Bonito.

Ira Robinson has been appointed fire guard by the Forest Service, and he and his family have moved to the forest cabin in the Park.

Mr. Reddy came home Saturday and brought the usual week-end visitors to the hospitable Reddy home.

A number of timely showers have improved the looks of the gardens and grain fields during the past week. A hail storm did some damage to gardens around South Fork.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent and family made a trip to Capitan Monday, while Mr. Sam White and wife went the opposite way to Carrizozo for the day. Other ambitious Bonitoites were out also, and all were caught in one or another of the frequent showers that day, but the ones who thoroughly enjoyed the rain were the ones who went to the Women's Potato Patch up Turkey Creek. After being well soaked going up they dried out before a big fire in one of the cabins and went merrily about their work of pulling ferns out of the patch. Of course the ladies expect a bumper crop of potatoes this year.

Contrary to the usual custom of habit, the cattle in the hills this year are eating wild larkspur. Loco, too, is luring cattle to their death; oak leaves, too, is adding to the death list, so that the loss to the cattle men is greater than for many years. The cattle wintered well and the grass came on early, so there is very little reason for the cattle eating what, to them, is poison, except a perverted taste.

A "Doll's Wedding" was celebrated Saturday night amid much hilarity, when Miss Hermione Reddy was united, for a short time, to Mr. James Grafton. The wedding ceremony took place at the home of the grand parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Reddy. The house was profusely decorated with ferns and flowers, and the bridesmaids were dressed in all their Sunday-go-to-meeting finery. Afterwards the wedding party started on a wedding journey by automobile and met with an accident, so had to turn back. The disappointment proved too much for the groom, so he returned home with his mother, Mrs. Eva. The bride hasn't been heard from since.

Me-o-my, how you'll take to a pipe—and P. A.!

Before you're a day older you want to let the idea slip under your hat that this is the open season to start something with a joy'us jimmy pipe—and some Prince Albert!

Because, a pipe packed with Prince Albert satisfies a man as he was never satisfied before—and keeps him satisfied! And, you can prove it! Why—P. A.'s flavor and fragrance and coolness and its freedom from bite and parch (cut out by our exclusive patented process) are a revelation to the man who never could get acquainted with a pipe! P. A. has made a pipe a thing of joy to four men where one was smoked before!

Ever roll up a cigarette with Prince Albert? Man, man—but you've got a party coming your way! Talk about a cigarette smoke; we tell you it's a peach!

Prince Albert is sold in tippy red bags, tidy red tins, handsome pouches and hold pouches, numbers and in the second crystal glass tins and with sponge moisture top.

Politics and Business

Washington, D. C. June 14.—George White, Democratic national chairman, is in Washington on party business and professes to be "something more than satisfied with political prospects from his particular point of view.

"As a partisan," he said, "I am able to contemplate the state of the country, without succumbing to any emotions of grief. As a business man, my feelings are less jubilant."

Mr. White thinks the warnings contained in Will H. Hays farewell message to the Republican national committee, were "sound and well timed."

NOVEL SUITS FOR SPRING

Many of the style features that distinguish this season's suits are attractively combined in the trim model, with its straight-line silhouette, that invites study here. Beginning with this uprightness of line it adds the flaring sleeve, the odd management of pockets, simplicity and cleverness in its decoration to appeal to the woman who likes smart suits that follow new styles in a conservative way. The very simplest of embroidery is used on it but it is unusually effective—especially where it defines the arm's eye.

GOV.-GENERAL OF PHILIPPINES FOR FREEDOM

Declares It Not Right That Freedom Should Longer Be Withheld.

By FRANCIS BURTON HARRISON, Governor-General of the Philippines. (First Article.)

