INAUGURATION IS OVER

W. C. McDonald Installed as First Governor With Impressive Ceremony

MANY FROM CARRIZOZO THERE

With the sun shining and the flags fluttering, bands playing and a spirit of festivity in every nook and corner of the ancient capital of Santa Fe, the inauguration not only of the new governor, William C. McDonald but also of the other state officials, and the transition from territorial to state government, took place Monday.

Governor McDonald, Mrs. McDonald and daughter, Miss Frances McDonald, arrived Sunday evening with a large party of friends from Carrizozo on a special Pullman car and were the center of enthusiastic crowds.

At noon governor McDonald on the steps of the capital took the oath of office administered by Chief Justice Clarence J. Roberts of the state supreme court, in the presence of an immense crowd that overflowed the capital grounds.

There was unbounded enthusiasm and his prolonged cheers were resumed again and again. Although McDonald is the first Democrat governor since 1897 his inaugural address had a conservative tone. He promised that economy and efficiency rather than desire for partisan advantage should be the keynote of his administration. He favored a cautious course during the days of readjustment that must necessarily follow a change from the territorial to the state form of government and urged the adoption of a corrupt practices act; equal taxation; laws for the protection of labor; good schools, proper safeguarding of water rights and careful management of penal and reform institutions, but warned his hearers that laws alone cannot bring happiness.

OVATION TO REIRING GOVERNOR

William J. Mills, the last of the territorial governors, was given an ovation as hearty as that accorded his successor, and his farewell address delivered from the steps of the capital, gave an account of his stewardship during the past two years, emphasizing that almost 500 miles of good roads had been constructed; that the surplus in the treasury has reached a sum exceeding $600,000; that the tax rate in two years has been decreased one third, from 14.5 mills to 10 mills, and that the public school system has grown wonderfully in efficiency as well as number of schools, teachers and pupils.

THE STATEHOOD ODE

One of the spectacular features of the inauguration was the singing of the statehood ode, written and set to music by father Julius J. Hartman, of Guadalupe church, and sung by a choir arranged in the form of a living flag.

PARADE FOLLOWS INAUGURATION

The inauguration ceremonies over the national guard companies and veterans of various wars formed a procession which paraded the city, with a blaze of trumpets and the martial tread, that echoed from the snow capped mountains that rise all around the city.

Governor McDonald and family then took possession of the executive mansion which faces the capitol and received informally many friends.

MORTUARY

JAS. G. RIGGLE DEAD

News reached here Tuesday of the death of James G. Riggle, county clerk of this county and an old and well known citizen, at National City, California. Mr. Riggle had suffered for some time from Bright's disease and found it necessary several months ago to leave Lincoln county for California for his health, leaving his office in charge of a deputy. Mr. Riggle's health did not improve as anticipated on the coast and now comes the sad news of his passing away.

Mr. Riggle came to this county in 1886 and settled on a homestead near Corona, leaving his former home at Watzek, Ill. on account of ill health at that time. He returned to the east a few years later and then in turn came back to Lincoln county in 1894, and he has been a resident of the county ever since.

Mrs. Riggle and children who have remained at Lincoln after Mr. Riggle left for California joined him last week. The sympathy of the deceased's family's many friends extended in their sad bereavement.

MRS. D. B. FLEMING PASSES AWAY

Mrs. D. B. Fleming, wife of the foreman of the Willow Springs coal mine died Monday night after a lingering illness. The grim reaper's consumption was the immediate cause of death. The Fleming's came to Carrizozo from Roswell several months ago in the hope that the change would benefit Mrs. Fleming's health but it was too late. Burial was had at Evergreen cemetery Tuesday and the sympathy of the community goes out to the husband and two little children.

COMMISSIONER'S OFFICES VACATED

The federal land offices in New Mexico have been notified that with the admission of New Mexico as a state, the offices of the United States Commissioners and of United States court commissioners have been vacated and that affidavits taken by them since Jan 5th 1912 are void.

It is held by the Register and Receiver that final proofs, homestead and desert lands applications executed before such commissioners, subsequent to January 6, 1912, the date of statehood, will not be valid. Until further notice all land office business should be done before the land office, or before judges and clerks of courts of record.

A later order modified this action so that pending business could be completed.

The land offices are in receipt of a dispatch from the commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington, D. C., dated January 12, instructing that final proofs now being published to be taken before the United States commissioners and United States court commissioners, may be accepted. New hearing however, shall not be set before such officers.

BRILLIANT SPECTACLE

Inaugural Ball a Magnificent Display of Beautiful Gowns and Superb Decorations

300 COUPLES IN GRAND MARCH

Nightfall darkened the day; the capitol and executive mansion, the Old palace of the Governors, and the armory blazed forth in electrical splendor. The great dome of the capitol stood outlined against the somber sky and from the historical old palace of the governors gleamed the names of those governors whose names are forever connected with the history of New Mexico; De Vargas, Porey Onate, Bent, Otermin and Wallace, with that of Mills, the last territorial governor, and McDonald, the first state governor.

The impressive ceremonies and the gaiety of the day gave way to the night. The dance was on, he long anticipated and long prepared for inaugural ball was at hand. The brilliance without was but a promise of the gorge ousness within. Arranges and automobiles lined the way and handsomely gowned women and silk hatted escorts crowded the splendidly decorated entrance way. The entrance room was one of those recently improved by the Archaeological Society and was handsome with great paintings representing prehistoric and historic scenes in Santa Fe and the coming of the Americans over the old Santa Fe trail. Rich velvet hangings, overhung with trailing smilax decorated the reception room; where stood governor McDonald and his party. The decorations were specially magnificent, consisting of smilax and flags with a profusion of cut flowers lending their fragrances to the air. The governor and his entourage stood in front of an embankment of greenery with a great silk flag in front of them. The rich gowns of the ladies were enhanced by the beautiful background. In the party were Governor McDonald and Mrs. McDonald, Governor and Mrs. Mills, Lieutenant Governor De Baca and Miss McDonald, Mrs. De Baca being ill and unable to attend, Secretary of State and Mrs. Lucero, Mayor and Mrs. Arthur Seligman. Passing the receiving line, the crowds wandered through the Puye and Rito de los Frijoles rooms districtive for the magnificent mural paintings of Lotava and the exhibit of rare old treasures. The historic old reception room where the social drama has been so often enacted, attracted the crowd also many of whom lingered to admire the Indian and New Mexican art exhibits of Carlos Viera.

The ball room and the armory was connected by a canopied way, and an artist's skill materially added and transformed the rooms into a veritable fairyland. The yellow and white which predominated in the color scheme of the two buildings developed especially elaborate decorations in the armory. A dome of yellow hid the ceiling, worked out with yards and yards of bunting with pine and balsam boughs forming a border and giving a woody fragrance to the vast room. The walls were draped in white with garlands of ivy and palms standing out vividly against the snowy background. Electric lights were lavishly used in the decorations and 1848, the date of the American occupation of the territory was emblazoned on the wall with 1912, the state year opposite in starry brilliance.

