FARMING THIS COUNTY

A Little 'Dope' on the adaptability of certain things to local conditions

COUNTY'S POSSIBLE FUTURE

Up to a few years ago it was the general belief that, aside from the lands subject to irrigation and the limited area on the high mesas where the rainfall is great, Lincoln county's vast area was only fit for grazing. But irrigated lands were scarce and a few hardy farmers, seeing the success of the so-called "dry farming" method in other sections of the Southwest, tried it on the plains and mesas, always before considered the exclusive domain of the stock-grower. The results were surprising. Not only did the more hardy feed crops, which flourish in this region, produce abundantly, but fine returns were had from corn, oats, barley and rye. The older residents were astonished, shook their heads and continued to predict failure. But there was no such hesitation on the part of the newcomers who about this time began to invade the whole plains section of eastern New Mexico in such numbers that it became necessary to add many clerks in the land office at Tucumcari in Quay county. These people were willing to take a chance. Some of them failed; but most of them succeeded and the influx continues with little sign of abatement.

Lincoln county has had its share of this immigration and as the possibilities of the county become better known more and more people are turning there.

It is difficult to say with any degree of certainty just how great is the extent of the county's "dry-farming" area. Lands heretofore considered worthless are constantly being proven crop-producers under the scientific method. In Quay county, to the northeast, the dry farming area was at first thought limited to a very small district around Tucumcari. The homeseekers, however, finding this land taken up spread out over the surrounding country and as they spread out others came in on a still wider circle and so this district has finally expanded over a considerable part of a county which five years ago was considered only fair for grazing. The farmers continue to succeed, the degree of success depending in large measure upon the industry of the individual and the faithfulness with which he applies the two or three vital rules of the scientific method of cultivation.

In Lincoln county at present the proven area of dry farming lands lies around Carrizozo, where the greatest acreage is; around Oscura, Corona, Capitan, Nogal and White Oaks. How much these districts will be extended cannot be predicted with any degree of safety. Only experiment will prove it.

In this, as in all other dry farming sections of New Mexico the most certain and successful crops thus far grown are the non-saccharine sorghums, Milo-maize and Kaffir corn. Being valuable, both for grain and forage, they have proven a favorite crop everywhere. The Milo-maize is probably the most drought-resistant of the two and matures in a little shorter time. Both, however, will grow with less water than any other dry farming crop unless it be the millets which have not yet been grown to any extent. Oats, rye and barley do well and corn has been grown with fair success, producing under proper cultivation from forty to fifty bushels to the acre, in seasons of average rainfall.

It is too early to say what the results from fruit growing will be on "dry" land. Some orchards have been planted in the non-irrigated districts of the territory and seem to be doing well. But it will be a year or more before they can come into bearing and until that time any prediction as to the result would be without foundation. Some experts predict success; others predict failure. It will be a year and probably two before there is any satisfactory demonstration.

The homeseeker or farmer who is going onto "dry" or non-irrigated land should always keep in mind the fact that he is entering upon a kind of farming entirely different from that of the humid regions where the rainfall is abundant and certain and that before he can hope for any success at all, he must learn how to dry farm. The cardinal principle of the dry farming method is conservation of the water supply in the soil. To accomplish this special method of tillage is absolutely essential. These methods are as different from farming methods in the humid regions as are the methods of farming by irrigation. They are no more difficult than the methods used in the humid region when once understood, but they must be understood and they must be applied before the farmer can expect to get results.

It is not desired to hold out to the homeseeker, either for Lincoln county or any part of New Mexico, a picture of a land of promise and plenty where a rich livelihood may be had without effort. In this country as in any other country, successful farming means hard work and plenty of it. In dry farming districts not only hard work but intelligent application of the scientific method is required. This method is not difficult to apply and when faithfully followed it is possible for the industrious, thrifty farmer to gain not only a livelihood but a surplus to put aside for the rainy day.

CHANGE IN TRAINS

From one to two hours will be clipped from the Southwestern's time between Los Angeles and Chicago, on train 1 and 2, when a new time table is put into effect for those two trains on October 30.

Coincident with the change in schedule for trains 1 and 2, a cafe service will be placed on trains 1 and 2.

—John Bell, Harry Little, and Bob Ransom returned Wednesday from Carrizozo Mountain where they had been after deer for several days. They were not successful in their pursuit of this game but brought in a large wild cat; one of the largest ever killed near here.

REFERENDUM GETS IN

Initiative Left Out but Referendum is Included in States' Constitution

TO ELECT ALL STATE OFFICERS

The judges of all courts established under the constitution of New Mexico will be elected by the people.

A corporation commission will be created, the members of which will also be elected by the people.

Provision will be made in the constitution for a referendum by means of which 10 per cent of the voters by petition may cause any act of the legislature to be referred to the people for approval or rejection. Twenty five per cent of the voters may cause a law to become inoperative pending its approval at the polls. Acts of an emergency nature do not come under the provisions of this article.

An employers liability act will be embodied in the constitution. The initiative will not appear in the constitution in any form, neither will it be submitted to the people as a separate provision. The initiative is dead.

All these things were settled at a caucus of the Republican members which was in session Tuesday. The settlement came only after a prolonged struggle, during nearly all of which the old guard was on the defensive. It is the result of a compromise by the terms of which the progressives agree to abandon their fight for the initiative in consideration of having their own way in all other matters for which they are contending. While the progressives might have forced the caucus to adopt the initiative as a republican measure, they were so divided among themselves as to the kind of initiative they wanted that they despaired of ever reaching an agreement. Bernalillo county's delegates made a good fight for direct legislation, but they were outvoted on the final test. The Dona Ana county men also stood by their guns, and voted for their plan until the last. This plan provided for the initiative and referendum, to be submitted to the people as a separate article of the constitution.

Another matter which was decided upon by the caucus today was that the republican members would support the majority report of the various committees when they came up in the convention. The members reserve the right to make such minor changes and amendments as they may deem necessary in these reports. Several delegates expressed the intention of using their own judgment as to what they considered minor amendments or changes. As a result of the work accomplished at Tuesday's caucus, it is likely that the date of the adjournment will be advanced at least a week and probably ten days. It is now hoped that the constitution may be completed by November 22.

Santa Fe, Oct. 25, 1910.
Editor of the Outlook,

Carrizozo, N. M.
Dear sir:—As you may desire to know how things are shaping up here I send you a few lines concerning the latest developments. The Republicans were in Caucus from 2 P. M. yesterday until 11 P. M. and again today from 2 to 6 P. M. The result is that the referendum will be adopted, the Supreme Court and all District Court Judges will be elected, as will the Corporation Commission and the Tax Commission. The initiative will be defeated, 14 republicans in the Caucus reserving the right to vote for a separate submission of the initiative, but these with the 29 Democrats will not be enough to carry it through the convention. On the whole the Republican progressives have won the day and I believe that we will get a popular Constitution that will be adopted by the people by a large majority.

JOHN H. CANNING,
Republican Delegate from Lincoln County.

HUMPHREY—BRANNICK

News has reached here of the marriage of Harry Humphrey of this city to Miss Anna Brannick of Leslie Michigan, Harry's old home.

The bride and groom are headed for Carrizozo and will make their home here. This paper extends congratulations to the couple.

The Leslie home paper contained the following report of the wedding: "An autumn wedding of which Harry L. Humphrey, formerly of Leslie but now of Carrizozo, New Mexico, and Miss Anna Brannick was solemnized at St. Johns church, Jackson Tuesday morning with nuptial mass by Rev. Fr. Schenkelburg.

