Comment on the Constitution
Soon to be Accepted by People of New Mexico

SOME POINTS MISUNDERSTOOD

One of the best features of the new constitution of New Mexico is that it can be amended with reasonable ease, and that such amendments will, if adopted, represent the desires of a majority of the people of the state. The amendment provision is practically the same as that of Texas, which state has amended its constitution whenever its people so willed. The second year, and thereafter every eight years, after the ratification of the constitution, a majority of the members elected to each house of the legislature may submit constitutional amendments to the people. These amendments must be ratified by a majority of those voting thereon, which majority must be at least forty per cent of those voting at the election. In the intervening years two-thirds of the members elected to each house of the legislature may propose constitutional amendments, with the same provision, as above for their ratification by the people. It is further provided that at any session of the legislature three-fourths of the members elected to each house may submit to the people a proposition to call a constitutional convention, and if a majority of the people vote in favor of a convention, that body may write an entire new constitution, which in turn will be submitted to the people for ratification. Yet, in spite of all this, there are men who loudly proclaim that the constitution is "impossible to amend." It is difficult to understand the position of these men unless it is that they desire that a minority of the legislature may submit constitutional amendments which may be ratified and put into effect by a minority of the people.

The constitution, as it stands, may be easily amended when a majority of the people want it amended, but the convention has wisely provided that a minority may not keep the state in continual turmoil and unrest by seeking to reconstruct the fundamental law and reduce it to the level of legislation to be changed at the caprice of a few.

THE SALARY LIST

In speaking in favor of the provision in the constitution concerning salaries of officers of the state and county, a question which is causing considerable discussion, the Albuquerque Morning Journal says: "The permanently unsatisfied are telling us that the new state is to be saddled with a burden of huge salaries, under which the people will groan in anguish. Passing over the fact that there was a difference of only $500 between the salary list advocated by the democrats and the one finally put in the organic act, let us examine this salary business. The executive officers are to receive a total of some $24,000, the salaries ranging less on an average than those under the territorial government.

Under the county fee system, there are three offices in this county alone which have heretofore paid about $10,000 each to the fortunate incumbents. By the abolition of the fee system it is evident therefore that Bernalillo county can save some $15,000 a year on three offices.

It is probably not too much to venture that under the new salary system this one small county could pay or very nearly pay, the whole bunch of state officers.

It looks to a man up a tree as if the new state might be able to worry along and still be able to pay the men in charge of its affairs a living wage."

A REASONABLE VIEW

The Socorro Chieftain manifests the right spirit when it says:

"We shall vote for the constitution without the initiative and we would vote for it with that feature. We shall vote for the constitution without a prohibition clause, and we would vote for it with such a clause. We shall vote for the constitution without provision for the Australian ballot, and we would vote for it with that provision. We shall vote for the constitution with an elective judiciary and we would vote for it with an appointive judiciary. We shall vote for the constitution as it is, thanking the good Lord that we have an opportunity to vote for any state constitution at all and trusting to the good sense of the voters of New Mexico to change it if need be, and we are fully persuaded that a safe and sane majority of the citizens of the territory share our sentiments in this regard. Please to distribute the ballots."

WHITE OAKS WHIFFS

Owing to the fact that the weather is good and the constitution finished we have very little to argue about here other than as to whether Lincoln will produce the Bond in the county seat case or not, of course we hope not.

The Rita Leasing Company have turned their lease over to local parties, who have started work on the property.

Charlie Yaeger, who has been visiting his father here for the past month, left Monday on account of sickness.

As the eloping couples have all settled down and the serenaders have hushed, quiet reigns in our little city.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN?

The Congress that met last Monday will have three months in which to perform whatever may be the demands of a Republican administration. After that the fate of the Taft legislative programme will depend upon the will of a Democratic house and a Republican senate.

The success or failure of the approaching short session of Congress is believed to rest with the character of the executive message to be sent to the legislative bodies.

Many of the republicans, defeated in the recent elections, are not expected to carry with the best of grace the blows so harshly administered, and this fact of itself gives the president a task offering difficulties far more complex than any that have been presented to an executive within years.

MATT SMITH IS CLEARED

Federal Grand Jury Fails to Indict Smith accused of Robsart train robbery

FEDERAL COURT ADJOURNED

The Federal Grand Jury in session at Alamogordo last week failed to indict Matt Smith of Carrizozo, held under bond as a suspect in the Robsart Train Robbery last June. It was as Smith's many friends here had expected, there was no evidence against him; his innocence of the charge seeming apparent at all times. He was given a preliminary hearing soon after the robbery of Train No. 2 last June, before U. S. Commissioner Parker at Alamogordo and bound over to the action of the Federal Grand Jury, which failed to indict him on the charge.

The Federal Court finished its work last week, its term being considerably shortened by the fact that Oliver Carr, ex-railroad conductor, plead guilty to smuggling Chinese and was fined $1000, which necessitated no trial.

Dee Davis, of Montoya, Quay county, was found guilty of incest and given 15 years sentence in the penitentiary.

The case against Perry Spencer of Quay county, charged with perjury in connection with final home-stead proof was heard and Spencer found guilty.

L. L. Klinefelter, editor of the Obar Progress, was foreman of the Grand Jury.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

—Born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pumroy a ten pound boy Thursday morning.

—Mr. Stone of the Continental Oil Company has been in the city this week looking after business for that company.

—Wm. Kilgore Collier and wife, now of Tucumcari, arrived last Friday and have been visiting his mother and sister here.

—Jno. E. Bell, Jno. Gallacher, C. W. Hyde, W. P. Loughrey and others returned early in the week from Alamogordo where they had been attending Federal Court.

—Harry Humphrey, who was recently married in Michigan, arrived with a car load of household goods and stock Monday. His wife and sister arrived later on the limited.

—The house and contents thereof belonging to J. D. Adams in the Highland addition, were consumed by fire last Friday. There was $300 insurance on the house and $100 on the contents. Both were totally lost.

—A party consisting Mrs. A. H. Harvey, Miss Mary Warden, Ira O. Wetmore, A. H. Harvey and Clay van Schoyck drove to Roswell Saturday in the auto returning Sunday and report a pleasant trip.

—L. L. Klinefelter, Editor and Publisher of the Obar Progress of Quay County, was a pleasant caller at this office Tuesday. Mr. Klinefelter was returning to his home after having served as foreman of the Federal Grand Jury at Alamogordo.

GOVERNMENT APPROPRIATION

The estimates of appropriations required for every branch of the federal government in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, aggregating $748,414,861, have been submitted to congress by secretary of the treasury MacVeagh. This total stands against estimates of $745,067,197 and appropriations of $805,294,513 for the current fiscal year, which included more than $10,000,000 for the census and $10,600,000 for postal and other deficiencies.

The estimates were distributed as follows:

War department, $205,257,546.
Interior department, $189,151,875.

Treasury department, $141,599,997.

Agricultural department, $19,681,066.

Navy department, $128,942,158
Commerce and Labor, $16,276,970.

District of Columbia, $13,602,526.
Legislative, $13,426,806.

Justice, $10,063,576
State, $4,875,576.

Independent offices including interstate commerce commission, $2,638,695.

Postoffice department proper, $1,697,490.

Deficiency in postal revenues, no estimate.

Executive, $998,170.

Territorial governments, $202,150
There are no striking features in this year's estimates.

DO NOT HOLD OVER

A recent opinion of Attorney General F. W. Clancy states that the Justices of the Peace of the various districts of the territory as well as school district officers do not hold over as do the other officers of the county and territory under the Statehood Enabling Act. This will mean an election of Constable and Justice of the Peace in many districts of this county at an early date.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES

The various precincts of the county have held primary elections during the past week to elect delegates to the County Convention which will meet in Carrizozo tomorrow, December 10th. The Carrizozo precinct held its primary on Monday and elected delegates to the convention, but did not instruct these delegates for or against the constitution.

The Republicans will not hold a county convention.

CHURCH SERVICE

Rev. J. B. Cochran of El Paso, Methodist Presiding Elder will hold the business session of the first quarterly conference in the Baptist Church Saturday evening and will preach at the same place Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. You are cordially invited. We desire the hearty cooperation of all. B. W. Allen, Pastor.

—Next regular communication of Carrizozo Lodge No. 41 A. F. and A. M. and election of officers for the ensuing year will be held next Saturday night, Dec. 10th, 1910, at Masonic Hall. Work in F. C. degree. All visitors are cordially invited to be present.

LINCOLN PUTS UP BOND

$10,000 Bond Is Signed By
Many Citizens of Lincoln
And Sent To Judge

WILL BE EXAMINED SATURDAY

A message received by The Outlook last evening from Lincoln stated that Lincoln has produced the bond of $10,000 required by Judge Wright in the County Seat Case. The committee appointed by a mass meeting of Lincoln citizens Monday returned Wednesday evening with sufficient signers to the bond to move than qualify, it is stated. The Bond was forwarded to Alamogordo Thursday and will reach that city Friday evening at which time Judge John Y. Hewitt and several citizens from Carrizozo will be present with Judge Wright, who will approve or reject same.

