OLDEST AND LEADING NEWSPAPER IN CIRCULATION IN THE COUNTY OF LINCOLN, NEW MEXICO

VOLUME 21

CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, SEPT. 2, 1921

NUMBER 35

Former Residents of This Section Killed by Bandits

Frank J. Pearson, a former citizen of Carrizozo, and his wife were foully murdered by Mexican bandits on Thursday of last week at Ruby, a small town in Arizona, about three miles north of the Mexico line. The other members of the family escaped while the bandits were looting the store and postoffice conducted by Mr. Pearson.

According to press dispatches, the Pearsons put up a stiff fight against the bandits. Pearson took two shots at them after falling from his fatal wounds. Mrs. Pearson was shot in the head and two or three times in the body.

Miss Lizzie Purcell, a sister of Mrs. Pearson, fainted after being shot in the left hand, and did not recover consciousness until after the departure of the bandits, who evidently thought they had killed her.

Miss Irene Pearson, who was visiting her brother and his family, escaped through a window, carrying the five-year-old daughter of the murdered couple with her. This child (Marjorie) was born in Carrizozo.

The Pearsons will be remembered by many of our readers. Mr. Pearson came to this section about 1912 and took up a homestead about six miles east of the Carrizozo mountains, and was a neighbor of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Meese, who had a homestead adjoining.

In 1916 he married Miss Purcell of Texas. The couple lived here about a year, moving to Arizona in 1917. While here they were prominent in church circles, Mr. Pearson being at one time superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school. They had a number of warm friends here, among them being Attorney W. C. Merchant and family, with whom they corresponded regularly.

Arrest of Lee Newman Creates Sensation

The sensation of the week in this section of the state was the arrest Monday of Lee Newman of El Paso, known to many in Carrizozo, on charges of repression for prostitution and the gift of intoxicants to minors. It is alleged that Newman persuaded two Alamogordo girls—Bonnie McCommis, aged 13, and Bernadotte Rogers, aged 14—to leave their homes, promising to get them jobs and buy them clothes.

After a diligent search by Sheriff Beacham and his men the girls were found, scantily clad, in an abandoned adobe hut, about 1 1/2 miles from Alamogordo. The sheriff says when the girls were found about midnight Sunday their breaths reeked of liquor. It is charged they were automobile riding Saturday night with Newman and a Mexican. The girls said they had been in the hut since early Sunday morning.

Feeling ran high in Alamogordo following the finding of the two girls, and it is said armed men gathered and threatened to go to El Paso.

Lee Newman, a wealthy El Paso realty agent, insists that he is innocent, and says he is ready to face trial at Alamogordo at any time. He has a wife and small daughter.

Postmaster-Editor Dies

Arthur Wimberly, for a number of years editor of the Hagerman Messenger and postmaster at Hagerman died last Monday of blood poisoning. He was commander of the American Legion post at Hagerman, and prominent in business and social circles. He was buried at Hagerman.

Sunday's Ball Game

The Vaughn ball team came down Sunday and trimmed us to the tune of 9 to 5. It was a rather ragged game, devoid of thrills and one in which striking plays were conspicuous by their absence. But at that, there was no lack of interest, because the fans were kept on the anxious seat from beginning to end wondering which team was going to make the greater number of scores; for it was quite clear that both teams were striving for the booby prize. Finally the visitors lost—the booby prize—the score standing at the close of the game: Vaughn 9, Carrizozo 5.

Americans Now Saving

A dispatch from Washington says: Having dropped some of our spendthrift habits, we Americans are actually saving some money, according to the treasury savings division. Acting Director O. C. Lester gave out figures showing that investors have war savings securities valued at $676,520,000.

"The savings campaign," he said, "has raised a substantial amount for the government, popularized the investment of small savings in government securities and helped create a national sentiment for thrift. It has started thousands to save who never saved before."

Educational Notes

(By Mrs. M. L. Blawie)
The Lincoln county board of education met in the office of the county superintendent of schools August 29, 1921.

The petition of patrons of school district No. 23 asking that the board restore this district to its original boundaries was considered and granted.

Contract for the transportation of children of school district No. 28 was awarded to Albert Rhode. This is the first time that bids for truck service have been received.

With the exception of two or three districts, contracts for teachers have been approved by the county board. These districts are reported as having teachers hired.

The state board has been delayed in sending out the courses of study for the coming year on account of the printers being unable to complete same. We hope to furnish copies of same by the time school opens, Sept. 5.

Teachers are requested to study carefully the eleven proposed constitutional amendments which will be voted upon Sept. 20 and be able to explain those relating to schools to the patrons of their respective districts. A nation is judged by its education, and we cannot afford to reduce the standard our schools have attained and to maintain this standard costs money.

Since all the people of the county are interested in the county high school, I submit the following report of that school for the year ending June 30, 1921:

Enrollment senior high school 36
Four senior graduates.
Enrollment junior high school 34
Nine eighth grade graduates.
Total 60
Total cost to county for maintenance $9,825

School organizations: Parent-Teachers association.

Library association added 146 volume to library.

Athletic association; Financed by the association.

Home economics department; Financed by the assistance of girls of the department and donations made by friends. Balance on hand, $112.

Manual training department; Repaired building, built basketball court, tables for domestic science, repaired articles brought from homes and constructed simple cabinets.

Pay It—and Smile

The school poll tax of $1 is collected from all male persons having attained the age of 21 years. The law does not excuse ex-service men or any man on account of old age. Having attained the age of 60 or 70 or even 90 years does not exempt from the payment of this poll tax.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

Nonpartisan Meeting

There will be a nonpartisan meeting at the court house Saturday afternoon, Sept. 3, at 3 o'clock, the purpose being to discuss, for the benefit of women voters, the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on Sept. 20. All interested, including male voters, are invited to be present. It is important that the proposed amendments be thoroughly understood by every voter.

