OFFICIAL COUNT BEGUN

Thirty Election Boards Fail to Make Returns. May Cause Delay

SEVERAL OFFICES IN DOUBT

The canvassing of the official returns by Chief Justice W. H. Pope, Governor William J. Mills and Territorial Secretary, Nathan Jaffa, has brought to Santa Fe most of the candidates on the State ticket as well as a formidable array of eminent counsel to represent candidates and the two state central committees. One of the supreme judgeships and the office of superintendent of public instruction, one district judgeship and one state senatorship are in doubt because of the closeness of the official vote which it will take ten days to canvass. Of the 107 offices on the side of the county offices, the Republicans will fill 71 and the Democrats 35, with one in doubt. Of the 260 and more county officers, the Democrats elected their entire ticket only in Chavez, Eddy and Curry counties and the Republicans in seven counties, electing the larger part or some part of the ticket in the other sixteen counties. The legislative line up is quite definite now, the Republicans having fifteen, the Progressive Republicans two, and the Democrats seven state senators. In the House the Republicans have thirty, the Progressive Republicans three, and the Democrats sixteen of its members. George W. Armijo and A. S. Bushkowitz are already in the field for the two chief clerkships and R. L. Bacon seems to have the inside run for the speakership of the House. Several of the progressive Republicans have declared their intention of voting for W. H. Andrews for U. S. Senator and he has thirty-seven of the other Republicans pledged to him, so that his election to the U. S. Senate on the first ballot is assured. Several of the other senatorial candidates are in Santa Fe watching the count and incidentally laying plans to capture the second senatorship. Those principally mentioned are Governor William J. Mills, H. O. Bursum, W. D. Murray, A. B. Fall, T. B. Catron, W. H. Gillenwater and Frank W. Parker with Nathan Jaffa as a dark horse who would prove immensely popular at a direct primary such as has been suggested and advocated by W. H. Andrews.

COMPLETE COUNT NEXT WEEK

As a result of the election tangle, which has made a completion of the official canvass impossible before next week, the inauguration of governor-elect McDonald has been postponed until New Year's day. Two more precincts, one in McKinley, the other in Socorro county, making five precincts in all in which no election was held, have been discovered by the official canvassing board. To balance this, two precincts showed up with returns of whose existence as precincts the territorial authorities had no knowledge. The board has completed sorting the returns by counties and has found that 30 boards of election failed to make any returns and will have to be summoned and the ballot boxes brought to Santa Fe. There are no funds appropriated or available for that purpose, and the negligent election officers will have to foot their own bills. About 100 returns have been found that are improperly signed or not signed at all, and the canvassing board is rather puzzled how to proceed unless all parties waive irregularities on the face of the returns.

Adjournment was taken over Thanksgiving day and another adjournment may be taken until next Monday in order to give time to pick up the missing returns.

NATIONAL PARK AND GAME PRESERVE FOR NEW MEXICO

The United States department of agriculture is going to recommend the establishment of a national park and game preserve, to be created out of the Pecos National Forest, and use it for the stocking of nearly all the western states with game. The national park will contain more than 800 square miles and will be fenced in it will be kept enough elk, deer, mountain sheep and antelope to stock all New Mexico, making it a paradise for hunters, and some more besides.

The biological survey expects to co-operate with the state game authorities to protect game which is supposed to be protected by the local laws, and in that end in many states the survey has recommended to the agricultural department that an additional reward of from $30 to $100 be given for the first five convictions in cases of violation of certain sections of the game laws.

A movement is now on to obtain the support of the two New Mexico senators for the measure, as in order to establish a national park an act of congress is necessary. This work, however, will have to be done by the local enthusiasts, as the general government cannot act together go counter to the wishes of the representatives of the states.

Unless something is done soon for the protection and propagation of the game in the Southwest it will be very scarce. A game preserve where game is protected at all times of the year would very materially assist in perpetuating some of the species of game that are rapidly becoming extinct. It does not take the wild animals long to discover the places where they are hunted and where they are safe. Much of our game is destroyed by wolves, coyotes, foxes and other carnivora. The bounties paid by the counties on these animals have helped to a considerable extent to keep their number reduced and larger bounties would stimulate the trapper to greater efforts. It has only been in recent years that the game laws of New Mexico have been enforced to any extent. Now that we have become a state we will expect even a better enforcement of the game laws. There is plenty of mountainous country in New Mexico that is not fit for agricultural purposes and the country around the head waters of the Pecos is ideal for a game preserve.

WHITE OAKS WHIFFS

The young folks of White Oaks gave a musical on Thanksgiving night. Wayne Van Schoyok returned Tuesday evening from an extended visit with his people back in Ohio. The Wild Cat Boys have installed a saw mill at their mine and are now cutting timber on the Carrizozo mountain with the intention of manufacturing their own lumber and mine timber hereafter. Governor William C. McDonald accompanied by Mrs. McDonald and daughter Frances, passed through here Thursday evening on their way home from the Block Ranch in the Governor's auto with chauffeur Truman A. Spencer at the wheel. Truly the weather witch biteth worse than a mosquito and stings harder than a humbeeba these wintry nights. Mrs. Ralph Treat returned from Carrizozo and the Vega ranch Wednesday in the custody of Antonio, her brother-in-law. Grandma Littell and Miss Emma Kerston after an extended visit here returned to Owensboro, Kentucky, Monday.

NOGAL NOTES

O. O. Davis' house on the Tortolito Canyon was broken open Saturday night, the 25th inst. Every box and trunk in the house was opened and the contents left strewn all over the floor. A posse is in hot pursuit of the rascals and by this time may have them. One of the party is a small boy. George Ulrich is in camp to do work on the Helen Ray properties. Tuesday morning the 28th was the coldest day in Nogal in two years. Work on the leakage in Watsons lake has ceased for the present owing to the inclement weather. Mr. Richardson has moved to the George Dillard place on Nogal canyon from the Carrizozo flats. Mr. Richardson is extensively engaged in the chicken business at present. M. Urshell and T. Forest of Huntington Ind. are in camp on mining business. T. J. Moore and wife have gone to the San Simon valley in Arizona and expect to be absent for two or three months. ## DESPERADO CAPTURED

