WRITES ABOUT STATE

Delegate Wm. H. Andrews
Reviews The New States'
Resources, in Magazine

DESCRIBES MANY ADVANTAGES

"Our Newest State and her Marvelous Resources" is the subject of a very interesting article which appears in a recent issue of Leslie's Weekly and which was written by Hon. William H. Andrews, delegate to Congress from New Mexico. Mr. Andrews says many things that are known to the people of this territory but he also emphasizes certain points that many people have never learned or have forgotten. He shows conclusively that New Mexico came into the Union pretty well equipped for statehood and possessing "the wealth of the world" to use the expression of no less an authority than Baron von Humboldt, the great scientist and traveler. Mr. Andrews' said in part as follows:

For sixty-two years New Mexico has been pleading for compliance with treaty rights. This is the twenty-fourth congress having bills to admit New Mexico to statehood for consideration. The record shows fifty-five bills presented; the bill has passed one House or the other twenty times and both houses several times. In 1876 when Colorado was admitted by five votes, New Mexico also passed but the Senate, by an unimportant amendment, failed to concur in the house by five votes. New Mexico has 122,000 square miles; 72,000,000 acres 50,000,000 yet unoccupied, subject to land entry; the grandest pasture to be found; has 7,000,000 sheep producing 30,000,000 pounds of wool annually; has 1,500,000 cattle; ships 200,000 cattle yearly; is rich in gold, silver, copper, lead, zinc, iron ore; has billions of tons of coal; mines over 3,000,000 tons a year, and the population is larger than that of any state when admitted, except perhaps the state of Oklahoma. There are 3,500 miles of railroad and 500 miles more under construction. There are fruits of all kinds, large in size, best in quality, including figs, but not citrus, vegetables of all classes, celery shipped a thousand miles, asparagus, Mesilla valley edible onion (excellent tonic for rheumatism or neuralgia) and all cereals. Our wheat took first prize for weight and quality at the world's Fair at Chicago, oats second prize, New Mexico alfalfa yields three to five crops a year. We have hay and all farm products, besides the precious metals mentioned. In various localities there are turquoise unexcelled in the world, garnets by the peck, that cut in beautiful designs, onyx—petrified wood—peridots, bicarbonate of soda, marble of many colors, billions of tons of gypsum, petroleum, asbestos, salt in many places, building stones in variety and colors.

New Mexico has a dozen daily, 115 weekly several semi-weekly and numerous monthly and quarterly periodicals.

New Mexico has as good a system of public schools as can be found anywhere. Towns have from one to eight school buildings, some costing $50,000 or more. There are 1,300 teachers, male and female, about 100,000 pupils; many religious nominations have schools and colleges in many towns, cities, villages and even in Indian towns (pueblos) with thousands of pupils.

CONSTITUTION REQUIREMENTS

The Enabling act stipulates several things the Constitution must contain, among them are the following:

Religious freedom and toleration, a provision which is in the Bill of Rights of nearly every state in the Union.

Prohibition of polygamy.
Prohibition of the sale of liquor to Indians.

A disclaimer on the part of the people of the new state to public and Indian lands.

Equalization of taxes.

The assumption of territorial debts by the new state, and the prohibition of validating any illegal issues of bonds.

The establishing of public school system, and the conduction of such schools in the English language.

That the capital shall be at Santa Fe until 1925.

The reservation to the United States of rights and lands now reserved to it by the Reclamation act.

The prohibition of liquor on lands of Indian reservation for 25 years after their final allotment or sale.

The conditions of land grants included in the act be always observed.

ripples FROM THREE RIVERS

Mart Goodin is in El Paso and Las Cruces this week.

Mrs. Joe Wingfield and children and niece Miss Lula Wingfield of Kansas City were over from Mesalero the first of the week visiting friends.

Jack Fall and wife visited Mr. Patterson and family Sunday.

REPORT ON IMMIGRATION

Close to 13,000 homestead entries were filed in the five federal land offices in New Mexico during the year ending June 30, 1910. According to a table compiled by the secretary of the bureau of immigration, there is evident a substantial gain over last year, showing that in spite of a record breaking drouth and a comparatively poor crop year in New Mexico, the influx of home seekers shows no sign of falling off, and the average is keeping right up to the mark. It is a phenomenal showing for New Mexico, and if anyone fears that the land of sunshine is not still regarded as the land of opportunity these figures will cheer him up.

A significant fact is that this year record shows the largest number of final entries and commutations in any single year on record. The total number of entries of all classes made in the year closed was 12,999, as against 12,780 for the year 1908-9.

A total acreage was filed on in the past year of considerably more than 2,000,000 acres.

There were 3,200 final entries and commutation; 3,100 entries were for homesteads of 320 acres under the enlarged homestead act, which is regarded as another very good sign that the entrants are coming in to stay and to make their fortunes in the new country.

As further proof of the big business being done in New Mexico homesteads, it has been decided to open the sixth land office at Fort Sumner on Oct. 1, and it will do a big business from the start.

According to the figures just published by the secretary of the bureau of immigration, 10,000,000 acres have been entered upon in the past six years. Since that time an average of 9,000 land entries have been made each year.

That the rate is keeping right up this year is sufficient proof that the severe dryness of the past season and other untoward features have had no effect on the migration of homeseekers into New Mexico.

CORONA ITEMS

Mr. Epler, Raymond Epler and Mr. Symthe of Estancia have returned to their home, having completed the masonry on the new school house; they will be back in about a month to plaster the building.

Joe Simpson has completed his new home and has moved into it.

Jeff Melton has moved his family to town for the school term.

Mrs. Dean is here from Duran visiting her parents, Judge Jones and wife.

B. Becklan is spending his vacation in El Paso and Columbia. Mr. Spence of Pastura is filling his place during his absence.

Father Gierma of Lincoln was here Saturday and Sunday.

Tom Rogers returned Friday from a trip to Chihuahua Mexico.

Mr. Porter went to Alamogordo on business on Monday.

Dr. Furnal of Duran was in town today.

Mr. Yates of Blanco, Texas is here visiting her daughter Mrs. Joe Simpson. Dr. Pinkley and son Virgil, made a trip to Alamogordo on Friday.

ABOUT THE DELEGATES

Thirty-two Lawyers Elected as Delegates to the Constitutional Convention

INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM

Thirty-two lawyers will sit in the constitutional convention, there will be 20 stockmen and 14 merchants. Farmers there will 7, general business men 6, saloonkeepers 4, physicians, bankers, editors and territory officials 2; while college presidents, mining, lumbermen and railway conductors will have to be satisfied with 1 representative each. Of the Republican delegates, exactly one-half are Spanish-Americans; of the Democratic delegates, not one. In age the delegates range from 24 to 72 years, but the middle-aged men will predominate, although the old warhorses will be well represented by men like T. B. Catron, H. B. Ferguson and T. D. Burns, who are in the sixties. The convention will have a supreme court judge, the supreme court clerk and the assistant superintendent of public instruction.

The convention will grade very high as to the caliber of the men sitting in it. Some of them, like ex-governor E. S. Stover and George W. Prichard, sat in the convention 20 years ago. Others like H. O. Bursum and Solomon Luna, are veteran political leaders. Charles A. Spiess, A. B. Fall and Charles Springer are classed among the astutest lawyers of the southwest; while men like judge Frank W. Parker, Dr. W. E. Garrison and G. A. Richson would grace any dignified assembly such as the constitutional assembly. Native leader like Malaquias Martinez, Enfracio Gallegos, Isidoro Armijo, Juan Navarro, Wenceslao Jaramillo, E. A. Miera, Eugenio Romero, Margarito Romero, Jose D. Sena, who have stood to the fore in political battles many years will be there. In fact, mediocrity is the exception among the delegates.

A preliminary poll shows 40 delegates in favor of the initiative and referendum, 60 staunchly against it. Only 20 favor statewide prohibition. Nearly all want a railroad commission and most want to formulate a fundamental law excluding legislative matters.

NO COURT THIS FALL

Word has been received from Clerk Chas. P. Downs of the District Court that there will be no term of court in Lincoln County this fall. Owing to the extra large dockets in Otero and Quay counties it will not be possible to hold court in Guadalupe and Lincoln counties. Judge Ed. R. Wright is holding his first term of court at Alamogordo this week.

The next term of court held in Lincoln County will be in the new Court House as the buildings will surely be completed before the time for the calling of the next term.

The Courts of New Mexico are considerably crippled by the absence of a Judge for the fourth district no appointment having been made.

Tennis and Beagles are pushing work on the school building as rapidly as possible.

