WORK OF LEGISLATURE

Resume of Bills Passed and Laws to Become Effective Soon.

SIXTY BILLS IN THREE DAYS

The first session of the first legislative assembly of New Mexico created no new counties, established no new institutions, essayed it to no new fields of political economy. It was as safe and sound as the constitutional convention and was as might have been expected from the Republican majority in both houses. The Remarkable part was that the Democrats voted for most of the Republican measures and despite a little oratory for campaign purposes only, also stood for the conservative policy.

It cannot yet be said what will become law and what will not, for governor McDonald has had six days after adjournment to pass on every bill taken to him in the last three days of the session and practically all of the legislation at this session was passed the last three days.

Up to that time, only 21 bills had become law, six of them fixing the time for the holding of district court in various districts, four of them were merely points of expenditure for the legislature The most important of the 21 was that providing for the refunding of the state and county indebtedness known as the Baca bond bill.

LAWS MOSTLY LOCAL MEASURES

The other laws are of lesser or merely local import. There is the Mullens bee bill providing for bee inspection, eradication of bee diseases and protection of the apiarist but it is interest only to the bee grower. Then there is the Chavez law defining and punishing perjury before legislative committees, which grew out of the bribery cases in the house and was rushed through when these cases were pending before the investigation committee.

It was the first bill that become law. Then there was house bill No 112, empowering district judges to adjudicate disputes over townsites owned by probate judges. It is intended for the especial relief of a townsite in Socorro county. House bill No. 123, to enable school districts to borrow money for school equipment and buildings was intended to cure a defect in a $35,000 school bond issued at Roswell. The Skidmore law gives employes two hours in which to vote on election day, but does not provide for paying the employe for the time lost while voting. The railroaders wanted that law. The Walton law to prohibit and punish the depositing of filth near dwellings or on public highways, passed. Then there was a law passed for the relief of judge M. C. Mechem and his former district Clerk, W. D. Newcomb paying them several months salary covering a period not taken care of by the last territorial appropriation law. The Skidmore law making October 12 Columbus day a legal holiday, was passed to please the Knights of Columbus. Another law defines the effects of a repealing clause. The last of the 21 punishes the tampering with electric power lines.

SQUARE DEAL FOR RAILROADS.

The first grist, therefore, was almost altogether local or special, not even excepting the bond bill. It is to be remarked that no bills were passed to "clinch" railroads or industry. All railroad rate, full crews, bills, etc., died in committee. In their place a bill was passed exempting new railroads and new industries from taxation for the first six years This is a direct invitation for capital and enterprises to invest in New Mexico, for it illustrates the temper of the legislators, and since there will be no new senate until 1917, and no new house until 1915, industries and railroads may feel reasonably certain of the square deal for some time to come.

No prohibition or local option bills were passed It is rather for what did not pass than what did pass, that the first assembly is remarkable. However that a true progressive spirit prevailed is apparent from the fact that the Crampton corrupt practices act, a very stringent bribery bill by senator Burns, and the Crampton direct primaries act were passed and that with very little opposition. The county salaries bill is considered a very just and economical one Among the 60 bills passed the last three days are but few of any more than minor importance except those already enumerated. One of the most important, however, is a new game protection law that permits the propagation of game for the market.

UNIFORM ACCOUNTING SYSTEM.

A uniform system of accounting was adopted for state and county offices. The Walton publication bill repeals the objectionable parts of the Sweezey publication law. The public lands bill provides a complete code for the administration of the public lands by the commissioner of public lands, who is also given $6 500 for immigration work, and who becomes a member of the state highway commission and various other boards, making him virtually the most important of duties and the number of men in his employ.

GOOD ROADS LAWS.

The good roads legislation is very satisfactory and includes five Holt bills, one submitting a proposed half million dollar good roads bond issue to the people in November, another authorizing counties to bond themselves for good roads construction, a third taxing automobiles $10 a year, but relieving them of all local license fees, one turning the delinquent taxes up to 1910 into the good roads fund and one creating a state highway commission which appoints good roads boards in every county.

SCHOOLS ARE NOT NEGLECTED.

The Ilfeld bill provides that all executions for capital crime shall take place at the penitentiary and prescribes the mode of procedure The schools are well taken care of an excellent school revenue act having passed compelling contribution to the school treasuries from districts and municipalities.

THE SENATORIAL ELECTIONS

However, the business around which the entire legislation resolved was the election of two United States senators, and the legislature settled this controversy not only by electing two stalwart Republicans, Thomas B Catron and Albert B. Fall but by re-election the latter to succeed himself next March for the six years' term.

NEWS OF WEEK IN BRIEF

Items of Interest Happening In the County During the Week.

MRS. ROLLAND ENTERTAINS.

A few friends were entertained at the home of Mrs. A. J. Rolland Wednesday evening the time being delightfully spent at Whist. After the cards refreshments were served. Mrs H. B. Dawson carried off the honors and won the prize of the evening. Among those present were; Mr. and Mrs Stanley Squier, Mr. and Mrs. George Dingwall, Mr and Mrs. Truman Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. H B. Dawson, Miss Georgia Lesnett; Messers, Randles, Northlane and Chase

HOME MISSION MEETING

The Ladies Home Mission of the M E church met with Mrs. Truman Spencer Wednesday afternoon The afternoon was very pleasantly spent and the affairs of the organization were informally discussed Each lady present was presented with a beautiful rose and the refreshments consisted of ices and cake. The next meeting will be in two weeks on Wednesday at the home of Mrs Stanley Squier.

CIVIC LEAGUE MEETING

A special called meeting of the Civic League was held Tuesday afternoon, when it was decided to give prizes to the juniors or children of the town for the best composition on how to keep the town clean. A special meeting of the children will be held at Real's Hall this evening. The money cleared from the last entertainment will go to cleaning up the districts not cleaned in the former work. Hereafter a wagon will be sent around regularly which the townspeople may patronize for use in hauling off their rubbish by paying 25 cents each time.

THREE RIVERS LOCALS

Fred Neighbauer was a business visitor to Carrizozo the latter part of last week.

Fred Crosby and family who have been visiting friends here for a few days, have returned to their home in Alamogordo.

School closed here Friday of last week and Miss Katherine Muselwhite, teacher, left Saturday for her home in Alamogordo.

Mrs. Adilee Calfee and Ernest Matthews came over from the I-X ranch Monday.

Pete Gumm of Salinas is doing some carpenter work for Monroe Harper.

Miss Florence Nabours and brother J. O. were among the visitors to Carrizozo last week.

Mr, and Mrs Chas. Yarbro left Saturday for Roswell, where they were called by the serious illness of their daughter, Mrs. Miller.

ROBERT YOUNG DEAD

Robert Young passed from this life last Friday morning at his home near Oscuro, this county after several weeks illness. Mr. Young was very prominent in the community in which he lived and loved by all who knew him; he was possessed of a spirit which was remarkable for its good nature and optomism, which remained with the deceased even to the end. Death came as result of Brights decease; his immediate family being present at the last.

Mr. Young was born in Illinois on April 26th, 1850, where he spent his boyhood. In 1875 he married Rachel Gokey and shortly moved to Wisconsin, and then to Minnesota where he lived for five years, moving to Chicago in 1897 and remained there until in December 1907 when he moved his family to Oscuro where he has resided upon a homestead ever since. Two children were born Rachel and Maude, Rachel dying in her infancy.

Funeral services were held at the home near Oscuro Saturday afternoon, Rev. J. W. Pursley officiating, burial being had on the homestead. The deceased is survived by a wife and daughter, Maude, to whom the heartfelt sympathy of their host of friends goes out in their sad bereavement.

—Born, Saturday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Skinner, a baby girl, all reported as doing well.

—Showers have fallen almost every day this week and brightened the prospects for a splendid year to follow with green grass and a good range.

—Ross and Bell Lutz passed thru the city Sunday and spent the day here as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Whittingham They were returning from school at St Louis and went on to their home at Lincoln Monday.

