Bread and Butter to People of New Mexico to Have Republican at Capital

BATTLE NOT OVER AS YET

The only argument advanced thus far for the election to congress of Hon. H.B. Fergusson is that Mr. Fergusson is a democrat, that the house of representatives will be democratic, that the United States senate will be democratic and that we will have a democratic president and that Mr. Fergusson, being a democrat, will be able to do more for New Mexico than a Republican could do.

Even were all of these assumptions true there is still a feature of

NATHAN JAFFA
Republican Nominee For Congress

Mr. Fergusson's candidacy and attitude which cannot be overlooked by any New Mexico citizen who is interested in his bread and butter. Mr. Fergusson, while he has stated that he is opposed to taking off the tariff on wool, would return to the lower house bound by a caucus of democrats who are absolutely and irrevocably pledged to remove that tariff and return wool conditions in this state to the days of Cleveland. Caucus action has always ruled the house of representatives to a greater or lesser extent. But it has never been so dominant and all powerful as since the democrats last returned to power in that body. The democratic caucus is supreme. It is absolutely controlled by southern democrats who have no more interest in the condition of New Mexico's sheep industry than they have in the protection of reindeer. They are pledged to take off that tariff and they will do it if they can.

Mr. Fergusson will be bound by the action of that caucus. He has consistently obeyed its dictates heretofore, and he will continue to do so. If he does not he will be punished and his usefulness in congress will be ended. He will be at outs with his party. A vote for Mr. Fergusson is a vote for free wool. It can be construed in no other way. It is useless to argue about the importance of protection to our wool industry. Everyone recognizes it. Mr. Fergusson himself has done so by placing himself at outs with his party platform.

Mr. Fergusson has never shown any special effectiveness in individual initiative and action. He is an estimable gentleman, an able lawyer and a pleasing orator; but his record in congress shows absolute dependence upon the party caucus and backing.

Mr. Jaffa, on the other hand, goes into congress with free hands. He goes pledged to stand for the tariff on wool and free to fight for it. His vote will add one to the protection of what is now our principal industry. He is a business man who has "gone it alone" all his life and who has got results. He is a quiet, forceful, efficient worker. He gets results.

The only argument for Mr. Fergusson's election made thus far is that he is a democrat and would have with him a democratic president and a democratic congress. At this stage of the campaign the assumption is somewhat extreme. At the stage of the campaign of 1896 democrats claimed every state in the country for Bryan. Hats were in the air. The game was won. The attacks upon Mr. McKinley were even more bitter than those upon Mr. Taft. The sentiment of the nation swung round in that campaign, just as it is swinging in this one. The Bull Moose campaign has flattened out like a punctured toy balloon. It has blown up. The battle is between the president and Professor Wilson, and the New Jersey governor is losing ground every day, while the strength of the president is growing by leaps and bounds.

The assumption that Mr. Wilson will be the next president of the United States is a trifle extreme at this stage of the campaign.

Certainly that assumption is slight ground upon which to base Mr. Fergusson's claim to be returned to congress.

But even should the assumption, wild as it is, prove true, Mr. Fergusson is then more helpless than ever to protect New Mexico's chief industry. He would be as a leaf in a storm should he attempt to block the democratic regime in its fight against the protection of the wool industry.

JAPAN'S NEW RULER, DIVINE AND HUMAN

WHEN Yoshihito became the reigning sovereign of Japan he found himself in a position comparable to that of no emperor on earth. Other emperors, western and eastern, are but human. Yoshihito in the eyes of his subjects is divine.

The succession of other emperors is clouded and disconnected; that of Yoshihito is complete and self-sufficient. One hundred and twenty-third sovereign of his line, he traces his royal descent back to the mists of the world, back six hundred years and more, before the time of Christ, back, in fact, to the great heroic age of Japan, when two gods were called upon to create a land from the liquid islands of the air—and they created Japan.

From these gods he claims descent, and not even the most highly educated and scientifically minded Japanese will dispute it. That is the chord of belief which no modern sophistication can pierce. The dead Mutsuhito has taken his harborage with his fellow gods, and Yoshihito, reigning, is of his blood.

This, in part, explains the attitude of veneration in which the Japanese regard their ruler, explains the sentiment which marks him forth from brother sovereigns. It is a sentiment which few Japanese will discuss.

