Rendering a Disabled Person Fit

An act of congress, generally known as the industrial rehabilitation act, provides for the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of persons injured in industry or otherwise, and for their return to civil employment. Under section 2 rehabilitation is defined as "the rendering of a person disabled fit to engage in a remunerative occupation."

The experience of the Industrial Rehabilitation Division of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, charged with the administration of the act, in cooperating with States active in the work, as well as a study of the experiences of agencies operating under private auspices, demonstrates beyond question that the rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry requires many activities besides those of training for suitable occupation. "Rendering a person disabled fit to engage in a remunerative occupation" is now conceived as a complex specialized personal service which may take one or more of the following forms:

- (1) Service leading to physical reconstruction, enabling the person to return to his former occupation or to enter a new one.
 - (2) Service leading to the supplying of a prosthetic or special mechanical appliance and instruction in its use, enabling the person to return to his former occupation or to enter a new one.
 - (3) Service providing persons having certain disease tendencies with working conditions or work favorable to the maintenance of health.
 - (4) Service providing the disabled person with an opportunity to establish himself in business or in industry in independent employment.
 - (5) Service providing suitable placement for the disabled person not susceptible of formal training.
 - (6) Service providing suitable training for a specific occupation.
- In actual practice rehabilitation frequently consists of a combination of two or even more of the foregoing services. Closely correlated with each of these types of service and offered always in connection with all of them is a general service of cooperation, advisement, guidance and follow-up. Without this service none of the others are possible of application. The disabled person should, however, be made to feel that he has a voice in all decisions concerning the plans for his own rehabilitation. Tactful methods by the rehabilitation agent

Sheriff of Eddy County Killed

George Batton, sheriff of Eddy county, was killed, and Deputy Milburn seriously wounded last Saturday night at Hope, in a gun fight with Pedro Galindo, the latter reported to have been an escaped convict from the Texas penitentiary. Galindo was killed in the fight. Sheriff Batton and his deputy heard the outlaw was in a certain house, sought him there, and upon being admitted the outlaw began firing, killing the sheriff and wounding the deputy, and died himself a few seconds later from a bullet from the deputy's gun which entered his heart.

Teachers' Examination

June the 16th and 17th have been designated as days for holding examination for Teachers' Certificates and for Reading Circle Credit. All teachers desiring to renew their certificates must have credit in the Reading Circle work of the past three years. Those desiring to take the teachers' examinations will be at the office of the County Superintendent of Schools, Carrizozo, New Mexico, Friday morning at the hour of 7:30.

lead him to feel that he makes the decisions, when in reality he is made receptive of advice and guidance.

It is evident that formal educational programs in the majority of cases are a secondary phase in the service of industrial rehabilitation. A young woman with double amputation of the legs above the knees, who was trained to retouch photographic negatives, is now as effective a worker as others in the same line of work who suffer no physical disability. In this case providing a suitable wheel chair, a course of instruction in an art school and placement in a photographic establishment was real rehabilitation service. On the other hand, a young man who lost a leg and arm needed only the loan of some capital to make him a successful merchant in a retail business. In this case discovering a person able to finance the project, securing his willingness to make the loan, and helping the disabled person to set up his own business, although requiring no educational program, was nevertheless a high type of rehabilitation service.—Selections from an article by John Aibel Kratz, published by the Federal Board for Vocational Education, Washington, D. C.

Holiness Revival at The Methodist Church

REV. C. W. DAVIS, SUPERINTENDENT CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE.

Subject Monday night, June 12, "Modern Amusements with the Lid off," at the Methodist Church; Free.

The Nazarene Revival is now in progress at the Methodist Church in Carrizozo. The evangelistic party, Rev. Davis and wife and Rev. Odell and wife, with the big Gospel Car and their musical instruments, are all here.

The meeting is taking on splendid interest. It is unlike anything that has been in Carrizozo for many months. The meeting stands for salvation from all sin. They believe in and enjoy a happy religion, such as made the saints of old shout when they went to church. The preaching hits sin, brings conviction and leads to repentance. The singing and music is one of the leading and interesting features of the meeting. The workers go on the street in the evening before service and hold street services, which are enjoyed by all. Service in the church at eight o'clock every evening, and prayer meeting in the homes at three in the afternoons. Many special subjects, which will be of interest to the public, will be spoken on during these special meetings. COME.

Parsons News Letter

Mrs. E. F. Petters and children, of Bisbee, Arizona, are visiting Mrs. Petters' father, J. D. Thomas.

Miss Minnie Wahl and her mother, of Carrizozo, were week end guests of Mrs. J. H. Fulmer.

Frequent showers are proving a great benefit to the country. Dr. and Mrs. Warren and children and Mr. and Mrs. Brady were guests of the Rice family Sunday.

The U. S. Land Office surveyors, who made their first camp down the Bonito, have moved and are now located on the old Washburn place in Nogal Cañon.

Alla Givens gave a dance at his home Saturday night. About forty young people were present from the Bonito Valley and the Mesa country.

Now that the fishing season is open, picnic parties are frequent along the Bonito and its tributaries.

