Experimental Farm For Carrizozo

Committee Raises $1300 in a few hours and A. C. Wingfield donates and deeds ten acres of land to the project

MOVEMENT FOR COUNTY WIDE PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN STRONG

That Carrizozo is to have an Experimental Farm was assured this week when a committee, appointed by the meeting Monday night, signed up citizens of the city for amounts which aggregate $1300 with more yet coming. The committee in addition to securing pledges for this amount of money the same afternoon, were donated ten acres of land by A. C. Wingfield who owns a patent adjoining the town on the east.

A very enthusiastic meeting, attended by at least sixty persons, assembled last Monday evening and started the organization which it is predicted will make a real thriving town out of Carrizozo and benefit the entire county. The official minutes of the meeting and resolutions adopted are printed elsewhere.

There has not been a derogatory statement against the new Experimental Farm project and the Financial Committee surely is to be complimented for its splendid work in collecting the amount of money.

The committee appointed on County Wide Publicity and to let the people of the county know that the basis of the organization in Carrizozo was for a county wide publicity and boosting campaign, has written a number of letters to individuals and issued a call for a general meeting November 25th at which delegates from all over the county are invited to attend The committee also expects to visit several of the towns of the county where local meetings may be held before that time.

The Boosting spirit has deeply embedded itself in the people of the community and there is unision and action for a greater Carrizozo never before known here

The assurance that there is to be an experimental farm close to the town of Carrizozo where newcomers may be shown the great possibilities of the country means much to the people of this section. The Experimental Farm will be put under the supervision of Experts and the Agricultural College and El Paso & Southwestern Railroad will be asked to assist with expert advise. A deep well with the best pumps and power procurable will be placed on the farm and every thing will be made practical and scientific and the experimental farm is bound to be an advantage of all.

CALL FOR COUNTY WIDE MEETING

CARRIZOZO, N. M., NOV. 14, 1912.

The committee on publicity and organization appointed at the public meeting Monday evening, Nov. 11, 1912, hereby extend a cordial and earnest invitation to the citizens of every community of Lincoln County to join in the good work of upbuilding every section of the county and to hold local meetings and elect delegates to attend a general meeting at Carrizozo on at which it is hoped to effect a county organization.

The Chairman and Secretaries of this Committee have written a number of citizens of each place asking them to take the matter up Where possible, members of this committee and other citizens will attend any of these local meetings held during the coming week and explain more fully the purposes of the organization.

It is therefore important that the meetings in the various communities of the county suggested in the foregoing, be called at a sufficiently early date during the coming week in order that said communities may have proper representation at the county wide organization meeting to be held at Carrizozo in accordance with this call.

The committee would be especially pleased to have notification of said meeting and if its presence is desired it will be glad to meet with the people on such stated occasion and discuss the advantages of the cooperation of the people of all parts of the county in a county wide publicity campaign.

Any information in possession of the committee concerning this movement and its purposes will be gladly furnished upon request of any citizen of the county.

FRANK J. SAGER, Chairman.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS OF THE MEETING

The meeting of those interested in the establishment of the Experimental farm at Carrizozo Monday evening was attended by about sixty or more citizens and the session was enthusiastic from start to finish.

John A. Haley called the meeting to order and briefly stated the purpose of the gathering after which Frank J. Sager was unanimously elected as Chairman, and Thomas O. Luster of the Outlook and John A. Haley of the News as Secretaries.

A general discussion of the matter before the meeting was taken up and among those addressing the meeting were: Rev. R. B. Evans, Frank W. Gurney, John E. Bell, Rev Paul Bently and J. D. Wilson.

The following resolutions were adopted and committees appointed:

Resolution by Frank W. Gurney

Whereas, It is the sense of this meeting that the establishment of a practicable tract to demonstrate the possibilities of our soil, water and climate for growing various crops would aid materially in the advancement of the community, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Chairman appoint a committee of three citizens to investigate fully the cost of such a demonstration farm, and report detailed plans for the same to an adjourned meeting of the citizens to be called by the Chairman and Secretaries of this meeting when said committee is prepared to submit its report. Adopted.

The Chairman appointed Chas. A. Stevens, Frank Gurney and J. D. Wilson.

Resolution by A. J. Rolland.

Whereas, It is the sense of this meeting that a united effort by the citizens of the various communities of Lincoln county, for the purpose of advertising the resources and opportunities of the county, would result in securing desirable settlers and the more rapid development of the county, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Chairman of this meeting appoint a committee of seven citizens, including the Chairman and Secretaries, who shall formulate a plan of county-wide organization to undertake a thorough and systematic campaign of advertising the resources of the county; said committee to have authority to secure delegates from the various sections of the county to a future meeting at which its report shall be made, such meeting to be called by the Chairman and Secretaries of this meeting, when the said committee is ready to make its report. Adopted

The Chairman appointed the following committee: Messrs. Haley, Chase, Sager, Rolland, Ziegler, Campbell and Thurer.

OSCURO HAPPENINGS.

Dr. Guido Ranniger was a Carrizozo visitor on Tuesday.

Chas. Holden was in Tularosa the first of the week on business.

Miss Helen Jones is teaching the local school this week as Mrs. R E. Blaney, the usual teacher, is seriously ill at this time.

Mr Keehen was in Carrizozo the first of the week where he expected to close several contracts to drill wells.

Mrs. R E. Blaney and Mrs Helen Jones returned Sunday from the N. M. E. A. meeting held at Albuquerque

Capt. D. W. Roberts left for Alamogordo Thursday where he will join his wife and there make his home for this winter at least

Mr McQuille, local manager of the Carrizozo exchange for the Telephone Company was here yesterday repairing the telephone lines.

Joe Ashford left this week on a business trip to Arizona, to be gone several day He will visit Maricopa, Pheonix and other places.

In the presidential race here last week Wilson won easily by several lengths. Debs took second place, William and Teddy also ran.

Lawrence Ulen, Olden Norton and Cornelius Boge left Tuesday for the San Andres Mountains to do some assessment work for Sam. C. Hall of Three Rivers who has promising copper claims in that vicinity.

Chas. A. Thornton, is working overtime on his ranch here these days in setting out several hundred apple trees and in constructing a large reservoir to facilitate irrigating the orchard.

CIVIC LEAGUE MEETING

The Carrizozo Civic Improvment League will hold a meeting next Tuesday afternoon to consider business matters coming before it. The ladies proposed to raise additional money for civic purposes, which will include cleaning up the town generally again and possibly the installation of additional street lights. The meeting will probably be held in the basement of the Bank building.

THE POST MORTUM

Some Facts Gathered After The Election. Minority Rules.

IT WAS HARDLY A LANDSLIDE

While a victory is a victory and the Republican party has been licked in a workmanlike manner, it licked itself. The talk of a Democratic landslide is not based on the election returns. The most remarkable feature of this election is that Wilson, when the final figures are tabulated will be shown to have polled barely the vote that Bryan received when he was defeated at the last election. There is good reason to believe that his vote will fall below that of Bryan It will be at least a million less than that which elected William H. Taft It will be shown to be more than a million less than the combined vote of Roosevelt and Taft. It means virtually that a minority party has been put in charge of the affairs of the country for the next four years. It means that the vote of the people is for Republican tariff policies and for Republican party principles by a large majority and that Democratic tariff nostrums received no indorsement by the voters. As far as numerical strength goes the election shows that the Democratic party has stood still, while the combined vote Roosevelt and Taft is greater even than that which Taft received when he was made president.

The situation is an anomalous one, the result of the circumstance that for the first time three strong parties were in the field—two of them in accord on broad economic principles and opposed to the economic principles of the Democratic party. And the fact that Taft received half as many votes as the president elect does not after all indicate that Taft was utterly repudiated by the voters; three and a half million ballots being some ballots and indicating that a sizable fraction of the voters of the United States have confidence in the retiring president

It is fair to presume that not many Democra's voted for Mr. Roosevelt: and it is certainly evident that thousands of Republicans voted for Mr Wilson to beat Roosevelt. The Democrats may thank kind fortune and not a revulsion in popular sentiment toward Democracy for their victory. They won the presidency with the same vote which lost it for them four years ago.