"It is a sentiment," said one to the writer, "which it is impossible for a Japanese to analyze, and which if analyzed no foreign mind could comprehend."

"It springs partly from the intense idealism of the people and is really a peculiar form of patriotism. It is as if the Japanese nation were reverencing itself, for it believes that it, too, sprang from the gods and that it is of the family of the emperor. To a nation which reverences its ancestors, the emperor represents a link between the present Japan and everything that has gone before—a link perhaps, between the material and the spirit world. He is at once an element of mysticism and the embodiment of material national strength. It is as if—the Japanese gentleman paused—"you could merge the sentiment of a Roman Catholic for the pope and the affection of a people for a great king."

"Will the present emperor preserve for himself the full sentiment which the people had for his father?" was asked.

The Japanese shrugged. "In a measure, perhaps. Wholly, perhaps not," he answered.

"That he will command a peculiar reverence is certain from the reasons I have given, which are inherent in the nation. That the affection of the people will be as great as that given to the late emperor is doubtful. You see, the last sovereign inspired and controlled Japan from its growth from a feudal land to a world-wide nation. From the time the great princes or daimios surrendered their powers and estates to the granting of a modern and voluntary constitution in 1889, his was the initiative of each successive advance. He had done more even than the nation expected—certainly more than ever had been accomplished for a nation before. That record was personal to him and is responsible for the personal love with which he is regarded. We honor and reverence the new sovereign—yes. He is emperor, he is the embodied spirit of Japan. But, love? Even an emperor must earn love for himself."

So enters Yoshihito, the new emperor of Japan, upon his kingdom—the recipient, in western eyes, of strange marks of Japanese respect. For if the race follows the precedents given to Mutsuhito, Yoshihito's name will not be pronounced by any of his subjects. "The sovereign," "the emperor," he will be; never Yoshihito. To call the name of Yoshihito will be sacrilege. It would be as if a shrine had been assailed. And that is only a small indication of the respect which the Japanese will give him as a sovereign. No man or woman will sit before him. None, if convention be maintained, will speak directly to him, for it is the custom to address the emperor of Japan only through members of his household. In his presence even the greatest will look upon the ground, unless the emperor be placed at some elevation, when it is permissible that the eyes be raised, and even this is a concession to the new world of things in Japan.

For Mutsuhito, the dead emperor, passed the first sixteen years of life, unseen by any foreigner, unseen by any but his personal attendants, who were of his family. In conference even with the greatest of those who served him, his face was never shown, for he sat hidden within a canopy, on the low throne-platform from which his orders came. Till sixteen years of age he had never walked—and the art of walking was with him a stiff and harsh practice to the end. "New, too, is the wild acclaim of innumerable 'banzais' whenever the emperor's presence is observed by the people—for it came into Japan within the last fifteen years and in the skirts of progress. Before that time a dead silence had spoken national respect—a dead silence and eyes lowered and the shuttered windows of houses along the street.

Yoshihito will undoubtedly be viewed by his subjects as closer to the human species than any of the emperors that preceded him. For even his father began his reign as the practical prisoner of his own deification. Prior to 1868 he—as were his predecessors for hundreds of years—was the splendidly isolated but practical prisoner of the shogun, in whose hands the real administrative power lay. The generalissimo of the forces, the shogun, also controlled the administrative functions of government, while the emperor himself was merely a splendid figure—too sacred by far to indulge in the ignoble occupation of "doing things."

And the personality of this new ruler, who commands medieval respect from a nation so ultra-modern as the Japanese?

A slight, small-chested figure, of in-expansive shoulder and somewhat frail build—a figure with a head abnormally large, coal black eyes, the coarse black hair, the somewhat sombre expression, and the undershot sensitive to nervous diseases. He is spoken of as serious and bright and with some pretense to social instincts unpossessed by his parent.

Third among the sons, and one among the twelve children of the late emperor, Yoshihito had no greater reason to expect a succession to sovereignty than had any of his brothers, had they lived, for it is the custom of the emperor to nominate his successor from the most likely material—only being limited by the fact that he must be of royal blood. The death of his two elder brothers, however, opened up vast royal perspectives to Yoshihito, and in 1887 he was nominated heir apparent, being proclaimed crown prince in 1889.

