EARLY SHOPPING GOSPEL

Suggested That You "Get Busy" and do Your Christmas Shopping Early

A BETTER SELECTION NOW

Many more people today are planning or actually doing their Christmas shopping than were a year ago this time. Thousands upon thousands of people are now preaching and doing early shopping who a few years ago never gave the subject a passing thought until a week or two before Christmas. No mandatory law has been passed compelling us to do this. The change has been brought about by publicity.

There are two sound arguments for early Christmas shopping: First, the selfish argument that the early buyer has a wider variety to select from, more time to make his choice and better clerk service; second, the finer appeal to our better natures in behalf of the men and women behind the counter. We all realize now that every one of us who does take the trouble to buy his Christmas gifts early by just so much relieves the terrible eleventh-hour Christmas rush under which the men and women behind the counter often break and wilt. Most of us realize, too, that by failing to make this effort we are violating one of tenets of Christmas season by being selfishly inconsiderate of others.

But the number of early Christmas shopping converts, big as it is, is going to increase. This gospel of early Christmas buying is being preached by a new evangel. We refer to the advertising columns. Heretofore the exhorting has been confined mostly to the news and editorial pages. Now the advertisers themselves are preaching it. We are pleased to think that this new note in holiday advertising is inspired not so much for the purpose of profit as by the new humanity in business—by the merchant's wish to make the last few driving days just a bit easier for the weary workers. Anyhow, this new voice in the early shopping pulpit is cordially welcomed. It is a voice that carries far. It reaches every home. It will make early buyers of many laggards hitherto.

Watch the ads in the Carrizozo Outlook and you will observe where the holiday goods will be on display.

—Mr. Albert Ziegler of the firm of Ziegler Bros. left on Tuesday for Trinidad, Colo., where he will spend Thanksgiving with his family. Ziegler Brothers have purchased the lot adjoining their store from Robt. Hoffman and expect to enlarge their establishment at an early date.

—Henry Lutz of Lincoln spent a couple of days here this week having work done on his Velle auto. in the Johnson garage. Mr. Lutz has just returned from Kansas City where he had been selling sheep bought in this county. Mr. Lutz says that the chances for cattle this winter on the local range are very bad, and he has been over the county generally of recent date.

THANKSGIVING

The yearly festival was nicely celebrated by the local people with the usual turkey feasts and merry making and a number of social events occurred to make the occasion merry.

Probably the largest function of its kind attempted by any local lodge in many years was the oyster supper and dance at the bank building given on Wednesday evening by the local lodge Knights of Pythias. There were over 250 people present at the affair which commenced about nine o'clock in the evening and lasted way into the wee small hours of the morning. Until after the supper was started being served the dancing was with difficulty owing to the large attendance all of whom seemed to enjoy themselves greatly. The affair has been praised for its good time and fine supper.

On Thursday evening the ladies of White Oaks gave a dance which was well attended, many going up from Carrizozo. There was also a dance at the Railroad Men's Club House and one at Boyd's at Oscura.

—Mrs. John E. Bell who was to have arrived home from Evansville, Ind., for Thanksgiving was obliged to postpone the trip for a while longer owing to a second operation which she recently underwent. Her many friends here will be pleased to know she is getting along nicely and will arrive home at an early date.

—Emery L. Joyce of Allen, Kansas, who has been here visiting the Flowers at Polly who are relatives; this week filed on two hundred acres of land in that vicinity and will return here after a trip to his home and become a permanent citizen.

Mother Goose The Day After Thanksgiving

Little Jack Homer sat in a corner, Heaving many a sigh. "I wish I were dead— I studied so," he said. "What a miserable boy am I!"

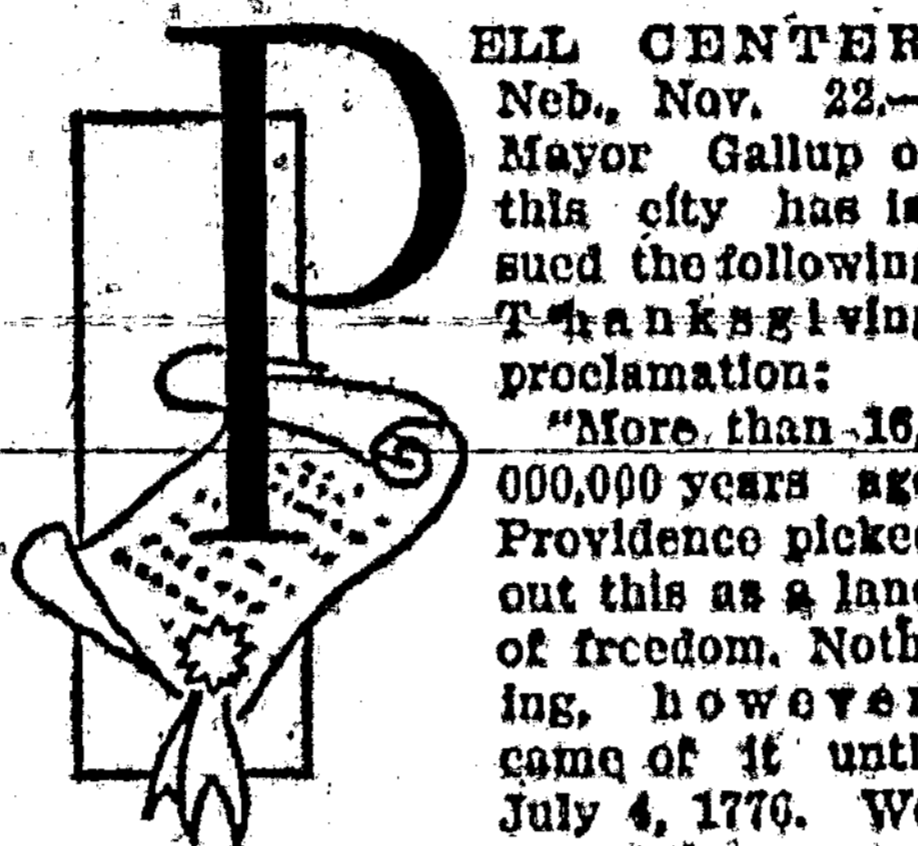

Old King Cole Was a greedy old soul, And a greedy old soul was he; Now he thinks that the world is from pole unto pole. Just filled up with mice—oo.

Jack and Jill When they had their fill, Kept eating, eating, eating; Jack feels bad And Jill is sad— The joy they had was fleeting.

Old Mother Hubbard Went to the cupboard, To fetch the turkey there; She cleaned all the bones, Now she bitterly weeps, And wishes she shall had been here.

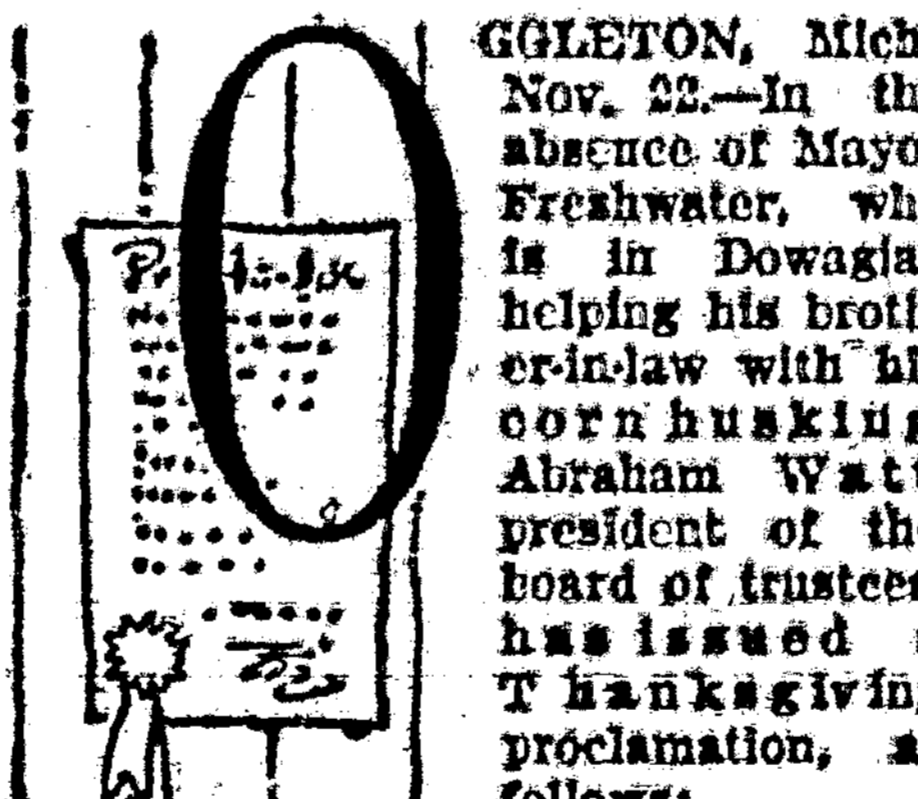

Mary, Mary, quite contrary, As when they beds her cases, Now she wicks, yokes, And faints at the sight of grass.

Thanksgiving Proclamations You Ought to Know

ELL CENTER, Nov. 22.—Mayor Gallup of this city has issued the following Thanksgiving proclamation: "More than 16,000,000 years ago Providence picked out this as a land of freedom. Nothing, however, came of it until July 4, 1776. We cannot hope to understand the ways of the Creator. All we know is that the lakes were strung along our northern boundary to keep back the hordes of Canucks who might, if the barriers were not there, come over and gobble us, while upon the south of us we find the Gulf of Mexico. It was doubtless dropped down there to keep the Central Americans from rushing upon us and robbing us of the birthright that we have fought and bled for and that is dearer to us even than some kinds of public offices.