Fort Stanton Planning a Big County Celebration

(W. A. WUNSCH, Chairman.) Plans for the Lincoln County Fourth of July Celebration to be held at Fort Stanton, New Mexico, are now completed. Every community in the county will be asked to help make this the best celebration ever held in this county. The program for the day has been prepared by the committee in charge and it is so arranged that every one will have a chance to take part, and those who do not desire to participate in the events of the day will be provided with a good seat, in order that they may witness all that takes place.

The morning program will start at ten o'clock and consist of various games for the children, both boys and girls. At noon there will be a grand Free Barbecue.

At one o'clock sharp the big program will start. This will consist of Roping and Branding, Bronco Busting, Roping and Tying Goats, Horse Races and other events. A Boxing Contest and a Ladies Polo Contest will be the features of the day. Special Foot Races and other events have been arranged to be held if time will permit.

There will be dancing and music on the grounds during the day and at night a big dance will be held in the Hall at the Fort, where the champions of the day will be the honored guests.

A special feature of the night will be the Fireworks and Radio Concert.

All events and all contests of the day will be free to all. This means that everyone in the county must assist in the work before the Fourth. All donations should be made to the community chairman. If you have no cash, perhaps you have a steer, sheep, goat or pig that will help supply the cats.

Let's all be boosters and make this the greatest day in Lincoln county.

Fishing's Good

Most of those who had the time and the means of transportation, took advantage of the opening of the fishing season, and pulled out for their favorite fishing streams. The Lodge on Eagle Creek attracted a large number of anglers and outing parties. The south fork of the Bonito also got its share of the knights of the rod and reel. While the fishing was good in all the streams, reports from the upper Ruidoso state that the trout are biting better than usual. Ed Long and Billie Norman spent the weekend on that stream in the vicinity of the Wingfield place and report good "catches"—about seven dozen each. Ed claims the merit of hooking the "old one," which measured 13 1/2 ins. and weighed better than a pound a quarter, besides several 11 and 12 inches in length, the balance were above the regulation size. He used a grey hackle on a No. 10 hook, yet live bait is more enticing but is hard to find. A number of parties from Roswell and outside are camped along the stream.

The All Carrizozo Entertainment

The All-Carrizozo program of the Carrizozo Entertainers has been arranged and appears below. It will be presented Monday evening, June 19, at the Crystal Theatre; admission 25 and 50 cents.

All songs and choruses are absolutely new, with the exceptions of the songs used by Miss Cooper and Eb Jones in the musical repertoire. The Chorus "Sweet and Low" is not to be confused with the old song of the same name; on the contrary, it is a late production and specially arranged for full orchestra accompaniment.

This is wholly a Carrizozo number and every effort is being put forth by every individual on the program to make this entertainment one that will distinguish it in the musical annals of the town. The committee fully appreciates the hearty support and kindly suggestions that have been made by the people of Carrizozo.

THE PROGRAM

- Opening Chorus, 20 voices, full orchestra accompaniment—"Sweet and Low," (new)
1. Flaco Duet—Loretta Eger, Mrs. Ziegler
 2. Male Quartet—"Nanny Lullaby," Eb K. Jones, J. Allen Appelget, W. M. Sparks, Chandler Frude.
 3. Nanny Chorus—Impersonation, "Alabama Lullaby," Hilary Cooper.
 4. Orchestra Number from the Stage.
 5. Solo—"In the Heart of You, My Darling," Carolyn Roberts.
 6. Monologue—Comedian—Ed C. Monroe
 7. Musical Repertoire—Facts of 9 old-time songs, Hilary Cooper and Eb K. Jones (Closing Chorus—"DAISES," (Lore will Meet Agela)

Crystal Theatre, Monday evening, June 19; Doors open at 7:00; performance at 8:00. Admission 25 and 50 cents.

Baptist Church

(T. M. BLACKLOCK, PASTOR, FRONTS 6)

Regular services at the usual hours for the coming week. The theme Sunday morning will interpret the Lord's Prayer; Matt. 6:9-15. There will be special music. You believe in churches, of course, but say—

- If every man
- Were just like you
- What in the world
- Would our church do?
- Would it win the lost
- Of Carrizozo,
- Or help them along
- To the world below?
- Would it make men think
- Of the road they're in,
- And turn them about
- To flee from sin?

Meet us at church next Sunday and show your colors. Help and be helped. Boost and be boosted. Throw your hammer away and bring a horn.

Time for Reflection

Last week at Portales, Lewis Hawes entered a plea of guilty to the charge of murdering his wife and son. A sentence was imposed by the court in each case of 90 to 99 years, one term to begin at the expiration of the other. As the sentences do not run concurrently the maximum period is 198 years and the minimum is 180. Should the prisoner serve out both terms, he will be approaching his second childhood, and will be in demand by managers of vaudeville.

THE POWER OF OBERON

King Oberon is called the King of the Fairies, but he really has little to do with ruling and has power only during the hour between the night and day.

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm magic hour came around and King Oberon changed them all into spiders which scampered to the dell as fast as their legs would carry them.

YOU may have read recently of a clergyman who sent a bride home from church because of what he considered the immodesty of her dress...

