Probate Clerk

OLDEST AND LEADING NEWSPAPER IN CIRCULATION IN THE COUNTY OF LINCOLN, NEW MEXICO

VOLUME 22

CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, APRIL 28, 1922

NUMBER 17

District Court

District Court was in session two days and nights—Monday and Tuesday. Judge D. J. Leahy presided, Judge Mechem sitting in the Las Vegas district in order to dispose of some cases in which Judge Leahy was disqualified.

A longer term was anticipated, but some of the litigants demanded a jury trial and, no jury having been drawn for this term, their cases went over. Many attorneys were busy in other courts of the state and could not be present to give their attention to matters before the court at this term; so such cases also went over.

Two divorce cases were heard and decrees entered. A number of other civil matters adjudicated—suits involving money or titles to land.

Three informations were filed and two pleas of guilty submitted. Sentences were imposed by the court, both of which were suspended during good behavior. They were W. F. Gleason, charged with malicious mischief, and Antonio Martinez, charged with larceny. The third was Ernest Adams, and the information alleged that he had set fire to grass in the Pete Kichervery pasture. He was allowed bond in the sum of $400 for his appearance before the next grand jury.

Besides Judge Leahy, the other court officials present were: J. B. Newell, district attorney; Paul Brininger, stenographer; Peter Pedregon, interpreter, and the local officials, Sheriff Ed. Harris, Clerk R. M. Treat and Assistant District Attorney Whalley.

The local members of the bar, with Colonel G. W. Prichard of Santa Fe, made up the bar present at the term just ended. All court officials left on No. 3 Wednesday for their respective homes.

William M. Reilly left yesterday for Clifton, Arizona, and expects to be gone for about two weeks. Mr. Reilly is with the War Finance Corporation and goes to Arizona to examine and report on some property valuations on which loans have been asked.

Demonstration Orchards

L. W. Adams, who was here last week delivering fruit trees and who has aroused more interest in fruit growing in Lincoln county than for many years, has, in addition to a general awakening, induced four leading orchardists of the Bonito and Ruidoso valleys to put to demonstration orchards. The purpose is to create a spirit of rivalry between the demonstrator which it is hoped will be productive of the best classes of fruit and demonstrate which is the best to be had for this section.

The four who are to make the demonstration are A. F. Stover and G. Hedgecoxe & Son, on the Bonito; and John Bell and Frank Stetson, on the Ruidoso. Two of them, Stover and Weaver Hedgecoxe, have had training at Agricultural Colleges; John Bell has had much practical experience in fruit growing, while Stetson has forsaken the saddle for the plow, has had little orchard experience, but knew all about the cow business.

Each of the four will put out from 250 to 300 trees, some mixed varieties, but principally Stark's Delicious and the Golden Delicious. The trees will be carefully selected, scientific instructions as to their care and the best man told to go in and win. Which shall it be? Time will tell, and the experiment will be watched with interest throughout the county.

Telling It To 'Em

An Oklahoma paper is credited with a parable of modern application which, though crude in spots, is not all fictive, if parabolic, and the comparison should be interesting to all those who wanted a "change." The author spake after this fashion:

And it came to pass that on the 4th day of March, 1921, Woodrow Wilson ceased to be president of the United States. And on that day the Republicans and sinners came in great numbers and took control of the government. And there was a long parade and a big noise; there was much red fire and many loud reports; and they said: 'Behold, the Democrats have not ruled well. Give a party a chance to rule that can rule.' And there was much hurrahing and hallooing, and there were many and diverse promises of big things.

And when President Wilson gave up the governmental ghost there was much prosperity in the land and the people were happy and well fed. They wore good clothes, worked short hours and received much money, and there was rejoicing and hilarity clean down the long line. And in the course of time a year had passed by, and behold, a great change had come over the country:

Where there was work there is now want; where there was merriment there is now mourning. Millions of men and women who were earning good wages, are now patronizing bread lines and bleachers.

And the people complained and grew angry, and said: 'Why is this thus? And they began to look around, and ere long they saw a light, a great light. And they understood how a Republican senate had failed to ratify a peace treaty with many nations that needed our wares, our stocks and our grains; how they drove our commerce from the seas, and tied up our ships in their ports to rust and rot. And it came to pass that when the ships stopped sailing, the factories closed down, the mills shut up, the millions of laborers were thrown out of employment, and the farmer was hard pressed. He sold his cattle and his lambs, and his wool, and, behold, after he had paid the freight there was little or nothing left, and he looked afar off and was downcast and sad. And it came to pass that the farmers of the great west burned their corn because it was cheaper than coal; that his wheat sold for 18 cents in the field, and that his oats would not pay the reaping and threshing bill, and he waxed not fat but sore. And it came to pass that he dug up last year's campaign book, and he read the Republican platform, and he dwelt long and did meditate upon the plank which reads: 'By our fruits ye shall know us.' And it was so.

Bargain Hunters Pack The Carrizozo Trading Co. Store

Last Thursday morning the doors of the Carrizozo Trading Co. swung open for the announced beginning of their big "Buying Chance Sale." All day long the store was packed with men and women from every walk in life, eagerly taking advantage of the many sensational bargains offered all over the store.

The crowd somewhat resembled a game of push-ball, but in its stead were the many bargains advertised, and the many that were not advertised.

From the way the salespeople were calling out "Cash" and the way the wrapping department was reducing the size of the wrapping rolls, and the way the cash register was singing the old song, "Feed me the dough; I love the sensation," business was extremely good at the large store on the corner.

"Business not only came up to our expectations the opening day, but was even better than we hoped for on Friday, Saturday and Monday of this week," said Mr. Lutz, the manager, the first of this week, "and from all indications we are going to do a record breaking business during this sale."

Low Jenkins and W. T. Crabtree were here from Corona Saturday and Sunday. They are on

New Mexico Normal University

East Las Vegas, N. M.—The annual "teacher-hunting season" has begun. Every week-end brings to Las Vegas several superintendents and school board members from various parts of the state to confer with members of the graduating class of the New Mexico Normal University. Indications are that all the graduates will have the opportunity, before commencement, May 25, of securing employment for next fall. The demand will continue to the close of the summer session on July 27, when many New Mexico teachers, having attained their degrees by summer work, will secure much better positions than they have heretofore held.

Commenting on the demand for teachers, President Jonathan H. Wagner of the Normal said: "There is no profession that the young man or young woman can take up that offers more certain employment than that of the teacher. In New Mexico the demand for trained teachers at good salaries was never so great. There will never be an overproduction of good teachers. The Normal now has more requests for teachers than ever before, and all our graduates and many of our undergraduates will have no difficulty in finding employment at good wages."

A Man To His Mate

By J. ALLEN DUNN

COPYRIGHT BOWEN MERKILL CO.

"MEBBE A QUEEN!"

Synopsis—Latter on the San Francisco water front, John Rainey, newspaper reporter, is recruited by a visit-blind man, who asks Rainey to lead him aboard the sealing schooner Karliuk. In the cabin they find Captain Simms and a man named Carlson. Simms recognizes the blind man, calling him Jim Lund. Lund accuses Simms of abandoning him, blind, on an ice floe, and denounces him. Simms denies the charge, but Lund refuses to be pacified. He declares his intention of accompanying the Karliuk on its expedition north, where it is going to quest for a gold field which Lund has discovered. Peggy Simms' daughter, is aboard, and defends her father. Carlson, who is a physician, as well as first mate, drugs Rainey. Awakening from his stupor, Rainey finds himself at sea. Carlson informs him he has been kidnapped. He offers Rainey a share of the gold, and Rainey is forced to declare himself satisfied. Lund gives him a brief account of a former expedition of the Karliuk, tells him to distrust Carlson, and suggests a "partnership." Rainey to act as Lund's "eyes." Rainey is made second mate. Captain Simms is ill and the navigation is entirely in the hands of Carlson. At the latter's suggestion a shooting match is staged and the seal hunters exhaust their ammunition. Carlson shows his skill with the pistol and Lund does some astonishing shooting "by sound." Sandy the ship's boy, is swept overboard and is rescued by Rainey, who thus wins Peggy's admiration. The captain gets worse. Sandy tells how Carlson is stirring up trouble over the division of the gold. Carlson draws a gun on Rainey, who overpowers him. Tamada, the mysterious Japanese cook, declares himself neutral. Lund, his right restored, kills Carlson. Captain Simms dies. The hunters attack Lund, who has taken charge of the Karliuk. They are beaten after a fierce fight.

