Co-Operation of Wool Growers Quite Essential

We were furnished the following article by Stuart Sterling, County Agent, who attended the wool growers' meeting at Albuquerque last week:

At a joint meeting of wool growers and bankers held Monday, the 21st of last month, at Albuquerque, and addressed by Mr. John D. Holliday, president of the National Wool Warehouse and Storage Company, the present wool situation was likened to a man that had broken his leg; the breaking was done comparatively quickly but the healing is a slow proposition. Wool slumped over night, but the readjustment is coming slowly. However, unless some things have been demonstrated clearly. Two of these are legislation and organization.

A nation-wide wool growers' association would have, long before the slump, taken care of the legislation. Wool and all other products were doomed to slump, but the slump would not have dropped wool far below the cost of production and would not have spelled ruin for thousands.

Legislation that is promised, deals with a protective tariff on both wool and frozen meats, and when enacted will bring the wool grower of the United States far above the gypsy-like sheep herder of Argentina who drifts with the winds and the rains; where labor is cheap and standards of living low.

Another bill which needs a little pressure brought to bear to hasten its enactment is the French Copper Truth in Fabrics Law, requiring the stamping of cloth made from old rags. If two-thirds of the woolen cloth made in the United States last year was made from old rags shipped from Europe by the ship load it is reasonable to conclude that we require only one-third the number of sheep we now have to replenish our stock of wool. The rag pickers are organized; they are fighting this bill; the sheep men are unorganized, are only indignant; who ought to win, who will win?

However, even with these measures passed, it will require a long time for relief. There must be some financial aid extended. Bankers in this country can hardly afford to allow this industry to fail. The following method has been suggested: All wool sheared in this state should be sent to some licensed government warehouse for storage. Then the sheep men and their bankers to agree on sufficient funds for their temporary needs; the grower to give his note or draw draft on the local bank, which the bank will accept, the railroad bill of lading to be attached. If the banker does not wish to carry this paper he can arrange for the rediscounting with the Federal Reserve Bank of this district. By shipping to a bonded government warehouse, the railroad bill of lading and the note attached as collateral will then be exchanged for the warehouse receipt. Such receipt is then held as collateral for the loan until the wool is sold. The security of the rediscounting is first in the wool grower, next in the wool itself, and, finally, in the local banker endorsing the paper for rediscounting.

The danger in the future for wool is the necessity men will face in having to sell their clips for just any price the manufacturer will care to give. By carrying these men for a year the market price will have had time to adjust itself. It will be undoubtedly lower, but it will be stable. If just one man and then another is forced to sacrifice his wool for a good bit less than it is actually worth, the chaotic condition the market is in will continue indefinitely, and millions of dollars will pass from the west to the east, and they will remain there, too.

It will require careful expenditures, and a great deal of thought and economy, also organization, to keep the continual importations of cheap foreign wool and cheaper forced sale wool off the market. The leg, or maybe it should be legs, of the wool business are broken; it was also done quickly, and it will heal slowly; but heal it will, unless complications set in. The wool grower is the doctor, the banker is the consulting physician and organization is the remedy; and the greatest of these is the remedy.

Store Burglarized

N. B. Taylor & Sons' hardware store was again burglarized Wednesday night, the burglars having entered through a rear window. A 22 caliber Savage rifle, pocket knives, flash lights, safety razor blades were taken by the marauders. The officers believe that the work was done by local artists, but have given no intimation as to whom the suspects may be.

Navy, Second to None, Declare the Big Guns

Arguments against disarmament was the theme of the three principal addresses delivered at a luncheon following the launching of the super-dreadnaught Colorado last week at Camden, New Jersey. Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy; Senator Nicholson, of Colorado, and Representative P. H. Kelley, of Michigan, chairman of the house subcommittee on naval appropriations, were the three who delivered the addresses; and it is to be presumed they were speaking authoritatively.

Colonel Roosevelt showed he was a "chip of the old block" by his utterances, and is quoted as having said:

"We are faced by a critical period and all of us must make up our minds to accept certain responsibilities and certain things. There are people who, for one reason or another, are talking against the navy, saying the country should disarm. Some are perfectly sincere pacifists, some are perfectly sincere fools, and, incidentally, they are the same thing."

The average person, he said, thinks the battle cruiser a type of ship inferior to the battleship, but he pleaded for this type of craft, declaring it to be as successful as anything afloat.

"What we want in this country," he continued, "is this: we want a strong navy, our present program completed, a balanced navy, a navy with a high morale, high as it has always been in the past. And a navy that is at all times capable of going into action."

Senator Nicholson gave every one to understand that he was not a pacifist, for, said he:

"I do not care what program England may have in building a navy; I do not care what program Japan may have. I want a navy in this country that is adequate and ample to protect our own country. I want a navy that will protect every American citizen wherever he may be in his lawful right to protection. I have no patience with the feeble minded people who talk about disarmament. I want a navy in keeping with the power and dignity of this great nation."

Representative Kelley argued for the completion of the 1916 program, and proved conclusively that he is no "piker" in naval affairs as may be seen by the following:

"There should be no economical saving not to complete it; it would cost as much now to stop the work as to finish it. When these sixteen powerful ships are added to those we now have, to my judgment, the American navy will be second to none. I do not know whether there will be a reduction of armament. There will never be such a thing as disarmament. A reduction must proceed upon a proper basis.

"The question of great navies is largely a question for Great Britain and the United States.

If Great Britain and the United States agree to scrap some old ships and stop expense on old craft—reduce the size of the navy from the bottom—why, when this new program is completed, we could afford, in my judgment, to make a proposition to Great Britain for proportionate reduction from the bottom. And with the navy that we would have left, all brand new, the most powerful ships of the kind afloat, we would get along first rate."

Rain and Snow

Saturday night and Sunday more moisture fell than in any like period for months past. The rain, though not in the nature of a downpour, but possessing all the qualities necessary to soak the dry earth, came between midnight and daylight, and when day fully awoke it began to snow, and kept at it through the morning. The ground was warm, the temperature was not low, and the snow melted almost as fast as it fell; hence it was difficult to tell the amount in inches. However, the streets were muddy during the day; the thirsty earth greedily absorbed the welcome moisture, and none escaped. So far as we have been able to ascertain, all parts of this county enjoyed a good wetting—snow predominating in some places, in others rain. It will result in an early range, and will be of untold benefit to stockman and farmer.

Fruit Damages

The freeze Sunday night is reported to have slain the fruit crop—particularly peaches, apricots, plums and smaller fruits and to have seriously damaged the apples. It is confidently reported, however, that many of the apple orchards were not far enough advanced to be caught by the frost.

Bozarth Convalescing

C. C. Bozarth, who underwent an operation for appendicitis in the Paden hospital, Thursday of last week, is doing fine and improving daily. His condition was most serious preceding and following the operation, because of the advanced stage of inflammation, and he had an uphill fight for several days. Two of his brothers, one from Kansas and the other from Wyoming, having been notified of his serious condition, arrived last Saturday and anxiously watched for a turn for the better. They left Wednesday for their respective homes, feeling that their brother was on the high road to recovery and their presence no longer needed. A wide circle of friends will be pleased to learn of Mr. Bozarth's convalescence.

Some Hog

Ed. C. Pfingsten, a well known Mesa farmer, recently killed his prize porker. The animal dressed out 804 pounds. Just think of the sausage, head cheese, lard and by products made from that fellow's carcass? And then, too, the spare ribs—yum, yum!

The Lincoln County Teachers' Association

The Lincoln County Teachers' Association will hold its annual meeting at the town of Lincoln Friday and Saturday, April 8th and 9th. The present officers of the association are: Dr. E. E. Cole, Carrizozo, president; Mrs. Mabel J. Bursleson, Lincoln, vice-president, and Miss Mildred V. Peters, Captain, secretary.

All the teachers of the county are expected to be present. A number of prominent educators of the state will be there, and a large number of citizens of the county have announced it as their intention to attend the meeting. The following program will be presented:

FRIDAY, APRIL 8, 10:00 A. M.
Invocation—Rev. C. C. Higbee, Carrizozo.

The Value of a Standard Course in General Science for the 7th, 8th and 9th Grades—Supt. E. E. Cole, Carrizozo.

All teachers in the county should attend this convention. Some one has said "The teacher who thinks she cannot learn anything from a teachers' meeting is already fossilized." Members of school boards and citizens of all parts of the county are cordially invited to be present.