Quite a little excitement occurred in Lincoln Thursday morning when it was discovered that the bond which the committee had brought in the night before had been lost, probably thru an oversight while the parties interested were in a bacchanalian condition. After a thorough search the papers were finally found in the bed of one of the committee, and all again rejoiced.

This Bond if accepted by the defence and Judge Wright means that the injunction restraining the contractor and commissioners from continuing work on the court house will remain in effect until after a hearing is had in the Quo Warranto proceedings which have been filed by Lincoln. Whether the bond is acceptable or not can not be determined until after Saturday.

Should the injunction be dissolved, the contractor would be allowed to finish the buildings, the quo warranto proceedings not interfering with the building operations in any way; and should the bond be accepted it will cover any and all damages sustained by the contractor thru the delay.

THE SOCIAL WHIRL

The dance given by the newly organized club, "The Younger Set," at Real's Hall Tuesday evening, was quite a success.

Among those who enjoyed the evening were Mrs. W. K. Collier, Mrs. H. S. Fairbanks, Mrs. W. F. Whittingham, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Kimbell, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Rolland, Miss Jennie Brockway, Miss Frieda Eckman, Miss Allie Johnson, Miss Barbara Crow, Miss Sallie Hilderbrandt, Miss Mayo Boykin, Miss Virginia Fenton, Messers: L. B. Holmes, G. Eccles, Tom Johnson, Tom Davis, Oscar Banberger, James Butterworth.

Mrs. W. F. Whittingham entertained a few friends at Whist last Saturday evening.

Mrs. George Ulrich entertained a few of the young folk at cards Monday evening.

—Th. O. Reiter of Alto, spent several days in the city this week.

—The Home Mission Society of the M. E. Church and The Girls Mission Band of the Baptist Church will hold their Annual Bazar Dec. 17th in the Wetmore Building, next door to the Humphrey Jewelry Store. Sale beginning at 2 P. M. Light refreshments will be served.

WHY NOT ACCEPT IT?

IT IS NOW ABOUT THE TIME When every patriotic citizen of New Mexico should be waking up to the necessity of giving the largest possible approving vote for the adoption of the constitution, the election for which will occur on the 21st day of January. While it is certain that the fundamental law will be endorsed by the people it is well to understand that there are forces which are aligned against it, and that it will be necessary to meet them.

In the first place a thorough study of the constitution is necessary. It was with this idea in mind and in order to give our readers the earliest opportunity to study the constitution that The Outlook issued the complete organic act as a supplement to last weeks paper, being the first news paper in the vicinity to do so. We are satisfied that if the reasonable man will read the constitution carefully that he will realize that there has been a vast amount of misrepresentation in regard to it, and that it is worthy of the approval of the fair minded. In many respects it is the best constitution adopted by any state in years. There are some sections that might, perhaps, be changed if the progressives had their way, but they are really of negative importance compared with the whole, which insures a thoroughly good state government and the early coming of independence for which New Mexico has been struggling for more than fifty years. It should be remembered than even if the constitution were turned down, and another convention assembled, that the result of their labors would be very similar to that body which recently adjourned, absolutely nothing being gained by the delay, whereas a great deal would be lost. To reject the constitution now offered would be about the worst set back to the material interests of the commonwealth that could be conceived.

The people are not going to be short-sighted, and a majority of them will do all that they possibly can in order to make the vote as nearly unanimous as possible.

Of truth it is sincerely to be regretted that there should now be any opposition whatever to the constitution, and most of all that those forces which are supposed first and most of all to stand for good government and progress should in part at least be lining up against it. That they should do so will not add to the respect with which they are regarded by the people, nor add to their strength when they need it.

This constitution is going to be approved. The reasonable men of all parties have said it, and they have said rightly. Given the privilege of self government, New Mexico can settle all problems coming before it by the decision of its people. There is too much at stake now to turn aside from the high road to liberty and progress, simply because a plank or two of the proposed constitution may not be framed to suit some enthusiasts.

IN GERMANY, which has 300 people to the square mile, the average first class passenger rate on railroads is 4.46 cents a mile; in New Mexico, which has less than three people to the square mile, the average rate is from three to four cents a mile, and yet, there are people who are declaiming against railroads in New Mexico and are sore because the proposed constitution did not make conditions intolerable for them in the new state. Certainly, Americans have no just ground for complaint as to passenger rates that are charged by the railroads and which are much less for far superior accommodations than in Europe.

READ THE CONSTITUTION CAREFULLY before you make up your mind to vote for or against it, then remember that it was made for all the people and not a few.

COUNTY NEWS-NOTES

NOGAL NOTES.

J. A. Norman is up from Roswell having his annual assessment work done on the Nogal Peak Mining Claims.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Moore are expected home any day now; they say they have not found anything in their travels that suits them better than Nogal.

Jerrie Dalton and parties from the East are trapping on the Ruidosa.

Messrs. Gilham and Owens of Hinton, Oklahoma, have been prospecting in the neighborhood of this camp and report good discoveries, they say that the prospects here look better to them than those they found in Oklahoma.

Dr. E. B. Walker was called to attend Mrs. John Littleton Sunday evening.

Mrs. Alva Jackson who has been visiting Mrs. A. May has gone to Tom Wilders to live.

The Nogal school is progressing nicely under Mrs. S. R. Moos and one more month has been added to the term making seven months in all for 1910.

OSCURO OBSERVINGS

RELIABLE SPORTING NEWS

It is a curious and significant fact that men who can be satisfied with distorted and unreliable news in other departments will instantly resent the falsifying of sporting news. Those interested in the sporting events of the world long ago discovered that The Chicago Record Herald is a reliable authority in this field, printing all the news, day by day, year in and year out, with a steady accuracy and terse completeness unsurpassed anywhere. It has a large staff of editors and reporters, who devote all their time and skill to this department alone. The Sunday Record-Herald has a separate sporting supplement of four full pages—a newspaper in itself—in which the athletic events of the whole country reported by telegraph to the last moment of going to press, are presented with numerous illustrations. All that is of interest in baseball, football, racing, athletics, hunting, automobiling, yachting, golf, tennis, boxing and other sports can always be found in reliable form in The Record-Herald. Every man on the sporting staff is an expert trained to see straight and write the truth without bias. This is the good and sufficient reason why The Record-Herald is the favorite paper among the true lovers of sport.

A WILD BLIZZARD RAGING

brings danger, suffering—often death to thousands, who take colds, coughs and lagrippe—that terror of Winter and Spring. Its danger signals are "stuffed up" nostrils, lower part of nose sore, chills and fever, pain in back of head, and a throat-gripping cough. When Grip attacks, as you value your life, don't delay getting Dr. King's New Discovery. "One bottle cured me," writes A. L. Dunn, of Pine Valley, Miss., "after being 'laid up' three weeks with Grip." For sore lungs, Hemorrhages, Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, its supreme. 50c. $1.00. SAVED AT DEATHS DOOR

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers, of Transit Bridge N. Y., when his life was wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadful condition," he writes, "my skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing 40 pounds, growing weaker daily. Virulent liver trouble pulling me down to death in spite of doctors. Then that matchless medicine-Electric Bitters-cured me. I regained the 40 pounds lost and now am well and strong." For all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they are supreme. 50c at all druggists.

Home Decorations for Christmas

by JULIA BOTTOMLEY

SOME people have the knack of arranging things. They take hold of a house or a room, be it ever so commonplace, and transform it with the materials we all have at hand, into something beautiful. I recall a lady who used to buy an ugly house, move into it, and begin making changes outside and in. In about two years the whole place was simply transformed and she did spend the time happily and busily. But her occupation was gone, so she would look up another place that needed regenerating and put that which she had completed on the market. She cashed in her ideas and went happily to work again. The little city in which she lives is beautiful and she is one of the chief educators of public tastes. She shows others how to improve their surroundings.

I know another woman gifted in managing interiors. She had little money—less time, for she was a wage earner; but she had the faculty of making things sweet around her. I want to tell you of the Christmas decorations which transformed her small home into a sort of bewitching Christmas bower, not to be forgotten and yet fashioned from just the same things we have at hand. This is her recipe:

Sometime before Christmas, say six weeks, buy a roll of dark red crape paper and one of olive green crape paper, also a sheet of yellow tissue paper. Buy some cheap bonnet wire from the milliner. Use a real poinsettia blossom for the pattern or buy one already made of paper, and proceed to make up two dozen poinsettia blossoms. First cut patterns, from a piece of wrapping paper, of the petals of the poinsettia. Open the rolls of crape paper and stretch them. A roll of ten feet will stretch to fifteen and be improved thereby, for some purposes. To stretch the paper let some one hold one end for you while you pull the other gradually, or tack one end to the floor, stretch the paper, and tack the other end, allowing it to remain for a few hours.

