WHAT CAN BE DONE

Dr. Ranniger's Homestead at Oscura a Good Criterion of Agricultural Possibilities

WATER EASILY DEVELOPED

The first of a series of articles on Lincoln County Resources. One each week.

The old idea that Lincoln County was suitable only for grazing purpose is rapidly being dissipated by the phenomenal success of the farmers of this vicinity. A few years ago there was little or no attempt made in this vicinity to get anything out of the land by cultivation.

The last two years in particular should have convinced the most skeptical that Lincoln County is to be an agricultural county and will soon rank in productivity with the farming counties of the middle west. In the Carrizozo Valley this year numerous instances can be cited where the farmer is making good on his hundred and sixty.

While Dr. Guido Ranniger, one of the pioneer residents of Oscura has demonstrated what intelligent endeavor will do in the line of making the land produce at that place.

Dr. Ranniger came to this section of the country from Chicago and took up a homestead about a mile from the station at Oscura. The land was not any better nor any worse than the other unoccupied land in this vicinity. At the present time the homestead has been developed into a productive farm and is valued at many thousand dollars.

Two wells has been sunk on the homestead, and water was developed at the depth of twenty-two feet. A wind mill pumps water from one of the wells and at the other well a three-horse-power-gasoline engine is used which furnishes water at the rate of many gallons a minute.

This fall Dr. Ranniger has just completed a four hundred foot tunnel which he has driven in the hill and developed another good supply of water which will be used next year for irrigating, thereby obviating the necessity of pumping. This year Dr. Ranniger had planted ten acres of sorghum and milo maize which produced ten tons to the acre without irrigation. He also has an orchard of 500 trees which is irrigated from the two wells and the orchard will begin bearing next year.

Dr. Ranniger's home is a feature which no home loving settler can look at without envy; his house of six or seven rooms, constructed with a deep gabled roof of shingles over heavy adobe walls, is a model in coziness. A bath room, running water, every convenience with fine fireplaces and excellent arrangement together with the Ranniger's genial hospitality make his place one of the most pleasant in the agency to visit. The door yard has a sewing fountain, with a vine arbor close by. Domestic animals of all species are raised on the farm and the doctor says the place with all its water is easily worth ten thousand dollars, and we believe it is too when the water recently developed is utilized.

Besides the other growing things a garden supplies the table seven months of the year with fresh vegetables. There are several other farms near Oscura that have been developed to a high efficiency and are producing equally as well as Dr. Ranniger's, which all goes to show that Lincoln County is coming into her own as an agricultural county. Any one not convinced of Lincoln County's ability to grow things should visit one of these places.

CHRISTMAS TIME

BY SIR WALTER SCOTT

HEAP on more wood!—the wind is chill,
But let it whistle as it will,
We'll keep our Christmas merry still
Each age has deemed the new-born year
The fittest time for festal cheer:
And well our Christian sires of old
Loved when the year its course had rolled,
And brought blithe Christmas back again,
With all his hospitable train.
Domestic and religious rite
Gave honor to the hold night:
On Christmas eve the bells were rung;
On Christmas eve the mass was sung;
That only night, in all the year,
Saw the stoled priest the chalice rear.
The damsel donned her kirtle sheen;
The hall was dressed with holly-green;
Forth to the wood did merry-men go,
To gather in the mistletoe.
Then opened wide the baron's hall
To vassal, tenant, serf, and all;
Power laid his rod of rule aside,
And Ceremony doffed his pride,
The heir, with roses in his shoes,
That night might village partner choose.
The lord, undergating, shares
The vulgar game of "post and pair."
All hailed, with uncontrolled delight
And general voice, the happy night,
That to the cottage, as the crown,
Brought tidings of salvation down.

The fire, with well-dried logs supplied
Went roaring up the chimney-wide;
The huge hall-table's oaken face,
Scrubbed till it shone the day to grace,
Bore then upon its massive board
No mark to part the squire and lord,
Then was brought in the lusty brawn,
By old blue-coated serving-man;
Then the grim boar's head frowned on high,
Crested with bays and rosemary.
Well can the green-garbed ranger tell
How, when and where the monster fell;
What dogs before his death he tore,
And all the baiting of the boar.
The wassail round, in good brown bowels
Garnished with ribbons, blithely towls,
There the huge sirloin reeked; hard by
Plum-porridge stood, and Christmas pie;
Nor failed old Scotland to produce,
At such high-tide, her savory goose.
Then came the merry-makers in,
And carols roared with blithesome din;
If unmelodious was the song,
It was a hearty note, and song.
Who lists may in their mumming see
Traces of ancient mystery;
White skirts supplied the masquerade,
And smutted cheeks and visors made;
But, O, makers richly dight
Can boast of bosoms half so light!
England was merry England, when Old Christmas brought his sports again.
'Twas Christmas broached the mightiest ale:
A Christmas gambol oft could cheer
The poor man's heart through half the year.

SANTA AT CHURCH $1000.00 FOR ROADS

The Man of The Hour to Appear at the Methodist Church Christmas Eve

County Road Commission Meets and Plans for The Future.

ENTERTAINMENT AND TREE

Santa Claus, the man of the hour, is to appear in person this year to delight the youngsters of Carrizozo at the Methodist Church on Christmas Eve. His appearance will follow a splendid entertainment produced by the little tots. The children have been carefully trained in the few days allowed to arrange the program, and the subjects will all be appropriate of the Yuletide.

Miss Lorena Sager and Mrs. W. F. Whittingham have had the work of the arrangement of the program in hand and the following numbers will be included:

1. Song
2. Prayer
3. Scripture Reading
4. Welcome
5. Merry Christmas Song
6. What We Bring
7. Recitation
8. Recitation, Primary Class
9. Lullaby
10. Kris King's Surprise
11. How Santa Claus Gets His News
12. Song, by two little girls
13. Recitation, Christmas Night
14. Santa Claus Nap, Recitation
15. Recitation
16. Remarks
17. Farewell Christmas Song.

Then Santa Claus will appear and everyone will be remembered with presents from a beautiful Christmas Tree. About fifty dollars has been collected through the efforts of Mrs. J. E. Kimbell for this part of the evening. There will be candy boxes for all and a remembrance for the little ones. The church is being appropriately decorated for the occasion and the evening will be one of good cheer and festivity. All are welcome to be present at the Methodist Church. The entertainment will start promptly at 7.30 so the little ones can go home early to hang up their stockings.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM.

The Experimental Farm Committee this week met with A. C. Wingfield the donor of the land for the farm and received from Mr. Wingfield a warranty deed with guarantee of clear title to the ten acre tract. The well driller is anxious to start work on the well, and now the land has been duly conveyed it is expected that he will be allowed to commence work at once. The ten acres will be plowed up at an early date in order to conserve all the moisture possible during the remaining winter months.

The Carrizozo Commercial Club will meet at the former place on Monday evening, the 30th of December to consider important matters.

PLEA OF GUILTY TO BURGLARY

Monday afternoon, Gus Wingfield, of the firm of Lee & Wingfield was informed at his market that three men were attempting to enter his homestead house on the edge of town. Mr. Wingfield immediately left for the place and found that the men had already entered his house and had turned most everything upside down in their search for valuables, and had taken a number of small articles. Mr. Wingfield started up the railroad track and apprehended two men and marched them into town where they were searched and some of the articles taken were found. Later, Walker Hyde, G. M. Hughes and Mr. Wingfield went out again in search of the third man and found him among some section men working on the track. The three 'tourists' were arranged before Justices of the Peace Massie on Tuesday morning and pleaded guilty to the charge of burglary in rapid succession. Judge Massie bound them over to await the action of the Grand Jury and District court in March, and failing to make a bond of $1000 each they were committed to the jail at Lincoln.

DEPARTMENT TO CO-OPERATE

The Lincoln County Board of Road Commissioners met this week in Carrizozo to consider matters of importance confronting the body. Perhaps the most important of which was the $1000 available from the Forest department for the making of roads within the limits of the Forest.

Mr. J. P. Kinney supervisor of the Lincoln Forest was here and met with the board and stated that he wished the Board to designate a piece of road within the limits of the forest that they desired repaired and which would serve the most people as the law requires. The Board took the matter up and it was decided that under Mr. Kinney's supervision the money be spent within the limits of the forest reserves along the main county road from the top of Nogal hill toward Capitan for possibly seven miles. Mr. Kinney stated that he would put the work in charge of a competent engineer who would have full charge and who would make the work permanent and do as much as possible with the money now available.

The Board as officially organized at the October meeting is Dr. John Laws of Lincoln, chairman, with Paul Mayer of White Oaks, secretary-treasurer and Jose Vega of Nogal member. The Board has had to take the initiative in a number of matters, as the State Board has given the local Board little or nothing in the way of information to work on and it was decided to take emergency work up as needed but not to go further until advised just what were the duties and limits of the Board by the State organization. The State Board has stated that they are drawing up a set of rules and regulations for the county Boards to work under and these will be published shortly after which time the local Board expects to get down to local work in earnest.

The matter of an outlet for the Borderland Route from Carrizozo to the Otero County line was taken up by the Board and volunteers will log the road and report into the next Board meeting at which time it is hoped at least a good temporary road can be arranged to be put into fair condition until the permanent work is done.

Mr. Farnsworth of Roswell was present at the meeting and will work with the Board in road work. Mr. Farnsworth having been awarded the mail contract by auto from Roswell to Carrizozo. He states that he has a force of three men at work on the road and will maintain a crew of a like number all the year on the mail route road. The crew now at work are doing more or less temporary work as well as removing all small rocks, etc. from the route.

In speaking to the Board Mr. Farnsworth stated that the Borderland Route was certainly attracting many desirable persons. That the records in Roswell show that an average of two automobiles have passed over the route every day since its mapping and that without adding the anticipated increase in the number that the returns to every town in which they stopped mean an expenditure of an average $20.00 a car, which in a year means the leaving of some $15,000.00 a year by the tourist to say nothing of the opportunities of securing these people for residents or permanent investors in the Southwest.

