Signed: Charles Lemons, G. M Hughes, M. B. Forman, Frank Chaves.

In considering the many cases brought before the body and those cases coming from Justice Courts of the County, we have found that quite a number are cases wherein the Justice Court has Jurisdiction to finally dispose of the same, of this class of cases several were for carrying deadly weapons and not withstanding the Justice had final Jurisdiction, the cases were sent to the Grand Jury and the expense of a large number of witnesses and of a trial is had and the expense of the Jury fastened on the County.

We recommend that each Justice of the Peace in Lincoln County, be furnished with a copy of this report and that the Judge of the District Court is most respectfully requested to make mention of this matter in accepting the report of the Grand Jury, to the end that as wide publicity as is possible may be given this important matter.

There is no sence or reason in a Justice of the Peace binding defendants over to await the action of the Grand Jury in cases where he has full, complete and final jurisdiction.

Another matter that would aid the Grand Jury is for the Justice of the Peace supply themselves with a full line of printed blanks, such as complaint, warrants etc We recomend that the County Commissioners procure a supply of said blanks and furnish each Justice with a set of same as it would save the County hundreds of dollars in the matter of witness fees

In two cases from the Justice's of Peace Courts, civil cases were docketed as criminal cases and the error not discovered until the witnesses appeared before us If the blanks were printed and headed "Criminal Complaint" the errors could not be made

FOR PUBLIC CONTROL

VAIL FOR REGULATION AS WELL AS PUBLICITY.

SAYS BOTH HERE TO STAY

Frank Recognition of Public Rights by the President of Western Union and Telephone Companies.

Public regulation of public service corporations has come to stay. It ought to have come and it ought to stay. That is the flat and unequivocal assertion of Theodore N. Vail, president of both the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the Western Union Telegraph company. It came in the form of his annual report to the seventy thousand stockholders of the two great corporations. Although Mr. Vail's advocacy of full publicity in connection with the affairs of such concerns was well understood, nobody in financial circles had anticipated so frank an avowal of full public rights in the shaping of their general conduct. It came consequently as a surprise, not only because of its novelty and squareness, but also on account of the unqualified acquiescence of a board of directors comprising such eminent and conservative financiers as Robert Winson of Kidder, Peabody & Co., and Henry L. Higginson of Boston, Henry P. Davison of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Senator W. Murray Crane, George F. Baer, T. Jefferson Coolidge Jr., Norman W. Harris, John I. Waterbury and others.

President Vail's declaration is heralded as the first recognition by those in high corporate authority of the justice of the demand that the public be regarded as virtual partners in all matters that pertain to the common welfare. He goes directly to the point.

"Public control or regulation of public service corporations by permanent commissions," he says, "has come and come to stay. Control, or regulation, to be effective means publicity; it means semi-public discussion and consideration before action; it means everything which is the opposite of and inconsistent with effective competition. Competition—aggressive, effective competition—means strife, industrial warfare; it means contention; it oftentimes means taking advantage of or resorting to any means that the conscience of the contestants or the degree of the enforcement of the laws will permit.

"Aggressive competition means duplication of plant and investment. The ultimate object of such competition is the possession of the field wholly or partially; therefore it means either ultimate combination on such basis and with such prices as will cover past losses, or it means loss of return on investment, and eventual loss of capital. However it results, all costs of aggressive, uncontrolled competition are eventually borne, directly or indirectly, by the public. Competition which is not aggressive, presupposes co-operative action, understandings, agreements, which result in general uniformity or harmony of action, which, in fact, is not competition but is combination, unstable, but for the time effective. When thoroughly understood it will be found that "control" will give more of the benefits and public advantages, which are expected to be obtained through such ownership, and will obtain them without the public burden of either the public office-holder or public debt or operating deficit.

"When through a wise and judicious state control and regulation all the advantages without any of the disadvantages of state ownership are secured, state ownership is doomed."

"If Mr. Vail is right," says Harper's Weekly, in a concise summing-up, "then it seems pretty plain that we are entered upon a new era in both economics and politics. And it is high time we did if evolution is to supplant revolution as an efficient force in the development of civilization."

Unreliable Physiognomy.

I am a profound disbeliever in physiognomy. Features are false witnesses. Stupidity frequently wears a mask of intelligence. I know business men who look like poets and poets who look like business men. Men of genius invariably look like idiots, and if you pick out the man who looks most eminent in a party you are sure to find he is a nobody. I always distrust men who look magnificent. Nature is a stingy creature. She seldom gives a man the double gift of being great and looking great. She took care to lame Byron and deform Pope and disfigure Johnson. But the crowning example of her jealous parsimony is Shakespeare. I have always been disappointed with Shakespeare's face. It does not live up to his poetry. It is dull, heavy and commonplace.—Adventures in London.

EGGS IN EVERY LAND

HOW HEN FRUIT IS SERVED BY VARIOUS PEOPLES.

Variety of Recipes Which Offer Pleasing Change From Common Methods of Cooking Eggs—Fried Egg Popular in America.

Russian Eggs.—On delicate slices of toast spread a layer of caviar and place a fresh poached egg on top; pepper, salt and a few drops of lemon juice are added, and a garnish of parsley; serve at once.

Turkish Eggs.—Boil six kidneys and six chicken livers and hearts with an onion and a spice bag, throwing off the water six times. Make a rich brown sauce, adding a little wine, and add the kidneys; pour off a hot platter and place as many carefully poached eggs over the top as there are guests.

Norwegian Eggs.—Place on a platter large flakes of smoked salmon, scramble six eggs in butter, season and spread over the top of the salmon; serve hot.

Hungarian Eggs.—Arrange hard-boiled eggs and cold boiled potatoes in alternate layers in a pudding dish, with butter, pepper and salt, and pour over the top sour cream enough to just cover the ingredients. Bake a delicate brown.