ROOSEVELT SEEMS to be lining up as the real leader of Insurgency in spite of reports to the contrary. The following declaration of Principles by Roosevelt speak for themselves:

- 1 Elimination of special interests from politics.
- 2 Complete and effective publicity of corporation affairs
- 3 Passage of laws prohibiting the use of corporate funds directly or indirectly for political purposes.
- 4 Government supervision of the capitalization not only of the public service corporations, but of all corporations doing an interstate business
- 5 Personal responsibility of officers and directors of corporations that break the law.
6. Increase in the power of the federal bureau of corporations and the interstate commerce commission to control industry more effectively.
7. Revision of the tariff, one schedule at the time, on the basis of information furnished by an expert tariff commission.
8. Graduated income tax and graduated inheritance tax.
9. Readjustment of the country's financial system in such a way as to prevent repetition of periodicals financial panics.
10. Maintenance of an efficient army and a navy large enough to insure for the nation the respect of other nations as a guarantee of peace.
11. Use of national resources for the benefit of all the people.

And others.

"HE who whispers down a well,
About the goods he has to sell.
Will never reap shining dollars,
Like he who climbs a tree and hollers."

The above was the motto of one of the great developers of the American Northwest. Using that as his business creed he built, almost single handed, an inland empire such as has caused even Americans to marvel. He didn't have any better or more varied resources than we have heard in New Mexico. He didn't have half the advantage in climate, or distance from population centers. But he had nerve and the ability to "holler" and was a firm believer in the efficacy of the "holler." He got results.

We can get the same results in the same way here in New Mexico.—"Holler"

GENERALLY speaking, a man likes to be told he is handsome, whether he is or not. He likes to be told he has small feet. This is a tip to wives. There is more virtue in a pair of tight shoes in keeping a man at home in the evenings than in all the Ten Commandments. It pleases a man to be asked for advice. You don't need to take it. Most men have advice to give away, and are always willing to bestow it on women gratis. It pleases a man for a woman to depend on him. This is the reason why many foolish girls could get two husbands a piece, while strong-minded women remain old maids.—Exchange.

LAST WEEK between Assessor Robert Hurt and our selves we made a few little mistakes in the tax summary. The sheep valuation should have been $311,060 and there are 177,750 head of sheep in the county. The book valuation is $1230, and musical instrument valuation is $2925.

THE WAY to help your town is to talk for it, not against it.

BIGGEST AND NOISIEST WEEK

"Whoop'er up for Statehood" is to be the slogan at the great six day State celebration at the Thirtieth Annual New Mexico Fair and First State exposition at Albuquerque, the first week in October, 3rd to 8th. It is going to be the very biggest and noisest week the Southwest has ever seen.

IT SAVED HIS LEG

"All thought I'd lose my leg," writes J. A. Swensen of Watertown Wis. "Ten years of eczema, that 15 doctors could not cure, had at last laid me up. Then Buelken's Arnica Salve cured it, sound and well." Infallible for Skin Eruptions, Eczema, Salt Rheum, Boils, Fever, Sores, Burns, Scalds, cuts and Piles, 25c at all druggists.

A GOOD POSITION

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph institute operates six officials institutes in America, under supervision of R. R. and Wireless Officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Memphis, Tenn., or Columbia, South Carolina.

GOOD HORSES ARE IN FAVOR

There is Growing Demand for the Better Class of Driving and Carriage Animals.

"The horse was never in higher favor than at present, and it was never harder to find a good one," said Arnold Lawson, an ardent admirer of the horse, recently. "Ten years ago fine horses were common and prices were moderate. Today a matched pair is almost impossible to find, and the price named by the dealer is appalling. Horseback riding is going to be one of the fads of the summer, and the woman who has grown stout and listless will take to the bridle paths again to reduce her weight and bring her back into form. In consequence of this society will veer back to the horse."

Among the wealthy people of Boston horseback riding in the parks and bridle paths along the boulevards is now becoming more and more noticeable, says the New York Herald. Hundreds of fashionable women are taking a morning canter on horseback and an afternoon drive behind a pair of fine horses. There is a growing demand for the better class of driving and carriage horses, and prices are increasing with the demand. Many wealthy men and women, who sold most of their horses when the day of the automobile came, are now in the market for good horses with which to refill their stables.

Prize Winner and Foal.

Mr. Lawson, who is an ardent admirer of the horse, says that horses are more desirable today than they ever were, and that because of the fact that so many dealers in fancy stock have been driven out of business have practically cornered the market for good horses and are selling them at prices which are almost fabulous. It is said that at Dreamworld Thomas W. Lawson's stock of fine horses is as large as ever. He uses his automobiles for long trips, but his horses for pleasure. It is intimated that he will have a stable of show horses at the National next fall. "There is nothing, to my mind, that can take the place of a well-bred horse," said Arnold Lawson. "I do not know of any thing that affords more pleasure than handling the reins over a high-stepping, spirited, blooded horse. Whether it is true or not that there is a corner in the supply they are certainly very hard to obtain, and fancy prices are being paid for such as come up to requirements.

"Horse dealers all over the world have been gathering up the finest horses to meet the reaction that they have seen was bound to come. The supply has been greatly diminished, of course, because of the small demand of recent years for riding and driving horses. This has made fancy prices possible."

When to Sell Lamb.

When a lamb gets so it weighs 80 or 100 pounds, sell it. You will get a good price for it and the rest will do the better for the added pasture.

BUILDING CHEAP HOG HOUSE

Convenient Structure for Animals May Be Placed in Side of Hill Without Much Expense.

(By W. D. NEALE, Missouri.)

A very convenient hog house may be constructed in the side of a hill without much expense.

If the hill slopes to the south so much the better. An excavation can be made in the side of the hill the desired size of the house. The dirt may be thrown out so as to form an embankment to the north, east and west.

Posts can be set in the ground and two by four pieces nailed on them upon which boards for the covering may rest. The roof should slant to the north, so that the sun may shine under as far as possible.

Good ventilation must be provided at the top and draughts shut out. This will be an excellent place for brood sows to farrow in, for they will be protected from the weather.

The horse killed by lightning is usually the one that's not insured.

FINE POINTS OF GOOD PONY

Clean Head, Well Held Up, Full Round Eye, and Body Almost as Round as a Barrel.

In buying a pony one should understand the points that go to make a perfect animal. A study of the pony shown here will give you a pretty clear idea of what is necessary. You will see that she has a clear head, well held up, a full, round eye and a body almost as round as a barrel, well muscled shoulders and hind quarters, and clean, bony, flat legs.

This little mare was raised in England and took the first premium at the royal show at Gloucester. The show is equal to one of our best state fairs, and in fact, as a stock show it is on a much larger scale.

MUCH PROFIT IN LIVESTOCK

More Money in Raising Animals Than by Planting Legume Crops—Humus is Retained.

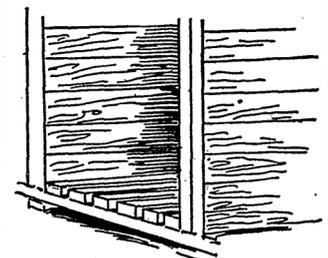

(By W. SCOTT HICKOX.)

The man who plants legumes solely to turn under will, in the majority of cases, get tired of it after a few years because of the cost in seed, labor and rent of land. He who grows legumes and sells the tops for hay is pumping the mineral elements out of his land in a most reckless manner and there will come a time of reckoning after a while. The writer is proud of the fact that he belongs to the class of men who plant legumes, make hay of the top, extract the food values by passing the hay through first-class farm animals, returning more than three-fourths of the material value and practically all the humus back to the soil, and during the progress of the game trapping enough nitrogen from the air to far more than balance the small amount of phosphorus and potash the young animals sold remove from the farm. This, my friends, is sane farming, proven such in many lands and under various conditions.

ARRANGE TO KEEP STALL DRY

Illustration and Explanation Showing How Water May Be Drained Away at All Times.

The device shown in the illustration, gives an excellent idea of keeping a stall dry; two by fours are put one inch apart, forming a second floor. This keeps the water drained away all the time. The floor of the barn should be sloped in such a way that the water runs backward, and is soaked up in the manure and bedding that is pushed off the standing floor. In this way the horses are never stained.

Keep the Stall Dry.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Dry sows are in good condition and on good pasture need little else. The scrub cannot successfully compete with first class stock when profit is the object.

When you feed the chickens watch the young turkeys that they may not get too much corn. Too much will cause indigestion.

When hens stop to drink out of a mud puddle, you had better start for the pump and get them some water that is good and pure.

