COURT IS GRINDING

Small Lincoln County Dockets and Little Work for the Grand Jury

WILL LAST TILL APRIL 1ST

District Court for Lincoln County was convened by Judge Edward L. Medler on Monday morning in Real's Hall

The officers being District Attorney Hamilton, Sheriff Chavez, Clerk Harvey, Court Interpreter, C. S. Pedregon; Court Reporter, A. M. Majors; Bailiffs: Severo Gallegos, A. B. Hamilton and Marcial St. John. Deputy Sheriff, A. T. Roberts and Deputy Clerk Chase were also in action

Little work confronts the court for disposition at this term. The docket on call showed but a few cases for trial and the first case to go to a jury will probably be today. The term's work will be completed for Lincoln County by next Wednesday but the Court will continue in session thereafter to hear two change of venue matters from Dona Ana county. One of these matters will take several days and is styled State of New Mexico vs. Ricardo Escarate charged with the murder of his wife a few months ago at Las Cruces. The other case is a 'recall' matter, the town trustees of Las Cruces were recommended for removal of incompetency by the last Grand Jury and the matter comes to hearing here on an order to show cause why they should not be removed. These cases will bring in at least eight or nine prominent law firms of New Mexico. However, there is a possibility that the town trustee case will be disposed of before it comes to trail and in that case court will adjourn sooner than stated above.

The Grand Jury was empaneled Monday; on the call of the original venire it was found that sufficient persons were not present to empaneled, so a special venire was ordered and returned in the afternoon when the body began its deliberations, with Truman Spencer as reporter and Clement Hightower as Interpreter. The Grand Jury returned three bills into court yesterday afternoon and will be discharged today or tomorrow.

Tuesday was naturalization day and seven persons were made citizens at this time there is any one previous, session of the court. Several other naturalization matters will go over to the next term, owing to witnesses being absent and for other causes.

The criminal cases of the state against S. Aragon, Nestor Anaila and Pedro Anaila respectively, all charged with larceny are on trial today.

The petit jury was empaneled from the original venire on Wednesday morning, and is as follows:

TO PUSH THE FARM

Commercial Club hold Meeting and Provide for Continuance Experimental Farm

TO HIRE TOWN ATTENDANT

An enthusastic meeting of the Carrizozo Commercial Club was held in the Court room on Tuesday evening with President Rolland in the chair. The meeting was especially called to relieve the Experimental farm Committee from difficulties confronting them. This committee reported that they needed approximately eight hundred dollars at once in order to put the farm in working order all of which money must be available within three months. In order that the project might be carried thru successfully a special finance committee was appointed consisting of L. B Chase, J. A. Haley and Albert Ziegler who are to work in conjunction with the present committee and make arrangements for the advancement of the required amount of money. The present plan is to arrange to have the money advanced and pay it back by the subscriptions guaranteed on the subscription list in the months following. The committee will work out a plan of action and call on the contributors for support in a short time in order that there may be no hitch in pushing the Experimental Farm project to a successful termination this year. Sufficient funds have been subscribed for all purposes. The well will be cased, an engine or windmill installed, with pumping outfit and a 40,000 gallon tank erected. At least five acres will be put under cultivation A full report of the committee's plans will be made as soon as formulated completely.

John E Bell, A. C. Wingfield and W. W. Stadtman who are the committee on town lights and fire engine were empowered to employ a city attendant if sufficient funds can be guaranteed for his wages, who will take care of the town lights, the fire engine, the streets, keeping them clean, and also keep the water ditches in condition at all times. The committee will prepare a list of all property owners in town and ask them for a small monthly contribution for the employment of such an attendant which is a solution of many problems confronting the town.

The Club authorized the committee composed of Messrs. Stevens, Chase and Johnson to obtain suitable signs for the Borderland outlet road from Carrizozo to the Otero County line. The signs are to be placed along the road at necessary points for guidance.

Judge Edward L. Medler was made an honorary member of the Club.

Several other minor matters were disposed of.

CIVIC LEAGUE MEETING

The Carrizozo, Civic Improvment League, will meet at the Methodist church, next Tuesday, at 2 p. m. An election of officers will take place, and all members are urgently requested to be present.

CIVIC LEAGUE BALL

One of the most brilliant affairs of the season was the "Burlesque" Fancy Dress Ball under the auspices of the Civic League at Real's Opera House on last Friday evening.

The Grand March commenced at 9 o'clock led by Mr. John E. Bell and Mrs. H. B. Hamilton who were very appropriately costumed, representing the father and mother of the Junior League.

Immidiately following was Mr. Eb. Jones and Miss Thorton the eldest daughter of the League making her Debut, followed by sixteen other couples, sons and daughters.

Bringing up the rear Carrizozo Elite Society was represented by quite a number of couples in unique costume. Although the Ladies costumes were mostly gotten up as a Burleque on Fancy Dress, they made a very striking appearance. Some of the swellest (a trifle out of date) Evening Dresses ever seen in Carrizozo were displayed:

A few of the conspiciously gowned were:

The Misses Kitty Tinnon
H. Thornton
Kitty Reily
Elsie Farley
Ester Sager
Ode Gray
Allie Adams
Myrtle Tinnon
Guey Kahler
Patsy Jonnson
Margarete Chase
Eva Swell
Lorena Haley
Gene Reily
Harriett Kimbell
Ophel Morris
Mesdames R. W. Hoffman
H. B. Dawson
H. B Hamilton
John E. Bell
H. S. Fairbanks
C. M. Tracey
Wm Reily
Ira Greer
Walter Grumbles
R. Krooner

The Ladies prize was awarded to Mrs. John E Bell for the most elaborate Burlesque make up The gentlemen's to Mr. Emil Sisneros, in a very loose fitting Dress Suit.

The proceeds $31.35 will be expended in Civic improvements.

STATE LEGISLATURE

The State Legislature will adjourn tonight after sixty days of session at which up to date very few bills have passed and become law.

Undoubtedly a number of bills will be rushed thru at the session today and tonight before the closing

The hope of getting a Salary bill thru at this session has been abandoned and there is a possibility that there will be a Special Session of the Legislature at an early date

The Mounted Police appropriation failed to pass the house and this splendid body will pass out of existance next November.

We will print a full list of the bills passed at the present legislature in our next issue There is still a possibility of the passage of State highway measures which effect Lincoln County.

ARBOR DAY TODAY

Tree Planting and Exercises to be held at the School House

EACH CHILD TO PLANT A TREE

Preparations are completed for a splendid entertainment and supper at the School grounds this afternoon and evening to commemorate Arbor day, planting of trees by the school children is to be a feature.

In the afternoon the entertainment will consist of the planting of the trees, singing of songs, excercises by the children and addresses by patrons and prominent citizens which will be followed at the school house by a basket supper. The baskets are prepared by the girls and women and are to be sold to the highest bidders in each instance. After the contents of the Baskets are enjoyed the evening will be given over to a short program of entertainment.

It is hoped that Court may adjourn in the time for the affair and that Hon: Edward L. Medler will favor the people with an address.

The entertainment is given under the auspices of the Carrizozo Junior Civic League. The fact of the children planting the trees is a great move for the betterment and beautifying of our little city. The water for the trees is to be supplied from the town ditch which has been carried to the school grounds by a new ditch made by Mr. Kahler. The small trees are being supplied from the Governor's ranch near town.

