Persons Who Lost Claims By Adverse Circumstances Can Now Refile

FULL TEXT OF THE NEW LAW

Official notification of the passage by congress of two important land laws which will give hundreds of entrymen an opportunity to recover their homesteads have been received by the New Mexico land officials.

One of the laws provides that entries erroneously allowed in the national forests be reinstated provided that application for reinstatement be filed before July 1, 1912. The law follows:

"Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America, in congress assembled, that all homestead entries which have been canceled or relinquished, or are invalid solely because of the erroneous allowance of such entries after the withdrawal of lands for national forest purposes, may be reinstated or allowed to remain intact, but in case of entries heretofore canceled, applications for reinstatement must be filed in the proper local land office prior to July 1, 1912.

"That in all cases where contests initiated under the provisions of the act of May 14, 1890, prior to the withdrawal of the land for national purposes, the qualified successful contestants may exercise their preference right to enter the land within six months after the passage of this act."

Victims of unfortunate circumstances, who filed on public lands but who lost them by a series of difficulties or ill health, are given another chance by a second land law approved by congress.

It is the policy of the United States land office to be as lenient as possible with persons failing to reclaim their land. Uncle Sam is also on record as willing to close his official eyes to contests brought by persons taking advantage of the misfortunes of others in attempt to secure their property. Time and time again within the past few years this policy has been followed.

The land law which allows second entries follows:

"Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, that any person who, prior to the approval of this act, has made entry under the homestead or desert land laws, but who, subsequently to such entry from any cause shall have lost, forfeited, or abandoned the same shall be entitled to the benefits of the homestead or desert land laws as though former entry had not been made, and any person applying for second homestead or desert land entry under this act shall furnish a description and the date of his former entry:

"Provided that the provisions of this act shall not apply to any person whose former entry was canceled for fraud, or who relinquished his former entry for a valuable consideration in excess of the filing fees paid by him on his original entry."

WHITE OAKS WHIFFS

BY SAM ME.

Has anyone yet remarked that the same June day sunshine that brings life and gladness and the fragrance of roses, heliotropes and the soft whispering of summer zephyrs and tender spoonings of lovers by moonlight under the Juniper trees, also brings nettles and garlic and wakes up the horned toads, and snakes, and straddle bugs, and all kinds of insects and makes a fellow realize that his temper is cut-bias and unsoftened.

Ernest Lungston, wife and family came down from Tucumcari, to be here Decoration day and to visit among their relatives and friends at the old home town. They report the White Oaks colony at the Quay county hub enjoying great expectations.

Alford and Mrs James with the two little Jameses knocked the White Oaks alluvium from their brogans on the rocks down near the mouth of the canyon last Thursday evening, and departed for Douglas Arizona, never, never to return, at least not yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany, of Carrizozo with their friend Mr. Miller came up on a pleasure trip Tuesday. They went up as far as the Wells ranch and watched things grow for a while; filled themselves up on ozone and mountain scenery then came back and took something more substantial at the Chapman caravansary. Later they went down and watched the stamp mill grind through some home raised ore and finally lit out on the run for home leaving about all the real nice things to be seen here, unseon.

Mrs Tennessee Williams died last Saturday morning after a short illness. Mrs Williams was the widow of a Mexican war veteran and was quite well known and highly respected throughout this part of the country where she had lived for a number of years. She has two sons and two daughters yet living to mourn her loss. They are Harry and Kirk of this place, with whom she has been living of late and Mrs. M. E. Dyer of near Tucumcari and Mrs. Monogue of Maria, Texas.

Col. John M. Rice and Mrs. Rice came over from their eagle nest, at Parsons, Tuesday and spoiled two good days work by remaining over night the guests of the Watsons.

Charlie Spede and wife returned a few days ago from a few week's trip over the ranges of eastern Lincoln county. From accounts they must have rounded up and branded about all the sheep between here and the Pecos river while they were gone. They also took in one or two of those Pecos country showers which were about as irrigating as a trip through a dipping is to a sheep.

TO DEVELOPE COAL PROPERTY

Coal property seven miles southeast of town is to be opened up and worked on an extensive scale according to present plans. Six hundred and forty acres have been filed on by, A. H. Harvey, J. T. Johnson, Gus Runkles and Lee B. Chase, each holding 160 acres but pooling their holdings and forming a company which has sent Runkles to the Pennsylvania coal fields where money has been promised to work the project. The coal bed seems to be extensive, a tunnel 150 feet into the strata shows up fine domestic coal, which burns entirely up with little ash. A force of men it is expected will be put to work at an early date, arranging for an air passage and coal will be ready for shipment and local distribution in a few months time.

Miss Frances McDonald returned with her parents from Denver Sunday. Miss Frances has just graduated from Wolf Hall Academy with high honors. Her mother and father were present at the commencement exercises.

Miss Helen Canning is this week visiting friends at Tucumcari and will return next week with her brother Francis who has completed this years course at Notre Dame College in Indiana.

Col. Bender of Nogal came in Tuesday evening, leaving the next day for El Paso where he will purchase machinery for his mining property in the Nogal district.

CAPITAN 4-CARRIZOZO 5

Carrizozo Victorious in Ball Game Sunday. To Play at Capitan Saturday

TEAMS OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Last Sunday the Carrizozo Browns met the Capitan aggregation of baseball players and fans on the local diamond and won the contest by the small margin of one run. The game opened up with Grumbles and Loughrey as battery for Carrizozo, and Hightower and Hightower as battery for Capitan. The first several innings were played in league style, no men passing over the home plate. Later in the game both teams weakened and four runs were put over by Capitan while Carrizozo scored five times.

The lineup was as follows:

Carrizozo	Capitan
Loughrey	P. Hightower
Grumbles	W. Hightower
1st b. Dingwall, B.	McDaniel
2nd b. Dingwall, W.	E. Burrell
3rd b. Vanschoyck	F. Burleson
J. Dawson	H. Coe
Tackell	Dinnour
M. Rely	Peck
McLain	Richard

A meeting to organize a baseball association was called to order by A. H. Harvey Tuesday afternoon. John Haley was elected Manager of the team and Wm Rely will act as Secretary and Treasurer. Sufficient money has been subscribed to buy the team new suits which will be bought at once, brown is to be the color this year. The team will play Capitan at Capitan Saturday. Bennett Dingwall was elected Captain of the team at their meeting Wednesday.