The Board is a very enthusiastic body and working without pay. They are now hampered by the lack of rules and regulations but it is expected they will be in line working order within a few months. Mr. Atkinson, mayor of Roswell, chairman of the County Commissioners and also of the Road Commission of Chavez County stated that county was willing and ready to co-operate in any way with this county in the inter county road. He says that county is building ten miles of good road toward the Lincoln County line at this time which will be a part of the auto road route.

MILLIONS IN 'JACKS'

Kansas Has 10,000 Fenced In and Corn-Fed on Ranch.

Confident That Sunflower Venison Will Bring Him a Fortune and Solve Perplexing Meat Problem.

Kansas City, Mo.—It's easy to beat the high cost of living. All you have to do is to eat a jack rabbit and like it. Very simple, indeed. Numerous experiments have been tried for the cheapening of meat. They range all the way from "frog ranches" to "bear farms," including deer preserves and wild geese hatcheries. But the one thing that is to remove the underpinning from the market quotations on beef is the Kansas jack rabbit. At least that is what Samuel G. Crawford says. Mr. Crawford also says that he has the making of a mighty nifty little rabbit ranch near Grace, Kan., and that he has come to Kansas City to arrange for cold storage facilities necessary to the handling of "Sunflower venison."

It may be Mr. Crawford was dreaming as he sat in the lobby of the Hotel White looking at the rain through a haze of cigar smoke. He says that the wasn't. In fact, Mr. Crawford was emphatic in the declaration that he has a real, bona fide, about-to-be-prosperous reservation for long-pearled bunnies in the immediate vicinity of Grace, and that "there's millions in it." But give Mr. Crawford a chance to speak for himself.

"Sounds funny, does it?" says Mr. Crawford, says he, passing the cigars, "but it ain't no joke. Neither am I trying to sell stock in the enterprise. You see, I've leased several hundred acres of land in northwestern Kansas, just about halfway between Grace and Quilckville. I reckon I've got as many as 10,000 jack rabbits in chicken wire inclosure. I got most of 'em from a rabbit drive, which I promoted among the farmers of that county. The rest I got for eight cents apiece from the farmer boys who trap 'em. I'm feeding 'em corn, and they fatten up like steers—weigh eight or ten pounds in prime condition.

"I'm going to wait until the cold weather and then begin to kill off these rabbits. I'm going to ship 'em in carload lots to Kansas City, and put 'em in cold storage. Then I'm going to sell 'em out for export and for the New York trade.

"There's millions in this idea. Think of Paris eatin' horse meat when it could be eatin' jack rabbit. Think of Berlin doing the same thing when it might be livin' on corn-fed bunny. Think of New York's East side smackin' its lips over Belgian hare, when it might have good, healthy meat raised in the open. That's where most of the rabbits are going—straight to Paris and Berlin. I expect to invade London if I can get rabbits enough.