—The stork brought a boy to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Fairbanks Sunday evening. Mother and baby reported as progressing nicely and the Trainmaster may return to work this week.

—Jas. V. Tully, returned Wednesday from Santa Fe having been absent from this county for three months as the county's member in the legislature. 'Jim' fathered several bills in the house and succeeded in having them passed, and also pushed Good Roads legislation, which is a hobby with him, and we now have some good roads laws. Mr. Tully returned to his home at Glencoe on the Thursday train to Capitan.

—Wm. Blanchard, representative from this district to the state legislature returned from Santa Fe Sunday evening after three months of strenuous work. Mr. Blanchard made a hard fight for clean legislation and succeeded in getting many measures thru the last three days after the Baca ring was broken Mr. Blanchard was met here by his brother Francis and taken to the Rancho Macho near Ataskela his home.

SUMMER TILLED CROPS

Dry Farming Had Serious Backset in Past Two Years.

Fair Crop Could Have Been Raised Had Campbell System of Tilling and Storing of Rainfall Been Put Into Practice.

In the last two or three years dry farming has had the worst backset in many seasons or perhaps since the series of unusually dry years in the early nineties. However we have had but few if any years in which a fair crop could not have been grown by the Campbell system of summer tilling one half of the land every year and storing the rainfall, thereby utilizing the moisture of two years to produce one crop, writes V. H. Hamilton in the Denver Field and Farm. Ending with 1907 we had a series of years of more than normal rainfall and in some dry districts the fall wheat averaged about twenty bushels the acre and this by very poor methods of farming. Then in 1908 spring rains were light and crops generally were a failure, so that the farmers did not harvest them, but plowed the land during the early summer for the next year's crop.

With a good supply of moisture that fall and the next spring a boomer crop was harvested in 1909 averaging twenty-five to thirty bushels and in some fields up to nearly fifty bushels the acre. Then in 1910 wheat averaged about ten bushels an acre with many total failures. One field of 120 acres on Gunbarrel Hill in Boulder county that was summer tilled in 1909 averaged 30½ bushels the acre, while an adjoining field was a total failure. Another field across the corner was mowed for hay, while still another adjoining field made nineteen bushels and another ten bushels. Then a field of about 200 acres two miles from the first field was summer tilled in 1909 and made an average of twenty-six bushels, while the average of the whole district was only about ten bushels. This goes to show that the short crops of 1910 were not so much the fault of the climate as to the slack methods of farming.

Now that we have had a liberal amount of snow this winter and spring, the dry farmer should get busy and double disk all land not already in crops, just as soon as the ground is dry enough to work. Disking will put the surface in condition so that the rains will be more readily absorbed, and in case the weather should be dry and windy it will prevent evaporation. Last spring I disked part of a field in March, then early in May we listed the field in corn. The part that was disked was in fine condition with moisture fourteen inches deep, while the part not disked was so dry and hard we could hardly list it at all. The disked part made good growth with a small ear on nearly every stalk, while that not disked never got more than a foot high the season long. Every one farming on the semi-arid plains where the average precipitation is less than eighteen inches should carefully summer till a part of their land every year, because ordinary methods or the way they farm back east will fail about one year in two.

What is meant by summer tilling is to disk after the binder or at least remove the grain as soon as possible, then double disk which should be done again in the spring as soon as the frost is out of the ground and it is dry enough to work, but do not disk too deep, not more than three inches. Then plow during June or early July not less than six inches nor more than eight, using the packer every half day after the plow and the harrow every night. The subsurface packer should be used while the soil is moist, or it will not pack the under part of the furrow slice sufficiently to make good connection with the subsoil. The reason for not plowing unirrigated lands deeper than eight inches is that in order to obtain good results the plowed part must have good connection with the subsoil, for no packer yet devised will firm the under part sufficiently. The air spaces in the plowed soil will break the capillary attraction from below, so that no matter how much moisture is stored it will be of no use to the growing crop unless there should come a soaking rain that would settle all the plowed part, exclude the surplus air and restore connection with the subsoil. We must do with the subsurface packer what nature often fails to do in the arid region. In summer tilling do not plow too early as it would then be more difficult to keep the weeds down.

STOP ESCAPE OF MOISTURE

Farmer in Semi-Arid Regions Should Use Every Endeavor to Prevent Evaporation of Water.

The escape of moisture, not the lack of it, is what has done the so-called dry west the greater harm.

Today we passed a spot where two men were digging a cellar. It is in a very dry country where all crops must be irrigated, and the subsoil, after going down a foot or two, is almost as hard as rock and has to be loosened by a sharp pick or by dynamite. Across this cellar soil an oil road had been made which formed a perfectly impervious crust two or three inches deep. Through this oil crust no moisture could by any possibility go to the soil beneath it; and on the other hand not a particle of moisture could escape from the soil under it into the air above. As the men slowly dug into the flinty dry subsoil, just beside this hard water-proof surface they remarked that when they got under the road where no rain moisture could by any possibility come they feared it would be like rock. Curious to see if just the opposite might not prove to be the case, the writer with a sharp pick succeeded in baring a good strip of the soil under the oil road. To the surprise of the diggers, both soil and subsoil under this air-tight covering was so moist that it could be spaded readily with but very little use of the pick.

We cannot cover our farms with an air-tight protector, but in every way in our power we should shut off evaporation. The high winds, the dry air and the hot sun all combine to take the moisture from our soil just when we need it most.

That is one great reason why the forest condition brought about by the cool shady protection of the corn field, leaves our corn land with so much more moisture in it than open roadways or grain fields.

The cultivation, too, tends to take the place of the oiled roadway. For this reason, too, our grains should be put in early and as soon as possible be made to shade and protect the surface soil.

The same principle is involved when on some soils some seasons the grain does so much better for being lightly harrowed when two inches or so high. It is why lightly disked or sharply harrowed stubble land grows better corn or grain if thus treated the moment the snow is off. Anything and everything that will tend to prevent the escape of subsoil moisture will tend just as strongly to give us a good crop and a certain one. Evaporation should be headed off in every way in our power. It is like letting our money run to waste to let our soil moisture get away from us.

Rotation of Crops.

Rotation of crops is one of the simple, practical methods of increasing the productivity of the farm and distributing labor.

The Under Acre.

Every acre you plow has another underneath. Can't you do something with the lower acre? Deep plowing and an underdrain will help.

FOUGHT HIS WAY TO FREEDOM

The Emperor of Rome Admired the Courage and Pluck of Caractacus.

One of the most unique captives ever brought home to Rome by Julius Caesar was Caractacus of the early Britons. This great chief lost everything in fighting to drove out the Romans and was taken prisoner with his wife and children. When brought before the Roman emperor the proud ruler of the primitive people never showed the least fear. His arms were chained, and the emperor roared to try to frighten Caractacus, but the brave chief never so much as quaked. Instead he looked the monarch in the eye and said:

"You fight to gain the whole world and to make everybody your slaves. I fought to keep my own land and for freedom."

The great courage the chief showed finally touched the heart of the emperor, and the ruler of the Romans resolved to see if Caractacus would be as brave when facing warriors. On one of the great holidays in Rome Caractacus was taken to the great open-air amphitheater where the populace gathered. He was told that if he could defeat the bold knight that would be sent against him he could go back to his home. Caractacus fought as he never had before; for something sweeter than his life was at stake—that of his wife and children. Justice seemed to have tempered the metal of his weapons, and when he struck the strong armor of his antagonist gave way before his fearful blows. The result was that Caractacus and his family returned to Britain and to happiness.

MRS. SELBY AND PRIZE BABY

"I have always used Cuticura Soap and no other for my baby and he has never had a sore of any kind. He does not even chafe as most babies do. I feel sure that it is all owing to Cuticura Soap, for he is fine and healthy, and when five months old, won a prize in a baby contest. It makes my heart ache to go into so many homes and see a sweet-faced baby with the whole top of its head a solid mass of scurf, caused by poor soap. I always recommend Cuticura, and nine times out of ten the next time I see the mother she says: 'Oh! I am so glad you told me of Cuticura.'" (Signed) Mrs. G. A. Selby, Redondo Beach, California, Jan. 15, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

New York Journalists.

