COUNTY S. S. MEETING

The Lincoln County Sunday School Association will meet here tomorrow

2 SESSIONS AT M. E. CHURCH

The Lincoln County Sunday School Association will hold a two days' sessions here commencing tomorrow evening, at the M. E. church.

Rev. W. C. Merritt, Field Secretary of the International Sunday School Association will be here for both sessions.

On Saturday evening Prof. McCurdy, principal of the local schools will read a paper as will Mrs. Jewett, teacher in the local school, both of which will be interesting it is assured. Both the Saturday and Sunday evening sessions open at seven o'clock.

On Sunday evening the Rev. W. C. Merritt and the local pastor, Rev. Hendrix, will address the attendance.

Invitations have been sent out to the various Sunday schools of the county and it is hoped to have some outside attendance. All of the local people are urged to be present.

COUNTY SCHOOL NOTES

W. P. Robinson of Roswell is the successor of S. C. Burnett at Ancho. Pleasant and Lincoln are already preparing for Christmas.

A sewing class for the girls has been started by Miss Wells at the Glencoe school.

The new school house at Galibus is being occupied. The central position of this building will make the enrollment larger.

Miss Tickner will take an exhibit to the state association of raffia work done by the pupils of the Rabenton school.

School Supt. Mrs. Gumm visited the schools at Corona and Gallinas last week. Much good work is being done; special mention of excellence can be made of 3rd grade language lesson heard in Miss Frank's room.

Mrs. Edna Burnett who was so painfully wounded by an accidental discharge of a shot gun is recovering rapidly as the severity of the wound will allow. She is losing no time and is pluckily practicing writing with her left hand.

The teachers of Lincoln, Capitan and Carrizozo, Mrs. Lurians Lane, Miss Edith Tickner and S. W. Keese have signified their intention of attending the state teachers' meeting at Albuquerque. The teachers of Corona and White Oaks, and J. E. Koonce are probable members of the party.

Nogal school closed last Friday with an entertainment of recitations, dialogues and singing. Director T. W. Henley made a pleasing address. Mrs. De Nission has taught a successful term and the best wishes of the patrons go with her to district No. 2, San Patricio, where school opened Monday.

IN THE PROBATE COURT

A special term of the Probate Court has been called for next Tuesday to appoint administratrix in the estate of Patrick, deceased, estate

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

In the midst of trials and hardships almost inconceivable to us at this distance, the little band of pilgrims found it in their hearts to give thanks to Him who rules all. This was sincerely the expression of their gratitude for blessings before unknown, as well as a desire for guidance from a higher power, giving thanks for their preservation from disaster and the privilege of living and working in an atmosphere of freedom.

Then is not it meet and proper with our broader vision and superior civilization to pause and look beyond with thankful hearts for all the good that has come into our lives?

Here with opportunities beyond the hopes of the pilgrims, with conditions as we make them, blessed with material prosperity and ever developing citizenship, advancing in everything that goes to enrich and ennoble, with better homes, better schools, better churches, let us pause for a day and in unison give thanks to the "Giver of every good and perfect gift," the All-wise Ruler, who shapes the destiny of man.

There can be no doubt that we are moving forward, and for this we must be grateful and thankful. The thoughts of men are widened with the process of the sun. Now therefore, I, William C. McDonald, Governor of the State of New Mexico, in accordance with the custom and the proclamation of the President, do hereby proclaim, Thursday, November 27th, 1913, Thanksgiving Day.

I urge upon all that this day be observed as a day of prayer and praise to God for the many blessings enjoyed by our people. At the same time may we not forget the poor and needy, making the day what its name implies for all.

And I urgently request that all places of business be closed, so that this shall be in fact a day of peace and quiet.

Done at the Executive Office this 12th Day of November, 1913. Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of New Mexico

LINCOLN COUNTY NOTES

News of Week from Around Lincoln County Briefly Told

WHITE OAKS WHIFFS

The mines are again running with double shifts, just as if there had been no strike pulled off. So is the skating and dancing at the Woman's Club hall. Altogether the old town is getting rather gay and giddy to be winked at as a back number.

Charlie Spence who went to Chicago a few weeks ago and put up at a first class hotel has returned home and settled down to common everyday grub. He says he stood it all right until they undertook to feed him on some of his own mutton and then he lit out, as he couldn't look his own-lambda in the face after that.

Some of the men who went out on the recent strike have gone on a hunting and trapping expedition over in the main pine country and expect to make the fur fly from now on. They also expect to glut the market with an over supply of skunk and rattle snake oil. They are confident that they have missing at three or three and a half per, badly skinned.