Gov. Gen. Harrison

My six years' experience as governor-general of the Philippine Islands have convinced me that the Philippine people are ready and fit to have their independence. I have recommended to Congress, as well as to the executive administration, that independence be granted. As to the question of the stability of government, I wish to say to the American people upon my responsibility as the governor-general that in my opinion there exists today in the Philippine Islands a stable government, which I think should answer the requirements laid down by Presidents Grant and McKinley, and as I understand it, also by Mr. Root—namely, a government elected by the suffrage of the people, which is supported by the people, which is capable of maintaining order and of fulfilling its international obligations. I am very glad to go on record as being entirely in sympathy with the aspirations of the Filipino nation for independence.

I have recommended to Congress that in granting independence some provision be made similar to what is known as the Platt amendment in the treaty with Cuba, which restricts the ability of the new republic in borrowing of foreign governments and also permits the United States to interfere with the affairs of the new republic in case conditions of disorder should be found to prevail. Such recommendation does not come as an expression of the views of the Philippines; it is my own view of what would be desirable to secure a feeling of confidence and satisfaction on the part of all persons who have already invested money in the Philippines or who contemplate doing so in the near future.

But it is not right that independence itself should longer be delayed. By temperament, by experience, by financial ability, in every way, the 11,000,000 Filipinos are entitled to be free from every government except of their own choice. They are intelligent enough to decide for themselves. I have found the native Philippine official to be honest, efficient and as capable of administering executive positions as any men I have met anywhere in the world.

These officials are today governing 1,000 municipalities and forty-two provinces, economically, efficiently and for the good of the entire people. They have a native congress, including many graduates of Yale, Princeton, Harvard and other American universities. Other members are graduates of Santo Tomas and other Philippine universities, and in education and ability they compare favorably with any I know.

They have leaders like Speaker Quenson of the House of Representatives and President Quizon of the Senate who would adorn any office. The Philippines are away ahead of the United States in successful government ownership and operation of public utilities.

The government took hold of the steam railways and made them pay a profit of 1,000,000 pesos a year more than under private ownership. It took hold of the highways, and we have 7,000 miles of the best macadamized roads in the world. The Manila city government is about to take over the street railways and the gas and electric plants, while the territorial government is arranging for ownership and control of the coal supply.

The movement for independence is a peaceful one. No territory was more loyal to Uncle Sam during the war. It offered an armed and equipped division to our government, gave it a submarine destroyer and over-subscribed Liberty loans and Red Cross funds. Two million natives speak English fluently, and there are 700,000 English speaking children in the public schools. I am more than willing to retire if the Philippines can be granted what they deserve—a government like that of the United States.

A MISREPRESENTED RACE.

The Filipino people are a much misrepresented race. The frequent publication of pictures of semi-naked Mindanao Moros and Igorotes has caused a great many Americans to believe they are typical of the inhabitants of the Philippines. Such is far from the case, however. Of 11,000,000 inhabitants of the islands, 10,000,000 are a Christian, civilized people with a culture and refinement that will compare very favorably with that of other nations. The Filipino women are especially

"Bandit Queen" Tells of Life

Reveals Romances Which Led to Her Arrest as Instigator of $23,000 Robbery.

HELD IN CORD OF CRIME

Left Home at 13 and Since Then Has Struck Out Against World—Rivals Fought for Her Hand When She Was Kitchenmaid.