In New Mexico the figures are equally interesting when you examine them carefully. Out of some 41,000 votes for the three candidates, Wilson received 3,000 less than half and Furgusson 1,000 less than half

Furthermore, if it will be any comfort to Mr. Jaffa, it might be pointed out that that gentleman ran a thousand votes ahead of the head of his ticket.

All of which of course does not affect the result of the election; but the party enthusiast who deducts therefrom a conclusion that the Democrats have indulged in a landslide is not looking at the figures frankly. The result merely verifies the statement made by this paper before election that a vote for Roosevelt and DeBack was a vote for Wilson and Furgusson.

LIVE STOCK

GROUND GRAIN IS FAVORED

Animals Seldom Masticate Food Thoroughly as Should Be When Fed in Natural State.

(By M. COVERDELL.)

Where stock eat the grain in its natural and unbroken state, it is very seldom masticated as thoroughly as it should be. Most animals are naturally gluttonous, and in their haste to consume grain they swallow much of it without crushing or grinding it.

This wields a detrimental effect on the stock that is twofold. The grain in this solid condition cannot impart proper nourishment to the animals and the digestive and assimilative organs will be overtaxed and impaired in their efforts to convert this coarse feed into substance that will build up the tissues of the body.

Aside from these two detriments we must consider that unground feed causes a waste by passing whole and practically unchanged through the animal; or, if the stock do eat an amount large enough from which sufficient nourishment can be extracted, it means about twice as much must be fed to be converted into bone and muscular tissue.

The failure of the stock to masticate unground grain will also cause a lack of digestive secretions or juices so essential to this process; then, in order to supply this deficiency, the animals have a craving for water and a large quantity is thus consumed—much more than is necessary—and yet, this enormous amount of water has not the desired effect in promoting digestion as do the natural juices that should have been brought down by thorough mastication.

On the other hand, where the grain is ground before feeding, it is fine and dry, adhering to the animal's mouth when it takes a bite, till it has to chew before it can swallow. This avoids the drawback above mentioned, and by the grain being well crushed it insures thorough digestion; later, its pulverized condition renders it immediately available for the assimilative organs to convert into nourishment—bone and muscle—without overtaxing any of the organs of these two systems and at the same time it will render less of this ground feed necessary to keep the animal in prime shape.

Gates for Sheep Farm.

Every sheep farm should be well provided with gates; bars are too dangerous as well as too wasteful of time in letting them down and putting them up. There is great risk when sheep are crowding through bars, only partly let down, that a leg may be snapped. A good, light gate may be made for $4 cents more cost than a set of bars and if properly hung will last a great many years.

Feeding Sows.

When a sow's udder gets out of condition on account of irrational feeding there is no question but that her milk will be abnormal also. Heavy corn feeding right up to the time of farrowing will bring about an unhealthy condition in many cases, particularly when a sow is fat and lazy and does not take much exercise. To prevent it there is nothing better than the use of laxative foods, like bran or oil meal.

Corn for Sheep.

Corn in the ear is safer to be fed than shelled grain, which will be swallowed too quickly, and thus be apt to cause indigestion. The standard ration for a sheep is three pounds of digestible dry food for each hundred pounds live weight. For fattening, whatever may be eaten above this with good appetite may be given.

Water for Farms.

Running water can be put into thousands of farm homes at little cost. The convenience of it makes the farm home a different place.

ARRANGING GATES FOR PENS

Various Entrances May Be Conveniently Fixed Without Much Trouble—Method Shown.

(By J. U. GOODWIN.)

Entrances to lanes, sheds, barn buildings and all other places where two or more entrances stand side by side, may be conveniently arranged with little trouble. As shown in the illustration, the two gates enclose three entrances.

To open the center entrance the gates are separated—one pushed to the right and one to the left—which makes the opening nine feet wide.

To open the entrance to the right-hand the gates are pushed to the right.

The entrance to each of the side pens is only five feet, the rest of the entrance being planked up.

This arrangement is particularly convenient for buildings so arranged that the center or driveway is to be open, and the sheds on each side are wanted with doorways to admit stock, etc.

In the latter case the doors may be made solid, so as to exclude rain, snow, and cold winds.

Fig. 1, A, are pieces set in between the battens of the gates and extending six inches. These extensions, one being on each gate, enter the open space on the opposite gate, thus holding the gates firm in place.

D, in Fig. 2, shows the method of latching the gates together.

This latch is fastened between the battens of the gates and catches automatically when the gates are closed.

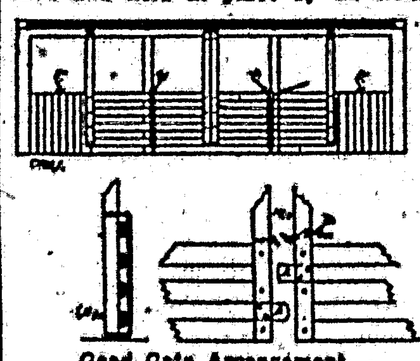
To uncatch, press down on the catch at D.

In Fig. 2, C is the part planked up. B B shows the position of notched pieces, a side view of which is shown in Fig. 2.

The notches in this piece are a little larger than the slats of the gates.

These notches rest over the gate slats and are fastened to the post dividing the pens.

These notched pieces are strengthened and held in place by an iron



Good Gate Arrangement.

rod three-quarters of an inch in diameter and arranged as shown in Fig. 2.

The hangers for the rollers should be fastened to the wall perfectly level, so that the slats of the gates will pass backward and forward through the notches that hold the gate in position.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Be careful about feeding the horse new oats at first.

The sow should be fed but little immediately after farrowing.

Raise hogs, but remember you must raise forage crops for them.

The most practical time for weaning a colt is when about five months old.

The only remedy for the cattle shortage is for the country to go back to cattle breeding.

The box stall is a better place for horses that require rest on account of lameness than a grass field.

The cheapest method of producing meat of any sort in almost every case is by keeping the animals on pasture.

The man who has a good bunch of cows or stock cattle properly located these days has no cause to worry.

To avoid worrying the colt, tie within sight of dam and give some grain. Be sure that the colt has plenty of exercise.

Plans are essential to success in feeding stock of all kinds. Mix some brains with your feed and get results.

Provide warm quarters for the litter of fall pigs. Don't let the youngsters get a backset. Keep them growing.

If you are about to buy a horse, don't judge the horse by the opinion the owner has of him—it may not agree with yours after you become the owner.

Get some timber ready for feeding racks before it comes time to give the sheep hay again. You can save enough in one winter to pay for the racks.

Start feeding some pumpkins to the cattle and hogs if you have them. They will balance the grain ration and keep the digestive system in working order.

Do not let the hogs eat too many fallen apples. They will have a tendency to rot the teeth and make the animal unfit to make the best of the fall corn crop.

DR. CALDWELL'S GUIDE TO GOOD HEALTH

The natural tendency of people in this busy age to demand of the digestive organs more than nature intended they should perform, frequently results in throwing the entire digestive system into disorder. When the stomach fails to freely digest and distribute that which is eaten, the bowels become clogged with a mass of waste and refuse which ferments and generates poisonous gases that are gradually forced into the blood, causing distress and often serious illness.

Dr. W. B. Caldwell says that if the bowels are kept regular there will be much less sickness, and prescribes a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is most effective in relieving any congestion of matter in the bowels. This compound can be bought in any drug store under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and costs only 50 cents a bottle. It is mild in its action, pleasant to the taste and positive in effect, a dose at night bringing relief next morning, naturally and without griping or other discomfort. A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the house will save many times its cost in doctor bills. Your name and address on a postal to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 203 Went St., Monticello, Ill., will bring a free trial bottle by return mail. Adv.