"Here's a man who claims to understand birds?"

"Well?"

"Can't we feature it?"

"We might," replied the editor of the New York paper, "if it were played up properly. Send him out to get an interview with the first robin, and let's see what he makes of it."

Makes the laundress happy—that's Red Cross Bag Blue. Makes beautiful, clear white clothes. All good grocers.

Competition.

"Royalty has its difficulties," remarked the lord high keeper of the buttonhook.

"Yes," replied the uneasy monarch. "It has gotten so that a court function finds it hard to compete with the scenery and costumes of a big musical show."

Garfield Tea is unequalled either as an occasional or a daily laxative.

A Kind-Hearted Man.

"Mr. Wombat!"

"Couple of suffragettes out here throwing stones at your window," bawled the policeman.

"How long have they been doing that?"

"Oh, several hours."

"Let 'em alone. It amuses the girls and I don't believe they'll hit the window."

A cheap and effective way of dehorning calves is with potash caustic.

Milk and the cream must be stored in a room free from taints of any kind.

A dairy cow should be allowed to rest from six to eight weeks before freshening.

Where dairying is not practiced the calf will have also to pay for keeping the cow a year.

The mangel is excellent for stock-feed, being greatly relished by milk cows in winter.

By actual test it has been found that a cow averaging 16 pounds of milk per day drank an average of 300 pounds of water per day.

Continued care in handling the dairy products is the price of success.

The best market for skim milk on the farm is afforded by good dairy calves and quick growing pigs.

Sweet corn is one of the very best crops to grow to feed as a soiling crop to the dairy cows in summer.

Just after the cow has freshened she should have the same feeds she has been given previous to calving.

It should be remembered that the milk cannot be increased in solids and in fat by the feeding of rich feed.

It is best to reduce the milk producing feed, as then a mature cow will dry and rest for a month to six weeks before calving.

Successful dairying is largely a matter of securing cheap feed, as well as good cows. The silo is one method of accomplishing on feed.

Be good to the cows. These most useful animals are a sure investment. They do not go off into a fence corner and die of cholera.

The great advantages of the cream separator over the various systems of cream-raising is that thick or thin cream, as desired, may be obtained.

GOOD JOKES

SUPERSTITION.

"For downright idiotic, superstitious, weak-minded gullible credulity," growled Jenkins, recommend me to a woman! Gave away a pair of my trousers to an old peddler to charm warts off the children's hands! Madam, you are aware that this is the twentieth century and not the middle ages?"

"It does seem a little silly," said Mrs. Jenkins, mildly, "but I've heard of such things being done. You know those trousers, John, were the pair you tore on the lawn mower the other day and threw aside.

"It's not the trousers, madam; it's the childish, imbecile, fatuous, puerility of the thing. Besides, I left a hare's foot in one of those pockets, madam, that I've been carrying for rheumatism the past three years."—Tit-Bits.

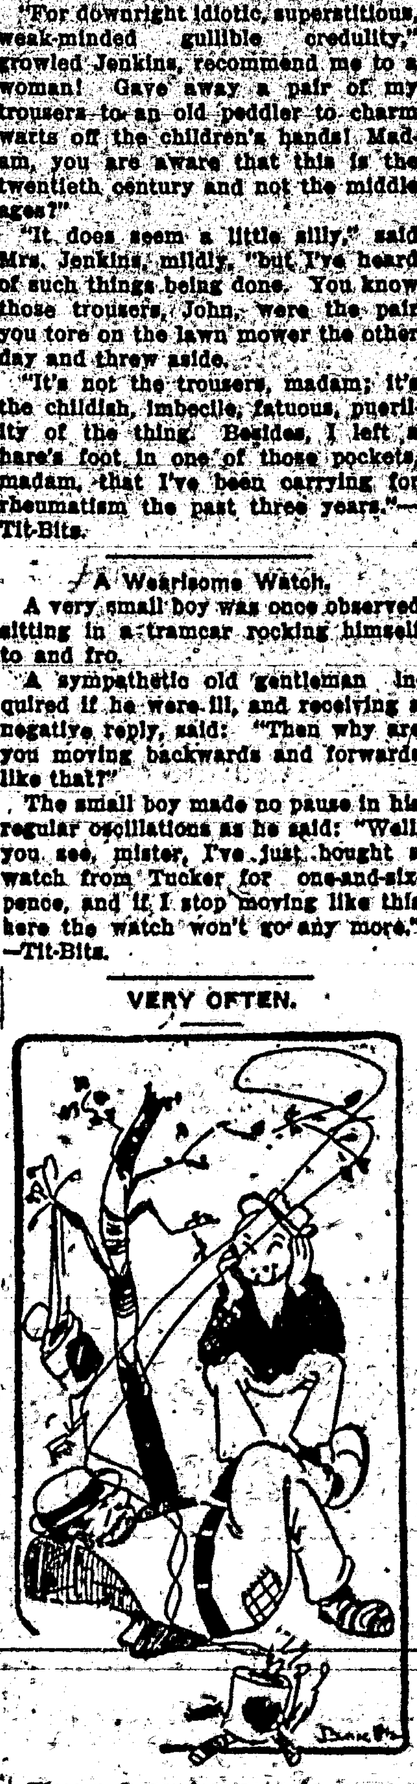
A Wearisome Watch.

A very small boy was once observed sitting in a tramcar rocking himself to and fro.

A sympathetic old gentleman inquired if he were ill, and receiving a negative reply, said: "Then why are you moving backwards and forwards like that?"

The small boy made no pause in his regular oscillations as he said: "Well, you see, mister, I've just bought a watch from Tucker for one-and-sixpence, and if I stop moving like this here the watch won't go any more."—Tit-Bits.

VERY OFTEN.



Weary—I wonder wats de cause of heart trouble?

Ruggles—Why, anybody oughter know that—women.

Too Often the Case.

She had a face that made me glad,
I thought her a most winsome thing
Until I found out that she had
A firm belief that she could sing.

Another Insurgent.

"A proverb," observed the teacher, "may be defined as any truism that by long usage has become common property."

"Yes, sir," said the shaggy haired pupil; "but some proverbs are only half true."

"Can you think of one?"

"Yes, sir; 'Brag is a good dog, but Holdfast is better.'"

The Name for It.

"What is the underworld?"

"The people you see underneath their balking automobiles."

A Discovery.

"A number of women have been found regularly engaged in the hold-up business."

"Good gracious! Who are they?"

"Baby nurses."

Obeying Injunctions.

"My wife told me yesterday when I came in town to send out a plain cook."

"Did you get one?"

"Did I? I got one whose face is plain enough to stop all the cooks on the block."

Tactless of Him.

The Brute—What are you thinking of, Mary?"

Mary—I am dreaming of my youth.

The Brute—I thought you had a far-away look in your eyes.

Abundant Material.

"So you discovered great mountains at the south pole?" said the geographical expert.

"Yes," replied the explorer.

"Well, that's the usual polar argument we can start in on a mountain-climbing controversy."

CAUSE FOR GLADNESS.

'Twas eventide. The boy stood on the bridge, clapping his hands vigorously. Beyond the brow of the hill a dull red glow suffused the sky.

"Ah, little boy," remarked the stranger, who was rather near-sighted, "it does my heart good to see you appreciate yon beautiful cloud effect!"

"Yes, sir," replied the lad; "I've been watching it for ten minutes."

Upon the boy's face there appeared a smile of radiant bliss.

"A real poet, without a doubt. And do you watch sunsets often, little boy?"

"Sunsets! Why, that ain't a sunset, guv'nor! That's the village school burning down!"—Answers.

NO PROOF OF IT.

