ROAD TO ROSWELL

Recent Passenger Gives his Impression of the Trip from Carrizozo to Roswell

CALLS IT THE BEST ROAD

What is perhaps the best mountain road in the entire southwest is the 105 mile strip between Carrizozo and Roswell, N. M.

The Roswell Auto company has the government mail contract between these two towns and cars leave Roswell and Carrizozo daily over this picturesque mountain route to deliver the mail to all points along the line.

It is impossible to lose the road. One only has to follow the telephone poles and the main traveled road all the way from Carrizozo to Roswell except a distance of about nine miles. Leaving Capitan, take the road to the Capitan railroad to Nogal, a distance of about 13 miles. Nogal is an old mining town with one store, a hotel and blacksmith shop.

After leaving Nogal and driving two miles you climb to an altitude of over 8000 feet. Traveling 10 more miles you reach Capitan, an old coal mining town. Not many years ago there were over 500 men employed in the Capitan mines. Capitan now has a population of 150. It has a garage, saloon, hotel, lumber yard, two good mercantile stores and is the terminal of the Capitan railroad. People who make the trip will be very much surprised when they see the Welch & Titworth store, which carries a stock of $50,000 in general merchandise. It is the largest mercantile store between El Paso and Roswell.

VISIT TO FORT STANTON

Three miles out from Capitan, leave the telephone poles and main road and turn into the road to the right to go to Fort Stanton, where the United States has its marine hospital for tuberculosis. There are about 300 patients here. The Fort Stanton ball team is said to be one of the best in New Mexico. Fort Stanton is built in the foot-hills with the White mountains on the right and the Capitan mountains on the left. The distance from Capitan to Fort Stanton is seven miles.

A NOTED CAVE

Leaving Fort Stanton you double back on the same road one mile and take the road to the right. Going a mile further, you pass a great cave or underground river as it is called. This is the noted cave whose end has never been discovered. Some time ago two soldiers from the Fort went into the cave to find the end. They went into it early in the morning, stayed all night and came out late next day but failed to find the other side.

ANCIENT COUNTY SEAT

It is 12 miles from Fort Stanton to Lincoln. Lincoln has a population of 500. It has three stores, two saloons, two hotels, a drug store, livery stable and church. Up to a few weeks ago Lincoln was the county seat of Lincoln county, the old court house, which is said to be one of the oldest in the west, will be remembered by the old timers as the place where "Billie the Kid," made his wild dash for liberty, killing his two guards and making good his escape.

FROM LINCOLN TO ROSWELL

After leaving Lincoln and traveling six or seven miles you reach Hondo, which is a one store trading place. From Hondo to Tinnie is four miles. One-quarter mile this side of Tinnie is the only sign on the entire route. It reads "The Borderland Route; the Douglas Way."

Picacho is six miles from Tinnie and has a population of 125 Spanish-Americans, and is the last town before Roswell is reached 42 miles away.

ONLY BAD ROAD

The only bad piece of road on the trip is 40 miles out of Roswell. For a distance of about two miles it is rocky and sandy, but the Roswell Auto Co. has two men working on this road and will soon have it in perfect condition.

At 39 mile post (out from Roswell) you pass the Sunset ranch which has 300 acres in apples. Roswell people say that the Sunset apple orchard is the best in the entire west. Apples from this orchard have sold as high as 25 cents each in Chicago, Roswell people say.

THE PICACHO HILL

Reaching the top of Picacho Hill, about 35 miles from Roswell, you leave the telephone poles and main road and turn to the new road to the left, which was built by the Roswell Auto Co., for a distance of 10 miles on account of the main road being bad and built of rocks. After traveling the 10 miles on this new road you reach the main road. After traveling four more miles you again catch the last telephone poles and follow them into Roswell.

The trip from Carrizozo is made in eight hours including stops. The Pecos valley and Roswell is a beautiful country. Roswell with its lovely homes, wide shady streets, its green lawns and the valley of the Pecos, with its many apple orchards, artesian wells, alfalfa fields and its enterprising people are worth going to see.

LAS CRUCES TRUSTEES RESIGN

Mayor J. P. Mitchell and William Jacoby, Theodore Ronault, Jr. J. F. Nevarez and E. Lueero resigned their positions Monday morning, the resignation being progressive and their successors being named as each member resigned. Their successors are: Mayor, E. C. Wade, sr.; trustees, R. P. Porter, Moses B. Stevens, Dr. C. W. Gerber and Fred V. Hesse.

By resigning, the former board is relieved of the litigation brought against the members as a result of the charges growing out of the installation of the $25,000 water and sewer system in Las Cruces. The suit was scheduled to be heard by Judge Medler in Carrizozo tomorrow. Charges of incompetency and neglect of duty were made and the court was asked to have the officers removed from office. The suit, it is said, will oblige the necessity of calling the court.

The county commissioners will hold a regular session on April 15th at which time they will pay the Contractor Ben Bechtel some money on account of work done on the county buildings. The Board then are required to go into session as a Board of Equalization to adjust tax matters.

COURT IS IN SESSION

Adjourned Term of District Court is in Session Here This Week.

District Court met Monday morning in temporary quarters at the Carrizozo School House, Judge Colin Neblett of Silver City, presiding in the place of Judge Edward L. Medler who was unavoidably absent. The main purpose for which the term of court was called, had been passed over before the opening, namely, the Ascarate murder case which was continued by the Court and the Los Cruces Town Trustees case in which case the Trustees resigned and removed the cause of action. There were but a few cases coming on for trial in Lincoln County and most of these were not ready for trial at this adjourned term.

Monday and Tuesday there was some civil business transacted but no trial business. Judge Neblett issued decrees in several divorce matters and other civil proceedings. On Wednesday, a jury was empaneled in the case of State vs. Erastus Lacy, charged with larceny but the state failed to establish ownership of the calf involved, and the jury was instructed to return a verdict of not guilty.

Yesterday the case of Hightower and Woods was on for trial. THREE RIVERS LOCALS

Everyone interested in the building of good roads in this part of the country is urged to be present at the meeting.

TO HIDE GUILLOTINE

Bill is Before French Parliament to Abolish Publicly.

Spectacle of "Red Widow" and Her Victims in Streets of Paris Being Opposed By Many as Conductive to Crime.

Paris.—The death of criminals upon a guillotine set up in the street in full view of the public may soon be abolished in France. A bill for the repeal of the law providing for public executions of the death sentence is now pending in the chamber of deputies.

It is therefore probable that when the three—and possibly four—heads of the notorious bandits of the Bonnot band of outlaws are chopped off by the "Red Widow," as the French call the guillotine, the gory spectacle may be given in private. Should that be the case the motor bandits would be the first to "benefit" by the new law.

Public beheadings are intended to inspire awe. The would-be assassin is supposed to see the terrible end of fellows such as he and refrain from committing the deed.

The reverse of the picture is said by many to be true. The hardened criminal usually meets his doom in a way that inspires other of his stamp with the notion that he is a real hero, for public beheadings furnish occasion for the exhibition of a certain kind of bravado which has a strong appeal to the desperado type. Senator de Chauvigny, one of the leaders of the public beheading abolition movement, so says, adding that not only are such scenes disgusting beyond expression, but demoralizing in the extreme.

Beheadings now take place at random. The condemned man is kept in ignorance of the date of his death until he is awakened to have his final toilet made for the knife. Until that moment he has hopes of clemency, it being the invariable rule to ask the president as a last resort to use his prerogative and show mercy.

The scene usually is in some street near the prison in which the man is confined. The narrower and more crooked that street, the better, since the authorities desire as few of the rabble as possible to see the blade fall. Scores of police and a large number of troops, on foot and a horse, keep the crowds back and only the officials, newspaper men and prison chaplain are grouped about the base of the guillotine.