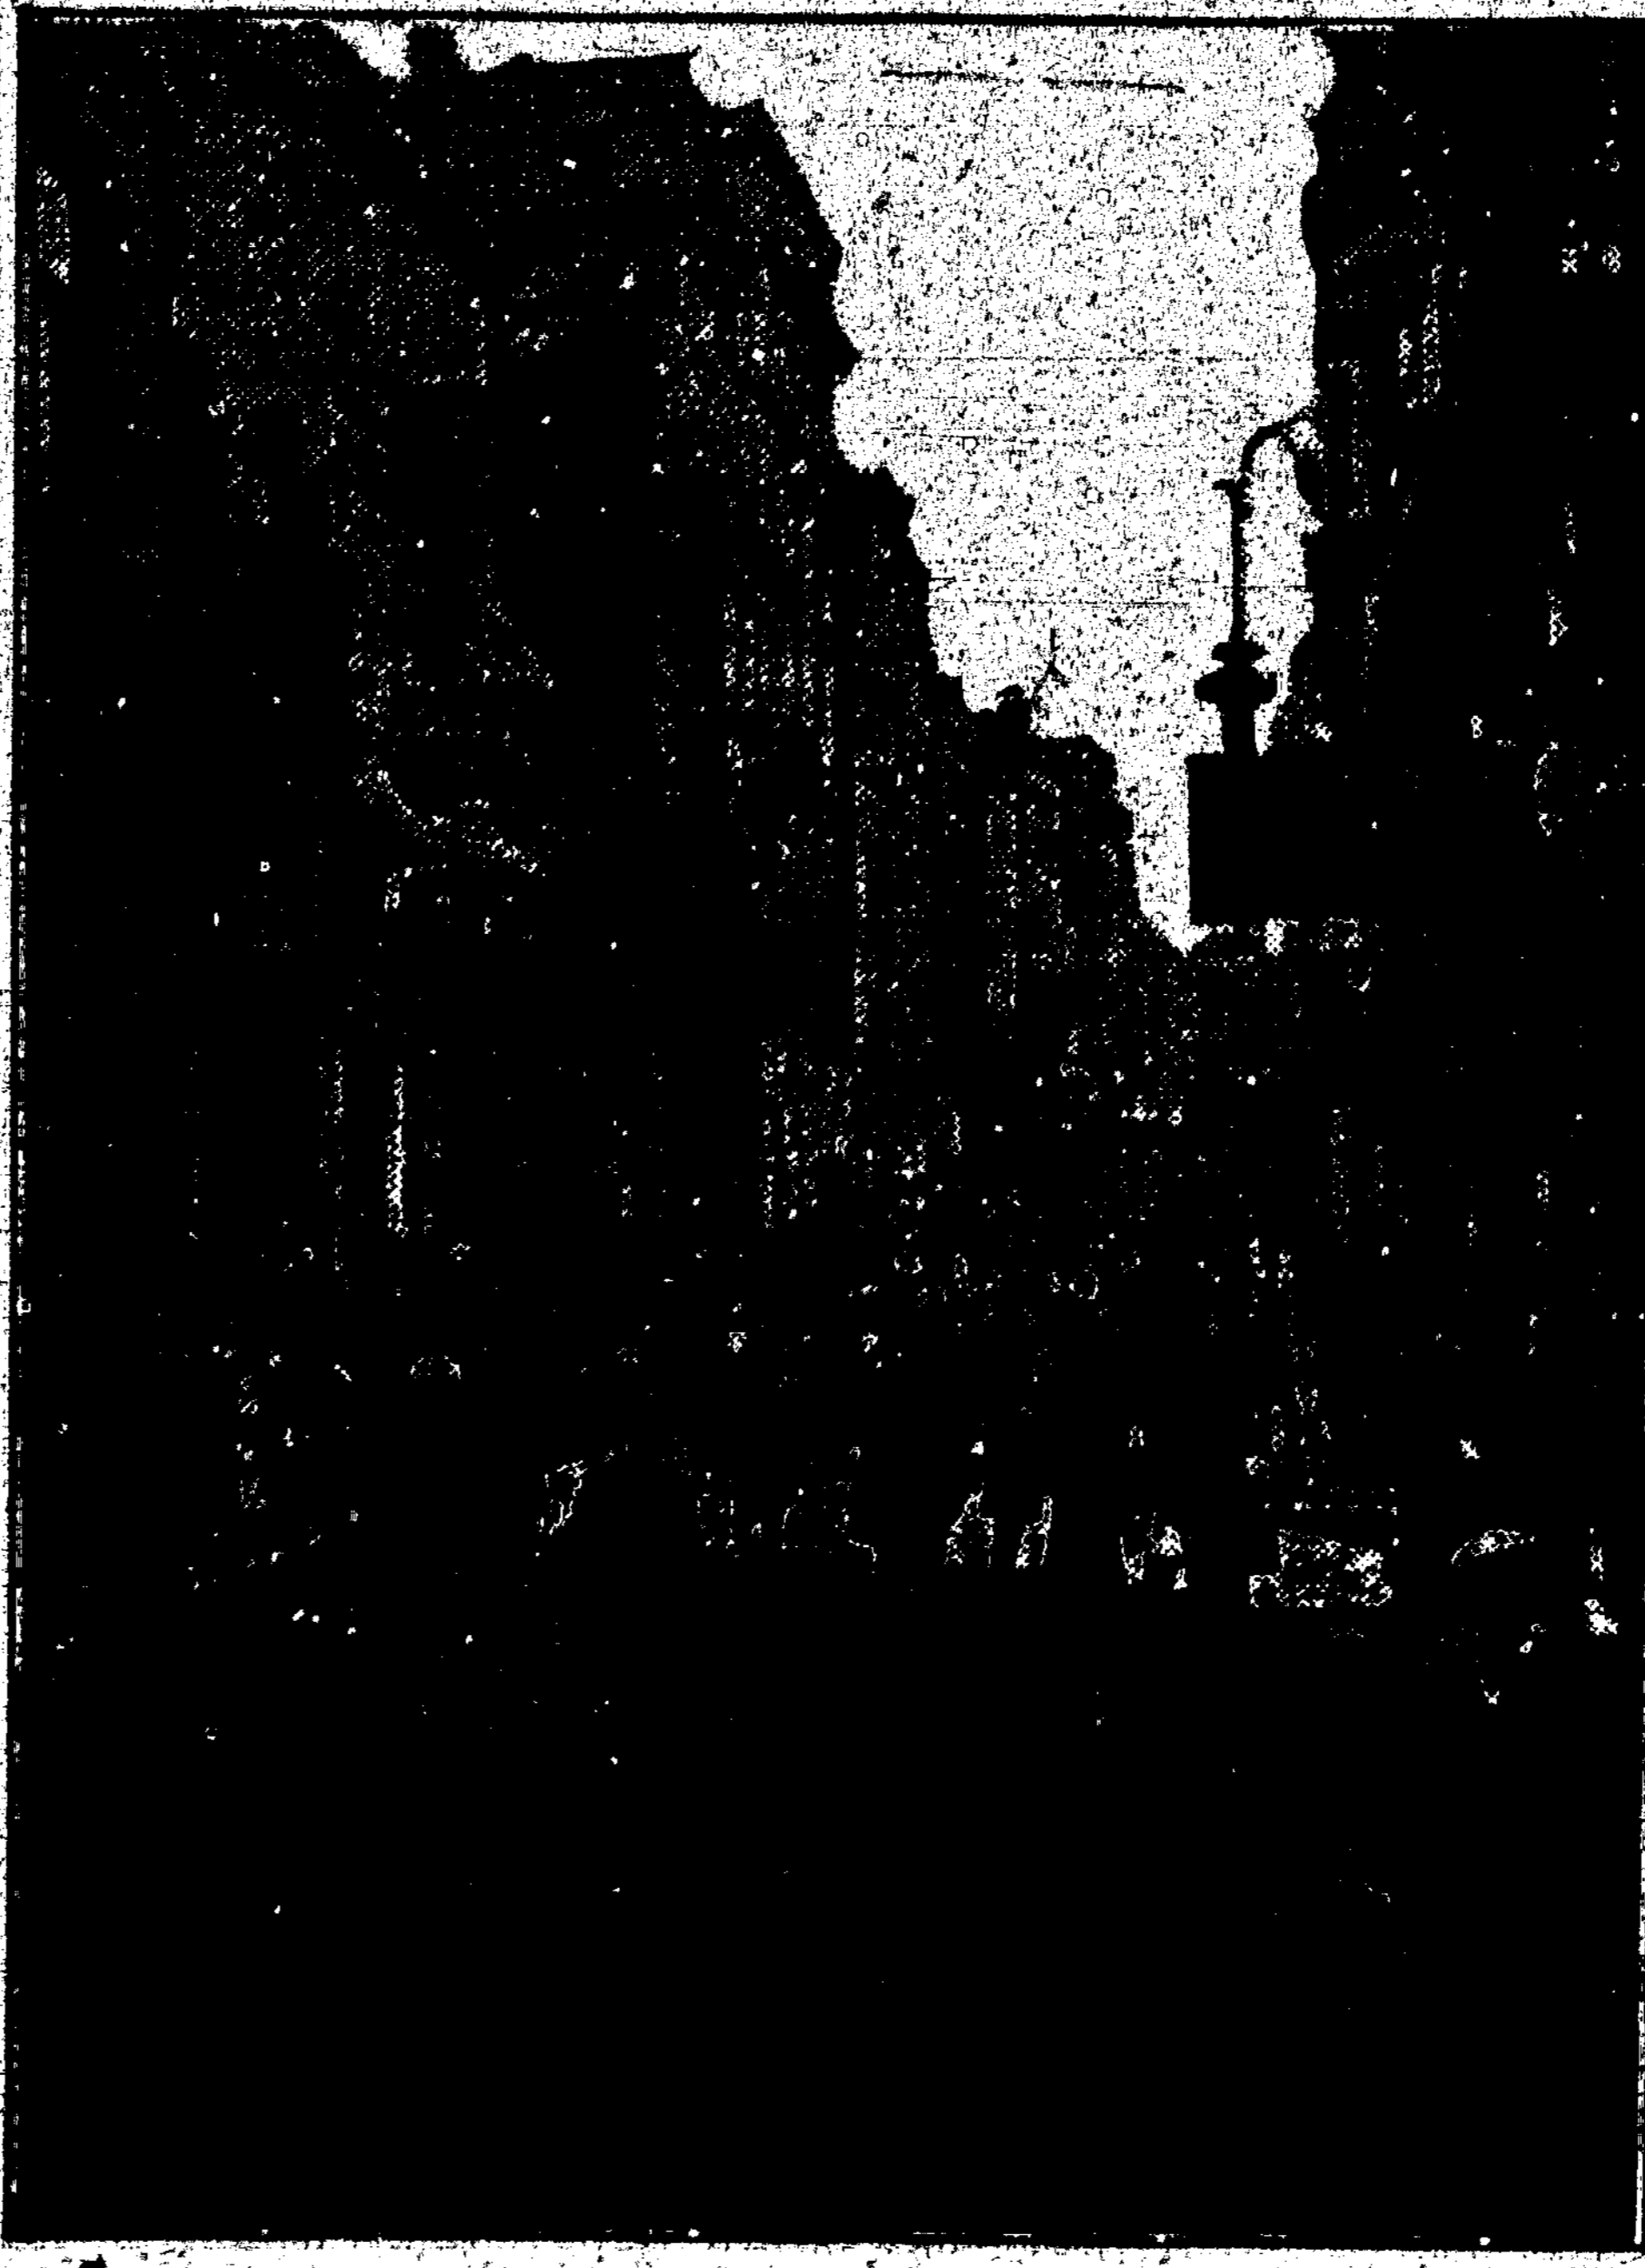

"And I don't mind telling you confidential that there's going to be some canned 'venison' on the market just as soon as I can make arrangements for a little peaking plant. That's something new, too, ain't it? Thought so. But all you got to do is to squirt a little California port wine into every can, an' you'll have something that tastes more like venison than deer meat itself.

"Jack rabbit is what the world is hungry for—good old Kansas jack rabbits, corn fed an' drippin' fat—an' there's millions in it. Let's have another cigar."

Mr. Crawford was buying the three-for-a-dollar kind. Could he have been dreaming?

Warns Against Too Much Meat.
Boston, Mass.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson, speaking here, warned his audience against too much meat, but also told them not to eat too many Boston baked beans.

ESKIMO THE TOPIC

Dr. Anderson of Stefansson Expedition Is in San Francisco.

Talks of Men in Arctic Who Hunt With Grudge Bow and Arrow, Fish Through the Ice, Kindle Fire in an Odd Way.

San Francisco, Cal.—Corroborating in every detail the story of the discovery of the blond Eskimo tribes recently given the world of science by Vilhjalmer Stefansson, his partner in Arctic explorations, Dr. Rudolph Martin Anderson of Forest City, Iowa, arrived here recently on the whaler Helvada after four and a half years in the frozen north. He was accompanied by Prof. M. Dekoven Lemingwell of Pasadena, Cal., who has passed three and a half years making observations in the vicinity of the Flaxman islands and surveying and mapping about 150 miles of the coast line.

"It was over on the Cape Barley territory, on the mainland and on Prince Albert sound, across and to the south of the Dolphin and Union straits, that Stefansson first got in touch with blond aborigines," said Dr. Anderson. "In the spring of 1916 we lost most of our dogs while at Cape Barry, Langton bay and Franklyn bay, where we had wintered. Stefansson and I parted company, he leaving with two Eskimos for the east, while I pushed on to the Makounde delta for supplies. We met again at Langton bay in the autumn of 1916 and he told me of the queer tribe he had discovered.

"In December we started out and were thirty-one days crossing 344 miles of the worst strip of land we ever encountered. We explored the little known Horton river and made records and compass calculations. This is one of the largest rivers flowing into the Arctic. We were going through the barren grounds and put ting in a supply of caribou for our dash for Coronation bay in the spring. "From Dease river in Dismal lake and to the Copper Mine river and Coronation bay was our course, the last 75 miles over the ice before we found these strange people. First we came on a deserted snow village and finally an inhabited village with a population of forty. Many of the men had light mustaches. The people we discovered are extremely primitive, having no modern implements of any kind and no modern weapons. They hunt with a grudge bow and arrow and spear fish through holes in the ice. They cook their food in the fat of the animals they kill. They have two crystallized stones together.

Dr. Anderson brings back hundreds of specimens of mammals, birds, fishes and minerals that will be divided between the Smithsonian geological survey at Ottawa, Ont., and the American museum of Natural history in New York. He has thirty-five specimens of caribou.

DYNAMITE IN HER FIRE WOOD

Woman Narrowly Escapes Death as It Explodes in Home at Shenandoah, Pa.

It is supposed one or more dynamite caps were in the wood.

KILLS DUCKS BY BOOMERANG

Sportsman Says He Bagged Twelve on Eight Throws—Hurts One Into Water, Another as Fleek Rises.

St. Joseph, Mo.—An American hunter who carries boomerangs instead of a repeating shotgun is a curiosity, but Vernon Tantlinger, a local nimerod, uses the Australian war weapon when he goes after ducks.

Tantlinger is an expert with the boomerang and recently bagged twelve ducks with eight throws of his club. Tantlinger says that as the statutes do not prohibit the use of boomerangs he can hunt within the city limits whenever he can find game. His mode of action in killing wild ducks is to throw one boomerang into a flock when it is on the water, and when the birds rise he is ready to hurl another stick into the flock as it is hunched upon the wing.

Worth Three Times a Diamond.
Nearly all the emeralds mined today come from Colombia. And, in spite of the supposed higher value of diamonds, the emerald is the most precious of gems. Carat for carat, a flawless emerald would bring perhaps three times the price of a flawless diamond in the jewelry market. India, the storehouse of precious stones, is credited with producing the first emeralds, but the Oriental emerald is not identical with the modern gem, as it is a variety of the ruby, of green color and extremely rare.

Curious Russian Law.
Russia has a law which to outside observers seems almost to put a premium on theft by which stolen goods, become the property of the thief if he can prove that he has had possession of them for over five years. In the thieves' market—which is, of course, licensed by the police—goods that admittedly have been stolen (more than five years before) are openly offered for sale, and the place is a veritable mecca for the light-fingered gentry and their enterprising friends, as also for the more honest members of society, who secure many a tempting bargain.

Why He Wept.
At a reception one night, says the Woman's Home Companion, a loud voiced young man was invited to sing. Desultory applause followed, and he responded with a vociferous rendering of "My Old Kentucky Home." The hostess was passing among her guests, beaming at the success of her entertainment and sure that everybody was having a good time, when suddenly, to her surprise, she came upon a middle-aged man but slightly known to her, who was weeping silently but bitterly in a secluded corner. Thinking that his heart had been touched by the old song, she asked sympathetically: "Why do you weep? Are you a Kentuckian?"

"No, madam," he replied. "I am a musician."

BACK TO KNEE BREECHES

Men's Society's Aim is to Reform Men's Wearing Apparel—Hat to Be Abolished.

Berlin.—A "Society for the Reform of Men's Apparel" has just been launched for the purpose of inducing men to break away from such "freaks of fashion" as trousers, waistcoats, shirts, suspenders, collars, neckties and hats.

For working and the ordinary purpose of wear the reformers desire to substitute smock or blouse suits, and instead of the prevailing form of evening dress, knee breeches and high heeled shoes, which shall obviate the necessity of either shirts or knee collars.