CONSUMPTION

How Scales Are Made to Cheat

MAGAZINES and newspapers have given much space in late years to the question of weights and measures, which has resulted in the passage of legislation in many states putting the supervision of this particular branch of work under a defined department of state government.

There are numerous ways of cheating in the use of scales, regardless of the size or make. The art of scale building has advanced rapidly in the last quarter century, but investigation by various departments of weights and measures, both national and state, has disclosed the fact that the inventive minds of those whose unfortunate mental arrangement leads them to defraud their fellow men, has kept pace with this advance.

The most astounding fraud ever perpetrated was that of the famous sugar trust fraud, in which the United States government was robbed of many millions in import tax duty, by the use of a small piece of umbrella steel to throw the scales out of balance. But with most cases of deception, the perpetrator becomes over confident, and through carelessness leaves a slight clue, which eventually leads to discovery.

Rubber bands have been employed to throw scales off correct balance, but as these are hard to apply they are not so commonly used.

A common method of cheating is to overload the scale counter weights with lead and throw the balance to the credit of the scale owner.

But the most pernicious and ingenious of these is a device recently discovered by the department of weights and measures which is under the jurisdiction of the railroad and warehouse commission of Minnesota.

This is a small piece of tempered steel weighing 1-32 of an ounce, and is used in scales for the purpose of adding to or shrinking the weight of an article. It can be carried in the vest pocket and placed in position on the scale in a few seconds. It has the advantage to the user of being reversible, that is to say, he can take more in buying or give less in selling, than the just and proper weight. The device is in the nature of a false knife-edge or pivot. It has a small projection on one side, which when applied to a scale with the projection towards the back end of the scale beam the effect will be to make a load weigh less than correct, and the reverse is true when applied with the projection toward the front end of the scale beam.

These devices are made so that the use of them on a scale does not affect the beam action whereby an observer could tell that the scale was not weighing correctly, as they allow the beam free action.

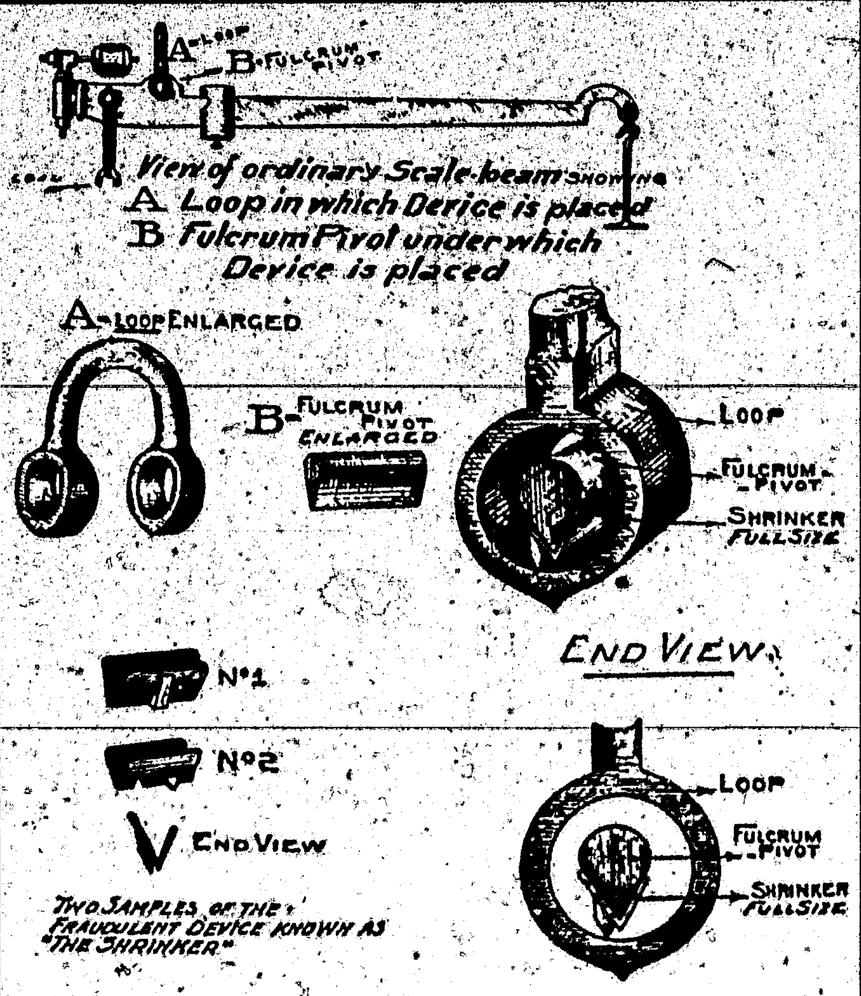
The percentage of error in the use of this device would differ, depending upon the make of scale and the multiplying power of the scale beam. All scale beams have not the same measurements, and on one scale the effect was 2½ per cent either in excess or deficiency, depending upon how the device was placed, and on another scale the effect was 5 per cent either way. On some of the new type stock scales with full capacity beams, having no counterweights, the effect would easily be 10 per cent of the load.

These figures are based upon the assumption that the scale would be put into perfect balance after the device was inserted, but if by neglect or desire the scale should not be balanced after the device was put under the fulcrum pivot of the beam, the effect would be to give a false weight of about 200 pounds on any size load in addition to the 2½, 5, or 10 per cent as the case might be.

If one of these devices were used on a scale beam for fraudulent purposes, it would undoubtedly be inserted in the loop from the rear of the beam, and thus could not be seen from the position in which one stands to do the weighing, hence the necessity of looking into the beam loops from the rear of the beam to prove that such a device is not being used.

At a large stock shipping point in Minnesota many complaints had been received relative to the weights over a certain stock scale. On investigation of the scale it was discovered that one of these "shrinkers" was in use. The commission immediately started its special agent out to trace it up. The remarkable part of the investigation is that in the endeavor to find the origin of this device, the trail led through the states of Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, South Dakota and Wisconsin, and going on the old theory, "where there is much smoke there must be some fire," it is safe to assume that when continual rumors of "shrinkers" were prevalent, the shrinker device must have been doing some shrinking, and in the case of this particular form of shrinker, which could be used on heavy scales, such as stock scales and grain scales, it has been the farmer and producer who were the victims.

The evidence obtained by the agent of the Minnesota commission disclosed the fact that the man who had made these devices had procured from $8 to $75 each for them.



The following precautions will be of assistance in helping to detect these, or similar fraudulent devices and prevent the seller of any commodity which may be weighed over a scale from being victimized:

1. See that a scale is in perfect balance before any weighing is done.

2. See that scale beam swings freely, that is, without a stiff jerking motion.

3. See that there is ample clearance about the scale platform, if it is a wagon, stock or dump scale.

At Booth's First Meeting

Old Londoner Tells of the Beginning of Real Work of the Salvation Army.

Standing at the salute by a big tombstone in Abney Park cemetery was an old soldier of the Salvation Army. As the procession filed past him General and Mrs. Bramwell Booth gave him a glance of kindly recognition.

The old man, who is seventy-five years of age, and named Peter Monks, was the late general's first convert in London.

One day nearly fifty years ago, before William Booth had started any mission work, he was walking down a squalid little back street near the London docks when he met Peter Monks outside a notorious drinking house.

"The general came up and spoke to me," said Monks to the Daily Mirror, "no doubt because I looked the bad character that I was then.

"'I am looking for work,' he said to me. He went on to say that he had left a congregation just before 'because,' he said, 'they thought more about me than him.'

"Presently Booth told me he was going to try to hold a meeting on the Mile End Waste—a most daring thing to do in those times—and he asked me to come to it.

"I said I would, wondering what had come over me.

