DEFENDS HAREM SKIRT

The New Skirt Known as The Harem Style Ajudged to Be Safe and Sane

'TWILL SAVE 'HUBBY' MONEY

It is high time that someone came to the rescue of the harem skirt. After mature deliberation the Morning Journal has decided to indignantly and in high dudgeon take up the cudgel in behalf of the bifurcated and much maligned garment, whose utility and beauty ought to be at once evident. In comparison to the sheath gown it is a marvel of modesty. No escaping limbs are exposed to the jeers of the populace; the harem skirt is twice as lady like as a pair of bloomers its modesty being in proportion to its length. As far as we have been able to learn, the harem skirt is a modified form of the costume of the circus clown, as regards the nether portion of his attire. It certainly must be more comfortable than the hobble skirt; there is room for that healthy freedom of stride which the hobble curtails In the case of a mouse, the harem has obvious advantages. Regarding contours, it gives the thin woman an equal show with the plump, the ultra svelte with the semi-corpulent On windy days the harem skirt is safe and sane; it combines in itself the advantages of the cycling skirt, the walking skirt, the motor skirt, the jumping skirt, the running skirt, the tennis, golf, base ball, cricket, football and steeplechasing skirt; it makes the ascent of the ancestral apple tree in the orchard easy and graceful; as a yachting costume it would prove a life-saver in time of a capsize; it is a ready-made bathing costume; for the negotiation of a wire fence it has no equal. As we recite the benefits and the opportunities of the harem skirt, we become more indignant at those who have covered it with ridicule and contumely. It should be Grecian in its physical comfort; it reveals nothing that should not be revealed; it is healthful and easy, and lastly, finally and in conclusion, it will bring a blessed respite to the hard-pushed head of the family who supplies the wherewithal for the purchase of raiment for his spouse. Instead of bills for ball gowns, seaside garments, riding habits, street costumes, going away and coming back dresses, father receives a small slip of paper informing him that he is debtor to Fittem & Gouge-em, tailors, to the extent of only $10—one harem skirt. The harem skirt in these grasping days of combination is the one giant merger which spells rescue to the bread and clothes winner. More than this. The harem skirt may be made interchangeable as regards the sexes; with a proper system of reefing strings, and automatic pleats, the harem skirt may in the twinkling of an eye be transformed into a neat pair of business trousers for hubby in case of such dread emergencies as when the regular pants crack in the crease from too many years of pressing, or the rear elevation no longer permits of half-soling; or the neighbor's dog destroys their symmetry; or one leg is torn off in the sprocket wheel of a bicycle; or the laborious motorist drops the lubricating oil on his knee.

Hail to the Harem Skirt, the Universal, Reversible, Interchangeable, Indestructible, Irrevocable Solution of the Eternal Problem

This is only a starter. More slander will be greeted by further broadsides from this paper. When we began this argument we favored the harem skirt chiefly from that sentimental sympathy with the under dog, now we have discovered that we favor it as a Boon to the human race.—Albuquerque Journal.

Mr. Curry under Col Roosevelt had considerable service in the Islands and poeseeses much information gained thru his command of the Constabulary while there.

SCHOOL ELECTION MONDAY

Next Monday, April 3rd, a school election for Carrizozo School district will take place Two school directors are to be elected, one for two years and one for three years. DRILL FOR ARTESIAN WATER

John H. Pursley, A. B. Anderson and E. G. Rafferty, who arrived in Oscuro, the town soon to be on the south, late last week, announce that they have shipped from Chicago two well drilling outfits, one for deep wells and one for shallow wells. The equipment for the deep well outfit will allow drilling to the depth of 1,500 feet. The owners will start a test well for artesian water and drill to the capacity of their machine if necessary, but even should artesian water not be found, these men believe that the supply of water which will undoubtedly be obtained from such a source by pumping will be the ultimate means of reclaiming the rich soil in the Oscuro valley for aricultural purposes. These men have sifted the situation in this immediate vicinity down to the real facts, and their conclusion is that it is "water" that is needed more than anything else and they are going after it.

YOUNG MAN'S COUNTRY

The Southwest Today Offers Greatest Opportunities To Young Generation

TENDERS A GRADUAL WEALTH

The young man of today in the southwest has the greatest opportunities of any generation in the history of the country. In New Mexico alone there are some millions of acres of land that may be secured under the homestead or desert acts.

The young man of today, who fails to secure a home on this land, which can be had at the cheapest price of any land in the world today, is guilty of improvidence for the future. The basis of all wealth is land, and the products thereof. Land has been steadily going up in value all over the world Not only it is likewise the basis of freedom. Could the young man of the southwest take a trip to some of the old countries of the world where the population is congested he would realize the opportunities that are his, today in a land that is rich in nature's blessings.

The miserable serfs and peasants of Europe who are scratching a scant living from acre plots on the big estates of land owners are not free in fact, though supposedly so in government Such conditions can by no stretch of the imagination ever exist under our munificent government, but the next generation will see a wonderful change in the ownership and tillage of our soil.

The young man of today who secures land will leave to his chidren the richest heritage that a free government can grant him

It matters not whether the land thus secured is now decmed worthless as a desert or whether it is under some irrigation project. This is an age of progress, of invention, of new methods and new discoveries Who knows but that the deserts of sand, under the active brain of man, will not, in the next generation, be made to produce the finest crops of the country? Within ten years the people of New Mexico have seen lands that twenty years ago were worthless turned into the garden spots of New Nexico. Look at the Pecos valley when it was a cattle range Look at the greatest fruit section in the southwest that is there today Look at the poor men, made rich over night by a few acres of once worthless land.

But it should not be the hope of securing sudden and unlooked for wealth that should induce the young man of today to secure these lands while they can be had under conditions within the reach of the most humble. It should be the desire for a real home and for the future of his children that should induce the young man to become a land owner.

The logic behind the land argument is sane. The young man of today can make no mistake in becoming the owner of a few acres of the southwest. He who heeds while there is yet time will become the future solid citizen of his country and his children will bless him for the heritage he has left them—freedom, independence, health and a home in the greatest climate under the sun —Albuerquque Herald.