Rainey was a little surprised at this show of thoughtfulness, but he did not remark on it. He was beginning to think pretty constantly of late that he had underestimated Lund.

The giant's hand dropped automatically to the handle as if to assure himself of the door being fast. Suddenly it opened wide, a black gap, with only the gray eye of the porthole facing them. Lund had brought up the muzzle of his pistol to the height of a man's chest, but there was nothing to oppose it.

"Hidin', the d—d fool! What kind of a game is this? Come out o' there." Something rattled on the floor of the room—then darted swiftly out between the legs of Lund and Rainey, on all fours, like a great dog. Curious, he sprang on the floor with a white face and pop-eyes, with hands outstretched in pleading, knees drawn up in some ludicrous attempt at protection, calling shrilly, in the voice of Sandy:

"Don't shoot, sir! Please don't shoot!"

Lund reached down and jerked the rounabout to his feet, half strangling

"Don't shoot, girl! Please don't shoot!" him with his ring on the collar of the lady's shirt, and flung him into a chair. "What were you doin' in there?" Sandy gulped convulsively, feeling at his straggling throat, where an Adam's apple was working up and down. Speech was scared out of him, and he said only "I'll tell you at home."

"An d—d young traitor!" said Lund. "I'll have you reloaded for me. Out with it, now. Who sent you?"

ply rolled down his grimy cheeks. The relief of them seemed to unstopper his voice. That, and the kinder quality of Rainey's questioning.

"Deming! He said he'd cut my bloody heart out if I didn't do it. Him an' Beale, Lookit!"

He plucked aside the front of his almost buttonless shirt and worn underwear and showed them on his left breast the scoring where a sharp blade had marked an irregular circle on his skin.

"Beale did that," he whined. "Deming said they'd finish the job if I come back without 'em."

"Without the shells?"

"Yes, sir. Yes, Mr. Rainey. Oh, Gosh, they'll kill me sure! Oh, my Gosh! His staring eyes and loose mouth, working in fear, made him look like a fresh-landed cod.

"You ain't much use alive," said Lund.

"Mebbe I ain't," returned the lad, with the desperation of a cornered rat. "But I got a right to live. And I've lived worse'n a dog on this bloody schooner. I'm fair striped an' bruised w' boots an' knuckles an' ends o' rope. I'd ave chucked myself over long ago if—"

"If what?"

"The lad turned sullen.

"Never mind," he said, and glared almost defiantly at Lund.

"Is that door shut?" the giant asked Rainey. "Some o' 'em might be hangin' 'round." Rainey went to the corridor and closed and locked the entrance.

"Now then, you young devil," said Lund. "What they did to you for'ard ain't a marker on what I'll do to you if you don't speak up an' answer when I talk. If what?"

Sandy turned to Rainey.

"They said they was goin' to give me some of the gold," he said. "They said all slong I was to have the hat go 'round for me. I told you I was dragged up, but there's—there's an old woman who was good to me. She's up ag'in it for fair. I told her I'd bring her back some dough an' if I can hang on an' git it, I'll hang on. But they'll do me up, now, for keeps."

Rainey heard Lund's chuckle ripen to a quiet laugh.

"I'm d—d if they ain't some guts to the herrin' after all," he said. "Hangin' on to take some dough back to an old woman who ain't even his mother. Who'd have thought it? Look here, my lad, I was dragged up the same way, I was. An' I hung on. But you'll never git a cent out of that bunch. I don't know as they'll have enny to give you."

His face hardened. "But you come through, an' I'll see you git somethin' for the old woman. An' yourself, too. What's more, you can stay aft an' wait on cabin. If they lay a finger on you, I'll lay a fist on them, an' wprac."

"You ain't kiddin' me?"

"I don't kid, my lad. I don't waste time that way."

Sandy stood up, his face lighting. He began to empty his pockets, laying shells and shotgun cartridges upon the table.

"I couldn't begin to git half o' 'em," he said. "The rent's under the mattresses. They said they only needed a few. I thought you was both turned in. When you come out of the corridor I was scared nutty."

Between the mattresses, as Lund had guessed, they found the rest of the shells, laid out in orderly rows save where the lad's scrambling fingers had disturbed them. Lund stripped off a pillow-case and dumped them in, together with those on the table.

"You can bunk here," he told the grateful Sandy. "Now I'll have a few words with Deming, Beale and company. Want to come along, Rainey?"

Lund strode down the corridor, bag in one hand, his gun in the other. Rainey threw open the door of the hunters' quarters and discovered them like a lot of conspirators. Deming was in his bunk; also another man, whose ribs Lund had cracked when he had kicked him along the deck out of his way. The bruised faces of the rest showed their effects from the fight. As Lund entered, covering them with the gun, while he swung down the heavy slip on the table with a clatter, their looks changed from eager expectation to consternation.

"Caught with the goods!" said Lund. "Two tries at mutiny in one day, my lads. You want to git it into your boneheads that I'm runnin' this ship from now on. I can run it with you and, by God, I'll set the bunch of ye ashore same'n you hegered on dem' with me if you don't sit up an' take notice! The rifles an' guns—be glanced at the orderly display of weapons in racks on the wall—'are too valuable to chuck over, but here go the shells, every last one of them. So that nips that little plan, Deming."

He turned back the slip to display the contents.

"Open a port, Rainey, an' heave the hat out."

Rainey did so while the hunters eyed up his slight change.

"You're a smart thing, smart!" said Lund. "I'll be at home."

He turned back the slip to display the contents.

"Open a port, Rainey, an' heave the hat out."

don't think anything of scarin' the life out of a half-baked kid an' markin' up his hide like a patchwork quilt. That kid's stayin' aft after this. One of you monkey with him, an' you'll do jest what he's bin doin', wish you was dead an' overboard."

He turned on his heel and walked to the door, Rainey following.

The girl kept below and seldom came out of her cabin. Tamada serving her meals in there. Rainey could see Lund's resentment growing at this attitude that seemed to him normal enough, though it might present difficulty later if persisted in. But the morning that they headed up through Sequam pass between the spouting reefs of Sequam and Amilia Islands, she came on deck and went forward to the bows, taking in deep breaths of the bracing air and gazing north to the fros expanse of Bering strait.

Rainey left her alone, but Lund welcomed her as she came back aft.

"Glad to see you on deck again, Miss Peggy," he said. "You need sun and air to git you in shape again."

"How far have we yet to go?" she asked.

"'Amost a thousand miles to the strait proper," said Lund. "The Nome-Alaska steamer June has to the east. Runs close to the Prillofs, three hundred miles north, with Hall an' St. Matthew three hundred further. Then comes St. Lawrence Isls, plumb in the middle of the strait, with Siberia an' Alaska closin' in."

He was keen to hold her in conversation, and she willing to listen, assenting almost eagerly when he offered to point out their position on the chart, spread on the cabin table. Lund talked well, for all his limited and at times luridly inclined vocabulary, whenever he talked of the sea and of his own adventures, stating them without brag, but bringing up striking pictures of action, full of color and flavor of life in the raw. From that time on Peggy Simms came to the table and talked freely with Lund, more conservatively with Rainey.