The general public is invited to be present at the affair and urged to come out and stimulate the good work.

—Ira O. Wetmore is in the city this week.

—W. R. (Sally) White is down from Nogal country this week as a member of the petit Jury.

—Chas. L. Kennedy came down from Jicarilla Wednesday on court business.

—The Railroad Club building will be completed in a few days and opened to the railroad men.

—We have received another consignment of Free Government garden seed for distribution which are yours for the asking. This is the last year of free distribution of seed by the Government. Call at Outlook office.

—Ben Bechtel, contractor on the county buildings visited his attorneys at Roswell early in the week. He has not announced as yet whether he will continue the work on the building or throw the contract up and sue for damages.

—Edward Aughnay and his witnesses Geo. Clements and J. L. Jones were down from Corona this week in the matter of naturalization of Mr. Aughnay. It was necessary however, for the court to continue the case for further evidence

—J. F. Kimbell and A. V. Swearingen returned Sunday from Tucumcari, where they had been to attend the Safety Committee meeting of the El Paso and Southwestern Railroad. The Committee is urging care to reduce the injury list of the railroad. The present rate is one out of every eight railroad men injured.

Even if mankind has not improved in 7,000 years the plumbing has.

St. Louis man made a sausage fifty feet long. Must have been a dachshund.

A Russian revolutionist escaped from prison in a milk can. Was canned, as it were.

An eastern physician says: "No couple is perfectly mated." He's a married man, it's a cinch.

A Brooklyn man is charged with stealing an airship. Evidently he has aspirations to rise quickly.

German restaurants are listing dog meat on the menu. Here, we buy it under the head of wienerwursts.

Last season 132 tourists were accidently killed in the Alps. Mountain climbing is almost as fatal as aviation.

Scientists have discovered that rattlesnake poison is a cureall. It's a cinch you'll suffer no more after using it.

A Chicago waiter has just died, leaving a fortune. Evidently Chicago is making progress in its imitation of New York.

A recent New York auction disposed of pianos for 47½ cents each. We know lots of pianos that would be a big price for.

In China breaking a cup means an oath of brotherhood. In America it usually means a separation between cook and family.

An Italian archaeologist says that the ancient Romans built flats. Must have had janitors. No wonder the plebs were hated so.

Five divorce cases in thirty-two minutes is the record established by a German judge. Why need New Yorkers go to Reno any more?

Atlanta City cemetery authorities refuse to let a woman bury a pet cat within its confines. Another case where the cat came back.

A college professor, announces an exchange, was robbed of $5,000. Impossible! No college professor ever had that amount at one time.

Boston papers are making a great todo over the discovery of an unkissed girl. However, we want to get a slant at her before expressing surprise.

Corsets have been abandoned by society belles in Washington, but whether it is a fad or due to a rise in the price of whalebone is not evidenced.

An English baronet has an ancient deed permitting him to kiss all the brides among his tenantry. He has just found the deed, but is now eighty-two.

Food may be digested in the stomach of a cat thirteen hours after its demise. Wonder if the eight remaining lives have anything to do with that.

What is the janitor of the apartment house going to do about it when the postman refuses to deliver eggs and butter at any place but the front door?

"Don't expect tips from big men," says a hotel employe. "They are too busy to think of such things." Which again proves the old adage that by looking out for pennies results in fortunes.

Theoretically, according to government figures, each person in the United States possesses $34.72. It is to be hoped the facts are no less consoling.

A British specialist says that Napoleon died from the effects of a cancer. Post-mortems held 100 years afterward are, however, unsatisfactory as a rule.

Brooklyn girl set fire to a house seven times in as many weeks because she was sad. If she'd felt real badly, probably she would have committed murder.

A Massachusetts centenarian says the way to reach the age he has attained is to eat Johnnycake. But anybody who can eat Johnnycake is hardy enough to live that long, anyhow.

Bondbombers have recovered $2,000 worth of watches and diamonds from the bands at Rockaway. But what does anybody want to wear watches and diamonds for when they go in bathing?

Gathered Smiles

GIVING HIM A CHANCE.

"Mary, I don't want that young Gassleigh coming here any more. You tell him so or I will."

"Why, father! He's awfully nice. And he is very sensible, too."

"Sensible? He's a fool. I won't have him coming here. He looks like a monkey."

"Oh, very well, if you feel that way about him. But I had an idea that he was unusually bright and discriminating. He was at the insurance banquet where you spoke night before last, and he said your remarks were the wittiest he had ever heard. He told me you completely outclassed all the other speakers. But I'll tell him that he is not to call any more. I can find some way of doing so without hurting his feelings."

"Well, let the matter drift along for the present. Maybe I'll like him when I get better acquainted with him."

Still Untasted.

"What," asked Mrs. Oldcastle, as she picked up a volume of Limp Leather Edition of the Classics, "do you think of Thucydides?"

"I really don't know," replied Mrs. Gottalotte, after she had straightened a corner of her $600 Royal Persian rug; "we've never had any. Josiah says they're no good unless you get them fresh and our grocer never seems to have any except the ones in cans."

Correct.

"What," asked the Sunday school teacher, "is meant by bearing false witness against one's neighbor?"

"It's telling falsehoods about them," said one small maid.

"Partly right and partly wrong," said the teacher.

"I know," said another little girl, holding her hand high in the air, "it's when nobody did anything and somebody went and told about it."—Lippincott's.

That's So.

"Why do you think married people do not love one another?"

"Because when a man speaks of the time when he was in love you know he means the time before he was married."

Awaiting Orders.

The stationmaster on the Eastern Indian railway had been given strict orders not to do anything out of the ordinary without authority from the superintendent. This accounts for his sending the following telegram:

"Superintendent's Office, Calcutta: Tiger on platform eating conductor. Please wire instructions."

How He Got Out of It.

The city editor glanced over the new reporter's manuscript.

"Don't you know, young fellow," he said, "that not even a defeated pugilist can lie 'prone on his back.'?"

"This one could," said the new reporter. "His head had been—er—turned by tumultuous praise."

Swords.

"Do you think the time will ever come when the swords will be converted into plowshares?"

"No."

"Then you do not expect universal peace?"

"Oh, that may easily come; but swords are so easily utilized for destructive purposes."

WHEN THEY MEET.

"Oh, it's you, is it?" murmurs the wife, meeting her husband at the reception.

"Yes. Glad to see you," he smiles. "Had half an idea I'd run across you here."

"Isn't it nice? Oh, there was something I wanted to ask you about—I thought of it just after I saw you at the theater the last time," she says. "It was something important, too. But it has entirely slipped my mind."

"Well, maybe you'll think of it by the next time we meet. I suppose you'll be at the horse show. Perhaps by then it will have occurred to you again."—Judge's Library.

PROGRESS.

"Who taught you to skate?"

"Well, last year George taught me. The year before it was Charlie, and the year before that I taught myself."

A Certainty.

As we journey through life
Let us live by the way;
We'll never be younger
Than we are today.

Knew Where She Was Going.

A little girl and her mother were waiting for a car. Mother, a college graduate, was greeted by a member of the college faculty.