THE COUNTY SEAT CASE

Lincoln Submits $15,000. Indemity Bond in Quo Warranto for Approval

JUDGE WILL ACT TOMORROW

Tomorrow, April 1st, is the last day allowed Lincoln to produce a a bond of $15,000.00 to cover damages resulting out of the delay in the 'county seat case' The bond, we are informed, will be signed and presented to Judge Wright at Alamogordo this evening or tomorrow. It is possible that Carrizozo may protest the bond, but we have not learned on what grounds

HOW THE CASE NOW STANDS

In the hearing at Alamogordo March 11th, before Judge Wright, the case came up on application of the attorneys for Carrizozo, in which an application was made for the dismissal of the proceedings and the dissolution of the Injunction. This application was denied by the court and the case went to a hearing on the evidence The conclusion of the hearing resulted in a decision by Judge Wright in favor of Carrizozo. Next the attorneys for Lincoln appealed from this decision and the appeal was granted by the court and the plaintiffs were allowed until April 1st to file an indemnity bond of $15,000 In the meantime the original bond of $10,000 still continued. Failing to file and have approved by the court a $15,000 bond on or before April 1st will result in the dissolution of the present injunction. An additonal bond of $1,000 was required of Lincoln to cover the costs in the appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. This appeal is from the decision of the Supreme Court of New Mexico and is not the quo warranto case above mentioned.

WHITE OAKS WHIFFS

BY SAN DE

This is the kind of a day up here in the hoeky hills and away to make the ranchman put on his gayest frills, and a smile as broad as the Kingdom of God, while on the other hand, the festive spring poet cavorts like a goat and scribbles and dribbles to beat the band.

Even the loafer is taking on a sort of a hazy, posthybernating look and slips from the sunny to the shadowy side of the adobe wall, and settles down to his annual siege of spring fever and goneness. But to the real live people—those to whom the harbingers of spring bring a message of gladness and renewed effort;—there is a wide-awakeness about such days as these that brings resurrection—and a change of clothing.

The sheep men who have been living here through the winter, roasting their shins and playing "pitch" while ostensibly sending their children to school, have gone to their ranches to count the balance of their kids, while the small farmer is busy planting his Postum and other cereals.

Because my interest are here.

Because the community is good enough for me to buy in.

Because I believe in transacting business with my friends.

Because I want to get what I buy when I pay for it.

Because my home dealer "carries" me when I am run short.

Because every dollar I spend at home stays at home and helps work for the welfare of the city.

Because the man I buy from stands back of the goods

Because I sell what I produce here at home.

DO YOU? —Exchange

THE MAN who goes to Denver from the East physically decadent and gains thirty pounds in six months looks out upon life with a cheerier humor. The crowds that foregather in Golden Gate Park in San Francisco on every Sunday afternoon in the year to listen to brass-toned harmoni s are pleasure loving and goodnatured. Down in the mines and high up in the lumber camps of the West are to be found fine civility and flowing humor. There is moral sunshine, largely the result of outdoor life and personal independence. Rarely does one come upon a cabin on the far Western prairie or in the mountains without finding on the center-table a copy of Shakespeare, Burns, Dickens or Scott. These are people with earnest hopes, seeking new homes free from the trammel of more settled communities. Their mental horizon is often broadened by their physical horizon. They are tolerant and liberal. A community of Free Masons in Idaho insisted on financially supporting a Roman Catholic church to the exclusion of one of another denomination because, as they said, there was room in the town for only one church, and the Catholic priest had been first on the ground. "If your family needs your money, don't spend it here," is the sign in a Nevada Saloon —Colliers.

IN THE REIGN of Charles II. the man became panic-stricken over the danger of "picking a lemon in the garden of love," and passed this law: "That all women of whatever age, rank, profession or degree, whether virgins, maids or widows, that shall, after the passing of this act, impose upon and betray into matrimony any of his majesty's male subjects, by scents, paints, cosmetics, washes, artificial teeth, false hair, Spanish wool, iron stays, hoops, high-heeled shoes or bolstered hips, shall incur the penalty of the laws now in force against witchcraft, sorcery and such like misdemeanors, and that the marriage, upon conviction, shall stand null and void"

Further comment is unnecessary.

HERE IS AN EXPLANATION of the famous Initiative, referendum and recall about which we hear so much these days. Mr. Man goes home and announces that he is going down town after supper to meet a man. That's the initiative. The lady of the house says "Are you!" in that ascending voice which seems to walk over the top of his nerves. That's the referendum. Then Mr. Man sits down and reads his paper. That's the recall.

COUNTY NEWS-NOTES

OSCURO OBSERVINGS

Several families have arrived from Chicago the past week to make their homes at Oscuro. Among those who have come to settle are Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pursley and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Andrews and have shipped their household goods and have taken up residence on claims in the valley. The Andrews family are located on the old Lucier claim and Mr. Pursley has located on land near town also.

Elias G. Raffety, president of the Oscuro Townsite Company, arrived this week and a car of equipment and horses has also arrived and been unloaded. Mr. Raffety is looking forward to much progress in the next year at Oscuro. Mrs Raffety has also returned to Oscuro.

A. B. Anderson, who spent the winter at Chicago, has returned here and will take up his residence on Malgra hill.

Among the visitors to the County seat the past week were Dr. Guide Ranniger, E G. Raffety, Afgy Martin, Dr Blaney and J. H. Pursley.

Mrs. Geo. B. Barber came in from Lincoln Thursday and went out to Estey to visit Capt. and Mrs. D. W. Roberts

J O Nabours was over from Three Rivers Thursday, returning to his home Friday.

The Government surveyors are still at work in the township adjoining Oscuro on the west. From present indications the townsite and many settlers will have their lines moved eight hundred feet east and two hundred and fifty feet south.

Most every settler in this vicinity is plowing or has completed breaking his ground and all expect a good crop here this year. Many strawberries are being planted.

LINCOLN LOCALS

Miss Ione Stevens, daughter of our sheriff, is absent from the city this week, the guest of Miss Cora Cole, at the Cole ranch close to San Patricio.

Several Roswell capitalists, being favorably impressed with the prospects of the valley lands, contemplate the establishment of a bank at Lincoln in the very near future.

Large orders of fruit trees are still coming in for all parts of the vallays. Several thousand trees will be set this spring to supply a still greater amount of fruit in the not distant future.