JULY FOURTH CELEBRATION

A meeting was held at Angus, June 3rd, to elect committees for promoting a Fourth of July Celebration, to be held at the old Brewery, above Fort Stanton. The following committees were elected:

Finance Committee: Reuben Copeland, Bob Hages, Perry Humphrey, Wm Brockwell and Bob Haynie.

Entertainment committee: Wm Ferguson, Fred J'fington and Sam Kelsey.

Sealed bids for the stand privileges should be addressed to Howard and West, at Angus and are to be opened Saturday, June 17th. The privileges to go to the highest bidder. Those wishing to arrange special races or enter the scheduled races, address the Committee on Entertainment.

Pedro Aguilar an old timer here, and an employe of the local railroad shops passed away Monday morning from lung hemorrhages. Funeral services were held Tuesday from the residence, interment being had at the local cemetery.

A contract was signed this week by Harry Little and Bob Ransom to drive a tunnel for the Economic Mining and Milling Company, two hundred feet. The tunnel is a continuation of the connecting tunnel with the shaft and work will commence Monday on same.

C. I. Walker, representative of this district of the Baptist association and acting in the capacity of missionary has been holding nightly meetings at the Baptist Church. Rev. Aldridge arrived from Portales Wednesday evening and is assisting in the work.

WON'T PUSH STATEHOOD

President Taft Will Not Urge Flood Resolution, Now Before The Senate

DOES NOT SAY HE WILL VETO

Chairman Flood of the house committee on territories and former Gov. Curry of New Mexico were told by President Taft Tuesday that for the present he would not use administration influence to push statehood for Arizona and New Mexico through the senate. The president indicated that he would sign the enabling act providing for the admission of these territories, now before the senate but declined at this time to enter the fight to hasten their passage.

DINE AT RAILROAD'S EXPENSE

Thrifty Frenchmen Have What Might Well Be Termed a "Good Thing."

On the state managed Western railroad of France there is one class of passengers from whom the line should get nothing but praise. Only they are very chary about praising too loudly. It is this way.

As the advertised time of arrival can never be depended upon, passengers who have to change cars miss very often the connecting train, and if this happens about lunch or dinner time their meal is paid for by the railroad administration and they have only to go to the station buffet or the nearest hotel and send the bill to the chief officers of the line in Paris.

This is beginning to get known in the country districts, and the arduous and thrifty Normandy peasant, when he is not over busy, buys a cheap third class ticket for a short distance involving a change of trains, and so gets an excellent lunch at the expense of the Ouest-Etat. If the delay at the intermediate station is too prolonged it is only necessary to make a little disturbance and the administration will provide horses and carriages to take the place of the train.

These little entertainments, it is said, cost the Western line hundreds of dollars a week.

Brave Act Rewarded

For averting a railroad disaster, George Lloyd, an employe of the Western Railroad company, was the other day presented with a check by the directors of the company in recognition of his bravery. During a great landslide near Aberdare, the Powell-Duffryn company's colliery tip or waste dump was washed down from the side of an adjoining mountain and completely blocked the line. A train from Swansea had just left Aberdare and on discovering the landslide Lloyd rushed towards Aberdare, falling and stumbling amongst the wreckage, and eventually he managed to gain the clear tracks and placed detonations on the rails so that the engine stopped within 50 yards of the obstruction.—London Mail.

Fast Trains in Europe

Express speeds in Great Britain and on the continent are high. In Great Britain there are 11 daily express trains making runs from 50 to 118 1/2 miles without a stop, whose average speed is from 51 to 59 1/2 miles an hour, the fastest and longest no-stop run, is 22 1/2 miles, from Paddington to Plymouth, made at 54 1/2 miles an hour. France has seven daily expresses that run from 77 1/2 to 147 1/2 miles without stop at speeds from 51.1 to 61.3 miles an hour, and there are nine French trains that run from 103 to 117 1/2 miles without stop at speeds from 50.4 to 59.3 miles an hour.—Scientific American.

Matter Quickly Settled

In an English opera company, formed for the summer months, it was found that the tenors were too light for the part of the chorus. The manager protested that there were voices enough, and the leading tenor was questioned why he did not sing with more force. His answer to the remonstrances of the manager was: "I am paid summer wages, and I refuse to sing anything but my summer voice." The engagement of the tenor and his summer voice, came to a speedy termination.

RUSSIA'S NEED OF RAILROADS

The Duma Considers a Bill to Allow Private Lines to Be Built in the Empire.

The Russian government has introduced a bill in the duma permitting railways to be built by private companies. It states that in Russia the railroad mileage is only one-tenth that of America and one-fifth that of western Europe. The supporters of the proposition claim that the increase of the Russian network of railroads is absolutely necessary for the further development of the productive forces of the country. The government on its own account cannot, it is stated, increase its railroad building program, owing to a large number of unavoidable expenditures, hence it finds it necessary to grant concessions for private railway construction.

To private railroads of importance and significance the issuance of government guarantees will be permitted, the administration accepting the capital of shareholders not exceeding 3 per cent. These private railroad companies will receive remuneration for the outlays made on preliminary railway surveys and determination of directions and locations from the capital stock. The time limit for the purchase of a private line by the imperial government is twenty-five years.

Workman Killed in Tunnel

The strange run of fatal railroad accidents which have taken place recently in France still continues. The other morning another terrible tragedy took place near Paris which resulted in the loss of five lives. A gang of workmen was engaged on the line inside a tunnel, when a train entered. The men stopped work and stepped out of the way on to the other line. Just then another train going in the other direction also entered the tunnel. The smoke from both trains at once was so dense and the noise so great that the unfortunate workmen neither heard nor saw the approaching second train and were instantly cut to pieces.

Why Ties Are Burned

Tip, once seeing a lot of pretty fair, though used, railroad ties being burned by the orders of the assistant superintendent, inquired why and was told that if old ties were sold or given away it would cost the railroad a penny, because gratters would soon find every defect in ties and then when there were no more with defects good ties would be thought rotten and taken out and sold or "given away." The railroad had to order them burned so that any ties found away from the track would be known to be stolen.