The girl, Rainey decided, was humoring Lund, seeking to know how with her feminine methods she might control him, keep him within bounds. Her coldness, it seemed, she had cast aside as an expedient that might prove too provoking and worthless.

And Rainey's valuation of her resources increased. She was handling her woman's weapons admirably, yet when he sometimes, at night, under the cabin lamp, saw the smoldering light glowing in Lund's agate eyes, he knew that she was playing a dangerous game.

"What d'ye finger o' dem' with yore sharp, Rainey?" Lund asked him the night that they passed Nome. It was stormy weather in the strait, and the Karliuk was snugged down under treble reefs, fighting her way north. The cabin was cozy, with a stove going. Peggy Simms was busied with some sewing, the canopy and the plants gave the place a domestic atmosphere, and Lund, smoking comfortably, was eminently at ease.

"Cordin' to the way the men figured it out," he went on, "though I reckon they're under the mark more'n over it, you'll have forty thousand dollars. That's quite a windfall, though noddin' to Miss Peggy, here, or me, for that matter. I s'pose you got it all spent already."

"I don't know that I have," said Rainey. "But I think, if all goes well, I'll get a place up in the Coast Range. In the meantime looking over the sea, and wishin' that newspaper stuff, but what I've always wanted to. Station house of adventures."

"That's a man's life," went on Lund.

"Travel's all right, but a man's got to do somethin', buck somethin', start somethin'." An' a red-blooded man wants the right kind of a woman to play mate. Polish off his rough edges, mebbe. I'd rather be a rough cuttin' that could stand fill'n a bit, than smooth an' plated. An' when I find the right woman, one of my own breed, I'm goin' to tie to her an' her to me.

"I'm goin' to be rich. They've cleaned up the sands of Nome, but there's others'll be found yit between Cape Hope an' Cape Barry. Meanin', we've got a placer of our own. With plenty of gold they ain't much limit to what a man can do. I've roughed it all my life, an' I'm not lookin' for ease. It makes a man soft. But—"

He swept the figure of the girl in a pause that was eloquent of his line of thought. She grew uneasy of it, but Lund maintained it until she raised her eyes from her work and challenged his. Rainey saw her breast heave, saw her struggle to hold the gaze, turn red, then pale. He thought her eyes showed fear, and then she stiffened. Almost unconsciously she raised her hand to where Rainey was sure she kept the little pistol, touched something as though to assure herself of its presence, and went on sewing. Lund chuckled, but shifted his eyes to Rainey.

"Why don't you write up this voyage? When it's all over? There's adventure for you, an' we ain't half through with it. An' romance, too, mebbe. We ain't developed much of a love-story as yit, but you never can tell."

He laughed, and Peggy Simms got up quietly, folded her sewing, and said "Good night" composedly before she went to her room.

"How about it, Rainey?" quizzed Lund. "How about the love part of it? She's a beauty, an' she'll be an' hellness. Ain't you got enny red blood in yore veins? Don't you want her? You won't find many to hold a candle to her. Looks, built like a racin' yacht, smooth an' speedy. Smart, an' rich into the bargain. Why don't you make love to her?"

Rainey felt the burning blood mounting to his face and brain.

"I am not in love with Miss Simms," he said. "If I was I should not try to make love to her under the circumstances. She's alone, and she's fatherless. I do not care to discuss her."

"She's a woman!" said Lund. "An' you're a d—d prig! You'd like to bust me in the jaw, but you know I'm stronger. You've got some guts, Rainey, but you're hidebound. You ain't got half the git-up-an-go to yet that she has. She's a woman, I tell you, an' she's to be won. If you want her, why don't you stand up an' try to git her 'stead of sittin' around like a sick cat whenever I happen to admire her looks?"

"I've seen you. I ain't blind enny longer, you know. She's a woman an' I'm a man. I thought you was one, but you ain't. Yore idea of makin' love is to send the gal a box of candy an' walk pussy-footed an' write poems to her. You want to write life an' I want to live it. So does a gal like that. She's more my breed than yore, if she has got education. An' she's flesh and blood. Same as I am. You're half-windstut. You're stuffed."

He went on deck laughing, leaving Rainey raging but helpless. Lund appeared to think the situation obvious. Two men, and a woman who was attractive in many ways. The only woman while they were aboard the schooner, therefore the more to be displayed, admired by men out from the rest of the world.

Getting Sermon to Goffers.

Special facilities to care for the spiritual welfare of church members added to playing golf Sunday morning will be installed by the Dixmoor Golf club of Chicago. A wireless receiving station will be set up as soon as the links are opened in the spring, so that members can listen to their favorite pastor while enjoying a cigarette on the veranda.

Greatest Flood Preventive Dam in World

The Huffman dam, located about six miles northeast of Dayton, O., is 73 feet high, 5,450 feet long, 400 feet wide at the base and contains 1,855,000 cubic yards of earth. It was built to prevent floods in the Mad river, a tributary of the Miami. It is the greatest flood preventive dam in the world.

Find Athletes Good Students

Naval Academy Board Makes Report After Scanning Records of Thirty Years.

TEND TO STAY IN SERVICE

Members of Sports Squad Likely to Stick to Career Planned, Investigation Shows—Same Conclusion at Harvard.

Annapolis.—Facts as to the scholastic work of college athletes and their careers in later life have probably been developed in a more thorough and accurate manner than ever before by a board of officers at the Naval academy. These men have traced the careers of every academy athlete over a period of 30 years.

It has been shown that the athletes are slightly better students than the other midshipmen, and that they show a far greater permanency in the service than the others.

The conclusions as to the scholarship of athletes are in line with the results of similar investigations at other institutions of learning where athletics are conducted on a sane basis. As to the careers of athletes in the service the application is more limited, but it is believed by authorities here that qualities which promote success in life in general are developed through properly handled sports.

The board of officers was composed of Capt. John Halligan, Commanders Macgillivray, Milne and Douglas L. Howard and Lieut. Everett B. Taylor, medical corps. All but the last named are graduates of the Naval academy and were active athletes while there. Captain Halligan, though captain and guard in the football team and a member of the crew, led his class in studies. Commander Howard was captain and end of the eleven.

As a basis for its investigations the board examined the membership of the classes graduated from the naval academy during the years 1891 to 1921, inclusive. The work of the midshipmen of these classes while at the academy was examined and their careers in the service were followed.

Nearly One-Third Athletes. Of the 1,761 graduates of the Naval academy during this period 502 qualified as athletes by winning a first or second letter in some branch. The scholastic work of the athletes while at the academy was compared with those who did not qualify as such.

Two hundred and fifty-five of the 502 athletes of this period were included in the upper half of the class grouped scholastically, and 247 were in the lower half. A like proportion was indicated when a class was divided in order to restore the four-year course after the war. It was found that there was a slight advantage on the part of the athletes, rather more than half being in the upper group of scholars.

The slight scholastic advantage extends to the midshipmen who have won letters in one or two sports, but it is notable that it did not extend to those who had won three letters, indicating that they have been in active training for an athletic team during practically the whole of the scholastic year.

The average standing of a midshipman who had won one letter was 43.34 in a hundred, and that of a two-letter man 49.11. The standing of three-letter men, however, fell to 55.14. It is now the rule at the academy that a midshipman may join but two team squads during the scholastic year.

A recent official investigation at Harvard has developed about the same conclusions, but it is believed that the principle that properly conducted athletics do not interfere with studies is general. The conclusions reached as to the success of athletes in the service, although not of such general application, are of much interest.

It was shown that there was no doubt at all that the athletes had a stronger tendency to stay in the service than their comrades in the academy. An examination of the history of all the members of certain classes which had been in the service for from 25 to 30 years showed that 50 per cent of the non-athletes had become separated from the service, while but 40 per cent of the one-letter men and 30 per cent of the two-letter men had lost their connection with it.