Lincoln has had a number of local showers this week resulting altogether in over an inch of moisture The light frosts have had no damaging effect upon the fruit crop so far, and as most of the fruit growers are prepared to smudge this year, there is no prospect of a big loss of fruit.

There are now twelve prisoners in the county jail, of whom ten are awaiting the assembling of the Grand Jury to determine their future, the other two serving out a short sentence in default of payment of fines.

Capt. C. E. Willings, the village blacksmith, mysteriously disappeared from the city last week, incidentally leaving a number of accounts unpaid, to the chagrin of his creditors.

OWEN FAVORS STATEHOOD

A Washington dispatch this week sums up the outlook for Statehood at the coming special session of Congress, which convenes April 4th, as follow:

—Indications point to the question of the approval of the New Mexico and Arizona constitutions as one of the principal issues of the coming extra session, if the statements of leaders of the two factions of the Democracy may be taken as any criterion. Bailey, just before he left for Texas, in an interview stated that he would always and on all occasions fight any proposition looking to the adoption of "those populistic doctrines," as he called them, the initiative, referendum and the recall. On the Republican side he will be backed by Heyburn, of Idaho, while others on that side object, although perhaps not as strongly. This is going to make it hard sledding for any proposition which would seek to approve both constitutions at once.

On the other hand, Senator Owen has declared that the fight against the admission of New Mexico until Arizona is also admitted will be carried on in the extra session with the same vigor that he opposed one without the other, in the session just closed. He has the saving grace, however, of being extremely friendly to the admission of New Mexico, were it not for the fact that he is more friendly to the cause of progressive legislation as he calls it, as typified by the Arizona constitution.

OWEN FAVORS NEW MEXICO

If by some manner or means, Arizona could be eliminated from the proposition, Owen would be a staunch friend to the early admission of New Mexico. His protest, in his own words, is not against New Mexico, but primarily to bring the issue of the initiative and referendum before the country In speaking of the matter he said:

"If I can prevent it, New Mexico shall not be admitted to the union until Arizona is admitted. I may not be able to do this, but I shall try with all the force at my command. I do not take this stand because I want to keep New Mexico out of the union—I think that territory should be admitted—but I do it because I think Arizona is equally entitled to admission."

SKIM CREAM WITH SYPHON

Handy Little Implement Devised That Will Do Its Work Expeditiously In Any Receptacle.

A New York man has devised a syphon particularly for the purpose of removing cream from milk, which it will do expeditiously, no matter what kind of receptacle the milk is in. The syphon comprises an enlarged chamber with two straight pipes diverging from it, one of them longer than the other. At the top of this chamber is a rubber bulb. To remove the cream a cup is placed at the side of the pitcher or bottle containing the milk. The syphon is then placed in position with the short leg in the milk bottle and the long leg in the cup. By squeezing the rubber bulb the cream is sucked up and pumped into the cup. It is necessary, of course, to watch the line of cream so that the pumping can be stopped as soon as it is all removed. This method is a big improvement in skimming the milk with a spoon, a proceding which cannot be done if the liquid is in bottles.

WATER TROUGH IS AUTOMATIC

Receptacle Fills Itself as Often as Emptied, but Never Overflows—Valve Does Work.

A watering trough which will fill as often as emptied but will not overflow is shown in the illustration. The trough hangs from a spring arm, which is mounted on the water pipe. When the trough becomes nearly filled with water the weight forces the valve stem down and shuts off the supply. Before the water in the trough is completely exhausted, the spring arm, no longer held down by the weight, lifts sufficiently to raise the valve and start the flow.

Increase in Condensed Milk.

There is now one important factor which has considerable bearing on the milk, butter and cheese markets of the country and one which is of considerable interest and incidentally profit to the dairyman, and that is the condensed milk industry. In 1905 the government figures showed that 712,000,000 pounds of fresh milk were received by the condensing factories in the United States. The industry has grown to such an extent during the last five years that it is believed safe to say that the figures for 1910 will show receipts by the condensories in operation aggregating 1,500,000,000 pounds of fresh milk. The condensory prices average from 20 to 40 cents more per 100 pounds of fresh milk than creamery and cheese factory prices.

Selecting Good Cow.

When a man attempts to select a good cow by some theory that has been fostered and cherished as an idle dream, he is going against the prescribed rules that have been formulated for generations and his success

CARING FOR THE "DRY" COWS

No Profit In Allowing Animals to Run Down In Flesh During Winter—Should Have Grain.

(By W. M. KELLEY.)

I know dairymen who do not feed strippers or dry cows any grain food during the winter until they freshen late in the winter or early spring. This may be a cheap way of roughing them through the winter, but such methods have never returned a profit on the writer's farm.

I know that it seems a loss to feed dry cows, but it is not so much a question as to whether a farmer can afford to feed them grain as it is whether or not he can afford to have them become run down in flesh and be unable to give a good yield of milk after they freshen in the spring.

Two pounds of good wholesome grain food a day to each cow will help wonderfully and in connection with good ensilage and clover hay will maintain her in very good condition.

We have found early cut clover hay one of the best winter feeds for dairy cattle. We have often changed from clover to timothy hay and invariably the yield of milk would fall off.

Well cured clover hay comes nearer to being a balanced food than any other one crop we grow on our farms. If the cow could hold enough clover hay we would not need to feed anything else, but she likes a variety and does decidedly better when fed ensilage with her clover hay. Corn ensilage adds palatability and succulence to the ration and makes it easier to masticate and digest than dry fodder.

The silo is also a great saver of labor and barn room and four tons of corn ensilage can be stored in the space occupied by one ton of hay.

The dairyman who is without a silo to provide succulence during the winter months is certainly up against a hard proposition.

COVERING FOR A MILK BOX

Improvement Over Old Method of Holding Cans In Place by Strip of Board Is Illustrated.

The usual practice of dairymen to keep their milk cool is to put the milk cans under running water in a box. The cans are usually kept beneath the water by slipping strips of board of proper length, over the tops of the cans and under ledges at the side of the box. In using this method one runs the risk of upsetting the cans when putting the strips in position. An improvement over this method is shown in the accompanying sketch which is self-explanatory. The apparatus is made of strips of board, one inch thick. The lower sketch shows how the device is put in to the milk box. B is a hinge and A is a button to lock the tongue C in place when the device is straightened out.

