CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, NOV. 11, 1921

NUMBER 44

A Truck Company Proposed for Carrizozo

The organization of a Motor Transport Company, New Mexico National Guard, for Carrizozo, is under discussion, and available information indicates a flattering promise of its achievement. It seems that all that is necessary is to secure the required number of enlistments of men to organize the company, and the proper backing of the town to carry the proposal to a successful conclusion.

Forty-five men are required in the Truck Company. The transportation equipment is to consist of one five-passenger motor car, three motor cycles with side cars, one trailer, kitchen and 21 trucks of various capacities.

Other equipment will come with similar organization, such as 13 riding horses, 16 draft horses, pistols, etc. The Adjutant-General of the State writes that the organization of these companies will mean a large outlay by the state and federal governments, and the employment of a number of men as helpers, and whose duty it will be to take care of animals and materials.

The movement had its inception with a letter from the State Adjutant addressed to Major Chas. H. Lutz, who is on the Governor's staff. The Adjutant-General in his letter to Major Lutz suggested that the business and professional men of our town be urged to get behind the movement, and promising to visit Carrizozo should the proper spirit be shown in completing and maintaining such an organization.

Henry Lutz, Sr., E. D. Boone, and others have discussed it with our people, and so far as we have been able to ascertain a good interest has been shown. We take the liberty of making an added suggestion, and that is that the American Legion Post get squarely behind the proposition and give all possible aid.

In response to letters from citizens of Carrizozo, the Adjutant-General has promised to come here in December and talk the matter over with our people. In the meantime it would be well to keep the matter in mind and have a tangible proposition to make when the Adjutant-General arrives here.

Goes to Dallas

Miss Ula L. Edmiston, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, is in receipt of notice of her appointment to a position in the office of the Chief National Bank Examiner, Dallas, Texas, where she will go to prepare herself for the position of National Bank Examiner. The appointment comes from the comptroller of the currency, and carries a salary of $1,500 with a probable increase to $3,000 and expenses. Her application was endorsed by various examiners, and the appointment secured.

Miss Edmiston has been with the First National since her graduation from the Carrizozo High School, and has achieved signal success in her work, receiving the highest encomiums from the officers of the bank, and these officers say she possesses a knowledge and ability of bank work second to none.

Her loss to the First National is shared by the town; for Miss Ula has grown with the town and is beloved by all. In fact, she has outgrown it, and now goes to a more extensive field where her efficiency and faithfulness can be more amply rewarded.

Demand for Residences

Building operations in the town are more active than they have been for three years. A number of dwellings and an apartment house in various stages of construction, and others are contemplated. This does not mean, necessarily, that money is more plentiful, nor does it mean that the town is on a boom—distinctly it is not—but is merely in response to a demand for more houses.

Work on the road from Roswell to Carrizozo will be started as soon as material can be secured. The work will be started at the foot of Picacho hill and will cover a distance of 16 miles.

The Red Cross is spending Ten Million Dollars a Year to help the ex-service man and his family — Annual Roll Call Nov. 11-24, 1921

To bring before the country in visual form the vast problem it is facing to solve, the American Red Cross has prepared for its Annual Roll Call, Nov. 11 to 24, a poster showing how rather than diminishing the total of World War veterans entitled to Federal aid continues to grow. Red Cross Service to these men is costing $10,000,000 a year.

The Red Cross Drive Starts To-Day

The drive for membership in the American Red Cross begins today, Armistice Day, and will continue to November 24, Thanksgiving. The special purpose of the Lincoln County Chapter is to secure funds with which to meet the expenses of a school nurse. The experiment last year, which netted splendid results, warrants the Chapter in requesting aid for this laudable undertaking another year. Inasmuch as every school and every child attending school throughout the county will benefit by this service, it is sincerely hoped that a large membership, from all parts of the county, will result.

Forty "Tourists"

The number of "side-door Pullman" tourists traveling through the country has not been equaled since the Coxy army of unemployed toured the country in '93. One morning this week forty boes got off one train—a small unit in five or six million scattered over the country. One of them stated he left Boston, Mass., five weeks ago to hunt work, as there were more men idle than working in Boston, and similar conditions prevail in cities in the middle states. Several of his traveling acquaintances, he stated, had not eaten food in three days, and had not slept in a bed for weeks. He stated further that the men are not regular hoboes, being victims of circumstances. Three of these tourists entered a restaurant and ordered meals, and when the cashier's back was turned walked out without paying.

El Capitan Live Stock Company Market 527 Cattle

The market reports give the sale of a large number of cattle from New Mexico shipped to Kansas City last week. Among the number was one from Lincoln county, the El Capitan Live Stock Co., T. A. Spencer, manager. In the shipment were 527 head, cows and stockers. The cows were in three grades, the lighter bringing $2.60; the next heavier, $3.15, and heaviest $3.65.

The stockers were also graded, the price ranging from $5 to $6. The highest price bunch brought $35.85 per head and the lowest $18.65. Deducting cost of shipment, feed, commission, etc., amounting to about $7 per head, the shipper's net receipts can scarcely be called attractive.

Borah Urges Navy Limitations

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—"Let the American delegation at the Washington conference demand limitation of naval armament—real, substantial, speed limitation—and it will achieve one of two results. It will either get what it wants, or it will unmask to the whole world the reason why mankind's clamor for relief from unbearable taxation burdens cannot be gratified."

Thus spoke yesterday Senator Borah, author of the disarmament resolution and its most prominent advocate, on the eve of the momentous conference in country's capital. It will be noted that Senator Borah confined his statement to "naval" armament, making no mention of land forces. This was natural, because the senator's resolution requesting the president to call the conference was restricted to naval armaments. The senator evidently believed—and in that the best thought of the country is with him—that it would be easier for a few leading nations to arrive at a plan of naval disarmament than to include the nations of the world and confuse it with army reductions. However, the president, in his call for the conference, saw fit to broaden the scope of discussion, and included land as well as naval forces. Let us hope, regardless of the confusion that is certain to arise and the almost insuperable difficulties to be encountered, that much good may be accomplished and as a result a tax-ridden world be relieved of its intolerable burdens.

Speaking along lines of taxation, the senator further said: "I wish Messrs. Hughes, Root, Lodge and Underwood, before they begin discussing the conference agenda, with their fellow statesmen from eight nations, could X-Ray the mind of their own nation. What would they discern? They would see that the American people know little, and care less, about international principles and policy in the far east.

"They would discern that the thought now oppressing our people, almost to the exclusion of all others, is how to cut down our gigantic national budget of $4,500,000,000."

"I have taken eight bottles of Taulac and have actually gained 40 pounds in weight and feel better and stronger than I have felt in twenty-five years," says O. M. Mahaffy, of Nashville, Tenn.—Rolland Bros.

There will be 94 different makes of cars in New York's automobile show.

Parsons News Letter

Lester Greer, wife and small son are guests this week of Tom Bragg and family.

Lulu Hightower of Alta is staying with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Robinson and attending the Parsons school.

Mr. A. E. Warren is back on the Bonito for a spell. Like many others he is glad to get back on the "home range."

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lane of White Oaks were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Reddy.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam White, who have spent the summer in the old Rice home have moved to a ranch recently purchased from Mr. Brazel on the west side of the mountain.

Mr. and Mrs. James Greer and baby daughter came over from their ranch in the San Andres to spend a week or so with the home folks.

Mr. Herbert Reddy, who has been doing carpenter work on the Helen Rae for the past year, is permanently located at home.

The Parsons school, under the auspices of the teacher Mr. Bryan Robinson, gave a pie party recently, and the proceeds, $14.75, were used to purchase a basket ball outfit, also a volley ball, so Carrizozo and Capitan teams take heed. Another team is entering the basket ball field and will have to be reckoned with during the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Brady and family of Fort Stanton were guests of the Rice family Sunday.

There were two more forest fires during the first part of the week with origins as mysterious as the fires during the summer. The first fire was up "Dark Betsey," the canon back of the Green homestead, and the second up the Bonito. Mr. Brubaker and assistant from the Ranger station, and Mr. Burrell from the Alamogordo office spent several days putting out the fires and trying to find some clue to the way they were started.

The Gibbons family have moved back to Parsons and Alla is busy setting traps to catch the unwary night prowlers.

The Forest men are working on a trail from the Nogal road at the top of the divide around Nogal Peak to connect with the Water Canon trail.

The hunting season hasn't officially opened yet, but nearly everyone traveling up and down the river road seems to be well armed. Protection from possible bandits most likely (?)

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Judge Crews came up yesterday from his home at Oscura.

Judge Medley who spent the week here on matters before the court, returned to El Paso Tuesday.