Lead, S. D.—From the life of a kitchenmaid in Lead to the role of an alleged bandit queen, who inspired the $23,000 bank robbery which occurred in Denver recently, has been the experience of Edna Beck, who passed several years here. The girl is twenty-three years old. While she was living in Lead several fights were started between young men who were rivals for her hand. After leaving Lead the girl continued her romantic conquests, and it is said a man was killed in Minneapolis last fall because of her. The $23,000 bank robbery in Denver was brought on because of the extravagant tastes of the girl and the man with whom she has now been living. They were arrested in a fashionable Denver residence. An interview published in the Denver Post follows: Edna Carroll, the alleged "bandit queen," who answers to three other names equally droll, including that of "Mickey," is twenty-three years old. Hushed a Living. For ten years this girl, companion of Thomas J. Coleman, one of the three men who robbed Stockyards National bank employees of $23,000, has been what she calls "hustling" a living, and in those ten years she has added to inherited memories a mass of wisdom concerning good and evil. At twenty-three this girl with the bright coloring, black hair and level gazing eyes has the lives of two men linked to her own with the cord of crime, the police say. One of these, R. E. Cavanaugh, she thought so much of that she bought the wedding ring for the third finger of her left hand and wore it when she consented to "beat the town and go away with him for better or worse." Cavanaugh, a mechanic, was killed in Minneapolis last year, and Miss Carroll, her wedding ring still gleaming from her finger, returned to Denver. "Then I met Coleman," she said. "He sat at the same table with me in a restaurant, and, since in my set we don't wait for introductions, we began to talk, and as he was the second man I've met that I wanted to marry I agreed to give up my business and go with him. We had great plans. These plans included things I had never thought of before." Then Edna "Mickey" Carroll progressed and told what life had been up to the time she met Coleman, the dapper, dandy "oil broker," at the cafe.

"First off, I wish to remark that I have no use for women," she said, with a thin smile that challenged a retort. "I never knew one that would not double-cross you sooner or later, and most always sooner. My aunt gave me my first impression of what women really are. I was born in South Dakota and got tired of living at home and at thirteen I left and went to Lead to work as a housemaid. "There I earned $15 a month and got roasted for everything I did and did not do. Took Easiest Way. "I decided that this sort of work didn't agree with me, and as I had not been educated to do any other kind I took the easiest way. "Easiest?" was asked. "Not always; most times terribly hard," she answered. "I made a lot of money and saved it, and sometimes I shared it with a sick pal. But by the time I met Coleman I had saved $3,000, with which I bought the automobile they're making so much fuss over. That was my money. I earned it and not a cent was his. "Tom always seemed to have plenty of money, and as he suggested that he would rent a house for a little while, buy a car and later go away and set ourselves up in a rooming house that would bring us in an income I didn't see any need of taking on my wedding ring. "I'd dreamed of a home, a husband, good clothes and a car and a maid to wait on us. The dream came true. And when, on our first evening at home, a neighbor called as we were at dinner, the dream was too good to last. Yesterday Tom told me he had bought a suit of clothes at a downtown store and asked me if I would go and get it for him. When I got back to the house things had blown up and here I am."

Smallest Will in N. J. Contains Only 55 Words

New York.—The smallest will ever filed in the office of the Surrogate of Essex County, New Jersey, is that of W. Makepeace, of 150 Summit av., Montclair, which has just been admitted to probate. It was written on a sheet of note paper, wrinkled and stained, measuring about six by three inches. It is also one of the shortest ever filed in the county, containing fifty-five words. Mr. Makepeace, who died March 27, bequeathed all his property, valued at about $1,500, to his wife.

Hunters Get Alligator

Anniston, Ala.—A party of four Anniston hunters, who had returned from a big hunt in Florida with several deer and a large number of wild ducks and other small game, had an exciting experience with a wildcat and an alligator. Members of the party chased the wildcat into an alligator hole and then dug in to get it. Instead they brought out, after some difficulty, a big alligator, which had eaten the cat after a short battle in the hole.

Owens Entire Village

Bought Turnerville and Hung Own Name on Place.

Owing to Impaired Health, C. M. Ams Now Seeks to Relieve Himself of Burden of Honor.