The hat, if the reformers have their way, will be entirely abolished, although they are willing to allow it to disappear gradually by recommending men to wear a straw head covering of some sort, both summer and winter, until they learn to do without a hat altogether.

Another novelty which is advocated is that each man shall design his own clothes.

GOVERNOR GETS 25 CENT TIP

Pennsylvania Executive Asked to Mail Letter by Aged Man at Station—He Does So.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Governor John K. Tener got out of his private car at Centerville to stretch his legs for a moment. As he was climbing aboard again an old man hurried up to him and said:

"Say, mister, would you mind mailing this letter for me when you get to Philadelphia?"

"Sure hot," said the governor, and held out his hand for it.

"You'll not forget?" the old man called out as the train got under way.

"You bet I won't," was the reply, and then the governor discovered that the old man had given him something besides the letter.

It was a quarter dollar and the gov-

MADE TRAMP MINER'S HEIR

It is not often that a man feeds a stray fowl and has it magically turn into the goose that laid the golden egg, but that is just what has happened to Joe Harris of Knoxville, former auctioneer and member of the Tennessee legislature and now in his old age a poor poultry dealer. Twenty-five years ago Harris fed, clothed and staked a tramp miner, William Robinson, whom he picked up on the streets of Knoxville, and the other day through London solicitors he learned that he is the beneficiary of Robinson's will. The one time tramp died recently in Melbourne leaving an estate said to exceed two million dollars.

When he befriended Robinson Harris was a famous auctioneer and went from city to city through the south conducting sales. He was a picturesque figure. Tall and gaunt, a little stooped, always in frock coat and high silk hat. Harris attracted crowds wherever he went. He had a tremendous stock of funny stories and knew how to tell them so that when he mounted a stand to cry his goods men pushed as close as they could to listen because they were sure of entertainment. He was quick to see funny incidents and could always get back at any wag who tried to be facetious with him. Sales were often delayed until his services could be secured.

He made from three to five hundred dollars every day he worked and sometimes by taking a commission would make as much as $10,000 a day. Generous to a fault, he spent and gave away money as fast as he earned it. No one in distress was ever refused help by him.

One day as he waited for a train in Virginia he saw a woman crying in the station. She held a baby in her arms while a little boy about five years old sat beside her, trying to console her. "What's the trouble over there?" Harris asked a native of the place. "She's been turned out and has to go home to her folks," came the answer.

"Why?" asked Harris, touched by the woman's grief.

"Did you see that rich Col. W.— at the sale today? Well, he sold her husband a little house for $1,000. They were to pay for it on the installment plan. Her husband died last week owing the Colonel $271, so he turned the woman and the children out because, he said, he knew they could not finish the payments."

"That amount don't represent a day's work for me," said Harris. "Call some responsible man. I'll leave the money to finish paying for the house." Harris was already opening a wallet containing more than $1,000 which he had just made in that particular town. "Let the poor thing stay in her home!"

The train was whistling, and Harris handed over the amount, adding: "I'll be here again Monday and will settle any minor expenses incident to the deal."

The favor was forgotten by Harris until a day or two ago he had a letter from the little boy, now grown to manhood. He had read an account of Harris' good fortune and wanted to congratulate him. He and his mother had never been able to write their thanks for his kindness to them because all they knew of their benefactor was that his name was Harris and that he was an auctioneer. They did not know where he lived.

This was only one of many like incidents in his life. He once gave a beggar whom he found in a pitiable physical condition in the streets of Nashville $150 with which to go to a hospital for treatment.

It was in January, 1887, that Harris met the man who has just left him more than $2,000,000. At that time Harris operated an auction house in Knoxville. As he went into town one morning he stopped by an old freight depot that he had just bought and was leaving torn down. While he was looking about giving orders to the men at work, he noticed Robinson, tip his shabby old hat to him. Harris stopped and looked the man in the face. Robinson was evidently hungry. "Have you had breakfast, young man?" Robinson was then 23.

"No, sir, I haven't."

"Take this quarter," began Harris, "and go over to Ropner's saloon and get you two drinks. They'll brace you up. Then I'll take you home for breakfast."

At the table Harris offered Robinson $2 a day to oversee the negroes at work on the old depot. Robinson accepted eagerly. When Harris passed the depot at noon he called to Robinson and took him home to dinner. After the meal was over Robinson picked up a violin belonging to Harris. "Never in my life had I heard such fiddling," declared Harris in an interview last night. "That's the same old fiddle there under my bed. I turned to my wife when he finished playing and I said, 'You can expect this man home to supper tonight. Anybody that fiddles like Robinson here can find lodging as well as food in my house.'"

So the melody played on the old fiddle changed the course of events for both men. Harris can still hear the old tune echoing down the years, but now to the accompaniment of clinking gold.

"You needn't go back to work those niggers this afternoon," Harris told Robinson as they left the house together. "You come to the auction house with me."

It was a new Robinson, freshly shaven and well dressed in new clothes from his shoes to his hat who went home with Harris that night.

When Harris went to Nashville to take his seat as representative from Knox county in the Tennessee legislature he took Robinson with him. Before starting he had his own tailor make Robinson a $45 suit of clothes. Harris had won eight silk hats on Harris' election and he handed one of them over to his new friend.

"If I wear a silk hat to Nashville you'll wear one too," he said.

They stopped at the old Maxwell house and Harris furnished Robinson

Butte, Mont., was a mecca then for all fortune hunters, and Robinson was anxious to try his luck there. So Harris paid his debt to Col. Bell, bought him a ticket to Butte and gave him a roll of money. Robinson left Nashville March 10, 1887.

Six years later Harris heard from him. The expressman brought him a package containing $500 from Robinson, who was then at Cape Nome, in the gold fields of Alaska.

Since that time Harris has had many misfortunes. The great strain of auctioneering both indoors and out has almost ruined his voice. He suffers constantly with his throat. No longer able to conduct sales, he is connected with a small poultry business and is forced to live in a very modest way. His wife, still fond of the beautiful things to which she was accustomed until late years, has made their two rooms over an old store bright with window boxes of blooming flowers and green vines.

Everything about the place is neat and clean, but very plain. There are six or eight large bird-cages in the combination living and bedroom, for Mr. Harris is a great admirer of song-birds and loves to hear their music.

He does not seem elated over the news of his good luck, but will continue to go about his work as usual until the fortune has actually been turned over to him. As he sat in the light of a little oil lamp on a table beside him, never lifting his eyes from the floor as he talked, he did not appear to be over 50, his hair and long mustache are still red, with no touch of gray. He is modest about his generosity in the past, constantly declaring that he never did much for charity.

"I never did anything more than I ought to have done," he frequently asserts. "I have made over $100,000 auctioneering."

JOE HARRIS.

with plenty of spending money. Robinson never mentioned his relatives if he had any living. He appeared to be a man of refinement and culture, well able to take care of himself in the company of the legislators and state senators with whom he was constantly associated in the famous old hotel in Tennessee's capital. He was grateful to Harris and warm in his praise of him. He frequently expressed his belief that he would strike it rich some day and be able to return Harris' kindness.

One night as they were having a drink together Robinson declared that he wanted to play the grain market at old Col. Bell's place, and Harris gave him $50 for the purpose. Later Robinson went to the Maxwell house with $1,200 that he had made out of the $50.

"Now, Robinson, you put $1,000 in my friend H.—'s bank here in Nashville. It is safe, and you can operate on the remaining three hundred," advised Harris, but a day or two afterward Robinson appeared to be much depressed and finally confessed that he had lost his last dollar on May wheat and was in debt $50 to Col. Bell.

He has no children except an adopted daughter, now married, who lives in Kentucky. Since the news of his fortune has gone out over the country Harris has received hundreds of letters, many of them from women who want to marry him. If he is single, they write, please notify them and they will send their pictures.

"The notoriety is the only unpleasant thing about it," he laughed, holding the lamp over his head to light his visitors down the dark hallway of the old building, which he may soon leave for a luxurious home.

Egypt to Preserve Egret.
Mr. Dudgeon, director-general of the department of agriculture, states that the department is interesting itself in the propagation of the white egret, which is a great worm destroyer.

Unfortunately, owing to the trade that is carried on in its feathers, the species had become rather rare in Egypt. A law has now been passed prohibiting the shooting of this bird, with the result that while in the beginning of the year there were only 500 white egrets at Simballawa there are now about double that number.—London Chronicle.

HANDS BURNING, ITCHING

205 Lowell Place, Chicago, Ill.—
"The trouble began by my hands burning and itching and I rubbed and scratched them till one day I saw little red sores coming out. My hands were disfigured and swollen, and troubled me so that I could not sleep. They were cracked and when the small sores broke a white matter would come out. I could not do any hard work; if I did the sores would come out worse. For two years nobody could cure my eczema, until one day I thought I would try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used warm water with the Cuticura Soap and after that I put the Cuticura Ointment on my hands twice a day for about five or six months when I was cured. (Signed) Sam Marcus, Nov. 28, 1911. Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard 'Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston.' Adv.

BUY FROM ADVERTISERS

The high tide of trade for the year is close upon us. Those who buy early get the cream of the traffic. The readers of the Outlook will do well to sit down today and figure out what they need for holiday goods, and buy as quickly as possible.

The columns of this newspaper constitute the best directory for purchases. Therein you may find set forth suggestions of gifts for all kinds of people, provisions for the feasts of the season, winter clothing and home furnishings, and all things you need. This is a time of year when the shopper should particularly study the advertising for bargains. The season of mark-down sales is still six weeks away. If you shop haphazard, you will have to pay high prices.

But there are bargains every day in the year for those who watch out for them. If you avail yourselves of these chances, you can buy to good advantage even in this time of high prices, and have the goods when you want them, while they are at the height of style and seasonability.

A word should be said for the fine group of business men who advertise in these columns. They represent the cream of business ability. They are men who have made good. They have faith in the power of advertising, because they have found that the public has faith in them and their enterprises. In past years they have told their story to the public, the public has believed, it has come in and bought the goods, and the goods have given satisfaction.

Being his faith and shaping his course on this experience the merchant has faith to come in again with his announcements. The fact that these statements are made under the bond of publicity, is proof that the promises these men have before held out have proven true and that they have given dollar's worth for a dollar.