Hanna Club Organized

A Hanna club was organized here Monday night, with E. M. Brickley, chairman; Mrs. Frances McD. Spencer, vice-chairman; Ralph M. Treat, secretary, and Mrs. Vera Cole, assistant secretary. The purpose, of course, is to aid Judge Hanna's candidacy for the United States senate and to work with the county democratic organization to the furtherance of that end.

Lincoln county's delegates to the state convention pledged financial aid to Judge Hanna's campaign, and one of the aims of the Hanna club will be to see that this pledge is made good. In fact, liberal subscriptions have already been made, and we believe from the spirit manifested there will not be any difficulty in the democrats of Lincoln county meeting the obligation. Every voter who intends to support Judge Hanna in this campaign is urged to sign the roll of the club, and everyone is also urged to give what financial aid conditions warrant, though enrollment is the main thing and carries no obligation to subscribe to the financial campaign. The membership roll is at the clerk's office, court house.

July Precipitation

The precipitation in Lincoln county at nine different points, which has been furnished by the weather bureau for July, is as follows:

Think They Lost $10,000

Employees of the Roswell Buick company are certain that Ed. Morse, the missing Denver bank cashier, and Miss Mabel Penfold, his companion, who are being sought all over the country, were stoppers at the garage last Tuesday morning. This conviction comes from a picture of the pair printed in an El Paso paper. The man, the girl and the car all correspond to the printed descriptions, and the Buickites are still thinking of the $10,000 reward they might have had if they had known as much as they know now. The alleged Morse stockpiled up with gas and oil for a continuous run to El Paso, which city he seemed to be in powerful haste to reach.—Roswell News.

School Notes

(By Superintendent E. E. Cole.)

The Carrizozo schools will open Monday, Sept. 5, at 9 o'clock, for a short session, after which they will be dismissed for the day. It is very important that every pupil be in place on the first day. Those having the Beacon reader, or the Pearson and Martin reader, should bring it, either to use or to sell to someone else.

Parents and pupils please note the following directions:

Third grade pupils should go to Miss Humphrey's room.

All second grade pupils should go to Mrs. Massie's room.

All first grade pupils should go to Miss Burton's room.

All primary pupils from the west side should go to Miss Ivy Lindsay's room.

All primary pupils from the east side should go to Mrs. Craddock's room on the east side.

The above arrangement puts every pupil of each grade into the same room, with the same teacher, with the same instruction, and the same chance of promotion.

The other teachers of the city are:

E. E. Cole, superintendent and sciences.

Bryan Cazier, principal, manual training, athletics.

Fanny Fordon, commercial branches.

Martha Laver, English and librarian.

Lillian Cowan, Spanish and home economics.

Mrs. W. L. Gumm, supervisor of grades and eighth grade.

Mrs. Nellie Clark, seventh grade.

Mrs. Jay Vaughn, sixth grade.

Mrs. Tuton, fifth grade.

Ellen Herron, fourth grade.

Mrs. J. B. French, substitute teacher.

There will be a general teachers' meeting Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in room 8 of the high school, at which all teachers are expected to be present.

Big Corn Crop

Iowa's corn crop, estimated at 405,229,000 bushels, will probably be fed to live stock on the farms of the state, according to farmers and farm experts, says a press dispatch from Des Moines. The main reason for this is that the cost of marketing the corn is so high that there is no profit for the farmers at the present market price, the experts declare.

Bursum's Past Performances vs. His Campaign Promises

Mr. H. O. Bursum, former superintendent of the state penitentiary, thinks he should no longer be asked to explain about the missing books. He likewise believes that it is unfair to drag his record of the past twenty years into the United States senatorial campaign when he has a brand new set of perfectly good promises which he will perform, he says, if he is returned to the senate seat which he secured temporarily through his control of the governor.

Nominated by his hand-picked group of professional Bursumites, the gentleman who used to run the profitable supply store at Socorro and who gave Secundino Romero a federal job for helping him take the 1920 convention away from the majority, says his platform is "Service." The only kind of service Bursum has performed in New Mexico has been service for H. O. Bursum, the interests, and for the old-guard copper-riveted political gang.

Mr. Bursum seems to assume that because he is running for a federal job his record in the state is no longer of moment. He has admitted, despite the uproar of his press agents, that he didn't accomplish anything very important in four months in the United States senate. But he has a swell line of promises.

Look at your tax receipt, look at the company Mr. Bursum keeps, look at the crowd which nominated him, look over the economic situation in the state, look at the big interests which have got off easy while you pay the freight, remember Mr. Bursum's record, recall the fact that he always has been the leader of the republican organization in New Mexico and decide whether or not this is the best New Mexico can do for United States senatorial timber.

And don't forget that he has a fine new hand-painted, gilt-edged, plausible and pretty line of promises.

Oscuro Woman's Club

The Oscuro Woman's club held a call meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. H. A. Ranniger, Saturday, August 27. The purpose of the meeting was to amend the constitution in order to increase the dues to 75 cents and to study the eleven proposed constitutional amendments to be voted upon by the people at the special election Sept. 20. After the business and study hours were passed the guests were served with excellent refreshments such as are always found at the Ranniger home.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

President Is Building Up Popularity

WASHINGTON.—It is common talk that the human side of Warren G. Harding is building for him a popularity that was not foreseen when he became President. Whether he is a great statesman is still a matter of debate, and one which these and other matters will have to prove, but there is no shadow of doubt but that he has entrenched himself strongly in the hearts of the people of Washington, especially of the children of all ages. If he were a candidate, says a writer in the Christian Science Monitor, he would doubtless be accused of using political wiles, but he is assured of his position for almost four years and yet every day he yields to some fresh demand for personal favor and adds to the sum of enjoyment by shaking hands with hundreds and conferring with scores of individuals.