SOME OF THE GOWNS

Among the gowns worn were noticed: Mrs. W. C. McDonald, old gold satin veiled in black marquisette and gold lace train; Mrs. Mills, black silk eyelet lace, over turquoise blue satin; trimmings of white prince's lace with black silk fringe; Mrs. A. J. Rolland, Carrizozo, white crepe chiffon over white satin, with silver panels, violet; Mrs. Francis McDonald, yellow satin with overture of gold lace, trimmed in yellow satin roses; Mrs. John McCourt, ivory white crepe melon; trimmed in pearls, beads, fringe and Bertha Venetian lace. American beauties; Mrs. Dorothy McCourt, Dresden silk; Mrs. A. B. Fall, Three Rivers, white satin, point lace and diamonds court train; Mrs. John Haley, Carrizozo, black chiffon trimmed with fringe; Mrs. A. Calfee, Three Rivers, blue chiffon, spangled net and point lace; Mrs. George L. Ulrich, duchess lace over white satin, diamonds; Miss Georgia Less not, Carrizozo, white chiffon and spangled net; Mrs. T. W. Watson, Lincoln, blue and white satin, draped with white chiffon embroidered in Persian effects, beads and gold lace, diamond ornaments.

ROBERTS CHIEF JUSTICE

The justices of New Mexico state supreme court met Wednesday in capitol in Santa Fe and, in conformity with the provisions of the state constitution, draw lots to determine the length of their term. As the result of the drawing, Clarence J. Roberts will serve for five years; Richard H. Hanna for seven, and Frank J. Parker for nine years. By virtue of the drawing the shortest term Justice Roberts becomes chief justice. The oath of office was administered to the new justices by Associate Justice John R. McFie of the territorial supreme court, this being his last official act as a member of that body which went out of existence with the organization of the state court. Jose D. Sena, who served in a similar capacity in the territorial court, was elected clerk, and John R. McFie, Jr., of Santa Fe, was selected as bailiff. The court will open its first session on January 17.

LEGISLATURE TO MEET

Monday, March 11, is Date Set for New State Body to Come Together

CORP. COMMISSION ORGANIZED

Governor McDonald late Tuesday evening announced that the first New Mexico state legislature will meet on Monday March 11, 1912.

The decision of the governor to postpone the date of the assemblage until within a few days of the sixty-day limit allowed by the constitution, while it has the hearty approval of many of his political friends and followers, is distinct disappointment to many people in Santa Fe and elsewhere. The disappointment is especially keen among the public officers and employes, since many, if not all of these men, will have to work without pay until the legislature meets and passes the necessary acts providing the funds for the payroll.

CORPORATION COMMISSION BUSY

The state corporation commission was formally organized Tuesday at which time Commissioner Van Stone received the oath of office which was administered by Supreme Court Justice Frank W. Parker.

The first order of business was the drawing of lots by the commissioners to determine the length of their terms. The drawing resulted in the three year term for Hugh Williams, the five year term for G. H. Van Stone and the seven year term for M. S. Graves.

Having drawn the shortest term Mr. Williams was at once honored by being elected chairman of the commission. George W. Acuña was elected chief clerk, while Edwin F. Coard was chosen as assistant.

For the present commission will at once take up the work of issuing incorporation papers and handling the insurance business, these lines of activity being provided for specifically in the constitution. The real work of the commission, and that for which it was created, the control and regulation of railroads and other corporations in the state, cannot be undertaken until the legislature provides the necessary funds.

ANCHO ITEMS

One of the best social events of the season was given Jan 15th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson two miles north of Ancho where they entertained friends, fifty in number, in honor of Mrs. Walter McMillan's birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson gave a beautiful dining room china service, several other gifts were presented. Mr. A. C. Christian rendered a selection of music on the violin. Table d'quart and other games that were participated in with much pleasure caused the evening to speed away only too soon. Fine refreshments were served.

The Ancho school is moving nicely, pupils are doing very good work, and under the management and instruction of Mr. Cardwell they will be quite well advanced when the term is closed.

J. F. Thompson is having a well put down on his ranch two miles north of Ancho.

B. F. Williams an employe for several years in the Cement & Tile Co. here, is now making ready to leave for his silver mine in Mexico, where he is much needed to engineer his enterprise there. We regret to see him and his simiable wife leave Ancho. We however, wish them much success and happiness in their spiritual, business and social life.

GATHERED SMILES

EXPECTING TOO MUCH.

After wandering up and down the earth for half a century the wayfarer went to visit the little village where he had passed his boyhood days, and the first thing he did was to hunt up an old friend.
"This is Mill Bivens, is it?" he said.
"Yes."
"Well, I'm Bill Lantz."
"Lantz? I don't seem to—"
"Don't you remember that hazel patch that used to be right in the middle of the village?"
"Yes, I think I do."
"Well, you and I gathered nuts there many a time when we were boys together."
"I recollect the hazel patch very well, but—well, you see a fellow meets so many people that sometimes he—he can't just—"
"I see. Well, good day, Mr. Bivens."
"Good day."

Excuse That Held Water.

"Waiter," roared the diner.
The waiter looked intently out of the window, pretending he hadn't heard. The diner had already complained of his chop and his chips and his napkin, and Alphonse had had about enough of him.
"Waiter!"
Reluctantly Alphonse moved over.
"Just look at the color of this water, waiter," growled the diner. "It's not fit to drink."
Critically the waiter raised the glass to the light and examined it. Then, triumphantly he set it down again.
"No, sir; you're deceiving yourself, sir," he said, kindly. "That water's perfectly all right, sir. It's the glass what's dirty!"

Expectations.

Lodger (to his landlady in the country)—I am bound to confess that after the glowing description you gave me of the neighborhood and the view, I find it rather different from what I expected.
Landlady—Well, you're different from what I expected, too.—Lustige Blaetter.

NO WORRIES.

"It certainly does me good to read de news nowadays, Edwin."
"How's dat? Do you tink it's better'n goin' to school?"
"Yop; it makes me feel so glad I ain't no trust magnate."

In 1880,

They were writing Shakespeare in 1888.
The play was "Richard III."
"A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse!" bellowed the tragedian.
And just then a small boy in the audience near the stage offered a clear-voiced interruption.
"Pa," he shrilly asked, "what's a horse?"

Ready for Work.

"Now," said the warden to the forger, who had just arrived at the prison, "we'll set you to work. What can you do best?"
"Well, if you'll give me a week's practice on your signature, I'll sign your official papers for you."—Tit-Bits.

His Hobbies.

"What are your husband's hobbies?"
"Well, in the summer he goes fishing and in the winter he wishes he could go."

Cause and Effect.

"You've been making speeches all through the corn belt," said the political manager; "do you notice any result?"
"Yes," answered the spellbinder; "my voice has become quite husky."

Wet Weather Christians.

Callie—I suppose the rain affects your church attendance quite considerably?
Clergyman—Oh, yes, indeed. When it's too wet for golf or motoring there is hardly an empty seat.

UNCONVENTIONALITIES.

