Santa Fe Letter

(From Our Correspondent)

Santa Fe, March 19.—Governor Jas. F. Hinkle feels that another democratic victory "is in the cards" for 1924. In the last campaign economy and good government were stressed on the platform by the governor and other democratic speakers. When the ballots were counted the greatest democratic landslide in the history of the state was revealed. Governor Hinkle believes the present state administration has made good these promises. The public debt has been reduced more than a million dollars. The state's expenses were reduced more than a half million last year, and they are expected to be reduced even more this year. This, together with the fact that the party seems to be united as never before, he said, convinces him that the democrats will repeat their clean sweep of 1922 at the polls in 1924.

Saying that the attorney general's office believes section 401 of the school code probably unconstitutional, Assistant Attorney General Armstrong has advised the nomination of candidates for county school superintendent at county primaries and conventions. This section provides for the appointment of the superintendent by the county board of education after January 1, 1925. If nominations are made, he pointed out, one or more candidates can take steps to determine the constitutionality of this section once and for all by legal proceedings.

Representative Nicholas J. Simons of Oregon has introduced a bill in congress providing for the extension of the Navajo Indian reservation to take in approximately 1800 sections of land, according to a letter from Representative John Morrow to Governor Hinkle. The 1800 sections are in San Juan and McKinley counties. "I want to know if the people of this state are in favor of such an aggression or not," said the Governor. He said he would be glad to hear from any who cared to write him or talk to him about the matter.

The Railroads

Much has been said concerning railroads, more particularly in comparing private operation to government operation. We have been little interested in the comparison because the only time this government ever operated the railroads was during the World War, and that, we submit in all fairness, was no test; for it was at a period that time was the main element and the cost was a secondary consideration. Hence, when certain authorities asserted that the cost of government operation was excessive, we were not inclined to doubt it, because, as stated, it was at a time when results counted more than costs. Therefore, occupying a neutral position as we did then, still we were uninfluenced by the statement it was a failure—for the reason given above—neither is our opinion fixed by what is hereafter quoted, which, however, would indicate that private operation has not been all that it should have been. In other words our mind remains open on this much discussed question, but regard it as one worthy of unprejudiced consideration by the people, according merit wherever it is shown to exist.

Notwithstanding the belief that the cost of government operation of the railroads was unreasonable, with which we never took issue, and do not now, we, nevertheless, confess a new interest in the matter, when, this week, we read in the Congressional Record the statement made on the floor of the United States Senate that after the railroads had been turned back to private management the cost of operation was vastly increased. A pamphlet also reached our desk about the same time in which statistics are given in harmony with the Senate statement, and the coincidence is so striking, and, at the same time, so different from our impression, that we are impelled to quote from both, without endorsement, as we can not affirm their accuracy.

The question arose in the Senate while Senator King, of Utah, was discussing a government measure, and he was interrupted by Senator Brookhart, of Iowa. We quote from the proceedings:

Mr. Brookhart. Mr. President—
The Presiding Officer. Does the Senator from Utah further yield to the Senator from Iowa?

Mr. King. If the Senator desires to ask a question, yes.

Mr. Brookhart. Being a strong believer in the government of the United States, I am willing to defend it even against the charge of inefficiency and waste.

Mr. King. I would rather the Senator would ask me a question, and make speeches in his own time.

Mr. Brookhart. Here is the question: Does the Senator know that in spite of all the newspaper criticism of the operation of the railroads by the government, in spite of all the bad McAdoo management we hear about, the first 10 months after the roads were turned back their operating expenses in private hands increased $1,485,000,000, or nearly a billion and a half?

Mr. King. I have seen a multitude of statements affirming what the Senator says, and I have seen many statements denying the correctness of these figures.

Mr. Brookhart. If I furnish the figures from the reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and give the book and the page, will that be satisfactory?

The colloquy ended without the submission of the Interstate Commerce report, but the statement of the Iowa Senator went unchallenged.

Now, we find these statements in the pamphlet: The total increase in the wages of railroad employes, under McAdoo, was approximately $606,000,000.

His successor gave increases of $384,000,000.

When the railroads were returned to private management, March 1, 1920, the government labor board, railroad executives concurring, granted a further increase of $620,000,000, in addition to the above.

The total increase, subsequent to the McAdoo increase, exceeded a $1,000,000,000.

When the government assumed control, there were 1,703,743 employes; McAdoo increased this number to 1,820,660, while his successor, Hines, ran the number up to 1,970,525, at the time the roads were turned back to private control. This number, under private control, was increased, by August, 1920, to 2,197,824, a third of a million in excess of the government war-time number.

Capitan High School Notes

D. W. Weber, Principal
Topic: "Will Development Through Will Action."

How does the will grow? It is what the individual himself resolves and does—that forms new habits and attitudes and so essentially modifies character. The things that proceed from the heart, that is will, leave their mark on character. In one way it is a truism to say that will power and righteousness grow by exercise of the will, and in no other way. Through altruistic tendencies they add one step to the progress of socialization, for they impel the adolescent to associate with others, to sympathize with them, and so to act as to insure their approbation, but also to perform positive service to man at his own discomfort or disadvantage. Altruistic conduct may alternate with utter selfishness. We, as in the adolescence period, must be a person in life for devotion to others, especially in self-sacrificing causes. Vows, agreements, pledges and other restrictions on one's freedom are made this period. Applied psychology teaches us that nature teaches the boy who would sell himself to his sweetheart as her husband that everything about him talks and that he must make it for him. For that reason he brushes his hair, washes his ears, shines his shoes, and puts on his best manners and the most pleasing smile, which is all through the action of the will and habit formation. We cultivate attractive manners and common sense, and patiently build up a reputation for honesty and reliability. It would be an excellent idea for every boy and girl to receive some time or other in their education, a practical course in the fundamentals of applied psychology. Success depends upon the will of the man. Success has no secret. Her voice is forever ringing through the market place and crying in the wilderness, and the burden of the cry is equipped fully to climb to the heights of life, so that when we give the will the reins and say "Drive!" they are headed toward the heights. Honesty and hard work have never failed to win out.

Miss Gladys Sprague, Capitan High School teacher, spent the week end with Dr. and Mrs. Warner at Fort Stanton.

Carrizozo Entertainers

The Entertainers desire to announce that the Metro-folks have changed the dates on the "White Sister" and "The Three Ages." The latter, by Buster Keaton, will be given March 25 and 26, and the former on April 8 and 9.

The following musical numbers will be played on piano and violin while the Buster Keaton comedy is being run-off:

Star Spangled Banner, Dance of the Clowns, A Windy Day on the Battery, Glow Worm, Easy Melody, That Old Gang of Mine, Dapper Dan, Virginia Blues, Dardanella, That Old Girl of Mine, etc.

This comedy is vouched for by the press as one of the best plays of the day, and the author's only six-reel.

The following boys will act as ushers. They will wear Buster Keaton hats: Henry Humphrey, Boyd Loughrey, Herman Jeffries, Marshal Beck, Fred Laloue, Dennis Bigelow, Fred Blledge, and David Saunders.

The per cent in attendance this month has been much higher due to the pleasant weather.

The class in general history will soon take up the world war.

The 7th and 8th grades presented a picture of the beautiful Rheims Cathedral, in a handsome frame, to the high school department. Much praise due the 7th and 8th grades for their beautiful gift.

The general science class is doing very fine work. It has performed about sixty different experiments so far. Experiments relating to physics and chemistry are performed also.

A bottle of medicine might contain good or bad medicine: something to get your money or something to make you feel better.

Honolulu Police Destroy Rich Opium Pipes

There are a great many Chinese in Hawaii, and consequently there is a lot of opium smoking. The police, in their efforts to suppress it, seize vast numbers of "outfits," and these have been accumulating in Honolulu. The other day there was a house cleaning and nearly a thousand pipes were burned. Many of them were richly carved and inlaid with mother of pearl and silver, being valued at more than $100 apiece, while others were simple affairs consisting of two pieces of bamboo.

Texas Cattlemen Scent Prosperity

Stock Come Through Winter With Small Losses.

Fort Worth, Tex.—With the coming of spring conditions on the Texas cattle ranges vary from poor to good, according to reports from the various cattle raising sections. Cattlemen say that favorable range conditions will stimulate the industry in the next few months, unless a severe freeze should injure the ranges. Amarillo reports that cattle have withstood a comparatively severe winter unusually well with few losses. Illinois and other states have representatives in the Panhandle territory looking for stock cattle, while market men are looking for aged steers. The sales have been reported. Ranchmen, inspectors and dealers say the outlook for the cow business this spring is better than in several years. Grass is beginning to appear in the roughs of creeks and arroyos, and an unusual growth of range weeds is reported. In Lampasas county the ranges are in a very ordinary condition and cattle are being held. Almost no milks are changing hands, but a considerable number of sheep are being sold at prices ranging around $7 for wethers and $10 for ewes.

Man Who Lost Eloping Bride Gets Damages

New Orleans, La.—A man whose wife is taken from his arms on his wedding night is entitled to damages, the Louisiana Supreme court declared, in deciding a case that involved an elopement, the alleged theft of the bride, and the separation of the bride and groom for nearly five years. The court, affirming a decision of the civil district court, awarded David J. Hennessy, Jr., $1,000 damages from Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wabbe, parents of his bride, and added that it would have increased the award had not the Wabbes been in moderate circumstances. Settling forth that he and the girl had eloped in 1918, and that upon taking his bride to the home he had prepared for her the parents had appeared suddenly, taken her away, and that all his efforts since to see her had been unsuccessful, Hennessy

Die to Save Brother and Sister From Fire

Amesbury, Mass.—Stanley Pataca, seven years old, lost his life in saving his little brother and sister from death by fire and smoke.

The three children were left in the kitchen of their home while their mother went to the store. Fire, starting from an overheated stove, filled the room with smoke. Stanley led the smaller children into an adjoining room and placed them on the floor under a bed to save them from suffocation. He returned to the kitchen and fought the fire until he fell unconscious from the pain of his burns and the smoke he had breathed. His mother, on her return, found him dying. The loss from the fire was slight.

Area Involved in War

Of Europe's approximately 4,000,000 square miles of territory, approximately 200,000 square miles were directly involved in the World war. For Africa the fraction is larger, 20 out of 30 parts having been in controversy. Asia, with her 17,000,000 square miles, shows twenty-two-twenty-fifths of her territory involved, while Australia was completely in the throes of war. In North America, four-fifths of an area of nearly 10,000,000 square miles is occupied by two of the great countries that were in the struggle. Only about one-half of South America remained unscathed.