Robt. A. Hurt, a former county assessor, was attending district court this week, being subpoenaed as a witness.

Charles Gilbert, a well known attorney of Roswell, is here this week looking after the interests of clients before the district court.

The Rev. W. E. Dawn will hold service at the Baptist church Sunday, morning and evening. Those not otherwise engaged Sunday are invited to hear the visiting minister.

Dr. E. L. Woods is here from El Paso this week looking after business interests. The doctor practiced medicine here and in Lincoln for a number of years before going to El Paso.

Floy Skinner was down Wednesday from the Mesa. He says most farmers have finished harvesting their crops, which have been bountiful, but in most instances will have to feed the produce to stock, as the price will not justify preparation and transportation to market.

We had a delightful visit to Denver, Colorado, Sunday night, through the courtesy of Trainmaster Nash. We highly enjoyed a concert rendered in that city that night, returned home and had retired by eleven o'clock. The concert was caught on the fly by radio.

The quail season opened Tuesday, Nov. 1, and extends throughout this month and next. A number of local nimrods oiled up their fowling pieces the night of Oct. 31st, and made an early get-away the next morning for the quail country, around the foot of the mountains and along the malpais. As these birds are plentiful this year, we suppose all got their quota of 20—some we know did.

William M. Barnett is here this week from Roswell. Bill handles oil at Roswell while he maintains his grain, flour and feed business here, and between the two he is kept on the jump.

The Capitan basketballers played a double-header at Corona last Saturday, winning both games. The Capitan school girls' team was one too many for their Corona sisters, and Capitan town boys won with ease from their Corona rivals, and are now in line for a game with the best team in the state.

J. McSmith was in from the Eagle Creek Lodge from Friday to Sunday. Mac is deputy game warden, and looks after the Southwestern Game, Fish and Forest Protective Association's interests on Eagle Creek. Since his last visit from his eyrie, he has had a portion of his hirsute appendage amputated and now sports only a fierce mustache.

J. B. French of the Western Garage attended a meeting of the Ford dealers of New Mexico held at Albuquerque Tuesday. Most of the towns and cities of the state were represented at the meeting. A general feeling of optimism for the future prevailed and a belief that the country-wide depression of the past year had been passed, and business will be back to normal in less than six months.

The athletic association connected with the Capitan schools recently purchased the Howard hall, to be used by the manual training department. It is also used for indoor games, dances, etc. A motion picture show is given one night in each week to which an admission fee is charged. From the receipts for September and part of October the students paid $200 on the purchase price. At this rate it will be but a short time until the hall pays for itself. The building was purchased from Monroe Howard for $2,000.

Take Tanlac and you eat three square meals a day.—For sale at Rolland Bros.

A Public Hall Needed

As winter approaches, the need of a public hall or community building—the term is immaterial—becomes more evident. For one purpose alone, not to mention many others for which such a building might be equally beneficial, the outlay would be justified. The purpose we have in mind is to have a hall large enough and comfortable enough for basketball. Our girls and boys are entitled to the best we can give them, and it is a reflection on the spirit and progressiveness of our town to be without a suitable hall for this character of entertainment, especially when we look ahead and see how far ahead of us some of our sister towns are in this line—many of them with less population and less means.

At one time, if we are correctly informed, the Woman's Club took up the proposition of such a building, but whether the proposition is merely sleeping or is dead we are not able to say. However, at the risk of incurring the charge of optimism, we would like to suggest that we believe the business men of the town will lend every aid to a project of this kind, and that plans could be formulated whereby the means could be procured to accomplish the purpose outlined herein.

Our young people are entitled to this consideration; in fact, they are entitled to, and should receive, every consideration. You can never do too much for the girls and boys—everyone agrees, as to that—and having agreed so far, let us put our expressed belief into practice. Come on—not next year, but now.

B.-B. at Tularosa

Several cars went to Tularosa Saturday to convey the girls' and boys' basketball teams for games at that place that day. Our girls won after a close contest. The Tularosa team was good, but ours was better. Our boys' team, however, was not so successful. They found the Tularosa team better than anything they had yet encountered, and although a fast, snappy game was played, the boys at the Tullies won the game by a wide margin. Some observers of the game say the Tularosa team is one of the fastest boys' teams in the state; and, that being true, there is no dishonor in defeat.

The demand for Tanlac has broken all world's records. Over 20,000,000 bottles have been sold since it was placed on the market six years ago.—Rolland Bros.

Methodist Church

We are anxious that every man, woman and child in Carrizozo attend Sunday School and church somewhere, not only to form a church-going habit, but that they may become Christians.

If you are not worshipping elsewhere, we extend you a cordial invitation to come and worship with us. Sunday school, 9:45. Morning worship, 11:00. League, 6:30. Evening worship, 7:30. L. E. CONKIN, Pastor.

The residence under construction across from the Exchange Bank is rapidly taking form. The walls will be of cobble stone, and marks a new class of architecture and construction in the town. Jay Vaughn is superintending the work.

A number of Roswell people as well as others from the eastern end of the county are here this week as witnesses in the Taylor murder trial. This case was first tried here four years ago, and Taylor was convicted and given a penitentiary sentence. Later the supreme court reversed the case and it is now again before the court for retrial.

Miss Wanda West returned Saturday from a visit to Alamogordo.

$10,000,000 AID FOR VETERANS

Red Cross Provides Friendly Service of Many Kinds to Army of Disabled.

BULK OF WORK BY CHAPTERS

2,397 of These Are Helping Ex-SERVICE MEN Obtain Benefits U. S. Provides.

One field of Red Cross service alone, that of assisting disabled veterans of the World War, entails expenditures $4,000,000 greater than the aggregate receipts of the Annual Roll Call of 1923, the American Red Cross announces in a statement urging a widespread increase in membership at the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24. At the present time National Headquarters and the nation-wide chain of Chapters of the Red Cross is spending approximately $10,000,000 annually for the relief of disabled ex-service men and their families, while the aggregate receipts from last year's Roll Call were approximately $6,000,000.

It is in the 2,397 of the 3,000 Red Cross Chapters which still are helping solve the veteran's problem of adjusting himself to a normal civilian status that the greater part of the cost of this service is borne. Of the total sum spent for veterans' relief last year, National Headquarters expended a total of more than $2,000,000, while the remaining disbursement of approximately $7,000,000 represents the contribution of Chapters in this country-wide effort to assist the Government in providing the aid sorely needed by these men and their families.

An Ever Expanding Problem That the problem of the disabled service man is ever-expanding and probably will not reach the peak before 1925, is the assertion of well-informed Government officials and that 2,397 Red Cross Chapters regard it as their most important work is evidence that the expansion is in no wise confined to a particular section but is, on the contrary, nation-wide. At the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1921, there were 20,500 disabled service men in the 1,692 United States Public Health Service, Contract and Government Hospitals and Soldiers Homes, and that number is increasing at a rate of 1,000 a month.

Thousands of these men receiving medical treatment, compensation and vocational training from the Government today, started their efforts to obtain them through the Red Cross Chapter. The Chapter, acting as the disabled man's agent in claims against the Government, informs the man as to the procedure necessary to gain for him that which is provided him by Federal statute. His applications for compensation, medical treatment and training are properly filed with the aid of the Red Cross Chapter.

Many Forms of Assistance If there is delay before the man's claim is acted upon, the Red Cross Chapter lends the man money to meet the imperative needs of himself and his dependents.

Most vital to the man's gaining full benefit from the Government's care is keeping his mind free from worry about his home. Keeping the veteran's family from hardship of every kind and informing him of its welfare is another province of the Chapter. Free from fear on this score, the man's recovery and advancement usually is rapid.

Every month during the last year, the American Red Cross has given service of one kind or another to an average of 129,215 former service men and their families. An indication of the extent of the faith reposed in the Red Cross Chapter is to be found in the fact that there were 860,544 requests for friendly aid in the solution of personal problems.

448 Workers in Hospitals While the man prior to entering Government care deals largely with the Chapter, afterward he comes into contact with the service provided by National Headquarters. There are 448 Red Cross workers in the United States Public Health Service and contract hospitals and other institutions in which these men are being cared for, whose duty it is to provide for his recreation, help him with his compensation claims, keep him in touch with his family; in short, meeting his every need outside of that provided by the Government. While these are a few of the responsibilities of the National Organization, they are by no means all. Among other Red Cross accomplishments for the year are: It handled 70,762 allotment and allowance claims.

It delivered through its Chapter organization $2,000,000 in checks to veterans who had moved from the addresses furnished to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. It provided a special fund of $10,000 for medical assistance to men under vocational training. It made $1,200,000 worth of clothing for men taking vocational training, of which $1,000,000 was for clothing for men in vocational training.