"I went down to the meeting at the Mile End Waste, and found that some of the worst characters from Spitalfields and Whitechapel had gathered round Booth's rough platform and were giving him a very bad time, throwing cabbage stumps and dirt at him.

"Something seemed to 'rise up' in me, and instead of joining in the horseplay, as I usually did, I clenched my fists and simply 'walked round' the crowd.

"The lads knew who I was—I had a bit of reputation as a boxer in those days—and surprised by my taking up the preacher's side and from fear of my fists, they became quiet, and Booth got a hearing, for which he thanked me many times.

"I did not become actually converted for some time, but I went to all the meetings and helped to keep order. When the Salvation Army was finally formed I joined."—London Daily Mirror.

"I've got no goat, child."

"Yes you have, pop. Billy Smith's father says you've got his."

COMBINATION NEW TO HIM

"Lemonade and Ladies" Was Something the Veteran Politician Never Had Heard of.

"Lemonade and ladies!" A certain veteran politician laughed derisively as he read those words on a card this morning.

"Say, Bob," he said, "what kind of a way is this to run a campaign? Seen this card? It's a notice of the Tenth ward Progressive club's meeting tonight at Posey's hall, and it gives a special invitation to the ladies to attend and says ice cold lemonade will be served free. Did you ever hear anything like that, Bob?

"Lemonade and ladies! That ain't no way to run a campaign. Say, how many votes can these ladies cast? I guess I've had as much practical experience in politics as any man and I'll tell you these Progressive guys ain't going to get very far with their lemonade and ladies. It won't go."

However, despite the warnings of the professional politicians, the Tenth ward Progressive club will serve lemonade at the mass meeting tonight. It is according to the new order of things. If any of the "boys" attend they will be welcome.—Kansas City Star.

Gloves and Thimbles.

"One of the hardest things for shoppers to learn is that the size of gloves and thimbles do not coincide," said a salesman. "If the woman who wears a No. 6 glove asks her husband to buy a thimble for her she tells him to get a No. 6 thimble. If he takes that size the chances are it will only stick on the tip of her little finger. She needs a No. 8. Of course, there are exceptions to the rule, for in thimbles, as in gloves, there are great differences in the make, and a great deal depends too, upon the peculiarities of the hand. But, as a rule, thimbles run about two sizes larger than gloves."

SHARP PAINS IN THE BACK

Point to Hidden Kidney Trouble.

Have you a lame back, aching day and night?

Do you feel a sharp pain after bending over?

When the kidneys seem sore and the action irregular, use Doan's Kidney Pills, which have cured thousands.

"Every Picture Tells a Story"

A Washington Case—

H. R. Hatch, 2816 Cedar St., Everett, Wash., says: "Severe pains in my back made me miserable. The kidney secretions burned in passing and looked like blood. My back got so bad I could hardly walk and any jar sent sharp stabs of pain through me. After specialists failed, Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me."

SAW NO CAUSE FOR WORRY

Small Boy Pretty Well Satisfied That the Future Was Not Likely to Be a Hard One.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer says:

A Lakewood woman was recently reading to her little boy the story of a young lad whose father was taken ill and died, after which he set himself diligently to work to support himself and mother. When she had finished the story she said:

"Dear Billy, if your papa were to die would you work to support your dear mamma?"

"Naw!" said Billy, unexpectedly.

"But why not?"

"Ain't we got a good house to live in?"

"Yes, dearie—but we can't eat the house, you know."

"Ain't there a lot o' stuff in the pantry?"

"Yes, but that won't last forever."

"It'll last till you git another husband, won't it? You're a pretty good looker, ma!"

Mamma gave up right there.

Daddy's Whack-Whack.

On the occasion of her last visit to a certain Baltimore household a young matron of that city found a little friend in tears.

"What's the matter with little Marie?" she asked, endeavoring to console the weeping child.

"Daddy has just given me whack-whack," the youngster replied between sobs.

"Thoughtless daddy!" exclaimed the young woman, repressing a smile. "And where did he whack-whack little Marie?"

"On the back of my tummy," was the answer.

Palliating News.

"Oh, dear, officer, was my poor husband shot when you got him to the station?"

"No, madam; only half shot."

"GOOD STUFF."

A Confirmed Coffee Drinker Takes to Postum.

A housewife was recently surprised when cook served Postum instead of coffee. She says:

"For the last five or six years I have been troubled with nervousness, indigestion and heart trouble. I couldn't get any benefit from the doctor's medicine so finally he ordered me to stop drinking coffee, which I did.

"I drank hot water while taking the doctor's medicine, with some improvement, then went back to coffee with the same old trouble as before.

"A new servant girl told me about Postum—said her folks used it and liked it in place of coffee. We got a package but I told her I did not believe my husband would like it, as he was a great coffee drinker.

"To my surprise he called for a third cup, said it was 'good stuff' and wanted to know what it was. We have used Postum ever since and both feel better than we have in years.

"My husband used to have bad spells with his stomach and would be sick three or four days, during which time he could not eat or drink anything. But since he gave up coffee and took to Postum, he has had no more trouble, and we now fully believe it was all caused by coffee.

"I have not had any return of my former troubles since drinking Postum, and feel better and can do more work than in the last ten years. We tell everyone about it—some say they tried it and did not like it. I tell them it makes all the difference as to how it's made. It should be made according to directions—then it is delicious."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest. Adv.

A Point in Verbalism.

Professor (to class in composition)—Someone in the class recently referred to a woman as of "medium size." Please avoid this expression in referring to a woman; it smacks to much of commercialism."

Freshman — But, professor, she might be "on the market."

A Useful Invention.

A Yorkshire farmer was paid by check for some cattle he had sold. It was the first time it had ever happened.

"What's this?" he asked.

"Why, money for the beasts," said the cattle dealer.

The farmer stared, and had to be assured that if he took it to the bank they would give him gold for it.

"Well," said he, "Aw'll try, but if it's a wrong 'un thou'll hear about it."

The check was cashed, of course, and the farmer went home happy, but he could not sleep. He had seen a wonderful thing, and it had excited him. As soon as day broke, he made for the cattle dealer's house, and woke the dealer.

"It's me," he said. "Where's tha got thim bits of paper from? Aw cud do wi' half a dozen mysel'!"

Time for Another.

Fred C. Kelley was stopped by a panhandler at a street corner in Washington to hear a tale of woe. Kelly gave the teller a quarter.

A month later the same man stopped him at the same place and told him the same tale of woe.

"Nix," said Kelley. "It is only a month ago that you stopped and told me that story and I gave you a quarter."

"A month ago?" asked the panhandler.

"Yes," replied Kelly firmly.

"Well," said the panhandler, "you don't expect me to live on a quarter any longer than that, do you?"

A "Break" on the Wire.

Two telegraph operators were seated in a downtown café recently when an athletic young man and an exceedingly pretty girl entered. They were placed at a table opposite the "key" men, who were sitting side by side in a position facing the girl. As is the custom of the craft when wishing to discuss someone in a public place they telegraphed to each other, using their knives on the plate.

"Peacherino, isn't she?" one ticked to the other.

"A tree full," came back the tapping reply. "Wonder who the sack is with her?"

"Search me—looks like a boob tied up with a wren like her."

"But they aren't married. If they are, all she needs to do to get a divorce is to exhibit that map of his in court."

While the two men were enjoying a huge laugh over their silent joke they were surprised and somewhat alarmed to hear some more "table knift telegraphy." The "peacherino" was doing it and she did not look at all pleased, either.

"You two would better look out while you are all together," carelessly ticked her knife blade while she listened to something her companion was saying. "This sack and boob, as you call him, with the divorce map, is my husband—boilermaker by trade He eats fresh little boys."

Something happened to the "wires" about that time and all communication ceased.

NOW FOR A GREATER LINCOLN COUNTY

It would appear to be unnecessary for the Outlook to say that it is heartily in favor of any movement to boost, for it has constantly advocated that, and as a necessary prerequisite to success it has pleaded for team work and co-operation.