The board indicated its belief that, while the improvement of health and strength from athletics might have had something to do with this condition, the controlling factor was the attachment to the service engendered through active participation in sports.

RUSS CHURCHES YIELD GEMS

Aladdin's Cave of Jewels Opened by Soviet Decree.

Rare Gems Are Discovered When Russian Church Treasures Are Taken to Feed Starving—Some Famous Icons.

Moscow.—An Aladdin's cave of jewels has been opened by the decision of the soviet authorities to confiscate some of the treasures of the Russian churches and sell them to feed the famine sufferers.

The decree directs the seizure of all precious metals and stones, "which would not interfere with the interests of the various cults."

Most famous of the church treasures, described by the Moscow newspaper, Izvestia, is the bejeweled icon, "Our Lady of Kazan," at the Kazan cathedral in Petrograd. It is a representation of the virgin, done in beaten gold, weighing ten pounds and decorated with 1,955 larger and 1,482 smaller diamonds, 628 rubies, seven sapphires, 1,400 pearls and 135 other jewels, and hung about the neck of the virgin is a diamond necklace of huge, flat-water stones.

At Peter Paul's cathedral, also in Petrograd, there is another famous icon, known as the "Jerusalem holy lady," in solid gold. It is about two feet square, and contains thirty-eight carats of large diamonds, thirteen

Woman's Savings Are Repaid by Convicts

Convicts in St. Louis, Mo., through an intermediary, have presented Miss Elizabeth Sutton, at the Christian Old People's home, a check for $62 as part payment of her savings of $92 taken from her by a supposed employer, who hired her as housekeeper, secured her funds, and then disappeared. The prison newspaper told of the incident, and the convicts cut down on their smoking in order to reimburse the woman.

KILL GRANDPA OF BIG BEARS

Immense Bruin, Believed to Be Oldest of His Kind in Alaska, Bagged by Hunter.

Seattle, Wash.—What is believed to be Alaska's oldest bear was killed by an Indian hunter near Anchorage and the skin and head sent here on a vessel. The animal was of immense size, the hide measuring 11 feet 1 inch in length. The height of the bear was 6 feet at the shoulder. The Indian hunter and white men who traded for the pelt estimated the weight of the animal at 1,700 pounds.

The fact that bruins was toothless and almost clawless leads natives who have inhabited the Anchorage section for generations to believe it is one long hunted. Their forefathers held a grudge against an old bear, because in an early day, more than half a century ago, he is alleged to have cornered and destroyed half of the folks in a little seacoast fishing village.

carats of middle-sized diamonds and fourteen and one-quarter carats of smaller stones. Altogether, in this church, says the Izvestia, there are twenty-four almost equally valuable icons.

To St. Isaac's cathedral, Petrograd, were presented on the day it was opened a total of 215 articles, containing eighty-one pounds of gold and 4,788 pounds of silver and later a shrine was built of solid silver, weighing 406 pounds. St. Isaac's also has one ikon twenty-one inches wide by twenty-eight inches high, done in gold overlay and bearing a wreath of large diamonds. There are a dozen other ikons of tremendous value at St. Isaac's alone.

While these big Petrograd cathedrals, which were long favored by royalty, probably contain the most valuable treasures of the Greek orthodox church in Russia, nearly every one of the estimated 61,000 other cathedrals, monasteries, convents and churches contains objects in gold and silver and jeweled ikons are not at all rare, even in the smaller cities.

Royal gifts, donations by pious parishioners and church taxes for centuries went largely into ornamenting the churches. Kazan cathedral is the holy of holies to the Cossacks. The Cossacks of the Don once sent to it 1,440 pounds of silver, asking that it be made into ikons of four of the Apostles.

275,000 PERSONS RODE IN PLANES

Commercial Aviation Established on Firm Basis in 1921.

Hit and Miss Flying of Former Years Has Passed, Says Aviation Expert—130 Companies Now Permanently Established.

Stout City, Iowa.—Some 275,000 persons traveled by air in 1921, although a year ago many persons believed that the present generation would not accept the flying machine, according to a paper by Samuel S. Bradley of New York, general manager of the aeronautical chamber of commerce of America, read at the commercial air conference here.

months witnessed the most interesting development in our transportation history. Hundreds of persons flew. The public has changed its mind.

"The hit and miss flying of former years has passed, together with the aerial tramp, the side show performer and the self-styled 'dare-devil of the air.' The gipsy air is being absorbed by the established companies.

"Approximately 130 companies are permanently established and operating about half of the civilian planes in the country. In other words, they operate between 500 and 800 of the aggregate 1,300 machines. They report to us that they have 122,000 passengers, 12,000 pounds of freight. They transported 37 million mail items, 3,000,000 letters and 15 million newspapers. The average cost per passenger was 25 cents a mile, as compared with 15 cents a mile for the Appalachian and the Rocky mountains. Half the airplanes in the country are operated there. The Mississippi Ohio and Missouri river valleys, Colorado, Montana, the Dakotas, Iowa, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas afford many natural advantages, chief among them emergency landing facilities.

"It is estimated that more than 300 planes were entered in the various flying meets in the middle west, that they flew a total of some 800,000 miles at those meets, carrying approximately 15,000 passengers and performing before crowds aggregating 400,000 spectators, in a majority of instances without a single serious accident."

Highway Improvement

PUBLIC ROAD CONSTRUCTION

About One-Half of All Highways Being Built Are Being Aided by the Government.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

What the new federal highway appropriation to be expended under the direction of the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture, will mean to the country is accurately gauged in a synopsis prepared by the bureau, showing the use to which the $275,000,000 previously appropriated by congress has been put. Up to December 31, $212,077,240 had been put to work in projects either entirely complete or under construction. To match that amount the states appropriated $253,379,312, making a total of $465,456,552.

If placed end to end the roads to be paid for by this money would encircle the earth at the equator and extend as far as from New York to San Francisco on the second lap. The total mileage of roads under construction and completed, the department's records show, was approximately 27,000 miles. Of this mileage 9,255 miles was in projects entirely completed. The balance of 17,445 miles was in projects which were still under construction but reported 68 per cent complete October 31. In those projects there was the equivalent of 12,000 miles of completed roads, so that the completed road to date was more than 21,000 miles, or nearly enough to encircle the globe.

Prior to five years ago the federal government took no active part in the road construction of the country. Today about one-half of all roads under construction are being aided financially by the federal government, and the construction is subject to inspection and approval of federal engineers.

APPROVE HIGHWAY PROJECTS

According to Announcement of Bureau Every Type of Construction Is Represented.

Ninety-three road construction projects in 28 states were approved for federal aid during October by the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture, according to a compilation just made public. Virtually every type of construction is represented in the approved projects.

The states in which these projects were approved and the number of projects approved in each state follow: Alabama, 3; Arkansas, 3; California, 2; Colorado, 1; Florida, 1; Idaho, 1; Kansas, 8; Maryland, 5; Massachusetts, 2; Minnesota, 13; Mississippi, 6; Missouri, 4; Montana, 1; Nebraska, 2; Nevada, 1; New Mexico, 2; North Dakota, 2; Ohio, 2; Oklahoma, 1; Pennsylvania, 5; South Carolina, 5; South Dakota, 1; Texas, 3; Utah, 1; Virginia, 12; Washington, 1; Wisconsin, 2; and Wyoming, 1. The longest single stretch of roadway approved in one project during the month was an earth road in Calhoun county, Mississippi, 35.3 miles long; the shortest, 0.9 mile, was a brick road in Stark county, Ohio.

GOOD USE FOR SUBSTITUTES

Gravel and Macadam Can Be Employed Until More Durable Type of Road Is Built.

It will require several years for the United States to carry out the plans for a comprehensive system of hard-surfaced highways. Until such time as the main highways can be built of the durable type, gravel and macadam may be used as substitutes, but what the whole country wants and demands are real honest-to-goodness good roads.