"Therefore, I, William G. Gallup, being of sound mind and body, do set apart, designate and specify November 27, 1913, as a day of thanksgiving for the 827 pure, patriotic, progressive, prosperous, perspicacious, popular, potent, powerful and praiseworthy people of this beautiful and lovely city. Let even the man who keeps our deplorably poorly managed livery stable (I mention no names) and a certain grocer who worked against me at the last election join with our brave men, our noble women and our sweet, sweet children in showing that they are thankful to Providence for placing the destinies of this lovely place in the capable and unsold hands of one whom modestly forbids me to praise at this time."

GOLETON, Mich., Nov. 22.—

In the absence of Mayor Freshwater, who is in Dowagiac helping his brother-in-law with his corn husking, Abraham Watt, president of the board of trustees, has issued a Thanksgiving proclamation, as follows: "It is fitting that we should acknowledge the kindness of Divine Providence in arranging aeons and aeons ago to have Skunk creek run along the edge of our lovely and beautiful little city, so that it is unnecessary for us to drive our cows far to water. It was divinely ordained long before the corner stone of the first Babylonian post office or Masonic temple had been laid that a town was some day to spring up on the banks of Skunk creek. We have kept the faith. Our heritage is unspotted. We have nobly set our heels upon the neck of tyranny, and the only red light in our midst is the one at the railroad switch.

"Let us then give thanks and pray for help to walk bravely and uprightly where the boards happen to be loose in our sidewalks so that our shins may be unasked as we blithely tread the path of life through and across the twelve months to come.

"Feeling that I have done no more than my duty in telling you these things about yourselves and the lovely place in which it is your lot to live, I herewith set my hand and seal, recommending that you will never forget what civilized theology has done and may yet do for you."

—Willie Dingwall was up from El Paso visiting friends on Thanksgiving.

—We neglected to mention last week the return of H. S. Campbell, A. J. Rolland and Frank Gurney from the Capitan mountains where they had been to look after iron interests of the first two named. Dr. F. S. Randles is at the claims doing work.

—James Simms, now located at White Oaks came down Saturday and went to Roswell with H. B. Hamilton his attorney. Mr. Simms was closing up the matter of the receivership of the Eagle Mining Company which has been pending for several years.

—Deputy Assessor Nye has a squad of three extra men making copies of the Tax rolls in their corrected condition and is rushing same out so that the Treasurer can collect taxes at once. The levy was made on Monday and Mr. Nye started the work on Tuesday morning.

—Wallace L. Gumm has returned from the Ruidosa country where he has been packing and shipping Lincoln County apples which he says are the best apples grown anywhere. Mr. Gumm has had a successful season which also means that the fruit growers along the Dosa have prospered.

WHITE MOUNTAIN

Jack Fall was up from Three Rivers Tuesday; hunting turkey.

—Norman Riggs and Max Bankendorf spent Thanksgiving with the latter's parents in Alamogordo.

H. S. Schefley left Tuesday for Alamogordo en route for El Paso where he will spend a few days.

Forest Wingfield and Oliver Lee, Jr., came up from Alamogordo and spent several days here hunting, returning home Sunday.

E. F. Funk and little daughter, Lucile, are spending the week in Albuquerque where Mr. Funk will attend the New Mexico Educational Association Meeting.

Mrs. J. O. Nabours is expected home Sunday from an extended visit spent in various places in Texas and Organ, N. M., where she visited with her daughter.

For the past week we have had quite a lot of rain and foggy weather with heavy snows in the mountains. If the good work continues we will have a good seasoning in the ground for spring.

Mrs. A. L. Simms who at one time was a resident of Three Rivers but now of Alamogordo recently sold her place to Mr. Webber of Alamogordo, who is expected to move his family here soon.

LOCAL LAND OFFICE

(By Harvey & Chase)

Township 4 S, of Range 11 East, which lies east of Ancho and which was made subject to entry a year ago has now been designated as land subject to 320 entry and several of the homesteaders there are filing additional entries.

Under the 3 year act which is now the only Homestead act under which homestead entries can be made, a settler when availing himself of the granted five months absence from the homestead must send a notice to the District Land Office stating the date absence starts, etc. These blanks are furnished free by the government and may be had at the Harvey & Chase office.

A number of applications for purchase of state lands have been filed the past week thru the Harvey & Chase office. This mode of obtaining land is becoming very popular.

—A. H. Hayes passed thru from Jicarilla on Friday en route to Las Cruces, N. M.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

—Mrs Wm Corwin has returned from Oscura and is visiting her daughter, Mrs. L. B. Chase, who is ill.

—George T. Coldiron has a quantity of fine turkeys at Holloway, N. M., that he wishes to dispose of at a reasonable price.

—Alvan Tomlinson and H. J. Garrard of Carrizozo and Will T. Coe of Glencoe are among the new readers of the Outlook.

—The Home Mission Society of the Methodist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. C. Spence on Wednesday, Dec 1. All members are requested to be present.

—Dr Guido Ranniger has rented a suit of rooms over the bank where he will office on his regular twice a week trips to the city from Oscura.

—Frank K. Purcella, of Tinnie and Miss Edna D. Harris of Carrizozo were united in marriage by Justice of the Peace Massie Friday evening Nov 21.

—LOST:—November 15, a gold watch in Carrizozo, engraving A. E. B. on the front of case. The finder deliver to the section house and receive $5.00 reward.

—United States Marshal A. H. Hudspeth came down from Santa Fe on Saturday and spent a few days at White Oaks his former home. He returned to Santa Fe on Tuesday evening.

—Wm Brown who is making good on a dry farm near Capitan brought down a load of turkeys, apples and turnips the day before Thanksgiving and disposed of them on the local market.

—Will Coe and family came down from Glencoe this week and his wife and baby went out to White Oaks to visit her parents while Will remained here for several days' treatment by Dr. R. E. Blaney, dentist.

—Mr. and Mrs. Orville T. Nye, Orville T. Jr. and Mrs. Nye's mother arrived on Wednesday from Lincoln to make their home here. They will occupy the former Perry house which Mr. Nye has purchased.

—The Board of County Commissioners met in special session on Monday to arrange some matters as to a levy which was heretofore made. Melvin Franks of Corona and Wm Ferguson attending the meeting.

—A special session of the Probate Court was held here on Wednesday to appoint Myrtle Kilpatrick as Administratrix of the estate of Felix Kilpatrick, deceased. Doroteo Lucero, Probate Judge, making a special trip here from Arabela for the purpose.

BARNES MADE GOOD

By GEORGE HURDON. Nests had one sorrow in her life, and that was the thought of Jim Barnes. She was the daughter of a settler in the forest region of Oregon, and Barnes and John Anderson had both wanted her. Anderson had won. He was a successful sheep farmer, and he and Nests loved each other devotedly. They had been married six months.

Rode Toward It at Full Gallop.

time they had met since Nests had refused him, nearly a year before. Both were confused, Nests the more deeply. "I beg your pardon, Mrs. Anderson," said Barnes. "I didn't know it was you. You see, I thought the smoke from your chimney might be the beginning of a forest fire. We rangers are on the alert nowadays, owing to the dry spell."

He rode toward it at full gallop, but before he reached it he perceived that it was beyond one man's control. There was nothing to do but ride to the camp, five miles away, and summon aid. He returned about nine o'clock, with a company of ten fire-fighters; but by this time the heaven was alight with the lurid flames.

Blouse High in Favor. DAME FASHION HAS SET HER SANCTION ON GARMENT. Variation in Garniture Adds Distinction to Most Comfortable Garment That a Woman Can Adopt for Ordinary Wear.

HAVE AN OLD-FASHIONED AIR. Styles in Mantles Have Gone Back to Those Popular With Our Grandmothers. The old world fabrics have aided in producing the real old-fashioned air in the prettily draped mantles of silks and chiffons and fascinating nets, with stiff little bunches of flowers scattered over the filmy surface.

BEEF SERVED WITH MACARONI. Appetizing Dish for the Cold Days That Will Be Appreciable Portion of the Menu. Two pounds of shank (or any preferred cut). Have saucepan very hot, fry out a piece of fat or grease, bottom with butter, cut up meat and place in pan, allowing to fry until seared on every side.

ROMANCE KILLED AT LAST

Notograph, a New Instrument, Invented for Expressing Stupid Love Letters. Romance, poor dying romance you have fought hard for your golden life against the ever growing forces of modernity, but they have killed you with a hideous old contrivance of metal and lever, point and wheel, that they, the selfish moderns, term the notograph.

Lacking in Print Shop Realism. A dramatic criticism from the Howard Courant: "Two weeks ago up at Kansas City, I saw a very good production of 'That Printer at Udell's' at the Grand. One or two of the acts were staged to represent a country printing office, and it was very realistic, even to the printing office towel.

to cover the sides of the sash and meet the pleated coattail at the back. Dressy models have short or three-quarter length sleeves, but many of the blouses for ordinary wear with tailored skirts have sleeves to the wrist.