"Why, how do you do? And this is the baby! My, what a great big girl she is. I knew you young lady," and here the professor leaned forward and adopted a confidential tone, "when you were just so big. Let me see. You must be five—going on six?"

"I am five going on the car!" said the young lady, and the professor straightened up and pretended not to see the blush that spread itself on the mother's face.

She needn't have blushed. We all do it.

Only One Advantage Lacking.

"What," asked her friend from the city, "do you do for amusement in a town like this?"

"Oh, we play auction bridge and talk about our acquaintances and spend more for clothes than our husbands can earn, and—the truth is that we have all the advantages of city life, except that our cars never become crowded enough to make it necessary for us to cling to straps."

What She Thought of Alfred.

She put down the book with a sigh.

"What is it, darling?" he asked.

"Ah, dearest, I'm so happy," she replied.

"But you had such a sad look in your eyes just now."

"I know. I've been reading about the unhappiness that the wives of men of genius have always had to bear. Oh, Alfred, I'm so glad you're just an ordinary sort of fellow."

AND HE IS PAINLESS.

Lawyer—Do you wish your neighbor imprisoned for breaking your window?

Client—No; I want him to pay for them. I ought to get something for my pains.

HIS OPINION.

Howe—I understand your friend Bangs recently led a charming widow to the matrimonial altar.

Wise—I don't know about that. I'm inclined to think she pushed him there.

Ceylon Tea.

Tea plantations in Ceylon have been in existence only 30 years, yet the annual exports of black tea amount to nearly $20,000,000 in value. Formerly coffee constituted Ceylon's main industry, but after a disease of the plant in 1850 its cultivation was discontinued. Many planters, however, recouped themselves by tea and rubber. Thanks chiefly to the former article, the island's old prosperity revived. Today Ceylon boasts 1,500 plantations.

Plant necessary to tea cultivation is costly, but very labor-saving. The work itself is not hard; only the climate makes it irksome. What is wanted mainly of employes is to watch machinery and feed it from the stock of tea leaves awaiting treatment. The workers are not Singhalese, but natives of southern India. A laborer's wages vary from eight to sixteen cents a day, while a foreman's salary averages $200 a month.—Harper's Weekly.

Extremes Meeting.

"What makes your husband so miserable today?"

"A joy ride yesterday."

"There! I knew he was something dippy."

Willie Discovered a New Game.

They had lived in a flat all of Willie's short life, so the little boy's knowledge of fauna and flora was limited to canary birds and flower boxes; and when they went to board in the suburb where there was a large yard, Willie very enthusiastically started in pursuit of a chicken, armed with a stick and other missiles.

When the hostess protested to his mother, she turned from the window and said, indulgently:

"You'll have to forgive dear Willie—he doesn't know that's a chicken."

HOW MRS. BROWN SUFFERED

During Change of Life—How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman.

Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken twelve bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. D. H. Brown, 508 N. Walnut St., Iola, Kan.

Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

TAKE PERUNA FOR COUGHS AND COLDS

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.
Columbus, Ohio

If you used Peruna at the beginning of every cold you would then appreciate the value of this great remedy. Do not wait until the cold has fastened itself upon you. Take it at the first symptom. This is the way to ward off the cold so that it does you no harm.

Peruna used in the beginning of a cold prevents a cough entirely.

Yes, I mean what I say. It prevents a cough. A cough is an effort to expel catarrhal discharges in the bronchial tubes. There would be no catarrhal discharges in the bronchial tubes if Peruna was taken at the beginning of a cold, therefore there would be no cough. Don't you catch the point?

After the cough begins Peruna will stop it just as quickly as it ought to be stopped. To stop a cough before all of the expectoration has been removed is to do great injury. After the expectoration has been properly removed the cough will stop itself. That is the only proper way to stop a cough.

Occasionally a cough depends upon an irritable condition of the larynx or bronchial tubes, in which there is little or no expectoration.

The problem of stopping such a cough is a slightly different one. Even in those cases Peruna ought to be taken, but sometimes it is necessary that local treatment be added.

But in any case Peruna is needed. You do not have to stop to write me. Get Peruna at once and commence taking it. You can get rid of that cough sooner I believe than in any other way.

Should you wish to consult me at any time while you are taking Peruna you are at perfect liberty to write me. Your letters will be held strictly confidential and you will receive prompt answer.

I want to stop that cough of yours. I want to stop it before it really begins. I want to stop it before it has a chance to injure your lungs, an injury that you may not recover from during your whole life. Yes, I do. You do your part. I will do mine. No. 54.

Not Altogether a Case of Love.

Here is a story to illustrate the point that one never can judge by appearances.

"A young boy with golden curls, a regular cherub in appearance, was on the front porch playing with a little dog and putting him through a lot of tricks. A minister passed by, and was struck by the appearance of the little chap and the celerity with which the dog obeyed all his commands.

"'Ah, little boy,' he said, you must love your dog. Are you good to him?'

"'Sure,' answered the cherub.

"'And I suppose he loves you, too, and that's why he minds you so well?'

"'Well, if he didn't mind me, I'd knock his blooming block off,' was the unexpected retort of the child."

How Resourceful Young School Teacher Procured Eggs When the Outlook Seemed Dark Indeed.

And men relate a tale of a brave and resourceful little school teacher in one of our suburbs who supports her mother and three young sisters on her by no means munificent salary. Last week her mother called her up by telephone. "Listen," wailed the old lady, "a whole bunch of relatives is coming to supper tomorrow evening. I'll have to make a cake or something, and I haven't an egg in the house. And the grocer won't trust us any more, and there won't be any money until next week, and—"

"Never mind, mother—I'll fix it," answered the young teacher, cheerily. Then she turned again to her class.

"Now children," she said, "tomorrow we will have the beautiful story of Columbus, and how he made the egg stand on end. Each of you will please bring an egg to school tomorrow. The class is dismissed."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Its Natural Place.

"Where is this site you're talking about for your suburban cottage?"

"As yet, it is all in my eye."

The reason a man can't help loving a girl like a lunatic is she could help him not to only that's the way she wants him to do it.

The real big man writes his name on everything he does.

AS TO FLAVOUR.
Found Her Favorite Again.

A bright young lady tells how she came to be acutely sensitive as to the taste of coffee:

"My health had been very poor for several years," she says. "I loved coffee and drank it for breakfast, but only learned by accident, as it were, that it was the cause of the constant, dreadful headaches from which I suffered every day, and of the nervousness that drove sleep from my pillow and so deranged my stomach that everything I ate gave me acute pain. (Tea is just as injurious, because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.)

"My condition finally got so serious that I was advised by my doctor to go to a hospital. There they gave me what I supposed was coffee, and I thought it was the best I ever drank, but I have since learned it was Postum. I gained rapidly and came home in four weeks.

"Somehow the coffee we used at home didn't taste right when I got back. I tried various kinds, but none tasted as good as that I drank in the hospital, and all brought back the dreadful headaches and the 'sick-all-over' feeling.

"One day I got a package of Postum, and the first taste of it I took, I said 'that's the good coffee we had in the hospital.' I have drank it ever since, and eat Grape-Nuts for my breakfast. I have no more headaches, and feel better than I have for years." Name given upon request. Read the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Postum now comes in concentrated, powder form, called Instant Postum. It is prepared by stirring a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water, adding sugar to taste, and enough cream to bring the color to golden brown.