Miss Mamie Humphrey, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid and William Brannick, brother of the bride, as best man.

A three course wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, 733 Waterloo ave., Miss Flynn catering, after which Mr. and Mrs. Humphreys left for Bay City, Detroit and other points. Later they will leave for their home in Carrizozo, N. M.

They were the recipients of many valuable presents. Guests were present from Detroit, Bay City, Leslie, Stockbridge and Jackson. Regrets were received from Hartford, Conn., Carrizozo, New Mex. and Greeley, Colo."

AN ELOPEMENT

Miss Maggie Gallacher and Will Kelt eloped from White Oaks last Tuesday and went to El Paso where they were married by Justice of the Peace Mc Clintock. Miss Gallacher and Mr. Kelt had been close friends for a long time but Miss Gallacher's mother objected to the match. Consequently the young couple surreptitiously left town coming to Carrizozo and from here going to El Paso where they were married. Both are well and favorably known in this vicinity, Miss Gallacher having been born and raised at White Oaks.

Mr. Kelt has lived in White Oaks for a number of years being engaged in business at that place. The happy couple returned from El Paso Tuesday and will make their future home at White Oaks.

—Mrs. William F. Whittingham and daughter Angela are visiting Mrs. Hackett at Tucumcari.

—Mrs. W. C. McDonald has returned home from Denver.

The guests included Miss Effie Joseph and Mrs. John Eric Bell.

COURT HOUSE NEWS.

Little has developed during the past week in the way of news in the court house affair, and all await the hearing of the case before Judge Wright at Alamogordo on Nov. 7th. It is hoped by all interested in the Carrizozo side of the dispute that the case will not be continued to a later date.

A telegram was received from Attorney General Wickersham this week acknowledging receipt of memorial prepared by the Carrizozo citizens and sent to him and the Attorney General assured the people of the city that it will receive due consideration.

Contractor Ben Bechtel has returned from a hurried trip to Clovis and El Paso where he went on legal business. Mr. Bechtel suggests that it would be well to hire a watchman for the county building since he has ceased to be further responsible for the building.

—H. B. Hamilton returned late last week from Santa Fe where he had been on legal business. Mr. Hamilton says he intends to move to Alamogordo from Capitan at an early date.

MEN ARE QUEER. Wouldn't there be a roar when they went home to their meals if they had to climb up on a high stool in front of a table on which there was no cloth, and eat their meals in that fashion. Yet the majority of men when they go to a restaurant in the city will pick out the high stool and the feed board with no cloth on it in preference to a cloth covered table. A man will borrow a chew of tobacco and most of them will set their teeth into the plug where some other man has gnawed off a chew. Offer him a piece of pie at home from which his wife or one of the children had taken a bite, and he would "holer" his head off. At home he objects to drinking out of a cup or glass from which one of the family has been drinking. Call him into the back stall of a livery barn, pull out a bottle and he will stick the bottle half way down his throat in order to get a swig, after half a dozen fellows have had the neck of the bottle in their mouths. Truly, man is a queer duck.

THOSE NEWSPAPERS that began to squeal before a single line of the constitution was adopted will be likely to find little comfort in an appeal to the voters of the territory to reject the constitution if it does not contain their beloved initiative and referendum. The democratic party made those measures the issue of the campaign at the close of which the delegates to the constitutional convention were elected, and on that issue they succeeded in electing less than one third of the total number of delegates. The convention will probably embody the referendum, at least, in the constitution but if so it will be because the delegates are convinced in their own good judgement that it is wise to put it there, not because they have reason to believe that a majority of the voters of the territory are desperately enamored of that method of legislation and certainly not because they have any regard for the petty threats of a few peevish and impotent papers.

ANY MERE legislation put into the New Mexico constitution at present may seriously handicap the state in the near future. Conditions are changing rapidly and what may seem good today may be detrimental tomorrow. Therefore, the wisdom of President Taft and the Republican party in insisting that the constitution of New Mexico be safe and sane, that it be modeled after the constitution of the United States, is commendable and apparent. The constitution drafted in 1889 was a model and the constitution makers of today might do worse than adopt it for submission at this time. It illustrates the point that a constitution confining itself to fundamentals is written for all time, while one that goes into legislation may be out of date by the following morning.

DELEGATE John H. Canning of the Constitutional Convention recently wrote the Editor inquiring in reference to the opinion of the people of the county on the following two questions. We are suggesting that those caring to express their opinion write direct to Mr. Canning at Santa Fe.

1. Would the omission of the Initiative from the Constitution be an unpopular measure and to what extent would it endanger the acceptance of the Constitution when submitted to the people?

2. Would appointive Supreme Court Judges be unpopular and endanger the Constitution also?

THE SOCCORO 'CHIEFTAIN' hits the nail a brief but telling blow when it says: "There should be a careful and complete survey of New Mexico at the earliest possible date. The expense of such a survey would be returned manifold by the increased tax receipts."

ABOLISH THE GRAND JURY

The question of the continuance of the present Grand Jury System is confronting the Constitutional convention. The following is from the Morning Journal of Albuquerque recommending the abolition of the system and leaving the power in the hands of the district attorney.

The Morning Journal believes that the abolition of the grand jury system in the new state of New Mexico will be a step forward and go far to ameliorate conditions in the administration of justice in this commonwealth. The grand jury system has been branded as a relic of barbarism, a star chamber procedure out of harmony with republican institutions, antiquated and inefficient.

"Barbarism" may be putting it a little strongly, but we believe the grand jury system is no longer wanted in New Mexico. "New Mexico is not ripe for the more modern practice," says the Santa Fe "New Mexican." We believe New Mexico is ripe and if she is not she will ripen fast after the system is done away with. The argument is set forth that to do away with the grand jury would give too much power to the district attorney. If this should prove true, the district attorney would at least have to face the responsibility or the blame which he now may shift to the grand jury, a temporary body, working behind closed doors so that no man can put his finger on the person or persons responsible for an unjust indictment or a failure to indict where indictment is deserved. Furthermore, the existence of the grand jury enables a district attorney, if he so desires, his influence in placing the indictment brand on innocent citizens or allowing guilty ones to escape. The power of this official is certainly as great now as it would be without the grand jury; and without it he must take the individual personal responsibility for his acts.

The grand jury, like many other institutions, is all right if the system is not abused. That it has been seriously abused in New Mexico cannot be disputed. Reputations have been injured and innocent persons have languished in jail without warrant in fact, and the guilty have often escaped.

"The grand jury," admits our Santa Fe contemporary, "has been and is a political instrument of tyranny."

In this the "New Mexican" may be prejudiced; but the conclusion is correct. We believe the new state should worry along without the grand jury.

FARROWING OR PASTURE PEN

Illustration Shows Such a Structure That Answers Requirements in Ideal Manner.

Mr. Walter S. Prickett, manager and owner of the Roycroft farm at Sidnaw, Mich., has a farrowing pen which answers the requirements of such a structure in an ideal manner. He calls it the "Berkshire bungalow."

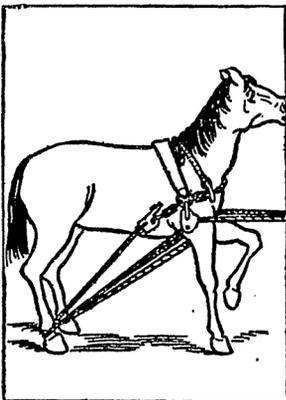

Farrowing or Pasture Pen.