LAST WORD ON PRESERVES

Suggestions for the Final Putting Up of Pickles and Spices for the Winter Months. There is still time for a few last jars of pickle or spice to be put up before winter. Red cabbage, white cabbage, tomatoes and onions, are all in their glory.

What New Mexico needs is more men and capital to help develop her resources. We want immigration. One way to get it is to advertise the state. We must show our goods if we expect customers for them. No state has greater resources or more wonderful possibilities. We should tell the world about them.

Viewing the situation as it exists, New Mexico offers better inducements to investors than any state in the union. The varied industries in need of developing are greater in number than offered elsewhere. The state has been held back for various reasons. Statehood, or lack of it, had much to do with its progress. But that should in no wise have interfered, for the reason that inducements to investors are not at all increased. Minerals, agriculture, oil and many other undeveloped resources are as fully in evidence as at any time in the past. There was just a lack of knowledge that hindered most from investing. The general resources of the state are not appreciated to the full.

Much time and money has been lost by not taking advantage of the known conditions. Constant reiteration only will bring this information to those able to handle that which the state can offer.

The state is sparsely settled. Land is cheap and can be acquired in almost any section.

With the building up of the state properties are certain to advance. That which will draw the public is the great number of industries that may be exploited. The areas acquired now may in a few years be the homes of large numbers of people. In the meantime, a good living is maintained from the products of the soil.

Coal, iron and copper must draw immensely. There is an abundance of the former. As for iron ores, it is here repeated that one section of the state supplies most of that article to a big plant outside the state. Copper mining has reached a point that New Mexico is recognized as having one of the biggest deposits of that mineral in the west.

A new enterprise, that of oil, is likely to take first rank next any day. Half a dozen places in the state are remarkable for the indication of the best kind of oil. The paraffine grade is an evidence, and a dozen or more enterprises are in quest of a commercial amount, with the prospect that within a short period New Mexico will be heralded as one of the greatest and best oil producing states in the country.

The above are all in evidence, leaving many industries that merely need capital to place them in the dividend-paying class. Gold, silver, lead, zinc, clay, carborundum, quartz, mica and others merely need recognition on their existence to induce capital to come into the state and develop all these with the promise of future returns not likely to be equalled anywhere.—E.C.

LINCOLN COUNTY NOTES

NOGAL NOTES

The wedding bells will ring again in Nogal this week. You may guess who the contracting parties are.

Quite a snow storm visited this section last Thursday, but the ground was so wet from recent rains that the snow melted as fast as it fell.

There is a cub bear loose near Nogal that ought to be killed. Don't all come, 'Red Fox' has been after him but failed to rope it.

Lin Brannum and wife and Jas. Cooper and wife visited grand pa Henley last week. They are buying calves to winter.

The case of Forcible Detainer, brought by the Harpers of Three Rivers against the Keehns of Oscura, was called in precinct No. 11, and an appeal to the District Court was granted.

The closing exercises of our school on the 14th, was a success entirely. The scholars acquitted themselves admirably. Mrs. De Nission our teacher, has the thanks of the community for the able manner in which she conducted the school. She received a recommendation from the clerk of the school board to any one desiring a teacher.

JICAILLA NOTES

W. A. Franklin returned to Chicago on the 23d. He stated that he expected, in a comparatively short time, to commence the erection of a large cyanide plant on the Sallie Dear property.

Mr. Higbie of El Reno, Oklahoma, arrived in Jicarilla recently. Mr. Higbie is interest in placers.

Considerable activity is being shown on the Revenue property. Your correspondent recently visited the Revenue and while there saw hoisted to the surface some of the finest ore ever produced in this district. The ore runs well in copper and pans gold freely.

PARSONS PICKINGS

(Crowded out last week)

Miss Dorothy Smith of Fort Stanton spent a few days in Parsons visiting little Alice Weber.

A light shower Sunday night and Monday laid the dust and put the roads in good condition.

Mr. Combruch of the Hermitage on the Bonito made his semi-annual visit to town the first of the week.

The next thing on the program is Thanksgiving and preparations are in progress to enjoy the day to the fullest extent.

Officially the hunting season is closed and both hunter and hunted will have a rest from the merry chase.

The hunting party from Carrizozo who have been enjoying the mountains for the past two weeks have returned to their native sands and winds of the flats. There are still a few deer and turkeys left in the hills.

Dr and Mrs. F. G. Smith of Fort Stanton who were guests of the Rice family the latter part of the week have returned home. While here Dr. Smith enjoyed a couple of days hunting with Mr. Weber, Mr. Jennings and his son, Tom.

FLAG STOP AT OSCURO

The state corporation commission has secured for the residents of Oscura, Lincoln county, a flag stop at that place for train No. 1 on the El Paso and Southwestern. This is in answer to a petition from that place. By the additional accommodation, residents of Oscura are enabled to visit the county seat, Carrizozo, going on No. 34 and returning on No. 1. Upon request of Judge Medler, who complained of the trouble of getting witnesses to Carrizozo during the terms of court, the Southwestern has also agreed to make Oscura a flag stop for both Nos. 1 and 2 during the terms of court.

CAN NOT COME BACK

The following editorial clipped from the Chicago Tribune, forcibly emphasizes the need of public provision to keep young people in school. Socialists demand state provision for the full education and care of children and youth;

DOOMING A MILLION

When the schools of the country opened their doors the other morning to receive the children's army there were 1,000,000 boys and girls missing. They failed to answer the call of the school bell at 8:30 because they had answered the call of the factory whistle at 7.

One million children under 16, who should have been in school when the bell rang, have been allowed up by industry. According to Owen R. Lovejoy, secretary of the national child labor committee, nearly all these 1,000,000 boys and girls are doomed to a life of poverty, wretchedness, or crime. All the girls and nearly nine-tenths of the boys under 16 who go to work, Mr. Lovejoy asserts, and cites statistics to prove his assertion, are entering low wage industries. Their lack of education combined with tender constitutions such as they must have at so young a period, makes them fit for "blind alley" occupations only. They grow up into manhood without trades and with poor physical health.

Much has been said about the deficiency of our school system. Nothing, however, condemns it so strongly as the 1,000,000 handicapped boys and girls who are allowed to drift into occupations, to drift into life alone and unaided, with a miserable education and no advice.

In the face of these 1,000,000 children what argument can prevail against the insistent call for vocational training and vocational guidance in public schools? The schools of the country must extend their influence and activity so as to give children not merely a book education but also practical help in determining on the vocation they are to follow, or else stand condemned as backward and inefficient.

The United States Civil Service announces that on January 17th 1914, there will be held in Lincoln and Alamogordo competitive examinations for the purpose of selecting and appointing postmasters for Capitan, Corona, Lincoln Mesalero, Mountain Park, Orogrande and White Oaks.

The Stag Canon Fuel company of Dawson whose mine No. 2 was wrecked by an explosion October 22, resulting in the death of 261 miners and two helmet men, will pay to dependents of the Italian victims approximately $150,000, according to the announcement of Italian Consul-General Chevalier Devalla today.

SMILES

UTTERLY CRUSHED.

It was a warm, radiant summer morning; the birds were singing sweetly, the flowers and dewy grass shimmered in the park, Robert Foster—a very junior officer—was doing his utmost to make a favorable impression on the pretty nursemaid, whilst the latter's small charge busily chased elusive butterflies.

"Ah," sighed the dashing Robert, "I wish you were my governess."

"So do I," replied the girl.

Hope sprang into Robert's heart. "And what would you do with me?" he asked.

"Stop your smoking cigarettes, and get your hair cut—to say nothing of punishing you for talking nonsense during school hours!"

Then Robert ponderously continued on his beat.

PROVED.

The Professor—Do you think, sir, that it is possible to extract gold from sea water?

The Prosperous Friend—Ha! Ha! I know it. I run a seaside hotel.

Net Like Stage Types.

I summered on a farm. Good land, was disappointed quite!

The hired man couldn't yodel, and the milkmaid was a fright.

Quicker Method.

A somewhat choleric gentleman, while waiting for his train, entered a barber's shop to be shaved. The barber was very deliberate in his movements and the slow manner in which he applied the lather got upon the shaver's nerves. At last his patience gave way and he roared out: "Here! for heaven's sake hold the brush still and I'll wiggle my head!"

Thoughtless Thunderbolt.

"George; you certainly will have to complain about the poor telephone service."

"What's the matter now? Neighbors butting in?"

"No. The lightning broke down one of the telephone poles, and I couldn't get Ella Brinkley for nearly an-hour!"

Practical Wife.

"Wife, this is our wedding anniversary."

"So it is."

"As a matter of sentiment, I shall bring home a bunch of flowers to-night."

"Never mind the sentiment, Henry. Bring home some Limburger cheese."

He Had Considered It.

She—It's a wonder you wouldn't take a notion to use soap and water.

He—I have thought of it, mum, but there's so many kinds of soap, and it's so hard to tell which is and which is not injurious to the skin, that I didn't like to take any risks.—Puck.

TOO ILL TO LOOK WELL.

Mrs. Goodhart—Couldn't find work. Perhaps you didn't look well.

Daisy Rhodon—No, mum, I didn't look well—because I was ill.

A Mermaid.

She had a very winsome smile. A Greek rather late.

And though she'd never walked a mile she could swim like a fish.

Professional Criticism.

At a banquet of New York newspaper men recently a story was told to exemplify the pride which every man should take in the work by which he makes a living.

Two street sweepers, seated on a curbstone, were discussing a comrade who had died the day before.