Colchester, Conn.—Owning an entire village and reigning supreme as the boss of the hamlet has lost its charms for C. M. Ams of Mount Vernon, N. Y., principally because of impaired health, and he is soon to relieve himself of the burden of that honor. In December, 1912, Mr. Ams became sole proprietor of the then Village of Turnerville, lying between Williamsville and Middletown on the Air Line division of the New Haven railroad and a few miles from Colchester. The attractive feature of the village is its wonderful water power. At the top of a hill overlooking it is a lake a mile and a quarter square, fed by hidden springs which never fail, and the water can be let down so as to produce between 600 and 1,000 horse power. The first man to perceive the value of this lake was the one whom the place was originally named—P. W. Turner, who started the silk industry there. He employed over 200 men and erected about fifty tenements for their accommodation. When Mr. Turner died, in 1903, his son and widow attempted to carry on the business, but with only fair success. In 1909 the whole property, including four factories, the lake, the village store and hotel and over 2,000 acres of land, was sold to J. Eisenstein & Co. and David Brown, who operated walking cane and silk factories in New York and New Jersey. They moved their factories to Turnerville, but suffered reverses. Fires destroyed two of the four buildings, and of the two remaining at the time of Mr. Ams' advent one was being run as a cane factory and the other was idle. When Mr. Ams took possession of the village he got legislative permission to change its name to "Amston." Taking up his residence in the old Turner homestead, he set to work to develop and beautify the site and its surroundings. One of his first penance-factions was a bird sanctuary, where the habits of wild birds were studied by Prof. Herbert K. Job, one of the specialists at the State Agricultural college at Storrs. The old hotel was replaced by a modern inn, and improvements were made all along the line.

WASHINGTON SIDELIGHTS

Game Sanctuaries for Eastern States

WASHINGTON.—Senator Shields of Tennessee has introduced a bill in congress to establish a sanctuary or sanctuaries for game animals and for birds and fish in the national forest reserve. In introducing it he said, among other things: Mr. Shields—There are a great many sanctuaries for game, or game preserves, established in the national parks of the United States in the Rocky Mountains and the Middle West which are accessible to the people of the states lying west of the Mississippi river and lying adjacent to the great Appalachian range. The act of congress passed in 1911, commonly known as the Weeks law, established forest reservations especially for the purpose of protecting the watersheds of the great navigable rivers which have their source in the Appalachian mountains by protecting the forests and restoring the deforested areas. The commission has purchased something short of 2,000,000 acres in those mountains, and the title is now vested in the United States and under the control of the Agricultural department. Of these 2,000,000 acres some 400,000 acres are located in New Hampshire, 337,000 in Virginia, 326,000 in North Carolina, 300,000 in Tennessee, 183,000 in Georgia, 130,000 in West Virginia, 130,000 in Pennsylvania, 62,000 in Alabama, 56,000 in Arkansas, 32,000 in Massachusetts and 19,000 in South Carolina. Eventually some 7,000,000 acres will be purchased. These lands, while primarily purchased for the purpose of protecting the watersheds of navigable rivers, are also intended as recreation grounds for all the states lying east of the Mississippi river. I believe that it is of great importance and great interest to the people of all the states lying east of the Mississippi that further purchases be made for the original purposes provided in the Weeks law and that game sanctuaries be established upon them for the breeding and protection of game, birds and fish.

Mandate: New International Relation

WHAT is a mandate? The mandate is asserted by international lawyers to be a new principle in international relations. In theory a mandate is an order from a league of the civilized nations of the world to one of those nations, making it responsible for the welfare of a certain nation or piece of territory, considered to be less civilized. The ideal of the mandate is that the civilized nations, instead of exploiting the backward ones, each as it can, should care for them and be responsible to the whole world for the results. In practice a mandate is permission, given by the powers which won the late war to one of those powers, to supervise the affairs of some backward country. The mandatory nation enjoys certain advantages in that territory, but it also has certain responsibilities to the League of Nations, which, if enforced, would raise the development of backward countries to a higher level both from the economic and the humanitarian point of view. Of course, in this matter, everything really depends upon what the council of the league wants to do and is able to do. The mandate also seeks to keep one nation from exploiting exclusively a backward territory, and to give the other members of the league certain rights in it. But it does not do as much for the nations which are not members of the league. The council of the League of Nations acknowledges three chief kinds of mandates. The A class mandates cover former Turkish possessions, including Mesopotamia. The B class mandates cover islands of the Pacific, south of the Equator, and the C class mandates cover islands in the Pacific, north of the Equator. The Palestine mandate is in a sense a fourth kind. It is sometimes said that A, in mandatory language, stands for oil, and C stands for cables. In the administration of the B class mandate, therefore, if anywhere, will be seen exemplified that high international altruism which is supposed to be the motive of the mandate.