Alcohol in Diabetes
Dr. Bowers in the Medical Summary, avers that when the diabetic is upon a drastically restricted diet there is nothing in the whole pharmacopia or in all the diet tables that can supply him the calories of energy he gets in concentrated form in alcohol. This is because of the fact that alcohol is the one product that will yield heat and force without the expense of any digestive energy. For alcohol is immediately absorbed and oxidized in the epithelial cells lining the intestinal tract.
Each gram of alcohol thus consumed yields seven large calories of heat and energy, which materially aid in converting and oxidizing fats and proteins, thus preventing the development of acetone and diacetyl.

However, the president, in his call for the conference, saw fit to broaden the scope of discussion, and included land as well as naval forces. Let us hope, regardless of the confusion that is certain to arise and the almost insuperable difficulties to be encountered, that much good may be accomplished and as a result a tax-ridden world be relieved of its intolerable burdens.

Speaking along lines of taxation, the senator further said: "I wish Messrs. Hughes, Root, Lodge and Underwood, before they begin discussing the conference agenda, with their fellow statesmen from eight nations, could X-Ray the mind of their own nation. What would they discern? They would see that the American people know little, and care less, about international principles and policy in the far east.

"They would discern that the thought now oppressing our people, almost to the exclusion of all others, is how to cut down our gigantic national budget of $4,500,000,000."

"I have taken eight bottles of Tanlac and have actually gained 40 pounds in weight and feel better and stronger than I have felt in twenty-five years," says O. M. Mahaffy, of Nashville, Tenn.—Rolland Bros.

Parsons News Letter

Lester Greer, wife and small son are guests this week of Tom Bragg and family.

Lulu Hightower of Alta is staying with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Robinson and attending the Parsons school.

Mr. A. E. Warren is back on the Bonito for a spell. Like many others he is glad to get back on the "home range."

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lane of White Oaks were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Reddy.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam White, who have spent the summer in the old Rice home have moved to a ranch recently purchased from Mr. Brazel on the west side of the mountain.

Mr. and Mrs. James Greer and baby daughter came over from their ranch in the San Andres to spend a week or so with the home folks.

Mr. Herbert Reddy, who has been doing carpenter work on the Helen Rae for the past year, is permanently located at home.

The Parsons school, under the auspices of the teacher Mr. Bryan Robinson, gave a pie party recently, and the proceeds, $14.75, were used to purchase a basket ball outfit, also a volley ball, so Carrizozo and Capitan teams take heed. Another team is entering the basket ball field and will have to be reckoned with during the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Brady and family of Fort Stanton were guests of the Rice family Sunday.

There were two more forest fires during the first part of the week with origins as mysterious as the fires during the summer. The first fire was up "Dark Betsey," the canon back of the Green homestead, and the second up the Bonito. Mr. Brubaker and assistant from the Ranger station, and Mr. Burrell from the Alamogordo office spent several days putting out the fires and trying to find some clue to the way they were started.

The Gibbons family have moved back to Parsons and Alta is busy setting traps to catch the unwary night prowlers.

The Forest men are working on a trail from the Nogal road at the top of the divide around Nogal Peak to connect with the Water Canon trail.

The hunting season hasn't officially opened yet, but nearly everyone traveling up and down the river road seems to be well armed. Protection from possible bandits most likely (?)

Synopsis.—Samson and Sarah Taylor, with their two children, Sarah and Peter, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Esquimaux, in Alaska. There are told they meet John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Esquimaux country. Sarah's misadventure saves the life of Harry Needles and he accompanies the Taylors. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young Abe Lincoln, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Elm and others. Samson raises his cabin. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Harry strikes up McNeil. Harry is attracted by McNeil and his gang, and Elm drives off his acquaintance with a shot gun. McNeil is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so. Harry loves Elm. Harry's father has two slaves, who had run away from St. Louis. Elphabet Biggs, owner of the slaves, has the arm broken by Taylor. Biggs meets Elm and makes love to her. Abe announces that he is a candidate for the legislature. The Black Hawk war makes Abe a captain and he and Harry go to the front.

CHAPTER IX.

In Which Elm Kelso Makes History, While Abe and Harry and Other Good Citizens of New Salem Are Making an Effort to That End in the Indian War.

In the midst of springtime there came cheering news from the old home in Vermont—a letter to Sarah from her brother, which contained the welcome promise that he was coming to visit them and expected to be in Beardstown about the fourth of May. Samson drove across country to meet the steamer. He was at the landing when the Star of the North arrived. He saw every passenger that came ashore, and Elphabet Biggs, leading his big bay mare, was one of them, but the expected visitor did not arrive. There would be no other steamer bringing passengers from the East for a number of days.

Samson went to a store and bought a new dress and sundry bits of snore for Sarah. He returned to New Salem with a heavy heart. Sarah stood in the open door as he drove up.

"Didn't come," he said mournfully. Without a word, Sarah followed him to the barn, with the tin lantern in her hand. He gave her a hug as he got down from the wagon. He was little given to like displays of emotion.

"Don't feel bad," he said. "I've given them up—I don't believe we shall ever see them again," said Sarah, as they were walking toward the door. "I think I know how the dead feel who are no more forgotten."

"You can't blame 'em," said Samson. "They've probably heard about the Indian scare, and would expect to be massacred if they came."

Indeed the scare, now abating, had spread through the border settlements and kept the people awake at night, Samson and other men, left in New Salem, had met to consider plans for a blockade.

"And then there's the fever an' ague," Samson added.

"Sometimes I feel sorry I told 'em about it, because they'll think it worse than it is. But we've got to tell the truth if it kills us."

"Yes; we've got to tell the truth," Samson rejoined. "There'll be a railroad coming through here one of these days and then we can all get back and forth easy. If it comes it's going to make us rich. Abe says he expects it within three or four years."

Sarah had a hot supper ready for him. As he stood warming himself by the fire she put her arms around him and gave him a little hug.

"You poor tired man!" she said. "How patient and how good you are!" There was a kind of apology for this moment of weakness in her look and manner. Her face seemed to say: "It's silly but I can't help it."

"I've been happy all the time, for I know you was waiting for me," Samson remarked. "I feel rich every time I think of you and the children. Say, look here."

He untied the bundle and put the dress and snore in her lap.

"Well, I want to know," she exclaimed, as she held it up to the candlelight. "That must have cost a pretty penny."

"I don't care what it cost—it ain't half good enough—not half!" said Samson.

As he sat down to his supper he said:

"I saw that never, Biggs, set off the boat with his big bay mare. There was a darty following him with another horse."

"Good land!" said Sarah. "I hope he isn't coming here. Mrs. Orestot told me today that Elm Kelso has been getting letters from him."

"That's such an odd little critter and she's got a mind of her own—anybody could see that," Samson reflected. "She ought to be looked after careful. Her person she so set up with shooting and fishing makes her kind of forget the girl's part she's got to do there hereafter."

and see what's up. Jack is away, you know?"

"I will," said Sarah. It was nearly two o'clock when Samson, having fed and watered his horses, got into bed. Yet he was up before daylight, next morning, and singing a hymn of praise as he kindled the fire and filled the tea kettle and lighted his candle lantern and went out to do his chores while Sarah, partly reconciled to her new disappointment, dressed and began the work of another day. So they and Abe and Harry and others like them, each under the urge of his own ambition, spent their great strength in the building and defence of the republic and grew prematurely old. Their work began and ended in darkness and often their days were doled by the burdens of the night. So in the reckoning of their time each year was more than one.

Sarah went down to the village in the afternoon of the next day. When Samson came in from the fields to his supper she said:

"Mr. Biggs is stopping at the tavern. He brought a new silk dress and some beautiful linen for Mrs. Kelso. He tells her that Elm has made a new man of him. Claims he has quit drinking and gone to work. Elm and her mother are terribly excited. He wants them to move to St. Louis and live on his big plantation in a house next to his—rent free."

Samson knew that Biggs was the type of man who weds Virtue for her dowry.

"A man's judgment is needed there," said he. "It's a pity Jack is gone. Biggs will take that girl away with him sure as shooting if we don't look out."

"Oh, I don't believe he'd do that," said Sarah. "I hope he has turned over a new leaf and become a gentleman."

"We'll see," said Samson. They saw and without much delay the background of his pretensions, for one day within the week he and Elm rode away and did not return. Soon a letter came from Elm to her mother, mailed at Beardstown. It told of their marriage in that place and said that they would be starting for St. Louis in a few hours on the Star of the North. She begged the forgiveness of her parents and declared that she was very happy.

