COURT HAS ADJOURNED

Finished Work and adjourned Wednesday Morning Court Notes

REVIEW OF THE SESSION

District Court adjourned Wednesday morning having completed the work of the term and the court officers have returned to their respective homes. A number of cases were continued for the term and will be brought up later when ready for trial. Judge Wright when interviewed as to a fall term of court stated that it was possible that he would convene court in November at the regular time. The expenses of the term consumed about five thousand of the eight thousand dollars in the county court fund but an additional amount will also be available before November.

Klasner in which an injunction was granted by the court restraining the last mentioned from interfering with water rights of the plaintiff and others. The property involved in this case amounted to over 15,000.

STATEHOOD IS REMOTE

Chances of Statehood for New Mexico and Arizona at Short Session Slim

RESOLUTION IS INTRODUCED

Statehood for New Mexico and Arizona on condition that the people of both states be given an opportunity to vote on proposed changes in their constitutions was taken up in the house Tuesday. Representative Flood presented the report of the majority of the committee on territories and a minority report has been brought in by the republican members of the committee. The republicans insist that the constitutions of both states be approved by congress in exactly the form in which they were ratified by the people of Arizona and New Mexico.

It has been agreed that three days be allowed for debate on the question of the admission of the states. The time is to be equally divided between the democrats and the republicans. Representative J. N. Langham of Pennsylvania will have charge of the minority report, while Chairman Henry D. Flood of Virginia will have charge for the majority findings.

Democrats leaders claim to have enough votes in the house to pass the resolution as recommended by the majority report, but a bitter fight is predicted before this is done. Many republicans claim that the approval of the resolution in its present form would constitute a disapproval of the New Mexico constitution. Even should it pass the house, it is almost certain to die in the senate. In view of this state of affairs, it is generally conceded here, by friends of both territories, that prospects of their admission as states at the present special session of congress are, to say the least, remote.

BENEFIT BAPTIST CHURCH

Carrizozo will be treated to another home talent entertainment tonight which is to be given by home talent for the benefit of the Baptist Church this time. Those who have been to the entertainments in the past provided by Carrizozo local talent can vouch for their histrionic ability and we can vouch that the entertainment tonight will be no exception to the rule.

The affair will be given at Reals' Hall and an admission of twenty-five cents will be charged, reserved seats in the first seven rows fifty cents.

Sheriff Chas. A. Stevens left for Santa Fe on No 4 Wednesday evening with five prisoners sentenced to the penitentiary. Win Barnett of Carrizozo accompanied the Sheriff as guard.

WILL SPRINKLE STREETS

Movement on Foot to Wet Down the Streets of Carrizozo Continually

PLENTY OF WATER AVAILABLE

"Carrizozo streets must be sprinkled". This is the decision of a number of Carrizozo citizens who have this week perfected plans whereby the sprinkling of the streets and the laying of the dust is made possible.

The plan as now proposed is about as follows; although there may be minor changes made in the details as work progresses. The Southwestern Railroad has very kindly consented to allow the use of its waste water for the purpose; will fence it entire right of way within the limits of the town so as to prevent travel across same and the cutting of the surface which caused the dust and has also agreed to assist the movement in any possible way. The present plan is to catch the waste water after it crosses the railroad tracks and to reservoir the water in a shallow tank on the right of way near this point. Then to pipe the water accumulated to a point about six hundred feet west where a gravity flow can be had into the top of a sprinkling wagon and thus eliminate all pumping troubles. There is plenty of water to meet the demand and after the streets are once thoroughly wet down the dust problem will be eliminated by continual sprinkling.

The entire expense is not determined as yet but the immediate expense of putting in the reservoir and pipe will be met by subscription of the citizens and when completed will belong to the people of the city. It is believed that after the water is put in shape to be used that it will be possible to get someone to take the contract to run the sprinkler who will be paid monthly by a small assessment on the property owners and citizens.

The scheme is a splendid one and its up to the citizens to get in an encourage the movement and add their little donation now which will in the future make Carrizozo a dustless town and an excellent place in which to reside.

Work can commence the coming week on the reservoir and the pipe for the line from the reservoir to a lower point will be shipped from El Paso in a few days.

CHANGE OF TRAINS

Last Saturday the two trains known as thirty-three and thirty-four which have taken care of the local passenger traffic were discontinued for the summer months at least. Trains Three and Four now carry the day coaches and make a number of flag stops and with trains one and two will take care of the passenger travel over the Rock Island road. The discontinuance of these trains is thought to be but temporary and that in the fall, when the California travel is again heavy, that the trains will again be placed in operation.

A very pleasant dance, perhaps the most enjoyable in the season was participated in Friday evening by a number of Carrizozo people at Reals' Hall's.

The Ladies Home Mission Society met at Mrs. Farley's home Thursday afternoon for their regular session.

FARM OR WORKHOUSE.