When several persons are beheaded they are brought out of the prison one at a time, the last to die not seeing the others meet their fate. The criminal is tied to a sort of block which pivots in the middle; he is given a push, he falls horizontal and the triangular blade descends. The head rolls into a basket on one side, the body is dumped into a similar but longer receptacle on the other. Then the carcass is carted away at a gallop while the headman's assistants wash the guillotine with huge sponges, which they wring out in pails of water.

They call this "making the widow's toilet for her next husband."

Week of this sickening sight as possible is hidden from the public, which remains passive, or becomes demonstrative according as to whether the man is an ordinary criminal, or "popular" or much disliked. If hated cries of "A mort!" and "Death to the murderer!" are heard as the knife falls.

Senator Chauvigny is against hiding the guillotine up a narrow street or blind alley. In a speech before the senate he said he favored abolition of the guillotine as a public exhibition, but until the government should make the necessary laws, beheading should take place in the broad open day and in the most crowded squares to be found. If the death is to be made public, said, then let it be really public. Have it where all may see it. He guarantees that if this rule be followed everybody would be so tickled at the sight there would be little opposition to private beheadings.

Miss Rosina Schwimmer predicts that Hungary will before long grant the franchise to women.

BURNED TREASURE IS SOUGHT

Minneapolis Workmen Find Coins in Wrecking Aged House and May Discover a Fortune.

Minneapolis.—Buried treasure on the famous "Elder" Stewart property may be disclosed in the tearing down of the old frame buildings which have stood for decades in the heart of downtown Minneapolis. Workmen have found coins in the flooring so frequently that it is believed they have shaken from some place in the walls of the building.

"Elder" Stewart died in Minneapolis two years ago. He was an eccentric millionaire; for fifty years he had lived in a little white house on the corner of Fourth street and Hennepin avenue, proof against repeated attractive offers for his property. It was a most desirable business location. His shiny black coat and long white hair and his miserly living were familiar to the whole city. He lived alone in the little farmhouse structure, refusing to budge before the city's business life, attacking on all sides.

Now the buildings are being torn down and the finding of the coins leads to the belief the old "miser" had hidden part of his big fortune in the property. Some of the coins already found date back to colonial days and others are more recent.

FILM RECORD OF WEDDING

Relatives of Couple Unable to Attend, So Ceremony Is Conducted Before Movie Machine.

Denver, Colo.—Harry L. Rand of this city and Helen Stanford of Salt Lake City wanted to repeat the marriage ceremony in the presence of their families. Circumstances prevented the appearance of any relatives, so it was decided that the entire ceremony would be taken on motion picture film.

Therefore, every action of the young couple, from the time Rand kissed the bride-to-be at the station until the conclusion of the ceremony, was recorded on motion-picture film.

Rev. A. A. Tanner of the First Congregational church of this city performed the ceremony.

New York.—Dr. R. G. Johnson, a physician at Laurel, Miss., probably holds the world's record for delivering a child without. While testifying in a civil action in the Jones County circuit court Dr. Johnson said he had been practicing for forty years, and that he had kept a record which showed that he had been the attending physician at 6,340 births.

This is an average of thirteen births a month for the forty years.

Exquisite Agony.
"It was, to say the least of it," a London letter remarks, "just a little bit awkward that the electric light went out the other evening at the town house of a presumably wealthy widow who had been doing a good deal of political entertaining. The guests, to the number of a dozen, had just finished their soup when the unfortunate incident occurred. The scramble to find a sufficient number of candles so that the dinner might proceed was attended with a great deal of difficulty and no little amusement. The butler, who is described as being a bit new to his job, was immediately told to telephone to the electric company and demand attention to the matter. It was a trying moment for the guests when he returned to the dining room and announced in real Cockney accent: 'Please, my lady, the gentleman what's on the telephone says they sent several warning letters unless the account was paid active steps would have to be taken!'

WIDE RANGE IN COATS

FROM LIGHT AND FANCIFUL TO MOST SEVERELY MANNISH.

All, However, Have a Certain Similarity Which is Demanded by Fashion —Wide Shoulders and Straight Sleeves Imperative.

The new 45-inch coats range from fanciful affairs of light color, with trimmings of silk and oriental embroidery—coats designed for short spins about town or out to the country club—to more practical models, built of mannish worsteds, with correctly tailored detail. Even the latter are more or less trimmed with huge buttons, cord loops, eccentrically shaped collars and sectional belts across back or front. A certain air of smartness is imparted to the garment by oddly placed seams, piped or arranged in slot effect. The dropped shoulder has replaced the raglan design, so fashionable last season, and while very loose and almost baggy across the top, the modern motor wrap invariably tapers inward toward the bottom, wrapping the knees closely over the narrow skirt beneath. A particularly popular model of this type, made of all wool's serge, had double revers, the larger ones extending to the low front fastening, of black and white, striped or checked worsted, while smaller revers and a collar of faille silk appeared on the revers of worsted. Other coats of wool serge have shawl revers and deep cuffs of ratine in contrasting colors; and still other models show revers and cuffs of the material, edged with Bulgarian printed silk, a narrow collar of black satin, trimmed with small buttons, lending a note of sharp emphasis and relieving the gaiety of the Bulgarian trimming.

Very chic are three-quarter coats of shepherd checked worsted lined throughout with bright colored plaid silk, the latter material showing on the turned back collar and revers, while the sleeves are finished with narrow, turnover cuffs of the coat fabric. All such coats have wide shoulders and straight coat sleeves set into large armholes and the fronts usually lap across each other, fastening quite low with two or three large buttons, while the coat edges slope away in cutaway effect below to show the skirt of the dress.

MARY DEAN.

Hairpins Small.
The wearing of the hair in simple, close styles has put the big, cumbersome hairpin that has been a favorite for a long time quite out of favor. The new hairpins are all small and of curved shape, so that they fit the head curves.

The combs that are being worn are very light of weight and all of them have narrow rolled tops. A narrow comb straight across the head near the brow is a favorite.

Amber and semi-amber combs, pins and barrettes are in the best of taste. The light ambers are being worn by the brunettes as well as the blondes.

White Hooks.

Having a badly fidgeted closet in which to hang fine, cooking utensils, etc., I find that by painting the hooks and nails white they are much more easily seen, writes a contributor to the Woman's Magazine. The walls are natural wood color.

MAKE FILET LACE AT HOME

Few Materials and Little Skill Needed for the Construction of This Most Effective Trimming.

"Filet lace is undoubtedly the fashion, and deservedly so, for it is one of the most effective of all laces," says an article in Harper's Bazar. "With a little patience and the expenditure of a very small amount of time every woman, even she who never could learn to sew, can have lovely lace, for it is very easy to make."

"For making filet lace the only tools needed are a good linen thread, a frame on which to stretch the net, and a dull needle. I always buy my ground net, for, though not difficult to make, it is tedious work. It is simply a miniature fish or tennis net. The only difficulty is to keep the distances between the knots even, but this soon comes with practice. However, when perfect handmade net can be bought for very little abroad, it hardly seems worth while to make it. I send to the Galerie Lafayette, in Paris, for what I use. Not four inches wide costs only 65 cents a meter, and squared suitable for setting in linen cost from five cents each up, according to the size. In the department stores in New York filet lace four inches wide with a mediocre design costs from four to six dollars a yard. When one can easily make it with a beautiful design for a few cents a yard it seems a waste not to do so."

HAT AND COAT TO MATCH

Old-Fashioned Chintz Designs Are Used for Transparent Wraps
With "Picture Hats."

Many sets, hat and scarf or coat to match are noted here. The old-fashioned chintz designs are exploited in these transparent wraps designed for lingerie gowns. One set called the "Picture" hat and wrap justifies its name. Designed in white chiffon with Egyptian design in old blue and large pompadour roses in shades of maize and orange, the coat reaches below the hips, draped fronts and shawl collar of real lace. The "picture hat" is bent in four corners, the top draped with chiffon and a band of old blue velvet ribbon drawn about the crown and a flat bow at the side. Placed under the brim is a yellow velvet rose.