Color Test for Florists

The counter of a florist's shop was such an unusual place to find a basket of woolen threads that the curious customer was impelled to ask what business they had there. "They have just been used for training a young man's sense of color," said the florist. "He has been working in our greenhouses on Long Island. He wants a position in the Broadway shop, but before he could be transferred he had to undergo the color test. Every man in a florist's shop must have as keen a sense for the different colors as a ribbon or silk salesman. This man passed the examination all right, but lots of men who know a good deal about flowers fall down on the color test."

KIDNEY CHILLS AND BACKACHE

If, when you get wet or take cold, it "settles on the kidneys" and there is a shivery, chilly sensation in the back, it shows kidney weakness which is often the beginning of a serious disease. Doan's Kidney Pills should be used persistently until the backache and other symptoms disappear. Mrs. D. K. Jeffers, Colfax, Wash., says: "For two weeks I had to be propped up in bed and I lost 50 pounds in weight. I was in terrible condition, in fact, I came very near dying. As a last resort I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Since then I have gained back my lost weight and feel wonderfully improved."

SCALP WAS BADLY AFFECTED

"I am more than gratified by the successful results I obtained by the use of the Cuticura Remedies. For several years my scalp was very badly affected with dandruff and scales. My scalp itched terribly at times and my hair fell out. My coat collar would be actually white with the dandruff that had fallen from my head. My profession being that of a barber, I was particular about having my hair in good condition, and was also in a position to try many lotions, etc., for the scalp. These had little or no effect. I had heard so much about the Cuticura Remedies that I resolved to try them. I shampooed my head with Cuticura Soap twice a week and after drying my head thoroughly, I anointed parts of my scalp with Cuticura Ointment. I was pleased from the outset, and continued to keep up this treatment. To think that only three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one and one-half boxes of Cuticura Ointment rid my head of this annoying trouble made me feel quite contented. I have now got a thick growth of hair and I am never troubled with any dandruff or itching of the scalp. There is no question but that the Cuticura Remedies cured me. I frequently recommend them to my customers, and they think a great deal of them." (Signed) John F. Williams, 307 Norfolk Street, Dorchester, Boston, Mass., July 23, 1910.

An Eye to Business

A dressmaker had sent her servant to post a letter and was anxiously waiting her return. "Did you post my letter all right, Mary?" she asked as the maid-of-all-work returned. "Oh, yes, ma'am!" replied Mary, holding a penny out to her mistress. "What is this for?" again asked the fair employer. "I give it to you for the stamp." "I didn't have to use it ma'am. I put the letter in the box when nobody was looking," explained the innocent Mary.—Ideas.

Mixed Metaphor

Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts thinks that as a "mixed metaphor" from the pulpit the following can hardly be surpassed. "One of the country clergy who was rebuking his flock for their apathy, declared that but a spark of grace remained to show that they were at all alive. Then, in a parenthesis, he added, 'Lord, water that spark.'—Human Life.

Fame's a Jade

Signor Puccini, celebrated for his operas, is still a young man. On the subject of his early success the Italian composer said recently in New York:

"I have been very lucky. Recognition for artistic work comes so often after one is too old to enjoy it."

"I remember one of my countrymen, a centenarian, who had died before 70 would never have seen any of his operas produced. Luckily he lived to see so great an age that he received for many years the admiration he deserved. Naturally enough, though this splendid artist regretted his years of obscurity and neglect and he frequently spoke bitterly of his bad fortune.

"Once at the very end of his long life an Englishman entered his box at the opera in Rome, and said, respectfully: "I have travelled all the way from London to see the author of my favorite opera."

"The veteran composer, with a malicious smile, replied: "Well, my friend I have given you plenty of time to get here!"

THE DECORATING DYAK

A SAN DYAK GIRL IN HER BRASS CORSET

cloth which reaches to her knees. Along the bottom edge of this are sewn several rows of tinsel and of silver coins, below which probably hang some rows of hawk-bells, which make a tinkling sound as she moves. Round her waist are several collars of brass or silver chain, and two or three belts made of dollars or other silver coins linked together. From her hips upwards, as far as her armpits, she wears a corset formed by threading upon split cane a great number of small brass rings, arranged so closely together as completely to hide the cane. To this corset may be fixed two or three bands of silver coins. Her armlets of brass or silver extend as far up as her elbow. As many rings as she possesses are on her fingers, and she wears necklaces of small beads, worked in very beautiful patterns and finished off with a tassel of beads, or else a large number of big silver or brass buttons strung together round her neck. Her ears are decorated with filigree studs of silver gilt, with a setting of scarlet cloth behind the filigree-work to show them off. In her hair is a towering comb of filigree-work, to which are attached a number of silver spangles, which glitter with every movement of her head. She wears her hair in a knot, into which are stuck a number of large brass hairpins decorated with beads and little tags of red, yellow and white cloth. She possesses a bright-colored jacket of Dyak woven cloth; but she does not wear it—it is slung over her right shoulder.

And what of the mere man? The ordinary male attire consists of a waist-cloth, a headkerchief, and a scimitar, the last named a useful part of the attire, for in his wanderings in the jungle, the Dyak has often to sit on prickly grass or sharp stones. Sometimes, too, a sleeveless jacket is favored, together with a shawl thrown over the shoulders. The arm and leg ornaments are brass rings. The war-path dress is more elaborate. For festivals the man "sports" a fringed headkerchief, in which are fixed feathers of the rhinoceros hornbill and other birds. His ears are decorated with lead pendants. Round his neck are necklaces of beads, and brass or silver buttons. He has shell bracelets, and brass and cane rings on his arms, and a large number of palm-fibre rings on his wrists. Round his waist is a belt of silver coins, and his sword is fastened to his side. He wears the Dyak waist-cloth, and has a sarong on his right shoulder.

His brass ornaments, be it said, and those of his womenfolk, may prove of gruesome use. "If the crocodile will live at peace with him, the Dyak has no wish to start a quarrel. If, however, the crocodile breaks the truce and kills someone, then the Dyaks set to work to find the culprit, and keep on catching and killing crocodiles until they find him. The Dyaks generally wear brass ornaments, and by cutting open a dead crocodile they can easily find out if he is the creature they wish to punish. Sometimes as many as ten crocodiles are killed before they manage to destroy the animal they want," which seems rough on the innocent.