Cows for Market.

Cows for market are as much a product of our dairy business as milk and butter, and many farmers are finding good profits in growing and selling good dairy cows to their brother dairymen who are not in a position to raise their own cows.

Milk at regular periods.

Clean the dairy stable each day.

Good butter is always in demand.

Feed the cows either before or after milking.

The dairy barn should always be neat and clean.

The cow does not require animal foods; the hen does.

Do not allow the milch cow to become dirty from lack of bedding.

Thousands of young pigs are annually lost through lack of exercise.

One should not try his hand at improving his herd by cross-breeding.

It is not so much in the breed of a fowl or animal as in the care in feed.

If you have plenty of silage no danger of the milk flow falling off. If you haven't you will have learned a lesson.

Even with the greatest care it is hard to keep the cow stable ventilated

Colorado.

The American Eagles mine, operated by the Colorado Mines & Investment Company, Cripple Creek, will ship about fifteen cars this month, the ore runing about $40 per ton.

The Portland mill at Cripple Creek is to be enlarged from 450 tons to 700 tons capacity, in order to handle not only the waste rock from the mine, but some of the dump ore.

The JoDandy shaft, Cripple Creek, is to be sunk another 500 feet. The machinery will be overhauled and preparations made for working the main Jo Dandy vein below the present levels.

The annual report of the Wellington Mines Company at Breckenridge shows a gross production for the fiscal year amounting to $178,340. The total expenditure was $120,000, leaving a net profit of $58,000.

The Lady Campbell Mining Company owning a claim on Womack Hill, Cripple Creek, has leased to Jeremy Mackey and asociates the south half of the Abbott claim, in which eighty feet from the surface a big shoot has been encountered from which ore valued at $49 per ton is being shipped.

Roberts and Company, operating the San Juan mine, through the La Crosse tunnel, Gilpin county, are pushing the production from the mine and keeping thirty stamps dropping in the Avon mill, which is connected with the property, which makes is possible to handle a low grade ore at a small margin.

Newt. Pike and his associates of Idaho Springs are still on the top crest of the mining waves and are turning out with wonderful regularities their shipments. Their last consisted of a car load of ore that yielded $1,084.80 while a car of concentrates brought them $561.20. Their lease is in the Old Town.

Semmens and company, operating the Baker lode on Quartz hill in Gilpin county, settled for the following shipments during one week: fifteen tons of smelting ore brought returns of three ounces gold to the ton, and thirty tons of mill ore brought returns of $12 a ton. The smelting streak will average ten inches in width, with two feet of mill ore.

J. H. Frank Smokey, who recently purchased the Converry lease on the Aetna vein, Georgetown, has started a shipment of 400 tons of mill dirt. The product will be sent to the Capital mill for concentration and a high settlement in gold values is expected. The ore is worth in the crude from $18 to $22 to the ton in gold and silver. Work on this block of ground is being prosecuted through raise No. 6 of the east drift, a body of steel galena being exposed for a length of forty feet that brings a mill settlement of $150 to the ton in gold, silver and lead.

H. Holcome and company, leasing at the bottom of the fifty-foot shaft sunk on the Aetna vein from the level of the Capital tunnel, Georgetown, have shot into a body of ore that is four feet wide that shows assay values of 1.12 ounces in gold and 4.20 ounces silver to the ton. The discovery was made in the east drift and indications are that one of the best strikes made during the present year in the Georgetown district will shortly result. These operators control a block of ground 171 feet long and within the next thirty feet of driving the heading of the drift will cut under an old ore shoot that carried values of eighteen ounces in gold and twenty-three ounces in silver to the ton.

The Golden Gate tunnel on Quartz hill in Gilpin county, is now in a distance of ninety-four feet. It is a crosscut tunnel to cut the Golden Gate shaft, from which ore has been extracted as high as $300 a ton.

The Comet lode on Gunnell hill, Gilpin county, operated by A. Most is having the shaft timbered safely for a depth of fifteen feet, and when this work is completed it is the intention to put up a shaft building and install a gasoline hoist.

New Mexico.

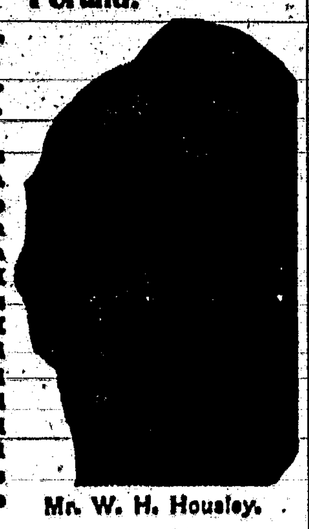
In the Socorro mines, Mogollon, good progress is being made.

The Gold Dust Mines Co., Mogollon, is now employing about twenty-five men; work is concentrated largely in the new shaft and drifting on vein, the second hundred feet of the former being nearly completed.

Three thousand five hundred ounces of gold and silver bullion were melted from last clean up of the Deadwood mines at Mogollon. The week's tonnage treatment was only 250, a broken shaft causing a curtailment in output.

BAD CASE OF GRIP

Caused Sore Throat and Tonsilitis. Restored by Peruna.



Mr. W. H. Housley.

Mr. W. H. Housley, Stony Point, Tennessee, writes:

"Five years ago I took a very severe cold which resulted in la grippe. I never was so bad off. I was in bed several weeks, and when I did get up I had tonsilitis and sore throat.

"I tried to cure this for eighteen months, but it gradually got worse. A doctor advised me to have my tonsils cut out, but I did not like the idea. Another doctor examined me, and told me the same thing. I finally got a bottle of Peruna, and after I had taken one bottle my throat was better. I bought and used a dozen bottles, and saw I was going to get well, and I did."

Private Donahue and Private Leahy were the best of friends, but when Private Donahue became Sergeant Donahue, Private Leahy saw the failings of his former companion with amazing clearness.

Where Surgery Falls Short.