Carrizozo Criminal Caught after a Cold Cross Country Chase

OVERTAKEN AT HANSONBERG

Frank Williams, alias Francisco Luciano, a much sought after fugitive from justice who has given the local peace officers a great deal of trouble recently, was arrested and brought to Carrizozo Wednesday noon and lodged in the local jail. Deputies C. P. Lemmons and Wm. Barnett made the arrest. Williams, whatever his name is, as he has a number of aliases, is charged with a number of offences against the law. The following are some of the crimes that have been committed in this vicinity and are laid at his door: stealing a horse and saddle from J. A. Orr, a rancher living west of town. Orr followed Williams for two days through the mountains but failed to catch him. Breaking in the ranch house of C. P. Lemmons and stealing a rifle, six shooter and watch. Part of this stolen property was found in his possession when arrested. Stealing a saddle from a stock train as it was pulling out of the Carrizozo yards; stealing a saddle from the ranch of George W. Hughes; stealing chickens from the same place, for which offence he was at one time put on bond; breaking in and robbing a house at Nogal; stealing a horse belonging to F. M. Deal of Ancho; stealing a horse belonging to Assessor Henry Corn of Reberton; this was the horse he was riding when arrested. Saturday night while the officers were out looking for him he rode into Carrizozo, armed to the teeth. He got off his horse in front of Roland Brothers' drug store and went into the store and purchased some smoking tobacco, making the remark at the time that he had better be going as he wasn't wanted around here. Sunday morning officers Barnett and Lemmons took up his trail and followed it north to Coyote. From there the trail turned west and went around the upper end of the Mal Pais and into the Ocuero Mountains in the direction of San Antonio. The officers followed the trail through the Ocuero Mountains and came upon the fugitive at the Hansonberg ranch, five miles west of here in Socorro county. Williams was mounting his horse to leave the ranch when he was discovered by the officers, and when called upon to surrender drew his rifle from the scabbard and showed fight. But when Lemmons got the drop on him he surrendered. Williams is about thirty to thirty-five years of age, has small, piercing eyes, is of dark complexion and could easily pass for an Italian. He first came to this country about a year ago but no one seems to know where he came from. Williams was given a hearing before Judge Massie on the charge of stealing Orr's horse and was bound over to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $1000. The bond was not furnished.

JICARILLA HAPPENINGS

Joe Ross and daughter, Mrs. Wheeler, of Mountainair are here on a visit for a few days. While here Mr. Ross expects to finish up his assessments for 1911. It is reported that there are several cases of scarlet fever in camp. Mrs. E. E. Willis was over from the ranch for a couple of days last week. Martin Sedillo of San Patricio was up from that place with a load of apples and corn for Max Garbana. Sheriff Chas. Stevens was in camp one day last week on business. W. W. Fitzpatrick is making arrangements for taking over several claims on bond and lease from Phil Reasoner and others. The young folks of Ancho were up to visit the Sunday School here and make arrangements for the tree at the school house. Arley Stewart had the misfortune of falling back in a shaft about 15 ft. He was but very little hurt only a few scratches and bruises. A. N. Price and son were out from White Oaks looking after their interests here.

Miss Florence Nabours entertained Saturday evening with a lady party in honor of Miss Maude Young and Miss Katherine Muselwhite. Horace Riddle came over from Ocuero this week. Mrs. S. E. Barber is visiting friends in El Paso. Miss Bessie Collins, who has been attending school at Vaughn, has returned home and entered school here. The Thanksgiving ball given at Neal's Opera House last night drew a large crowd and was immensely enjoyed by all present.

Scenic Wonders of Alaska

WITH the completion of the Copper River and Northwestern railway a new scenic route has been opened in Alaska.

On the arrival of every steamer at Cordova a special train is made up for the trip to Miles glacier.