Mrs. M. Treat, an old-time resident of this place, was returned from Great Bend, Kansas, for an extended visit with her son, Ralph, and family, and her numerous friends here. She was anxious to see those grand-children which were both born since she left here about five years ago. Before returning she will also visit her son, Roy, who is now in business at Roswell.

The Sunday school people are having new panes of glass put in the windows of the church to replace the many that were broken in a spirit of vandalism. This is something that has long been needed and it will now serve two purposes just at the beginning of winter. It will keep the cold air out and also keep in all that subdued religious atmosphere that is supposed to hover about a place of worship.

The friends of Judge Hewitt are pleased to see him on our streets once more although he is not looking as robust as a baseball hunky. He came up from El Paso Sunday being speeded home from Carrizozo by Paul Mayer in his car. The Judge has been hibernating in that mecca of robbed and ransacked refugees for a month or more. While there he had his domestic economy sampled by about all the eminent M. D. experts in the city. They osteopathied him, they allopathied him, homeopathied and tied his anatomy up in a double bow-knot. They beat a tattoo on his chest, his gizzard and his abdomen. They X-rayed his heart, his liver and his "appendicitas." They opened his mouth and looked down into the uttermost recesses of his esophagus and up under his pajamas. They then pronounced him a very well man except a slight abrasion of the cuticle in the region of the umbilical and unpronounceable. But they each gave him a prescription and some encouragement and charged him up in simoleums amounting to three figures. Not one of them seems to have diagnosed his case correctly when after all it was only a simple case of "shingles" and came about in this way. It seems that in his budding youth he was a plittle wayward and obstreperous and his material sire was often compelled to give him the first degree, or words to that effect. This was often done with a shingle applied in the region of the adjacent roundity but without perceptible results at the time, except noise. These applications are just now beginning to come to the surface and will all work out in their own good time without the aid of a doctor or a claw hammer. Oh, pshaw! Anybody but an M. D., ought to have known that.

IN THE JUSTICE COURTS

Chas Hinton was bound over last Saturday by Judge Ed Massie of prec. 15 to await the action of the Grand Jury on the charge of cutting a fence.

In the civil matter of Monroe Harper et al vs Thomas Keehn, et al, tooust, the defendants from lease, the Court at Nogal took jurisdiction and awarded judgment to plaintiff. Defendants appealed and the case goes to the District Court. Spence and Sherry represent plaintiffs, while H. B. Hamilton represents defendants.

The date of the preliminary hearing in the Al Highfill matter has been postponed until such time as Fred Burleson can be removed here from the El Paso hospital.

LOCAL LAND OFFICE

Comrey Brothers of Ancho apply to purchase 680 acres state lands near Ancho. Alva Tomlinson applies to purchase 80 acres state land near his home here.

Lawrence Olsen files affidavit as to the accessibility of Carrizozo as filing point for Ocarua lands.

Fred Funk files two contests one against Florence Goddard and one against Sarah Goddard both claims near Holly.

Benino Gallegos files contest against Guy Parks.

Roy A Skinner files on 160 acres on Nogel Mesa.

Wm J Avers files on add. 160 acres near Jake Springs.

Ramon Guera files on 160 acres near Three Rivers.

STADTMAN-REECE

Walter W. Stadtmann, manager of the Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber Co., of this city, layed one over on his friends when he slipped away to Tulsa, Oklahoma, last week and was quietly married to Miss Ethel Reece of that place. The ceremony was performed last Sunday morning, at 9 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Reece, by the pastor of the Tulsa Methodist Church of which the bride is an active member. Only a few friends of the immediate family were present and the couple started for Carrizozo immediately after the ceremony. The groom is a native of Oklahoma but has been in Carrizozo for the past four years and has many friends here. The bride is a beautiful and accomplished young lady, and is a graduate of the Blackwell, Okla., High School at which institution she has been employed as a teacher for the past four years, and is also prominent in social circles of her home town. Mr. and Mrs. Stadtmann will make Carrizozo their home. The Outlook extends congratulations.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

News of Interest of our Towns People and of Outsiders Visiting in our Midst

GATHERED DURING THE WEEK

—Mr. and Mrs. Ira O. Wetmore have been in the city this week for several days.

—Dr. R. E. Blaney has returned from a professional trip to Corona of four days.

—Deputy State Auditor Guilfoil is here this week auditing the county books.

—Mrs. H. B. Hamilton and son, "Pat," were up from El Paso on Wednesday returning the same day.