The little Fairies and their Queen were sitting around a cobweb tablecloth spread upon the ground eating fairy food when all at once from the tree and bushes dropped those naughty spider Goblins right in their midst.

Up jumped the Fairies crying out with fright and away they ran, hiding under all sorts of things to escape their tormentors.

But the Goblins were not satisfied with frightening the Fairies once; they ran this way and that, trying to find them and send them flitting about like so many scared little butterflies.

When the Fairy Queen saw the spider Goblins looking for the Fairies she knew that some charmed spell was upon them and when she touched one with her wand and that did not change it to a Goblin she knew that it was King Oberon's work...

So she whispered to all of her Fairies telling them not to be frightened, that it was the mischievous Goblins and that they would be sorry little fellows if they could be kept in the dell until the magic hour of King Oberon's power had passed.

So the Fairies pretended to be very much frightened and the Goblins intent upon their pranks and thinking it was great fun stayed until the sun was up.

They scampered off in a hurry when they saw the light, but, of course, King Oberon had gone home long before.

"Oh, what shall we do?" moaned the Goblins, for in their spidery forms they could not give the magic signal, the three knocks that opened the door to their homes inside the moss-covered rocks.

And there the Queen and her Fairies found them, for they followed them soon after they ran, well knowing what would happen and if anyone begged hard to be helped out of trouble those mischievous little Goblins did when they saw the Fairy Queen.

They promised to be good, they promised never, never again to go to Whether the styles of dress that these prices referred to were actually immodest doubtless depends on the point of view. But that they were inappropriate to church is unquestionable.

Alice Calhoun

One of the most rapid flights to "movie" stardom on record is that of Alice Calhoun. Her entire screen experience covers a span of only three short years.

King Oberon to be changed into any form and they told the Queen she was the most powerful among the magic folk, and they thought King Oberon only a pretender and not at all a king.

With one wave from the Queen's wand and those of her subjects, the Goblins received their own forms again, and as soon as they had thanked the Queen and the Fairies they ran with shamed faces for their homes, while the Fairies and their Queen flitted off to Fairyland and were soon in their beds fast asleep.

Class A I Democrats

The editor of the News is going to let Richard Linthicum, director of publicity of the Democratic National Committee, write this editorial:

The term "deserving democrat" is one that can be applied with greater truthfulness and greater justice to editors of democratic newspapers than perhaps to any other element in the democratic party. This can be said without disparagement of any other democrats, because the party is largely made up of men and women who deserve well not only at the hands of their party, but at the hands of the public as well. But in classifying "deserving democrats," the democratic editor can be fairly put in class A I.

In politics, as in war, it is the boy in the front-line trench that wins our admiration and our gratitude. The democratic editor is a first-line trench man all the time. He is always in contact and most frequent contact with "the enemy." He is the first to see a sign of weakness in the opposite trenches and to take advantage of it. In a charge he will be found in the front rank.

Whether his paper be a daily or a weekly he is always on duty. In victory he is the first one "over the top," but he does not always share a just reward, but he should be among the very first to be given credit for the victory.

Every democrat owes a duty to his party, and that duty is only partly performed when he or she votes the democratic ticket. There are long periods between elections when many democrats give little or no thought to party welfare—no thought to the party organization, and no thought to the men in the front-line trenches who made victory possible. Occasionally one, whose democracy is but skin deep, is discovered "secretly trading with the enemy." When one such is found, a big D with an interrogation mark (D?) should be placed after his or her name, and be treated accordingly by the democratic party. Support of the organization—and by organization we mean national, state, county and precinct—and support of the democratic press is not only the duty of all democrats, but it is a duty that practically every democrat can perform without hardship. Unless these are supported, and loyally supported, chances of victory are minimized.

True Detective Stories

THE DEVONSHIRE DIAMONDS

Copyright by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

LADY Alberta Devon not yielded to temptation at the last moment and stepped out of her boudoir to secure her sister's opinion upon the effect of her latest Parisian creation. It is quite possible that Inspector John Sweeney of Scotland Yard would not have had the opportunity of proving his detective genius in a peculiarly striking manner.

Lady Alberta was absent from her room for less than ten minutes; but during that time occurred an event which, for several hours, threatened to disrupt several of the highest social circles in England.

It was the night of the Devon ball, held in the big old-fashioned house in the center of the Devon estate. As was only to be expected, the list of guests read like a section from Burke's Peerage—a fact which made Inspector Sweeney's work distinctly more difficult when the loss of the famous necklace of Devonshire was reported to Scotland Yard.

Early in the evening Lady Alberta had dismissed her maid with the statement that she would complete her toilette herself, but, just as she was about to put on her necklace—an heirloom which had greatly increased in value because of its historic connections—she thought it would be well to secure an unbiased opinion as to the effect of her gown, which had just arrived from Paris. When she returned from her sister's room a few minutes later she reached for the necklace, only to discover that it had vanished!

Positive that she had had it in her hands less than ten minutes before, she searched the room and then summoned her husband, whom she told of the mysterious loss.

"There is only one thing to do," declared his lordship, after verifying his wife's statement that the jewels were missing, "and that is to notify the police."

Inspector Sweeney reached the Devon house shortly after midnight, while the ball was still in progress, and secured the meager details of the case directly from her ladyship.