The White House is open—it is the people's house. That is fine, but of greater significance is it that the President is accessible to boys who want a swimming pool as well as to senators and diplomats. The secretaries are kept busy scribbling memoranda of a representative who wants to present the son of a constituent; of another who seeks the President's influence in saving a local industry; of women who are seeking class legislation; of a man who wants to tell him about San Domingo; another about Alaska; of a delegation of Indians; another of Quakers, one of the African Methodist Episcopal church. The President decides that he can give one man five minutes; another must get on with two or three; he can't get rid of a delegation or a committee under 10 or 15 minutes. A senator from a high school or the ex-phantom from a Masonic home must shake hands with the President, every one of them. Some of them will want to say something to him.

In the other rooms of the executive offices there are, at all times, persons coming and going, men waiting for their chance to get in or to see some one coming out, newspaper men appearing at all and the attendants quite cheerful and obliging.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

De Valera Rejects the British Offer and Dail Eireann Debates the Plan.

PEACE OR WAR FOR IRISH?

Bolsheviks Haggle Over American Relief Terms—Tax Revision Bill in the House—Ansell, Hunt and Cresson Accused of Conspiracy in Bergdell Case.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

Ireland occupied the center of the world stage last week, and at this writing it is uncertain whether she will gain peace by accepting the British government's offer of dominion rule, or adopt the irreconcilable attitude of De Valera and the other Sinn Fein leaders and thereby probably bring upon herself a suicidal war with Great Britain. In the closing days of the week Dail Eireann, the Sinn Fein parliament, was in secret session debating the momentous problem. There was a slight chance that it would not endorse De Valera's rejection of the Lloyd George offer, and another chance that the plan would be submitted to a plebiscite by which the people of southern Ireland might instruct their leaders to accept the dominion rule offer.

It was made evident that the Sinn Feiners were trying to bring Ulster into accord with the South so that the negotiations with the British government might be renewed and possibly a counter offer made to Lloyd George. The attitude hitherto assumed by Sir James Craig and his colleagues did not promise well for the success of that effort. Indeed, Ulster has been the stumbling block all through the negotiations.

To the unprejudiced mind the British offer seems extremely liberal, giving to Ireland equal membership as a dominion in the British empire, with full control of its finances, post, army and internal government, and demanding little except loyalty to the empire, control of the seas about Ireland and certain military and aviation rights. It was specified, also, that coercion should not be employed against Ulster, and De Valera has declared elsewhere Ireland can be brought into an Irish dominion without the use of force. He meant by the use of the commercial boycott and similar measures, but General Smuts is confident that time and experience will bring about the same result amicably.

Britain by a treaty as between two free and independent nations. One thing is fairly certain: If the British offer comes to naught and warfare is resumed, the British government will start in wholeheartedly to "clean up the Emerald Isle," and that with the practically unanimous support of the people of the rest of the empire. All factions in the United Kingdom now admit that the premier has made a sincere effort to pacify Ireland and right her wrongs, and if he feels compelled to defend the government's position, by force of arms, his course will be generally justified. Throughout the world the real friends of Ireland who have been watching her struggle with interest and concern will regret deeply the irreconcilability of her leaders. Already the British are preparing for a possible resumption of hostilities.

The League of Nations council will meet in Geneva probably on August 27 to consider the Silesian problem, and Premier Briand is quoted as saying it undoubtedly will be able to settle the disputed questions conformably with the terms and spirit of the peace treaty. Its labors may be lightened by the present attitude of the German industrial and political leaders and the Polish labor representatives in Upper Silesia. They have held secret conference in Katowitz and pledged co-operation in the interest of their "common motherland." It was believed they would petition the league council to settle the Silesian trouble promptly by giving Upper Silesia all to Poland or all to Germany. All the conferees were opposed to the further use of force. Germans and Polish irregular troops had a fight near the villages of Siermalitz and Kostelitz, and the Germans killed 24 Poles and drove the rest across the frontier.

Mr. Drosel, our commissioner in Berlin, has been busy negotiating the terms of the peace treaty with Germany, and has run against several snags, among them a renewed opposition on the part of Germany to admit its sole blame for the war. America reserves to itself all the advantages accruing under the treaty of Versailles, and Germany demands several things, including restoration of all German property seized in America or the proceeds of the sale of such property.

The tax revision bill was introduced into the house and the fight for its adoption began promptly under a special rule which provided for final action at three o'clock Saturday afternoon. There was little doubt that the measure would be passed almost as reported, but there was a chance that it might be changed in one important respect. Just before it was introduced the Republican members of the house in caucus ordered that it be altered to provide that repeal of the excess profits tax, substitution of an increased corporation tax and reduction of the higher individual surtaxes should become effective on income of the calendar year 1922 instead of 1921. This was not in accord with the desires of the administration, which believed the party was committed to a revision of the tax laws which would apply to 1921 income, and it was thought the action of the caucus might be reversed. The Democratic members of the house also caucused and voted to fight the tax bill, declaring in a resolution that it is "subversive of the principle that should govern taxation for the support of this government" and that it "relieves profiteers and taxpayers of large incomes from their just share of the load of taxation and leaves an unfair portion of the burden to be borne by the people of moderate means." Fifty-two Democratic members did not attend the party caucus.

A Get-Together Industrial Committee

THE National Civic Federation, with the approval of President Harding, Secretary of Labor Davis and Secretary of Commerce Hoover, has organized a national industrial committee, designed to bring together for conference leading representatives of conservative labor organizations, employers who believe their interests are closely allied with the interests of their employees, and the general public.