"Bill certainly was a good sweeper," said one. "Ye-es," conceded the other, thoughtfully. "But—don't you think he was a little weak around the lampposts?"—Everybody's Magazine.

Most Likely.

Liteligh—It was an unfortunate thing the devil tempted Eve in "the form of a serpent."

Biteligh—In what way?

Liteligh—Well, if he had approached her in the form of a mouse, Adam would never have tasted that apple.—Puck.

What She Wanted.

"I am afraid, madam, we have shown you all our stock; but we could procure more from our factory."

"Well, perhaps you'd better. You see, I want something of a neater pattern and quite small—just a little square for my bird cage."—Punch.

Begin at Home.

"What do the suffragettes want, anyhow?"

"We want to sweep the country, dad."

"Well, don't despise small beginnings. Suppose you made a start with the dining room, my dear?"

Business Blocked.

"Thought you were going away today."

"Couldn't buy a ticket."

"Nonsense. The ticket office is never closed."

"No; but there was a girl at the window ahead of me."

An Oversight.

"My home for cats is not a success. I have provided good food, nice sleeping quarters, and yet the cats are not happy."

"You are shy on amusement features, old man. You haven't provided any back fence."

Correct.

"Yes, I am building a beautiful house for my son."

"Ah! I see—a sort of hair-castle."

Noley Eating.

This eating celery is rough. It takes a dainty girl perforce, To masticate the peaky stalk And not remind you of a horse.

Had Right Left.

"Science is much excited over the fact that an experimenter killed a cat and then made its organs live for hours."

"Then science must be stupid. Of course, the experimenter only took one of the cat's lives."

Agriculture Simplified.

"Most of the vegetables we have been getting are canned," said the summer boarder.

"Yes," replied Farmer Cornrossel. "I've tried gardening with a hoe and with a can opener. And give me the can opener."

Slightly Mixed.

"You were at the commencement?"

"I was."

"And how did you like my graduating essay?"

"Well, to tell you the truth, Irene, I didn't like the way it fit you over the hips."

Thing to Do.

"That pretended diamond merchant who got off so easily in the investigation was simply a 'fence.'"

"Possibly that was why they white washed him."

Too Successful.

"Don't let that lady arse go in our pasture with that red hat on."

"Why not?"

"She might hit the bull's eye with it."

It takes a stage struck girl to wash dishes with a tragic air.

Pa Explains.

"Pa, what is autonomy?"

"That's a man's condition before he is married, son."

Ungrateful.

"What became of your monkey dinner?"

"The monkey, the proposed guest of honor, declined."

A Difference.

"I know an exceedingly fastidious man who caught his wife smoking and put her out at once."

"The brute!"

"Not at all. She was on fire."

Coughs vanish in a night. Dean's Mentholated Cough Drops soothe the throat, effecting a speedy cure—See at all Druggists.

Chauffeur's Sympathy.

Motorist (after accident)—I'm afraid one of my lungs is punctured, Dobson.

Chauffeur (hopelessly)—Lord, only knows where the tire kit is, sir.—Puck.

Dumb.

"My dear," said Mr. Closest's better half, "I think I had better see the doctor about my hearing."

"Nonsense," retorted the tight one, your hearing is as acute as ever. What put that idea into your head?"

"Well," was the response; "they say that money talks, but I haven't heard it say a thing for months."

Important to Mothers.

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the signature of Wm. C. Little in use for over 30 years. Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria.

What is a Mustache Worth?

What is the cash value of a mustache? The question is raised by a forthcoming legal action in France, in which a young man is suing his late employer in peculiar circumstances. He recently obtained the position of valet to an attaché of the Chinese embassy here and one of the conditions of his employment was that he should shave off his mustache. The young man complied with this instruction and sacrificed his aristocratic adornment, not without regret. But a week later he was discharged and he is now suing the attaché for $20 as damages for the "aesthetic prejudice" that he has suffered through the loss of his mustache. This would seem to be modest valuation, especially when one takes the aesthetic prejudice into account.

Hensety of Childhood.

A lady, out wheeling her two-months-old baby, met a neighbor's boys and asked them if they wouldn't like to see the baby.

The little fellows, highly elated at the invitation, tipped their chins over the edge of the baby buggy, when the younger broke forth:

"Oh, isn't he cute! He looks just like this little monkey we saw in the park!"

"No, Harold," protested the older brother, nudging the little four-year-old. "He doesn't look like a monkey. No, Harold, no, he doesn't look like a monkey!"

All the time he kept up a vicious nudging at little Harold, who, seeing a great light dawn, suddenly corrected his blunder by explaining: "Well, I just meant his face."—Judge.

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF.

Experiences of a Southern Man.

"Please allow me to thank the originator of Postum, which in my case, speaks for itself," writes a Fla. man. "I formerly drank so much coffee that my nervous system was almost a wreck." (Tea is just as injurious because it contains caffeine, the drug found in coffee.) "My physician told me to quit drinking it but I had to have something, so I tried Postum."

"To my great surprise I saw quite a change in my nerves in about 10 days. That was a year ago and now my nerves are steady and I don't have those bilious sick headaches which I regularly had while drinking coffee."

"Postum seems to have body-building properties and leaves the head clear. And I do not have the bad taste in my mouth when I get up mornings. When Postum is boiled good and strong, it is far better in taste than coffee. My advice to coffee drinkers is to try Postum and be convinced."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for copy of the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled.

Instant Postum is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. Greenies sell both kinds.

"There's a reason" for Postum.

PUTTING UP THE PORK

SOME HINTS THAT MAY BE FOUND OF VALUE.

One Who Knows, Describes the Best Method of Pickling the Meat—That for Sausage Requires Different Arrangement.

After your pig is dressed and cut up let it stand for a day or two to get cool; then pack your salt pork in a clean barrel just as tight as possible, standing it edgewise and packing around the sides of barrel first and then fill in the center, placing plenty of coarse salt between each piece. Now another layer of pork and more salt, until all is used. We use a little water, as it will make its own pickle. Now for the hams, "shoulders, cheeks, hocks, feet and any lean pieces. For every 20 pounds of meat add water enough to cover, one pound of brown sugar, one tablespoon saltpeter, one pound of rock salt. Cook the pickle and skim well and turn on the meat while hot. Ready for use in two weeks. Now take the belly strips and any lean pieces that you may have cut out from your salt pork and run them through your meat cutter for sausage meat, and to every pound of meat add one-fourth teaspoon sage, one heaping teaspoon salt and a small quantity of ginger. Mix well and turn in small cloth salt or sugar bags, and press the mixture in hard. When you wish to use it, turn the bag back and slice it half an inch thick and fry. The sausage meat can be put in lard pails if you like and a little melted lard turned over to keep the air from it, and when you use it, make it in little cakes. The leaves are to be tried out for lard, also the gut fat, but don't try out the gut until you soak it over night to draw the blood out. The spare ribs, chimes, etc., can be frozen, or you can put them in the sweet pickle. We cut off a thick slice of ham, put it in a pan with another one over it, in the oven, and bake it half an hour, and it is much nicer than fried. We bought a large farm last fall and I have learned so much. The former owner's wife taught me all about putting down pork, making yeast and many other useful things.—Exchange.

Menu Savories.

As a dainty to serve with salads try crisp crackers. Split common crackers and spread lightly with butter, then bake in oven until a delicate brown.

Stale bread is always useful for bread sticks and croutons to serve with soup. Cut into slices half-inch thick. For the croutons cut into cubes, and for the bread sticks cut three-inch lengths. Spread before cutting with butter and toast a golden brown.

A delicious sour cream dressing for fruit salad is made with a cup of rich sour cream into which a half cup of melted butter is stirred gradually. This blended with a variety of cut fruit, such as pineapple, bananas, and oranges, and nut meats or some dates, is most appetizing spread on crackers as a luncheon dish.

Roast Fowl.

Take an old hen, prepare and stain same as you would a chicken. Sew it up securely and be careful and not stuff it too full. Leave room for stuffing to swell. Place in a large kettle, pour in boiling water to the height of two inches (throw in gizzard and heart). Put the cover on tight and let it steam, not boil, for two solid hours. At the end of the first hour turn the fowl over and add more water if necessary. When ready for roasting place in the pan and sprinkle with salt, pour liquid over it and roast in a slow oven two hours, basting very often. In this way you don't lose any of the juice. After it is roasted make your gravy same as usual. Very good.

Meek Hare.

Take equal parts of minced beef and minced pork and to each pound of meat allow one egg, the rind of one lemon, one small teaspoon of minced parsley, one cup of fine bread crumbs and one small onion, finely chopped. Mix all the dry ingredients well together, flavor with a teaspoon table sauce, pepper and salt and bind with the beaten egg. Make into a roll, stick little pieces of fat bacon on top, dust over with flour and bake in moderate oven one hour. Serve hot with the thickened gravy and current jelly.

Chicken Salad.

Boil chicken small tender, chop in small pieces. Chop also the whites of a dozen hard-boiled eggs. All a little chopped cabbage and celery, both in equal quantities, pound the yolks of eggs fine and add 2 table-spoons mustard. Use pepper and salt to taste. Finally add 1/2 a teaspoon of good older vinegar. Mix thoroughly.

After Peeling Onions.

After peeling onions rub your hands with celery or parsley. It will counteract the odor.

TOO FEW SPECIAL SUNDAYS

Move to Secure Co-Operation of Churches in Effort at Social Betterment.