U. S. HOLDS 36 OF 49 WORLD AIR RECORDS

France leads in general aviation progress. Paris—United States flyers hold 36 of the 49 air records ratified by the International Aeronautic Federation in its second meeting at Paris. France has eight, Great Britain four and Italy two. In a short time, when the federation has decided to place the records of performance accomplished by reflecting in light in a separate category from the others, the United States will possess 42 of the 49 air records in existence.

Wilmington, Del.—The city was recently visited by the oldest daily newspaper in the United States, the "Wilmington Daily Leader," which was founded in 1787.

Just a Little Smile

Despite the fact that the most effective medical remedy for rheumatism is the use of salicylates, these still prevail to an alarming extent the use of old-fashioned remedies, some bordering on the superstitious. This is brought home nearly every day to the physicians at the board of health building in New York.

"One of the queerest cases of the kind that has come to my attention," said one of the doctors on duty there, "was that of a man who limped in here the other day, suffering from rheumatism in the legs. One of these members was almost stiff and it was covered with blisters. I asked him how he got them."

"It was stung by bees," he replied. Astonished, I asked him to explain, and he went on:

"You see, I was recommended to a place down on Staten Island where they raised bees just for the purpose. They told me there that it was an old remedy that had been used for many years by country folk."

"I seemed to get some relief for a time, whether it was that the stinging had the effect of a narcotic or really was an antidote. But what I want to know is if you would advise me to continue this treatment."

"Later, I made inquiries and learned that this bee-stinging had really been practiced to a considerable extent in the country and still continues in some sections."

"Incidentally, I heard of an old superstition that is rather odd. It was that whenever a death occurred in a family that kept bees the owner would have to sell the bees; otherwise, if they found it out themselves they would fly away in anger because they were not informed."—New York Mail.

Boiled Coffee

To restrict the use of coffee in Germany, Frederick the Great made it a government monopoly, and only those holding government licenses were permitted to roast coffee publicly.

Light coffee roasting and bottling of the beverage were prohibited, and turned over to a corps of "coffee-smellers" who went through and put their noses in the air trying to detect infringement of the law.

The government "coffee-smellers" were the butt of ridicule and satire among the Jews in the coffee "speakeasies."

An old Arabic manuscript, written in Mecca in the year 1511, says: "Come and enjoy the company of coffee in the shade of its habitations for the divine goodness envelops those who partake of the treat."

"Coffee is not found within its habitations. Trouble visits humbly to its power."

"It is the stream in which we wash away our sorrows. It is the fire which consumes our grief."

"Drink of its liberality and give ear to the speech of the foolish."—Detroit News.

Timing Home Work

Efficiency experts have revealed the domestic situation of the American homemaker with the result that the following table has been offered as a good average: Time required to make single bed, three minutes; time required to make double bed, five minutes; time required to clean bedroom, twenty-five minutes; time required to clean dining room, forty-five minutes; time required to sweep kitchen floor, twelve minutes; time required to serve four-course meal, thirty minutes.

Arts and Artories

She had a vast amount of money, but it had come to her quite recently, she day in acquaintance asked her if she was fond of art.

"Fond of art?" she exclaimed. "Well, I should say I was! If I am ever in a city where there's an artory, I never fail to visit it."—The Christian Era.

A Real One

Spokane—I observe that you treat that gentleman very respectfully.

Spokane—Yes, he's one of our only doctors.

Spokane—Early doctor? Why, he's not more than forty years of age.

Spokane—That may be true, but he pays his bills on the first of every month.—Motor Age.

Order Taken

She had a high opinion of herself and regarded her friends as being rather inferior.

"Do you keep dog without" inquired the crack-brained man.

"No," she answered, "we call 'em cats." "An' what?" he said, "we call 'em dogs."—The Christian Era.

BOYS HAVE SUCH MEMORIES! Tommy had received strict instructions to ask no questions, and Tommy tried hard to obey. But childish curiosity won, and he suddenly and loudly inquired:

"Mamma, do Mr. and Mrs. Brown will play in the band? Will they play something when tea is over?"

"Why, Tommy, Mr. and Mrs. Brown don't play in the band. Why do you ask such a question?"

"Because," said the terror, in disappointed tones, "I heard you tell papa that Mr. Brown played second fiddle to his wife."

There was music after tea and Tommy was the drum.

Civil Life's Different

A soldier who was rather fond of being importantly ill, reported sick, but the doctor could find nothing amiss with him. "You wouldn't come to me with such a complaint in civil life," he said.

"Oh, no, Mr.," the man replied; "I should need for you them."

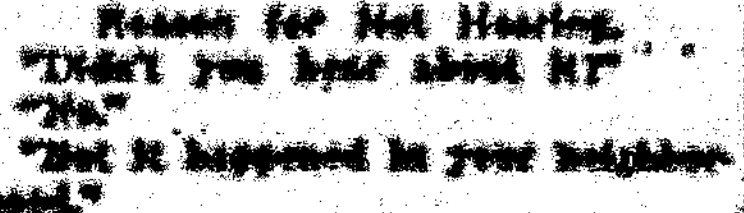

Fine Papa

Visitor—And does your husband keep faith with the children? Wife—Does he? I should say so. When he promises them a whipping, they get it.

His Luck

"Try a sample of the stuff before you buy it," teased the bootlegger. "But suppose it kills me?" "Well, it's my loss then, ain't it?"

THE GREATER CRIME

Mr. Thurston—Are you pinching me just because I put a little yeast in my household diet? The Blue Law Officer—Certainly not. I am arresting you for allowing the yeast to work on Monday.

Long-Range Work

When witnesses are traveling with you, remember, by kind by, to let them testify.

Reason for Not Hearing

"Didn't you hear about it?" "No." "But it happened in your neighborhood."

"I know—but my wife's been away."

Limited to One Volume

First Lady—I can read my husband like a book. Second Lady—Then be careful to stick to your own library, my dear.

Wanted You

"Wouldn't it be nice to meet Gerry at such a time?" "What do you mean—such a time?" "Whenever that"—Life.

All the Ticket Window

"In this seat, please, the stage!" "Yes, madam, if it were any scenery, you'd have to be in the play yourself."

"I heard you say the sea are wide, and far—the way to their secret places. It is a chance, Jean." The count seized his arm, for the lieutenant, whom Mademoiselle Lestron had now joined, was returning to them. "Come! I reimburse the gentlemen of New Orleans who were with me in the Girod venture. I give you the Seraphine—without condition."

"Without condition!" Monsieur Sazarac stared oddly at him. Then at Mademoiselle Lestron who had run to them brightly, vivaciously, as if all was arranged, as if the black-hulled schooner and its mysterious world, in an hour, had vanished in the sea. . . . and she gladdened at its passing.

"Ah, yes!" Sazarac bowed: "without condition, Monsieur de l'Almonaster!"

And he bowed again to her, and took her finger-tips and pressed them to his lips. She could not understand this fervor which had a touch of satire. For the smile in his amber eyes; his turning away while Monsieur de l'Almonaster made hurried arrangements with the American lieutenant. From now they had set the boat away to apprise the Horat, and to fetch the improvised crew which would be glad for a berth back to the Indies.

Monsieur Sazarac stood idly apart, twirling his sword knot, as if nothing else was affair of his. When Alderman Dominique made some query as to the good woman forward he shrugged. That was all.

He stroled forward to stare down at the blue dead buccaners, and did not return until the Horat's boats with a crew of strange half-bred men, and two obsequious, grating, petty officers, were at the Seraphine's side.

While the other party was descending to the small boat he still stood apart. Dominique supposed he was going, dumb hurt as the alderman was at the sight of the chance that an instant cry, "Laffite!" would ring on the Horat's quarter-deck.

Mademoiselle Lestron thought he was going, for he stood close by the ladder as she was helped away.

But he detained her suddenly at the rail.

"A moment, Mademoiselle." He exhibited to her a small bracelet. Curiously shaped, gold of three colors, and a number of pearls. . . . the gift of a queen.

Mademoiselle Lestron cried out in joyous wonder. She had never seen Marie Antoinette's bracelet since the night she saw the ruffled fellow kiss her in the emperor's cabin, when the mother and her army.

"My bracelet! Monsieur?" All a child's lovely eagerness to grasp a toy was in her face and the hand she reached for it.

Monsieur Sazarac, however, drew it back gravely: "Ah—no!"

"But—my bracelet, Monsieur! I want it!"

"That is the point. It is yours, and you cannot have it."

"Zou de l'air!" She stared at him incredulously. "Why?"

"It must be stolen. It is essential to a matter of honor."

De l'Almonaster and Dominique were in the small boat. They looked up astoundedly, and the girl sat down by them trying to keep back but gaudied tears.

There was an "ah-ha" or so wailed from the Horat's officers as the small boat as they glared off the schooner's side. Monsieur Sazarac bowed, bowed to them all with apparently the same obsequious disdain.

Mademoiselle Lestron turned to De l'Almonaster with a wild whisper. "He is not coming! He is not coming with us!"

For no sooner had Mademoiselle Lestron left the Seraphine than they saw her. She had turned and ran and ran down to the emperor's cabin. He burst into the doorway of the emperor's stateroom and found the girl's bracelet upon the lace and silver crest of the emperor's bed.

"There—robber!" he shouted, somewhat impudently. "Her bracelet—mine—taken against her will! Are you satisfied?"

The man on the bed looked at it quickly with glittering eyes above his hollow cheeks. He still had his boots on, and the imperial fudge was rather the worse for the meal and dried blood upon it. But now he sat up and Monsieur had gathered with superb authority.

"Well, then! You lost her—you will never see her again!"

"I lost her. And neither you nor I will ever see her again!" He looked at the point of the red ribbon starkly. "What, Jarvis? What, Jarvis? What should you and I do of that? You turn to Jean always—and a fine fellow, this De l'Almonaster. You and I will never see her again."

"The devil take me if I saw her at all, very clearly. Whether her eyes are brown, or merely very dark blue—and her hair. . . . No, well, she never saw me very clearly then, which is most fortunate. We will remember Jean's the one who was the greatest mystery. Sir—another peg of brandy."

"Here—scum of the sea! Your drink—plunderer of the ports!"