Eggs are becoming daily more and more scarce. This is not surprising. It is enough for the hens to supply the new growth of feathers.

Heredity is of more importance to the breeder than to the pork producer.

No need of giving the hens stimulants and tonics during the molting season, but there is great need of proper feeding and care.

The NEAR EXTINCTION of the NAME of NAPOLEON

THE marriage of Prince Victor Napoleon to Princess Clementine of Belgium, a "royal alliance" planned with the utmost solicitude along the most ancient lines of kingcraft marks the supreme endeavor of the Bonaparte family to preserve from extinction the race of the great conqueror of Europe, Napoleon I.

It is the latest, the most widely discussed gamble of a family against fate, and the rescuer, if there be one, will be a woman.

The chances of a male heir are fairly good—simply the chances which offer to average humanity—and it is therefore likely that the Napoleonic line will be preserved, for the time at least.

But the chances that it will go on for all time are simply nil, notwithstanding the famous example of the Guelphs, of England, where descent from the only and original King David of the Jews has been claimed by enthusiastic partisans of the theory of the right divine.

Nature, laboring incessantly toward the attainment of one common level, seems to take delight in frustrating the changeless ambition of her favored child. Man, among all creatures longing for the perpetuation of his direct breed, seems ever doomed to see it disappear, inglorious and unknown, among the herd.

The Napoleonic line is in no desperate strait; yet it is apparently prepared, after only a few commonplace generations, to pass away in the same manner as did dynasties founded by conquerors as great as the first Bonaparte. The large majority seemed to fall sooner or later, both morally and physically, until like a worn-out tree the race was either totally extinct or persisted only in scions that were integrally part of another alien stock.

Royalty, proceeding on the burlesque basis that the Almighty has created its bones, muscles, flesh, blood and brain of peculiar virtue, especially adapted to the bossing of things, inevitably deduced that, unless it should mate with a similar breed of boss stock, it would degenerate into the stock divinely doomed to be bossed.

Napoleon's family, when he went where conquerors go finally, was numerous enough, as families go, to promise perpetuity. But marriage with them was limited to other and older and royal lines, most of which had an ax out for a Bonaparte whenever he came around smelling of orange blossoms.

As the French republic braced up, and more and more emphatically made it apparent that all royalty there lacks so much as an inch of ground to stand on, the opportunities for royal matches deceased with the Bonapartes, and the royal scions became fewer.

Counting Victor Napoleon, there are enumerated now only a half-score remaining, with marriage unpopular on the part of the males, for dynastic reasons sufficiently obvious. Victor, able to ally himself with the daughter of a house still reigning, is the hope of the family for an heir who, when Victor shall have died, can continue the claim to the ghostly throne so grandly seized by Napoleon I.

This summer witnessed another marriage of a famous family seems to tread the road to swift extinction. Prince Antoine Albert Radziwill, of Poland, had his way and Dorothy Deacon is his bride. On both sides of the match there is insanity, the prince's father having been an ordinary lunatic for the past seven years, and his bride's father dying insane after he killed in a duel at Cannes a guest of his wife in Paris.

The most famous of all lines in history was that of the Caesars, with the heroic figure of Julius looming as its first conspicuous member.

The Caesar line proper ended right there with "Et tu, Brute" for its epitaph. But things being ripe for the bossing of Rome, his grandnephew, Octavius, took charge, and, after him, Tiberius, who was simply a stepson of Octavius.

A dozen Roman emperors called themselves Caesar, and the magic of the name rules down even to this day as synonym for emperor in the title of Kaiser Wilhelm. But there never was a genuine dynasty of that name, because it began in the person of Julius B. C. 44, in the same person, when Brutus, Cassius and nearly fourscore assistant surgeons performed their famous Caesarian operation on him. The line of the Caesars is, in reality, Democracy's farce of the right divine.

The Capets, who managed to keep their grip on France for several centuries, began their rulership in the regular way, with one especially husky ancestor—in their case, Robert the Strong, a Saxon to whom Charles the Bald gave the duchy of the Ile de France in 861. They went into the king business in 987, when the nobles reached the conclusion that the Carolingian blood in France was about played out, the only male survivor being Charles, duke of Lorraine, whom those red-handed, two-fisted fighters regarded as a milkop. Hugh Capet, having bossed Paris and its last Carolingian king, Louis V., appealed to them as being about the size of the man they all needed, to boss them, for he had all the nerve and brawn of Robert the Strong, his Saxon ancestor.

It was evidently a hearty, healthy breed; but three and a half centuries sufficed to bring it down to Charles the Fair—Charles IV.—the last of several Capet kings all cursea with incapacity and weakness. After half a dozen years of reigning, the fair Charles flickered out, in 1324, and that ended the Capets.

The funny part of this king making was that, whenever the divine-right principle went to smash, Democracy, in the nobles and notables, hastened to get together and give it another try with a fresh breed of royalty—always agreeing on some especially bloody-minded slaughterer as their one best bet. Philip of Valois, who had the temper of a chronic earthquake, was the choice of the French barons, and he started the Valois line, in 1328, under the title of Philip VI. It took him only nine years to plunge France into the hundred years' war with England; and it took destiny—or nature—only a couple of centuries to bring the Valois family down to Henry II. in whom it flickered out in 1589.

The fate of these dynasties in France was paralleled by innumerable minor houses, there and elsewhere. Occasionally, the case of Charlemagne and Godefroy de Bouillon has been matched, as where the famous family De la Tour Auvergne came to its complete end with the death of an illegitimate scion who, although a mere private in the ranks of France's revolutionary forces, earned the title of the "First Grenadier of France."

Again, when the Rohan family, whose dukes had been kings of Bretagne, had only Marguerite de Rohan left as its heir, her husband, Henri Chabot, was coolly created duke de Rohan, to keep the name alive.

Geoffroy de Lusignan was one of the great names in French history, and the family to which he contributed distinction faded out so uncertainly that for years its name was the sport of impudent adventurers who professed to be cadets of a house which only the well informed of the nobility were positive was totally extinct. So, too, with the dukes des Eudes, who in their day were equals of the earlier Capets; and the Guises, dating back to 1508, when Rene III, conqueror of Charles the Bold and father of Claude, first French duke of Guise, presented that lapsed duchy to his second son, and ending in 1675 with the death of Francis VII, the sickly baby, left by the last maturing scion, Louis Joseph of Guise.

The house of the Medici is generally supposed to amount to little more than the astute Catherine and Marie de Medici, so thrillingly prominent in the annals of European history. The truth is that it follows absolutely the rule of a first, high-powered progenitor and of ultimate descendants fit only for contempt.

Salvestro de Medici, a member of the greater guilds in Florence, allied himself with the lesser guilds during the revolt of the Ciompi in 1378 and really managed the whole outbreak. The revolt died out, but Salvestro's cunning had made him a factor in Florence.

Cunning it was that marked all his line; but even that phase of inherited energy lapsed during the centuries until, on July 9, 1737, the last of them, Giovan-Gaston, ruler of Tuscany, passed away, he and the land he governed both wrecks from a succession of profligates and incompetents.

In England the story has been much the same as in France, an excellent example of the perishing royal line being the famous Tudors. Henry VII, on his father's side, sprang from the marriage of a plain Welsh gentleman, Owen Tudor, who had the luck to marry Catherine, the widow of Henry V.; on his mother's side, with the bar sister marrying the decency of his descent he claimed John of Gaunt as his ancestor. As earl of Richmond, Bosworth Field, fought in 1485, gave him the throne, and the Tudor name took its place among that of kings. It vanished again on March 24, 1603, when Queen Elizabeth, the last of his descendants, died unmarried at the age of seventy.

PINCHOT MEETS GRAND RECEPTION

TEARS IN HIS EYES AS HE VOICES HIS THANKS.

CONDEMN BALLINGER

5 OUT OF 7 OF COMMITTEE SO EXPRESS THEMSELVES IN A RESOLUTION.

St. Paul.—With the dazzling presidential and ex-presidential luminaries shedding their powerful rays elsewhere, the light of the National Conservation congress became visible today.

Gifford Pinchot, who was almost lost sight of during the period of presidential presence, suddenly found himself into the limelight and received an ovation almost hysterical. Tears sprang to his eyes, and were still in his voice when he said a few words of thanks.

The two sessions today, addressed by James J. Hill, Senator Beveridge and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, were well attended and enthusiastic. Mr. Hill let fall showers of epigrams at the expense of the national government and was applauded.

Senator Beveridge waxed eloquent to quite a different purpose, but the crowd noisily approved.

