A WEST FOR THE WEST

Conference of Western States Governors and Officials To Meet Nov. 17th.

NEW MEXICO TO BE INCLUDED

The West will meet in San Francisco November 17th, and have a calm, serious talk concerning the problems of the Pacific Slope States, the progress that may be made through co-operation, and the achievements the next few years may witness. The conference will last three days. It has been called by Governor J. W. Gillett of California, and termed the Pacific Coast Congress. Governors of eight states, officials of those states and of three territories, including New Mexico, Hawaii and Alaska, mayors of all important towns within those closely-allied sections, and prominent men from the whole Western country will be present when the Congress opens. It promises to inaugurate a new and most significant epoch in the history of a part of the United States that thus far has not attracted particular consideration in the councils of the nation.

For three days San Francisco will make these several hundred prominent Westerners her guests, and the occasion will end in a monster banquet, at the conclusion of which a speech or two will be made expressing the sense of the gathering. It may be decided to let the states work out their problems separately, as has been done in the past; perhaps the Congress will go on record as the father of a new Western union—a Solid West—that will work as one when striving for benefits the West believes it should have.

At any rate several issues that have been agitating the West for a generation will be fought out. The attitude of the Pacific Coast states of Idaho, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, Washington, Nevada, Oregon, California, Hawaii and Alaska, on an American merchant marine, a battleship fleet for the Pacific, and the scope of the exposition San Francisco and San Diego hope to give in 1915 will be determined upon. These are things for which a strong sentiment has been growing for some time.

But just what the Congress will do is a matter of speculation. In every respect those who attend the conference are left entirely free to express their opinions and suggest future work. Care is being taken by those behind the Congress, to select speakers, even, that have no distinct political standing in their own states—men without entanglements, or interests to serve. It will be a clearing house of ideas.

Perhaps the most important feature of the conference will be the decision as to whether or not the Congress will be made an annual affair. If this is decided upon it will mean that definite policies will be agreed upon, solidly worked for, and reported upon each year. It will mean that the west will decide to unite in making its requests of the nation.

The movement to call the Congress had its inception in the desire of the Merchant Marine League of California to get an expression from the Pacific Coast states as to their attitude upon an American merchant marine. But already the Congress has outgrown this one function, and become a western parliament. It may become one of the most significant features in American public life.

BUNCH OF MARINES

A train load of Uncle Sams Jack Tars stopped off in Carrizozo Monday evening long enough to eat supper at the Carrizozo Eating House. There were 330 in number all bound for San Francisco from whence they will go into service in the Philippines. The Gurneys of the Eating house demonstrated their ability to do big things by catering to Uncle Sams' men as a body, and appeasing their hunger. The marines were handled in two squads and while the Eating house was pushed to its utmost capacity the supper was well served. Twelve dozen chickens were used at the one meal.

WHITE OAKS WHIFFS

J. C. Klepinger returned to White Oaks Saturday from Tortelita canyon where he had been doing annual assessment work.

E. H. B. Chew has been on the sick list the past ten days but is now improving.

James Lee is moving into his old home this week, the Ridgeway house.

A party was given at the Bonnell Hall on Halloween Eve, and most of the young people participated instead of tearing up the town as customary, the older folks, however had things wired down anyway.

The mines have been shut down on account of lack of water, and the boys have availed themselves of the opportunity of getting themselves a deer.

THE SOCIAL WHIRL

Mrs. H. S. Fairbank was hostess to the Whist Club Wednesday afternoon when the period of Whist was followed by merry chat and a tasty luncheon.

Mrs. Frank J. Sager carried off the first prize, having held the highest score. Mrs. William F. Whittingham and Mrs. John F. Kimbell tied the score for the "booby" prize, which after a draw was awarded to Mrs. Whittingham.

Miss Effie Joseph, who has been visiting at the home of Mrs. W. F. Whittingham, has returned to her home in Tucumcari.

Among those who attended the dance at Real's opera house last Friday were, Miss Effie Joseph, Miss Sallie Hildebrandt, Miss Allie Johnson, Miss Barbara Crow, Miss Mayo Boykin, Miss Jennie Brockway, Miss Virginia Fenton, Mrs. William F. Whittingham, Mr. William Doering, Mr. Guyer, Mr. Frank Gauchat, Mr. L. B. Holmes, Mr. Gibbons, Mr. George Sharpe, Mr. Oscar Bamberger, Mr. Thomas Johnson, Mr. Felix Guthrie, Mr. Grumbles, Mr. Brent Paden and Mr. William F. Whittingham.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fenton, of Philadelphia, Pa., have formally announced the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Mr. Chas. G. Scholz, of Sacramento, California. No date has been named for the wedding. Miss Fenton is a sister of Mrs. W. F. Whittingham.

The Ladies of the Rebekah Lodge are planning to give a swell dance on Thanksgiving, serving a supper as well. Invitation will be issued next week.

New Dried Fruit such as Raisins, Currants, Peaches, Prunes and Apricots just received at Ziegler Bros.

CONVENTION GETS BUSY

Constitutional Body Accepts Amended Bill of Rights To Adjourn by 15th

REPORT OF THE CONVENTION

The constitutional convention has been busy this week and acting as a committee as a whole have accepted a number of the sections to be embodied in the Constitution. It now appears that the convention will adjourn about November 15th, the hardest part of the work having already been accomplished. Among the provisions accepted this week was the Bill of Rights:

BILL OF RIGHTS

The features of the bill of rights are that it includes that "the rights, privileges and immunities, civil, political and religious guaranteed the people of New Mexico by the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo shall be preserved inviolate," which gives the Pueblo Indians citizenship and will prevent the disfranchising of Spanish-speaking citizens, the retention of the present grand jury system and an authorization to the legislature to pass laws providing that in civil cases, juries may give a verdict by less than a unanimous vote.

The ordinance compact embodies all the provisions made mandatory by the enabling act, which as T. B. Catron declared on the floor, are not altogether acceptable to New Mexico, are in part unconstitutional and are accepted by the state only under constraint. This article was amended so as to prevent the legislatures from ever appropriating any sum of money in payment of the so-called militia warrants and other invalid indebtedness. Fifteen petitions were presented for statewide prohibition.

Sharp criticism of the clause in the enabling act passed by congress that all territorial officers speak, read, write and understand the English language, was the feature of the session. By unanimous vote of 100 to 0, a clause was inserted in the report of the committee on ordinance compact with the United States indicating to congress that the language clause is to be inserted in the constitution under compulsion. It was declared that it has been more than 40 years since a territorial officer in New Mexico held office without being able to handle the English language.

REPORT OF DELEGATE CANNING

A letter from Delegate Canning, who is looking out for Lincoln County's interests at the convention received yesterday by the Outlook, says:

"The following Committee reports have been agreed on and referred to the committee on Revision: Preamble and Boundaries, Schedule Ordinance and Compact with the United States, Legislative matters, Military affairs, Bill of Rights, Irrigation and Water Rights.

The rest of the week will be occupied considering the reports of the Executive Committee, Education, Taxation, State and County Indebtedness.

If the present oratory continues it will be well into December before the work of the convention is finished. Since the big debate on the initiative and referendum last week, which ended last Friday morning, there has been nothing startling.

There has been a flood of petitions on account of prohibition and it looks as though some action must be taken on this question.

Let me hear from the kickers! One hundred thousand copies of the constitution will be printed. J. H. Canning.

BIGGEST WRECK ON ROAD

What is conceded to be the largest wreck ever occurring on the El Paso and Southwestern Railroad occurred at Robsart, six miles north-east of Carrizozo, last Friday night. Thirty cars left the track and were piled four high along the right-of-way and the wrecking crew has been kept busy all week clearing up the debris. The cause of the freight wreck has not been ascertained definitely but some part of car five dropped down, as the train came off the Coyote hill and caused the derailment of the thirty remaining cars. No one was injured. The wreck occurred at the Robsart switch and a delay of but twelve hours in traffic was caused in building a shoofly around the cars. The railroad estimates its loss at over $25,000.

Robsart, which is nothing more than a sidetrack, is becoming quite a notorious place on the E. P. and S. W. First it was the scene of the hold up last June when a lone bandit robbed a tourist car there and Friday at the same place occurred the greatest freight wreck that has happened on this railroad.