"Did you notice any one in the hall as you passed through on the way to your sister's room?" Sweeney asked.

"No one at all."

"How long has your maid been with you?"

"Less than two months—but she came well recommended."

Finally, in spite of protests, the operative from Scotland Yard gave orders that no one was to leave the grounds of the Devon estate without his permission, and, as the ball formed part of a week's festivities, it was possible to arrange this without mentioning the reason for the request to the guests. Armed with a list of those present, with their servants, Sweeney then repaired to Lady Devon's boudoir to commence active investigations.

His knowledge of London society was sufficient to inform him that at least three of the guests, despite their titles, might easily have been guilty of lifting the necklace if the opportunity had presented itself.

"The question is," mused Sweeney, "who could have known that Lady Devon would have been out of the room for just those few moments? She wasn't summoned by any message and it would therefore appear that some one was hiding in the hope that an opportunity would present itself. That would seem to eliminate the guests—but not the servants."

Working along this line, Sweeney made a careful examination of the toilet articles on the dressing table where the diamonds had been placed. After a thorough scrutiny of the perfume bottles, pieces of silver and other articles which were highly polished, the detective made his way downstairs and sent word to Lady Devon that he would like to speak to her for a moment.

"Your ladyship," he said, "will you kindly press the tips of your fingers lightly on this," and he held out one of the hand mirrors from the boudoir. "No," he added, "I'm not suspecting you of making away with your own diamonds—I merely wish to discover which fingerprints are yours."

"Then, a moment later, "Thank you, I thought as much." "Now," he continued, "I want you to instruct your butler—whom I understand has been with you for a number of years—to secure the prints of all the servants under your roof. Tell him to make any excuses for it that he wants to, but I must secure a complete collection. Kindly have them sent to my room the first thing in the morning. Meanwhile, don't worry. If my instructions are rigidly carried out, your necklace should be discovered before nine o'clock."

But Sweeney underestimated by some two hours. It was eleven o'clock of the following morning before he received the complete set of fingerprints, and ten minutes later a pair of handgloves was hanging from the wrists of William Kincaid, valet of one of the titled guests, and as it afterwards developed, a man with a lengthy prison record. The necklace was discovered almost everywhere in the same section of Kincaid's trunk.

Senator Forgot the War

Senator "Jim" Watson, who out in Indiana passes for a statesman, is certainly sly and soxy when it comes to making a political speech. He told his fellow-Republicans at the Indiana State Republican Convention that "the previous administration had created 'a mountain of obligations,' and then he showed them that Mr. Harding was conducting the government for much less money. The Senator's foxiness came in by concealing from his hearers the fact that the Wilson administration had been mixed up in some kind of a war.

Senator Watson seems to think that a Republican administration is entitled to credit for conducting the government on a slightly cheaper basis in time of peace than a Democratic administration did in the greatest war of history.

Power and Phone Wires Menace Young Radio Fans

Johnnie's chances of ever becoming a second Edison are very remote, if he continues his radio research and experiments without regard to electric light, power and telephone wires; for he's liable not to grow up to realize such an ambition, warn those who have to do with lines of this nature.

Poles carrying any of the wires mentioned are highly dangerous terminals for wireless antennae, for power wires, over which they may fall, sometimes carry thousands of volts of electric pressure. Wind or sleet or snow may break down the antenna, causing it to come in contact with these heavily charged wires.

So those who wish to see Johnnie continue his radio fun and grow up to healthy manhood, with every promise of a useful life and a ripe old age, had best limit his experiments insofar as telephone, power and light wires are concerned.

U. S. Tire Exports Lead Today in South Africa

In 1920 American tires predominated for the first time in South African imports, with $2,578,460 against British exports of $2,320,040 and French exports of $589,220, with scattering amounts from other countries.

While the figures for 1921 are not yet complete it is evident from the observations of Firestone representatives traveling in that country that American tires still lead in favor of a steadily increasing business is looked for in 1922.

Freight Rate Cut Which Will Save People $400,000,000 a Year is Ordered.

SHOULD REVIVE BUSINESS

No Let-Up in Attack on Attorney General Daugherty—Bankers Meet in Paris to Solve International Loan Problem—Communist Outbreak in Bulgaria.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

FOR some time President Harding has been striving to bring about a general agreement by the railroads of the country to reduce freight rates materially and voluntarily, accepting the opinion of many experts that lower rates are essential to the recovery of business in the United States.

Then the interstate commerce commission by itself came to the rescue and on Wednesday announced a decision in accordance with which rates on nearly all classes and commodities of traffic will be reduced on July 1 by amounts equal to 10 per cent of their present levels.

According to the estimates of experts, the reductions mean a saving of approximately $400,000,000 a year in the rail transportation bills of the American people.

Many of the rail executives were not only surprised by the commission's decision, but also quite disgruntled, holding that the reduction should have been postponed until the roads had accumulated more funds through increased earnings.

The interstate commerce commission included in its decision the determination of 5.75 per cent as the reasonable annual return for carriers on their capital investment, as compared with the 3 per cent level previously fixed.