"I'll do the best I can to make a musician of your boy, madam, but he'd succeed better as a window washer."
"I like the candy you bring me, Mr. Squalop, but your company bores me beyond measure."
"Maria, there's going to be trouble if you don't take your cold feet away from the small of my back!"
"You know well enough, Uncle Jonathan, that we wouldn't entertain an disagreeable a man as you are if you weren't rich and childless."
"Rinkie, you and I would get along all right if you'd move to some neighborhood where I never could see you."
"Bobby, when you go home will you please tell your mamma that I think she ought to wash your face at least once or twice a week!"

TOO SHOCKING.

Willie—Tell me about the time you was et by a shark.
Old Salt—No, no, my boy; the recollection is too horrible.

Nothing but Camphor.
There are no birds in last year's nests. The poets swear.
I know that coals in last year's vests are quite as rare.

You See It, of Course.

"I think," remarked Biggs, "one of the funniest signs I ever saw was this: 'Teeth Extracted While You Wait.'"
Jiggs laughed long and loudly at this, and shortly afterward he tried it on Jiggs.

"A friend of mine," he said, "told me of a funny sign he had seen: 'Teeth Extracted While You Wait.'" Jiggs reflected.
"What is there funny about that?" he asked; "I don't quite catch the point."

"Can't you see? The man who put up that sign used five words, when one would have been enough. The word 'dentist' covers the whole ground. Every dentist is supposed to pull teeth, isn't he?"
"O, yes; I see. Ha! Ha! Ha!"

Use Vaccine.

"I say, mamma," said little Tommy, "is it true that when you first met papa you had fallen into the water and he jumped in and saved you?"
"Quite true, my dear," replied mamma, with a smile.

"Then, I wonder, if that's why papa won't allow me to learn how to swim?"—Red Hen.

Waste Place Not Wasted.

Sitting on the sofa, his right arm stole about her form. "This," he said, "is what I call making glad waste places."
"Oh, no," she replied, "a waste place is one that has never been cultivated."

What's the Use?

"George," she asked, "if we were both young and single again would you want me to be your wife?"
"Now, my dear, be absent-mindedly replied; "what's the use trying to start a quarrel just as we have settled down to enjoy a quiet evening?"

Either Way.

She—There are no end of buttons on that man's coat. He ought to be married.
He—Or divorced.—Fleegende Blaetter.

Quite Gentle, in Fact.

Mr. Coratassei—We ain't as ye might say, uncultured. We board the deelectric school teacher every winter, an' Jhama puts his hands before his mouth when he goes for to yawn, same's the does—an' things.—Woman's Home Companion.

His Excitement.

She—And don't you go in for sport of any kind?
He—Oh, yaks, don't yer know. I'm—haw—passionately fond of sport. —Everybody's Weekly.

GOT THE LETTERS MIXED

Clergyman's Mistake Resulted in Giving Decided Surprise to Dignified Archbishop.

One of the most amusing stories which the Hon. Lionel A. Tollemache tells in "Nuts and Chestnuts," is that entitled, "The Wrong Envelope." Mr. M—, a missionary, shortly before leaving England, received two letters—one from Archbishop Tait asking him to dine, and the other from the secretary of a religious society, a very old friend, asking him to preach. He accepted the archbishop's invitation, and at the same time wrote to the secretary, but put the letters into the wrong envelopes.
After the dinner at Lambeth the archbishop said to him: "Mr. M—, do you always answer your dinner invitations in the same way?"
"I do not understand, your Grace."
The letter, which was then shown to the missionary, ran thus: "You old rascal! Why did you not ask me before? You know perfectly well that I shall be on the high seas on the date you name."—London Tit-Bits.

Resigned.

The sick man had called his lawyer. "I wish to explain again to you," said he weakly, "about willing my property."
The attorney held up his hand reassuringly. "There, there," said he, "leave that all to me."
The sick man sighed resignedly. "I suppose I might as well," said he, turning upon his pillow. "You'll get it, anyway."

IT IS CRIMINAL TO NEGLECT THE SKIN AND HAIR

Think of the suffering entailed by neglected skin troubles—mental because of disfigurement, physical because of pain. Think of the pleasure of a clear skin, soft, white hands, and good hair. These blessings, so essential to happiness and even success in life, are often only a matter of a little thoughtful care in the selection of effective remedial agents. Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little, that it is almost criminal not to use them. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a postal to "Cuticura," Dept. 21 L, Boston, will secure a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on skin and scalp treatment.

Particular Woman.

"She insisted on having a woman lawyer secure her divorce."
"Why was she so particular?"
"She did not want to go contrary to that portion of the marriage ceremony that reads, 'Let no man put asunder.'—Judge.

Just to Make Sure.

"How shall I express my sentiments towards you?" said the young man, tenderly.
"On paper, please," said the girl. "Then there can be no chance of your wriggling out of it."

Important to Mothers.

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher. Is Use For Over 30 Years. Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria.

The Difference.

"John M. Harlan," said a Chicago lawyer, "in a eulogy of the late Supreme Court Justice, 'had a way of pointing an observation with a story. Once he wanted to rebuke a man for exaggeration, so he said he was as bad as a Pittsburg millionaire who was being interviewed by a New York reporter."

"Where, sir, were you born?" the reporter, as he sharpened his pencil, asked.

"I was born in Pittsburg," said the millionaire.

"And where did you first—er—see the light of day?"

"When I was nine," the millionaire replied. "My people then moved to Philadelphia."

W. A. RADFORD

EDITOR

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building for the reader of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 178 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

A great many people have the idea—and it is a very praiseworthy one—that when it comes to building a home they own something to the community in which they live. It is not always necessary, either, to spend a great amount of money in building a residence that will have a distinctive appearance and one that is dignified and impressive.

A gambrel roof house is always striking in appearance when properly constructed and designed. There is no style more attractive. At the same time, a gambrel roof is economical to on lath, a very light colored cement being used, and the plaster left its natural color. The gambrel roof, extending down to the tops of the first story windows, is shingled and stained brown with creosote. One beauty of a gambrel roof house is that it brings the eaves down closer to the ground than any other style. In this way, a cozy, homelike effect is produced. The house has the appearance of being very roomy and hospitable.

The floor plans show the interior of this house to be fully as large, roomy and hospitable as the exterior would indicate. It is just the house for a large family, for the old home place, or for the haven of many guests. Entering the wide, central hall, we find the entire left of the house given up to living room and library, with sliding doors between them. On the right of the hall, in front, is a large square dining room, and back of it a kitchen with pantry. The reception hall is very large and roomy, 13x24 feet in size. The stairway is open, going up to the second floor, with two landings.

On the second floor we find four large bedrooms, besides a large sewing room, or upstairs den. There are also six clothes closets and bathroom on this floor. A back stairway connects the kitchen with the second floor.

The most fitting style of interior finish for this house is strict colonial. This may be carried out in birch, with white enamel and mahogany finish. Especially for the second floor this mahogany and white is to be recom-build, containing a surprising volume of space for the amount of side walls. The accompanying design is an illustration of what can be done with a large-sized, gambrel-roof house. This house would attract favorable notices in any community and would be considered a desirable addition on any street. It is a building 45 feet 9 inches by 31 feet 6 inches, faced the broad way to the street, and having a gambrel dormer in the center over the entrance. This entrance porch adds distinction to the design, with its six large Ionic columns, grouped at each of the two front corners to support the roof. These columns are to be built up with wood framing, covered with expanded metal lath and dressed with white cement, marble dust plaster coating. The columns then resemble very closely smooth, pure white, monolithic marble columns.