NEW MEXICO LEADS

Of eight states and territories, whose census figures have been announced, New Mexico shows the greatest per cent of increase the past ten years. Outside of Arizona, not one of the states thus far shows even one half per cent of increase credited to New Mexico. Next to New Mexico, says the Philadelphia Press Arizona makes a very respectable showing in the new census with a population of 204,354, an increase of 66 per cent in ten years. This is not quite as good as New Mexico, but it will make Arizona as a state rank above Delaware whose population, recently announced is a very little less. Idaho, Nevada, and Wyoming had smaller populations ten years ago than Arizona has now. Their population by this census has not yet been announced, but it is a safe guess that Arizona will enter the union with a population exceeding that of at least three of the older commonwealths.

And yet, Arizona increased more than 50,000 people less than did New Mexico since 1900.

—Last Tuesday at noon Jacob Ziegler had the misfortune to be thrown from a dray on which he was riding to the depot, and suffers a broken arm as a result of the accident. Mr. Ziegler is able to be about but it will be sometime before he will have the use of his arm again.

—John Bell shot a large lynx on the road between here and Nogal with a shot gun Wednesday afternoon.

—Try a pair of our celebrated Ziegler Bros. of Philadelphia made Ladies Shoes, we just received. Without question these are the finest, best fitting shoe ever shown in Carrizozo. Ziegler Bros., Sole Agents.

—Mr. Harry Helwig arrived yesterday from Kendallville, Indiana and expects to enter into a law partnership with Attorney Leroy R. Wade.

—The Continental Oil Co. have installed a large storage tank for gasoline in their new warehouse.

STILL OPEN TO ENTRY

About One-half of New Mexico Still Open to Entry, 36,454,692 acres left

1,868,037 ACRES IN COUNTY

About one half of the area of New Mexico is still public domain, that is; subject to entry under the federal land laws. On July 1, to be exact, 36,454,692 acres were subject to the six federal land offices of New Mexico. But a few years ago, the public domain had an area of 24,000,000 acres more, but of that 12,000,000 acres have been withdrawn since for national forests, coal lands or water power sites. Another 5,000,000 acres have been selected by the Territory for school and institutional lands. The remaining 7,000,000 acres were taken by homesteaders.

Of the public domain, 12,877,700 acres still remain to be surveyed so that for the present 23,576,992 acres are available, from which the new state will soon select the best lands to the extent of 8,000,000 acres for the public schools, institutions and the payment of the Santa Fe and Grant county railroad bonds. Even if every acre that remains were suitable for cultivation, which it is not, twenty years at the most, will see every acre of available public land in New Mexico in private or state ownership. This is one of the reasons for haste on the part of New Mexico to come in as a state, so that it may have an opportunity to select its lands while there are any lands worth while remaining, and also a reason for not tying up the state lands in such a manner as to prevent settlement and improvement of those lands by bona fide settlers.

Curry county has the least public domain within its borders and its growth from homesteaders must therefore cease within the near future. Roosevelt county is the next lowest, but has twice the area of public domain of Curry, while Bernalillo county stands third from the bottom in that matter. Socorro county leads with a public domain eleven times as great in extent as that of Curry, Quay and Roosevelt counties taken together, and exceeding in area the states of Delaware and Rhode Island taken together. Here is the way the twenty six counties rank in the extent of their public domain:

Socorro	5,295,509 acres
Chaves	3,716,507 acres
Eddy	3,178,421 acres
Grant	2,917,144 acres
Otero	2,271,232 acres

WHAT THIS VALLEY along the El Paso and South-western Railroad needs most to aid Dry Farming is an Experimental Farm in charge of an expert who could demonstrate to the homesteaders already here and those coming in, how they can derive the best results from the scientific cultivation of the soil.

Experimental Farms have been installed in other sections of New Mexico, where conditions are no more favorable than here yet in other places natural climatical conditions are a trifle different. We want an Experimental Farm too. A ten acre tract would be large enough, have it situated near town and accessible to the people of the community. Then when homeseekers arrive from the East all that would be necessary to prove the worth of the country would be to take them to this experimental farm and show them what was actually being done by scientific culture.

As it is now the homesteader taking up land plods along on his own initiative with no one experienced to show him and is not able to differentiate between the methods necessary to be employed here and the old eastern methods where farming is carried on under different conditions.

Such a farm would eliminate all doubt in the minds of those who come to the country to settle or investigate the conditions here with an idea to settlement. In this new country which is practically untried, the emigrant needs to learn how to cope with the conditions found here. The government has assisted the newcomers in other sections of the West and why not assist this portion of the Southwest in a way most needed where the returns would be a thousand fold.

ABOUT SIXTY NINE thousand acres of land has been restored to entry by proclamation of President Taft, from the Lincoln National Forest. This land has been advertised and will be open to settlement on the twenty first day of November 1910. In speaking of the elimination of a like body of homestead land from the Alamo National Forest just south of here the El Paso Herald very aptly explains why the land is eliminated.

"On January 1, under an order just issued, 383 square miles are to be eliminated from the Alamo national forest, lying east of Alamogordo, N. M.

The addition of 35 square miles chiefly valuable for forest use has already taken effect. The large area to be eliminated has been determined upon careful survey to be more valuable for agriculture and grazing than for present or future forest use. The eliminated area covers most of the comparatively barren strip along the railroad and foothills north and northeast of Alamogordo up to the line of scrub timber.

The elimination is strictly in line with the established policy of the forest service to withdraw large areas where it seems desirable to conserve forest covering and then after withdrawal to institute thorough surveys with a view to rectifying the lines of reserved territory. These withdrawals have been taking place steadily all over the west, and the consistent following out of this policy will go far to disarm much of the criticism heretofore directed against the forest service by stock raisers, agriculturists and would be homesteaders, who could never understand the reasons for the temporary inclusion of large barren areas in so called forest reserves.

The truth is these areas are now for the first time being thoroughly surveyed and classified, and it was far better that the original withdrawals should be too extensive rather than too meager. It is easy to let go what is not needed, but it would have been difficult to extend the liens of many forest reserves if the original withdrawals had been too scant."

THE GRAND JURY will be part of the judicial system of the new state, but most of those who favor it, do it merely on the ground that New Mexico is not ready for the charge of doing without it. Under the circumstances this argument may be good, it is no doubt expedient, but it is not sound as far as statesmanship is concerned. The retention of the grand jury will cost the new state from $50,000 to $100,000 a year which is not an inconsiderable sum to a state that on a $60,000,000 assessment wants to limit taxation to one per cent for state and one per cent for county and judicial expenses.

EDITORS GET RICH

It is not good to policy to give business secrets away, but as many people wonder how editor get rich so quick we give the following information, remarks the editor the Paxton, (Ill) Register hoping that every one of our readers will not take advantage of this and engage in the newspaper business.

A fellow terming himself "Ganderbone's Forecast" located at St. Louis, offers to furnish us a lot of poetry and other silly stuff, if we will only run an advertisement in the Register each week.

A fellow out west wants us to do a lot of advertising for him for nothing, and if it brings results he may become a customer.

A gun firm wants us to run $10 worth of advertising and then send them $10 in exchange for a shotgun. Such a gun would retail at about $6.

For running $17 worth of locals we can get a $1 magazine telling how to do dressmaking at home. By running $50 worth of advertising and sending $25 to an Atlantic City firm, we will be given a deed to a lot.

When the tide is in the lot stands six feet under water.

A Kansas real states firm will give us a deed to a lot 22 by 59 feet for $40 worth of advertising and $25 cash. We wrote to a fellow of the lots offered and he replied that they had no cash value, but a trading value of about $5.

If we run a column write-up of a doings to be held in North Dakota this fall, amounting to about $7 we will be sent two $1 tickets. Our railroad fare up there and back, for two, would be about $60. We can have almost any Chicago daily paper sent to us free. The subscription rate is $4, but all we have to do is to run $36 worth of locals.

For $40 worth of advertising and $25 cash we can own a bicycle. The wheel sells at just $12. About one dozen firms are wanting to give us shares in gold mines for advertising. For running a six-inch advertisement for one year we get a gross of pills.—Exchange.

—John A. Neucom, a corporation attorney of Duluth Minn. who has spent the past six weeks on the West Coast of Mexico stopped over here a day on his way home, to pay a brief visit to his old college chum Attorney LeRoy R. Wade.