In a report on social Sundays suggested to be observed by all of the churches in the United States, the special committee which investigated the subject says:

"One of the results of this investigation was the revelation that the number of special social Sundays now being observed on a national scale is much smaller than has been generally supposed. Only six special Sundays not specially designated by the calendar are at present observed on any considerable scale throughout the country. These are Child Labor Sunday, Mothers' day, Peace Sunday, Labor Sunday, Prison Sunday and Tuberculosis day. The other special Sundays in the calendar given above are all fixed by certain national or religious holidays, such as Washington's birthday, Memorial day or Christmas."

The report of the committee will be submitted to the Federal Council of Churches, representing most of the Protestant denominations, to the Roman Catholic church authorities, to the Jewish church authorities and to all other church organizations which can be interested in this movement. The aim of the report is to secure the co-operation of all the churches of the country in movements for social betterment.

"CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

No sick headache, biliousness, bad taste or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box. Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken or cause any inconvenience, and cost only 10 cents a box from your store. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipation. Adv.

Another Foolish Question.

"No. I'm taking something for my sickness."

MOST POPULAR AND DELICIOUS VEGETABLE

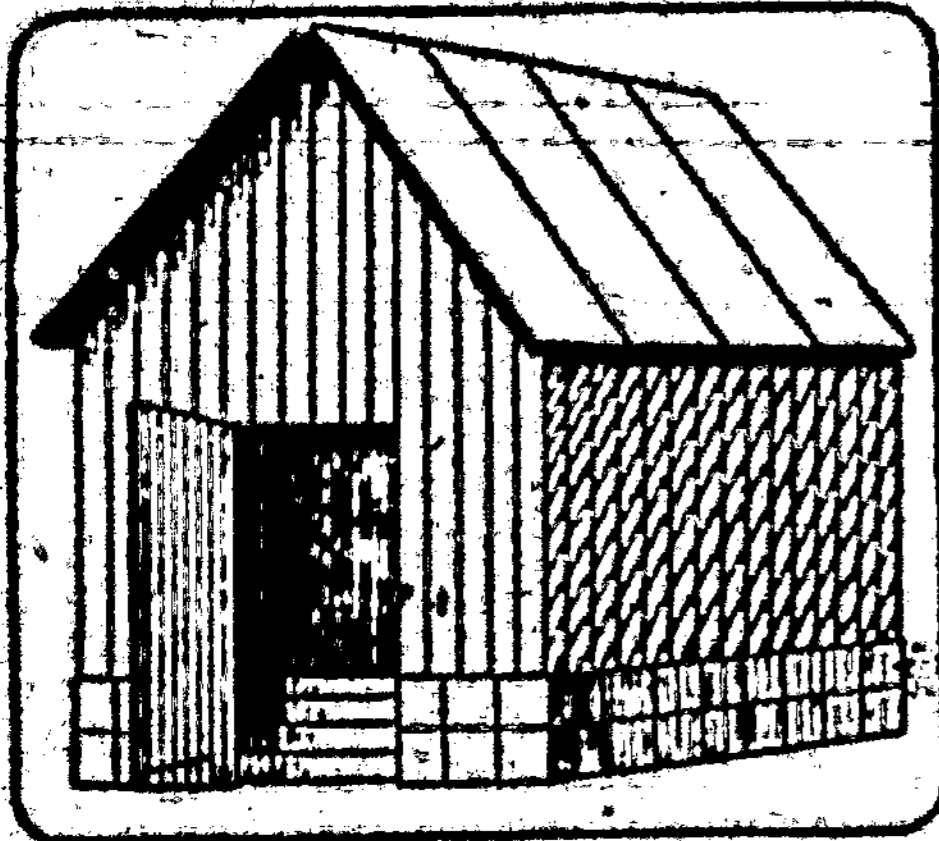

To have success with this fastidious vegetable requires a high degree of soil fertility, plenty of moisture and proper drainage.

PLAN FOR ICE HOUSE

Building Should Be Located on Easily Drained Ground.

Protection From Scorching Rays of Sun is Also of Importance—Sawdust is Considered Best Material for Packing Walls.

The location of the ice house is important. It should be placed on ground that is equally drained, and if possible located beneath the shade of some large tree that the beaming rays of the sun may not heat on it in the hot summer time.

Inexpensive Ice House.

long for the walls. Place the studding two feet apart. Then board up the building inside and out. A cheap grade of lumber may be used for inside work.

FEEDING THE PREGNANT EWE

Should Be Supplied With Some Kind of Supplementary Feed to Maintain Suitable Condition.

It is very important in the growth and development of the unborn lamb that the pregnant ewe be maintained in a healthy, flesh-forming condition during the winter months.

As soon as the cold weather comes and renders succulent crops of forage and pasture grass less plentiful the ewes should be supplied with some kind of supplementary feed in order that they may maintain a suitable flesh condition.

The ewes should be allowed to run outside and obtain plenty of fresh air and exercise until early in the winter, providing they are fed a little clover, hay and grain food.

This is one of the most important points to be observed in changing the ice. Cut the cakes of ice the size to fit your ice box or refrigerator and be certain to secure the purest ice possible. At the ice house the cakes can be slid down a long board into their places.

REVIVING DEAD SOIL SPOTS

Lack of Plant Growth Sometimes Attributed to Want of Water—Manure is Lacking Essential.

(By H. P. FISHBURN, Assistant Chemist, Idaho Experiment Station.)

On land devoid of sufficient organic matter or sand, there sometimes occur spots that are apparently dead or unresponsive to water and plant life to any marked degree.

Experiments have shown that these spots can readily be brought to a high state of fertility by the proper incorporation of manure.

Study Your Cows.

In learning about the individual cows in your herd you are studying a problem that is of much interest deeper and greater than simply looking at the animal.

pregnant ewes from the pasture or dry winter ration.

A roughage ration of any kind is not sufficient to maintain the ewes in good flesh condition and properly nourish the growing fetus.

Salt as a Fertilizer.

Almost any sort of material that contains soluble potash, phosphoric acid, or nitrates has more or less fertilizing value, but salt has not a trace of any of these.

Wild Honey. The honey that comes out of a bee tree is not always as sweet as the old-time compliment, "sweet as a bee tree," might lead one to suppose.

But the bee-hunter now, alas, to be classed with professionals that have passed on, cared little about discoloration and worried not at all about poison.

Logical Conclusion.

A little girl was walking along the street with her brother, when she saw a one-armed man. It was the first time in her life that she had ever seen a man without an arm, and she wanted to know all about it.

GIRLS! GIRLS! TRY IT, BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Make It Thick, Glossy, Wavy, Luxuriant and Remove Dandruff—Real Surprise for You.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse."

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Mrs. H.—Huh! That doesn't interest me a particle.

H.—Why not?

What So Precious As a Healthy Baby?

Every Youngster Can Have Fine Digestion if Given a Good Baby Laxative.

Its mildness makes it the ideal medicine for children, and it is also very pleasant to the taste. It is sure in its effect, and genuinely harmless.

"Optimists are all right, provided they are not unreasoning and excessive," said Norman Hapgood, the fusion leader, at a fusion luncheon in New York.

"The optimism of our opponents," he went on, "reminds me of Smith. A druggist said to Smith one night at the lodge:

NOTICE OF CONTEST

Department of the Interior
United States Land Office Roswell, N. M.
October 8, 1913

To Thomas J. Givins, of Carrizozo, N. M.
Contestee.

You are hereby notified that Jose Lopez, who gives Carrizozo, New Mexico, as his post office address, did on September 17, 1913, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your Homestead, Entry No. Serial No. 019363 made August 28th, 1910 for S1/4NW1/4 and NE 1/4SW1/4, Section 31, Township 2 S., Range 11 E., N. M. P. Meridian, and as grounds for his contest he alleges that said Thomas J. Givins has wholly abandoned said above described land and claim and has been absent therefrom for more than two years, last past; that he is not now residing upon the same.

You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken by this office as having been confessed by you, and your said entry will be cancelled thereunder without your further right to be heard therein; either before this office or on appeal, if you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the FOURTH publication of this notice, as shown below, your answer, under oath, specifically meeting and responding to these allegations of contest, or if you fail within that time to file in this office due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail. If this service is made by the delivery of a copy of your answer to the contestant in person, proof of such service must be either the said contestant's written acknowledgment of his receipt of the copy, showing the date of its receipt, or the affidavit of the person by whom the delivery was made stating when and where the copy was delivered; if made by registered mail, proof of such service must consist of the affidavit of the person by whom the copy was mailed stating when and the post office to which it was mailed, and this affidavit must be accompanied by the postmaster's receipt for the letter.

You should state in your answer the name of the post office to which you desire future notices to be sent to you.
HAROLD HUIB,
Receiver.

MISSIONARIES IN OLD JAPAN

Karuzawa is a Resort Where American and Other Religious Workers Gather for Pleasure.

Karuzawa, Japan.—All work and no play tends to make any task grow irksome, is the cry on which is based the establishment of the summer resort of the missionaries to Japan, located at Karuzawa, a mountain resort. Here the American workers find relaxation from their arduous task of conversion in the English tongue, after a year of talking with converts in foreign languages. To see this playground reminds one of a typical summer resort, with baseball grounds, tennis courts and croquet inclosures. The women can serve tea on the lawn or veranda. On Sunday all attend services in a body, the preacher being drawn in turn from the various denominations assembled.