Another part of President Harding's plan was a voluntary acceptance of a reduction of wages by the railway brotherhoods. At present there is little prospect of this, but the railway labor board is expected to make a decision soon on wage reductions that have been pending before it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL DAUGHERTY'S course in relation to war contract frauds and his alleged connection with the securing of Charles W. Morse's release from the Atlanta penitentiary continue to supply the "warmest" of the news from Washington.

"I defy Daugherty to ask the senate to pass a resolution for an investigation. If he does not do it, he stands convicted before the public as the man who has entered into a corrupt agreement to defraud the government, although he is the attorney general; and if his party will not let him be investigated his party must take the responsibility for not doing it.

He swapped a gold mine for a can of Edgeworth

Of course William didn't know how much gold there was in the mine or he wouldn't have paid so high a price even for his beloved Edgeworth.

As he writes the story with lead pencil on the back of a map—

Dear Mister Larus & Bro. Co. You'll notice I ain't going to let these people what puts that xxxxxxx (this was the name of a competitive brand's product) next to my by these losses in the high price class; cause they're best takers anyway alongside of me, what traded a claim in the Diddlydandy country one time for a small tin of Edgeworth.

That was the most expensive can of Edgeworth that ever was bought. We have many letters from our friends who have gone to great lengths to get their favorite tobacco. We prize them all, but this one has a particularly warm place in our hearts.

We don't want any Edgeworth smoker to have to pay more than the regular price for Edgeworth.

We do want every pipe-smoker to try Edgeworth, and it's just as pleasant for us to send free samples to any pipe-smoker as it is for a pipe-smoker to hand his can over to someone who's run short.

If Edgeworth doesn't suit you, it's no use trying to sell you any. If it does, the samples will soon tell you, and you'll be like the rest of us—happy with a pipe of Edgeworth between your teeth.

Send us your name and address on a postcard. If you want to help us further, give us the name of the dealer from whom you usually buy your tobacco.

Just as soon as we receive your request we will mail you generous samples of Edgeworth in both forms—Plug Slice and Ready-Rubbed.

Edgeworth Plug Slice comes in flat cakes, cut into thin, moist slices. One slice rubbed between the hands makes a fragrant pipeful.

Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed is exactly the same tobacco, but ready to go into your pipe.

Edgeworth is sold in various sizes to meet the requirements of many different customers. Both Edgeworth Plug Slice and Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed are put up in pocket-size cans, in attractive tin humidors and glass jars, and in various quantities in between those sizes.

For the free samples, address Larus & Brother Company, 69 South 21st Street, Richmond, Va.

To Retail Tobacco Merchants: If your jobber cannot supply you with Edgeworth, Larus & Brother Company will gladly send you prepaid by parcel post a one- or two-ounce carton of any size of Edgeworth Plug Slice or Ready-Rubbed for the same price you would pay the jobber.

Insight. Find a man whose words paint you a likeness, you have found a man worth something; mark his manner of doing it, as very characteristic of him.

In the first place, he could not have discerned the object at all, or seen the vital type of it, unless he had, what we may call, sympathized with it—had sympathy in him to bestow on objects. It is his faculty, the man of a business faculty, that he discern the true likeness, not the false, superficial one, of the thing he has got to work in.

And how much of mortality is in the kind of insight we get of anything! the eye seeing in all things what it brought with it the faculty of seeing!" —Carlyle.

New Hunt for Ambrose Small

Sisters of Missing Canadian Theater Magnate Not Satisfied With Work of Police.

DISAPPEARED TWO YEARS AGO

Whole North American Continent Covered and Even Psychics Consulted in Search for Man Who So Strangely Vanished.

Toronto, Ont.—The world-wide search for Ambrose Joseph Small, millionaire Toronto chain-theater owner, again has come to the front.

New developments indicate that another search for the missing magnate may be undertaken—a search even more comprehensive and spectacular than the one that followed Small's mysterious disappearance.

Small dropped out of the world December 2, 1919. Toronto police immediately started a search. They sent circulars offering vast rewards to police in every civilized nation, they sent officers on trips through the whole North American continent, they even consulted professed psychics—all in vain.

Then came a lull. It seemed that the case of Ambrose Small was to be added to the list of unsolved police mysteries.

But now a new element has been injected into the case. Gertrude and Florence, the two sisters of the missing millionaire, declare the police have not prosecuted the search with enough vigor and thoroughness. And Eldeon Grant, attorney for the two sisters, says he will ask the attorney general to open a new probe—a probe he is satisfied will reveal the fate of the missing magnate.

Case to the Fore Again.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Theresa Small, the wife—or perhaps the widow—of the missing man, has spent vast sums to aid the police.

Thus the whole case has been pushed to the fore. Police are reviewing the disappearance itself and the search that followed.

Here is the story:

Small's fortune at the time of his disappearance seems to have been $3,500,000. He controlled 36 theaters in Canada.

On the afternoon of December 2, 1919, he put through a big theatrical deal involving $1,000,000. Then he left for home, where he had told Mrs. Small he would take dinner with her at 8:30. He stopped to buy a newspaper from his favorite newsboy. He entered a barbershop to be shaved by a barber whose services he always had preferred. Both barber and newsboy have signed affidavits telling of their last talk with Small.