MODERNIZING UNCLE SAM'S BUSINESS SYSTEMS

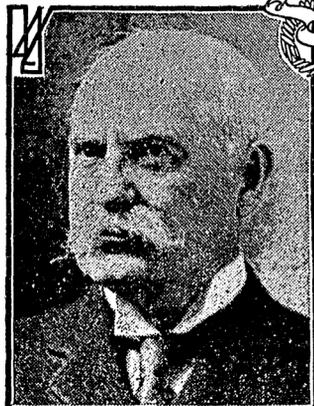

CHARLES D. NORTON WHO WILL BE IN CHARGE OF UNCLE SAM'S BUSINESS REORGANIZATION

ALTHOUGH the ensuing season will be in one sense what is known as an off-year in governmental activities, owing to the fact that there will be a "short session" instead of a "long session" of congress, there will be inaugurated several projects of far-reaching importance. Probably the most important of these new departures will be the scheme for modernizing Uncle Sam's business systems as represented in the routine of the departments at Washington and their "branch offices" scattered all over the country. This is the undertaking which is one of the pet projects of President Taft and to carry it out congress has appropriated the sum of $100,000. Every since he entered the White House President Taft has been imbued with the conviction that the machinery of government could be operated at much less expense than has been the case for years past. Among practical business men the Federal government's wasteful and costly method of carrying on its business has for years been at once a joke and a reproach and Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island voiced the general opinion when he recently declared that he could administer the affairs of the biggest business institution on the continent and by the introduction of modern methods and policies save fully $300,000,000 a year over the present cost. The recent legislation by congress was designed merely to enable the president to start the ball rolling for reform in the conduct of the Federal business. With $100,000 set aside to inaugurate the work, the president is authorized to employ accountants and experts from official and private life and to inquire into every phase of the methods of transacting the public business of the government in the several executive departments and other governmental establishments. It is expected that many of the recommendations for reforms which will be made by these business physicians can be carried out promptly with no other authority than the order of the president, but where congressional action is necessary there is assurance that it will be forthcoming.

TYPICAL "MAILING ROOM" IN A GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENT. ONE OF THE CLASS OF GOVERNMENTAL INSTITUTIONS WHERE GREAT ECONOMIES ARE EXPECTED

SEN. ALDRICH. HE SAYS THE GOVERNMENT COULD SAVE $300,000,000 A YEAR ON ITS METHOD OF DOING BUSINESS

The president has placed this entire overhauling of the governmental business systems in the hands of his very capable new secretary, Mr. Charles D. Norton, who had quite an interval of experience as assistant secretary of the treasury before coming to his present post and who while in that department inaugurated the "house cleaning" of the treasury's business systems which became in effect the forerunner of the broad rejuvenation that is now to sweep the entire Federal establishment. Mr. Norton has invited the leading experts in the country, including such authorities on the subject as Maj. Charles Hine, the reorganization experts of the Harriman lines, to submit written programs for governmental business reorganization and from these propositions he will select plans, to be carried out. It is the supposition that Mr. Norton's private business experience as the proprietor of one of the largest general insurance agencies in the country for years before he entered the government service will stand him in good stead in selecting improved business systems for the government.

While Mr. Norton will have the general direction of the new project he will have the assistance of a board of directors, as it were—a commission composed of one executive officer from each department and independent bureau at Washington and this commission will co-operate with the experts in bringing about the big reform. The present movement, it may be added, is not designed so much to enable the cutting off of a clerk here and there—although doubtless many clerks will be retired as a result of its economies—as to formulate an entirely new structure of business methods.

Several of the government departments have started on overhauling of their business systems without waiting for the general reconstruction and what has been accomplished thus in piece-meal fashion gives a forecast of what may be expected later. In the U. S. land office, for instance, book-keeping methods have been so simplified that a single volume now holds the records that formerly required twenty-one different books. In one office 16 standard printed forms now do the work that formerly necessitated 83 different documents and in the postoffice department $175,000 a year is being saved in twine bills by means of a new tying device. Incidentally it may be noted that some of the most radical economies that are expected as a result of Uncle Sam's latest move are looked for in the mailing rooms of the departments where tons of government documents are wrapped, addressed and mailed each day.

Belfast's Great Shipyard

IN MANY respects Messrs Harland & Wolff's shipyard, Queen's Island, Belfast, is the most remarkable concern of the kind in the world. For many years past they have taken the lead in the construction of the largest ships afloat; they have cut two of the finest liners on the seas in twain, and added considerable to their dimensions; and they have built half a vessel, the stern half, and had it towed safely from Belfast to Southampton, where it was built into the other half. At present on the stocks of their North yard two mammoth White Star boats of 45,000 tons each are fast approaching the launching stage. This line's entire fleet has been built by Messrs. Harland & Wolff. From the available record it appears that the first Belfast built ship was a wooden schooner of 150 tons, the builder being a local Presbyterian clergyman. This was in 1836, but it was not until 1850 any serious attempt was made in the shipbuilding line so far as Belfast was concerned. In that year Messrs. Thomas Barnes & Co., in addition to starting the Belfast iron works, erected a small slip on the now famous Queen's Island, which has long since lost its insular position though still retaining the name which was given it after the late Queen Victoria's visit in 1849, previous to which it was known as Dargan's island. The ironworks proved a failure, owing to the heavy expenses incurred in bringing the coal and iron stone to Belfast, but the small shipyard thrived exceedingly under the supervision of Messrs. Robert Hickson & Co., who acquired it from its founders. Mr. Edward J. Harland, an Englishman, was manager for Messrs. Hickson, and in 1859 he purchased the concern from Messrs. Hickson, as well as a small yard adjoining, belonging to the Belfast Shipbuilding company, where wooden vessels only were built. Two years later Mr. Harland was joined in partnership with Mr. Gustavus Wilhelm Wolff, a wealthy German, and in 1874 Messrs. Walter H. Wilson (deceased) and William James Pierre (now Lord Pierre), pupils of the firm, were also made partners in the concern, which was subsequently floated as a limited liability company. The business of the firm from the very outset continued to increase by leaps and bounds. In the year 1884, exactly 15 years after Mr. Harland acquired the controlling interest in the concern, there were launched from the Queen's Island yard 42 vessels, aggregating 105,625 tons burden. But perhaps one of the longest of several very tough tasks undertaken by the firm of Harland & Wolff was the lengthening of the Castle line Royal Mail steamer Scot (now the Oceana, of the Dutch Red Star fleet).

It was in 1896 that the Scot, a Greenock-built steamer of some seven or eight thousand tons, was sent to Belfast to have 50 feet added to her length amidship. Messrs. Harland & Wolff undertook the job. The vessel was cut in halves, and with the aid of powerful jacks the two ends were pulled the required distance apart. Each end was several thousand tons dead weight, yet the work was accomplished without hitch or accident of any kind to the complete satisfaction of the owners. Towards the end of the same year the Hamburg-American liner Augusta Victoria was similarly lengthened by 60 feet. Still more remarkable, probably, was the building of the bow portion of the rejuvenated White Star liner Suevic, when that vessel was taken piece-meal off the rocks at the entrance to the English channel some four or five years ago. The stern portion only was saved and brought round to Southampton, where it remained until Messrs. Harland & Wolff built the bow end, 260 feet long, in the south yard, subsequently, with the aid of three Liverpool tugs, bringing the weird looking half ship right down the Irish channel, round the Land's end, and up to Southampton. The repairs to the China, of the P. and O. line, and the Paris, of the American line, were also remarkable undertakings, as was also that of the St. Louis for the latter company.

RELISHES FOR MEAT

GIVE SHARP, APPETIZING FLAVOR TO STEAKS AND CHOPS.

Pepper Relish in Which Cabbage is Substituted for Tomatoes is Particularly Fine—Two Kinds of Piccalilli.

Pepper Relish.—Pepper relish is usually made of green peppers, green tomatoes and celery; but cabbage may be substituted for the tomatoes. For the latter, chop fine a small head of firm, white cabbage, six large green peppers, taking care not to leave in any of the seeds, and a nice bunch of celery, removing all the fibrous green outer leaves; put into a large bowl, sprinkle with a half cupful of salt, mix well, cover and let stand over night. The next morning drain in a colander, then pack in a stone jar with two tablespoonfuls of mustard seed mixed through it. Put into a porcelain kettle three pints of vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful each of whole cloves, allspice and whole pepper, a clove of garlic and one onion minced; simmer gently twenty minutes, to extract the virtue of the spices; drain and pour boiling hot over the vegetables. There should be enough of vinegar to cover. When cold cover the jar and keep in a cool place. A little red pepper may be added, if you like it very hot.