It would certainly be hard to surpass the Roycroft plan for attractiveness and general usefulness. The accompanying drawing indicates the general plan of the cot. The dimensions of all cots are so near standard that it will hardly necessitate the repetition of these figures here. The main points of difference in the "bungalow" as compared with other pens are: The center board on each side are hinged so that they can be swung open in hot weather; the ridge cap is so mounted that it can be raised and lowered at will, thus further assisting in the ventilation of the pen and the roof boards are made into panels which may be raised or lowered over a window frame which is in place just below them. This last arrangement permits of making the pen into a hothouse whenever desired. The pen certainly has about as many adjustments on it as one could wish for. It is, moreover, one of the most attractive pens built. Its main objection is perhaps that the cost of construction is somewhat higher than is the case with more simple and less convenient types.

Horses working hard in the harvest fields need water several times a day.

Goats will breed at six months of age, but this early breeding destroys vitality. Eighteen months is about the right age for breeding.

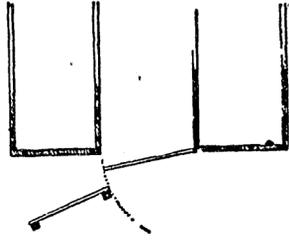

One reason why the breed has not made more headway is the fact that sour men have devised a harness which is warranted to cure this habit. Straps cross the horses back and breast and at their junctions are fastened the ends of ropes which engage the fetlocks of the animal's hind legs in running loops. The other end of the ropes are fastened to staples in the horse's stall or to some other stationary object in front of which he is tied. The result is that when a horse is trussed up in this manner, if he tries to kick he find he cannot get his hind feet beyond a certain point, and after making a number of ineffectual efforts he becomes discouraged. If he is a particularly bad kicker he can be goaded into making these attempts until his spirit is broken in that respect.

EASY WAY TO HANDLE HOGS

Kansas Man Has Excellent Plan for Transferring Animals From One Pasture to Another.

Herewith is a drawing showing the handy way by which Mr. D. W. Evans of Fairview, Kan., handles his hogs in transferring them from one lot to another. The drawing is intended to show the barn, on one side of which is arranged the stalls for the live stock and on the other the grain bins with a passageway between the two. In the rear of this barn he has a number of swine pens and at the right of the front of it his hog house. As shown by the drawing, he has built a chute in front of the barn which connects with the hog house and which is opened or closed by the barn door. Only two posts are shown in the chute, as this is enough to show the idea. The curved line is intended to show the swing of the door. When the chute is in use for transferring of the hogs from the hog house to the feed lots in the rear of the main barn, or for transferring brood sows from the field to the farrowing pens, the barn gate is attached to the posts at the end of the chute by a chain, which is provided with a simple attachment for fastening. If it is desired to drive a team through the barn, the door is swung clear and the chute is not in the way of any ordinary vehicle. This is one of those little conveniences which add so much to the efficiency and comfort of farm life and which may always be had by simply taking thought and doing a little work. By settling the first post so that the gate will strike it, this same idea may be applied in pasture gates all over the farm, where it is desirable for persons to pass without allowing stock to get through. Such a gate will need no latch as it will strike against the post on either side and admit of the passage of any one without allowing even a pig to get by.

To Transfer Hogs.

Barley for Hogs.

Canadian experimenters have found that barley is the best grain for finishing the prime bacon hog. As long as bacon hogs are not selling as high as fat hogs in this country, however, our feeders will stick to corn. It's good enough for the market hog, and it makes him good enough for the market.

Working Heavy Teams.

Heavy draft teams hauling heavy loads keep in good condition when kept at the fast walking gait, and accomplish more than when trotted part of the time.

breeders charge prices much too high for the experimenting farmer.

Those who have been raising sheep in recent years have had no reason to complain.

The high price of hogs should not tempt any farmer to go into the hog-raising business beyond his means. While prices may continue high, the crop during the next two or three years will be greatly increased by thousands of plunging farmers who will rush into the business.

Small Things Need Attention.

Good management and plenty of good clean shelter for the flock go a long way toward success with poultry. Good management with poultry or in any business consists mainly in looking after details, the small things. If the small things are taken care of as they come up, the large things will be no trouble. Clean nests, daily watering, dust bath, removing the droppings from the house often and sheltering the birds from the elements and animal enemies are a few of the small things which the successful poultryman must attend to.

CHEERFUL WORDS FOR SUFFERING WOMEN.

No woman can be healthy with sick kidneys. They are often the true cause of bearing-down pains, headaches, dizziness, nervousness, etc.

Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Doan's Kidney Pills make strong, healthy, kidneys. Mrs. Joseph Gross, Church St., Morrilton, A. R. K., says: "My ankles were swollen and my back was so painful I could not straighten. I was treated by six doctors without relief. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, I have nothing to complain of."

Two Englishmen were resting at the Red Home Inn at Stratford-on-Avon. One of them discovered a print picturing a low, tumbling building underneath which was printed: "The House in Which Shakespeare Was Born." Turning to his friend in mild surprise he pointed to the print. His friend exhibited equal surprise and called a waiter, who assured them of the accuracy of the inscription.

"Pon my word," said the observing Englishman, shaking his head dubiously. "I thought he was born in a manger!"

"Thank You's."

The man who is not thankful for the lessons he learned in adversity didn't learn any.

There must be plenty of thankfulness in the world if those who have loved and lost could know just what they have lost.

"Why are you giving thanks? They took $10,000 from you in Wall Street a little while ago, didn't they?"

"Yes; but I got out with $20 they didn't know I had."—Judge.

Tired Out.

"Is the first edition of your novel exhausted yet?"

"No. Why?"

"I thought it might be from standing so long on the counters."

COFFEE WAS IT.

People Slowly Learn the Facts.

"All my life I have been such a slave to coffee that the very aroma of it was enough to set my nerves quivering. I kept gradually losing my health but I used to say 'Nonsense, it don't hurt me.'"

"Slowly I was forced to admit the truth and the final result was that my whole nervous force was shattered.

"My heart became weak and uncertain in its action and that frightened me. Finally my physician told me, about a year ago, that I must stop drinking coffee or I could never expect to be well again.

"I was in despair, for the very thought of the medicines I had tried so many times nauseated me. I thought of Postum but could hardly bring myself to give up the coffee.

"Finally I concluded that I owed it to myself to give Postum a trial. So I got a package and carefully followed the directions, and what a delicious, nourishing, rich drink it was! Do you know I found it very easy to shift from coffee to Postum and not mind the change at all?"

"Almost immediately after I made the change I found myself better, and as the days went by I kept on improving. My nerves grew sound and steady, I slept well and felt strong and well-balanced all the time.

"Now I am completely cured, with the old nervousness and sickness all gone. In every way I am well once more."

It pays to give up the drink that acts on some like a poison, for health is the greatest fortune one can have. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Why He Wouldn't Pay.

The conductor on a Dorchester car was very hot and tired and his car was so crowded he had hard work collecting the fares; so when he came along and saw a man standing on the running board and a little three-year-old child occupying an end seat near him, he said combatively: "You'll have to give me a fare for that little girl."

"I'm sorry," said the man calmly, "but I refuse to do it."

A heated argument followed, during which the conductor demanded his rights and the man calmly refused. At last the latter said, with a laugh: "One reason why I won't pay for the child is that she is not mine and she is not with me."—Boston Record.

With Advantage to Whom?

The gyroscope, which enable a railroad train to travel on one rail, by a recent invention can be applied to a man, and is said to be practical for bridge builders and others who have to work at dizzy heights and are always in danger of losing their balance. It would seem that the arrangement might also be applied to a drunken man to advantage.—Libby News.