One of Largest Industries. Road building in the United States is one of the nation's largest industries, a million men being employed last year throughout the construction season at building or repairing the country's highways.

Asphalt Streets in Majority. Virtually 61 per cent of all the municipal streets in the United States are paved with asphalt.

The Eternal Feminine.

Roslyn is only 5, but she has proved more than once that she is a true daughter of Eve.

Sunday morning she and daddy were taking their usual stroll along Drexel boulevard when daddy suddenly became aware of a peculiar noise that accompanied his daughter's steps.

"Roslyn," he inquired, "what is that funny 'effeking' noise?"

He looked at her feet and saw they were encased in high arties, of which the two topmost buckles were undone.

"If I do them up for you," he said, "Why, daddy," she exclaimed, as mounded at his ignorance. "It's my goulashes; they're 'collegie'."—Chicago Journal.

"I beg your pardon," said the polite crook to the prison guard, "but I'm going out of here."

"Do tarry awhile," said the guard. "We are going to have a chicken dinner."

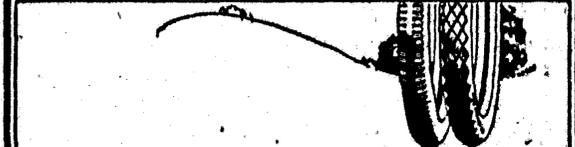

"Can't possibly do it, old top," replied the crook, as he poked his pistol into the guard's expressive countenance, snatched his keys and strolled toward the main entrance. The Ordeal.

"Why do you insist on singing to the men who call?"

"As a test of devotion," replied Miss Cayenne. "As soon as I meet one who would rather hear me sing than listen to the phonograph, I'll feel fairly confident that he feels that blind, unreasoning love on which enduring sentiment must depend."

BOTH BEAR THE GOODYEAR NAME

One of the tires shown above is the famous 30x3 1/2 inch Goodyear All-Weather Tread Clincher.

By long wear, superior traction and freedom from skidding, and low final cost, this tire has won unquestioned leadership in its field.

Alongside it is illustrated its companion, the 30 x 3 1/2 inch Goodyear Cross Rib.

More than 5,000,000 of the Goodyear non-skid tires have been sold in the last five years.

Built of the same high grade Arizona cotton fabric that goes into the All-Weather Tread. Goodyear, with a long-wearing but differently designed tread, they have given remarkable service.

Their quality and serviceability have proved to thousands of car owners the folly of buying unknown and unguaranteed tires of lower price.

Darkest Before Dawn

The old English proverb which finds its analogue in every language, that "the darkest hour is just before dawn," is not only a physical fact but is applicable to governments, peoples and things in general. The only thing about the proverb that is irritating is that succeeding generations have been unable to fix the exact period of the dawn. If, therefore, some authority could supply the missing link we would have a pretty accurate idea of whether we had passed the darkest hour or whether it was approaching or farther in the future.

The indications are that the darkest hour is at hand, for we have reached the stage of bankruptcy, not only our country but the whole world. We are bankrupt, financially, but time and some proper adjudication will, sooner or later, bring about better conditions. We are worse than bankrupt, politically—not a nation possessing a statesman, with capacity to unravel the intricate and intolerable conditions that grip the world. Lack of intelligent leadership, false economists, and each nation suspicious of every other nation produce a political bankruptcy such as the world never faced. And yet, the worst bankruptcy is the moral bankruptcy. In it are to be found the seeds of discontent, disloyalty indifference to vice and a growing—or full-grown—contempt for all law. Things that were once condemned, and were justly condemnable, are now laughed at and ignored; moral influences, either because of wrong application or radical endeavors, have lost effectiveness and the canker infects every nation on earth and every class of society in each.

While these conditions exist, and everyone with vision knows it, yet, this is a pretty good old world, and there is still enough good in it to lighten the whole mass; and sanity in finances, in politics and in morals will prevail; there will be an upheaval; the imps of darkness will be put to rout and a reign of charity and justice will supplant present conditions that lead we know not where. The darkest hour may be ahead of us, and if it is let us hope it is not far distant; and if not, the dawn approacheth, when every man, woman and child may face a radiant future and all co-operate for the peace, happiness and prosperity of all mankind.

A Deficit Looming

The press of the country informed us that Secretary Mellon advised congress that the Treasury was threatened with a deficit of some fifty millions unless appropriations were reduced. The administration and congressional leaders have been energetic and successful concerning the war-

four hundred millions instead of fifty. Another year of such Republican "economy" will put Uncle Sam in the poor house. If the bonus bill passes the senate and is signed by the president, another heavy load is placed on the Treasury unless a way can be found to pay the bonus out of the interest and principal of the debts owed us by foreign governments. The chance that it can be paid in this manner is not promising, England is the only one of our debtors capable of making large payments now or within the near future.

They Have It

In 1920 the people voted for a change, and there is nothing more certain than that they got it, unless it is that they appear to have gotten more than they bargained for. Universal prosperity has been changed into universal hard times, which at last are beginning to yield to hard work and careful economy, with no tangible help from a congress that seems impotent to provide any means of real relief. From universal employment the country reached a point where six millions of able-bodied men were out of work. The Harding propaganda fooled a great many people of various classes; they even went so far as to promise the Italian vote that Italy should have Fiume, but she hasn't got Fiume up to this time. They also made the Germans think Harding would ease them on their reparation payments, and then they were told by Hughes to pay their bills without help or sympathy from the United States. No wonder Will Hays took to the movies.

Cold as an Iceberg

"Lodge is cold-blooded. Lodge never has a generous emotion," say those who are seeking the defeat of the Senator from Massachusetts, "and therefore Lodge must be beaten." The truth of the matter is that Senator Lodge's enemies are controlled by a narrow hatred.—N.Y. Tribune editorial.

It was Dr. Charles W. Elliot, former president of Harvard, who was reported to have said that he had known Cabot Lodge all his life and never knew him to have a generous emotion. Dr. Elliot, by the way, is a Republican, and throughout his long career as an educator has never given any evidence of either narrowness or hatred.

The senate Republicans are placing in the tariff bill a duty on hides, to hoodwink the farmer. They will probably discover next November that the farmer is not such an easy mark; he knows that a tariff on hides can not compel the packers' trust to pay more for the live steer by reason of the hide which covers it. The packers bid their price for the steer,

Salvation Army

The Lincoln county advisory board of the Salvation Army is a branch of that great international organization for practical Christian work that has for the past thirty or forty years given assistance to so many unfortunate people the world over.

The local advisory board was organized for the purpose of carrying this work into every home in Lincoln county where the need exists. No community is too remote for us to reach and every case reported will be promptly investigated. If you know of a needy person or family in your neighborhood, please notify the board at once. Address:

considering him as so much beef and viewing the hide as a by-product obtained for practically nothing. The farmer would probably view with more approval a real breaking up of the packers' trust.

Secretary Hughes is a Vice President of the National Civil Service Reform Association, organized to uphold the civil service law which President Harding is trampling on with hob-nailed boots. Secretary Hughes is also the father of the New York direct primary law, but President Harding has declared in favor of the convention system and against the primary. Secretary Hughes understood the Four-Power treaty one way and President Harding construed it another way. These are some of the reasons persons have for saying that Secretary Hughes has the hardest job in the cabinet.

The Difference

From the St. Louis Star.
 "I speak four languages," proudly boasted the doorman of an hotel in Rome to an American guest.

"Yes, four—Italian, French, English and American."

"But English and American are the same," protested the guest.

"Not at all," replied the man.

"If an Englishman should come up now I should talk like this: 'Oh, I say, what extraordinary shocking weather we're having! I dare say ther'll be a bit of it ahead.' But when you came up I was just getting ready to say: 'For the love of Mike! Some day, ain't it? Guess this is the second flood, all right."