E. E. Cole.

County Health Fair

In a conversation yesterday with Dr. P. M. Shaver, county health physician, we were informed that the county generally was practically free of contagious diseases. The case of scarlet fever on the Nogal Mesa a few weeks ago, and which caused Dr. Shaver to close that school for a time, resulted in no spread of the disease, thanks to the prompt action of the county health physician.

Short Cuts To Wealth

FROM TIME TO TIME there flash across the background of sane and sober finance such startling figures as that of Pouzi, who promised and paid for a time, 50 per cent. interest on personal notes for forty-five days. They flash and disappear, leaving in their wake scores of sadder but wiser victims, whose small savings, representing years of effort, have been wiped out in as many days. Humanity is always impatient of results. We are all eager to find a short cut to health, fame, power or wealth. We scorn the well-established, toilsome, but certain route to our goal.

There is but one sure road to competence or wealth—through industry or Thrift. Safely placed in this bank, your savings will be steadily earning 4 per cent. compounded twice yearly. There are always those who would have you scorn that modest 4 per cent., and who promise vastly greater returns. Remember, interest rates are set by the risk involved. You cannot afford to venture your all upon a "long chance."

If you have not already opened a savings account with us, come in and let us show you how co-operation will bring progress to both of us.

MRS. NANCY SHARP, of Los Angeles, who says she received the greatest surprise of her life when Tanlac completely restored her health after she had almost lost hope of ever getting well. Suffered twelve years.

"After seeing the wonderful results my husband obtained from Tanlac I began taking the medicine myself, and now we both agree that it is the greatest medicine on earth," said Mrs.
 Nancy Sharp, a prominent and highly esteemed resident of Los Angeles, Calif., living at 921 Camulus street, whose husband is proprietor of the Merchants' Express Co.

"During the twelve years that I suffered with indigestion and stomach trouble I tried nearly every medicine
 I heard about, but nothing helped me and I lost faith in everything. So, my wonderful restoration to health has been the greatest surprise of my life.

"I began to feel an improvement on finishing my second bottle of Tanlac, and now after taking six bottles I am like a new woman. I have a splendid appetite, eat three hearty meals a day, enjoy them thoroughly and am never troubled in the least with indigestion or any other disagreeable after effects.

"Before taking Tanlac most everything I ate caused my stomach to rebel and I would suffer for hours afterwards. I was so dreadfully nervous that many nights I never closed my eyes in sleep, but now I am not the least nervous, and I sleep like a child. My strength has been wonderfully increased, and I have much more energy.

"I just wish it was so everybody troubled like I was knew about this wonderful medicine."

The Reason Why.
 The school teacher was giving an object lesson on sheep to the infant class, explaining how they are washed, sheared, etc. She then showed the whole class a picture of a sheep and a lamb.

"Now who can tell me why it is that the sheep has a short tail, and the lamb
 a long one?" she asked.

Little Joy jumped up immediately,
 and this was her reply:

"Please, teacher, the sheep's tail was shrunk in the wash."—Every Woman's.

WASHINGTON SIDELIGHTS

What the "Formers" Are Doing Nowadays

WASHINGTON.—What are the members of the Wilson cabinet doing these days? Well, "Tom" Marshall spoke for several of them when he remarked, "Eight years of it has kept me poor; I've got to be starting to make some money." It seems that the annual stipend of $12,000, less the income tax, has made the shedding hard for cabinet members. So the former vice president is making an extensive lecture tour. Then he's going to make his first European trip; then he's going back to the practice of law in Columbia City, Ind.

Former Secretary of State Colby springs a surprise. Washington and New York are to have a new law firm, of which the partners are Woodrow Wilson and Bainbridge Colby.

March 3 President Wilson appointed the retiring secretary of labor, W. B.

Wilson, a member of the International joint commission on the United States-Canadian boundary line.

A. S. Burleson, "which was" postmaster, is one who isn't worrying about finances; he took the fast mail back to his Texas ranches and cotton fields. Newton D. Baker made a forced march from the War department to his law office in Cleveland. That bluff old sea dog Josephus Daniels is back at the wheel of the Raleigh (N. C.)
 News and Observer. E. T. Meredith of the Agricultural department is again busied with "Successful Farming" in Des Moines, Ia.

John Barton Payne doesn't need the secretary of the inferior's job to keep the wolf from the door of the Chicago club on Michigan boulevard, where he maintains residence. Whether he will practice law again or travel is undecided. Incidentally he is president of the South Park commission of Chicago. Former Attorney General
 Palmer has gone back to the practice of law, some of which, at least, will be done in Washington.

D. F. Houston, who was a Missouri college professor, is undecided about his plans, but says he most certainly will not write a book. J. W. Alexander will go back to his law practice in Missouri.

A Wind That Blew Down Whole Forests

IN the closing days of the last congress Senator Jones of Washington submitted an amendment to the dedication bill proposing to appropriate $100,000 for emergency expenditures incident to the disposal of wind-thrown timber on the Olympic National forest and the repair and construction of roads, fire lines, trails, telephone lines, etc. This is an aftermath of the cyclone of last January, which created a most dangerous fire trap.

"A tremendous tornado," states Assistant Forester E. A. Sherman, "blew down timber estimated at 5,000,000,000 to 8,000,000,000 board feet, in a strip 75 miles long and 30 miles wide, 1,000,000,000 board feet of which is within the Olympic National forest.
 This is the greatest disaster ever recorded in lumbering."

A wind velocity of 132 miles an hour was recorded near the mouth of the Columbia river. The observer at this station estimates that after his instruments were wrecked the wind increased to 150 miles an hour. The highest wind velocity ever recorded previous to this date on the Pacific coast was 144 miles an hour, in California in 1886.

"The wind-thrown timber," said Mr.
 Sherman, "which lies in a tangled mass over an area of 2,500 square miles, is largely western hemlock and spruce, both of which are subject to rapid decay. Transportation is lacking for much of this region.

"Where the full force of the wind was felt practically every tree was thrown down, and all roads, trails and telephone lines were completely obliterated."

"A large number of buildings were destroyed and some cattle killed. It is believed that many of the elk were killed and that others will slowly starve. The storm zone reached entirely through the best winter feeding grounds of these animals."

Airplanes will have to be used for survey, since it is impossible to traverse the uprooted forests.

World War Makes Work for the Lawyers

enable it to cope with the flood of new litigation.

These war claims are brought into the court by plaintiffs having claims against all departments of the government. The bureau of internal revenue now has pending claims for refunds and rebates aggregating $50,000,000.
 The shipping board has cancellations of contracts involving over $50,000,000.
 Claims for patent infringement are estimated at $100,000,000. The railroad administration has differences with the railroads amounting to approximately $750,000,000.

There are also claims proportionately large in amount arising from the housing corporation, the war risk bureau and the food and fuel administrations, and it is known that there is a large amount of other claims of miscellaneous character which have not yet been filed.

Among the claims already filed in the court are $90,000,000 for shipping, $20,000,000 for railroad requisition,
 $25,000,000 for patent infringement, $2,200,000 for aircraft engines and guns, $2,000,000 for transportation of troops and supplies, and $2,500,000 in suits by the packers.

MILLIONS of dollars—and probably billions—are represented in the great tide of lawsuits beginning to pour into the United States Court of Claims as one of the results of the World War. The court was expressly created to determine legal controversies between private citizens and the government.

Actions upon claims involving approximately $124,000,000 have already been filed. The ultimate aggregate of claims, it is estimated, will reach between two and three billion dollars.
 The personnel of the Department of Justice having charge of the defense of these actions has been doubled to

"Christian, American and Republican"

THE new congresswoman from Oklahoma, Miss Alice Robertson, cafeteria proprietress and school teacher, is not sure that the nation is ready for a federal department of education with a cabinet officer. At the session of one of the groups of the National Education association in Atlantic City
 Miss Robertson spoke to several thousand educators.

"I do not feel that enough deliberation has been given to the subject of a federal department of education," said Miss Robertson. "This does not mean that I am opposed to such a thing or even that I will not vote for it."

"Miss Alice," as she is familiarly known in Oklahoma, says that a wom-if she keeps her mouth shut and her ears open.

During the session she will take ed is "I am a Christian; I am an

GOT THE JOBS MIXED UP OF COURSE IT WASN'T TRUE

But at That, Old Gentleman Had Equipped Coffin for the Crossing of the River.

Good Illustration of German Character in Simplicity Displayed by Soldier in France.