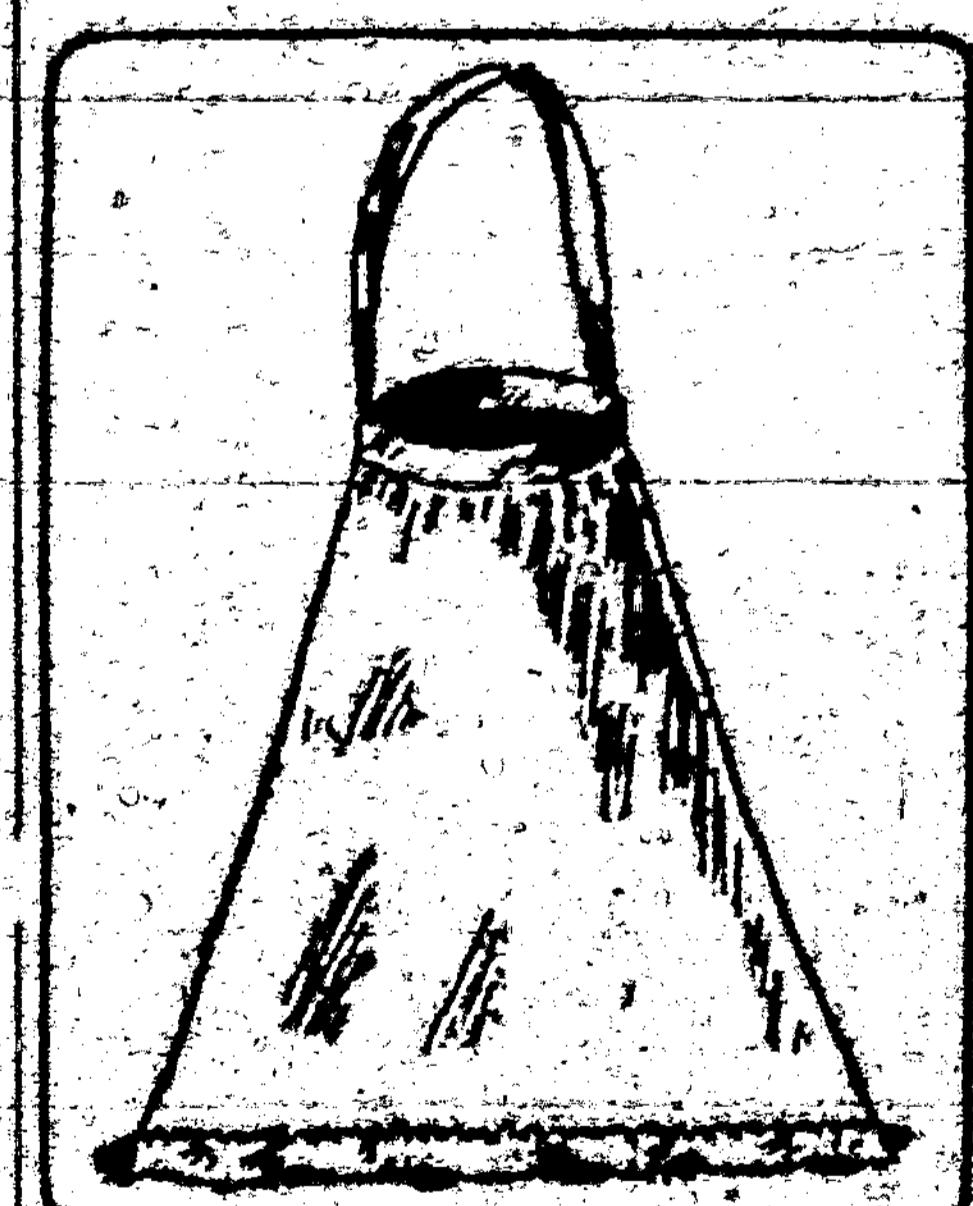

Quite attractive is a little English sailor hat, with crown draped with Futurist silk and the top of the brim decorated all around with red roses placed at intervals. Entwined about the crown is a band of old blue velvet ribbon. The scarf designed to wear with this is formed in mantle shape, blue velvet ribbon forming the hem on either side of front and down the center back.

Quaint little hats covered with Jouy design in chiffon, trimmed with pleatings of same, with scarf to match, are also shown.—Women's Wear.

MADE UP OF HANDKERCHIEFS

Useful Bag to Hold the "Mouchoir"
May Be Fashioned in a Very Few Minutes.

A useful handkerchief bag can be made from two handkerchiefs. One pretty shape has the side edges seammed together, while the lower ones are faced together with ribbon. The top is drawn up with ribbon run through eyelet holes, and then extended into double hangers joined by a small bow. Another style of bag is broad at the bottom, where the lower edges of the handkerchiefs are sewn together to form a frill. From the corners it gradually tapers toward the top, where it is drawn over an embroidery ring large enough to admit the hand. This ring also supports the handle, which may be of embroidered batiste or of satin ribbon.

FASHION HINTS

Few long coats are seen this spring. A novelty cotton crepe has chenille borders. White and magpie veillages are the favorites. Hemp continues to be the favorite hat material. Lace trimmed gloves are an interesting novelty.

DISEASE OF POTATOES

Dry-Rot Fungus Causes Blight
and Wilt of Crop.

History of Fusarium as Field Trouble
Is of Comparatively Recent Record—Preliminary Symptoms
Are Green Color.

(By T. P. MANNE.)
The dry rot of potatoes has long been known as a storage trouble. At intervals since 1844 there has been found associated with this rot by different investigators a fungus of the genus Fusarium, which has been variously designated, but the history of the disease as a field trouble is of comparatively recent record.

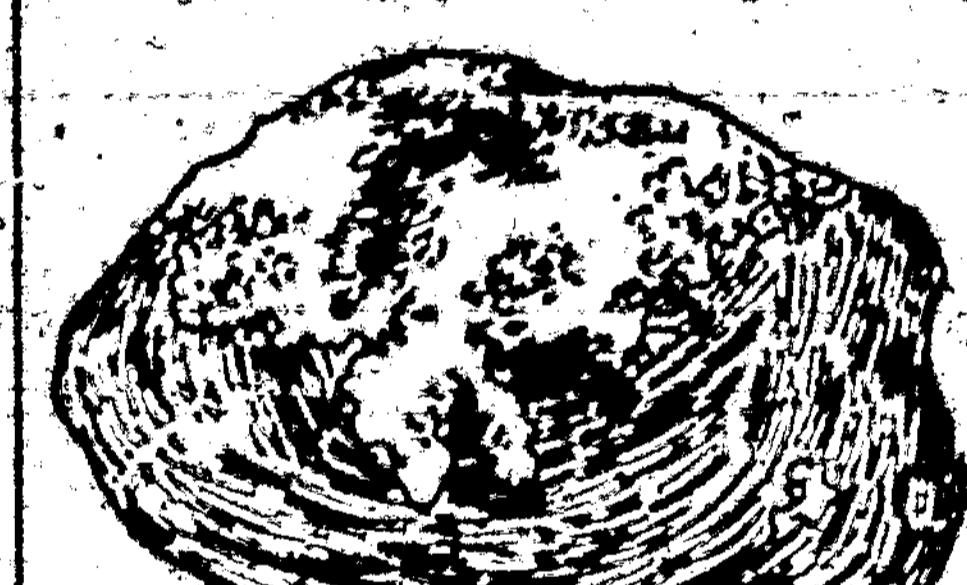

On badly infected soils the disease is characterized as follows: The stand is uneven, though few of the hills are missing. The early growth is somewhat slow. When the plants reach a height of 10 to 14 inches, there is an apparent cessation of growth. The first indication of the disease is usually conspicuous at this time. The preliminary symptoms are a light green color of the foliage, particularly the lower leaves; this is accompanied during the heat of the day by a partial wilting and an inward and upward rolling of the upper leaves. The color gradually changes to a sickly yellow, which slowly and evenly covers the affected vines. The wilting and rolling of the leaves extends to all parts of the affected plants. As the disease progresses the field takes on a mottled yellow to light green color. The growth of the foliage is greatly restricted, the wilting becomes more pronounced and there is associated much tip-burn owing to the failure of the leaflets to fully recover at night from the wilt of the mid-day. Occasionally hills will show only one or two vines afflicted. Plants which early succumb to the disease pull up easily, manifesting a badly rotted condition of the root. As a rule the blighted stems do not fall, but remain quite erect, except for the drooping top.