When you buy these advertised goods you buy of men whose business honor, dependability, and good business methods have been tried, tested and proved.

Some people are so constituted that it would be odd if they were not trying to get even.

ROSWELL-CARRIZOZO AUTO MAIL LINE

The contract for the Carrizozo-Roswell automobile mail line was awarded to J. B. Farnsworth of Roswell on December 12, just after the Outlook had gone to press last week. The news was received all along the line with much enthusiasm and the fact that the route goes into operation on January 1st, is also very encouraging.

The contractor Mr. Farnsworth came over the route on Monday of this week, and leaving Roswell at 8 a. m., arrived in Carrizozo at 1.40 p. m., with over an hour stop over on the way. This is much better than the schedule time required which calls for a car leaving Carrizozo and Roswell regularly each morning at 8 o'clock and arriving at the terminus at 5 p. m.

The Vaughn-Roswell mail route is automatically cancelled with the beginning of the route from Carrizozo to Roswell. Carrizozo now will be the main point on the direct route from both east and west to Roswell. All the travel from El Paso is expected to pass through this city. Coming by train to this point and taking the auto line to Roswell.

Arrangements have been practically completed between Charles Stevens of this place and Mr. Farnsworth for Mr. Stevens to act as agent at this point for the auto mail line. Mr. Stevens expects to enlarge his garage and to add necessary improvements to house the automobiles, etc.

Later it is expected that another route will also be installed from Hondo to Tularosa, but no definite information has been received from Washington this week.

The benefits and advantages from the letting of this contract for a daily mail route via automobile between Roswell and Carrizozo are too well known and have been too often pointed out for us to repeat them again; it is sufficient to say that all the people along the line are elated over the government's action in the matter.

WHY IT PAYS TO BUY ADVERTISED GOODS

Because the advertiser has done something to inspire confidence.

He had not only explained the value and usefulness of his product, but has put his personality and reputation behind his statements.

He can be trusted because his very business existence is at stake.

He believes in his good to the extent of investing his capital not only in making the goods right, but in advertising, which will not prove permanently profitable if he fails to make good—secures repeat orders.

The advertising is not only a protection for the trade name, but it is the advertiser's guarantee of quality.

You are justified in being suspicious of unadvertised goods, because, however much confidence the dealer or manufacturer may have in them, he has not enough faith in them to spend money in telling others of their goodness.

And right here we wish to say that the following list of advertisers who use The Outlook pages, we wish to thank for their patronage during the past year.

WHEN REPUBLICANISM IS DEAD

There has been some talk around that in a two years Republicanism will be dead. The following poem will show when Republicanism will be dead.

When the lion eats grass like an ox,

And the fish worms swim in the air,

When elephants roost upon trees,

And the snail out runs the hare,

When the serpents walk upright like men,

And doodle-bugs travel like frogs,

When grasshoppers feed on the hen,

And feathers grow upon hogs,

When toadstools fly in the air,

And mules upon bicycles ride,

When insects in summer are rare,

And women in dress take no pride,

When fish creep over dry land,

And horses roost upon trees,

When foxes lay eggs in the sand,

And snuff falls to make people sneeze,

When Dutchmen no longer drink beer,

And girls take to preaching in time,

When the billy goat butts from the rear,

And treason is no longer a crime;

When the humming bird brays like an ass

And limburger smells like cologne,

When plowshares are made out of glass

And the Republicans heart is of stone,

When ideas grow in the jack ass head,

And wool on the hydraulic ram,

Then Republicanism will be dead,

And the country won't be worth a d—m.

PROFESSOR WILLIAM H. TAFT

President Taft, it is reported from Washington, is considering an offer of the Kent professorship at the Yale law school.

The place has been vacant for several years. It was last filled by Edmund J. Phelps, at one time Minister to Great Britain. The Kent endowment pays $5,000 a year.

Yale will be in great luck if it gets Mr. Taft.

HE ADVERTISED—AT LAST

There was a man in our town,
And he was wondrous wise:
He swore (it was his policy)
He would not advertise.
But one sad day he advertised,
And thereby hangs a tale,
The ad. was set in quite small type
And headed "Sheriff's Sale."

LINCOLN COUNTY NOTES

FT. STANTON NOTES.

An elaborate social program is being arranged for Christmas.

Many improvements are being made here in the way of buildings and repairing.

Father Girma of Lincoln visited with Chaplain Frund a few days last week.

Messrs. Cater and Gentry visited with friends at the sanitarium in Lincoln last Sunday.

The non-sectarian services are held every Sunday evening in the auditorium, during which the Chaplain delivers non-sectarian lectures.

Mr. Lovett, the expert farmer of the post, with his wife and friends took a trip up Juniper mountain one day last week.

Very few patients in the Fort Stanton Hospital, which is a splendid showing for the commanding officer, Dr. Smith, Dr. Lanza and assistant physicians.

Residents of the post are busy gathering the beautiful Mexico Mistletoe and sending same home to their eastern friends for Christmas decorations.

A number of dinners are being held around the parade. An evening with friends is one of the social features among the officers, physicians and their families.

Doctor Pierce, the popular dentist from No. 4, holds the record as the most successful huntsman of the post. The doctor very seldom returns from a hunting trip without some game.

The moving picture show every Monday and Wednesday evening in the amusement hall is greeted with a crowded house. Mr. Babbs is in charge of these shows, which are furnished by the Fort Stanton Amusement Club.

The chapel for Catholic services has just been completed and is one of the finest in the west. Every Sunday morning mass is celebrated by the Chaplain, Father Frund, at 9:30, when all attend regardless of religious beliefs if they wish.

Masses at the Chapel on Christmas morning will be 5:30 and 10 a. m. Mrs. Lovath will preside at the organ and Mrs. Dr. Smith will sing at the first and last mass. The chapel will be beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Dr. Smith, officer in command, has returned from a six weeks' business mission to the various Indian schools of New Mexico and Arizona. The doctor, although it was a laborious trip, came back feeling excellent in health.

Rev. G. G. Frund of Los Angeles, recently appointed Chaplain by the Government, has arrived and entered into his duties with much interest. Father Frund is a priest of the Roman Catholic Church, and is fast gaining the good will and confidence of every one at the Fort.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee of the Government Survey employ, have returned to Los Angeles after a two weeks stay at the Fort. They departed with much regret from the many friends made here during their short stay.

CORONA CLIPPINGS

Earnest Johnson was in town Monday.

Gursey Shim of Nari Vna is now with Mr. Ingram on the ranch.

J. R. Jenkins of Dalhart, Texas, was here the past week looking after his stock interests.

Mr. and Mrs. Rose of Texas have come to spend the winter with their daughter Mrs. Hill north of town. Miss Ollie Beaty who has been visiting relatives in the east returned home a few days ago.

Mr. McCutcheon of Gallinas spent some time in the city doing his Xmas shopping this week.

Lon Jenkins wishes to contract 8000 head of yearling calves for spring delivery.

Mrs. G. B. Papp of Santa Fe, will spend a few days in town looking after her interests in the Valdez and Popp sheep.

Alex Jenkins took his sister, Mrs. Lyles, to the hospital at El Paso the past week. Last reports were that she was improving.

Lon Jenkins bought 1,400 head of sheep from Valdez and Popp, shipping them in care of his son Alex, to Kansas City market.

We will have a Christmas tree with a short program Christmas evening. Let everybody come and commemorate the greatest event known to history, the birth of a loving Savior.

Madame rumor says that wedding bells will ring before the Christmas tide ends in our community. Let us hope that their lot may be cast in peaceful and happy conditions, for many years of useful life together.

What we need to do now is to organize a cemetery association, survey the ground and plat into family sized plats, then fence this ground so that we can take proper care of this sacred city of the dead, all we need to make this a go is a leader, who will make the start. Speak up.

Another Oklahoman with his family has located near town. Last summer Mrs. McGammion's sister Mrs. Shote, of Oklahoma, came out visiting and saw the possibilities of raising chickens, grain, turnips etc, not to say anything of the excellent stock range, she returned to Oklahoma, and soon fired of that country and persuaded her husband to sell out and come here, all we need, to have a family on every 160 acres here is to let the people of the East know the possibilities here.

On the 11th a sadness enveloped the community owing to the death of Lois the 8 year old daughter of G. C. Clements and wife. We grieve for a school mate, loved for all, for a vacant place in the home of our neighbor and the whole community showed their sympathy for the family by assembling at the church and listening to the words of comfort delivered by Bro. Haywood. This dear girl has gone on before to welcome us to the other shore. G. C. Clement's father and mother came from Roswell on a visit but reached here one day too late to see the dear little Lois. They will remain here several days.

On the evening of Dec. 10th the Baptist people of Corona organized a new church and called Rev. H. Haywood to be the pastor, also invited his wife to come with him on his regular 2d Sunday visits. We enjoy her singing. We cordially invite all Baptist people in the community to bring their letters and join with us in the work and we heartily entreat religious people of all denominations to come and worship with us, and likewise do we invite all people to come with us and let us seek to learn wisdom from His holy word. Remember every 2d Sunday and Saturday night before, also come to Sunday school every Sunday at 10 a. m.

THE HOME NEWSPAPERS

The local newspaper is the index to the community to which it serves. Yes, it is more. In reality it is the city directory of the town. We look in the paper for all kinds of information—about churches, schools, lodges, restaurants, places of amusements, livery, stables, garages, lawyers, shoemakers, blacksmiths, and many other lines of business. The stranger often wants to know what there is in town and looks the paper over for information.

The value of the home newspaper in bringing settlers, is often overlooked. The feeling that the paper has a limited circulation, mostly in the immediate vicinity, is a general, and therefore it can not be of value in reaching people at a distance. This is true if the people do not make it a point to get the paper out and in the hands of prospective settlers. The home newspaper is the most valuable advertising matter that can be sent out. Examine the papers published in places that are doing something, and note that every issue has something interesting about the country; often furnished by the Commercial Club.

We want to emphasize the importance of our own papers in creating interest in Carrizozo and the Projects, both at home and abroad. The State Bureau of Immigration is constantly requesting the people of the state to send the home papers away as soon as read. H. B. Henig, the Secretary of the Bureau, is an authority on immigration work and his suggestion bears weight.

