WHITE OAKS ALIVE

Famous Old Gold Camp of this County Coming Back to its own.

HISTORY OF THE CAMP

We are reproducing below extracts of a recent interview given out by Christ Yeager to the El Paso Times because of the splendid description given of the mining activities in this county.

"Capt. Yeager is one of the pioneers of several of the big gold camps of the Rocky mountains, beginning in the Gunnison district, Colorado, and thence southward down the range through Cochiti, the Jicarilla mountains, White Oaks, and recently operating in the vicinity of Congress Junction, Ariz., where he is prosecuting some extensive developments.

INCREASING "WILD CAT" MILL

"The Wild Cat Leasing and Mining Co., of White Oaks camp is working about twenty-five men on the North Homestead mine. They are increasing their present force of men and are adding ten stamps more to the ten-stamp mill they already have been operating and also adding an extensive cyaniding plant, to consist of four Pachuca tanks. This mine is developed to a depth of between 1200 and 1300 feet and the company is milling ore that averages about $15.00 per ton. The Wild Cat company is composed of J. D. Edward Queen, Jackson and Allen Lane of White Oaks. They also have a bond and lease on the South Homestead mine, which adjoins the North Homestead on the east. The Rita and the Little Nell mines are being worked by Mr. Die of St. Louis, with a force of seven men and are yielding fine, rich gold ore. The Rita company is composed of Col. Harrison and other capitalists of St. Louis, Mo.

"The Baxter Gold Mining Co., of which Jack Linahan is president and the stockholders are El Pasoans is being actively developed. The work is being done under contract, a shaft being sunk to a depth of fifty feet and a tunnel being driven to a distance of 175 feet on the claim called the Little Johnny. This mine adjoins the old Abe mine on the west. Judge Hewitt, principal owner and president of the Old Abe, has just bought the controlling interest in the Little Mack mine in the same camp and will start work with a force of men this week.

SHIPPING GOOD HEMATITE

"O. K. Hartley of Orogrande, who is working the big iron mines in the Jicarilla mountains near Orogrande, called the Iron Queen and duke, is also working the Yellow Jacket iron property, six miles west of the White Oaks camp and about seven miles north of Carrizozo, being about three miles east of the railroad, with a force of fifteen to twenty men and is shipping fifty tons of high grade hematite iron ore daily to the plant of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co., at Pueblo, Colo. Hartley will soon increase his shipments to 100 tons per day. I discovered this property several years ago and after developing it, sold it for a good figure. It belongs now to Charles Spence and associates of El Paso," said Captain Yeager.

CAMP IS PICTURESQUE

"The White Oaks district is situated in a group of hills called the White Oaks mountains, which really constitute the northern continuation of the Sierra Blanca or White mountain range. One of these hills is called the Baxter mountain and in this is the scene of the principal operations and location of the chief mines. The picturesque village of White Oaks is in a basin or amphitheater surrounded by oak clad hills, and is substantially built of brick and stone houses, and looks like some prosperous town back east, rather than a mining camp. It is one of the best places in the hot weather I ever saw, and some day will become a summer resort. East of it are fine coal mines owned by the Old Abe company. It is only twelve miles by stage from Carrizozo.

"The total production since the discovery of gold in White Oaks, some time in the early fifties, when it was a placer camp, is authentically stated to be about three million dollars," continued Capt. Yeager. "Placer gold was found about 1855 by the Mexicans and worked extensively, and about 1879 gold in quartz veins was discovered on what is now the North Homestead grounds. White Oaks completely refutes the old superstition, or libel, of some would-be experts that the values and the veins of New Mexico don't go down to any great depth.

VEINS DO GO DOWN

"The Old Abe is in good ore at a depth of 1500 feet below the surface and the North Homestead is in splendid ore running through the mill an average of $15.00 gold per ton, which is much higher than the values at the same depth in the famous Cripple Creek district of Colorado.

"They used to say the same thing about the mines of Gilpin, Colorado, in the early days. But the records show that the same camp yielded over $10,000,000 in gold after the knockers had all left the country. These knockers never will put any money into the development of any country and the sooner rid of them the better.

"Geologically, the White Oaks district is covered by cretaceous sedimentary rocks, limes and shales, through which monzonites have intruded. The shales, limes and monzonites have been cut by dikes and through all these are found the quartz veins, more or less pyritiferous on reaching depth, but well oxidized at the surface. Many of the veins are for the most part mere stringers or streaks, but in many places there are numbers of these veinlets which in connection with the intervening wall rock, constitute workable lode or irregular shoots or pockets of some magnitude.

FREE GOLD THE RULE

"A great part of the production of the White Oaks district has come from ore in which the gold was free. In most of the ore worked recently the gold is associated with limonite, or with partially oxidized pyrite. The deepest worked mine in the district is the Old Abe, which has reached the depth of 1500 feet. The greater part of the production also came from pocket and shoots of high grade ore. For instance, there was taken out once in two days from the North Homestead mine $35,000. The general average of the ore extracted and milled in the Old Abe mine is said to have been $20.00 gold per ton. There are two big stopes in the Old Abe; one called the Fish Pond and the other the Duck Pond. The Fish Pond stope was 20 feet wide, 50 feet long and 60 feet high, and yielded $80,000.

SUCCESSFUL INSTITUTE

Most Successful Teachers Institute Ever Held in County About to Close

PASS RESOLUTION OF THANKS

What is considered, by those in a position to know, as the best Institute of Lincoln County teachers ever held is about to draw to a close, the examinations now being held, are the closing features.

There have been many teachers in attendance at all times and the social side of the meeting has also been an item of this particular Normal. Last Saturday afternoon the teachers were taken to the Mal Pais in conveyances provided by the Carrizozo Commercial Club and after their arrival a picnic was held at the M. B. Foreman ranch and the teachers entertained in the well known hospitable 'Foreman' style. The picnic was but one of several entertainments provided the teachers when they were not busy with their work.

The Lincoln County Teachers Association held two meetings during the week and at one elected officers J. E. Koonce is now President of the organization, S. R. Moss, Vice President and Miss Mamie Humphrey Secretary. The organization has as its object the getting together of the teachers for better work. The association will hold its next meeting at Capitan the first Monday and Tuesday after Christmas at which time there will be an oratorical contest between pupils of Lincoln County. There will be given at this time three medals for oratory and one for spelling.

The resolutions of thanks adopted by the teachers in session are given below.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas:—The Lincoln County Teachers' Institute of 1913 is nearing the close of its session:

Whereas:—We, the members of said Institute desire to express our appreciation of the work so successfully terminated, of the kindly consideration which has been accorded us on all sides and of the delightful entertainment furnished us on several occasions:

Be it resolved that we extend the hearty thanks of the Institute: 1st. To our State Superintendent, Mr. Alvin N. White, for his visit and instructive lecture and for his personal inspiration. 2nd. To our County Superintendent, Mrs. Wallace L. Gumm, who has let no opportunity go by to make the session a profitable and enjoyable one. 3rd. To our Conductor, Mr. J. B. Taylor, for his helpful and thorough guidance, giving us an intellectual uplift and lending new hope and faith so that we may return to our work with renewed energy and high ideals. 4th. To our Instructors Mrs. Lillian Bess and Miss Lorinda B. Spellman, who have been so faithful and untiring in their efforts to enable us to do more efficient work in our school the coming year. 5th. To the Ladies of the Civic League for the delightful refreshments furnished on the evening of our reception. 6th. To Mrs. Herbert Haywood, Misses Lorena Sager, Vida Redie, Clarite McQuilian and Master Gladney White for the excellent musical programme rendered. 7th. To the Commercial Club for furnishing the means by which we might visit the Mal Pais. 8th. To Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Foreman, Mr. W. L. Gumm and Deane Gumm who further contributed to our enjoyment of that visit. 9th. To Miss Manette Meyers, Director of Industrial Education, and Professor J. N. Rigney, of the State College for the instructive talks they gave us concerning their lines of work. 10th. To the little folks who furnished material for object lessons in Reading. 11th. To the Teachers of Otero and other counties who have so heartily cooperated with us to make the Institute a success. 12th. To the local newspapers for their courtesy to us. 13th. To the citizens of Carrizozo in general who have made us feel at home in their city.

Be it further resolved:—That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the newspapers of Carrizozo, Alamogordo and Tularosa and the New Mexico Journal of Education. (Signed) H. F. Jouts, Chairman Mrs. E. H. Simmons Lurlyne Lane.

—FOR SALE:—Indian Runner Ducks. Enquire Outlook.

—Father Girma was down from Lincoln to attend the bed side of Mrs. Gomez who was quite ill and not expected to live.

—On Thursday night, June 26th at 8 o'clock, Rev. Herbert Haywood will preach at White Oaks. All are cordially invited to the services.

—FOUND:—Gentlemen's gold ring with setting. Owner may have ring by identifying same at Chas. A. Steven's office, and paying for this notice.

—J. E. Hannum of the Continental Oil Co., was in town last Friday accompanied by the General Manager of the company on an inspection trip.

—J. S. Reddoch and family will leave within the next few days for Guatemala where Mr. Reddoch has a fine position with a railroad, in an official capacity.

—The 320 aero entries still continue to be made on an average of one or two daily at the Harvey & Chase office. The land around Carrizozo is rapidly being taken up.

—H. S. Campbell returned this week, Wednesday, from Monroe, Wisconsin, where he had been to attend the funeral of his mother. Mrs. Campbell's mother returned with Mr. Campbell and will spend the summer with her daughter.

—Preparations are going on for one of the best times ever heard of in Lincoln County, at White Oaks the 4th of July. Everyone is talking about going and the big time is sure scheduled to be, then and there for the people of this part of the county.

One of the largest cattle shipments that the E. P. & S. W. railroad has handled this season passed through Carrizozo the first of the week. The cattle were shipped from El Paso by W. J. Cox who recently sold the entire lot to the Metzler Cattle Co., of Monida, Montana, to which point they were en route. Over sixteen hundred head of young steers constituted the shipment.

CLUB ROOMS OPENED

Railroad Club Rooms Opened Tuesday Evening with Splendid Entertainment

SOCIAL EVENT OF THE SEASON

The Railroad Club building was formally opened and dedicated last Tuesday evening by a public reception and dance which was the social event of the season. The building was crowded to overflowing by the residents of Carrizozo, augmented by delegations from neighboring towns, villages and hamlets, Alamogordo and Duran each being well represented. The affair was in charge of a committee of ladies, the wives of local railroad men.

The music for the dance was furnished by Messrs. George Ferguson and Fred Funk and the dance was prolonged into the early hours of morning. In the basement of the building dainty refreshments were served consisting of ice cream, cake and frappe.

The Railroad Club building is one of the finest buildings in Lincoln county and is complete in every detail. It was built by the E. P. & S. W. as a reading room for the employes. The ground floor is used as a reading room and has a highly polished, hardwood floor which is excellent for dancing. The basement is equipped with bowling alleys, pool and billiard tables, shower and tub baths. The building is heated with steam throughout which is piped from the round house, the latest improved overhead system being used.

CARRIZOZO 12 CAPITAN 8

Last Sunday afternoon the Capitan Base Ball team met the Carrizozo Browns at Carrizozo in an interesting game of ball. The visitors put up the usual exhibition of good ball playing but the Carrizozo boys were a little too fast for them and carried off the honors by a score of 12 to 8. Of course the results make Carrizozo people feel a little better than in the past as Capitan has had the best of it in the number of games won to date.

DAVIS STAR ENTERTAINMENT

The Davis Star Entertainers which appeared at the Methodist Church last Friday evening proved a real musical treat to all who attended. The readings by Miss Quinn were splendid and well received as were also the whistling numbers by Miss Brunner, while Sadie Amy the beautiful contralto soloist was the featured character of the evening. They were greeted by a fair sized audience which showed its appreciation of the entertainment by the applause. The entertainment was given under the auspices of the Carrizozo Civic League.

—Shipments of wool are expected to start from this territory within the next few days. It is estimated that there will be close to three hundred thousand pounds shipped from here this season.

THE cost of a single war is only equalled by the price the world pays for peace. While the world is staggered by the millions poured into such a struggle as the present conflict in the Balkans, the cost of the armed peace maintained by the nations not now engaged in war is not less stupendous.

Never before did the leaders of peace societies in all countries have such financial arguments to direct against the governments responsible for the armed camps of the world. The nations foremost in their preparations for war have received new impetus from the Balkan conflict, and are increasing the already huge expenditures for battleships, armies and munitions of war.

Never before has the world seen anything like the present situation. Extra taxation in Germany, increase of the reserves and length of military service in France, more than a quarter of a billion dollars for battleships in England, together with a big outlay for airships—these are the symptoms of the war fever that holds Europe in its grip.