There is much evidence to indicate that many growers are practicing potato rotations of too short a duration. Most of such growers have attempted to maintain a three-year rotation of wheat, clover and potatoes, but longer than a three-year rotation should be practiced.

From the Fusarium Disease.

Sick fields should not be planted in potatoes again for at least five or six years, and even longer time may be required to work the parasitic fungus from the soil. Grass and grain crops will undoubtedly eliminate the fungus from the soil quicker than will manuring and cultivated crops.

proper storage causes an excess of moisture, due to the drying up of the rotting tubers. This excess moisture condition, together with the added facility with which bacteria and decay fungi may enter the already infected tubers, brings about much complication in the form of soft or wet rot, for which the Fusarium disease is primarily responsible. Under the average cellar storage conditions it is quite safe to estimate the loss from dry-rot and its complications at from one to five per cent.

SUMMER RATION FOR HORSES

Good Combination Is Corn, Bran and Little Oatmeal—More Carbohydrates and Less Protein.

If corn must be fed to the horses, grinding it will not pay, unless the horses have poor teeth, in which case it might be advisable. Feeding the ear or shelled corn would be the more desirable method of feeding.

Crushed corn and oatmeal is not as good because of the cost of crushing, and the amount of food value secured from the cob is so small that it does not make up for the energy required to digest so much crude fiber.

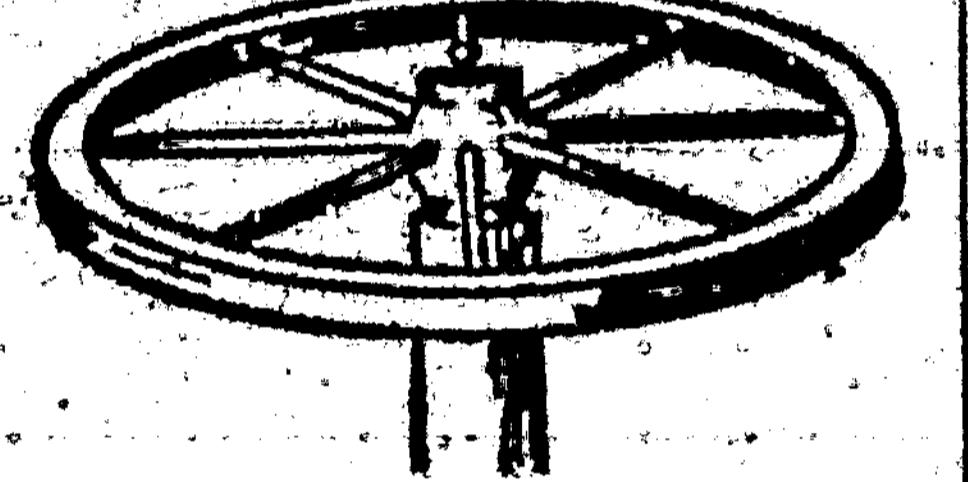

A combination of corn, bran and a little oatmeal make a good summer ration for horses. Feeding a 1,000-pound horse about ten pounds of corn and three pounds of bran per day would be equivalent to fourteen pounds of oats, although it contains a little more carbohydrates and less protein, thus making a little wider ration. A small amount of oatmeal would offset this, however.

CHEAP ROOST FOR CHICKENS

Discarded Cart-Wheel May Be Made to Serve Purpose—No Trouble in Cleaning House.

Take a cart wheel and stab the axle into the ground, or cut the axle in two, bolt it to a post and set the post in the ground. When the chicken house needs cleaning, all you need to do is to lift the wheel off and it is out of the way. Then, too, if there is a chick on the other side from you that you wish to catch, just turn the wheel around.

When Soils Cease to Produce.
The trouble with soils when they cease to produce as they did when new is not that elements of plant food are actually exhausted from the soil, but the necessary forces for the liberation are exhausted. One of these forces is bacteria. It is estimated that in the common soil there are 150,000 bacteria to the ounce. These bacteria must have for their food, humus, then they will liberate food for the growth of plants. To be a good farmer one needs to grow legumes and other cover crop plants to turn under for humus, and to encourage these beneficial bacteria to perform their functions in the soil.

SALTING CABBAGES.

For several years I have raised cabbages and found it advantageous, after setting out the plant, to drop a little salt on the heart of the cabbage, says a writer in the Brussels Grower.

When the salt is dissolved, by rains, or some other agent, it should be renewed, and the process continued until all danger from cabbage worms is past.

A cabbage treated in this way will grow much larger, and when the head is cut open it will not be found honeycombed with wormholes.

Good schools, good churches and good roads never fail to make a good town.

One cigar will kill 10,000 germs
If it were not for us smokers what would this old world do.

After July first C O D. packages will be transmissible by parcel post.
This will be a great convenience to the business community but what is more needed is some arrangement whereby we can all get things on credit.

The man who has enemies amounts to something. He is a live man. He is a fighter. People don't kick a corpse. A live man can swim against the current; a corpse floats down without hind rance. God bless our enemies.
We love them. They make life worth living.

The tongue is a little thing, but it is mighty in power. It can make or mar the happiness of a life or a home. It should be closely guarded.
The saying of one unkind or selfish thing makes the next easier, and so on, until a habit is formed that can never be entirely overcome.

CLEAN UP AND KEEP CLEAN

This paper will have much to say this summer on the above subject.
There is no reason why we should not have the cleanest town in the state, even if we cannot boast of the largest. Every man, woman and child in our town ought to respond to the appeals that are being made to make the town neat and clean and sanitary. It is only a small matter for each family to clean up its own premises, but with every family in town doing this the whole town will not only present an attractive appearance but will be more healthful as well. Let every one join in this war against dirt, disease, rubbish, ugliness and indifference to the public good, and when the town is in the condition it should be, let everyone help to keep it so. The town is in urgent need of cleansing and purifying and all effort to this end will bring reward a hundred fold.

STATE WIDE ACTIVITY

In looking over the New Mexico exchanges that come to our office we are impressed most forcibly by the unmistakable signs of prosperity revealed therein. From every corner of the state the clarion call of activity seems to be ringing out in clear, sharp tones in every line of industry. Mines are being opened and developed in the mining regions; lands are being reclaimed by irrigation projects in all parts of the state, the farmers seem to be getting down to more scientific methods in their agricultural pursuits; new industrial enterprises are springing up as if by magic; and not among the least of the activities is the development work being done in the oil fields recently discovered in several parts of the state.

It is time to put pessimism and unbelief on the shelf and to get in touch with the progress being made and help the good work along, the work that is to make of the Sun-shining State one of the greatest among the states of the union.

Get the spirit of the movement which though not spectacular nor world startling in its advance, is yet certain to grow to greater and greater proportions as it gains momentum, and it is not too much to prognosticate that within the next few years New Mexico will be the scene of much activity in the development of her latent resources.

And the hum of the shuttlecocks of industry will be heard, as the historian, Twitchells, puts it, "from Farmington to Carlsbad." —Ex.