Kansas City has had one year of experience with a farm which was established to take the place of the municipal workhouse. The results of her first year's trial have been more satisfactory than the most sanguine advocates of the plan had dared hope, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press. The report shows that while the workhouse cost the city $220 a year per prisoner, the farm has earned $100 a year profit for each prisoner. In other words the actual loss of 60 cents a day per prisoner has been turned into a profit of 30 cents a day. The financial gain, however, is the smallest part of the advantage. The board of public welfare reports that the prisoners have taken the keenest interest in their work, have shown no desire to escape, and that many of them have hurried to the farms as soon as their sentences have been served. The men who, through dissipation or the commission of minor offenses, have been sentenced to work on the farm have found the pleasure and health that comes from employment in the open. Men employed on the Kansas City farm have completed their sentences with coats of tan. Instead of the pallor that usually marks the discharged prisoner. Their systems have been toned up until they are capable of doing an honest day's work and also have the desire to do it. They have learned that there is a moral, as well as a physical, curative in outdoor work.

As a French contemporary points out, one generally associates the capital of a country with the largest town, but in the United States this is not so, although the accepted idea prevails in regard to European countries or to most of them, says the London Globe. An exception, however, must be made in regard to Berne, the capital of the Swiss Confederation, the city of picturesque gates, bears, old churches, watchmaking, the seat of the federal government, and the home of the Postal Union, where is to be found a collection of the stamps of the world which may be said to be unique. Berne is only a city of fourth-rate importance as regards population, with some 35,100 inhabitants. The principal towns of Switzerland being Zurich, with 188,920 souls; Bale, with 135,160, and Geneva, with 125,530. The Scottish capital, it may be observed, is only the second city in regard to population.

The agitation against harem and trouser skirts has reached the border of the ridiculous. In Illinois a bill has been introduced in the legislature providing a fine of $50 for wearing the obnoxious garments. American excitement over comparatively unimportant violations of established conventions might accomplish more if it did not so promptly get hysterical. The harem skirt is not in such danger of demoralizing the institutions of this free country as to necessitate attention given as to a public enemy.

One of the dancing masters alleges that New York women dance like chickens with their heads cut. Perhaps he has been watching New York women who were trying to dance in hobble skirts.

Pauline Wayne, the White House cow, is without a home. The war department, which takes care of the White House horses, refuses to provide a stall for her. All of which goes to show that the war department, as usual, is lacking in the milk of human kindness.

A woman tried to shoot up a restaurant in approved hold-up style because her steak was not ready in record time. And this display of primitive passion took place, not in the wild and woolly west, but in the intellectual midst of Boston.

Despite the protests of the small boy with the fishing rod, the hook and line, and the red flannel bait, it is the duty of our lawmakers to conserve the national resources, even in the matter of frog.

None can deny the extreme modesty of the University of Illinois. The $1,000,000 it asks for is only about the price of a draught.

BIGGEST OF ENGINES

RECORD-BREAKING LOCOMOTIVE BUILT IN TOPEKA.

It is of Articulated Mallet Type, Designed to Haul Freight Trains Over Arizona Grades and Will Burn Oil.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway company is just completing, in its Topeka shops what is said to be the largest railway locomotive in the world. It is an articulated mallet compound engine and it is for use in hauling freight trains over the Arizona grades. Numerous mallet type engines have been built in the locomotive shops in the east, but this is the first of the kind and also the largest engine built in the Topeka shops and also is by far the largest one in the world. This locomotive is 121 feet long. It will be operated tender foremost, as the great length of the boiler obstructs the view of the engineer. Oil will be used for fuel, as no man could shovel coal into its gaping maw fast enough to keep up the 225 pounds of steam pressure required to operate the locomotive to its best advantage. Not men enough could get into the cab to handle the coal for the boiler and they could not throw it far enough into the firebox to properly distribute the coal over the heating surfaces. The boiler is a sectional, non-explosive type. All water is heated by a special heater before it goes into the boiler, and all steam is superheated before it goes to the cylinders. The locomotive has duplicate compound air pumps, power reversing apparatus and two electric headlights, one ahead and one at the rear. The locomotive weighs three-quarters million pounds and rests on ten pairs of driving wheels, two leaders under the pilot and two trailers under the cab, making 24 wheels under the locomotive itself and 12 under the tender. The tender has two six-wheel trucks, where the ordinary tender has two four-wheel trucks. The articulated type of locomotive is in reality two separate sets of engines with their wheels connected by one long rigid boiler of tremendous steam capacity. The rear engine is rigidly attached to this boiler, while the forward engine supports it by a massive slide, so as to permit the locomotive going around curves. This latest engine, No. 3,000, makes a milestone in railroad progress. It is more than one hundred times as powerful as Stephenson's Rocket, showing how locomotive building has progressed in 90 years.

OLD ENGINE DRIVER DEAD

Leon O. Barcliff Ran the Locomotive That Killed Nine Newark Children in 1903.

Leon O. Barcliff, sixty-three years old, engineer of the Lackawanna express train that collided with a Clifton avenue trolley car on February 19, 1903, killing nine high school pupils, died recently in St. Michael's hospital, Newark.

Barcliff suffered severe injuries at the time of the Clifton avenue disaster, and never fully recovered from the shock. He worried much over the loss of the lives of the school children. He was taken to the hospital on February 16, the same institution where he was carried badly injured at the time of the fatal accident. He was suffering from a hardening of the arteries and an anæmic lung. On February 18, the eighth anniversary of the disaster, Barcliff recalled the wreck to mind and remarked to his wife, who was at his side: "It's terrible to think that I am back here in the same hospital where I was just eight years ago to-day."

When Barcliff was employed by the Lackawanna railroad as an engineer he lived at Gladstone, N. J. On leaving the hospital he moved to Newark.