Spanish Omelet.—Cut three slices of bacon into dice and fry a delicate brown, then add two sliced tomatoes, one onion minced, six sliced mushrooms, pepper and salt. Stir and cook ten minutes. Break six fresh eggs into a bowl, beat lightly with a fork. Put a small lump of butter into the omelet pan, and when hot pour in the eggs and shake gently until set, then turn on the other mixture and fold the omelet and serve quickly.

Irish Eggs.—On delicately broiled slices of bacon poached eggs are placed and covered with a rich cream sauce.

American Eggs.—Needless to say that the best known egg dish of the country is the fried egg served with fried ham, though the best known dishes of other nations find their way to all the menus of the best hotels and restaurants.

DON'T EXERCISE OUR TEETH

Reason Americans Have Such Poor Grinders, According to a Dental Authority.

The reason Americans have such bad teeth is that they don't exercise them enough, according to Dr. Herbert L. Wheeler, president of the American Dental Hygiene council, who is delivering a course of lectures at Columbia university. "We Americans are living in the lap of luxury," said Dr. Wheeler, in his opening lecture, "and our food is so well prepared for us that we don't use our mouths enough. Regular exercise for the teeth is as beneficial as any other kind of gymnastics."

He found from an examination of several hundred savages' teeth that the increased work which their teeth had been made to do had resulted beneficially for their teeth. It was also a fact that the front teeth of savages were more worn than those of civilized people, being that the savage cuts his food with his teeth.

Rhubarb Jelly.

Wash the stalks well, but do not peel them. Cut into pieces about an inch long, put into preserving kettle with about half enough water to cover and boil to a soft pulp. Strain through a jelly bag. To each pint of this juice add a pound of sugar. Boil again, skinning often, and when it jellies on the skimmer remove it from the fire and put into glasses, having previously dipped glasses in cold water so that the jelly will turn out nicely.

Frizzled Beef.

Take one pound of smoked beef and have it chipped very fine. The outside must be carefully removed as the mould would spoil it. Have two tablespoons of butter, browned in an iron spider, then by degrees sprinkle in the beef, stirring it constantly until it is crisp and brown. Add by degrees two tablespoons of flour and stir until it is browned, being careful not to scorch. Add boiling water enough to make a thick gravy. Season with a little pepper. Good with batter or buckwheat cakes.

Onion Sauce.

Boil the onions until tender. Mix with them half a pint of melted butter and a quarter pint of new milk, a little salt and pepper. Stir the sauce over the fire until it boils and serve as hot as possible. Time three-quarters of an hour.

Sauce for Chops.

Mix with vinegar some grated horseradish, tomatoes, Spanish peppers and cook for 15 minutes. Strain through a sieve and serve with boiled mutton chops.

Spring Debility

Felt by so many upon the return of warm weather is due to the impure, impoverished, devitalized condition of the blood which causes that tired feeling and loss of appetite as well as the pimples, boils and other eruptions so common at this season. It is cured by the great constitutional remedy which effects its wonderful cures, not simply because it contains sarsaparilla, but because it combines the utmost remedial values of more than twenty different ingredients. There is no real substitute for Hood's Sarsaparilla. If urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good," you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit.

"JUST FERNINST THE HILL"

Little Pointer for Those Who Feel a Desire to Seek the State of Matrimony.

The state of Matrimony is one of the United States. It is bounded by kissing and hugging on one side and cradles and babies on the other. Its chief products are population, broomsticks and staying out at night. It was discovered by Adam and Eve while trying to find a Northwest passage out of Paradise. The climate is sultry until you pass the tropics of housekeeping, when equally weather commonly sets in with such power as to keep all hands as cool as cucumbers. For the principal roads leading to this interesting state, consult the first pair of blue eyes you see.—Exchange.

ITCHED SO COULD NOT SLEEP

"I suffered from the early part of December until nearly the beginning of March with severe skin eruptions on my face and scalp. At first I treated it as a trivial matter. But after having used castile soap, medicated washrags, cold cream, vanishing cream, etc., I found no relief whatever. After that I diagnosed my case as eczema, because of its dry, scaly appearance. The itching and burning of my scalp became so intense that I thought I should go mad, having not slept regularly for months past, only at intervals, waking up now and then because of the burning and itching of my skin. Having read different testimonials of cures by the Cuticura Remedies, I decided to purchase a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap. After using them for a few days I recognized a marked change in my condition. I bought about two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and five cakes of Cuticura Soap in all, and after a few days I was entirely free from the itching and burning. My eczema was entirely cured, all due to using Cuticura Soap and Ointment daily. Hereafter I will never be without a cake of Cuticura Soap on my washstand. I highly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to anyone suffering from similar skin eruptions and hope you will publish my letter so that others may learn of Cuticura Remedies and be cured." CAMORRA TRIAL EXCITES ALL ITALY

MONASTERY OF CRADI

THE "CAGE" IN WHICH THE ACCUSED SIT WHILE ON TRIAL

VITERBO, ITALY.—Few events in recent years have so stirred Italy as has the trial of members of the Camorra now going on here. Dramatic scenes are of daily occurrence, and only the other day the court was compelled to adjourn because of the wild demonstrations of the 41 defendants in their cage and of their friends in the court room. The trial is expected to last for about a year, and will be one of the most remarkable in history.

PILOTED BY AN EAGLE

Big Bird From Cebu Held by Twenty-Fathom Line.

Captured by American Naturalist After Two Weeks of Arduous Mountain Climbing and Watchfulness—Goes to Zoo.

New York.—Piloted up the bay by an immense American eagle, the steamship Pathan closed a two months' trip from Cebu, in the Philippine islands. The eagle has a double claim to the title American. Its native eyrie in the mountains of Cebu is under the American flag, and the bird itself will make its permanent home hereafter in the Bronx Zoo.