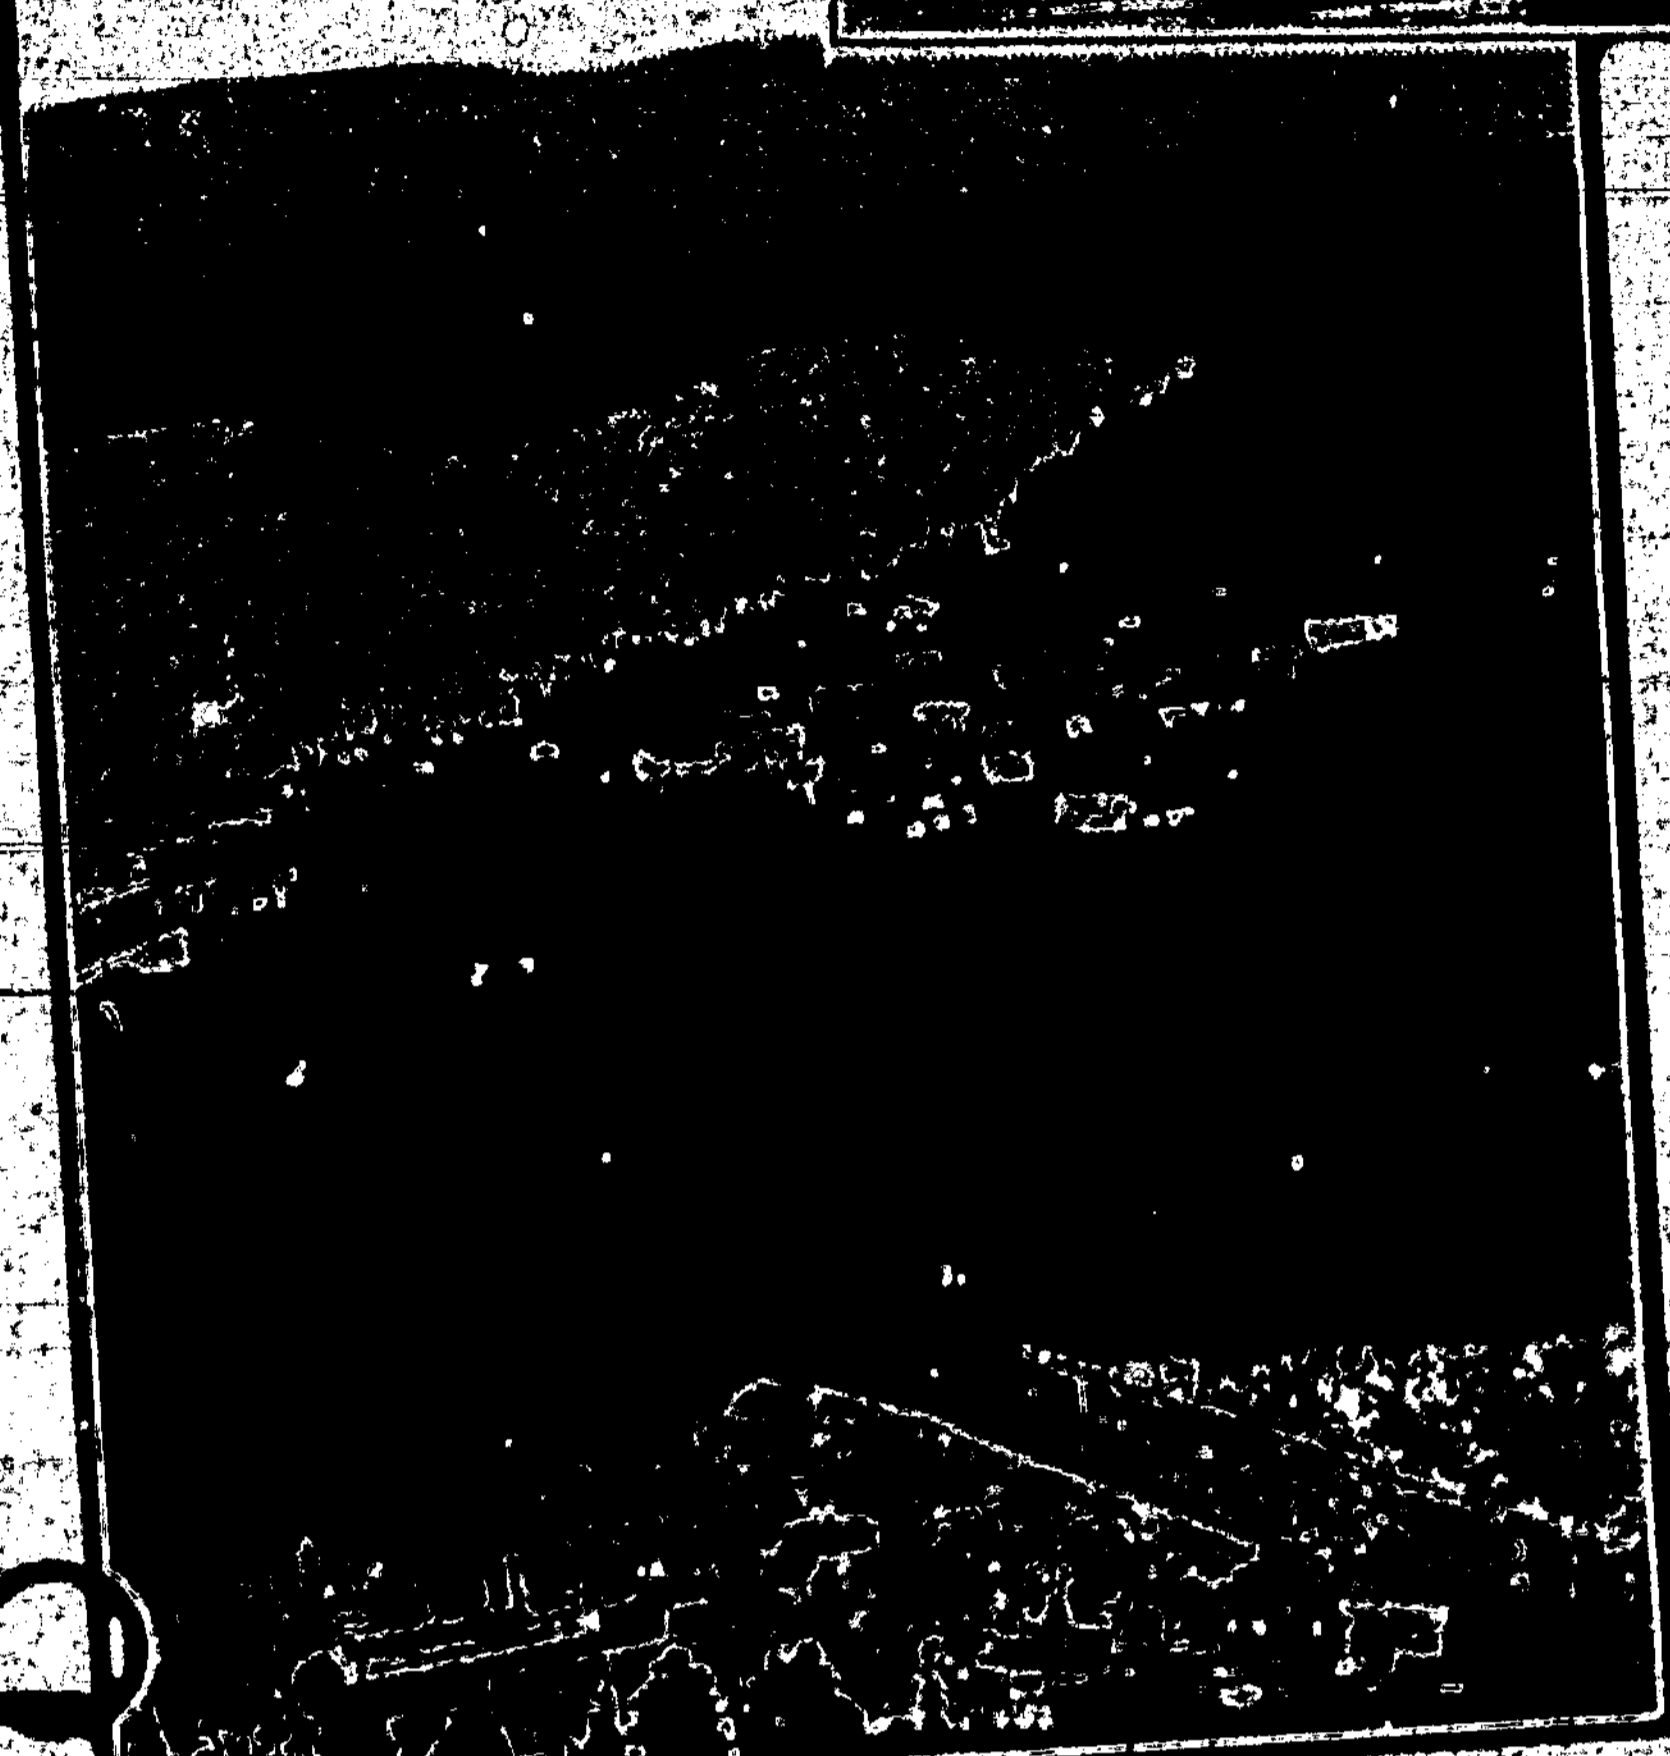

In the past south-eastern Alaska, as far as Skagway, was considered exclusively the tourist center; but after making the cruise around Prince William sound, Resurrection bay and the side trip up the Copper River railway one cannot but admit that the scenery in that portion of Alaska entitles it to be considered as the equal, at least, of the justly celebrated Inside Passage.

Stops are made at Ketchikan, Juneau, Cordova, Ellamar, Latouche, Valdes and Seward, both going north and returning south. At Cordova on the north-bound trip a special train will be run up the Copper river for fifty miles, without additional expense.

Prince William sound, from a scenic standpoint, is one of the most beautiful water courses in the world. The late E. H. Harriman declared it to be by far the most interesting and beautiful portion of Alaska.

The new railroad probably eclipses any American transcontinental line for diversified scenery. Starting from the dock at Cordova hay it skirts that beautiful placid body of water, and in the distance can be seen Kayak Island and the neighborhood around Katalla. Just beyond Cordova it strikes the wonderful Byak lake, which it follows for several miles and then reaches the road turns to the left, following the Kotsina river for some distance, and then turns to the right and follows the Chitina for a short time. It then strikes easterly to cross the Kuskokwim river on the high cantilever bridge, which is one of the most notable engineering feats on the railroad. This section of the country is very dry and warm in summer and is a favorite resort of fishermen, as the streams as well as Long lake are filled with grayling and trout and the nearby hills produce any amount of game.

SCENE ALONG THE COPPER RIVER

widespread delta of the lower Copper river. To the right, on a clear day, can be seen the ocean, and to the left the wonderful peaks of the frontal range, with Sheridan glacier in the foreground. Alaskan, once an old Russian trading post is full of interest, as several of the old block houses still remain as relics of a by-gone era.