"Too bad! Isn't it?" said Sarah when Mrs. Waddell, who had come out with her husband one evening to bring this news, had finished the story.

"Yes, it kind o' spyles the place," said Samson. "I'm afraid for Jack Kelso—fraid it'll hurt his fiddle if it don't break his heart. His wife is alone now. We must ask her to come and stay with us."

"The Allens have taken her in," said Mrs. Waddell.

"That's good," said Sarah. "I'll go down there tomorrow and offer to do anything we can."

When Mr. and Mrs. Waddell had gone Sarah said: "I can't help thinking of poor Harry. He was terribly in love with her."

"Well, he'll have to get over it—that's all," said Samson. "He's young and the wound will heal."

It was well for Harry that he was out of the way of all this, and entered upon adventures which absorbed his thought. As to what was passing with him we have conclusive evidence in two letters, one from Col. Zachary Taylor, in which he says:

"Harry Needles is also recommended for the most intrepid conduct as a scout and for securing information of great value. Compelled to abandon his wounded horse he swam a river under fire and under the observation of three of our officers, through whose help he got back to his command, bringing a bullet in his thigh."

With no knowledge of military service and a company of untrained men, Abe had no chance to win laurels in the campaign. His command did not get in touch with the enemy. He had his hands full maintaining a decent regard for discipline among the raw frontiersmen of his company.

When the disheartened volunteers were mustered out late in May, Kelso and McNeil, being sick with a stubborn fever, were declared unfit for service and sent back to New Salem as soon as they were able to ride. Abe and Harry joined Captain Lee's company of Independent Rangers and a month or so later Abe re-called to serve with Captain Harry, Harry being under a surgeon's care. The letter's words were not serious and on July third he too joined Harry's command.

This company was chiefly occupied in the moving of supplies and the burying of a few men who had been killed in small engagements with the enemy. It was a band of rough-looking fellows in the costume of the frontier farm and workshop—ragged, dirty and unshorn. The company was disbanded July tenth at Whitewater, Wisconsin, where that night, the horses of Harry and Abe were stolen. From that point they started on their long homeward tramp with a wounded sense of grievance and justice. They felt that the Indians had been wronged, that the greed of land grabbers had brutally violated their rights. This feeling had been deepened by the massacre of the red women and children at Bad Ax.

A number of mounted men went with them and gave them a ride now and then. Some of the travelers had little to eat on the journey. Both Abe and Harry suffered from hunger and sore feet before they reached Peoria, where they bought a canoe and in the morning of a bright day started down the Illinois river.

They had a long day of comfort in its current with a good store of bread and butter and cold meat and pie. The prospect of being fifty miles nearer home before nightfall lightened their hearts and they laughed freely while Abe told of his adventures in the campaign. To him it was all a wild comedy with tragic scenes dragged into it and woefully out of place. Indeed he thought it no more like war than a pig sticking and that was the kind of thing he hated.

Harry had not heard from home since he left it. Abe had a letter from Rutledge which gave him the news of Elm's elopement. The letter said:

"I was over to Beardstown the day Kelso and McNeil got off the steamer. I brought them home with me. Kelso was bigger than his trouble. Said that the ways of youth were a part of the great plan. Thomas J. Thorns!" he said. "They are the teachers of wisdom and who am I that I should think myself or my daughter too good for the like, since it is written that Jesus Christ did not complain of them?"

two hundred pounds, all of it bone and muscle. But under his great strength was a woman's gentleness; under the dirty, ragged clothes and the rough, brown skin grimy with dust and perspiration, was one of the cleanest souls that ever came to this world. I don't mean that he was like a minister. He could tell a story with pretty tough talk in it, but always for a purpose. He hated dirt on the hands or on the tongue. He loved flowers like a woman. He loved to look at the stars at night and the colors of the sunset and the morning dew on the meadows. I never saw a man so much in love with fun and beauty."

They reached Havana that evening and sold their canoe to a man who kept boats to rent on the river shore. They ate a hot supper at the tavern and got a ride with a farmer who was going ten miles in their direction. From his cabin some two hours later they set out on foot in the darkness.

"Going home is the end of all journeys," said Abe as they tramped along. "Did it ever occur to you that every live creature has its home? The fish of the sea, the birds of the air, the beasts of the field and forest, the creepers in the grass, all go home. Most of them turn toward it when the day wanes. The call of home is the one voice heard and respected all the way down the line of life. And, ye know, the most wonderful and mysterious thing in nature is the power that fool animals have to go home through great distances, like the turtle that swam from the Bay of Biscay to his home off Van Dieman's Land. Somehow, coming over in a ship, he had blazed a trail through the pathless deep more than ten thousand miles long. It's the one miraculous gift—the one call that's irresistible. Don't you hear it now? I never lie down in the darkness without thinking of home when I am away."

"And it's hard to change your home when you're wanted to it," said Harry.

"Yes, it's a little like dying when you pull up the roots and move. It's been hard on 'your folks."

This remark brought them up to the greatest of mysteries. They tramped in silence for a moment. Abe broke in upon it with these words:

"I reckon there must be another home somewhere to go to after we have broke the last camp here, and a kind of a bird's compass to help us find it. I reckon we'll hear the call of it as we grow older."

He stopped and took off his hat and looked up at the stars and added:

"If it isn't so I don't see why the long procession of life keeps harping on this subject of home. I think I see the point of the whole thing. It isn't the place or the furniture that makes it home, but the love and peace that's in it. By and by our home isn't here any more. It has moved. Our minds begin to beat about in the undiscovered countries looking for it. Somehow we got it located—each man for himself."

For another space they hurried along without speaking.

"I tell you, Harry, whatever a large number of intelligent folks have agreed upon for some generations is so—if they have been allowed to do their own thinking," said Abe. "It's about the only wisdom there is."

He had sounded the keynote of the new Democracy.

So, under the lights of heaven, speaking in the silence of the night of impenetrable mysteries, they journeyed on toward the land of plenty.

"It's as still as a graveyard," Harry whispered when they had climbed the bluff by the mill long after midnight and were near the little village.

"They're all buried in sleep," said Abe. "We'll get Rutledge out of bed. He'll give us a shakedown somewhere."

His loud rap on the door of the tavern signalled more than a desire for rum in the weary travelers, for just then a cry of their lives had ended.

They Had a Long Day of Comfort in Its Current.

"Have you heard from home?" Abe asked as they paddled on.

"Not a word," said Harry. "You're not expecting to meet Elm Kelso?"

"That's the best part of getting home for me," said Harry, turning with a smile.

"Let her drift for a minute," said Abe. "I've got a letter from James Rutledge that I want to read to you. There's a big lesson in it for both of us—something to remember as long as we live."

Abe read the letter. Harry sat motionless. Slowly his head bent forward until his chin touched his breast.

Abe said with a tender note in his voice as he folded the letter:

"This man is well along in life. He hasn't youth to help him as you have. See how he takes it and she's the only child he has. There are millions of pretty girls in the world for you to choose from."

"I know it, but there's only one Elm Kelso in the world," Harry answered mournfully. "She was the one I loved."

"Yes, but you'll find another. It looks serious, but it isn't—you're so young. Hold up your head and keep going. You'll be happy again soon."

"Maybe, but I don't see how," said the boy.

"There are lots of things you can't see from where you are at this present moment. There are a good many miles ahead of you, I reckon, and one thing you'll see plainly, by and by—that it's all for the best. I've suffered a lot myself but I can see now it has been a help to me. There isn't an hour of it I'd be willing to give up."

They paddled along in silence for a time.

"It was my fault," said Harry presently. "I never could say the half I wanted to when she was with me. My tongue is too slow. She gave me a chance and I wasn't man enough to take it. That's all I've got to say on that subject."

"Raiders try to burn out Taylor's 'underground railroad station.'"

"Frankenstein."

"Frankenstein" is a romance by Mrs. Shelley, wife of the distinguished poet, Percy Bysshe Shelley. The hero, Frankenstein, contrives to make and animate by his intimate control of the mysteries of nature, a monster in human form, who becomes the constant torment of its creator's existence. The monster was created without a soul, yet not without an intense craving for human sympathy, and he found satisfaction on these terms with a terrible curse that in the end he flew his maker. The story of "Frankenstein" is said to be consciously or unconsciously an allegorical portrayal of the character of Shelley himself, who, in "Albion," has painted himself as an idiotic being torn from human sympathy. Helen Moore, in her life of Shelley, has a chapter on this subject.