Instant Postum is convenient; there's no waste; and the flavour is always uniform. Sold by grocers—45 to 50-cent tin 30 cts., 30 to 100-cup tin 50 cts.

A 5-cup trial tin mailed for grocer's name and 2-cent stamp for postage. Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.—Adv.

LIKE JEAN VALJEAN

Boy Escapes Reformatory and Turns Over New Leaf.

Youth, Now Married, Writes Mother—Superintendent of School He Escaped From Causes His Arrest and Governor Is Asked to Pardon.

Denver, Colo.—Victor Hugo's story of Jean Valjean in "Les Miserables" is duplicated in many of the circumstances surrounding an eighteen-year-old Colorado boy who three years ago ran away from the industrial school at Golden, worked himself into a good position and then, a year after he had been married to a Des Moines, Iowa, girl, found his past rising behind him, relentless as Hugo's Inspector Javert.

Six years ago Rosie E. Sheldon's father died at Glenwood Springs. A year later the boy was sent to the industrial school for boys at Golden as incorrigible. The intervening year the mother had lost all control over him and it was at her request that he was taken in charge by the state.

The state made a poor job of reforming Sheldon. Its method of curing high spirits did not succeed, and Sheldon ran away. The first few times he ran away he was caught and brought back. Early in 1910 he managed to slip away and stay lost. The officers looked for him a few weeks and then gave up the search, although they did not forget.

Sheldon went to Des Moines, Iowa, and there started out to do what the big state of Colorado had not been able to do. He started out to reform himself.

He got a job in the big Cownie glove factory at $10 a week, commenced to save his money and to go to night school. Before long his salary was raised, and then pretty soon it was raised again, and he was given a responsible position.

A little more than a year ago he met and fell in love with the daughter of a Des Moines business man. The two were married and started housekeeping. Sheldon was so happy that he wrote to his mother in Denver to tell her about his wife and the baby had just come. He told her the new name he had taken when he ran away from the reform school.

The mother told some of her friends. Sheldon's younger brother, now in the school, heard where his brother was, and through some of these sources Superintendent Fred L. Paddleford of the industrial school board heard where his runaway had gone.

It was not long thereafter that Chief of Detectives Johnson of Des Moines arrested Sheldon and took him to jail. Sheldon told the story to the detective and begged to be released. Dispatches that carried the story did not state whether the detective had ever heard of Jean Valjean and the good bishop, but it is in the role of the bishop that Detective Johnson figures from now on.

He promised the boy that although he couldn't let him go he would take an appeal direct to the governor of Colorado and ask him to grant a pardon to the runaway boy who had made good.

Governor Shafroth said that he would act in the case as soon as it was officially called to his attention and would take whatever action the facts might warrant.

Superintendent Fred L. Paddleford of the school declared that the boy must be returned to the school "for the sake of discipline."

"The fact that Sheldon is married and apparently doing all right now can't be taken as any excuse," the superintendent said. "The only way we have to preserve order here and to prevent the boys running away whenever they get tired of staying is to make severe example of them when they are caught.

"If Sheldon were made an exception the chances are that all the boys would plan to run away and get married."

NEW YORK CAPITAL OF VICE

S. H. London So Calls It—Finds 6,100 Men Take Profits of 25,000 Women.

New York.—With his evidence reduced to the matter of fact form of a card index, Samuel H. London, formerly prosecuting attorney of El Paso, Tex., who said he was semi-officially connected with the department of justice at Washington, has laid before the aldermanic committee which is investigating police conditions here the result of his seven years' study of the white slave traffic. He called New York the capital of commercialized vice and said that, with the assistance of fourteen agents placed at his disposal by the government, he had carried on investigations "from Fairbanks in Alaska to the canal zone."

Mr. London declared that his census in New York revealed that there were 6,100 men profiting from commercialized vice, in which 25,000 women were involved. He charged that the police officials aided the traffickers. He believed that only individual policemen were concerned in the business and doubted that the number of these officers would exceed 100 out of 10,000 men on the force.

BURNING COAL FIELD FOUND

Seams of Blazing Fuel Discovered in Duchy of Altenburg, Germany.

Berlin.—What is described as a burning coal field has been discovered at Haselbach, in the duchy of Altenburg. Engineers declare that the fire beneath the ground has been going on for years. Mysterious fissures appeared beneath a factory and shafts were sunk. At a depth of 18 feet seams of blazing coal were encountered.

FINGER PRINT IS OUTDONE

Accused Burglar Comes to Grief in France When Imprint of Tooth in Butter Is Viewed.

Paris.—Even the finger-print method of obtaining evidence against criminals has been excelled by the police in establishing a burglar's identity from the tooth marks which he left in a pat of butter.

Pierre Bassaud, held on a charge of burglary, broke into his former employer's premises at Montreuil-Sous-Bois. Failing to discover any valuables, he went to the kitchen and had a feast. When arrested he denied the charge, but the police found the marks of his teeth, including one which was broken, exactly reproduced in a lump of butter into which he had probably bitten by mistake in the dark.

Bassaud still protested his innocence, but when the magistrate before whom he was arraigned, sent for some butter and made the prisoner bite into it, the same irregular impression was obtained.

RESENT TAX IN GERMANY

Complaint by Foreigners on New Insurance Levy—Workers Especially Feel Burden.

Berlin.—Foreigners employed in Berlin and other German cities whose salary or income is $100 a month or less are complaining bitterly over the new government insurance law which went in effect the first of the year.

This new law suspends all private sick insurance, which is replaced with a government insurance system. It is compulsory on foreigners residing in the empire as well as on Germans.

So far as foreigners are concerned, it affects principally teachers, governesses, office employes, etc. The annual cost varies from $5 a year for those whose salary does not exceed $125 a year to $75 annual premium for those whose salary is between $80 and $100 a month.

The law provides that half of the cost of insurance must be paid by the employer and half by the insured. As a salary of $100 a month also calls for an annual income tax of $70, such an employe is compelled to pay $6 a month for tax and insurance.

Should the insured leave Germany permanently during the first ten years he has no claim for the return of premiums paid and loses his rights to benefits under the act. As the majority of foreigners remain only two or three years, coming largely for the purpose of studying, few will have claims on the premiums paid.

Only such persons as were insured in foreign insurance companies doing business in Germany are exempted from the provisions of the law. There is but one American company doing business in Germany.

Girl Has Narrow Escape.

Baltimore.—Mildred Arthur, aged thirteen, lay on the bed to study her lessons, a lighted candle at her side. She fell asleep. She was rescued by Papa Arthur and the bedclothes and mattress landed in the gutter outside. Damage slight.

Mrs. Estanislada Padilla Lalone passed away last Sunday at the home of one of her sons in the city after a lingering illness of many months, the immediate cause of death being Dropsy brought on by her age.

Her husband passed away two years ago and she had not been well since. NEW MEXICO RSOURSES

What New Mexico needs is more men and capital to help develop her resources. We want immigration. One way to get it is to advertise the state.

We must show our goods if we expect customers for them. No state has greater resources or more wonderfull possibilities. We should tell the world about them.