We are pleased to see the interest that is now being taken in pushing the development of Carrizozo and Lincoln County. Growth depends on us citizens. And an earnest effort on our part to settle the country will be crowned with success.

OSCURO HAPPENINGS.

Mr. Byfield has moved his family to the Alcy Martin homestead.

Two car-loads of grain and flour are being unloaded in Oscurito.

Dr. Rantiger spent several days in Alamogordo last week where he operated on Mr. Wortman.

Mrs. G. Rantiger was quite seriously hurt in a runaway last Friday evening. We are glad to learn she is improving each day.

The well drillers are again busy on the Gschwind homestead. This makes the third well Mr. Gschwind has had drilled.

County Superintendent, Mrs. W. L. Gummi came down on No. 3 last Thursday and spent the remainder of the afternoon and Friday forenoon visiting the school.

SYNOPSIS.

Lieut. Harry Mallory is ordered to the Philippines. He and Marjorie decide to elope, but wreck of Laticab prevents their seeing minister on the way to the train. Transcontinental train is taking only passengers. Porter has a lively time with an Englishman and Ira Lathrop, a Yankee business man. The elopers have an exciting time getting to the train. "Little Jimmy" Wellington, bound for Reno to get a divorce, boards train in maudlin condition. Later, Mrs. Jimmie appears. She is also bound for Reno with same object. Likewise Mrs. Jimmy Whitcomb. Latter blames Mrs. Jimmie for her marital troubles. Classmates of Mallory decorate bridal berth. Rev. and Mrs. Temple start on a vacation. They decide to cut loose and Temple removes evidence of his calling. Marjorie decides to let Mallory proceed alone, but train starts while they are in farwell. Passengers join Mallory's classmates in giving couple wedding having. Marjorie is distracted. In Lathrop woman-hating bachelor, discovers an old sweetheart, Annie Gattie, a fellow passenger. Mallory vainly hunts for a preacher among the passengers. Mrs. Wellington bores little Jimmy's voice. Later she meets Mrs. Whitcomb. Mallory reports to Marjorie his failure to find a preacher. They decide to pretend a quarrel and Mallory finds a vacant berth. Mrs. Jimmie discovers Wellington on the train. Mallory again makes an unsuccessful hunt for a preacher. Dr. Temple poses as a physician. Mrs. Temple is induced by Mrs. Wellington to smoke a cigar. Eight o'clock. Lathrop platform raises Mallory's hope, but he takes another train. Missing hand baggage compels the couple to borrow from passengers. Jimmie gets a cinder in his eye and Mrs. Jimmie resumes. No clergyman. More borrowing. Dr. Temple puffed by behavior of different couples. Marjorie's jealousy aroused by Mallory's baseball jacket. Marjorie suggests wrecking the train in hopes that accident will produce a preacher. Also tries to induce the conductor to hold the train so she can shop. Marjorie's dog is missing. She pulls the cord, stopping the train. Conductor returns and offers a preacher to marry her and Miss Gattie. Mallory tells Lathrop of his predicament and arranges to borrow the preacher, Kitty Lewellyn, former sweetheart of Marjorie's, and arouses Marjorie's jealousy.

CHAPTER XXX.

A Wedding on Wheels.

The commotion of the matrimony-mad women brought the men flopping in from the smoking room and there was much circumstance of decorating the scene with white satin ribbons, a frill crumpled and dim of luster. Mrs. Whitcomb waved them at Mallory with a laugh:

"Recognize these?"

He nodded dismally. His own funeral baked meats were coldly furnishing forth a wedding breakfast for Ira Lathrop. Mrs. Wellington was moving about distributing kazooes and Mrs. Temple had an armload of old shoes, some of which had thumped Mallory on an occasion which seemed to ancient as to be almost prehistoric.

Foedick was howling to the porter to get some rice, quick!

"How many portions does you approximate?"

"All you've got."

"Bolted or fried?"

"Any old way." The porter ran forward to the dining-car for the ammunition.

Mrs. Temple whispered to her husband: "Too bad you're not officiating, Walter." But he cautioned silence: "Hush! I'm on my vacation."

The train was already coming into Ogden. Noises were multiplying and from the increase of passing objects, the speed seemed to be taking on a spurt. The bell was clanging like a wedding chime in a steeple.

Mrs. Wellington was on a chair fastening a ribbon round one of the lamps, and Mrs. Whitcomb was on another chair braiding the bell-rope with withered orange branches, when Ashton, with kazoo all ready, called out: "What tune shall we play?"

"I prefer the Mendelssohn Wedding March," said Mrs. Whitcomb, but Mrs. Wellington glared across at her.

"I've always used the Schleglin."

"We'll play 'em both," said Dr. Temple, in make peace.

Mrs. Foedick murmured to her spouse: "The old Justice of the Peace didn't give us any music at all," and received in reward one of his most beautiful-eyed looks, and a whisper: "But he gave us each other."

"How and then," she pouted.

"But where are the bride and groom?"

"Here they come—all ready," cried Ashton, and he beat time while some of the guests hunched at Mendelssohn's and some Wagner's bridal marches, and others just made a noise.

Ira Lathrop and Annie Gattie, looking very thoughtful, crowded through the narrow corridor and stood shamefacely blushing like two school children about to sing a duet.

The train jolted to a dead stop. The conductor called into the car: "Urgent! All out for Ogden!" and everybody stood watching and waiting.

Ira, seeing Mallory, edged close and whispered: "Stand by to catch the minister on the rebound."

But Mallory turned away. What use had he now for ministers? His plans were shattered ruins.

The porter came flying in with two large bowls of rice, and shouting: "Here comes the possum—er—possum." Seeing Marjorie, he said: "Shall I perambulate Miss Snoodle-ums?"

She handed the porter her only friend and he hurried out, as a lean and professionally sad academic hurried in. He did not recognize his boyish enemy in the gray-haired, red-faced giant that greeted him, but he knew that voice and its glowing irony:

"Hello, Charlie."

He had always found that when Ira grinned and was cordial, some trouble was in store for him. He wondered what rock Ira held behind his back now; but he forced an uneasy cordiality: "And is this you, Ira? Well, well! It is years since last we met. And you're just getting married. Is this the first time, Ira?"

"First offense, Charlie."

The levity shocked Selby, but a greater shock was in store, for when he inquired: "And who is the—er—happy—bride?" the triumphant Lathrop snickered: "I believe you used to know her, Annie Gattie."

This was the rock behind Ira's back, and Selby took it with a wince: "Not my old—"

"The same. Anne, you remember, Charlie."

"Oh, yes," said Anne, "How do you do, Charlie?" And she put out a shy hand, which he took with one still shy. He was so unsettled that he stammered: "Well, well, I had always hoped to marry you, Anne, but not just this way."

STOOD BLUSHING LIKE TWO SCHOOL CHILDREN.

Lathrop cut him short with a sharp: "Better get busy—before the train starts. And I'll pay you in advance before you set off the fireworks."

The stopping paired Rev. Charles, but he was remembered by one glance at the bill that Ira thrust into his palm. If a man's gratitude for his wife is measured by the size of the fee he hands the coaching parson, he was madly in love with Anne. Rev. Charles had a reminiscent suspicion that it was probably a counterfeit, but for once he did Ira an injustice.

The minister was in such a flutter from losing his boyhood love, and gaining so much money all at once and from performing the marriage on a train, that he made numerous errors in the ceremony, but nobody noticed them, and the spirit, if not the letter of the occasion, was there and the contract was doubtless legal enough.

The ritual began with the pleasant:

"I don't love you, and that's why I'm going to marry you."

"But I don't understand."

"Of course not," she answered, as if she were a thousand years old. "You're only a man—and a very young man."

"You've ceased to love me," he protested, "just because of a little affair I had before I met you?"

Marjorie answered with woman's wisdom: "A woman can forgive a man anything except what he did before he met her."

He stared at her with masculine dismay at feminine logic: "If you can't forgive me, then why do you marry me?"

"For revenge!" she cried. "You brought me on this train all this distance to introduce me to a girl you used to spoon with. And I don't like her. She's awful!"

"Yes, she is awful," Mallory assented. "I don't know how I ever—"

"Oh, you admit it!"

"No."

murmur of the preacher's voice, and the passengers crowded round in a solemn calm, which was suddenly violated by a loud yelp of laughter from Wedgwood, who omitted guffaw after guffaw and bent double and opened out again, like an agitated umbrella.

The wedding-guests turned on him visages of horror, and hissed silence at him. Ashton seized him, shook him, and muttered:

"What the—what's the matter with you?"

The Englishman shook like a boy having a spasm of giggles at a funeral, and burst out the explanation:

"That story about the bridegroom—I just saw the point!"

Ashton closed his jaw by brute force and watched over him through the rest of the festivity.

CHAPTER XXXI.

Foiled Yet Again.

Mallory had fled from the scene at the first hum of the minister's words. His fate was like sikal on his palate. For twelve hundred miles he had ransacked the world for a minister. When one dropped on the train-like manna through the roof, even this miracle had to be checked by a perverse miracle that sent to the train an early infatuation, a silly affair that he himself called nuppy-love. And now Marjorie would never marry him. He did not blame her. He blamed fate.

He was in solitude in the smoking room. The place reeked with drifting tobacco smoke and the malodor of cigar stubs and cigarette ends. His plans were as useless and odious as cigarette ends. He dropped into a chair, his elbows on his knees and his head in his hands—Napoleon on St. Helena.

And then, suddenly he heard Marjorie's voice. He turned and saw her hesitating in the doorway. He rose to welcome her, but the smile died on his lips at her chilly speech:

"May I have a word with you, sir?"

"Of course. The sir's rather thick in here," he apologized.

"Just wait!" she said, ominously, and stalked in like a young Zehobia. He put out an appealing hand: "Now, Marjorie, listen to reason. Of course I know you won't marry me now."

"Oh, you know that, do you?" she said, with a squared jaw.

"But, really, you ought to marry me—not merely because I love you—and you're the only girl I ever—"

He stopped short and she almost smiled as she taunted him: "Go on—I dare you to say it."