Second Floor Plan.

mended. For the first floor, a darker more hardy finish might be preferred by some, in which case plain white oak with mistle or cathedral oak finish would be very effective. The cost of this house, using the best materials and very thorough construction, is estimated at $5,500.

Her Idea of Americans.
A little highland Scotch girl had looked forward eagerly to the coming of an American cousin. She had never seen an American, but she had her own ideas about them. Her mother had to remonstrate with her for looking so hard at their guest after the American girl had arrived.
"It is very rude," she said. "Why do you look at her like that?"
"But, mother, her hair is lighter than mine."
"Yes."
"And her skin is white."
"Yes, but what of it?"
"I always thought that Americans were black."

Submarine Warfare.
It has been known for some time that the British admiralty is considering plans for a "semi-submersible" battleship—urged to this course by the fact of the superiority of guns over armor, but designed by Mr. Murray of the British navy which will be a submarine in appearance, but will be able to surface at will.
"How does this noted healer who cures his patients by touching them, differ from a regular physician?"
"Why, he touches them before he cures them."

TO CONSERVE WATER

Practice Dry Farming When There Is Plenty Rain.

Application of Humid Methods in Semi-Arid Conditions Means Repeated Crop Failures Lessening Profits to Farmers.

The question is sometimes raised: "Shall we practice dry farming when there is plenty of rain?" Most assuredly, writes J. H. Worst of the North Dakota Agricultural college in the Wallace's Farmer. The time to conserve moisture is when there is moisture to conserve. A farmer remarked to me the other day: "I have got the moisture on my farm down to a depth of more than three feet already." That farmer's idea is exactly right. He is conserving moisture now for next year's crop, while his neighbors are allowing the moisture that has recently fallen in abundance to go its usual way, according to the laws of chance. Next spring his neighbors will plant their wheat and other small grain and depend upon the clouds to furnish moisture as the grain may need it. This farmer will get just as much rain from the clouds as they, and will, in addition, have a large quantity of water stored up in the subsoil to nourish the crop should a dry spell occur during the growing season. And that dry spell is very apt to come. I will venture that this particular farmer will have a big crop next year, whether his neighbors do or not. If they get a big crop, he will get a bigger crop.

It has been fully demonstrated that a considerable portion of the rainfall of any one year can be conserved and carried over in the soil for the benefit of the next year's crop. Where the average rainfall is eighteen inches, it should be an easy matter to carry four or five inches of autumn rain water over the winter for next season's crop. Four inches of water represents approximately 450 tons of moisture per acre—a sufficient quantity to nourish the growing crop during weeks of protracted drought.

As long as we apply humid methods to semi-arid conditions, we may expect repeated crop failures, or partial failures that will materially lessen the profits which farmers should realize from their business.

It requires approximately seven dollars per acre to grow a crop. This includes interest on investment, cost of seed, wear and tear of farm machinery, labor, etc. By adding one additional dollar's worth of labor to each acre, there is little question but that the average profits would be doubled. In other words, as much profit should be realized from the one additional dollar's worth of labor as is now realized from the seven dollar's worth of unavoidable labor and investment. Consequently, if farmers would devote one-third of their land to the growing of corn and alfalfa, neither of which interferes with the time and labor employed in farming wheat, and put one-third more labor, thus made available, on only two-thirds as many acres of wheat, they would grow more wheat than where they spread their energies over the one-third larger area. The corn and alfalfa fed to live stock would insure them a large additional income, and one that is not often adversely influenced by climatic conditions, while the fertility deposited upon the farm resulting from feeding the corn and alfalfa to live stock would vastly improve the productivity of the soil. Corn and alfalfa usually can be attended to when the wheat needs no care, thus distributing the labor more equitably throughout the season.

Another thing, shock-threshing is generally bad business, for the reason that it cannot thresh at once when the grain is ready for the machine; consequently, all who cannot thresh early stand a good chance of having their grain injured in the shock and also are hindered from plowing until their grain is threshed. Fully half the farmers are thus hindered from plowing early, many of them being compelled to postpone plowing operations until the following spring. Better to stack the grain as soon as it and start the plow.

Plow deep, and follow the plow with a drag. The drag will conserve more moisture than will get into the soil from melting snows. Besides, water thus conserved is where it is needed, instead of on the surface, where it will speedily evaporate.

NEWLY BROKEN LAND CROPS

Common Practice of Sowing Flax Relieves Struggling Farmer, but Is Not Always Best.

The very common practice of sowing flax or some other crop on newly broken land has apparently grown in favor during recent years, owing no doubt to the great increase in the growing of that crop. The practice oftentimes relieves the struggling farmer who is beginning work on the homestead, but it is not the best thing that can be done for the future production of the land. This at least is true, where the normal precipitation is low, as low say as 10 to 12 inches.

When a crop of flax or wheat or other grain crop is taken from land the season that it has been broken, no opportunity is given for moisture to go down into the dry subsoil to moisten it. The crop may absorb it all in a dry year and then not have enough to perfect its growth. In such instances the grower usually is anxious to follow with another crop the next year, and to obtain it he may simply disc the land. The second crop, if indeed one can be taken from the land that year, in turn takes all the moisture of that season, none is left for the soil, much less for the subsoil; hence the subsequent cropping for a time is much liable to be attended with disaster. If the first plowing has been shallow, the condition will be further aggravated.

The necessities of the newcomer in very many instances compel him to adopt some such course in order that he may get means that will enable him to carry on his work. But many adopt this method because they are anxious to get a quick return for their outlay without being compelled to farm thus. There is no question that it is not the best method to adopt. It would be better in the end to allow the land to lie idle during all the first summer, thus giving time for moisture to go down into the subsoil. With some reserve of moisture in the soil, better crops may be grown, at least in the future that immediately follows.

The benefit from having a store of moisture in the subsoil in a dry season cannot be overestimated. A small amount of such moisture may save a crop. The rainfall during the growing period may be only enough to carry the crop on to the earing stage. One more inch of rain would make the crop and it does not come. If in the absence of that inch of rain there was reserve moisture in the soil, the crop would be carried to completion.

Success With Poultry.
The poultryman who makes a success of the business is usually the one who selects one breed and sticks to it year in and year out, striving each year to bring them a little nearer perfection.

It has come to be generally recognized that success lies not so much with any one breed as with the manner of handling the breed chosen. On the other hand, the breed chosen should be the one best suited to your particular needs.

Raking Up the Litter.
If you have no cover crop in your orchard run a light harrow through occasionally to rake up the litter and expose the hiding places of countless pests. Frost will do the rest and the spray pump will have an easier time in the spring.

Orchard and Garden Notes

Never cut a limb from a fruit tree unless you know just why you do it.

If the rabbits have only gnawed the outer bark, wrap the wound with cloth.