Viewing the situation as it exists, New Mexico offers better inducements to investors than any state in the Union The varied industries in need of developing are greater in number than offered elsewhere.

The state has been held back for various reasons. Statehood, or lack of it, had much to do with its progress. But that should in no wise have interfered, for the reason that inducements to investors are not at-all increased. Minerals agriculture, oil and many other undeveloped resources are as fully in evidence as at any time in the past

There was just a lack of knowledge that hinders most from investing. The general resources of the state are not appreciated to the full.

Much time and money has been lost by not taking advantage of the known conditions. Constant reiteration only will bring this information to those able to handle that which the state can offer.

The state is scarsely settled. Land is cheap and can be acquired in almost any section.

With the building up of the state properties are certain to advance. That which will draw the public is the great number of industries that may be exploited. The acres acquired now may in a few years be the center of large numbers of people. In the meantime, a good living is assured from the products of the soil.

Coal, iron and copper must draw immensely. There is an abundance of the former. As for iron ores, it is here repeated that one section of the state supplies most of the article to a big plant outside the state. Copper mining has reached a point that New Mexico is recognized as having one of the biggest deposits of that mineral in the west.

A new enterprise, that of oil, is likely to take first rank most any day. Half a dozen places in the state are remarkable for the indication of the best kind of oil. The parafine grade is in evidence and a dozen or more enterprises are in request of a commercial amount, with the prospect that within a short period New Mexico will be heralded as one of the greatest and best oil producing states in the country.

The above are all evidence, leaving many industries that merely need capitol to place them in the dividend paying class. Gold, silver, lead, zinc, clays, earths, turquise, mica and others merely need recognition of their existance to induce capital to come into the state and develop all these with the promise of future returns not likely to be equalled anywhere.

HOW TO KILL YOUR TOWN IN SHORT ORDER

A local merchant who advertises in this paper and who has his printing done at home, called our attention to the following appearing in the Merchants' Index. We regret that lack of space prevents giving the comment made by the Merchants' Index:

"Buy from peddlers as much and as often as possible.

"Denounce your merchants because they make a profit on their goods.

"Glory in the downfall of a man who has done much to build up your town.

"Make your town out a bad place and stab it every chance you get.

"Refuse to unite in any scheme for the betterment of the material interests of the people.

"Tell your merchant you get goods a great deal cheaper in some other town and charge him with extortion.

"If a stranger comes to your town tell him everything is overdone and predicted a general crash in the near future.

"If your are a merchant, don't advertise in the home paper, but compel the editor to go elsewhere for advetisements, and howl like a sorehead because he does so. Buy a rubber stamp and use it. It may save you a few dimes and make your letterheads look as though you were doing business in a one-horse town.

"If you are a farmer, curse the place where you trade as the meanest on earth. Talk this over with your neighbors and denounce the town. It will make your property much less valuable—but you don't care.

UP EIGHTY PER CENT GRADE

Anyway, that's what Henry Lutz prominent merchant at Lincoln said he thought it was when his new automobile stoped on a grade the other day coming in from the Ancient City in the mountains. The boys he told the 80 per cent grade story to say the excitement of the new car got even Lutz rattled and that he didn't know where he was, although he has been over the roads hundreds of times within the last twenty years. Anyway, Lutz tried to make the story stick that there is a grade of 80 per cent on the route between here and Carrizozo.—Roswell News.

SYNOPSIS.

Harding Kent calls on Louise Farrish to propose marriage and finds the house in great excitement over the attempted suicide of her sister Katharine. Kent starts an investigation and finds that Hugh Crandall, suitor for Katharine, who had been forbidden the house by General Farrish, had talked with Katharine over the telephone just before she shot herself. A torn piece of yellow paper is found, at sight of which General Farrish is stricken with paralysis. Kent discovers that Crandall has left town hurriedly. Andrew Elser, an aged banker, commits suicide about the same time as Katharine attempted her life.

CHAPTER III.—(Continued.)

I glanced quickly at Davis. I fully expected to see in his face something of the same astonishment I had felt. I was disappointed. With a casual glance at the envelope he turned to Dowd as if waiting for him to go on.

"It's evidence in the Elser case," the detective went on, "turned in by the man on post who reported the suicide. He was that old party that was found dead in his room up on West Twenty-third street. To my mind, it's just a plain case of suicide—an old man tired of living. The poison bottle was there on the floor beside him. I don't see nothing suspicious about it, but the chief has taken a notion that there's something behind it and wants to know where this letter came from. We searched the room, but this torn envelope was all we could find. The postmark's torn through, but he thought maybe you could trace it anyhow."

"I'll see what I can do and I'll let you know in the morning," said the inspector calmly, dismissing the detective with a nod. From his matter-of-fact tone and apparent lack of interest I would not have been surprised if he had refused this undertaking, too, as he had mine, though it seemed to me that the two bits of yellow paper connected the two suicides at the same hour as something decisively more than a mere coincidence.

As soon, however, as the detective had left the room the inspector's whole manner changed. With the glitter of excitement in his alert eyes he turned to me and explosively said:

"Quick, let me see that yellow scrap."

I had placed it carefully in my wallet after he had refused my request. As I drew it out now he almost snatched it from my hand. Putting it on his desk beside the torn envelope, he picked up a reading-glass and studied both pieces carefully. His inspection lasted for several minutes, and meanwhile, I, too, studied the torn envelope.

Both in color and texture the paper so closely resembled the scrap that I was positive that they were of the same lot. The envelope bore the address of Andrew Elser, in West Twenty-third street. Part of the postmark—most of it, in fact—had been destroyed, as if in the careless opening of the letter with the finger. All that was decipherable was a capital "A" and part of another letter that might have been either an "N" or an "R." In the lower part of the circle was a fragment of a letter that looked as if it might have been an "N." I noticed, too, that the stamp had been stuck on rather carelessly, in a lopsided manner.

My friend, his inspection completed, turned to me apologetically.

"I beg your pardon, Harding Kent," he said, "you were entirely right. These two bits of paper are key-notes in an important mystery, one that it is well worth my while to try to solve."

"What made you change your mind so suddenly?" I asked, for though I quite agreed with him, his manner had puzzled me not a little.

He leaned back in his chair and turned it so that he faced me. He had a sharp, explosive way of speaking, flung off his words almost before he had completely enunciated them.

"Can't you see? One footprint leads nowhere. Two footprints start a path. When you brought that yellow scrap to me you were merely guessing that it might have something to do with the strange happenings in the Farrish home. There was no way in which you could have positive knowledge, nor could I. You were only guessing."

"Indeed, I wasn't!" I exclaimed indignantly. "What drew my attention to it was General Farrish's exclamation of terror at the sight of it just before he fell, paralyzed."

Davis shook his head determinedly. "That meant much—or nothing. It may have been mere senile hysteria accompanied by the great shock. At seventy-odd in his life he may have had some unpleasant experience which was connected in his subconscious memory with a yellow document. Wrought up as he was by the news of his daughter's attempt to kill herself, the brain cells called into action were those that had recorded other disturbing experiences, perhaps a month ago, perhaps forty years ago. No impressions in the brain records are ever lost. The sight of the yellow paper probably recalled some other yellow paper. There was then no evidence whatever that it was this particular piece of paper that so agitated him."