DARLING BABY BRIGHTENS HOME

Children's Laughter a Pleasing Sound

Altoona, Pa.—"I am writing to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. We had six children the almost at birth. From one hour to nine months in all they have lived. Before my next one was born I took a dozen bottles of your Vegetable Compound, and I can say that it is the greatest medicine on earth, for this baby is now four months old, and a healthier baby you would not want. I am sending you a picture of her. Everybody says 'That is a very healthy looking baby.' You have my consent to show these few lines to anybody."—Mrs. C. W. BENE, 151 3rd Avenue, Altoona, Pa.

Mrs. Janasta's experience of interest to childless wives. Millston, Wis.—"I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. We are fond of children, and for a considerable time after we were married I feared I would not have any. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it strengthened me so I now have a nice, strong, healthy baby girl. I suffered very little at childbirth, and I give all the credit to your medicine, and shall always recommend it highly."—Mrs. H. H. JANASTA, Millston, Wis.

Mrs. Held of Marinette, Wis., adds her testimonial for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She says:

Marinette, Wis.—"I was in a nervous condition and very irregular. My doctor advised an operation. My husband brought me one of your books and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It overcame my weakness so that I now have a healthy baby girl after having been married nine years. I am glad to recommend your medicine, and you may use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. H. B. HELD, 230 Jefferson St., Marinette, Wis.

There are many, many such homes that were once childless, and are now blessed with healthy, happy children because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored the mother to a strong and healthy condition, so it acts as a natural restorative for ailments as indicated by headache, irregularities, displacements, weakness and nervousness.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the common ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious diseases, means or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that's why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative. It can be taken with perfect safety and often prevents serious troubles.

Therefore if you know of any woman who is suffering and has been unable to secure relief and is regretfully looking forward to a childless old age, ask her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it has brought health and happiness into so many homes once darkened by illness and despair.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

FELICIA.

FELICIA has the signification of happiness, since that is the significance of her name. She is the feminine of Felix, which seems to have been an agnomen assumed by individual at will when he considered himself unusually fortunate. It appears first in the reign of Herod Agrippa. It means "happy" and has given rise to all manner of words and names signifying good fortune in modern languages.

There are eleven masculine saints by that name in the Roman calendar, and Felice, the feminine, first appears in Italy, Spain and the south of France. From Felice have come Felicia in England and Felice in France. There was a Felicia who was queen of Navarre in 1067. The old Romans had a Goddess of Happiness whom they called Felicitas. The slave-martyr of Carthage who suffered with St. Perpetua was so-called, and there was another Felicitas under Antonius Pius, who, with her seven sons, presented a Christian parallel to the mother in the Maccabees.

Through the votaries of the young slave-martyr Felicia became popular in Italy, and this same character is responsible for the rise to favor of Felicité in France. Faustina is an Italian form of the same name, but has never had popular favor. Felicia has always been the favorite form in English-speaking countries, though Felicity

Why?

DO WE SNEEZE?

THE nose is lined with membranes, back of which is a network of very fine nerves which are extremely sensitive. The function of these membranes is to catch and hold the impure matter which comes into the nose when air is inhaled. Sneezing arises from the involuntary action of these nose nerves in attempting to clear the nose suddenly and violently. It only occurs when a particularly quick job has to be done. Otherwise the irritating matter is taken care of by the secretions in the nose itself.

Smoke, pepper or other irritants cause sneezing because they rasp against this fine network of nerves and the latter seek to rid themselves of the foreign substances in the quickest possible manner. Colds make us sneeze because the nose is clogged up with mucus and other matter and nature is trying to clear out the nose channels after all other methods have failed.

THE WIDEAWAKE STAR

ONE night when all the little stars had been tucked in bed with their soft, fleecy cloud blankets over them, gentle South Wind, who had come along that night to help them to sleep, floated down to the earth below.

Old Father Moon Man cannot take care of all the stars alone—you know there are so many of them—and he often gets some one to help; anyone that happens to come along, for every one is anxious to help old Father Moon Man.

It was, of course, one of the nights that Father Moon Man did not work—or, rather, shiue. He was giving the clouds a chance, for it had been a long time since they had an evening all to themselves.

Now whether it was gentle South Wind or old Father Moon Man himself who was to blame, I do not know, but one little star over in one corner of the sky did not have a cloud blanket put over it.

It listened to the lullaby gentle South Wind sang, and though it winked and it blinked, it twinkled; and the twinkling got the best of the others, but Little Star did not go to sleep.

Old Father Moon Man, being a father, did not go around and peek under the blankets as a mother would have done. Instead, he called off to find a nice, fleecy cloud for himself where he could go to sleep.

Just as soon as gentle South Wind was gone the little, wide-awake star began to peek about to see where the other stars were, but not one did it see, for, of course, they were all asleep like good little stars.

But Wide Awake Star did not like being alone, so it began to look under the fleecy cloud blankets, and as it lifted a corner of one out popped the little star, for, of course, it, too, awoke as soon as the blanket was lifted.

Then off ran Wide Awake Star and the other little star, and pretty soon they had all the stars awake, too, and off went the cloud blanket sailing away.

There was no more winking and blinking; it was all twinkling now, for each little star was so full of brightness it could not keep still and the clouds, who thought they were being treated very badly, came scudding about trying to find old Mr. Moon Man to complain of the twinkling stars.

At last they found him and woke him up. "It isn't fair," they said. "You told us your children were fast asleep and that we should have the sky to ourselves."

"Well, goodness me," exclaimed old Father Moon Man, jumping up and looking over the sky. "Who woke these children up, I wonder."

"It is no use trying to get them to sleep again tonight; you will have to run along and come some other time," he said.

But he never knew that it was one little wide awake star that was left uncovered that did all the mischief.

ROAD BUILDING

TREES PLANTED IN STREETS

In Congested Centers They Have Been Sacrificed to Alleged Interests of Business.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One of the characters in an early-day American romance of the time when the "stampack" was causing all kinds of trouble is recorded as declaring that New York never would be a real business city because Broadway and Maiden Lane were lined with trees. The Van Vrooms, the Stuyvesants, the Artavells, and other early settlers of the country saved five trees about their homes, on the village greens, along the country roads, and in the fields. But one will see no trees nowadays on Broadway, and Maiden Lane has been transformed from the pleasant, tree-bordered region of Dutch homes with flower gardens into the busiest wholesale jewelry district in America, if not in the world.

Beauty and comfort gave way to the roads of commerce, not only in New York but in most of America's great cities, so that today trees in a business street are a rare sight. There are elm-shaded villages in New England; maple-shaded towns in New York and the Ohio valley, and there are oak-tree streets to be seen in the southeastern states, but for the most part this refers only to small towns or cities—never to the congested centers of population where they should have been preserved. Washington, the national capital, is one of the exceptions, and even there the plantings were not always wisely arranged.

The tree growth in the streets of the average American town or city is ragged and unkempt in appearance, while that of the suburb or small village often is not much better, unless the planting has been done under municipal control, and the plantings on a street have been confined to a single kind of tree. The telegraph, the telephone, the electric light, and the trolley car have added their share toward the mutilation or destruction of the good trees that were in existence at the time of their coming.

Faulty methods of pruning have caused disfigurement and ruin. "Success follows the careful planting of good trees which are given adequate protection and timely attention," says Farmers' Bulletin 1200, Planting and Care of Street Trees, just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. "Every tree should be trained to its proper form while young, so that severe pruning will not be necessary later. Guards are necessary, too, for several years.

"To the mutilation of severe pruning has been added the destruction of many trees in centers of business because they excluded a little light, or made the store less prominent, or were somewhat in the way of using the sidewalk for merchandise."

The bulletin insists that providing shade on city streets is as much a municipal function as providing lights or sidewalks and should, therefore, be cared for by public officials. Probably the most efficient way of arranging for proper supervision, it says, is through an unpaid commission of three or five members which in turn employs an executive officer. Methods of organization are described, and numerous illustrations show how trees should be planted. There are chapters also describing pruning, spraying, transplanting, and other subjects of importance to every town or city whether it has trees or wishes to have them. The bulletin may be had free upon application to the Division of Publications, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Who Were Mark Twain's Corncob Starters?

Mark Twain's favorite pipe was a corncob. Perhaps you've never heard how his pipe-cobs were broken in. He said: "I got a cheap man—a man who doesn't amount to much anyhow, who would be as well, or better, dead—and pay him a dollar to break in the pipe for me. I got him to smoke the pipe for a couple of weeks, then put in a new stem, and continue operations as long as the pipe holds together."

We wonder how many, if any, of Mark Twain's corncob starters are alive today.

If there ever were any, we don't believe that a great enough number survive to answer our mail-desk.

We're going to send samples of Edgeworth Tobacco to any who send us their names and addresses.