Cholly—Why, er—er—I'm growing a mustache.

Daisy—So your sister was telling me.

Woman.

Howe'er advanced may be her views
Or fierce her righteous rage,
She'll never skip the fashion news
To read the sporting page.

Overlooked.

Two lawyers before a probate judge recently got into a wrangle. At last one of the disputants, losing control over his emotions, exclaimed to his opponent:

"Sir, you are, I think, the biggest ass that I ever had the misfortune to set eyes upon."

"Order, order!" said the judge gravely. "You seem to forget that I am in the room."

Exaggerated Expectations.

"I'm afraid," said Bronco Bob, "that Piute Pete's ideas of the game is gettin' kind o' warped."

"What's the trouble?"

"Every time he picks up a hand an' finds less than three aces he thinks it wasn't a square deal."

The Answer Was Easy.

Old Roxleigh—You must be less extravagant. How do you expect to get along when you are my age?

His Son—Well, father, I suppose by that time I shall have your money to get along with.

Spoiled Children.

Jinks—There's one good thing about spoiled children.

Blinks—What's that?

Jinks—One never has them in one's own house.

A Modern Improvement.

"There is one great advantage about the motor-car," said Ethel: "It doesn't mistake the sound of a kiss for a chirrup to go faster, and compel the young man to grab the reins with both hands."

SHE WAS WISE.

Mr. Tellit Wright—Are you fond of fiction, dearest?

Miss Cutting Hintz—Yes; but don't tell me I'm the only girl you have ever loved.

Before Allowing an Operation

Please Read These Two Letters.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before. Then after all that suffering Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored her health.

HERE IS HER OWN STATEMENT.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement—I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. To-day I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise every woman who is afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. Orville Rock, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Mich.

"THERE NEVER WAS A WORSE CASE."

Rockport, Ind.—"There never was a worse case of women's ills than mine, and I cannot begin to tell you what I suffered. For over two years I was not able to do anything. I was in bed for a month and the doctor said nothing but an operation would cure me. My father suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so to please him I took it, and I improved wonderfully, so I am able to travel, ride horseback, take long rides and never feel any ill effects from it. I can only ask other suffering women to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation."—Mrs. Margaret Meredith, R. F. D. No. 3, Rockport, Ind.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

NO ONE STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH.

The celebrated Dr. Abernethy of London was firmly of the opinion that disorders of the stomach were the most prolific source of human ailments in general. A recent medical writer says: "every feeling, emotion and affection reports at the stomach (through the system of nerves) and the stomach is affected accordingly. It is the vital center of the body * * * * *." He continues, "so we may be said to live (strength) the stomach." He goes on to show that the stomach is the vital center of the body. For weak stomachs and the consequent indigestion or dyspepsia, and the multitude of various diseases which result therefrom, no medicine can be better suited as a curative agent than

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Miss. Mossman.

"Several months ago I suffered from a severe pain right under the breast-bone," writes Miss. G. M. MOSSMAN, of Corona, Calif. "Had suffered from it, off and on, for several years. I also suffered from heart-burn, did not know what was the matter with A. J. I tried several medicines but they did me no good. Finally, I was told it was my liver. I did not dare to eat as it made me worse. Whenever I swallowed anything it seemed that I would faint—it hurt so. I grew very thin and weak from not eating. Was told to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took five bottles of it, and could feel myself getting better from the first dose. I could eat a little without pain and grew strong fast. To-day I am strong and well and can do a big day's work with ease. Can eat everything and have put on flesh wonderfully. I will say to all sufferers write to Dr. Pierce. He has my undying gratitude."

A REFUTATION

IN A recent issue of the El Paso Times we noticed a long editorial anent the criminality and lawlessness of Lincoln county and we quote the following excerpe from said editorial:

"For many years there has been a gang of desperadoes operating in the mountains of Lincoln county, New Mexico, which has caused the people of that section much loss, trouble and inconvenience, and a determined effort was made a few months ago to wipe out the gang and restore peace and tranquility, with the reign of the law and order to the afflicted community. Officers of the law got in behind the members of this lawless gang and one by one they were taken into custody. During the session of the district court at Carrizozo recently these men were placed on trial, and the Roswell Record gives the following story of the result:

Twenty-eight men, all under the age of twenty-seven years, were taken from Lincoln county to the state penitentiary Saturday, to serve terms in that institution ranging from one up to fifteen years.

Five others, including a well known woman and one man connected with the ownership of the Lincoln stage line, secured bail to take an appeal to the Supreme court.

All but a few of the twenty-eight were members of what was known as "the light horse brigade" that operated in the mountains in Lincoln county.

The convictions, it is claimed, resulted from the progressive work by District Attorney Humphrey Hamilton."

Now all this makes very interesting reading for people who are not acquainted with conditions as they exist in Lincoln county, but it hardly seems fair to us that the Times should mislead its readers with such sophistry. There is no such thing as a "Gang of Desperadoes infesting the mountains of Lincoln county" nor has their been for years and the county has been exceptionally peaceful and law abiding in recent years. There were but seventeen prisoners taken from here to the penitentiary at the end of the May term of court and they were all of the male persuasion. The longest term that any of these prisoners received was five years and that was for larceny.

No unusual or atrocious crimes have been committed in Lincoln county recently nor has there been a murder committed in this county in more than two years. Lincoln county had not held court in more than a year and there were a number of criminal cases on the docket that had been there for a long time. At this term of court the docket was cleared and all the cases disposed of The ages of the prisoners ranged from twenty to fifty-six years of age. The offenders were from all sections of the county, and in many instances were not acquainted with each other. There is supposed to be one lone fugitive from justice hiding in the mountains of Lincoln county, but there is no proof to that effect and many here believe that he is at present in hiding in El Paso. If the newspaper reports from El Paso are to be believed there seems to be no paucity of criminals there and judging from the number of murders committed there annually El Paso appears to be the crime center of the Great Southwest. That most of those murderers go unpunished is well known here.

PARSONS AND BONITO VALLEY ITEMS

A T. Anderson has returned from the East where he has been for the past few weeks on a business and pleasure trip.

Miss Helen Rice is visiting her sister Mrs. N. L. Weiler in Carthage N. Mex. She expects to be away till August.

H. Consbrush spent several days with Captain Krouse on Eagle Creek. He says the Capitan has a fine garden this year and pansies growing wild over the place.

Joe Cochram and family have been visiting at the home of Thomas Bragg.

Jas. Robinson has returned from a business trip to Carrizozo.

J. E Hobbie, Forest Ranger from the Ruidoso is here looking over this District o the Lincoln Forest.

Lute Jennings still patrols the hilltops and keeps a sharp lookout for fires.

Thomas Grafton and A. T. Anderson made a business trip to White Oaks this week returning by way of Carrizozo.

The much longed for rainy season is approaching to make the heart of the farmer and stockman glad. It clouds up and rains a little every day and a hail storm is reported up in the hills.

Mr. McReynolds has spent much time the past few weeks working on the roads in and about Parsons. Although we are not on the National Highway there are no better roads in the Country, nor more beautiful scenery them along the upper Bonito Valley and on over the Divide from Parsons.

NOGAL NOTES

The people of Nogal are looking for the "hoodoo" who is holding the rain off, at Nogal, when our neighbors seem to be getting their full share of the life giving showers.

A large crowd assembled at the cemetery last Saturday, and showed their respect to those gone before by cleaning the ground in that place up.

The regular Sunday meetings at the church are proving to be immensly popular and profitable in a social way.

A program has been arranged for the Fourth of July celebration, as follows:

10 A. M. to 12 M.

1. Bronco race, prize $1.00.

ANCHO INTELLIGENCE

Ancho people regret to know that Mrs. Frank Thompson is on the sick list.

Mr. Graves and family have moved to a brick cottage near the postoffice.

A son of Mr. Strayley has just lately arrived from Arizona.

Miss Peters of Carrizozo is the guest of Mrs. J. A. Coomes.