"Surgery," said Simeon Ford at a dinner in New York, "accomplishes wonders nowadays. Hearts are sewed up; the appendix is removed; the large intestine is done away with. But—"

The noted humorist smiled.

A FOOD STORY

Makes a Woman of 70 "One in 10,000."

The widow of one of Ohio's most distinguished newspaper editors and a famous leader in politics in his day, says she is 70 years old and a "stronger woman than you will find in ten thousand," and she credits her fine physical condition to the use of Grape-Nuts:

"Many years ago I had a terrible fall which permanently injured my stomach. For years I lived on a preparation of corn starch and milk, but it grew so repugnant to me that I had to give it up. Then I tried, one after another, a dozen different kinds of cereals, but the process of digestion gave me great pain.

"It was not until I began to use Grape-Nuts food three years ago that I found relief. It has proved, with the dear Lord's blessing, a great boon to me. It brought me health and vigor such as I never expected to again enjoy, and in gratitude I never fail to sound its praises." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

STATE TO BUILD BIG TUNNEL

HOUSE TO PASS BILL DESPITE OPPOSITION OF RAILROADS.

INTERESTS FORSEE LOSS

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WILL BE SAVED ANNUALLY BY THE PEOPLE.

Denver.—Despite the desperate efforts being made by the railroad and the coal interests in combination to defeat the state tunnel construction bill in the House, that body is going to pass it. The critical stage was reached when the opponents of the measure sought to strangle it through amendment. It was insisted by the opponents of the plan that the Moffat road, which is to use the tunnel, but not to the exclusion of other railroads, should put up to the state securities for the construction, in addition to the provision already contained in the measure that the Moffat road shall be responsible for the cost of construction and bond interest. The amendment was voted down and the bill may have clearer sailing.

Not only are the railroads opposing the measure on instructions from New York, but their accessories, the coal interests, are in arms. A new coal field, close to Denver, would be opened through tunnel construction. Millions of dollars in the cost of fuel would be saved annually in this manner so long as a tunnel and a railroad in connection therewith remained free from the railroad-coal combination. The tunnel bill survived a whole day of debate in the House of Representatives. This in itself is a great indication of the inherent merit of the measure. A weak bill would have been stifled long ago by the volumes of talk that have been heard on this measure.

Representative Allison said: "The Moffat road was to have been a link in a new transcontinental system, one that would run straight west from Denver to Salt Lake. As such it has naturally met with opposition from the older and more powerful roads. It is now proposed that Colorado as a state, in order to put itself on the railroad map, in order to have a transcontinental line running east and west through its borders, shall build, or help to build, this tunnel.

"That is the issue before us and we should face it squarely. Let us by all means draw the best possible bill to secure the state against loss. The tunnel will, we are assured, be worth more than $4,000,000 to the state, but I think that by taking a first lien on the tunnel and on the property of the road we can get responsible security that the bonds will be met by the railroad. We cannot get gold bonds or other such security. The main object is the construction of the tunnel. The security is a secondary matter."

Thirty Men Killed.

Lexington, Ky.—That more than thirty men have been killed and many of them are buried beside the railroad tracks is the report received from a prominent citizen of Somerset, the center of the strike district on the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific railway, between here and Chattanooga.

Two Important Bills.

Washington.—Two public land bills will be introduced by Congressman A. W. Rucker upon the convoking of the extra session, April 4th.

The first bill will provide that the government turn over to the Western states the lands that are now under federal control and allow the states themselves to manage the disposal of these lands under the control of state land commissions.

This bill would, if passed, abolish the bureau of forestry and work drastic reforms. However, according to Judge Rucker, Champ Clark, the speaker to be of the House, is for state control of public lands exclusively.

The second bill is one which Rucker has much more hope of forcing into a law. It is practically a substitute for the first measure and, if made a law, will give the state of Colorado an opportunity to show the federal government just what it can do if the thirty-six millions of acres in this state, a third of the whole area of [illegible]

EYES WOULD BURN AND STING

"It is just a year ago that my sister came over here to us. She had been here only a few weeks when her eyes began to be red, and to burn and sting as if she had sand in them. Then we used all of the home remedies. She washed her eyes with salt water, used hot tea to bathe them with, and bandaged them over night with tea leaves, but all to no purpose. She went to the drug store and got some salve, but she grew constantly worse. She was scarcely able to look in the light. At last she decided to go to a doctor, because she could hardly work any more. The doctor said it was a very severe disease, and if she did not follow his orders closely she might lose her eyesight. He made her eyes burn and applied electricity to them, and gave her various ointments. In the two and a half or three months that she went to the doctor, we could see very little improvement.

"Then we had read so much how people had been helped by Cuticura that we thought we would try it, and we cannot be thankful enough that we used it. My sister used the Cuticura Pills for purifying the blood, bathed only with Cuticura Soap, and at night after washing, she anointed her eyes very gently on the outside with the Cuticura Ointment. In one week, the swelling was entirely gone from the eyes, and after a month there was no longer any mucus or watering of the eyes. She could already see better, and in six weeks she was cured." SUB-IRRIGATION

Last June I put in 300 feet of J. L Johnson's cement tile to subirrigate my garden. I grew a variety of garden vegetables with success. The ground was broken to a depth of eight inches before the tile was put in the tile was put in and it was very dry. The water was then turned in and the ground was thoroughly soaked to a depth of thirty inches. The condition of the ground after this was as if the gentlest rain had fallen on it and up to time had not become packed. Purposely, potatoes and tomatoes were planted just over the tile and did as well as at a distance from four to eight feet away. Melons and peas did well as far as from fifteen feet from the tile. A system once installed makes it easy to irrigate and I know of no way in which it can be done that will make a more even distribution of water or that would have a less effect upon hardening the soil. As to the cost, considering five years time, is less than any other method of irrigation that I know of. For example: A well, windmill and the tile sufficient for forty acres would cost about $2,500. It will take the above windmill less than one hundred days, pumping eight hours per day at the rate of sixty gallons per minute to thoroughly wet the ground twenty-five inches deep, considering that three inches of rainfall will do this. This amount of irrigation in addition to the least expected rainfall would make a pretty good wheat crop, and thus irrigating in the spring would be equal to "teaching this country to rain in April" and insure a good summer crop; so say some of the best farmers.