Piccalilli.—Allow to a gallon of sliced green tomatoes one pint grated horseradish, eleven ounces brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls each fine salt and ground mustard. Put the tomatoes in a large stone crock, sprinkle the salt over them and let stand over night with a slight press on top. The tomatoes may be chopped instead of sliced if preferred. In the morning add to the tomatoes the other ingredients, and set in a warm place, the compound forming its own vinegar.

This will take several weeks. Set in a cool place. The vessel containing the pickle must have a cloth and weight on top to keep the pickle under the liquor.

Piccalilli With Cider Vinegar.—Where cider vinegar is used it is made in this way: Chop fine one peck green tomatoes and one head cabbage. Mix with them a large cupful salt and put all into a coarse cheesecloth bag to drain over night. Chop six large onions and four green peppers, mix with the cabbage and tomatoes and pour over them enough hot weak vinegar to cover, then drain again. The next morning heat the same amount of sharp cider vinegar, pour over the pickle, add two tablespoonfuls whole mustard seed, and when cold it should be ready for use.

Chutney Sauce.—Chop coarsely twelve sour apples after paring and coring. Seed one cup of raisins and two green peppers, add four medium sized onions and six green tomatoes and chop very fine. Put four cups of vinegar, two cups of brown sugar, two tablespoons each of mustard seed and salt in a preserving kettle and bring to the boiling point. Add the chopped mixture and simmer one hour. Now add the chopped apple and cook until soft. Seal in pint jars.

Sliced Oil Pickles.

Slice very thin 100 small pickles about the circumference of a quarter, and, if liked, six onions also sliced. Cover with salt and let stand overnight. In the morning rinse with cold water and put in a sack to drain. Mix three quarts cider vinegar, one-half cupful each white and black mustard seed, one cupful olive oil, one heaping tablespoonful celery seed, a half teaspoonful red pepper and a half teaspoonful white pepper. Pour cold over the cucumbers in an open jar, let stand a day or two, stirring occasionally, then seal in jars.

Grape Juice.

Use Concord grapes. Wash and bruise the grapes. Cook and strain one quart of juice, one quart of water, two cups sugar. Boil five or ten minutes. Put hot into bottles and seal. I use a double cheese cloth bag. Do not squeeze, but turn the bag often around. From two small baskets of grapes I get three pints of juice. Small bottles are better to use, though the juice will keep several days in the ice chest after being opened.

Broiled Sweet Corn.

Boil the ears of corn two minutes, then drain and dry on a towel. Place on a broiler and toast over glowing coals or under gas flame until a good brown. Season with salt and send to the table in a napkin.

To Color Lace Pink.

Pour boiling water over red calico and add a tablespoonful of vinegar. Insert a sample of your lace and if not the right shade dilute with water to make paler or boil calico to make a deeper pink.

KINGS OF THE FLIGHT WORLD

"ALL'S WELL" WITH AMERICA II,
AND AERONAUTS ON THEIR WAY HOME TO U. S.

RECORD IS 1,350 MILES

OVER $7,000 HAD BEEN OFFERED
FOR DISCOVERY OF AVIA-
TORS, DEAD OR ALIVE.

New York.—Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post, the aeronauts of the balloon America II, for whom search had been prosecuted in the Canadian wilds, are safe and have established a new world's record for sustained flight. They traveled approximately 1,350 miles, and came to earth in Chicoutimi county, Quebec, Wednesday, October 19th, but were not heard from until Wednesday, October 26th, when telegrams sent from St. Ambrose, Quebec, reached New York.

The balloonists started from St. Louis, with nine other contestants, in the international contest, Monday, October 17th. All the other balloons have been reported.

Of the two messages from Hawley and Post received in New York Wednesday, one was to William Hawley, brother of the aeronaut; the other to Samuel F. Perkins, pilot of the balloon Dusseldorf II, which had been considered the winner.

The message to Mr. Hawley read: "Landed in wilderness week ago, 50 miles north of Chicoutimi. Both well. ALAN."

The Perkins message ran: "Landed Paribonka river, north Lake Chillogana, nineteenth. All well. Returning. HAWLEY. POST."

With receipt of the news there ended a search which had come to be regarded by many as almost hopeless. In addition to emissaries sent by the Aero Club of St. Louis, the Aero Club of America and by William Hawley, the United States revenue cutter service, the Signal Corps of the army, the Hudson Bay Company and other agents were conducting the search, scouring the great lakes and making preparations for entering the almost impenetrable Canadian forests. Clifford D. Harmon, the wealthy amateur aeronaut and aviator of New York, had offered $1,000 to anyone finding Hawley and Post, dead or alive, and this sum had been increased by subscription to more than $7,000. At the international aviation meet at Belmont park, nearly $2,000 was subscribed among the aviators, headed by $500 pledged by Glenn H. Curtiss.

Young Perkins, who accompanied Lieutenant Hans Gerlocke in the Dusseldorf, conceded immediately he received the telegram from Hawley and Post that he and the German had lost first place to the New Yorkers. Perkins had estimated the distance traveled by the Dusseldorf at 1,240 miles. He was overjoyed at hearing from his long lost rivals and quickly dispatched to St. Ambrose instructions to forward a message of congratulation to Hawley and Post.

The America II was last reported passing over Maple City, Michigan, October 18th. Sky-gazers were able to read the name of the balloon; but after this all trace of her was lost.

Those who took the gloomier view of the outcome were inclined to think, as the days passed, that the men had perished from cold and hunger. The outlook was made darker by the suggestion of drowning, a fate thought not unlikely by the finding of a balloon basket on the shores of Lake Superior, near Port Arthur, Ontario. But the basket was not the America's, as was shown by later developments.

The new record, established by Hawley and Post, and unofficially estimated at 1,350 miles, exceeds all previous flights.

Claim Hearst Yet Aspires.

Chicago.—Political circles thrilled with the nearest approach to a real sensation the present campaign has enjoyed. In a formal statement, Frank D. Ayers, attorney of the Election Board, charged that the Hearst faction is seeking the election of John E. Owens as county judge, to gain control of the election machinery with a view of dominating the next mayoralty election and controlling the delegation to the Democratic national convention in 1913 with the ultimate object of nominating William R. Hearst for the Presidency.

Arrangements are reported to have been made to again work the famous old Terrible-Dunderburg mines on Brown mountain, Georgetown district.

It is probable that heavy operations will be started on company account at the Stanley mine, Idaho Springs. Some of the most prominent stockholders have lately visited the property with this end in view.

The LaPorte Oil and Gas Company, drilling in Larimer county, has found the oil sand at 390 feet and at one time the natural gas coming from the well produced a flame sixteen feet high. The well will be continued to a depth of 1,800 or 2,000 feet.

Henry Baer, who is working the Euclid mine in Northern Gilpin county for St. Louis owners, has been showing some fine specimens of free gold quartz from the property. Specimen assays showed 800 oz. gold to the ton, or a value of about $16,000.

The pool of Black Hawk men which has been leasing on the Banzai the past summer, have lately made a shipment of first-class ore which returned 13.12 oz. gold and 186.4 oz. silver—over $300 a ton. Their second-class ore showed 2.64 oz. gold and 37.84 oz. silver.

Hill and Ward, lessees on the Pharmacist mine in the town of South Altman on the summit of Bull hill, have made a three-car shipment of ore of $80 grade, mined from a new shoot, recently entered at the 450-level, near to the boundary line between the Burns and Pharmacist mines. The lessees are operating through a shaft on the Burns claim.

One of the most important mining transactions which has taken place in Quay county for a number of years was the transfer a few days ago of the Mickey Breen and Grizzly Bear groups to the Anerson-Halter Mines Company, a close corporation, which will inaugurate active operations at once with a large force of men. A smelter is among the improvements contemplated.

Dworak and Mackey, lessees operating the New Boston and T. E. Merritt claims on Womack hill, owned by Stratton's Cripple Creek Mining and Development Company—the Stratton estate, are in receipt of returns that a carload shipment sent out from the shaft on the New Boston was valued at the rate of $49 to the ton. The lessees have drifted on the vein at the 100-foot level to the boundaries of the New Boston, and will continue to drift through the Emma Abbott, a small fractional claim adjoining, owned by the Lady Campbell Gold Mining Company. A lease on the property has been procured, extending until May, 1912.