Even the most enthusiastic believer in insurance begrudges the money paid out as premiums, for which he gets practically no return so long as all goes well. Is it any wonder then that millions of the governed all over the world are protesting against the tremendous assessments made upon them by their governments to pay the cost of insurance against war?

Those who advocate the present enormous and annually increasing expenditures for armament answer that they are fully justified if they serve to keep the peace. Which is better, they ask of the disarmament advocates, taxes for armament or the risk of the nation's prosperity and even its existence, by exposure to attack through unpreparedness for war? Which is preferable, a diversion of part of the national revenues to pay for armies and warships, or the destruction of property and the loss of life inevitable if war should come upon the unprepared? Certainly, the fact that within little more than a year the world has seen two wars in the Mediterranean goes far to refute the assertion of the peace advocates that war is at an end and armament therefore unnecessary.

Considering the fact that they hold a brief for those in favor of the abolition of war preparations, it is not, after all, so strange that figures of the cost of armed peace are most available at the headquarters of the peace societies. Not that the war and navy departments at Washington do not keep a careful record of their own expenditures, and also keep in touch with what other nations are doing; but the men intrusted with the responsibility of preparing the United States against war are more concerned with what other armed nations have than with what it costs them. Therefore, it has remained largely for the peace advocates to collate the figures and dress them up as impressively as possible.

Their figures are impressive enough without any inauspiciously intended padding. To begin with they present the stupendous, incomprehensible sum of $12,208,218,000 as the combined annual expenditures of all the civilized nations for armaments in time of peace. This vast sum takes no account of the cost of putting Europe on its present war footing or of the cost of the recent Russo-Italian or the present Russo-Balkan war.

One could make many comparisons to show just what this vast sum represents. Suffice it to say that it is a billion dollars more than the entire money wealth of the United States government, reserve, securities and all, which it is going to take twenty or thirty men in the treasury department three or four weeks to count as an incident of the change of administration.

More than two-thirds of this sum is expended by Great Britain and the nations of the European continent. Mexico and the states of South America make up a scant $105,000,000, while the United States, Japan and British India spend the rest. On the other hand, taking the ten leading nations of the world, their expenditures for armies and navies and incidentals of military preparations equal almost the grand total. Austria-Hungary, France, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Russia, Spain, Turkey and the United States spend together each year at least $1,900,000,000, or nearly two billions of dollars.

For these ten nations, which are leading in the race for greater armaments, figures of one year are eclipsed by those of succeeding years, so that two billions of dollars probably by this time represents the sum total of the annual military bills which the people of these countries must pay.

Here is the table for the cost of armies and navies to these ten nations, compiled from the latest figures available:

COST OF ARMIES AND NAVIES.

Country	Expended for army	Expended for navy	Total military charge
Austria-Hungary	$72,818,000	$12,721,000	$85,539,000
France	157,621,000	33,297,000	190,918,000
Germany	114,508,000	118,940,000	233,448,000
Great Britain	206,020,000	200,210,000	406,230,000
Italy	80,842,000	120,036,000	200,878,000
Japan	29,406,000	52,472,000	81,878,000
Russia	14,128,000	119,770,000	133,898,000
Spain	37,871,000	12,909,000	50,780,000
Turkey	42,071,000	8,222,000	50,293,000
U. S.	12,367,000	125,701,000	138,068,000
Totals	$1,241,863,000	$898,000,000	$2,140,222,000

Though these figures are undoubtedly presented by the peace advocates in all good faith they are a little misleading as far as the United States expenditures are concerned. The total of $122,000,000 charged to the United States for the upkeep of its military establishment on land and sea is too large by about $26,000,000 if expenditures for actual war preparation are meant. The sum given includes expenditures for river and harbor works, which are carried on by the war department, and for other things not at all military in their nature, though under the jurisdiction of that department.

The same correction must be borne in mind when considering the following table, which shows the proportion of military charges to total government expenditures. For this year, for example, when there was another billion dollar congress, the total appropriations properly chargeable in the maintenance of armed peace, are $241,383,000, out of total appropriations amounting to $1,098,647,000. Thus the total expenditures for military purposes are only about 21 per cent, even though those expenses have increased in the few years since the peace society figures were compiled.

PROPORTION OF TOTAL MILITARY CHARGES TO TOTAL EXPENDITURES.

Country	Total expenditures	Cost of army and navy	Pct.
Austria-Hungary	$380,853,000	$72,818,000	19.1
France	277,232,000	190,918,000	68.8
Germany	731,238,000	233,448,000	31.9
Great Britain	367,410,000	406,230,000	110.6
Italy	300,586,000	200,878,000	66.8
Japan	284,453,000	81,878,000	28.8
Russia	1,299,964,000	133,898,000	10.3
Spain	234,828,000	50,780,000	21.6
Turkey	151,088,000	50,293,000	33.2
U. S.	$64,128,000	$238,068,000	371.3
Totals	$4,674,422,000	$1,841,222,000	39.6

Non-military appropriations and pension appropriations have increased more rapidly than the military bills. Consequently in the table above the percentage accredited to the United States is much too high, as the figures will show.

How these war expenditures, or rather expenditures to prevent war, as they are termed by those responsible for them, have mounted to such tremendous figures, is shown by the table, giving the cost of the world's armies and navies for every ten years in the last generation. The totals for each nation mount into the billions since 1881.

Though the United States holds fourth place, according to these figures, in amount of expenditures for war preparations, it is really far behind if judged by results. The United States government pays higher for preparation for war than any other nation in the world. It pays its soldiers and sailors higher wages; their food is better, and costs much more than that of foreign soldiers and blue-jackets; their clothing is more expensive; the American government must pay much higher prices for battleships, guns and all munitions and materials of war. Consequently, with one of the biggest military bills to foot, the United States really has less to show than that of any country per dollar expended.

The graphic charts above show the military preparedness of nine countries: Mexico, United States, Great Britain, Japan, Italy, Austria, France, Germany and Russia. As is readily seen, despite the millions it spends on the army, the United States is a dwarf among military nations.

Help In Healing Fractures

Scientists Have Arrived at the Conclusion That Careless Strokes Will Do Much for Recovery.

Surgeons are now employing massagers to aid them in healing fractures. The first distinguished surgeon to practice massage in such cases was the famous Frenchman, Lucas-Championniere, and his disciples have developed its use in many ways.

James McNeill read a paper on the subject before the Medical Society of London a few weeks ago, in which he described the massage as consisting of slow, light, rhythmic stroking in the neighborhood of the injury, the movement being merely a "paroxysm" and almost resembling a massage past, the actual site of the injury being scrupulously avoided. It consists of two elements—passive movement and active movement. What the dose of passive movement is being given the patient must be made to co-operate by actively relaxing the whole part.

The Medical Record remarks that the underlying principle of the treatment is that "movement is life." This form of massage differs from the ordinary in that the latter aims at compression, whether of the blood in a given direction or of some movement, while the massage advocated by Lucas-Championniere attempts by its reflex action through the nervous system only to restore the tone of the vaso-motor system.

Many Such Deceit.
"Like the dove in Noah's Ark, which was allowed out a number of times and always returned, except on the last occasion," was the North London magistrate's simile for an Wellington man who deserted his family. "We have a lot of doves in our ark," said the Guardian's representative.—London Times.

Backache Is a Warning

Thousands suffer kidney ills unawares—not knowing that the backache, headaches, and dull, nervous, dizzy, all tired condition are often due to kidney weakness alone.

Anybody who suffers constantly from backaches should suspect the kidneys. Some irregularity of the secretions may give just the needed proof.

Doan's Kidney Pills have been curing backache and sick kidneys for over fifty years.

A North Dakota Case
Mr. G. J. Tyler, Grand N. D. says: "My feet and limbs were swollen and I couldn't sleep on account of kidney weakness. My back was lame and sore and I felt miserable. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and when I have had occasion to use them since, they have never failed me."

His Sport.
"What particular drink would you recommend for a golf player?"
"I should suggest some brands of teas."

"Is he a man of mettle?"
"Well, he is credited with iron nerve, a grip of steel and a heart of gold."

Scientific Point Cleared Up.
A German astronomer has published a series of tables which seem to show a connection between the appearance of sun spots and the wobbling motion of the earth on its axis, due, perhaps, to a variation in the sun's magnetism.

Masterfulness Checked.
"I've a good mind to go and jump into the river," said N. Peck, at the end of a little domestic discussion, as he picked up his hat and started out. "You come back here," said his wife. "If you intend any such trick as that, just march upstairs and put on your old clothes before you start!"

Generous Reformer.
Miss Augusta De Poyator is a charming young lady of Knickerbocker decent who does noble missionary work among New York's floating sailor population.
Miss De Poyator's work is unique in that she believes in helping the sailor, no matter how prodigal or dissipated or nonconforming he may be. She also believes in a very generous, very liberal type of charity.

Often her views are expressed in epigrams, as:
"Don't scold a reprobate, for men are like eggs—left in hot water they harden."
Or again:
"As long as virtue is its own reward, it is apt to be spasmodic."

VALUE OF WELL-TRAINED DOG

Beagle Hound, Not Much Bigger Than Big Rat Terrier, Distinguishes Himself on Hunt.

(By ISAAC NOTES.)

Last summer, when on a vacation trip to the old home I had a never-to-be-forgotten Saturday afternoon squirrel hunt, which opened my eyes to the value of a well-trained dog, a dog trained on one kind of animal. A neighbor boy owned one of these beagle hounds, not much larger than a big rat-terrier.

My youngest brother had had a good deal to say to me during the ear-her part of my visit, about this wonderful little dog, so one afternoon he borrowed the dog for a squirrel hunt in the woods near town.

I went along more to please my brother than because I expected much success, for I did not believe we could find any squirrels so near town.

Beside I did not think the wood was very good squirrel hunting-ground, even if it had been at a distance from town, for the land was flat and poor, covered with a growth of post oak and blackjacks.

Then it was somewhat near the prairie, where I knew there were no squirrels. There were no hickory trees, nor chestnuts, nor pecans, and I did not see what a squirrel could live on in that flat, uninviting reach of scrub timber and thin clay soil.

But before we got two hundred yards from the home of the boy who owned the dog that little "flea" began to distinguish himself. He threw himself into the woods and began literally to tree squirrels as fast as we could shoot them out of the trees.

A few sharp "yip yipping" barks and the squirrel was treed, and when we shot it out the little dog hardly noticed it but dashed off after another squirrel. And he would simply stand and watch a rabbit run away from him and never show the least inclination to chase it.

We were in those flat post-oak woods not two hours, and we got twenty-six squirrels, and had to take the little dog by the collar at last and carry him home to make him stop hunting.

Grieved, but Polite.

Dorothy was so homesick at her first party and cried so bitterly that the hostess' mother suggested that it would be better for her to go home.

Dorothy accepted the idea, but a few minutes later, upon answering a timid ring at the door, the hostess found Dorothy bathed in tears.

"Well, Dorothy, I am glad to see you again. Did you decide to come back to us?"

"No'm'm; I forgot to say I h-b-had such a nice time!"

RIDDLES

Why is an amiable and charming girl like one letter in deep thought, another on its way towards you, another bearing a torch, and another singing psalms?

Because she is Amusing, Becoming, D-lighting, and N-chanting.

What is the difference between a ball and an organ?

One rings when it's told (toll'd), but the other will be blow'd first.

Why is love like a potato?

Because it springs from the eyes. Why are young ladies so partial to sunset and twilight?

Because they are daughters of Eve. When is a schoolmaster like a man with one eye?

When he has a vacancy for a pupil.

PECULIAR FEATURE OF VIXEN

Like Other Predacious Creatures They Do Not Disturb Game Near Breeding Haunts.

There is a very peculiar feature in connection with all predacious creatures, both furred and feathered, when breeding, and it is that they do not appear to interfere with game near their breeding haunts.

Even a vixen will leave the earth containing her cubs, pass right through rabbit feeding near, and never make an attempt to catch one; although half a mile distant she will chase down an unfortunate rabbit and return with it to her youngsters.

This habit of the fox is pointed out as a proof of the animal's cunning, and her desire to curry favor with the owners of game and poultry near her nursery, for were she to commit extensive depredations there the losses she occasioned would be resented and she and her youngsters would soon be destroyed.

However, the vixen's motive for leaving things around her earth untouched is not that with which she is credited; were she to make a clearance there little would be left for her cubs when they commence to hunt on their own account, and it is untouched for their benefit.