Let it be noted, also, that fashion does not stop at clothes and ornaments. "The teeth are often blackened, as black teeth are considered a sign of beauty. . . . The front teeth are also frequently filed to a point, and this gives their face a curious dog like appearance. . . . Another curious way of treating the front teeth is to drill a hole in the middle of each tooth, and fix in it a brass stud. I was once present when this operation was in progress. The man lay down with a piece of soft wood between his teeth, and the dentist bored a hole in one of his front teeth. . . . The next thing was to insert the end of a pointed brass wire, which was then filed off, leaving a short piece in the tooth; a small hammer was used to fix this in tightly, and, lastly, a little more filing was done to smooth the surface of the brass stud. I am told the process is so painful that it is not often a man can bear to have more than one or two teeth operated on at a time."

"Shaving" would seem almost as nerve-racking. "The looking-glass and tweezers are often seen in the hands of the young men, and they devote every spare moment to the plucking out of stray hairs. Kapu, or quick-lime, which is one of the constituents of betel-nut-mixture chewed by the Dyaks, is often rubbed into the skin to destroy the vitality of the hair follicles. Among some tribes it is the fashion for both men and women to shave the eyebrows and pull out the eyelashes, and this gives their faces a staring, vacant expression."

Health For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy:

Coloma, Wisconsin.—"For three years I was troubled with female weakness, irregularities, backache and bearing down pains. I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking several bottles I found it was helping me, and I must say that I am perfectly well now and can not thank you enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."
—Mrs. John Wentland, R. F. D., No. 3, Box 60, Coloma, Wisconsin.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

Speed of the Rhinoceros

Story of How One Chased a Hunting Party and Then Got Away in Safety.

Out he burst at last with a crashing of brush and timber, reaching the open just in front of me; stopped for a minute to sniff the breeze, then advanced at a quick trot toward my pony.

Being mounted and inexperienced, I felt a false sense of security; he lumbered toward us with surprising swiftness, yet it seemed so difficult to believe this uncouth animal bent on mischief that I simply sat still and watched its approach.

The pony stood this inaction as long as its nerves allowed, which I should judge was until the creature had got within eight or ten yards, then wheeled with a most disconcerting suddenness, and set off like the wind across the level.

Fast though the pony flew (and having caught his panic, I was urging him to do his utmost), to my horror and astonishment the rhino not only had no difficulty in keeping up, but gained.

I heard a shot, and then another, and looked back over my shoulder hopefully; the creature was coming on faster than before! A third shot came from somewhere on my right and I felt the pony slacken his pace; evidently the last bullet had found a billet somewhere in the rhino's thick hide, for to my surprise and relief he had wheeled round sharply, and set off at a shambling gallop across the plain.

at right angles to his former direction.

The whole party followed in hot pursuit, even the Irish terrier puppy which accompanied us on all our expeditions rushed as hard as he could, tumbling head over heels upon the tussocks of coarse grass, and emitting shrill yaps of defiance.

We could not get near enough to get another shot at the rhino; it was amazing that such a great unwieldy brute could travel at the pace he did, far quicker than a horse's gallop. Finally we had to give up the chase, much to our disappointment, for my sister and I had been longing for a rhinoceros horn to take home as a trophy ever since we started on our month's trip up country.—Dora Vandeleur in the Empire Review.

Formed Strange Attachment.

At an hostelry at Belvedere, in Kent, England, a strange friendship has gradually grown between a spaniel, a terrier, a black kitten, and a bantam cock, all of which sleep together each night in the same kennel and are good chums throughout the day.

A Danish musician named Schmidt, who maintains that "nerves" can be cured by means of soft melody, treats patients by making them lie flat on his grand piano while he plays dreamy music to lull them to sleep.

Our Teas Not Real Thing

Foreign Visitor Says the American Women Do Not Appreciate the Social Feature.

"Few American women," says a foreign visitor, "know how to drink a cup of tea. I don't mean they are ignorant of table manners. The point I make is that they have no knowledge of the best way to enjoy tea drinking. They neither make of it the impressive ceremony which it is in China and Japan, nor do they derive the solid comfort from it that is characteristic of English women. Even the French woman, addicted though she is to chocolate, and the German, always a slave to coffee, have nearer conceptions of the way to drink tea than have your ladies in Washington or Gotham. The most enjoyable method of tea drinking is for a group of congenial women to meet in the home of one of them and sip the fragrant cup at their leisure, while discussing the interesting experiences of their daily life. There is none of such chumminess among New York and Washington women. They make a tea a social affair, yet rob it of the very ceremonial that at least would make it picturesque. Washington women and these of some other big cities should take lessons either from the English or the Orientals.—Women's National Weekly.

A READER CURES HIS CONSTIPATION—TRY IT FREE

Simple way for any family to retain the good health of all its members.

The editors of "Health Hints" and "Questions and Answers" have one question that is put to them more often than any other, and which, strangely enough, they find the most difficult to answer. That is "How can I cure my constipation?"

Dr. Caldwell, an eminent specialist in diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels, has looked the whole field over, has practiced the specialty for forty years and is convinced that the ingredients contained in what is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the best claim to attention from constipated people.

Success in the cure of stubborn constipation has done much to displace the use of salts, waters, strong cathartics and such things. Syrup Pepsin, by irritating the stomach and bowel muscles to again do their work naturally, and with its tonic ingredients strengthening the nerves, brings about a lasting cure.

Among its strongest supporters are Mr. John Gravells of 98 Milwaukee Ave., Detroit, Mich., Mr. J. A. Vernon of Oklahoma City and thousands of others. It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, or if you want to try it first a free sample bottle can be obtained by writing the doctor.

For the free sample address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 261 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

FRIDAY, JUNE 9, 1911

THE CENSUS Department has issued a preliminary comparative statement of general farm data for the Territory of New Mexico, from which it appears that the total value of farm land and buildings was given in 1910 as $111,430,000, as against $20,880,000 in 1900, and increase of $90,550,000, or 433 per cent. The total value of all farm land alone was reported in 1910 as $98,406,000, as compared with $17,324,000 in 1900, a gain of $81,082,000, or 459 per cent. The total value of farm buildings alone was given in 1910 as $13,024,000, as against $3,556,000 in 1900, an increase of $9,468,000, or 263 per cent. In 1910 the value of the farm land alone constituted 88 per cent of the total value of land and buildings, as compared with 83 per cent in 1900.