Trainmen of America Vindicated. "Fourteen carat gold and without the taint of prison labor," is the verdict in the case of the much discussed medal presented to President Taft last April by the trainmen of America. Since the presentation of the medal, it had been charged that the medal was brass and that the engraving had been done by a prisoner at the Worcester county jail. President Taft allowed the investigators to use the medal in their work. The medal will now be returned to the president.

Japan's New Locomotive.

The Japanese railway bureau has decided to adopt a new type of locomotive, made in Germany, in which the cylinders have been reduced to 15 inches. Experiments have been made at Nagano station with a new locomotive, and with satisfactory results. It is stated that the consumption of coal is greatly reduced by the new engine, being 12 pounds a mile instead of 40 pounds. It is proposed to gradually adopt the new type of engine on all the government lines.

Decreases in Revenue.

The passenger revenue a passenger mile, which in 1883 was 3.49 cents, in 1888 had decreased to 1.97 cents and in 1898 to 1.34 cents. In the decade from 1883 to 1893 there was a decrease in freight revenue from 1.9 cent a mile to 2.75 cent, at which latter figure it also stood in 1893.

Railways Use Much Paint.

Of the United States annual paint and varnish consumption, 10,000,000 gallons are used on the railroads.

MOST LUXURIOUS OF TRAINS

Elaborate Equipment of That in Which the Czar and Czarina of Russia Travel.

The new Russian imperial railway train in which the czar and czarina travel is said to be the most luxurious in the world, eclipsing even the Kaiser's elaborate train de luxe.

The car's train consists of eleven carriages. It is entirely on the corridor system, is fitted with electric bells and lighted by electricity. The carriages of the emperor and empress are in the middle of the train. The empress' drawing room has the walls covered with pale rose silk and her bedclothing is hung with light blue satin, the furniture being covered with English cretonne of the same color. Each sleeping saloon has a bathroom and dressing room attached. The emperor's simple tastes are shown by the fact that he uses the dining saloon as a study, and it is there he transacts all his business with the help of his two secretaries.

Senseless, But Saved Train.

Although stricken senseless and fatally injured, Michael Callahan, a passenger train engineer on the Lehigh Valley railroad, the other night managed to bring his train to a standstill. The train was approaching White Haven when Callahan, leaning from his cab window to watch for signals, was struck on the head by one of the iron standards supporting the signals. He was evidently knocked unconscious immediately and fell to the floor of the cab. The fireman's first intimation of the accident was the sudden stopping of the train, and it was found that Callahan, who had his hand on the throttle while looking out of the window, had instinctively closed it as he fell and stopped the train.

Two-Speed Records.

Engine 999 of the Empire State express ran between Rochester and Buffalo, one mile in 32 seconds, on May 11, 1893, equivalent to 112.5 miles an hour. In March, 1901, a train of the Plant system, on a run from Fleming to Jacksonville, five miles, made it in two minutes and 30 seconds, equal to 120 miles an hour.

Immense American Tonnage.

On the railroads of the United States there are 100,000 engines, carrying millions of cars and hauling 2,000,000,000 tons of freight. This practically equals all the tonnage carried by all the railroads and ships of the rest of the world.

American Cars for Chile.

The Chilean government has placed an order with an American house for eight vestibuled Pullman and four vestibuled dining cars for the service between Valparaiso and Santiago.

Interested Employees in Gotham.

IN their evident determination to put raw wool on the free list the democratic congressmen are but giving another exhibition of their propensity for doing exactly the wrong thing at exactly the right time. Providence evidently permitted the recent democratic victory just to give the democrats another opportunity to make a mess of it lest we forget how sure they are to do so at the slightest provocation, or sometimes without any provocation at all. As far as New Mexico is concerned, democratic prices for wool such as those that prevailed during the second Cleveland administration would bury the democratic party of the territory beyond all hope of resurrection. So there is some compensation for the evil effects of free wool or of any of the multitude of other democratic vagaries that the present house of representatives may see fit to exhibit to a waiting world. Editorial Chief.

SINCE the court has held that the required 100 population of a town must be at least within three-quarters of a mile of a saloon or on the platted townsite when a town is platted, it will follow that a number of saloons in the county will close. The closing of the saloons while very beneficial in many ways will cause the schools in many of the same districts to cease to exist or shorten their terms considerably as many school districts depend entirely on the saloon licenses for school support.

THE PROPOSITION to sprinkle the Carrizozo streets is an excellent one and should be pushed, urged and supported by every loyal citizen. Get back of the wheel and push.

GOOD MEN AND TRUE

Eugene Rhodes, formerly a resident of this section of New Mexico and author of the numerous western stories appearing in the Saturday Evening Post with their setting in this country and characters which many old timers here knew and also the author of the recent article entitled "The Barred Door" dealing with the Statehood situation has placed a book entitled "The Good Men and True" on the market a creation of his variegated and playful imagination. The following is the prelude to same:

This legible little book is printed with black ink on white paper, so arranged that one may begin at the top of the page, on the left-hand side, and read from left to right to the end of the line, drop down to the next line (reverting to left-hand side) and so on to the end. It is very convenient.