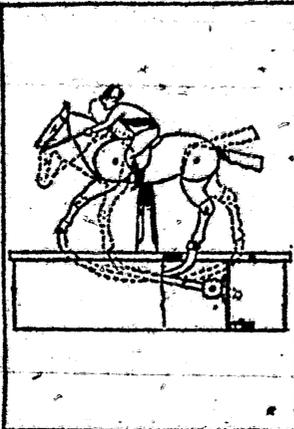

When the cubs are able to wander a little from the earth there is a speedy disappearance of the rabbits; etc., near, rendered all the more rapid because the vixen has passed among them and they have grown to ignore foxes.

The active cubs give them a rude awakening. It is the instinct of mother love which induces a vixen to reserve provender close by for her cubs.

TROTS IN LIFELIKE FASHION

Legs and Head of Beast Made to Move as Jockey Seems to Urge Him—Operated by Crank.

An amusing toy in the form of a galloping horse has been designed by a Kentucky man. It is particularly appropriate these days when mechanical toys are absorbing the youth of the land. The body of the horse is fixed to a standard rising from the case, but the forelegs and hindlegs are pivoted to the body and at their middle joints. The tail and neck are also pivoted to the body and the body of the jockey is pivoted at the hips. The horse's feet are fastened to swinging shafts that operate in the base by means of a rotatable gear. As one shaft is pushed forward the other comes backward, each carrying with it a foreleg and hindleg on the same side of the animal. The gear is operated by means of a crank and the faster the crank is turned the faster the horse trots, bobbing his head and waving his tail, while the jockey seems to urge him.

Galloping Toy Horse.

Taste in Toys.

Man's taste in toys has not changed much throughout the ages. Some of the dolls of ancient Egypt had movable arms and even strings of mud beads to represent hair. Ancient Egypt had had its toy animals, its wooden calves and porcelain elephants with riders on their backs. Jointed dolls worked by strings were favorite toys with the children of Greece and Rome, who also played with model furniture, balls and tops.

Not Long to Wait.

Little Max was so restless and fussy when his mother took him downtown that he caused her no end of bother. Finally the mother exclaimed impatiently:

"Well, young man, it will be a cold day when I bring you downtown with me again!"

Looking up into her face with perfect innocence the youngster said:

"Pretty soon it will be winter, won't it, mamma?"

Modern Childhood.

"Little boy, do you know the story of Cinderella?"

"I saw her once in a musical comedy, but the production had no plot or story to speak of."

Gathered Smiles

Far From It.

A temperance lecturer displayed to his audience two geraniums. The first, watered in the usual way, was a beautiful and vigorous plant. But the other had been dosed with alcohol, and its foliage was shriveled and sparse, its stem twisted and its vitality decayed.

"Now, ladies and gentlemen," cried the lecturer, "what can you say to a demonstration such as this?"

"It's all right and if I were a geranium," said a shabby man in the gallery, "I'd stick to water exclusively, but I'm not a geranium."

Grammar as a Burglar Alarm.

Mrs. Hubb—I allow my husband no latch key. He rings and I ask who's there; then he says: "It's I," and I open the door.

Mrs. Kawler—But suppose a thief should ring and say the same thing—you'd be in a fix.

Mrs. Hubb—Oh, a thief wouldn't answer "It's I"; he'd say: "It's me."

A Different Kind.

When William took dinner at the home of his aunt one day he greatly relished the dessert.

"What is it, Aunt Mario?" he inquired.

"Suet pudding," replied the aunt.

"That's funny," he finally observed, "all the suet we have at our house is black."

Disgraced.

Mrs. Tinkle—They say that Mrs. Neaurich is becoming more popular every day.

Mrs. Dimple—Yes, indeed, you should have seen how mortified she was a while ago when she learned that her husband owned common stock in a railroad.—Satire.

ENOUGH IN ITSELF.

Howard—Reggy is thinking—Helen—I'm glad to hear of that.

Howard—But I hadn't told you of what he was thinking.

Helen—No, but the mere knowledge that he was thinking made me glad.

Hope.

"Oh, may we hope?" the lovers say, The silly geese! Of course they may! There's nothing in life's horoscope That's half so cheap as hope, sweet hope.—Judge.

Setting an Example.

"What made you name your infant son 'John'?"

"I want to simplify the city directory. I don't believe in encouraging people to give children the kind of fancy names they give sleeping cars and apartment houses."

Compensations.

"Isn't it horrible this scientific proposition to kill idiots in their infancy?"

"All wrong, of course, but then there would be none left to rock boats."

A Theory.

"How do you suppose Steggins ever came to write me such an elaborately sarcastic letter about so slight a matter?"

"Very possibly," replied Miss Cayenne, "he has just employed a new stenographer and is trying to show off."

A Demonstration.

"What's become of the old-fashioned gentleman who used to say that he was 'seventy years young'?"

"Oh, nowadays that type of old boy doesn't say he is 'seventy years young.' He proves it by dancing the tango."

Their Business Drawback. "I wouldn't invest in real estate in an earthquake country."

"Why not?"

"Because it is all subject to ground rents."

Mean.

"He's marrying you for your money," she sneered.

"Possibly," she retorted, "if you only had a million or two somebody might propose to you some day."

AWFUL.

Mrs. Smith—Is she lacking in tact? Mrs. Jones—Why, if she had a lawyer to dinner, she'd most likely introduce the subject of theology.

The Kiss at the Gate.

"He kissed me at the gate," said she, in speaking of her lover.

"I never told of it, but he repeated it twice over."—Judge.

FAMILY SECRETS.

The case had reached a critical stage. Even the judge seemed to awaken to a live interest in the proceedings, for the most important witness was about to be cross-examined. "So you are the lady's maid?" began the relentless barrister. "Yes, sir." "And where were you at seven o'clock on the evening in question?" "I was in my lady's room, sir." "For what purpose?" "I was dressing my lady's hair, sir." The barrister leaned forward and spoke slowly and impressively. "Now, think," he said, "I want you to be very careful in answering this question: Was or was not your mistress in the room at the time?"—Argonaut.

Darkly Hinted.

Somebody was talking to a newly married couple who were spending their honeymoon at Scarborough.

"You mustn't leave Scarborough until you've seen the cemetery," he said; "it's well worth a visit!"

They said they would go, but forgot about it until too late. Then the young wife reproached her husband.

"George," she said, "you haven't taken me to the cemetery yet."

"Well, dear," was the reply, "that is a pleasure I must have in the future!"—Pearson's.

VERY THING.

Wife—You know I never have a thing to wear.

Hubby—Why don't you try to get a position to play "Salome?"

Woman.

She may lack a sense of humor. As some men seem glad to boast, But we've never known her yet to send a trick by parcel post.

Good Advice.

"My son," said the old hunter, "you are starting out to earn your living as a guide. Remember that some people will want to see bear, while others will want to see bear tracks."

"Yes, dad."

"If they're satisfied with tracks, don't try to show 'em bear."

Underestimating Himself.

"That's a valuable dog of yours."

"Yes, but he doesn't know he's a valuable dog. Look at him scratching yonder in that cheap dirt when he might as well be up the boulevard scratching in ground worth $500 a front foot."

Heard at a Party.

Hostess—Won't you sing something for us, Clara?

Young Woman (modestly)—Well, I'll try.

Hostess—Yes, do try, at any rate.

HUBBY WAS LEFT GUESSING

And at This Date He Still Is Wondering Just Who Was the Unkissed Female.

Mr. Brown issued forth from Fairbank Terrace and wended his way towards the village in an insurance agent named Dawson was holding forth.

"Do you know Fairbanks Terrace?" Several nodded assent, and Mr. Brown became more deeply interested.

"Well, believe me, gents, I've kissed every woman in that terrace except one."

Mr. Brown's face assumed a purple hue, and hurriedly quaffing his ale, he quitted the barroom. Rushing home, he burst in at the door.

"Mary," he shouted, "do you know that insurance chap Dawson?" Mary nodded assent. "Well," he continued, "I've just heard him say he's kissed every woman in this terrace except one."

Mary was silent for a moment, and then with a look of womanly curiosity said:

"I wonder which one that is."

RASH WAS MASS OF SPOTS

811½ Washington St., Salt Lake City, Utah—"I was first alarmed by an itchy feeling all over my arms and a rash of tiny spots came out. The rash was a mass of spots like measles and developed into running sores. The itching was terrible and I would scratch something awful. I tried a treatment but it availed not. I then decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After the first application the itching stopped wonderfully. The cure which followed was a marvel to me for I thought I never would get better. This was three years ago and I have as clear a skin as any one may wish. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me entirely." (Signed) Miss Kate M. Dobson, Mar. 18, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

Hunts Hares With Auto.

Sport in a new form now appeals to a New Zealand farmer. Driving in a motor car with two powerful headlights, he bags nightly between six and a dozen hares, the animals being so fascinated by the glare of the lamps that they become stationary targets.

His Idea.

"Could you call a dog's chasing of his tail an economic pursuit?"

"I don't see how."

"Isn't he trying to make both ends meet?"

A pessimist is a man who thinks that when he gets to heaven it will be a waste of time for him to look around for his earthly neighbors.

ASININITY

Two weeks ago this paper made the assertion that there seemed to be but little sentiment for the incorporation of the town of Carrizozo. We still maintain that this is a fact, in spite of the statement of our contemporary, the News, that the making of such an "assertion convicts us of an asininity." Of course it is a little rough on a Republican to be reminded that he resembles the emblem of the Democratic party but this would be all well and good if the facts justified the 'calling of such names.' How ever to convince ourselves if for no other reason that we had expressed the truth we stepped out and interviewed a representative bunch of our leading business men and property owners as we happened to meet them, just to get their opinions of Incorporation and below we give the answers we received to the interrogation "What do you think of Incorporation for the town of Carrizozo? We did not make the entire rounds of the town as it seemed a waste of time, there being sufficient conformity of opinion without going further:

Frank W. Gurney:—I am against Incorporation for Carrizozo. The tax rate here is already prohibitive and capital cannot be induced to come here until the rates of taxation are reduced. The Incorporation of the town would unquestionable increase instead of decrease the amount of taxes.

Chas. A. Stevens:—I do not think that Incorporation would be a good thing for the town at this time. Taxation is a big item in getting money interested in a town and Incorporation would increase our taxes to such an extent that they would be unbearable. There are many ways to make headway for the town without Incorporation. A water works system would be more beneficial than Incorporation at this time and this cannot come thru Incorporation successfully.

Frank J. Sager:—We know that there are many advantages to be derived from Incorporation. There also may be disadvantages and if so we want to find them out. No one would wish to incorporate if it were not for the good of the town.

George L. Ulrich:—I do not favor Incorporation for Carrizozo at this time. If the town would derive any benefits from Incorporation it would be necessary to levy such a high tax on local property that it would keep people out of the town.

Arthur J. Rolland:—"There ain't going to be any Incorporation."

Dr. F. S. Randles:—I am certainly opposed to Incorporation for Carrizozo. I can see absolutely no benefits to be derived from it and the expense would not be justified by any known return.

Ed. R. Kelley:—I think that if we can incorporate under the right 'scheme' and do so without going in the "hole" that it would be a good thing.

Wm. Kahler, Sr.:—I am against Incorporation for Carrizozo at this time. I now have about all the taxes I can pay.

John E. Bell:—I guess my views are known. I will do my work at the polls.

John B. Baird:—I do not think the town is large enough or ready to support a village Incorporation.

Ira O. Westmore: My views are that nothing can be accomplished under Incorporation other than taxing individual businesses that is not now accomplished under the present system of County Commissioners. I can see absolutely no benefits from Incorporation and it would cause if put into effect a multitude of factional feelings which we wish to avoid, and primarily the town is not yet large enough for such a government.

August Lantz:—I am not posted sufficiently to say whether the town is ready for Incorporation or not. I am opposed to an occupation tax here.

A. H. Harvey:—I am against Incorporation. I don't believe the benefits derived from Incorporation will justify the additional expenses. Taxation is already too high here.

A. C. Wingfield:—Since thinking the matter over I can see no special reason advanced for Incorporation for a town no larger than this.

And thus they all go, most of them being about like the above.

Now the reader must not interpret us to mean that we are strictly against Incorporation for this is not so. Incorporation is the proper thing and will benefit the town of course. All good citizens are for it. We are giving the above expressions merely to prove that we were not necessarily 'mildish' and when we stated that there was a sentiment against Incorporation we meant that there WAS a sentiment against Incorporation. Of course any one can call names.

The Outlook stands for the best interest of the whole town of Carrizozo whatever they may be and not for the 'individual' interests of a few. If Incorporation is what Carrizozo needs let the advocates advance some intelligent, practical reasons, and not only the Outlook but all those now opposed will be its strongest supporters.

OSCURO OBSERVINGS

Willie McCallum is working for Frank Goodin.

The Murray post office has been discontinued.

Andy May's little daughter is improving and gaining strength rapidly.