It matters nothing so far as the Outlook is concerned with whom the plan originates or what plan may be adopted, the Outlook will look shields with everybody and spare no effort for success.

The first thing to do is to get to work, and all work, and work with a will. If a crop of knockers spring up in the way, set down on them good and hard. It is not probable, however, that the movement will be hampered by these undesirables, because the prospect of getting a greater Lincoln County is one so bright that all are boosters.

The Campaign should be a vigorous one, with no let up anywhere. Whatever its character, the Outlook will be in the thick of it.

WHAT CAN BE ACCOMPLISHED

Jess Dawson and the Kyles of near Capitan are now shipping their crop of Cauliflower to the market with very agreeable returns and results. Less than three acres were planted to the crop of cauliflower by these parties this year, about 30,000 plants being placed The crop is averaging $500 to the acre and the boys say that if they could have gotten their seed sixty days sooner the harvest would have been even greater. This is one of the products that the frost cannot injure and is especially adaptable to the higher parts of the county. If these folk can make $500 from each acre without irrigation and as an experiment the first year think of what the county could produce if all would get together and try to accomplish results.

Among the necessities for the town of Carrizozo and something that should be given attention at an early date by the Booster organization is a public horse watering trough. Persons driving or riding to the city now have no means of watering their horses without applying to private parties for the water. A public drinking place could be provided at very little cost.

Take a look at the trees planted but a few years ago in Carrizozo and which have grown with little or no attention from anyone, if there is any doubt as to what can be done to make Lincoln County a garden spot, with but little effort

Let us get together and put Lincoln County on the map, make it famous for what it really is, let the world know its unlimited resources, its natural advantages. All of the county, all together and boost.

Ten acres irrigated by one or two wells and scientifically farmed will make a fortune for the owner. Watch and see.

LOCAL TEACHERS ATTEND

The 27th annual meeting of the New Mexico Educational Association which was held last week at Albuquerque is universally conceded to be the best in the history of the association. It is estimated that more than 800 teachers were present, though the enrollment reached only 722, but this was almost 200 larger than any previous one.

Lincoln County was well represented by Mrs Blaney and Miss Helen Jones of Oscuro; Mrs. Perkins and Mr. Richards of Ancho; Miss Thompson and Mr. Haggard of Corona; Mrs. Gumm, Mr. Schreck, Mrs. Massie and Misses Covington, Humphrey and Spellman of Carrizozo.

The program was a full one but the enthusiasm that characterized the meeting did not lag and every one present felt that he was especially privileged to be able to attend

On Wednesday night Dr David Starr Jordan, President of Leland Stanford University, gave a most interesting address on "The Fight Against War" On Thursday night occured the Interscholastic Oratorical Contest. On Friday night a lecture on "The Measure of Greatness," by D. E. Phillips of Denver was followed by a reception at the Commercial Club Saturday night saw the installation of Dr. D. R. Boyd as the President of the University of New Mexico Besides these evening lectures some very excellent addresses and papers were given by our county and city superintendents and others, and helpful papers were read at the Round Table meetings.

Many schools in the state sent samples of the work they were doing, and every available foot of space on walls and tables in the High School building testified to the efficiency of the New Mexico pupils in the way of drawing painting, composition work, sewing, manuel training, and the kindergarten collection was a large one. This opportunity to measure up our own school with others in the state is especially valuable and is, in itself, almost a sufficient compensation for any sacrifices that may be made to attend the association.

By the courtesy of the managers of the Santa Fe railway, the train due to leave Albuquerque at 7:30 Saturday was held over till midnight, enabling the south bound teachers to stay for the last session of the meeting

There was not an unpleasant feature of the entire trip and we feel sure that all who attended the meetings entered their school rooms Monday morning with higher ideals, a greater amount of faith in their work and a firm resolve to be true to their profession and make the work for the rest of the year better than ever before.

And how about the Civic League the organization which has done so much already for the town. This woman's league has been doing the work and now the male folk are getting busy too. If there is a united action of all, large accomplishments may be expected.

The Fuel Supply Needs Attention Only Three Times Each Day

The makers of Cole's Hot Blast Heater guarantee this stove to hold fire with soft coal 36 hours without attention. Your old stove and imitation stoves leak air and waste fuel because they are not air-tight, because they have putty joints.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

—by means of the patented Hot Blast Draft and other patented features which make it tight, doing away with the use of stove putty—requires less attention than any other heater made.

All fuel—Soft Coal, Hard Coal, Lignite, Wood or Corn Cobs—contains a large amount of gas. Fully one-half of the heating power (carbon) in soft coal is gas. This is the part of the fuel this wonderful heater saves, by burning it with the Top Hot Blast Draft. This makes Cole's Hot Blast Heater the most satisfactory, the most economical, the most convenient heater you can buy. Imitations and other styles of stoves allow this gas-half of the coal to pass up the chimney with the smoke, unburned.

Thousands of these stoves are in use and the sale continues to increase year after year.

This heater will give you more comfort than you ever thought possible by using any kind of a stove which uses soft coal for fuel.

Right now is the time to decide and select the size you should have. Come in and see complete line of styles and sizes.

SYNOPSIS.

Lieut. Harry Mallory is ordered to the Philippines. He and Marjorie Newton decide to elope, but wreck of taxicab prevents their seeing minister on the way to the train. Transcontinental train is taking on passengers. Porter has a lively time with an Englishman and Ira Lathrop, a Yankee business man. The elopers have an exciting time getting to the train. "Little Jimmie" Wellington, bound for Reno to get a divorce, boards train in maudlin condition. Later Mrs. Jimmie appears. She is also bound for Reno with same object. Likewise Mrs. Sammy Whitcomb. Latter blames Mrs. Jimmie for her marital troubles. Classmates of Mallory decorate bridal berth. Rev. and Mrs. Temple start on a vacation. They decide to cut loose and Temple removes evidence of his calling. Marjorie decides to let Mallory proceed alone, but train starts while they are lost in farewell. Passengers join Mallory's classmates in giving couple wedding hazing. Marjorie is distracted. Ira Lathrop, woman-hating bachelor, discovers an old sweetheart, Anne Gattle, a fellow passenger. Mallory vainly hunts for a preacher among the passengers. Mrs. Wellington hears Little Jimmie's voice. Later she meets Mrs. Whitcomb. Mallory reports to Marjorie his failure to find a preacher. They decide to pretend a quarrel and Mallory finds a vacant berth. Mrs. Jimmie discovers Wellington on the train. Mallory again makes an unsuccessful hunt for a preacher. Dr. Temple poses as a physician. Mrs. Temple is induced by Mrs. Wellington to smoke a cigar. Sight of preacher on a station platform raises Mallory's hopes, but he takes another train. Missing hand baggage compels the couple to borrow from passengers. Jimmie gets a cinder in his eye and Mrs. Jimmie gives first-aid. Coolness is then resumed. Still no clergyman. More borrowing.

CHAPTER XXII—(Continued).

He felt that he was the greatest sinner on earth, but worst of all was the fact that when he had fallen, the forbidden brew was not sweet. He was inexperienced enough to sip it and it was like foaming quinine on his palate. But he kept at it from sheer shame, and his luxurious transgression was its own punishment.

The doleful Mallory was on his way to join the "club." Crossing the vestibule he had met the conductor, and had ventured to quiz him along the old lines:

"Excuse me, haven't you taken any clergymen on board this train yet?"

"Devil a one."

"Don't you ever carry any preachers on this road?"

"Usually we get one or two. Last trip we carried a whole Methodist convention."

"A whole convention last trip! Just my luck!"

The unenlightened conductor turned to call back: "Say, up in the forward car we got a couple of undertakers. They be of any use to you?"

"Not yet."

Then Mallory dawdled on into the smoking room, where he found his own porter, who explained that he had been "promoted to the bottlery."