"Monsieur Laffite—the jester crushed back against the emperor's pillows and touched a handkerchief of elegant linen to his lips delicately—"you say I shall die before morning!"

"It is certain—as anything I know, Jarvis!"

"Jarvis!" The jester grew quite solemn: "Wait a moment, Monsieur Laffite." He straightened his body a little—"Now—bring me the cushions of old Gorgio!"

"I brought it—here," answered Monsieur Laffite obediently.

"The pistol of Bohol!"

"By your side, there—cleaned and loaded."

"The head scarf of Nix Coupe!"

"On the pillow by you. And see—the setting of Johannes!"

"Where the Scylla is the other one?" roared the Bottle Emperor lustily.

"I could not get the other one unless I cut the boat's left ear!"

"Name of erill—why don't you obey me!" He thrust out a military finger and shook it with a lordly wrath.

Monsieur Laffite murmured exculpatingly.

"Oh, well!—Can't you be satisfied! You have plundered them all! You have laid a solid shot through a good ship, killed your man on a red deck—boasted, swaggered; robbed also buccaners in a row—and looted a Jew's bag a woman!"

"Not so soon. A pot of gold, that also is essential. Fetch it at once!"

The master shrugged; then with a patient sigh, he scattered from his pockets an arc of Spanish doubloons across the silken carpet. "There, there! That is all I have to be robbed of. Now, rest, Mad Jean."

"Another thing. The name—Sazarac—it was the name she loved."

"Ferdinand!" The other man turned to the bedside: "Well, then—be Sazarac. Monsieur Sazarac was also a short. He never dared step from the shadows to her eye, more than did she."

"The head scarf of Nix Coupe!"

"On the pillow by you. And see—the setting of Johannes!"

"Where the Scylla is the other one?" roared the Bottle Emperor lustily.

"I could not get the other one unless I cut the boat's left ear!"

you. He comforted, old friend! Just out of the old days—no water you. The others have gone a little more before."

"Sazarac—" murmured the other, and the old pleasure tone came again to him: "I demand that also. . . . It is the name she will remember."

"Well, then! Name of erill! Take everything from me—strip me to my skin! But—I did not—Sazarac!"

Monsieur Laffite looked him upon his black-limbed shoulders with the rusty collar of Gorgio, the dead Gorgio. "Now, Sazarac—Sazarac!"

Monsieur Sazarac had laid back upon the emperor's pillow. He motioned to the emperor's attendant. "A peg of brandy, Monsieur Laffite."

He motioned his fingers with the dead black-limbed, and rubbed his whiskered chin. A square of blue lung above him through the open skylight, and against it the snowy breast of milk, he could hear the creak of boards and gear, the faint shout of stormmen aloft to clear, the English had at the wheel, as the sea crew of the emperor's ship set the rigging.

"See here!" exclaimed Monsieur Sazarac impudently. "The flag once pointed at my heels in the rue Oudinot—black with the white banner? You will find it insupportable when they all go east!"

"Oh! Over—Well, I understand, Monsieur, the black flag shall be at the peak!"

ROAD BUILDING

ADVOCATE MORE CASH FOR IMPROVED ROADS

Increased federal appropriations for highway aid were advocated at the convention of the American Association of State Highway Officials held at New Orleans "for the mutual profit of more than 15,000,000 American motorists and all the states," according to Charles M. Babcock, Minnesota commissioner of highways and former president of the organization.

Discussions of good roads plans, policies and progress of the association made up the major part of the program. Delegations from nearly all states in this country and from several Canadian provinces and European countries were in attendance.

"The tax on automobiles now takes five cents of every dollar paid for new automobiles, tires and accessories and three cents of the new truck purchase dollar," said Mr. Babcock. "This revenue since 1917 has totaled $390,012,021, against $264,752,210 of federal highway aid appropriations during the same period. The government is therefore using less than half the amount collected directly as taxes from highway users in the manner to give them the most direct benefits."

Besides these federal taxes, auto owners are paying county, township and city taxes, wheelage taxes, gasoline taxes and other levies on their cars.

"The most constructive policy demands increase in federal highway aid appropriations, and certainly in sums closely matching federal income from the automotive source. Any other puts our government in the position of retarding highway development, standing in the way of the car and truck owner, who would advance the good roads program along the most sound economic lines."

Highways in Ohio Cost $12,702,731 During Year

During the fiscal year ended June 30 last, Ohio spent $12,702,731 for construction and maintenance of highways, according to the annual report of State Auditor Joseph C. Tracy, part of which has been made public. He said corrections in vouchers during the year saved the state $11,412,711.

The two inspectors provided by special appropriation to make continuous inspection of construction and repair work upon the highways, traveled 28,360 miles and made 1,200 investigations during the year, the report said.

The method now in use in Ohio of awarding road contracts on competitive bids was recommended in the report, which declared the "cost-plus" system the most wasteful.

It was suggested in the report that road contractors must be permitted to make a "reasonable" profit or a loss will come when experienced contractors will not bid on jobs.

Paved Roads in Illinois Pass All Other States

According to the latest report of the state highway department, Illinois now has 2,261 miles of paved roads in service on the best known and state-aid systems. This mileage does not include pavements built by counties, cities or villages. A total of 1,911 miles of new roads were completed in 1928—a record unbroken by any state of the Union. By the end of 1928 officials estimate that the state will offer 4,000 miles of state pavements in addition to the local roads.

This record construction work practically has completed the state road system which serves both interstate and intrastate traffic. These pavements have been laid over the former trunk channels. They cover 17 of the principal cities and towns, and directly serve 80 per cent of the people living in Illinois.

Mason Says Indians Were First Good Roads' Taste

The good roads movement in the American West has its origin at least 500 years ago among the Indians of Colorado. Dr. J. Allen Mason, archeologist attached to the Field Museum here, has found.

Long before white people had any thought about the two American continents, the Indians of Colorado were walking on stone paved streets, according to Dr. Mason, reporting on his recent visit to the country.

"And at that time the road builders had some other object in view than those of today. Instead of building streets to keep their feet dry, the natives are said to have been inspired in all probability by a desire to keep off ticks, insects, locusts, which later the territory."

Benefits of Good Roads Reach Whole Community

The value of good roads is not to be limited from out of the state, but to the benefit to the state—something that it is to the people who live along that road, who use it daily to get to market, to reach the community school or to visit other communities on business or pleasure. Given a good road to market and to school, and a whole community receives the benefits from it—American Road.

Troops Under British Flag

Great Britain supports a standing army of 247,000 men and a reserve of 200,000. The authorized reserve is 400,000. She also has 17,000 troops in Egypt and 20,000 in Canada, with an available air power of 1,200,000. There are 200,000 in New Zealand and 1,000,000 in the South African peninsula. Most of these troops include trained veterans of the World war.

WESTERN PIONEER TELLS INTERESTING EXPERIENCE

Frank Rikert, Who Left Illinois for California in Covered Wagon in 1864, Wouldn't Take $100 for Bottle of Tanlac.

Frank Rikert, well-known resident of North Sacramento, Cal., who came to the state from Illinois in a covered wagon in 1864, along with other hardy pioneers, recently exhibited a bottle of Tanlac, which he had just purchased, to a friend at his home and remarked: "If I thought this was the last bottle of Tanlac I would ever be able to buy, I wouldn't take one hundred dollars for it," thus proving the high valuation

he places on the famous treatment. "I believe Tanlac really saved my life when I took it after the flu about a year ago," continued Mr. Rikert, "for the attack left me 20 pounds off in weight, and unable to turn over in my bed without assistance. I tell you, I thought my time had surely come. "But, thanks to my wife's insistence, I kept on taking Tanlac till I was able to do all my work again, had back all my lost weight, and I've been feeling years younger ever since. I'm always telling my friends about Tanlac, and can't say too much for it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 20 million bottles sold.

Meaning of Keel Hauling

Keel hauling was a form of punishment inflicted in the navies of the British empire and the Netherlands. By means of tackles usually on the foreyard arms the offender was hauled from one side of the ship to the other underneath the keel. Weights attached to the feet insured the sinking of the culprit.

So Realistic

Republican Organ Warns President to Clean Up

The Boston Transcript, which is supposed to voice the opinions of Henry Cabot Lodge, issues a warning to the Coolidge administration to either clean up, or "the tide of public confidence in the competence and cleanness of the Government at Washington will continue to ebb."

"When the party in power at Washington today, under the leadership of its titular head, the President, supported by the Republican Senators and Representatives in Congress, tackles unflinchingly and aggressively the job of cleansing the Government at Washington of corruption and incompetence, wherever it can be found, the party in power will deserve the support of the Democratic Senators and Representatives in Congress and the support of the leaders of the American press and the Nation that pretend to serve. Until the clean-up process is under way, however, in earnest and all along the line, the tide of public confidence in the competence and cleanness of the Government at Washington will continue to ebb.

"Ours is a patient people, but their patience should not be mistaken for indifference to the honor of the Nation or the integrity of its institutions. The American people are capable of great patience. They are also capable of righteous indignation. They are not disposed to respect the value of high character in high places, but the people expect of their leaders in times of crisis a character of which their wisdom and tenacity of which is being made a test."

Government by Stealth

Boodleggers may be caught, forgers may be caught, counterfeiters may be caught, and other crooks may ply their trade, with or without being caught, depending upon their luck. But the States senators may not be caught without being trailed. This pretty comes to pass has been brought to light by the senate committee investigating Daugherty and his department of justice.

Gaston Means, former Daugherty agent, testified that he personally, acting on orders, rife the office of Sen. La Follette of Wisconsin to "get something on La Follette when the latter exposed the Teapot Dome deal in the senate. Means also told how he sent agents to Arkansas to "get" stuff on Senator Caraway, who was criticizing both Felt and Daugherty in the senate.

Senator Wheeler told how friends had advised him that the Department of Justice had at least five agents in his home state, Montana, trying to "get" stuff on Wheeler. Senator Borah, chairman of the committee, had similar reports from his friends of department of justice agents receiving in Iowa, trying to "get" stuff on him.

Means added that his efforts to "get" something on La Follette had failed. As yet the other "getters" seemed to have

Wm. Kahler, Sr., Dies

William Kahler, Sr., died this afternoon at 2:30. The funeral will be from the home tomorrow afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. A more extended notice will be given next week.