Diversified gardening is the safest course for growers supplying local markets.

It is a bad mistake to neglect an orchard when it is not producing a crop of fruit.

Toads rank next to birds in value as destroyers of harmful insects about the garden.

Seed potatoes, like table stock, should be stored as cold as possible without frost.

A bruised potato is a short-lived potato. Handle them carefully, as if they had feeling.

If air-lacked limes be in earth in which plants are potted it will keep worms away.

An experienced pruner notes the direction of growing branches and prunes accordingly.

Put the potatoes designed for seed purposes in barrels or bins where they can be kept from the light.

It is best to manure and plow the garden as soon as the growing season is over and the crops harvested.

Don't forget that rotation in the flower beds and borders is as necessary as in the fields and gardens.

Cabbage and cauliflower will grow better if frequently cultivated. Tie the leaves about the cauliflower heads to keep them white.

Prune out old canes and raspberries and blackberries, and burn them. Thin the hills to three or four shoots. Cultivate, and add some manure to the soil.

Late fall and winter plants should not be allowed to hang on the trees too long, for some of them become hard and grubby in texture and not fit to eat.

When the ground freezes apply a cover of well composed manure on the asparagus rows, which will keep the ground from freezing deeply and provide plenty of fertility for next summer's growth.

It Means Health For the Child

The careful mother who watches closely the physical peculiarities of her child, will soon discover that the most important thing in connection with a child's constant good health is to keep the bowels regularly open. Sluggish bowels will be followed by loss of appetite, restlessness, dumber sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder.

At the first signs of such disorder give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring and repeat the dose the following night if necessary—more than that will scarcely be needed. You will find that the child will recover its accustomed good spirits at once and will eat and sleep normally.

This remedy is a vast improvement over saline cathartics, laxative waters and similar things, which are altogether too powerful for a child. The homes of Mrs. E. B. Jackson, Burr Oak, Kas., and Mrs. J. H. Walters, Mulberry, Kas., are always supplied with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and with them, as with thousands of others, there is no substitute for this grand laxative. It is really more than a laxative, for it contains superior tonic properties which help to tone and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels so that after a brief use of it all laxatives can be dispensed with and nature will do its own work.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a drugist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 301 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

SURE NOT.

The Pessimist—Fame is a bubble. The Optimist—But it isn't the hard-est blower that attains it.

Husband—Was Willing. The Scot has no monopoly of do-mestic felicity, as many a piquant paragraph bears witness. The other day an old farmer and his wife were "doing" the sights of a provincial town, and among other places they visited a panorama of South Africa.

The views were extremely interesting, and the couple were enjoying themselves to the full. As scene after scene passed, the woman's enthusiasm increased, and at length, turning to her husband, she exclaimed: "Oh, Sandy, this is really splendid. I could just sit here all my days."

"Ah, well, Jennie, woman," replied Sandy, to the mirth of those sitting near. "Just sit you still there; I'll not grudge the sarpente."

Our idea of nothing to beat is the fellow who brags that he begins where we leave off!

THE HOMESTEADER'S SOLILOQUY.

(Mrs. Kate Merson in the Mara Vee News)
Just about three years ago last May, I thought that I did not care to play out upon the high western plains. My life was lonely and, destitute of means, I packed up my belongings and said I would go. And left my little homestead out in New Mexico. But I have changed somewhat since then. And find that living with a friend is not like being in my own home. Though built underground with only one room. But Uncle Sam says that it is just so. And I lost a chance to keep a homestead in New Mexico.
So don't give up your homestead, though poverty may stare,
The time's coming when you will latter fare,
You'll find living in the east, where all must do pretext,
It is not like the freedom of a life's death western side!
Then with me you'll plus, if you forfeit so,
The right to own a homestead out in New Mexico

THE LADIES of Carrizozo are planning to form a Civic League in the near future. The plan is a splendid one and deserves cooperation on the part of all public spirited citizens; for it means a better, cleaner and more progressive town. While we do not advocate equal suffrage, exactly, we will have to "give it to" the ladies of Carrizozo that when they start things they certainly carry them thru, or at least have in the past and we hope it will be the same with the Carrizozo Civic League.

SPEAKING of this first legislature of our new state, they will have many, many laws to enact. But there is one law that we particularly would suggest that they enact and that is a "good road law", a law which is practical, and would put the construction of roads under the direct supervision of each County's Surveyor-elect. A law which would allow the building of at least one thoroughly, complete, and well constructed road in each county, each year, to take the place of this promiscuous patching in diverse spots, which in the end does little good.

THE State of New Mexico! At last the hope deferred for half a century and more has been realized. But with the political privileges that statehood brings there come certain responsibilities that can not be borne lightly if they are to be borne well. If every citizen of the new state can be brought to realize the vital importance of good government and his personal responsibility for good government, all will be well. Otherwise, New Mexico may better have remained a territory. We shall see.

WIT LEARN that Richeson, the murderer of a trusting sweetheart, is to suffer the death penalty by the electric chair route. Only thing about the matter that seems unjust is the fact that he is permitted to be executed when he says good-bye. Too much comfort; ought to take his medicine standing.

THE FIRST GOVERNOR

William C. McDonald inaugurated governor of New Mexico Monday, was born on a farm near the little town of Jordanville, in the southern part of Herkimer county N. Y., not far from the shores of Otsego lake in 1858. His mother died when he was 4 years old, and his younger years were spent on the farm and in attendances at the public school which was located about a mile from his home. He began teaching at the age of 17 after having attended a neighboring academy to complete his education at Casnovia Seminary. He resumed teaching and while engaged in teaching school he studied law though he never engaged in its practice.

ADMITTED TO BAR IN KANSAS
Mr. McDonald came west to Ft. Scott, Kansas in the spring of 1880, and while there he was admitted to the bar. In the same year he came to Las Vegas from that place; he went overland to White Oaks where there was considerable excitement over gold discoveries which were made there. He secured employment in a store owned by A. R. Jones, and the next year 1881 he took up surveying and mining engineering work which he followed successfully until the summer of 1890 when he took charge of the Carrizozo ranch temporarily. In the fall of 1890, after he had been there a few months, he took charge of the ranch and has been practically in the absolute control of the management of its affairs ever since.

"During this whole time," said Mr. McDonald, "I have never used a dollar for politics of any one's money except my own."

WELD COUNTY OFFICE

He has been honored by the people of his county at different times by being elected to official positions. He was assessor of Lincoln County in 1885 and 1886; was elected as a member of the House of Representatives of the twenty-ninth legislative assembly for counties of Lincoln, Chavez and Eddy in the fall of 1890, and was elected as a member of the board of county commissioners of his county in 1904, serving as chairman of the board in 1905 and 1906. Last December he was elected in his absence, and without his knowledge as chairman of the Democratic Central Committee. He was elected first state governor of New Mexico by a vote of 31,036, a plurality of 3,017, and a clear majority of 1,230 votes.