New Mexico.

The Silver City Enterprise reports that sylvanite gold and native and horn silver are being found in the Twin Peaks district, in Southwestern Grant county.

The pipe line of the Ernestine Company, Mogollon district, has been completed and more than meets expectations. The mill has been in operation for several days with thirty stamps dropping.

Work on the double-compartment shaft of the Silver Lake Company, eight miles west of Whitewater, is being pushed, the depth now being about 150 feet, and the shaft will be continued to at least a depth of 300. From a ledge of silver ore at 110 feet specimens assayed as high as 627 ounces, the pay streak being three to sixteen inches in width and the ledge about six feet.

Wyoming.

A dredge will be installed on the placers west of Riverton, though heavy work of mining is not expected to start until next spring.

A Colorado Springs Company has sent a crew of nineteen men to the Salt Creek oil field near Casper to begin drilling on a large tract recently acquired. About 100 men are now employed in that field by various companies.

Drilling on the Greisemer oil well on the Wind river reservation has been suspended for the winter, but will be resumed early next spring. The well is at a depth of 1,300 feet and it is expected that 300 feet more will strike the oil sand.

The Texas-King Oil and Gas Company has struck a heavy flow of oil in the Spring Valley fields, east of Evanston. The drillers believe if the well were "shot" a flow of 100 to 150 barrels per day would follow, but the well will be cased, a pump installed and shipments made.

LITTLE NEW MEXICO ITEMS.

Minor Occurrences of More Than-Ordinary Interest.

Eighteen families from Clovis, Curry county, have settled at Farmington.

Governor Mills has appointed John H. Boyd of Carrizozo, Lincoln county, a notary public.

Raton is the first and only city for the time being in New Mexico that will be given a postal bank.

The American Bonding Company of Baltimore, Md., has applied for admission to transact business in New Mexico.

Territorial Treasurer M. A. Otero received from Warden Cleofes Iomero of the territorial penitentiary $214 convicts' earnings; from Game Warden Thomas P. Gable, $1.25.

Three-fourths self-supporting and with a membership of 250 after a few short months of existence, the Albuquerque Young Women's Christian Association has so far made a record equaled by few branches of the great movement in this country.

The Columbus & Mexican railroad, a proposed line which is to tap the coal fields of northern New Mexico and Colorado and extend through Deming and Columbus, into the interior of Mexico, expects to begin construction very soon.

Superintendent of Public Instruction James E. Clark finds to his delight that the fund to be apportioned on November 1, among the school districts on the basis of the 1910 school census, is growing and now has reached the sum of $40,000, which will enable him to apportion between 30 and 40 cents per capita.

Adjutant General A. S. Brooks was notified by the War Department that Lieutenant C. H. Clark of the U. S. arsenal, at San Antonio, Texas, had been detailed to inspect the battery at Roswell of the National Guard, and will be there on November 9 and 10. He will inspect the ordnance of the battery to see how it is being taken care of and what additions and improvements it may need.

Mounted Policeman J. B. Rusk and a posse of three determined men has been sent into the Datil mountains to round up a band of Laguna Pueblos who are butchering game in that section. A band of Navajos and another of Apaches, are also believed to be there or in the Mogollons. Last year, a bunch of ten Indians in twelve days brought out 113 skins and local settlers complain bitterly that the Indians are literally butchering the game.

Enormous stock beets on exhibition at Albuquerque have attracted much attention as showing what may be accomplished on poor land in this section. These beets are mangel wurtzels, raised from imported seed five miles north of Albuquerque. They were grown on land white with alkali, received little cultivation and only one irrigation. These beets make excellent feed for horses, cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry and produce sixteen to eighteen tons to the acre. It is likely that the raising of these stock beets will become general and profitable in the valley.

That Pueblo Indians from Santo Domingo village are still making night raids on the Tiffany turquoise mines, they have gone so far as to threaten to murder the superintendent, and that the officials who have been appealed to for protection have been indifferent, are some of the statements made by Mrs. Emma McNulty, wife of J. P. McNulty, the veteran mining man, who has been for many years manager of the rich turquoise mines north of Cerrillos, at Turquesa. On Saturday night again, according to Mrs. McNulty, a bunch of Indians opened the shaft door which was securely fastened down and broke into the mines, their tracks and the evidence of their depredations being plainly visible in the morning.

Horace Hooker and Miles Burford, who have been on a bear hunt on Bear creek, twenty miles northwest of Silver City, treed a bear the first of the week, and Burford shot it through the head at a distance of 150 yards, bringing it down at the first shot. The dogs ran it up a dead tree, and the bear standing like a statue on top, looked first at the dogs at the bottom and then at the hunters in the distance, and evidently concluded that it was a case of from the frying pan into the fire. At this moment Burford raised his trusty rifle and fired, the bear dropping to the ground. Superintendent of Public Instruction J. E. Clark is distributing $30,000 among the public schools of the territory in accordance with returns received from the school census.

That the application of crude oil to the Rio Grande valley roads is the best method of securing permanent and perfect highways has been demonstrated by the successful experiment conducted by the Farmers' association, under the direction of President A. C. Hyman, who is also president of the Rio Grande Industrial school south of Albuquerque

COMING EVENTS IN NEW MEXICO.
Nov. 7—Fifth reunion of Scottish Rite Masons at Santa Fe.

Masons Buy Kit Carson Home.

Taos.—The home of Kit Carson, the great American hunter, scout and frontiersman, located at Taos, Taos county, has been purchased by the grand lodge of Masons of New Mexico which recently met at Roswell. There the sum of $1,500 was raised and this sum insures the success of the project to purchase the home of this famous member of the Montezuma Lodge A. F. & A. M. at Santa Fe and preserve it as a historic landmark. The house is an old adobe and is much visited by tourists and artists at the present time because of its historic interest. Many of his relics now are in the Masonic lodge rooms here and are visited by tourists. There is a monument to him in front of the federal building on Lincoln avenue. Kit Carson was a frequent visitor here and is remembered by the old timers.

Recommend Important Improvements

Santa Fe.—W. M. Reed, district engineer of the reclamation service, has returned from Roswell to El Paso, where he left the board of army engineers appointed by President Taft to inspect and advise upon the feasibility or irrigation projects in the Southwest. Mr. Reed believes that they are favorably impressed with the possibilities of irrigation in this section and that the projects contemplated and already projected will have favorable consideration. At Roswell the board was asked to recommend the building of a cement canal along the river there to get around that portion of the river bed through which the water is lost through seepage. The canal will cost it is estimated, $50,000. At Carlsbad the board was asked to recommend the enlargement of the reservoir so as to irrigate an additional 5,000 acres. This will cost, it is estimated, $2,500,000. At the site of the Elephant Butte dam, the camp crew is building several sidings from the right of way of the branch road and is building by contract, sidings at the point where the branch road will leave the main line.

Archaeological Interests Helpful.

Santa Fe.—A milestone in the educational advancement of New Mexico was set when the School of American Archaeology and the New Mexico Museum were established at Santa Fe. Engaged in the material pursuits and occupations of today, the vast majority of New Mexicans have failed to notice or appreciate the great value of these two institutions to our people. To the man who knows, however, and to the individual who keeps step with the educational progress of the times, it is very patent that the establishment of these institutions has given to the people of New Mexico a standing in the world of education endeavor not heretofore enjoyed by any western or southwestern state, and judging from the successful session of the school, held during the month of August, in the field and upon the scene of the most extensive work of excavation of aboriginal remains yet made within the present territorial limits of the United States, New Mexico will soon see, within its borders, attracted by this school, many men and women of education, wealth and refinement, who otherwise would never have come among us, even for a visit, let alone, making this country their homes and becoming citizens.

Delegates to Good Roads Congress

Santa Fe.—Governor Mills has appointed the following delegates to the Good Roads Congress to be held at Indianapolis, Indiana, December 9th, in connection with the national convention of the American Road Builders' Association: W. E. Gortner of Las Vegas; C. J. Roberts of Raton; Reed F. Holloman, Tucuman; W. E. Garrison of Mesilla Park, and J. E. Saint of Albuquerque.