"What luck d'd that sheriff who went out after Stage Coach Charley have?"

"Furty good," replied Three-finger Sam. "Charley didn't ketch him."—Washington Star.

CHANCE TAKERS.

A practical railway man, F. P. Roesch by name, and master mechanic of a southwestern railroad by occupation, advances a new reason for the many accidents on American railways. Mr. Roesch says it is summed up in two words—"chance takers." In a speech before the Railway Surgeons' association this western master mechanic declared that the only way to do away with railroad accidents is to eliminate the "chance takers," says Indianapolis Star. His position is well taken, and his terse description of a vital reason why railroads of this country kill so many people is rather startling. When one comes down to the only phase of railroad operation that so far has been beyond absolute control, Mr. Roesch says the element of human fallibility stands out as the primary cause in 99 out of every 100 cases. This view of the matter, while not questioned, is rather out of the usual in summing up causes for accidents on railways. The American people are the greatest chance takers on earth. They not only take chances in making money—the gambler's chance—but they take chances in politics, education and in social life, and they risk their lives daily without the quiver of an eyelash merely to get somewhere quickly. Automobile racing is condemned in some quarters because of the great danger; football comes under the same ban; marathon racing is risky, as are prize fighting, polo and numerous other sports.

Though some of the Germans are stirred up, nobody else in Europe seems to be unduly excited over Emperor William's affirmation of the divine right of sovereignty. It is recalled that he has said something to the same effect before. But it is also remembered that constitutionalism and liberal government have gone right along. Even Russia, where absolutism appeared to have such a hold, has been the creation of a Duma or parliament which affords the people a measure of representation. Then there are Turkey and Persia, both formerly in the grip of despotism, now enjoying progressive rule and constitutional privileges. And Germany itself has some constitutional guarantees that the emperor would not think of molesting.

Prof. William L. Garner says that Susie smiles on him. Susie is a little chimpanzee, not the one who lived and loved in a cocoon tree, but the one the professor recently kidnaped from her home in Africa. The savant maintains that Susie's smile proves her kinship with humanity. Before accepting this statement at its face value the public is entitled to know whether the young African wrinkles her nose when she chortles. She is only seven months old and failing this corroborative evidence, it is fair to assume that she may simply be suffering from colic and in need of a little catnip tea.

A feature of the census returns that surprises many is the population growth of the east as compared to that of the west. Despite the tremendous development of the west and the great number that have sought homes in that section, the east is showing up gains almost as great, and even greater when considered in proportion to the respective territorial areas. According to present indications the center of population will not move a great distance westward and will still be at some point in Indiana.

The young woman in New York who shot herself because she did not make an expected literary success, now wants to live and try again. She ought to succeed. In these sensation-loving days, she has secured quite an advertisement for her work. Courtship reputation at the cannon's mouth is a well-known operation, but it is sometimes new to woo literary success at the pistol's point.

Oshkosh, Kokomo, Kalamazoo, Oconomowoc and Hackensack have all made remarkable gains in population. Now, who says there's no advertising in paragraphic publicity?

Montana census enumerators are under arrest for padding their returns. And yet we are told that figures will not lie.

COMING EVENTS IN NEW MEXICO.
Nov. 7—Fifth reunion of Scottish Rite Masons at Santa Fe.

Masons Elect Officers.

Albuquerque.—The grand chapter of Royal Arch Masons of New Mexico, at their annual session in Roswell, elected and installed the officers for the ensuing year, headed by J. C. Slack of Clayton, grand high priest; Solomon Spitz of Santa Fe, grand deputy high priest; C. O. Young, of Albuquerque, grand king; Territorial Secretary Nathan Jaffa, grand scribe; A. A. Keen, Albuquerque, and A. J. Malloy, of Albuquerque, re-elected grand secretary and grand treasurer; R. E. Lund of Roswell, grand chaplain; M. R. Williams of Las Vegas, grand captain of the host; R. M. Parsons of Roswell, grand principal sojourner; Chas. B. Morrow, Silver City, grand royal arch captain; John Spring of Clayton, grand master third veil; A. Goldenberg of Tucumcari, grand master second veil; E. E. McNott of Artesia, grand master first veil; Paul Teutsch, Albuquerque, grand tiler.

Constitutional Convention Proceedings

Santa Fe.—The constitutional convention finally voted down the proposition to print a daily journal, which would have cost $2,500.

Even on the present conservative basis, the convention will expend $7,000 more than the appropriation made by Congress and the proposition to publish a daily journal was not recommended.

It is generally conceded that the convention will last seventy and perhaps ninety days. If the convention goes more than sixty days it is quite likely that the delegates will not ask pay for the additional days.

There seems to be a well defined disposition to make a good constitution and to this end the committees are taking their time in drafting the different articles.

It is likely that the matter of separate schools for white and colored children will be put up to the convention as a whole and it is freely predicted that an article will be incorporated into the constitution forever prohibiting the segregation of white and colored children in schools.

Only three committees reported, the committee on schedule submitting a complete report, providing for the territorial laws to be in effect until the state laws take their place and that the territorial officers shall be in office until succeeded by the state officers.

The committee on bill of rights made a partial report.

The committee on ways and means reported that the expenses of the convention the first fifteen days had been $14,152.51, and that the remaining forty-five days session would cost $47,152.51.

Proposed Legislative Laws.

Santa Fe.—The committee on legislative department has completed its work for the constitutional convention, except that it could not reach an agreement on any of the many initiative and referendum propositions submitted to it, and will pass the subject up to the convention, which will refuse to adopt any provision of that nature.

The report of the committee provides for a bi-cameral system of 24 senators, to be presided over by the lieutenant governor, and 49 house members, each to serve four years. Senators are to receive $5 a day for actual attendance, besides 10 cents a mile for traveling to and from the capital, and representatives $4 per diem and the same mileage. Senators must be at least 25 years old and representatives at least 21.

The legislative body is to meet every two years, not to exceed 90 days the first time and 60 days at the second session. It may be called in 30 days' special session by the governor.

Heavy penalty is provided for bribery, and special and local legislation are prohibited.

The number of legislative employees is limited to those enumerated and these are to receive from $2 to $6 a day.

Changing any bill, or causing it to disappear while it is pending in the Legislature is declared a felony punishable by penitentiary sentence.

No legislator shall be appointed to any state office, or to any county office he has helped to create, or whose emoluments were increased by the Legislature in which he served.

No appropriations are to be made for institutions not entirely controlled by the state and no donation shall go to any railroad or other private enterprise.

Corporations and individuals shall be given no exemptions or immunities that do not fall to every citizen alike.

LITTLE NEW MEXICO ITEMS.

Minor Occurrences of More Than Ordinary Interest.

Robbers blew the safe of the post-office at Fort Sumner and made way with $500.

Three townships near Clayton, Union county, have been surveyed and are to be thrown open to entry.

F. W. Farmer, state manager of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen, has organized fifty local applicants into a branch of that society.

Citizens of Las Vegas are protesting against the use of the National Guard Armory at Las Vegas for roller skating and basket ball on Sundays.

Mrs. S. C. Nutter, president of the New Mexico W. C. T. U., was held up by footpads at Albuquerque who took her hand bag, containing $45 and made off with it.

Amos Hedricks, forest assistant at the Gallinas planting station of the forest service, forty-five miles east of Santa Fe, died suddenly at Las Vegas of an abscess of the stomach.

Land Commissioner R. P. Ervian has completed arrangements under which Clayton, Union county, will take over his water and light plants, if the people vote the necessary bond issue.