He swallowed hard and waived the point: "Well, anyway, you ought to marry me—for your own sake."

Then she took his breath away by answering: "Oh, I'm going to marry you, never fear."

"You are," he cried, with a rush of returning hope. "Oh, I knew you loved me."

She pushed his encircling arms

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

School Land Ship.

One of the features of their public school training which the boys of Zehobia, Germany, enjoy most is the "land ship," on which young sailors go through a regular daily training. The title is the name of the land ship which has been built and which has a crew of its boys. The larger boys act as officers. When they are at work on the land ship the boys dress in midly blouses and caps. There is gun practice on the land ship every day, and a naval drill, and all the usual work of a ship is done by the boys. They have the greatest fun in climbing the spars and hoisting the sails, and life on the ship is so popular that there are always more applicants for the crew than there are places to be filled.

Sacrificed to "Black Goddess."

A horrible case of human sacrifice resulted in sentence of death being passed at Mirapur, southern India, recently, on a Hindu named Raghuandana. A party of Hindu girls was gathering firewood in the forest one day, when the man rushed at them, knocked one of them down, and drove the others away. He picked his victim up and carried her, screaming, to a pit which he had dug. Crying three times, "Hail, Mahabari! Hail, Black Goddess! Behold your sacrifice!" he thrust the girl into the pit, rolled stones upon her, and covered her with earth. When the victim's parents arrived the Hindu had killed in the pit and was trampling down the earth. The girl was dead.

Squirrel Was the Messenger.

The occupants of a house at West Medway, in Norfolk county, Virginia, were astonished at finding continually in the fireplace small pieces of paper that had been dropped down the chimney from some mysterious source. When the owner began watching outside the house he saw a squirrel run up the roof and enter the chimney. It was concluded that the messages had been sent down by the squirrel.

Educations.

"He never finished the course."

"Did his divine infatue give out?"

"No. His pretenses."

"Well, I'm going to marry you—now—this minute—with that preacher, then I'm going to get off at Reno and divorce you."

"Divorce me! Good Lord! On what grounds?"

"On the grounds of Miss Kitty—Kitty—Lewellyn—or—whatever her name is."

Mallory was groggy with punishment, and the vain effort to foresee her next blow. "But you can't name a woman that way," he pleaded, "for just being nice to me before I ever met you."

"That's the worst kind of unfaithfulness," she reiterated. "You should have known that some day you would meet me. You should have saved your first love for me."

"But last love is best," Mallory interposed, weakly.

"Oh, no, it isn't; and if it is, how do I know I'm to be your last love? No, sir, when I've divorced you, you can go back to your first love and go round the world with her till you get dizzy."

"But I don't want her for a wife," Mallory urged, "I want you."

"You'll get me—but not for long. And one other thing, I want you to get that bracelet away from that creature. Do you promise?"

"How can I get it away?"

"Take it away! Do you promise?"

Mallory surrendered completely. Anything to get Marjorie safely into his arms! "I promise—anything, if you'll really marry me."

"Oh, I'll marry you, sir, but not really."

And while he stared in helpless awe at the cynic and termagant that jealousy had metamorphosed into this timid, clinging creature into, they heard the conductor's voice at the rear door of the car: "Hurry up—we've got to start!"

They heard Lathrop's protest: "Hold on there, conductor, and Selby's plea: "Oh, I say, my good man, wait a moment, can't you?"

The conductor answered, with the gruffness of a despot: "Not a minute. I've my orders to make up lost time. All aboard!"

While the minister was tying the last loose ends of the matrimonial knot, Mallory and Marjorie were struggling through the crowd to get at him. Just as they were near, they were swept aside by the rush of the bride and groom, for the parson's "I pronounce you man and wife," pronounced as he backed toward the door, was the signal for another wedding riot.

Once more Ira and Anne were showered with rice. This time it was their own. Ira darted into the corridor, haling his brand-new wife by the wrist, and the wedding guests pursued them across the vestibule, through the next car, and on, and on.

Nobody remained to notice what happened to the parson. Having performed his function, he was without further interest or use. But to Mallory and Marjorie he was vitally necessary.

AFTER HE HAD COUNTED THEM

His Companions Safe, Philadelphia Man Was Satisfied That He Had Really Shot Buck.

Thomas Martindale, the Philadelphia moose hunter, said, apropos of the opening of the deer season: "Buck fever is a strange disease. The victim of it does some remarkable things."

"A Philadelphian was deer hunting in Maine. He shot four or five shots into a thick copse, and then he shouted: 'All of you come out of there! Half a dozen sportsmen issued from the copse hurriedly: 'Are you all out?' said the Philadelphian. 'One, two, three, four. Where's Jake? Oh, there you are, Jake. Are you all out, sure?' 'Yes,' they answered. 'We're all out; the whole party's out.' 'Hurrah, then!' shouted the Philadelphian. 'Hurrah! I've shot a buck!'"

Usual Kind of Office Seekers.

"Well, how's every little thing, now that election is over?" asked the recently arrived washing machine agent.

"Doubt as they are every place else, I reckon," a bit pessimistically replied the landlord of the Turigdown tavern.

"The banker, the storekeepers, the number yard man, the doctor, the stock buyer, the blacksmith and all the rest of the business men who have always proved to be capable of managing their various sized affairs successfully, are going on calmly and carefully attending to 'em, while all the trifflin', one-galused incompetents that have never had any affairs of their own to attend to and wouldn't be capable of conducting 'em properly if they had any, are out hotfoot and hell-bent to get-and-manage the post office for the rest of us!"

Smelled a Graffer.

A Boston clubman recently returned from a visit to New York city. In discussing his trip one of his friends asked him whether he had a policeman in his pocket. The clubman hesitated for a moment, seriously questioning his friend's sanity, when the latter added:

"I didn't know whether you could be here a week without some graffer or other getting into your pocket."

A FRIEND'S ADVICE

Something Worth Listening To.

A young Nebr. man was advised by a friend to eat Grape-Nuts because he was all run down from a spell of fever. He tells the story:

"Last spring I had an attack of fever that left me in a very weak condition. I had to quit work; had no appetite, was nervous and discouraged."

"A friend advised me to eat Grape-Nuts, but I paid no attention to him and kept getting worse as time went by."

"I took many kinds of medicine but none of them seemed to help me. My system was completely run down, my blood got out of order from want of proper food, and several very large boils broke out on my neck. I was so weak I could hardly walk."

"One day mother ordered some Grape-Nuts and induced me to eat some. I felt better and that night rested fine. As I continued to use the food every day, I grew stronger steadily and now have regained my former good health. I would not be without Grape-Nuts, as I believe it is the most health-giving food in the world." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Seattle Mining Suits.
New York.—Following the announcement of a settlement of the Carter suit against the Stewart Mining Company, it was said that the one brought by A. La France copper bandholder against the United Copper Company was about to be concluded peacefully.

Grand Valley People Plan New County
Grand Junction.—A movement has been started by residents in the lower part of the Grand valley for creation of a new county to be known as Fruita. Mesa county is one of the largest in the state and will soon be fourth in population. The insurgents would cut off the west half of the county, just west of Grand Junction, and make Fruita county, with the town of Fruita as the county seat. They would include Rhone, Fruita, Loma, Mack and the four new towns which the government has laid out in the 60,000 acres to be opened by the government high line canal. Glade Park, the center of the dry farming industry in western Colorado, would also be included.

GRADE POWDER RIVER LINE.
Burlington Is Expected to Build to Orin Junction, Wyo.
New York.—With the completion of the Burlington line from Thermopoles to Powder River, Wyo. it is expected that the Chicago & Northwestern will make use of this route to send traffic north from Powder River to Billings, Mont., over the Burlington and thence over the Northern Pacific west to Puget Sound. Grading on the Thermopoles-Powder River line is finished and track is expected to be laid by the first of the year. Eventually, the Burlington will build to Orin Junction, Wyo. which is the northern terminus of the Colorado & Southern.

$300,000 AVAILABLE FOR ROADS.
Government Turned Over to State $15,000 from Land Sales.
Denver.—It is claimed by the State Highway Commission that exclusive of the appropriation to be asked of the Legislature to carry on its work next year, there will be available in the state treasury about $300,000 for work on roads throughout the state by the first of the year.
Of this amount $18,562.63 was turned over by the land board on leases and land sales for October. For November, the receipts are expected to reach $8,000, which will be added to the general fund.

The United States government has turned over to the commission a check for $15,355.34, representing five per cent. of the total receipts from public land sales during the year ending June 30, 1912. The commission is endeavoring to secure a part of all of the $150,000 capitol bond fund, designated for its use. An increase in the available fund depends entirely upon the land board, whose receipts from leases on school lands go to the support of the highway commission.

COTTON GINNED IN AMERICA.
Census Bureau Estimate on Crop Ready for Market.
Washington.—Cotton ginning during the fifth period of the season, from November 1 to 14, was more active this year than it was during the record crop year of 1911 by about 5,000 bales per working day, the census bureau's report showed.
The total ginning for the period was 11,422,269 bales, compared with 1,342,331 bales last year. From the beginning of the season to November 14 the quality ginned was 10,291,431 bales compared with 11,312,236 bales last year.
The average ginning per working day was 129,291 bales, compared with 132,230 bales during the same season last year.
An estimate of this year's cotton crop will be issued by the Department of Agriculture December 12 at 2 p. m.
Cotton ginned prior to November 14, amounted to 10,291,431 bales, the census bureau announced. Round bales included were 62,470, and sea island 41,321 bales. ROAD and FARM IMPROVEMENT

MAKING SMOKE HOUSE SAFE

Danger of Burning Building Eliminated by Use of Old Stove Connected by Pipes Outside.

By J. G. WOODWORTH.
It is often the case when building a fire in the smoke house that the fire will burn up too high and catch the meat, sometimes the flames catching the house, and as a consequence buildings may be destroyed. Oftentimes the heat is such that the meat is partially cooked or heated to such an extent that it weats and soon loses its flavor, becoming strong and unfit for table use. This may be all overcome by the use of an old stove, one that is hardly fit for use in the house for heating purposes. Make a hole that will accommodate the size of pipe you happen to have near the floor of the meat house; set the stove five or six feet from the house, that there may be used three joints of pipe. This will permit the smoke to cool sufficiently, which will give the meat a fine flavor. It would be better to spend two or three dollars for a stove than to run a great risk in building a fire in the smoke house.