That was a great idea—that of making June 22 "Post Card Day." The bureau of immigration has endorsed it and the governor has given it dignity by formal proclamation. If, now, only one person in four in New Mexico would send out five or ten post cards telling his friends in the east of the territory's attractions, advantages, and immeasurable possibilities, what would the harvest be? It is an easy and inexpensive thing to do and no New Mexico booster should fail to do his whole duty to himself and his neighbors in this regard. Buy the cards now, write them to your eastern friends and acquaintances, and send them out on June 22.

CARD OF THANKS

On Sunday, May 28th, we brought our sick daughter, Lulu, to Corona, Tuesday evening she passed away. The arrival of Rev. Pope and wife a few hours before Lulu's death strengthened and helped us. They seemed to be God's own messengers at such a time. To all the people of Corona, where we had never lived and to the following who served as pallbearers: H. L. Owen, F. L. Atkinson, Lon Jenkins, Cleve Brown and A. J. Atkinson, we wish to express our sincere thanks for their great kindness.
(Signed) John Owens and Family.

ALTO ITEMS

The regular meeting of the White Mountain Literary Society was held at the School House last Saturday evening, with a large attendance, and a nice program was rendered.

Mr. Humphrey, of Carrizozo held services at the School House Sunday. Dinner was served on the ground and Sunday School in the afternoon.

Children's day, will be observed at Alto next Sunday. A beautiful and appropriate program has been prepared, under the management of Mrs. C. B. Lane and Miss Mae Gillmore. There will be a basket dinner and Sunday School in the afternoon. Everybody invited to attend.

Mrs. Stewart, of El Paso Texas arrived last Friday to visit her son, J. W. Stewart, and family.

Geo Barrett and family, of near Angus, left for an extended visit to California last Monday. His son and family of Glencoe will take charge of the home place.

Mrs. C. B. Lane, visited in Capitan Monday.

Misses Mary and Lillian Cox returned home from Carrizozo, last week.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

Commencement exercises of Mrs. Laura V. Leighner's Kindergarten School which were on the evening of May 26th, were well attended and greatly enjoyed by all present. The showing made by the children bespeaks much credit for Mrs. Leighner, of which, she is justly deserving for her untiring efforts in preparing the children.

The parents are more than pleased with the splendid advancement the children have made during the term just closed.

The program was as follows:

WHEN A MAN MARRIES

BY MARY ROBERTS RINEHART
AUTHOR OF THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE
THE MAN IN LOWER TEN, ETC.

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson, or Jimmy as he is called by his friends, was rotund and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to become seriously ill, but people steadily refused to do so, his art is considered a huge joke, except to himself. If he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy married Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from Aunt Selma, who will arrive in four hours to visit him. He neglects to tell her of his divorce; Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night, but Mrs. Wilson protests. Aunt Selma arrives and the deception works as planned. Jimmy's divorced wife enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance. Bella insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. She discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "Smallpox" printed on it. He tells his guests he cannot leave the house until the quarantine is lifted. After the lifting of the quarantine several letters are found in the mail box undelivered, one is addressed to Henry Jewell, inquired of by Harbison. He describes minutely of their incarceration, also of his infatuation for Mrs. Wilson. Aunt Selma is taken ill with a gripe. Betty sees the sure Harbison had been on the roof. She tells him that Jim had been treating her outrageously. Kit starts downstairs, when suddenly she is grasped in the arms of a man who kisses her several times. She believes that Harbison did it and is humiliated. Aunt Selma tells Jimmy that her famous bracelet and other articles of jewelry have been stolen. She accuses Betty of the theft. Jimmy tells Aunt Selma all about the strange happenings, but she persists in suspecting Betty of the theft of her valuables. Harbison demands an explanation from Kit as to her conduct towards him. He tells him of the incident on the roof, he does not deny or confirm her accusation. Aunt Selma is awakened during the night; she finds Jim making love to Bella; she demands an explanation from Jimmy. Bella reveals the whole plot to Aunt Selma. She forgives both of them, but calls Kit a liar. She tells Jimmy to reveal the true situation to Harbison. Jimmy is taken ill; Bella tells the guests that spots have broken out on his body. They are convinced that Jim has the dreaded disease.

CHAPTER XXI.

A Bar of Soap.

Late that evening Betty Mercer and Dallas were writing verses of condolence to be signed by all of us and put under the door into Jim's room when Bella came running down the stairs.

Dal was reading the first verse when she came. "Listen to this, Bella," he said triumphantly. "There was a fat artist named Jim, Who cruelly called his friends nam. When, altho' shut up tight, He broke out over night. With a rash that is maddening, he clas. Then he caught sight of Bella's face as she stood in the doorway and stopped."

"Jim is delirious!" she announced tragically. "You shut him in there all alone and now he's delirious. I'll never forgive any of you."

"Delirious!" everybody exclaimed. "He was sane enough when I took him his chicken broth," Mr. Harbison said. "He was almost fluent."

"He is stark, staring crazy," Bella insisted hysterically. "I—I looked—the door carefully when I went down to my dinner, and when I came up it—it was unlocked, and Jim was babbling on the bed, with a sheet over his face. He—he says the house is haunted and he wants all the men to come up and sit in the room with him."

"Not on your life," Max said. "I am young, and my career has only begun. I don't intend to be cut off in the flower of my youth. But I'll tell you what I'll do; I'll take him a drink. I can tie it to a pole or something."

But Mr. Harbison did not smile. He was thoughtful for a minute. Then "I don't believe he is delirious," he said quietly, "and I wouldn't be surprised if he has happened on something that will be of general interest. I think I will stay with him to-night."

After that, of course, none of the others would confess that he was afraid, so with the South American leading, they all went upstairs. The women of the party sat on the lower steps and listened, but everything was quiet. Now and then we could hear the sound of voices, and after a while there was a rapid slamming of doors and the sound of some one running down to the second floor. Then quiet again.