But that is beside the point. The charge, as it stands, is that Daugherty and Burns are using the secret agents of the Department of Justice to embarrass senators who seek to expose crookedness in government.

All of which illustrates graphically the handicap under which the senate investigation works, with Daugherty and Burns on the job. Daugherty is entitled to a fair hearing, so is Burns. But their hearings will be just as fair if they are suspended pending the investigation, and the public's interest will be far more easily served.

Speaking of "putting the red flag on the 'White House'" if there is any one thing that has been the unfailing symptom of despotism—whether autocratic bureaucratic—it has been a body of secret police agents.

It is the opposite of liberty, democracy and decency.—State Tribune.

"Hysteria" It Is Called

An outlooker at Washington deals with the so-called "hysteria" said to be prevalent in the National Capitol, in the following terse manner:

"While the testimony of the Teapot Dome oil investigation continues to clarify previous testimony and to reveal new instances of the astoundingly incompetence and looting in connection therewith, the most deplorable condition of the whole affair is the attitude of Republican spokesmen and the Republican press of reactionary brands toward the numerous investigations into administration scandals, which are characterized as 'hysteria.' To bring to light the sordid and damning facts of the looting of the naval oil reserves, to reveal facts in connection with the manner in which Attorney General Daugherty has administered, or failed to administer, the Department of Justice, to delve into the operations of the Shipping Board under the notorious administration of Lusk, to seek to know the facts concerning refunds and other activities in the Income Tax Unit Bureau, to expose the track figures of Secretary Mellon on deficits and surpluses or to make known any of the many devious methods of the Republican administration is now characterized by the detractors of the administration as 'hysteria.'"

"The only persons under this definition, who are not hysterical are President Coolidge, who is 'gritted' Secretary Daugherty's resignation and who allies to Daugherty like a sinking man to a straw; John T. Adams, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, who is trying to rally the Old Guard at today's Waterloo; Henry Cabot Lodge, who is accused that anyone should know that the President of the United States was in telegraphic correspondence with Edward B. McLean in connection with District of Columbia politics—the same Lodge who was once obliged to confess that he had reported publicly a mean lie about President Wilson which a stranger had told him on a railroad train; Charles M. Schwab, who insists that 'hysteria' will interfere with the prosperity of the steel business and the necessary pick of spokesmen and writers.

"Only the people are 'hysterical' but they are 'hysterical' about the necessity of reestablishing good government at the National Capitol.

"In the opinion of observers here the 'hysteria' will become 'paranoia' and conflict with the 'hysteria' of the 'hysterical' of the early part of November

Washington News Letter

By Wallace Bassford (Special Correspondent)

Washington, March 15

Congress has been in session three and a half months and not a single bill has reached the President for his signature. Last December, when Congress met for the long session, President Coolidge delivered a message in which he listed about fifty different pieces of legislation which he deemed necessary or expedient. There was no evidence that he is among those who begin to feel that the country is law-ridden, for, like Oliver Twist, he called for more. Not one of the many laws asked for has been passed, and at the present rate of speed, when Congress adjourns in mid-summer or early fall, only two or three of the President's suggestions will have been acted upon. Among the important things he asked Congress for are the following:

Tax reduction, entry into the World Court, reorganization of the foreign service, abolition of tax-exempt securities, opening of intracoastal waterways, strengthening of the Coast Guard against rum runners, a commission on negro migration, classification of postmasters, placing of prohibition agents under civil service, legislation for more government buildings in Washington, international action against oil pollution of coast waters, laws controlling aviation, regulation of radio interference, providing of safe load-lines for vessels, recording of navigation laws, revision of procedure before the Federal Trade Commission, regulation of Alaskan fisheries, strengthening of Army and Navy personnel, more airplanes for the Army, more submarines for the Navy, legislation limiting child labor, minimum wage law for women in Federal jurisdictions, creation of Department of Education and Welfare, immigration restriction and regulation of aliens, legislation to open veterans' hospitals to all veterans of our wars, authorization to appoint commission to deal with coal situations arising, reorganization of Government Departments, federal aid for farm exports, the leasing of Muscle Shoals, relief for persons on government reclamation projects, legislation for highways and forests, super power development in northeastern states, revision of railroad labor board rules, legislation on railroad rate fixing after the supreme court acts on the recapture clauses of the Transportation Act, reconstruction of railroad rate laws, legislation for railroad consolidation, revision of the existing laws of the United States, law allowing simplification of rules of the supreme court concerning review by that body, employment in Federal prisons, providing new Federal reformatories, creating a division of identification of criminals in the Department of Justice.

Of course, it would be possible for the President to do quite a bit of associating of Congress for this do-nothing performance, but the President would be jumping outside of his own party, something little calculated to improve either his own chances of securing the re-election or the hope of securing any of the legislation asked. The fact is that the Republican majority in the two houses is a majority in name only; it lacks cohesion, able leadership and pep. This latter quality is well-nigh destroyed by what seems the certainty of disaster ahead.

There is to be a determined drive in Congress to pass the Wage-Hour bill for the increase of pay of the 30,000 postal employees who give the country a magnificent service. Fragments of all of the Democratic Congress are supporting this legislation, together with some of the Republicans, though his willingness that President Coolidge would oppose it. His statement that he would oppose any increase in postal wages was aimed at this particular bill.

The senatorial investigating committee is getting off to a good start on the Daugherty case, developing the case and bringing new matters to light at each session. The retirement of Senator Lenroot from the Teapot Dome investigation will make no difference whatever in the conduct of the work, as he took little part in the proceedings. Senator Wheeler will be so much occupied for some weeks with the Daugherty case that it will delay the beginning of the fur seal inquiry, which Wheeler is to conduct.

The Veterans' Bureau matter is at last getting under way at Chicago. Incidentally this has brought in the name of Representative Zihlman, of Maryland, who demands, after a frank statement, a complete investigation. The general feeling in official circles of Washington is that Zihlman will be able to show a perfectly clean bill of health. The finger of suspicion often points at an innocent man, and the belief is that this is one of those cases. Under existing conditions it is well to keep the vision clear. The innocent are still in the vast majority, the country is the greatest the world has ever seen. All that is needed is a cleaning out of some dirty corners, and there remains little doubt that the elections in November will attend to that.

The government's fur seal catch will not be offered for sale in St. Louis this spring, but on March 24 about 20,000 skins will be put up for sale in New York. When offered in St. Louis last October the bids were so poor that the Government withdrew them, as it could not come out whole after paying the heavy rates for tanning and dyeing under the contract between the Department of Commerce and the Foulks Fur Company. Back in 1910, before this contract was gotten up, the Government realized $26 per skin profit; in 1922, under the contract, it received $416 profit, though furs have greatly risen in value. In 1923 the bids would have allowed no profit at all, but a loss. This is progress, but in the wrong direction.

Dated this 16th day of March, 1924.

Normal University Summer School for 1924 will be as large as ever according to present indications. The school will be able to take care of all comers. This has been made possible by the pledging of $1600 by the San Miguel County Chamber of Commerce to pay for extra faculty, in addition to the regular staff.

Most of the present winter school faculty will remain as instructors for the summer. In addition a number of the most progressive school men and women of the state have been employed. Among these are five city superintendents: Dr. E. E. Cole of Carrizozo, Alma Givens of Artesia, Raymond Huff of Clayton, Walter B. McFarland of East Las Vegas, and Cameron Bazzill of Roy. Three high school principals have been employed: Charles Redick of Gallup, W. L. Trimble of Raton and F. P. McCall of East Las Vegas. Miss Lillian Cavet, formerly successful here in dramatic directing, will return after a post graduate study at the University of Arizona. Miss Ida G. Nolds will come back from California after a successful year there. The commercial department, under Miss Helson, will have an able assistant in Mr. R. F. Estes, instructor in commercial subjects in the Raton high school.

During the absence of Miss Louise Jaramilla the department of music will be in charge of Miss Myrtle Inches, who is at present director of public school music for the city of San Antonio. Miss Inches is the sister of Miss Jeanette Inches, professor of Latin.

An extra half term series of courses is being offered beginning April 11th for teachers whose schools close early. Enrollment at this time will enable many teachers in counties where school terms have been cut short, to make more than the usual summer credit toward their degrees.

Woman's Club

The Woman's Club had a most interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. Ziegler Monday night. The husbands of the club members were invited guests, and enjoyed the program very much. At the conclusion of the program, which had much to do with Ireland's patron saint, a delightful luncheon was served. The guests finally wended their way to their respective homes before the tolling of the midnight bell.

Cramping Spells

"FOR MORE THAN A YEAR I had been in a very bad condition," says Mrs. R. E. Kimbrell, of Route 1, Dorchester, Texas. "I suffered with cramping spells which gave me bad pains in my back and sides. Sometimes I would have to catch at something, I would get so suddenly dizzy. I had to quit doing my work. I tried many remedies, but none of them seemed to do me any good."

"In April I went up to Arkansas to visit my sister. . . She said to me, 'Well, if you are going to take anything, take Cardui. It will really help you.' I came home and told my doctor what she had said and he said I could not take any better tonic, so my husband immediately got me a bottle and I began to . . . My case was a pretty tough one, I hear, so I kept on faithfully. After the fourth bottle, I began to feel very much better, so much so that I was surprised at myself. I have taken six bottles now and I can truly say I feel like a different woman. . . I feel free and I owe it all to Cardui, which I took faithfully."

Summer Training Camp
 Fort Huachuca

From San Houston's Texas—(Special)—A detachment troop of Cavalry and one company of Infantry from the Regular Army will be detailed to the Citizens' Military Training Camp to be held in August at Fort Huachuca, Arizona. These units will be full strength and picked from the finest troops in the Eighth Corps Area.

The Cavalry troop will have the finest horses the Army has and students will have the use of these mounts. The Infantry company will specialize in snappy close order drill and will have on its roster several crack shots.

Everything is being made ready for 450 students at Fort Huachuca this summer and every convenience and accommodation will be given by the government free of expense to the boys.

It will be advisable for young men intending to apply to send in their applications as soon as possible to the C. M. T. C. officer, Fort San Houston, Texas.

Seventy-nine applications have already been approved for the camp at Huachuca and it is noticed that among the applicants are several athletes from the schools and colleges of New Mexico and Arizona.

Bible Thoughts for the Week

Sunday.
FINDING THE RIGHT WAY.—Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near: let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him, and to see God, for he will abundantly pardon.—Ps. 34: 6, 7.