After nearly two weeks of arduous mountain climbing and untiring watchfulness, the bird was trailed to its nest high upon the face of a precipitous cliff by Professor Kingcome, an American naturalist, who had a thrilling adventure making it captive. Accompanied by three Filipinos, he climbed the mountain by a roundabout trail, coming out on the cliff some 40 feet above the eagle's nest, at an elevation of 9,000 feet above the sea. The face of the cliff was sheer and presented no foothold by which the bird hunter could descend.

Making a rope fast under his arms, and taking a turn with it around a tree, he instructed the little brown men how to lower him by slacking away easily. The descent was made all right, and the eagle, found asleep, was easily captured by means of a heavy net. Getting back to the top of the cliff was another proposition. The Filipinos are not noted for big muscles, and the professor, with the added weight of the eagle, proved too much for their strength. For more than an hour they tugged and pulled at the rope, only to give out entirely with the naturalist and his captive dangling in midair some 15 feet below the first foothold on the cliff.

For a time Professor Kingcome thought his aids had deserted him, as they made no reply to his shouted orders. Finally he made them pay attention, and, under his instructions a bight of the line was lowered over the face of the cliff. This he made fast to the eagle, and leaving the bird swinging there, the professor climbed hand over hand to the top of the rock. After that it was a simple matter to haul up his prize.

Throughout the trip the big bird was at liberty daily at the end of a 20-fathom line, and led the ship for hours at a time. The line, made fast to a shackle on the eagle's leg, working in a swivel to prevent jamming, did not seem to worry the captive. When liberated it would dart up into the air to the full length of the line; then, as it felt the restraint, would gradually settle down to about the level of the ship's deck, and with its wings full spread would maintain a position ahead of the ship for hours, keeping the line as taut as the hawser of a tug. When tired of playing, the bird would come aboard and make no resistance to being tied up with a shorter line on deck.

When the Pathan leaves here for Baltimore there will be a vacancy in the berth of one serang. Husein Ben Ali, bo's'n and serang of the Malay crew, was attacked with appendicitis and taken to the Long Island College hospital, where the surgeons operated on him. The bo's'n has been with the ship for three years, and is an important man on board from his authority over the crew. The Malays will choose one of their own number to act as serang until the ship reaches Liverpool, where Husein Ben Ali will rejoin her if all goes well.

This is not the only surgical case entered on the ship's log since leaving Cebu. While at sea, nearing Singapore, Chief Officer Walker was superintending the breaking out of some cargo to get at a spare anchor, when the tackle slipped and one of the big grappling hooks struck him on the cheek, fracturing the jaw. Whether the eagle's presence was responsible for these casualties on board the ship's company does not say.

FARMERETTES TO TILL SOIL

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont Opens First Class in Agriculture for Young Women of New York.

New York.—Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont opened her first class in farming for girls the other day. Twenty young women "farmerettes," she calls them, garbed in blue bloomers, broad-brimmed hats and boys' shoes, are comfortably ensconsed tonight in the farm house at "Brookholt," Mrs. Belmont's 1,000-acre estate on Long Island.

The young women were selected from 600 applicants from New York factories. They will first be instructed thoroughly in household duties upon a farm, and with the arrival of "planting time" in the spring will take up plowing, planting and poultry raising. Not a man will be on the premises, even to chop wood or tend the horses. The girls will receive $4 a week during their two-months' course of instruction, and thereafter may purchase small farms from their benefactress, if they wish to do so, upon agreement to till the soil themselves.

HEN HAS MONKEY'S FACE

New Jersey Fowl, Marked in Its Egghood Days, Is Hatched Out a Real Nature Freak.

New York.—Moritz Adler has a country home and farm near Deal, N. J. He also has a Plymouth Rock chicken. He gave her a place in the back yard of the home, with a dry goods box for a coop.

Though perfectly normal in every other way, Rose—that's her name—has the shrewd face of a monkey. She drinks soup from a spoon held in the hand of her nurse. Having no beak, she does not peck at meat scraps, after the manner of fowl, but picks them up daintily with her strawberry-hued lips.

The facial expression of Rose is piquant. She has a rather set expression at the corner of her mouth, indicating firmness of character. Her nose is well defined. Rising from her rather broad forehead is a pompadour of feathers in the style that young girls affected with their hair a year ago, when Rose was a smooth white egg instead of a remarkable chicken. The general contour of her face is somewhat like that of Susie, the funny little orang-outang from Borneo who delights children at the Bronx zoo. Her snappy black eyes light up wonderfully when she sees cracked corn or oatmeal mush.

"She was born a year ago," said Adler. "I knew her mother well. She was a fine old fussy Plymouth Rock hen, who stuck steadily to the business of scratching gravel and producing eggs. She wasn't quite as progressive as some of the more flashy Brown Leghorn and Indiana game young ladies of the barnyard. She didn't take kindly to new-fangled ideas like women's rights. Nothing made her so mad as to see some other hen strutting around and clucking about wanting a vote.

"An Italian organ grinder passed the farm one day with a funny little South American monkey. He gave old Mrs. Plymouth Rock quite a fright. The old lady disappeared, and three weeks afterward I found her nest under the haymow. Twelve little yellow chicks had just hatched out. The remaining egg was cracked, and something inside was peeping sadly. All the other chicks had pecked their way out with their bills, but this one was trying to get out and couldn't.

"I broke the shell, and then I saw why—it didn't have any beak. And that's the way Rose came into the world. Because she was a freak the head farmer's wife took an interest in her and educated her, till now she is a lady all through. She talks all the time—her mouth is never still—and that's what makes me think she was marked prenatally by the suffragettes of the barnyard. But there's no way to tell."

Takes Wrong Suit Case.

Seattle, Wash.—A comedy of errors which probably will result in profuse apologies on the part of A. Walters of 1413 Charles street occurred in an exchange of suitcases on a Beacon hill street car.

Walters boarded a Beacon hill car on his way home from downtown. He sat beside a woman who also had a suit case. When Walters reached home he opened the case and discovered he had taken the woman's.