THE BEST FAMILY NEWSPAPER

One of the problems that confront the conscientious homemaker is the wise choice of a daily newspaper. The ideal family paper must be clean, free from vulgarity and sensationalism, yet must offer something of interest to every member of the household, besides printing the latest news of the whole world in reliable and attractive form. A large contract, you will say. Yes, but an increasing number of readers seem to be convinced that the Chicago Record Herald fairly comes up to the specifications.
This great daily has a secure place in thousands of hearts and homes and it has won this position by years of unfailing excellence.

Business and professional men have long regarded The Record-Herald as the best paper for their own reading, because of its splendid news service and the reliability of its financial, agricultural and market reports. Young men perhaps find its greatest attractions in its excellent sporting department, covering the whole range of the world's sports. Wives and mothers emphatically prefer The Record-Herald on account of its feminine departments—its daily recipes and menus, its daily fashion hints, the "People's Institute of Domestic Economy" and the many good things in the illustrated Woman's Section in the Sunday paper.

Children enjoy the clean, comic supplement and the bright stories for boys and girls every Sunday.
A daily horoscope is one of the latest novelties. And all the family together can enjoy Mr. Kline's humor and verse, French's cartoons and other daily features outside of the news columns.

The Chicago Record-Herald has every right to call itself the best all-round family newspaper in the West.—Adv.

"LOOK OUT FOR THE CARS"

DO YOU know of anyone who is old enough to read, who has not seen that sign at a railroad crossing?

If everyone has seen it at some time or other, then why doesn't the railroad let the sign rot away? Why does the railroad company continue to keep those signs at every crossing?

Maybe you think, Mr. Merchant, "Most everybody knows my store, I don't have to advertise."

Your store and your goods need more advertising than the railroads need to warn people to "Look Out for the Cars."

Nothing is ever completed in the advertising world.

The Department Stores are a very good example—they are continually advertising—and they are continually doing a good business.

If it pays to run a few ads round about Christmas time, it certainly will pay you to run advertisements about all the time.

It's just business, that's all, to ADVERTISE IN THIS PAPER.

PARSONS PICKINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Colwell who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Luther Jennings have returned home.

Jake Peck of Carrizozo made over to attend the dance at the school house.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin spent Sunday in Parsons as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rice and family.

A fire guard has been placed upon the Mesa as little fear of forest fires is felt this spring.

Mrs. Floyd Skinner and little daughter are staying with Mrs. Skinner's parents Mr. and Mrs. Zumwalt while Mr. Skinner is attending court this week.

Parsons and vicinity are enjoying refreshing showers most every day now. The rain is much appreciated by everyone and we hope it may continue.

The oak brush on the hillsides is green again and as there is plenty of grass and water up here our valleys are about the greenest spots in the country.

A. T. Anderson and W. L. Weber are visitors in Carrizozo and White Oaks this week. As the accommodations at White Oaks are uncertain they took a camping outfit with them.

Lute Jennings can tell another Bear story now, and as he has Kodak Snap Shots to prove it, no one can say he is telling a fish story. Mr. Jennings has several bear traps set in Big Bear Canon and one day while Mr. Colwell was visiting him; the two men went up to look at the traps and found one missing. While standing under a big Spruce tree discussing the situation, they heard a noise above them and looking up into the tree they saw Mr. Bear sitting on a limb as comfortable as could be and only about ten feet above their heads. Not being prepared to cope with the situation they returned to the Jennings home on the Bonito for guns and ammunition. Soon the news spread over the country and every one who could borrow or beg a horse or burro joined the procession and armed with guns and kodaks went up the Canon to see a real live bear up a tree. The Kodak fiends fired the first shots at Mr. Bear but as they made no visible impression upon him Mr. Colwell stopped up and brought him down with one shot from a Winchester. The bear was a two year old and after being dressed Mr. Jennings passed him around to the neighbors. Many thanks Lute. The meat was fine.

NOGAL NOTES

The Nogal school has been closed en account of the measles.

Mr. Gatewood and family are moving back to the old Falls ranch.

The Hale children are recovering from the measles.

Mrs. Latham is now in charge of the Brown hotel at Nogal.

T. J. Moore contemplates a trip to the hot springs soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lin Branum with their two daughters visited at grandpa Henley's last week.

The singing class met Sunday evening after services and had one of their best services.

Capt. Henley has returned from El Paso where he has been some time receiving medical attention.

We understand that our postoffice will be discontinued in the near future. What have we done to be thus treated.

Mrs. J. F. Dalton has moved to the ranch on Tortolita canyon from Carrizozo. She expects to garden extensively.

THE BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

BIBLE STUDY ON

ABRAHAM, THE HEBREW.

Genesis 12:1-9—Feb. 16.

"will plow thee, and make thy name great, and thou shalt be a blessing."—Verse 3.

ABRAHAM is one of the greatest characters in history. God's promises made to him constitute the foundation of faith for Jews, Christians and Mohammedans, although many of them are not aware of the fact. The Jews are Abraham's descendants through Isaac and Jacob; while Mohammedans represent especially Ishmael and Esau. Christians profess to have become heirs to the chief blessings promised to Abraham's seed, by becoming joint-heirs with Christ Jesus, whom they consider the antitype of Isaac.

The New Testament claim is that the Church of Christ is the antitype of Rebecca, Isaac's wife and joint-heir; and that Christ and the Church, as the spiritual Seed of Abraham, will be God's agency in blessing the nations. But much of the New Testament teachings was lost during the Dark Ages. Christians forgot that they were called to be joint-heirs in Messiah's "In thy seed shall all be blessed."

all the families of the earth. Instead, they got the narrow view that merely the Elect would be saved, who to all eternity would look over the battlements of Heaven and see all others of mankind in torture, and hear their groans to all eternity.

Only now are Bible students getting back to the teachings of Scripture.

Only now are we learning the true import of St. Paul's words, "If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's Seed and heirs according to the promise."

God's Call to Abraham.

Abraham's birthplace was Ur, one hundred twenty miles north of the Persian Gulf. His father Terah was a heathen. Polytheism prevailed—the worshiping of many gods. From Ur, the family migrated to Haran, about five hundred miles in the direction of Palestine. There Abraham remained until Terah's death.

God's dealings with Abraham, according to St. Stephen (Acts 7:2, 3), began while he was in Ur. God called him out of his evil surroundings, to be the founder of a new nation, holy and obedient to God. The migration from Ur to Haran took the family away from the idolatrous scenes of the metropolis to pastoral life. In harmony with the Divine call, Abraham, then seventy-five years old, his wife Sarah, and his nephew Lot, with their flocks and herds, moved to Canaan after the death of Terah.

Abraham's Great Faith in God.

Abraham was full of faith. This feature of his character especially endeared him to the Almighty, who, because of it, styled him His friend. The Bible does not claim that Abraham was perfect. The reverse of this is declared—"There is none righteous [perfect], no, not one." (Romans 3:10.) None measure up to the glorious image of God represented by Adam.

SYNOPSIS.

Harding Kent calls on Louise Parrish to propose marriage and finds the house in great excitement over the attempted suicide of her sister Katharine. Kent starts an investigation and finds that Hugh Crandall, suitor for Katherine, who had been forbidden the house by General Parrish, had talked with Katharine over the telephone just before she shot herself. A torn piece of yellow paper is found, a sight of which General Parrish is stricken with paralysis. Kent discovers that Crandall had left town suddenly. Andrew Elser, an aged banker, commits suicide about the same time as Katharine attempted her life. A yellow envelope is found in Elser's room. Post Office Inspector Davis, Kent's friend, takes up the case. Kent is convinced that Crandall is at the bottom of the mystery. Katharine's strange outcry puzzles the detectives. Kent and Davis search Crandall's room and find an address, Lock Box 17, Ardway, N. J. Kent goes to Ardway to investigate and becomes suspicious of Henry Malcom Stewart, a woman commits suicide in the Ardway Hotel. A yellow letter also figures in this case. Kent calls Louise on the long distance telephone and finds that she had just been called by Crandall from the same booth "Cook" disappears. The Ardway postmaster is missing. Inspector Davis arrives at Ardway and takes up the investigation. He discovers that the dead woman is Sarah jacket of Bridgeport. Louise telephones Kent imploring him to go on the investigation. Kent arrives in New York to get an explanation from Louise. He finds the body of a woman in Central Park and more yellow letters. He sees Crandall, whom he recognizes as "Cook," enter the Parrish home. Louise again implores Kent to drop the investigation and refuses to give any explanation. Later Kent sees Crandall and Louise on an automobile. Kent returns to Ardway.