AS TULAROSA SEES IT

REVIEW OF TULAROSA BAND BOYS TRIP TO CARRIZOZO AS IT APPEARED IN THE TULAROSA TRIBUNE

'Scuse me, but we shure went to Carrizozo on the seventeenth of Oirland and got home on the eighteenth, right side up with care. At 9:30 the getting together of the musicians was accomplished, and after a few selections in the business section, we tearfully waved adois to the alfalfa town and we were on our way north.

The train men were the first to express admiration for the uniforms and were rewarded with several selections, which convinced them that there was musical ability in the crowd. At Three Rivers we rendered Dixey and one of the fat grouchy passengers remarked that not a jack rabbit would come to the town for a week.

At Oscura we played the Wearing o' the Green because everything else near the place looked brown. When we had gone on about 15 miles, some nervous chap asked Johnie Barrett where we were and he looked to see. He discovered a man walking out of a town and at once declared that we were nearing Carrizozo. We soon found that out violinist knew whereof he spoke and piled off the train.

After two introductory tunes, we made a rush to the Carrizozo Eating house and soon made it look like a hospital. We convinced Everett Tipton that the napkins were no lettuce, but could not bribe the waitress to smuggle an extra piece of pie for one of the boys. We positively deny that Fred Gutierez was caught with a baked apple in his watch pocket and also that one of the girls put vinegar on her handkerchief under the impression that it was perfume.

The afternoon was spent in geting acquainted with the town and its people, in winning money on the horse race and getting things ready for the evening entertainment. Only this an I nothing more.

The house could not hold the people that came to the play. All those taking part in the program were given hearty applause and the nigger boys made things lively during their stunt. And the dance—oh, shaw, it was St. Patrick's day in the evening and the Tularosa band furnished the music. Capitan, Nogal, etc., were there. And say, everybody had a fine time. The receipts of the program and the dance were $101 50, which left a story of their own. The boys were urged to repeat the entire performance Saturday night, but decided to let good enough alone and get back to the alfalfa which they did Saturday night.

The boys made a hit with Carrizozo and let us gents inform you that Carrizozo's style of entertaining made a decided hit with the Tularosa crowd. The Carrizozo girls claimed that the Tularosa band boys were the handsomest bunch that ever visited Carrizozo and—no, we are not telling what the replies were cos we se fraid to.

If Carrizozo ever wants to be shown a first-class good time, they have but to travel south a short distance. The man that does not boost for Carrizozo for a while will be mighty lonesome in Tularosa. Hurrah for Carrizozo. The hearty thank of the Tularosa band boys are hereby publicly extended to the Outlook for favors shown.

Prescription Known for Results Rather than Large Quantity.

Go to your druggist and get "Two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Concentrated Pine compound. Mix these with half a pint of good whisky. Shake well. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time. Smaller doses to children according to age." Any one can prepare this at home. This is said to be the quickest cough and cold cure known to the medical profession. Be sure to get only the genuine (Globe) Concentrated Pine. Each half ounce bottle comes in a tin screw-top sealed case. If the druggist is out of stock he will quickly get it from his wholesale house. Don't fool with uncertain mixtures. It is risky.

President Taft has followed with interest the discussion of the last few days in the English parliament on the international arbitration treaty proposed by him. He is delighted with the manner in which the proposal has been received in Great Britain. The President is hopeful that the treaty may be adopted by both countries and believes it will be a great step toward the abolition of war. And, with war practically impossible between the two great English speaking nations, there is every reason to hope, according to the President's view that other nations may come into such an agreement and thus make for universal peace. The treaty is a broad one, and proposes that all disputes including even those of national honor and territory shall be settled by arbitration.

WHEN A MAN MARRIES

BY MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

AUTHOR of THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE "THE MAN IN LOWER TEN," ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1909 BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends, Jimmy was rotund and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so, his art is considered a huge joke, except to himself. If he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selina, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. He neglects to tell her of his divorce. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence, he tries to devise some way so that his aunt will not learn that he has no longer a wife. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night, be Mrs. Wilson pro tem. Aunt Selina arrives and the deception works out as planned. Jim's Jap servant is taken ill. Bella, Jimmy's divorced wife, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance? Bella insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Harbison steps out on the porch and discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "Smallpox" printed on it. He tells him the guests cannot leave the house until the quarantine is lifted. The guests suddenly realize their predicament, the women shed tears, the men consider it a good joke. The all important question arises as to who is to prepare the meals and perform the other household duties. Harbison finally solves the matter. After the lifting of the quarantine several letters are found in the mail box undelivered, one is addressed to Henry Llewellyn, Iquique, Chile, which was written by Harbison. He describes minutely of their incarceration, also of his infatuation for Mrs. Wilson. Aunt Selina is taken ill with la grippe. Betty acts as nurse. Harbison finds Kit sulking on the roof. She tells him that Jim has been treating her outrageously. Harbison, fully believing that she is Mrs. Wilson, tells her that she doesn't mean the things she is saying about her husband. Kit starts downstairs, when suddenly she is grasped in the arms of a man who kisses her several times. She believes that Harbison did it and is humiliated. Aunt Selina tells Jimmy that her cameo breastpin and other articles of jewelry have been stolen. She accuses Betty of the theft.

"I saw you kiss her in the dining room, remember that!" Aunt Selina went on, giving the screw another turn.

It was Bella's turn to be excited. She gave me an awful stare, then she fixed her eyes on Jim.

"Besides," Aunt Selina went on, "you told me today that you loved her. Don't deny it, James."

Bella couldn't keep quiet another instant. She came over and stood at the foot of the bed.

"Please don't excite yourself, dear Miss Caruthers," she said, in a voice like ice. "Every one knows that he loves her; he simply overflows with it. It—it is quite a by-word among their friends. They have been sitting together in a corner all evening."

Yes, that was what she said; when I had not spoken to Jimmy the whole time in the den. Bella was catlish, and she was jealous, too. I turned on my heel and went to the door; then I turned to her, with my hand on the knob.

"You have been misinformed," I said coldly. "You can not possibly know, having spent three hours in a corner yourself—with Mr. Harbison." I abhor jealousy in a woman.