Demand for New Mexico Ponies.

Santa Fe.—A trio of Floridians were here looking for some good New Mexico ponies to take to Florida, where they are much in demand. The change of climate, it was stated, was not likely to injure the animals. For many years Florida has procured animals from Texas.

Defeat Initiative—Adopt Referendum.

Santa Fe.—For twelve hours a wordy battle raged in the constitutional convention over the initiative and referendum. The heavy guns as well as the light artillery of oratory were fired.

The Dismantled Home

We used to have a basket meant to hold the paper scraps. And other waste that might have been flung all about, perhaps; The basket now has vanished, and the feather duster, too—Dear mother took them both, and with some ribbons and some glue She fixed them up until at last with a delighted smile She vowed that she had copied the extreme Parisian style. You'd never recognize them now—in whispers be it said They've changed to a creation that adorns dear mother's head.

We used to have a dishpan that was made of gleaming tin, But it has left the kitchen since the day that sister Min Decided that her headgear was extremely out of date—She smuggled out the dishpan and she worked with it till late; She spread on some enamel, and about it she entwined Some artificial flowers. If that dishpan you would find Go watch along the promenade, until You see it resting proudly on my sister's auburn hair.

The scuttle from the basement has been lost, these past two weeks; A mention of it brings a blush to sister Lizzie's cheeks. One morning she just had to go to see a matinee And needs a new bonnet, but could not afford to pay The price they asked for it—so the scuttle disappeared, And with some paint and ribbon it was soon completely geared. It bears a London label, and is tied beneath her chin, But still it is the scuttle that once stood beside the bin.

The chopping bowl is missing—and we cherish lurking doubts That grandma could inform us as to its new whereabouts, But no one asks a question; and we only trust they'll give At least a morning's notice ere they take the kitchen sieve. Poor father growls and grumbles, but he says that he is glad They've left enough to live with while they follow every fad. He says that every morning he is really full of cheer To notice that the bath tub is permitted to stay here!

EQUALITY.

In the year 1832 an elderly couple, peacefully sleeping in their four-poster, were one morning roughly aroused at an early hour by their excited maid-servant, who, bursting into the room, bawled out: "It's passed! It's passed!" Extremely annoyed, the old lady called out from inside the bed curtains: "What's passed, you fool?" "The reform bill," shouted the girl, "and we're all equal now!"—From "How to Be Happy though Civil," by the Rev. E. J. Hardy. (Fisher Unwin.)

A GOOD POSITION

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph Institute operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R. R. and Wireless Officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Memphis, Tenn., or Columbia, South Carolina.

THERE'S a treat in store for you if you have not met Big Ben. You may have read his Ads in the big magazines, but these are not half strong enough. I don't think they begin to do him justice.

In fact, no Ad can, so I won't attempt to write one about him. This announcement is simply an invitation for you to walk by my store and meet him.

Taking the census in Tacoma seems to be merely a matter of multiplication.

Among death's special preferences are the individuals who have schemes for prolonging life.

The Joie-Cobb baseball trouble seems to be the only scandal of the year that hasn't a woman at the bottom of it.

When the pigs are in the alfalfa and the alfalfa's in the pigs, then the farmer rides in autos and in other lordly rigs. There's rich, Wagnerian music in the grunt and in the squeal, when the pudgy porcine treasure ambles gayly to its meal, and the ultimate consumer in his pocket wildly digs, when the pigs are in the alfalfa and the alfalfa's in the pigs.

The Real Test.

"She admits she is getting old, for she confessed that she was willing to marry any old thing."

"That doesn't signify," replied her friend. "A woman hasn't lost her grip on life until she's ready to wear any old thing."—The Cynic.

Maine Fishermen Aid Widows.

In one place in the United States, at least, widows and maiden ladies are in favor. Nor is there talk of a tax on bachelors. One hundred of the largest and most tender herring is the annuity offered to all the widows residing within the confines of the town of Pemboke, Maine. It is a time-honored custom and its origin is beyond recall of the oldest inhabitant's memory. But the custom is faithfully obeyed and at the end of the year's run about fifty women claim their share.

Perfect Consideration.

Her husband was out walking with her for the first time since she had got her new hat satisfactorily trimmed. "Isn't it a perfect dream of a hat?" she remarked.

"I said," she repeated, after some moments of silence, "isn't this a dream of a hat?"

Still silence from the man. Then she ventured reproachfully:

"Why don't you say something?"

"My dear," he answered, "you seemed to enjoy your dream so that I was afraid of waking you."—Scraps.

A Double Fall.

"Did the aerial acrobat who was to give the manager an exhibition of his ability make good?"

"No," in his best act he lost his balance.

"What a pity! And it was his trial balance, too!"—Baltimore American.

"We have an official warning not to burn much gas this month."

"I never heard of such a thing."

"Oh, yes; it was last month's bill."—Buffalo Express.

WESTERN.

A registered mail pouch destined to San Francisco from Council Bluffs, Iowa, was lost from Burlington train No. 15 which left Chicago Monday.

Declaration of intention to build a railroad from Springer, N. M., to San Francisco, was contained in a letter received by Secretary of State Curry from H. S. Wanamaker, secretary of the Mountain Valley & Plains Railroad Company.

Six billion board feet of lumber, valued at about $15,000,000 were destroyed in the recent fires in the national forests in Montana and northern Idaho. The total area burned over in this one district was put at 1,250,000 acres.

Thomas Desmond, formerly sheriff of San Francisco county and one of the leaders of the expedition from the Irish nationalists that went to the rescue of six Irishmen incarcerated in the Fremantle prison in Australia in 1875, is dead, after a short illness. He was 72 years old.

An alleged defect in its wording that, it is declared, will invalidate the woman's suffrage amendment to the state constitution to be voted upon at the coming Washington state election, has been discovered in the resolution adopted by the last Legislature, submitting the question to the voters.

Twenty-five thousand people celebrated Colorado day at the Pittsburg Land show. From every booth Duquesne garden banners, with the words "Colorado Leads in Opportunities" were a feature of the decorations. Twenty thousand badges labeled "Colorado" were given out in the evening.

The preamble to the constitution of Arizona, which is shorter than that of any state in the Union, was adopted Tuesday. It contains only nineteen words and is shorter by one word than that of Texas. It reads as follows: "We, the people of the state of Arizona, grateful to Almighty God for our liberties, do ordain this constitution."

In order to make sure that the name of New Mexico will be retained for the new state a section was inserted in the first article as reported from the committee. The preamble reads: "We, the people of New Mexico, grateful to Almighty God for the blessings of liberty, in order to secure the advantages of a state government, do ordain and establish this constitution." Then follows Article 1, the first section of which reads: "The name of this state shall be New Mexico."

WASHINGTON.

United States $1 notes will be substituted for those of $20, now being redeemed at the rate of $1,200,000 a month.

The government will pay rebates to importers of Mexican drawn work to the amount of nearly $1,000,000 on account of excess duties.

The vexing problem relative to rights of owners of land along streams, passing through two or more states, to the use of water therein, is again before the Supreme Court of the United States.

Figures tending to show the relation between occupation and tuberculosis of the lungs, and apparently indicating that agricultural pursuits are more favorable to health in this respect than other employments, were made public Wednesday by the census bureau in the bulletin on mortality statistics for 1909.

Figures, the compilation of which has just been completed at the Post-office Department, show that the exact reduction of the postal deficit during the fiscal year ended June 30th last was $11,500,000. The deficit of the previous fiscal year was $17,600,000, so that in one year the deficit was reduced to $6,100,000. More than 1,500 new postoffices were established during the last fiscal year. Great extensions were made in the rural delivery system, 515 new routes with a total mileage of 12,235 being put into operation. There were appointed from the civil service list over 1,800 postoffice clerks to enlarge the working forces of the city postoffices, and more than 1,000 additional letter carriers.

POLITICAL.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and his daughter are on their way to Iowa, where the secretary will make campaign speeches and his daughter will sing at the political meetings.

John A. Dix, the Democratic candidate for governor of New York, has received a definite assurance that Mayor Gaynor would make a public statement favoring his candidacy.

The Illinois Federation of Labor has adopted resolutions looking to a referendum vote of workers in this and other states, upon forming a new political party, to be composed exclusively of working classes, including farmers.