Joseph C. Lincoln told this story at the luncheon of the Brooklyn colomy of the Society of New England Women recently to illustrate the efficacy in the old days of New England rum:

"An old Cape Cod settler made both boats and coffins. One day he was called upon to make a coffin to be finished in two days. The old fellow demurred because he was busy making a boat. But the need for the coffin was imperative, so it occurred to the insistent customer that New England rum might help. So a bottle was forthcoming. The old fellow took a swig and agreed that he reckoned he would have to accommodate the gentlemen. In two days they returned to find the old man asleep in the coffin, the bottle empty and the coffin ready, resting on two chairs. But the old captain had put a centerboard in the coffin."

Wedding Ring Finger.
 Whatever the fashion may be about wedding rings, the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer says: "The priest, taking the ring, shall deliver it to the man to put on the fourth finger of the woman's left hand."

Popular ministers avoid touching the sore spots of their congregation.

One American who remained at Lille during the German occupation used his time to study German character. He told Mrs. Corinna H. Smith and Mrs. Caroline R. Hill, authors of "Rising Above the Ruins in France," one astonishing thing that he had noticed—the childish unreasoning confidence that the German soldier had in whatever he was told by his superiors—and he gave this example of it.
 "I knew German," he said, "and one day I talked with a German sentry who was standing over some French civilians at work in a field. He was reading a newspaper and, turning to me, said indignantly, 'The French say we force civilians to work against their will. That's not true; this German paper denies it.'"

"I looked at him in amazement and asked, 'Well what are you doing yourself, standing here with your gun over these poor people?'"

"If I did not," was his naive answer,
 "they would run away."

The Modern Accountant.
 Stella—What is her husband worth?
 Bella—Well, I don't know his replacement value.

A man may be poor and proud, but who ever heard of a man being rich and humble?

It's Up to You as a Parent whether you feed your boy or girl real building food, or something that merely "tastes good"

Grape-Nuts

furnishes exactly the food values needed to build young bodies, and the taste is delightful

Grocers everywhere sell this staunch wheat and malted barley food

Ready to eat—Economical

Notice to Dairymen

Last year the Town Board passed an ordinance making it compulsory for dairymen or others, selling milk within the town limits, to have their cows tested for tuberculosis.

This work, in order to get most accurate results, should be done before real warm weather starts, preferably within the next two or three weeks.

The tuberculin and blanks have been ordered and will be here shortly.

Those herds of sufficient numbers will be tested on the same plan as last year, but where only a few cows are kept it will be necessary to bunch these animals at some feed yard for the two days of the test. This is necessary, as it requires two days for the test, whether one cow or thirty cows are tested.

If you are selling milk, see the County Agent for particulars, as this ordinance will be rigidly enforced the coming year. This is only right, because if there is any difference in the germ causing tuberculosis in animals and that in human beings it has not been found.

Milk from an infected animal may contain millions of the bacillus per cc which would scarcely make it valuable as a food.

As this work will start soon, please make all arrangements at once.

Consumers are asked to inquire as to whether or not the dairy man has had his herd tested.

NOTICE TO ALL LIVESTOCK OWNERS

THE CATTLE SANITARY BOARD OF NEW MEXICO

By the passage of a law relating to the re-recording of brands by the Fifth Legislature of the State of New Mexico, it is required that all owners of livestock having brands on record in the office of the Cattle Sanitary Board shall re-record such brands by the first day of July 1921. A failure to have such brands re-recorded as required by this Act provides that they shall be stricken from the records and become obsolete.

Proper blanks will be mailed to each brand owner from the office of the Cattle Sanitary Board.

The following is the text of the law to which your careful observance is directed.

HOUSE BILL NO. 66 AN AMENDED AN ACT RELATING TO THE RE-RECORDING OF BRANDS

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO:

Section 1. The Cattle Sanitary Board of New Mexico shall have the power to and shall cause all brands now in actual use to be re-recorded. For this purpose the Cattle Sanitary Board shall issue and mail a circular letter through the United States mail addressed to each owner of any brand now of record with said Board, at the post office address shown on the brand record, requiring the owner or owners of brands to file with the Secretary of said Board an exact fac-simile of any brand or brands now being used or owned by such owners. In addition to the above notice the Secretary of said Board shall cause to be published in either English or Spanish, or both, in at least one newspaper in each County in this State, where there is a newspaper, a copy of this act, said publication to continue at least four consecutive weeks.

Sec. 2. Within three months from the date of the first publication of this act an affidavit, it shall be the duty of all owners of brands now of record in the office of the Cattle Sanitary Board to file with the Secretary of said Board a fac-simile of the brand or brands now in actual use, and signed by them. A fee for re-recording of brands shall be one ($1.00) per brand.

owners thereof shall, on or before the first day of January of every third year after its recording, pay to the Cattle Sanitary Board a fee of Fifty Cents (0.50), which said amount is to be placed in the Y. Lemmy Fund of the Cattle Sanitary Board. Upon receipt of the payment of the said amount, it shall be the duty of the Sanitary Board to mail to any such owner or owners a brand certificate for each brand re-recorded and for which said fee has been paid, showing the date of the re-recording of the brand and also showing that the fee herein provided to be paid has been paid. A failure to make such payment shall forfeit the right to use any brand. When the right to use any brand recorded as aforesaid shall have become forfeited, the said brand shall not be recorded by any other person until after the expiration of two years from the date of the forfeiture. The Cattle Sanitary Board shall give notice each year on or before the first day of November by letter mailed through the United States mail to the owner or owners of such recorded brand of the amount due to be paid as hereinbefore provided.

Sec. 3. That it is necessary for the preservation of the public peace and safety of the inhabitants of the State of New Mexico that the provisions of this act shall become effective at the earliest possible time, and, therefore, an emergency is hereby declared to exist, and this act shall take effect and be in full force from and after its passage and approval.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE CERTIFICATE

I, Manuel Martinez, Secretary of State of the State of New Mexico, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true, exact and correct copy of House Bill No. 66, as amended.

AN ACT RELATING TO THE RE-RECORDING OF BRANDS

as the same appears on file and of record in my office.

Approved March 9, 1921, effective on said day.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of New Mexico, at the City of Santa Fe, the Capital, on this 23rd day of March, A. D., 1921.

(Signed) MANUEL MARTINEZ,
Secretary of State

White Oaks Items

The Women's Social Club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lealie Harmon. A large number of its members were present and enjoyed the social hour sewing and chatting. A photographer from Carrizozo who was town taking school pictures took two pictures of the club. The next event was a delicious lunch of cake and coffee.

The next meeting will be on Thursday, March 31, at the home of Mrs. Smit and will be in the evening, the husbands of the members being guests.

The dance given by the young men Saturday night was well attended and a most enjoyable time is reported by those present.

The Ward family have moved into the old Taliaferro residence recently vacated by E. Lacey.

Dr. Swearingen & Von Almen eye, ear, nose, throat and fitting glasses. 414 Trust Building, El Paso, Texas. Dr. Von Almen will be at Dr. E. L. Woods' office, Carrizozo, on the 15th of each month. 4-30-1f

THEY WANT THE CASH AND THEIR DEMANDS CANNOT GO CASH; AND TO ACCOMPLISH OUR PURPOSE WE HAVE LEFT NO STONE UNTURNED TO CONDUCT THIS SALE AND RAISE $8,000.00 IN 13 DAYS. OF OUR MERCHANDISE. IT IS FUTILE FOR US TO "WIBBLE" IN THE MERCY OF THE PUBLIC AT PRICES THAT ARE BELOW THE MARKET AMAZEMENT THE ENTIRE COUNTY. IT IS YOUR LONG DEFERRED AND EVEN FUTURE NEEDS AND REQUIREMENTS IN THE MARKET WHICH HAVE BEEN UNKNOWN AND UNHEARD OF. NEVER, NOT EVEN BEFORE THIS EVER PICTURED SUCH WANTON SLAUGHTER AND REMARKABLE WRECKING SALE.

TAKE A TIP FROM "UNCLE PHIL"

I came here from New York to conduct this sale for KELLEY & SON-- According to my contract I must raise $8,000.00 in 13 days. Before accepting this contract I got the unqualified promise from the firm that they would leave the marking of prices entirely to me. Consequently I have fearlessly and heartlessly cut, slashed and wrecked the prices so that I now have them actually below THE PRESENT WHOLESALE COST.

So, therefore, take a tip from your "UNCLE PHIL," attend this sale and buy your needs in Furniture and Hardware and "Let the rest of the World go by."