Yoshihito's life in its earliest years reflected the changed condition of Japan. He was brought up democratically, and attended school in the College of Peers, which is intended for the education of princes and nobles, but which is open to all. Here he worked with the rest, possessing no privileges unpossessed by the most obscure, and with a punctuality insisted upon from even him, the descendant of the gods. In this way came the comparative development of his social instincts, for, unlike Mutsuhito, he prefers to talk directly with his company than through the august intermediary of court officials. Later, however, he came under the care of a tutor, General Oku, who was assisted by a Mr. Adachi, who seems to have been linguistically inclined. For the present emperor speaks English and French, as well as German. From General Oku he studied military tactics and early proved that in Japan royalty is something of a tall-man. At thirteen he was a lieutenant, at sixteen colonel of the Japanese army.

In these early years, from our western viewpoint, he lived a life of law of the great emperor, his father. In his august position today he seems somewhat of an anomaly to the western eyes, for he is not the son of the empress of Japan, but of one of Mutsuhito's lesser wives, the Countess Yanagawara, and chosen by the late emperor as that sovereign's successor under the law of Japan. He is thirty-one years old, and with the exception of a slight illness, harder than he has ever been.

For Yoshihito has been a frail figure since infancy—a sufferer from a constitutional complaint which carried off his elder brother, and which the unusual size of his head sufficiently suggests. He is a sufferer from water on the brain, which, however, impairs his mental faculties not the least, but only renders him unusually remarkable independence of parental control. He occupied, almost from infancy, a palace of his own, not, however, distant from the emperor's.

With all this atmosphere of the feudal, however, Yoshihito is thoroughly in accord with the modern spirit of his country. In many respects he is tinged with European habits to a degree not even approached by his father.

In 1905, when his three-storyed palace was built at a cost of $200,000, it was European rather than Japanese in character. Even in his unofficial moments, too, he uses European dress. Such is a slight portrait of Yoshihito, new emperor of Japan, who, presumably, will desert his own palace and inherit that in which the late emperor lived.

"Yes, he never comes into the room without my looking to see if he has feathers on his hat."

Collective Housekeeping.

An English paper tells of an experiment in collective housekeeping in what is known as Brent Garden village. The dwelling houses contain all improvements except a kitchen. Meals for everybody are cooked at a central hall, and may either be eaten there or sent home. A four-course dinner costs only 1 shilling and 6 pence. Servants are supplied, when needed, from the central hall at a cost of about ten cents an hour.

Instead of liquid antiseptics, tablets and peroxide, for toilet and medicinal uses, many people prefer Paxtine, which is cheaper and better. At drug-gists, 25c a box or sent postpaid on receipt of price by The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass.

THESE SIX LETTERS From New England Women

Prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Does Restore the Health of Ailing Women.

Boston, Mass.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from hemorrhages (sometimes lasting for weeks), and could get nothing to check them. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound (tablet form) on Tuesday, and the following Saturday morning the hemorrhages stopped. I have taken them regularly ever since and am steadily gaining."
"I certainly think that every one who is troubled as I was should give your Compound Tablets a faithful trial, and they will find relief."—Mrs. GEORGE QUAY, 302 Fifth Street, South Boston, Mass.

Letter from Mrs. Julia King, Phoenix, R.I.
Phoenix, R.I.—"I worked steady in the mill from the time I was 13 years old until I had been married a year, and I think that caused my bad feelings. I had soreness in my side near my left hip that went around to my back, and sometimes I would have to lie in bed for two or three days. I was not able to do my housework."
"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me wonderfully in every way. You may use my letter for the good of others. I am only too glad to do anything within my power to recommend your medicine."—Mrs. JULIA KING, Box 282, Phoenix, R.I.

Letter from Mrs. Etta Donovan, Willimantic, Conn.
Willimantic, Conn.—"For five years I suffered untold agony from female troubles causing backache, irregularities, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It was impossible for me to walk up stairs without stopping on the way. I was all run down in every way."
"I tried three doctors and each told me something different. I received no benefit from any of them but seemed to suffer more. The last doctor said it was no use for me to take anything as nothing would restore me to health again. So I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see what it would do, and by taking seven bottles of the Compound and other treatment you advised, I am restored to my natural health."—Mrs. ETTA DONOVAN, 763 Main Street, Willimantic, Conn.

Letter from Mrs. Winfield Dana, Augusta, Me.
Augusta, Me.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured the backache, headache, and the bad pain I had in my right side, and I am perfectly well."—Mrs. WINFIELD DANA, R.F.D. No. 2, Augusta, Me.