GHOSTS DROVE HER TO DEATH

Miss Beard Fleeing From Imagined Specters When Struck by Railroad Train.

Frederick, Md.—Fear of ghosts, a delusion of her illness, was responsible for the death of Miss Kathleen Beard, daughter of Rev. M. L. Beard, whose mangled body was found near the tracks of the Western Maryland railroad.

Miss Beard had been suffering from a severe nervous attack and imagined that ghosts were after her. At night, shortly before ten o'clock, her sister and the nurse went out for a short walk and a servant was left in charge. Miss Beard asked the servant to go downstairs, and during the servant's absence Miss Beard hurriedly dressed and left the house by a back door. Her absence was almost immediately noticed, and a search began.

At 3-20 o'clock in the morning the searching party came upon the body about 100 yards from a railroad crossing. One arm and one leg were severed from the body, but the face was unscarred. From the position of the body it is believed that she was fleeing from the creations of her disordered mind and tried to dash across the track in front of the train, when she was struck.

Yacht Owner's Dying Request Granted. Portland, Me.—According to the wish of James F. Bush, wealthy paper manufacturer, who died recently, his body was cremated, the ashes placed in the cabin of his yacht Lydia, which was scuttled and sunk ten miles off the coast.

MAMMOTH IS FOUND IN ICE

Finest Specimen of the Kind That Was Ever Discovered Now in Paris Museum.

Paris.—Count Stebnokh Farmer of the island of Great Lyakovsky, New Siberia, has presented to the natural history museum in Paris what is considered to be the finest specimen of a mammoth yet found.

The gift is especially interesting because the animal had not finished digesting his last meal at the moment of his death, scientific authorities agree. Thus the stomachs are for the first time able to study accurately the nature of the food of the mammoth species; they have already examined the contents of the mammoth's stomach. He was found in a remarkably complete condition in a block of ice. The skin, which is without a stain, is covered with red hair like that and cut to the length of 1 1/2 feet. The trunk of the animal is 10 feet long and 10 inches in diameter.

The body was cut carefully into pieces, each one labeled, and then carried 1,200 miles to a railway line on dog sledges.

The museum has come into possession of the skeleton of an enormous dinosaur found near Malaga, on the west coast of Madagascar, by the explorer Perrier de la Beche. Some idea of the dimensions of this monster may be gained from the fact that a strong man can barely lift one section of the vertebrae. Although only partially discovered, the natural history department of the museum estimates from measurements of the parts they already have that this dinosaur is considerably smaller in size than the dinosaur, a platter out of which St. Christopher gave the museum. Another specimen is the skeleton of one of the largest birds known to paleontologists, an ostrich, which stood 12 feet tall.

GIRL OF SEVEN CLIMBS FUJI

At One Time Women Were Forbidden to Ascend Japan's Sacred Mountain.

Tokio.—Mount Fuji, a dead volcanic mountain nearly fifteen thousand feet high, famous around the world for its graceful contour, has been climbed this summer by a Japanese girl, seven years old, who made the trip unaided by her elders. Considering the youthfulness of the climber, this is a record.

Another ascension will be made before the summer is over, for it all goes well with him, Sajuro Ota, eighty-nine years old, will accomplish his one hundredth ascension. With the close of last summer his record was eighty-three. August saw him complete his ninety-fourth trip to the summit.

From time immemorial, Fuji, the highest mountain in Japan, has been considered a sacred peak, and until about forty years ago women were not allowed to make the ascent. Even now much religious sentiment is attached to the mountain, and group after group of pilgrims from all over the country visit the little shrines on the snowclad summit, murmuring in their ascent up the long slopes "Rokkon Shoji," meaning "May our six senses be clean and undefiled."

Aside from these pilgrims, all classes of people, including some of the "new women" of Japan, climb up the mountain. Recently a prize climbing contest was held, and a student of the Waseda university made a record ascent by reaching the summit in two hours and a half.

Prince Hirohito, crown prince of Japan, thirteen years old, often expresses his earnest desire to climb Fuji. This year he hopes to do so with Prince Yi, former crown prince of Korea, who is now studying in Japan.

Fuji is icy in summer, and rarely discloses itself to the view of visitors who try to see it from points of vantage. This is due to the prevailing mist and clouds.

Dying Man Makes Unusual Request. Uplandtown, Pa.—Angus Tabbe, forty-one, who is dying of tuberculosis, asked Rev. F. H. Thompson, pastor of a Methodist church, to preach his funeral sermon while he was alive, explaining that he wanted to hear what the minister had to say about him. Tabbe's request was refused.

CAN'T EAT BUTTER AT VASSAR

Also, Girls Must Sleep on Hard Beds, Hygiene Committee Rules. Are Admonished.

Poughkeepsite, N. Y.—Hygiene, hard beds and no butter, was the program confronting Vassar girls. A committee on hygiene reported soft beds made soft beds; butter is unadvisable.

"They're trying to make us anti-butter," gazed one rump-scooped heiress. In rebuttal her room mate pointed to the definition of "unadvisable."

"That degree of softness in a body which allows its shape."

Was in the Vassar. Best Liverpool. Vassar girls, just returned from abroad, reported on the streets how buttered up in all browsers, which themselves were all but the butter the knee with and then, when in doubt, each girl would say, "I'm not buttered."

UNCLE DAN'S LETTER

By JOHN HOPEWELL.

"So your Aunt Felicia is obdurate?" asked Jimmy Vanstone.

Ethel nodded. "She declares that as my appointed guardian she will never consent to my marriage with you. After I am twenty-one, why of course I can do as I please."

"You won't be twenty-one for another six months."

"I know it—but we can wait, Jimmy," said Ethel hopefully.

"We can't wait much longer if I am to accept a position with the Plowshare people. They want me to sail for Germany on the fifteenth of October."

"Jimmy! And today is—the fifteenth of September!" Ethel caught her breath sharply.

"Four weeks. If Miss Weeks would only recognize our right to love each other and to consent to your marrying me before I sail we could spend our honeymoon in Germany," grumbled Jimmy.

Ethel was silent; her face was turned away from the young man but he could see that the pink lips quivered and the violet eyes were heavy with tears.

"Dearest," he cried sharply, "don't—"

A commanding voice broke in upon his words. "Ethel!" called Miss Felicia Weeks in her deep tones.

"I must go," said Ethel hurriedly.

"You were about to show me your uncle's letter, Jimmy?"

"Oh, yes! I haven't read it yet—I thought we could read it together. I almost know what the old boy is going to say, though. 'Bless you my children, and bring Ethel to see me—I'm sure she's the prettiest girl in the world.' That's Uncle Danny Lorimer—the best uncle any chap ever had. Take his letter, dearest, and then send it on to me after you've read it. Good-by, sweetheart. I won't say farewell to Miss Felicia—I know she detests the very sight of me." He dropped another kiss on her lips and on her wet eyes and swinging through the gate went down the road, vanishing almost immediately in the velvety black shadows cast by the tall locust trees.

In the same instant Miss Felicia's firm step crunched on the gravel walk.

"Ethel," she called once more and then, discovering the girl leaning against the gate post looking like a slender ghost in her pale gown, "Why do you not answer me?" she asked in a displeased tone. "Why are you here?"

"I have been saying goodnight to Jimmy," said Ethel bravely.

"Jimmy! Ethel, you know that I will not tolerate that young man about the place—why do you meet him clandestinely?"

"Aunt Felicia, when have I met any one clandestinely? Jimmy called upon me this evening and you met him in the veranda. I have told you that I am engaged to him and I have a perfect right to accompany him to the gate and say—say goodnight!" Ethel's voice was a mixture of fear and defiance.

There was something awe-inspiring about Miss Felicia Weeks. She was tall and finely proportioned and was in her severe way a very handsome woman. Ethel had heard that her Aunt Felicia had been a great beauty and a belle in her day—twenty-five years ago. But the once jetty hair had turned to silver and the glorious dark eyes had grown stark and the ripe lips were compressed in a hard line. The Weeks women usually kept their figure and their complexions in open defiance to old Father Time, and Miss Felicia was no exception to the family rule.

So now, as she came down the walk, tall and stately in her slim black gown, the moonlight fell on her fair face, Ethel marvelled that one who was so beautiful and who must have been greatly loved by men, could be so hard-hearted.

Jimmy Vanstone was everything to be desired in the way of a nephew-in-law—save that he wanted to marry Miss Felicia's niece. Felicia Weeks wanted her niece to brighten her lonely household. She had adopted Ethel when the girl had been orphaned in her childhood and she had pictured a future where they would live happily together, tending the best that the world could give them of travel and pleasure. She had not counted on Ethel's falling in love at twenty, and she felt a fierce resentment that all her plans for the future were to be upset by mere romance.

Miss Felicia believed that she had left romance far behind—and she also believed more or less happily that she was none the worse for the experiment.

"So you persist in saying that you are engaged to Jimmy Vanstone?" asked Miss Felicia in a cutting tone.

"Yes, auntie."

"You fly in the face of my wishes!"

"But that, Aunt Felicia! But I can't help loving him, can I?" demanded the girl with a sweet little gesture.

"To love everything in the world!" demanded Felicia, presently. "But you are to be engaged to me, not to him!"

yourself in love with that young man? Why, if you did not marry for ten years it would be time enough. Think, Ethel, of the years of delightful travel we may enjoy! Give up this foolish idea of being engaged to Jimmy Vanstone and—"

"He wants me to marry him before the 15th of October—and go to Germany with him. It could be our honeymoon," said Ethel quietly.