Monday.
WHOM SHALL I FEAR?—The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life: of whom shall I be afraid?—Ps. 27: 1.

Tuesday.
NOTHING BUT GOOD.—And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to his purpose.—Rom. 8: 28.

Wednesday.
GREAT AND FANCY PROMISES.—Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust.—II Pet. 1: 4.

Thursday.
GRATUIT IN THE KINGDOM.—Whoever therefore shall humbly himself as low as the dust, the same he shall exalt in the kingdom of heaven.—Matt. 23: 12.

Friday.
INFLUENCE AND TRIALS.—When thou hast passed through the waters, I will be with thee, and through the rivers they shall not overflow thee: when thou walkest through the fire thou shalt not be burned, neither shall the heat kindle upon thee.—Isa. 43: 2.

Saturday.
PRAY FOR REVIVAL.—O Lord, revive thy work in the midst of the years, in the midst of the days: make known thy wrath against the heathen.—Hab. 3: 2.

HOW NOT TO MIND CHILDREN

Self-Control and Quick Wits Needed on the Part of Parents.

It takes self-control for a mother who is tired and overstrained to stop and think how she should address herself to a young miscreant who has just tipped over the tablecloth on a clean tablecloth, says Elizabeth Irwin. "I told you that would happen," snaps out most justifiably. On the other hand, it doesn't prevent "reaching" at the next meal nearly so effectively as a little sympathy and kind feeling which any sensitive child knows she does not deserve.

It somehow makes her aware that it's her accident, however. She can't possibly feel inside, "I'm glad I spilled your old tablecloth"—but rather she reflects, "I was clumsy. I must remember not to reach so far."

With youngsters under six, games and rhymes and little impersonations will go further to make a child accept the irksome routine of washing and buttoning and going and coming than almost anything else. These can be improvised to meet all emergencies by a quick-witted mother, and the afternoon's same little stories and rhymes are repeated the mere welcome they become.

In adolescence almost all youngsters are deeply interested in "reforming their characters." They will listen respectfully to long discourses on their "faults," bad manners, careless habits, anything you want them to improve, if you will only take them seriously. They will turn over a new leaf every morning and forget it again, of course, but that is youth, and we are all jealous of it. Its beauty, carefree, rollicking good times are hard to look upon without envy. We are therefore prone to dwell upon its weakness, its shallowness, its thoughtlessness and its sloppiness.—Dorcas Magazine.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Daugherty's Resignation Is Expected, Following New Corruption Charges.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

IF HARRY DAUGHERTY is still attorney general of the United States when this reaches the reader the expert prognosticators in Washington are badly at fault. Last Thursday they predicted his resignation from the cabinet would be in the hands of the President by the end of the week, and that it would take effect on Monday, the day when Secretary of the Navy Denby was to step out of office. Mr. Daugherty went to Florida for a stay of two weeks, but was summoned back to Washington, arriving Friday. Already the President had changed his mind about asking the attorney general to resign, according to reports, and was considering his success. These said to have been approached included Senator Borah of Idaho, Judge William H. Kenyon of the Federal Court of Appeals, Federal Judge Frank R. Dyer of Idaho and Curtis D. Wilbur, a Supreme court judge of California. President Coolidge's change of mind presumably was brought about partly by the sensational revelations of official corruption in Chicago that indicted Charles K. Forbes, former director of the Veterans' Bureau. There were not related to the Forbes case, as the information was carried to Washington by a special prosecutor. Some of it seriously involves the Department of Justice, relating to procurement of pardons for federal prisoners. This is only a part of the matters that will be investigated by the senate committee named to handle the charges against Daugherty. The committee is made up of Senators Brewster of Iowa, chairman; Moses of New Hampshire, James of Washington, Ashurst of Arizona and Wheeler of Montana.

Post: "Ray principal. Delivered message. He says greatly appreciates and sends regards to you and Mrs. McLean. There will be no rocking of boat and no resignations. He expects reaction from unwarranted political attacks."

Senator Hoffman of Alabama read this to the senate and ventured the opinion that "principal" meant President Coolidge. He therefore asked that the committee call on Mr. Bennett to explain just what the message meant and who it was that he saw. Senator Caraway also talked about that message and told the senate: "I'd like the President to say whether or not he entered into communication with McLean in Florida. One hundred million people would like to know." Some of his allusions to Mr. Coolidge were indignantly and in wretched Latin.

Caraway's question was answered Thursday when two telegrams from President Coolidge to McLean were read to the committee. They seemed innocuous and Mr. Coolidge explained in a statement that the first related to the district commissionership and the second was in regard to a message from McLean congratulating the President on his statement concerning the demand for Denby's resignation.

The President nominated Bennett Knight of San Francisco as special counsel to take charge of the government's suit to oust the Standard Oil company from naval reserves No. 1 in California. Senator Walsh told the senate committee that he had learned Mr. Knight had acted as attorney for the Republic Trust company of California, a Rockefeller institution, and indicated that for this reason he would oppose his nomination.

REPRESENTATIVE LOWMYER'S compromise tax bill setting the maximum tariff rate at 27 1/2 per cent was in the house, the important Republicans falling into line. But what the senate will do with the measure is a question. President Coolidge let it be known that he still favors the Mellon bill and it is believed the senate finance committee might be persuaded to report it as a substitute for the measure passed by the house. But Senators Watson and Moses have informed the President that the 26 per cent tariff would not be approved on the floor of the senate and that the senate probably would be limited to 27 1/2 per cent, or perhaps as high as 30 per cent.

SENATOR BEHAM JOHNSON issued a statement early in the week to the effect that the Coolidge campaign managers knew they were beaten in all direct primary states where the voters have a free vote in the selection of delegates and that, consequently, they were resorting to proxy rights to elect the Johnson contingent. On Tuesday the Republicans of Iowa met in convention, chose their delegates to the national convention and instructed them for Coolidge. On Wednesday the Republicans held conventions of Minnesota were also instructed to support Coolidge and in a majority of North Carolina and in a majority of the states, meeting in virtually certain that the election at Cleveland will be instructed for him. The lack of opposition to Coolidge from radical sources in these two states and the withdrawal of La Follette from the primary campaign in North Carolina states, were looked upon by some politicians as indications of the probable formation of a third party. La Follette's refusal to be a candidate for the Republican nomination in due to his feeling that his present duty lies in the senate, and also to his certainty that in the Cleveland convention "the steam-roller will be operated by the same forces that controlled it in 1912 and other years."

Mr. McAtee replied to Senator Reed's attack on him with a letter in which he severely denounced the senator, setting forth the Missouri's rather unenviable political record and asserting that Reed had resorted to "the most glaring disregard for the truth" because McAtee would not stay out of the Missouri primary contest.

FIFTY-EIGHT members of the house of representatives—35 Democrats, 22 Republicans and 1 Socialist (Bauer)—have called in an effort to have the Volstead law so amended as to permit the manufacture and sale of beer, wine and cider containing not to exceed 2 1/8 per cent alcohol. They introduced a bill to that effect.

ARCHBISHOP PATRICK J. HAYES of New York and George W. Madden of Chicago called for news on Saturday, having been summoned suddenly to the Vatican, and it was announced that they would be elevated to the cardinalate at a consistory to be held March 24. They will be the first native-born Americans to hold such high offices in the Roman Catholic church.

THE People's Independence movement, which has been active in Washington for some time, was dealt a new blow last week by a letter from President Coolidge to Manuel Hanna, head of the group of strikers. The President ordered every strike of the country and declared that he did not think the strikers were ready for independence. He based his opinion on the danger to the Empire of economic or political disorder, perhaps even amounting to anarchy, in event of withdrawal of American support and protection; on the hostility of the British people to the movement; and on the lack of political capacity necessary to the full responsibility of maintaining itself in the family of nations.

The President ordered the resignation of General Wood was withdrawn and that the governor general was "a hard-working, painstaking and conscientious administrator."

ALL who deserted from the army or navy between November 11, 1918, and the formal ending of the world war have been granted amnesty and restoration of citizenship by the President, who followed the advice of Secretaries Weeks and Denby in the matter. This does not include Greer Cleveland Berghel.

ACCEPTING the statement of the German government that practically all the treaty requirements concerning disarmament and demobilization have been carried out, the chief counsel of ambassadors has declared that Allied military control of Germany shall be abandoned and a modified system of supervision of German armaments substituted. This is in accordance with the suggestion of Prime Minister MacDonald.

MARCH 10 is now given as the date for the submission of the Report of the Hoover committee of experts. It is said the committee will propose that Germany be allowed to distribute of materials for reparation, but that it will not be asked to make any cash payments for five years. Of course it would have to pay the German indemnities for the materials delivered to the allies.

SAN JOSE, the capital of Costa Rica, was last destroyed by the severest earthquake that country has had in 50 years. The American legation was badly damaged, but the building and its family escaped injury.

THE Turkish national assembly has established the caliphate and deposed the sultan, Sultan Mehmed VI, who left Constantinople for Baghdad. For the present the government should be without a strong back.

New Mexico State Items

The Calumet, New Mexico Mining Company, of Pinos Altos, shipped a car of fine ore to the smelter in El Paso last week which it is believed will run over $100 to the ton. The ore is said to carry some good gold values.

The gasoline plant, at Asteo, which has been promoted by Gallup men, has been disposed of to parties from California who will invest $50,000 in the proposition. Plans are now under way to make the plant one of the largest of the kind in the west.

Plans are progressing rapidly for the opening of the Fort Sumner bank and most of the residents of the vicinity are backing the officers strong. As soon as the bank is opened it is believed that at least fifty per cent of the deposits will be available.

The annual convention of the New Mexico Cattle and Horse Growers' Association will be held at the Francisco hotel in Albuquerque, March 20. The fourth meeting of the executive committee will be held at the hotel on the afternoon of the 24th and all other committees will be in session during the evening before the convention.

After some one had tipped the sheriff's office off over the telephone that five yegmen were in Albuquerque, safe blowers broke into the offices of three oil companies and blew open the safe in two of the places. They only obtained about $50 in cash. The places entered were the Home Oil and Supply Company, the Texas Oil Company and the Sinclair Oil Company. Kefauers were blown at the two latter offices.