—Mrs. T. W. Watson has returned from El Paso where she had been visiting for a few days.

—Ed Mechem and son, of Alamo gordo, were here for a short time Wednesday between trains.

—Dr. Guido Ranniger of Oscura did not make his regular trips here this week owing to his being detained at Alamogordo.

—George Curry and wife passed thru the city last Monday en route for El Paso where they will make their future home.

—Wm Franklin of the Jicarilla country was down this week and reports mining matters pushing ahead in this district. Mr. Franklin is preparing to install a new mill on the Sally Deer property at an early date.

—Horace Riddle and Chas. F. Grey were in the city on Monday evening on their return from Nogal, where they had gone on subpoena of the J. P.

—O T Nye was down this week for several days from Lincoln and returned to Lincoln Thursday. He expects to move his family down here very shortly and occupy the Perry house which he has purchased.

—Mr and Mrs Frank L. Elliot, and Chas. Croft have returned from a hunting trip to the Capitan mountains and while they did not bring in any big game they report a good time.

—There is a penalty of one per cent for all taxes of the first half not paid on or before December 1st. Whether this penalty is to be imposed or not is not known. The tax books of course are not ready as yet.

—It is found that the County Commissioners may have made a mistake in the levy published last week in that they made a current school levy which is surplus and failed to make cattle eradication levy of three and one half miles. This is at least the opinion of the District Attorney and Assessor and it is quite possible that the commissioners will meet shortly and correct the errors if any in the levies.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Librada Bernal vs. Filomena Bernal, divorce, Referee Les B Chase's report filed and decree asked for by Spence and Sherry, attorneys.

Thomas Keehn and William vs. Monroe Harper, Mary S. Harper and Jas. T. Harper. Complaints filed and injunction asked for with $5000 damages on lease at Three Rivers.

MOLLY McDONALD A TALE OF THE FRONTIER

SYNOPSIS.

Major McDonald, commanding an army post near Fort Dodge, seeks a man to intercept his daughter, Molly, who is headed for the post. An Indian outbreak is threatened. Sergeant "Buck" Hamlin meets the stage in which Molly is traveling. They are attacked by Indians, and Hamlin and Molly escape in the darkness. Hamlin tells Molly he was discharged from the Confederate service in disgrace and at the close of the war enlisted in the regular army. He suspects one Captain La Fèvre of being responsible for his disgrace. Troops appear and under escort of Lieut. Gaskins Molly starts to join her father. Hamlin leaves to rejoin his regiment. He returns to Fort Dodge after a summer of fighting Indians, and finds Molly there. Shots are heard in the night. Hamlin rushes out, sees what he believes is the body of Molly hiding in the darkness and falls over the body of Lieutenant Gaskins, who accuses Hamlin of shooting him. The sergeant is proven innocent. He sees Molly in company with Mrs. Dupont, whom he recognizes as a former sweetheart, who threw him over for LaFèvre. Mrs. Dupont tells Hamlin LaFèvre forced her to send him a lying note. Hamlin declares he has been looking for LaFèvre to force him to clear his record. Later he overhears Dupont and a soldier hatching up a money-making plot. Molly seeks an interview with Hamlin. She says her father seems to be in the power of Mrs. Dupont, who claims to be a daughter of McDonald's sister. Molly disappears and Hamlin sets out to trace her.

CHAPTER XXI.—Continued.

He tramped along the brightly illuminated street, and out upon the dark road leading up the bluff to the fort, his mind occupied with the events of the evening, and those other incidents leading up to them. There was no doubt that Miss McDonald and her father had returned to their home. But what could he do to assist her? This very knowledge that she had voluntarily appealed to him, that she had come to him secretly with her trouble, brought strange happiness. Moreover his former acquaintance with Mrs. Dupont gave him a clue to the mystery. Yet how was he going to unravel the threads, discover the motive, find out the various conspirators? What were they really after? Money probably, but possibly revenge. What did the woman know which enabled her to yield such influence over McDonald? What was the trap they proposed springing? The sergeant felt that he could solve these problems if given an opportunity, but he was handicapped by his position; he could not leave his troop, could not meet or mingle with the suspected parties; was tied, hand and foot, by army discipline. He could not even absent himself from the post without gaining special permission. He swore to himself over the hopeless-

"May I Ask if Major McDonald Has Returned to the Post?"

ness of the situation, as he tramped through the blackness toward the guardhouse. The sentinel glanced at his pass, scrutinizing it by the light of a fire, and thrust the paper into his pocket. Hamlin advanced, and at the corner saluted the officer of the day, who had just stepped out of the guardhouse door. "Good evening, Sergeant," the latter said gently. "Just in from town? I expect they are having some dance down there tonight." "Yes, sir," hesitatingly, and then venturing the inquiry: "May I ask if Major McDonald has returned to the post?" "McDonald? No," he glanced at his watch. "He had orders to go east to sleep on a horse again." "To sleep? By stars!" the sergeant repeated the words, dazed. "Why—why what has become of Miss McDonald?"