Cut from the red paper, according to your wrapping paper patterns, the petals, which will be in three sizes. Cut a yard of the green paper into lengthwise strips, half inch wide, with which to wind the wire for stems. A piece of wire, six or eight inches long, is cut off. Four little wads of the yellow tissue paper the size of a large pea, are each covered with a little piece of the same paper, an inch square. This is brought over the wad and twisted into a little stem. Then little wads are fastened to the end of the pieces of wire by winding with a coarse thread or a fine spool wire. The latter is best. Place two or three small petals of the red paper around the end of the wire to which you have just fastened the little yellow wads and fasten them with thread or wire. Next place larger petals and finally the largest size, following the natural blossom, or the paper one bought for a guide, as nearly as possible. Wind the wire stem with green tissue paper. Pull the edges of the petals slightly to give them a natural look. As the paper poinsettia blossoms are finished put them in a hat box. In two or three evenings as many as may be needed, are easily made.

After the poinsettia is finished make little baskets of the red paper. For foundations use little card-board dishes such as confectioners use for Charlotte Russe, or those which may be bought for the purpose. Make handles of wire. Cover the basket inside and out with the red paper, pasting it to place and pulling the edges into ruffles. Make as many little baskets as there are guests-to-be. Cover the handles by wrapping the wire with narrow strips of the red paper. Finish with little bows made of baby ribbon or narrow strips of the paper either in red or green. Put the little baskets away with the poinsettia.

Next a few candle or electric light shades are to be made. As the crape paper costs no more when fire-proofed, one should specify the fire-proofed variety when buying it. Gather your candle sticks together and place a red candle in each if red shades are to be used. Shades may easily be made of paper dollies in white or paper napkins, with red figures stamped on them, and white candles are better with these.

Cut out card-board disks five and one-fourth inches in diameter with circles cut from the center, two inches in diameter. These rest on the metal shade supports. From the paper napkin or dolly, cut a circle at the center three and one-half inches in diameter. With a needle and thread gather this up to fit the metal support. Place the dolly over the card-board disk and tie the ends of the thread firmly about the metal.

The card-board dish may be covered with red paper pasted on.

The green crape paper remaining is used to cover a few of the cheap print baskets, such as grapes and other fruits come in. These are to be filled with Christmas greens.

As soon as the stores begin showing them, buy a few strands of red tinsel balls and two packages (about six yards) of silver tinsel. Two dozen of the small paper Christmas bells in red and two bolts of red baby ribbon.

One small well-shaped Christmas tree will be needed and then a lot of greenery-boughs that have been cut away in trimming trees, or trees that do not sell readily because not well shaped may be bought for a trifle or these may be procured in this country. The sweet smelling kind add a distinct pleasure to Christmas. Bring your boughs and trees home two or three days before Christmas. Cut the branches from the trunks. With small branches wound to wire with dark cord or heavy thread, make wreaths for pinning to the window curtains.

The door frames leading to the living room and dining room and the window casings are to be covered with greens.

Saw from the end of one of the tree trunks—which will be from 4 to 6 inches in diameter) a piece 18 inches long for a miniature yule log. The red baby ribbon around each end and suspend from the chandelier or in a doorway. Hang a tiny bowl to represent an old-time kettle over it, using the baby ribbon. The short branches to the chandeliers but do not cover them too thickly with greens. Take the remaining greens and place them in the fruit baskets which you previously covered with green paper. Use holly with them. Set these wherever they look prettiest; in the windows, if the sills are deep enough. Pin a wreath to the curtains at each window. Now all your greens are placed and the red is to be added. The secret of using it effectively is to be sparing with it.

Bring out your poinsettia and place two or three blossoms in a group somewhere in the green about each door and window. Fasten one flower at the top of each wreath. Festoon your little red tinsel balls among the greens at the top of the door by which your guests enter the living room. Use the remaining ones in groups of two on the Christmas tree.

Decorate the Christmas tree with the silver tinsel and in the manner to which you have been accustomed, for the sake of old times.

Place the remaining candles on the mantels, piano or on the dressing cases to be used by the guests.

Your decorating is done, and when the lights are lit and begin to glow through the red shades, you will regard the little scene with a heart throbbing of satisfaction. When the guests arrive all will be put in a lively good humor by the charm of their surroundings. Turn the living room and dining room over to them and proceed to enjoy anything and everything which you have planned or they suggest.

GOOD CAKE IS RARE

RULES THAT WILL HELP IMPROVE COOK'S WORK.

That Few Families Know What Good Cake Is Is Statement That Will Be Resented, But It Is None the Less True.

Few families know what good cake is. This statement will be resented, but is none the less true. It is equally true that few professional cooks make as good cake as that baked by the mistress of the house or one of her daughters.

As every one should know how to bake delicious cake whether she makes use of it or not, here are a few rules that are essential:

Use the best materials. So-called cooking butter and stored eggs will make poor cake, and let no economical one persuade you otherwise.

What is known as soft A sugar makes a cake of nicer grain than granulated or powdered sugar. In measuring stint rather than heap up the cup or the batter is coarse grained.

Baking powder should be measured by gently rounding, not heaped or flat, teaspoonfuls. With sour milk recipes use baking soda and cream of tartar rather than baking powders.

Never guess at measurements. Most recipes give exact proportions—which a good cook sometimes modifies. A cup, when not defined, usually means the stone china kitchen coffee cup that holds a little more than half a pint.

The richer the milk the better the cake. More than is called for is often permissible to keep the batter from getting too thick.

Stinting flour is the secret of good cake. Few realize this, as can be told by two persons making up the same recipe with results totally different for the cook who is heavy on flour. It is safe to allow a quarter to half a cup less flour on most recipes.

Judgment is important in cake mixing. Flours differ in heaviness and eggs in size; therefore to keep the batter from being too stiff see that it runs easily from the spoon, yet is not "runny." Thinning must be done before baking powder and whites of eggs are in.

Have all ingredients ready before beginning to mix a cake. Once started it should go into the oven quickly. One mixing bowl and two smaller ones for eggs will be needed; also a wooden paddle and a wire egg beater. Sift into batter before measuring and put into batter through sifter.

Get ready pans before starting cake. There is but one sure way to prevent sticking—paper the bottoms of pan and grease it, not the pan, which is only buttered on the edge. Many persons use lard for greasing, but butter never tastes.

Papering is no trouble if ten cents worth of yellow wrapping paper is bought and cut in leisure moments to fit your various shaped pans. Keep in an air-tight box in the kitchen closet.

A good cake baker makes sure that her cake pans are not used for other purposes by keeping them under lock. In the same place have all the utensils needed and there will be no delays. Here also have an extra supply of baking powder, flavoring extracts, chocolate and the special sugar used. Do not get more than five pounds at a time of the latter, and see that it is rolled and sifted before using.

To Wash Buckskin Gauntlets.

To wash and renovate buckskin driving gauntlets, soak them in lukewarm water for half an hour, and wash in warm, not hot, soapy water. Rinse well, adding two tablespoonfuls of glycerine to each quart of water for the last rinsing. Dry within a folded linen cloth, rubbing them occasionally between the hands while drying. They will be clean and soft as when new.

Cracker Puffs.

Split six crackers and soak them for a half hour in cold water. They will be twice their usual size. Take them out with a skimmer, being careful not to break or crack them, and place them in a buttered pan, the inner side up. Butter tops of crackers and place in a hot oven. The oven must be very hot or the crackers will not puff. In half an hour they should be well puffed and brown. Serve them with any kind of stewed or pressed fruit with whipped cream if desired.

Green Tomato Preserve.

Wash and slice green tomatoes, allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar to each pound of tomato, together with one lemon cut in slices and put between the layers of tomato; cook until thick, add a 25-cent jar of preserved ginger put through the food chopper.

A Cooking Timetable.

Mutton, 15 minutes to the pound.
Beef, 20 minutes.
Veal, 20 minutes.
Ham, 18 to 20 minutes.
Fowls, 25 to 35 minutes.

BABY'S SCALP CRUSTED

"Our little daughter, when three months old, began to break out on the head and we had the best doctors to treat her, but they did not do her any good. They said she had eczema. Her scalp was a solid scale all over. The burning and itching was so severe that she could not rest, day or night. We had about given up all hopes when we read of the Cuticura Remedies. We at once got a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, and followed directions carefully. After the first dose of the Cuticura Resolvent, we used the Cuticura Soap freely and applied the Cuticura Ointment. Then she began to improve rapidly and in two weeks the scale came off her head and new hair began to grow. In a very short time she was well. She is now sixteen years of age and a picture of health. We used the Cuticura Remedies about five weeks, regularly, and then we could not tell she had been affected by the disease. We used no other treatment after we found out what the Cuticura Remedies would do for her. J. Fish and Ella M. Fish, Mt. Vernon, Ky., Oct. 12, 1909."

No Union.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, at a luncheon at the Colony club in New York, urged on women the necessity for union.

"If we are to get the vote," she said, "we must stand together. Too many women face this question as they face all others—like the elderly belles at the charity ball.

"What a flatterer Wootter Von Twilnice?" said the second.
"Why, did he tell you you looked like?" said the second.

"No," was the reply. He told me you did!"

NEWSPAPERS TAKING IT UP

Metropolitan Dailies Giving Advice How to Check Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble.

This is a simple home recipe now being made known in all the larger cities through the newspapers. It is intended to check the many cases of Rheumatism and dread kidney trouble which have made so many cripples, invalids and weaklings of some of our brightest and strongest people.