Minneapolis.—Condemnation of Richard A. Ballinger in the administration of the department of the interior, of which he is secretary, and a declaration that he should no longer be retained in that office, are contained in a resolution adopted today by five members of the congressional committee which has been investigating the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

These five, four Democrats and one Republican, claim that their vote is binding upon the committee as a whole.

This, however, is disputed by the other three members of the committee who were present today.

Roosevelt in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee.—The Germans had their day with ex-President Roosevelt Wednesday.

He inspected the city's trade schools, attended two luncheons and a dinner, took an automobile ride to Whitefish bay, a summer resort on the lake shore, near Milwaukee, and addressed two huge audiences tonight. Late in the evening he went to his car to start early in the morning for Freeport, Ill., where he is to speak Thursday, and for Chicago, which he is to visit later in the day.

The Milwaukee Press club had the Colonel in hand. In honor of the day, the club got out the first and last edition of the "Big Stick," a newspaper devoted exclusively to Col. Roosevelt's affairs. In it there was a letter by Mayor Seidel, explaining why he would not serve as a member of the committee to welcome Col. Roosevelt. He considered that something which the Colonel had written about socialism was unkind and said that the Colonel could not expect him to welcome him. Before he had his breakfast, Col. Roosevelt issued a reply, telling people that he would prefer to have them read what he had written rather than what the mayor said about what he had written.

$12,000 Inheritance Tax.

Denver.—John Wilhelm died here recently. He, with his bride, came here from Omaha in an ox wagon in 1859. The state of Colorado will realize $12,000 as inheritance tax. Wilhelm's estate is appraised at $700,000.

$5,000,000 for Pan-Pac. Expo.

Sacramento.—California is about to submit to the electors a proposal to levy a special tax of $5,000,000 to finance the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco in 1915.

Good Prospects for $10,000 Prize.

Boston.—Over land and sea, Claude Grahame-White of England sailed out to Boston light and return late Wednesday in his Blériot monoplane, the first competitor for the Globe $10,000 prize, the blue ribbon event of the Harvard-Boston aero meet at Atlantic.

Tragedy in Missouri.

Campbell, Mo.—After the divorced wife of Clarence Stanley killed his second wife Tuesday by shooting her ten times, Stanley set fire to the home of his first wife, twice wounded his brother, engaged in a pistol duel with his uncle and intimidated officers with shots. He is now in jail.

LATE NEW MEXICO EVENTS.

COMING EVENTS IN NEW MEXICO.
Sept. 21—Knights of Pythias grand lodge at Deming.
Sept. 20-23—Union county fair at Clayton.
Oct. 2—Constitutional convention at Santa Fe.
Oct. 3-8—Territorial fair at Albuquerque.
Territorial Fair Week at Albuquerque, Oct. 3-8.—Meetings of the following societies: Osteopaths, Board of Pharmacy, Cattle Growers, New Mexico Medical Society, Funeral Directors' Association.

New Building for Military Institute.
Roswell.—The contractors have completed the new academic building at the New Mexico Military Institute, and the dedication is to take place late in the fall. The building is one of the very finest school buildings in the Southwest. It is to take the place of the old Lea Hall which was destroyed by fire August 31, 1909.

Appointments by the Governor.

Santa Fe.—Governor Mills has re-appointed Hiram Hadley, of Las Cruces, regent of the College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts; A. H. Hilton, of San Antonio, regent of the School of Mines; William E. Gortner, of Las Vegas, trustee of the insane asylum, and R. W. Hopkins, of Albuquerque, regent of the University of New Mexico.

Insurance Company Incorporated.

Santa Fe.—The Occidental Fire Insurance Company of Albuquerque has filed incorporation papers, the paid-up capital being $200,000. The incorporators and directors are Solomon Luna of Los Lunas; J. H. O'Reilly, George Roslington, M. W. Flournoy and A. B. McMillen of Albuquerque.

Over a Cliff; Several Injured.

Santa Fe.—While on their way to the cliff dwellings at Rito de los Frijoles, a party of Santa Feans were crossing a wooden bridge near Buckman when the mules shied at a rock that had been placed in a hole in the bridge, and springing backward threw themselves, the surry and occupants into the rocky, river bed, a distance of ten to twelve feet below, shaking up seven people, and severely bruising and shocking three.

"Do it for Albuquerque."

Albuquerque.—The Commercial club of Albuquerque, which has always had a leading part in the progress of this city and central New Mexico, inaugurated a new era at a big mass meeting Thursday night when it was decided to eliminate social features of the organization and make it a strictly business organization. Recognizing the great opportunities of the chief city of the new state, the club at its meeting Thursday night, at the suggestion of the new president, F. B. Schwentker, outlined a campaign for a bigger and better Albuquerque and 50,000 population in 1920.

"Do it for Albuquerque" was adopted as the club slogan. The plans which the club will take up first include the surveying and platting of the county, the building of a system of good roads, the securing of a new railroad, lower freight rates, a reduction in the tax rate, the organizing of the valley farmers to raise money-making crops on a big scale and a widespread campaign to advertise this city as a tourist and health resort, whose advantages are unequalled.

The announcement by the club of the inauguration of the new progressive policy has aroused general enthusiasm among the citizens and it will be loyally supported.

Constitutional Convention Republican.

Santa Fe.—Complete returns received by the Republican central committee give the Republicans sixty-eight and the Democrats thirty-two delegates to the constitutional convention. Of the sixty-eight Republicans fifty-nine are against the initiative and referendum. The total majorities for the Republican candidates approximate 5,000.

In several counties, such as San Miguel, Colfax, Union, Taos and Valencia, the victories were veritable Republican land slides, exceeding the most optimistic predictions made by party leaders.

The Republicans point to the fact that not one of the twenty-seven Democrats elected is a Spanish-American, while one-half of the Republicans are native born. The result, they say, assures that neither the initiative and referendum, or the recall, will be included in the constitution and that it will be safe and sane in accordance with the expressed wishes of President Taft.

In the convention will be such old leaders as H. O. Bursum, Solomon Luna, Thomas B. Catron, Charles A. Spiess, Frank W. Parker, A. B. Fall, E. A. Miera, E. S. Stover, Nestor Montoya, Charles Springer, C. J. Roberts, T. D. Burns, George W. Pritchard and others, some of whom participated in the constitutional convention twenty years ago.

LITTLE NEW MEXICO ITEMS.

Minor Occurrences of More Than Ordinary Interest.

Artesia has 700 pupils in her public schools.

Tistic Aguerre committed suicide at Leopold.

The new land office at Fort Sumner will open October 1st.

There will be thirty-two lawyers in the constitutional convention.

Spanish War veterans have organized a local camp at Roswell.

The Catholic church at Wagon Mound was destroyed by fire last week.

Telephone communication has been established between Albuquerque and El Paso.

The Fort Sumner school bond election resulted unanimously for the proposition.

It is claimed that but nineteen of the delegates believe in statewide prohibition.

C. V. Hummel of Kirtland picked 154 boxes of peaches from eight eight-year-old trees.

A Kansas society has been organized at Roy by former residents of the Sunflower State.

Messrs. Rippey and Silvers of Flora Vista are realizing about $600 per acre for their onion crop.

Twenty stockmen and seven farmers make a fair representation of original producers in the list of delegates.

Territorial Treasurer Miguel A. Otero has received a check for $210.90 from Torrance county for taxes.

Paxton is to be the name of a new town in Taos county. A bank with $50,000 capital will be one of its first enterprises.

The New Mexico Normal School at Silver City opened this year with the largest enrollment in the history of the institution.

Twenty-five hundred acres of cotton under the Carlsbad project will yield a half-bale or better per acre. Picking is in progress.

The Catholic church, which is being built at Cuba, will be one of the handsomest church edifices in the territory and will seat 2,000 people.

J. J. Aragon, a prominent sheep raiser of Lincoln county, Thursday disposed of his clip of 40,000 pounds here to Jaffa, Prager & Co. at 15 1/2 cents.

H. H. Kimball of Washington, D. C., and a well-known authority on solar radiation, is in Santa Fe studying the sun and measuring the intensity of solar radiation. He will later visit Arizona.

The Santa Fe land office Thursday announced that during August 47,000 acres had been entered in the Santa Fe land district, one of the seven districts in New Mexico. This indicates a renewal of the rush for homesteads.

At the church of the Holy Faith, Wednesday afternoon, the rector, Rev. James Grattan Mythen, married Marion Lloyd Burrows, a young business man of Santa Fe, to Miss Susan Weltmer, daughter of Jacob Weltmer, an old resident. Miss Virginia Bean was maid of honor and Noyes Weltmer, brother of the bride, best man.