S. P. Butler of Roswell is in Mississippi, where he accompanied a carload of young mules and horses. The latter were mostly of his own raising and will be used to stock the farms of that state.

Superintendent of Public Instruction J. E. Clark has received requests for two or three well qualified female teachers at $50 to $60 a month and for two principals of schools to fill vacancies, paying $60 to $75 a month.

Suit has been brought at Albuquerque by Manuel Tafuya, Emiliano Sals and Nicholas Gurule against Manuel Sena, Corsino Lucero and Solomon Lucero, contesting the election for ditch commissioners on the Alameda ditch.

Sam Tedlock of Cheyenne, Okla., is in jail at Clayton charged with getting away with a livery team. One of the horses he is accused of killing and the other one he turned loose just before he was arrested near Dalhart, Texas.

Pablo Samora, who lives on the Guadalupe mesa, was in Wagon Mound, Mora county, with a big grizzly bear, which he shipped to Raton. The bear weighed 1,700 pounds, and had done considerable damage to stock on the mesa before it was killed.

The first Odd Fellows' lodge in Union county was instituted at Clayton last week. W. E. Watson is noble grand; D. A. Carroll vice grand; P. S. Fletcher and W. Brown, secretaries, and John E. Elbridge, treasurer. The lodge has thirty charter members.

B. G. Randall, Dr. T. P. Martin and I. W. Dwire of Taos presented to the members of the high court of Masonry, the desirability of the establishment of the Kit Carson Masonic Home in Taos and the restoration and preservation of the old Kit Carson house.

C. E. Odom of Roswell consummated a deal last week by which he sells some sixty head of horses. They will be shipped to points in Texas and include mares and geldings, from Mr. Odom's bunch of equines which range some six miles east of this city. Mr. Odom netted $3,200 out of the deal.

During Archbishop Pitaval's visit to Taos it was determined to build a new cathedral there, to be constructed of cement and occupying the present site. The building will be in keeping with the needs of the section where a very large church membership resides and will be an attractive feature of Taos.

At the recent meeting of the Methodist Episcopal conference held in Artesia, Rev. W. R. Evans, pastor of the church of that denomination in this city, has been assigned to the church at Alpine, Texas, and Rev. T. L. Lalance, who held the pastorate in this city some few years ago, has been assigned to the Carlsbad field again.

The school census reports to the superintendent of public instruction just received show that two more of the dry farming counties have lost heavily in population during the last year. Guadalupe county's school population is 2,546, a loss of 846, and that of Torrance county 2,839, a loss of 481.

Portions of the Pecos valley have thoroughly demonstrated this year that there is money in growing cantaloupes. Lakewood has shipped about fifteen cars this year, and growers netted over $100 an acre on the output. According to the statement of a man who had worked at it, 150 crates are an average yield per acre and they net 90 cents per crate on the crop. This puts the figures at $135 per acre, and it looks good.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Galloway have left Raton for a trip across the continent on burrow back. They will follow the old Santa Fe trail as far as Kansas City, there diverging southward to attend the Mardi Gras festival at New Orleans. Afterward they will pursue an eastern and northern course to their ultimate destination, Brookfield, Mass., where they reside.

GETTING EVEN WITH MAMMA

In This Case, Child's Punishment Certainly Failed to Have Salutory Effect.

A little girl had been so very naughty that her mother found it necessary to shut her up in a dark closet—in that family, the direst punishment for the worst offense. For 15 minutes the door had been locked without a sound coming from behind it. Not a whimper, not a sniffle.

At last the stern but anxious parent unlocked the closet door and peered into the darkness. She could see nothing.

"What are you doing in there?" she cried.

And then a little voice piped from the blackness:

"I thpt on your new dress and I thpt on your new hat, and I'm waiting for more thpt to come to thpt on your new parasol!"

HIS HANDS CRACKED OPEN

"I am a man seventy years old. My hands were very sore and cracked open on the insides for over a year with large sores. They would crack open and bleed, itch, burn and ache so that I could not sleep and could do but little work. They were so bad that I could not dress myself in the morning. They would bleed and the blood dropped on the floor. I called on two doctors, but they did me no good. I could get nothing to do any good till I got the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. About a year ago my daughter got a cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and in one week from the time I began to use them my hands were all healed up and they have not been a mite sore since. I would not be without the Cuticura Remedies.

"They also cured a bad sore on the hand of one of my neighbor's children, and they think very highly of the Cuticura Remedies. John W. Hasty, So. Effingham, N. H., Mar. 5, and Apr. 11, '09."

OLD SOLDIER WISHES TO HELP SUFFERERS FROM KIDNEY, LIVER AND BLADDER TROUBLES

I am frequently troubled with kidney and bladder trouble, especially in the Spring and Fall. Being an old veteran of the Civil War, a little exposure or cold settles on my kidneys, and then I am laid up with kidney or bladder trouble. Your Swamp-Root was recommended to me a number of years ago, and I took a number of bottles of it and was more than pleased with the results. I consider Swamp-Root the greatest and best kidney medicine on the market, and it never fails to give quick results in kidney trouble, bladder trouble and lame back.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root has done me so much good that I feel if any words of mine will be the means of relieving any poor sufferers that you are at liberty to use this letter as you see fit.

WOMAN PREFER IT

When the the newsboy come through the train with the Chicago papers, watch the married couple across the aisle. If the man is a well regulated husband he will ask his wife which paper she prefers, and then you may lay odds that the one chosen will be The Record-Herald. There is no mystery about it. The man knows that he will fine all the news in The Record-Herald, to be sure, but the woman knows it is the only paper that also gives adequate attention to the things in which women are specially interested. In every daily issue she can fine a bill of fare for the day's three meals, reliable society news, good book reviews, bright verses and jokes without vulgarity, a cartoon that anybody can enjoy and a fair share of the news of the day relating to women. Every Monday there is "Martha's Management," a very helpful column of culinary topics. In the Sunday edition a whole section is devoted to women, including Marion Harland's famous page, Jeannette Hope's fashions direct from Paris, Dame Curtsey's Novelties in Entertainment and many special articles of timely interest. There is the Sunday Magazine of The Record-Herald, a real magazine full of good love stories and beautiful pictures. Do you wonder that women prefer The Record-Herald?

THE PLEECEMAN

The Pleeceeman that owns all our street
From our schoolhouse to Perkins' store
An' watches ever'one he will meet—
I'm not afraid of him no more!
An' he's as big—the Pleeceeman is—
He's big as G'In, an' he's got
A great big club that he could whiz
Right on your head as like as not

W'y yesterday I runned away—
Or wanted to—until I crossed
That street where all the railroads stay,

An' first thing that I know I'm lost!
An' so I cried, but just buhcause
I'm sorry for my mamma then—
She's feel so bad if Santa Claus
Don't find me when he comes again.

An' just right while I'm cryin' there,
W'y that big Pleeceeman come, he
'd, an'
An' laugh an' say that he declare
If here ain't Mister Wilton's kid!
An' I was scared! But he took hold
My hand an' said I was the best!
An' then we walked on, an' he told
Some stories, till we found our street.

The Pleeceeman he has eyes that squinch

All up in wrinkles when he grins,
An' he just pat my head an' pinch
My cheeks—An' he's got two-three chins!
An' you can't 'magine, but it's true,
'Fore long I wasn't 'fraid, an' then
I notice him until I knew
That Pleeceemans is the same as men!

So when my mamma see me, w'y
She hug me up as close an' tight,
An' that big Pleeceeman say: "Good-
by,

I've kids at home, mum; it's all right!
So now I'm not afraid to walk
Up to him like I was before
An' say: "How'do," an' almost talk!
I'm not afraid of him no more.