Drop-in and I'll give you some tips on the Phonograph Contest.

School Notes

The Camp Fire Girls met with their guardians Tuesday evening for their monthly ceremonial. Mrs. Herron was the only guest present.

The Girls Club did not meet this week on account of pressure of work in other directions.

The class in chemistry has been making tests in chlorides, bromides, sulphates, nitrates, carbonates, iodides, etc., during the past week. Bring in your ores to be tested. Prices reasonable.

The Boy Scouts met last Monday evening in the High School building at half seven and dismissed at nine, as is the rule. Over a dozen membership cards had come; they were properly filled out and given to the Scouts. Besides the regular order of business at these meetings the scout oath, scout law, ten to fifteen minutes of physical exercises, flag signaling, salute to the flag, and the singing of such songs as "Katy" and "Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag," will be given at each meeting. Assistant Scoutmaster Casier will give the drill in physical exercises at each meeting. The new members, in order to become tenderfoot scouts, must know (1) the scout laws, motto, sign, salute and significance of the badge; (2) know the composition and history of the national flag and the customary forms of respect due it; (3) tie following knots: Square or reef, sheet bend, bowline, fisherman's, sheepshank, halter, clove hitch, timber hitch and two half hitches.

Following is the roll of honor for the Carrizozo schools for the month of March:

Mrs. Craddock's room—Antonio Perea, Victor Pacheco, Juan Pacheco, Eva Vigil, Sofia Pacheco.

Miss Hughes' room—Viviana Solis, Luz Munoz, Conada Apodaca, Saturnino Chavez, Jose Gonzalez, Salvador Ortiz.

Mrs. Hoffman's room—Otto Fehm, Mack Steven, David Saunders, Francis...

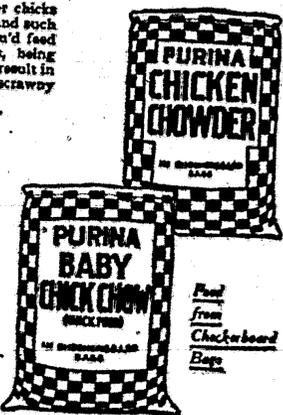

Purina Chows Save Baby Chicks

DON'T try to raise these tender chicks on grain, stale bread, meal and such grain products, any more than you'd feed a baby cornbread. Such rations, being deficient in protein and minerals, result in bowel trouble, slow feathering and scrawny development.

Chicks Saved Pay Feed Bill Suppose Purina Chows saved just two more chicks out of every dozen hatched. That alone would pay your feed bill. But Purina Chows do more than just save chicks.

Double Development Guaranteed

Purina Chows are guaranteed to make your chicks grow twice as fast as grain feeds or pay for your money back. Don't you owe it to yourself and others to call us up or drop in?

THE "OLD RELIABLE" THE FORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

White Haired Alabama Lady Says She Has Seen Medicines Come and Go But The "Old Reliable" Theford's Black-Draught Came and Stayed.

Dutton, Ala.—In recommending Theford's Black-Draught to her friends and neighbors here, Mrs. T. F. Parks, a well-known Jackson County lady, said: "I am getting up in years; my head is pretty white. I have seen medicines and remedies come and go but the old reliable came and stayed. I am talking of Black-Draught, a liver medicine we have used for years—one that can be depended upon and one that will do the work."

"Black-Draught will relieve indigestion and constipation if taken right, and I know for I tried it. It is the best thing I have ever found for the full, uncomfortable feeling after meals. Sour stomach and sick headache can be relieved by taking Black-Draught. It aids digestion, also assists the liver in throwing off impurities. I am glad to recommend Black-Draught, and do, to my friends and neighbors."

Theford's Black-Draught is a standard household remedy with a record of over seventy years of successful use. Every one occasionally needs something to help cleanse the system of impurities. Try Black-Draught. Insist upon Theford's, the genuine. At all druggists. Q. 73

Methodist Church

Notwithstanding the inclement weather last Sunday morning, practically all of the Sunday School pupils were in their places, and rendered their Master Hymns in a commendable manner.

our Mr. R. T. Cribb, former Sunday School Superintendent, has fallen on the shoulders of Mr. O. Z. Finley, who was in his place last Sunday, and entered upon the discharge of his official duties. His very towering physique is an inspiration, especially to the boys.

On account of the special services at the Baptist Church, all our services during the week were called in, including the evening services next Sunday. Since conferring with the pastor and some of his people, however, it has been learned that their particular revival services will be held at a later date. It is mutually agreed that, under the circumstances, it is better for us to go right ahead with the regular Sunday services at present. We will gladly dismiss the Sunday evening services when the specifically evangelistic effort is made.

Financiers know that we have revivals in business. Literary people know that we have revivals in learning. Likewise religious students know that we have wide, sweeping religious awakenings. We are not now living in a time of religious fervor; but the trend of current events indicates that such a time may be expected soon. The pastor begins a series along this line next Sunday. The morning subject will be "The Nature of a Revival."

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS IN PEACE TIME

About 12,000,000 boys and girls, composing nearly half the school population of the United States, are members of the Junior Red Cross, which is helping the children of Europe, while at the same time it is doing an important work here at home. Kallitan Chetworf, who wears the engaging smile shown in this picture, is the son of an Indian guide and trapper. He is the youngest Junior living in the neighborhood of Juneau, Alaska—and he sends greetings to fellow Juniors of the United States.

JEREMY LANE

In "Yellow Men Sleep" this author has gone far from the beaten paths and selected an environment almost as inaccessible and as little known as the South Pole—the heart of the Gobi desert in China. He locates therein a strange empire and makes it a scene of new and extraordinary adventures. Romance, but not of stereotyped plot and style. Our New Serial Watch for It!

Uncle Walt's Story

THE UNATTAINABLE

"THERE'S a spot on my back about the size of a postage stamp, that has been itching all day," said the retired merchant, "and it has caused me more grief than the last attack of rheumatism. I can't reach it with either hand, and I have been backing up against every telephone pole and gatepost, rubbing like a horse with the mange. A man of my social and commercial standing doesn't look dignified while thus engaged, but when a man's back itches, he has to defy the convention, and get relief the best way he can."

"I can understand just how it has worried you," said the hotelkeeper. "The fact that you couldn't reach around and claw the itching place with your fingers kept the matter fresh in your memory and got on your nerves. The pursuit of the unattainable always is more interesting to us than the easier work close to hand. You had your whole person to scratch, and might have bought a currycomb for a quarter, and had a good time, but you couldn't be happy until you had reached the one inaccessible spot."

"A while ago I imagined I had heart disease, and went and saw the doctor. He knows I have money in the bank, and am considered good pay, so he confirmed my worst fears, and made up his mind to have me for his star patient, until one of us petered out. He threw an awful scare into me, so that I went home sweating ice cold circus lemonade."

"He gave me some medicines and a lot of instructions. Among them was one to the effect that when I went to bed I should always sleep on my right side. He cautioned me over and over again against laying on my left side, and left the impression that if I disobeyed him, I'd wake up some morning to find myself a candidate for a floral horsehoe."

"That matter looked easy at the time, and I assumed the doctor'd follow his bylaws to the letter. When I went to bed that night, I stretched out on my right side, and in ten minutes I was just suffering to roll over. I don't believe I ever had such a tankering for anything. It seemed to me the height of human happiness would lie in sleeping on one's left side, and then I decided that life wasn't worth such sacrifices, and I rolled over and slept on my left side, and nothing happened. I was feeling better than usual next morning when I got up."

"Of course this experience lessened my confidence in the doctor's instructions, and I concluded that if I was going to sidestep the instructions I might as well sidestep the medicines, too, for they tasted like low life in a Chinese alley, and I threw the whole lot out of the window. Thus the sawbones lost his most promising patient because he handed out a rule that wasn't strictly necessary."

"Speaking of the unattainable, do you know what's the matter with Elias Furbelow? He has everything a man could ask, a stranger in the town would say. He has a beautiful home and a wife who would be considered a success anywhere, and he has restoons of money where it will do the most good."

"Yet he has a secret sorrow. I think he's the most melancholy man I ever saw, and his trouble is that he can't raise a good stand of whiskers. Nowadays, when whiskers are considered an infirmity, it seems strange that any man should grieve over such a matter."

"He sends all over the United States for hair growers, and half the time his face is biliated or swollen, and still the whiskers won't grow on him. If some miracle happened, and he woke up some morning to find his countenance all covered with whiskers, he'd probably have them shaved off within a week; but because they won't grow, he won't be happy till he gets them."