At Mile Post 49 the train is stopped while the passengers walk half a mile to the Chitina glacier, undoubtedly the most remarkable and beautiful living glacier in the world. It is from 200 to 500 feet high and three miles long, a solid mass of gleaming ice, the white of the exposed surface interspersed with faint coloring in turquoise blue. During the summer season every few moments, with the most tremendous noise, great masses of the ice fall into the Copper river and send the waves racing across the stream 1,200 feet to the rocky beach on which you are standing. It is a most unusual and awe-inspiring sight. It is the most attractive glacier in the world, and for that reason is already winning the attention of tourists and scientists from all over the country, so that in due time it will take precedence as the most attractive glacier to be found in America. A mile above the Chitina glacier is the Miles glacier, also attractive, but not so large or beautiful as the Chitina.

Between the two glaciers the Copper river is spanned by the notable steel bridge set on concrete piers, each pier being protected by a steel-ribbed concrete ice breaker to deflect the ice continually flowing down from Miles glacier and at other points on the river.

Immediately on crossing the river the train follows the stream near the shore. One mile from the bridge come the rapids and for a distance of about three miles the Copper river becomes a turbulent, rushing torrent, white the water falls over the rocks and lava to reach the levels below. At about Mile Post 53 the water becomes placid and the train enters Abercrombie canyon. Thence on the road is built to water grade through this canyon and Wood canyon, forming one of the most picturesque scenic roads imaginable, flanked on either side by pine-clad, snow-capped mountain ranges, with small glaciers, high waterfalls, clear mountain streams and pools, shady dells and glades, with thick covering of underbrush and trees. The whole tour is one presenting a new picture with every mile traversed.

To those who are interested in railroad construction the line itself will be found most interesting. Here a great gorge is spanned by a steel bridge. There a solid mountain of granite has been cut through with a tunnel. Again we come to a bit of side hill where a sheet of solid masonry has been built to permit of the railroad construction, and so on to the very end of the line. Many tunnels, trestles, steel bridges and permanent structures too numerous to mention make the line as perfect as modern engineering can accomplish.

All the way to Chitina, at Mile Post 123, this scenic scenery continues, but before arriving at Chitina, if the passenger keeps a lookout ahead, Mount Wrangell in all its beauty can be discovered, and probably, if conditions continue such as they were last summer, the mountain top will be wreathed in smoke, for Wrangell has been in constant eruption for some time past.

At Chitina the railroad crosses the Copper river on a log temporary trestle. Just before crossing the bridge one can look across the river and see to the right the Chitina river and to the left the Kotsina. After crossing the Copper river the rail-

NOVEL AND PRETTY DESSERT

Pears With Whipped Cream and Cake
—Apple Trifle With Custard Sauce.

For a novel and pretty dessert which is especially good, split lengthwise some large, firm pears, cook until tender in a syrup made of sugar and water and flavored with vanilla or almond. Fill the hollows of the fruit, which is arranged upright in the dish, with powdered macaroon. Fold the two halves of each pear together, add a little whipped cream to the syrup, which must have been thoroughly chilled, and pour over the fruit. Serve with cake.

For apple trifle, which is worth cultivating, boil one pound of apples (peeled) to a pulp with a little sugar. Soak six sponge cakes in a glass dish by spreading the apple sauce over them and pour over the whole custard made of two egg yolks, half a pint of milk and two ounces of sugar. Whip the whites of the eggs stiff and top the dish. It may be further beautified with a sprinkling of colored water.

Snow cream also makes a light and yet satisfactory sweet course. For this beat well the whites of three eggs and stir them into a quart of cream. Mix well and add two glasses of sherry, two ounces of sugar, peel of a lemon. Whip all into a froth. Now take out the peel and serve in a glass dish, cold.

TO MAKE GODFISH CHOWDER

Delicious Dish That Will Form an Agreeable Change for Jaded Appetites.

Take an eight-pound, very fresh cod; take off the fillets, pare off the skin and cut the meat in squares; put the head, skin and bones in a saucepan with a gallon of white broth, a pint of white wine, pepper, corn, four blades of mace, four cloves, two bay leaves, sprigs of sage and thyme; a handful of parsley and a piece of butter; cover and boil slowly for 40 minutes; then pour the whole into a fine strainer and press gently with a skimmer to extract all the liquid. Chop two large onions, put in a saucepan with an ounce of butter and two ounces of fine chopped salt pork; stir on the fire long enough to evaporate the moisture; add the broth, four large potatoes and four peeled tomatoes, both cut in small squares, four ounces of finely bruised and steeped pilot bread; cover and boil half an hour; add the fish and boil five minutes longer. Skim a little, season highly. Finish with chopped parsley and two ounces of butter; mix carefully, so as not to bruise the fish.

IS WELL WORTH TRYING

Stuffed Tomatoes With Cream Made After This Recipe Would Tempt Any One.

Mix together three quarters of a cupful of cold chopped chicken or veal, three tablespoonfuls of soft bread crumbs, a tablespoonful of melted butter, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, half a teaspoonful of salt and quarter teaspoonful of paprika. Wash and wipe six medium sized tomatoes, take a small piece from the stem end, carefully remove a portion of the pulp and fill the hole with the stuffing; place on a baking sheet and cook for thirty minutes in a moderate oven, basting often with melted butter. Remove to a hot platter; whip three tablespoonfuls of rich cream, add to it two tablespoonfuls of melted butter and pour a small portion over each tomato.

A JOKE TO REMEMBER.

WE HAD EXPECTED to have been able to give some news this week about the county seat case; but there seems to be nothing doing along that line, not even a hearing any more to break the monotony and ennui of those interested in the county seat fight. The walls of the incompleting building are standing just as they have for these many moons and the drifting sand and dirt is burying them deeper and deeper as time goes on.

Some of these days an Archaeologist will drop in here and discover the walls protruding through the ground and will think that he has discovered the ancient ruins of some prehistoric city.

The taxpayer must not forget though that the interest on that thirty thousand dollars that was borrowed to build the building has to be paid just the same regardless of the fact that the county is not getting any use of the money. But then the politicians will take care of the taxpayer. Perhaps.

WE WILL ask our readers not to be too critical in passing judgement on this weeks issue of the OUTLOOK as the editor has gone away and left the paper in charge of the mechanical department and the "devil." We fully appreciate the presumption and temerity on our part in thinking that we can publish the paper without the editor but it is "Hobsons choice" as it is obvious to us that the paper must be gotten out. Nevertheless we will do the best we can and try to get the paper out on time.

The editor has gone to Chicago where he will spend Thanksgiving with his parents and will return to Carrizozo in a fortnight.

MALICIOUS GOSSIP must have been at its worst in Shady Bend, Kansas, when a number of the first citizens of that place called forth one evening with the sole purpose in view of organizing a tar party and tarring one of the girls of that community. The male population could have had little with which to occupy their time when a tar party was the only thing on the program that they cared to turn their attention to. It is to be regretted that the laws of Kansas do not prescribe a suitable punishment for crimes of that kind. We may be a civilized nation but some of our civilization is of the pseudo kind.