Formation of such an organization, including in its membership such men as former President Taft, Samuel Gompers, John Hays Hammond, T. Coleman Du Pont and John D. Ryan, is believed to be an encouraging feature of the development and active operation of a sound, sane Americanism and to represent a healthy, patriotic and progressive thought and spirit in this country, which will provide the best possible insurance against the development of such fanatical radicalism as that which is now making Russia a center of human misery, devastated by typhus, cholera, starvation and restriction of liberty. Russia's downfall was due primarily to the fact that there was no adequate middle class, no common ground on which the down-trodden peasant and workman could meet with employer, business man, politician or professional man for consideration of their mutual interests and improvement of their economic and social position. There was ease and luxury on the one side and toil and misery on the other. There was no medium through which these extremes might be brought together and blended into a tolerable, stable existence for all. America has already gone far toward eliminating such extremes. There exists a common ground on which all may meet.

Plight of the Water Power Commission

BECAUSE of the failure of congress to provide adequate means for its expeditious administration, the federal water power commission at the end of its first year of existence finds itself almost unable to handle properly the requirements of water-power development in the United States.

The work of the commission are being returned to the treasury unused because congress, after making these appropriations failed to grant the legislative authority to use them.

Up to June 30, 1921, there had been filed with the commission 229 applications aggregating 14,675,000 horsepower and affecting 38 states, the District of Columbia and Alaska. This amount is 75 per cent greater than the entire water-power development of the United States today. The projects applied for vary in size from less than 100 horsepower up to the 3,000,000 horsepower scheme of the Southern California Edison company on the Colorado river.

The first license was issued on March 1 to the Niagara Falls Power company. Between that date and July 1 final action has been taken on 47 applications, 18 preliminary permits have been issued involving 1,075,000 horsepower, and 15 licenses involving 757,000 primary horsepower and 400,000 secondary horsepower, or a total of 1,217,000 horsepower, making an aggregate of 23 projects, involving 2,292,000 horsepower, or as much as was issued by all of the executive departments during the ten years preceding the passage of the water-power act.

In creating the commission, the congress gave the commission no personal to perform its work other than its executive secretary and engineer officer. To do what it has done it has been necessary for the commission to borrow from the several departments personnel for its Washington office.

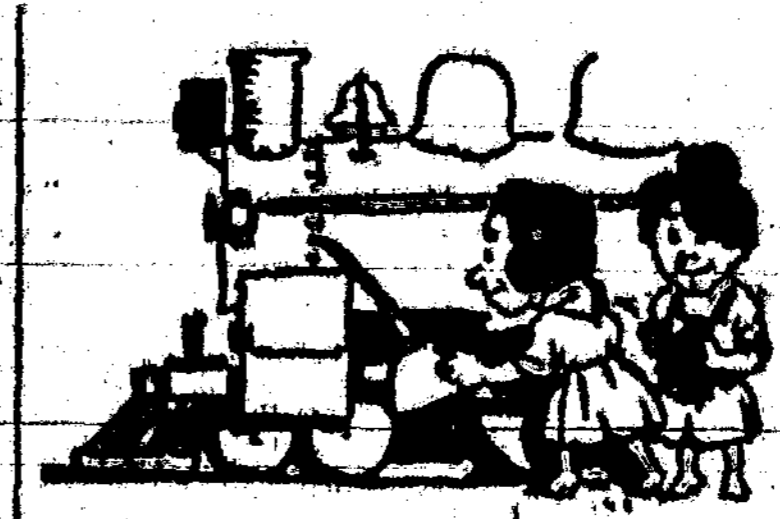

The commission has no field force, loaned or otherwise. Even the limited appropriations made by congress for

Many Women Working on the Railroads

WOMEN workers are now flocking to the employ of the nation's railroads. Nearly 100,000 women are helping to build lines and maintain and operate existing systems, a forthcoming report of the interstate commerce commission is expected to show.

Women constituted in 1920 nearly 30 per cent of the nation's 2,000,000 railway employees, according to a census taken by the interstate commerce commission, and the number is increasing daily. The commission is now preparing a new census of female railway workers for 1921.

The 1920 census shows that women are going in for all kinds of rail work, heavy as well as light. They are operating engines and headlighters in locomotives, keeping watch night as well as day at dangerous grade crossings, operating telegraph keys, carrying messages of train dispatchers, and working in the passenger service.

Attendants, more than 1,000; cleaning, 4,000; shop workers, more than 1,000; station agents and assistants, 1,200; telegraph and telephone signal service, nearly 2,000; car department, 1,000.

More than 400 women are at work in each of these classes of jobs: messenger service, restaurant service, work, watchwomen at water-towers and docks.

Nearly 300 women are listed as business inspectors, and 600 women are on the payroll of the passenger service.

In addressing Dail Eireann, De Valera declared Lloyd George had not offered to Ireland the status of a dominion government, because no Ireland was mentioned in the terms, only two broken pieces of Ireland; and because dominions have the right to secede, but Ireland must stay within the empire whether or not it wishes to do so. He said he: "Only on a basis of our recognition as an Irish republic will we deal with any nation or foreign country whatever. The only government the people of Ireland recognize is the ministry of the Dail Eireann."

He bitterly scored the British government, declaring it was practically impossible to negotiate with it because of its "lack of principle," and cited the many "incompetencies" of Lloyd George; but the reservations in his speech, expressed and implied, seemed to leave the way open for further negotiations.

De Valera declared his government would accept any offer that would give Ireland a way to be found in which the Irish people could be free. De Valera's uncompromising attitude to the fact that Ireland already has been free in the eyes of the people of the world.