Clarence Palmer of Texas Park is visiting here with friends.

Oh! these glorious June days of Ancho.

The gentle sunbeams are browning everything they touch. We may dream of rippling waves, of crystal rivers, or mint fringed springs and the deep still waters of willow bordered lakes, where friends wander silently and blissfully under the moonlight—but alas it is only a dream; if our friends wander of course they do—it is down a dusty path until—well until the rains come.

JICARILLA HAPPENINGS

M. A. Brice has sold his placer ground to a California company.

Albert Ross has returned to his home at Mountainair after a year's stay here.

Wm. Franklin is doing work on the Collector for the Revenue Company of Chicago. There is some very good ore in sight on the claim.

Littel Brothers are doing some work on the Summitt claim with good prospects in sight.

There will be a big picnic here on the Fourth of July, the committee in charge of the arrangements are now very busy getting matters in shape.

FORT STANTON FLASHES

Mrs. and Mrs C. B. Lane were visitors at the Fort Sunday.

A heavy rain fell here Tuesday.

A very interesting game of Base-Ball was played between Ft. Stanton and Lincoln Sunday afternoon. The game stood 5 to 4 in favor of Ft. Stanton.

Miss Colert, Misses of Ruidoso is spending the week with Miss Jane Brockway.

The new cement side walks recently put in around the park improves the looks of the Fort very much.

There was a private dance given at the Hall Friday evening. Those present report a pleasant time.

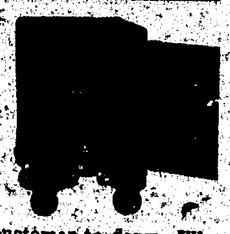
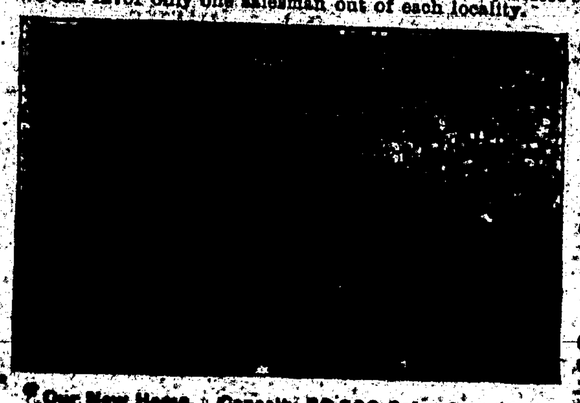
Selling Victor Safes and fire-proof boxes to merchants, doctors, lawyers, dentists and well-to-do farmers, all of whom realize the need of a safe, but do not know how easy it is to own one. Salesmen declare our proposition one of the best, clean-cut money-making opportunities ever received. Without previous experience YOU can duplicate the success of others. Our handsomely illustrated 94-page catalog will enable you to present the subject to customers in as interesting a manner as though you were piloting them through our factory. Men appointed as salesmen receive advice and instructions for selling safes, giving convincing talking points which it is impossible for a prospective customer to deny. Why don't YOU be the first to apply from your vicinity before someone else gets the territory? We can favor only one salesman out of each locality.





The 25th anniversary of our company was celebrated by erecting the most modern safe factory in the world. Wide-awake men who received our special selling inducement, rendered it necessary to double our output. NO MAN'S LAND A ROMANCE

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT, 1916, BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

SYNOPSIS.

Garrett Coast, a young man of New York City, meets Douglas Blackstock, who invites him to a card party. He accepts, although he dislikes Blackstock, the reason being that both are in love with Katherine Thaxter. Coast fails to convince her that Blackstock is unworthy of her friendship. At the party Coast meets two named Dundas and Van Tuyl. There is a quarrel, and Blackstock shoots Van Tuyl dead. Coast struggles to wrest the weapon from him, thus the police discover them. Coast is arrested for murder. He is convicted, but as he begins his sentence, Dundas names Blackstock as the murderer and kills himself. Coast becomes free, but Blackstock has married Katherine Thaxter and fled. Coast purchases a yacht and while sailing sees a man thrown from a distant boat. He rescues the fellow who is named Appleyard. They arrive at a lonely island, known as No Man's Land. Coast starts out to explore the place and comes upon some deserted buildings. He discovers a man dead. Upon going further and approaching a house he sees Katherine Thaxter, who explains that her husband, under the name of Black, has bought the island. He is blind, a wireless operator and has a station there. Coast informs her that her husband murdered Van Tuyl. Coast sees Blackstock and some Chinamen burying a man. They fire at him, but he is rescued by Appleyard, who gets him to the Moho in safety, and there he reveals that he is a secret service man and has been watching the crowd on the island, suspecting they are criminals. Coast is anxious to fathom the mysteries of No Man's Land, and is determined to save Katherine. Appleyard believes that Black and his gang make a shield of the wireless station to conduct a smuggling business. Coast penetrates to the lair of Blackstock's disguise. Katherine enters the room and passes him a note which tells Coast that neither his life or her own are safe. Coast feels that Blackstock suspects him. Appleyard and the Moho disappear. Coast assures Katherine of his protection, and she informs him that they are to abandon the island immediately.

Coast waited to hear no more. Dumb with rage—to be so tricked and bamboozled! to have his teeth drawn in such a manner, by a blind man, almost without a struggle!—he stooped, picked up a heavy monkey-wrench, and threw himself at Blackstock.

Before he had covered half the scant distance between them, however, he was caught up suddenly from behind, jerked back and held, struggling, kicking, helpless as a child in the arms of Chang.

As if he were wholly unaware of what was taking place, Blackstock's voice rumbled on: ". . . adopted this means of making my wishes known. I trust you won't resent it when you wake up to the reasonableness of my attitude. You weren't hurt—of that I'm sure—beyond your feelings, perhaps. And," he added, suavely sardonic, "I beg to apologize for the indignity, Mr. Handyside."

CHAPTER XVII.

To his own advantage Coast was gifted with the ability to recognize the irremediable and concede it as such. With quiet resolution he calmed himself at that moment when he was cold with despair, thrilled with apprehension, hot with anger, trembling with humiliation, and powerless in the grasp of one to whom his most determined struggles were as impotent as the writhing of the butterfly whose wings you imprison between thumb and forefinger. The arms of the big Chinaman wound round him were as sinewy and long as those of a gorilla, as strong as bands of steel; he could as readily break their embrace as he could summon a jinnee to his aid by twisting the ring upon his finger.

He schooled himself to resignation. "Very well," he said in a passionless voice. "You've got your own way of making a civil request, and I don't pretend to like it; but I'll be grateful if you'll instruct this Chinese giant to let me go."

"What! are you there, Chang?" Blackstock's simulation of surprise was admirable—if it were simulation. "You may release Mr. Handyside," he continued; "he has promised to be good."

Without a word the Chinaman dropped his arms and stepped aside. His face, when Coast saw it, was as stolid as always; only the yellow eyes, glinting like a cat's through their heavy, half-closed lids, seemed to hold a hint of derision.

Coast lifted his shoulders in a shrug not of bravado but of endurance, turned to the tool bench by the motor and replaced the wrench. His thoughts were all confusion; again an incident mocked him with hidden meaning. What was he to understand—that Blackstock recognized his voice and knew him for himself, Garrett Coast? That he suspected him of being another than Handyside—a spy of the Treasury Department, in short—and had determined to disarm him as a matter of common precaution, suspending sentence until he had determined precisely who he was?

"You're wondering," said Blackstock, "why I didn't demand this gun before taking it by force. Aren't you?"

"I am," Coast assented bluntly.

"For one reason, because I wouldn't've got it. Would I?"