In an hour or so they went for Flannigan, and he went upstairs. He came down again soon, however, and returned with something over his arm that looked like a rope. It seemed to be made of all kinds of things tied together, trunk straps, clothesline, bed sheets, and something that Flannigan pointed to with rage and said: "It is a rope to keep his clothes hanging on the wall."

The conclave lasted far into the night. The feminine contingent went to bed, but not to sleep. Some time after midnight, Mr. Harbison and Max went down stairs and I could hear them rattling around testing windows and burglar alarms. But finally every one settled down and the rest of the night was quiet.

Betty Mercer came into my room the next morning, Sunday, and said: "Anne Brown wanted me. I went over at once, and Anne was sitting up in bed, crying. Dal had slipped out of the room at daylight, she said, and hadn't come back. He had thought she was asleep, but she wasn't, and she knew he was dead, for nothing ever made Dal get up on Sunday before noon."

There was no one moving in the house, and I hardly knew what to do. It was Betty who said she would go up and rouse Mr. Harbison and Max, who had taken Jim's place in the studio. She started, but bravely enough, but in a minute we heard her flying back. Anne grew perfectly white.

"He's lying on the upper stairs!" Betty cried, and we all ran out. It was quite true. Dal was lying on the stairs in a bath-robe, with one of Jim's Indian war-clubs in his hand. And he was sound asleep.

He looked somewhat embarrassed when he roused and saw us standing around. He said he was going to play a practical joke on somebody and fell asleep in the middle of it. And Anne said he wasn't even an intelligent liar, and went back to bed in a temper. But Betty came in with me, and we sat and looked at each other and didn't

It was such a tragic ending—and then I fell asleep.

When I awakened Mr. Harbison was standing by the table, and he held my book in his hands. In view of the armed neutrality between us, I expected to see him bow to me curtly, turn on his heel and leave the room. Indeed, considering his state of mind the night before, I should hardly have been surprised if he had thrown Hedda at my head. (This is not a pun. I detest them.) But instead, when he heard me move he glanced over at me and even smiled a little.

"She wasn't worth it," he said, indicating the book.

"Worth what?"

"Your tears. You were crying over it, weren't you?"

"She was very unhappy," I asserted indifferently. "She was married and she loved some one else."

"Do you really think she did?" he asked. "And even so, was that a reason?"

"The other man cared for her; he may not have been able to help it."

"But he knew that she was married," he said virtuously, and then he caught my eye and he saw the analogy instantly, for he colored hotly and put down the book.

"Most men argue that way," I said. "They argue by the book, and they do as they like."

"You are perfectly right," he said at last. "I deserve it all. My grievance is at myself. Your—your beauty, and the fact that I thought you were unhappy, put me—beside myself. It is not an excuse; it is a weak explanation. I will not forget myself again."

He was as abject as any one could have wished. It was my minute of triumph, but I can not pretend that I was happy. Evidently it had been only a passing impulse. If he had really cared, now that he knew I was free, he would have forgotten himself again at once. Then a new explanation occurred to me. Suppose it had been Bella all the time, and the real shock had been to find that she had been married!

"The fault of the situation was really mine," I said magnanimously; "I an obstinate, pig-hearted brute. I am sorry. Can't we be friends, after all?"

"When we do not have friends we can not lose them," I replied with cool malice. And the next instant the door closed behind me.

It was that night that the really serious event of the quarantine occurred.

We were gathered in the library, and everybody was deadly dull. Aunt Selma said she had been reared to a strict observance of the Sabbath, and she refused to go to bed early. The cards and card-tables were put away and every one sat around and quarreled and was generally nasty, except Bella and Jim, who had gone into the den just after dinner and firmly closed the door.

I think it was just after Max proposed to me. Yes, he proposed to me again that night. He said that Jim's illness had decided him; that any of us might take sick and die, shut in that contaminated atmosphere, and that if he did he wanted it all settled. And whether I took him or not he wanted me to remember him kindly if anything happened. I really hated to refuse him—he was in such deadly earnest. But it was quite unnecessary for him to have blamed his refusal, as he did, on Mr. Harbison. I am sure I had refused him plenty of times before I had ever heard of the man. Yes, it was just after he proposed to me that Flannigan came to the door and called Mr. Harbison out into the hall.

Mr. Harbison went out, muttering something about a storm coming up, and seeing that the tent was secure. Betty Mercer went with him. She had been at his heels all evening, and called him "Tom" on every possible occasion.

So Betty went with him. She wore a pale yellow dinner gown, with just a sophisticated touch of black here and there, and out modestly square in the neck. Her shoulders are scrawny. And after they were gone—not her shoulders; Mr. Harbison and she—Aunt Selma announced that the next day was Monday; that she had only a week's supply of clothing with her, and that no policeman who ever swung a mace should wash her undergarments for her.

She paused a moment, but nobody offered to do it. Anne was reading De Maupassant under cover of a table, and the rest pretended not to hear. After a pause, Aunt Selma got up heavily and went upstairs, coming down soon after with a bundle covered with a green shawl, and with a white balbriggan stocking trailing from an opening in it. She paused at the library door, surveyed the inmates, caught my unlucky eye and beckoned to me with a relentless forefinger.

"We can put them to soak tonight," she confided to me, "and tomorrow they will be quite simple to do. There is no lace to speak of"—Dal raised his eyebrows—"and very little founcing." Aunt Selma and I went to the laundry.

It is strange what big things develop from little ones. In this case it was a bar of soap. And if Flannigan had used as much soap as he should have instead of washing up the kitchen floor with cold dish water, it would have developed sooner. The two most unexpected events of the whole quarantine occurred that night at the same time, one on the roof and one in the cellar. The cellar one, although curious, was not so serious as the other, so it comes first.

Unawed by Royalty.

To illustrate that royalty does not inspire awe in American children, says a New York letter, a woman who recently returned from a long trip abroad related the incident: "We were at Bad Nauheim when the czar was a guest there. My little boy attracted the attention of some member of the Russian party, and he was present by invitation one day when the czar, the grand duchess of Hesse, Captain Drentelen, the czar's military secretary, and Baron Wassensbach played tennis. When the boy returned one of the young people, a tennis enthusiast, asked him: 'Well, how did the czar play?' 'Rotten!' was the expressive but shocking reply."

Culture.