"These aren't mine," explained Walters to the desk sergeant at police headquarterr.

"I can't wear these," as he drew forth a handful of lingerie and begged the police to assist him in locating the woman, who now has a case of men's clothing.

PHYSICAL WRECK RESTORED TO HEALTH BY GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY

I feel it my duty to furnish you with my testimonial as to what your remedy, Swamp-Root, did for me when I was a physical wreck from kidney and bladder trouble.

Some years ago I was not able to do any work and could only just creep around and am satisfied that had it not been for Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root I would not have lived. After using the preparation for one month I was able to work some and when I had used $8.00 worth of Swamp-Root I could do a good day's work. I used about $10.00 worth altogether and would not take $10,000 for the good that it did me. I consider it a God-send to suffering humanity for the disease for which you recommend it, and have recommended it to many sufferers.

H. L. HUGGINS,
Welch, Ark.

Personally appeared before me this 20th of September, 1909, H. L. Huggins, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co. Binghamton, N. Y.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You

Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention this paper. For sale at all drug stores. Price fifty cents and one dollar.

The better you behave the better you'll get along. Now, try it.

Garfield Tea will win your approval. It is pleasant to take, mild in action and very health-giving. It overcomes constipation.

His Future.

Knicker—Is he a has been?

Bocker—No, a going to was.

Getting the Worst of It.

"Biggins isn't very lucky in driving bargains."

"No. He says he can't even change his own mind without getting the worst of the deal."

Truly Wonderful Cat.

A wonderful cat is that owned by Mr. A. J. Gorringe, a tradesman of Ditching, England. Mr. Gorringe has a bantam which lays her eggs in different parts of the yard, but his cat never fails to find them. She takes the egg between her teeth, places it on the step, and rattles the door handle with her paws until her mistress arrives to take in the egg. Not one of the eggs has yet been broken.

Will Be World Representation.

REASONED IT OUT

And Found a Change in Food Put Him Right.

A man does not count as wasted the time he spends in thinking over his business, but he seems loth to give the same sort of careful attention to himself and to his health. And yet his business would be worth little without good health to care for it. A business man tells how he did himself good by carefully thinking over his physical condition, investigating to find out what was needed, and then changing to the right food.

"For some years I had been bothered a great deal after meals. My food seemed to lay like lead in my stomach, producing heaviness and dullness and sometimes positive pain. Of course this rendered me more or less unfit for business, and I made up my mind that something would have to be done.

"Reflection led me to the conclusion that over-eating, filling the stomach with indigestible food, was responsible for many of the ills that human flesh endures, and that I was punishing myself in that way—that was what was making me so dull, heavy and uncomfortable, and unfit for business after meals. I concluded to try Grape-Nuts food to see what it could do for me.

"I have been using it for some months now, and am glad to say that I do not suffer any longer after meals; my food seems to assimilate easily and perfectly, and to do the work for which it was intended.

"I have regained my normal weight, and find that business is a pleasure once more—can take more interest in it, and my mind is clearer and more alert."

It Seems So.

The little son of the family happened to be idling his time in the kitchen when the colored porter came up out of the cellar, where he had been shoveling coal into the heater, grasped the white towel hanging on the door and passed into the hall. For an instant the youth gazed awe-struck at the coal dust impressions left on the towel, then yelled after the retreating negro:

"Oh, Sam, your color's coming off!"

A WASHINGTON dispatch sent to this paper this week in summing up the result of the adding of a "handle" to the statehood situation, had to say as follows:

"That the New Mexico position in reference to statehood has been greatly injured by the visit of Messers Ferguson, Jones, Hand and Company, is apparent to disinterested outsiders who have attended the Committee hearings and watched the progress of events since the New Mexico citizens arrived in the Capital The position of New Mexico at the beginning of the session was handicapped only by the incubus of the Arizona rider, but there is threatened through the efforts of the New Mexicans the danger attending amendment It is difficult to foresee where the end will be Anyone familiar with the progress of legislation in the Capital knows that there is no more dangerous course that can be followed than to start in to obtain needless amendments. The letting down of the gates in such a way as has been proposed by the Citizens' Delegation is certain to precipitate many amendments from individual members during the debate that must necessarily follow where an instrument like the Constitution is changed, and if the measure gets through at all at this session, the New Mexico Constitution will be as full of holes as a sieve, and its makers will hardly be able to recognize it when it gets back to the place of its birth.

AT THE BIG conference held to urge universal peace of the world, the great war clouds that hover over parts of this terrestrial globe of ours where all pushed aside, and President Taft, Ambassador Bryce of Great Britain, Ambassador Uchida of Japan, Senator La Fontaine of Belguim, and Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Chief Justice of Canada, were among the principal speakers and each prophesied that all national disputes would in future be settled by arbitration instead of the force of arms. The proposed international treaty between Great Britain and the United States was cited as a magnificent step toward international peace, and the remarks of Baron Uchita who declared that "the talk of ultimate war between Japan and the United States was all a myth", were among the indications that the frame of mind of representatives of the great nations, was all in the directions of peace.

IN SPEAKING of county seat situations the New Mexican has to say of the conditions in Mora County as follows all of which applies to Lincoln County.

"Wagon Mound is early in the field for county seat honors in Mora county even though the state constitution makes a change of county seat more difficult than heretofore. More will have to modernize and reach out for a railroad if it desires to retain its place as county seat many more years The world do move and those who do not move with it are apt to be left by the wayside."

WHEN A MAN MARRIES

BY MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

AUTHOR of THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE
"THE MAN IN LOWER TEN," ETC.