At midnight the house was fairly quiet, except for Jim, who kept walking around the halls because he couldn't sleep. I got up at last and ordered him to bed, and he had the audacity to have a grievance with me.

"Look at my situation now!" he said, sitting pensively on a steam radiator. "Aunt Selina is crazy. I only kissed your hand, anyhow, and I don't know why you sat in the den all evening; you might have known that Bella would notice it. Why couldn't you leave me alone to my misery?"

"Very well," I said, much offended. "After this I shall sit with Flannigan in the kitchen. He is the only gentleman in the house."

I left him babbling apologies and went to bed, but I had an uncomfortable feeling that Bella had been a witness to our conversation, for the door into Aunt Selina's room closed softly as I passed.

I knew beforehand that I was not going to sleep. The instant I turned out the light the nightmare events of the evening ranged themselves in a procession, or a series of tableaux, one after the other: Flannigan on the roof, with the bracelet on his palm, looking accusingly at me; Mr. Harbison and the scene on the roof, with my flippancy; and the result of that flippancy—the man on the stairs, the arms that held me, the terrible kisses that had scorched my lips—it was awful! And then the absurd situation across Aunt Selina's bed, and Bella's threat. Oh, it was all so ridiculous—my having thought that the Harbison man was a gentleman, and finding him a cad, and worse. It was enormously funny. I quite got a headache from laughing; indeed I laughed until I found I was crying, and then I knew I was going to have an attack of unmitigated emotion, called hysteria. So I got up and jumped on and off the lights, and bathed my face with cologne, and felt better.

But I did not go to sleep. When the hall clock chimed two, I discovered I was hungry. I had had nothing since luncheon, and even the thirst following the South American goulash was gone. There was probably something to eat in the pantry, and if there was not, I was quite equal to going to the basement.

I ate bread and butter and drank milk, and was fast becoming a rational person again; I had pulled out one of the drawers part way, and with a tray across the corner I had improvised a comfortable seat. And then I noticed that the drawer was full of soiled napkins, and I remembered the bracelet. I hardly know why I decided to go through the drawer again after Flannigan had already done it, but I did. I finished my milk and then, getting down on my knees, I proceeded systematically to empty the drawer. I took out perhaps a dozen napkins and as many doilies without finding anything. Then I took out a large tray cloth, and there was something on it that made me look farther. One corner of it had been scorched, the clear and well-defined imprint of a lighted cigarette or cigar, a blackened streak that trailed off into a brown and yellow. I had a queer, trembly feeling, as if I were on the brink of a discovery—perhaps Anne's pearls, or the cuff buttons with storks painted on china in the center. But the only thing I found, down in the corner of the drawer, was a half-burned cigarette.

CHAPTER XII.

The Roof Garden.

I was quite ill the next morning—from excitement, I suppose. Anyhow, I did not get up, and there wasn't any breakfast. Jim said he roused Flannigan at eight o'clock, to go down and get the fire started, and then went back to bed. But Flannigan did not get up. He appeared, sheepishly, at half-past ten, and by that time Bella was down, in a towering rage, and had burned her hand and got the fire started, and had taken up a tray for Aunt Selina and herself.

As the others straggled down they boiled themselves eggs or ate fruit, and nobody put anything away. Lollie Mercer made me some tea and scorched toast, and brought it, about 11 o'clock.

"I never saw such a house," she declared. "A dozen housemaids couldn't get it in order. Why should every man that smokes have ashes on the floor to be responsible for?"

"That's the smoking of the cigarette I found in the drawer," I said from my couch. "Why did you lean over the parapet, Jim, and who sat on your legs?"

"I didn't; nobody did," he retorted, waving the newspaper. "It's a lie cut out of the whole cloth, that's what it is. I asked your girls to be decent to those reporters; it never pays to offend a newspaper man. Listen to this, Kit."

He read the article rapidly, furiously, pausing every now and then to make an exasperated comment.

THE ROOF GARDEN.

Attempt at Escape Frustrated—Members of the Four Hundred Defy the Law.

"Special Officer McCloud, on duty at the quarantined house of James Wilson, artist and clubman, on Ninety-fifth street, reported this morning replied languidly. "What was Max talking so horribly about a little while ago?" Lollie looked up aggrieved.

"About nothing at all," she declared. "Anne told me to clean the bathtubs with oil, and I did it, that's all. Now Max says he couldn't get it off, and his clothes stick to him, and if he should forget and strike a match in the—in the usual way, he would explode. He can clean his own tub tomorrow," she finished vindictively.

At noon Jim came in to see me, bringing Anne as a concession to Bella. He was in a rage, and he carried the morning paper like a club in his hand.

"What sort of a newspaper lie would you call this?" he demanded irritably. "It makes me crazy; everybody with a mental image of me leaning over the parapet of the roof, waving a board, with the rest of you sitting on my legs to keep me from overbalancing."

"Maybe there's a picture!" Anne said hopefully.

"No picture," he announced. "I wonder why they restrained themselves! I wish Bella would keep off the roof," he added, with fresh access of rage, "or wear a mask or veil. One of those fellows is going to recognize her, and there'll be the deuce to pay."

"When you are all through discussing this thing, perhaps you will tell me what is the matter," I remarked, a daring attempt at escape, made at 3 a. m. It is in this house that some eight or nine members of the smart set were imprisoned during the course of a dinner party, when the Japanese butler developed smallpox. The party shut in the house includes Miss Katherine McNair, the daughter of Theodore McNair of the Inter-Ocean system; Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Brown, the Misses Mercer, Maxwell Reed, the well-known clubman and whip, and a Mr. Thomas Harbison, guest of the Dallas Browns and a South American.

"Officer McCloud's story, told to a Chronicle reporter this morning, is as follows: The occupants of the house had been uneasy all day. From the air of subdued bustle, and from a careful inspection of the roof, made by the entire party during the afternoon, his suspicion had been aroused. Nothing unusual, however, occurred during the early part of the night. From eight o'clock to twelve McCloud was relieved from duty, his place being taken by Michael Shane of the Eighty-sixth street station.