Thus there is a climbing scale of culture, from the first agreeable sensation which a sparkling gem or a scarlet stain affords the eyes, up through fair outlines and details of the landscape, features of the human face and form, signs and tokens of thought and character in manners, up to the ineffable mysteries of the intellect.

Whenever we begin thither our steps tend; an ascent from the joy of a horse and his trappings, up to the perception of Newton, that the globe on which we ride is only a larger apple falling from a larger tree; up to the perception of Plato, that globe and universe are rude and early expressions of an all-discerning unity. The end, that is the scale in the time of its end.—Bacon say much. The situation was beyond us.

The doctor let Jim out next day, there having been nothing the matter with him but a stomach rash. But Jim was changed; he moaned around Bella, of course, as before, but he was abstracted at times, and all that day—Sunday—he wandered off by himself, and one would come across him unexpectedly in the basement or along some of the unused back halls.

Aunt Selma held service that morning. Jim said that he always had a prayer-book, but that he couldn't find anything with so many people in the house. So Aunt Selma read some religious poetry out of the newspapers, and gave us a valuable talk on Deception versus Honesty, with me as the illustration.

Almost everybody took a nap after service. I stayed in the den and quite blame myself. Only, you must believe me one thing. You never furnished us any amusement." I looked at him sideways. The discovery that Bella and Jim were once married, must have been a great shock.

"It was a surprise," he replied evenly. His voice and his eyes were inimitable. He returned my glance steadily. It was infuriating to have gone half-way to meet him, as I had, and then to find him intrenched in his self-sufficiency again. I got up.

"It is unfortunate that our acquaintance has begun so unfavorably," I remarked, preparing to pass him. "Under other circumstances we might have been friends."

"There is only one solace," he said. "When we do not have friends, we can not lose them."

The Most Beautiful Thing.

A newspaper recently invited its readers to state in a few words what they considered the most beautiful thing in the world. The first prize was awarded to the sender of the answer: "The eyes of my mother." The dream of that which we know to be impossible suggested an imaginative person, and this brought him second prize. But the most amusing thing was that which read: "The most beautiful thing in the world is to see a man carrying his mother-in-law across a dangerous river without making any attempt to drop her in."

The Lesser Evil.

Gresham college in 1719 was the scene of a famous serio-comic duel between two celebrated doctors, Dr. Mead and Dr. Woodward, both of whom were lecturers at the college. While walking down Bishopsgate street one morning they quarreled over some medical question and adjourned to the square of the college to fight it out with swords. Woodward fell, wounded in several places, whereupon Mead magnanimously said, "Take thy life." "Anything but your physic," hissed back the chagrined Woodward as he swooned away.—London Chronicle.

FOOD IN SERMONS

Feed the Dominie Right and the Sermons Are Brilliant.

A conscientious, hard-working and successful clergyman writes: "I am glad to bear testimony to the pleasure and increased measure of efficiency and health that have come to me from adopting Grape-Nuts food as one of my articles of diet."

"For several years I was much distressed during the early part of each day by indigestion. My breakfast seemed to turn sour and failed to digest. After dinner the headache and other symptoms following the breakfast would wear away, only to return, however, next morning."

"Having heard of Grape-Nuts food, I finally concluded to give it a trial. I made my breakfasts of Grape-Nuts with cream, toast and Postum. The result was surprising in improved health and total absence of the distress that had, for so long a time, followed the morning meal."

"My digestion became once more satisfactory, the headaches ceased, and the old feeling of energy returned. Since that time I have always had Grape-Nuts food on my breakfast table."

"I was delighted to find also, that whereas before I began to use Grape-Nuts food I was quite nervous and became easily wearied in the work of preparing sermons and in study, a marked improvement in this respect resulted from the change in my diet."

"I am convinced, that Grape-Nuts food produced this result and helped me to a sturdy condition of mental and physical strength."

"I have known of several persons who were formerly troubled as I was, and who have been helped as I have been, by the use of Grape-Nuts food, on my recommendation." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

POULTRY

GENERAL, ALL-AROUND BIRD

Little Difference in Three Varieties of Family Provided They Are Equally Well Handled.

In reply to the query, "How do the white, silver-laced and golden Wyandottes compare as general all-around birds, also for laying and breeding," the following reply is made:

There is very little difference in the three varieties of the Wyandotte family named provided that they are all equally well handled. Much depends upon strain, for there are good and poor egg-laying strains, in all breeds of fowls and their different varieties.

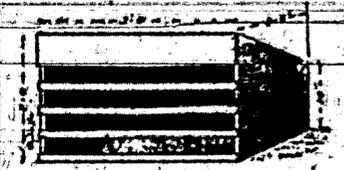

Champion White Wyandotte Hen.

The skilled poultry keeper breeds out the obstinate broodiness so characteristic of some strains. Philander Williams bred out the broody instinct in his Light Brahmas, and advertised for many years previous to his death, the "Aristocratic Strain of Non-Setting Light Brahmas." Just fancy breeding the sitting propensity out of such a determined sitter as a Light Brahma usually is. As for beauty of plumage, that is another question, which does not enter here.

COOP FOR HEN AND CHICKS

long, two feet six inches from front to back, two feet high at the front and 14 inches high at the back, says the Homestead. One and one-half inch slate are nailed on the front three inches apart.

Feed for Plymouth Rocks.

Twenty White Plymouth Rocks could profitably be fed one and one-half quarts of oats or wheat in the morning, all the green food they will eat at noon, and all they will eat at night of a mash made of ten pounds of wheat bran, five pounds of corn meal, five pounds of ground oats, two and one-half pounds of oil cake meal, two and one-half pounds of dry beef scraps.

Charred Corn for Combs.

A little charred corn twice a week will keep the combs of the hens red and the plumage glossy.

Spraying for San Jose Scale.

If spring spraying has been omitted, it will lessen the injury to the trees if they are sprayed about July 1 and again September 1, when the young scales are upon the trees, using one part of lime-sulphur solution to thirty parts of water for apple and pear trees, one to sixty for plum and cherry, and one to one hundred upon peach and Japanese plums.

Lies Among Hens.

When a spell of bad weather comes, look out for lice. They multiply fast when hens and chicks have to be confined to their coops much of the time. These pests will soon reduce the vitality of the liveliest chick ever hatched, so that it will be in good condition to take gapes or some other ailment.—Farm Journal.