We're not going to ask them to produce the stems as proof.

We put writers on their honor. In fact, we're inclined to send samples to all who write to us that they knew the grand old American humorist and smoker.

He knew a lot of people, but we guess we can risk sending out a little more Edgeworth. It seems to make regular Edgeworth smokers in a big majority of cases.

We promise not to publish their letters, no matter how well they speak of Edgeworth, no matter how good are the smokers' stories they tell us about Mark Twain and others—unless the writers happen to say that they are willing to have said letters published.

We've heard quite a number of good stories about pipe smokers, but there must be a lot we haven't heard.

You may know some stories that others would enjoy reading in this column.

Probably they're worth samples of Edgeworth in both forms—Plug Slice and Ready-Rubbed.

In any case, we'll send you samples, whether you have a good story to tell us or not.

Edgeworth Plug Slice is shaped into flat, oblong cakes. Through these cakes keen knives are run that cut them into thin slices. In its box it appears a solid cake, but each slice separates easily from the cake and when rubbed between the hands furnishes an average pipelod.

Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed is exactly the same as Plug Slice, except that it is rubbed up before packing.

Both kinds pack so well that they light quickly and burn evenly to the bottom of your pipe.

Edgeworth is sold in various sizes to suit the needs and means of all purchasers. Both Edgeworth Plug Slice and Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed are packed in small, pocket-size packages, in handsome tin humidor, and glass jars, and also in various handy in-between quantities.

We will send you samples of both kinds, postpaid.

Address Larus & Brother Company, 41 South 21st Street, Richmond, Va.

To Retail Tobacco Merchants—If your jobber cannot supply you with Edgeworth, Larus & Brother Company will gladly send you prepaid by parcel post a one- or two-ounce carton of any size of Edgeworth Plug Slice or Ready-Rubbed for the same price you would pay the jobber.

AGENTS: In each city there is a man who sells for you. Write for his name to Larus & Brother Company, 41 South 21st Street, Richmond, Va.

Tampa in Bad Storm.

Jacksonville, Fla.—The business section of Tampa was practically flooded under three feet of water as a result of the gulf storm, according to advices over crippled transmission lines. No loss of life has been reported, but industry is at a standstill. The entire west coast of Florida is feeling the effects of the storm and is virtually isolated insofar as communication is concerned. Tampa is without light, telegraph, telephone or street car service, according to advices.

Four Dead From Fumigating Gas.

Cleveland.—Three women and one man were found dead in an east end apartment building here, the victims, police say, of asphyxiation, caused by fumigating gas. They had been dead apparently for twelve hours. According to the authorities, fumigation was started in a restaurant which occupies the first and second floors of the building. The gas is believed to have seeped through the floors and up a dumb waiter connecting the upper stories and caught the tenants without warning.

Some Loss; Some Don't.

New York.—Sorrow invaded the ranks of half a hundred New York fat women, attempting to reduce through scientific training. Two had grown fatter. Forty-eight of the reducing class visited the scales and rejoiced they showed an average loss in seven days of six pounds, five ounces. But Ada Parker screamed she was fatter by two and a half pounds and now weighs 100. Lillie Lee groaned. Entered at 177, she now weighs 170.

Spaniards Take Mount Ararat.

Madrid.—Minister of War Cirva announced that Mount Ararat had been occupied without losses. The troops, however, found the bodies of 800 Spanish soldiers killed when the position was captured by the Moors. Two hundred dead horses also were found. The Spanish warship Antimano has gone to Lisbon to safeguard Spanish interests there. Communication with Portugal is difficult, although some trains are running.

Cuba Cuts Expenses.

Havana, Cuba.—Budget reduction has been approved by the House of Representatives. It voted to accept the report of the mixed legislative commission fixing government expenditures at approximately $48,000,000 for the current fiscal year. With various executive department authorizations the cost of government will be increased to $65,000,000.

Townley Loses in Petition.

Washington.—The Supreme Court refused a petition of A. C. Townley and Joseph Gilbert, as president and manager, respectively, of the National Nonpartisan League, for review of their conviction before the Minnesota courts on charges growing out of their alleged activities in opposition to the nation's war activities.

Six Killed in Haldup.

Mexico City.—Six persons were killed, five were wounded and registered express packages valued at 200,000 pesos were stolen when a band of twenty highwaymen held up a train at Atzacapotlan, three miles northwest of this city.

Settles Religious Question.

Springfield, Ill.—Controversy over the religious affiliations of David Lloyd George, prime minister of Great Britain, who has been claimed by both Disciples of Christ and Baptists, has been settled by Lloyd George himself, after the manner of a Solomon, choosing neither the one nor the other but claiming them both. In a letter responding to a query, the prime minister wrote that he is "a member of the Disciples of Christ but attends the Baptist chapel."

Tamany Tiger Triumph

In Tuesday's election in Greater New York the Tamany Tiger won everything hands down. Mayor Hylan's plurality over his republican opponent exceeded 400,000. Every democratic nominee won handsomely. There was nothing small about the majority Kentucky and Maryland returned to the democratic column Tuesday, and more cities in the east and near east elected democratic officials than at any time in the past decade. The 'change' evidently has not been entirely satisfactory.

If straws indicate the course of the wind, the results of last Tuesday must be significant to a eight months' old administration.

The session of congress promises to run into the regular session beginning in December. Well, at the rate matters have traveled with this one, it will require two sessions to get a start.

In Able Company

Below will be found a partial reproduction of editorials that have appeared in the News the past few weeks. The purpose is to again call the attention of our readers to a condition with which we are still confronted, and to quote from a leading journal of our country which in a complete endorsement of these statements. We take pride in such an endorsement, and feel justified in reproducing it.

On June 24 we said: "When the flow of gold to this country ceases—as cease it must—unless Washington awakes, it will be an evidence of the utter financial exhaustion of the east, and what then? Absolute stagnation, and a depression that will be infinitely worse than the present, if our government does not take steps to establish foreign credits, after first leading the way to a real peace, and make it possible for the war-worn countries of Europe to purchase the goods we have to sell. Gold will do us little good, should we get that of the entire world, and it remains in hiding as it now does. Gold won't help out a 'home market' if it does not circulate."

In our issue of July 22, we had this to say: "The Federal Reserve System created a panic, but it can't men, nor can it fill our ships with American products. The world has nothing with which to pay for what we have to sell and which it would gladly buy. Stagnation of business follows a cessation of world traffic, and in our dwindling trade balance no surer evidence can be found. Something more than a tariff will be required to restore the equilibrium."

Again we quote from our issue of August 26:

"In many ways things are at a standstill, or have grown worse, and no improvement is in sight—unless something comes out of the disarmament conference that will bring about a better understanding between nations. The United States cannot prosper as long as the old world is bankrupt. Some understanding must be reached with the peoples of the world so that they may purchase the goods we have to sell and that they may sell, or trade us the goods they have to sell. The nations and peoples of the world are 'busted,' and we know they have no money to buy our goods, and must barter what they have for what they want. But the republican answer to this is the Fordney tariff bill that practically prohibits the importation of goods. To gas a man to increase his breathing capacity would be as logical."

This week's Collier's Weekly, an able journal, thoroughly inoculated with the virus of republicanism, but independent enough and fearless enough to expose sham in its own party, has the same thing to say, but says it more convincingly and to a much larger number. From an editorial in that well known journal of the 12th inst., we quote the following:

"The world is our debtor, but the world cannot pay us in money. It is doubtful, as we have stated before in these columns, whether many of the European countries can ever pay even the interest on their debt to us in money; they must pay us in goods.

"We can sit for a time in fancied snug security behind our tariff wall, watching to see that American business is not stifled by the inrush of foreign-made goods; that American labor is not throttled by the cheap labor of Europe. But if any reader of Collier's can tell us how we are going to sell our surplus cotton, our surplus copper, our surplus grain, our surplus cereals, and our other surplus food products, to say nothing of the thousand and one manufactured articles which we could find a market for abroad, unless we make it possible for Europe to sell us something in return, we would like to hear from him.

"Better feeling between nations—readjustment of debts between nations—revision of tariff barriers; those are the three essentials. There is America's chance for leadership. Whether we want to or not, we must think broadly and act with courage and determination in all discussions of these three basic requirements. And if we do, the European countries will respond, and we shall find ourselves leading the world in reaching the goal of large prosperity."

HARD ON THE POETS

"I'M SCHEDULED to recite 'Annabel Lee' at an entertainment tonight," confessed the retired merchant. "I've been repeating the poem to myself almost constantly for several days, and know every comma in it, but I'm afraid that when I stand up to recite, I'll have forgotten every word of it."