After he left his barber, Small vanished. He's not since been heard of.

Was he kidnaped? Murdered? Or did he flee? Police do not know. But here are the scattered threads of evidence they have collected:

Shortly after Small's disappearance John Deughty, his secretary, also disappeared. He was arrested in Oregon. He is now serving time for the theft of $105,000 in bonds, Small's property, but he could not be directly connected with Small's disappearance.

The letters of "B. B. Friend." These were sent to Col. Richard J. Halre, an attorney. The writer professed he could tell Small's whereabouts. But the letters led to nothing.

The story of Alfred Elson, caretaker of Rosary hall here. Elson says he saw a motorcar, containing a bundle which might have contained a body, drive up a road near Rosary hall on the day of Small's disappearance. He thinks the car's passengers may have disposed of Small's body then.

The testimony of Catherine M. Dunn, formerly a maid in the Small household. She maintains Small returned to his home in the interval between his visit to the barber and his disappearance.

The alleged vision of Louis Benjamin, Toronto medium, who said Small appeared to him and told him he was at Honey Harbor, Nantucket, Long Island Sound. It was later learned that Honey Harbor is on Georgian bay, Ontario.

And the village of Veronica, Ont., pops its head into the case to insist that a man taken into custody as Small a year ago and later released, appeared. He was arrested in Oregon. He is now serving time for the theft of $105,000 in bonds, Small's property, but he could not be directly connected with Small's disappearance.

Small's disappearance is a mystery. The police have not prosecuted the search with enough vigor and thoroughness. And Eldeon Grant, attorney for the two sisters, says he will ask the attorney general to open a new probe—a probe he is satisfied will reveal the fate of the missing magnate.

BUILD BIG ZEPPELIN FOR U. S.

German Company to Fabricate Airship for Government.

On This American Ship Germans Place All Their Hopes for Progress of German Science in Lighter-Than-Air Aviation.

Friedrichshafen.—The great hangar of the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen, now empty save for skeleton fragments of condemned aerial battleships, has been saved from destruction by the intervention of the United States. The company soon will begin to build a new airship for the United States government. This masterpiece is meant to prove, after the collapse of English and Italian airships bought by the United States, that lighter-than-air aviation under the guidance of German science, can be made safe and profitable.

The hangar, the only one remaining in Germany capable of constructing a Zeppelin of the largest type, stood long under condemnation. At one time the sentence was sealed and the Germans were instructed to proceed with the work of destruction. But they delayed, for they had inklings of a curious drama that was being played in Paris. It concerned compensation for the Zeppelins, willfully destroyed by the Germans during the armistice, which were forfeit to the victorious powers. One of these was to have gone to the United States.

"We will accept money compensation for these ships," said the allies to Germany. "And now proceed to destroy your hangars. So that is settled."

"Not at all," was the word from America. "We have no use for money. We should like our compensation in kind. Germany shall build us a giant Zeppelin, bigger than the world has ever seen before."

The allies offered the usual assorted objections, but in the end the United States got approximately what it wanted and is to have a 70,000 cubic meter ship, about the size and design of the largest Zeppelin in use during the war.

On this American ship, and not on the much-advertised permission to begin general airship construction, the Germans place all their hopes for the progress of German science in lighter-than-air aviation. For the general permission to build is limited to machines of 30,000 cubic meters. These can remain 24 hours in the air with a small cargo of passengers, or two hours with a large cargo. But airship aviation, to be commercially profitable, must transport large cargoes on flights of 24 hours or more. Hence, as the Germans point out, the allies' permission amounts to permission to build ships which cannot possibly compete with foreign airships, and hence which nobody will order. The single exception made in favor of America is the slender thread on which the future of German aviation hangs.

Soldiers Offer Wages to Keep Their Regiment

New York.—The Twenty-second infantry, which opened the war against Germany by seizing German shipping in New York harbor, has been ordered broken up and scattered, in conformity with congressional economy, but the men themselves have offered to give up two months' pay to preserve the personnel of this, one of the oldest regiments of the army.

Maj. Gen. Robert L. Bullard, commanding the Second corps area, characterized the intentions of soldiers as "one of the most remarkable exhibitions of loyalty and esprit de corps that I have ever known."

was Small, despite statements of relatives that the man was a stranger. That's the confusing tangle of evidence. And a tangle it will remain, unless, as Attorney Grant believes, the attorney general can uncover some fresh clues.

Lots of Twins.

Asbland, O.—Vernon Eitz, a Jackson township farmer, residing near Red Hawk, has a flock of sheep that promises to be a money maker. During one week, ewes of the flock bore 21 sets of twins. Eitz is rejoicing because, in addition to the twins, he has counted numerous singles gamboling over the green.

PRICE OF LABOR FAVORABLE

Indications Are That There Will Be No Drawbacks Along That Line This Season.

Labor costs on federal-aid projects under construction this year indicate that there will be no drawback along this line in the building of roads during the coming season, according to the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture. The price for common labor ranged around 25 and 30 cents an hour in a great majority of the states, being somewhat lower in the Southern states and going up to nearly 50 cents an hour in the Pacific states. The prices of teams reported were in a great many instances as low as the 1914 level. It is probable, however, that there will be an increase when the farming season begins, as teams have always been cheaper in winter.