"Let me see," she continued, "it was a week ago Tuesday—no, it was Wednesday, for I went over to my sister's Tuesday and Mr. Rouser left word for me, and I found it waiting for me when I came back. He asked me to come over and take the office for the day. I was surprised when I came over here to open up to find him here, for I'd understood that he was going to go to the Parrish home." He explained that he didn't have to go till after the mail was in, and he stayed here and helped me sort. There was a lot of mail that day, people round here are great for answering advertisements and getting circulars. Besides that, some of them get-rich-quick concerns have got hold of our telephone subscribers' book and there's always a lot of mailing stock letters. There was no less than four good-sized bundles of letters from New York. Rouser was sorting the letters and I was handling the second class and the papers. I got through with that and picked up the last bundle of letters. It was no less than six letters addressed to Lock Box 17. "Seventeen's rented at last," says I, thinking it funny that I didn't know the name on them, Henry Malcom Stewart. Who's got it? "I'll take charge of them," says he, taking the letters right out of my hand before I had a chance to look at the postmarks or anything. I noticed, too, that he didn't put them in the box, but jammed them into his pocket along with a lot of other letters he had. I couldn't say who the other letters was addressed to, for I didn't get a chance to see them. They might have been his own, for all I know. But I couldn't help thinking that the only reason he'd waited till the mail was distributed was to get hold of them Lock Box 17 letters. As soon as he got them he went away, and he didn't come back till after closing time."

"Have you any idea where he went?" "When I came over here that day I supposed he was going to the city, but a few minutes after he left the office I saw him driving past in one of the livery rigs."

"Which direction did he go?" I asked, feeling more and more sure that I had struck the right trail. In all probability this young fellow in the postoffice was merely an innocent tool of Crandall. He had driven off somewhere to meet Crandall and give him the Lock Box 17 letters, for I was convinced that Stewart was merely the alias of the villain who had been sending out the yellow letters. If I could learn where the postmaster had gone on this visit, I might be able to find him now."

"Every time Charlie comes past driving," said Miss Cox, "he always goes that way," indicating the opposite direction from the station. "I wouldn't be surprised in the least if he was keeping company with some farmer's daughter."

"A sudden light came into her eyes and a smile of realization spread over her face."

"Land sakes, I never thought of it before," she continued, "but I'd bet anything he's gone off to get married."

"Happily married," said I. "The wedding is off and leave the office unoccupied without taking any care. And he wouldn't leave five thousand dollars lying there in the drawer."

"That's just what he would do. I'll bet he had a windfall of some sort and the minute he got the money in his hands he just couldn't wait to go and tell the girl."

"Somebody would have known it if he got a horse at the livery stable, would they not?"

"Oh, that's neither here nor there. He might have gone on his bicycle. He generally keeps it over there in the corner, and it ain't there now."

"It might be up at his boarding house."

"It might be," said Miss Cox.

It came to me that if Davis had thought it worth while to go to the Widow Smith's to make inquiries, it might be worth my while, too. After asking Miss Cox for directions, I told her I was going to see if Rouser's wheel was missing, and made my way up one of the side streets to the boarding-house. Davis' visit evidently had ruffled the widow. I found her in anything but a communicative mood.

"If you're another of those detective men coming prying around here," she said, "you might just as well get out. I've said all I'm going to say, and that's all there is to it."

"Please don't mistake me for a detective," I said as pleasantly as I could. "I'm—a friend of Miss Cox down to the post-office and we were wondering whether Charlie had taken his bicycle when he went away, and Miss Cox thought you might know."

"If you're a friend of Jennie Cox," said Mrs. Smith, "I guess I'd be likely to know it, being her own cousin and knowing as well as I know my own face that she hasn't had a man friend for eleven years, since Aleck Thompson died. As for Charlie Rouser going away on his bicycle, I don't know nothing about it. All I know is his wheel ain't here, but he never kept it here anyway. He always kept it down to the post-office."

With that she slammed the door in my face, but I went away well satisfied. As I walked down the dusty path of the so-called street toward the hotel I reviewed all I had learned and was delighted to think how amazed Davis would be when I presented my facts gathered in the last twenty-four hours, which were these: Hugh Crandall was aware that we were on his trail.

Unable to learn anything from Louise over the telephone, he had dared to go to the Parrish home.

He had so intimidated Louise that she had asked me to withdraw at once from the inquiry.

Acting on her fears, he had persuaded her to accompany him to some place in New Jersey.

Lock Box 17 was used for the mail of some one who had taken the alias of Henry Malcom Stewart.

All the mail that came to that address was taken care of by Charlie Rouser, the postmaster.

Rouser was in the habit of going at frequent intervals either on his bicycle or in a buggy out on the road that led away from the station.

Rouser, when he disappeared, undoubtedly had gone away on his bicycle.

Everything, to my mind, pointed to his having gone to meet Crandall.

How to account for the fact that Rouser had not returned was still a poser to me, but as I reviewed Crandall's connection with the chain of persons who had been driven to death I found myself believing that it was not at all out of the range of possibility for Crandall to have made away with Rouser for fear of betrayal. From all I had learned about the missing postmaster, I was convinced that he was weak rather than vicious, and I felt that he probably was an innocent party to the nefarious plot of the yellow letters. Davis' story that it was a crime of two persons, after all, was only a theory. When the mystery was cleared up I was positive that the only criminal who would be uncovered would be Hugh Crandall. I shouldn't be recalled that Louise even now was somewhere with him, not exactly alone, to be sure, for the car was driven by her chauffeur, but still it was a most disconcerting thought.

As I approached the hotel I saw a buggy stop before it, the occupants of which were Davis and the constable. As Davis disappeared I heard him say to the constable:

"Tonight at eight."

"I'll be on hand, you bet," said the constable as he drove off.

I quickened my steps and overtook Davis just as he started up the stairs to his room.

"I've got some great news for you," I whispered and went on up with him.

The minute he got into the room he stripped himself on the bed, so it utterly was out, and lit a cigarette. I had expected that he would begin to question me but this did not seem to be the case. He lay there with eyes half closed as if unaware of my presence.

Anxiously as I was at his seeming indifference, I was sure that when I told him my startling news about Crandall and my discoveries about the postmaster he would be officially aroused. I took it for granted that his mind was due to dampen me over his failure to find either of them.

"I have seen Hugh Crandall twice,

no, three times today," I said by way of beginning, "and I have found out how Rouser went when he left the post office."

"Yes," he said absent-mindedly.

"What's more," I cried impatiently. "I know who had Lock Box No. 17. I know what was done with the mail that came to that address."

Davis, without answering me, reached for another cigarette, lighting it from the butt he had been smoking. His nonchalant indifference grated on my nerves and I lost my temper.

"Confound it, Kent," he said with considerable asperity. "I was so busy thinking out something I really didn't hear what you said. Sit down and tell me all about it."