The Yeldeck well, on section 31, about twenty-five miles north of Farmington, struck gas the first of the week at the depth of 1,840 feet and the flow is estimated at nearly two million feet. The gas was discovered when the hole was removed from the hole and a hissing sound was heard by the drillers. All fires were extinguished at once, but owing to the sand and water in the hole it is impossible to measure the flow. The well is in white shale and the gas will be cased off and the hole made deeper as it is believed that all underneath is forcing up the gas and that a commercial well may be developed.

Archbishop of New York and Chicago are to be held in the city at the time of the big show. Representatives of the National Geographic Society and the National Park Survey, who have been in the city, report that the area near Catalina when opened, will be the greatest national wonder in the United States. Announcement has been made by Stephen T. Merrill, of the National park service, that the area will be closed part of the summer during the construction of the National Geographic Society, until the survey is fully completed. Men in charge of the survey work believe that in the next few years travel to the area will exceed that in the Grand Canyon, Niagara Falls or the Yellowstone National Park.

The Republics of New Mexico started a big drive for funds for the various activities of the state, March 10. This is the second annual drive of the church in the state. Dr. J. H. Crocker, of New Orleans, formerly a missionary in Mexico is assisting in the work.

The Hutchinsons down in northwestern New Mexico, has plied an encouraging amount of oil to its power test well that is being drilled by the Petroleum and Minerals Corporation for the Santa Fe Oil Company. This is one of the wells upon which hopes were rekindled by the government for the benefit of the Navajo Indians on Oct. 10. It contains 4,000 acres and brought 11,000. It is from twelve to fourteen miles west by a little north from the nearest Indian Agency's producing wells on the Hughes tract. The Hutchinsons discovery was made at a depth of 260 feet and also almost no production of the oil-bearing sand the oil ran 100 feet in the ten-inch casing. Sample test 91.2 degrees, being almost pure gasoline, and may be used in work and automobile engines without refining.

The construction force of government was delayed at a special election held in Lincoln. However will continue to be "run" by a major led council.

The annual convention of the New Mexico F. A. was held at Albuquerque, Thursday and Friday, March 10 and 11, at the Chamber of Commerce.

Currency and checks to the amount of $500 or $600 were stolen when the safe of the United States National Bank of Santa Fe, N. M., was broken by thieves.

Here and There London has 60 electric light and power companies competing for the business of the largest city in the world. Chicago, with less population than London, has massed production and one company in the former city generates and sells twice as much electricity as London's 60 companies. Chicago's per capita consumption is six times that of London, and the price of current in Chicago is only a trifle more than half of the cost of London's electricity.

Your doctor advises internal cleanliness

HE will tell you that the first results of constipation, headache, dizziness, sleepless nights, listlessness, backache, etc.—warn that the body is flooded with internal poisons. In time these poisons may cause the breakdown of health and lead to serious illness. In constipation, the internal poisons, the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the greatest diseases of life.

Hence, doctors urge internal cleanliness, regular and thorough removal of food waste from the body. Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favor Laxation Mankind knows through knowledge of the internal mechanism of the body, the cause of constipation. The gentle laxative, Nujol, penetrates and softens the bowels, and thus breaks its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Notwithstanding the fact that Nujol is so effective in promoting internal cleanliness, it is not a medicine or laxative and cannot give. Like pure water it is harmless. Get rid of constipation and avoid illness by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol regularly to your breakfast table or work your bowels. For sale by all druggists.

U. S. CROPS IN YEAR 1923

WORTH TWELVE BILLIONS

Washington.—Crops, animals raised and live stock products of American farms were valued at $12,201,000,000 last year, the Department of Agriculture announced here in a preliminary statement. This was $600,000,000 more than in 1922. The total includes $6,000,000,000 for crops, $4,500,000,000 for animals raised, and $1,700,000,000 for live stock products.

Value of the various crops was: Cereals, $3,780,000,000; cotton lint and seed, $1,700,000,000; hay and forage, $1,400,000,000; vegetables, $1,000,000,000; fruit and nut products, $800,000,000; farm forest products, $600,000,000; tobacco, $200,000,000; leather, $150,000,000; sugar and syrup crops, $120,000,000; seeds for planting, clover, etc., $80,000,000; flax, fiber and seed, $60,000,000; and other crops, $120,000,000.

The district of wheat growers is strikingly shown, the department said, by the 1923 total value estimate of $2,800,000,000, compared with $2,000,000,000 in 1922 and with $1,800,000,000 in 1921.

Value of live stock products was: Animals raised, $4,500,000,000; dairy products, $2,500,000,000; poultry products, $1,500,000,000; wool, $600,000,000; bee products, $100,000,000; and other animal products, $80,000,000.

"No Kind to Admit Work," April 8
 Manila.—President Coolidge's approval of general observance of "No Kind to Admit Work," beginning April 8, is expressed in a letter received here by Dr. Francis W. Rowley, president of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the American Humane Association Society. The letter says: "I am glad to learn that the observance of this week is becoming more and more an affair of national interest and concern. The cause is one which thoroughly deserves all of the consideration that can possibly be given it, and I hope that this year's will be the most widespread and general observance that has yet been held."

Bill to Prevent Excessive Immigration

CHAIRMAN JOHNSON of the immigration committee has filed a report on the proposed immigration measure signed by 14 committee members. Disappointing views will be presented by three other members.

Johnson said that the present 2 per cent law, based on the 1910 census, expires June 30 next, the report declared there was "immediate and urgent need for enactment of immigration legislation."

"The committee is advised," the report continued, "that the number of aliens desiring to enter the United States is very large. It is reasonable to assume that, despite unfavorable exchange rates, high steamship tariffs, and other outward factors, an immigration of between 2,000,000 and 2,500,000 would have entered the United States during each of the last two years if the 2 per cent law had not barred the way.

"If the 2 per cent law is permitted to expire, and no other legislation is enacted, the movement in our shores of the largest migration of people in the history of the world may be expected to begin July 1, 1924. The restriction clause of the act of February 3, 1917, will be operative in sixty days.

Annual Naval Bill Shows Big Increase

THE annual naval bill carrying $171,242,000, of which $90,000,000 would be available for completing more than 400 ships of various types now under construction, has been reported by the house appropriations committee. The total is $1,100,000,000 less than budget estimates and $100,000,000 less than the amount authorized by congress a year ago.

The bill provides $171,242,000 for pay, except to keep the navy of its present strength of 33,000 officers and 95,000 enlisted men. Provision also is made for 1,000 officers and 25,000 enlisted men in the marine corps—the present strength.

For aviation the bill carries $14,000,000, or $2,774,000 less than last year's appropriation. The committee explained that it had reduced $11,226,000 from the budget authorized for aviation on account of a development program recommended by Fleet Admiral Clegg and Capt. Sigsbee, Coast Guard, which have not been adopted by law.

Commenting on the proposed 20 per cent increase of the navy's strength, the report said actual expenses over normal operating costs would approximate $150,000,000 and that three most of this amount would be met with current appropriations. The committee had not seen fit to interfere in any way with plans for the expenditure.

As to new ship construction, the committee said it was without power to authorize expenditures for vessels not yet authorized by congress. It cited information that the Navy Department is committed to a program for building types permissible under the arms conference treaty which, under way, would involve expenditure of approximately $200,000,000 for the next two years.

The committee declined to accept a budget recommendation that $1,100,000,000 be appropriated to continue the construction of three fleet submarines authorized in 1915, declaring the value of this type of craft had not yet been proved.

With a view of cutting down the officer strength of the navy, the committee recommended the appointments to the Annapolis Naval Academy be reduced at a fixed base, bringing the graduating class down to 350 in 1926.

McFadden Sponsors New Banking Bill

A BILL designed to strengthen the national banking system is proposed by Representative McFadden of Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee on banking and currency. The purpose of the measure is to let the banks and other financial institutions which national banks are now compelled to operate. The McFadden bill proposes to amend both the national bank act and the federal reserve act in several important particulars.

One of the most important features of the bill would permit national banks to engage in branch banking within their home states, thus giving them the same right in their own states as they have in other states. It also provides that there shall be no higher ceiling of state bank branch banking by any member of the federal reserve system.

National banks in particular situations would be affected by a provision permitting all national institutions to engage in branch banking within their home states. The bill also would permit national banks to engage in branch banking in other states and out of the country.

The bill also would permit national banks to engage in branch banking in other states and out of the country.

Winsome Features in New Garments

To dwell on the frivolities of the mode this season, to follow the intricacies of its minor features, is to enter a labyrinth artful in its devices and bright with colorful fabrics. Apparently simple, says a fashion writer in the New York Herald, every frock or coat has some clever feature all its own. The fabrics are unusual and there are more with strange weaves and textures than have been seen for several spring openings. In the strict sense of the word, neither fabrics nor frocks can be described as simple, when one considers the amazing care and ingenuity that have gone into their makeup.

Frivolous, some of those touches and additions to the new-chaunce-frock may seem and the fabrics may appear not too extraordinary, stopping this side of the extreme, but in comes the art that is genius. There will be found in the new collections very few dresses which are not wearable and very few fabrics which are not practical. Amusing and entertaining without being inconsequential is the demand made of the designers and the order has been filled satisfactorily.