FILLING GRANARY NOW EASY

Farmers Save Much Valuable Time by Using Portable Elevators in Storing Their Crops.

Farmers nowadays are too busy and their time is too valuable to load corn into this granary by shovels. This work is now done by portable elevators with conveyors for delivering grain into the farthest corner of bars, crib or granary, and distributing ear corn or small grain at various places in the length of the building. The discharge spout can be placed at different points, and will discharge on either side of the conveyor.

Filling the Granary.

Plow Early.

Plow the land as early as possible. To make it still better, disk the land two or three weeks before plowing. This diskage makes a better seedbed, as the stubble is mixed with the soil. The diskage also buries weed seed and grain, which makes them germinate and the plowing kills them. Early fall plowing will, as a rule, make a better crop than spring plowing and especially so if the land was disked first. Then again, there is less little time in the spring to do the plowing then.

Handling Cabbages.

Cabbages which are to be stored should be handled with care. When thrown from the field into the wagon, the heads are severely bruised, and this is likely to cause decay after storage. Some of the most careful growers use crates, baskets or tubs in which the heads are carefully placed in the field and these are hauled to the storage houses, where they are emptied quickly and with care. Too much care cannot be exercised in the harvesting of all crops which are intended for storage.

How Europe Saves Fertility.

The fertility of European soil is maintained by maintaining the supply of active plant food and of organic matter. A part of the nitrogen is secured from the air, a part from the purchased feeding stuffs and some from the nitrogenous fertilizers. The losses of potash and phosphoric acid in the crop are counterbalanced by purchases in feeds and fertilizers. Every care is taken to prevent loss of plant food. Leaves, stalks, etc., are either saved and fed or are used as bedding.

WHERE GOOD ROADS BENEFIT

Case Cited Where It Cost Farmer Much Time and Money to Deliver Small Load of Apples.

Recently my man went to the county seat to deliver 25 bushels of apples. The mud was so deep that the team was repeatedly stopped to wind on level stretches and on many hills a brake was not necessary, writes D. H. Watts in the New England Homestead. The time required to make the round trip of 32 miles was 13 hours, not counting the time used feeding the team and in unloading. Much less time and scarcely any wear and tear of team, wagon and harness would have delivered 75 bushels on a macadam or a brick road bed.

If man and team are worth $4 a day, and they are, then we lost $9 earning capacity that day and worked very hard 13 hours (more than a day and a half, by eight-hour day system) to earn a day's wages. The gigantic question is not, do good roads cost too much, but how much more do bad roads cost us? Let every farmer be a committee of one to figure on road profits and losses. The postoffice department and many others might well participate. The consumer of farm products is a sufferer also, as because of these ill-kept roads his supply comes inadequately at times, and again so as to demoralize the market. It is true that difficult transportation invariably means higher prices at the consumer's door.

DEVICE FOR WEIGHING GRAIN

Arranged to Work Automatically, Registering Total Weight of Grain Passing Through.

The Scientific American is describing an automatic grain weigher, the invention of E. L. Adams of Edgar, Neb., says:

This device is operated automatically by the weight of grain it receives. It comprises a hollow vessel with an inlet at one end and an outlet at the other, and comprising means by which grain can enter, the vessel until its limit of capacity is reached. Means also provide for the automatic discharge of the grain, and it passes continuously into the receiving vessel at one end and is delivered at the other, being retained long enough to actuate the mechanism which controls the outlet, and to register the time the outlet mechanism is actuated in this way, so as to indicate the measure of the total quantity of grain passing through the weigher. A side view of the device is shown in the illustration.

Good Roads & Farm Notes

By the day, did you ever hear of a road drag?

A good time now to patch up around the farm buildings.

If possible, put the celery away in slightly moist, clean sand.

The toolhouse has become one of the important adjuncts to the modern farm.

Only in rare cases do cutworms bother crops that are planted on fall plowed land.

A coat of manure put on the garden this fall will give a good account of itself next June.

Hot bed sashes are usually three by six feet in dimensions, but smaller sizes may be used.

Seed corn is an expensive luxury if placed where the birds, poultry, mice and rats can get it.

It is quite common to sow buckwheat, especially on poor land, as a green manure crop.

Gardens infested with cut worms may be helped by keeping the land free from vegetation all fall and burning all trash.

A good time now to haul and spread manure on the vegetable garden so that winter rains can do their part.

Seed potatoes stored in the cellar should be kept in as light a place as possible. Light weakens the skins and retards sprouting.

There would be more broom corn raised if the farmers generally understood how to cut, handle and cure this money-making crop. The original cost of the machinery found on the scrap heap of many of our farmers would set a young couple up in business in very comfortable shape.

Suicide Among German Children. Why do so many German children commit suicide? No one seems to know, but there is no dispute about the fact. Indeed, it has been said that the majority of suicides are those of children, and experts seem inclined to connect the grisly epidemic with the educational system. That "the weak must go to the wall" has become an axiom that has been extended to the schools, and the undeveloped mind of the child seeks relief in suicide from the discouragement of failure. It would be interesting to know if any of the so-called heathen countries of the world have ever experienced such a horrid social phenomenon as that of child suicide.

"CHRISTMAS"

There is a passage in "The Pickwick Papers" which everybody can understand, what every healthy person has felt about Christmas since the barbarians of Northern Europe made the first Yuletide festival.

"And numerous indeed are the hearts to which Christmas brings a brief season of happiness and enjoyment. How many families, whose members have been dispersed and scattered far and wide, in the restless struggles of life, are then reunited, and meet once again in that happy state of companionship and mutual good-will, which is a source of such pure and unalloyed delight, and one so incompatible with the cares and sorrows of the world, that the religious belief of the most civilized nations, and the rude traditions of the roughest savages, alike, number it among the first joys of a future condition of existence, provided for the blest and happy. How many old recollections, and how many dormant sympathies does Christmas time awaken? We write these words now, many miles distant from the spot at which, year after year, we meet on that day, a merry and joyous circle. Many of the hearts that throbbed so gayly then, have ceased to beat; many of the looks that shone so brightly then have ceased to glow; the hands we clasped, have grown cold; the eyes we sought have hid their lustre in the grave; and yet the old house, the room, the merry voices and smiling faces, the jest, the laugh, the most minute and trivial circumstances connect with those happy meetings crowd upon our mind at each recurrence of the season, as if the last assembly had been but yesterday. Happy, happy Christmas that can win us back to the delusions of our childish days; that can recall to the old man the pleasures of his youth; that can transport the sailor and the traveler thousands of miles away, back to his own fireside, and his quiet home."

Stated in the terms and sentiment of his own day, Charles Dickens has put into that passage the spirit of Christmas and the Christmas sentiment of all time.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

The midwinter examination for teachers will be held in Carrizozo, January 10th and 11th, 1913.

There will be questions for first, second and third grades of certificates. Any persons wishing questions for professional certificates please inform the County Superintendent early that questions may be sent for the special subjects.

Teachers wishing to raise grade of certificate may take part of examination at this time and rest at another examination. MRS. WALLACE L. GUMM, Supt. of Lincoln County Schools, Dec 20-3t

MESCALERO INDIANS COMING

According to a Washington dispatch there are to be 200 Indians added to the Mescalero Reservation at Tularosa.

The dispatch states: Plans have been made for the final disposition of the famous Geronimo band of Apache Indians, held as military prisoners at Fort Sill. Acting Commissioner of Affairs Abbott, according to them the right to choose whether to remain at Fort Sill or to go to their old home and fighting grounds in the Mescalero section of New Mexico.

Eighty-six of them elected to stay at Fort Sill and the remainder of the 200 will be located on permanent homes in New Mexico as soon as the needed $75,000 appropriation for the expense is obtained from congress.

JUSTICE OF PEACE ELECTION

On Tuesday the 7th day of January, Justices of the Peace and Constables for the various precincts of the county will be elected for the ensuing two years. The Board of County Commissioners will meet on December 28th, to appoint judges of election and designate polling places.

SCHOOL NOTES

The new Oscura school-house built from plans furnished by the State Department of Education is a model of convenience—the lighting and ventilation are admirably arranged. The school like the building is worthy of imitation. The 38 pupils under Mrs. Blaney's leadership are doing splendid work.

Holloway school is closed for the holidays. Miss Ethel Philips, the teacher is visiting her parents at Fort Stanton. This school attendance the past month was the best in the county.

Picacho and Lincoln are making preparations for a Christmas entertainments.

A parent's meeting is planned in connection with the Christmas celebration at Oscura on December 20. Corona district now has four teachers. Two in the town school and two in rural neighborhoods.

Ancho plans to have a Christmas entertainment and no holidays but Christmas itself. These pupils are enjoying the school too much to care for other holidays.

TEACHER'S EXAMINATIONS.

Candidates for third grade certificates shall be examined in the following branches: Reading, penmanship, Orthography, Geography, English Grammar and Composition, Physiology and Arithmetic. Third grade certificates are recognized for one year in any county of the state.

Candidates for second grade certificates in addition to the studies for third grade shall be examined in United States History, and an Elementary Course in teaching and school management. An applicant to be entitled to a second grade certificate must obtain a general average as high as 75 per cent with no grade in any subject lower than 50 per cent. Second grade certificates are recognized for two years in any county in the state. Standings of 90 per cent or more in subjects on an unexpired second grade certificate may be accepted in granting a first grade.

In addition to subjects of the second and third grade certificates, the candidate for a first grade shall be examined in Pedagogy—comprising a knowledge of school management and Theory and Practice of teaching—Elementary Applied Psychology, and one of the following branches: Elementary Algebra, Botany, Zoology, Physics, or Book-keeping. To entitle an applicant to said first grade he must receive a general average as high as 90 per cent with no grade lower than 75 per cent. These certificates are recognized for three years throughout the state, and at the discretion of the county superintendent may be renewed once when approved by the State Superintendent.