The druggists everywhere, even in the smallest communities, have been notified to supply themselves with the ingredients, and the sufferer will have no trouble to obtain them. The prescription is as follows: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce, and Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Recent experiments in hospital cases prove this simple mixture effective in Rheumatism. Because of its positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, it compels these most vital organs to filter from the blood and system the waste impurities and uric acid which are the cause of rheumatism. It cleanses the kidneys, strengthens them and removes quickly such symptoms as backache, blood disorders, bladder weakness, frequent urination, painful scalding and discolored urine. It acts as a gentle, thorough regulator to the entire kidney structure.

Those who suffer and are accustomed to purchase a bottle of medicine should not let a little inconvenience interfere with making this up, or have your druggist do it for you.

The Fool's Search

family shopping. Among the thousand and one commissions handed

THEY are all mad; men, women, children, splinters and bachelors, floorwalkers and clerks, drivers and delivery boys, it would seem there could be no madder, merrier time.

The funniest things happen, if one only had time to dwell on them and laugh over them, but such enjoyment is denied in these days of strain and struggle.

In a moment of thoughtless good-nature we promised to do the over in immediate response to the thoughtless good-nature was the order for purchase of "The Fool's Calendar." We set forth, a list three-times-forty long in our groaning, much-abused hand-bag, and entered the first shop come upon, in our sub-consciousness feeling that we, like the rest of the jostlers, fitted in pretty well with the title of that calendar. Down the aisle came a rattled-looking, hair-disturbed, generally disturbed gentleman whose province seemed the directing of frenzied fanciers to the respective departments of their fancy, but the Christmas spirit so possessed him he was not quite himself, not able to place his "Madames" and "Sirs." As short-skirted, rose-wreathed hatted, we steered his way, he glanced with wrinkled brow and questioning worry to what might be our demand. "Do you sell calendars here?" We asked in heat of hurry, to which he replied glibly, "Yes, Sir," and never knew he was not using the usual form of address to a woman. He led us then with rapid step to the calendar square, where spread out and uprose floor, roof and pillars of calendars, it would seem every time—chronicler for every taste. And then feeling very like a fool ourselves, we asked in a low voice, "Have you 'The Fool's Calendar'?" "No," says he, "But," and a gleam of keen intellect lights his eye, "We have 'Saints and Sinners.'"

Funny enough was the woman encountered in mid-afternoon entering the much-advertised, much-crowded book-room of a department store in haste to get at the forty-eight centers and thirty-niners; she was high and broad and muscular, an Amazon that need not have put on extra effort to make her way—but the spirit of Christmas—the modern—was strong upon her,—and as we passed her on the way out into blessed out-of-doors, even in our hurry we could not but notice her wild look, her panting breath, her elbows out on defensive and offensive the way in which she marched on, unswervingly, unrelentingly, like an avalanche, toward the bargain books. PROTESTING RATE CUTTING

LOWER COST OF UPPERS IS OP-POSED BY STATE'S AND RAILWAYS.

ROADS TO STAND BRUNT

COMMISSIONERS ARE CONFRONT-
ED WITH OFFER OF VOL-UNTARY REDUCTION.

Chicago.—An offer of the Pullman company to reduce rates charged for upper berths in sleeping cars 20 per cent, where lower berths were priced more than $1.50, to make the price of uppers $1.25 as a minimum, and reduce some lower berth rates, was opposed before the Interstate Commerce Commission here by attorneys general of four states and by two railroads. The Pullman company's offer left unchanged Pullman seat rates and was to become effective on approval and acceptance by the commission. Opposition to the plan was offered on the part of the railroads on the allegation that they would have to stand part of the brunt of the lessened price, and by the attorneys general on the claim that the reduction was not sufficient.

Commissioners Lane and Clark, therefore, were confronted with an offer of voluntary reduction of rates for uppers; (also a number of material reductions on lower berth rates) which the railroads said was too much and the state officers called too small.

The whole matter ended in a combining of all complaints against sleeper rates in one hearing by the commission, following an order from the Federal Circuit Court that previous cuts ordered by the commission were not justified.

Governors to Meet Annually.

Louisville, Ky.—After starting a movement to put the next conference of governors on a business basis and to establish permanent headquarters, listening to a suffragist speech and discussions of various importance subjects, the third annual conference of governors adjourned. The plan of organization, advanced by Gov. Sloan of Arizona, and adopted in executive session, is that the present committee on arrangements, of which Gov. Fort of New Jersey is chairman, draft a statement of the objects of the conference for presentation to each legislature, and that an appropriation be asked of each for maintenance. It was decided that subjects for discussion would be selected with more care and that the paper on each, prepared by the several governors, be sent to all governors in advance of the conference, so that intelligent discussion could be heard. Future sessions will last a week. These plans were adopted to get away from the haphazard manner in which the conferences have been conducted and with a view to making them more beneficial.

Passenger Rate Fight.

Chicago.—What promises to be a bitterly fought railroad-fare battle is to be begun on New Year day. Three Eastern trunk lines—the Grand Trunk the Erie and the Wabash—will slash passenger rates from Chicago to New York and Boston. For instance according to the notice served on thirteen big Western railroad systems by the "insurgent" lines, the first-class fare from Chicago to New York will be cut $8 and the second-class fare $6.

Deadly Folding Bed Again.

New York.—Benjamin Lott, a well-to-do civil engineer, was fatally injured in his home by the collapse of a folding bed. The bed closed up on him like a steeltrap as he lay sleeping and nearly guillotined him. Members of his family heard his cries and rescued him almost immediately. He was unconscious and an ambulance surgeon said that several vertebrae had been dislocated and that he could not live.

Guggenheim May be Chairman.

Washington.—On account of committee changes caused by the death of Senator Dooliver, there is a possibility that Senator Guggenheim will be made chairman of the Senate committee on agriculture when Congress convenes.

NEW MEXICO NEWS

Gathered From
All Parts of the State

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION.

To the People of the Territory of New Mexico:
Whereas, the Constitutional Convention which convened in the City of Santa Fe, Territory of New Mexico, the third day of October, A. D. 1910, in accordance with the provisions of the Act of Congress, entitled "An Act to Enable the People of New Mexico to form a constitution and state government and be admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states; and to enable the people of Arizona to form a constitution and state government and be admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states," has prepared a constitution for the proposed state of New Mexico and has performed its duties, and at said election all citizens who are legally qualified voters of the Territory of New Mexico, shall be entitled to vote. Those voting in favor of the ratification of the said constitution shall vote in either English or Spanish "For the Constitution," and those opposed to the ratification of said constitution shall vote in either English or Spanish "Against the Constitution."

Done at the Executive office this 22nd day of November, A. D. 1910. Witness, my hand and the Great Seal of the Territory of New Mexico.
WILLIAM J. MILLS,
By the Governor.
NATHAN JAFFA,
Secretary of New Mexico.

Lakewood Shipping Cattle.

Lakewood.—The last week has been a busy one in Lakewood, there having been shipped out of here about seventy-five cars of cattle to the Eastern markets, consisting principally of fat cows and calves. There have also been several horse buyers in this community who have bought and shipped several car loads of horses to points in Texas and Oklahoma.

Indictment is Quashed.

Las Vegas.—The case of the United States against A. C. Vorhees, Henry Wilson and Henry Smith, charged with conspiracy against the government, ended abruptly when Judge M. C. Mechem quashed the indictment pending against the defendants, on the ground that it did not specify the offense with which they are charged. United States District Attorney Leahy gave notice of appeal.

New Railroad Proposition.

Roswell.—At a meeting of the railroad committee of the Commercial club, was received the proposition of Colonel Fred A. Beall, of New York, who proposes to build a new railroad out of Roswell. He will build from Roswell first to Fort Worth and is asking for a cash-in-advance bonus of $25,000. This proposition will not be accepted, but the committee will make further negotiations with the promoters. The people of Roswell are inclined to want a new railroad in operation before giving a bonus.

New Mexico Public Domain.

Columbus.—About one-half the area of New Mexico is still public domain—that is, subject to entry under the federal land laws. On July 1st, to be exact, 36,454,692 acres were subject to the six federal land offices in New Mexico. But a few years ago, the public domain had an area of 24,000,000 acres more, but that 12,000,000 acres have been withdrawn since for national forests, coal lands or water power sites. Another 5,000,000 acres have been selected by the territory for school and institutional lands. The remaining 7,000,000 acres were taken by homesteaders.

New Mexico Hookworm.

Santa Fe.—Superintendent Clinton J. Crandall of the U. S. Indian and Industrial School and in charge of the Pueblo Indians announced that Dr. A. Dunn of Philadelphia, and recently of the Isthmus of Panama, has been appointed physician to the Pueblo Indians and will have charge of the Pueblos of Jemez, Zia, Santo Domingo and Cochiti. Dr. Dunn made an enviable record on the isthmus where he studied tropical diseases and did much for the sanitation of that formerly unhealthy country. It is rumored that Uncle Sam is anxious to have Dr. Dunn make a study of the hookworm in New Mexico, for it is said the disease is prevalent among the Pueblos owing to the non-balanced ration of many Indians.