The officer smiled, shaking his head. "I'm sure I don't know, my man," he returned carelessly. "Come back with Barrett and his ladylove, likely. Why?" suddenly interested by the expression on the other's face. "What's happened? Is there anything wrong?"

CHAPTER XXII.

A Deepening Mystery.

Startled and bewildered as Hamlin was by this sudden revelation, he at once comprehended the embarrassment of his own position. He could not confess all he knew, certainly not the fact that the girl had met him secretly and had vanished while he was endeavoring to turn aside Mrs. Dupont. He must protect her at all hazards. To gain time, and self-control, he replied with a question: "Did not Connors drive them down, sir?"

"Yes, the four of them." "And Major McDonald know then that he was ordered East?" "No, the order came by telegram later. An orderly was sent down about ten o'clock. But, see here, Sergeant, I am no Bureau of Information. If you have anything to report, make it brief."

Hamlin glanced at the face of the other. He knew little about him, except that he had the reputation of being a capable officer.

"I will, sir," he responded quickly; "you may never have heard of the affair, but I was with Miss McDonald during a little Indian-trouble-out-on the trail a few months ago."

The officer nodded. "I heard about that; Gaskins brought her in."

"Well, ever since she has seemed grateful and friendly. You know how some women are; well, she is that kind. Tonight she came to me, because she didn't seem to know whom else to go to, and told me of some trouble she was having. I realize, Captain Kane, that it may seem a bit strange to you that a young lady like Miss McDonald, an officer's daughter, would turn for help to an enlisted man, but I am telling you only the truth, sir. You see, she got it into her head somehow that I was square, and—and, well, that I cared enough to help her."

"Wait a minute, Sergeant," broke in Kane, kindly, realizing the other's embarrassment, and resting one hand on his sleeve. "You do not need to apologize for Miss McDonald. I know something of what is going on at this post, although, damn me if I've ever got on to the straight facts. You mean that Dupont woman?"

"Yes, she's concerned in the matter, but there are others also."

"Why couldn't the girl tell her father?" "That is where the main trouble lies, Captain. Major McDonald seems to be completely under the control of Mrs. Dupont. He is apparently afraid of her for some reason. That is what Miss Molly spoke to me about. We were on the side porch at the hotel talking while the dancers were at supper—it was the only opportunity the girl had to get away—and Mrs. Dupont and her husband came into the parlor."

"Her husband? Good Lord, I thought her husband was dead."

"He isn't. He's a tin-horn gambler, known in the saloons as 'Red,' a big duffer, wearing a black beard."

"All right, go on; I don't know him." "Well, I stepped into the room to keep the two apart, leaving the girl alone outside. We had a bit of talk before I got the room cleared, and when I went back to the porch, Miss Molly had gone."

"Dropped over the railing to the ground."

"That's what I thought at the time, sir, but what happened to her after that? She didn't return to the hotel; she was not at the dance hall, and hasn't come back to the post."

"The hell you say! Are you sure?" "I am; I searched for her high and low before I left, and she could not get in here without passing the guard-house."

Kane stared into the sergeant's face a moment, and then out across the parade ground. A yellow light winked in the Colonel's office, occasionally blotted out by the passing figure of a sentry. The officer came to a prompt decision.

"The 'old man' is over there yet, grubbing at some papers. Come an' over, and tell him what you have told me. I believe the man will turn up all right, but I don't want to see you."

The Colonel and the Post Adjutant were in the little office, busy over a pile of papers. Both officers glanced up, resenting the interruption, as Kane entered, Hamlin following. The former explained the situation briefly, while the commandant leaned back in his chair, his keen eyes studying the younger man.

"Very well, Captain Kane," he said shortly, as the officer's story ended. "We shall have to examine into this, of course, but will probably discover the whole affair a false alarm. There is, at present, no necessity for alarming any others. Sergeant, kindly explain to me why Miss McDonald should have come to you in her distress?"

Hamlin stepped forward, and told the story again in detail, answering the Colonel's questions frankly.