THAT the El Paso Herald is fully conversant with the live political issues of the day is conclusively proven by some recent editorials published in that paper on the Single Tax Issue.

THERE IS NO excuse for any of the Denver papers running short of copy as long as the Patterson murder trial lasts.

THE OUTLOOK is one day late this week due to the fact that press day falls Thanksgiving day and the Outlook for the day in question has to be postponed.

DON'T THROW AWAY YOUR NEWSPAPERS

Next to a personal letter there is no advertising medium for a town or community as the newspaper published in that community. This is especially true of the weekly newspaper which in a large measure reflects the thought and the business and social conditions of the community.

Probably 99 per cent of the weekly newspapers printed in New Mexico are consigned to the waste basket immediately after they have been read by the subscriber. Their value ceases immediately.

Every wide awake citizen of New Mexico is interested these days in promoting the growth of his community, and of the new state as a whole. If every subscriber to a weekly newspaper in the state of New Mexico would, after he has read that newspaper, wrap it, put a one cent stamp on it and address it to some acquaintance in other states, the result would be a huge advertisement which would draw a tremendous volume of attention, to the Sunshine State.

The idea of the letter to the newspaper "back home" has been well received. Many of these letters are now going out of the state, according to advices received by the Bureau of Immigration and the result will be a great many columns of beneficial advertising in newspapers published in other states.

Let us supplement this by making the fullest use possible of our own home newspapers. Don't throw the weekly newspaper away when you have finished with it. Wrap it and mail it to an acquaintance. There is not a weekly newspaper in New Mexico that fails to have in every issue some item of special interest to the man outside. The local newspaper is much more interesting than a post card, much more effective as an advertisement, far more likely to produce an enduring result.

Supplement the "back home" letter by making the fullest use of your local newspaper.

ALLOWS YEAR FOR RENEWALS

In order to free the postal regulations of a stringent feature in regard to second-class mail matter Postmaster General Hitchcock has issued an order granting a full year as the period in which publications entitled to the second class privilege but on which subscriptions have expired, will be accepted at second-class postage rates. This action rescinds the existing rules providing for varying periods of acceptance, ranging from three months to a year, according to the frequency with which the publication is issued. The new regulations, it was pointed out, will give publishers a great opportunity to secure renewal of subscriptions. The old regulation was difficult of enforcement and resulted in annoyance to subscribers and publishers.

REVIEW OF PROGRESS THAT IS BEING MADE ALONG ALL LINES OF ENDEAVOR

Prevention the Aim

Americans Now Realize Importance of Minimizing Chances of Accidents.

EMPLOYERS LEAD THE WAY

European Countries Are Far Ahead of the United States in the Matter of Safety Appliances for Industries and the Farm.

Particular stress is most properly being made upon the work of accident prevention. We are now passing out of the age of cure. We are getting down to basic principles in all spheres of life, in attempting to minimize the possibilities of things happening. The new chair of preventive medicine at Harvard Medical school is symptomatic. We have begun a systematic agitation of the American people tending to teach the theories and practices of fire prevention, and the work of accident prevention is a complementary step in the same direction.

Coming as this step does from the manufacturers of the country, the employers, there is reason to believe that the work will be carried out in large detail and should be supported by the rank and file of citizens and the legislatures of every state. The whole problem is difficult and complicated, and much thought and time and some experimentation will be necessary before an adequate and proper system can be evolved befitting the acceptance of the system. Such a system, however, should be evolved before the legislatures of various states have added to the general complications and "balled themselves up" by the enactment of half way, incompetent, stupid and otherwise unsatisfactory employers' liability laws. If we are not careful we shall have in this connection very much the same situation that we have in regard to the divorce laws in this country, where there is no harmony or unity and where practically every state has laws different from every other state.

Governments throughout Europe have long since established museums of safety, institutions of accident prevention, permanent exhibitions and working exhibits of safety appliances for industries, and on the farm, as a factor in the general education of the people. When we approach subjects of this kind we begin to realize how much truth there is in the criticisms made in Europe of the educational system of the United States. Matters of the utmost importance are not only not a part of our educational system but they are scarcely even talked of, save among the most progressive educationalists and reformers, who are generally termed cranks. While we pride ourselves on being a practical people we are in many respects the most impractical of modern nations. We have just begun vocational education. We are neglectful of the duties of the state towards its citizens, we are negligent and superficial where we should be most careful, and our point of view is susceptible to wide expansion and increased perspective. Germany has long since established a systematic education for employers and workers, through which popular sentiment is formally developed and the discussion of these questions encouraged.

The National Manufacturers' association is making it its business now to acquaint the people of the United States with these things, to demonstrate the character of these exhibits, and to analyze the curriculum and schedules of education along these lines. As stated at the outset, it is one of the most significant signs of the times that this, above all organizations in the country, should be taking up this work in the practical way that it is taking it up and encouraging it to the extent of subsidies amounting to tens of thousands of dollars a year and the establishment of a kind of accident preventive bureau with headquarters in New York and St. Louis.

One Way to Prevent Incompetence. It is a discredit rather than a credit to an executive to have to fire a man for incompetence, according to the president of a large industrial corporation. Discharging a deficient employe is in his eyes a reflection on an employer's executive ability to hire the right kind of help. "If a concern has an executive or a manager who has not the faculty or genius for selecting capable assistants or subordinates who will co-operate to make the business a success, the necessity for firing and the cost of training new subordinates will go on indefinitely," says this industrial chief. He points out that his own firm has an expert sales manager who possesses this faculty or genius for picking out worthy men, and who has hired many salesmen and has never fired any for inefficiency.

This valued manager is a masterful student of human nature. He is conversant with those peculiar elements of personality which must be weighed in judging the merits and demerits of prospective salesmen. He analyzes and studies an applicant's appearance, his conversation, his latent possibilities, his references, with the searching precision of a jurist sitting in judgment. He determines by subtle questioning whether a man is in earnest and will "stick" to the game and make a good ambassador for the house, or if he is simply a professional "float" or a near one, drifting discontented from one position to another. He goes on the theory that the time to discover the undesirable and the incompetent is before any money has been paid out for unsatisfactory work. Eliminate the necessity of firing men by having a good system in hiring them. That is the gist of his scheme of selecting subordinates and of keeping them.—Business.

His Body Made Into Candle. A grisly and revolting bequest is that recorded by Dr. Forbes: A certain individual, who, having been crossed in love, concluded to end an unhappy and disappointing life, ordered his body to be boiled down, and all the fat to be extracted therefrom to be used in making a candle, which was to be presented to the object of his affections, together with a letter containing his adieu and expressions of undying love. The time chosen for the delivery of the candle and the letter was at night, in order that the lady might read the touching lines by this veritable "Corpse Candle." The will, the learned Dr. D. Winslow tells us, was literally carried out.