It is almost incredible, but true nevertheless, that the Bolshevik rulers of Russia were still haggling last week over the terms on which Americans should be permitted to undertake the relief of the starving and pest-stricken millions of the Volga valley and southern Russia. Day after day Maxim Litvinoff, head of the soviet famine relief commission, fenced with Walter L. Brown, chief of the European section of the American relief administration, yielding slowly and reluctantly to Mr. Brown's demands, suspicious like his fellow Bolsheviks that any foreigners admitted to Russia will take advantage of the opportunity to conspire to overthrow the soviet regime. At this writing Litvinoff has given in on all points save one. He still insists that the Bolsheviks shall have the right to limit the number of relief workers and to expel any of them. Meanwhile the Russians are dying like flies for lack of food and medicines.

It is interesting to note that soviet Russia has abandoned prohibition. A decree has been issued permitting the manufacture and sale of beverages containing up to 14 per cent of alcohol, which will be heavily taxed. Nationalization of real estate also has been dropped and individuals are now permitted to buy houses or land from the government. Having made pretty much of a wreck of the country, Lenin and Trotsky are gradually receding from their impossible position.

China has cordially accepted the invitation to the disarmament conference in Washington, and Japan's notes of acceptance have been prepared and submitted to the cabinet in Tokyo for approval. She promises to send a large delegation to the conference.

The kind of atmosphere prevailing in a minor session in the breakfast room of the National Civic Federation, which was held by Mrs. E. M. Hunt, American Red Cross chairman, in the National Civic Federation building at 1111 K Street, N. W., D. C., Monday, July 18, 1921, was not only a day of it before, was marked from a serious attack on the part of the speaker.

De Valera's uncompromising attitude to the fact that Ireland already has been free in the eyes of the people of the world.

Wants Kaiser Surrendered.
London.—The declaration that Holland should be called upon to surrender the former German emperor was made in the house of commons by Heratio Bottomley, Independent, who again raised the question of the recent trials in Leipzig of Germans accused of acts in violation of the rules of civilized warfare in the world war. Mr. Bottomley said that if the demand for the ex-kaiser's surrender should be refused by Holland, and the British government found itself unable to deal with the matter effectively, the government should make way for "man of sterner stuff."

Burns Succeeds Flynn.
Washington.—Appointment of William J. Burns as director of the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice has been announced by Attorney General Daugherty. Mr. Burns succeeded William J. Flynn. "I have known Mr. Burns personally for thirty years and have watched him develop in his specialty," Mr. Daugherty said. "Mr. Burns has severed his connection with the Burns Detective Agency and will come to Washington and devote his entire time to the service."

U. S. Tobacco Statistics.
Washington.—Cigarettes numbering 61,829,900,000 were manufactured in the United States last year, the census bureau's annual tobacco report issued shows. Of that number 15,384,000,000 were exported, leaving about 46,445,900,000 factory-made cigarettes for consumption in the United States. Cigars manufactured numbered 8,730,754,000 and tobacco manufactured, including chewing and smoking and snuff totalled 418,501,000 pounds.

Exports Are Increasing.
Washington.—Exports of both cotton and wheat increased in volume, but declined in value during July, as compared with last year, commerce department figures disclosed. Cotton exports amounted to 327,000 bales, valued at $42,000,000, compared with 211,000 bales, worth $44,000,000, a year ago. Wheat exports aggregated 26,000,000 bushels at $37,000,000, as against 24,000,000 bushels at $70,000,000 last year.

Robbers Get Another Pay Roll.
San Francisco, Calif.—Bandits held up Walter Meyers and George Behan, paymasters, and escaped with $6,000, the pay roll of the American Can Company, which they were transporting from a bank to the factory here. The robbers escaped in an automobile.

Bronze Tablet to Foch.
Tarbes, France.—A tablet to commemorate the achievements of Marshal Foch, commander-in-chief of the forces which victoriously opposed the forces of the central empires in the World war, was placed in the house here where Marshal Foch was born. The tablet was placed by the 250 members of the American Legion who came to France for the dedication of the monument to the American Expeditionary Forces, presented to the United States by the inhabitants of Ffrench and liberated Lorraine.

Feeling "Open Shop."
Chicago.—The United States railroad labor board is understood to be probing charges that railroads were establishing the open shop plan, thus evading jurisdiction of the board. According to word from Marion, Ohio, the Railway Service Company has taken over the operation of the Erie railroad and are re-hiring employees on an open shop basis. Since the Railway Service Company is not a "common carrier" it was pointed out that it would not be subject to supervision by the railroad board.

Mexicans Buy U. S. Goods.
Mexico bought nearly $300,000,000 of goods from the United States in May, according to an official report published in the Mexican Press of Mexico City. The Mexicans purchased more than a third of those of any other Latin American country, and the bulk of the goods were for the purpose of re-exporting for consumption in other parts of the continent.

ROAD BUILDING

ITALY WANTS BETTER ROADS

Experimental Institute Promoted for Study of Materials for Improved Highways.

The Italian Touring club has recently promoted an experimental institute of roads for the study of materials employed in the construction and maintenance of highways.

The objects of the institute will be to carry on laboratory experiments on the physical and mechanical characteristics of road materials; to help the progress of experimental technical relative to highway surfacing by reproducing and studying samples of pavements worn by traffic or deteriorated otherwise; to form a collection of material samples suitable for Italian road construction; to collect all descriptive and statistical matter appertaining to Italian roads; to furnish public bodies with useful advice relating to construction and maintenance of roads, and to forward by every other means the development and betterment of road work in Italy.