A fierce jealousy took possession of Felicia Weeks. So Jimmy Vanstone could shatter all her plans for the future with love words from his gulfed lips! They would enjoy a honeymoon in Europe, while she, the lonely old spinster, would stay at home alone.

In that moment she hated Jimmy Vanstone, and her pretty niece, and she mentally censured the cruel selfishness of youthful love.

"You cannot marry anyone without my consent, Ethel; and I shall not give it," she said firmly.

"Good night, Aunt Felicia," was Ethel's quiet reply as she passed the older woman and went into the house.

She read Mr. Daniel Latmer's letter to his nephew before she went to bed and the tears that wet her lashes were chased away by irrefragable smiles. She tucked the letter under her pillow and went to sleep with a smile on her lips. Felicia, pausing in the doorway with lighted candle as was her custom, saw the smile and her heart-strings tightened.

"She does not care—she does not care for me!" she thought jealously as she went away.

Early the next morning Ethel went out to the near by town for a day's shopping. Felicia was writing letters in her own room when Celia, the little housemaid, tapped at the door.

"Come in," said Miss Weeks.

"Please, Miss Felicia," said Celia extending a folded letter, "I found this on the floor in Miss Ethel's room. It flew from under the pillow when I was making the bed."

"Put it on the table, Celia," said Felicia and she resumed her writing. When her letters were finished she looked up and saw the sheets of letter paper fluttering on the table. A leaf rustled in the breeze from the open window and her own name caught her casual glance.

Temptation assailed this impeccably honest lady. She glanced again—and again, and then overcome by indignation and curiosity, she silenced all qualms on active conscience and read the letter from beginning to end.

It was the epistle of Mr. Daniel Latmer to his beloved nephew, James Vanstone:

"My dear boy," it read in part, "so you think you are the happiest man in the world because a pretty little girl loves you? Well, I thought the same way once upon a time, but I was promptly disillusioned—now, this isn't meant to be a wet blanket on the rosy flame of your engagement to Miss Ethel; it's merely the plaint of a disgruntled old bachelor because you have won the prize that I missed. Congratulations, dear Jimmy, and may you be deserving of the little girl who is pretty indeed, my lad, but can't compare with her aunt, Miss Felicia, whom I knew once upon a time. Yes, you've guessed it, Jimmy, she is the one who administered the dose of disillusion! Well, Felicia was a well-willed slip of a girl and I should never have taken her word of disapproval. Sometimes when I am very lonely and am afraid of the solitary years ahead of me, I am tempted to go at once to Felicia Weeks and ask her if it is too late to be happy! But forgive me, Jimmy, I've turned this letter of congratulation into an elegy upon my own happiness—but it's too late to amend it, now. I hope Felicia will give her consent to your marrying Ethel before the 15th—if she won't, I shall certainly run down to Rosewood and plead your cause. Kiss my future niece-in-law for me."

"Affectionately, Uncle Dan."

For a long time Felicia sat in silence. Although she stared out at the garden she could see nothing for the mist of tears in her fine eyes.

Presently she drew a sheet of paper toward her and wrote a few lines to Mr. Daniel Latmer. This she enclosed with his letter in an envelope and carefully addressed it to his care in town. Then she affixed a special delivery stamp and sent Celia out to mail it at once.

Although the letter was gone the words she had written seemed written in fiery red across her brain.

"This is what she had written: 'I have given my consent to Ethel's marriage on the 15th—but if you wish, you may come down—soon, Dan—and plead my cause—but your own Felicia!'"

The First Smoke.

Mr. Walter Raleigh had just discovered that tobacco was good to smoke. He whittled and carved until he produced the first pipe. Then he filled the first pipeful of tobacco. He placed the stem between his teeth and began to frisk his pockets. Then he had a passing notion.

"Big portion," said Mr. Walter, "but you'll get me here a smoke!"

ENDS DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" cures sick, sour stomachs in five minutes—Time It!

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.—Adv.

COULDN'T FOOL MR. MARTIN

Alleged Fact of Natural Mistery Altogether Too Much for Him to Believe.

The best people in Dark Hollow had just begun to sit up and take notice of the fact that along the Great White Way and in other large centers there was such a thing as the turkey trot. The Martin family, however, living on the far outskirts of the Hollow, had not heard of this peculiar and seductive motion.

"I see," said Mrs. Martin, "by the Dark Hollow Weekly Struggle that a lot of chickens in Chicago are turkey trotting."

"Shucks!" said Mr. Martin, with ineffable disdain. "That's just another mistake in one of those bulletins that the dinged, crazy department of agriculture sends out. They're always trying to tell us farmers something that's absolutely contrary to nature."—Popular Magazine.

FRUIT LAXATIVE FOR SICK CHILD

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver and bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs" that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle.—Adv.

An Optimist. Sammy was not prone to exert himself in the classroom, explains Lippincott's Magazine; consequently his mother was both surprised and delighted when he came home one noon with the announcement: "I got one hundred this morning."

"That's lovely, Sammy!" exclaimed his proud mother. What was it in? "Fifty in reading and fifty in arithmetic," was Sammy's prompt reply.

Insupportable. "Well, Henry," said the fair maid, "did popper ask you if you could support me in the style to which I am accustomed?" "No, dear," said Henry. "He merely informed me that he couldn't, and gave me his blessing."—Judge.

Its Nature. "What do you think of the new 'fly-paper tangot'?" "It is a dance which ought to stick."

Accounted For. "Stakes is such a croaker." "I know why. He told me yesterday he had a frog in his throat."