Elmer Jackson has sold his homestead to a company which intend irrigating an orchard this fall.

Mrs. Alex. McCallum and son, Arthur, will leave in a few days for Kansas City on a visit.

Mrs. R. E. Blaney left Tuesday for Chicago where she will spend the summer.

Rob Cox and family have gone to Nogal where he will rent pasture for his horses.

Frank Goodin and Tom Moody have returned from their trip to the Rio Grande.

Mr. Mooney has returned to Chicago on a business trip. Mrs. Mooney is staying with her father on his homestead north of town.

The McDonald dam just below Malaga Spring is being constructed in a workmanship like manner, and is nearing completion.

Fred Roberts has resumed his residence in town, also bargained with an Oklahoma traveler for a fine span of well mated, three year old mules.

Senator Hinkle and wife of Roswell spent the day with the latter's brother, Fred Roberts, Sunday. They are traveling through the country in their auto on a pleasure trip.

Last week lightning struck the Oscurito depot, cutting out the telegraph lines and setting the depot on fire. Mr. Burns the agent was successful in extinguishing the fire and connecting the wires. Several of Mr. Ashford's chickens were killed by the lightning.

J. W. Meyer of Chicago a capitalist was at Oscurito looking over the proposition of the Oscurito Development Association's investment of $28,000 in which he is interested. After looking over the investment he stated it was much better than he expected to find it, and that he was well pleased.

FT. STANTON NOTES.

Charles U. Babbs returned from his vacation trip last week.

We are glad to note that Dr. Lanza, who has been on the sick list, is improving.

Mrs. Minter and little boys of Glencoe were visiting with Mrs. O. F. Brockwell Monday.

The Chaplain left last Monday for Missouri and other points on his summer vacation.

Miss Ethel Phillips who has been attending the summer normal at Silver City returned home Monday on account of sickness.

Miss LaBreache and Miss Peterson two nurses who have been holding positions here at the Fort the past six months left for their homes last Monday.

Rev. Bullard and wife of Roswell spent Saturday and Sunday at the Fort. He delivered a lecture at the hall Sunday morning. Mr. and Mrs. James Darby accompanied them as far as Captain on their return home Sunday afternoon.

NOGAL NOTES

O. C. Davis has bought the Corn place in Nogal from John Adams of Carrizozo.

The post office appears to be running nicely under the care of Miss Allie Latham.

Jeremiah Dalton called in Sunday in a new buggy only large enough for two.

A fourteen thousand gallon leak has been discovered in the Watson Lake and the company propose to stop it this week.

There will be a picnic on the old barbecue grounds in Nogal on July 4, and a supper and dance at night at the hotel. There will be free lemonade for everybody.

The measles have about run their course in Nogal and school could be started again if we had a teacher. It appears that Mrs. Cox our teacher has abandoned us entirely.

POLLY PARAGRAPHS

Chas. F. Goddard returned from Denver Monday.

Walter W. Stadtman, who made final proof on his homestead here recently is taking a well-earned vacation with home folks in Oklahoma. D. L. Byron is taking care of the lumber yard during his absence.

Prospective settlers, consisting of a Mr. Williams, son and cousin, from Big Springs, Texas, have been visiting the family of J. A. Orr, of which they are old acquaintances.

Mrs. Funk and son made a pleasant trip to the Malpais Sunday.

James Byron has been constructing a fine cement tank for storage purposes at his brother's place.

Mrs. Harriet McIvera has filed on a claim near Polly. She expects to retail the improvements already on the claim, by purchase.

Mrs. Mary Orr is a faithful and earnest attendant at Institute this session.

ALVAN N. WHITE PLEASED

(From Albuquerque Journal)

That the county institutes throughout the state this summer have been more largely attended than ever before, and more successful in the work accomplished, was the statement last night of State Superintendent of Public Instruction Alvan N. White, who arrived in the city from Carrizozo. Superintendent White will be here today, visiting the Bernalillo County Teachers' institute while here. He will leave this afternoon for Santa Fe.

"During the past week I visited the county institutes of Eddy, Chaves and Lincoln counties," said Mr. White. "At each I found a large enrollment of teachers and excellent work being done. Especially was I gratified with the Lincoln county institute at Carrizozo. There forty teachers are attending. Thursday night a reception was given by the people of Carrizozo for the visiting teachers at the public school building. I was present and made a brief address. The affair was one of the most pleasing social functions that I ever attended, and everyone present certainly enjoyed the hospitality of the people of Carrizozo. Elegant refreshments were served, these including punch and cake."

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

BIBLE STUDY ON THE DELUGE EFFECT. Genesis 6:9-22; 7:1-24--Feb. 2. "For the scapes of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord."—Romans 6:23.

SCIENTIFIC Bible students find the Bible story of the Deluge corroborated by Geology, Astronomy and History. The oldest records of Babylonia tell of the Deluge. But the record compares with the Genesis account or gives a connected history of 1650 years from Adam to the Flood.

Geology demonstrates that there have been several great deluges. When we ask whence such floods could come. Astronomy points us to Saturn and Jupiter with their "rings" composed of minerals thrown off as gas when the planets were at white heat. These gases cooled and formed various rings. The rotation of the planets on their axes causes these rings to spread out as great envelopes, and gradually to thin at the equator and thicken at the poles, until they collapse, or "ing deluges."

The earth once had similar "rings," precipitated one after another, at long intervals during the Six Great Creative Days. God so timed His Plan that the last of earth's rings was still unbroken when man was created. But it had spread into a great canopy or veil. There could be neither rain nor storm under such conditions. (Genesis 2:5.) The temperature of the whole earth was equable, the sun's rays acting upon the canopy as upon the white glass of a hot-house.

SMILES

No Longer Interesting.
He had been set upon by thugs as he stepped from the ferry boat. It was his first visit in New York, and for a few moments he looked as if his first visit would be his last.
But presently he staggered along the street and met a policeman.
"What's wrong, my friend?" the kind officer inquired.
"I've been robbed of all my money," stammered the victim.
"All your money. Look again."
"It's no use. I ain't got a dollar."
Whereupon the policeman burst into tears and walked away.

Room at the Top.
Once upon a time there was a man who went a-courting, and he courted a widow. And the widow thought well of him, but behold! she refused to accept a second chance.
"But why will you not marry me?" persisted the suitor.
"I love my first poor dear husband from the bottom of my heart," wept the widow.
"But," persisted the man, "ain't there always room at the top?"

Flatness.
"Do you believe that story about the New Jersey hen that laid flat eggs?" asked the man who was leaving the restaurant.
"No," replied the cashier. "The hen never laid 'em that way. They may have tasted a little flat from being kept so long in storage."

Good Guessing.
"The blind friend whom I took to the opera, remarked that it was not a very fashionable audience present."
"How could he tell that?"
"He noticed nobody was talking during the solos."

NO CAUSE FOR COMPLAINT.

Dinks—I went fishing yesterday.
Winks—Have any luck?
Dinks—Sure; I didn't get drowned or lose any of my bait.

An Invisible Bell.
"Who is the bells tonight?" asked she, as they stood on the ball-room door. He looked around the room to see. And she speaks to him no more.
—Cape Cod Items.

Overlight.
"I'm afraid the woman suffragists are impracticable idealists, after all."
"Why?"
"When they gave a parade they tried to make it a thing of beauty instead of arming themselves as a battle brigade."

Revising the Declaration.
"All men were created equal, were they not?" asked Mr. Meekton.
"Equal among themselves," replied his wife, "but as between themselves and us, distinctly inferior."

Toussing Music.
Miss Yallerby—But Percy Moltingham kin play de moor' intoxicatin' an' heavey music on his banjo. Oh, my!
Clarence Coohley (sneeringly)—Huh! I guess ragtime am about dat nigga's limit!
Miss Yallerby (warmly)—Tid, eh? Ye' jee ought ter heak dat man gib an' inscription ob a spring chicken a-nigga' on de pan or a hungry plockanmay eatin' a watchmillin'! Talk about yo' real music!—Puck.

Should Work That Way.
"What's the matter?"
"Oh, I feel down and out. Reading about these different diseases in the Almanac gives me all the symptoms."
"Following the same reasoning, reading about the different medicines ought to make you feel well."

Recruits.
Nigger—How you had an address to your family.
Nigger—Yes, yes.
Nigger—Where?
Nigger—No—a baby boy and my wife's mother.—T.N.W.

NO TROUBLE TO REMEMBER.

"Hello! Is that the health department?"
"Yes."
"This is Snoodle—G. H. Snoodle, empty-seven Ringbone avenue. Say, when are you going to send a garbage wagon around to this neighborhood?"
"It's impossible to say, Mr. Snoodle; we are doing the very best we can."
"But, great Scott, it has been six weeks and four days since anybody in this part of town has even seen a garbage wagon!"
"How do you happen to remember so accurately, Mr. Snoodle?"
"That was the day, sir, as it happens, when I went on the water wagon, and I've been fighting the darnedest thirst you ever heard of every minute since."

SHE COULD AT LEAST.

He—So you don't think we could live on $20 per week?
She—Well, dear, I was only wondering how I could allow you anything out of it.

Why They Cannot.
Some men "can't sing the old songs"—Sometimes, perchance, you've met 'em. Because, you see, 'twixt you and me, no audience will let 'em.

When Bobbie Retired.
Bobbie had been allowed to sit up a little while after supper on condition that he keep quiet. But Bobbie had a lot of questions that he wanted to ask, and the sum of them sent him to bed.
"Papa," he began, innocently enough, "can God do everything?"
"Yes, my son, surely."
"Can he make a two-foot rule with only one end to it?"
"Don't ask such foolish questions, sonnie!"
Brief silence; then:
"Pa, is it true that a camel can go ten days without water?"
"Yes," a little wearily.
"Then, pa, how many days could he go if he had water?"
And that, of course, was Bobbie's cue to go swiftly upstairs.

Happy Pair.
"Do you know, Clara, we ought not to subscribe to the opera any more. We blind ourselves, and afterward we have to hear the same things over and over again."
"As if that were any reason! I have also bound myself, and have to hear the same thing over and over again from you."—Judge.

In Later Years.
"Tastes alter as we grow older and more experienced," remarked the lady en route for Reno.
"Yes," responded the fair one in the next chair. "I used to marry men that I wouldn't exchange photographs with now."

RECEPTION.
Brown—We reap as we sow.
Jones—I never do. I'm an amateur gardener, you know.

Especially the "Poke."
Now's when we ought to be getting 'em. And long for 'em. The Yank. M. C. Brown.

FOR SANITARY CELLAR

LIGHT AND VENTILATION ARE THE THINGS MOST IN-NEED.

No Apartment in the House is of So Much Importance as That in Which Food for the Family is Stored.

The ideal cellar should be as light and dry and clean as any room in the house. It should have windows on opposite sides, easily accessible and easily opened. Air at night in summer, as to admit air warmer than the inside air causes moisture to form and trickle down the side walls. Remember a heated house acts like a chimney, the movement of the air being from the bottom upward. If any one doubts this, let him unstopper a bottle of ether or kerosene or oil of turpentine in the cellar, then go to the top of even a six-story dwelling, and I think his sense of smell would soon convince him that there is an upward draught of no mean abilities.

Indeed, a German inventor has proved that one-half the cellar air is found in the first story, one-third in the second, one-fifth in the third, and so on, which impels us to think of the cellar as a reservoir of air for the entire house. A good coat of lime whitewash should be applied every spring. No decaying vegetables or rubbish of any kind should be stored there. The cellar bottom and sides should be preferably of concrete. Where coal is stored, it should be light and dry, as the decomposition of the sulphides in the coal goes on much more rapidly in a damp atmosphere. Sulphides cause a stench to arise. The cold-air box of furnace should be so located that the outer air admitted be as pure as possible, and it should be so constructed that through no cracks or crevices could the cellar air be admitted to the heating chamber of the furnace.

Hamburg Cakes.
Hamburger steak, one egg, salt, pepper and little onion grated; mix together, make in cakes. Fry out salt pork scraps, add a little butter to the grease, then fry your cakes in this fat until done through and brown. Remove cakes from the pan to a platter, add some water to the fat, so it will not be too rich, thicken and pour gravy over and around cakes on the platter. Flour cakes before frying.

Shad Roe in Chaffing Dish.
Parboil the shad roe in water to which one tablespoonful of vinegar, two or three cloves, and several peppercorns have been added. When ready, put into your chaffing dish a tablespoonful of butter for each shad roe and saute the roe until delicate color. If necessary add more butter and when a light brown squeeze the juice of half a lemon over them and add a teaspoonful of minced parsley.

The Hagekeeper

The perfect apple corer has a wooden handle.