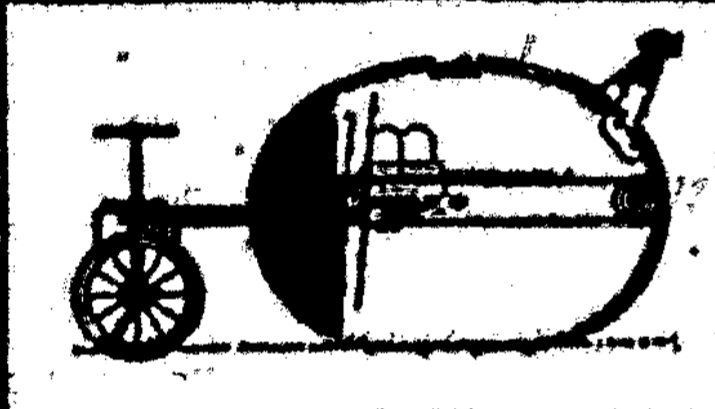

The institute publishes monthly reports of its proceedings. The institute is financed by annual contributions from the Touring Club of Italy, by an annual subsidy from the ministry of public works and by annuities, gifts and charges for material tests.

The institute is under the direction of Sig. Italo Vambone, formerly chief engineer of the province of Milan. More detailed information regarding the formation of this institute is given in a recent bulletin of the Permanent International Association of Road Congresses.

The Scientific American in illustrating and describing a tractor for improving highways, the invention of J. HARD ROAD IN NEW ZEALAND

Sum of $146,000 to Be Spent in Construction of Strip of Concrete Six Miles Long.

Approximately $146,000 is to be spent by the city of Wellington, New Zealand, in building a concrete road, 25 feet wide, to the suburb of Petone, which is six miles distant.

The new paving will occupy the center of a thoroughfare 100 feet wide which is now macadamized. Only vehicles, such as cars, motorcars and small motortrucks will be allowed on the concrete way. A special vehicle tax in addition to the present one, will be levied by Wellington, the proceeds of which will be devoted solely to the upkeep of this road. This tax applies to all motor-driven cars, and among them are also included motorcycles.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE TO COME

Establishment of Motortruck Trains Bound to Cause Reconstruction of Surfaces.

With the establishment of motortruck trains operating on a fixed schedule throughout the country improvements are bound to come. Not only will surfaces of the highways be rebuilt, but in many instances routes will be shortened to save time and money.

These improvements should be regarded as vital to the success of every community and as a necessary factor in the prosperous era before us. They represent benefits in which not a few individuals but the community at large will share.

Teach Highway Engineering

Schools and colleges throughout the United States are to be enlisted in a national way to teach the coming generation all about highway engineering, automobile transport, traffic regulations and safety.

SAW HER CLOWNS' YOUNG GIRL FINDS RELIEF

Sick Child's Life Saved by Celebrated Comedians.

Action of French Funmakers That Shines "Like Good Deed in a Naughty World."

The Fratellini brothers, celebrated clowns of Medrano (general favorites of the Continent), were recently the heroes of a singularly touching little incident.

It appears that the nine-year-old daughter of the Widow Colcourt, 81 Rue Francoeur, shortly after attending a performance in which the clowns had appeared, fell seriously ill. In her delirium the child was obsessed with the desire to see them again—the marvelous buffoons who made her laugh so on that evening of happy enchantment; she kept calling for "her clowns."

Months passed while the mother stubbornly fought for the life of her child, and gradually the illness responded to the treatment. The little girl, however, remained sad, pensive and lacking animation. The doctor shook his head, puzzled and alarmed by the child's listlessness. "She should have something to distract her," he said.

How entertains her? The mother was far from being a wealthy woman. Since, however, the child continually spoke of "her clowns," why should she not go to the Fratellini brothers, themselves, and ask their help? She reflected that these celebrated artists were good men who gave generously to charity; that they sometimes went to the hospitals to entertain the inmates and bring them cheer. Why should she not go to them and ask them to help save her child?

The epoch was that two days later the widow went to the circus and requested an audience with the Fratellini brothers. They were, at the moment, on the stage; she could hear their silly laughter as she stood in the wings and waited. When, presently, pausing from their exertions, they came tumbling off, she made her request hurriedly, stopping them, tears standing in her eyes.

The three clowns are the fathers of 14 children, all told. They promised to go the very next day to see the little sick girl, adding that it would not cost the widow a penny.

And sure enough, the next day, arrayed in their most gorgeous costumes, grotesque, hilarious, altogether marvelous, they enacted from full hearts before the little invalid their most fantastic sketch, singing and dancing and grimacing. And the ecstatic child, mad with happiness and with a new light in her eyes, clapped her hands, laughing through exquisite tears, and shouted: "Encore! Encore!"

The clowns entertained her for two hours; and when they left—quietly and discreetly, as they had come—they promised to come again.

And that is the end of the story, as the mother told it the other day—except that the little girl is well on the road to recovery. The widow came to the writer and related the facts, very simply. And the story seemed to the writer a very good story. Indeed.—From Le Petit Parisien.

Birth of a Star.

The vast black mass, 20,000,000 times larger than the sun, demonstrated to exist in the heavens by the Dutch scientist, Dr. Pannekoek, seems to upset all earlier astronomical calculations.

It is, comparatively speaking, so near us that Doctor Pannekoek suggests that the sun itself must move round it once in 2,000,000 years—drawing the earth with it.

"We believe that the black body must consist of dust, and that this is the first stage in the birth of a star," said an expert. "As it condenses it gets hotter until it becomes luminous and visible. Sudden 'flares' or 'new stars' have been seen in our lifetime, but the black cloud of dust appears to be the real beginning.

"The amazing feature is the nearness of the body. It is relatively as close to the earth as a foot rule would appear to be if only two feet away from the eye. It is quite possible that even water bodies of this kind exist." The nearness is relative. The body is 280,000,000,000 miles away.