ROADS ARE BIG BLESSING

The cost of keeping up American roads and building new ones last year was $4 for every man, woman and child—after deducting money from auto license fees. So reports the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

It is equivalent to a cent and a tenth a day for each of us. To save that much, few would surrender even the street in front of their house.

Roads are about the greatest blessing of civilization, also the cheapest.

Floods Delay Work.

Millions of dollars of roadbuilding in northeastern Louisiana has been suspended temporarily, owing to high water in several parishes. The floods may delay roadbuilding there for two or three months.

Millions Spent on Lincoln Way.

Expenditures on the Lincoln highway in the last year have reached $10,000,000.

value and the effect on rural social life would be serious. In fact, motor vehicles and the roads on which to use them form such an important part of our economic and social life that it is hard to picture to the full extent what would happen.

Since all this dependence on highway transportation has come in a brief period of years and with the construction of 115,000 miles of surfaced highways, 60,000 of which are on the proposed federal-aid highway system, it can be understood what further changes will take place as the system grows to 180,000 miles in length and other roads are built branching out from it.

HUGE NETWORK OF HIGHWAYS

When Federal-Aid System is Completed There Will Be 180,000 Miles of Roads.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When the federal-aid highway system, provided for by the recently enacted federal highway act, is completed there will be a network of roads 180,000 miles in length covering the whole United States. The time required for the completion of the system will depend upon the rate at which the necessary federal funds are provided, say officials of the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture, which administers federal-aid money.

An idea of what these roads will mean to the country can be gained by studying the effect of roads built in recent years and picturing what would happen should they be torn up and left in their former condition.

Should these roads go back to their former state and the motor vehicles which have come with them disappear there would be many changes. Many suburbanites would have to move into the city and there would be a decrease in value of suburban real estate. Cities would have trouble in getting their fresh milk and food supply. Much farm land would decrease in value.

Completed Concrete Highway.

value and the effect on rural social life would be serious. In fact, motor vehicles and the roads on which to use them form such an important part of our economic and social life that it is hard to picture to the full extent what would happen.

Since all this dependence on highway transportation has come in a brief period of years and with the construction of 115,000 miles of surfaced highways, 60,000 of which are on the proposed federal-aid highway system, it can be understood what further changes will take place as the system grows to 180,000 miles in length and other roads are built branching out from it.

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS

To the small town or country household who has not easy access to a market there is a great satisfaction in the knowledge that no matter who comes who is prepared for an emergency. This first aid in an emergency is a well-stocked shelf kept filled with foods which may be used in a hurry call when husband brings home unexpected company.

With canned soups or home canned soups or broths one may make a good dish for the beginning of a meal, then with a jar of salad dressing some sort of a salad is usually easy to prepare. If one has time a berry pie makes a fine dessert; or a shortcake, using canned fruit, is always a favorite. The foods used will depend, of course, upon the taste of the family, and if one is to be prepared the canned food, whatever it is, should be replaced at the first opportunity.

A few cans of fish, such as salmon and tuna, sardines and clams, if liked, some jars of sliced dried beef, and bacon, peanut butter, cans of corn and tomatoes, with a bottle of good salad dressing, which may be stretched by the addition of cream, a box or jar of cheese, are a few of the foods which will be most commonly used, not forgetting several cans of good soup. A most delicious tomato sauce may be made in a hurry from a can of tomato soup, using it with cold meat or hamburger steak, if at hand.

When taking dishes to a church supper or hall, wrap them with small bits of adhesive tape with the name written in ink. This will not wash off at all easily, and one may identify one's property with little difficulty.

When baking a crust for a filled pie, bake it on the bottom of the pan, prick it lightly with a fork; this keeps the crust from blistering.

To make bias binding take the blinder from the sewing machine and press it against it is done.

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS

The keynote to success in cookery is accurate measurement and accurate utensils. A measuring cup may look all right, but may vary from one to three tablespoonfuls. This is often true of the glass ones as a heavy bottom deceives the eye. There is no such thing as luck in cookery. Accurate measuring and careful following of a recipe will bring good results. All measurement in most cook books today are level and uniform. Heaping and rounding measures are rarely uniform even with the same individual.

Reliable Prune Cake.—Take one cupful of boiled unsweetened prunes, one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of shortening, three eggs, one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, one teaspoonful of vanilla, one teaspoonful of soda, two and one-half tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and prune juice, mixed, and two cupfuls of flour. Cream the shortening, add the sugar and then the eggs well beaten. Beat thoroughly. Add the prunes finely chopped, the soda dissolved in the fruit juice and the remainder of the ingredients. Bake in two layers and use a mocha filling; or one of lemon is very good.

Lemon Cake Pudding.—Sift five tablespoonfuls of flour, two cupfuls of sugar, and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, add two cupfuls of milk, the beaten yolks of four eggs, one tablespoonful of butter and the juice of three lemons; mix and fold in the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a slow oven for nearly an hour. Serve very cold.