LATE INVENTIONS

To trim the edges of lawns easily, a New Hampshire man has invented a rotary sod-cutter.

A penholder for bookkeepers which will rule one, two or three lines has been patented by a New Jersey man. A patent has been granted an Indianapolis man for an electric apple baker for display purposes in restaurant windows.

A new pocket tool cleans insulation from electric wires as it is drawn along them and will separate without injury two wires which may be twisted together.

Tests made by a French railroad of a device for heating water before it reaches the boiler by exhaust steam showed a fuel economy of more than 12 per cent.

A convex mirror has been designed for motorcyclists, who, by attaching it to one wrist by a rubber band, can lift the hand and see what is coming behind them.

How Surroundings Count. Resolve to put things where they belong at the right time. Don't trust to the future, for you may have less time tomorrow than today.

Don't leave a lot of tail-ends hanging about your office or place of business, for these are signs of weakness, evidences of your lack of executive ability. People measure you very largely by your surroundings. If they see your desk or office or your place of business all in confusion, they take it for granted, that you are a poor business man. You make a bad impression and this impression is your reputation, for men communicate their impressions to others.

"Finish every task you begin before you begin another," says a writer. "Hang away in their proper places, before you sleep, garments you have worn in the evening. Straighten up tables and book stands before you retire at night; and after you retire, before you fall asleep, say to yourself, 'I am Order, System and Neatness.'"

"Ask that power be given you during sleep to grow in these virtues, and never rest until you obtain them."—Orison Swett Marden, in Success Magazine.

Rules for Unlucky

By Studying the Lucky They May Discover the Causes of Their Ill Fortune.

WORK WITH A LIGHT HEART

Time, Energy and Mind Force Must Not Be Wasted in Worry—Sympathy or Aid of Others Should Not Be Sought.

Since there can be no effect without a cause, luck must be the result of something, and it's worth while for the unlucky to study the lucky.

Everybody knows that he or she who has all kinds of success is full of hope, magnetism, and inspiration. Mind and soul are keyed up to a higher capacity for good—good which attracts good.

On the other hand, all kinds of failures will drag him or her into a state of mind that attracts more failure—unless they have the faith and purpose and good plain common sense to fix their eyes beyond immediate conditions.

"To him who hath shall be given," embodies a lot of truth to the unlucky, but it is often misconstrued. It is the person who is painfully conscious of what he has not, and everlastingly worried because he can't get what he feels ought to be his share of this world's goods, who remains in the narrow groove of want and unsatisfied wishes.

You must force yourself out of the pit mentally before you can do it materially. In other words, you must discipline your mind to think right, will right and work right, and then let the rest take care of itself.

Somebody, who, considering her former distress and present well being, must have acquired the secret of luck, says: "If you can work delightfully and hope delightfully each day, and never once think about making both ends meet, they are sure to meet and a little over."

Here are a few good rules for the unlucky:

for which you are best fitted, do it with a light heart for the time being, and something better will surely turn up by and by. You get much further by forcing optimism than by yielding to pessimism.

If you have faith in yourself and your object—a few rocks along the wayside won't bother you much. You will realize that failures may be stepping stones, and not put it down to mere bad luck which you can't control.

Don't worry about tomorrow or next week or next month. It is so much time, energy, and mind force gone to waste.

Try to hold the thought that for every need there is a supply. Never plunge into an orgy to forget a failure—later on you are only ashamed of your weakness and it might add to your grouch.

Don't wheedle for somebody's sympathy or assistance. Your own advice to yourself is better than long-winded counsel from people who only half understand your mind and condition. Never expect a miracle of luck unless you can do miracles of hard work and are a miracle of endurance and resolve.

When luck begins to come your way don't brag about it to others. They may not wish you well.

Even though you have learned to rough it in the lean years, don't become parsimonious when the outlook is better. Give and thou shalt receive.

Bad luck will surely overtake you again if you selfishly hug your material success. Sacrifice a little of your luck to the gods and you'll have more of it—don't be a foolish spendthrift but a benevolent helper if you want luck to hold.

Finally, when luck has come your way in the definite form of many dollars, don't be so rapaciously hungry for more that you go plugging after it with sand in your eyes. Soul blindness is always punished in the end.

Nothing is to be expected from the workman whose tools are forever to be sought. It was once told by a great master that no man ever excelled in painting who was eminently curious about pencils and colors.—Samuel Johnson

RISE OF RAIL CHIEFS

MOST OF THEM FOUGHT THEIR WAY TO TOP.

College and Telegraph Key and Wood Yard and Grading Camp All Shared in Making Railroad Presidents.

If it is true that there is no royal road to learning it is equally true that there is no royal road to the presidency of a railway system. The men now at the head of the railways of the United States began their careers in many ways. Even the old adage that no one can begin at the top has been broken. College and telegraph key and wood yard and grading camp and influence have all shared in the making of railway presidents. Some began poor and others had millions and accomplishments. There appears to be no sure method for the beginner who wishes to become a president.

Only two things have the railway presidents had in common. These were earnestness and brains. They were earnest and they had capacity. Earnestness without brains or brains without earnestness did not succeed. Whether they started in poor with nothing but their empty hands, or went in with the advantages of education and of backing, they worked hard and they accomplished results.

The telegraph key has had something to do with the rise of more railway magnates than any other influence. Milton H. Smith of the Louisville and Nashville, Albert J. Easting of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Marvin Hughitt, and William A. Gardner of the Chicago and Northwestern, and William Cotter of the Pere Marquette began as operators.

W. C. Brown of the New York Central began his railroading by chopping and stacking wood for the old wood-burning locomotives. Gould was born into railroading with a "silver throttle" in his hand. Brown had no education at all. Gould was trained from the start for the railway presidency to succeed his father when the latter should be too old to control. Brown was sixteen years of age when he began his railroading, in a wood-yard of the Chicago, Minneapolis & St. Paul. The rough work brought him in contact with railway life. He saw the advantage of the telegraph. He picked up a knowledge of the instrument. Within a year he was an operator, in two years he was a night dispatcher. In 1890 he was made general manager of the Burlington lines in Missouri. Meanwhile Gould had been learning railroading from the top.

Began His Ascent to the Presidency of the New York Central by Chopping and Stacking Wood for the Old Wood-Burning Locomotives.

and Eben B. Thomas of the Lehigh Valley, both of whom began in the fuel yard, got their start by learning the key. Alexander J. Cassatt, deceased, of the Pennsylvania, F. A. Delano of the Wabash, Julius Kruttschnitt of the Union Pacific, and Theodore P. Shonts owe their start to the college engineering course. Judge Robert S. Lovett of the Union Pacific began as a track employee, but owns his present position to his study of law. Edwin Hawley, the magnate, began as a messenger boy, but advanced

THRILLING RACE WITH DEATH

Record-Breaking Run Made by New York Central to Scene of Wreck.