Pecos valley hay has established a steady market in the Gulf states, according to a representative of a commission firm of Dallas, Tex., now here. This one firm in the last year has shipped 75 carloads to points in Louisiana, Alabama and Georgia and he says it brings better prices and is in greater demand than any other alfalfa hay in the south.

The work of furnishing the interior of the First Methodist church at Raton is rapidly drawing to completion. Seats have been installed and the painting, wood work and furniture harmonize in a most pleasing manner. The auditorium will be magnificently lighted and altogether Raton will have a church that will be surpassed by none in the territory. To C. J. Dickey is due much praise in this result.

Territorial Engineer Vernon L. Sullivan has approved four applications for water rights, as follows: No. 446, of Henry Bucholz of Raton, waters from Salt Lake for 65 acres; No. 448, of Benito Sellar, of Kennedy, waters from Galisteo for irrigation of 90 acres; No. 460, of L. L. Cahill, of Springer, waters from a draw; No. 461, the Mountain Mining company, of Mountainair, waters from springs for mining and milling purposes.

The famous old placers northeast of Hillsboro, in Sierra county, which have produced millions of dollars in gold, are to be again worked, as it is believed a method has been found which will extract the low values at a profit. A machine now in use in mines in Mexico crushes 300 tons of ore daily through an eight-inch mesh at a power cost of $5 a day. Hiltcher Bros., well-known mining operators, have leased a number of the placer properties and will install one of these machines to handle the gold bearing cement which contains from 50 cents to $5 per ton.

Colorado.

All the coal mines at Castleton are working full time.

A recent car of ore from the Treasure Vault mine, Idaho Springs district, returned 5.55 oz. gold per ton.

The Onelda mine, Idaho Springs district, has four feet of ore that is sent to the smelter without sorting.

An effort is being made to have a smelter established at Gunnison to be operated by the Kuenzel process.

Ore shipments from Idaho Springs station for August were 115 cars, as against 94 cars for the corresponding period in 1909.

The Ouida mine, Idaho Springs district, is shipping three cars per week to the Golden smelter, and it runs from $55 to $100 per ton.

Ten cars of ore per week are being shipped through the Rockford tunnel from the Magalona and Donaldson mines, Idaho Springs district.

Six hundred and seventeen pounds of ore from the Henry Adey, Cripple Creek district, were settled for at the rate of $12 a pound, or $7,404 for the lot.

William Lloyd, general manager of the Hamlet mine and mill in Maggie gulch, died of heart disease while at the dinner table. He had been in the San Juan country six years.

After seven years of "staying with it" Wilson Davis has a two-foot vein of ore running $40 in gold in the Lost Lake mine above Eldora. Mr. Wilson employs fifteen men and the property has shipped all summer.

A second large and rich strike has been made in the Bright Diamond property, Ouray district. This discovery is on the Ironclad claim and is said to be even richer than that of a few days ago on the Finance claim.

The new Monarch Mining company, owning the Cleveland property in the Leadville district is extracting ore from a fissure vein fifty feet between walls, the low grade from which averages $20 a ton and the high grade 14 oz. gold.

Patrick Corbly and Alex Gould, who recently secured a lease on the Oom Paul group at Ironton, have sent a shipment to the smelter that will average better than $80 a ton for the carload, but some assays have shown some values of 2 to 3 oz. gold and 200 oz. silver.

The first carload of ore from the new strike on the Kansas City group in Georgia gulch, in the San Juan, netted the shippers $800, about $60 per ton. As this ore was just as it came from the mine, later shipments with better handling will undoubtedly show better values.

The owners of the Gold Link mine near Pitkin having constructed a dam and settling basins to impound the tailings from their mill, so that the pollution of the Gunnison river will be stopped, State Game and Fish Commissioner Holland will drop the suit recently instituted by him against the mining company to compel this action.

John Owen of Idaho Springs, as trustee, has secured a bond and lease upon the Onelda, Rustler and Maximum claims in the Freeland district, and the consideration is stated as $50,000, to be paid as follows: Six months from date, $6,000; twelve months, $8,000; eighteen months, $10,000; twenty-four months, $10,000; thirty months, $10,000.

New Mexico.

The Socorro mines, Mogollon district, will sink the main shaft to intersect the Little Fannie vein, and then go still beyond.

Wyoming.

The shaft house, ore bins and entire plant of the Wyoming Copper Company, which were destroyed by fire at South Pass, will be immediately replaced, according to a telegram from the company's general offices at Detroit, Mich.

Several wells are to be sunk yet this fall in the La Barge oil field in the Green River valley. It is said that an excavation ten feet from the surface will accumulate about five gallons of oil in a day, and that the oil sand crops to the surface. The product of this field is of a fine quality.

Matters between operators and coal miners in the southern Wyoming field seem to have been adjusted fairly satisfactorily to both sides, a material increase amounting to about five or six per cent. having been granted the men, who secured about all they asked for, except two or three items on underground work, and one item outside.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Need Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brookfield, Mo.—"Two years ago I was unable to do any kind of work and only weighed 118 pounds. My trouble dates back to the time that women may expect nature to bring on them the Change of Life. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me feel much better, and I have continued its use. I am very grateful to you for the good health I am now enjoying."—Mrs. SARAH LOUISIANA, 414 S. Livingston Street, Brookfield, Mo.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—Inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Talking to the Child.

"Mrs. X— talks to little Madge just as Mr. X— talks to their dog," said a little girl of a neighboring family. And it was indeed true. Mrs. X— is a very well-meaning woman and would be greatly surprised if she should hear the foregoing statement. She has simply unconsciously acquired a harsh tone of voice in dealing with her children. This is altogether unnecessary and is not, as many mothers seem to think, a mark of good discipline. The mother whose manner is quiet but firm is generally a much more successful disciplinarian than the harsh-voiced mother who issues her commands in a dictatorial manner. Kindness never spoils children. It is flabby indecision, sometimes mistaken for kindness, which spoils them.

Slightly Confused.

All of us become confused and all of us mix our language sometimes, but the preparation of an old negro preacher's sermon was the greatest confusion of metaphors I ever heard, says a traveler. When the lengthy discourse was nearing its close and he had reached his "Twenty-third and lastly, brethren," he wound up by the following elaborate figure: "Everywha, bredren, we see de Almighty—all down de untrodden paths of time, we see de footprints of de Almighty hand!"—Human Life.

Got Stung, All Right.

Bill—This paper says that bees were unknown to the Indians.

Jill—Yes, I believe it was the traders who used to sting them.—Yonkers Statesman.

CELEBRACION CENTENAL

HOY GLORIOSO DIA DE INDEPENDENCIA EN LA REPUBLICA MEXICANA

El presente mes de Septiembre es celebrado con gran magnificencia en toda la Republica Mexicana, por hacer ayer dia 15, cien años desde que el inmortal Cura de Dolores Don Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla dio el memorable grito de independencia, el cual fue el principio de la sangrienta lucha que duro once años y que termino con el reconocimiento de la autonomia Mexicana por la corona de Espana y por todas las naciones del mundo civilizado.

Durante todo el mes presente habra en la republica eventos extra ordinarios, como la dedicacion de monumentos, de palacios, de edificios publicos, de escuelas colegios, hospitales y de infinidad de obras publicas y mejoras materiales y se verificara en la capital la inauguracion de la Universidad Nacional. El dia en que los festejos alcanzaran mayor grandeza sera hoy 16, en el que el Presidente Diaz descubrira el monumento de la Independencia en el Paseo de la Reforma, y se hara la revista de mas de diez mil soldados por las calles de la ciudad.

Ayer 15 tambien fue un dia extraordinario porque ademas de ser la fecha precisa del centenario, es el cumpleaños del Presidente Don Porfirio Diaz, que cumple ayer ochenta años de edad.

Todas las naciones civilizadas del mundo han mandado a Mexico delegaciones especiales para que las representen durante la celebracion del centenario.

LA CONSTITUCION.