The pages are thoughtfully numbered at the top. There are wide margins and blank fly-leaves, which last may be cut out and used for correspondence. Also, if these leaves be folded in box-form and secured at the four corners with four pins, eggs may be cooked in them to perfection. Break your eggs in a bowl. Do not put in the shells. They are indigestible and not nutritious. If any egg should be spoiled, remove it. Take your bowl in your right hand and paper box in your left. (If you are left-handed you may reverse this.) Place your box on the stove with the hollow side up, and simultaneously pour eggs into the box, retaining the bowl. Be sure to have a fire in the stove.

If you put the box on stove and do not pour in eggs, the box will scorch; if you pour in eggs and do not put box on stove, box will degenerate. Season to taste and stir with the course of sun.

Do not eat too fast. After eating wipe your lips delicately with a napkin and remove pins from box. If you like eggs this way very much publishers will supply you with the book in quantities, at wholesale rates.

Do not eat the box. This book also makes an acceptable substitute for a flatiron stand. Ask your hardware dealer for it. This circular is sent out by the author and emphatically not by Henry Holt & Co.

It is sent only to personal friends and strangers. The idea is to arouse your interest in papered eggs so you will buy the book.

WHITE OAKS WHIFFS

BY SAN DE

The Well's ice wagon made its appearance on our streets today, a sure harbinger of the summer crop of ice cream socials; empty wallets and perhaps a little squeezing aside or on the side other than that done to a fellow's purse. "Ah, there! Look out; who said you might?"

Paul Mayer and A. H. Hudspeth who have been serving a term at District court in Carrizozo one as attorney and the other as jurymen came up Saturday evening and laid in a sufficient supply of good whole some provender at the Chapman Eating House to last them through the balance of the term. Both returned to Carrizozo the same day.

Mrs. Hara, who has been visiting the Chews left last Wednesday to join her husband at Denver together they will journey to their home near Philadelphia.

Ben Nabours, another devotee or victim of jury duty came up and spent a quiet Sunday with Mrs. Nabours who is visiting with the Hulburts while Ben is doing his level best trying to sift the chaff of evidence given by "competent" witnesses from the wind jaming of the attorneys.

Cliff. Hulburt has received notice of his appointment to the position of government Forest Ranger and is to report forthwith at Antonito, Colorado. This reserve lies principally in Rio Arriba County, New Mexico, and partially in the adjoining state. Cliff's old time friends here are congratulating him on his good luck.

Charlie Mayer is contemplating another visit to the north end of the Capitan mountains. Charlie went out of the sheep business several years ago, or though he had, but he just has to make a trip to some sheep camp aboutsooften. He says you can call it sentiment or force of habit but it is in him all right and to stay. The warble of the lambkins on the verdant hills appeals to him with stronger grip than the music of a banjo or piano and the more there is of them in the orchestra the better; as there is something tangible about them; besides he gets hungry at times to gnaw a spare rib of mutton cooked over a campfire; and who that has been there can blame him.

NOGAL NOTES.

Mrs. Lillie B. Moore is visiting in Nogal this week. The scarlet fever scare is now over and all the children are again in school.

Nogal was favored with a splendid shower last Sunday.

The strawberries are getting ripe here; the gooseberries are growing fast and the roses in bloom; it looks like a Paradise in this camp.

Mrs. F. M. Johnson of Carrizozo was a visitor in Nogal last Saturday.

The Nogal saloon was closed by the District Court last Monday on account of insufficient population for a license.

High Patent Flour for the next thirty days at $2.65.

WHEN A MAN MARRIES

BY MARY ROBERTS RINEHART
 AUTHOR OF "THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE"
 "THE MAN IN LOWER TEN," ETC.

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends, Jimmy was a young and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so, his art is considered a huge joke, except to himself. He asked people to dinner every one expected a frolic. Jimmy married Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selma, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. He neglects to tell her of his divorce. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence. He suggests that Kit, the hostess for one night, be Mrs. Wilson for the evening and the reception works out as planned. Jim's Jap servant is taken ill. Bella, Jimmy's divorced wife, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away. The ambulance, Mrs. Wilson, is in Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Harbison steps out on the porch and discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "Smallpox" printed on it. He tells him the guests cannot leave the house until the quarantine is lifted. After the lifting of the quarantine, several letters are found in the mail box undelivered. One is addressed to Henry Jewell, Jewell, Chile, which was written by Harbison. He describes minutely their incarceration, also of his first wife, Mrs. Wilson. Aunt Selma is taken ill with a gripe. Betty acts as nurse. Harbison finds Kit sulking on the roof. She tells him that Jim has been treating her outrageously. Kit starts shouting and suddenly she is in the arms of a man who kisses her several times. She believes that Harbison did it and is humiliated. Aunt Selma tells Jimmy that he came bronchitis and several letters are found in the mail box. She accuses Betty of the theft. Jimmy tells Aunt Selma all about the strange happenings, but she persists in suspecting Betty of the theft of her valuables. Jimmy tells her the explanation from Kit as to her conduct towards him, who tells him of the incident on the roof. He does not deny nor confirm her accusation. One of the guests devises a way to escape from the house. They set fire to the reception room and attempt to leave the house from the rear. The guards discover the ruse and prevent them from escaping. Max finds Anne's pearl chain in Jimmy's studio in a divided case. Jimmy is suspected of the theft, but denies the accusation. Kit finds a watch hanging to a pillar in the basement and with initials "H. H." engraved upon it. She shows Harbison the watch, which she had been looking for and believed it had been stolen.