Letter from Mrs. J. A. Thompson, Newport, Vt.
Newport, Vt.—"I thank you for the great benefit Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I took eight bottles and it did wonders for me, as I was a nervous wreck when I began taking it. I shall always speak a good word for it to my friends."—Mrs. J. A. THOMPSON, Box 3, Newport Center, Vermont.

Letter from Miss Grace Dodds, Bethlehem, N.H.
Bethlehem, N.H.—"By working very hard, sweeping carpets, washing, ironing, lifting heavy baskets of clothes, etc., I got all run down. I was sick in bed every month."
"This last Spring my mother got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and already I feel like another girl. I am regular and do not have the pains that I did, and do not have to go to bed. I will tell all my friends what the Compound is doing for me."—Miss GRACE B. DODDS, Box 133, Bethlehem, N.H.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.
Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For President.

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

For Vice-President.

JAMES SCHOOLCRAFT SHERMAN.

With the likelihood of President Taft's election increasing every day, the business men are feeling better

Labor was never so well paid as today, and the farmer was never so well rewarded for the products of his toil as today.

During the last administration of national affairs when the Democrats were in power, labor cried out for a good dollar and the chance to earn it

Are the farmers of the United States ready to let Mr. Perkins of the Harvester Trust pick out their candidate for president. Not yet, nor soon.

People who are tired of prosperity and want a change can get it in two ways. One is to vote for Wilson and elect him. The other is to vote for Roosevelt and elect Wilson

Most of the big magazines are fighting Taft. Why? Because Mr. Taft's postmaster general has made them pay their just portion of the postage to run the post-office department, bringing the department out of a deficit creating machine at the rate of $50,000,000 a year to a surplus producing department of over $13,000,000. The magazines are doing just what every laborer, farmer or business man should do—work for their own interest. And these last named citizens, in order to work for their interest, should vote for Taft.

The young man who casts his first vote, and who now holds a good position, is apt to argue that the election of Wilson will make no material difference with him as his ability will always get him a position, and that things will run along just the same anyway. The election of Cleveland opened the eyes of many a first voter in that election, and the sad memory of the soup house period will ever linger in their minds. No man was too good a clerk, bookkeeper or mechanic to withstand that administration, and the voter who thinks he can cast his vote for Wilson, or his chief aid, Roosevelt, and at the same time vote for his own interest is very much mistaken.

LINCOLN LOCALS

(Crowded out last week.)

Aragon Bros. have incorporated their business under the name of Aragon Sheep Company, with a paid up Capital of $40200.00.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vorkwerk, Saturday morning, an 8 pound girl.

A. H. Harvey agent for the Ford Automobile Co. received a car load of machines Monday morning, from the Denver Office. Among them is a torpedo for Dr. Watson, a touring car for Aragon Bros. and a demonstrator, touring car for Mr. Harvey.

Auselmo Pacheco who has been proprietor of the Lincoln Bar for several years, has traded his saloon and ranch here to his son Ramon who has taken charge. Mr. Pacheco has moved his family to Arabela and will devote his time to the sheep business.

Jake Montano is the proud father of a new girl, born Saturday morning

Henry Swartz, J. D. Fridenbloom and Mr. Pond of Roswell were in Lincoln Friday and Saturday in the interest of the progressive party. They were to meet Congressman George Curry here but on account of a railroad wreck, Mr. Curry failed to come.

School is progressing nicely with a good attendance, no teacher has been secured for the upper school as yet, and the attendance in the lower rooms is unusually large on that account.

RE-RECORDING OF BRANDS

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO CATTLE MEN AND STOCK OWNERS.

In consequence of the great number of brands now on record in the office of the Cattle Sanitary Board, not now in actual use, the State Legislature has passed a law requiring all owners of recorded brands to re-record their brands within a period of six months, commencing on Sept. 10th, 1912. A failure upon the part of each holder of a recorded brand to re-record his brand in the time required by law, forfeits all right of further use. In a short time circular letters together with proper blanks for sending in renewals to the office of the Cattle Sanitary Board will be sent out to each holder of brands now of record. To facilitate this work as much as possible, and to avoid the lapsing of brands, it is earnestly requested that all parties now having recorded brands, upon receipt of proper blanks from this office, send in their renewals with the least possible delay.

Cattle Sanitary Board of New Mexico. By W. J. LINWOOD, Secretary.