Mollified by his apology, I sat down on the foot of the bed and told him the story of my day, how I had seen a man going into the Parrish home and had recognized him later as Hugh Crandall, or at least as the man who had registered at the hotel as Cook; how I had been barred from the house; how I had discovered another yellow-letter suicide in the park; how, when I returned to the Parrish home after Crandall had left, Louise had told me of the theft of the scrap of yellow paper from her desk; how she had left me to go off in her automobile after insisting that I drop the investigation; how I had seen her again, crossing the ferry with Crandall in the machine; how I had returned to Ardway and had learned that Lock Box 17 was held in the name of Henry Malcolm Stewart; how the missing postmaster himself had been in the habit of putting the mail that came to that address into his own pocket and going off with it, and finally, how Miss Cox and I had determined that when he disappeared he had gone off on his bicycle.

"From all I have learned," I said in conclusion, "I am convinced that Rouser was the tool—in all probability the innocent tool—of Hugh Crandall in carrying out his nefarious schemes. Crandall apparently had him take the Lock Box 17 mail to some agreed meeting-place. It would not surprise me in the least if Crandall, finding himself in danger of exposure, had made away with the postmaster. I am convinced that Crandall is aware that he is being watched. In his desperation he had the hardihood to visit the Parrish home and to abstract that fragment of the yellow letter, lest it should be used as evidence against him. I am convinced, too, that he has succeeded in terrorizing Louise by the same methods that he used with her sister, so that she is trying to dislodge me from pursuing Crandall. Rouser, when he left the post office, went away on his wheel on the road that leads from the station. If you follow that road with me, perhaps we can find him. Pretty good for one day's work, don't you think?"

"Not bad," said Davis, "if only you would not persist in mistaking your own deductions for facts; but you overlooked the most important fact."

"What do you mean?"

"You didn't happen to find out from Miss Cox or from the Widow Smith, edge that the criminal must, or at least one of the pair must have been a left-handed man that gave me one of the most important clues in this case."

"Confound you and your clues!" I exclaimed. "Where have they led you? What more do you know about this chain of crime than when we started?"

He listened unruffled to my tirade and as I finished remarked calmly:

"I only know this much: Constable Dodds and I are going out at eight o'clock tonight to arrest the missing postmaster and his accomplice. I know where they both are, or where they will be tonight. You may come with us if you wish. And now I am going to get a couple of hours' sleep. I expect we will have a rather busy night of it."

As he concluded his amazing statement he rolled over on his side and closed his eyes, and in a few seconds was apparently fast asleep.

CHAPTER XII.

The Ride In the Dark.

Not since my early boyhood has the terrible fear of darkness come over me as it did that night at eight as the three of us set out from Ardway. The mystery of the journey, too, added to its terrors. I had not seen Davis after his startling announcement of his nocturnal mission until he came into the hotel dining-room for supper. All through the meal he had laughed and chatted on all sorts of immaterial subjects, influenced undoubtedly by the fact that there were several others seated at the table with us. There had been no opportunity for private conversation between us before we left the hotel together a little before eight for a side street where Dodds, the constable, was waiting for us with a vehicle.

We had lingered at the table until all the others had left. Just as we got up, Davis turned to me and in a hardly perceptible tone asked:

"Have you got that revolver I gave you?"

"It's upstairs," I answered, in the same querulous tone. "Do you want it?"

"No," he said significantly, touching his hip pocket, "but you may."

I hastened up-stairs to get the weapon and when I returned he was waiting for me at the door and hurried me around the corner and into the buck-board. With Dodds crowded in between us we drove along the street leading away from the station and soon struck what is locally known as the Plank Road, skirting a chain of hills which the residents dignify by the name of mountain. So precipitous and rocky are these that little effort had been made to cultivate them and the habitations are few and far between. There seemed to be practically no travel at night. We encountered only one vehicle of any sort, and that was about two miles out from Ardway, when we heard an automobile in the distance behind us.

"Turn out," whispered Davis to Dodds, "and stop until it has passed us."

The constable drew in under the shade of some trees. It was pitch dark, the only light coming from an ancient lantern hung over the dashboard. As the automobile came nearer Davis unhooked the lantern and holding it down between his legs shielded it with the folds of a long raincoat he was wearing. The automobile dashed by us, apparently unaware of our presence.

"All right," said Davis, as soon as it had vanished in the distance, "go on."

Dodds drove on in silence for perhaps two miles farther. We passed a little stone cottage nestled in a clearing under the hill.

"It's just beyond here!" said Davis, a note of inquiry in his voice.

"Yes," said the constable, "Miller's Lane, they call it."

Though in my city eyes there was no sign of a road, Dodds, about three hundred yards beyond the cottage, pulled the horse sharply to the right and we began ascending a rocky lane that led almost straight up the hill.

To Study Resuscitation Effects.

The American Medical Association is to make a study of methods of resuscitation from electric shocks. Many eminent physicians and electrical engineers are to co-operate in the investigation, which it is hoped will have important practical results.

The Minute He Got into the Room He Flung Himself on the Bed.

did you, whether or not the missing postmaster was left-handed?"

"What's that got to do with it?" I cried, convinced that as usual he was tormenting himself at my expense.

"Tonight at eight."

"I'll be on hand, you bet," said the constable as he drove off.

I quickened my steps and overtook Davis just as he started up the stairs to his room.

"I've got some great news for you," I whispered and went on up with him.

The minute he got into the room he stripped himself on the bed, so it utterly was out, and lit a cigarette. I had expected that he would begin to question me but this did not seem to be the case. He lay there with eyes half closed as if unaware of my presence.

Anxiously as I was at his seeming indifference, I was sure that when I told him my startling news about Crandall and my discoveries about the postmaster he would be officially aroused. I took it for granted that his mind was due to dampen me over his failure to find either of them.

"I have seen Hugh Crandall twice,"

HUSBAND NAMED RUBBER ON GATES

Wife so Weak and Nervous Could Not Stand Least Noise—How Cured.

Munford, Ala.—"I was so weak and nervous while passing through the Change of Life that I could hardly live. My husband had to nail rubber on all the gates for I could not stand it to have a gate slam."

"I also had backache and a fullness in my stomach. I noticed that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was advertised for such cases and I sent and got a bottle. It did me so much good that I kept on taking it and found it to be all you claim. I recommend your Compound to all women afflicted as I was,"—Mrs. F. P. Mullendore, Munford, Alabama.

An Honest Dependable Medicine

is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A Root and Herb medicine originated nearly forty years ago by Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., for controlling female ills.

Its wonderful success in this line has made it the safest and most dependable medicine of the age for women and no woman suffering from female ills does herself justice who does not give it a trial.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Diplomatic Team.

Cricket was introduced into a certain district of India by a clergyman from England, who hoped that the game would foster a manly spirit. All went well, according to the author of "A Little Tour in India," the boys became keen and a match was arranged with a neighboring school. Then the clergyman gave his team 15 rupees ($4.50) to spend on new bats, or whatever would be most useful. When the day came, the team turned out for the match full of quiet confidence, but with all their old accoutrements. "Why," asked the padre, "what have you done with those 15 rupees I gave you?" "Well, sir," said the captain, "we thought it best to spend it all on the umpire." They won.

GOOD JOKES

Unconventionalities

"Never mind closing the door as you go out, Skidmore; the room will need a little extra ventilation."

"Sir, in returning this manuscript to you we take pleasure in pronouncing it by all odds the worst rot that ever was submitted to us."

"I'm lending you this money, you worthless cuss, merely to get rid of you."

"I can't understand how you got in, Mr. Grigebaw; I've told the girl I am not at home when you call."

Bunkoed.

Farmer Hayseed (to policeman)—I'm waitin' for a teller I loaned $10 to yesterday. He said he'd meet me an' he ain't showed up.

Policeman—Do you know where he lives?

Farmer Hayseed—Well, I don't know the number, but just after he got the money I heard him tell another teller he was livin' on Easy street.

Conventional.

"How is the new telephone operator getting on?"

"Oh, she left as soon as I explained the work to her."

"Refused to stay, eh?"

"Yes."

"What was the trouble?"

"She said she couldn't think of calling people up and talking to them without a formal introduction."

Sized Her Up.