OSCURO OBSERVINGS

OPIUM CONFERENCE AT THE HAGUE

THE BINNESHOF AT THE HAGUE

To study means to regulate the opium traffic, the international conference for the suppression of the trade has just met at The Hague, with the American government well represented. The conference will try to complete the work begun at Shanghai in 1909, all delegates having power from their governments to make agreements as to opium regulations. Dr. Yen represents the Chinese government. The Americans at the conference are Dr. Hamilton Wright, state department; Bishop Brent of the Philippine Islands, H. J. Finger of California, and F. L. Hundekoper and Wallace J. Young. The sessions are held in the Binneshof.

"PICKLE" THE TIMBER TO BUILD AFRICAN RAILROAD

ENGINEERS SEE MEANS OF ADDING LIFE TO TIES.

Their Possible Preservation for Increased Usefulness is Suggested—Scheme is at Least to Be Given a Trial.

A new method of solving one of the biggest problems faced by the railroads, that of finding a means of increasing the life of the timber used for their ties and piling so as to offset as far as possible the increase in their cost and the rapid increase in the demand for lumber for railroad purposes, has been discovered by western railroad engineers.

The preserving of ties and piling by "pickling" in Great Salt Lake may become an important industry, if the experiments now being worked out prove as successful as they have thus far given indications.

Ten thousand railroad ties that have been "pickled" in the salt lake for the last three years have just been removed from that body of highly mineralized water and are now being transported to Hazen, Nev., there to be given a trial on the new Hazen cutoff of the Southern Pacific. "Pickling" ties in the lake is by no means a new experiment on the part of the railroad company, but the preserving quality of the lake's brine has but recently been discovered to be sufficiently great as to justify its possible use on a large scale.

There are ties on the old Promontory line of the Central Pacific railroad, which were placed there forty years ago and have not decayed, proving the preservative qualities of the salt formation in which they lay for years before being placed in the roadbed. Piling is also being preserved in the lake, as excellent results have been obtained by the piling in the great tract across the lake, which since the day it was first placed in the first part of the Lucien cutoff has shown no deterioration. Through the genius of M. H. Harriman in building the cutoff at a cost of $10,000,000, nearly 100 miles in the route to the coast has been saved to the road by the lake. If it can be used on a large scale as a substitute for the costly creosote and chloride of zinc preservative processes, which nearly all roads have employed to a great extent, it may turn out that the lake will be of even greater service.

The ties that have just been removed will be subjected to a hard test in the alkali soils of Nevada. The "pickling" process has caused them to be heavily impregnated with salt and they act as a "ground" for the electric current in the block signal circuits. This fact makes them unfit for use on the main line of the road over which the block signals play an important part, but there are many miles of track in which they may be safely used.

Daily Earnings of a Locomotive. A writer in the Railway and Engineering Review recently gave the interesting results of a comparison of the average daily earning capacity of the American locomotive. The estimate took account of time spent in the repair shop, increased cost of repairs and renewals, and the cost of fuel, water and the engine crew. The average earnings per locomotive per day in the east are $124.84, and on the western roads, $129.84. The highest earnings in the west are those of the Santa Fe locomotives, which work out of $149.84 per day. The highest earnings in the east are on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, where the average is $147.06 per day.

Got His Winter's Fuel Cheap. "A funny thing happened once when a train ran wild on a down grade, meeting another on a neighboring down grade," relates a veteran engineer. "As there were two tracks we didn't have to try the always failing experiment of having two trains pass on the same track. The father of the engineer of the other train lived close beside the track, just where the trains met. His train was coal laden, and when the crash came several cars of coal were dumped into the family bias. It was just the beginning of winter, and as the company did not care to gather up the coal, the old man's winter fuel was bought for a song."

Practical Work of Railroads. Railroads have done more to break down, not only the physical, but the moral barriers between men than any other single agency. Worldwide commerce is a sure guaranty of worldwide disarmament that all the peace conferences and pacts. It is the ocean liner that has rendered pirates impossible and hooded Europe with American ideas.

It is intended to be for that Continent What the Union Pacific Did for America.

The prospects of the vigorous exploitation of north and west Africa, as the result of the Franco-German settlement of the Morocco-French Congo questions, have evoked a proposal for the construction of a vast trans-African railway, to do for the African continent what the Union Pacific has accomplished for the western states of America.

M. Andre Barthelot, formerly a deputy of the French chamber, outlines the scheme in Le Matin as a railway starting from Algiers or Oran, and extending to Katanga to join the Cape to Cairo line, which he argues ought to be modified to join Algeria, instead of Egypt, with the Cape.

The trans-African line would have two branches, one running from the Sahara to Algeria, joining west Africa with Algeria, and the other connecting the western Mediterranean section of the continent with the Indian ocean by means of the Uganda railway.

M. Bethelot estimates that the railway will reduce the distance to London from Johannesburg to nine days, and to Paris from Lake Chad to four. He points out that the British have already built 1,860 miles of the Cape to Cairo line; the Belgians 310 miles of track, and the French in Algeria 372 miles. Thus, of the 5,572 miles from Algiers to the Cape, only 4,000 miles remain to be built. He regards it as a perfectly feasible scheme, considering the trans-Siberian railway from Moscow to Vladivostok, which is 5,322 miles long.

FOR THE TRAIN DISPATCHER

Portable Telephone That Does Away With Many of the Worries of Important Official.

If a railroad train does not reach a certain station or other point at the scheduled time, the train dispatcher is not only annoyed but worried. The Kellogg portable train telephone removes this worry and saves delay. A jointed pole in three parts,

Using Portable Train Telephone.

A small folding cross arm and a telephone set enable the conductor to connect with overhead wires and tell the dispatcher all about it in two minutes after a stop is made. He can also inform the dispatcher within a minute of when the train will be able to proceed. The outfit is compact and weighs a few ounces over six pounds. Popular Electricity.

New We Knew It All. A brakeman was asked by the Atchafalaya Globe to tell what the crew of a train in a wreck was doing when the crash came, and he replied in this manner: "The dog head was greeting the pig. The tallow pot was in the pit cracking diamonds. The front shock was bending the rail to head it. The cow was in the doghouse flipping the tissue and I was sheering back with the red."

Railroads Killed 10,396. It's 1 to 45 that a railroad man will be killed on his job and 1 to 12 that he will be injured. The interstate commerce commission's report of American railroad accidents in the 12 months ended June 30 shows that rate.

In that period 10,396 persons were killed and 159,159 were injured. However, only 355 passengers were killed. More than one-half the total number killed were trespassing or stealing rides on tracks.

Spread of Electric Railroads. In 25 years electric railroads in the United States have grown from nothing to their present splendid proportions, which it is estimated by experts give support yearly to about 300,000 people. These figures include families of employes, but the number of actual employees is somewhat short of a quarter of a million.

Tests made by a French railroad of a device for heating water before it reaches the boiler by exhaust steam showed a fuel economy of more than 12 per cent.

POLICE HELP POOR

Organization Started by London Officers Aided by Cadets.

Will Extend Imperial Service Corps, Now Two Years Old, Which Takes Children in Hand and Helps Needy.

London.—From Brighton town hall an indignantly signed appeal has just been issued for funds to extend the imperial service cadet corps, an organization whose origin is bound up with the remarkable and romantic career of the Brighton police scheme for clothing destitute children.