White fish is, as a rule, more digestible than any meat.
Water cress salad is at its best this time of the year.
Cream taken after a meal is excellent to increase flesh.
Tomato juice will remove ink stains from fingers; so will lemon juice.
Curry is a great resource among a housekeeper's seasoning supplies.
Broiled green peppers make a delicious finishing touch to a steak.
The nutritive value of fresh herring is greatly increased by the roe or mill.
Fruits of all available kinds should make a large part of the spring dietary.

Before beginning to paper a house always see that the chimneys are clean.
Before planting garden seeds, make sure of plenty of little wooden labels.
Rinse out glass in boiling water if you wish it to have the utmost sparkle.
To make out flowers last, set them in a pail of water up to their necks over night.
Olive oil makes an excellent tonic in the spring—a teaspoonful three times daily.
To save the heels of your silk stockings, line the heels of your slippers with velvet.
When buttering sandwiches, be sure to have the butter soft enough to spread smoothly.

To Iron Shirtwaists.
Put a soft, thick cloth on a table at one corner. Lay the shirtwaist on the table with one armhole over the corner; pull the waist tight and iron it. In this way the shoulder is broadened and kept in shape. It is especially good for plaited waists.

Coated Pie Sprinkled With Nuts.
When making coated pie, add one cupful of fine ground hazel nuts or pecans. These rise to the top, and when baked, form a crust that is truly delicious.—Cook's Housekeeping.

TATTING AND CROCHET

FINE WORK THAT EVEN BEGINNER MAY FASHION.

Directions Given Here, Faithfully Followed, Will Result in Satisfaction.—Trimming is to Be Worked With Two Threads.

This trimming is worked with two threads. Commence with the semi-circle worked on the two threads; 7 double knots, 1 picot, 7 double knots, 1 picot, 7 double knots; draw the knots up rather closely together; for the first closed eye on one thread, work 3 double knots, join to the thread from the beginning of semi-circle, 7 double knots, 1 picot, 1 double knot, close; 2 double knots, join to first picot of last closed eye, 2 double knots, 2 picots each separated by 1 double knot, 2 double knots, close; on the second thread work 8 double knots. For the first of three large closed eyes, work 4 double knots, draw through picot of last closed eye; 2 double knots, 4 picots each separated by 2 double knots; 4 double knots, close; 4 double knots, draw through first picot of last closed eye; 2 double knots, 5 picots each separated by 2 double knots, 4 double knots, close; the third of the 3 closed eyes is like the first. Work 3 double knots on the second thread, then 1 closed eye like the second, and 1 like the first, except that instead of joining to the thread before semi-circle, you make a picot to join the semi-circle to. On the second thread work 7 double knots, draw through first picot of semi-circle, 7 double knots, 1 picot, 7 double knots, draw through picot at top of last closed eye, then repeat from the beginning of the row.

For the heading in crochet:
First Row.—Work 1 double into top picot of semi-circle, 9 chain, repeat.
Second Row.—One treble into a stitch, 1 chain, pass over 1 stitch, and repeat.

SQUARE EFFECT CALLED FOR

Both for Indoor and Outdoor Wear, the Gown Must Present That Appearance.

A quaint square effect is the most noticeable feature of the newest of the gowns both for indoor and outdoor wear. Whether the present tendency toward the natural form has anything to do with it is, of course, the first thing that occurs to one.

A very charming gown which illustrates this feature has a draped skirt in a light-blue color of charmeuse. This has a straight, square back, which shows scarcely any curve at the waist line. A broad, straight panel hangs from the waist, without any folds to the end of the skirt. The drape of the front of the skirt disappears under this panel at each side about two-thirds of the way from the waist.

The corage is of ivory lace over flesh-colored chiffon, and has a pointed center in front. This also disappears at the back under the panel. Little motifs of iridescent blue beads take away from the severe style of the square back. The front of the gowns is very graceful, but somehow the back cannot appeal to everybody.

Yellow Luncheon Tables.

The hostess who entertains in the most correct and formal manner now uses artificial light at her mid-day luncheons. Spring sunshine is cruelly searching to the complexion, hence the popularity of the softly shaded lights. Yellows are always in favor in the seasons of daffodils, jonquills and tulips, and a charming fancy is to set at each place a little basket filled with yellow blossoms, a large basket with the same flowers decorating the center of the table. Tall silver vases or glass vases, set at each corner of the table and filled with yellow daffodils, are a graceful decoration when the light falls from an electric over the center of the board.

New Skirts.
The dress of the near future need not necessarily be too tight, judging by Paris fashions of the moment. The newest skirts, though not full, are certainly not tight, although in the evening the pucker form is still worn, and, as the modern woman is too vain to have anything lumpy at her hips, the pucker is simply made by tightening the skirt around the waist.

DAY OF FUR COLLAR BONE

Embroidered Linen or Net Has Taken Its Place as the Sun's Rays Are Becoming Warmer.

One of the positive signs of warmer weather is the replacing of the fur collar on the coat with one of embroidered linen or net. This season shows a marked preference for the latter and many handsome designs are displayed at the needlework shops. The clever woman can duplicate these at home with little trouble or expense.

Purchase a quantity of plain white net of a proper weight; not too coarse nor too fine.
The best result is obtained when embroidering net, by stamping the design on lawn and carefully basting the net over it. The pattern will show plainly through both thicknesses of fabric, and when you have completed the entire design, cut away the lawn. This leaves the design firmly worked on the net alone.

To the scalloped edge whiffletch an edging of Irish crochet, cluny or valenciennes lace.

Two finely plaited, graduated frills are made of the net and edged with lace. These are joined to the front of the collar for the purpose of covering the revers of the coat.

This is an effective garniture for the sober-hued worsted coat, and every woman should supply her wardrobe with a collar of embroidered net.

STYLISH WRAP

Wrap of blue and gold brocade with heavy silk cord and tassels.

White Footwear.
During the coming summer white footwear is to be more fashionable than ever, and the conventional shoes for outdoor occasions will be well cut buttoned boots of white buckskin, with a moderate Cuban heel and vamp on the new long line now considered patrician and distinguished. One handsome model has the high top with fourteen buttons and lines of dainty perforated trimming of broguing in the shoe vernacular, on the toe.

The new types of piazza footwear are included. There is a colonial pump of white calfskin with a covered heel and an odd trimming of black patent leather laid under a row of perforations. The buckle is of patent leather studded with rhinestones. To the woman who adores novel effects a new white buckskin oxford will appeal. The arrangement of the buttons on alternating scallops of the white buckskin and black patent leather is a novel footwear note.

Materials and Colors in a Jumble.
Courtiers are putting all sorts of colors and materials together this season. Rattine and satin, velvet and crepe effects, linen and silk or satin, etc. A very pretty afternoon frock seen quite recently was of banana satin with a heavy collar of old blue tulle de Jony thickly beaded in scalloped. Another admired dress was of cream crepe de chine, the skirt worn with a cascade of bottle green crepe trimmed in champagne. A bordered satin afternoon wrap, the background of buff and the big flowers in vivid green and red, had a collar of green and red velvet made half length.

BEES OUT OF SUPERS

Device Shown Which Does Not Demoralize Insects.

V-shaped Arrangement With Narrow Slot at Bottom is Attached to Frame and Whole Thing Placed Near the Hive.

Last season I used a simple device in taking of one and a half tons of honey for clearing supers of bees quickly, which does not demoralize the bees in the hives, but leaves them in fine condition to defend themselves.

The drawing makes the plan clear. I used a ten-frame full-depth super, and on the under side, three-quarter-inch apart, I nailed two square sticks in the center. Then I cut two thick pieces of wrapping paper, eight inches long, which I tacked to the upper side of the super; then I brought the lower edge down and tacked it to the parallel square sticks, thus making a V-shaped arrangement with a narrow slot at the bottom.

I set this prepared super on an eight-frame super, and cleated both ends, which made it ready for use. When I am ready to take off honey I set the whole thing near the hive, remove a super and set it on the cleaner, placing a rubber-cloth over the hive if necessary. As I use loose hanging frames without spacing devices I loosen all of them with a screwdriver and slide them over toward the opposite side of the hive. Then with a head of broom corn I begin brushing the bees down without taking any frames out of the hive, pulling them over toward me as I get them clear of bees. When the bees strike the incline below they slide down and out of the slot into the eight-frame super before they can take wing, and most of them will be clustered below. There are cleats across the end of the super to furnish a grip for the hands, and I empty the bees out by lifting the super and giving it a sudden jax on the ground in front of the hive after all of the supers have been cleared of bees.

Prevents Escape of Bees.

Of course I use some smoke at the time when I begin brushing. As soon as the nearest side of the first comb is free from bees I pull it over toward me, then brush the bees from the opposite side; then go to the next one, etc.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES

Get busy with the grafting when the buds begin to swell.

Every farmer should be horticultural enough to furnish fruit for his family.

The appearance of the orchard is helped by cleaning it of dead branches.

If you have a poor seedling pear or apple tree it may be entirely made over by top grafting.

Prune a little each year, and prune sparingly. It does not pay to neglect the pruning of trees.

The young trees should be banked with earth, which will keep water from settling about them.

Probably the best results come from pruning the orchard rather vigorously every two or three years.

Time and care spent in the orchard is almost sure to pay for itself and a good rate of interest besides.

Raspberry tips from young, vigorous plants, should always be selected in preference to those of any other kind.

Wait until the ground dries out a little before planting either trees or truck. It is not well to plant in wet, soggy soil.

One of the best ways of managing raspberries is to set in rows six feet apart, and the plants two feet apart in the rows.

Be sure to mulch the newly planted trees. The hot, dry days will come, and these cost the lives of many young fruit trees that are not so protected.

Prune grape vines to maintain vigor, to produce larger and better fruit and to keep the vines within banks, also to make the cultivation and spraying easier.

Place for Drinking Vessels. Drinking vessels placed in the hen-house should be put on a shelf that is raised at least six inches from the ground, or the fowls will scratch a lot of dirt into the water.

SHEEP ARE OFTEN NEGLECTED

No Farm Animal More Capable of Adapting Itself to Different Methods of Treatment.

Too many farmers are overlooking a good opportunity by neglecting to have sheep on the farm. Men who do not like sheep must either learn to like them or keep out of the business. Men who do like them will take care of them, and when they are taken care of they are no more liable to disease than any other farm animal.

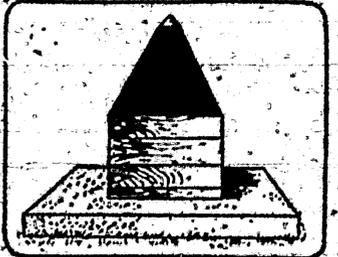

The sheep is the most modern animal in creation. By that we mean that he has left no fossil remains of his own kind or ancestry. He is a development of the last days of creation and of about the same geological age as mankind. There is no animal on the farm that is more capable of responding to different methods of treatment and adapting himself to different environments than is the sheep.

He can be bred into almost anything of the sheep kind. Long, coarse wool, or short, fine wool, horns or no horns, black or white, a big carcass for mutton, or other modifications have been produced, and all are money-makers when properly handled by the right man.

KEEPS ALL IMPURITIES OUT

Curb Platform of Cement Prevents Surface Water From Trickling Down into Well.

A well house like the one below is a guarantee that impurities will not get into a dug well. The curb is set in a cement platform. This platform is built around the curb, thus holding it solid and preventing surface water from trickling down, says the Iowa Homestead. The curb is made from matched lumber with a roof that has a sharp slope. The well wheel is hung on the center pole of the roof. The forms for the cement platforms are made from six-inch boards. The concrete is mixed half cement and half ballast. Apply three inches of concrete, then spread on a layer of hog wire. Put bent rods around all the corners. Apply the rest of the concrete. Smooth off well and let stand three days before removing forms. The well curb should have lids attached with hinges, these can be closed when the well is not in use, thus preventing dust from blowing down.

Sanitary Well Curb.

Use the Clippers.

The clipping of horses and mules in the spring is generally conceded to be beneficial. The clipped animals not only appear better and are easier cleaned, but they dry off quickly at night, get good rest and are more vigorous and thrifty.

Dairywomen now regularly clip the flanks and udders of cows every three or four weeks. It is easy to wipe off the parts then before milking and in sures clean, uncontaminated milk.

For Skin Disorder.

The following powder given each day is said to be good for skin disorder in horses: Finely powdered iodine of potash, four ounces; granulated sugar and common salt, of each one pound. Mix well together and divide into 32 powders. Feed no corn, but let the grain feed be oats and wheat bran. Use tincture of iodine on the lumps every second day until the skin becomes a little tender.

Cleanliness With Patten.

Always discard any decayed potato or other vegetable, and cut away any decayed portion, before boiling them to feed to the poultry. A hen dislikes a rotten potato as much as you do, and if forced to eat it, she is harmed thereby.