Papal Titles More Costly.

Papal titles have gone up in cost according to a circular which has been sent out by the Vatican announcing an increase in the fees chargeable for the award of papal titles. The following list of titles and costs is given: Prince—Personal title, 10,000 lire. Hereditary title, 21,000 lire. Duke.—Personal title, 9,000 lire. Hereditary title, 10,000 lire. Margrave—Personal title, 7,500 lire. Hereditary title, 15,000 lire. Baron.—Personal title, 5,400 lire. Hereditary title, 10,800 lire. Payment is stipulated, is to be made in gold, which would bring the cost of a princely title to a hundred thousand lire. The nominal value of the title is about 19 cents.

Circles to Travel in Motor Trucks.

An eastern circle of motorists will tour the country this year in motor trucks costing from $2,000 to $30,000 apiece. It is estimated that the saving in rail charges will be a long way to pay for this equipment. The motor

YOUNG GIRL FINDS RELIEF

Wants to Tell Other Girls All About It

Evansville, Ind.—"I am eighteen years old and have been bothered for several months with irregular periods.

Every month my back would ache and I always had a cold and felt drowsy and sleepy. I work in a millinery shop and I want to work every day, but felt stupid and would have such cramps. I had seen Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and had heard several women talk of it, so mother got me some. This Vegetable Compound is wonderful and it helped me very much, so that during my periods I am not now sick or drowsy. I have told many girls about your medicine and would be glad to help anyone who is troubled with similar ailments. You may use my testimonial as you like."

Some girls lead lives of luxury, while others toil for their livelihood, but all are subject to the same physical laws and suffer in proportion to their violation. When such symptoms develop as irregularities, headaches, backaches, bearing-down sensations and "the blues," girls should profit by Miss Larkins' experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

Uncertainty of a Certain Game. Two sweet young things sat in the grandstand at the baseball game. They were interested in almost everything but the game itself. Finally one of them observed: "I don't care a lot for baseball."

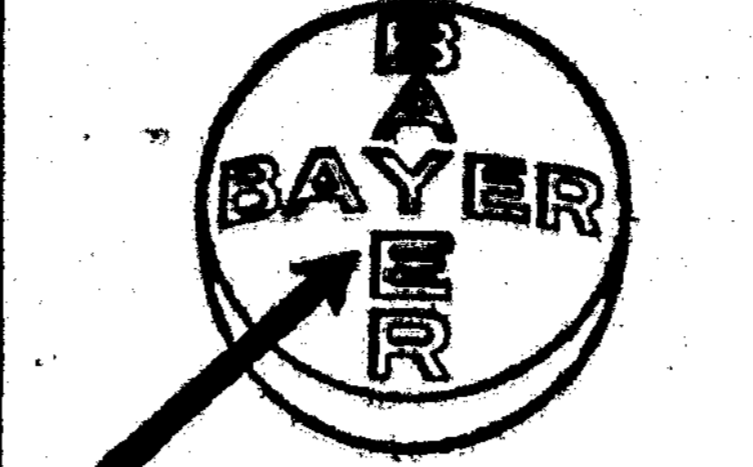

"Nor I either," the other one joined in. "I'd rather read a book or a story or go to the movies. But an old ball game. You never know how it's going to turn out."

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medicine and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

It is still causing great surprise that the making of Dr. Price's Baking Powder with Phosphate instead of Cream of Tartar permits such an excellent baking powder to be sold at 25c. for a large-size 12-oz. can. But a greater surprise is in the good, light, wholesome home-baking it produces.

Text Book Revolt

A revolt is on throughout the state over the action of the state board of education in adopting new text books. The state board adopted a new series for all the grades, which means the purchase of new books for every grade and every pupil. In addition to this unnecessary burden, which is especially outrageous at this time, there is a further burden in the cost of the individual books themselves, as the list price of similar books, in most cases, is a hundred per cent above that of the list supplanted. That the price of books now should be higher than that of the old list was to be expected, but that it should be double, and more in many instances, is unwarranted, and lays the board open to the charge of stupidity—if nothing worse.

Locally, a petition is in circulation, which almost everyone is signing, protesting the action of the board and requesting the retention of the old books. In a large family the purchase of a new set of books, out and out, will be difficult, if not quite impossible in many cases, and, even if accomplished, will place an unnecessary hardship on families that are encountering great difficulty in keeping bread on the table.

In view of the wonderful accomplishments of Senator Bursum in the interests of the cantelope growers of the Mesilla valley, the apud raisers of Loma Grande, in Lincoln county, are thinking of asking his assistance in eradicating the blight.

The introduction of a few bills and a flood of promises made by Senator Bursum, or his apologists for him, is deemed of sufficient importance for the people of New Mexico to return him to Washington. His apologists, among whom the chief is the author of the "Dawn of a New Day," should bear heavily on the irreparable loss the national administration would sustain in the defeat of the distinguished senator.

The biggest fall-down the Harding administration has yet suffered, if we are to take the statements of the most active bureau that ever bureaucrat, is the failure of the president to name Senator Bursum as head of the departmental commission. Of course, it was all right for the president to name Hughes and a and his pipe, Bursum and his press bureau, Bursum and his promises, is an affront that we won't stand for, and as a rebuke to the administration we will not return the senator to Washington; and when the authorities there realize what their absurd action has brought on them it will be a sweet revenge for the Socorro statesman to sit back, burning the "midnight pipe" reading the report that the administration had gone on the rocks, and tearfully muttering, "I told you so."