"Do we come to a station stop soon?" Mallory asked.

"Well, not for a considerable interval. Do you want to get out and walk up and down?"

"I don't," said Mallory, taking from under his coat Snoozleums, whom he had smuggled past the new conductor. "Meanwhile, Porter, could you give him something to eat to distract him?"

The porter grinned, and picking up a bill of fare held it out. "I got a meenuel. It ain't written in dog, but you can explain it to him. What would yo' canine desiah, sah?"

Snoozleums put out a paw and Mallory read what it indicated: "He says he'd like a filet Chateaubriand, but if you have any old bones, he'll take those." The porter gathered Snoozleums in and disappeared with him into the buffet, Mallory calling after him: "Don't let the conductor see him."

Dr. Temple advanced on the disconsolate youth with an effort at cheer: "How is our bridegroom this beautiful afternoon?"

Mallory glanced at his costume: "I feel like a rainbow gone wrong. Just my luck to have to borrow from everybody. Look at me! This collar of Mr. Wellington's makes me feel like a peanut in a rubber tire." He turned to Fosdick.

"I say, Mr. Fosdick, what size collar do you wear?"

"Fourteen and a half," said Fosdick. "Fourteen and a half!—why don't you get a neck? You haven't got a plain white shirt, have you? Our English friend lent me this, but it's purple, and Mr. Ashton's socks are maroon, and this peacock blue tie is very unhappy."

"I think I can fit you out," said Fosdick.

"And if you had an extra pair of socks," Mallory pleaded—"just one pair of unemotional socks."

"I'll show you my repertoire."

"All right, I'll see you later." Then he went up to Wellington, with much hesitance of manner. "By the way, Mr. Wellington, do you suppose Mrs. Wellington could lend Miss—Mrs.—could lend Marjorie some—some—"

Wellington waved him aside with magnificent scorn: "I am no longer in Mrs. Wellington's confidence."

"Oh, excuse me," said Mallory. He had noted that the Wellingtons occupied separate compartments, but for all he knew their reason was as romantic as his own.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Through a Tunnel.

Mrs. Jimmie Wellington, who had traveled much abroad and learned in England the habit of smoking in the corridors of expensive hotels, had acquired also the habit, as travelers do, of calling England freer than America. She determined to do her share toward the education of her native country, and chose, for her topic, tobacco as a feminine accomplishment.

She had grown indifferent to stares and audible comment and she could fight a protesting head waiter to a standstill. If monuments and tablets are ever erected to the first woman who smoked publicly in this place or that, Mrs. Jimmie Wellington will be variously remembered and occupy a large place in historical record.

The narrow confines of the women's room on the sleeping car soon palled on her, and she objected to smoking there except when she felt the added luxury of keeping some other woman outside—fuming, but not smoking. And now Mrs. Jimmie had staked out a claim on the observation platform. She sat there, puffing like a major-general, and in one portion of Nebraska two farmers fell off their agricultural vehicles at the sight of her cigar-smoke trailing after the train. In Wyoming three cowboys followed her for a mile, yipping and howling their compliments.

Feeling the smoke mood coming on, Mrs. Wellington invited Mrs. Temple to smoke with her, but Mrs. Temple felt a reminiscent qualm at the very thought, so Mrs. Jimmie sauntered out alone, to the great surprise of Ira Lathrop, whose motto was, "Two heads are better than one," and who was apparently willing to wait till Anne Gattle's head grew on his shoulder.

"I trust I don't intrude," Mrs. Wellington said.

"Oh, no. Oh, yes." Anne gasped in fiery confusion as she fled into the car, followed by the purple-faced Ira, who slammed the door with a growl: "That Wellington woman would break up anything."

The prim little missionary toppled into the nearest chair: "Oh, Ira, what will she think!"

"She can't think!" Ira grumbled. "In a little while she'll know."

"Don't you think we'd better tell everybody before they begin to talk?"

Ira glowed with pride at the thought and murmured with all the ardor of a senile Romeo: "I suppose so, ducky darling. I'll break it—I mean I'll tell it to the men, and you tell the women."

"All right, dear, I'll obey you," she answered, meekly.

"Obey me!" Ira laughed with boyish swagger. "And you a missionary!"

"Well, I've converted one heathen, anyway," said Anne as she darted down the corridor, followed by Ira, who announced his intention to "go to the baggage car and dig up his old Prince Albert."

In their flight forward they passed the mysterious woman in the stateroom. They were too full of their own mystery to give thought to hers. Mrs. Fosdick went timidly prowling toward the observation car, suspecting everybody to be a spy, as Mallory suspected everybody to be a clergyman in disguise.

As she stole along the corridor past the maid's sitbroom she saw her husband—her here-and-there husband—wearily counting the telegraph posts and summing them up into miles. She tapped on the glass and signalled to him, then passed on.

He answered with a look, then pretended not to have noticed, and waited a few moments before he rose with an elaborate air of carelessness. He beckoned the porter and said:

"Let me know the moment we enter Utah, will you?"

"Yassah. We'll be comin' along right soon now. We got to pass through the big Aspen tunnel, after that, befo' long, we splounce into old Utah."

"Don't forget," said Fosdick, as he sauntered out. Ashton perked up his ears at the promise of a tunnel and kept his eye on his watch.

Fosdick entered the observation room with a hungry look in his luscious eyes. His now-and-then wife put up a warning finger to indicate Mrs. Whitcomb's presence at the writing desk.

Fosdick's smile froze into a smirk of formality and he tried to chill his tone as if he were speaking to a total stranger.

"Good afternoon."

Mrs. Fosdick answered with equal ice: "Good afternoon. Won't you sit down?"

"Thanks. Very picturesque scenery, isn't it?"

"Isn't it?" Fosdick seated himself, looked about cautiously, noted that Mrs. Whitcomb was apparently absorbed in her letter, then lowered his voice confidentially. His face kept up a strained pretense of indifference, but his whisper was passionate with longing:

"Has my poor little wifey missed her poor old hubby?"

"Oh, so much!" she whispered. "Has poor little hubby missed his poor old wife?"

"Horribly. Was she lonesome in that dismal stateroom all by herself?"

"Oh, so miserable! I can't stand it much longer."

Fosdick's face blazed with good news: "In just a little while we come to the Utah line—then we're safe."

"God bless Utah!"

The rapture died from her face as she caught sight of Dr. Temple, who happened to stroll in and go to the bookshelves, and taking out a book happened to glance near-sightedly her way.

"Be careful of that man, dearie," Mrs. Fosdick hissed out of one side of her mouth. "He's a very strange character."

Her husband was infected with her own terror. He asked, huskily: "What do you think he is?"

"A detective! I'm sure he's watching us. He followed you right in here."

"We'll be very cautious—till we get to Utah."

The old clergyman, a little fuzzy in brain from his debut in beer, continued innocently to confirm the appearance of a detective by drifting aimlessly about. He was looking for his wife, but he kept glancing at the uneasy Fosdicks. He went to the door, opened it, saw Mrs. Wellington finishing a cigar, and retreated precipitately. Seeing Mrs. Temple wandering in the corridor, he motioned her to a chair near the Fosdicks and she sat by his side, wondering at his flimsy eyes.

The Fosdicks, glancing uncomfortably at Dr. Temple, rose and selected other chairs further away. Then Roger Ashton sauntered in, his eyes searching for a proper companion through the tunnel.

He saw Mrs. Wellington returning from the platform, just tossing away her cigar and blowing out the last of its grateful vapor.

With an effort at sarcasm, he went to her and offered her one of his own cigars, smiling: "Have another."

She took it, looked it over, and parried his irony with a formula she had heard men use when they hate to refuse a gift-cigar: "Thanks. I'll smoke it after dinner, if you don't mind."