Plowing Deep.

When plowing the land for parsnips and other deep-growing root plants, plow deep and keep the manure down deep; otherwise you will have a lot of surface roots instead of the long, straight roots desired.

Lice and Brood Hens.

Dust your hens thoroughly before setting her with coarse powder. In case of head lice, rub a little lard with a few drops of carbolic acid added to it. Repeat the dusting occasionally.

Growing Turnips.

As soon as the turnips begin to show white under the mulch remove part of it, and if the weather continues warm and they are growing rapidly, it may all be taken off in a week or so.

DESIRABLE TEA TABLE

HOW CLEVER GIRL EVOLVED PRETTY ADORNMENT.

Small Initial Cost and the Expenditure of Comparatively Small Time Brought Its Reward in Something Worth Having.

A novel and most economical way to make a pretty tea party was discovered by a girl who is very clever with her wits and her fingers. She first purchased for 40 cents a large oval picture frame from a second-hand store, securing a very good bit of natural old woodwork.

Then with a bottle of stain, some sandpaper and a little varnish she polished up the wood to look like new, then screwed on two brass handles, one at each end, afterward cutting a piece of pretty cretonne the same size as the glass, and pasting it smoothly where the picture would ordinarily go.

Covering it with the boards that belong to the frame, tacked securely into place, the entire back then being covered with a piece of felt, she found herself possessed of a most fetching tea tray, which in the shops would cost from $5 to $8.

If afternoon tea sets continue to get more attractive, the services which were considered lovely a few years ago will be relegated to the nethermost corners of china closets.

All in palest green porcelain is a very dainty set comprising a teapot, sugar basin, cream pitcher and a half-dozen cups and saucers. It sets upon a square tray of green willow. Quite as dainty and only a trifle more costly, are tete-a-tete tea sets of white china banded with dark blue or red, edged with a gold vine and standing on an oblong matching tray.

Among the four-piece service are sets of another porcelain so thin that the beverage seems to color it. These sets stand upon trays of amber crystal having projecting handles of gilded metal, set with genuine rubies.

Exceedingly pretty tea sets are of silver, a teapot of silver, sugar bowl, cream pitcher and cups and saucers of silver deposit-velled white porcelain.

Baked Eggs.

Eggs are now cheap enough to appear quite frequently on the luncheon as well as breakfast bill of fare. One way of serving them, makes a particularly savory luncheon dish: Mince two or three small onions fine and brown nicely in butter; add two teaspoonfuls of cider or tarragon vinegar, a dash of pepper and quarter of a teaspoonful of salt. Butter a brown and white, or white enamel ware deep pie-dish, spread the onion over the bottom and then break six or eight eggs carefully over the mixture. Place in hot oven and when the eggs are cooked to your fancy spread over them a layer of buttered bread crumbs; let them brown quickly; garnish the dish, and serve very hot.

Sunshine Cake.

Whites of seven eggs, yolks of five, one cup sugar, two-thirds cup flour, one-third teaspoon, cream of tartar, pinch of salt, flavoring. Sift flour five times. Whip whites stiff, add sugar and beat again, adding cream of tartar. Beat yolks until light and add to above mixture. Then add flavoring and fold in flour lightly. Bake in tube pan from 35 to 50 minutes.

Rice Waffles.

Two cups of flour, two and one-half cups of boiled rice, two eggs, a tablespoon of butter and a little salt. Mix it all in a stiff batter, beat the yolks of eggs until light, add the rice and butter, then the salt and flour, next the milk, beating all the time till smooth; whip the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth, stir quickly in and bake in well-buttered waffle irons.

French Mutton Stew.

Take one and one-half pounds of neck or shoulder of mutton cut in pieces, 5 cents worth of carrots and turnips, two onions and a sprig of parsley. Brown a tablespoon of flour with about the same quantity of butter. When brown add meat, then the vegetables cut in rounds—put one slice in one of the onions—add pepper, salt and two cups of cold water. Cover tight and simmer two hours. One hour before serving add a few potatoes to the stew.

Something About Pineapple Juice.

When using pineapple in dessert that has gelatin added, do not forget that the pineapple must first be cooked on account of the digestive principle contained in the uncooked pine, which will act upon the gelatin, and your mold will be a failure.

Strained Celery Au Gratin.

Peel some Béchamel or cream sauce over the celery, sprinkle with crumbs, grated Parmesan cheese and melted butter, and bake in the oven to a nice golden color.

BRIGHT STAR IN THE RED SOX MACHINE

Steve Yerkes of Champion Boston.

Steve Yerkes, who was one of the weak spots in Jake Stahl's lineup a year ago, has vastly improved, and is now considered as one of the main cogs in the Red Sox machine.

HARTSEL ON JOHNSON EDICT

Manager of Toledo Club Says It is Ridiculous to Think Ball Player Can Write.

The recent edict of Ban Johnson forbidding players to act in the capacity of reporters or critics of baseball may cause some dissatisfaction, but the rank and file of the army of baseball players join in the declaration that Ban made just one more wise move.

"Topsy" Hartsel, the blond-domed manager of the Toledo club, was commenting on Ban's verdict: "The line of stuff written by ball players in

He created much ill-feeling. We were forced to completely reorganize our signal system. Christy Mathewson's articles during the past winter were, as a rule, sensational, but for the most part untrue, and likewise often unjust and injurious to other players.

"There's no doubt in my mind but that the criticism of the New York Giants in stories signed by the various members of the club has seriously affected the work of the club in the last two world's series.

"As I said before, a player isn't qualified to write a fair, unbiased opinion. I feel firmly convinced that the game would eventually suffer a tremendous wrong, because of the growth of the writing habit, but for the act of Mr. Johnson."

"Topsy" Hartsel.

the past," said Topsy. "I'd no one any good except themselves and did much harm for a host of other players and for the game itself.

"In the first place it is ridiculous to insinuate that a player can write, as it is that a writer can play.

"In the second place, 85 per cent of the articles over which appeared the names of ball players never were written by players.

"In the third place the player has not the judgment nor the power of discrimination. His lack of experience prevents him from looking at the future results.

"A magazine article written by Eddie Collins a few years ago created havoc with the Athletics. Collins revealed the entire system of the club.

NOTICE OF CONTEST
Department of the Interior,
United States Land Office, Roswell, N. M.
May 24, 1913

To Heirs of Jesuita Gonzales de Sanchez, deceased, late of Lincoln County, New Mexico, Contestee:

You are hereby notified that Jorge Chavez, who gives Tinnie, Lincoln County, New Mexico, as his postoffice address, did on May 17, 1913, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your Homestead Entry No. 8931, Serial No. 010875 made August 23, 1903 for the SE 1/4 Sec. 10, T. 14 N. 1. E. and NE 1/4 Sec. 15, Township 11 South, Range 17 East, N. 1. P. Meridian, and as grounds for his contest he alleges that Jesuita Gonzales de Sanchez died in 1907 and left surviving her, Francisco Sanchez, Amada Sanchez, Ramunda Sanchez, Bieta Sanchez, Donaciano Sanchez, Jose Manuel Sanchez, Telesforo M. de Sanchez, Cornelia Pacheco de Sanchez, Este Sanchez, Rosario Sanchez, Valentin Sanchez, Preciano Sanchez, Felipe Sanchez, Aurelio Sanchez, Esteban Sanchez, Blauteria Sanchez, and Daniel Sanchez, if any other heirs, they are unknown to applicant, that said entrywoman never made settlement on said land, and that her heirs have never resided upon, cultivated or improved said land since the death of said entrywoman.

You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken by this office as having been contested by you, and your said entry will be canceled thereunder without your further right to be heard therein, either before this office or an appeal, if you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the FOURTH publication of this notice, as shown below, your answer, under oath, specifically meeting and responding to these allegations of contest, or if you fail within that time to file in this office due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail. If this service is made by the delivery of a copy of your answer to the contestant in person, proof of such service must be either the said contestant's written acknowledgment of his receipt of the copy, showing the date of its receipt, or the affidavit of the person by whom the delivery was made stating when and where the copy was delivered; if made by registered mail, proof of such service must consist of the affidavit of the person by whom the copy was mailed stating when and the post office to which it was mailed, and this affidavit must be accompanied by the postmaster's receipt for the letter.

You should state in your answer the name of the post office to which you desire future notices to be sent to you.

Office of
COMMISSIONER OF PUBLIC LANDS
STATE OF NEW MEXICO.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION

Lease of Public Lands

Santa Fe, N. M., April 5th, 1913.

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to the provisions of an Act of Congress approved June 20, 1910, the laws of the State of New Mexico, and the rules and regulations of the State of New Mexico, the Commissioner of Public Lands will offer at public auction, to the highest bidder, at 10 o'clock a. m., on the 23rd day of June, 1913, in the town of Carrizozo, county of Lincoln, State of New Mexico, in front of the Court House therein, for a lease for the term of ten years, the following described tracts of land, viz: All of sections twenty-nine (29) thirty-two (32) and the east half of section thirty-one (31), Township eight (8) south of range fifteen (15) east, N. M. P. M., containing sixteen hundred (1,600) acres, more or less, according to the government survey thereof, and subject to the conditions and reservations made by law and those contained herein. No bid will be accepted or considered for less than five cents per annum.

The above auction of leasehold will be held subject to the following terms and conditions, viz: The successful bidder must pay the Commissioner of Public Lands, or his agent holding such sale one year's rental in advance, the fees for advertising and all costs incidental to the lease herein and such amounts must be deposited in cash or certified exchange at the time of auction, and which said amounts and all of them are subject to forfeiture to the State of New Mexico if the successful bidder does not execute a lease within thirty days after it has been mailed to him by the State Land Office, said contract to be in the form issued by the State Land Office and calling for a ten years lease, with the annual rental thereon paid in advance on October 1st of each year, additional payments other than the one paid herein, to be evidenced by promissory notes signed by the successful bidder and two other persons satisfactory to the Commissioner, and such other conditions, obligations, reservations and terms as may be required by law. The lands described herein will be offered in their entirety and the Commissioner of Public Lands, or his agent holding such sale, reserves the right to reject any and all offers made.

Witness my hand and the official seal of the State Land Office this 5th day of April, 1913.

The YELLOW LETTER

BY WILLIAM JOHNSTON
Illustrations BY V. L. BARNES

Copyright 1911, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.
SYNOPSIS.

Harding Kent calls on Louise Farris to propose marriage and finds the house in great excitement over the attempted suicide of her sister Katharine. Kent starts an investigation and finds that Hugh Crandall, suitor for Katharine, who had been forbidden the house by General Farris, had talked with Katharine over the telephone just before she shot herself. A torn piece of yellow paper is found, at sight of which General Farris is stricken with paralysis. Kent discovers that Crandall has left town hurriedly. Andrew Elser, an aged banker, commits suicide about the same time as Katharine attempted her life. A yellow envelope is found in Elser's room. Post Office Inspector Davis, Kent's friend, takes up the case. Kent is convinced that Crandall is at the bottom of the mystery. Katharine's strange outcry puzzles the detectives. Kent and Davis search Crandall's room and find an address, Lock Box 17, Ardway, N. Y. Kent goes to Ardway to investigate and becomes suspicious of a "Henry Cook." A woman commits suicide at the Ardway Hotel. A yellow letter also figures in this case. Kent calls Louise on the phone, distant telephone and finds that she had just been called by Crandall from the same booth. "Cook" disappears. The Ardway postmaster is missing. Inspector Davis arrives at Ardway and takes up the investigation. He finds the body of the dead woman is Sarah Sackett of Bridgeport. Louise telephones Kent imploring him to drop the investigation. Kent returns to New York to get an explanation from Louise. He finds the body of a woman in Central Park and more yellow letters. He sees Crandall, whom he recognizes as "Cook," enter the Farris home. Louise again implores Kent to drop the investigation and returns to her home. Later Kent sees Crandall and Louise in an automobile. Kent returns to Ardway. Davis announces that he has planned to arrest the missing postmaster and also the man who was seen talking to the criminals. Kent comes across Louise and Crandall. Pursued by Davis the postmaster jumps off a precipice and is killed. Aleck Young, the master criminal, is found in a hut in a morphia stupor.

CHAPTER XIII.

The Strange Vigil.

Dawn found Inspector Davis and me keeping strange vigil in the deserted cottage. Louise was gone. Crandall was gone. Constable Dodds was gone. Only the two of us were there, and on a rude couch in the corner, inert, unconscious with the death-like stupor of the confirmed user of morphia, lay the wreck of a man whom Davis had termed the master criminal.