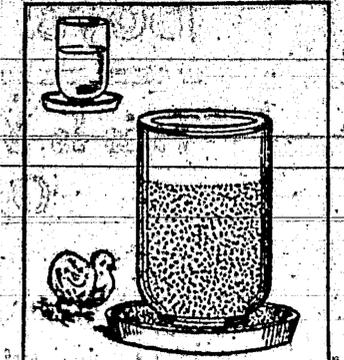

Chickens of Same Age.

The poultryman often wants to get a large number of chickens of the same age, so that they can be brought along together on the same course of feeding. The only way to secure these even hatches is by means of the incubator.

FOUNTAIN KEEPS FEED CLEAN

Automatic Device Regulates Supply of Grain or Water as Little Chicks Clean It Up.

When the raising of chickens was haphazard, the percentage of losses from a setting was light. Now it is down to a science and everything in the way of sanitation counts, just as it does in the preserving of human life. An Illinois man has devised an automatic feeder and fountain which keeps the water, grain, grit, etc., that is fed to the little fowls clean and wholesome. It also regulates the supply, so that they do not gobble it all up at once. The feature of the fountain is a glass reservoir, for which purpose a fruit can can be used as well as anything else. This jar is filled with water or feed, and the pan that forms the bottom of the fountain placed on top. The jar is then inverted, bringing the pan right side up. The jar rests on raised portions of the pan, and the contents of the reservoir flow from it gradually as the chickens deplete the supply in the pan.

CURE FOR ROUP IN POULTRY

Remove Afflicted Bird at Once to Warm, Dry Room, and Give Good, Stimulating Food.

At the first sign of roup the bird should be removed from the flock and put alone. The water vessels should be thoroughly cleaned and refilled with water containing a few drops of carbolic acid. Place the affected bird in a warm, dry place and free from drafts, with dry sand on the floor. Give warm, stimulating food. Commence treatment by giving a spoonful of castor oil. Wash the nostrils, eyes and other affected parts with a solution of chlorinated soda diluted with twice its bulk of water. Repeat this several times a day. Kerosene should be freely used about the head of a roup fowl. Inject the kerosene into the nostrils with a small, spring-bottom oil can. Give the following twice a day: Balsam copahu, one ounce; licorice in powder, one dram; add magnesia enough to make pills and divide into 60 parts. Generally under this treatment the bird will recover, if not too badly affected before treatment is commenced. If the bird recovers, do not return to the flock at once, but keep it on a tonic for some time.

POULTRY CONOISSES

The duck generally lays at night. A simple egg record for the year should be kept.

Ducks do not make good sitters—use a chicken hen.

Good whole corn is one of the best feeds for the sitting hen.

No class of farm stock can utilize screenings so well as poultry.

A duck is not fully matured until it is about two and one-half years old.

Geese are very profitable, especially if one has a farm admirably located.

An essential in the hen's comfort in cold weather is a floor where no drafts are felt.

The duck house should have an earth floor, and heavily bedded with straw or leaves.

It takes a pretty good hen to stay on the job three whole weeks and bring off a nice litter of chicks.

Early in the season, when few hens are broody, the incubator will be found necessary to produce early chicks.

Dust young turkeys and their mother, once every two weeks, with insect powder, until they are at least six weeks old. Lice may not be discovered, but dust them, nevertheless. It is a good habit to acquire.

The composition of eggs is about 85 per cent water. Hence the necessity for supplying it plentifully and pure.

If the hen nests are supplied with fresh clean material there will be no need of washing the eggs before sending them to market.

Even with the large addition to the plants that have been made the past ten years, the demand for squabs now is just as far in excess of the supply as it was then.

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, white and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the predispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and bequeaths a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It Makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well.

Repeating Rifle and LESMOK cartridges

Shoots .22 short, .22 long and .22 long rifle cartridges, without adjustment.

Solid Breech, Hammerless, Safe!

Built by the same expert gunsmiths as the Remington-UMC big game rifle.

If you want to shoot your best, shoot Remington-UMC Lesmok .22s. Their accuracy enabled Arthur Habsak to break the World's Record in 100 consecutive shots, scoring 2,484 out of a possible 2,500.

Remington-UMC—the perfect shooting combination.

NOTICE OF SALE
Roswell Automobile Company, Plaintiff, vs.
Carrizozo Automobile Company, Defendant

In the District Court of the Fifth Judicial District of the Territory of New Mexico, within and for the County of Chaves. Under and by virtue of an Execution issued out of the District Court of Chaves County, directed to me the undersigned as Special Officer by order of the Court, in the above entitled cause wherein the Roswell Automobile Company as Plaintiff recovered a judgement against the defendant, the Carrizozo Automobile Company, on the 17th day of February 1910, for the sum of $399.51 with the interest thereon at the rate of six per cent. per annum from said date until paid, together with the costs amounting to $45.05.

I did on the 24th day of May, A. D. 1911, at the town of Lincoln, Lincoln County levy said execution on the following described property and real estate, as the property of Dr. T. W. Watson, who is a stockholder, Officer and Director of the above named defendant, Company, the Carrizozo Automobile Company, the said property having been levied upon to satisfy the debt of said defendant Company, a corporation, for the reason that said defendant Company had no available property within the Territory of New Mexico, on which said Execution could be levied and said judgement satisfied.

Said property to be levied is described as follows, to-wit:

All that certain house and lot or parcel of land lying and being in the town of Lincoln, Lincoln County, bounded on the North by the Main Street in Lincoln, or the public road, and on the East by the Public School Building, on the South by the town Aescula, and on the west by the lands of Mrs. Z. Serana.

Said property being formally known as the "Jim Brentplace." Now therefore under and by virtue of the authority vested in me and the levy of said Execution, I will expose at public auction and sell to the highest and best bidder for cash at the front door of the Court House under course of construction at the town of Carrizozo, Lincoln County, New Mexico, on Wednesday the 16th day of Aug., A. D. 1911, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon of said day the above described real estate or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said above judgement, interest and costs of suit, including the scoring costs and will execute and deliver to the purchaser or purchasers thereof at said sale good and sufficient deeds therefor.

Witness my hand this 24th day of May, A. D. 1911.