The cadet corps is only two years old, the police charity nearly eight. The story of the latter is one of the most bracing human narratives which could be placed before the public. The police of Brighton have worked the charity themselves, taking note of the destitute children in the streets, visiting their homes to make inquiries and fitting them out with new clothes on certain days when the children attended at the building which had been acquired for a wardrobe.

The public supported the scheme well, the police grew increasingly keen as they saw its good results and the progress of the movement has been such that according to the last annual report 369 boys and 296 girls were clothed in the year 1909-10.

In course of their inquiries the police found that many young girls who were desirous of entering domestic service could not do so because they had no suitable clothes. The same report states that forty-three girls were supplied with complete outfits for entering service, and that the policemen's wives, having formed themselves into a working class at the police institute, made 205 garments.

The question of discipline and employment for the growing lads arose and led to the formation of the Imperial Service Cadet corps by the chief constable, who is lieutenant colonel of the corps. As stated in the appeal referred to, it aims not only "at taking the boy in hand when he leaves school and helping him in co-operation with the labor exchanges to find employment, but continuing his education in at least some of those habits and industries which the state has already taught him."

King Edward was greatly interested in the movement, and on Feb. 13, 1910, while on a visit to Brighton, he paid a call at the Central police station. Town hall, inspected a number of the lads and the clothing and boots prepared for them, and had the whole scheme explained to him by lieutenant colonel Gault. Afterwards his majesty said: "I have been deeply interested and touched by what I have seen and heard. I think this work is most excellent and I heartily congratulate you and your committee, and wish you continued success."

The cadet corps has now been recognized by the war office as part of the territorial force. It numbers 200 and is under the direction of 12 and that the latter grow up to know, respect and even love the police. The scheme has also promoted a better understanding between the police and the public.

The police believe that the cadet corps helping the boy "when the time comes for him to become a wage earner," will not only prevent juvenile crime and exterminate the tramp, but will help to prevent people getting into a state of acute destitution.

The immediate object of the appeal is for funds to erect suitable headquarters for the corps at Brighton. A free site in a central situation has been offered by G. R. Scrase-Dickins, and the building, with its furniture and fittings, will cost $2,000.

THIS NEGRO TURNS WHITE

Strange Case at Chillicothe, Mo., is to Be Reported to National Medical Society.

Chillicothe, Mo.—The case of a negro who turned white is to be reported to the National Medical society with the hope that something may be learned of the peculiar skin disease which has baffled physicians of north-west Missouri for several years.

The negro, who is dead here, was Dudley Payne, coal black and typically African in feature. He came to Chillicothe three years ago. After he had been here a few months he began to turn white in spots. The spots at first appeared on his hands and later spread to the upper part of his body. The change came gradually. At the time of his death Payne's face and the upper part of his body were as white as those of any Caucasian.

Indian as Co-Respondent

Wealthy New Yorker Objected to Wife's Trip Into Mountain With Red Skin.

Bridgesport, Conn.—Walter Ferguson, Jr., of Stamford, was granted a decree of divorce in the Superior court here by Judge Howard J. Curtis. George Graham, a half-breed Indian guide, was named as the co-respondent. Mrs. Ferguson's cross suit on the ground of cruelty and her application for alimony were denied. Mr. Ferguson is a wealthy manufacturer. Mrs. Ferguson comes from a prominent Philadelphia family. Trips into the Maine woods with the guide as Mrs. Ferguson's companion, furnished the basis for her husband's suit.

Walter Ferguson, Jr., is wealthy and has a handsome home at Strawberry Hill, Stamford. He is in business in New York, where Mrs. Ferguson has been living for some time. The latter is well known in Philadelphia. Her father is a physician.

Many stories of a sensational nature helped to entice the trial, which began at Bridgesport on October 20. Mrs. Ferguson testified that she was a great admirer of the big, handsome

FUR SALES TOTAL MILLIONS

Trappers and Hunters Make $2,000,000 on Skins of Wild Animals in Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis.—That trapping of fur-bearing animals is still an industry of such magnitude in Wisconsin is gathered from figures of the state fish and game department. Two million dollars annually represent the sales of pelts.

Seven hundred and fifty thousand muskrats, it is estimated, are trapped in a year, and at 45 cents per "rat" are worth $337,500. Three hundred thousand skunk skins a year are sold for an average of $1.50, or a total of $450,000. One hundred thousand mink are caught annually. These are worth on an average $4.50 each, or a total of $450,000.

It is estimated that other fur-bearing animals bring the hunters and trappers at least $100,000.

PLOUGHING TURNS UP BONES

Believed to Be Those of Indians Who Camped in Field Near Marshalltown, Ia.

Marshalltown, Ia.—While ploughing on the Ralph Bennett farm, near Jefferson, Carl Nelson's plough turned over what appeared to be human bones, and upon a deeper excavation two human skulls were found.

The farm has been in possession of the Bennett family for years, and no one could explain the mystery. Old "residents" of the community give as their opinion as an explanation that the skulls are those of Pottawatamie Indians who spent the winter of 1833 in that part of the state.

A great many of the Indians formed the camp, and several died owing to the hardships experienced.

COW FINDS LOST GOLF BALL

Bevine Shakes Head at Player and Missing Sphere Drops From Ear.

London.—"A distinguished member of the king's staff was playing recently on the links at Balmoral. At a critical moment in his match he apparently falled to hit his ball to such as he may have intended in making an approach stroke. His ball was seen to strike a cow, which slowly moved away. When the player came to the spot vacated by the cow his ball was not to be found.

"Not unaturally, he turned toward the cow with an air which may be presumed to have suggested question with apology. The cow, apparently shook her head, as if to indicate with deep regret that she could offer no suggestion as to the player's difficulty, or to suggest a remedy. The momentary incident, however, had been a loved. She testified that the fact that Graham was a half-breed Indian only increased her interest in him. Mrs. Ferguson on the witness stand admitted having bought a pair of gold suspender buckles and a pair of gold garter buckles for the guide, as well as silk shirts and pajamas.

ROAD and FARM IMPROVEMENT

GOOD VENTILATOR IN CELLAR

To Insure Good Health Too Much Attention Cannot Be Given to Sanitary Conditions.

Many cases of typhoid and other malignant fevers may be traced to the pile of decaying vegetation or moldy piles of old carpets and rubbish in the cellar.

Let us clean up, take everything out of the cellar that can be moved easily and air it out, whitewash the side walls and ceiling with plenty of carbolic acid in the whitewash.

Put a ventilator in—something like the one shown in the accompanying sketch.

The draught in the chimney will be improved by the addition of an opening from the cellar into the chimney about two or three feet above the fireplace or grate.

There is generally a wardrobe or closet at the side of the chimney through which the pipe may run. The pipe should be 8 or 10 inches in diameter, made of galvanized iron and perfectly air tight.

The pipe should fit the openings in the floor and the chimney so as to allow no gases to escape in the closet, and to make the draught stronger.

The drawing shows plainly the position of the pipe in the floor and the chimney.