Eight Western States for Reclamation

GOVERNORS of western states, after a preliminary discussion in Denver of irrigation and reclamation legislation have presented to President Harding and members of congress the result of their conference. In the party were Gov. Thomas E. Campbell of Arizona, president of the League of the Southwest; Gov. J. W. Davis of Idaho, president of the Western States Reclamation association; Gov. Emmet D. Boyle of Nevada; Gov. Charles B. Mabey of Utah; Gov. Louis Hart of Washington and Gov. Joseph B. Dixon of Montana. Governors Shoup of Colorado and Mecham of New Mexico participated in the Denver conference. "We present a 'solid front' to the powers in Washington for the first time in 18 years," said Gov. Davis. "We will, of course, use every means to secure the fulfillment of the platform pledge of reclamation. Both of the big parties were pledged to the program. Our efforts probably will be centered on the Smith-McNary bill." The Smith-McNary bill is known as the "co-operative reclamation act" and provides for the establishment of a $250,000,000 revolving fund for the construction of new irrigation projects and the completion of those already under way. One of its provisions requires the employment of former service men on reclamation projects erected from the fund. It also gives preference to service men on any lands made available through the reclamation act. In addition the governors ask the early passage of a bill authorizing the appointment of a federal "ambassador" to participate in the compact proposed between the Colorado river basin states. This movement has the backing of the League of the Southwest. It is hoped to settle the long-standing disputes between the states over the use of the waters of the Colorado river for irrigation purposes. Settlement will save thousands of dollars to taxpayers in court litigation.

BEFORE AND AFTER CHILDBIRTH

Mrs. Williams Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Kept Her in Health

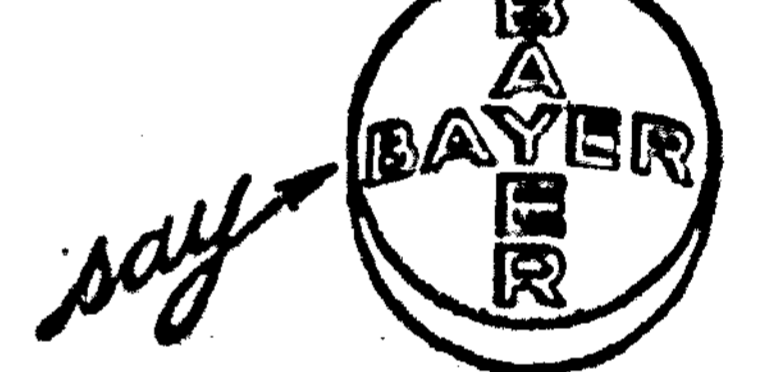

Overpeck, O.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me both before and after my baby was born. I suffered with backache, headache, was generally run down and weak. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers and decided to try it. Now I feel fine, take care of my two boys and do my own work. I recommend your medicine to anyone who is ailing. You may publish my testimony if you think it will help others."—Mrs. CARRIE WILLIAMS, Overpeck, Ohio.

For more than forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been restoring women to health who suffered from irregularities, displacements, backaches, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness or "the blues." Today there is hardly a town or hamlet in the United States wherein some woman does not reside who has been made well by it. That is why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for such ailments.

Designed the White House. The designer of the White House was James Hoban, born in Ireland about 1753. He came to the United States, settling in Charleston, S. C., and later to Washington when the city was first being laid out. He worked for the government for the greater part of his life. He is chiefly known for his work in connection with the White House, the rebuilding of which he directed after it was burned in 1814.