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends. Jimmy was rotund and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so. His art is considered a huge joke, except to himself, if he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selina, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. He neglects to tell her of his divorce. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night, be Mrs. Wilson pro tem. Aunt Selina arrives and the deception works out as planned. Jim's Jap servant is taken ill. Bella, Jimmy's divorced wife, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance? Bella insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Harbison steps out on the porch and discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "Smallpox" printed on it. He tells him the guests cannot leave the house until the quarantine is lifted. After the lifting of the quarantine several letters are found in the mail box undelivered, one is addressed to Henry Llewellyn, Iquique, Chile, which was written by Harbison. He describes minutely of their incarceration, also of his infatuation for Mrs Wilson. Aunt Selina is taken ill with la grippe. Betty acts as nurse. Harbison finds Kit sulking on the roof. She tells him that Jim has been treating her outrageously. Kit starts downstairs, when suddenly she is grasped in the arms of a man who kisses her several times. She believes that Harbison did it and is humiliated. Aunt Selina tells Jimmy that her cameo breastpin and other articles of jewelry have been stolen. She accuses Betty of the theft. Jimmy tells Aunt Selina all about the strange happenings, but she persists in suspecting Betty of the theft of her valuables. Harbison demands an explanation from Kit as to her conduct towards him, she tells him of the incident on the roof, he does not deny nor confirm her accusation. One of the guests devises a way to escape from the house. They set fire to the reception room and attempt to leave the house from the rear. The guards discover the ruse and prevent them from escaping. Max finds Anne's pearl clasp pin in Jimmy's studio in a discarded coat. Jimmy is suspected of the theft, but denies the accusation. Kit finds a watch hanging to a pillar in the basement and with initials T. H. H. engraved upon it. She opens the case and finds a picture of herself that had been clipped from a newspaper.

CHAPTER XVI.

I Face Flannigan.

Dinner had waited that night while everybody went to the coal cellar and stared at the hole in the wall, and watched while Max took a tracing of it and of some footprints in the coal dust on the other side.

I did not go. I went into the library with the guilty watch in a fold of my gown, and found Mr. Harbison there, staring through the February gloom at the blank wall of the next house, and quite unconscious of the reporter with a drawing pad just below him in the area-way. I went over and closed the shutters before his very eyes, but even then he did not move.

"Will you be good enough to turn around?" I demanded at last.

"Oh!" he said, wheeling. "Are you here?"

There wasn't any reply to that, so I took the watch and placed it on the library table between us. The effect was all that I had hoped. He stared at it for an instant, then at me, with his hand outstretched for it, stopped.

"Where did you find it?" he asked. I couldn't understand his expression. He looked embarrassed, but not at all afraid.

"I think you know, Mr. Harbison," I retorted.

"I wish I did. You opened it?"

"Yes."

We stood looking at each other across the table. It was his glance that wavered.

"About the picture—of you," he said at last. "You see, down there in South America, a fellow hasn't much to do evenings, and a—a chum of mine and I—we were awfully down on what we called the plutocrats, the—the leisure classes. And when that picture of yours came in the paper, we had—we had an argument. He said—" He stopped.

"What did he say?"

"Well, he said it was the picture of an empty faced society girl."

"Oh!" I exclaimed.

"I—I maintained there were possibilities in the face." He put both hands on the table, and, bending forward, looked down at me. "Well, I was a fool, I admit. I said your eyes were kind and candid, in spite of that haughty mouth. You see, I said I was a fool."

"I think you are exceedingly rude," I managed finally. "If you want to know where I found your watch, it was down in the coal cellar. And if you admit you are an idiot, I am not. I—I know all about Bella's bracelet—and the board on the roof, and—oh, if you would only leave—Anne's necklace—on the coal, or somewhere—and get away—"

My voice got beyond me then, and I dropped into a chair and covered my face. I could feel him staring at the back of my head.

"Well, I'll be—" something or other, he said finally, and then turned on his heel and went out. By the time I got my eyes dry (yes, I was crying; I always do when I am angry) I heard Jim coming downstairs, and I tucked the watch out of sight. Would any one have foreseen the trouble that watch would make!

Jim was sulky. He dropped into a chair and stretched out his legs, looking gloomily at nothing. Then he got up and ambled into his den, closing the door behind him without having spoken a word. It was more than human nature could stand.

When I went into the den he was stretched on the davenport with his face buried in the cushion. He looked absolutely wilted, and every line of him was drooping.

"Go on out, Kit," he said, in a smothered voice. "Be a good girl and don't follow me around."

"You are shameless!" I gasped. "Follow you! When you are hung around my neck like a—like a—" Millstone was what I wanted to say, but I couldn't think of it.

He turned over and looked up from his cushions like an ill-treated and suffering cherub.

"I'm done for, Kit," he groaned. "Bella went up to the studio after we left, and investigated that corner."

"What did she find? The necklace?" I asked eagerly. He was too wretched to notice this.

"No, that picture of you that I did last winter. She is crazy—she says she is going upstairs and sit in Takahiro's room and take smallpox and die."

"Fiddlesticks!" I said rudely, and somebody hammered on the door and opened it.

"Pardon me for disturbing you," Bella said, in her best, dear-me-I'm-glad-I-knocked manner. "But—Flannigan says the dinner has not come."

"Good Lord!" Jim exclaimed. "I forgot to order the confounded dinner!"

It was eight o'clock by that time, and as it took an hour at least after telephoning the order, everybody looked blank when they heard. The entire family, except Mr. Harbison, who had not appeared again, escorted Jim to the telephone and hung around hungrily, suggesting new dishes every minute. And then—he couldn't raise Central. It was 15 minutes before we gave up, and stood staring at one another despairingly.

"Call out of a window and get one of those infernal reporters to do something useful for once," Max suggested. But he was indignantly hushed. We would have starved first. Jim was peering into the transmitter and knocking the receiver against his hand, like a watch that had stopped. But nothing happened. Flannigan reported a box of breakfast food, two lemons and a pineapple cheese, a combination that didn't seem to lend itself to anything.