Behold the sweet girl graduate,
Her face is wan and pale—
Is it because she must orate
And fears that she may fail?

Is it because she studies hard
Her once bright eyes are dimmed?
Ah, no! She's thinking of fouldard
And how it should be trimmed.

POVERTY IN GLASGOW.

Some shocking revelations of overcrowding in Glasgow were made recently when a batch of offenders appeared in court. One of the worst cases was a house consisting of two apartments allowed for six adults, in which were found 11 adults and three children. These were the occupier of the house and her two children, three men, six women and one child lodgers. When the officers visited the house on the first occasion they found only four persons in it and on returning at night they were informed that there were still only four occupants. On a search being made, however, they found a man below the bed, a woman in the kitchen press, a woman in the coal bunker and still another woman in the place where the pots and pans were kept. In another house consisting of a single apartment allowed for three persons, the officers found five adults and three children, most of them sleeping on shake-downs on the floor.

TEST OF HIS LOVE.

"Tell me," he pleaded, "what can I do to win your love. There is no danger that is too great, no task that I will not undertake, to make you mine."

"Get me the tail of Halley's comet to put on my hat."

A GOOD POSITION

Can be had by, ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph institute operates six officials institutes in America, under supervision of R. R. and Wireless Officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Memphis, Tenn., or Columbia, South Carolina.

THERE'S a treat in store for you if you have not met Big Ben. You may have read his Ads in the big magazines, but these are not half strong enough. I don't think they begin to do him justice.

In fact, no Ad can, so I won't attempt to write one about him. This announcement is simply an invitation for you to walk by my store and meet him.

STORY OF THE WEEK

SHOWING THE PROGRESS OF EVENTS IN OUR OWN AND FOREIGN LANDS.

WESTERN.

The President has withdrawn from entry 1,278,1 acres in Colorado and 30,300 acres in Wyoming, supposed to contain valuable deposits of coal.

Owners of down town flats and apartment houses in Omaha have adopted this ironclad rule: "If there is a child or children then there are no apartments to let."

Work costing $63,208,000 is now being done in the West by the reclamation department, according to F. N. Newell, director of the United States Reclamation Service.

The silver spike of the last rail of the Nevada & California railway, running 150 miles from Mojave, Cal., on the Southern Pacific to Lone Pine, in Inyo county, has been driven.

Nearly six inches of snow fell on the mountains between Cheyenne and Laramie Monday night, the fall being sufficiently heavy to interfere with the operation of switches on the railroad.

Mrs. Belle Lavin of San Francisco, proprietor of a rooming house, was arrested as a fugitive from justice in connection with the investigation into the Los Angeles Times explosion case late Tuesday.

Some phenomenally rich gold discoveries have been made at Creston, B. C. Gold in quartz is exhibited here which runs fabulous sums to the ton, and there is every evidence of another Klondike having been discovered.

Constitutional provisions designed to eliminate "wildcat" corporations and curb irresponsible promoters who take advantage of the present liberal incorporation laws of Arizona are proposed by the constitutional convention at Phoenix.

What is believed to have been a plot to dynamite the house of Charles K. Henry, a prominent capitalist and real estate operator of Portland, Ore., has just become known here. The "plant" consisted of six sticks of dynamite, wrapped with about thirty feet of fuse. It was discovered by a workman on Mr. Henry's premises, hidden in a tree about 800 feet distant from the Henry residence. For some reason the workman failed to make known his discovery to Mr. Henry before.

"The padding of census returns in the other cities mentioned by me was not insignificant, but in no instance was it as extensive as in Tacoma," says Director Durand of the Census Bureau; while at a mass meeting of the business men of Tacoma resolutions were adopted denouncing the figures on Tacoma's population issued by the Census Department. The resolutions demand that the government make another canvass of the city and ascertain if there has been fraud.

WASHINGTON.

Rewards have been offered by the government for information leading to conviction of persons who carelessly or maliciously set fire to the national forests.

In a formal order the Interstate Commerce Commission announces its intention to administer strictly the long and short haul provision of the Interstate Commerce act.

Robert E. Peary, the Arctic explorer, has been advanced to the rank of captain in the corps of civil engineers of the navy by reason of the retirement on account of age of Capt. U. S. G. White.

News of the rescue of the crew of the dirigible balloon America, reached Washington about the time the navy department and the revenue cutter service, at the instance of President Taft, were preparing to dispatch vessels to search for the Wellman party. Three warships would have gone out in an hour.

In a narrow street, upon a precisely selected spot, after an aerial flight of more than six miles across the city, Claude Grahame White, the English aviator, dropped his aeroplane at the side door of the White House Friday. On the way thither, at a height of nearly 500 feet, he circled the dome of the capitol and passed the lofty Washington monument level with the apex. He landed where the slightest deviation from his course would have impaled him upon the spikes of the iron fence around the White House grounds at his right or smashed him against the granite walls at his left.

SPORT.

Alfredo De Oro retained his title as champion at three-cushion billiards in New York and held the Lambert trophy by defeating Lloyd Jayne 50 to 44 in the third and final night. Score: De Oro 150, Jevna 121.

The contest board of the American Automobile Association announces the disqualification and suspension of Barney Oldfield for his announced intention of racing Jack Johnson, the heavyweight pugilist, in an unsanctioned contest at Sheephead Bay by Oct. 20. Both Johnson and Oldfield say the race will be run, regardless of the board's action.

Young Corbett, former lightweight champion of the world, will make an effort to "come back" to the squared arena on Thursday night at the Long-acre club, New York. He will face Willie Beecher, a local lightweight, in a ten-round bout. Corbett has been in active training for several months, and reports say he is in good condition. Corbett made a similar effort to reenter the ring two years ago, but he was forced to abandon the work after a short time.

POLITICAL.

President Taft's summer vacation has officially ended. He will start back to Washington from Beverly by way of New York. Three thousand Beverly children will wave good-bye as the President's automobile starts into Boston.

Control of the next House of Representatives hinges upon the result of the fall elections in thirteen districts, and the outcome is likely to be so close in these that the official count will be needed to decide. This prediction is made by an eastern magazine as a result of its confidential canvass of 15,000 of its life subscribers scattered in every section of the United States. The present poll was compiled from the replies of 15,000 that answered and presents what the publishers believe to be a fairly accurate portrayal of the sentiment in the country at large. The result of the poll indicates that 160 congressional districts are safely Republican; 168 safely Democratic; 29 probably Republican; 21 probably Democratic. On the remaining thirteen districts would hinge control of the House. Colorado is given three Democratic congressmen and Wyoming goes into the Republican column.

GENERAL.

David Bennet Hill's life work is ended. The former senator died suddenly Thursday morning.

Capt. George E. Bragdon of Biddeford, Maine, while cleaning up some rubbish near his spring, claims he found a young alligator about six inches long.

Julian Ward Howe is dead. Bowed under the weight of her 91 years, the noted philanthropist and authoress succumbed peacefully to an attack of pneumonia at her summer home at Middletown, R. I.

Florida, the Keys and Cuba are being visited by a hurricane, which is doing untold damage to sugar cane and tobacco crops and is causing great anxiety for vessels known to be at sea.

The population of the territory of Arizona is 204,354. This is an increase of 31,423, or 63.2 per cent over the 1900 population which was 122,931. Arizona's population increased 40,550 or 68 per cent from 1890 to 1900.