"Oh, I don't mind," he laughed, then bending closer he murmured: "They tell me we are coming to a tunnel, a nice, long, dark, dismal tunnel."

Mrs. Wellington would not take a dare. She felt herself already emancipated from Jimmie. So she answered Ashton's hint with a laughing challenge:

"How nice of the conductor to arrange it."

Ashton smacked his lips over the prospect.

And now the porter, having noted Ashton's impatience to reach the tunnel, thought to curry favor and a quarter by announcing its approach. He bustled in and made straight for Ashton just as the tunnel announced itself with a sudden swoop of gloom, a great increase of the train-noises and a far-off clang of the locomotive bell.

Out of the Egyptian darkness came the unmistakable sounds of osculation in various parts of the room. Doubtless, it was repeated in other parts of the train. There were numerous cooing sounds, too, but nobody spoke except Mrs. Temple, who was heard to murmur:

"Oh, Walter, dear, what makes your breath so funny!"

Next came a little yowl of pain in Mrs. Fosdick's voice, and then daylight flooded the car with a rush, as if time had made an instant leap from midnight to noon. There were interesting disclosures.

Mrs. Temple was caught with her arms round the doctor's neck, and she blushed like a spoony girl. Mrs. Fosdick was trying to disengage her hair from Mr. Fosdick's scarf-pin. Mrs. Whitcomb alone was deserted. Mr. Ashton was gazing devotion at Mrs. Wellington, and trying to tell her with his eyes how velvet he had found her cheek.

But she was looking reproachfully at him from a chair, and saying, not without regret:

"I heard everybody kissing everybody, but I was cruelly neglected."

Ashton's eyes widened with unbelief, he heard a snicker at his elbow, and whirled to find the porter rubbing his black velvet cheek and writhing with pent-up laughter.

Little Comfort for Candidate in Reason Assigned by Wife for Her Being Confident.

Mr. Williams, one of five candidates for the office of sheriff in one of the northern counties of Wisconsin, was making a house-to-house canvass of rural districts soliciting votes. Coming t othe house of Farmer Thompson, he was met at the door by the good housewife, and the following dialogue ensued:

"Is Mr. Thompson at home?"

"No, he has gone to town."

"I am very sorry, as I would have liked to talk to him."

"Is there anything I can tell him for you?"

"My name is Williams, candidate for sheriff, and I wanted to exact a promise from him to vote for me at the coming election."

"Oh, that will be all right. I know he will promise, for he has already promised four other candidates the same thing."—Norman E. Mack's National Monthly.

A While for a Time.

A Cleveland school teacher writes that she asked her class what was the difference between the expressions, "a while," and "a time," says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Nobody seemed to have any ideas on the subject. Finally the light of intelligence was seen to shine in the eyes of one little boy, and the teacher called upon him to save the intellectual honor of the class.

"I know, teacher!" he cried eagerly. "When papa says he's going out for a while, mamma says she knows he's going out for a time!"

That's one way of looking at it.

WISE SAYINGS OF CONFUCIUS

Great Chinese Teacher Worthy the High Place in Which He Is Held by His Race.

Some of the sayings of Confucius, which are to the Chinese what the Bible is to us, are:

"Not to withdraw after making an error is in itself an error.

"Knowledge is when you know a thing to hold that you know it; and when you do not know a thing to allow that you do not know it. That is knowledge.

"Sincerity is the end and beginning of things.

"To see the right and not to do it is to be a coward.

"Four of the marks of a superior man are: In the conduct of himself he is humble; in serving his superiors he is respectful; in nourishing the people he is kind; in ordering the people he is just.

"The difference between the great man and the ordinary man is that the great man has a fair mind and sees all sides, and the common man has a mind which is partisan and one-sided.

"At a funeral it is better that there be deep sorrow than a minute attention to ceremony.

"Whatever the mind may attain to, unless the goodness within is powerful enough to keep guard over it, is assuredly lost even though it be gained.

He with whom neither slander that gradually soaks in nor statements that startle like wounds in the flesh are successful may be called intelligent indeed. Yes, the man with whom neither stealing slander nor startling statements are successful may be called far-seeing."

No Occasion for Surprise.

This story is told of Forrest, the great tragedian:

Forrest was playing in "Richard III.," and the part of Catesby had to be taken by a law comedian, who stuttered on the stage at the wrong moment and uttered the famous words, "My lord, the duke of Buckingham is taken," in the wrong place.

Forrest clenched his fists in rage, but otherwise took no notice of the remark.

Later on the comedian repeated the words in the right place, and when the king expressed surprise at the news Catesby folded his arms, walked boldly down the stage, and remarked to the great actor in loud tones:

"I told you so before, Mr. Forrest, but you wouldn't believe me."

Unexpected Testimonial.

Little Bilderson prided himself upon his good appetite and his capacity for amusing. He was dining with a friend a few nights ago, and did his best to keep his host and hostess with their six-year-old daughter amused, and at the same time managed to do ample justice to the good things provided. "Oh, dear, Mr. Bilderson," remarked the little one, after the guest's wittiest sally, "I wish you'd come here to dinner every day." Bilderson positively beamed satisfaction. "Do you, dear?" he smiled. "Why?" "'Cause,' came the reply, as the observant maiden glanced round the table, "'cause there wouldn't be anything cold to eat the next day."

Damages for Spoiled Beauty.

A curious judgment was given in a German court the other day. A little girl of three who was placed in a nursing institution had been bitten by the yard dog, the bite leaving a scar on the cheek. The little one's guardian put in a claim, not in respect of the pain caused, but because the scar had lessened her chances of securing a husband when she became old enough to marry. The court upheld the guardian's claim, and placed the damages at £50.

Medicine in Early Greece.

Hippocrates, a Greek, is known as the father of the present-day medical science. He taught the need of studying thoroughly the symptoms of a disease before attempting to cure it. The king of Persia offered him large rewards to come to Persia, but Hippocrates refused to leave Greece.

FIND QUEER HOARD

Interesting Discovery in an Old Texas House.

Dagger, Crimson With Blood Rust of Centuries, and Ancient Spanish Pieces of Eight Found In Old Pot.

San Antonio, Texas.—Still crimson with the blood rust of centuries, a dagger was found in the walls of an adobe building in San Antonio, and in another part of the house was found a copper pot containing pieces of eight. It is regarded as the most historical production which Texas has yielded in many years and the coins have been sent to Tiffany in New York for valuation.

Charles Arnaud and Gus Loeloff, his brother-in-law, were tearing down an ancient structure, used in bygone days as a fandango hall, when their picks came in contact with something that rang differently from the flint rock which composed part of the walls. They took their pocket knives and scraped away the mortar and discovered what resembled a teapot.

Extracting this vessel from its coating, they dug a flint rock from its opening, where the lid should have been. At first spider webs obscured their view, but after wiping these away they could see dimly that there was something at the bottom of the pot. It proved to be eight Spanish coins, covered with dust. How the dust got there it is impossible to say, as the large opening of the teapot was closed and the spout was so small that only a few drops at a time could have been poured from it. And in addition the hole was inclosed in the solid wall.

Local scientists will tackle the problem of how the spiders entered the pot—whether they were in it before the wall was closed, or whether they crept through some infinitesimal crack and thence into the spout of the pot. Quien sabe?

The dagger has a pearl handle, carved by hand, carrying a feathery design on one side and on the other a shield and leaves. At one end it has a guard almost as large as those of the swords used by the crusaders, bearing a bas relief of a wolf's head. At the other end it has a similar ornament, the head of some animal which has not yet been identified.

The blade is seven inches long, sharp on one side and thick on the other. Its point is yet in fine shape and could do deadly work. It has peculiar red stains, believed to have been caused by blood. This weapon was found near the top of the wall, hidden by mortar, and it is thought it was tossed there for the purpose of concealment.

MULES DEVASTATE ARMY POST

Eat All the Flowers in Garden and Kick Down Fences at San Francisco.