A railroad race with death that takes rank with the best performances ever made occurred several years ago, when Dr. W. Mayer and two nurses started from New York in a record-breaking run to the scene of a wreck on the New York Central near Lyons, N. Y., in which Mrs. Newman Erb wife of the vice president of the Pere Marquette railroad, had been seriously injured.

Accompanied by Mr. Erb's son-in-law and his wife, the physician and nurses left the metropolis on a special, composed of the fastest engine available, three day coaches and a private car. The special was ordered at 7 o'clock in the morning, when the news of the disaster arrived, and pulled out at 7:50. It was given a clear track and whirled up the Hudson at the rate of a mile a minute.

At Albany Dr. Mayer appealed to the engineer and Conductor William as a speculator. James J. Hill was a steamboatman until he bought a railroad for himself.

Only a few of the railway presidents planned a railway career for themselves. In most cases they entered railroading only accidentally.

The telegraph played so great a part with the magnates of the present generation because of the date of its invention. The new electrical communication, at least made practical by Morse, created a profound interest. When the period of skeptical doubt was passed the telegraph was accepted as marking a broad step in advance. Bright young men everywhere saw its possibilities. They were eager to learn the new business, for it promised a good livelihood in an uncrowded field. At first telegraphy did not necessarily mean railroading. Such well known men as Marvin Hughitt became operators without any thought of the railroad. At a little later period men took to the key because of its intimate connection with train operation. They saw it gave them a chance to get directly into the operating end of railway life.

In several instances well known railroaders made successes in life in other fields before they came to the railway. Shonts was a contractor, Lovett a judge, and Hill a business man and merchant.

Two presidents whose careers represent the absolute opposite are W. C. Brown of the New York Central and George J. Gould of the Missouri Pacific and other Gould properties. Brown began his railroading by chopping and stacking wood for the old wood-burning locomotives. Gould was born into railroading with a "silver throttle" in his hand. Brown had no education at all. Gould was trained from the start for the railway presidency to succeed his father when the latter should be too old to control. Brown was sixteen years of age when he began his railroading, in a wood-yard of the Chicago, Minneapolis & St. Paul. The rough work brought him in contact with railway life. He saw the advantage of the telegraph. He picked up a knowledge of the instrument. Within a year he was an operator, in two years he was a night dispatcher. In 1890 he was made general manager of the Burlington lines in Missouri. Meanwhile Gould had been learning railroading from the top.

Dangerous Mail Cars. A complaint of the railway clerks is the condition of the mail cars. These are rented from the railroads at an annual average for rent and hauling of $4,050 for a car which costs $6,000 to build. Last year's appropriation bill contained a clause designed to enforce proper sanitary conditions in these cars. In October, 1910, "The Harpoon" sent out to the clerks a carefully worked out questionnaire in regard to sanitation. Replies were received from 140 full cars and 500 apartment cars, and the results as presented in congress show that 90 per cent. of these are regarded by the men as unsanitary and unclean. Only 5 per cent. of the total number have flushed toilets, and very few of the toilets are inclosed.

But danger of death is even worse than unsanitary conditions. In the railway mail service figures for 1910 show 24 killed and $17 injured, 98 of the latter seriously injured to clerks traveling in wooden cars as much more frequent than in steel or steel underframe cars, and yet, according to the reports of the second assistant postmaster, more than half of the 1,114 mail cars at present in use are wood. A very frequent practice of the railroads is to wedge a wooden mail car in between steel cars, with the result that even in accidents where little injury is done to the whole train the mail car is smashed by the weight of the cars at each end of it.—The Survey.

The Alarm Clock. The devil was asleep when man was made, but he awoke before woman was completed.—Life.

Lewis for more speed, and from Albany to Syracuse all records were broken, the distance to the latter city from New York being made in four and one-half hours. After a quick change of engines, the train hurried on to Rochester, the eighty-one intervening miles being covered in seventy-four minutes. The run was all the more remarkable in view of the fact that the engineer was compelled to slow down six successive times. The special covered the 372 miles from New York to Rochester in 241 minutes, breaking the record of the Empire State Express by one hour, but death had beaten the flying train by twenty minutes, and Mrs. Erb had succumbed to her injuries. The race was the best piece of record work in the history of the New York Central to that date.

His Misfortune. "You got a raise in pay. Didn't you?" "Yes, but it didn't do me any good." "Why not?" "I talk in my sleep and my wife found out about it."—The Survey

GOOD COVER FOR EXTRACTOR

Failure of Cotton Device Sets Cautions to Thinking and He Contrives New Arrangement.

I will tell you how I made a cover for my foot automatic extractor. I thought the cotton cover was the best thing out, and it worked well so long as there was no honey nor stickiness on the outside of the extractor; but it was not so easy to put on after it had been used a while, so it set me to thinking. I took the three-eighths basswood lumber from the case that the extractor came in, and made a fine cover, writes L. Langworth of Arkansas, Ont., in the Bee Culture. At first I did not have wire screen in it, and every time I opened it, it did not smell nice and fresh. I leave the back half on all the time. Some cleats underneath, inside the can, keep the cover in place.

CEMENT MAIL BOX SUPPORT

Iowa Man Makes Feet Four Inches Square and Six Feet in Length—Mod for Re-enforcement.

An Iowa man constructed a cement support for his mail box. He made the post four inches square and six feet in length, setting it two feet in the ground. A half-inch rod was run full length of the post for re-enforcement. This was threaded for a top at the upper end and allowed to extend about one and one-half inches; an inch board, one and one-half feet long by four inches wide was then bolted down with this and formed the attachment for the box.

Ward Off Roup.

The United States Department of Agriculture recommends in warding off roup a decrease in the proportion of corn and an increase in the proportion of meat foods in the daily ration.

Cement Granary Floor.

A subscriber inquires if a cement floor is suitable for a granary and desires to know whether wheat would spoil from dampness. If the granary is properly located on well drained land, as it should be, and if the floor is raised from contact with the ground, there would be no danger of dampness, but everything would depend upon construction. Probably a board floor would be just as cheap and a good deal safer.

Fire-Glass Concrete Works.

The vast amount of knowledge and experience necessary to do fire-proof work is obscure. Success is dependent upon the care and thoroughness exercised in the selection of materials, mixing of these ingredients, protection of the freshly placed concrete.

PRACTICAL BARB WIRE SPOOL

Can Easily Be Made Out of Pieces of 2x4, Flipped in Two and Then Nailed Together.

A method for making a cheap barb wire spool is given by a writer in the Homestead as follows: Take a piece of 2x4 six feet long, and rip it in two, and nail the two pieces together in the center to make them like the letter X. Then take four pieces about twelve inches long and nail on the ends of

A Barb Wire Spool.