We went back to the dining room from sheer force of habit and sat around the table and looked at the lemonade Flannigan had made. Anne would talk about the salad her last cook had concoted, and Max told about a little town in Connecticut where the restaurant keeper smokes a corn-cob pipe while he cooks the most luscious fried clams in America. And Aunt Selina related that in her family they had a recipe for chicken smothered in cream. And then we sipped the weak lemonade and nibbled at the cheese.

"To change this gridiron martyrdom," Dallas said finally, "where's Harbison? Still looking for his watch?"

"Watch!" Everybody said it in a different tone.

"Sure," he responded. "Says his watch was taken last night from the studio. Better get him down to take a squint at the telephone. Likely he can fix it."

Flannigan was beside me with the cheese. And at that moment I felt Mr. Harbison's stolen watch slip out of my girdle, slide greasily across my lap, and clatter to the floor. Flannigan stooped, but luckily it had gone under the table. To have had it picked up, to have had to explain how I got it, to see them try to ignore my picture, pasted in it—oh, it was impossible! I put my foot over it.

"Drop something?" Dallas asked perfunctorily, rising. Flannigan was still half kneeling.

"A fork," I said, as easily as I could, and the conversation went on. But Flannigan knew, and I knew he knew. He watched my every movement like a hawk after that, standing just behind my chair. I dropped my useless napkin, to have it whirled up before it reached the floor. I said to Betty that my shoe buckle was loose, and actually got the watch in my hand, only to let it slip at the critical moment. Then they all got up and went sadly back to the library, and Flannigan and I faced each other.

Flannigan was not a handsome man at any time, though up to then he had at least looked amiable. But now as I stood with my hand on the back of my chair, his face grew suddenly menacing. The silence was absolute: I was the guiltiest wretch alive, and opposite me the law towered and glowered, and held the yellow remnant of a pineapple cheese! And in the silence that wretched watch lay and ticked and ticked and ticked. Then Flannigan creaked over and closed the door into the hall, came back, picked up the watch, and looked at it.

"You're unlucky, I'm thinkin'," he said finally. "You've got the nerve all right, but you ain't cute enough."

"I don't know what you mean," I quavered. "Give me that watch to return to Mr. Harbison."

"Not on your life," he retorted easily. "I give it back myself, like I'm going to give back the necklace, if you act like a sensible little girl."

I could only choke.

"It's foolish, any way you look at it," he persisted. "Here you are, lots of friends, folks that think you're all right. Why, I reckon there isn't one of them that wouldn't lend you money if you needed it so bad."

"Will you be still?" I said furiously. "Mr. Harbison left that watch—with me—an hour ago. Get him, and he will tell you so himself!"

"Of course he would," Flannigan conceded, looking at me with grudging approval. "He wouldn't be what I think he is, if he didn't lie up and down for you." There were voices in the hall. Flannigan came closer. "An hour ago, you say. And he told me it was gone this morning! It's a losing game, miss. I'll give you 14 hours and then—the necklace, if you please, miss."

CHAPTER XVII.

A Clash and a Kiss.

The clash that came that evening had been threatening for some time. Take an immovable body, represented by Mr. Harbison and his square jaw, and an irresistible force, Jimmy and his weight, and there is bound to be trouble.

The real fault was Jim's. He had gone entirely mad again over Bella, and thrown prudence to the winds. He mooned at her across the dinner table, and waylaid her on the stairs or in the back halls, just to hear her voice when she ordered him out of the way. He telephoned for flowers and candy for her quite shamelessly, and he got out a book of photographs that they had taken on their wedding journey, and kept it on the library table. The sole concession he made to our presumptive relationship was to bring me the responsibility for everything that went wrong, and his shirts for buttons.

The first I heard of the trouble was from Dal. He waylaid me in the hall after dinner that night, and his face was serious.

"I'm afraid we can't keep it up very long, Kit," he said. "With Jim trailing Bella all over the house, and the old lady keener every day, it's bound to come out somehow. And that isn't all. Jim and Harbison had a set-to today—about you."

"About me!" I repeated. "Oh, I dare say I have been falling short again. What was Jim doing? Abusing me?"

Dal looked cautiously over his shoulder, but no one was near.

THEY LEARN BY EXPERIENCE

Data Collected by German Naturalist Show That Animals Often Become Wiser Than Their Parents.

A German naturalist has been collecting data to show that animals learn by experience, and thus, in some instances, become wiser than their uninstructed parents.

Game animals of all kinds, it appears, have learned the range of modern rifles. Greyhounds quickly learn to let rabbits alone, and foxhounds pay no attention to either rabbits or hares. Killer whales and gulls follow whaling vessels, just as vultures follow an army. Crows begin to accompany the chamois hunter as soon as they have seen the result of his first successful shot, and rough-legged buzzards follow the sportsmen after winged game.

The number of birds that kill or injure themselves by flying against telegraph wires is much smaller than it used to be. The fact is also brought out that birds and quadrupeds have learned to disregard passing railway trains, as horses quickly cease to be frightened by automobiles. Instances of the intelligent selection exercised by sheep dogs are familiar to all.

NOT OVERESTIMATED.

"Let me tell you, gentlemen," said the earnest vegetarian, who was lecturing before the Butchers' association, "that there is more energy contained in a single banana than there is in five pounds of the best beefsteak."

Instantly a storm of protesting and derisive hisses broke forth from the indignant audience. But above the noise rasp could be heard the stentorian voice of a husky-looking individual shouting: "The man is right! The man is right! But he fails to allow enough energy for the fruit. I know from my own personal experience that a mere fraction of the outside of a banana contains sufficient energy to take the best wrestler in the world off his feet."

Some Peculiar Bells.

In country parts of Italy, where the peasants are poor, baked earth has been utilized to form crotals to hang on the necks of their cattle, and in Scotland and Ireland old bells are still extant that consist of four thin plates of iron hammered and riveted together. One at Antwerp given by Charles V, is made of copper, silver and gold and is valued at $100,000.