"When McCloud came on duty at midnight, Shane reported that about 11 o'clock the searchlight of a steamer on the river, flashing over the house, had shown a man crouching on the parapet, evidently surveying the roof across, which at this point is only 12 feet distant, with a view of making his escape. On seeing Shane below, however, he had beat a retreat, but not before the officer had seen him distinctly. He was dressed in evening clothes and wore a light tan overcoat.

"Officer McCloud relieved Shane at midnight, and sent for a plain-clothes man from the station house. This man was stationed on the roof of the Bevington residence next door, with strict injunctions to prevent an escape from the quarantined mansion. Nothing suspicious having occurred, the man on the roof left about 3 a. m., reporting to McCloud below that everything was quiet. At that moment, glancing skyward, one of the officers was astounded to see a long narrow board project itself from the coping of the Wilson house, waver uncertainly for a moment, and then advance stealthily toward the parapet across. When it was within a foot or two of a resting place, McCloud called sharply to the invisible refugee above, at the same time firing his revolver in the ground.

"The result was surprising. The board stopped, trembled, swayed a little, and dropped, missing the vigilant officer by a hair's breadth, and crashing to the cement with a terrific force. An inspection of the roof from the Bevington house, later, revealed nothing unusual. It is evident, however, that the quarantine is proving irksome to the inhabitants of the sequestered residence, most of whom are typical society folk, without resources in themselves. Their condition, without valets and maids, is certainly pitiable. It has been rumored that the ladies are doing their own hair, and that the gentlemen have been reduced to putting their own buttons in their shirts. This deplorable situation, however, is unavoidable.

"The vigilance of the board of health has been most commendable in this case. Beginning with a wager over the telephone that they would break quarantine in 24 hours, and ending with the attempt to span a 12-foot gulf with a board, over which to cross to freedom, these shut-in society folk have shown characteristic disregard of the laws of the state. It is quite time to extend to the millionaire the same strictness that keeps the commuter at home for three weeks with the measles; that makes him get the milk bottles and groceries from the gate-post and smell like dog-soap for a month afterward, as a result of disinfection.'"

We sat in dead silence for a minute. Then:

"Perhaps it is true," I said. "Not of you, Jim—but some one may have tried to get out that way. In fact, I think it extremely likely."

"Who? Flannigan? You couldn't drive him out. He's having the time of his life. Do you suspect me?"

"Come away and don't fight," Anne broke in pacifically. "You will have to have luncheon sent in, Jimmy; nobody has ordered anything from the shops, and I feel like old Mother Hubbard."

Submarine Signal Device

The experiments carried on by the United States government with an unusually powerful submarine signal device on the Sandy Hook lightship at the entrance to New York harbor, have proved remarkably successful. Similar signals have been installed at 31 different points along the Atlantic coast, thus affording more complete protection than any other country in the world. Briefly, the signal apparatus consists of a bell placed below the water line which is rung at fixed intervals, according to a regular code. More than one steamships are now equipped with submarine signal receiving apparatus. This mechanism consists of delicate instruments placed on both sides of the ship which pick up the sound or rather vibrations of the submarine bell, and transmit it by telephone to the bridge of the liner. The ship's officer with this telephone at his ear, can steer the ship with absolute safety in the thickest fog, thus eliminating completely one of the oldest dangers of the sea.

Whipping a boy in order to make him go to Sunday school is a good bit like beating the devil around the stump.

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind.—"Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my sides, especially my right one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon."—Mrs. SADIE MULLEN, 2723 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

SUNSHINE AND GOOD HEALTH

Wherever Sun's Rays Penetrates Human Life Is Quickened and Health and Happiness Promoted.

The sunlight, with its mellowing warmth and radiance, is one of the great essentials to good health. Wherever it penetrates, in prudently regulated moderation, it quickens human life, promotes health and happiness, and may be truly regarded as one of the best friends of man and beast. The common practice of providing blinds, shutters, curtains and other means for shrouding the windows and shutting out the sunshine, is undoubtedly a great mistake, and makes for physical weakness and ill health. More window light, more sunshine, and not less, is what we require. Let all your apartments, kitchen, sitting rooms, parlors and bedrooms, too, be flooded with sunlight as much as possible.

"Where is Bill today?"

"Bill is sick in bed."

"What's the matter with him?"

"Well, you know that girl of his thinks he doesn't use tobacco. Yesterday he was hurrying around the corner and he ran right into the girl. He had a chaw in his mouth."

"Yes, yes; go on."

"There were two things to do—hurry by or swallow."

"Well?"

"Bill talked to her for five minutes."

50 Per Cent Better

"I have used less than one bottle of Cardui," writes Mrs. Gertrude Ward, of Rushville, Neb., "and am feeling fifty per cent better than when I began taking it.

"Before taking Cardui, I had suffered with female trouble, for eight years. My greatest trouble was irregularity. I also suffered with severe pains, every month, but now I am greatly improved and will recommend Cardui to all my suffering friends."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

The rare medicinal herbs of Cardui are imported by the manufacturers direct from Europe and are not to be found in any other medicine.

These ingredients are what give Cardui its superiority, as a female medicine and tonic, over any other medicine.

For over 50 years Cardui has been the favorite woman's medicine. The ladies like it, because it is so easy to take, so gentle, so safe, so reliable in its results, and they have faith in its curative tonic powers, because of the thousands of other ladies it has helped. Try it today.

PRIZES FOR GOOD MENUS

The patient housewife who is trying to cater to the needs of her family on a moderate income has to solve daily the same old problem, "What shall I cook for breakfast, for luncheon, for dinner?" The very monotony of the question gets on one's nerves, and there is a lot of real difficulty in planning a wholesome variety for each day. The Chicago Record-Herald has mercifully come to the aid of puzzled housewives by printing in each issue a set of three menus, with recipes, under the title, "Meals for a Day." What is more, it gives four cash prizes every week for the best of these menus, and women all over the country are invited to compete. The terms of award and the names of the latest winners may be found in any Monday issue of the Record-Herald. That is the day, too, when the "Martha's Management" column appears, with its helpful hints and advice to cooks and housekeepers. Marion Harland's Sunday page also gives a group of selected recipes which if cut out each week and kept in a scrap book will make a most valuable collection. Women not familiar with the prize menu feature of the Record-Herald should investigate it at once. Many have found it a handy means of getting fresh ideas and securing cash for those they already have.