Opium Culture In Persia

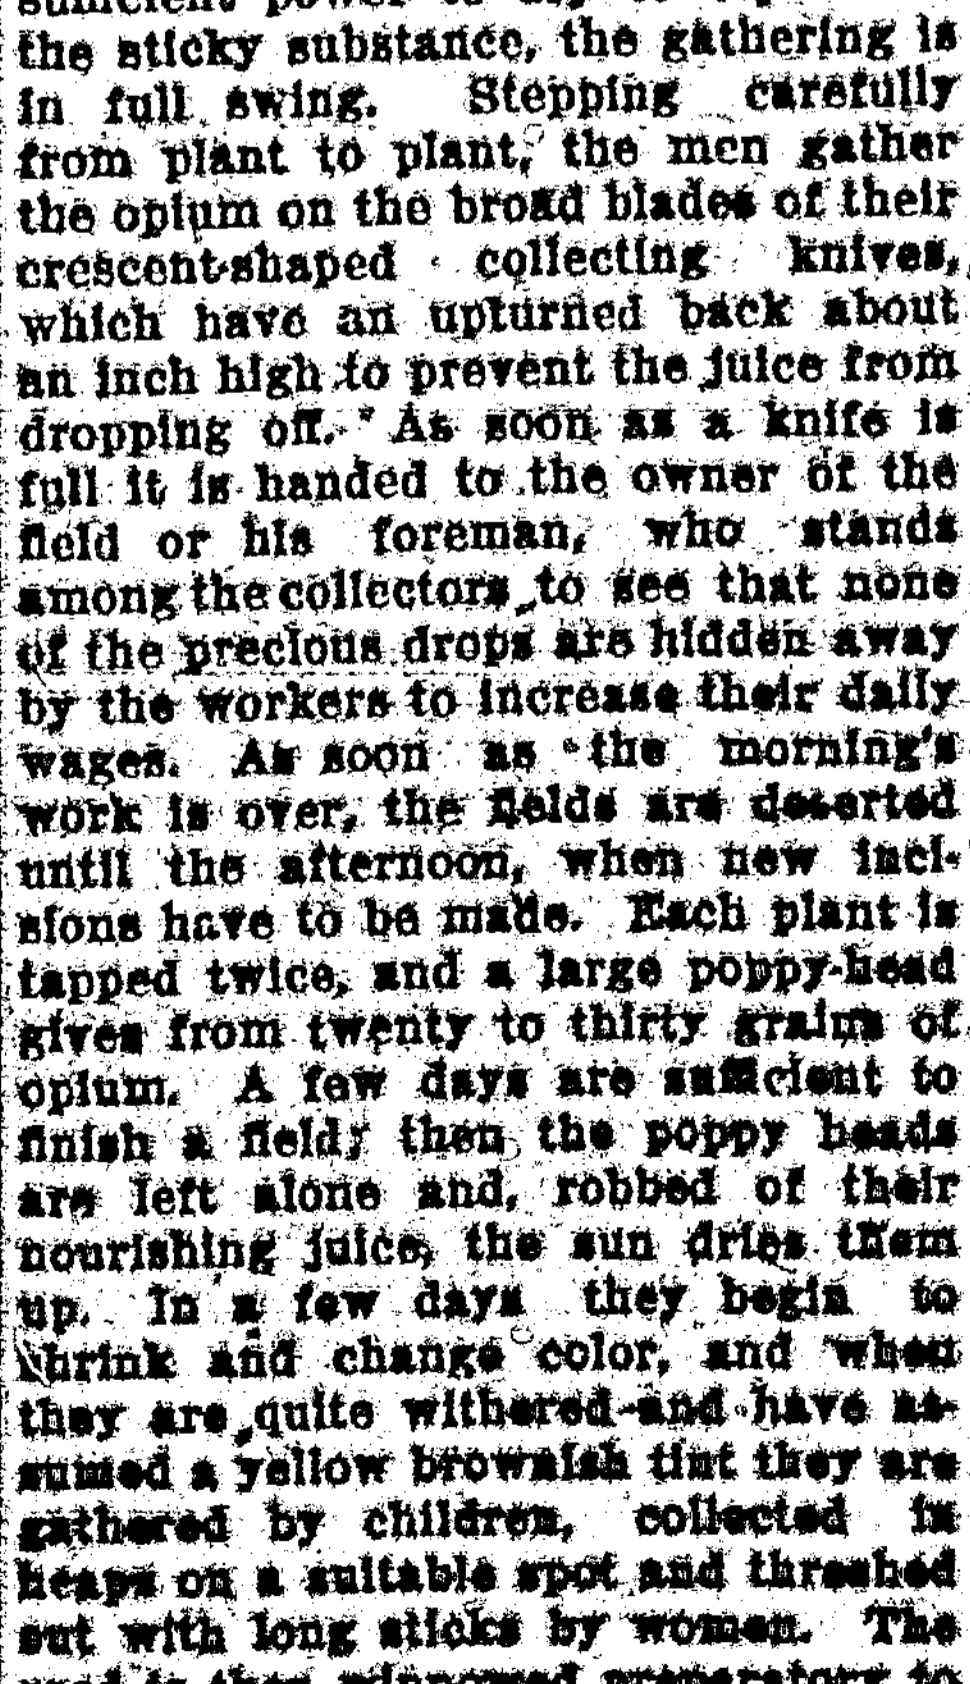

OPIMUM SMOKERS IN A PERSIAN TEA HOUSE.

THE cold season in southern Persia is short, but occasionally so severe that snow falls plentifully round about Shiraz, the capital of Fars; but in most winters only heavy rains prevail. There is a considerable variation in the temperature on the coast and on the lofty plateau in the interior of the country. A beautiful spring follows the intense cold, and in the month of March, while the highest mountains still carry white snowcaps, the valleys are growing green; wild flowers blossom everywhere, and the well-known roses in the gardens round about Shiraz are already in bud. Very soon the refreshing spring showers cease, summer approaches rapidly, in this part of the world, and with the hot weather, gusts of wind, driving before them clouds of dust, rush through the partly cultivated plains and over the rippling folds. When this time arrives, the poppies are in full blossom and the breeze is laden far beyond these pretty poppy plantations with the narcotic odors of the large, delicate white flowers that are mixed here and there with beautiful shaded violet ones. After a favorable rainy season the poppy fields are a lovely sight, and a beautiful feature in the landscape. The flowers stand high and healthy on their tall, straight stems, and within them soon appears a large fleshy poppy-head which contains the opium juice, and also later, when dry, the valuable poppy seeds. Such a sight is a delight to the owner of the plantation, for he sees in prospect a glorious harvest. Round about Shiraz as far as Isfahan, southward to the country of the date palm, a great deal of opium is grown, and several thousand chests are shipped from Shiraz to Chiriz and various places in Europe every season. The collecting of the opium juice begins in June, when, the flowers having faded and the leaves fallen, the poppy heads are ready to be "bled."

For this purpose a peculiar knife is employed. It has a thick handle, in which several thin, short blades, an inch in length, are set and with which several parallel cuts may be made with one stroke. When the sun stands low on the western horizon, the men with the above-mentioned tools start their work, making one or two incisions in the fleshy green skin of the heads on the side towards the setting sun. During the cool night hours the brown, strong-smelling, viscous juice oozes out and collects in pearl-like drops on the surface of the seed vessel. Before the rising sun gains sufficient power to dry or crystallize the sticky substance, the gathering is in full swing. Stepping carefully from plant to plant, the men gather the opium on the broad blades of their crescent-shaped collecting knives, which have an upturned back about an inch high to prevent the juice from dropping off. As soon as a knife is full it is handed to the owner of the field or his foreman, who stands among the collectors to see that none of the precious drops are hidden away by the workers to increase their daily wages. As soon as the morning's work is over, the fields are deserted until the afternoon, when new incisions have to be made. Each plant is tapped twice, and a large poppy-head gives from twenty to thirty grains of opium. A few days are sufficient to finish a field; then the poppy heads are left alone and, robbed of their nourishing juice, the sun dries them up. In a few days they begin to shrivel and change color, and when they are quite withered and have assumed a yellow brownish tinge they are gathered by children, collected in heaps on a suitable spot and threshed out with long sticks by women. The seed is then winnowed preparatory to its sale and export. It contains about forty per cent. of oil, which is largely used in France and other countries in the place of olive oil, which it resembles closely. It contains no opium.

SHAKESPEARE A POACHER

Charles Park, Warwickshire, England, is the place in which, according to tradition, William Shakespeare indulged in poaching. The great gibes of the park are here pictured.

THE FLOWER OF OPIUM.

The juice is sold in large copper vessels by the grower to the merchant, in whose hands it undergoes several processes in order to preserve it from fermentation and decay. On sunny, fine, hot days the Persian caravansari where opium dealers have their offices present an interesting feature. The juice is brought out to be made into cakes for export. On large wooden boards, two and a half feet long and one and a half feet broad, the sticky mass is spread out with spade-like tools to permit the water it contains to evaporate. Experienced workers move from board to board, turning over the layers, every now and then that the heat and sun may dry up the exposed surfaces and render the opium fit for making into cakes. In favorable weather this process takes only an hour or so, and the opium is ready for the next manipulation. It is now scraped off and is rolled into stiff dough-like lumps and handed to a man, who divides it into smaller portions, weighing one pound each, which he passes on to the holder, by whom they are pressed into the wooden forms and then laid on a large board for the final drying process. When this is completed the cakes are rolled up in red paper imported specially from China, and are then tied up with red strings. The cakes are then ready for packing. One hundred and forty-four are put in tin-lined wooden cases with poppy-stem chaff as packing. The wooden cases are covered with strong hides and sacking. Two cases form a mule load. The percentage of morphia in Persian opium varies from nine per cent. to twelve per cent. In former years the Persian opium had a very bad reputation in the London market, for it was frequently adulterated with a substance named "Gunjedah," but the fraud was, of course, easily detected, and a good many dealers were ruined. Much opium is used in Persia itself; in fact, the consumption has grown to a deplorable extent, which causes considerable anxiety to the authorities. There are opium dens in every large town, and the sickening sweet smell arising from the opium pipes streams out of every tea and coffee house in the country. The distressing spectacle of intoxicated opium smokers may be seen everywhere in Persia, and those who do not care to smoke the drug have taken to the small pill box found in every Persian's breast pocket. Now and then efforts are made to put a stop to this excessive use of opium, but in vain; and so long as the highest officials indulge in its abuse, no restrictions will be effective in preventing the lower classes from ruining themselves. Persia is doomed, and its downfall cannot be arrested.

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

By Timely Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Here is her own statement. Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and was fat and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Cary, Maine.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

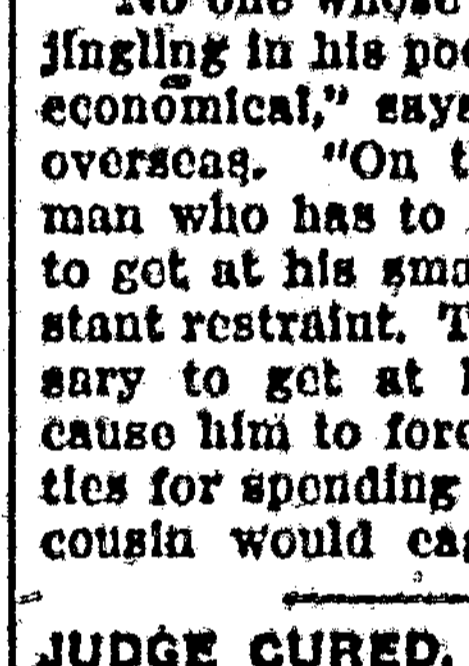

LOOSE CHANGE OUR CURSE

Englishman Says as a People We Would Be Thriftier if We Carried Purse.

A visiting Englishman believes he has discovered the reason for American extravagance and English thrift. He says that the difference in the spending temperament of the two nations is due entirely to the change purse which Englishmen carry. "No one whose money is constantly jingling in his pocket can possibly be economical," says the observer from overseas. "On the other hand, the man who has to open a change purse to get at his small coin is under constant restraint. The extra effort necessary to get at his small coins will cause him to forego many opportunities for spending which his American cousin would eagerly accept."

JUDGE CURED, HEART TROUBLE.

I took about 6 boxes of Dodds Kidney Pills for Heart Trouble from which I had suffered for 5 years. I had dizzy spells, my eyes puffed, my breath was short and I had chills and back-ache. I took the pills about 2 year ago and have had no return of the palpitations. Am now 63 years old, able to do lots of manual labor, am well and hearty and weigh about 200 pounds. I feel very grateful that I found Dodds Kidney Pills and you may publish this letter if you wish. I am serving my third term as Probate Judge of Gray Co. Yours truly, PHILIP MILLER, Cimarron, Kan.

Correspond with Judge Miller about this wonderful remedy. Dodds Kidney Pills, 50c. per box at your dealer or Dodds Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Write for Household Hints, also music of National Anthem (English and German words) and recipes for dainty dishes, All 3 sent free. Adv.