"This, then, was the only time you have met since your arrival?"

"Yes, sir."

"And this Mrs. Dupont? You have had a previous acquaintance with her?"

"Some years ago."

"You consider her a dangerous woman?"

"I know her to be utterly unscrupulous, sir. I am prepared to state that she is here under false pretenses, claiming to be a niece of Major McDonald's. I do not know her real purpose, but am convinced it is an evil one."

The Colonel shook his head doubtfully, glancing at the silent adjutant.

"That remains to be proven, Sergeant. I have, of course, met the lady, and found her pleasant and agreeable as a companion. Danced pretty, too; hey, Benson? Why do you say she masquerades as McDonald's niece?"

"Because her maiden name was Carson and the Major's sister married a man named Counts."

"There might have been another marriage. Surely McDonald must know."

"Miss Molly says not, Colonel. He has known nothing of his sister for over twenty years, and accepted this woman on her word."

"Well, well! Interesting situation; hey, Benson? Like to get to the bottom myself. Damna if it don't sound like a novel. However, the thing before us right now is to discover what has become of Miss McDonald."

He straightened up in his chair, then leaned across the table. "Captain Kane, make a thorough examination of McDonald's quarters first. If the girl is not found there, detail two men to accompany Sergeant Hamlin on a search of the town."

"Very well, sir; come on, Sergeant."

"Just a moment—if we find the trail leads beyond the town are we authorized to continue?"

"Certainly, yes, Adjutant, write out the order. Anything more?"

"I should prefer two men of my own troop, sir, mounted."

"Very well; see to it, Captain."

The two men walked down past the dark row of officers' houses, the sergeant a step to the rear on the narrow cinder path. McDonald's quarters were as black as the others, and there was no response from within when Kane rapped at the door. They tried the rear entrance with the same result—the place was plainly unoccupied.

"Pick out your men, Hamlin," the Captain said sternly, "and I'll call the stable guard."

Ten minutes later, fully equipped for field service, the three troopers circled the guard-house and rode rapidly down the dark road toward the yellow lights of the town. The sergeant explained briefly the cause of the expedition, and the two troopers, experienced soldiers, asked no unnecessary questions. Side by side the three men rode silently into the town, and Hamlin swung down from his saddle at the door of the dance hall. With a word to the guard he crossed the floor to intercept Mrs. Dupont. The latter regarded his approach with astonishment, her hand on Captain Barrett's blue sleeve.

"Certainly not," she replied rather sharply to his first question. "I am not in charge of Miss McDonald. She is so doubt amusing herself somewhere; possibly lying down over at the hotel; she complained of a headache earlier in the evening. Why do you come to me?"

"Yes," broke in the Captain, "that is what I wish to know, Hamlin. By what authority are you here?"

"The orders of the Colonel commanding, sir," respectfully, yet not permitting his glance to leave the woman's face. "You insist then, madam, that you know nothing of the girl's disappearance?"

"No!" definitely, her cheeks red. "Nor of what has become of Connors, or your ranch manager?" She shrugged her shoulders, endeavoring to smile.

"The parties mentioned are of very small interest to me."

"And Major McDonald," he insisted, utterly ignoring the increasing anger of the officer beside her. "Possibly you were aware of his departure?"

"Yes," more deliberately; "he told me of his orders, and he was good-bye later. He has an Omnibus in connection, he was to have the carriage here for us at two o'clock. Is that all, Mr. Sergeant Hamlin?"

"The latter makes it all," interrupted the Captain belligerently, "before I lose my temper at this infernal impertinence."

Hamlin surveyed the two calmly, confident that the woman knew more than she would tell, and utterly indifferent as to the other.

"Very well," he said quietly, "I will learn what I desire elsewhere. I shall find Miss McDonald, and discover what has actually occurred."

"My best wishes, I am sure," and the lady patted the Captain's arm gently. "We are losing this waltz."

There was but one course for Hamlin to pursue. He had no trail to follow, only a vague suspicion that these plotters were in some way concerned in the mysterious disappearance. Thus far, however, they had left behind no clue to their participation. Moreover he was seriously handicapped by ignorance of any motive; why should they desire to gain possession of the girl? It could not be money, or the hope of ransom. What then? Was it some accident which had involved her in the toils prepared for another? If so, were those unexpected orders for Major McDonald a part of the conspiracy, or had their receipt complicated the affair? The sergeant was a soldier, not a detective, and could only follow a straight road in his investigation. He must circle widely until he found some trail to follow as patiently as an Indian. There would be tracks left somewhere, if he could only discover them. If this was a hasty occurrence, in any way an accident, something was sure to be left uncovered, some slip revealing the method. He would trace the movements of the father first, and then search the saloons and gambling dens for the two men. Though unsuccessful with Mrs. Dupont, he knew how to deal with such as they.