"But you think so now," I suggested.

"The situation has entirely changed. There was nothing to show that this piece of paper had ever come through the mail. There was nothing to connect it with suicide. Dowd comes in here with a similar piece of paper that plainly has been mailed. We now have not one footprint, but two—the beginning of a path. Once started on the path, we can solve the mystery."

"Then you think there is some connection between the two bits of paper?"

"I know there is," said Davis. "These bits of yellow paper are of the same quality and texture—to all appearances the same paper. Two persons in whose possession they were, attempt suicide on the same day. The same person, or at least the same typewriter, wrote both the address on the envelope and the contents of the letter. This envelope came from a country post-office in either New York or New Jersey within a month—some post-office the name of which begins with 'Ar 'or 'An.' There are not many rural offices that will fit in all particulars. If two days or sooner, I can tell you exactly from what office they were mailed."

"Letters—you think there were two? Might not this be the envelope in which this paper came?"

"That presupposes an acquaintance between Elser and Miss Farrish, at least a connection of some sort. Did she know him?"

"I don't think so. Her sister and I were talking of the Elser suicide last night after we saw the evening papers. Louise surely would have known it if her sister was acquainted with him."

"Perhaps," said Davis doubtfully. "There isn't a human being over ten that has not a secret that they keep from some one. It looks to me, though, as if in all probability there were two distinct letters. That is what makes me suspect a plot. It convinces me that the mails are being used for an improper and more than likely a criminal purpose. This brings the case or both cases properly in my domain as a post-office inspector."

"And I can count on your assistance, after all," I said joyfully. "When can you begin work?"

"I have begun," he said tersely, pushing over for my inspection something he had hastily scrawled on a pad lying on his desk. It was an order addressed to the superintendent of the railway mails, which read:

"Have all railway clerks on New York and New Jersey routes report from what rural office within the last month they have received large quantities of letters in yellow envelopes. If letters have been discontinued, when? DAVIS."

"Large quantities!" I gasped. "Were there more than two?"

"Of course," he snapped, in a way that showed me he did not wish to be questioned further. Then he reached for his hat and coat, and with an abrupt "Come along!" led the way to the elevator.

"Where are you going?" I asked as he rushed me hurriedly through Park place to the Sixth Avenue Elevated.

"To Twenty-third street," he replied, "to find out what the police have not."

In the "L" train I told him in low tones of Crandall's apparent connection with the case and of his sudden disappearance. He sat silent, his whole bearing indicating such abstraction that I doubted if he had heard a word I was saying, but suddenly, just before we left the train, he startled me by asking:

"Do you know Crandall? What color are his eyes?"

I regretted that I had to say no to the first question, and that I did not, to the latter, which query amazed me greatly. What connection the color of a man's eyes could possibly have with two attempts at suicide and a lot of mysterious yellow letters from a rural post-office was entirely beyond me. Curious as I was, I hesitated to question him on the subject, for experience had taught me that he was better at asking than answering.

Instead of going directly to the boarding-house where Elser had killed himself, he took the other side of the street and turned abruptly into a house, beside the door of which was a doctor's plate.

"Is Doctor Berner in?" he asked of the maid, and on being shown into the physician's office, introduced himself as "Inspector Davis" and began questioning the doctor about the Elser suicide.

Though the papers had made no mention of Doctor Berner, the statement being that a policeman had called an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital, it now appeared that the landlady had summoned him as soon as the suicide was discovered. Elser was dead, so he had withdrawn as soon as the policeman arrived.

"Did you ever have Elser as a patient?" asked the inspector.

The doctor reflected.

"Only once—about two years ago. I gave him something for insomnia. He called here at the office and I wrote him a prescription. He was to return in a few days for further treatment, but he did not do so. Another time—"

The doctor hesitated.

"There was another time I had almost forgotten, a year or two before that. He met me in the street one day and asked what my office hours were on Saturday. He explained that he was the guardian of a boy who was in a boarding-school. The child had some slight throat trouble and he wished me to make an examination. On the following Saturday he brought the boy here, a bright little chap about ten."

"Do you know the boy's name? What school did he attend?" The inspector fired this question rapidly, but it was quickly apparent that the doctor had nothing more to tell, so we left.

"What a wonderful man you are!" I exclaimed as the doctor's door closed behind us. "How did you learn that Doctor Berner had been called in after Elser killed himself?"

"There is nothing wonderful about my knowledge," answered Davis with a laugh. "What is the first thing that people do when anything happens? They run for the nearest doctor. Doctor Berner is the nearest doctor. Could anything be simpler?"

The simplicity of his logic amazed me. It was like a conjurer's trick after it has been explained, or like one of those puzzle pictures with hidden faces. You work hours trying to find them, and after you have found them you wonder how you ever happened not to see them.

We now arrived at Mrs. Trask's boarding-house—one of those dingy ex-residences that proclaimed its retrogression by a white slip of paper on the door frame. I had supposed that here, too, my friend would introduce himself as "Inspector Davis" on account of the prestige it would give him in searching the rooms, but to the slattern maid who came to the door wiping her hands he merely said:

"Tell your mistress a couple of gentlemen are inquiring about room and board."

Mrs. Trask was the old-school boarding-house mistress fast disappearing before the inroads of the family apartment hotel. "Better days" was written all over her, though somewhat obscured by years in boarding-house grease. Eying us sharply through her spectacles, she inquired how much we were willing to pay, meanwhile debating with herself whether it was necessary to ask for references.

Davis' "not more than twelve dollars a week each" apparently convinced her that references were unnecessary, for she at once led the way to what she described as the second floor front, the room in which Elser had killed himself only the day before. Probably she had no intention of telling us this, but garrulity overcame her caution. She had been expatiating on the advantages of the room—Heaven knows it needed an eloquent advocate!—when suddenly she lowered her voice to a mysterious whisper.

Mrs. Trask Was the Old-School Boarding-House Mistress.

"One gentleman has occupied this room for fourteen years—ever since I've had the house, and a fine old gentleman he was, too. I wouldn't have the room vacant but what happened to him yesterday." She let her voice sink still lower. "If it was a couple of ladies looking at the room, I wouldn't be telling it, but I know you gentlemen won't mind. It was in this room yesterday Mr. Elser killed himself, not on the bed, but right here on the floor. It was poison he took—cyanide of mercury, the doctor said."

"You don't say!" exclaimed the inspector, as if he had heard the news for the first time. "Why did he do it?"

"It's more than I can say," said Mrs. Trask, evidently well pleased to talk about the tragedy. "I did everything I could to keep him comfortable and happy. He spent all his time here since he gave up his office down-town. There was a complaint out of him. On Saturdays he used to go up to Westchester to see a boy that he was guardian of. He read the papers every morning in the parlor. Every afternoon he took a walk. He was always on time to his meals and there never was a complaint out of him. On Saturday night regular he paid his board, that is, up to last week—that's still owing."

"Did he have any visitors?"

"No, I don't recollect that there was ever any one here to see him, though occasionally he used to bring the boy down here to lunch on Saturday or Sunday. He hasn't had him here, though, for the last three years."

"Did he receive any mail?"