Ya la eleccion ha pasado, y se han elegido como delegados a la Convencion Constitucional delegados Republicanos e Democratas, hombres de los mejores que pudiera producir uno y otro partido para ejercitar un deber tan importante y delicado como lo sera de formar una Constitucion para un pueblo libre y soberano que esta para entrar y gozar de su completo derecho. Pues ahora incumbe a los delegados de dejar a un lado sentimientos politicos, e unirse en aquella gran Convencion, como hijos de Nuevo Mexico, obrar como patriotas, solamente en vista de resguardar con todas las restricciones necesarias la vida, libertad y propiedad de todo el pueblo como ciudadanos del Estado. No se debe tornar la Convencion Constitucional en una camarilla politica, simplemente por que exista una mayoria de miembros de un partido, sino que deben todos; Republicanos y Democratas, como delegados del pueblo consultarse, cambiar ideas, proponer discutir y adoptar aquello que pueda ser mas beneficiosa para el futuro del nuevo estado y sus habitantes, ya sea que la idea provenga de un Republicano o de un Democrata, pues todos son representantes del pueblo e interesados en su bienestar, como sus hijos.

El hombre quien busca la sabiduria es un sabio; el que cree que la alcanzado es un tonto.

La nobleza del hombre procede de la virtud, y no de la riqueza.

Tenemos noticia que Juan Solis salio para Mexico D. F. Gozara de visitar las fiestas del centenario, no tenemos idea cuando regresara

Como ya estamos inmediatos del tiempo frio nos han yegado algunas olas de frio que nos priva de andar guapos.

Accidentes acaecen. Se nos ha reportado que un hombre serca de esta seccion fue desafortunadamente atropellado por un tren y le cojio sus dos pies dejandolo inmovil. El susedicho fue traído aqui para que recibiere asistencia medica

Si el honor es nuestro vestido os durara para siempre; pero si el vestido es vuestro honor presto quedara reducido a hilachas.

DON'T BREAK DOWN

Severe strains on the vital organs, like strains on machinery, cause break-downs. You can't over-tax stomach, liver, kidneys bowels or nerves without serious danger to yourself. If you are weak or run-down, or under strain of any kind, take Electric Bitters the matchless, tonic medicine. Mrs. J. E. Van de Sande, of Kirkland, Ill., writes: "That I did not break dawn, while enduring a most severe strain, for three months, is due wholly to Electric Bitters." Use them and enjoy health and strength. Satisfaction positively guaranteed. 50c at all druggists.

John D. Roselair, convicted of wife murder in Washington county, Oregon, was hanged Thursday. Roselair declared the killing of his wife was accidental.

California is about to submit to the electors a proposal to levy a special tax of $5,000,000 to finance the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco in 1915.

Elnathan B. Shores, aged 72, and Rosaltha Gerr, aged 73, were married at the court house in Kansas City Thursday by the Rev. H. S. Church. Both were from Denver.

Cattle on the ranges in Pecos county, West Texas, are dying by the thousand as a result of the long continued drouth which has prevailed in that part of the state during the summer months.

A disease that recently broke out at Radersburg, Mont., resulting in the death of two persons, the illness of several others and the paralysis of all those afflicted, is believed by Helena physicians to be poliomyelitis.

Martin Beckins, a candidate for the California state Senate, a Christian Scientist, has been arrested for cruelty in trying the methods of his cult on a sick horse, which afterward died. He had hired a science practitioner.

In the heart of San Mateo county, California, the most beautiful orchids in the world are raised, and this fact is being recognized by King George V. of Great Britain, who has sent $1,000 for one of the rare plants for the Sandringham conservatories.

After the divorced wife of Clarence Stanley killed his second wife Tuesday at Campbell, Mo., by shooting her ten times, Stanley set fire to the home of his first wife, twice wounded his brother, engaged in a pistol duel with his uncle and intimidated officers with shots. He is now in jail.

At Salt Lake City Interstate Commerce Commissioner C. A. Prouty concluded Wednesday the hearing of the proposed schedule of freight and passenger rates decided on by the commission last June in what is known as the Salt Lake rate case. Argument on the protest will be heard in Washington later.

John S. Parry of San Francisco was elected vice president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, defeating John E. Cline of Cleveland by more than 400 votes at the annual convention held in St. Louis. Thomas F. Grady of New York, automatically advances from vice president to president under the constitution of the order.

A meteor estimated to have been at least 100 feet in diameter sailed across the Willamette valley shortly after noon Monday and is believed to have plunged into the earth west of McMinnville, Yamhill county, Oregon. It was seen by a number of persons in Portland and by the postmaster at Mount Angel, thirty-two miles distant, and also by several persons at Salem, forty miles from Portland.

California's legislature, convened in special session three days ago by call of Governor Gillett, passed the two state constitutional amendments Thursday that provide $10,000,000 for the Panama-Pacific International exposition at San Francisco in 1915. The two amendments mean a total of $17,500,000 with which San Francisco will go before congress in December when asking the government's approval of the exposition, as $7,500,000 is the sum San Francisco subscribes voluntarily to the exposition fund.

POLITICAL.

The leader of the Hamilton club delegation on the advice of Roosevelt sent Lorimer a telegram recalling the invitation sent the senator to attend the banquet.

That United States Senator La Follette will have two-thirds of the Republican votes at the platform convention at Madison September 27, or enough completely to control the Republican state organization, is now claimed.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt at Chicago Thursday barred William Lorimer, junior United States senator from Illinois, from the Hamilton club banquet at the Congress hotel by refusing to sit at the same table. The occurrence startled politicians here and over the state.

The doctrine of "new Nationalism" was set forth still more clearly by Roosevelt in his speech Tuesday before the National Conservation Congress. He declared for government control of the country's natural resources and in doing so placed himself directly against the advocates of "State Rights."

Condemnation of Richard A. Ballinger in the administration of the department of the interior, of which he is secretary, and a declaration that he should no longer be retained in that office, are contained in a resolution adopted by five members of the congressional committee which has been investigating the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

Lieut. Gov. John A. Mead of Rutland, a retired physician and prominent business man, was elected governor of Vermont by the Republicans in the state election Tuesday by a plurality of about 17,000. Republicans elected the rest of the state ticket and both of their congressmen, but the Democrats made gains in the Legislature. The Republican plurality was the smallest with two exceptions, since 1870.

Gifford Pinchot received an ovation long and loud at the National Conservation Congress at St. Paul Wednesday. The two sessions, addressed by James J. Hill, Senator Beveridge and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, were well attended and enthusiastic. Mr. Hill let fall showers of epigrams at the expense of the national government and was applauded. Senator Beveridge waxed eloquent to quite a different purpose, but the crowd noisily approved.

The Press club which had Colonel Roosevelt in hand on his visit to Milwaukee got out the first and last edition of the "Big Stick," a newspaper devoted exclusively to Col. Roosevelt's affairs. In it there was a letter by Mayor Seidel, explaining why he would not serve as a member of the committee to welcome Col. Roosevelt. He considered that something which the Colonel had written about Socialism was unkind and said that the Colonel could not expect him to welcome him. Col. Roosevelt replied that he would prefer to have them read what he had written rather than what the mayor said about what he had written.

WASHINGTON.

Acting Secretary Pierce of the interior department Thursday approved regulations to carry into effect one of the conservation bills enacted at the last session of congress, namely, the law of June 22, 1910, providing for agricultural entries of the surface of public coal lands, the coal deposits being reserved for separate disposition by the United States. This will permit the agricultural entrymen, who have heretofore made filings upon lands classified or reported as containing coal to secure title to the surface of their lands.

President Taft in his St. Paul speech made answer to the recent agitation for a "new nationalism," or a federal centralization of power, by declaring that the only safe course to pursue was to hold fast to the limitations of the constitution and to regard as sacred the power of the states. Mr. Taft, amid applause, made frequent references to the services of Theodore Roosevelt in the cause of conservation, but he declared that the time for rhapsodies and glittering generalities had passed. He suggested to the congress that it should invite its speakers to come down to details, to specific evils and to specific remedies.

Opportunity of Suffragist.
Baroness Alotta Korff tells in one of the magazines how the women of Finland came to vote. The fact is that women had to show that they could meet an emergency before the vote came to them. They have not had many opportunities to take the initiative in the world's history and they have not always responded when the opportunity came, but when a crisis, such as that in 1904, when the strike and the revolutionary outbreak in Russia took place at the same time, occurred, they proved they could make peace by doing it. Not until England and the United States find the women helping them to bear some great trouble will they give them the right to vote.

HOW A DOCTOR CURED SCALP DISEASE

"When I was ten, or twelve years old I had a scalp disease, something like scald head, though it wasn't that. I suffered for several months, and most of my hair came out. Finally they had a doctor to see me and he recommended the Cuticura Remedies. They cured me in a few weeks. I have used the Cuticura Remedies, also, for a breaking out on my hands and was benefited a great deal. I haven't had any more trouble with the scalp disease. Miss Jessie F. Buchanan, R. F. D. 3, Hamilton, Ga., Jan. 7, 1909."