Teamsters on Strike.

Santa Fe.—The teamsters, hauling ore from the Shakespeare mining district to the Southern Pacific railroad at Lordsburg, have gone on a strike for an advance from eighty cents to one dollar a ton for hauling the ore. One teamster can haul six tons a day.

LITTLE NEW MEXICO ITEMS.

Minor Occurrences of More Than Ordinary Interest.

After a few days of severe illness, one of Deming's pioneers, Alfred Francis Rutland, died.

One full carload of seeded broomcorn will be shipped from Roy by growers in that vicinity.

A Masonic lodge has been instituted at Springer by District Deputy John A. Cutler of Raton.

The plans for the incorporation of a large Polish sanitarium for Roy, Mora county, are almost complete.

Carlsbad, Eddy county, has appointed a commission to beautify that already beautiful Pecos valley town.

The new stripping tracks in the Santa Fe yards at San Bernardino are now practically completed at a cost of over $2,000.

Struck on the head by the gin pole of a derrick when a cable guiding it broke, Matias Armijo of Santa Fe, met instant death.

Governor Mills and Adjutant General Brookes visited Raton to arrange for the mustering in of a new infantry company for the national guard.

A. L. Taylor has harvested 1,680 pounds of beans per acre on his beautiful irrigated farm south of Deming and is figuring on seven cents per pound.

By unanimous vote the Albuquerque Woman's Christian Temperance union has placed itself on record as against the ratification of the constitution and the consequent admission of New Mexico into the union.

Two children are dead and another dying and the mother is seriously burned from the explosion of a kerosene lamp in the home of Emilio Gomez at San Marcial. A member of the family tried to fill the lamp while it was lighted.

Preparations are being made by the government to remove nearly 2,000 people from their homes in order to make room for the great Elephant Butte reservoir near Eagle, N. M. Six Mexican villages, ranging in population from 50 to 700 will be inundated when the water is turned in.

When the Santa Fe—Lamy branch-train was within a hundred yards of the depot at Santa Fe the engine was derailed by a defective switch and the left wheel sank in the mud. Fireman Hollis jumped. The dozen or more passengers quickly alighted and no one was injured.

That New Mexico people are careless and indifferent in regard to reporting irrigation statistics to the proper officials in Washington, is the statement of Roland Harwell, of the bureau of census of the department of commerce and labor, who is in the territory on official business.

In the presence of a big crowd Clabe Kyle rode the hitherto unconquered "Texas Bay" Thanksgiving day at Amusement Park, Artesia. Clabe earned his $100 with apparent ease, but you couldn't convince other riders in this country that it was an easy matter to ride that particular horse.

Word was received from Corruppa, the ranch of Ed Wigh, one of the largest sheepmen in the country, that a stable belonging to Wight burned recently, with the loss of eleven head of horses and mules, three wagons, two huggies, a carload of flour, two carloads of grain and a number of tons of sorghum feed.

The south half of the tract of land owned by the French Land and Irrigation Company, near Springer, containing 25,000 acres, will be formed into an irrigation district and turned over to the farmers. Most of the land has been sold by the company. The farmers will incorporate the new district under the Territorial Irrigation law. They will also build another reservoir with a capacity of 12,000 acre feet.

Certificates of construction and license to appropriate water have been signed by Territorial Engineer Sullivan for five more irrigation projects that have been completed. They are: Rioto Lama Irrigation Company of Questa, Taos county; Cerro Ditch Company, of Cerro, Taos county; Cabresto Lake Irrigation Company, of Red River, Taos county; E. O. Brown ditch of Springer, Colfax county; and the Citizens Ditch Company of Questa, Taos county.

The average precipitation for the Territory, determined from the records of 135 stations, was 0.72 inch, or 0.33 inch below the normal, and 0.9 inch less than the month of October, 1909. The greatest monthly amount was 2.76 inches at Swastika Ranch, extreme northwest Valencia county, and the least none at seven stations, while but a trace occurred to seven others. The greatest amount in any twenty-four hours was 1.66 at Aspen Grove Ranch in eastern Rio Arriba county, on the 20th. The average snow fall was 2.2 inches, almost three times that of October, 1909. There was an average of three days with precipitation.

Mining properties in the Twin Lakes district are maintaining a steady production of mineral.

Diamond drilling operations on the Dolomite property, Leadville, have succeeded in revealing extensive ore bodies.

Charles Lawson of the Princess of India mine at Lawson, struck a seven-inch streak of silver ore running 600 ounces to the ton.

The United Oil Company of Florence struck oil in two wells at which drilling operations have been carried on for several weeks.

C. M. Taylor is steadily working his Little Flat lode on Ute creek, Idaho Springs, and is running the small stamp mill upon the product.

The Garnite Gold Mining Company, Cripple Creek, has declared a dividend of 1 cent a share, payable December 15. The dividend will amount to $16,500.

Reports from Pitkin the that Elmer Wiley and associates have just opened a strong body of $100 silver and lead ore in claims near the Cleopatra and Fairview above Pitkin.

A tunnel 180 feet in the Gold Coin, Leadville, has reached a good body of ore which returns assay values ranging from $60 to $100 per ton, and shipments are starting to the smelter.

The new Bard Creek section, near Georgetown, continues to improve under persistent exploration, with several properties finding orebodies which warrant development on an extensive scale.

The Fanchou, Leadville, is shipping some high-grade lead ore from a six-foot vein recently opened in one of the drifts. The vein is widening and it is believed a much larger body of ore is near at hand.

The Lewis mill, a new construction, which began operations in Bridal Veil basin, Telluride district, several months ago, is running continuously in good values of free milling gold, with reported returns.

Three distinct ore shoots, carrying high-grade ore, are under development by sublessees of the Colorado Mines Investment Company, in the first and eighth levels of the American Eagles mine, on the summit of Bull Hill, Cripple Creek.

The Truax Mines Company, a new corporation formed for the mining of a group of claims situated in the Clyde mining district, announces that work will be resumed at once, a modern mine plant installed and work in earnest begun.

The Rainbow mine on Twin Peaks, Twin Lakes district, is again being worked. The Ruby mine in Lincoln gulch is keeping up its shipments of $250 gold ore, taken only from the upper workings. The same rich shoots are now being opened in the lower levels.

Henry B. Clifford & Co. will on the 15th of December, began work on the Gem-Belman vein in both the Central and Newhouse tunnels, Idaho Springs, and will proceed as rapidly as men and ample capital can accomplish the making of one of the greatest mines in Colorado.

With more work now being carried on than at any previous time in her history, Leadville is finishing the year 1910 very strong, and the production records are slowly but surely creeping up to the high figures attained four years ago when the mineral output of Lake county was estimated at $11,000,000.

New Mexico.

At a conference between the vice president of the company and other eastern investors and the consulting engineer, it was decided to push development in all parts of the Socorro mine, Mogollon mining district, and block out reserves sufficient to justify doubling the capacity of the mill.

The Mogollon Gold and Copper Company, which is doing considerable development work on its property at Cooney, made a rich strike in the Florida group, the richest that has ever been made on that property. The ore carries heavy gold and silver values on a good strong vein four feet wide.

A very rich strike of almost solid silver ore was made upon the Chicago mine in the Black Hawk district, fifteen miles west of Silver City. It is estimated from samples that have been carried to Silver City that the ore will run from $5,000 to $7,000 a ton. The rich strike was made at a depth of eight feet although the shaft has been in ore from the grass roots.

SUFFERED 30 YEARS.

But Chronic Kidney Trouble Was Finally Cured.

Charles Von Soehnen, 201 A St., Colfax, Wash., says: "For 30 years I suffered from kidney trouble and was laid up for days at a time. There was a dull ache through the small of my back and I had rheumatic pains in every joint. The kidney secretions passed too freely and I was annoyed by having to arise at night. I could not work without intense suffering. Through the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, I was practically given a new pair of kidneys. I cannot exaggerate their virtues."

Disturbing the Foundations.

Bacon—I see an automobile fog signal for railroads, the invention of a retired Dutch naval officer, explodes a cartridge behind a megaphone automatically whenever a train enters a block in which there is another train.

Egbert—Mercy. I should think that was enough to disturb the sleepers.—Yonkers Statesman.

As He Lingered.

"Dearest," said Reginald, as they stood in the darkened hallway, "it's so hard to say good-by!"

"Then don't try to say 'it,'" murmured Beryl. "Say 'good-night' instead; you don't have to use your lips for that, you know."—Chicago Tribune.

Didn't Propose to Hurry.

His Wife—I just can't bear to see you smoking, John. The doctor says it is slow poison.

Her Husband—Well, I'm not going to take quick poison just to please you and the doctor.—Chicago News.

Who is paying the cost of this very expensive campaign against the initiative and referendum? And why?—Denver News.

She Convinced Her Husband.