"Certainly not. What right—"

"One moment! I 'm coming to that." Blackstock smiled his secret smile, weighing the weapon reflectively before bestowing it securely in a hip-pocket. "It was a matter of discipline—morale is the better word. You had to be made to understand that on this island I am dictator, my word law, my wishes law's equivalent. Your personal independence doesn't amount to a row of tacks, so long's you're on No Man's Land; I'm boss, and you've got to come to me. I don't allow anybody but myself to tote a gun here, and since I knew you'd refuse a request, I took this spectacular means of making our relations clear as daylight. The main trouble with Power was his exaggerated conception of the importance of his blessed ego; when I gave him a practical demonstration of its relative insignificance in the cosmic scheme, he got peevish. Don't you make the same mistake."

"I'm surprised," retorted Coast, deliberately offensive, "that Power didn't beg to be allowed to stay and lick your boots."

"That," said Blackstock, with an open grin, "sounds suspiciously like mutiny, Mr. Handyside."

"Call it any name you like. Possibly you may find somebody to knuckle under to such treatment for the privilege of earning a bare living on this God-forsaken island, but . . . Well, it wasn't Power and it won't be me. I've had enough of you and I'm finished. Get Yookhis to send you another man as soon as you like: I leave, the first chance that turns up."

"Then the sooner you get that motor running, the quicker you'll be suited," returned Blackstock. "You'd better get busy."

"Go to the devil," said Coast coolly. "If you send out any messages from this station, some one else will have repaired your motor—I shan't. Good-night!"

"Good-night, Mr. Handyside," rang in his ears accompanied by a jeering laugh, as he swung on his heel and through the door to the open; but he paid no attention.

Looking any chance to linger in the vicinity of the bungalow, he continued at leisure toward the farm-house, consistently at every step more troubled with doubts, anxieties, forebodings. It was all very well (he thought) to make the best of a bad business; but—Appleyard was not to return until nightfall. It was now half-past four of a sultry, overcast and misty afternoon. In the two and a half or three hours of daylight to follow, what might not happen? What if Blackstock purposed leaving No Man's Land in the little sailboat within that interim? What could possibly be contrived to stop him by one man, unfriended and unarmed?

Pausing at the farm-house only briefly to make sure Katherine was not there, without purpose, in weary despondency he wandered on, down through the Cold Lairs toward the beach.

As he drew near the spot where the collie kept its vigil, the animal, apparently recognizing his footsteps, rose and whined a woe-begone welcome. He stopped out of sheer compassion, sensible of a vague feeling of fellowship with the dog, since he, too, was outcast, defenceless and impotent, the sport of malign circumstances. That thought rankled. . . .

Presently it occurred to him that the dog must be hungry. On sudden impulse he left it, went back to the farm-house kitchen, and without word of explanation to the Chinese there, foraged for scraps until he had heaped a pan with food; with which he returned to the collie.

It ate ravenously, as if breaking a long fast. And while he stood watching it, wondering at the dumb fidelity which had kept it steadfast beside the grave though it slowly starved—he heard a faint cry from seaward, turned in surprise, and saw Katherine stumbling hurriedly up from the beach. Though she had evidently been running for some distance and was flushed and breathless, there was something more than haste in her manner; there was its stimulus, a commingling of strong emotions so interdependent and confused that he found them unintelligible and recognized only intense excitement into which they merged.

"Garrett," she gasped—"Garrett—I want you to tell me the truth, if you know it—the truth, Garrett, though I'm afraid to hear it . . . " She paused, shuddering, the crimson ebbing from her cheeks and lips while terror played like lightning in her eyes.

Cautiously he looked round. . . . But the deserted buildings shut them off from the farm-house, and there was no one visible on the bluffs or downs. He took her tenderly in his arms.

"There," he soothed her gently. "Tell me . . ."

"I'm afraid," she breathed brokenly. "It's too awful, Garrett, too dreadful. It can't be true . . ."

"Instruct This Chinese Giant to Let Me Go."

"Tell me," he begged, though now he knew.

"It's—about Mr. Power, Garrett. I—I—he never left this island."

"I know," he said.

She drew away, her eyes widening. "You know, Garrett?"

"They—" he stammered—"It happened yesterday morning, just before I came ashore—about daybreak."

"You—you know this to be so?"

He told her briefly what and how he knew of the tragedy. "This dog," he concluded, "has been there—you must have noticed—by his grave ever since."

She nodded. "I saw him," she said in a low, vibrant voice, "but—I didn't understand. I remember thinking it strange. He was here when we came—a legacy from the former tenant—and Power was kind to him. He never would have anything to do with any of the rest of us—except me; Mr. Power fed him and he followed him everywhere, but my—he the dog hated, and the Chinese, too."

The brief explanation had helped to quiet her; but now as she stood staring blankly seaward, tears trembled in her lashes, and her lips trembled as she breathed convulsively.

"It's so terrible," she said in a dull and even monotone, dispirited and cheerless. "Was I born only to bring suffering and terror and death to all about me?"

"Don't say such things," Coast pleaded wretchedly. "Just a little longer and—"

"But nothing can ever make me forget, Garrett . . . Mr. Power was kind—I don't believe especially high-principled or good—but he was thoughtful as to me and resented his treatment of me. It was because of that they were constantly at odds—and now, because of that . . . Oh, Garrett, Garrett!" she sobbed.

Silent, who knew no words to comfort her, he let her grief spend itself in his embrace. When she was more composed, he ventured a question that had been troubling him ever since she had betrayed her fears: How had she learned of this?

"It was the boat—the boat they said he stole," she explained listlessly. "I remember thinking at the time it wasn't like him—that he would have waited until the fog [illegible] then would have taken the [illegible]. He knew a great deal about [illegible], and knew that the tides run very strong between here and Squibnocket." She named the nearest point on Martha's Vineyard. "I thought it strange he should try to row across with nothing to guide him and the danger of being swept out to sea—"

Model Prison for Woman.

One important result of woman suffrage in New South Wales—the changed conditions of prison life for women, is being watched with interest by many countries. The new penitentiary for women at Long Bay is probably the most up-to-date comfortable and even luxurious place of its kind in the world. It is fitted with hot and cold baths, with well-ventilated cells painted in pleasing colors, electric lighted and stocked with suitable reading matter. Gardening, dressmaking, cooking and washing are taught. If incarceration is supposed to be an example to wrongdoers, there is undoubtedly a point at which comfort in prisons may be carried too far. On the other hand, it is doubtful whether any one is ever injured by kind treatment if intelligently directed. The Australian state has set a good pace in regarding these unfortunate women as in need of treatment rather than of punishment.

Railroad Land in China.

The King-Feng railway authorities have raised the rent of the lands adjoining the railway station, now used by the coal merchants as coal depositories. The increased business of the line has greatly raised the value of these lands.—From the Pekin Jih Pao.

Electricity in Alsace.

So popular has electricity become in Strasburg, Alsace, as a mean of motive power that it is stated in a contemporary that not a single gas engine has been laid down in the town during the past 10 years.

Foreign Tongues in Gotham

English Language Not Often Heard in Streets and Parks of American Metropolis.

I returned to America a year and a half ago, after an absence of twelve years in Europe. I stopped in New York at a hotel opposite Grace church, and after securing quarters I walked up Broadway to Fourteenth street. It was the midday meal hour, and the streets were thronged with all sorts and conditions of men, and yet not one word of English did I hear spoken from Tenth to Fourteenth streets. The first impression stunned me and I found myself in a dazed condition, unable to adjust myself to my surroundings, and actually doubting the reality of the scene about me. I walked on to Union square. The benches were full of men and women, and as I passed by them I listened, but no word of our national tongue did I hear, and I returned to my hotel wondering what it all meant. The next day was Sunday and I spent the afternoon in Bronx park. I arrived by the Third Avenue elevated, entered at the eastern gate and walked through the park to the Botanical gardens. The park was full of people, young and old. I asked my way six times and in every case save one was answered in a foreign voice, and in two cases in a foreign tongue. Even the officials, those at least to whom I spoke, were of foreign origin.—Monroe Royce, "The Passing of the American."

COULD HARDLY MOVE.

Kidney Trouble Caused Terrible Misery.