Twenty-seven new, crisp $1 bills, says Harper's Weekly, weigh as much as a $20 gold piece. Wouldn't have thought it, and have no means of proving the assertion, but if so it is probably owing in some way to the recent activity of the inspectors of weights and measures.

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic. "Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits. It Makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drugs. Is a pure glyceric extract of healing, native American roots.

SERIAL STORY

THE LITTLE BROWN JUG AT KILDARE

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON
Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

Copyright 1908 by The Bobbs-Merrill Company.
SYNOPSIS.

Thomas Ardmore and Henry Maine Griswold stir upon intrigue when the governors of North and South Carolina are reported to have quarreled. Griswold allies himself with Barbara Osborne, daughter of the governor of South Carolina, while Ardmore espouses the cause of Jerry Dangerfield, daughter of the governor of North Carolina. These two ladies are trying to fill the shoes of their fathers, while the latter are missing. Both states are in a turmoil over one Appleweight, an outlaw with great political influence. Unaware of each other's position, both Griswold and Ardmore set out to make the other prosecute. Both have forces scouting the border. Griswold captures Appleweight, but Jerry finds him and takes him to Ardley, her own prisoner. Ardmore arrests a man on his property who says he is Gov. Osborne. Meanwhile another man is arrested as Appleweight by the South Carolina militia. The North Carolina militia is called into action. When Col. Gillingwater, Jerry's fiance, finds that real war is afoot, he flees. Appleweight is taken secretly by Ardmore and lodged in a jail in South Carolina. Returning to Ardley, Ardmore finds that the banker, and Foster, treasurer of North Carolina, have been arrested. Barbara Osborne arrives at Ardley. Dispute as to who has the real Appleweight results in the identification of the man jailed by Ardmore in South Carolina as the outlaw.

"Any man," said Jerry, lifting her chin slightly, "who would impersonate the governor of South Carolina would, beyond question, be utterly insane and an object of compassion. Prof. Griswold, will you please produce your imaginary Appleweight, as at this hour Mrs. Atchison usually serves tea. Let us therefore make haste."

One of Griswold's retinue ran off to summon the prisoner, who was guarded by half a dozen soldiers near at hand.

The company in the bungalow were all laughing heartily at some sally by the adjutant general of South Carolina, who insisted upon giving a light note to the proceedings, when hurried footsteps sounded on the veranda and a sergeant appeared in the doorway and saluted.

The adjutant general, annoyed at being interrupted in the telling of a new story, frowned and bade the sergeant produce his prisoner. At once a man was thrust into the room, a tall man, with a short, dark beard and slightly stooping shoulders. The strong light at his back made it difficult for the people grouped about the table to see his face clearly, but the air somehow seemed charged with electricity, and all bent forward, straining for a sight of the captive. As he stood framed in the doorway his face was slowly disclosed to them, and there appeared to be a humorous twinkle in his eyes. Before any one spoke, he broke out in a hearty laugh. Then a cry rose piercingly in the quiet room—a cry of amazement from the lips of Jerry Dangerfield, who had taken a step forward.

"Oh, papa!" she cried.

"The governor!" roared Col. Daubenspeck, leaping across the table.

"It's Gov. Dangerfield!" shouted half a dozen men in chorus.

At this moment Mrs. Atchison and Miss Barbara Osborne stole softly in and ranged themselves at the back of the room.

The governor of North Carolina crossed to the table and took his daughter's hand.

"Jerry, what part do you play in these amateur theatricals?"

Jerry rose, thrusting her handkerchief into her sleeve, and her lips trembled slightly, though whether with mirth or some sober emotion it would be difficult to say. The room at once gave her attention, seeing that she was about to speak.

"Papa, before these people I am not ashamed to confess that during your absence from the seat of government I took it upon myself to fill your office to the best of my ability, finding that many important matters were pressing and that you had gone into exile without leaving your address behind. I made Mr. Ardmore, the gentleman on my left in the pearl-gray suit and lavender tie, first private secretary, and then, when occasion required, acting governor, though in reality he did nothing without my entire approval. I am happy to say that nothing has been neglected and your reputation as a great statesman and friend of the people has not suffered at our hands. We arrested Mr. Appleweight, who is standing there by the fireplace, and landed him in the Mingo county jail as a joke on Gov. Osborne, and to appease the demands of the press and the Woman's Civic league of Raleigh. The copies of our correspondence on this and other matters will tell you the story more completely. And as for Gov. Osborne, I have taught him a lesson in the etiquette that should obtain between governors that he is not likely to forget. You will find that we have not hesitated to grant pardons, and we have filled, in one instance, the office of justice of the peace, made vacant by resignation. The key to your desk, papa, is behind the clock on the mantel in your private room."

"Ladies and gentlemen," began the governor of North Carolina, laying a hand upon the table, and with the other seizing the lapel of his rough, brown coat—a pose made familiar by all his photographs—"the jails of North Carolina are more uncomfortable than I had believed them to be, and I have taken a slight cold which compels me to be briefer than this interesting occasion demands. You have witnessed here an exhibition of filial devotion that has, I am sure, touched us all. It is well worth while for me to have suffered arrest and imprisonment to realize the depth of my daughter's love and the jealousy with which she has safeguarded my private and public honor."

He felt for a handkerchief and touched it gently to his eyes; but Collins declared afterward that Gov. Dangerfield was exactly like his daughter and that one never could be sure that his mirth was genuine.

"I was aware only yesterday, when I saw a newspaper for the first time in a week, that political capital was being made of my absence from Raleigh; and that my dear friend, the governor of South Carolina, also, was being called to account for finching in the face of imperative duty."

"Your friend, governor?" cried Ardmore, unable to restrain himself.

I realized that strange things may happen when the king goes a-hunting."

As he paused, Miss Osborne stepped forward, the men making way for her.

"If this be true, Gov. Dangerfield, may I ask you, sir, what has become of my father?"

Gov. Dangerfield smiled.

"I regret, Miss Barbara, that I cannot answer that question; I must refer it to my daughter."

"Miss Osborne," responded Jerry, "while I should be glad to assist you in recovering your father as a slight return for your having placed mine in the Dilwell county jail and kept him there all night, I regret that I am unable to be of the slightest help to you."

The perspiration was beading Ardmore's brow, but he smiled as though in joy at Jerry's readiness.

"We have taken a number of prisoners," said Ardmore, meeting the governor's glance, "and while I do not think Gov. Osborne can possibly be of the number, yet I shall be glad to produce them all. There's a person in the corn-crib a little way across country whom I captured myself. I believe he's now tied to a mulberry tree a little way down the road, as he pretended to be the governor of South Carolina and I feared that he might do himself some harm."

Before he ceased speaking big Paul strode in, an angry and crestfallen man following at his heels.

"Oh, father!"

It was Barbara Osborne's voice; but whatever of anger or joy there may have been in her words and tone was lost in the shout of laughter that broke from Gov. Dangerfield. The governor of South Carolina was in no such high humor. He sputtered, swore, stamped his foot and struck the table with his clenched hand as he demanded to know the meaning of the outrageous indignity to which he had been subjected.

The more his friend stormed the more Gov. Dangerfield roared with laughter, but when he could control himself he laid an arresting arm on sity of Virginia, and the author of—"Griswold?" The anger slowly left Gov. Osborne's face. "Do I understand that you belong to the Virginia tide-water family of that name? Then, sir, without hesitation I offer you my hand."

"Osborne," cried Gov. Dangerfield, "we have every reason to be proud of our daughters. They have done their best for us; and they seem to have acted wisely in accepting aid from these gentlemen; and now, what is to be done with Bill Appleweight?"

"We have with us that requisition you left on your desk," exclaimed Barbara, turning to her father.

"I'm afraid that won't help," laughed Gov. Osborne, "that requisition, Barbara, is purely Pickwickian in character."

"The disposition of Appleweight," said Cooke, "is a matter of delicacy for both of you gentlemen, and you will pardon me for thrusting myself forward, but that this affair may end happily for all, neither North nor South Carolina should bear the burden of prosecuting a man to whom—we may say it as between friends here—the governors of both states are under some trifling obligations."

The governor of North Carolina exchanged a glance and a nod with the governor of South Carolina.

"Therefore," resumed Cooke, "we must hit upon a plan of action that will eliminate both states from the controversy. I will, with your permission, turn Appleweight over to the United States revenue officers who are even now in this neighborhood looking for him."

(TO BE CONCLUDED.)

RAISED A NOVELTY IN CORN

Western Farmer Grew Ear with an Odd Number of Rows Showing on It.