Missing: An overcoat of the vintage of 1920; good enough for another season, if properly packed down in moth balls. Was left on a seat at the Crystal Theater several nights ago and when the owner returned to get it, it was gone. Whoever picked it up, please know it is not his, but he does not know to whom to return it. It belongs here, and if the individual will return it to this office it will be appreciated and no charge made for this ad.—Editor.

A very profitable meeting of Woman's Sewing Society of the M. E. church was held at the home of Mrs. M. J. Barnett.

Mrs. Collier and A. Nilsson were appreciated by all present. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. D. S. Donaldson on Monday, May 1.

"Husbands on Approval" will be given again at the Crystal Theater Monday, May 8, at 8 o'clock. As the citizens have helped us so wonderfully in putting our play over, we have decided to heed their request and give it again at home, rather than take it out of town, as planned. We trust it will be even more enjoyed next time. The same price as formerly will be charged.—Committee

Ready for Business

The sale of the Co-Operative store which was made at public auction last week has been approved by the proper authorities, and Roy G. Skinner, the purchaser, has been notified to take possession.

This morning the new owner is engaged in straightening out things and will be ready to serve customers Monday, May 1. Mr. Skinner will add his stock of groceries from his restaurant to the stock purchased, to which he will constantly add new goods. He expects to conduct a first-class market in connection with his grocery business, and will at all times carry a select stock of fresh and salt meats. He will also have regular shipments of fresh vegetables twice a week, everything the market affords and the custom demands.

The business will be conducted on a cash basis, and thereby permit the management to make low prices on the goods, because of the reduction of an overhead expense by reason of running on a cash basis. A phone has been installed—No. 5—and customers may secure what they want without leaving their homes. Deliveries will be made twice a day, in the morning at 9 o'clock, in the afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Ford Sales Growing

Ford retail sales show a rapid increase in volume. A report from the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, has necessitated the building of 101,164 Ford cars and trucks in April in order to meet the requirements.

This is the largest output of Ford cars ever scheduled for April, being 10,000 above the same month of a year ago. It also marks an early opening of the spring and summer buying season, and seems to indicate that even more Ford cars and trucks will be sold in 1922 than in 1921, which was a bumper year.

Orders for Ford cars and trucks have already exceeded the supply of parts of the country and dealers are finding it necessary to accept deferred delivery. The Ford factory at Detroit is getting into capacity production as far as possible, with the hope of preventing a similar shortage when the spring-summer rush begins.

Ford dealers throughout the United States are urging Ford customers to place their orders early and thus prevent the possibility of having to wait for delivery.—Supplied by the Western

WITHOUT STREET ADDRESS YOUR MAIL IS DELAYED AT OFFICE OF DELIVERY

The Dead Letter Office has been in existence ever since Ben Franklin started our postal service. Even then people addressed mail to Mr. Ezekiel Smithers, "Atlantic Coast," and expected Ben to know just where Zeke lived.

Perhaps they had Zeke's address in letters up in the garret, maybe a chest full of 'em, but then it was easier to let Ben hunt Zeke. Today people are addressing letters to John Smith, New York, N. Y., or Chicago, Ill., thinking Uncle Sam can locate him, which is just as incomplete as was Zeke's address of yore. The Postoffice Department asks you to put the number and street in the address. It helps you.

Trinidad Col.

How do you expect the Postal Clerk to know whether you mean Trinidad, California, or Trinidad, Colorado? ALWAYS SPELL OUT THE NAME OF THE STATE IN FULL IN THE ADDRESS.

MORE BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT

This apt phrase was used in President Harding's first message to Congress and applies particularly in postal management where postmasters are being impressed with the fact that they are managers of local branches of the biggest business in the world.

HERE COMES A STRANGER!

Let's make our post office look neat, Mr. Postmaster. Straighten up the rural letter box, Mr. Farmer. Tidy up some, Mr. Rural Carrier. First impressions are lasting. Maybe Mr. Stranger, taking notice of these improvements, will come back, bringing you business. Start these with "POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK" May 1-6.

HUMANIZING THE POSTAL SERVICE

"There is no unimportant person or part of our service. It is a total of human units and their co-operation is the key to its success. In its last analysis, postal duties are accommodations performed for our neighbors and friends and should be so regarded, rather than as a hired service performed for an absentee employer."—Postmaster General Robert Work.

TOIL AND TROUBLE

"I MUST admit that life in the sky-van solitude has its drawbacks in the winter time," confessed the wild man of the woods. "These are times when I think with pensive longing of the heating stove we had in our vine-covered cottage in town, and wish I were seated by it."

"And then come painful recollections which not only reconcile me to my cave in the woods but convince me that I am the most fortunate of men. The thing we call comfort is a delusion. The more modern a house is, the greater nuisance it becomes. The poet says, 'In happy homes we see the light of firesides gleaming warm and bright,' and the description is alluring; but have you ever been responsible for one of those firesides gleaming warm and bright? If so, you know it costs more than it's worth."

"My wife was an admirable woman in every respect, and I never weary of extolling her splendid qualities of heart and mind, but she was a crank on neatness. Our house always was like a new pin. She wouldn't stand for anything that looked like disorder, and this characteristic of hers caused me much misery."

"We had an old-fashioned heating stove which burned big chunks of wood, and it might have been possible to be comfortable by it in wintry weather, had my wife been of a more liberal mind. When it became apparent to the most casual observer that bad weather was coming, I wanted to bring in enough wood to last until the elements took in their sign. My plan was to have a large box behind the stove, and fill it with wood. But my beloved Arabella said she'd be everlastingly keelhauled and kerfummled before she'd have an old woodbox in the sitting room. She exhausted her energy and intellect, she said, making our sitting room a credit to the family, and she wasn't going to have any old boxes kicking around."

"Neither would she permit me to pile a reserve supply of wood in the kitchen. She argued that the kitchen should be as orderly and neat as the parlor, and there was no more striking evidence of bad housekeeping than piles of wood here and there."

"You may ask why I didn't put my foot down and assert myself as head of the family, but when a man has been married a few years he gets tired of putting his foot down, since it never accomplishes anything. He is willing to make any sacrifice for the sake of balmy peace."

"The result of my wife's attitude on this question was that I had to be always drilling out to the woodshed for fuel, and there's nothing more disgusting than leaving a warm sitting room on such an errand. Before leaving the house I had to put on my overshoes, so I wouldn't bring in any snow when I returned. Having secured my armload of wood, I had to lay it down on the back porch while I took off my overshoes, and then gather it up again and carry it into the house."

"This done, my estimable wife would follow my track to the back door, with her hands in the air, in a gesture of despair, saying I had left a trail of bark and shavings and other refuse, and if I had the first instincts of a gentleman I'd clean up the mess I had made. Having the second as well as the first instincts of a gentleman, I got the broom and dustpan and removed the debris. It was the same way when I carried out the ashes. I never could carry out ashes without dropping samples on the floor, and then I'd have to get down on my marrowbones and clean up, and by the time I seated myself by the stove to rest, the fire would be low again, and I'd have to scoot into the howling tempest once more. It was this sort of thing that drove me, a homeless wanderer, from the busy haunts."

"The Soul of Gallantry. 'I'm so sorry,' said the beautiful motorist who had knocked down a pedestrian."

"Madam," replied her victim, as he made a sweeping bow. "I can't say that it's a pleasure to be struck by an automobile, but when the driver happens to be such a fair creature as you, I find that my vocabulary of oaths is reduced to a simple 'Tut, tut.'—Birds."

"Lowering his digging away at the weeds in his potato patch, 'Makes it much harder to have the weeds so thick, don't it?' remarked Lem Ebbes, leaning over the fence."