Show U. S. Buildings

Notable Display Placed in Old Salon in Paris.

Photographs of 300 Structures Selected by Committee of the American Institute of Architects. Paris.—An exhibit of photographs of a great number of notable buildings in the United States, public and private, constitutes an unusual feature of the annual exhibition of the Societe des Artistes Francais, popularly known as the Old Salon. Photographs of more than 300 exhibits from the leading American architects occupy a special section in the exhibition, a thing never before done in France. The American collection was organized by the American Institute of Architects.

The state capitals of Wisconsin and Missouri. The ecclesiastical architecture is represented by photographs of the Chapel of the Intercession and the Chapel of St. Thomas' church, both in New York; the chapel at West Point; the First Congregational church at Riverside, Cal., and St. Catharine's church of Boston.

Several buildings at Wellesley, Harvard and Princeton are among the educational buildings. American architecture is further illustrated by photographs of the buildings of the Century, Harvard and University clubs of New York; the Country club of St. Louis; the University club of Chicago. Several hotels and theaters and typical American stores and manufacturing buildings are represented. Notable American residences also are portrayed. Nose Dive Restores Hearing. "Commerce the Lifeblood of a Nation"

THE old axiom that "Commerce is the lifeblood of a nation" could be amended to read "and of its courts," according to attorneys of years' experience before the United States Supreme court. Inquiry of a number of experts on constitutional law as to the section which has been productive of most litigation brought the unanimous response: "Article I, section 8, paragraph 3." This section, one of the shortest in the Constitution, declares that congress shall have the power to "regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states." From that brief clause, however, have arisen all the rate cases, those involving public utilities, the interstate commerce commission, child labor, federal employees' liability act, the letter law, the white slave act and, more recently, the numerous prohibition statutes preceding the amendment itself. must be interpreted to mean "intercourse," and lawyers say his wide interpretation was the progenitor of the whole family of legal battles turning upon the commerce section. Be that as it may, under recent decisions of the Supreme court, "commerce" has been interpreted to cover not only the movement of goods, but of man and woman—as in the white slave act. Within the last few weeks, no less than a dozen cases involving in some

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

C. H. Thornton was here one day (his week from his home at Oscura.

New Mexico's stringent anti-gambling law became effective on last Sunday, July 12.

Oscar Brockwell was here Wednesday evening from Ft Stanton, having brought over some friends who were leaving on that night's train.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Mints were up Tuesday from their home on Three Rivers. They report good rains and grass coming fine.

Mrs. Carl Hartley and baby came in Monday night from Springer, and left on next morning's stage for Capitan to pay a visit to her mother, Mrs. Anna Brazil.

C. A. Barnhart, who has had charge of the power plant at White Oaks for some time past, came down the first of the month and has opened an automobile repair shop here.

Major McKean, formerly of Ft. Stanton, but now chief of a government hospital at San Diego, passed through here Sunday for Washington on official business.

Hence Cochran was down Wednesday from the Ancho-Jicarilla country. He reports good rains over his section, and that live stock are picking up rapidly with the fast-growing range.

Rev. C. C. Higbee, pastor of the First Methodist Church, returned Tuesday from El Paso. He had spent about ten days there attending the Preachers' Summer Assembly and Sunday School Institute.

Good rains have fallen the past week in different parts of the county, but this locality could stand a little more just now. Only very light showers have fallen here since the general rains of two weeks ago.

Word received from Hondo this week is refreshing. Apple trees in that section are said to be already bending with their loads and will need thinning. Other fruit growing sections are not as fortunate.

Major Campbell and W. M. McDonald came up from El Paso Wednesday on No. 4. The Major, after a few days here, will go the Lodge at Eagle Creek, while Mr. McDonald, who is a mining engineer, will examine some mining properties located near here.

Paul Markovitch came over from Fort Stanton Tuesday and took No. 4 for Green Bay, Wisconsin. Paul has a 30-day leave and will spend his vacation with an uncle and family. Smoke good cigars, Paul, but keep away from the stuff that made Milwaukee famous.