Jake Brunton, a farmer living five miles northwest of Blair, astonished the managers of the corn show there to a finish by bringing in for exhibition a full well-developed ear of corn with an odd number of rows of corn on it. It is a noted fact that all ears of corn have even number of rows—running from 14 to 22—but no odd numbers. This ear has 15 rows with 48 grains to the row. Mr. Brunton planted fifteen hills from a peculiar ear of corn of his own selection, and the planting received the same attention as his other corn. He read last year of an offer by an Illinois corn raiser of a 320-acre farm for an ear of corn with an odd number of rows. He began to experiment, and planted an odd number of hills on the 13th day of the month, and husked and counted each ear separately. A dozen corn experts examined it, and would not believe it until counted by themselves. It is a freak of which Mr. Brunton is justly proud, but he forgot to take it to Omaha to the national show.—Omaha Bee.

The Lesson of Paris.

When an American city is overwhelmed by the waters of the earth we sense the disaster, but we do not regard it as something outside the ken of our national experience. We are near enough to the primeval to accept the acts of nature with something of the fatalism of the trappers and voyageurs who used to range the woods and streams of our virgin country. But when the flood sweeps down upon a great continental capital the effect upon us is far greater. We feel that a civilization so ancient, a city that has lived upon its island in the Seine since the century before the Christian era began, must have developed some tough fiber of resistance, some mere bulwark of age, that would protect and save it. The desperate strait which Paris faces to-day teaches differently. After all, the metropolis of Europe is no more powerful against the mighty forces of the elements than is the little mining town of Cherry, Ill.

Indiscreet.

"I do so hope you will succeed," said the motherly, warm-hearted landlady.

"I am bound to," said the sanguine young inventor. "And when I do, you won't see me eating at a place like this any more."

Then, in realization of the utter impossibility of fixing things, he grabbed his hat and fled.—Unidentified.

Natural Selection.

"How did you attain your eminent position?" asked the scientist.

"Natural selection," said Senator Sorghum.

"You mean that you are specially fitted by your ancestry?"

"No; nothing like that. I just naturally selected the offices I wanted and went after them."

How She Suffered.

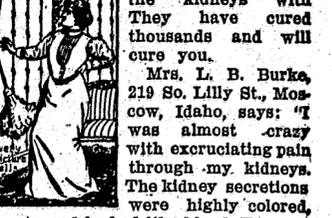

"Ah," she sighed, "for many years I've suffered from dyspepsia."

"And don't you take anything for it?" her friend asked. "You look healthy enough."

"Oh," she replied, "my husband has it—not I."—Human Life.

the kidneys with They have cured thousands and will cure you.

Mrs. L. B. Burke, 219 So. Lilly St., Moscow, Idaho, says: "I was almost crazy with excruciating pain through my kidneys. The kidney secretions were highly colored, scanty and looked like blood. For over a month I was in bed, totally helpless. Doan's Kidney Pills benefited me wonderfully. They have my endorsement at all times."

The undertaker usually finishes all he undertakes.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

Your side of the argument may be convincing as far as you are concerned, but what is the use if it doesn't convince the other fellow?

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

When the Fish Exploded.

Somebody discovered that fish are fond of gasoline, and this led to the idea of soaking worms in gasoline in order to make them more alluring when used for bait.

Mark the result.

Two of those gasoline-tempted fish exploded in the frying-pan, and broke the kitchen window, and blew the cook's face full of mashed potato, and hurled the teakettle into the flour barrel, and painted the kitchen ceiling with stewed tomatoes.

Call it a lying world and let it go at that.

A Shipping Error.

The young Duchess of Westminster, wife of the richest peer in England, recently gave birth to her third child, a daughter. Thus there is no heir to the immense Grosvenor fortune, Earl Grosvenor, the Duchess' second child, having died at the age of four.

Apropos of all this, a rather cruel story is being told in Newport about Lady Ursula Grosvenor, the 8-year-old daughter of the young duchess.

A friend, the story goes, called at Eaton Hall, and as she sat in the drawing-room, little Lady Ursula entered.

"Oh, good afternoon," she said gravely. "Mamma can't see any one today. She's upstairs with the new baby. They sent her, you know, a girl when she'd ordered a boy, and she's so upset that she's quite ill."

"NO FRILLS"

Just Sensible Food Cured Him.

Sometimes a good, healthy commercial traveler suffers from poorly selected food and is lucky if he learns that Grape-Nuts food will put him right.

A Cincinnati traveler says: "About a year ago my stomach got in a bad way. I had a headache most of the time and suffered misery. For several months I ran down until I lost about 70 pounds in weight and finally had to give up a good position and go home. Any food that I might use seemed to nauseate me."

"My wife, hardly knowing what to do, one day brought home a package of Grape-Nuts food and coaxed me to try it. I told her it was no use but finally to humor her I tried a little, and they just struck my taste. It was the first food I had eaten in nearly a year that did not cause any suffering."

"Well, to make a long story short, I began to improve and stuck to Grape-Nuts. I went up from 135 pounds in December to 194 pounds the following October."

"My brain is clear, blood all right and appetite too much for any man's pocketbook. In fact, I am thoroughly made over, and owe it all to Grape-Nuts. I talk so much about what Grape-Nuts will do that some of the men on the road have nicknamed me 'Grape-Nuts,' but I stand today a healthy, rosy-cheeked man—a pretty good example of what the right kind of food will do."

"You can publish this if you want to. It is a true statement without any frills."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs., "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

"Ladies and Gentlemen," Began the Governor of North Carolina.

Gov. Dangerfield. "That angry parting of ours at New Orleans was all for effect to get space in the newspapers. We had confided to each other that the cares of state had worn us to an intolerable point and that we must have rest. Brother Appleweight had, I confess, given us both a great deal of annoyance, and to be frank, neither Osborne nor I wished to take the initiative in his case. So we resolved to disappear, and go to some quiet place for rest. We outfitted with old clothes and came to the border. Gov. Osborne has a farm over there somewhere in Mingo county and we made it our headquarters; but in roaming about we came upon that charming shanty of yours, Mr. Ardmore, down on the Raccoon. The house was deserted, and finding the marks of the official survey running clearly through the timber, we were amused to find that the house was partly in North, partly in South Carolina. The thing touched our fancy. A negro cooked for us—what has become of him I do not know. We cut ourselves off from the mail and telegraph and received no newspapers until a packet came yesterday, and it was only a few minutes after I saw from the head-lines of the Vidette what a row was going on that

Gov. Osborne's shoulder, and spoke to Barbara.

"Barbara, may I ask whether you, like my own Jerry, have been protecting your father's fair name during his absence; and does that account for my night spent in the jail at Kildare? If so—"

Gov. Dangerfield's laughter got the better of him, but Barbara, with dignity, turned to her father.

"It is quite true, that finding your absence, occasioning serious remark, while your attorney general took advantage of your absence to annoy me in a most cowardly fashion, with the kind help of Prof. Griswold I did all in my power to thwart your enemies, and to show the people of South Carolina that you were not a man to evade the responsibilities of your office. As to the details of these matters I prefer, father, to speak to you in private."

"Prof. Griswold?" repeated Gov. Osborne, haughtily. "I believe I have not the honor of the gentleman's acquaintance; whereupon, to ease the situation, Ardmore presented his old friend."

"Gov. Osborne, allow me to present Prof. Henry, Maine Griswold, associate professor of admiralty in the University of Virginia, and the author of—"Griswold?" The anger slowly left Gov. Osborne's face. "Do I understand that you belong to the Virginia tide-water family of that name? Then, sir, without hesitation I offer you my hand."

"Osborne," cried Gov. Dangerfield, "we have every reason to be proud of our daughters. They have done their best for us; and they seem to have acted wisely in accepting aid from these gentlemen; and now, what is to be done with Bill Appleweight?"

"We have with us that requisition you left on your desk," exclaimed Barbara, turning to her father.

"I'm afraid that won't help," laughed Gov. Osborne, "that requisition, Barbara, is purely Pickwickian in character."

"The disposition of Appleweight," said Cooke, "is a matter of delicacy for both of you gentlemen, and you will pardon me for thrusting myself forward, but that this affair may end happily for all, neither North nor South Carolina should bear the burden of prosecuting a man to whom—we may say it as between friends here—the governors of both states are under some trifling obligations."

The governor of North Carolina exchanged a glance and a nod with the governor of South Carolina.

"Therefore," resumed Cooke, "we must hit upon a plan of action that will eliminate both states from the controversy. I will, with your permission, turn Appleweight over to the United States revenue officers who are even now in this neighborhood looking for him."