On the inspector's return from his pursuit of the postmaster he had at once assumed the position of director-general of the little group at the cottage. He had decreed that Crandall should take Louise back to town in the automobile as soon as she was able to travel.

"After she has had an hour's rest here," he said authoritatively, "her nerves will have recovered sufficiently. It is important that the wound in her arm should be dressed as quickly as possible. It will be well, too, for her to return as speedily as possible to her father and sister. Her continued absence, if it reaches their ears, will needlessly alarm them both. You, Mr. Crandall, will take her back in the machine in which you came, of course."

"Certainly," said Crandall—overeagerly, I thought—"but, if you will pardon me for asking, who are you?"

For reply Davis handed him his card which bore his official title.

"But," stammered Crandall, "I don't understand you. What are you doing out here?"

"I'm here," said the inspector, "in fancy on the same mission that brought both you and Kent here—to find the sender of the yellow letters that have been menacing the peace and happiness of the house of Farris."

"But," protested Crandall again, "how did you know it was Aleck Young?"

"So you know him?" said the inspector, with a note of inquiry in his voice. I had been taking no part in the conversation that was carried on. I was sitting with Louise's head pillowed on my knees endeavoring with my handkerchief to staunch the slight flow of blood that was still coming from the bullet wound. I had been strongly tempted to voice a protest, when I heard Davis arrange for Louise's return in the automobile with Crandall, for while Davis seemed to think he, like ourselves, had been in pursuit of the criminal, I still believed it was for the purpose of warning them instead of capturing them. Yet, on the other hand, I knew nothing about running a car. It was clearly out of the question for me to take Louise back, much as I distrusted Crandall. Anxiously I waited for his recollection of acquaintance with the man in the hut.

"Yes, I knew him—only too well," said Crandall.

"Tell me about him," said the inspector. "But wait—let us carry Miss Farris inside the cottage where she will be sheltered from the night air and you are ready to start."

"I can walk," said Louise. "In fact, I think I was more frightened than hurt."

I helped her to her feet and assisted her into the cottage, while I piled some cushions that were lying about and made her comfortable. The noise of our entrance made no impression on the drug-stupified man who lay on the other side of the room, but Davis and Crandall crossed to where he lay and examined him closely.

"He will not wake for several hours," said Davis after feeling his pulse. "Kent and I will stay here until then. You, Mr. Crandall, will take Miss Farris home, and you, Dodds, as soon as it's daylight, had better go look for Rouser's body."

"I don't have to look for it," said the constable with a shudder. "I know just where it is. It's a long ways round by the road, though."

"Take the backboard," said Davis, "and when you reach the body go through all the pockets carefully and bring me everything you find. You'd better not take the body back to Ardway yet. Is there some place else you can take it?"

"Sure," said Dodds. "I can take it over to Millersville. It's just about as far in the other direction. But what in the land's sake I'll tell about it, gets me."

"That's easy," said the inspector. "You can explain that you were driving over there and as you came by you saw the body lying on the road. You can explain that he must have fallen over the cliff in the dark. By the time they get through talking about it and having an inquest over in Millersville we will have had a chance to finish any more investigating we want to do. You can start about dawn."

"All right," said the constable, "but what will I do with them warrants?"

"Leave them with me. After you have disposed of Rouser's body you can stop on your way back and we'll take this one in with us. Come on outside, Dodds, and you, too, Crandall, I want to ask you some questions about our friend over there. You, Kent, stay here with Miss Farris."

The three of them went out, leaving Louise and me alone together, a circumstance that I couldn't doubt that Davis had planned, realizing that there was much we would say to each other. Hardly were they out of the door before Louise turned to me, with suppliant arms, and cried out, with a sob in her voice: "Harding, forgive me for having deceived you."

"It is you," I cried, "you, who must forgive me for having disobeyed your wish, for having come out here after you had asked me not to, for having almost put a bullet through your dear heart."

"You didn't know—you couldn't know that I was here," she sobbed. "But how can you ever pardon the lies I told you?"

"Lies," I protested. "Dear girl, you never lied to me. Whatever these dear lips have said, I know, I always knew your heart was true."

"Katharine asked it and I had to promise her."

"You mean about Hugh Crandall?"

"Yes," she breathed. "I don't know yet what it is that is between them. It's something about—about my father. Crandall knew it and Katharine found it out. Whatever it is, they determined to keep it secret between them." Katharine made me promise that I would tell no one, not even you. She swore me not to reveal to anyone that I had even seen Hugh Crandall. I had to promise her, you understand, don't you?"

My answer was a kiss full on her lips, while my arms went about her and held her tight to me.

"Of course, dear girl," I breathed, "I understand. I understood all the while."

"I was so afraid," she murmured, "afraid you would think I was deceiving you, that I didn't love you."

As our lips met in a long, sweet kiss, a wave of joy swept over me that all but obliterated thoughts of the dreadful yellow letter. I forgot for the moment the drug-sodden creature lying in the corner, not twenty feet away from us.

The spell was broken by a slight twitching of the man across the room. We came to ourselves with a start as from a dream. I went over to his side and looked at him. He was still dead to all around him.

"You understand, Harding, dear, don't you?" said Louise, as I resumed my place beside her. "Why I asked you to drop your search? As soon as Katharine became conscious and I told her that you were on the trail of the yellow letter, she became greatly excited. She insisted that I should make you withdraw at once. She was determined to know all about what you had done, and I told her of your being here in Ardway. She, weak and ill as she was, made me swear that I would recall you by telephone. She wanted me to telephone to Hugh Crandall, too, but I did not know how to reach him. I had to promise her everything she asked."

"Of course you did," I said. "But, dear, I loved you so that I could not rest while this terrible mystery that hung over your dear ones was unsolved. I felt that it was my duty to disregard your wish. I realized that you were being compelled by some influence you could not withstand to act as you did. You are not angry with me, are you, dearest?"

"Of course I'm not," she said with a wan smile, patting my hand gently. "But tell me," I asked, "what of Hugh Crandall? What is his connection with this dreadful mystery?"

"I don't know," she answered thoughtfully.

"I have thought all along that he had something to do with it, and you saw just now that he admitted knowing this man here whom the inspector insists is at the root of everything."

"Katharine trusts him, yet I know my father for some reason forbade him the house."

"I'm sure he is guilty," I cried. "Katharine's eyes have been blinded by love to his real character."

"I think you must be mistaken," said Louise. "He knows about the existence of a paper that gave someone a strange hold on my father. Katharine knew of it, too. He may have told her. She insisted on my accompanying him out here to try to help recover it."

"Didn't he tell you about it on the way out?"

"No. I asked him what it was. He told me that too many people knew its contents now. The more I think about it the more perplexed I am about the mysterious manner in which both he and Katharine acted about this document."

"Tell me everything," I insisted, all my suspicion against Crandall returning anew.

"To begin with, he insisted on our leaving the chauffeur in Newark, though it had been my intention to have him come with us. Crandall would not hear of it. 'Katharine put you in my charge,' he said, 'and it is her wish as well as my own that we take every precaution for secrecy. It is better that only you and I go on this mission. We want no servant gossiping about this matter.' 'But where are we going, and why?' I asked him. 'Surely I have a right to know that.' 'We are going to try to recover from the hands of the wickedest blackguard on earth a certain document that has come into his possession. It is a question whether or not we shall succeed. If we do, I shall put this document in your hands and you must promise that it shall not go out of your possession until you have placed it in your sister's hands. You must promise me, too, that you will ask no questions about it and that you will not read it. When Katharine was what he meant and he would not answer me. The only thing he did tell me was that there had been strange developments in the case since he had undertaken to get this paper for Katharine. They seemed to puzzle him greatly. He said that something with which he had nothing to do had alarmed the man we were going to see and that he had disappeared, gone into hiding."

"How will we find him?" I asked.

"He is as anxious to see me as he is not to see some one else," Crandall told me. "He wrote me plain directions how to reach a place he calls the deserted cottage, and made an appointment there for nine o'clock tonight."

"Why?" I asked Louise, "do you suppose that he and Katharine insisted on your coming out here? Why could not Crandall himself have recovered the document and restored it to Katharine?"

"I asked him that. He told me that the man who held it had made the condition that it should be received by either my father or Katharine. They did not wish it known that my father had happened, and as they were certain this man knew neither Katharine nor me, I was to go with him and impersonate my sister."

"Did you get the document?"

"No, we failed," said Louise, "and I do not know what in the world I am to tell Katharine. We came out here in the afternoon. Crandall thought it advisable to find the place by daylight. We ran the automobile up the lane that leads to this place and crept through the thicket until we came in sight of the cottage. There were two men moving about in the cottage. Young and another man whom Mr. Crandall told me was the postmaster at Ardway. He seemed surprised at the presence of the postmaster. We watched for half an hour and then took the automobile back to a little hotel about three miles away from Ardway. For some reason, Mr. Crandall did not want to stop in Ardway."

"I guess I was the reason," I replied. "But when did you return here?"

"We had dinner at the little hotel, and as soon as it was dark, started back for the cottage. When we arrived we found a light in the window and saw Young there in a stupor just as you see him. The other man was nowhere around. After trying to awaken Young, without success, Mr. Crandall searched his clothes, but there was nothing in any of his pockets. He even felt all the seams, and took off his shoes in search of the paper we wanted, but it was nowhere on him. He ransacked the cottage as well as was possible in this dim light, but could not find any suggestion of a hiding-place. Out in the little shed that serves as a kitchen he found a slip on which was written a list of eatables—bread, milk, eggs and such things. We decided from this that the other man—Rouser, I think Mr. Crandall had said his name was—had gone to some neighboring farm-house or store to lay in supplies and probably would soon return. Mr. Crandall suggested our hiding in the bushes until his arrival, and we did so. We had hardly taken our place behind the bushes before we heard him coming. Mr. Crandall stepped out, and the rest is so mixed up I don't know just what happened. I heard shots and felt a pain in my arm and I think I screamed and then I don't remember any more until I found you bending over me."

"To think that it was my bullet that hit you!" I cried. "I might have killed you."

"It's only the lightest sort of scratch," she protested. "It doesn't even hurt any more. It does not bother me half so much as to know how to tell Katharine that we failed in our mission."

"Tell her," said I, "that one of the conspirators is dead and that the other is safe in the hands of Inspector Davis and myself. Tell her that any document either of us finds that in any way relates to her father will be placed in her hands at once. Tell her that I will not leave the prisoner's side until I have it safe and that my honor is pledged both for Davis and myself that no word affecting her father will ever become public. Crandall is out there now talking with Davis, and I think you will find that he, too, will tell her the same thing."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

"Lies," I protested. "Dear Girl, You Never Lied to Me."

has seen it, do with it whatever she tells you. She probably will say that you are to burn it without reading."

"Can't you see, Harding, what a dilemma I was in? I felt that what Mr. Crandall asked me to do was Katharine's wish. They had talked together for nearly half an hour just before you came to the house. I had to promise what he asked, though I protested first. It seemed to me that carrying back the document to Katharine would excite her and retard her recovery, and I told him so."

"The sight of that document safe in her own hands will do more to cure her speedily than all the doctors in the world," he answered.

"Did he mean the yellow letter?" I queried.

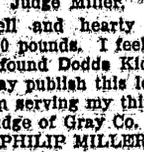

"I don't know. I asked him if that

Naturally indignant.

"Did you tell your troubles to a policeman?" "Yes," said the man who had been robbed. "And I tell you that policeman was indignant. The hold-up man hadn't even asked his permission to operate on his beat."

JUDGE CURED HEART TROUBLE.

I took about 6 boxes of Dodds Kidney Pills for Heart Trouble from which I had suffered for 5 years. I had dizzy spells, my eyes puffed, my breath was short and I had chills and backache. I took the pills about a year ago and have had no return of the palpitations. Am now 63 years old, able to do lots of manual labor, am well and hearty and weigh about 200 pounds. I feel very grateful that I found Dodds Kidney Pills and you may publish this letter if you wish. I am serving my third term as Probate Judge of Gray Co., Yours truly,

German Princes' Wanderjahr.

The prince of Wales might possibly enjoy his German trip still better if he could view the country in the unconventional way followed by the German crown prince and his brothers. Like all the Hohenzollerns, the Kaiser's sons were taught trades, and their father also allowed them to taste the delights of the "wanderjahr," which still forms part of the education of most German artisans.

In the case of the young princes the year was split up over several successive summer holidays, which they spent tramping through Germany, knapsack on back, and sleeping at roadside inns. They traveled without a servant, accompanied only by their military governor, Colonel von Falkenheyn, and were scarcely ever recognized.

How to Acquire More Self-Control.

To acquire more self control and confidence perhaps the best step is to make yourself face disagreeable tasks with courage.