"Ain't it queer, now, that you speak of that! The first letter he had in months came only last week. The police found part of the envelope on the floor beside him. Them and me both looked through all his things, but never a trace of the letter could we find. I can't for the life of me think what he could have done with it. I know the letter must have had some sort of good news for him, for after he received it, for several days he was as bright and chipper as could be, more like himself than he had been for years. Then yesterday somebody telephoned to him—I don't know who it was, for I was out marketing—and he never had any 'phone calls before that I know of. Right after lunch he went out and was gone until after three. Soon after he came in he killed himself in this very room."

To my mind things were beginning to look blacker and blacker for Crandall. The parallel between the cases of Katharine and Elser was entirely too strong for it to have been mere coincidence. We knew it was Crandall who had telephoned Katharine. It must have been he who had called Elser. There was much to be explained. What it was that had driven them both to seek death was still a mystery to me. My mind reverted to my original theory that there was a child, whose existence had been kept from the world, that was in some way connected with the Farrish family. Old Elser was the guardian of a boy. Suppose this boy was the child. It would establish a possible connection between the two suicides. It would explain why Katharine might have known old Elser yet never have mentioned the man to Louise.

I took it for granted that Davis would ask the landlady further about the child. Of course, he would want to know the boy's name and the name of the school where Elser kept him, but he made no further inquiries. Telling the landlady he would let her know in a day or two about the room, he turned to me with:

"Come on, Kent, it is time we had some luncheon."

"We must find Crandall," I said as we left the house.

"We must find who wrote the yellow letters," Davis responded.

"It must have been Crandall," I asserted with conviction.

"It may have been Crandall," the inspector replied. "Was Crandall left-handed?"

IT'S HARD TO WORK

It's torture to work with a lame, aching back. Get rid of it. Attack the cause. Probably it's weak kidneys.

Heavy or confining work is hard on the kidneys, anyway, and once the kidneys become inflamed and congested, the trouble keeps getting worse.

The danger of running into gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease is serious. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, a fine remedy for backache or bad kidneys.

A Washington Case

H. R. Hatch, 2516 Cedar St., Everett, Wash., says: "Severe pains in my back made me miserable. The kidney secretions burned in passing. My back got so bad I could hardly work. After specialists failed, Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me."

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

It's easy to be economical when you have neither money nor credit.

Julius Caesar.

The almost unanimous verdict of ancient and modern times is to the effect that Julius Caesar was what Shakespeare calls him: "The foremost man of all this world." Never before or since has anyone exhibited in so high a degree all the qualities of a born ruler of men. And never had any man a grander role to play. To preside over the most important crisis in the history of the most important branch of the human race was a task that none but the greatest of men could successfully perform. Caesar swept one obstacle after another aside, and stood at last where he meant to stand.

No Nostalgia.

H. Atterbury Smith, who with his open stairway plan promises to revolutionize the tenement house, said in New York:

"The open stairway tenement, with its abundance of sunshine and fresh air, will make a tenement apartment actually a home. The tenement dweller of the future needn't feel like Capt. Salt.

"'I've sailed the seas for 57 years,' Capt. Salt, a seasoned old 'shellback,' boasted.

"'Don't you ever get homesick, captain?' a lady asked.

"'Homesick? Me homesick?' said Capt. Salt. 'No-sir-ee! I ain't home enough for that.'"

UP TO HIM.

"Do you think your sister favors my suit?"

"Well, it's all right if you come through, but if you don't she favors a suit for breach of promise."

Tramps at Sea and Ashore

Whoever first named the wandering cargo steamship "tramp" did it in a moment of inspiration. A sea tramp and a shore tramp have more in common than the name. These steamers go everywhere in the same slouchy, aimless way, without knowing whither they will sail from the next port, and never knowing when they will get into the lane that leads home. Tramps ashore and afloat carry with them enough to cover their nakedness; the bare necessities of life suffice; they are involuntary ascetics. Tramp steamers have the pinched, hungry look of a city newsboy, for they were born in adversity, and the chill breath of economy constantly blows over them. They are the undermanned, underfed, overtended intruders of the sea. Every seaman's tongue is against them, and the merchants of the world conspire to get their goods carried in them for nothing. It is seldom one hears anybody speak reservedly of a tramp. Men in liners, deep water vessels, and regular trades will allude with an inflection of pride to "my ship;" coasting men speak of "them tramps" with a sniff of scorn that defies interpretation. Those who go in them, especially the officers, speak in a deprecating, half apologetic way of their being on a tramp, as though caught where they should not be.—George McPherson Hunter, in Survey.

Easy Waiting.

A newspaper woman, a spinster went to interview a member of one of the leading firms in Boston and was told to wait five minutes for him to be at liberty. Three-quarters of an hour later he came hurrying toward her with, "Well, Miss W., I would never wait so long as this for any man!" "Oh, Mr. Cabe," she retorted "if you had waited forty-five years for a man you wouldn't mind an extra half hour."

CONSTIPATION

Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods, they do not scour; they do not gripe; they do not weaken; but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weaken; they enrich the blood instead of impoverishing it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it. Price 25 cents. All Druggists.

MANURE FOR CABBAGE

Deep, Rich, Mellow Soil Is of Importance.

Winter Variety Is Mostly Grown on Early Potato Ground—Hotbeds Are Prepared in February and Seed Sown in Frames.

Cabbage likes a deep, rich, mellow soil. For summer cabbage, a mellow, sand loam will bring the earliest crop. The early June cabbage that is shipped to the Baltimore markets is mostly grown on the deep river bottom lands of the lower portion of Baltimore county, says the Baltimore American. A large portion of this cabbage is grown from night soil which, after fermentation, is sprinkled along the rows, just before the plants are set in the fall. If this fertilizer is thoroughly mixed through the soil it is said not to injure the quality of the cabbage. For the fall and winter cabbage crop, plant on deep, mellow, red clay soil. As the value of the cabbage is in large solid heads, the best fertilizer to use is that of rotted manure from grain-fed horses and cattle, with the addition of 1,000 pounds of high grade vegetable guano sown to the acre and well harrowed in before planting. Winter cabbage is mostly grown on early potato ground. This land, being heavily dressed with fertilizer for the potato crop—not more than 600 to 800 pounds of fertilizer will be needed for each acre planted. The fertilizer is nearly always sown in the drill. The drill rows are then covered in and the ridges rolled. Large growers now use the planter; the machine sets and waters each plant, very few plants fail to grow. Plants set by machine are better firmed in the ground than plants set by hand. The old method of starting early plants in the fall and wintering them in a cold frame has now been abandoned in favor of sowing the seed in a hotbed. The hotbeds are prepared in February and the seed sown in the frames by the middle of the month. When the plants are two inches in height they are transplanted into cold frames. The plants are given abundance of air in the middle of the day, but well protected by glass and thick straw mats when the weather is cold and stormy. In the New England states early plants are raised in hot houses heated by hot water. Expert gardeners grow large quantities of early and late cabbage for their retail trade. Truckers grow for the wholesale markets. Their principal crops are kale, spinach, tomatoes, corn and eggplants.

PREPARING FOR CLOVER CROP

On Thin Soil It Is Well to Break the Ground Preceding Spring—Grow Fertilizing Crops.