Mrs. J. S. Downs, 319 N. Sixth St., Chickasha, Okla., says: "My back across my kidneys became so lame I could hardly move. My limbs cramped and stiffened and I felt completely worn out. Nervousness and headaches kept me in an unstrung condition and frequent passages of the kidney secretions added to my discomfort. I was soon relieved, however, after I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and when I had used four boxes, I felt like another woman."

Safer Plan.

"I let my house furnished, and they've had measles there. Of course, we've had the place disinfected, so I suppose it's quite safe. What do you think?"

"I fancy it would be all right, dear; but I think perhaps it would be safer to lend it to a friend first."—Punch.

Garfield Tea keeps the liver in condition, insuring a clear head and good general health. Drink before retiring.

Inhuman Fellow.

"Upon what grounds do you seek a divorce?" asked the lawyer whom she had just retained. "Non-support, cruelty or—"

"Both," she cried, tearfully. "He would not support my passionate longing for a diamond necklace, and if that isn't cruelty I'd like to know!"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Time.

"How long have you been a widow, Mrs. Wood?"

"It will be a year the fourth of next month."

"Dear me! Is it as long as that? How time flies!"

"Oh, do you think so? Well, if you ever have to wait a year to look pleasant when men offer you attentions you'll give up the idea that time is much of a flyer."

They Saved His Life.

Does it pay to stop your motor car after an accident and go back to see what has happened? Two young motorists on the South side believe it does.

With a green chauffeur these two boys were trying out a new model touring car. They were sitting in the back seat when the greenhorn at the steering wheel gave it a twist and came within an ace of hitting an old man at a crossing. The victim was so shocked that he fell to the pavement, and a crowd gathered in an instant.

Looking back, the motorists decided that things looked bad, but that they had better go back and see whether the old party was killed. Finding him all right, but winded, they took him for a nice ride around the parks. So pleasant did they make it for him that when they took him home to his wife he introduced them as "The two young men who saved my life."

They are now thinking of applying for Carnegie medals.

KNOWS NOW

Doctor Was Fooled by His Own Case For a Time.

It's easy to understand how ordinary people get fooled by coffee when doctors themselves sometimes forget the facts.

A physician speaks of his own experience:

"I had used coffee for years and really did not exactly believe it was injuring me although I had palpitation of the heart every day. (Tea contains caffeine—the same drug found in coffee—and is just as harmful as coffee.)

"Finally one day a severe and almost fatal attack of heart trouble frightened me and I gave up both tea and coffee, using Postum instead, and since that time I have had absolutely no heart palpitation except on one or two occasions when I tried a small quantity of coffee, which caused severe irritation and proved to me I must let it alone.

"When we began using Postum it seemed weak—that was because we did not make it according to directions—but now we put a little bit of butter in the pot when boiling and allow the Postum to boil full 15 minutes which gives it the proper rich flavor and the deep brown color.

"I have advised a great many of my friends and patients to leave off coffee and drink Postum, in fact I daily give this advice." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Many thousands of physicians use Postum in place of tea and coffee in their own homes and prescribe it to patients.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

FARM AND BEES

HOW BEES COLLECT POLLEN

Important Part Played by the Auricle in the Process—Dust Gathers on Body Hairs.

The pollen dust gathers on the body hairs of the bees as the result of the visits paid to the flowers. These hairs, as seen under the microscope, are branched, and therefore are admirably adapted to hold the pollen, writes F. W. L. Sladen in the Gleanings in Bee Culture.

In the bumble bee (and probably also the honey bee) the pollen dust in the hairs on the thorax is collected on brushes on the inner sides of the metatarsi, or basal joint of the foot, of the middle pair of legs, which are a, metatarsus; b, tibia; c, comb; d, receiver for pollen; e, auricle; f, fringe of hair on auricle.

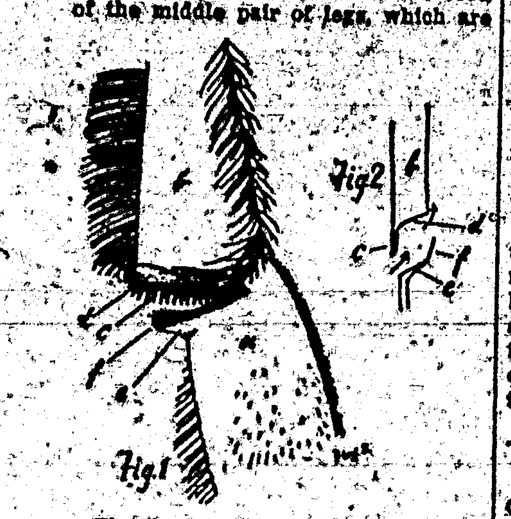

Fig. 1—Junction of tibia and metatarsus in hind leg of worker honey bee, outer side.

Fig. 2—Diagrammatic section of the same, showing mode of conveying pollen.

moistened with honey from the tongue to make the dust cohere. The pollen dust in the hair on the abdomen is collected on brushes on the inner sides of the metatarsi of the hind legs, and this is probably moistened by rubbing the hind legs together.

After this the pollen is transferred to the corbicula (or pollen-basket) on the tibiæ of the hind legs, where, as every one knows, it accumulates into a great lump as the result of repeated contributions from the metatarsi. But how does it get there? It is evident, as Cheshire observed, that the pollen on the right metatarsus is transferred to the left corbicula, and the pollen on the left metatarsus is transferred to the right corbicula. Cheshire supposed ("Bees and Beekeeping," 1886) that the metatarsus discharges its pollen on the corbicula by scraping its brush on the upper side of the tibia; but I find that this is not the case. The pollen is scraped off the metatarsal brush by a comb (c) situated at the end of the tibia on the inside, and it passes into a small concave receiver (d) that joins the comb; then, when the leg is straightened, a projection on the metatarsus called the auricle (e) closes upon the receiver, compresses the pollen, and at the same time forces it out to the lower end of the corbicula, which is here slightly depressed and almost wholly devoid of hairs. The compression of the pollen in the receiver is an essential part of the process; for loose pollen grains such as occur on the metatarsal brushes would not hold together in the corbicula. In the bumble bee the angle between the surface of the receiver and that of the corbicula is obtuse, and the compressed pollen easily passes from the one to the other; but in the honey bee there is a sharp angle at the corner, and the auricle bears a fringe of hairs (f) to guide the stream of pollen to the corbicula; also the honey bee's auricle is evidently pressed back by the pollen, for it has no other means of escape.

BEES ARE QUITE PROFITABLE

As Adjunct to Farm Nothing Pays So Well When Properly Cared For—Work for Women.

(By MRS. L. TAYLOR, Ohio.)

As an adjunct to farming I know of nothing, when properly cared for, that pays so well, considering the time spent and the money invested, as bees.

Last year, two colonies produced 80 pounds per colony of surplus honey, which sold for $20. The bees cost $5, so there is a gain of $15, or 300 per cent. No other stock or crop paid me as well.

A bee-keeper not far from here averaged 112 pounds of honey from his colonies. He sold it for 16 cents a pound. This seems like a very large yield, but with improved methods we expect to do even better. One farmer in this community manages to clear $100 each year from his bees. He keeps from twelve to fifteen colonies, and his farm does not suffer from neglect in the least.

If the men have not time to attend to the bees, the women can look after them. They are generally about the premises and have a better opportunity for watching them.

For gentleness in handling, ability to gather honey and to keep free from moth, I prefer the Italians. Any chaff hive will answer the purpose. It should be chaff lined all through; and for wintering out of doors a chaff cushion should be placed over the bees to absorb moisture.

TO MAKE FOUNDATION SOLID

Gasoline Machine Will Not Do Good Work Unless Placed on Good Substantial Base.