Harbison cares one way or the other about me," I said primly. "You don't think he's in love with me, do you, Dal?" I watched him out of the corner of my eye, but he only looked amused.

"In love with you!" he repeated. "Why, bless your wicked little heart, no! He thinks you're a married woman! It's the principle of the thing he's fighting for. If I had as much principle as he has I'd put it out at interest."

Max interrupted us just then, and asked if we knew where Mr. Harbison was.

"Can't find him," he said. "I've got the telephone together and have enough left over to make another. Where do you suppose Harbison hides the tools? I'm working with a corkscrew and two palette-knives."

I heard nothing more of the trouble that night. Max went to Jim about it, and Jim said angrily that only a fool would interfere between a man and his wife—wives. Whereupon Max retorted that a fool and his wives were soon parted, and left him. The two principals were coldly civil to each other, and smaller issues were lost as the famine grew more and more insistent. For famine it was.

They worked the rest of the evening, but the telephone refused to revive and every one was starving. Individually our pride was at low ebb, but collectively it was still formidable. So we sat around and Jim played Grieg with the soft stops on, and Aunt Selma went to bed. The weather had changed, and it was sleeting, but anything was better than the drawing room. I was in a mood to battle with the elements or to cry—or both—so I slipped out, while Dal was reciting "Give me three grains of corn, mother," throw somebody's overcoat over my shoulders, put on a man's soft hat—Jim's I think—and went up to the roof.

It was dark in the third floor hall, and I had to feel my way to the foot of the stairs. I went up quietly and turned the knob of the door to the roof. At first it would not open, and I could hear the wind howling outside. Finally, however, I got the door open a little and wormed my way through. It was not entirely dark out there, in spite of the storm. A faint reflection of the street lights made it possible to distinguish the outlines of the boxwood plants, away in the wind, and the chimneys and the tent. And then—a dark figure disentangled itself from the nearest chimney and seemed to hurl itself at me. I remember putting out my hands and trying to say something, but the figure caught me roughly by the shoulders and knocked me back against the door-frames. From miles away a heavy voice was saying, "So I've got you!" and then the roof gave from under me, and I was floating out on the storm, and sleet was beating in my face, and the wind was whirling over and over, "Open your eyes, for God's sake!"

I did open them after a while, and finally I made out that I was lying on the floor in the tent. The lights were on, and I had a cold and damp feeling, and something wet was trickling down my neck.

I seemed to be alone, but in a second somebody came into the tent, and I saw it was Mr. Harbison, and that he had a double handful of half melted snow. He looked frantic and determined, and only my sitting up quickly prevented my getting another snow bath. My neck felt queer and stiff, and I was very dizzy. When he saw that I was conscious he dropped the snow and stood looking down at me.

"Do you know," he said grimly, "that I very nearly choked you to death a little while ago?"

"It wouldn't surprise me to be told so," I said. "Do I know too much, or what is it, Mr. Harbison?" I felt terribly ill, but I would not let him see it. "It is queer, isn't it—how we always select the roof for our little differences?" He seemed to relax somewhat at my gibe.

"I didn't know it was you," he explained shortly. "I was waiting for some one, and in the hat you wore, and the coat, I mistook you. That's all. Can you stand?"

"No," I retorted. I could, but his summary manner displeased me. The sequel, however, was rather amusing, for he stooped suddenly and poked me up, and the next instant we were out in the storm together. At the door he stooped and felt for the knob.

"Turn it," he commanded. "I can't reach it."

"It's do nothing of the kind," I said sarcastically. "Let me down; I can walk perfectly well."

slowly to my feet, but he did not open the door at once. "Are you afraid to let me carry you down those stairs, after—Tuesday night?" he asked, very low. "You still think I did that?" I had never been less sure of it than at that moment, but an imp of perversity made me retort, "Yes."

He hardly seemed to hear me. He stood looking down at me as I leaned against the door-frames.

"Good Lord!" he groaned. "To think that I might have killed you!" And then—he stooped and suddenly kissed me.

The next moment the door was open, and he was leading me down into the house. At the foot of the staircase he paused, still holding my hand, and faced me in the darkness.

"I'm not sorry," he said steadily. "I suppose I ought to be, but I'm not. Only I wanted you to know that I was not guilty—before. I didn't intend to now. I am—almost as much surprised, as you are."

I was quite unable to speak, but I wrenched my hand loose. He stepped back to let me pass, and I went down the hall alone.

CHAPTER XVIII.

It's All My Fault.

I didn't go to the drawing room again. I went into my own room and sat in the dark, and tried to be furiously angry, and only succeeded in feeling queer and tingy. One thing was absolutely certain: Not the same man, but two different men had kissed me on the stairs to the roof. It sounds rather horrid and discriminating, but there was all the difference in the world.

But then—who had? And for whom had Mr. Harbison been waiting on the roof? "Did you know that I nearly choked you to death a few minutes ago?" Then he rather expected to finish somebody in that way! Who? Jim, probably. It was strange, too, but suddenly I realized that no matter how many suspicious things I mustered up against him—and there were plenty—down in my heart I didn't believe him guilty of anything, except this last and unforgivable offense. Whoever was trying to leave the house had taken the necklace, that seemed clear, unless Max was still foolishly trying to break quarantine and create one of the sensations he so dearly loves. This was a new idea, and some things upheld it, but Max had been playing bridge when I was kissed on the stairs, and there was still left that ridiculous incident of the comfort.