If the aim is to get clover and grass on a thin soil it is often a good plan to break the ground the preceding spring and to grow a fertilizing crop during the summer that can be cultivated and then disked into the surface soil. When cowpeas can be grown they are excellent for this purpose. On very thin land I have gotten the finest clover sod in this way. Expensive way? someone asks. Well, any way of covering thin soil with a heavy clover sod is not inexpensive. I like the plan. The tillage kills weed seeds and frees fertility. The vines are chopped in the surface before they become tough. The humus is just where it is needed, and the soil is firm. If one prefers, rape may be sown the first of September, and then the land fitted for clover in the spring without the plow. Leave the vegetable matter at the surface. Or, timothy may be sown in the fall, and clover added in the spring. Or wheat may be seeded and clover in the spring.

Buckwheat Crops.

No other crop will bring in better return in the northern states for the time it occupies the ground than buckwheat. It is put in after the other crops have been planted and are growing. It is the best grain to raise to subdue a patch of troublesome weeds and to starve out worms in the soil. It comes handy to sow on vacant pieces of ground which have been left because too late to be sown to some other crop. It is a valuable crop to plow under to enrich the soil and give humus.

Seed Potatoes.

In 12 comparisons on the Minnesota station farm new seed, from outside sources, gave an average increased yield of 125 bushels of potatoes to the acre more than seed from varieties continuously grown on the farm for three to twelve years.

Advantage of Sheep.

One of the advantages of sheep is that they can be given the run of pasture later and be turned out earlier in the spring than any other stock.

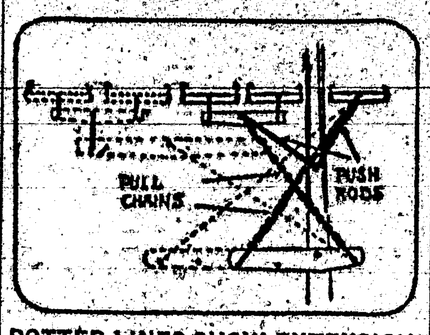
OVERCOMING DRAFT ON SIDE

Four-Horse Evener Arranged So That No Horse Would Need to Walk on Plowed Ground.

In reply to a query for an arrangement of four-horse evener on plow so that no horse need walk on the plowed ground the Farmers Call and Breeze prints the following.

Many three-horse eveners do not overcome side draft. The power is so far to one side that the two horses push the tongue over against the one horse. Here is a remedy for any number of horses on one side of tongue and one horse on the other.

Put the tongue hole, or pull pole, in evener so that the length of shorter end will be to the length of the longer



DOTTED LINES SHOW EXTENSION.
Explanation: Diagram shows evener for three horses. Dotted lines show how it would work if extended for five horses.

one in the proportion of 1 to 2, for three-horse evener. Or in the proportion of 1 to 3 or 1 to 4 if you have a four or five horse evener.

Fasten a chain from short end of evener to doubletree, which will be on opposite side, and run a chain from long end of evener to singletree. Put in push rods from center of power on either side to tongue, or if there is no tongue from center of one power to center of the other power.

HANGER FOR ALL BARN TOOLS

Notches Cut in Board Afford Convenient and Safe Place for All Kinds of Implements.

Means should be provided to have a place for all tools used in and about a barn. The forks and shovels are usually stood up in a corner, but they can be more conveniently taken care of by making a hanger for them. The illustration, from Popular Mechanics, shows how a hanger can be easily made and screwed to the wall of a barn.

The hanger is cut from a piece of board and has a hole bored into it the size of the handle on the fork or shovel, then a notch is sawed into the hole to pass the handle through. The board may contain one or as many notches as there are forks and shovels to be hung on it. The implements are hung with the fork or shovel end upward.

Failures in Clover.

Frequent failures of clover may not be due so much to poor soil or dry seasons as to the absence of the proper kind of bacteria.

Clover bacteria do not thrive on acid soils; the application of ground limestone to such soils and the introduction of a few hundred pounds of ground from a clover field may quickly cure a clover sick plot.

Animals in Delaware.

In the last ten years the value of domestic animals, poultry and bees in the State of Delaware increased 65.8 per cent. The total value of horses and colts increased 95.2 per cent. Of the 54,936 cattle in the state, 25,706 were dairy cows.

Farm Operations.

The farm operations of the past year must have taught every thinking farmer some lessons that should be of value to him in the future, if he will but reflect on them. It will pay to recall these experiences to memory.

For Laying Hens.

A splendid mixture for laying hens is equal parts of cracked corn, wheat and oats, which should be scattered in the litter so that the birds will be compelled to take exercise by scratching for it.

Profits From Turkeys.

Profits from turkeys are not confined to the price received for them No other farm fowl destroys as many insects in a year's time.

CHILD'S FACE ALL RED SPOTS

632 N. 5th St., Terre Haute, Ind.—"My little nephew, a boy of four years, had a breaking out on his face. It was little red spots at first, then he would rub and scratch and water blisters would form, and wherever the water would run another would come until his face was covered with them. He would cry and fret. His mother got some medicine, but it did not do any good. He would scream and cry and say it hurt. We hardly knew him, his litle face was all red spots and blisters. So I begged him to let me put some Cuticura Ointment on them. The next morning I made a strong soap suds with Cuticura Soap and washed his face in the warm suds. The little blisters burst by pressing the cloth on them. After I had his face washed, I put the Cuticura Ointment on and in a short time his little face was all red and dry. I kept using the Cuticura Soap and putting on the Cuticura Ointment and his face got as well and it did not leave a scar. He was entirely cured in about one week and a half." (Signed) Mrs. Arthur Haworth, Jan. 10, 1912.

Why He Is Known.

The class in ancient history was reciting. "Now, Harry, can you tell me who Nebuchadnezzar was?" asked the teacher. "Nebuchadnezzar," answered the boy, right off the bat, "was the greatest of the Babylonian kings, and for his connection with the Hebrews he got a write-up in the Bible."

A GRATEFUL OLD MAN.

Mr. W. D. Smith, Ethel, Ky., writes: "I have been using Dodd's Kidney Pills for ten or twelve years and they have done me a great deal of good. I do not think I would be alive today if it were not for Dodd's Kidney Pills. I strained my back about forty years ago, which left it very weak. I was troubled with inflammation of the bladder. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me of that and the Kidney Trouble. I take Dodd's Kidney Pills now to keep from having Backache. I am 77 years old and a farmer. You are at liberty to publish this testimonial, and you may use my picture in connection with it." Correspond with Mr. Smith about this wonderful remedy.

He Filled the Bill.

A stranger when dining at a foreign hotel, says the Boston Traveler, was accosted by a detective, who said to him: "Beg your pardon; we are in search of an escaped convict, and, as a matter of form, will you oblige us by showing your passport?"

"Do I look like a convict?"

"Possibly not. In any case I shall require to see your passport."

The stranger, feeling annoyed, presented the officer with the bill of fare and the latter commenced to read: "Sheep's head, neck of mutton, pig's feet."

"Very good," he observed, "the description tallies. You will please come along with us."

His Doubt.

"Say, Billy," called the junior clerk, "how do you spell stissel?"

"'C-i-t-y.'"

"I know about the front end of it, but is it 's-s-s or s-u-s?'"