The pipe should be made to correspond with the distance from the floor to a distance two or three feet above the fireplace.

When a heater is located in the basement of the dwelling the ventilator may be run in connection with the heater pipes.

METHOD OF DESTROYING RATS

Carbon Bisulphide is Used With Excellent Results by Agricultural Bureau of Java.

A consular report gives the following method of destroying rats adopted by M. de Kruijff, of the agricultural bureau of Java. All visible rat holes were first stopped with earth to ascertain which holes were inhabited, for the inhabited holes were found re-opened on the following day. Half a teaspoonful of carbon bisulphide was poured in each of these holes, and after a delay of a few seconds to allow the liquid to evaporate, the mixture of vapor and air was ignited. The result was a small explosion, which filled the hole with poisonous gases and killed all the rats almost instantly. A pound of bisulphide is sufficient for more than 200 rat holes. One hundred and thirty-one dead rats were found in 42 holes which were opened after the operation.

Making Sidewalks and Floors.
For sidewalks and floors use a tamper with a base ten or twelve inches square, and tamp gently till the water appears on the surface.

Leads to Soil Exhaustion.
Poor soil management means in the end complete or partial soil exhaustion, which is a condition of the soil in which it is deficient in humus content, or food content, or moisture content, or all three, and they usually go together.

Damp Concrete Houses.
Concrete houses will be damp until the concrete has well seasoned. The hollow wall will make a dryer building, warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

Potatoes at Chicago.
About 15,000 cars of potatoes are handled in Chicago annually, making an average of a little more than forty cars daily. Many of these potatoes are consumed within the city and the rest supplies vast territories where the growing of the vegetable is practically unknown.

Join Good Roads Club.
Going to join the Good Roads club? No such club in the neighborhood, eh? Then get to work and organize one.

FARM TOOLS CHEAPLY MADE

By Little Ingenuity Many Useful and Necessary Implements Can Be Contrived.

(By J. W. GRIFFIN.)
To make a good roller at the cost of $7 or $8, take four old mowing machine wheels all of one size. Use the axles of the machines for the roller shafts.

Break off the lugs on the rim of the wheels, then have your blacksmith drill 3/4-inch holes four inches apart. For the drum or roller-staves use 2x4-inch scantlings cut to three-foot lengths, bore 3/4-inch holes in these near each end to make the ends even with the edge of the rim of the wheel. Bolt these onto the wheel, using washers under the heads of the bolts and the nuts against the inside of the rim of the wheel.

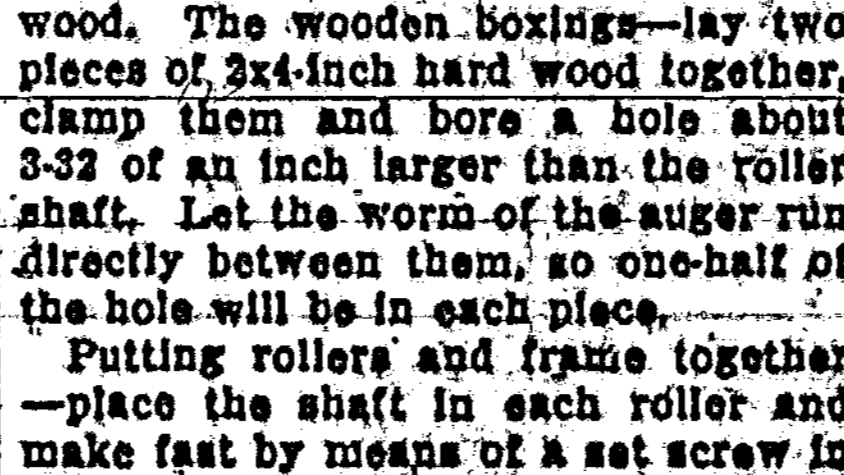

The piece of scantling should be beveled slightly, so as to fit closely against the rim of the wheel. Now we are ready for the frame, which should be of 4x4-inch stuff. Cut two pieces which should be 7 1/2 feet long. Two inches from each end cut a 1x2-inch mortise. In the center of each of these pieces cut a 2x4-inch notch for the tongue to rest in. Cut the end pieces long enough to clear the rollers when the frame is put together.

Cut tenons on each end of these pieces to fit the mortises in front and rear pieces of the frame.

Have the blacksmith make four corner irons with four holes in each 3/4-inch; pin corners securely, then put corner irons on and tighten up the bolts.

If you can find four old machine boxings that will fit the roller shafts, bolt to under sides of frame as shown in cut; if not, make some out of hard wood. The wooden boxings—lay two pieces of 2x4-inch hard wood together, clamp them and bore a hole about 3-32 of an inch larger than the roller shaft. Let the worm of the auger run directly between them, so one-half of the hole will be in each piece.

Putting rollers and frame together—place the shaft in each roller and make fast by means of a set screw in the hub of each wheel; the shafts should turn in the boxings, not the wheels on the shafts.

Now place the frame over the rollers and adjust to proper position, that is, have the space around the rollers between them and the frame the same distance at all places.

Raise the roller frame slightly and slip in place the upper half of each boxing; let down frame on shaft, put lower half of boxings in place, then bore holes through the frame 2 1/2 inches from the shaft, and bolt all together with 3/4-inch bolts.

FARM NOTES

The stone silo when properly built has always given satisfaction. Study and master at least one farm problem during the leisure time this winter.

Get the habit of hauling manure to the field every day as it is taken from the barn.

Rubber hose must be hung in a dry place if you expect it to last long enough for you.

Give the asparagus bed an overcoat of manure before hard, freezing weather comes on.

A few hours' attention to the implements when storing saves days of work in the spring rush.

Fall plowing of the garden destroys cutworms and other insects, besides getting rid of fall weeds.

Potatoes for seed should be carefully stored where the temperature will be as low as possible, without freezing the potatoes.

Bees all safe for the winter? If they are in the cellar, see that the hives are raised from the floor. Remove the bottom board.

Hog millet is correctly known as broom-porn millet. It produces more grain and slightly less forage to the acre than common millet.

Don't allow grain or fodder to waste after a season's labor has been spent to produce it. Every stalk represents a money outlay.

No Jury.
"Didn't you give that man a jury trial?"
"Look here," replied Broncho Bob, "there ain't a big lot o' men in this settlement. We couldn't possibly get twelve of 'em together without starting a fatal argument about something that had nothin' whatever to do with the case."—Washington Star.

Be happy. Use Red Cross Bag Blue; much better than liquid blue. Delights the laundress. All grocers.

The Paradox.
"My doctor is a paradoxical one."
"How so?"
"The more he reduced the swelling the higher the bills grew."

The Human Heart

The heart is a wonderful double pump, through the action of which the blood stream is kept sweeping round and round through the body at the rate of seven miles an hour. Remember this, that our bodies will not stand the strain of over-work without good, pure blood any more than the engine can run smoothly without oil. After many years of study in the active practice of medicine, Dr. R. V. Pierce found that when the stomach was out of order, the blood impure and there were symptoms of general breakdown, a tonic made of the glyceric extract of certain roots was the best corrective. This he called Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. It is for sale by all druggists.