Do not be easily routed when you have determined on a course of action. Perhaps the most disagreeable thing one meets in the course of a business day is the occasion for tactful yielding what one desires to say, to be agreeable to people who do not appeal to us, to give a pleasant answer when we are more inclined to give a curt one—in brief, to act according to the dictates of conscience on any and every occasion.

Every time a small man is called upon to lay a corner stone he cackles.

HER "BEST FRIEND"

A Woman Thus Speaks of Postum.

We usually consider our best friends those who treat us best. Some persons think coffee a real friend, but watch it carefully awhile and observe that it is one of the meanest of all enemies, for it stabs one while professing friendship.

Coffee contains a poisonous drug—caffeine—which injures the delicate nervous system and frequently sets up disease in one or more organs of the body, if its use is persisted in. "I had heart palpitation and nervousness for four years and the doctor told me the trouble was caused by coffee. He advised me to leave it off, but I thought I could not," writes a Wis. lady.

"On the advice of a friend I tried Postum and it so satisfied me I did not care for coffee after a few days' trial of Postum.

"As weeks went by and I continued to use Postum my weight increased from 98 to 118 pounds, and the heart trouble left me. I have used it a year now and am stronger than I ever was. I can handle up stairs without any heart palpitation, and I am free from nervousness.

"My children are very fond of Postum and it agrees with them. My sister liked it when she drank it at my house; now she has Postum at home and has become very fond of it. You may use my name if you wish, as I am not ashamed of praising my best friend—Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum now comes in new concentrated form called Instant Postum. It is regular Postum, so processed at the factory that only the soluble portions are retained.

A spoonful of Instant Postum with hot water, and sugar and cream to taste, produces instantly a delicious beverage.

Write for the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

Chances for the Student

No Reason Why Their Opportunities Should Not Be Extended in Many Directions.

We have student mechanics in all the large factories and student miners in all the great mines. There are student trainmen on all the trains and student superintendents in all the offices.

Soon we shall have student senators in the senate and student representatives in the house. A student judge will sit on every bench and student attorneys will assist every lawyer.

Student social learners will attend every function and student soldiers will accompany the troops. The White House will have to be enlarged to make room for about 1,000,000 student presidents, for nearly every mother in the United States will want to send her son to the White House to learn how to be president.

Student brides and student grooms will attend every wedding ceremony and student ministers will accompany the minister on his parochial calls.

It might be interesting to know just what a student lover's privilege would be, but there is no doubt that a few young ones are sadly needed by some widowed persons.

Student poets would with advantage learn the gentle art of standing off the headlady and student bill collectors would find it advantageous to learn how best to lead at the bottom of the stairs.—Chicago News

GOOD AS INSECTICIDE

Tobacco Is Excellent for Use Against Insect Pests.

May Be Used Indoors and in the Open Air With Profitable Results—For Plant Lice It Has Proved Very Effective.

(By H. GARMAN.)

It is not generally recognized as it should be that we have in tobacco a splendid insecticide for use against some of the most troublesome soft-bodied insect pests. For plant lice it has proved very effective, and being harmless to plants, can often be employed where poisons are out of the question.

A pound and a half of tobacco stems in a wooden bucket with boiling water poured over them and left over night, make a good preparation for use about the house on flowers and other ornamentals infested with aphides.

A Branch of Lettuce Grown in a Conservatory Watered by Under-Drainage to Prevent rot, and Fumigated With Tobacco Extract—Completely Free From Both Rot and Aphides.

Manufactured tobacco extracts with a known percentage of nicotine are on the market, and are more certain in their effect because of the possibility of making up each time a definite solution. One such extract which contains about three per cent. of nicotine has proved effective as a spray for aphides when used one part in seventy of water. This may be employed instead of the stems against the Grape Phylloxera on the roots of vines, and the woolly aphid on the trunks and roots of apple trees.

Concentrated extracts (40 per cent.) of tobacco have proved especially good for the writer for the destruction of aphides in the conservatory. At times when the whole house was occupied with plants, some of them very tender and others under experiment, such as to preclude the use of a spray, concentrated tobacco extract fumes have proved most satisfactory in clearing all plants of the insects. The dose used by us recently for a section of a house containing 3,398 cubic feet is four fluid ounces of nicotine and eight ounces of water. Pieces of iron are heated red-hot and with tongs are dropped into the fluid in a large pan or kettle. The door is closed and the fumes left over night.

A smudge made by burning tobacco stems is often employed by florists as a means of ridding hothouses of plant lice, but has not proved as effective in my hands as the vapor. The smoke leaves a recognizable tobacco odor on rose petals which is a further objection to it.

Sheets of paper, which have been saturated with strong extracts are sold for use in fumigating hothouses, and are more convenient and certain than the stems, if properly prepared.

Helping Orchards.

Go carefully over your orchards. Where any trees appear to be making poor progress, try the plan of "feeding" at the first opportunity. Perhaps lime would aid them.

Improving Lettuce.

Some gardeners greatly improve their lettuce, Swiss chard and spinach by growing them under a canopy of cheese cloth, held about five feet above the ground by stakes or a light frame.

Easy to Raise.

Blackberries and raspberries will thrive on almost any soil and under a variety of conditions. It is comparatively easy to propagate them, so there is little excuse left for not having a small garden patch of this fine fruit.

Steady Work for Horses.

Grain, hay and help are all very high just now and this combination forms one good reason why farm work teams should have steady work on the farm every day when the weather is favorable for them to be out.

Oats as Hog Food.

Oats as a hog food have never been very popular for two reasons. First, the price is usually too high; and, second, the feeding value is not so great per pound for hogs as that of corn.

The horses that have been idle the greater part of the winter should be put to work gradually in the spring, and in the end they will be better able to do all that may be required of them.

EXCELLENT FOR HORSE FEED

Pennsylvania Station Finds Silage Good Ration, Economic in Character and Wholesome.

Silage is an excellent ration for horses, economic in character and wholesome in use. The Pennsylvania station gives the results of horse feeding in a test where silage was compared with hay and other forage.

"The horse fed silage as a portion of their ration consumed less grain, made their gains at a lesser cost per pound, were sleeker and better finished than those fed on rations not containing silage."

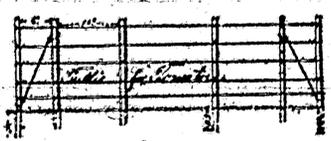

In this test they noted that silage could be fed in amounts varying from five to twenty pounds per day. They recommended silage free from mold and made from corn fairly well matured. They also advised against feeding horses large quantities of silage, especially after coming in from heavy work when they are in a heated condition.

The Michigan Experiment Station has been feeding horses for many years on silage and favors its use, especially for horses not at heavy work. In a test made some years ago with seven teams of work horses, one horse of each team was fed hay and grain, while the other received small amounts of hay and grain with about fifteen pounds of corn silage. These teams were doing moderate work. The experiment lasted twelve weeks and the following results were noted: The silage-fed horses showed an average gain of five pounds per head. Besides the increase in body weight the driver noted that the silage fed horses worked fully as well and did not appear to be any softer than those not receiving silage. The silage-fed horses showed a better finish and sleeker coats.

GOOD TRELIS FOR TOMATOES

One Can Be Put Together by Using Discarded Telephone Wires and Few Strong Stakes.

I use one by four inch pieces, plank eight feet long. One end sharpened and driven in the ground, in a perfect straight line. The wires are discarded telephone wires, No. 14 or 15 the size of wire used here. These I can get at junk prices, about 25 cents per 100 pounds. The stake second from the end should be set in the ground about two feet as there is considerable strain on it when the tomato vines are laden with fruit. The method of bracing is shown in the pen-sketch. The end stake should also be set deep enough that it will not be pulled out by the weight of the vines and fruit. The wires should be well stapled to the stakes.

The second stake is set five feet from the first one. The others are set ten or twelve feet apart.

GENERAL FARM NOTES

Try the most promising new varieties of vegetables, but don't rely on them.

Don't forget to have a row of sunflowers; the seeds are excellent for poultry.

Sow the Queen onion thickly for picklers. The little white bulbs are very attractive.

When short of room, train squash vines on trellises or wire fence; they are good climbers.

For the land's sake and the improvement of the ration grow plenty of clover and alfalfa.

Plan cucumbers in level rows; in dry seasons they do better than when grown in elevated beds.

Nitrogen is gathered from the air by the clover, and deposited in the soil; a gain in humus results.

Fertile, barnyard manure and crop rotation are old subjects, but of vital import to thousands of farmers.

Wire fences grounded at about every fifth post will be practically proof against harm by lightning.

A row of gladioli along the edge of the kitchen garden is a thing of beauty and a joy to the farmer's wife.

A dipper of very warm water turned over cabbage heads several times during the season, will destroy cabbage worms.

Clover is the pivot about which a good rotation hinges. Corn is scarcely second in importance. The grains are third.

Be careful in the adjustment of seed drills. Too heavy seeding causes heavy and unnecessary expense in thinning.

The Soy-bean is becoming more popular in northern districts. Many vegetable growers could use it to advantage as a soil improvement crop.

BALKAN WAR BEGAN IN 1663

Conflict of Races Started Long Ago, Seems Destined Now to Be Fought to a Finish.

An Italian newspaper reminds us usefully that the Balkan war began centuries ago. In the state archives of Vienna is the declaration of war sent by Sultan Mehmet IV. to Emperor Leopold in 1682. "Be it known to you, the heir of the Caesars, to the king of Poland, and to your allies and omnipotent emperor of the east and west. . . . is on the point of invading your paltry territories. We shall bring 1,300,000 soldiers, on horse and foot, to crush you utterly and lay waste all your domains. We command you to await our coming in your residence in Vienna, where it is our intention to have you beheaded."

But the war was even then an old story. The delightful writer who contributes "The Office Window" to the London Daily Chronicle tells us that while searching through some of the earliest newspapers printed his eye was continually diverted to news letters from the continent giving accounts of the unholy war which Turkey was waging on Hungary and Austria. Almost at random he copies the following from the News of September 17, 1663, a grim reminder that the Turk has remained unchanged and unchangeable for these 250 years at least:

"Vienna, Sept. 6.—In Austria every Fifth Man is to Bear Arms; and they hope to raise 20,000 Men upon that Levy to secure the Frontiers. At this instant comes fresh Intelligence of 10,000 Turks, and as many Tartars, passing the Waagh, and that they carry all before them with Fire and Sword."

And again: "We hear that upon the third instant the Enemy has beaten our Foot by the River Waagh, and Possessed himself of the narrow Passages between the Hills, where he has burnt divers Towns and Villages, and Massacred many Thousands of People, striking off the heads of some, putting others in Chains . . . and cutting to pieces Young and Old without Distinction or Mercy."

Electricity and Plant Life.

The theory has been advanced and backed up by experiments which are at least interesting, that pointed leaves standing up at the top of growing plants attract electricity from the atmosphere and that such electric forces aid materially in the growth of plants so equipped by nature. One investigator, R. E. Dimick of Almena, Wis., reports that vegetables which were well cultivated have shown a smaller growth than the normal when they had pointed wires stuck up among them to act like lightning rods in drawing off the electricity which Mr. Dimick believes to be attracted by points and needful to plant life.

Important to Mothers.

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the Signature of W. D. Fletcher In Use For Over 30 Years. Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria.

Not a Bad Case.

"So that is your avuncular relation." "He was; but the new doctor was not, cured him."

Intelligent Dutch Cows.

"Cattle unaccompanied by a drover are forbidden to cross this bridge," runs the inscription on a signpost near Haarlem, Holland.

Suspicion.

"Your artist son, sir, has a very effective touch."

"How much did you lend him?" "Smile on wash day. That's when you see Red Cross Bag Blue. Clothes whiter than snow. All grocers. Adv."

When a woman can arrive at satisfactory conclusions without expressing them, that is wisdom.

After Long Suffering

Women Are Constantly Being Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Worth mountains of gold," says one woman. Another says, "I would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all the other medicines for women in the world." Still another writes, "I should like to have the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound thrown on the sky with a searchlight so that all suffering women could read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their ills."

We could fill a newspaper ten times the size of this with such quotations taken from the letters we have received from grateful women whose health has been restored and suffering banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such a universal success? Why has it lived and thrived and kept on doing its glorious work among the sick women of the world for more than 30 years?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has ever approached its success is plainly and simply because there is no other medicine so good for women's ills.

Here are two letters that just came to the writer's desk—only two of thousands, but both tell a comforting story to every suffering woman who will read them—and be guided by them.

FROM MRS. D. H. BROWN.

Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken 12 bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. D. H. Brown, 803 North Walnut Street, Iola, Kan.

MRS. WILLIAMS SAYS:

Elkhart, Ind.—"I suffered for 14 years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanitive Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me."—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 435 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.