Monroe Howard came over from Little Creek yesterday morning to bring a daughter who took No. 3 for Texas. Mr. Howard says his section has had splendid rains, live stock are in splendid condition and farm prospects never better.

Miss Eva French, sister of J. B. French, arrived Sunday from Knoxville, Tenn., for a visit with her brother and family. Miss French spent her vacation here six years ago, and made many friends who are again pleased to see her.

A company of the 8th Engineers from Fort Bliss breakfasted here Wednesday morning. They were enroute to Pueblo to assist in the clean-up. There were two sections of work units, besides supply wagons and team of many kinds. They were about 100 men in the company.

A number of other persons have been seen here recently.

under the shady pines. Good strings were caught; one party claims he landed 75 from the South Fork in about three hours.

J. D. Luttrell, a mining engineer of Benton Harbor, Mich., arrived last week, and may remain some time looking after his mining interests in Lincoln county. He is interested in the Vera Cruz Mining Co., whose property is located near Nogal, and which has been operated at various times during the past 25 years.

Julian Taylor and family returned Sunday from a motor car trip to Arizona. They intended going to the coast, but the excessive and other things caused them to postpone the trip until the sun was on the other side of the fence. Traveling over the southern route will be pleasant in the fall.

Richard Brockman, plumber at Fort Stanton, returned Sunday from a 30-day vacation, spent on the coast. While in Frisco he located his missing son, whom he had not heard from for years. The boy "did his bit" in the belly of a submarine during the war, and was later transferred to a destroyer. He is now married and the owner of a profitable business in Frisco. Brockman, senior, put in ten years on a U. S. Revenue cutter, and the boy must have inherited his father's taste for the sea when he chooses a submarine for his. Blood will tell.

Harvest Hands Wanted

The News received a wire on Tuesday from the Chamber of Commerce, Liberal, Kan., stating that work was beginning there and that hundreds of men were wanted. We wired for more definite information as to the character of the work, rate of pay and duration of the job. In response we had an answer to the effect that the pay was $4.00 a day, and that stackers, barge men, teamsters, cooks, etc., were wanted at once, and that many men could be used.

White Oaks

The Woman's Social Club met last Thursday with Mrs. F. G. Smith. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in card-playing and visiting. A lunch of salad, cake and lemonade was served. The next meeting, two weeks hence, will be with Mrs. S. E. Barber.

More Aid for Pueblo

Seven cars of stock and feed operation supplies were shipped out of Fort Bliss Tuesday for use in relief work in flood-stricken Pueblo. They went over the El Paso and Southwestern railway. Supplies included four waggon, 24 mules and a team of horses, a car of kitchen equipment and one of feed. It was consigned to the commanding officer of the Eighth Engineers, Pueblo. Clearing and reconstruction are the uses for which the stuff is designed.

A. L. will have a Big Time in Roswell July 4th

The De Bremond Post will put out on the biggest celebration on the Fourth that Roswell has ever held. Beginning with a street dance Saturday night, there will be a ball game Sunday, two ball games Monday, stunt flying by two army planes, a boxing carnival in the evening followed by another street dance, and many other features.

Eagle Creek Lodge

NOTICE TO MEMBERS
Notice is hereby given to members of the Southwestern Fish, Game and Forest Protective Association that the annual meeting of the association will be held at the Lodge on Eagle Creek, July 5, 1921. A chicken dinner will be served at 2:00 p.m. There will be speaking, also a program of amusements. All members and their families are requested to be present.

G. T. McQUILLEN,
Secretary.

First Methodist Church

Rev. C. C. Higbee returned Thursday morning from El Paso, where he has been for a week attending lectures in the Preachers' Summer Assembly, and has added another credit toward a Teacher Training diploma. Mrs. W. J. Fetter also attended the Sunday School Institute.