"Hope, easier," declared Pete; "you don't have to walk so far to the next field."—Everybody's Magazine.

POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK IS OBSERVED

May 1 Sees Inaugurated First General Campaign of Kind in Service.

Without the Postal Service, business would languish in a day, and be at a standstill in a week. Public opinion would die of dry rot. Factional hatred or prejudice only would flourish, and narrow-mindedness thrive.

It is the biggest distinctive business in the world and it comes nearer to the innermost interests of a greater number of men and women than any other institution on earth. No private business, however widespread, touches so many lives so often or sharply; no church reaches into so many souls, flutters so many pulses, has so many human beings dependent on its ministrations.

"Postal Improvement Week" has been set for May 1, by the Postmaster General. This is the first general campaign of its kind in the Postal Service for several decades. Business men and their organizations, large users of the mail, newspapers, million pictures, advertisers, and the entire organization of 320,000 postal workers are to be enlisted in this country-wide campaign of interest in postal improvements. Your help is vital. Address your letters plainly with pen or typewriter. Give street address. Spell out name of State, don't abbreviate. Put your return address in the upper left hand corner of envelope (not on the back) and always look at your letter before dropping in the mail to see if it is properly addressed. This care in the use of the mails is for your benefit and speeds up the dispatch and delivery of mail matter.

If you have any complaints of poor service make them to your postmaster. He has instructions to investigate them and report to the department.

COURTESY

It sticks in human relations like postage stamps on letters. The POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT expects it to be used by its postmasters and employees in dealing with the public.

Help them in its use beginning with POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK, May 1-6, 1922.

THANK YOU.

For Torpid Liver

"Black-Draught is, in my opinion, the best liver medicine on the market," states Mrs. R. H. White, of Keosauqua, Okla. She continues: "I had a pain in my chest after eating—light, uncomfortable feeling—and this was very disagreeable and brought on headache. I was constipated and knew it was indigestion and inactive liver. I began the use of Black-Draught, night and morning, and it gave me relief, and certainly gives relief."

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

For over seventy years this purely vegetable preparation has been found beneficial by thousands of persons suffering from effects of a torpid, or slow-acting liver. Indigestion, biliousness, colic, coated tongue, dizziness, constipation, bitter taste, sleeplessness, lack of energy, pain in back, puffiness under the eyes—any or all of these symptoms when indicate that there is something the matter with your liver. You can't be too careful about the medicine you take. Be sure that the name, "Thedford's Black-Draught," is on the package. At all drug stores.

TRIANGULAR FLAW

Copyright by The Wholesome Syndicate, Inc.

THERE was no little doubt that Lord Herbert Laurence Sheffield belonged to the nobility as there was about his nationality—and that was apparent immediately from his monic and his spots. Every shopkeeper along the Via Salaria in Naples knew his lordship, and every one of them admitted that a more representative member of the British aristocracy had never visited Italy.

Lord Herbert was not only lavish with his money, but it was whispered around the Grand Hotel di Napoli that his daughter, Sylvia, soon was to be married to one of the richest men in England.

Therefore when the English nobleman wandered into the establishment of the largest jeweler in Naples some two months after his arrival in the city and asked to be shown some diamond necklaces, there was an immediate scurry to wait upon him. Finally the proprietor himself requested Lord Herbert to come into his private office, while he took from the safe a necklace valued at 450,000 francs, the property of a client who was in financial straits.

"I would like to purchase something to give my daughter for a wedding present," explained the Englishman, and the jeweler nodded, for the rumors of the engagement had already reached his ears. "I'm afraid, though," continued his lordship, "that this necklace is a little more expensive than I can afford at the moment. I don't doubt its value, but I'll have to have a little time to think it over."

"Certainly," agreed the jeweler. "I will be pleased to hold it as long as you wish and, should you desire to see and examine it again, I will be very glad to bring it to the hotel at your convenience."

"That would be excellent," assented the visitor, "but I naturally do not wish my daughter to know anything about the transaction. The whole matter is to be a surprise to her."

A few days later, in response to Lord Sheffield's request, the jeweler took the necklace to the Grand Hotel and found the Englishman alone in the room. After a very careful examination of the diamonds terms were agreed upon and Lord Sheffield had just produced his letter of credit from his wallet when a girl's voice was heard in the corridor, just outside the door.

"My daughter!" exclaimed the Englishman. "She mustn't know anything about this," and he swept the necklace and the wallet into the drawer of the desk before which he sat. A moment later Sylvia Sheffield came in and announced that her father's fallor had arrived and wished to see him at once. Excusing himself with the statement that he would be back very shortly, Lord Herbert left the room and his daughter followed him immediately.

When half an hour had passed the jeweler began to wonder what was detaining his client, but he didn't worry in the least because his necklace and his lordship's wallet were there in the drawer of the desk, right under his hand. The transaction involved too much money to warrant any hesitance, so it was not until two hours had slipped by before the jeweler rang for the hotel clerk and requested to know what was detaining Lord Sheffield.

"His lordship and Miss Sylvia left the hotel nearly two hours ago," was the reply. "They had received a telegram from England."

Sensing that he had been robbed, the jeweler tugged at the drawer of the desk only to find that it was locked, but a moment's examination of the next room sufficed to show that the wall against which the desk was placed had been pierced and that the whole procedure had been a plot to lift the necklace and make a quick getaway.

Lt. Bond, one of the shrewdest detectives in Naples, was immediately placed in charge of the case and telegraphed to Recco to have the pair arrested. Sheffield, anticipating such a move, had planted two confederates in the capital, and by the time that the police had found that their ally was in the real criminals were well on their way northward. They followed one of the longest chases in continental detective history.

Finally, after more than eight months, he located them in London, only to be met by the downright denial of the Englishman that he had ever used the name of Sheffield or had ever been in Naples. He accounted for his possession of a number of unset diamonds by the statement that he had bought them in the Argentine and exhibited a bill of sale covering the gems.

To this Bond made no reply, but whipped out a jeweler's magnifying glass and commenced to examine the diamonds, one by one.

Ordinance No. 25

An ordinance authorizing and directing the incurring of the indebtedness and the sale of bonds in the par value of $25,000.00 for the purpose of securing funds with which to construct a water works system and acquire such water, water rights and rights-of-way as may be necessary for such purpose for the Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico.

WHEREAS, by an ordinance heretofore duly passed by the Board of Trustees of the Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico, and duly approved and published as required by law, and also by a resolution, the said Board caused to be submitted to a vote of such qualified electors of the said Village as had paid a property tax therein during the preceding year the question of incurring an indebtedness and of issuing negotiable bonds by the said Village in a sum not to exceed $25,000.00, bearing interest at not to exceed six per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and to become due and payable not to exceed thirty years from their date, for the purpose of constructing a water works system and acquiring such water, water rights and rights-of-way as may be necessary for such purpose for such Village, to be determined by the ballots of such qualified voters, the said election to be held at the same time and at the same polling place of the next regular election for the election of Officers and Trustees for the said Village on Tuesday, the 4th day of April, 1922, and by said ordinance and resolution directed and caused due legal notice of such time and place for holding such election and the purpose for which such bonds were to be issued to be duly and lawfully published once each week for four consecutive weeks immediately prior to the said election.

And whereas, said election was duly held at such time and place and said question of incurring such indebtedness and of issuing said bonds of said Village in said amount for said purpose was voted upon as required by law and in accordance with such ordinance and resolution by the qualified voters only who had paid a property tax in the said Village during the preceding year, and thereafter due return and canvass of such ballots so cast separately and deposited in a separate ballot box, and the results of such vote determined and a certificate of such result made upon the minutes of this Board in accordance with law.