Meck Chop Suey.—Cook one-half cupful of rice in boiling salted water until nearly done. Strain one pint of tomatoes through a colander, chop one Spanish onion very fine. Mix one-half pound of hamburger steak, two ounces of suet, two teaspoonfuls of salt, pepper to taste and a dash of cayenne. Mix all the ingredients and bake in a two-quart baking dish for one hour. Serve hot.

Gingerbread Nuts.—Put a pound each of brown sugar and honey and the grated rind of a lemon in a saucepan and simmer. Remove and add one-fourth pound of butter, one ounce of ginger, one teaspoonful of soda, and two pounds of flour. Roll thin, cut in rounds and bake in a slow oven.

It may be proved with much certainty that God intends no man to live in this world without working; but it seems to me no less evident that He intends every man to be happy in his work. YOUNG MOTHER NOW STRONG

Her Mother's Faith in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Led Her To Try It

Kenosha, Wisconsin.—"I cannot say enough in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My mother had great faith in it as she had taken so much of it and when I had trouble after my baby was born she gave it to me. It helped me so much more than anything else had done that I advised all women with female trouble to give it a fair trial and I am sure they will feel as I do about it.—Mrs. FRED. P. HANSEN, 523 Symmonds St., Kenosha, Wisconsin.

A medicine that has been in use nearly fifty years and that receives the praise and commendation of mothers and grandmothers is worth your consideration.

If you are suffering from troubles that sometimes follow child-birth bear in mind that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a woman's medicine. It is especially adapted to correct such troubles.

The letters we publish ought to convince you; ask some of your women friends or neighbors—they know its worth. You will, too, if you give it a fair trial.

LAWYERS NOT ALL GRASPING

Here's One Man Willing to Testify That Some of the Tribe Have a Heart.

Count Armand du Buecamp, the Belgian publicist, said the other day in an interview:

"When I hear of any good thing coming out of Germany I wink my eye and think of the story about the lawyer."

"Gents, a fat man said in a hotel smoking room, 'I hate to hear you lambasting lawyers the way you've been doing. A lawyer last year made me a present of $150.'

"Yes, he did!"

"Come off!"

"What are you giving us?"

"But these gibes and jeers didn't move the fat man."

"It's the solemn truth, gents, he said. 'You see, I was injured in a railroad accident last year, and this lawyer said the railroad company, and got $5,000 damages. His bill was $5,150, but he didn't say a word about the $150 balance. He made me a present of it.'"

BECOMES MECCA FOR VISITORS

Washington Seeks Title of "Convention City" of Country.

Washington is not entertaining visitors who have gathered from the ends of the country to discuss by-laws and election of officers and to take a look at the government in action. But spring is the most favorable time for seeing Washington and therefore spring always brings an unusually large assortment of convention followers.

The capital, with its trees bursting into pale green, its cherry blossoms drive along the tidal basin, and its gay flower beds, is at its best. Later, Washington settles down to hot weather—though the chamber of commerce never admits it, and then displays impressive statistics and comparative reports of the weather bureau showing that the capital with its 100,000 trees, its 6,000 acres of parks and its river breeze is not so hot as it is sometimes represented.

The American Revolution and the Daughters of 1812 have advanced upon Washington with fluttering badges. The League of American Penwomen has gathered its collection of literary notables and celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary with a book fair, breakfast, carnival ball and other functions. And, with less pomp and ceremony, 1,000 oculists and several other scientific groups have been conferring in odd corners of the city between banquets and important sessions.

Up to now, Washington has had to admit that its inadequate assembly halls were no attraction to conventions. The small and middle-sized halls about the city have sometimes failed to expand enough to accommodate all the delegates and visitors to an unusually popular convention.

Plans are under way now, however, for an auditorium which will seat 5,000 persons. It will be thoroughly modern.

This building is to be located opposite the High School building, facing the

The board of county commissioners held a meeting Monday to hear the protest against the proposed change in the county seat.

Late Model Arrives

Some weeks ago we announced the advent of the new model Nash in El Paso, and also chronicled the excitement attending its arrival. It was also announced in the same article that the Trainmaster would later bring the model to Carrizozo, and that he had his garage remodeled and refurnished for its reception.

Well, it arrived here last Sunday, and its arrival was the signal for a stampede to the Nash headquarters, the street thronged with people who were making efforts to see the latest creation of the celebrated Nash factory. Monday morning it was given an exhibition spin around town, and was pronounced all that it was advertised to be—and more. As a matter of fact, Mrs. Nash, who was present and assisted in turning out this new model, advised that we overlooked some important features in describing its many improvements.

Just at that moment a noise—more or less familiar—was heard. Mrs. Nash touched a button, the noise suddenly ceased, and we realized immediately that we had overlooked a very important attachment, "the silencer." In most other respects, however, our report was accurate, even unto its top, which, perhaps, may have a predominant shade of sunshine. Its lamps, coloring, symmetry and beauty are all that was claimed, and it starts at the slightest touch. It bears the guarantee that age will make it faster, that its lamps will grow brighter with the years, and that its color may be renewed at any drug store.

R. J. Copeland was over Saturday from his home on the Rio Grande. He was on his way to Kansas City where he expects to undergo an operation for ruptured ribs.