The Boston & Maine railroad will not interfere in New Hampshire politics hereafter, according to a statement made by President Charles S. Mellen in an address before the Woonsocket club. The Boston & Maine has been a political issue in New Hampshire and Massachusetts for many years.

Political circles in Chicago thrilled with the nearest approach to a real sensation the present campaign has enjoyed. In a formal statement, Frank D. Ayres, attorney of the Election Board, charged that the Hearst faction is seeking the election of John E. Owens as county judge, to gain control of the election machinery with a view of dominating the next majority election and controlling the delegation to the Democratic national convention in 1912 with the ultimate object of nominating William R. Hearst for the Presidency.

SPORT.

The third day of the international aviation meet at Belmont park, Long Island, was made remarkable by the establishment of a new American record for altitude, by J. Armstrong Drexel, and the competition in other events was at all times full of zest. Drexel soared in great circles higher and higher into the glare of the setting sun to a height of 7,105 feet. His descent was swift, and he landed safely in the middle of the field.

The American altitude record that J. Armstrong Drexel so proudly brought down out of the clouds Monday in his Bleriot monoplane was snatched from his grasp by Ralph Johnstone Tuesday in a headless Wright climber. Drexel reached 7,105 feet, but Johnstone topped him by 198 feet with a new mark of 7,303 feet. He came down chilled to the bone and his goggles were rimmed with frost. For half an hour he battled with a snow storm above the clouds, seeking still higher levels. The undemonstrative Wilbur Wright danced with joy when he glanced at the barograph.

GENERAL.

The savings bank of the Grand Fountain of the Order of True Reformers at Richmond, Va., the largest negro organization, is in the hands of receivers.

A tentative system for collecting credit information for the benefit of the national bank examiners with the compilation and checking up of the commitments of large local and extended borrowers, has been formulated by a committee of the examiners who have been meeting at the Treasury Department.

Five hundred members of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks employed by the Queen & Crescent railroad at New Orleans and Shreveport, La., and at Vicksburg, Jackson and Meridian, Miss., who have been on a strike for the last month, in an effort to obtain increased salaries and better working conditions, announce the failure of their movement. As many of the strikers as can obtain employment will return to work.

Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post, the aeronauts of the balloon America II, for whom search had been prosecuted in the Canadian wilds, are safe and have established a new world's record for sustained flight. They traveled approximately 1,350 miles, and came to earth in Chicoutimi county, Quebec, Wednesday, October 19th, but were not heard from until Wednesday, October 26, when telegrams sent from St. Ambroise, Quebec, reached New York. The balloonists started from St. Louis, with nine other contestants, in the international contest, Monday, October 17th. All the other balloons have been reported.

Dr. E. T. Brady of Abingdon, Va., president of the Virginia Medical Society, in his annual address before that body at Norfolk said: "There are exactly 350 cold-blooded, premeditated murders of defenseless innocents for every 600 children brought into the world. Think of it! And the large majority of the horrible crimes are perpetrated by so-called Christians and intelligent wives, who thus from their vaunted social height give an example for a doctrine of convenience and selfishness. Vanity, social aspirations, fashions, ignorance and fads all conspire against the unborn."

A Logical Landlord.
Many a tenant will sympathize with the man in this story, from the Philadelphia Record. He was renting a small house which the landlord had refused to repair. One day the owner came to see him.
"Jones," he said, "I shall have to raise your rent."
"What for?" asked Jones, anxiously.
"Have taxes gone up?"
"No," the landlord answered, "but I see you've painted the house and put in a new range and bathtub. That, of course, makes it worth more rent."

ARCHIBALD'S AGATHA

By EDITH HUNTINGTON MASON
AUTHOR OF "THE REAL AGATHA"

SYNOPSIS.

Archibald Terhune, a popular and insolent young bachelor of London, receives news that he has been made heir to the estate of his Aunt Georgiana, with an income of $20,000 a year, on condition that he becomes engaged to be married within ten days. Falling to do so the legacy will go to a third cousin in America. The story opens at Castle Wyckoff, where Lord Vincent and his wife, friends of Terhune, are discussing plans to find him a wife within the prescribed time. It seems that Lady Vincent is one of seven persons named Agatha, all close girlhood chums. She decides to invite two of them to the castle and have Archie there as one of the guests. Agatha Sixth strikes Archie as a hand-painted beauty. Agatha First is a breezy American girl. Lady Vincent tells her husband that Agatha Sixth already cares for Archie. He gains from Agatha Sixth the admission that she cares for him, but will require a month's time fully to make up her mind. Agatha First, neglected by Terhune, receives attentions from Leslie Freer. Four days of the precious time have passed when Terhune is called to London on business. Agatha First, on the plea of sickness, excuses herself from a motor trip planned by the Vincents. Later they see Agatha First picking flowers with a strange man. The Vincents discuss Agatha's seeming duplicity.

"Our marriage," I corrected. "Naturally," she said indulgently and laughed. "But I've always admired her," she went on; "she's so big and strong and has such tremendous vital force. I'm a little surprised that any one of such an open character could develop into such a plotter. It's all so frightfully underhand somehow. Why can't she come and tell me frankly all about it, whatever it is?"

"Perhaps Mrs. Chiltern could throw some light on the subject," I suggested.

"I shouldn't wonder at all!" exclaimed Dearest. "Agatha First stayed much longer with her than Agatha Sixth did. I shall telephone her in the morning. What a smart little boy it is, to be sure, to think of that!" And I was more than paid for my happy thought by a pair of exquisite arms about my neck.

"I wonder what they'll have to say for themselves when they come in?" I said as we were going down to the drawing-room a little later.

"O, they won't come in together," said my wife; "that would be too much of a give away." And just then we perceived Agatha First standing at the foot of the stair-case waiting for us. She was alone, as Dearest had prophesied she would be.

"Hello!" she greeted us composedly. "Was it a nice party? Did you miss me?" And although I couldn't help thinking there was a new beauty about the girl in the unusual brilliance of her dark eyes and the deeper glow of her color as she stood there, I thought such cheek deserved a cropper.

"Rippling!" I said, before Dearest could answer. "But where have you been? I thought you were supposed to be on the sick list today." But she didn't seem a bit embarrassed. "I was," she replied. "I didn't really feel like going way over to North-bury with you, but I thought a little outing would do my head good, so I went for a stroll."

"I see!" I said, and thought with indignation of the scene in the woods even as I noticed that the young lady did not wear the pongee auto coat she had worn then. "Left it in the machine, probably, to prevent suspicion!" I thought to myself, while Dearest said sweetly: "That's nice, dear; I'm glad you felt like going. Run along now and get ready for dinner. It's almost eight."

It was what we called between ourselves "The Incident of the Checked Coat" that really decided my wife to consult Mrs. Chiltern about Agatha First's strange behavior.

The morning was fine and we had planned to take our guests to see some interesting ruins not quite 12 miles away, where an automobile was to meet us at noontime with luncheon. Dearest had been delayed with making arrangements for our picnic, and the others, the inevitable Freer, Arch and the two Agathas, had started slowly on ahead.

We could hear their voices in the gardens below our windows as she hurriedly got into some walking things. I had of course waited for her.

"I don't know but I'll go up into Terhune's room," I said, when I had finished lacing her long boots, "and see if I can't find that old fishing hat of mine I used to sport last summer. I think I saw it up there. I hate to be so dressy on a tramp like this!" And I threw my panama on a chair in disgust.

"It's in the closet," she replied; "third shelf. I put it there myself.

Though what you want with that old thing when you have boxes and boxes full of good hats I can't imagine!"

"Nothing like being comfortable!" I shouted, as I ran up the broad stairs outside the door three steps at a time.

Dearest was all ready and waiting when I came down again, but I didn't need to speak to inform her that something had happened. She saw it by my face.

"What is it, Wilfred?" she asked. "You look as if you'd seen a ghost!" "I have!" I answered, "or something quite as startling! I say, Agatha, what do you think I found in old Arch's closet?"

"Your hat, just as I told you you would! What else?" But I knew she knew I didn't mean that.

"Why, nothing more nor less than a loud checked automobile coat, or duster!" I replied in measured tones. "Now, what do you think of that?"

"Not like the coat you saw hanging over the back of the machine in the woods?" expostulated Dearest, aghast. "Not that coat, Wilfred?"

"The very same, or its twin brother,"

Content to Gaze Apathetically Upon It.

er," I told her. "Come, now, isn't that a go!" But my wife was out of the door and half way up to the third floor by that time.