Wary of Whirlwinds "You don't seem to like the idea of a whirlwind campaign." "I hate the mere mention of it, replied Farmer Corntassel. "Maybe you'd find it hard to understand, now, but I've lived, as I did, in a part of the country where every once in a while you have to get out and run for a cyclone cellar."

Plenty of Time Teacher—What, Bobby, you say you don't want to be president of the United States? "Bright Lad—Not just now, thank you. It's all the same to you I'd rather wait until after a couple of more elections.—American Legion Weekly

Yellow Men Sleep

Jeremy Lane

Illustrated by Irwin Myerson

CHAPTER X—Continued.

He hobbled on ahead, and many walked close beside the white men, but there was no talking. If the miners were curious, they were silent. If they were as distrustful as they appeared in glances, they were for the moment persuaded by the Arab.

Con sniffed camels. There was a ledge where the walls sloped back to meet the lowering roof, and in the wedge-shaped space between, the white men were permitted to conceal themselves. Levington drew his friend further into the narrowing space, and at once the torches were gone. Silence came about the two as they waited. From beyond a jutting wall the light from the gas fire faintly colored the rock, leaving the hiding place in deep shadow.

"I talked with Helen about these men," said March. "They are the sons of captive mothers and fathers. Their blood is pure, or has already been duplicated in the city. That is their crime; they are not blended, or necessary to the breed, and so, an outcast, are sentenced to the work here. The women are not all deformed, and the children are not always born dwarfs, but I understand that the babies are taken to the city, to be raised in the houses of the war caste. The legs and backs of the male children are 'spotted,' in order to nip any future revolt. The arms are left unhurt, for the sake of labor. It is well thought out."

"The devil's own scheme," said Con. "There are pure Japanese here, pure Persian, the Lord knows how many different elements not desired for the purposes of empire."

"But how did you begin to persuade them?"

"I thought of their grievances and made the most of that. It appears that they have at different times cherished the idea of a revolution; our Arabian friend was one of the candidates for leadership, years ago, he says, but his legs were too bad. They had to give it up. Isn't that the bitter humor?"

"I won't go anywhere again without learning the language," said Con.

"It was almost as if they had been looking for us," added March.

"I hope we can make good your promises."

"I hope they can protect us."

"Curious game, isn't it?" mused Levington. He was thinking now of Princess Helen.

"You're not much elated over our deliverance," objected the elder comrade.

"Wait! Wait! said that if a thousand perfect men were to appear before him he wouldn't be surprised."

"Is that the way you feel?" laughed March.

"Yes. That's one book Helen ought to have. Wait could show her what's the matter with Tau Kuan."

"You might do that yourself," said the father, and the conversation lapsed.

Distantly Levington heard the miners rousing the camels for another day's work.

"It must be almost daylight," said March.

"All the same down here, but I suppose they can track us in the daytime."

"Back at my desk, in the days before I found Chee Ming," said March. "I was depressed because I felt I should never reach the heart of the Gobi. It had become the same as heaven to me, and all my dream leaders had failed, toppled down. But even in my younger days, I never imagined a world like this."

"That first big surprise stretched me," said Con, "when we ran into the green valley. The palace made me numb, and the apartment of your little princess finished me—victrolas, apes and almanacs. If I had not seen my own father go down under koreah, I wouldn't believe that, either. But as it is, I think nothing on God's footstool will ever startle me again."

"The white men lay for more than an hour talking in whispers and peering out into the great blue cave. No daylight could enter here, only the noiseless dance of orange-tinted shadows upon the farther wall. At moments they could hear something of the activity of the miners. In another section of the subterranean passage. Then, abruptly, the arch at the left was darkened by large familiar forms, the soldiers.

There was a score of them, with smoking torches. A long limp bag was dragged upon the floor. The first glance about this part of the cavern was a disappointment to the big-framed warriors; but they had not completed their search. Swords clattered down against the rock floor as they opened one end of the bag. A black serpent slipped out of their feet.

From the direction, Levington saw the snake lift its head and rapidly descend the length of the passage. He shoved it away with the blunt of his sword. The other soldiers stood about, and small dogs went to the front. A black dog was dragged in a ring about the head of the snake. Levington torches high, the soldiers waited, and as the snake seemed disinclined to act, one huge rider caught its black length upon his scabbard and lifted it upon the ledge as high as his head. The serpent might go where they could not see. It remained still in the new position, in rather an angry mood, and then started upward. It did not come toward the white fugitives, but mounted the uneven walls opposite, until the leathern rope in the hands of the man below was nearly played out.

Presently the serpent had circled the cavern and was nearing the Americans. Silently it progressed, from one shadow to the next. When the torch caught on a rocky point, the warrior below would whirl his end of it, and the tether would go free. The snake paused with trembling rage at the disturbance, then went on.

Levington had drawn his turban down over his neck, with face-pressed to the rocks. But he could not withhold a glance at the approaching snake, and his heart beat heavily with terror. He stooped himself to hold perfectly still. The eyes of the reptile were upon him, now within two yards of his head. The long, silent body slid up to him. Under its dusky skin were golden markings, like sunlight on stagnant water. A forked white tongue was flickering in and out in a kind of smile.

There was no hesitation. The snake was looping, gliding onward across the ledge. Con's soul was gripped in horror, but if the searching party had reckoned on forcing the fugitives to betray themselves by some outcry or sign of fear, they had failed. Neither American had so much as winked while the sinuous thing writhed past without striking.

The hunters passed on to the next cavern.

CHAPTER XI.

"You Are Making Me Unhappy."

Con heard his friend breathing once more, exhaling pent air. They waited some time before moving out of the tight place.

"A merry little worm, wasn't he?" whispered Con.

"Are you chilled?" asked March, whimsically.

"You are chattering, too," retorted the young man.

"I wonder if they left any of those behind, for our benefit?"

"I saw only the one, so I know it was real," said Levington. "Gobi police dog, I'll never forget the glance he gave me—yellow diamond eyes. And, do you know—?"

"What?"

"He had a smell," whispered Levington.

March laughed quietly and said he did not doubt that.

"There was a house in Dowagiac," continued Levington, "a very old house. The walls were full of murder, and worse. A poor lady lived there, with a number of miseries, such as finding an exit.

To the left was the passage leading to the foot of the slanting shaft. He noted a long vine that came down over the loose gravel like a guide-rope. Con climbed into the enlarging daylight toward the top. Sunlight, the old enemy, was beguiling. He was thinking that in Tau Kuan they have either too much sunshine or too little. The pale, haunted faces of the children below troubled him. An intense light was blinding him from above. A flash of desert days came over him oddly, a swift reminiscence of pain and thirst.

He was in the space of one upward step, yet leaving a dryness in the throat. Con realized that the only trees within a thousand miles were the half-grown oaks outside the casements of the princess.

Now the air changed in his nostrils and he caught again the hot, sweeping currents of the sand. When the green blot left his eye he raised his head above the level of upper earth and stared away. The city, less than a mile distant, was shimmering behind heat-waves, at moments dimmed by clouds of dust that rushed across the valley. He squinted to find the path they had taken last night through the fog, with the sleepers rising to find them.

A dromedary with baskets and a driver was coming out at the big gate. Out to the south was a motionless horseman, the sun flashing from his silver and steel. He seemed to be guarding the horizon. He was one of the scores who sought a trace of the fugitives. But nearer, along the road, was a third rider, cowering between the green squares. Con's heart beat violently. He recognized the apple-clang of his prisoner.

He rode under the full blaze of high noon. The pony moved haltingly. The watcher was puzzled as to why she came out in the great heat, leaving the shelter of the palace gates. She was alone, save for the faint gleam of the sun. She was mounted on a dromedary, and she was contributing to the watcher for more signs of her presence. She reached the cut in the hill, the head of the ravine, and

Con saw the point of their first meeting, where her uplifted right arm had saved him, while with the left she concealed her face.

He swore to himself that he was presumptuous in imagining he had ridden there for any real connection with himself, unless she too was seeking to discover the white disturbers of the empire and give them over to the vizir. Con argued with himself that she had gone to the ravine before she knew he existed, that probably she rode there each day for a constitutional, since there was nowhere else to go. Yet his emotions had their final say.