It is unreasonable to expect a gasoline engine to do good work unless it is mounted on a solid foundation. There is nothing better than concrete for this and when placing same in position, fastenings should be set in the concrete as shown in the accompanying illustration, says the Prairie Farmer. These fastenings can be made by any blacksmith or in most any farm work shop. They are placed in the concrete when it is poured and should, of course, be placed so as to engage with the holes in the body of Solid Engine Foundation.

the engine. Care should be used not to injure the threads on the ends of the rod, and to this end it is best to keep the nuts on same.

Starting Plants in Houses.

A good way to use tin cans or cigar boxes is to plant cabbage, lettuce, parsley, pepper, radish and tomato seeds in them, about the middle of this month. Place the cans or boxes in the kitchen windows.

Cauliflower, celery and egg plant may also be started in the house.

Bore holes in the sides of these boxes, an inch from the bottom, in order to give ventilation. Start cucumber and squash seeds in strawberry boxes.

For More Vegetables.

Most of us do not grow half the good things in the garden that we might. Let us have more and better vegetables and fruits for the home table this coming summer, and future summers.

POST PULLER SAVES LABOR

Implement Can Be Made of Strong Tongue Taken From Some Discarded Farm Machine.

When a fence must be moved a good post puller saves an unnecessary lot of back ache and time, writes Gilbert

A Post Puller.

F. Parrish in the Wisconsin Agriculturist.

Such a lifter can be made of a strong tongue from some discarded farm machine. A strap of five-eighths iron is made into a heavy claw at one end and bolted on the tongue so that the claw projects beyond the end of the tongue. A heavy ring with a short chain attached is also a part of the device. The ring is put over the post down to the ground. The claws are caught under a link of the chain and a block put under the pole as a fulcrum. This leverage will raise the post with very little effort. Every farm ought to have such a lifter. The parts should be solid and strong, for the strain is tremendous.

Bees and Farm Notes

Asparagus will grow in any good well-drained farm land.

Onion sets should be set out just as early as ground can be worked.

Almost all our common garden vegetables require a somewhat alkaline soil.

Selling all the hay and grain raised on the farm is a sure method of selling the farm.

Young cabbage plants require thorough protection in the hotbed and cold frame.

It is seldom that the very early varieties of potatoes yield so well as those a little later.

The Largest Bells.

"Great Paul," the bell of St. Paul's Cathedral, in London, weighs nearly 17 tons and is nearly 30 feet around. The first "Big Ben" of Westminster was cast more than 50 years ago and weighed more than 14 tons. But "Big Ben" had a crack and was cast over, losing some weight, and the clapper was made smaller, now being about 600 pounds instead of a ton. The great bell, "Peter of York," cost $10,000, weighs about 13 tons and is 22 feet in diameter.

The largest hanging bell in the world is in the great Buddhist monastery near Canton. It is 18 feet in height and 40 feet in circumference, being cast of solid bronze. This is one of the eight monster bells that were cast by command of Emperor Yung Lo about A. D. 1400. It cost the lives of eight men, who were killed in the process of casting.

"Do those people who moved into the flat across the hall seem to be desirable neighbors?" asked the man.

"No," replied the woman. "I watched everything that came out of the moving van. They haven't a thing that we would care to borrow."

THE DOCTOR: "DISCOVERED!"

A Candid Man.

"Are you looking for work?"

"No, sir; I'm looking for money, but I'm willing to work because that's the only way I can get it."

It's an easy matter to forget an injury, provided you don't keep forgetting you have forgotten it.

If You Like a Little Quiet Fun

Ask some pompous person if Grape-Nuts Food helps build the brain.

Chances are you get a withering sneer and a hiss of denunciation.

Then sweetly play with the learned toad.

Ask him to tell you the analysis of brain material and the analysis of Grape-Nuts.

"Don't know? Why, I supposed you based your opinions on exact knowledge instead of pushing out a conclusion like you would a sneeze."

"Well, now your tire is punctured, let's sit down like good friends and repair it."

The bulky materials of brain are water and albumin, but these things cannot blend without a little worker known as Phosphate of Potash, defined as a "mineral salt."

One authority, Geohegan, shows in his analysis of brain, 5.33 per cent total of mineral salts, over one-half being Phosphoric Acid and Potash combined, (Phosphate of Potash) 2.91 per cent.

Beaunis, another authority, shows Phosphoric Acid and Potash (Phosphate of Potash) more than one-half the total mineral salts, being 73.44 per cent in a total of 101.07.

Analysis of Grape-Nuts shows Potassium and Phosphorus (which join and make Phosphate of Potash) is considerable more than one-half of all the mineral salts in the food.

Dr. Geo. W. Carey, an authority on the constituent elements of the body, says: "The gray matter of the brain is controlled entirely by the inorganic cell-salt, Potassium Phosphate (Phosphate of Potash). This salt unites with albumin and by the addition of oxygen creates nerve fluid or the gray matter of the brain. Of course, there is a trace of other salts and other organic matter in nerve fluid, but Potassium Phosphate is the chief factor, and has the power within itself to attract, by its own law of affinity, all things needed to manufacture the elixir of life."

Further on he says: "The beginning and end of the matter is to supply the lacking principle, and in molecular form exactly as nature furnishes it in vegetables, fruits and grain. To supply deficiencies—this is the only law of cure."

Brain is made of Phosphate of Potash as the principal Mineral Salt, added to albumin and water.

Grape-Nuts contains that element as more than one-half of all its mineral salts.

Every day's use of brain wears away a little.

Suppose your kind of food does not contain Phosphate of Potash.

How are you going to rebuild today the worn-out parts of yesterday?

And if you don't, why shouldn't nervous prostration and brain-fag result?

Remember, Mind does not work well on a brain that is even partly broken down from lack of nourishment.

It is true that other food besides Grape-Nuts contains varying quantities of Brain food. Plain wheat and barley do. But in Grape-Nuts there is a certainty.

And if the elements demanded by Nature, are eaten, the life forces have the needed material to build from.

A healthy brain is important, if one would "do things" in this world.

A man who sneers at "Mind" sneers at the best and least understood part of himself. That part which some folks believe links us to the Infinite.

Mind asks for a healthy brain upon which to act, and Nature has defined a way to make a healthy brain and renew it day by day as it is used up from work of the previous day.

Nature's way to rebuild is by the use of food which supplies the things required.

POSTUM CEREAL COMPANY, LIMITED, BATTLE CREEK, MICHIGAN, U. S. A.

FROM THE EDITOR.

He Forgot That He Had a Stomach

Talking of food, there is probably no professional man subjected to a greater, more wearing mental strain than the responsible editor of a modern newspaper.

To keep his mental faculties constantly in good working order, the editor must keep his physical powers up to the highest rate of efficiency. Nothing will so quickly upset the whole system as badly selected food and a disordered stomach. It therefore follows that he should have right food, which can be readily assimilated, and which furnishes true brain nourishment.

"My personal experience in the use of Grape-Nuts and Postum," writes a Philadelphia editor, "so exactly agrees with your advertised claims as to their merits that any further exposition in that direction would seem to be superfluous. They have benefited me so much, however, during the five years that I have used them that I do not feel justified in withholding my testimony.

"General 'high living,' with all that the expression implies as to a generous table, brought about indigestion, in my case, with restlessness at night and lassitude in the morning, accompanied by various pains and distressing sensations during working hours.

"The doctor diagnosed the condition as 'catarrh of the stomach,' and prescribed various medicines, which did me no good. I finally 'threw physics to the dogs,' gave up tea and coffee and heavy meat dishes, and adopted Grape-Nuts and Postum as the chief articles of my diet.

"I can conscientiously say, and I wish to say it with all the emphasis possible to the English language, that they have benefited me as medicines never did, and more than any other food that ever came on my table.

"My experience is that the Grape-Nuts food has steadied and strengthened both brain and nerves to a most positive degree. How it does it I cannot say, but I know that after breakfasting on Grape-Nuts food one actually forgets he has a stomach, let alone 'stomach trouble.' It is, in my opinion, the most beneficial as well as the most economical food on the market, and has absolutely no rival." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