The balloon Hamburg II. of Germany, the fourth to depart in the international race from St. Louis, descended with terrific force from a height of 18,000 feet in Lake Nipissing, Toronto, Canada, 850 miles from St. Louis, according to a message received.

Walter Wellman, the five companions and a kitten, who essayed to cross the Atlantic in an airship, failed in the attempt, but their lives were saved. The airship—the giant America—is a battered aerial derelict, abandoned at sea, possibly still in the air, perhaps sunk beneath the waves with her costly equipment. When deserted she had been in the air probably seventy-two hours, a new world's record for dirigibles and, driven by the wind, had traveled doubtless 800 miles. Whether the distance record for dirigibles—870 miles—also will be broken, remains to be computed.

That vital organs and tissues may be removed from the human body and be not only made to live, but to grow, is the startling announcement made by Dr. Alexander Carroll, an investigator of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research at Baltimore. This important medical discovery was conceived along lines worked out by Dr. Carroll and under the guidance of Doctors Simon Flexner and Eugene Opie of Johns Hopkins, who are at the head of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research. Briefly, Dr. Carroll's discovery involves a method for removal from the human body of portions of the stomach, blood vessels, skin, bone and practically every other tissue, and making them grow at as lively a rate as they did in the human form to which they belonged.

Dynamiter, Himself a Married Man, Knew What Awaited Forgetful Husband.

The business man was sitting in his office, thinking of starting for home, when a suspicious looking person came in with a leather bag in his hand.

"If you don't give me $25," said the visitor, coming at once to the point, "I will drop this on the floor."

The business man was cool. "What is in it?" he asked.

"Dynamite," was the brief reply.

"What will it do if you drop it?"

"Blow you up."

"Drop it!" was the instant command. "My wife told me when I left home this morning to be sure and send up a bag of flour, and I forgot it. I guess it will take just about as much dynamite as you have there to prepare me for the blowing up I'll get when she sees me!"

He threw himself back in his chair and waited for the explosion, but it did not come.

"I'm a married man myself," said the dynamiter, and quietly slipped out.—Illustrated Bits.

He Knew.

A small boy brought up by a freating father to hate anything connected with England or the English was consigned recently to eat dinner with the nurse while the family entertained a genuine English lord in the dining room. The grown-ups' meal had come to that "twenty minutes past" stage where conversation halts directly, when a childish treble fell upon the dumb-waiter shaft from the kitchen. This is what the astonished nobleman heard:

"Fe, fi, fo, fum, I smell the blood of an Englishman."—Wasp.

Poor Prospects.

"Yes," said Miss Passay, "I found a very nice boarding house today, but the only room they had to offer me had a folding bed in it, and I detest those things."

"Of course," remarked Miss Pert, "one can never hope to find a man under a folding bed."—Catholic Standard and Times.

CONVINCING PROOF

OF THE VIRTUE OF

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

What is the use of procrastinating in the face of such evidence as the following letters represent? If you are a sick woman or know one who is, what sensible reason have you for not giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? For 30 years we have been publishing such testimonial letters as these—thousands of them—they are genuine and honest, too, every one of them.

Mrs. S. J. Barber says:

"I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world for women—and I feel it my duty to let others know the good it has done for me. Three years ago I had a tumor which the doctor said would have to be removed by an operation or I could not live more than a year, or two, at most. I wrote Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for advice, and took 14 bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today the tumor is gone and I am a perfectly well woman. I hope my testimonial will be of benefit to others."—Mrs. S. J. BARBER, Scott, N. Y.

Mrs. George May says:

"No one knows what I have suffered from female troubles, neuralgia pains, and backache. My doctor said he could not give me anything to cure it. Through the advice of a friend I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the pain soon disappeared. I continued its use and am now in perfect health. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a God-send to me as I believe I should have been in my grave if it had not been for Mrs. Pinkham's advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. GEORGE MAY, 86 4th Ave., Paterson, N. J.

Mrs. E. F. Hayes says:

"I was under the doctor's treatment for a fibroid tumor. I suffered with pain, soreness, bloating, and could not walk or stand on my feet any length of time. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, followed her directions and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. To-day I am a well woman, the tumor was expelled and my whole system strengthened. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female troubles to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 1890 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

Mrs. W. K. Housh says:

"I have been completely cured of a severe female trouble by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and want to recommend it to all suffering women."—Mrs. W. K. HOUSH, 7 Eastview Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, etc.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

ARCHIBALD'S AGATHA

By EDITH HUNTINGTON MASON
AUTHOR OF "THE REAL AGATHA"

COPYRIGHT 1910 BY W.G. CHAPMAN. COPYRIGHT IN GREAT BRITAIN

SYNOPSIS.

Archibald Terhune, a popular and insolent young bachelor of London, receives news that he has been made heir to the estate of his Aunt Georgiana, with an income of $20,000 a year, on condition that he becomes engaged to be married within ten days. Failing to do so, the legacy will go to a third cousin in America. The story opens at Castle Wyckoff, where Lord Vincent and his wife, friends of Terhune, are discussing plans to find him a wife within the prescribed time. It seems that Lady Vincent is one of seven persons named Agatha, all close girlhood chums. She decides to invite two of them to the castle and have Archie there as one of the guests. Agatha Sixth strikes Archie as a handsome beauty. Agatha First is a breezy American girl. Lady Vincent tells her husband that Agatha Sixth already cares for Archie. He gains from Agatha Sixth the admission that she cares for him, but will require a month's time fully to make up her mind. Agatha First, neglected by Terhune, receives attentions from Leslie Freer. Four days of the previous time have passed when Terhune is called to London on business. Agatha First, on the plea of sickness, excuses herself from a motor trip planned by the Vincents.

CHAPTER V.—Continued.

"Why, that's too bad!" said my wife sincerely, though somewhat surprisedly, "I'm awfully sorry, dear child, and we shall miss you, of course. But you mustn't think of going if your head aches. Go upstairs and lie down a while, why don't you, and I'll have some tea sent up to you. It's awfully good for headache." And she spoke to the footman who waited at the door of the automobile.

"I will, thanks. Sorry to miss the trip," replied the girl. "You're an angel, Agatha!" And with another farewell word or two we left her and had started on our way to Northbury.

And now comes the very strangest part of this rather strange or at least unusual attempt to make a match and win a fortune for a friend at one and the same time on the part of Dearest and myself. By Jove, it certainly did give me a start when I discovered—but this was the way it happened—not to get ahead of my story.

We had made a pretty quick run to Northbury and had been spectators at an exhibition of some rather fast cricket which I had been pretty keen about. The two teams had played even until the second half, when Corcoran who was guarding the wicket for the Lowshires—but I don't suppose the details of the game are of very general interest, after all. Odd thing, but I've never been able to make Dearest understand it at all—I gave up trying years ago. It's the only thing in the world we aren't equally enthusiastic about. She won't admit it, but sometimes I'm afraid it's because she prefers the American game of baseball! Fancy! But of course if she does it's all the fault of that American stepfather of hers for bringing her up in the States. But then, naturally, he couldn't help being an American—I try to remember that!

As I was saying, however, we had seen the match played to the end in spite of the languid interest displayed by the feminine members of our party, and had lunched at the Northbury Inn, a jolly little den of a place, and at about half after two were speeding towards home again.

The roads were fairly decent, though there had been a good deal of rain lately, and the machine had been running along so smoothly that it did my heart good to see her. We had left the main road when we had passed Wye village, for one that led more directly to the castle, and had slowed down as the road turned out to be rougher than I thought—when the worst happened. I was driving myself, and in steering to clear a jutting tree I ran the big car straight into the dickens of a rut and our hind wheel went in to stay. I killed the engine at once and jumped out to see what was to be done, disgusted enough, I can tell you, though of course I couldn't possibly have known the thing was so deep, for it was half filled with water. This short cut is a favorite one of mine, though my chauffeurs have often warned me against taking a big car through the woods that cover Wyckoff rise at this point. The trees are so thick and the road so narrow.