"Bella Has Been Unusually Beasty Today to Jim."

"Bella came up after I had gone to bed, and turned on the light to brush her hair.

"If I don't leave this mausoleum soon, I'll be carried out," she declared. "You in bed, Lollie Mercer and Dal sitting, Anne hysterical, and Jim making his will in the den! You will have to take Aunt Selma tonight, Kit; I'm all in."

"If you'll put her to bed, I'll keep her there," I conceded, after some parley.

"You're a dear," Bella came back from the door. "Look here, Kit, you know Jim pretty well. Don't you think he looks ill? Thinner?"

"He's a wreck," I said soberly. "You have a lot to answer for, Bella."

Bella went over to the cheval glass and looked in it. "I avoid him all I can," she said, posing. "He's awfully funny; he's so afraid I'll think he's serious about you. He can't realize that for me he simply doesn't exist."

Well, I took Aunt Selma, and about two o'clock, while I was in my first sleep, I woke to find her standing beside me, tugging at my arm.

"There's somebody in the house," she whispered. "Theives!"

"If they're in they'll not get out tonight," I said.

"I tell you, I saw a man skulking on the stairs," she insisted.

I got up ungraciously enough, and put on my dressing gown. Aunt Selma, who had her hair in curls, had a veil over her head, and together we went to the head of the stairs. Aunt Selma leaned forward and peered down.

"Here in the..." she whispered.

lma's eye. She girded her robe about her and began to descend the stairs cautiously. We went through the hall was empty, but from the den beyond came a hum of voices and the cheerful glow of firelight. I realized the situation then, but it was too late.

"Then why did you kiss her in the dining room?" Bella was saying in her clear, high tones, "You did, didn't you?"

"It was only her hand," Jim, desperately explaining. "I've got to pay her some attention, under the circumstances. And I give you my word, I was thinking of you when I did it." The wretch!

Aunt Selma drew her breath in suddenly.

"I am thinking of marrying Reggie Wolfe," This was Bella, of course. "He wants me to. He's a dear boy."

"If you do, I will kill him."

"I am so very lonely," Bella sighed. "We could hear the creak of Jim's shirt bosom that showed that he had signed also. Aunt Selma had gripped me by the arm, and I could hear her breathing hard beside me.

SOME FAKES OF CHINATOWN

"Heiress to Enormous Fortune" Talks Freely of the Way in Which Guileful Tourists Are Fooled.

The "heiress to an enormous fortune" walked out of the dive in Chinatown, New York, the other night, and stretched her arms widely. She had scrubbed the painted lines off her face, and had abandoned the kimono of histrionics for the close-fitting tailor-made of Broadway. She looked like what she is—a "wise" person, but neither degraded nor depraved. Once she was an actress in a burlesque show, and, because of illness, failed to get an engagement. So she posed as the "lost heiress" in one of the side shows put on in Chinatown for the delatation of gullible tourists.

"On the level," she said frankly, over a scuttle in what used to be "Nigger Mike's," "I'm glad the cops have closed this Chinatown dump to the come-ons. I'm a sort of an actress, all right, and I played my part the best I knew how. But I got mighty tired pretending to smoke opium, and handing out that talk about being the daughter of wealthy parents, who had fallen for life in the Chink village. It was two-a-day for me for the past year, and I've made money at it. What's more, I've saved it. These heathen Chinese, that the yaps come down here to see, aren't the worst in the world. When they found I was on the level they sure treated me white. I'm going to take a trip to Europe before I go back to work. I've got the glitter all packed away."

"No doubt," said the man who bought the beer, "your surroundings during the year have been unpleasant."

"I didn't mind that," said the "heiress," candidly. "I was brought up in an alley. What made me sick was to see these rubes stand for the hot air the guides shove at 'em. Honest, I want to get out where I can see 'wise' people—if I have to go to the island."

American Golf.

Certainly you are in good luck as a golfer if you go to America at all, for they are gloriously hospitable in that land, and so far as I could see, the idea that some have here, that the American's notion of the object of playing a game is purely to win it—not to enjoy the playing—is perfectly mistaken. I never had the impression more strongly anywhere of being in the company of men who were playing the game for pleasure, not for the mere sake of winning the match; but then it is certainly true, as I hear one of their judges (I mean a legal judge, though he was a judge of golf, too) say in an after-dinner speech, that it is "the cleanest sport in America."—Horace Hutchinson, in London Telegraph.

How It Happened.

They were sitting on the hotel piazza comparing notes.

"Well, my son-in-law hasn't spoken an unkind word to me for ten years," said one old lady.

"How perfectly lovely!" said the other. "Is he dumb?"

"No," replied the first, smiling at her friend's pleasantry; "no; we haven't been on speaking terms since 1859."—Harper's Weekly.

A Bald Fact.

"I say, doctor," inquired a man who was fishing for free medical advice, "what do you think makes me so bald?"

"Him!" rejoined the doctor, "I ascribe it to the fact that your hair comes out!"

A Stinging Answer.

New Method Parent—So you believe still in the rod by way of developing children?

Old-fashioned Teacher—I believe it is the natural way to make them smart.

To Read the Bible.