At the services Sunday will be given an echo of the above-named gatherings. Rev. Higbee is an expert stenographer, and will bring to us Dr. C. C. Seleckman's opening lecture at the 11 a.m. hour, and some other lectures yet to be decided at 8 p.m.

BALED MUSIC

"THERE'S going to be a great concert at the opera house to-night," said the retired merchant, "and if you'll go along with me, I'll pay your way and buy you five cents' worth of peanuts. For sure nothing could be more liberal than that."

"You'll break yourself up in business if you go around wasting your substance in that fashion," replied the hotel keeper. But you will have to hunt up another victim. Since I bought a phonograph and a bunch of records I have quit going to concerts. There's nothing but vanity and vexation of spirit about an entertainment of that kind. It's advertised to start at a certain hour, say eight o'clock, and you are credulous enough to think that the specifications will be lived up to. You break a horse strap to get there in time, and when you arrive, at ten minutes to eight, you find you're the first one there. You sit around, waiting for an hour or two, and people walk on your feet and sit down on your hat and make things unpleasant as possible.

"By the time the curtain goes up, you are wishing you had possessed sense enough to stay at home. But, being there, and having paid for the privilege, you determine to hold her nozle agin the bank, as it were.

"The entertainment usually is opened by a talker. The man who makes a few remarks always looms up at such entertainments, and should be taken to jail for obtaining money under false pretenses. When he has said all that he can think of, the artists begin to dish up the music. It may be elegant music—it usually is. But you can't enjoy it in comfort, for the gentleman with the large splay foot, in the seat directly behind you, persists in beating time with that organ until he drives you frantic. If you turn around and get him in the eye, you will be ejected from the building.

"Then you will find that the woman with a shrill, carrying voice, who has heard better singers, sits right in front of you, and she keeps on talking in a maddening way. The last concert I attended had a fine contralto who sang some stem-winding songs of the kind we all like. But the woman with the shrill voice was right in front of me, and I could hear her saying: 'Really, you should hear Margaret Keyes or Christine Miller sing that selection; this woman is impossible as a vocalist.'

"Then a man with a hectic voice and a name that he imported without paying duty on it, stood up and whined like a doggone sebra, and we were expected to believe that he was singing a Neapolitan song. I never heard anything that filed my nerves the way that voice did. It recalled the halcyon days when my father used to sharpen a buckaw with a rasp. Well, when he finished his first number, the applause was frantic, and he reared up and did it all over again. Then the applause was louder than ever, and he whined something else. They kept that blasted plate there for half an hour, and I don't know when I suffered so much.

"The hall was overflooded, and I was jammed in the middle of a row of seats so I couldn't get out without climbing over a number of ladies and gentlemen. We were kept there for three hours, and when I got out I swore by my Sunday hat I'd never go to another public concert.

"Next day I bought a phonograph and a lot of records of the kind I like, and now I enjoy my music. I start it when I get ready, and quit when I am tired. No punk singers are encored. No Windy Jims introduce the singers with a few pertinent remarks. If a singer displeases me, I stop the machine and throw the record into the alley. You'd better tear up your concert ticket and come and hear my music mill."

Hard Hit
"What's wrong, old man? You look blue."
"Had a scrap with my wife this morning."
"Oh, don't let a little thing like that worry you. A thunderstorm clears the atmosphere, you know."
"Yes, but that doesn't help a man when he's been struck by lightning!" — Boston Transcript

Of Course
"You made a big bet that you were out for strike headquarters?"
"Yes, sir."
"Yet your opponent couldn't resist getting your name in the paper?"
"No, sir, that's what's better."

WALK-OVER

The Man Who Leads Men!

WALK-OVER has his style of Shoe, the exact shape of his foot. He is being fitted at the WALK-OVER Store every day. He likes the shape and style of the shoes he wears, because they are made for HIS feet. He takes for granted that the quality of the leather is the best, because they are Walk-Overs.