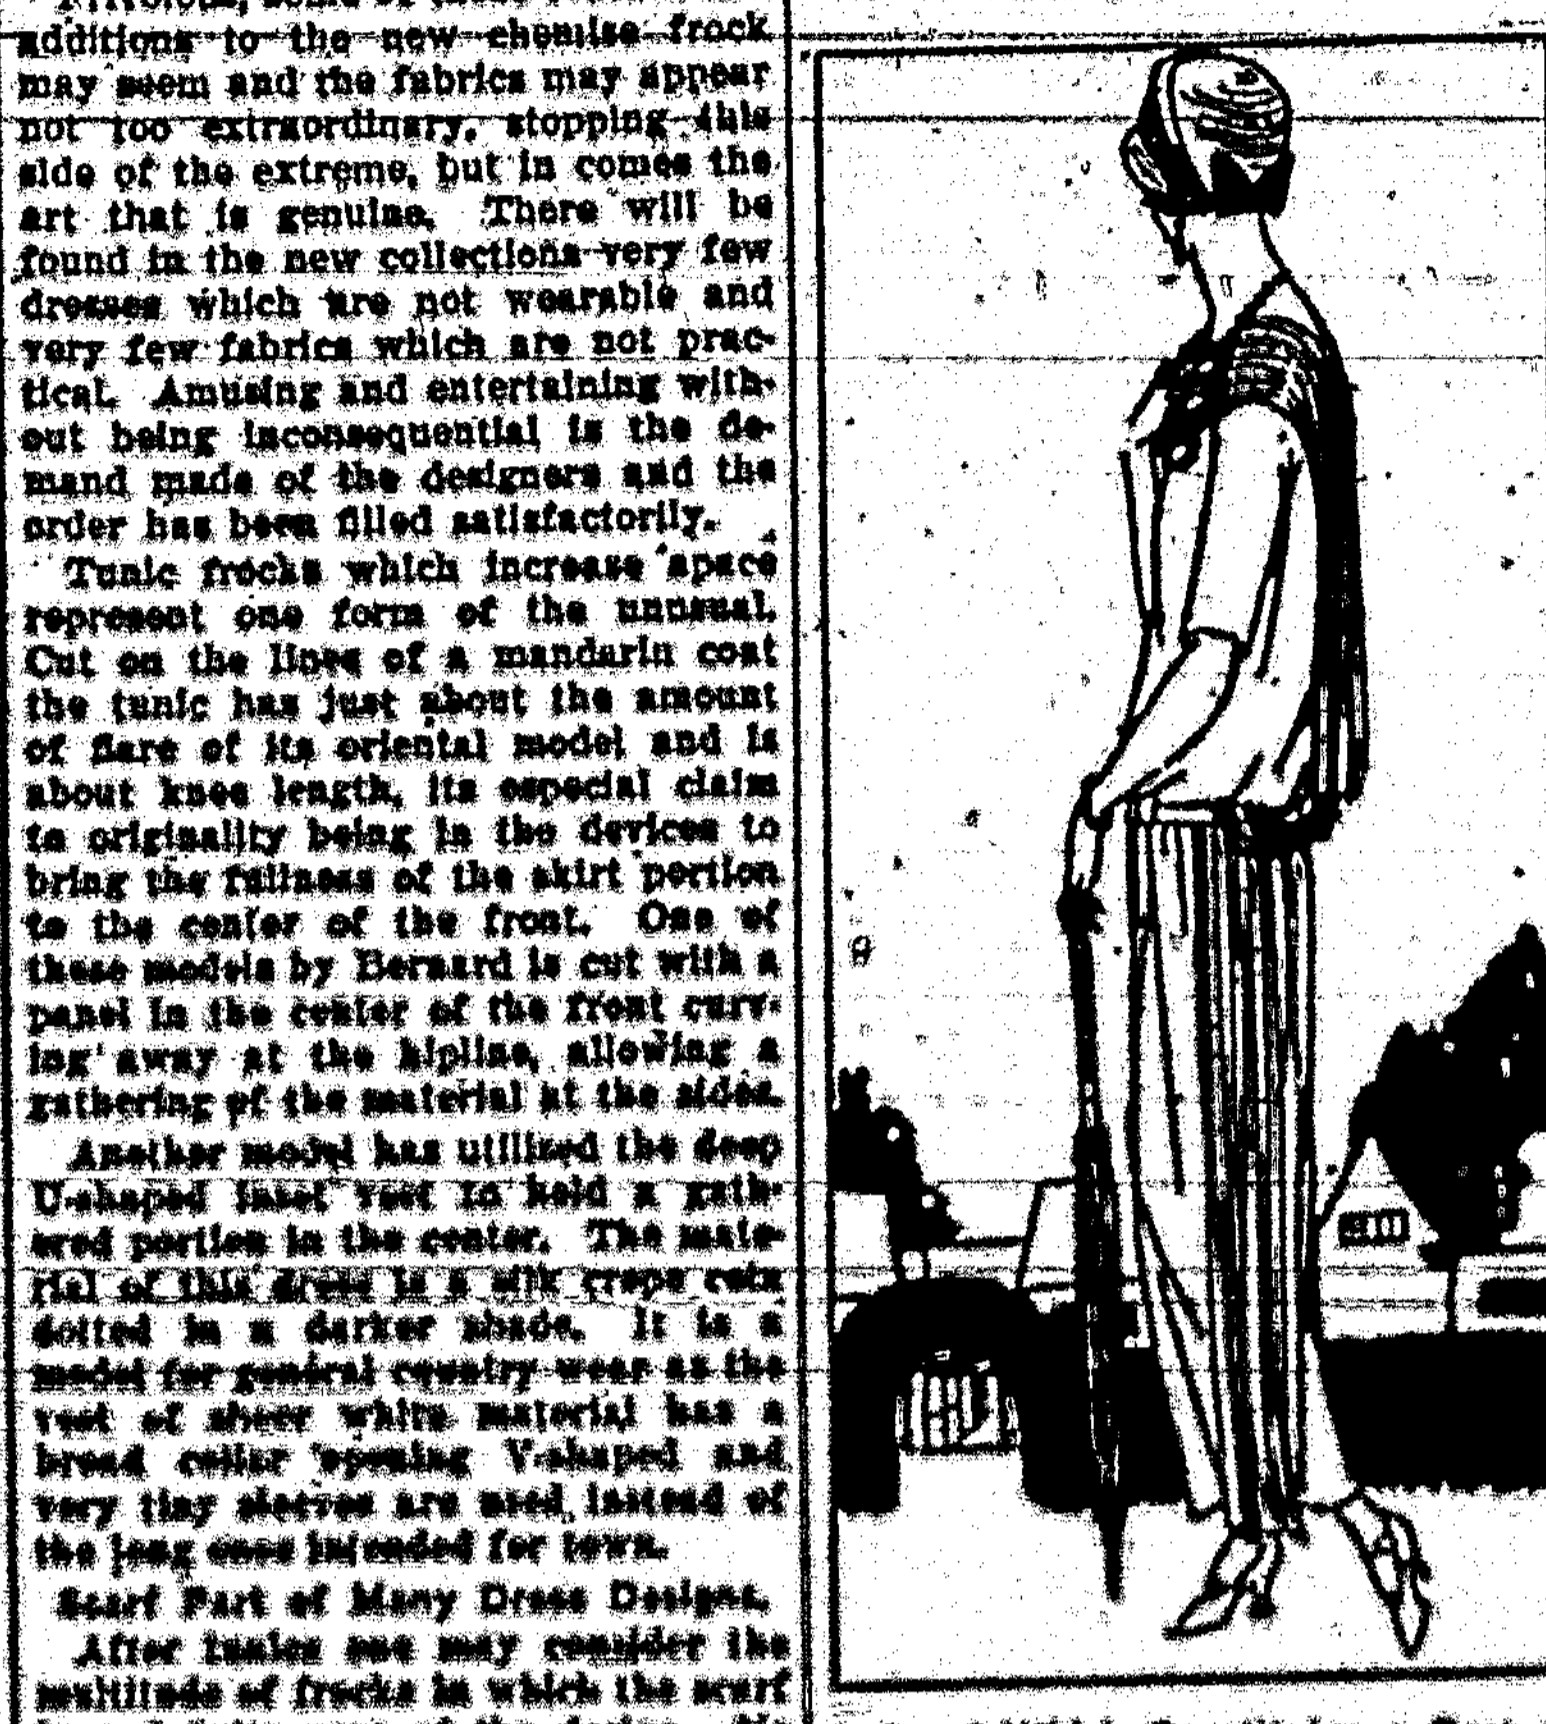

Tunic frocks which increase space represent one form of the unusual. Cut on the lines of a mandarin coat the tunic has just about the amount of flare of its original model and is about knee length, its special claim to originality being in the device to bring the fullness of the skirt portion to the center of the front. One of these models by Bernard is cut with a panel in the center of the front curving away at the hips, allowing a gathering of the material at the sides.

Another model has utilized the deep U-shaped skirt to hold a gathered portion in the center. The material of this skirt is a silk crepe color dotted in a darker shade. It is a model for general country wear as the vest of sheer white material has a broad collar opening V-shaped and very thin sleeves are used, instead of the long ones intended for town.

Skirt Part of Many Dress Designs.

After ladies see may consider the multitude of frocks in which the skirt is a definite part of the design. No rule prevails as to where the skirt shall be tied or worn. Tied in the middle of the back in just as smart as any other place, but no newer than the trick of tying it at the side and allowing one end to hang front and another back. In the creating the skirt is revived also, this time in its old form, just a strip of tulle wound around the throat and flaring to the hem of the gown.

A tunic dress of silk crepe voile has a skirt matching the plaited skirt showing below. It is tied at the side is so arranged that it falls only at the front. Jersey accompaniment very much the same silhouette with the use of plaited material falls below the pockets on a black top black dress.

An intricate dress has the peplum silhouette at the sides. Two circular sections starting at peplum turn back on themselves, forming a jibbit plait each side of the front of the skirt. This is a feature of the new skirts favored by many of the best designers and frequently seen.

Black adorned is a trait of red and blue champagne alpaca. It has plaited skirts that fall into the sides of plain blue which give it the peplum effect. A narrow stand-up collar, Ombre in cut, is of the plain blue and cuts off about the same width as the side of the plain material.

Silk and Wool for Gown.

Afternoon frocks as well as those for morning had a touch of fluffiness in the new silk and wool fabrics. The character lines are usually reserved for use in the evening, as are the metal lines, while vegetable silk is being discussed wherever fashions are a subject of interest. What the final verdict regarding this vegetable will be remains to be seen. It is to be called by its trade name so that one shall recognize it correctly, whether one uses it or not. Such mention happens, a vegetable silk showing one holds silk and the other peplum and tulle, was featured in one of the smart collections in Paris.

Artistic figures as to the amount of silk actually produced by the silkworm and the amount consumed as silk converts one that all is not silk (last statement).

Of course much of the material will be used in the winter which take the place of limited silk flow and are to be used, now that they have perfected the process, much more practical for ladies' dresses and costumes than the pure silk, as the substitute is lighter and keeps its shape better. A weave with a slightly rough or knobby effect to the silk or mixed with the real silk is especially attractive in shades which have an unusually good combination of bright but soft colors.

Printed Silks Are Attractive.

Printed silks are really interesting in the variety of pattern and choice of color. Some designs for sports and frocks for morning wear are so fine that the eye sees it at a slight distance as one less, but others are so large and so widely spaced that the design appears at a few large dots of color on the dress.

For evening a gold lace, which is to say a woven design, makes one think of a Chinese evening landscape, that is, if one has imaginative enough. Lace of gold which look like clouds have been found mixed also of gold showing about and a heavy border copies that seen on the bottom of Chinese coats, some circles and waves with only a narrow lace border.