Consistent.

"Senator," said the reporter, "may I ask how you made your first thousand?"

"Yes, sir," responded Senator Graphter; "I made it in the same way that I made all my subsequent thousands."

Awed by the arrogance of his manner, the reporter refrained from heading the story of the interview "A Confession!"

Comparing Notes.

The motorist and the aviator met for a confidential chat.

"That's a fine machine you have," said the admiring aviator.

"Yes, it is the greatest farm wagon buster in the country. And how about your aeroplane?"

"Oh! Best chimney buster in the world, old chap."

PUT YOUTH ON HIS GUARD

Evidently Recital of Romances Long Passed Made No Appeal to His Feelings.

"Charles," said a sharp-voiced woman to her husband in a railway carriage "do you know that you and I once had a romance in a railway carriage?"

"Never heard of it," replied Charles in a subdued tone.

"I thought you hadn't; but don't you remember, it was that pair of slippers I presented to you the Christmas before we were married that led to our union? You remember how nicely they fitted, don't you? Well, Charles, one day when we were going to a picnic you had your feet upon a seat, and when you were not looking I took your measure. But for that pair of slippers I don't believe we'd have ever been married."

A young unmarried man sitting by immediately took down his feet from the seat.—Ideas Magazine.

Feeble Guardianship.

"I wonder," said the Sweet Young Thing, "why a man is always so frightened when he proposes?"

"That," said the Chronic Bachelor, "is his guardian angel trying to hold him back."—Stray Stories.

MUNYON'S PAW-PAW PILLS

TRADE MARK

A trial package of Munyon's Paw Paw Pills will be sent free to anyone on request. Address Professor Munyon, 53d & Jefferson Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. If you are in need of medical advice, do not fail to write Professor Munyon. Your communication will be treated in strict confidence, and your case will be diagnosed as carefully as though you had a personal interview.

Munyon's Paw Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods. They do not scour, they do not gripe, they do not weaken, but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. In my opinion constipation is responsible for most ailments. There are 26 feet of human bowels, which is really a sewer pipe. When this pipe becomes clogged the whole system becomes poisoned, causing biliousness, indigestion and impure blood, which often produce rheumatism and kidney ailments. No woman who suffers with constipation or any liver ailment can expect to have a clear complexion or enjoy good health. If I had my way I would prohibit the sale of nine-tenths of the cathartics that are now being sold for the reason that they soon destroy the lining of the stomach, setting up serious forms of indigestion, and so paralyze the bowels that they refuse to act unless forced by strong purgatives.

Munyon's Paw Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weaken; they enrich the blood instead of impoverish it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it.

These pills contain no calomel, no dope; they are soothing, healing and stimulating. They school the bowels to act without physic.

Regular size bottle, containing 45 pills, 25 cents. Munyon's Laboratory, 53d & Jefferson Sts., Philadelphia.

POULTRY

PORTABLE COLONY HENHOUSE

Plans Given for Building Designed to Shelter Suitably From 50 to 150 Young Chicks.

An excellent house designed to care for from 50 to 150 young chicks may be made 6x8 feet, and so built that it may easily be hauled from place to place.

It is 5 feet high in front, and 3½ feet in the rear. The floor is of matched stuff 6 inches wide, nailed upon 2x4 laid edgewise on the 4x4 runners. This allows a space of 8 inches beneath the floor, which, in cases where the house stands in the open, provides shade for the young fowls. The framework is of 2x4, set flat side to the walls, to allow more room for the fowls and attendant.

The roof is of common boards, covered with a good grade of waterproof roofing. In windy locations, it might be well to use matched lumber for the roof; which will lessen the liability of the water-proof roofing being torn off by the wind blowing in the doors or windows or under the eaves.

The little structure may be used as a cockerel house; or it may be provided with a dropping-board 2½ feet wide, on which two roosts may be placed, and under which three nests may be installed; and thus 10 to 15 old fowls may be housed during the winter.

For summer use, wire screens of 1-inch mesh may be inserted in place of windows. For winter use, muslin may be tacked over one of the screens and, with the glass window, the fowl will do very well. The total cost of this little house is $25.27.

Early Pullets.

Early pullets are the ones that lay earliest in the fall. Much, however, depends upon the breed. The Leghorn and its relatives may be hatched later than our American varieties, such as the Plymouth Rock, and those later than the Brahma and Cochin. As soon as the chicks are able to run about they have a scratching pen with lots of litter in which to hunt for feed. They are made to scratch for a living from the very beginning. Those that are vigorous, healthy and well developed start laying during October or November.

Clover for Hens.

With plenty of clover, hens will require little other feed so long as the clover lasts; but as fowls are very fond of this plant, they must be moved from place to place, if their numbers are very large, or the clover will be eaten off too clean.

Prices of Eggs.

Eggs received in New York in 1909 brought on the average 26½ cents per dozen or a total of $35,701,756. Poultry live and dressed brought $36,867,835.

BEDBUGS FOND OF CHICKENS

Insects Sometimes Very Annoying to Birds and Affect Laying Qualities of the Hens.

(By B. J. SPERRY.)

Many poultry houses are infested with bedbugs, and it is not an easy matter to dislodge them. They are sometimes very annoying to the birds and they affect the laying qualities of the hens, although they are not as vicious as the mites or the regular chicken lice.

Remove all the roosts and nests from the house and spray with boiling hot whitewash to which has been added a pint of turpentine to a pailful. Another good remedy is to burn the interior of the house with taroline mixture, which can be bought at any drug store. Another effective remedy is half a pint each of turpentine, ammonia and kerosene to which add about four ounces of gum camphor. If more is needed double the quantity. Apply with a brush.

The nests should be burned out over a blazing fire and roosts should also be held over the fire, and all should be thoroughly whitewashed and painted before putting them back.