The Rio Grande continues to run down hill, yet should the people along the upper stretches of that silvery stream desire to have its course changed they will have no difficulty in securing a promise to that effect from Senator Bursum, who, according to his press agents, has but to intimate to the authorities at Washington what he desires—and presto, change, it becomes an accomplished fact.

Senator Bursum's chief claim for the support of the ex-service men lies in his vote against the recommitment of the compensation act, an action, however, which was not justified, he admits, as he says President Harding was altogether right in urging the senate to recommit the measure. The powerful senator certainly was not serious in making such a statement, because it would puncture the oft-repeated assertion that the administration couldn't get along without his aid, advice, counsel, voice and vote. Besides laying himself open to the charge of the impossible equestrian feat of going and coming on two horses—at the identical time, place, date, event, occurrence and taking place thereof.

Limited Production Must End Soon

The building trades unions have probably done more to cause general industrial inactivity than any other agency during the past year. During most of 1921 building trades strikes have been in force in principal cities of the country. A determined effort has been made by building trades to not only maintain war wages, but in many instances to increase them.

Building stagnation has resulted with consequent slowing down of the lumber and steel industry and unemployment of hundreds of thousands of workmen in these lines.

The housing situation and the problem of high rents will grow worse instead of better until the building trades not only recognize the fact that war conditions no longer exist, but that workmen must give a day's work for a day's pay. The hold-up practice of limiting the number of bricks a man can lay, the number of shingles he can lay, the size of a paint brush he can use, and in general the amount of work he can do, must end.

Nobody objects to paying good wages, but such wages cannot be paid on an output from labor which is equal to no more than a quarter or a half day's work before the war. When labor organizations recognize this fact there will be steady employment for men where unemployment now exists.—Industrial News Bureau.

Working "Confidence" Game on New Mexico's Voters

(Santa Fe New Mexican.)

The Bursum press bureau is appealing to the astonished voter to elect Mr. Bursum United States senator to show his "confidence in the Harding administration." He is told to elect a man in whom he lacks confidence—as repeatedly shown at the polls—to show his confidence in somebody else.

"Even if Senator Bursum were a mediocre man," it is stated, "his defeat as the republican candidate for the United States senate would be a vote of lack of confidence in the Harding administration."

Let us follow the reasoning to its ultimate conclusion.

"Even if John Smith," the press bureau might say, "were a horse-thief, if nominated as the republican candidate his defeat would be a vote of lack of confidence in the Harding administration."

Naturally, the Bursum press bureau would not follow the reasoning thus far. It would draw the line somewhere. In other words, it would admit that the character of the candidate had something to do with the matter. It would concede that the mere fact of a man's being a republican candidate would not necessarily fit him to be the test of approval of the national administration.

Mr. Bursum is not regarded by the people of New Mexico as a qualified spokesman for the Harding administration. He was not elected to the United States senate as approval of the Harding administration or otherwise. He got himself into the United States senate. He was not nominated by the real republicans of New Mexico for United States senator. He got himself the nomination through his power as boss of the organization. He is a self-styled, self-instituted would-be spokesman for state and national republicanism. If the Harding administration endorses him as its representative the Harding administration may be prepared to take the consequences so far as New Mexico is concerned. If the Harding administration is attempting to force Bursum upon New Mexico, New Mexico republicans are absolved from supporting it, and if the national republican organization wants to measure republicanism with a Bursum yard-stick it is his own lookout.

It is further argued that to send anybody but Bursum to the United States senate would "side-track New Mexico for the next three years." This is the species of coercion Mr. Bursum had in mind when he saw his way to get a temporary hold on the office. "You must elect Bursum or you get nothing."

Attempted use of this kind of a club of course will have merely the opposite effect on the voters of this state. They have never been driven by Mr. Bursum yet, and are not apt to be driven by Mr. Bursum now. We believe New Mexico has enough enterprise and enough self-reliance to hoe her own row without selling her birthright for some of Mr. Bursum's promises. The first duty of this state is to maintain her own independence and self-respect.

First Methodist Church

We greatly appreciated the presence of Brother Huffman's congregation with us last Sunday morning and evening, their pastor being out of the city. We shall be glad to return the visit as opportunity affords, and otherwise promote this christian spirit.

At the meeting of the Sunday school council Monday evening several plans were formulated for the advancement of this department of the church. Among these were: Children's day and Sunday school rally as soon as practice can be completed; arrangement for Probation day, Oct. 3; starting a teachers' training class; relieving some of the younger teachers for training and day are: 11 a. m.—"How to Maintain Harmony." 8 p. m.—"Paul's Attitude Toward the Sinful." David said: "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path." Let us study it together at these hours.

Somebody sent the editor of the Picketown Gazette a few bottles of home brew. The same day he received for publication a wedding announcement and a notice of a farmer's auction sale. Here are the results:

"William Smith and Miss Lucy Anderson were disposed of at public auction at my farm, one mile east of a beautiful cluster of roses on her breast and two white calves, before a background of implements too numerous to mention in the presence of about 70 guests, including two milch cows, six mules and one bobbed. The Rev. Mr. Jackson tied the nuptial knot with 200 feet of hay rope, and the bridal couple left on one good John Deere gang plow for an extended trip with terms to suit purchasers. They will be at home to their friends with one good baby buggy and a few kitchen utensils after ten months from date of sale to responsible parties and some 50 chickens."—Exchange.

Ruling on Text Books

While in Roswell recently John V. Conway, state superintendent of public instruction, made an important ruling in regard to the school books about which there has been so much protest over the state. He advised the county superintendent of schools and the city superintendent of schools that in those cases where the children were unable to buy the new books they might use the old books.

It is believed that the effect of the order will result in two sets of books being used in many of the schools.

Ashkelon, the ancient city often mentioned in the Bible, is now being explored.