These first two pieces, nailing them on crossways, and drive nails in both ends to hold the wire on. Now lay your barb wire out a short distance from the fence, a few feet in plenty, and fasten one end of the wire on the end of one of these twelve-inch pieces and roll the spool along over the wire, and you can take it up as fast as you can walk, as the spool will be as high as a man's head and he can stand up straight to take up the wire, and it can be unrolled just as easily. To unroll wire from the spools on which it comes, take two pieces of 2x4, four feet long, and bore a hole in one end about the size of the holes in the barb wire spool, then take and nail a wide board, or a few narrow boards, about eighteen or twenty inches long, on these 2x4s and have them just a little wider than the spool and nail a narrow board on the opposite end of the 2x4s from the holes. Then take a stick that will go through the holes, put the spool of wire in between and run the stick through the 2x4s and barb wire spool and take hold of the narrow board on the other end and pull along on the ground where the fence is wanted. You can unroll barb wire with ease and never get out by the wire.

FARM NOTES

Pick all half ripe or green tomatoes before the frost comes.

If you have a garden you will find poultry manure valuable at this season.

The sort of seed corn to select is the kind that produces bushels-per-acre.

Gather your vegetables before heavy frosts and store in suitable places.

Decaying organic matter in the soil adds to its warmth and stimulates plant life.

A mixed cover crop of nitrogenous and non-nitrogenous plants is often used to advantage.

Cabbages can be stored in pits the same as root crops, but they should be covered with at least ten inches of soil.

A low temperature is necessary for storing any vegetable, but it must be a cool, dry air, free from odors and taints.

It is not commonly known, but cement tanks are returnable after using, if not damaged, at a valuation of ten cents each.

The average yield of Irish potatoes in Illinois for 1915 was 22 bushels per acre. Sweet potatoes averaged 17 bushels per acre.

The side-delivery hay rake, the binder, the mow conditioner and the gas-power grain elevator all are helps to more profitable farming.

WAIL OF MODERN BENEDICT

Adaptation That Aims to Set Forth the Trials and Tribulations That Beget Life.

1. My wife is my boss, I shall not deny.

2. She maketh me lie down behind the bed when the swell company comes, and she leadeth me behind her up Main street.

3. She restoreth my pocketbook after she has spent all its contents on hobble skirts and theater tickets, and she leadeth me up the main aisle of church for her new hat's sake.

4. Yes, though I walk more than half the night through dark rooms with a crying baby, I will get no rest, for she is behind me; her broomstick and her hatpin they do everything else but comfort me.

5. She prepareth a cold snack for me, then maketh a headline for an aid society supper. She anointeth my head with the rolling pin occasionally. My arms runneth over with bundles before she is half done her shopping.

6. Surely her dressmaker's and millinery bills shall follow me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the house of my wife forever.—Exchange.

A LIVING IMAGE

Mrs. Fondman—There! Isn't baby the image of his father?
Old Gumme—Sure! Same lack of expression, same red nose, no teeth to speak of—and, by George! premature bald head, too!

A SERIOUS ERROR.

Many a case of kidney disease has proven fatal because the symptoms were not recognized. If you suffer with backache or bladder irregularities, follow the advice of Mrs. H. E. Woods, 619 11th St., Aurora, Neb.

Says Mrs. Woods: "I was in a critical condition. My feet and ankles were so swollen with dropsy, I could not wear my shoes. Fourteen weeks prior to taking Doan's Kidney Pills, I was confined to bed practically helpless. They made me feel like a new woman and soon I was doing my work the same as ever."
"When Your Back Is Lame, Remember the Name—DOAN'S." 50c a box at all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Involuntary.

Photographer—Say! Pardon me! But that's the third time you've covered your face with your handkerchief just as I was ready.

Subject—I know, but I can't help it. I've been indicted a good deal lately, and I got the habit trying to dodge newspaper photographers.—Pack.

Important to Mothers.

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher in Use For Over 30 Years. Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria.

Located.

Clerk—Where shall I file the love letters in this suit?

Lawyer—Under the head of promissory notes.

Thousands of country people know the value of Hamline Wizard Oil, the best family medicine in case of accident or sudden illness. For the safety of your family buy a bottle now.

A Cross-Reference.

Mistress—Have you a reference?
Bridget—Poine. O! said the poker over her till I got it.—Harper's Bazar.

Don't be misled. Ask for Red Cross Red Biscuits. Makes beautiful picnic lunches. At all good grocers.

The one way to help a worthless man along is to administer a swiftness.

More English Humor.

The first night Walter Kelly, known to vaudeville as the "Virginal Judge," walked up the Strand he complained to his English companion that the famous street in London was dark at nine o'clock. "Why," said he, "at this hour Broadway is as bright as day. There is one sign alone, 'The Chariot Race,' in which there are 50,000 electric lights." "But I say, old top," said his English friend, "wouldn't that be rather conspicuous?"

Nearer.

"I see where some folks are going to the ocean to get gold from water." "The ocean? Why so far? Why not go to Wall street?"

Loss of Appetite

Is loss of vitality, vigor or tone, and is often a forerunner of prostrating disease. It is serious and especially so to people that must keep up and doing or get behindhand. The best medicine to take for it is the great constitutional remedy.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Which purifies and enriches the blood and builds up the whole system. Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsapilla.

50¢ PER HUNDRED for collecting names and addresses. Bandy work. Send stamped envelope. Western Advertising Co., Tulsa, Okla.
W. N. U., DENVER, NO. 44-1911.

Weak Heart

Many people suffer from weak hearts. They may experience shortness of breath on exertion, pain over the heart, or dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals or their eyes become blurred; their heart is not sufficiently strong to pump blood to the extremities, and they have cold hands and feet, or poor appetite because of weakened blood supply to the stomach. A heart tonic and alterative should be taken which has no bad after-effect. Such is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which contains no dangerous narcotics nor alcohol.

The ingredients, as attested under oath, are: Thyme root (California Canadian), Bloodroot (Sanguinaria Canadensis), Golden Seal root (Hydrastis Canadensis), Queen's root (Delphinium Elysiacum), Black Cherry bark (Prunus Virginiana), Licorice root (Glycyrrhiza Polycarpa), with triple refined glycerine, prepared in a scientific laboratory in a way that no druggist could imitate.

R. B. Evans, pastor.

—W. L. Hamilton, of the auditors office of the E. P. & S. W. at El Paso, spent Sunday here and accompanied F. W. Jones and Wm. Reilly on a hunting trip.

—Regular communication of Carrizozo Lodge No. 41, A. F. & A. M. will be held in the Masonic Hall Saturday evening, Dec. 2. Election of officers and other business. All masons invited.

—Truman A. Spencer made a record run in the Governor's auto the early part of the week, coming from Capitan to Carrizozo in the brief space of time of 38 minutes, 59 1-2 seconds. This we think breaks all previous records.

—Charley Burrell and George Hages brought a large cinnamon bear to Carrizozo a few days ago. The bear was shot on South Eagle creek near Alto. The Outlook staff was fortunate enough to secure a chunk of Mr. Bears carcass which, from an epicurean standpoint, was up to standard.

—William C. Liller, president of the National Association of Democratic clubs, what ever that means, stopped off between rains here on his way home to Indiana. Mr. Liller, it will be remembered, came to Albuquerque some time before the recent election and has been hanging around there ever since hoping that he would get some soft political job and failing in this he has now returned to his native heath.