To read the Bible through, at the rate of a chapter a day would take...

Expert Testimony.

There was not much to be gained from the witness on the stand, who seemed to have a wonderful faculty for holding his tongue, but the lawyer tried once more.

"You say your boat picked up the accused at 9 o'clock, or thereabouts," he said. "It has been stated that he jumped overboard nearly an hour before that time. Tell me, Captain Sampson, how he appeared to you when you picked him up. If you had been required to give an opinion of him then, what would you have said?"

"Well, I'll tell ye honest," said the captain, when he had disposed of a portentous yawn, "I sh'd've said he was one of the wettest men, I not the wettest man, that over I see!"—Youth's Companion.

Baby Teeth on the Table.

"We are called upon to repair all kinds of damages," a furniture dealer the other day said. "But the most puzzling defacement I ever saw was that which appeared on a beautiful mahogany table brought in for refinishing. All around its margin were rows of scratches and small indentations which were hard to explain, as the table was otherwise uninjured. 'What happened to it?' I asked when the owner came in.

"Well," she replied, "the baby insisted on cutting his teeth around the edge of it. Of course, it was rather expensive, but we both think there is nothing too good for the baby."

Too Fresh.

"Will you promise to support my daughter in the style in which she is accustomed if I consent to your marriage?" demanded old Skinfint, when Dobby made his formal proposal.

"Well, I—I'll promise to be tolerably close with her, Mr. Skinfint," said Dobby, "but you know, I'm a soft-hearted cuss, and I'm afraid she'll be able to wheedle a few things out of me that you were strong enough to refuse her."—Judge.

COFFEE CONGESTION Causes a Variety of Ails.

A happy old lady in Wisconsin says:

"During the time I was a coffee drinker I was subject to sick headaches, sometimes lasting 2 or 3 days, totally unfitting me for anything. To this affliction was added, some years ago, a trouble with my heart that was very painful, accompanied by a smothering sensation and faintness.

"Dyspepsia, also, came to make life harder to bear. I took all sorts of patent medicines but none of them helped me for any length of time.

"The doctors frequently told me that coffee was not good for me; but without coffee I felt as if I had no breakfast. I finally decided about 2 years ago to abandon the use of coffee entirely, and as I had read a great deal about Postum I concluded to try that for a breakfast beverage.

"I liked the taste of it and was particularly pleased to notice that it did not 'come up' as coffee used to. The bad spells with my heart grew less and less frequent, and finally ceased altogether, and I have not had an attack of sick headache for more than a year. My digestion is good, too, and I am thankful that I am once more a healthy woman. I know my wonderful restoration to health came from quitting coffee and using Postum." Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is this. Coffee has a direct action on the liver, with some people, and causes partial congestion of that organ preventing the natural outlet of the secretions. Then may follow biliousness, sallow skin, headaches, constipation and finally a change of the blood corpuscles and nervous prostration.

VALUE OF SEED CORN TESTS

By Proper Selection and Testing Crop Can Be Greatly Increased—Little Time Required.

(By F. H. ROLFS.)

By proper seed selection and testing the corn crop can be greatly increased. Testing the seed requires but little time and no expense and it is the height of folly for a farmer to plant seed and go to all the expense necessary to accomplish that work, without first knowing what kind of seed he is planting.

After the seed corn has been selected and has passed all of the inspections which show that it is perfect to the eye, further inspection is necessary for germinating quality. This can be done only by using a seed tester. Such an implement can be readily made by anyone on the farm.

An ordinary cigar box, with two inches of sand in it will make an excellent seed tester. When ready for testing, the sand in the box should be thoroughly wetted, enough water being used to cover the sand. Hold it in this position four or five minutes, then wet a muslin cloth and we are ready to set in place the kernels to be tested. After the ears have all been numbered, we may begin with ear No. 1, and remove one kernel about two inches from the tip, and another kernel about two inches from the butt; then by sticking them in pairs into the sand, we will have this ear ready for testing. Follow the same method with the second ear, and so on, until the kernels from ten ears are placed in the first row. By counting down the rows, and noting the kernels that have failed to germinate, we will have no difficulty in locating the bad ears.

After the seed tester has received all of the kernels that can be planted conveniently, place over the kernels the wetted muslin rag. This seed tester should then be placed in the kitchen or any other warm situation. It should be examined every day to see that the sand and cloth are moist. In the course of a week or ten days about all of the corn that is sound will have germinated.

Another simple method of testing seed is to take 50 or 100 seeds of the kind to be tested and place them between two folds of moistened cotton flannel or blotting paper. Place on a plate and cover with another plate or pane of glass and set in a warm room. Examine the seeds every day for six or eight days.

Fertilizers for Beets.

Avoid coarse stable manures in fertilizing garden beets. Manure gives good results if well rotted and thoroughly incorporated with the soil. Experiments in Rhode Island showed that lime has been beneficial to the crop when growing on acid soils.

Palate Ticklers.

Palate ticklers should be grown on every farm, not only for home use, but for market. None but the surplus should be sold. The farmer and his family should have first selection. Not only are they very helpful in keeping the boy and the girl on the farm, but they will help keep the farm hand satisfied. There is a great variety to select from under the head of high quality vegetables and luscious fruits.

Farm Labor.