"I've got to see!" she cried back to me, and I went up after her, although I knew it wouldn't be any use her seeing it, since she had not seen the one in the automobile.

"It surely is!" she exclaimed as I stood by her side. "A checked automobile coat! Did you ever, Freddy, did you ever!" And she held it up and looked it over from collar to coat-tail as if it were enchanted and could tell us more than our own eyes could gather.

"Yes," I said, "the very same!" "Then it must have been Terhune's!" "Beyond a doubt!" I answered thoughtfully. "But isn't it too queer! In the first place I didn't know he could handle a machine, and in the second, where did he get it from. By Jove!"

"And why does he have to meet Agatha First in secret that way?" wondered my wife as we left the castle and started for the scene of the picnic by a series of short cuts the others did not know.

But all our marvelling brought us no enlightenment, only the conclusion on Dearest's part that she would consult Mrs. Chiltern on the subject as soon as an opportunity presented itself.

CHAPTER VII.

We arrived at the group of ruins which formed the goal of our walk in good time, although the others were there ahead of us and were just spreading a cloth and taking things out of the automobile which had met them there, as we came up.

"Hurry up, slow coaches!" called Agatha First cheerily, "or we won't leave you anything to eat!"

"Lend me a hand with this cloth, Vincent!" was Terhune's request, and I fell to with a will and had the thing right in a jiffy.

And maybe it wasn't good fun sitting there on a lot of jolly boulders and clumps of rock that I had collected with great pains and arranged at intervals about the cloth, grinning at each other across its goodly array of picnic dainties.

Dearest is a firm hand at planning that sort of thing. We had camped upon a small rise in the middle of an open space where great oak trees cut us off from sight of the road on the one hand, and broad meadows and wooded slopes fell away toward Hartsmere stream on the other; the latter streaking the green of it all with silver a field or two away.

Close at hand the ruined chapel or convent which we had come to see piled itself in picturesque confusion, and we had reached, that point in our merry-making when we were simply content to gaze apathetically upon it and listen uncomprehendingly to Freer recite its history with never-flagging accuracy and zeal.

He knows everything, that chap! And is disgustingly ready to give everybody else the benefit of his learning at all times.

Agatha First was sitting near him tho' not making any attempt to disguise her indifference to his pedantic discourse, while Arch and Agatha Sixth, I am glad to say, were carrying on a whispered conversation together on the other side of the cloth. Dearest and I sat together, of course, situation as I did, and challenged poor old Arch's story of the nun, and in five minutes had him showed up proper, the old fellow at last having to take refuge in the statement that it must have been some other ruins he had in mind. Strange to say, however, for all his learning Freer did not win a smile from Agatha Sixth, who only turned to Terhune with more interest than ever as a result of his efforts.

It was then that Dearest made her remark about motoring over to see Mrs. Chiltern on the following day. It was an innocent enough remark and very casually said, but it seemed to have an electrifying effect upon Agatha First. She jumped up and came over to my wife.

"Don't do that!" she said, low and earnestly; "please don't. Agatha, dear!" Dearest was surprised, and, by Jove, so was I, or puzzled, at least! The girl seemed so awfully earnest about not wishing us to see Mrs. Chiltern—out of all proportion to the importance of her request, it seemed to me. "But why not?" my wife couldn't help asking.

"Because we have such a little time left to be together, you and Lord Vincent and Mr. Terhune and Agatha Sixth and myself," she said. "Mr. Terhune tells me he has to go back to London in a day or two, and I think it's a shame to waste a whole day by going over to Chiltern house! Besides, you said they owed you a call!" She had lowered her voice during this last statement, but it was not necessary. Freer had strolled off to the ruins and Archibald and Agatha Sixth were too absorbed in each other's company to notice us.

Her reasons were specious and illogical enough, but Dearest, to my surprise, seemed inclined to accept them and I had to interfere.

"They do owe us a call," I said, "but that wouldn't prevent us from having a jolly time of it if we all chose to go over together! On the contrary, it would be something to do!"

Then Agatha First, evidently goaded into a corner, set her young face in a fashion that was almost desperate. "But Agatha Fourth—Mrs. Chiltern—Isn't there!" she declared. "She told me she was going down to London for a week or two!"

Dearest stared at her, but she did not ask her, as I wanted to do, why she hadn't said so in the first place. Instead she took pity on Agatha First's white face, for the girl had actually turned pale, and assured her charitably that she had entirely given up all thought of an expedition to Chiltern house, though, as I told her afterward, obviously the young lady was cramming her. But Dearest has the kindest heart in the world.

NAUTICAL ALMANAC FIGURES

Great Care Exercised in Preparing Tables for the Guidance of the Sailor.

It may be safely said that no one outside the publishing office has read the entire "Nautical Almanac" from beginning to end, but each figure of the printed almanac is, in the office, examined twice and read three times. The total number of figures exceeds a million, but, great as the number is, it is trifling compared with the number of figures employed in the calculations, as the almanac figures represent "bare" results only. The moon, for instance, requires for its calculation more than a million and a half of figures, and similarly with other branches of the work, such as the sun, the planets, etc. Contrary to the general opinion, practically every figure in the book is fresh from year to year.

The tables from which nearly all the work is calculated have been originally constructed from the labors of the astronomical observer, and to a larger extent from the observations of the sun, moon and planets made at the Royal observatory, Greenwich. Telescopes and other astronomical appliances are conspicuously absent, as the work of the staff is purely mathematical and not observational.—From "The Sailor's Bible" in the Strand.

The Fishhawk's Warning.

"The fishhawk tells us when the shad begin to run up the river," said a Gloucester fisherman. "We have learned that it isn't much use to cast nets, no matter how mild the weather may be, until Mr. Fishhawk swoops down on us.

"When he comes sailing up the bay we know it's time to get to work. Lots of farmers down Jersey would never think to start planting until the fishhawks come. I don't believe they have ever been later than April 12, though. They work their way up the coast from Florida and the other southern waters early in March, when the fish begin to come north. They follow the big schools of herring, as a rule, because the herring swim close together, and the hawk has easy picking. The shad follow the herring, and when the fishhawk comes we know the shad are not far behind."—Fishing Gazette.

Easy for Her. An extremely corpulent old lady was entertaining her grandchild at luncheon when she found occasion to reprimand the little girl for dropping some food on the tablecloth.

"You don't see grandma dropping anything on the table," she said.

"Of course not," replied the child; "God gave you something in front to stop it."

WISE WORDS.

A Physician on Food.

A physician, of Portland, Oregon, has views about food. He says:

"I have always believed that the duty of the physician does not cease with treating the sick, but that we owe it to humanity to teach them how to protect their health, especially by hygienic and dietetic laws.

"With such a feeling as to my duty I take great pleasure in saying to the public that in my own experience and also from personal observation I have found no food equal to Grape-Nuts, and that I find there is almost no limit to the great benefits this food will bring when used in all cases of sickness and convalescence.

"It is my experience that no physical condition forbids the use of Grape-Nuts. To persons in health there is nothing so nourishing and acceptable to the stomach, especially at breakfast, to start the machinery of the human system on the day's work.

"In cases of indigestion I know that a complete breakfast can be made of Grape-Nuts and cream and I think it is not advisable to overload the stomach at the morning meal. I also know the great value of Grape-Nuts when the stomach is too weak to digest other food.

"This is written after an experience of more than 20 years, treating all manner of chronic and acute diseases, and the letter is written voluntarily on my part without any request for it."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pgs. "There's a Reason."

Failed in Health

"My mother died six years ago," writes Miss Ruth Ward, of Jerseyville, Ill., "and left me to care for six children. I had never been strong; and this, with the shock of her death, was too much for me.
"I failed in health. I was tired all the time and did not want to go anywhere, nor care for company. I had the headache all the time and such bearing-down pains.
"A very dear friend advised me to take Cardui, as it had done her so much good, so I commenced to use it and now I am in good health."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Women's pains are relieved or prevented, and women's strength is quickly restored, by Cardui, the woman's tonic. You yourself know best if you need it, or not.

If you do need it, do not delay, but commence to use it at once. Every day of delay, only lets you slide further down the hill.

Don't wait, then, but begin to take Cardui today, for its use, no matter how prolonged, cannot harm you and will surely do you good.