Experiments with bedbugs to ascertain how long these unsavory insects can live without food have developed the fact that they live from 21 to 180 days entirely without food. This explains why some farmers have had trouble with these bugs by using, for poultry, buildings long unused.

The illustration shows two baskets of eggs. The one on the right represents 220 eggs laid by a hen free from vermin. The one on the left represents 75 eggs laid by a hen in a poorly kept chicken house.

Receipt for Dry Poultry Mash.

A simple dry mash for poultry may be made up of two parts of bran, two parts of shorts or middlings and one part of beef scraps. The grain can be fed morning and evening in a litter of straw, thus compelling the birds to take plenty of exercise in hunting for their food. Nothing should be fed that is musty or foul in any way.

POULTRY NOTES

Don't dose your chickens.

Don't get too large a setting for the hen.

Keep your hen houses dry and secure from the damp winds.

Be sure your hen actually wants to mother a flock before you set her.

The almost universal practice now is to disinfect eggs before incubating.

Place orders for eggs for hatching early and you'll save time and money.

Too many are in the habit of setting hens in the shed with the other chickens.

Nearly every farm house has outbuildings in which the setting hens can be put.

Some folks believe in leaving the hen entirely to herself after she has begun to set.

Water in which the chicken droppings have been steeped makes a fine liquid manure for the garden.

Set your hen in a nest apart from any place frequented by the other chickens and your hatch will be more successful.

When the old hen gets a notion that she wants to set, it is about as fixed a purpose as man, or rather woman, deals with. And, once comfortably set, she does not want to be bothered.

Discouragements are great handicaps to raising little chicks; many give up in despair when a promising hatch is lost.

The best preventive of cholera is to keep the flock in good condition by good feeding, comfortable housing, exercise, and a fairly stable diet.

Roosts should not be freshly painted with kerosene before the birds go to roost.

Eggs can be disinfected with 95 per cent pure alcohol or with a solution of any of the preparations of tar or creosol. Dip them in and place on a cloth to dry.

No Best Breed of Poultry.

A question often asked is which is the best breed to buy. Professor Dynes of the South Dakota station says on this point: "There is no best breed of fowls and one can suit his own individual taste in the selection of a variety so long as the choice falls upon one of the well known standard breeds. Care should be taken, however, to procure a good strain within the variety. Only birds known to come from a vigorous, heavy laying, early maturing strain should be purchased."

Before Allowing an Operation

Please Read These Two Letters.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before. Then after all that suffering Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored her health.

HERE IS HER OWN STATEMENT.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement—I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. To-day I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise every woman who is afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. Orville Rock, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Mich.

"There never was a worse case."

Rockport, Ind.—"There never was a worse case of woman's ills than mine, and I cannot begin to tell you what I suffered. For over two years I was not able to do anything. I was in bed for a month and the doctor said nothing but an operation would cure me. My father suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so to please him I took it, and I improved wonderfully, so I am able to travel, ride horseback, take long rides and never feel any ill effects from it. I can only ask other suffering women to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation."—Mrs. Margaret Meredith, R. F. D. No. 3, Rockport, Ind.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

FREE SAMPLE CURED OLD PERSON'S BOWEL TROUBLE

One of the most remarkable proofs of the unusual laxative merit contained in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is that it is effective not only in people in the prime of life, but at the extremes of ages. As many letters are received from mothers regarding the cures of children, as from men and women of sixty, seventy and eighty years of age. It must be truly a wonderful laxative.

In the cure of constipation and bowel trouble in old people it has no equal. It corrects the constipation, dispels the headache, biliousness, gas, drowsiness after eating, etc. People advancing in years should see to it that their bowels move freely, and if they do not to take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You can prolong your life by healthy bowel action. Clogged bowels invite disease. Women about to pass the menstrual period cannot do better than use Syrup Pepsin several times a week until the system has settled to its future condition.

Among the strongest supporters of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are Mr. W. C. Zorn of New Decatur, Ala., and Mr. George S. Spaulding of the National Soldiers' Home, Kansas, both elderly men. The regular size bottles can be bought of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar, but a free sample bottle can be had by sending your address to the doctor.

WHITE OAKS WHIFFS

BY SAN DE

Rev. J. H. Heald, superintendent of the Congregational mission work for New Mexico, came up to look after the faithful,-or was it unfaithful,-on Saturday last and preached two excellent sermons while here. It is surmised however, that the gospel according to the Congregational persuasion is entirely too mild and hypnotic for the sinners and backsliders of this town. They need something of the old fashioned ripsroaring, shake-em-over-the-pit Methodist or hard-shelled Baptist hot stuff to have any effect on them. Rev. Heald left Monday for Arizona, where at this season of the year it is more like getting down to the real thing.

D. Del Curto and family left Wednesday for their new home at Portales taking with them a well filled commissariat and the regrets and good wishes of a host of friends. Hereafter they expect to turn their energies to raising the ordorous onion and the succulent alfalfa near that eastern New Mexico town. This will be an experiment with them as the staple crop in that region up to the present time seems to have been "Democrats."

Will Coe and sister Mayme were up from Ruidoso at the Wells home for several days during the past week returning Tuesday. Will came thru force of habit no doubt as Mrs. Will has been staying with her parents for a month past.

Mrs. Chew and niece, Mrs. Hara, returned from a trip to Lincoln and the Bonito and Ruidoso valleys a few days ago and report having had at least one "time of their lives" as people always do these days. They slipped off while "Ed." was over at the Elephant Butte Dam and left him to walk home or not come at all, and he appears to be improving his opportunity, as from last accounts he was still there by a dam site.

Mrs. A. Buckingham, of El Paso who has been here visiting with the Chapmans returned Monday just in time to witness the fireworks pulled off by neighbors across the Rio Grande Rather lucky she, for those who have watched these spectacular performances with out being "touched" report that they have a bull fight or a horse race coppered a way yonder.