A woman, carrying a heavy suitcase and a big fat baby, stopped at a news counter to-day for something to read while getting her baby to sleep. She picked up a woman's magazine and opened it at an article headed: "It is Vital That Every Woman Should Retain a Perfect Figure." It was a well-written article, much of this stuff is, and she was so influenced by its logic that she dumped the baby on the bench, dropped the suitcase beside it, and walked off with head high, shoulders erect and abdomen drawn in. Some minutes later a meek-looking man hurried in, picked up the baby and suitcase and walked out again. Undoubtedly, somewhere outside he had met his wife and she had convinced him.—Atchison Globe.

How He Did It.

A lawyer once asked a man who had at various times sat on several juries:

"Who influenced you most—the lawyer, the witnesses or the judge?" He expected to get some useful and interesting information from so experienced a juror. This was the man's reply:

"I'll tell yer, sir, 'ow I makes up my mind. I am a plain man, and a reasonin' man, and I ain't influenced by anything the lawyers say; no, nor by what the judge says. I just looks at the man in the docks and I says: 'If he ain't done nothin', why's he there? And I brings 'em all in guilty.'—Short Stories.

Drunken Wasps.

Bacon—They say wasps become intoxicated by eating decaying fruits, the sugar of which passes into a kind of alcohol. While in this drunken condition the wasps do their worst stinging.

Egbert—If an officer is then to take one in hand, he does not want to handle it without gloves.—Yonkers Statesman.

Delegates gathered in Chicago for the Methodist conference for social service were told by one of their number that Sunday baseball and motion pictures, now under ban of the Methodist church, were all right and should have the official sanction.

The recent aviation meet in Denver and the success which attended it is bearing fruit. The Chamber of Commerce received a letter from the Metz Company at Waltham, Mass., that they had decided to commence the manufacture of aeroplanes in Denver.

The final stage of the Times explosion investigation has been reached in Los Angeles. The special grand jury which has been conducting the inquiry for four weeks will reconvene and the district attorney's office expects the immediate return of indictments.

The San Francisco Church Federation through its attorney to-day addressed a letter to the district attorney calling attention to the fact that a prize fight was held in this city Saturday between Moran and Nelson, and that the law had been violated in the conduct of the event.

POLITICAL.

Politics is the chief game now being played at Washington. The Democrats having the next House of Representatives by sixty-six majority are planning to organize the Senate, while the progressive Republicans in company with the more reasonable of their own party opponents are at work on plans for a reorganization of the entire Republican party machinery.

FOREIGN.

Detachments of troops and constabulary are operating against the hostile Manobos in Davao, Mindanao island, P. I. One column has killed several of the tribesmen, including two who were implicated in the murder of Earl Gerr, a planter from Seattle.

The Barzilian chamber of deputies by a vote of 114 to 23 passed a resolution granting amnesty to the mutinous sailors on board the battleships Mines Geraes and Sao Paulo, the coast defense ships Marshal Floriano and Deodora, and the scout ship Bahia. The senate unanimously passed the measure.

Slowly sinking in a sea of mud, at least a half dozen men are known to have gone down to a horrible death, swallowed up by the "honey-pots" that lie around Frederick House lake, in the newly discovered gold mining region of the Porcupine district of northern Ontario.

SPORT.

In a fast four-round fight in Ludington, Mich., Jack O'Leary of Milwaukee knocked out Cyclone Kinney of Brooklyn. The men fought in the 133-pound class.

There is still a chance that the much-discussed battle between Jack Johnson and Sam Langford for the heavyweight championship of the world may take place.

The estate of George Crocker, which was filed at the surrogate court in New York, is valued at $12,000,000.

George F. Seward, president of the Fidelity & Casualty Company, died at his home in New York at the age of 70.

The population of the state of Minnesota is 2,075,073, according to the thirteenth census. This is an increase of 324,314.

Michael Cudahy, founder of the packing firm bearing his name, died at a hospital in Chicago of double pneumonia.

Three persons were killed and two badly hurt when a Wheeling & Lake Erie train struck a crowded surrey in Canton, Ohio.

Many of the families of the village of New Haven, Ill., which was practically destroyed by fire are hard pressed for shelter.

Gold in what is said to be paying quantities has been discovered on the farm of John Grosz in Autrim county, Mich.

Near Garden City, Kansas, a company has been organized to irrigate 2,000 acres of land from the underflow of the Arkansas river.

Two hundred and fifty million dollars' worth of articles classed as luxuries were imported into the United States during the fiscal year 1910.

During the deer hunting season, November 10th to December 1st, there were forty-six accidents in the upper peninsula of Michigan, twenty fatal.

The United States grand jury returned an indictment in New Orleans against William Adler, former president of the State National bank of that city.

After a struggle of thirty years to win recognition as an artist and achieve her own ideals of her art, Miss Ella Finley died in Philadelphia, of starvation.

So many men are buying their way out of the army and refusing to reenlist after serving a term that officers of the service have become alarmed.

That the population of the United States and its possessions now exceeds 100,000,000 is the estimate made from the census figures so far announced.

Unless the liquor interests are successful in their fight to secure the signature of 51 per cent of the voters to their petitions of consent to operate Des Moines will go dry.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the Brooklyn explorer, in an article which will be published in Hampton's magazine, confesses that he does not know whether he reached the North Pole.

The United States Steel corporation, it has been learned, is to announce a pension plan for employes between 60 and 70 years of age, which will become effective January 1st.

The courts have confirmed an assessment of $45,362 to be levied on policy-holders of the Citizen's Mutual Fire of Holly, Mich., which went into the hands of a receiver two years ago. A reduction of $9,000 was made from the original recommendation of the receiver.

Not only was the body of John Griffin Carlisle, for many years representative, speaker of the house and senator and secretary of the treasury, hauled from the depot to the undertaker's establishment in an express van, when sent to Covington, Ky., for burial, but the great man's body was buried by contributions from those who knew him only by reputation.

Realizing that the law did not provide adequate punishment for a man who brutally thrashed his wife whenever the humor seized him, Justice of the Peace J. C. Hayden of Swoyersville, Pa., vigorously lashed Albert Gay, of the same place, with a heavy horsewhip, and when he had finished, the wife-beater, weeping and begging for mercy, promised never to strike his wife again.

"Rats, puffs, switches and other such prevalent devices to reinforce nature may become so cheap as to cease to be a distinguishing mark of the up-to-date woman." This is the comment made by United States Consul E. Carleton Baker at Antung, China, on the fact that 800,000 Koreans "have amputated their top-knots since the annexation of Korea by Japan." In consequence of this increased supply of human hair the price has fallen materially.

A life-saving service for the rescue of miners in time of disaster has just been inaugurated by the United States Bureau of Mines. Six specially constructed cars, fully manned by a corps of miners trained in rescue work and equipped with the latest apparatus and first-aid appliances have been located in the midst of the great coal districts in different parts of the country. These cars will be ready at a moment's notice to proceed to the scene of a disaster, where the rescue corps, in co-operation with the state mining officials, will do everything possible to save entombed miners.

Desperate Situation.
"There's no use trying to deny it," remarked Mrs. DeFlatt, "this is the worst cook we've had yet. There positively isn't a decent thing to eat on the table."

"That's right," rejoined DeFlatt. "But," continued his wife, "there's one thing in her favor. She can't be beat when it comes to washing."

"Pity we can't eat the washing," sighed the hungry husband.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors prescribed a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. ARCHIBALD'S AGATHA

By EDITH HUNTINGTON MASON
AUTHOR OF "THE REAL AGATHA"

SYNOPSIS.

Archibald Terhune, a popular and indolent young bachelor of London, receives news that he has been made heir to the estate of his Aunt Georgiana, with an income of $20,000 a year, on condition that he become engaged to be married within ten days. Failing to do so the legacy will go to a third cousin in America. The story opens at Castle Wyckhoff, where Lord Vincent and his wife, friends of Terhune, are discussing plans to find him a wife within the prescribed time. It seems that Lady Vincent is one of seven persons named Agatha, all close girlhood chums. She decides to invite two of them to the castle and have Archie there as one of the guests. Agatha Sixth strikes Archie as a hand-painted beauty. Agatha First is a breezy American girl. Lady Vincent tells her husband that Agatha Sixth already cares for Archie. He gains from Agatha Sixth the admission that she cares for him, but will require a month's time fully to make up her mind. Agatha First, neglected by Terhune, receives attentions from Leslie Freer. Four days of the precious time have passed when Terhune is called to London on business. Agatha First, on the plea of sickness, excuses herself from a motor trip planned by the Vincents. Later they see Agatha First picking flowers with a strange man. The Vincents discuss Agatha's seeming duplicity. The following day the party visits the ruins of an old convent. Terhune continues his attentions to Agatha Sixth. Then suddenly he transfers his attentions to Agatha First. Vincent scores him for his apparent fickleness. The last evening of the time allotted in which to become engaged arrives. The following day Solicitor Burns will arrive from London, and the Vincents are anxious to consummate the engagement. Vincent discovers Agatha First and a man with his arm around her waist. Vincent decides that the man must be Terhune. The next morning Terhune and Agatha First are very friendly at the breakfast table, while Agatha Sixth seems somewhat displeased. Solicitor Burns arrives. The Vincents are anxious. In an interview of Vincent and his wife the latter cries in desperation over the puzzling condition of affairs. Solicitor Barnes arrives. The Vincents are anxious. Will Terhune report an affianced or a free man? Terhune tells Lord Vincent that he proposed to Agatha Sixth and that she had refused to marry him.