Lifting himself out at the mouth of the shaft, he glanced up and around. The sun was scorching. If he attempted to move along the face of the hill he would draw the eye of the sentinel and the end would come quickly. Con's turban and blouse were white and he felt that he must be glowing like a gem on the dun hillside. Greater than this difficulty was the fear that Helen would ride on or turn back before he could reach her. Nothing short of a word with her would suffice, although he could not recall that he had anything to say.

The shortest way out of sight was up the hill and over the crest, and Con began to worm upward as rapidly as possible. The sand he loosened must have made a long stream downward, a out of the crevice, to a position better for breathing. Although still in the shadow, he rolled over upon his back, and drew up his knees, with a deep sigh.

"That house would be proud of me, if they knew, and if I was able to bring back a straight story of this country, the source of the world's koreah."

"Yes, that house, and many others. I am glad you feel as you do."

"I suppose our government would ask the Chinese government to cooperate in reaching and controlling Tau Kuan."

"And the Russian," added March. "They are badly hit."

"Do you think it is possible?" asked Con.

After a silence, the elder comrade said slowly: "To be frank, I have had faith and lost it, and regained and lost it so many times that I cannot say. It is my duty to try, but I can't say any more than that."

Levington felt the curious depression again in his friend, an alarming weight.

The Arabian sailor appeared below them, grinning.

"You hold still!"

"Like stone," said Con.

"She do not strike you at all?"

"Passed both of us," said March.

"You are cherished of Allah," declared the sailor. "They have taken away four of us."

He grunted a word of meaning. The sailors were punishing the miners for complicity. Perhaps the tale of the white men's "murder" did not impress the searching party.

"What will they do to the four?"

"Break leg," said the Arab. "Maybe starve."

Andrew March shuddered, and the strange one below volunteered: "My men do not like."

Levington saw that two white strangers causing great trouble for the miners could not become very popular. March also understood. He said simply: "Take me before your men."

"Is there anything you can say?" asked Con.

"Only what I told them before," replied March. "We represent a nation that is as eager to punish Tau Kuan as these workers can be, if we can get back there to tell the story. I can make that clear, at least."

"They may not be in a mood to listen."

March smiled sadly. "Moods," he began, but shook his head.

The three men passed into the larger portion of the cavern, where the reddish roof was marked with the flare from the burning gas below. Several women cried out sharply at sight of the white men and fled like timid animals to their rock-pockets up the walls. Their skirts were brief and ugly. Several very young children darted after their mothers to the safety of dark familiar haunts—too young to have been "spotted." It was only a period of months before they would be taken into the city, to be molded into slaves in the houses of the soldiers, the circulation of their blood retarded, their very souls distorted. Returning to the mines a year or more after, they would be lost and strange and as if orphaned, among their own kin. Their family life did not receive sanction of the state.

The frightened women left food behind them. Jars stood close to the fissure from which came the fire. The contents had been prepared for baking. Con bent down to sniff at the open jars. March and the Arab passed on together, and Levington waited, feeling himself useless in such a conference. He was more interested in finding an exit.

To the left was the passage leading to the foot of the slanting shaft. He noted a long vine that came down over the loose gravel like a guide-rope. Con climbed into the enlarging daylight toward the top. Sunlight, the old enemy, was beguiling. He was thinking that in Tau Kuan they have either too much sunshine or too little. Greater than this difficulty was the fear that Helen would ride on or turn back before he could reach her. Nothing short of a word with her would suffice, although he could not recall that he had anything to say.

The shortest way out of sight was up the hill and over the crest, and Con began to worm upward as rapidly as possible. The sand he loosened must have made a long stream downward, a perfect mark if the sentinel glanced that way. At the top, Levington was breathless, but not from exertion. He was in furious excitement. Just a little way down the hill on the further side, and he stood erect to look. Helen was still at the head of the ravine. He bolted for the road that led up to her.

When he was quite close, a timidity caught him, a pleasant trouble. It was the old gentleness where women were concerned, the familiar fullness in the throat and the shyest look that ever comes into the eyes of an adult male. But there was also a new driving force, a reckless impulse. He would have speech with her, princess or no. She did not see him. The sun was liquid silver upon her, and the next he was aware that she did see him. They occupied the positions respectively of their first meeting, yet now the footing was different. Con ran up the road toward the pony. He crept up the side of the bank and found it convenient to kneel beside a boulder. He bowed.

"I wanted to talk with you," he said.

"They are looking for you," she replied.

"Your father is conferring with the Arab foreman and the miners."

"I knew you were safe, for there has been no rejoicing."

"There isn't going to be, on our account."

"I wondered where you were," she said.

Her voice was almost dreamy, a twilight in the midst of a blaze of sun. Con was fascinated by the play of light beneath the brim of her hat, and she seemed not to rebuke his glances. The gray cloak was of lether as fine as linen. Soft buff leather bound her ankles. The stirrups were no wider than three fingers.

She spoke again: "You are resting upon the grave of my mother."

Levington started, but she said hastily: "Do not arise. They will see you."

"Thanks," he mumbled, again under the influence of the fact that she would shield him. In all she said was the same colorless melancholy, as if the monotony of the desert shadowed her voice. She continued:

"Helen, my mother, has been lying here for five years. At first this was a little garden, which the vizir permitted me to make. There was a fountain there, beside that stone. I had little green plants for her. She loved a lotus. But the fountain could not rise, either."

"You must miss her very much."

"Yes, oh, very much! Sometimes in the morning I call her, before I remember. I do not think she is really dead. When I dream, she is always here with me."

WAS NEW ONE ON KITCHENER

Great British Soldier Somewhat Out of His Element When It Came to Chaplains.

Here is a Lord Kitchener story, told by the anonymous author of "The Mirrors of Downing Street." Kitchener was a soldier and absorbed in his profession. Details outside of his ruling passion annoyed him.

During the early days of the war Lloyd George went to him at the war office and asked the appointment of denominational chaplains for the various acts of the army.

Kitchener had no interest in chaplains. He regarded them as a negligible factor in the fighting machine.

He opposed the appointments. Lloyd George insisted, especially with respect to Presbyterians. Kitchener finally yielded and picked up his pen.

"Very well," he said, "you shall have a Presbyterian." Then a faint smile lighted his saturnian face. "Let me see, Presbyterian—how do you spell it?"

"One Would Be Happy."

It was the first night of the new play.

"I say," remarked the author to the manager, "that scene after over there is a most peculiar, looking fellow."

"Yes; he's an Eskimo," said the manager.

"An Eskimo! What on earth made you take him on?"

"Oh, I thought it would be a comfort to see one happy face if the play turns out to be a frost!"

Metal of Apparently Excellent Quality Breaks Without Warning and Eminent Scientists Are Trying to Find Out Why.

New York.—"Do the metals get tired?" asks Prof. H. F. Moore of the engineering experiment station, University of Illinois, in a statement prepared for Engineering Foundation, New York, on "Fatigue of Metals." The question became important during the war in connection with allied air operation and has taken on a new significance in peace, according to engineering authorities. Prof. Moore tells how co-operation between Engineering Foundation, universities and industrial establishments has endeavored to find a solution of this and other problems and at the same time bring about a combination of the nation's best engineering and scientific minds.

Cause of "Accidents" Sought. "In school days," Prof. Moore says, "we 'orated' about tireless steel-sheathed athletes. Now the word 'fatigue' is being used by men of science as the most suggestive name for certain kinds of failures of steel and other metals. Metal of apparently excellent quality breaks without warning in crankshafts of airplanes, in parts of steam turbines, in other rapidly moving machines, in members of bridges subjected to vibration and frequent changes of stress.

"What are the causes? How can such failures be avoided? What are the limits of endurance of various metals under many repetitions of stress?"

"Answers to these questions became especially important during the war, and particularly in connection with military aviation. A committee of engineers and scientists organized by the National Research Council and Engineering Foundation undertook a study. The problem proved complex and its study costly. But lives and property are in jeopardy through lack of knowledge. Therefore, the study has been continued. After the armistice the division of engineering of National Research Council turned to Engineering Foundation for financial assistance. The engineering experiment station of the University of Illinois had been connected with the early study and had the men and some of the facilities needed for further research.

Many Tests Are Inaugurated. "In October, 1919, the three organizations mentioned entered into an agreement for two years. Engineering Foundation undertaking to provide $30,000, in installments, as needed. A limited line of experiments was inaugurated. Certain manufacturers contributed test specimens of steel. Special machines were constructed and methods devised. Under known conditions many specimens are being subjected to millions of repetitions or changes of stress. Information of practical importance is emerging from the accumulating records of hundreds of observations.