The worst of the business now, as I soon found out, was that there was no jack to be found in the car's kit of tools with which to raise her, and I remembered with chagrin that I had taken it out myself in hunting for something else and had left it in the garage. Even the satisfaction of blaming some one else was denied me and I looked at Pederson, the chauffeur, in dismay.

"What's to be done," I asked, but received no help from that quarter, only a dismal shake of the head.

Nevertheless assistance I did receive, though rather unexpectedly. The accident had occurred, as I have said, in the middle of the woods just where two roads crossed, and standing at the entrance to one of these roads I now observed a small boy, a little freckle-faced village lad, who stared at us as if he'd never seen an automobile before, and they're surely common enough!

But it appeared that he had, for when Freer remarked uselessly and obviously for the third time, "What beastly luck to have forgotten the jack. Now if only it had happened out on the main road instead of in this short-cut, we would have stood a chance of borrowing one from another car!" the little chap who was standing by, came forward and informed us in a shrill childish pipe that if it was another machine we wanted he'd seen a "big feller" come through that same wood not a minute ago and it had stopped not far away. And he pointed a grimy thumb over his shoulder toward the road that led to our left.

"O, they stopped, did they?" I asked, and thought to myself with some satisfaction that they were in trouble, too. The misery that so often attends an automobilist is especially fond of company.

"Wonder if they lend us a jack?" I remarked aloud. "What kind of a machine was it, kid?"

Agatha First Rose in the Machine.

"A whoppin' big feller, red, like your lordship's," said the boy. Of course he knew me, even if I didn't know him. He was probably the butcher's or baker's boy from Wye on his way back from the castle.

"Sounds rather promising," said Dearest. "Do go and see if they can't help us out. I don't want Agatha Lawrence to walk all that way home in this mud!"

"Very well," I said, "but it sounds as if they were in need of assistance themselves! Why else should they want to stop in the middle of the woods? However, I'll make the attempt. Freer, you stay by the ladies, and I'll go and see what I can do!" And just stopping to give the little boy a shilling or two for his information, I strode down the wood road in the direction he had pointed out.

I hadn't gone far and was just wondering again what in the world would possess any one to push down so narrow a road in a big machine, when the machine in question came in sight. It was a big touring car, red like mine, to be sure, but an entirely different make, and I stopped and stared at it in an overwhelming surprise. But not for any reason in connection with the automobile itself. It was the girl who was its sole passenger that held my attention and caused my surprise. Sitting in the front seat, a light pongee coat about her, with an air of expectancy, as if she awaited the coming of some one not far off, sat Agatha First. Yes, the very same. As cheerful and as much herself as if she had not pleaded a headache as an excuse for not automobiling with us that morning.

I stood stock still in the road as my unwilling eyes took in this amazing sight, and it was a full minute before my routed wits apprehended the significance of a man's checked automobile coat that hung over the back of the seat beside her. Evidently she was with some one, which somehow seemed less extraordinary at the moment than that she should be alone. Her escort though not visible was apparently not far distant, for even as I stared, Agatha First rose in the machine displaying a huge bunch of wild flowers in her hands as she did so, and hallooed to him. "Don't pick any more!" she called, "I don't want any more flowers, I want you!" A laugh quite near at hand sounded for a response and I hurriedly started back down the road. I wanted awfully to see who the man that belonged to the checked coat was, but I wanted still more to escape being seen either by him or by my eccentric guest, Miss Endicott. The possibility that I might fall in with the former returning from his little ramble, flowers in hand, almost made me run, and the fear that in looking for him, the latter was already on the point of discovering my retreating form, caused me to stick close to the roadside and the shelter of the trees like any thief or trespasser. And, by Jove! I didn't breathe freely till I'd sighted my own machine standing in the sunlight at the cross-roads. It's a nasty posi-

PART TWO. CHAPTER VI.

It wasn't until later that same afternoon of our Northbury trip, when Lady Vincent and I had ascended to our rooms to dress for dinner, that I found a chance to tell her the news. I can always be sure of an uninterrupted chat with her then.

"And so you saw her sitting in the automobile alone in the middle of the woods?" asked Dearest, when I had finished my breathless recital.

"Yes, that is as far as I could see, she was alone," I replied. "But you forget the man's laugh and the checked coat. There was a man with her right enough, and though I didn't think so at the time, I think now that makes the thing much more mysterious."

"Of course there was a man with her," remarked Dearest. "It was a lover's tryst, as plain as plain can be!" Dearest is so romantic. But then at the same time I'll have to admit she's nearly always right.

"But who under high heaven could it have been?" I cried, never more puzzled in my life.

"We know it wasn't Freer; he was with us all the time, and Terhune has been in London all day!"

"He said he was going to be in London," remarked my wife with the slightest possible emphasis on the "said." I gaped at her a moment, then seized her shoulder.

"Do you mean to say it was Archibald?" I cried, "who was the owner of the checked coat?"

"I didn't say," she replied, "only it does look a little like it, doesn't it? You see he couldn't go to the cricket with us because he had to go up to London, and she, because she had a headache. Voila tout!"

"But we saw the wire," I objected. "Oh, as to that!" she said, "a telegram's easily enough cooked up! He had only to write one himself and tell the station-master to send it over. We none of us examined it closely. It's an old dodge, you know."

"So it is!" I cried, "and you're right. It must have been old Terhune! What a dunderhead I've been not to see it before! But I say," I added, less exuberantly as a thought struck me, "if that's the case, what does he mean by it, Dearest? What do they both mean by it, he and she? And what does it portend in regard to the match we're trying to make between Arch and Miss Lawrence? Answer any of those questions if you can! Wiseacre that you are, I believe you'll have to let me count ten on that!"

"I'm afraid I will," she admitted, as puzzled as I was. "You see I never knew Agatha Endicott as well as I did the other five Agathas—as well as I do Agatha Sixth, and then you know Agatha Sixth has visited me before, and this is the first time I've seen Agatha First since we parted on the occasion of my marriage." (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Burlesque Wedding Guests.

Foulbot, a Paris caricaturist, having determined upon so commonplace a step as getting married, decided that he would be married in no commonplace way. He asked all his friends to the wedding, but there was a sine qua non condition attached to the investigation. You had to go with a "made-up head," or you would not be admitted. Preferably you were requested to make up as a country cousin at a village wedding. Some guests arrived as ancient peasants, others as village idiots. There were several bluff squires and rural elderly gentlemen with means, a number of retired officers and exuberant uncles from the south, besides fierce military gentlemen from the hottest stations of Algeria. The only persons who wore their natural physiognomies were the couple most concerned. They had drawn the line at making up themselves as a burlesque bride and a comic bridegroom.

Punished.

"People who lie are always punished in one way or another."
"That's right."
"You know of incidents which bear out my statement?"
"One. I used to exaggerate the size of my fortune when talking to a girl I used to call on before I was married."
"And she discovered that you were lying and despised you ever afterward?"
"No, she married me."

Caught!

"Do you remember me buying a hair mattress from you the other day?" asked the lady.
"Perfectly well, ma'am," was the reply of the dealer.
"Well, I've discovered that only about one-quarter of the filling is hair."
"Then you certainly do seem to have me where the hair is short, ma'am."