"She was only trying you," I replied, taking Dearest's say-so as my authority for advancing this opinion. "She had a right to do that! Every girl does it, in fact!"

"She nearly tried me too far," he said doggedly. "But I'm sorry it all happened, and if I had known I wouldn't have risked my happiness for the world!"

There didn't seem much more that I could say after that, and I gave up trying.

"Well, anyway, it's a deuced shame," I ended. "I must go up and see what my wife thinks about it. Meanwhile you might be trying to persuade Barnes over there." I smiled at the stiff elderly gentleman on the hearthrug, "to give us more time. It can't be twenty minutes to one now, and I'm afraid it would take more time than that to persuade a certain young lady to change her mind, even if Dearest were to make the attempt." But I got no answering smile from Barnes.

"I have no voice in the matter whatever," he said. "I am here merely to carry out the instructions of my client, Mrs. James, to see that her injunctions in regard to the condition upon which Mr. Terhune is to inherit the piece of property in abeyance are obeyed faithfully and to the letter." Having finished this unfeeling speech, which he had couched in as formal phraseology as if he had been addressing judge and jury instead of poor old Arch and myself, he lapsed into meditative silence.

My friend, perceiving that there was no help to be had in that quarter, turned imploringly to me. "Go up and see what you can do, Vincent," he said, "there's a good chap!"

"With all the pleasure in life!" I replied. "And I may persuade her to relent, who knows? So cheer up, old fellow!" And I left them.

"What is all this about Terhune?" I asked excitedly, bursting into my wife's room without my usual preliminary knock, and quite forgetting William's caution that she did not wish to be disturbed.

"Do you mean to say that she has really refused the old boy? I thought you said—" But there I stopped, for there on the floor with her head in Dearest's lap, was Agatha Sixth, and I caught a glimpse of a little tear-stained cheek that smote my heart with a guilty sense that there were two sides to every question always, and that something here was very wrong.

"Will you be kind enough—" began my wife. She had been going to ask me to leave the room, I knew, but it wasn't necessary. Agatha Sixth got to her feet on a sudden and, with a murmur of gratitude to my wife, slipped past me with averted face and fled down the corridor to her room. We heard the door bang in the distance. I looked at Dearest, and Dearest looked at me.

"It's the cruelest thing I ever heard of," she said, speaking first, "and I should think you and your worthy friend would be proud of your work!"

Yes, that's just what she said. I never was so taken aback in my life. Dearest speaking so to me. Why was I to blame, I wanted to know! And fancy referring to old Arch, whom Dearest had always petted and made even more of than I have, as my "worthy friend!" Really, it was amazing!

"But, my dear girl," I said, "it isn't my work, and Terhune's more to be pitied than to be blamed, as far as I can see! He's awful unlucky, I'll admit, but after all, making love to Agatha First on the sly isn't a hanging matter, is it?"

"Very well," I said. "Don't answer me if you don't choose, and I'll go fast enough. I don't care to stay any longer. But I think you're making a great fuss over nothing, and I don't see that the misfortunes of our friends is excuse enough for a row between us, at all!" I said this with much dignity and went toward the door. Reaching it, I threw a parting shot as I went.

"Besides," I said, "you know you'll have to see me pretty soon in spite of yourself. It will be time for luncheon in a quarter of an hour, and I suppose you intend to come down?"

She didn't answer, and I went down the corridor and descended the stairs in considerable of a temper, I admit.

Covered the Distance in a Little Less Than an Hour.

"By Jove!" I said to Terhune, whom I found waiting anxiously for me at the foot of the stairs, "if I were you I wouldn't waste any more time over Agatha Sixth! She and my wife are in league, and should think to prevent you from inheriting a fortune! The girl cares for you, I know. Dearest told me as much, but they're just contrary enough, the pair of them, to wait until it's too late to get your aunt's property before they admit it to you! Some Quixotic notion about love for love's sake only seems to have so possessed them that they will not actually be content until they've forced you to sacrifice the property. All women's nonsense, too, I say. There's no reason why you shouldn't have had both! But since they're so pig-headed about it, upon my word, I'd outwit them yet, if I were you!" I was thoroughly excited and sore, or perhaps I wouldn't have made this suggestion. "I wouldn't let them cheat me of my rights that way. This is a chance in a hundred to make yourself rich for life! I wouldn't wait for them, if I were you! I'd go ahead and ask Agatha First before the time's up. She'd have you in a moment!"

"I'm not so sure," replied Arch, gazing longingly at his watch, as if to hold the minutes back by force. His self-confidence was terribly shattered, poor old chap. I could see that. It was a shame, too! It was something I was always chaffing him about, but for all that, I was really fond of the egoism that was so characteristic of him. I had always delighted in his childish vanity.

"Come, Terhune!" I said, "be a man! There's Miss Endicott now! Go and ask her, before it's too late. It's a shame you should lose both the girl and the fortune!"

But to my astonishment, Terhune, whom I had always laughingly accused of being a mercenary beggar, when it came to a question of marrying, did not take my sporting suggestion at all well.

"Great heaven, Vincent!" he exclaimed, in a low, tense tone, and turned on me almost as if insulted by the idea, "can't you let me alone? What do you suppose I want with my aunt's beastly property if I have to get along without the girl?"

And by the way he said it I saw at once that there was only one girl for him, and that when it came to the point he found, in spite of all his old caution and calculating spirit, that love was the only thing in the world that counted, after all.

"Great Scotland!" I thought to myself, as I grasped the true inwardness of this fact. "If the old boy isn't actually in love! I didn't think he had it in him!" The idea occurring to me seriously, for the first time, only that moment, and I saved up the incident to tell Dearest when I should get the chance. Somehow I had been so busy trying to help Terhune gain his aunt's promised legacy that I had never had time to consider that there might be a sentimental side to the affair. It had all seemed so much like a game to me, it had been such a jolly lark to find myself mixed up in an affair of such an unusual description, and Arch had so long accustomed me to his mercenary attitude toward life, that I had found myself quite readily talking and advising in a manner that I would not have thought of doing if I had myself been the principal in the affair instead of Arch. This long explanation I make merely because I could not feel myself slap on my shoulder. But by his next words it was explained and excused in the same moment, as were many other things that had happened lately.

"Where's Agatha First?" he cried. "It's all right now! Miss Simplin has eloped and we can get married."

An enigmatical speech enough, I'll admit, and, of course, I don't mean to say that it alone was the means of enlightening Terhune and myself as to the new turn this rather complicated and stubborn affair of his aunt's property had taken.

It was only after a number of questions had been asked and answered that we understood him. When it appeared that he, Brancepeth, had been in love with Miss Endicott and she with him ever since the first Castle Wyckhoff houseparty, but that there was an obstacle to their marriage which prevented their acknowledging their attachment, which obstacle consisted of the inexorable determination of Brancepeth's sole relative, a wealthy uncle, that he should marry a certain Miss Simplin, an heiress herself, and a neighbor of his uncle's.

Brancepeth had not the faintest intention of marrying the lady of his uncle's choice, or anyone other than the lady of his own, but was still unable openly to disregard that uncle's wishes, having been entirely dependent upon him all his life. The young lady in question, Miss Simplin, had now decided matters for him by eloping with a poor young squire, in spite of a tacit agreement with her father that she would consider favorably the suit of young Murray. And by thus boldly securing her own happiness the young lady had at the same time opened the way for that of Brancepeth, a deed for which I thought, when I heard the tale, she deserved the commendation of the community. I like good sport. But this opinion of mine in regard to Miss Simplin's escapade did not apparently jibe with that of Brancepeth's uncle, for, as our visitor proceeded with his tale, we learned that he was indeed so enraged by the very act which so delighted us all that when his nephew, emboldened by the tidings of the elopement, confided to him his attachment for Miss Endicott, his aggrieved relative had seized with enthusiasm the chance of proving to the scornful and fugitive heiress that she was unregretted. He only awaited the appearance of Agatha First, it seemed, to take her to his arms and enshrine her brows with a diamond tiara that was to flaunt defiance and triumph before the jealous eyes of the poor squire's wife whenever the two might meet.

This exciting crisis in Brancepeth's romance having developed only that morning, it was friend Murray to his machine and on his way to Castle Wyckhoff without loss of time, and we were not at all surprised when he boasted that he had covered the distance between his uncle's place at the other end of the county and Wyckhoff castle in a little less than an hour. We had just succeeded in grasping these details of our friend's love affair, though he had not given them in full, as I have, but had rather sketched the story generally and rapidly, when Dearest appeared upon the scene and the whole wonderful tale had to be told again.

How to Wash Windows.