San Francisco.—One hundred and thirty-eight head of "Missouri's finest," just detrained upon their arrival from St. Louis, for use at the Presidio, the local United States army post, broke from their corral, devastated flower gardens, struck panic to the hearts of civilians and police, who attempted to round them up, and otherwise enjoyed the freedom of the city for nearly twenty-four hours.

A detachment of cavalry finally rounded up 137 of the mules, but one is still missing, along with several hundred dollars' worth of flowers, vegetables and garden fences.

Lightweight Triplets.

New York.—Triplets whose aggregate weight is less than six pounds, have been born to Mrs. Dorothy Mosch, of this city.

IS LITTLEST BABY OF ALL

Champion Lightweight Babe of Medical History Is Born in New York.

New York.—The champion lightweight baby of the entire history of medical practice, according to New York physicians, is being carefully guarded in an incubator at the Lying In hospital, Second avenue and Seventeenth street, for fear the faint spark of life it possesses may expire at any moment. Nevertheless, its chance for existence seems favorable. It weighs only twenty ounces.

It owes its present hold on life to Dr. Charles H. Goldsmith of 1910 Lexington avenue, who, first believing the little girl, born prematurely, had come into the world dead, later noticed a slight twitch of one of the eyelids. He then revived the infant by breathing into its mouth. Mrs. Mary O'Connor of 2595 Eighth avenue is the mother of the child, and at the time of its birth was suffering with whooping cough.

After Dr. Goldsmith had been hurriedly summoned to the O'Connor home he told the parents, after careful examination, that the baby was dead. The physician was astonished at the diminutive size of the infant.

An eight-pound baby is not considered a large one, yet this little newcomer was only one-sixth the weight of an eight-pound baby.

As it lay on soft material arranged on a table, the father, hearing the doctor's verdict, started out to find an undertaker. A few minutes afterwards the physician noticed a slight movement of an eyelid. The father returned a few minutes later, having arranged for the burial, to find the physician working to revive the child, though the appliances usually used in such cases were lacking and there was no time to send for them.

MUCH SPEEDIER THAN CABLE

Young Frenchman Invents System of Wireless That Will Revolutionize Present Methods.

Paris.—Julian Bethenod, a young French scientist, employed by the government at the Eiffel tower post, has invented a new system of wireless telegraphy which, it is predicted, will revolutionize existing methods.

It is reported that he has found a way to dispense with the spark, thus simplifying wireless telegraphy so that instead of using, as at present, an alternator, transformer, self-induction coil, condenser, oscillator and antennae, only the first and last of these are necessary.

This new machine eliminates interference, it is claimed, and transmits and receives much faster than the present submarine cables, having capacity of 200 words a minute.

Hurled Into Wolves' Cave.

Meeker, Colo.—Julius L. Roberts, Rio Blanco correspondent for the Associated Press and several Denver newspapers, was badly bruised when thrown from his horse into an abandoned wolves' cave near here. Roberts was crossing a fissured gulch when the horse's feet slipped. He was catapulted down a steep declivity and saved himself by grasping a shelf rock about six feet below the surface.

EEL-EATING CONTEST

Linear Measurements, Not Pounds, Count at Finish.

Winner, Five Feet Ten Inches in Height, Consumes Six Feet Ten Inches of Smoking Fish—All the Waistlines Alike.

New York.—Pie eating matches are more or less familiar. Eel eating contests are much less so, for the simple reason that while commonly the pie eating is done in public and for a wager the eel eating is privately done and for fun, though the loser may be required to pay for all the eels eaten.

There is a little club composed of half a dozen substantial men, all lovers of sea food, that owns a comfortable bungalow in a pleasant spot on the Long Island shore, in which its members meet occasionally to eat a sea food dinner. They do their own cooking and they are all good cooks, with one or another of them notably able in some specialty. One is particularly good on chowder, others on fish and still others on eels. This club assembled in the bungalow lately for an eel dinner and incidentally for an eel eating contest.

Among fishermen acquainted with the eel in every aspect and among eel lovers generally he is considered as a qualified eel eater who can eat his own length in eels. But of course no man could eat his own length of big eels; the eels for such a test must not be more than half an inch in diameter, which is the standard size for eels to be eaten in eel eating contests. Such is also the size eel that eel lovers find most agreeable to the taste.

For this particular occasion the club commissioned an eel fisherman to gather eels in sufficient quantity and also those that should fill the requirements, being not more than half an inch in diameter and of uniform size. It took the fisherman three days to do this, though of course in that time he gathered also many larger eels which he could market. The eels for the club he selected by sifting his catch through a sieve with a half-inch mesh.

The club's cooking equipment includes two big frying pans 18 inches in diameter. Two members sat down before the fire with these big frying pans and fried eels, which were kept hot in an oven, and when the eels were all ready the club began to eat. In pie eating and some other similar contests there is usually set a time limit, the winner being the man who eats the greatest number of pies in a given time; but there is no time limit here. The members eat leisurely, for enjoyment, and then when all have finished the measurer measures up the bones which each man has preserved by himself at the table. One lot after another each man's eel bones are stretched out on the table, with the sections set end to end and snugly together, and then the measure of the string is taken.

On this occasion all the men had eaten more than their length of eels with one exception. This member, who stands five feet ten inches in height, had eaten of eels but five feet nine. Probably he could easily have eaten a section or two more and so have exceeded the recognized standard limit if he had only taken the trouble to keep a little closer mental note of his stacked up bones.

But there were other members who had exceeded the standard by considerable, including one man of the same height as the loser, namely, five feet ten, who had eaten six feet ten inches of eels, or one foot more than his own length. This probably constitutes the eel eating record.

HIS MIND UP IN THE CLOUDS

Professor Imagined Appeal Was From Fido, and the Situation Became Embarrassing.

A great lover of animals, Professor Dryasdust was much given to having his pet dog sitting beside him at meal times eating tidbits from his own little plate.

The other evening he was at a dinner party, and his partner was a very great lady, who was proud of her title.

But the professor paid absolutely no attention to her. His mind had switched off on to some abstruse point and he was lost to the world over the problem.

The duchess did not approve of this, and presently, to attract his attention, she pulled him gently by the sleeve.

Then the professor woke up. Grabbing a half-picked chicken bone from his plate, he thrust it under her startled nose.

"Don't bother just now, Fido!" he said curtly. "Here, take this and go and eat it on the mat, like a good doggie!"

BADLY BURNED ON LEG

200 Fuller St., Redwood, Cal.—"My two-year-old daughter tipped a basin of hot water on her leg between knee and ankle. She was burned so badly, in places as large as a man's hand, that the skin was loose. The appearance of the leg was dark red. I applied the Cuticura Ointment at once and put on a bandage. I removed the bandage twenty-four hours later, opened the water blisters, applied more Cuticura Ointment and bandaged again. The skin did not come off and I did this until she was completely cured. I did not let her walk much until it was healed. She did not complain after the first day, and after the Cuticura Ointment was put on, slept as usual. The scars are gone; Cuticura Ointment entirely cured her." (Signed) Mrs. E. O. Chapman, Mar. 12, 1912.

WOMAN SICK TWELVE YEARS

Wants Other Women to Know How She Was Finally Restored to Health.

Louisiana, Mo.:—"I think a woman naturally dislikes to make her troubles known to the public, but complete restoration to health means so much to me that I cannot keep from telling mine for the sake of other suffering women.

"I had been sick about twelve years, and had eleven doctors. I had dragging down pains, pains at monthly periods, bilious spells, and was getting worse all the time. I would hardly get over one spell when I would be sick again. No tongue can tell what I suffered from cramps, and at times I could hardly walk. The doctors said I might die at one of those times, but I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got better right away. Your valuable medicine is worth more than mountains of gold to suffering women."—Mrs. BERTHA MUFF, 503 N. 4th Street, Louisiana, Mo.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.