And Whereas, there was and it so appears from the said return of said election upon the question of incurring such indebtedness and issuing said bonds for the purpose of construction of such water works system and acquiring such water, water rights and rights-of-way as may be necessary for such purpose, 54 ballots were cast, of which 53 were in favor of and 1 was against the same, and now, therefore:

Be it Ordained by the Board of Trustees of the said Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico:

1. That there shall be incurred an indebtedness by the said Village of Carrizozo in the sum of $25,000.00 and the bonds of said Village issued and sold as hereinafter provided, the proceeds of the sale to be used for the construction of such water works system and acquiring such water, water rights and rights-of-way as may be necessary for such purpose for the said Village of Carrizozo. The said bonds shall be numbered consecutively from No. 1 to No. 50, inclusive, and Dollars par value and each thereof shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of June and the first day of December, respectively, with coupons for such interest payments. The principal of each and every such bond shall be and become payable at the option of the said Village after twenty years from the date thereof and be and become absolutely due and payable at the expiration of thirty years from the date thereof, and the same shall be dated as of the first day of June, 1922. The principal and interest of all such bonds shall be payable at the Chemical National Bank in the City of New York, State of New York.

2. That such bonds shall be sold and delivered to the purchaser by the said Board of Trustees of the said Village at its office in the Village of Carrizozo on the first day of June, 1922, immediately upon the close of inspection of the bids therefor which shall begin at two o'clock P. M. of the said day, for cash to the highest and best bidder at not less than par and accrued interest to the date of such sale. That each and every bid shall be enclosed and sealed with the name of the bidder plainly marked on such envelope and submitted and filed in the office of the Clerk of said Village on or before twelve o'clock noon of the said date and shall not be opened until the time for inspection of the bids, above named. That each bid made for such bonds shall be accompanied by an unconditional check in the sum of Two Hundred Fifty Dollars ($250.00), certified by some responsible bank, payable to the Treasurer of the said Village, as liquidated damages should such bidder fail to take up and pay the amount so bid for such bonds, in the event the same are awarded to him, immediately after such award being made.

3. That the moneys derived from the sale of such bonds shall be used to construct such water works system and acquire such water, water rights and rights-of-way as may be necessary for such purpose, as may be determined by the Board, and the said water works system shall be operated by the said Village as a public utility under such reasonable rules and regulations and compensation as shall be charged for furnishing water, so that the net revenue arising from the operation of such property will after deducting the actual cost of maintenance and operation be annually sufficient to provide an amount sufficient to pay the interest upon the bonds so issued for the construction and acquirement of such property from the operation of which such revenues arise, and an annual ratable proportion of the principal thereof for the redemption of said bonds as the same fall due, less such amount thereof as will be or become available for such purpose from the taxes levied and collected prior to the time when any such interest should be paid or any portion of the principal provided or set aside for the future payment thereof. That in addition thereto there shall be levied and collected each and every year a separate tax upon all the taxable property in the said Village sufficient for the payment of the said interest and of said principal of said issue of said bonds when the said interest and principal fall due; provided that the said taxes shall not exceed any constitutional liquidation applicable thereto; and provided further that if the net revenue arising from the operation of such water works system during any calendar year is or will be sufficient to meet such interest payments upon the bonds and provide such ratable proportion of the funds for the payment of the principal thereof and in that event such tax so to be levied during such year for the payment of such interest, and to provide such proportion of the funds for the redemption of such bonds, shall not be collected or applied to such purpose. If for any reason there should not be produced by either of said methods sufficient funds for the payment of interest and to provide for the principal as above required for such bonds, the same shall be collected and paid as above provided, as soon as may be under the laws of the State of New Mexico for the levy and collection of taxes in villages thereof, and within such year in which such deficit occurs, if such can be done under such laws, and if not so possible thereunder, then at the earliest period allowable under the law during the succeeding year. That any and all balance of the net revenue arising from the operation of such water works system shall together with the proceeds of the tax levied for the payment of the principal and interest on the bonds so issued shall constitute a separate fund for the payment of such interest and the redemption of such bonds when due. That at each interest bearing date the proportion thereof available for the redemption of said bonds shall be placed in a sinking fund for such purpose in some depository and at such rate of interest as shall be from time to time approved by this Board and be held and applied for the redemption of the said bonds, together with the interest accumulations thereof, and that none of the money so provided for the payment of such interest or for the redemption of such bonds or any part thereof shall be used for any other purpose whatever.

4. The said bonds shall be issued substantially in the form and to be of the tenor and effect as follows, to-wit:

"KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS: That the Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico, acknowledges itself to owe for value received and promises to pay to the bearer on the first day of June, 1952, at the Chemical National Bank, in the City and State of New York, the sum of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), together with interest thereon from June 1, 1922, at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of June and December, respectively, after date, upon presentation and surrender of the coupon calling therefor at such bank. Said Village of Carrizozo hereby reserves the right to redeem this bond at any semi-annual interest paying date on or after the expiration of twenty years from the date thereof, by paying principal and interest. That in event the same shall be called in for redemption before maturity, notice thereof shall be given in writing to the said Chemical National Bank by the Treasurer of the said Village at least thirty days before the date fixed for redemption, and should this bond not be presented for redemption at the said time the same shall cease to bear interest from and after the date so fixed for such redemption. This bond is one of a series of bonds numbered from No. 1 to No. 50, inclusive, each in the sum of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), and the entire issue totaling Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($25,000.00), and issued for the construction of a water works system and acquiring such water, water rights and rights-of-way as may be necessary for such purpose for the said Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico, under and by virtue of and in strict conformity with the requirements of the laws of the State of New Mexico and the ordinances of the said Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico, and in pursuance of an election duly and lawfully called, notice given and held as provided by the laws of

It is hereby recited and certified that the provisions and requirements of all the laws of the State of New Mexico and the ordinances of the said Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico, as well as all conditions precedent to the lawful issue of this bond, have been fully and strictly complied with and performed. That the total indebtedness of the said Village does not exceed the limitation of indebtedness prescribed by law, and for the prompt payment of the principal and interest hereof as the same shall respectively fall due the full faith, credit and resources of the said Village are hereby irrevocably pledged.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, said Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico, has caused this bond to be signed by the Mayor and Clerk of the said Village and the seal of the said Village to be affixed hereto, and the facsimile signature of the Treasurer of the said Village to be lithographed upon the interest coupon attached hereto, and this bond to be dated and issued this the first day of June, 1922.

Attest: Mayor. Clerk. (Seal of said Village)

And the coupons attached to said bonds shall be substantially in the following form, to-wit:

"No. $15.00 VILLAGE OF CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, on the first day of June, 1922, (with coupons representing said amounts of payment for each six months thereafter until maturity of bond) will pay to the bearer $15.00, lawful money of the United States of America, at the Chemical National Bank, in the City and State of New York, being interest when due on its WATER SYSTEM BOND No. Dated June 1, 1922.

Treasurer of the Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico."

5. The Mayor and Clerk of the said Village are hereby directed and required to give notice by publication of the passage and approval of this ordinance in the CARRIZOZO NEWS, a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in said Village of Carrizozo, on the 5th day of May, 1922, and notice of publication as required by law once each week for four consecutive weeks prior to the first day of June, 1922, in said CARRIZOZO NEWS, and also in one newspaper published in Santa Fe, New Mexico, and one leading financial newspaper published in the City of New York, State of New York, stating the amount, rate of interest, time of maturity and condition of said bonds, respectively, and that such issue will be sold on the date and in the manner above named.

6. This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage and publication as required by law.

Does Not Require Tailor. The coat dress is something which does not necessarily require a tailor to make satisfactorily. It is a dress which a clever dressmaker can do quite as well, and for that reason, it is often more becoming than the tailored suit of harder lines and more visible stitching.

It has achieved a shape that is entirely consistent with the figure that wears it. The coat has that surplus, rich line with a rolling collar carrying out the outline, and it ends in a bunch of draping over one hip where the fastening is marked by a brilliant green jade buckle.