Strange as it may seem, there is a right and wrong way to wash windows, and as this operation is usually dreaded, the following method will doubtless be appreciated as it saves both time and labor. Choose a dull day, or at least a time when the sun is not shining on the windows, for when the sun shines on the window it causes it to be dry streaked, no matter how much it is rubbed. Take a painter's brush and dust them inside and out, washing all the woodwork inside before touching the glass. The latter must be washed slowly in warm water diluted with ammonia—do not use soap. Use a small cloth with a pointed stick to get the dust out of the corners; wipe dry with a soft piece of cotton cloth—do not use linen, as it makes the glass lumpy when dry. Polish with tissue paper or old newspaper. You will find that this can be done in half the time taken where soap is used, and the result will be brighter windows.

Kickers.

What is odious but noise, and people who scream and bewail! People whose vane points always east, who live to dine, who send for the doctor, who coddle themselves, who toast their feet on the register, who intrigue to secure a padded chair and a corner out of the draught. Suffer them once to begin the enumeration of their infirmities, and the sun will go down on the unfinished tale.—Emerson.

Highest Good in Life.

The highest good is found in the way of doing good, giving what we have, our best selves, to others. Let a man seek efficiency in his business, let him seek leadership in his profession, let him seek enriching some other lives. This is the myrrh that preserves to us all that we gain and perfumes all, while selfishness is the moth that breeds decay and death.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING REDUCED

Much has been said about the high cost of living, its causes, and the possibilities of its reduction. But little has been said about the most costly leak in the false economy existing today in nearly every household.

Much foodstuffs are bought with but one point in view—"How cheap can we get it" without a thought of quality or "after cost." One of the most serious is baking powder.

By the use of perfect baking powder the housewife can derive as much economy as from any other article used in baking and cooking. In selecting the baking powder, therefore, care should be exercised to purchase one that retains its original strength, and always remains the same, thus making the food sweet and wholesome and producing sufficient leavening gas to make the baking light.

Very little of this leavening gas is produced by the cheap baking powders, making it necessary to use double the quantity ordinarily required to secure good results.

You cannot experiment every time you make a cake or biscuits, or test the strength of your baking powder to find out how much of it you should use; yet with most baking powders you should do this for they are put together so carelessly they are never uniform, the quality and strength varying with each can purchased.

Calumet Baking Powder is made of chemically pure ingredients of tested strength. Experienced chemists put it up. The proportions of the different materials remain always the same. Sealed in air-tight cans, Calumet Baking Powder does not alter in strength and is not affected by atmospheric changes.

In using Calumet you are bound to have uniform bread, cake or biscuits, as Calumet does not contain any cheap, useless or adulterating ingredients so commonly used to increase the weight. Further, it produces pure, wholesome food, and is a baking powder of rare merit; therefore, it is recommended by leading physicians and chemists. It complies with all pure food laws, both STATE and NATIONAL. The goods are moderate in price, and any lady purchasing Calumet from her dealer, not satisfied with it, can return it and have her money refunded.

A Garden of Friends.

One of the prettiest corners of a certain girl's garden is that in which every plant has been the gift of some special friend. The sweet old-fashioned flowers that bloom there have thus a double significance, and their owner persuades herself that while they flourish she may be very sure that she is not forgotten. A fragrant clump of pinks was set in place by her dearest school friend, and now that this friend is living abroad she likes to think that every breath of perfume brings her a kindly thought of her old chum. A garden of friendship is a pretty fancy, and one that gives lasting pleasure.

NO MEAT IN THEM.

Dr. Emdee—You should eat meat very sparingly.

Mr. Joax—I avoid it altogether. I eat nothing but luncheon ham sandwiches.

END STOMACH TROUBLE NOW

Dyspepsia, Gas, Sourness or Indigestion Go Five Minutes After Taking a Little Diapepsin.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating, and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure indigestion.

A large case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents at any drug store here in town, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of Indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Dyspepsia, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at your drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order Stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort, all of any kind of food you eat.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure any chronic case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Gastritis or any other Stomach trouble.

Should you at this moment be suffering from Indigestion, Gas, Sourness or any stomach disorder, you can surely get relief within five minutes.

A quarrel merely proves that one of the parties to it hasn't any more sense than the other.

A GOOD POSITION

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph institute operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R. R. and Wireless Officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Memphis, Tenn., or Columbia, South Carolina.

Old Man Cooper's Secret Treasure

"Oh, for a square meal!" Joseph Batchford tightened his belt another hole. The hungry man became conscious that he was being followed, and turned to confront a wizened old man.

"Do you wish to speak to me, sir?" "You look hungry," said the old man. "Perhaps a steak and potatoes," suggested the old man. "Your voice is like his, and your laugh—"

"All right, Epicurus," said Joe. "I'm certainly agreeable, but whose voice and laugh is like mine? I thought I was too hungry to have a recognizable voice and my laugh must be sadly warped."

The old man said little more, but watched with apparent rapture Joseph's feat of placing within him two big steaks. Then said the old man: "Would you mind telling me something about yourself?"

"Sure," said Joe, "it's easy enough. Sister and I were left orphans years ago. An old lady took charge of Mamie. I went to Australia, cleared up about $25,000; got homesick. The ship was wrecked, and my pile is somewhere on the bottom of the Pacific. I landed broke; can't find any trace of Mamie—and, so there you are."

"You are the person I want," said the old man. "You can make another $25,000 to-night in half an hour. My name is Carleton Crane. I am confidential man for Cornelius Cooper. He is dying. All that keeps him alive is that he doesn't want to die until he has revealed a secret. Five years ago he quarreled with his son Tristan. The latter had married against his father's wishes.

"During the travels of Cornelius Cooper, my employer, he obtained information of a hidden treasure. He found it—a marvelous collection of jewels. I saw them when he returned. Where he has hidden them no one knows but himself. He has forgiven Tristan, but Tristan has disappeared. If the old man dies before Tristan turns up, the secret dies with him. Your voice and laugh are very like Tristan Cooper's."

Joe Batchford looked at the old man, comprehending.

"It is I who should ask forgiveness, father."

The sightless eyes of Cornelius Cooper were turned on Joseph Batchford. "You are not my son, instinct tells me," he said. "This is a scheme of old Crane."

"You're right," said Joe; "the fact is, I'm in hard lines, but if I succeeded in getting that secret treasure of yours I intended to give the old schemer the go-by, look up your son, and I know he would make it right. I'm honest, just in hard luck, that's all."

The old man for some time remained in thought. "Somehow, I believe you," he said. "Your voice has an honest ring; it is much like the voice of Tristan. Far better, at any rate, for you to know the secret than that old ingrate. Look under the mattress; take that envelope; it directs you to where I have hidden the jewels—try and find Tristan—be a good, honest boy—it is always better—and—"

The old man's voice sunk, his head turned over on the pillow, and he had gone to the bourne beyond.

Outside, Carleton Crane awaited. "Have you got it?" he asked, feverishly.

"You bet," said Joseph Batchford, "and I'm going to keep it. It's a secret," and he left Carleton Crane standing dumfounded.

The envelope contained these instructions:

"Tendrill house, cellar known as Monk's, fourth flagstone to right. Open. Ladder 15 feet. Passage. End of passage iron door, spring lock. Go down 15 feet. Iron chest. Low tide dry, high tide full."

Batchford went at low tide. The hidden gems were his. He advertised for the whereabouts of Tristan Cooper. It was long before he received any tidings, but one day a man announced himself: "I am Tristan Cooper; for long I have been isolated; confined to bed, under the care of my wife, in a remote mining camp. I heard of your advertisement by accident. Why have you sought my whereabouts?"

Batchford told him the story in full. "I promised your father I would do all possible to find you."

"You must share with me, Batchford," said Cooper, "and, another thing: Your name—Batchford—the woman who nursed me back to life, her name was Batchford, Mamie Batchford. Did you ever know of one such?"

"Did I?" shouted Joe. "Why, man, where is she?"

"Right here," responded a voice from the doorway. "Oh, Joe, I thought I had lost you forever."

As the two stood in rapturous embrace, Tristan looked at them, tears in his eyes. "This has certainly been a lucky strike for all of us—but I wish poor dad was here to share in the happiness," he said.

"How soon will he be back?"

"Oh, in about half an hour, I guess. He started for Summit two hours ago with a customer. He didn't think you would mind if he used your car for demonstration purposes."

"When he gets through using it I'd like to take some friends of mine to the train, if you don't care."

"I'll do what I can for you, Mr. Clinton, but I may as well tell you now that one of our machinists is waiting here with a party of young women and he expects to take them to Passaic when Mr. Sprockets gets back."

"Haven't you another car that you can send me in place of my own?"

"No, I haven't just now; but I'll order you a carriage from the livery stable across the street, if that will do."—Newark Evening News.

FORGERY JUSTIFIED.

An unusual case happened in Hungary recently, when a student named Hofek and a woman were acquitted on a charge of forgery, though both pleaded guilty. Hofek was a student in medicine, who, though very poor, carried out researches into the cause of malaria in the low-lying flooded lands of the Danube. With his rough instruments, to buy which he often went without bread, he made valuable discoveries, finding the actual malaria microbe. At length, unable to obtain any assistance and driven by necessity he forged some notes, and the woman, a friend of his, was accused of having circulated them. The jury acquitted them both on the ground that the forgery was committed with high ends in view to forward research, and not with evil intentions.