"In the fall of 1920 the General Electric company requested an extension of the program of tests to cover certain nickel steels in which it is interested as a builder of steam turbines. To meet the expense the company offered $30,000. A supplementary agreement was undertaken and the new work has been started.

"Other users and producers of wrought or cast metals can secure valuable information at relatively small cost by taking advantage of the existing staff and facilities for expanding this research in fields of peculiar interest to them. Each group of special tests helps in the understanding of the general problem.

"This co-operation research is an example of one of the most effective uses for the funds of Engineering Foundation. By a relatively modest expenditure the Foundation facilitated the tests and carried them far enough to demonstrate their usefulness to the industries concerned; through the affiliation between the Foundation and the Research Council the advice of the leading men of science in this field is contributed for the determination of methods and the interpretation of results. Similar procedure can be applied to other kinds of researches."

STUDENTS FROM FRANCE

Miles. Marcelle Monod and Sarah Perron, French nurses, have come to America to study public health nursing, which has reached its highest development in this country and is but little known in France. They are being trained here by the American committee for devastated France and will head the public health nursing work which that organization has inaugurated in the war-torn districts.

"FIZZ" NOW PASSED UP

Bon Vivants of London Lose Taste for Champagne.

Cafe Proprietors Bewail Dwindling Receipts from Sales of "Wealthy Water."

London.—Proprietors of fashionable west end hotels and restaurants are bewailing the slump in their receipts which they declare has taken place. "We have the same number of people dining each night," said the manager of one of the best-known restaurants, "but our receipts are 50 per cent below those of a year ago. The difference," he added, "is chiefly a matter of wines. During the war, and before the war, it was customary for a small party here to have a magnum of champagne. Now they are satisfied with a bottle of Chablis or some other wine which costs much less than champagne. "Apart from the greater expense," said a famous bon vivant, "it must be admitted that dining out is not as pleasant as it used to be. The restaurants where there used to be refinement and charm, not only in the surroundings but in the people themselves, have been invaded by a new type of diner.

"The conversation and behavior of these new clients have rather vulgarized some of the best restaurants, and the old frequenters prefer to dine at home or at their clubs. Two nights ago I saw a man in what used to be one of the most fashionable and refined of London restaurants dining with his serviette tucked all around his collar. That sort of thing rather spoils the charm of dining out for patrons of the old school."

"As far as the best brands of champagne are concerned, the sale is dead," said the head of a large firm of wine merchants in Pall Mall. "We are selling very little champagne to our private customers, who are instead drinking port, sherry, Marsala and claret. People cannot afford champagne. They could when it could be had at from 8 to 9 shillings a bottle, but what with increased taxes and high prices generally, they naturally fight shy of paying from 16 to 20 shillings for a bottle of champagne, which is now demanded of them."

ENGLISH BIRTH RATE HIGH

Vital Statistics for 1920 Show Mortality the Lowest Ever Recorded.

London.—Vital statistics just issued by the Ministry of Health show that the birth rate for 1920 in England is the highest for the decade and the death rate the lowest ever recorded. The infant mortality rate also is the lowest on record. The number of births is the highest ever recorded, while the number of deaths is the lowest since 1892, when the population was only 29,000,000. The figures are: For England and Wales—Birth rate per 1,000 of the total population, 25.44; deaths, crude rate, 12.4; deaths under one year per 1,000 births, 80. For London—Birth rate per 1,000, 20.3; deaths, crude rate, 12.4; deaths under one year per 1,000 births, 75. The increase in the birth rate is attributed to the number of delayed marriages prevented by the war and to the remarriage of war widows. It is suggested that the low death rate may be due to the rapid strides taken in surgery, medicine and sanitation during the war.

Who'll Have a Whale Steak?

Whale meat has been placed on sale in New York for the first time. The meat stewed, fried or broiled, is said to be delicious, and the poor are using it as a substitute for beef and pork. The meat is red, but has a salty taste. It sells for 20 cents a pound.

PLOT MAIL ROBBERIES

Big Gang of Bandits Operating Throughout Country.

Four Hundred Thousand Dollars Lost in Robbery of Postoffice Wagon at Toledo, O.

Washington.—A nation-wide plot for the wholesale robbery of mail trains, post offices and post office wagons is now in operation, according to George M. Sutton, chief of the postal inspection service, following the holdup in Toledo, O., when $400,000 lost was obtained from a postal wagon, and on the Northern Pacific railroad, near Minneapolis, when a loss estimated at several hundred thousand dollars was suffered. Evidence gathered in preliminary investigations of these cases and others

a bandit ring is in operation with a network throughout the United States. "I am confident we will soon be able to break up the nation-wide organization of post office burglars and other criminals who are planning burglaries at many points," he said. "There is every expectation that the bandits who robbed the Toledo post office wagon soon will be caught."

There has been a sharp increase in the number of post office and mail train robberies, the records show, but the officials insist that this is but one phase of the crime wave which has been on throughout the country during the last few months. The increase in mail robberies is less, they say, than in other lines, that is, banks, trust companies and various financial institutions.

Southwest News

From All Over New Mexico and Arizona

(Western Newspaper Union News Service.)
The Indian population of Arizona in 1920 was 32,969, compared with 29,201 in 1910, the census bureau announced recently.

The Santa Fe Railroad Company has notified the officials of Carrizozo that it will soon be in a position to furnish that city with water from its supply there.

Contrary to erroneous reports gaining circulation recently in Arizona, payment on five-year fees on national forests are permitted to be postponed until September 1, 1921.

Fire of unknown origin wiped out a large part of the business section of Benson, a small town in western Cochise county, in Arizona. The loss is estimated at about $150,000.

J. M. Dubbe, a rancher, was found murdered at his home, three miles northeast of Phoenix. The wounds in the head, presumably caused by blows from a sharp weapon, caused death.

About half a million dollars' worth of bridges and roads have been contracted for by the New Mexico State Highway Commission in connection with bids received for federal aid projects on Feb. 21 and March 8.

Governor Mechem of New Mexico has announced the appointment of Holm C. Bursum of Socorro, Republican national committeeman, as successor to Albert B. Fall, who resigned as United States senator to accept the secretary of the interior portfolio in President Harding's cabinet.

A great deal of interest is being taken in Miami in the case of Ricardo Lauterio, the Mexican sentenced to be hanged April 21, 1921, at the state penitentiary at Florence, N. M. It is claimed by the Mexicans that Lauterio is not guilty of murder as charged and that a mistake has been made in his case. Petitions are being circulated in his behalf.

The closing of two more banks has been reported to the New Mexico state bank examiner's office. These were the State National Bank at Carlsbad and the Loving State Bank at Loving, a subsidiary institution. The reason for the closing of the second was given as depleted reserves. These brought the number of banks in New Mexico closed since Nov. 1 to five.

Interested railroads have authorized a fare and one-half, on the certificate plan, from all points in New Mexico and El Paso, in connection with the annual conventions of the New Mexico Wool Growers' Association and the New Mexico Cattle and Horse Growers' Association, to be held in Albuquerque, N. M., March 25 to March 31, inclusive.

Claims against the state by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad for transporting members of the Arizona National Guard to and from stations in Arizona, during October, November and December, 1920, and January, 1921, at the regular passenger rate of 4 cents per mile, should be allowed, according to an opinion announced by Attorney General W. J. Galbraith.

J. W. Stockard, prominent in the politics of New Mexico, former mayor of Roswell, and at present rated as wealthy stockman of New Mexico, was arraigned before United States Commissioner A. J. W. Schmidt, charged with receiving smuggled merchandise, and possession and transportation of 110 quarts and 137 pints of unlabeled whisky, and 120 pints of Old Taylor whisky.

Practically all of Gov. M. C. Mechem's recommendations were carried out by the New Mexico Legislature, with the exception of a primary law. Several primary bills were introduced, but the Senate and House could not agree on any one, and the result was that all of them were killed.

A suit for $138,450 and costs has been filed by the Blasco Lumber Company against the Blasco-Naco Water Company as a result of the big fire at Lovell on Oct. 11, 1920, which destroyed property valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars. The plaintiff alleges a breach of contract in that the water company failed to have water available in a certain water main at the time of the fire.

A solemn requiem mass was held at the Cathedral of St. Francis, in Santa Fe, for the late Father Anselm Weber, apostle to the "Navajos" Franciscan pioneer missionary among the southwestern Indians, the news of whose death in a hospital in Rochester, Minn., had been announced. Father Weber, for twenty-five years a missionary among the Navajos in New Mexico and Arizona, was the leading authority on the language of the tribe.