"I hope so," said the hotelkeeper. "Such a poem as 'Annabel Lee' deserves better treatment than you are qualified to give it. You have a voice like a guinea hen, and you telegraph your words, and you don't know any more about poetry than a porcupine knows about Paradise. If you'd stand up and recite a few pages from a mail-order catalogue I have no doubt you'd put the proper feeling into it, and move your audience to tears, but it's a crime for a man like you to mangle a beautiful poem, full of sentiment and melody.

"There ought to be a law against that sort of thing. Some of the best poems in the country have been raised by common or garden electricians. Nowadays people smile when you mention 'Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight.' It has been recited so much by people with cracked voices that it has become a joke. Yet if you examine the poem calmly and impartially you will find that it has a great deal of merit.

"In the schools the pupils are permitted to recite some of our best poems, and the poems aren't fit for anything after it. The school authorities should prohibit this sort of thing, and prepare a volume of cheap substitute poetry that is fool proof, that can't be injured, no matter what you do to it. There is plenty of punk poetry in the world, and a collection of this stuff would serve the schoolboy electricians just as well as the high class poetry that is so easily spoiled.

"When I went to school, about a hundred years ago, there was a tall, freckled, gangling boy, who talked through his nose, with a sort of whine that sounded like a saw. There was to be a school entertainment, and this boy was down for a recitation. The teacher never asked him what he was going to recite, but gave him the right of way. Teachers continue to make the same mistake, even as we go to press. They should choose the poems which are to be hatched to make a Roman holiday and select something that won't rip, ravel or run down at the heel.

"This boy stood up before the school and dived through Gray's 'Elegy.' Now, that's one of the best rhymes ever composed. It was written by a journeyman poet who put in seven years at it, in the time when they had ten-hour days. He wanted to leave behind him a poem that would stand the severest tests of the government inspectors, and he did. In my opinion there is nothing better in any language. It is rather melancholy, but it has a sort of doggone soothing quality that is a balm to the bruised spirit of a landlord when he finds that the receipts of his hotel don't equal the expenses.

"Time and again, when discouraged and played out, I have started to read that poem, and as soon as I get fairly into it, I seem to see that blamed gangling schoolboy, in his high-water garments, and hear him drowing through those verses, making a noise like a sawmill on a wet day. It's more than forty years since he made a violent assault upon the 'Elegy,' but it seems like yesterday. It's the same way with Hamlet's 'Soliloquy.' Every time I hear or see that gem I think of a fat youth who recited it in our school, and then I burst into tears.

District Court.

District court is grinding away and the prospects are that it will continue throughout next week. The past week the court has been engaged in the trial of two murder cases and one minor case of assault.

The trial of James P. Taylor for murder was in progress last week when we went to press. It was his second trial, his first trial four years ago, charging him with the murder of Sam Allen and resulting in a conviction, but subsequently reversed by the supreme court and a new trial ordered. Saturday afternoon the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. Judge Crews, of Ocuero, and Charles Gilbert, of Roswell, conducted the defense.

Monday the case of Elijah C. Starkey was called. A special venire was drawn, the jury empaneled and the taking of testimony begun. Attorney Snodgrass, from Texas, assisted the district attorney in the prosecution. The firm of Prichard and Merchant represented the defendant. The case went to the jury at noon yesterday, and at noon today no verdict had been returned. The defendant, Elijah C. Starkey, is charged with the murder of T. L. Hinnard. The charge grew out of a fight which took place near Rabenton in July, 1920, in which Hinnard was killed and the defendant and his brother, desperately wounded. The brother's wounds produced paralysis and he was unable to appear for trial, and the trial proceeded with the single defendant named herein.

The third case heard was one against W. I. Broocke, of Alto, in which the defendant was alleged to have flourished a gun in a threatening manner. No difficulty was experienced in securing a jury, the taking of testimony required little time, the argument brief and the deliberations of the jury briefer, a verdict of acquittal resulting immediately. Judge Crews appeared for the defense.

A number of cases yet remain on the docket, and the court will dispose of them as rapidly possible the coming week. Day and night sessions will probably be the rule next week, and the docket can be pretty well cleared, it is thought. This term of court is the longest in Lincoln county for a number of years, having convened October 24.

860 DISASTER DEATH TOLL FOR ONE YEAR

Red Cross Gives $1,871,000 Relief When 65,000 Families Are Made Homeless.

Forty-three disasters, resulting in the death in the United States of 860 persons and the injury of 2,500 called for emergency relief measures and the expenditure of $1,871,000 by the American Red Cross during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, says an announcement based upon the forthcoming annual report of the Red Cross. These disasters caused property damage estimated at $30,000,000, affected sixty-seven communities and rendered 65,000 families homeless.

The year's disasters were of varying types, including several which previously had never been thought of as falling within that classification. The Red Cross furnished relief in seventeen fires of magnitude, five floods, seven tornadoes or cyclones, one devastating storm, three explosions, including the one in Wall Street; one building accident, two typhoid epidemics, the most serious being that at Salem, Ohio, which affected 9 per cent of the population; one smallpox epidemic, in the republic of Haiti; one train wreck, the race riot at Tulsa, Okla.; the famine in China, emergency relief in famine among the Indians of Alaska, the grasshopper plague in North Dakota and an earthquake in Italy.

Public Meet Serious

By far the most severe of the disasters in the United States during the period covered by the Red Cross report was the Pueblo flood early in June, 1921. The rehabilitation problem confronting the Red Cross in Pueblo was one of the most difficult in recent years. When the first news of the horror was flashed throughout the country, the American Red Cross National Headquarters responded with a grant of $105,000 for relief work. Governor Shoup of Colorado, appreciating the long and successful experience of the Red Cross in organizing disaster relief work, placed the entire responsibility for the administration of relief in its hands.

In response to appeals from President Harding, Governor Shoup and other governors of western states and through local chapters of the Red Cross and other community organizations, public-spirited citizens brought the total contributed for Pueblo's rehabilitation to more than $235,000.

The terrible havoc wrought by the flood waters is a matter of record. More than 2,800 homes were affected and 7,351 persons were left homeless. Estimates of $600,000 as an absolute minimum for rehabilitation were made by Red Cross officials in charge of the relief work.

Fast Work in Wall Street

The Wall street explosion was notable in that relief workers of the Red Cross were on the scene twenty minutes after the disaster occurred. The race riot at Tulsa also was unique in disaster relief annals in that outside of a small emergency relief fund contributed by the Red Cross, the only relief measures outside the city consisted of the service of social workers, nurses and a trained executive whose object was to assist local forces in directing their own efforts.

In decided contrast with the previous year, only one tornado assumed the proportions of a major disaster. This occurred on April 15, in the border sections of Texas and Arkansas with the city of Texarkana as the center. The significant feature of this disaster relief work was the fact that it covered so much rural territory as to make necessary a large number of relief workers.

The famine in China, necessitating relief expenditures totalling more than $1,000,000 by the American Red Cross was by far the most serious of the foreign disasters in which the Red Cross gave aid.

Builds Up Its Machinery

In connection with the administration of disaster relief measures, an increasing effectiveness on the part of the Red Cross to deal with emergencies was manifested during the past year. In 236 chapters of the American Red Cross there have been formed special committees to survey the resources of their respective communities and to be prepared in case of disaster. In others of the 2,402 active chapters, a network of communication has been formed through which instantaneous relief may be dispatched to any part of the United States.

That its work in this field may be continued with ever greater effectiveness, the American Red Cross is appealing for widespread renewal of membership during its Annual Roll Call, to be conducted this year from November 11 to 24.

LIFE SAVING CORPS ENROLLMENT 10,000

Growth of Red Cross Life Saving Corps throughout the country continued unabated during the last fiscal year, a summary of the year's achievements by that Red Cross Service shows. There are now 100 Corps chapters with membership of more than 10,000 members of which 1,276 are enrolled in the work to set up a life saving corps. Among the outstanding achievements of the Red Cross in this field during the last year was the organization of the United States Naval Academy, at Annapolis, Md., of what is per-

RED CROSS GIVES ANNUAL BUDGET

$19,361,657 Allotted for Current Program of Relief and Service.

MILLIONS FOR VETERAN AID

Medical Aid for European Children Will Cost $6,000,000 This Year.

Washington.—Expenditures totalling $19,361,657 for carrying through its program of relief and services in the United States and overseas are outlined in the budget of the American Red Cross for the current fiscal year. This total is more than $8,000,000 less than the expenditure during the last fiscal year, when the disbursements reached $27,402,741. It is announced at National Headquarters in a statement calling attention to the necessity of continued support of the organization by response to the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24, if the vital work of the society is to be effectively carried on.