Laces used for evening gowns are colorless in weave and not at all like the lace of last season, unless they may be regarded as progressions from the latter.

BEFORE BABIES WERE BORN

Mrs. Oswald Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Greenville, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my last two babies came. It keeps me in perfect health and I am on my feet doing all my household work until an hour before the baby is born. A friend told me to take it and I have used ten bottles since I heard about it. I recommend the Vegetable Compound whenever I can. Just yesterday a friend was telling me how miserable she felt and I said, 'If you had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's you would feel fine now as I am taking it.'—Mrs. F. J. Oswald, Jr., 408 W. Ogden St., Greenville, Pa.

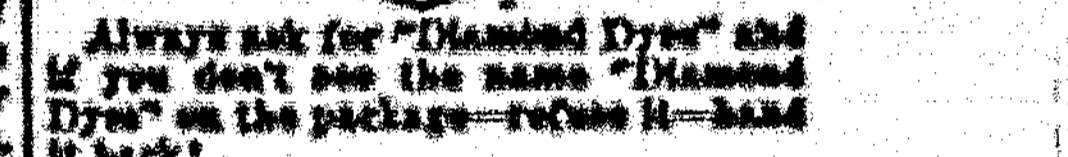

Mrs. Nicola Palazzi Says
 Mishawaka, Indiana.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness before my babies were born. I was weak and tired out all the time and it helped me. When I had inward inflammation the doctor treated me, but it did not help me, so I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Sensitive Wash and it helped me right away. I will always have your medicine."—Mrs. NICOLA PALAZZI, 418 E. Broadway, Mishawaka, Indiana.

Remove Spots on Ceiling
 Rain spots on the ceiling can be removed with a little unsalted lime dissolved in alcohol, says Popular Science Monthly. The lime is thoroughly shaken up with the alcohol until it crumbles into a fine powder. The mixture is then brushed over the spot. When dry the ceiling can be painted.

A MAN OF INTEGRITY

A physician who reaches out to benefit humanity leaves a record behind him that is worth while. Such a man was Dr. W. W. Pierce, founder of the Irritable Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y. He was an eminent physician, a leading and honored citizen, known for his honesty and executive ability. His study along medical lines, and his knowledge of the remedial qualities of herbs and plants led to the discovery of his wonderful Serravallo Family Doctor Pierce's Favorite Preparation. He wanted to do good which led to the greatest number of sufferers for the past fifty years. It is just the herbal tonic required if a woman is lame down by pain and suffering of regular or irregular menstruation, by nervousness or any other ailment, headache or backache. Favorite Preparation can now be had in tablet form as well as liquid of most drug stores.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

L. R. LaMay was a visitor from the Mesa the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Hale were visitors from Captain Saturday.

George Murray was in town yesterday from across the "rocks."

Mrs. George J. Dingwall is in El Paso this week, visiting relatives.

Robert Swan and Honi Samora, two old timers of the Captain country, were here Tuesday.

Miss Vinnie Burton, who is teaching school at Corona, was a week end visitor, the guest of Mrs. J. B. French.

Tom Bragg was down from his Bonito home Tuesday during the snow storm. He returned the following day.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Crawford returned this week from Houston, Texas, where they have been visiting the past month.

Robert and Julian Taylor left Sunday morning for the Pecos Valley country. They may run over into Texas before returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gallacher and Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Rentfrow were in Saturday from their respective ranches in the north mial pala region.

William Kahler, Sr., who has been confined to his bed the past week or more, has steadily grown worse, and little hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Mrs. Ellen V. Crutcher, of Tularosa, spent last night with the Bagers, and left this morning for Captain to accept a position with the Titaworth Company.

M. U. Finley loaded a car of big steers for Kansas this morning. The purchasers were The Bruce-Jones Company, and the steers brought a good price.

Brack Sloan, commissioner from the third district, was here Monday from Ancho, going over road matters with those interested in the completion of the Carrizozo-Socorro road.

Former Treasurer Given Pen Sentence

Harry G. Norman, formerly treasurer of Lincoln county, entered a plea of guilty to embezzling public funds, before Judge Mechem, and was sentenced to serve one year to eighteen months in the penitentiary. He was conveyed to Santa Fe this week by Sheriff Harris.

The amount of the shortage has not been made public by the Comptroller's office, but it is believed to be around $12,000.00. The Surety Bond Company has paid $5,000.00 on the defalcation, which was covered into the school fund, and more than restores the amount lost by that fund; thus producing no interference with the schools of the county.

Masons to Socorro

A delegation of local Masons drove to Socorro Tuesday to witness screen pictures of the Masonic Educational Service and to hear lectures by eminent Masons on the subject. Two cars went, containing the following members: W. A. Wunsch, Fort Stanton; J. A. Brubaker, Captain; R. E. Lemon, S. F. Miller, B. Hogle, E. O. Prehm, C. P. Hupperts, E. H. Sweet, Carrizozo. The delegation returned Wednesday.

Mrs. Frank Maxwell's condition is said to be unimproved; in fact, pneumonia is now added to other complications from which she has been suffering, and the family and friends are fearful of the result.

Cleve C. Bourne and family arrived yesterday, and, after a day or two with relatives here—the Skinner families—will go to Rudoso where Mr. Bourne will take charge of the White saw mill. The Bourne family lived in Lincoln county a great many years, but left here about twelve years ago for the western part of the state. Old friends are glad to see them back.

Carrizozo School Notes

The Dramatic Club repeated its three fine plays last Tuesday evening, giving them in the Methodist church. This church certainly has a fine stage for plays—large and just the right shape. The Dramatic Club contemplates giving these plays at Fort Stanton in the near future.

At the meeting of the Boy Scouts last week three new Scouts were initiated. This month closes the Scout year. At the meeting last week Scoutmaster Cole made a demonstration in photometry, with the apparatus from the physical laboratory. This showed how to estimate the candle power of any kind of a light. It also proved the law that "the intensity of light varies inversely as the distance from the source of light." The same law holds, and for the same reason, for heat, sound, gravitation, magnetism.

The Woman's Club has again done the splendid thing that it has done so many times in the past few years. It brought to the High School building another art exhibit. The display was made in the rooms on the upper floor of the building. Mrs. Richard had charge of the exhibit. In the High School Mrs. Stadtmann made a talk explaining the beautiful etchings on the walls. In closing her remarks she made the point that the young people of the schools are sketching and etching their lives, and that the excellence of the work depends upon the character as well as upon the mentality of the subject; that character is the best and most enduring thing in the world. We assure the Woman's Club, especially these ladies who personally appear at the schools, that we appreciate these exhibits and shall always welcome them.

Storm Again Interfered

Bad luck seems to pursue the High School Dramatic Club. Miss Meux, the director of dramatics, has conscientiously given her time and talent to the perfection of the club during the school term, and had prepared as the annual high school play, the most attractive program of the year. The play was scheduled for Tuesday night, March 11, at the Crystal theatre. That night was the stormiest of the season, and only a small crowd greeted the production.

The many who did not get to see the performance, but learning of its excellence from the few who did see it, urged a repetition of the play. Miss Meux, the dramatic club director, and those taking part in the plays, very kindly consented to the request, and the Woman's Missionary Society announced that the performance would be repeated at the Methodist church Tuesday night of this week. But a repetition of the play was accompanied by a repetition of the weather of the Tuesday night previous, with a number of extra frills; so that only a small crowd was present to greet the players.

Disappointing as these efforts have been to present this last production to a "good house," and to which its merit entitled it, Miss Meux, the director, and those whom she has so conscientiously trained in the planning and acting of the undertaking, may rest assured that their efforts are highly appreciated, and both director and participants have won golden opinions from all who have had an opportunity to witness their work on the stage. The public, due to the conditions heretofore mentioned, is the big loser in having been denied the pleasure of seeing this crowning effort of the director's art in this last production.

Educational News

Teachers all over the country are urged by the "American Legion to point out to their pupils a change that has been made in the wording of the pledge to the flag. The revised of the pledge is: "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States and to the republic for which it stands, one Nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Irregular school attendance caused the waste of $25,000,000, one quarter of the money spent for public education in the United States, in 1922, according to statisticians of the United States Bureau of Education. The people who paid the taxes robbed themselves of their money and at the same time they deprived their own children of an average of two months schooling. More than 22,000,000 children were enrolled in the public schools of the country and the schools were open an average of about eight months. Nearly 700,000 teachers were employed.

Electives of school directors in all the rural districts will be held the first Tuesday in April, which is the first day of April.

Clerks of boards shall report delinquent poll tax payers to the County Treasurer and County Superintendent on April 16.

Districts number 9, 26 and 28, Regal Mesa, Smith and Captain, are petitioning the County Board of Education to call an election that the people of each of those districts may have an opportunity of voting upon the question of consolidating districts 9 and 28 with district 28.

The County Board of Education will meet in this office on the 2nd day of April, to conduct school business.

Lincoln News Notes

Lincoln, March 19
The school play which was given in Lincoln recently was reported to an appreciative audience at Fort Stanton Thursday night.

The second snow storm of the week left six inches of "the beautiful" on the ground. The snow will benefit the range, but the freezing wind following it was not of any material benefit to the orchards, whose trees are just budding out.

Mrs. Mabel Burleson from Roswell spent the week-end here visiting friends and relatives.

The "Tacky Party" at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Plogston Monday night was a great success. All the guests appeared in the most outlandish costumes possible. Among the children, Ruth Lydia Penfield and Peg Plogston were voted the most factors, and Miss Clara Peppin and Charlie Page received the prizes as the ugliest among the grown-ups. The evening was spent playing games and doing other stunts, after which refreshments suitable to the occasion were served, and everyone went home happy.

A number of Lincolnites attended the dance at Fort Stanton Saturday night.

Mrs. Webb of Roswell and Miss Louise Webb of Hondo, were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Burleson.

Mrs. George S. Trent and Mrs. Roy Trent, accompanied by Mrs. Arlie Gibbeny, were guests Sunday of Mrs. John Penfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Kameval Pacheco moved to Ancho the first of the week where Mr. Pacheco has a position with the railroad.

Mrs. E. H. Miranda is recovering from a bad attack of rheumatism.

The Republicans of Lincoln sent a delegation to the county convention held at Captain last Saturday.