MRS. HAYDOCK SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Followed Advice of Her Druggist's Wife and Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I was in bed with a female trouble and inflammation and had four doctors but none of them did me any good. They all said I would have to have an operation. A druggist's wife told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took 24 bottles, never missing a dose and at the end of that time I was perfectly well. I have never had occasion to take it again as I have been so well. I have a six room flat and do all my work. My two sisters are taking the Compound upon my recommendation and you may publish my letter. It is the gospel truth and I will write to any one who wants a personal letter."—MRS. E. H. HAYDOCK, 6324 St. Lawrence Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved Mrs. Haydock from an operation we cannot claim that all operations may be avoided by it, but many women have escaped operations by the timely use of this old-fashioned root and herb medicine.

Immovable Fez. The director of indigenous arts in Fez, Morocco, told me that he had recently come upon a book written in the fourteenth century and describing Fez as it was at that time. The director compared the statements in the book, item for item, with Fez as it is today—and found the book to be perfectly up-to-date. Reprint it and it would pass very well as a modern account of present-day Fez. The people of Fez are still doing things just as they did them in medieval times.—Willard Price in Christian Herald.

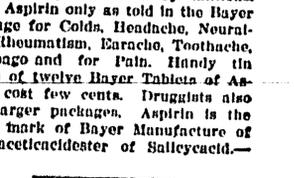

Ups and Downs. A New York publisher was discussing the brilliant and daring Margot Asquith, the British ex-premier's wife.

"I once heard Mrs. Asquith," he said, "describe a great lady-killer at a London dinner-party."

"He told me," she said, "that he played women exactly as you play fish. Only, he added, in the one case you angle to make them rise, and in the other to make them fall."

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for twenty-one years and proved safe by millions. Take Aspirin only as told in the Bayer package for Colds, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Earache, Toothache, Lumbago and for Pain. Handy tin boxes of twelve Bayer Tablets of Aspirin cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Mononucleic acid ester of salicylic acid.—Adv.

In Conclusion. "Dat hoss was so slow," glowered Ratus over the remains of the unfortunate equine that had just lost a race over a railroad crossing. "he was so slow dey ain't no hoss in de world go slower.

"Come de judgment day and St. Peter'll say, 'All yo' dead men come forth.' Den dey'll all come forth. Den he'll say, 'All yo' dead ladies come forth.' Finly he'll say, 'All yo' dead horses come forth.' "And jes' to spite dat hoss he'll come fith!"—American Legion Weekly.

Don't Go From Bad to Worse!

Are you always weak, miserable and half-dead? Then it's time you found out what is wrong. Kidney weakness causes much suffering from backache, lameness, stiffness and rheumatic pains, and if neglected brings danger of serious troubles—dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease. Don't delay. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

A Colorado Case. Mrs. J. H. Bullard, 1205 E. Sixth St., Pueblo, Colo., says: "I had an ache across the small of my back and it nearly killed me to do my work. I had sharp pains caught me through my kidneys and nearly doubled me up. My kidneys were irregularly and I suffered from dizzy headaches. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and three boxes cured me."

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Messrs. B. Sears and Will Tittsworth were business visitors from Capitan Saturday.

Miss Lorena Sager reached home Monday on her return from Denver, where she spent a thirty day vacation with friends.

Mrs. Nettie C. Funk, who lives at Polly, received a message this week announcing the death of her aged mother in Ohio.

George Freidenbloom spent a day or two here this week. He is now located at Clovis and is interested in a storage business.

Rev. C. C. Higbee, pastor of First Methodist church, will leave the first of next week for Albuquerque to attend the District Conference, of which he is secretary.

Dr. F. S. Randles and A. J. Rolland left Wednesday morning for the east end of the Capitans where they are interested in some iron deposits. They have been doing development work on the property since 1912.

Oliver Peaker was in yesterday from his ranch, making application for final proof on his homestead. He was accompanied by his brother, who came over from England last summer on a visit, and who intends to return to the light little isle at an early date.

Fred Getty returned Monday morning from Sioux City, Iowa, to which point he had been called three weeks ago upon the death of an aunt. He reached his old home in time for the funeral, the remains having been held until he arrived.

Intensive practice is in progress this week for a local talent entertainment to be given at the Crystal theatre, Friday evening April 16. Further particulars will be published later. The proceeds from the entertainment will be used for the construction of a lawn tennis court.

Henry Lutz, Sr., who returned from Santa Fe two weeks ago and has since been out to his Ancho ranch, was in this week following the storm, and was in a happy mood. The recent moisture, he said, starts the stock business out in fine shape, and he predicts this year will be one of the best in the history of the county.

Mrs. G. H. Sweet of El Paso, mother of E. H. Sweet, manager of the Carrizozo Eating House, is visiting her son and family. She will probably remain several weeks.

Senator E. M. Brickley and C. Z. Finley, returned yesterday from Albuquerque where they had gone to attend the convention of cattle and horse growers. Senator Brickley delivered an address on the relations of the banker and stockman.

Dr. T. W. Watson, former treasurer of this county, and well known resident for many years, arrived Tuesday from his Long Beach, California, home. The doctor's stay is indefinite but will probably extend into next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gallacher came in yesterday from the ranch, and Mrs. Gallacher was placed in the Paden hospital, suffering from a severe case of measles. Mr. and Mrs. Gallacher had returned only a few days ago from a short wedding trip on which they visited Mrs. Gallacher's parents at Hurley, N. M.

We are requested to explain that the handbills which have been distributed announcing a series on the general subject of a "Revival" to begin at the First Methodist church next Sunday morning, is not the beginning of protracted meeting, as some have understood. These subjects will be discussed at the regular preaching services. The revival meeting is planned to begin April 24.

Woman's Club

The Woman's Club met in regular session March 11 at the home of Mrs. Ira G. Wetmore, Mrs. O. Z. Finley presiding. As the secretary was absent, the minutes of the previous meeting were not read. The treasurer reported some $88 in the treasury, the Indian play having proved very successful financially.

A motion was made extending a vote of thanks to Mr. Dingwall for the use of theatre, also to those who so kindly helped to make the play a success, including Louis Adams, Bill Prude, H. Bamberger, Don Finley, George Dingwall, G. T. McQuillen, Leo Davis, Ira Wetmore and Dr. Cole; also the local press for its kindly help.

A motion was also made that the Woman's Club extend a vote of thanks to Senator Brickley and Representatives Lutz and Grey for their help in passing the anti-gambling law, and for the donation of the pen with which the bill was signed.

The business of the meeting being finished, the meeting was turned over to the hostesses, Mesdames Wetmore and Farley.

The program was thoroughly enjoyed. Those taking part in the program were: Mesdames Hailey, Saunders, Kelley, Keating, Donaldson, Frazer Charles and Miss Adams, after which dainty refreshments were served.

The next meeting of the club will be held April 4, at Lutz hall. Current events will be discussed. It is expected all members will contribute some interesting topic for discussion.

In the Hospital

Owen I. Langseth, manager of the Co-operative store, went to the Paden Hospital Monday for an operation, the necessity for the operation resulting from an injury Mr. Langseth received last week. Mr. Langseth is recovering rapidly from the effects of the operation and hopes to be out of the hospital at an early date.

Kelly & Son to Give Away a Phonograph

Contest to be Held in Conjunction with their Big Sale

This Saturday, April 2, Kelly & Son will open a big reduction sale on all the merchandise they have on hand. They find themselves in a position where they are compelled to raise the cash to meet some urgent demands of their creditors.

They have engaged an expert sales conductor to put on this sale, Mr. P. Levin of New York City, is the salesmanager, and is under contract with the Kelly firm to conduct this sale and raise the required cash. He claims he is going to give Lincoln county a remarkable sensation by his drastic, fearless, slashing of prices.

A $200 Pathe Cabinet Phonograph will be given away by this firm in the contest that will be held in conjunction with this sale. 200 votes will be given with every $1.00 purchase made. The votes will be entered on a regular ballot and dropped into the ballot box. The person having the largest number of votes at the close of the sale will be given the phonograph—absolutely free of any charge. On the evening of the 16th—the date of the close of this sale—a disinterested committee will count the votes and award the phonograph.

Clubs, churches and societies may also enter this contest. The salesmanager will be glad to explain the features of this contest.