Outstanding among the items of the domestic budget is the appropriation of $3,660,256 for work in behalf of the disabled ex-service man and his family. This appropriation represents the amount allotted to this work from National Headquarters only and does not take into consideration the millions being spent in chapters for relief of the World War veteran. It is in the chapter that the greater amount is spent in meeting this obligation of the Red Cross, the announcement continues, as manifested by figures of the fiscal year 1920-1921 when the total was approximately $9,000,000, of which $2,002,091 represented the disbursement of National Headquarters while the remainder was the chapters' contribution to this field of Red Cross service.

Vast Work for Disabled

Chief among the sub-divisions of the appropriation for work with veterans is that which concerns itself with assistance to disabled men and women in government hospitals. This item of $1,750,000, an increase of more than $600,000 over the appropriation for the same work in last year's budget, will provide those personal services for the disabled and their families which are indispensable to supplement those provided by the government. The director of the Veterans' Bureau has recently expressed his desire that the Red Cross should continue and extend these "humanizing services." Other items of the appropriation for veterans' relief are proportionately increased. An additional appropriation of $400,000 has been made for Red Cross work in connection with regular Army and Navy hospitals and with the regular Army and Navy.

For disaster relief, the Red Cross has set aside for the current twelve months an appropriation of $548,976, virtually doubling the appropriation for the same purpose for the fiscal year 1920-1921.

More than $2,000,000 is provided for service and assistance to the 2,600 Red Cross chapters by the national organization.

Helping Destitute Children

Other items of the domestic budget include $498,548 for miscellaneous activities, including contributions restricted for special purposes and $768,000 for management. Each of these items represents large reductions over similar appropriations of the previous year.

From a fund of $10,000,000, $5,000,000 of which was contributed through the European Relief Council campaign and $5,000,000 allotted by the Red Cross for child welfare work in Europe, there remains $8,765,108 still available, of which it is estimated that $8,000,000 will be required for this work during the current year. For Red Cross participation in the joint effort to relieve famine conditions in Russia, for final work in the China famine, for Junior Red Cross and other overseas activities including the closing of the old general relief program in Europe $4,978,000 is made available.

In announcing the national budget, the Red Cross makes it clear that the figures do not include chapter expenditures or place any cash estimate on the invaluable service of volunteers in chapters.

Red Cross Trains 147 Blind Vets In Useful Work

Training designed to fit them for the battle of life was taken by 147 blind ex-service men at the Red Cross Institute for the Blind, near Baltimore, Md., during the fiscal year 1920-1921, according to the report of the Institute for that period.

Of this number, 19 have gone on to other institutions, in almost every case to institutions where those having sight are receiving advanced education. The blind ex-service men who have entered such institutions are provided with special text-books in Braille, reading which they were taught at the Red Cross Institute. Twelve men have passed from the Institute to successfully carry on some occupation or business for which they were fitted by special training. A few have withdrawn from the Institute because of poor physical condition, 14 are receiving further "training on the job" and 87 are still in training.

Red Cross Plans $6,000,000 Effort To Save Children

Medical care and clothing for thousands of children in Central and Eastern Europe are outlined as the activities of the American Red Cross in Europe for the current year, says a statement on the eve of the Annual Roll Call of the organization. These activities, supplemental to the feeding operations of the European Relief Council of which Herbert Hoover is chairman, are designed to provide the most adequate and balanced relief within the resources of private philanthropy.

Through the establishment of child welfare stations in the centers of population of those countries where adequate medical care is not now obtainable, the American Red Cross plans to provide the medical assistance needed to restore these children to a normally healthy life. The sum of $6,000,000 has been made available for this work.

Injured in the Yards.

Thursday morning a young fellow hailing from Illinois who was beating his way to that land of wine and honey, California, had a foot badly crushed by the draw bars while climbing between two box cars in the yards. He was taken to the Paden hospital and his injury attended to. Several small bones in the foot were broken, which will prevent him continuing his journey towards the sunset for several weeks. In the meantime the county will take care of him.

School Notes

(By Superintendent W. E. Cole.)

The honor roll for October was crowded out last week by lack of space.

The Camp Fire Girls hiked out to Red Lake last Tuesday afternoon.

In the basket ball game Saturday, the girls won from the town team and the boys lost.

Vaughn plays our high school Saturday.

The Boy Scouts met in the high school building last Thursday night. There was a good turnout.

Mrs. E. A. Gumm, supervisor of grades, sends in the following November enrollment:

Primary, Miss Lindsay, 30 pupils; Mrs. Craddock, 21; 1st grade Miss Burton, 41; 2nd grade, Mrs. Massie, 44; 3rd grade, Miss Humphrey, 47; 4th grade, Miss Heron, 26; 5th grade, Mrs. Tuton, 37; 6th grade, Mrs. Vaughn, 31; 7th grade, Mrs. Clark, 19; 8th grade, Mrs. Gumm, 26—total 301.

Each class is well started on the year's task with an earnestness that gives promise of good results. Special stress is being put on writing and language which feature so prominently in after-life.

Never has there been a better spirit in our schools—especially in the cooperation of pupils, teachers and parents.

BEING A SUNBEAM

"WE HEAR and read a great deal about optimism," said the stranger, "and we go around telling our friends not to worry. The advice is good enough, but we don't pause to reflect that optimism is a mental attitude that can be reached only by study and training. What shall we study? I have here, madam, a little book entitled, 'How to Be a Sunbeam,' which answers the question fully and completely. It was written by—"

"I don't care who it was written by, or whether it is indorsed by all the statesmen and prelates in the country," exclaimed Mrs. Curfew, "I don't want to be a sunbeam, experience having taught me that I can get along better and have less trouble and tribulation, when I look as much like a meatax as possible."

"Last evening before I went to bed I was reading a book called 'Sunshine Susan.' It was about a woman who just made up her mind to be happy no matter what happened. Then her husband was brought home with a broken leg, and the two children had a number of measles simultaneously, and the house burned down, and the bank in which she had deposited her savings closed its doors, and in spite of everything she went around singing and dancing."

"If I had thought it over I might have realized that it was too good to be true. No human woman could be gay and happy in the midst of so many calamities. But I was in a sentimental mood, and when I turned out the light and went to bed I thought that I ought to be ashamed of myself for not being like Sunshine Susan, and I made up my mind I would turn over a new leaf first thing in the morning."

"So I came downstairs smiling, and I was singing all the time I was getting breakfast, and when Mr. Curfew came down, he said it warmed up his whole being to see me in such a cheerful frame of mind. It reminded him of him of the time when I was sweet seventeen, and as pretty as a red wagon. Then he gradually drifted into a story to the effect that he had a great opportunity to make the most horse trade of his career. All he needed was $7 in cash to close the transaction, and he would make at least $15 by it."

"He knew I had $7 put away in the clock to buy myself some clothes I used the worst way. I had saved that money, a nickel and a dime at a time, and was looking forward to the time when I would have enough to go shopping and buy myself an outfit good enough for the queen of Sheba."

Mr. Curfew had been trying to borrow my savings for a long time, offering to give me his note as security, and before I read that Sunshine Susan book I always refused him, and nearly snapped his head off doing it. But that morning I was anxious to make everybody happy, so I handed him the money, and he went and made his horse trade and brought home an old crowball that has been sick ever since, and he spends all his time out at the barn, feeding it pills and powders, and I can't get him to do any of the chores around the place."

"The same morning Mrs. Turpentine heard me singing in the back yard, and she thought it would be a good time to borrow my patent electric washing machine, and came over for that purpose. She had asked for it a dozen times before, but I always told her to go to. Being full of sunshine on that occasion, however, I told her she could have it and welcome, and I've never been able to use it since. The man who sold it to me says it will cost $3 for repairs, so you see what Sunshine Susan did to me."

"No, mister, I don't want any recipe for being a sunbeam, and you can take your book along to Mrs. Turpentine, in the yellow horse across the street. She's the champion middle weight pessimist of this neighborhood."

Explained. "Do you see the man yonder? Well, to my certain knowledge he is leading a double life."

"You don't say so?"

"Yes, he is a professional counterfeiter."

Local Basket Ball Games

The Carrizozo basket ball teams had a test of strength on the home grounds Saturday, playing two very interesting games. The high school girls met the town girls team and won their game handily. The high school girls' team is a splendidly organized, playing well and has given a good account of itself on many fields.

The high school boys played a team from the town, but lost. The high school boys put up an interesting and fast game, but whether they were outclassed or whether they were still puny, we are unable to say. As yet we have been very busy with the winter season, and have not had time to visit the...