Within the last ten years the expenditures for farm labor in West Virginia have increased 35 per cent. During the same period the total value of farm buildings has increased 67 per cent and the total value of farm land with buildings 55 per cent. The average value per acre of farm land with improvement showed a gain of 57 per cent.

Never feed hay, or sweep or in any way stir up dust just previous to milking time, for this will contribute to the introduction of bacteria, which contaminates and injures the quality of the milk.

MAKING PROFIT IN TOMATOES

Secret of Inducing Vines to Bear Abundance of Fine Red Fruit is to Cut Away Bleeders.

Not all who raise tomato vines in abundance pick abundance of tomatoes. Last year there were many who had prolific vines who picked no tomatoes. The cause was simple, writes Frank E. Ward of Lawrence, Kan., in the Kansas City Star. In the wet, cool spring the vines grew to an unnatural size. Then there was not root enough to make fruit in the hot weather.

Wet and rich soil causes bleeders to sprout from the crotch between the leaf and the main stalk or trunk. If those are allowed to grow they become many feet long and there will be but little fruit. If they are pinched off as soon as they appear, say once a week, the excess growth will be forced into the fruit and it will be ready to ripen as soon as the sun is hot.

Should the bleeders grow unnoticed until three or four leaves are developed it is better to pinch off the small points and thus stop their growth, than to cut away the whole bleeder. When a cluster of buds form on a branch which is not near the main trunk the small end of the branch should be pinched off to prevent the leaves robbing the fruit. In that way the vines are kept within bounds. You will see by this that the fruit lateral is not to be mistaken easily for a bleeder.

The above system of pruning is not original with me. It is used by many with favorable results. In my garden of clay soil, 30x50 feet, last year I raised 400 pounds of tomatoes, which is about all one family needs in a year. I have ten grape vines, a cold frame, and raise many other common vegetables which make the table attractive.

BEE CULTURE NOT DIFFICULT

No More Skill and Intelligence Required Than to Keep Poultry—Do Not Injure Fruit

It requires no more intelligence and skill to raise bees than to keep poultry. It requires a certain amount of work and at the right time, yet this in no sense equals the attention given poultry. But for some reason few farmers have bees. If it is lack of knowledge that keeps them from it, then the excuse is easily overcome, for there are many bee journals and books that would give the desired information. If it be fear of bee stings, these may be prevented by certain appliances. Surely no one should be kept from the enjoyment of honey because of cost. The bees and the necessary equipment need not cost much. Perhaps some have been led to believe through foolish newspaper reports that bees are injurious to fruit. This is not so. Bees cannot break the skin of any fruit. Because they are seen sucking the juice of punctured grapes they have been falsely accused of doing the puncturing.

Lime from the sugar beet factory is a very valuable product for the soil. More profit can be made on one acre of onions than on ten acres of corn.

Long straw manure should be piled and each layer plastered so it will rot quickly.

It is a good plan to shorten the tops of cabbage, cauliflower, onions and similar plants when they are transplanted.

Potatoes produce wonderful crops in proportion to the amount of seed planted.

Every garden should have a few of the aromatic herbs for seasoning and other kitchen use.

Fine rotted manure from the stables may be applied with great benefit to the grass if spread early.

Onions have been cultivated successfully for a long time. They re-

THE ALARMING PREVALENCE OF ECZEMA

Finds Victims Among Every Race, Age and Condition.

Of all the diseases of the skin and scalp which torture and disfigure mankind, three-fourths are eczematous. Millions are born with eczema, and it is the only thing other millions have left when they die. Neglect in infancy and childhood, irritating conditions affecting the skin, ignorance of its real nature, improper remedies and many other causes that might be mentioned have created an eczema which, with varying severity, has afflicted countless numbers during their entire lives. Eczema is a skin disease. It is not regarded as hereditary, nor contagious, and is impartially distributed among the rich and poor, the high and low. The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, causing loss of sleep, is usually the most distressing symptom and is caused by the bursting of little vesicles filled with an acid fluid, which burns as with fire the denuded skin. New vesicles form, fill and burst, scales form upon scales, and crusts upon crusts until disfigurement is added to torture.

One of the most successful treatments for eczema, whether applied to the youngest infant or the oldest person, is hot baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings of Cuticura ointment. For more than a generation, these pure, sweet and gentle emollients have proved the most efficient agents in the speedy and permanent relief of all forms of eczemas, rashes, itching and irritations of the skin and scalp. Although Cuticura soap and ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, in order that those who have suffered long and hopelessly and who have lost faith in everything may make trial of them without charge, a liberal sample of each will be mailed free to any address, together with a 32-page pamphlet, giving a description and treatment of the various forms of eczema, as well as other affections of the skin, scalp, hair and hands—send to "Cuticura," Dept. W, Boston.

IN OBEDIENCE TO ORDERS

French Boy Caused Marriages by Taking the Order of the Court Too Literally.

A droll incident is reported as having taken place in one of the provincial appeal courts in France. A boy, about 14, was summoned to give evidence, and his appearance was such as to move the whole court to laughter. He wore a long redingote, peculiar to the Basque country, and immense boots. His trousers, collar and hat were unquestionably those of a man. The court was convulsed, and the president asked the boy how he dared to treat the court in such a manner. The boy seemed as surprised as the president, and taking out the citation from his pocket, read the formula inviting him, "Comparaitre dans les affaires de son pere." (To appear in his father's suit.)