Salesman—Carpet! This way, madam. Are your rooms of good size?

Customer—We live in a flat.

Salesman—Oh, carpet remnants, two miles to the right.

AND PROBABLY WAS.

Old Man—I could almost swear your hand was in my pocket.

The Pickpocket (coolly)—Strange! I could almost swear it was there, too.

Reasonable.

I would not live forever, I am not that sort of man; But I would love to live to see a goat eat a tin can.

Still Incomplete.

"Well, we have had the infant fitted with glasses, his appendix removed and his stomach re-enforced. Have we overlooked anything?"

"Just one item."

"What is that?"

"We have forgotten to name the child."

Only Way to Do It.

"Why are you tying that rope about your ankles?"

"I am going out walking with my girl."

"But I don't see—"

"She wears a hobble, and I want to keep step with her, don't I?"

Neglected Opportunity.

"The days are getting longer," said the observant man.

"Yes," replied the person who takes melancholy pride in being an ultimate consumer. "And nobody has found a way for putting in an extra charge on that account."

Polite Age.

Crawford—Most of the old-style dives have been closed. We must be getting better.

Crabshaw—I don't know about that. You see, we now call them cabaret houses.—Puck.

Horrific Suggestion.

"Your father," said the lover to his sweetheart, "is a great splitting Yoros in this community."

"Oh, Harold," gasped the fair girl. "I hope he hasn't been trying it on you!"

An Example.

"How could a dish run away with a spoon? Dishes are inanimate. A dish can't run or talk."

"Can't, eh. How about the cup that cheers?"

A REAL SURPRISE.

"I was talking to my colored man of all work the other day," said Hon. James Yates Mellen of Cleveland, "and I asked him if he went to church."

"Yassuh, I goes to church every Sunday," he said.

"Are you a member?"

"Yessuh."

"What church?"

"Presbyterian."

"Do you believe in the doctrine of election?"

"Yessuh."

"Do you think I am elected to the saved?"

"Law, Mr. Mellen, I didn't even know you all was a candidate!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HOW THE SPRING AFFECTS US.

De Scribe (boastfully)—Yes, there are several magazine editors who will take anything I send them now.

De Rhimmes—Yes, I suppose some of the editors do get careless this spring weather.

His Fatal Gift.
He used to be a lady-killer,
And now he is wifin'.
That name would hang on so
Since he is a physician.

Something to Think About.
A salesgirl in a local department store yawned drowsily as she removed her wraps and started to get in readiness for her day's work Thursday.

"Out to a party last night?" inquired one of the other girls.
"No, but I didn't get much sleep."

"Weren't you feeling well?"

"You, but after I put the light out and jumped into bed I found something round under the covers and I lay awake all night wondering whether it was a nickel or only just a metal button with the hook broken off."

Acknowledgment.
"When a woman makes a blunder some man is sure to say, 'Now, that's just like a woman!'"

"Yes, and he doesn't realize at the time that he is paying her a compliment."

"In what way?"

"If she had acted just like a man, the chances are she would have done a great deal worse."

Characteristic.
Pat—How much do you weigh, Mike?
Mike—Ol weigh 175 pounds.

Pat—You must "a" got weighed with your coat on.

Mike—An Ol did not. Ol held it in me arms all the time.—Judge.

No Wonder.
"Why did you order that well-dressed lady out of the store?"

"She's a well-known kleptomaniac."
"Did she take anything here?"

"She took offense."

CHARMING FRANKNESS.

Percy—Is your mother opposed to my coming to see you, Evelyn?

Evelyn—Not at all, Percy. Since I told her there was no—er—likelihood of your ever proposing to me she has withdrawn her objections.

CONSTANTINE MAN OF ACTION

New Greek Monarch Has Proved Himself Worthy of the Crown He Has Inherited.

Constantine, the new king of Greece, is of Danish and Russian blood, his father having been a son of Christian IX. of Denmark, and his mother being the eldest daughter of Grand Duke Constantine, a brother of Alexander II. King Constantine was born in Athens and brought up under an English governess and German and Greek tutors. Later on he went to Berlin, where he received his education as a soldier, being attached to the Second regiment of Prussian foot guards. In 1897 he took command of the Greek troops in the war with Turkey, but his army was crushed in Thermopylae. In April last he was appointed inspector general of the forces, and has since shown himself a soldier of merit. At the moment of his accession he was in Epirus, conducting the military operations for sweeping the Turks out of that province.

A CLERGYMAN'S TESTIMONY.

The Rev. Edmund Heslop, of Weston, Pa., suffered from Dropsy for a year. His limbs and feet were swollen and puffed. He had heart-fluttering, was dizzy and exhausted at the least exertion. Hands and feet were cold and he had such a dragging sensation across the joints that it was difficult to move.

Rev. El. Heslop, After using 5 boxes of Dodge Kidney Pills, the swelling disappeared and he felt himself again. He says he has been benefited and blessed by the use of Dodge Kidney Pills. Several months later he wrote: "I have not changed my faith in your remedy since the above statement was authorized. Correspond with Rev. El. Heslop about this wonderful remedy."

Food Screen.
I needed a place that could be thoroughly screened from flies to keep my left-overs. My husband, with a key-hole saw made two half circles, fourteen inches by six inches, out of a pine box; then nailed these ends with three pieces of quarter round, twenty-seven inches long, tacked it over this frame, and screwed a little handle on top. Three or four dishes at one time can be put under this screen.—Exchange.

Helping the Little Fellow.

The United Shoe Machinery Company is the only real obstacle to the formation of a shoe trust. We help the small manufacturer to start in business and keep going. He could not afford to buy and care for his machines, but he can afford to lease them on the terms we give him based on the number of shoes he makes—an average of less than 22-3 cents a pair—and let us keep them up to date.

That is a fair arrangement. Some of the big fellows don't like our system, because they think we ought to give them special rates. But the little fellows stand with us because they know we treat all manufacturers alike no matter how many machines they use. If it were not for our methods of doing business there would be no small factories anywhere and no prosperous factories in small towns.

The United Shoe Machinery Co., Boston, Mass.—Adv.

Chinese Hair Bands.

Chinese women are not only ahead of American and English women in the matter of suffrage, but there are many who say they have a more attractive manner of arranging their hair than have Europeans or Americans. At any rate, the Chinese hair band is being extensively worn. The colorings of these bands are very effective. Blondes generally choose a band with a background decorated with flowers and butterflies in natural colors, while the brunette favors a pale colored ground appropriately designed.

Keep 'Em Open.

Over-Night Relief for Constipation

A Small Dose on Retiring and You Are Well and Happy by Morning

It is only natural that the simplest of ailments should be the most general, and so we have a whole nation suffering from constipation and indigestion, for they are closely allied. But common as constipation is many people do not seem to know they have it. They will complain of headache, drowsiness, or biliousness, all unconscious of the cause of the trouble. You should have a full and free movement at least once a day. If you pass a day you are constipated, and the result will be that you will catch a cold easily or have a more serious ailment. To cure the constipation and forestall still graver trouble take a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night before retiring and by morning relief will come, without disturbance from sleep or any inconvenience.

Legions of people use it regularly in such emergencies, some of them formerly chronic invalids who have suffered from constipation all their lives.

Mr. A. B. Danner, 320 Riley St., Harford, Pa., says: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gave me almost instant relief from stomach and bowel trouble. I now eat anything I want, and sleep well." Many others will tell you that they have tried most things recommended for this purpose but have found Syrup Pepsin the only one always reliable. A bottle can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar, the latter size being bought by families already familiar with its merits.

Syrup Pepsin is mild, pleasant-tasting, and non-griping. Mothers give it to tiny infants, and yet it is effective in grown-ups. It is for everyone who suffers from any form of stomach, liver or bowel trouble, constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, etc. Its action will so delight you that you will forever avoid harsh cathartics, purgative pills and salts.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 203 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.