The stage agent was routed out of bed and came to the door, revolver in hand, startled and angry.

"Who?" he repeated. "Major McDonald? How the hell should I know? Some officer went out—yes; heavy set man with a mustache. I didn't pay any attention to him; had government transportation. There were two other passengers, both men, ranchers, I reckon; none in the station at all. What's that, Jane?"

A woman's voice spoke from out the darkness behind.

"Was the soldier asking if Major McDonald went East on the coach, Sam?"

"Sure; what do you know about it?"

"Why, I was outside when they started," she explained, "and the man in uniform wasn't the Major. I know him by sight, for he's been down here a dozen times when I was at the desk. This fellow was about his size, but dark and stoop-shouldered."

"And the others?" asked Hamlin eagerly.

"I didn't know either of them, only I noticed one had a black beard."

"A very large, burly fellow?"

"No, I don't think so. I didn't pay special attention to any of them, only to wonder who the officer was, 'cause I never remembered seeing him here before at Dodge, but, as I recollect, the fellow with a beard was rather under-sized; had a shaggy buffalo-skin cap on."

Faintly enough the man was not Dupont, and McDonald had not departed on the stage, while some other, pretending to be he, possibly wearing his clothes to further the deceit, had taken the seat reserved in the coach. Baffled, bewildered by this unexpected discovery, the sergeant swung back into his saddle, not knowing which way to turn.

Land of Small Opportunity. Census reports from the Panama canal zone give the population there today as 43,310, of which about 42,000 are employees of the canal commission, the Panama railroad and of the various canal contractors. Generally speaking, the soil is not suitable for farming. It is not likely that Americans will be attracted, and since other occupants than Americans, for obvious reasons, are not desirable, Colonel Goetzke is in favor of the population of the zone, except so far as it will be occupied by canal operations and by the military necessary for the protection of the canal.

Golden Key of Brick. Prof. Stephen H. Langdon, an Oxford specialist in old-world lore, is coming here to examine the "Sumerian" tablets in the museum of the University of Pennsylvania. This heap of brick fragments is esteemed as of more value than its weight in diamonds. Scientists the world over have an eye upon this precious pile. It is composed of what are known as Babylonian tablets—little oblong tiles of rigid and sun-baked clay so ancient and weather-beaten they would never be noticed among the mortar scraps of an old Philadelphia house dismantled. Yet these museum treasures dug up from Nippur and other burial spots of ancient libraries situate in the neighborhood of modern Bagdad contain the secret of remotest civilization. In them lies the golden key of knowledge of the most primitive commerce, sciences and arts, possibly including the invention of figures and letters and the first attempt at making a language. —Philadelphia Press.

MRS. MANGES ESCAPES OPERATION

How She Was Saved From Surgeon's Knife by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mogadore, Ohio.—"The first two years I was married I suffered so much from female troubles and bearing down pains that I could not stand on my feet long enough to do my work. The doctor said I would have to undergo an operation, but my husband wanted me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound first. I took three bottles and it made me well and strong and I avoided a dreadful operation. I now have two fine healthy children, and I cannot say too much about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. LAM MANGES, R. P. D. 10, Mogadore, Ohio.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ailments, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, obstructions, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman who has had the same troubles.

MOTHER! LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs"

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation, poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups, plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

SURELY HAD DONE HIS BEST

This Husband, Like Many Others, Unable to Reason Why Wife Should Make Any Complaint.

A typical "mover" of the ultra-shiftless type was passing a few days at a cow camp in Arizona, preparatory to going into the desert on a prospecting trip. His wife, a tired-out, faded-out creature, complained to some of the cowhands of the hardness of her lot; and the foreman took it upon himself to remonstrate with the husband for his shiftlessness and his indifference to his wife's welfare.

"The old woman ain't got no kick comin'!" said the husband when he had heard the foreman's remarks. "She ain't got no kick at all. Why, stranger, when we was fixin' to camp of a night many a time I've driv' the team half a mile out of the way so's wood and water would be handy for the old woman to fetch!"—Saturday Evening Post.

HEAD ITCHED AND BURNED

Burns, Wyo.—"The trouble began on my baby when she was about four months old. A red pimple was seen at first and it grew larger and larger all the time on the back of her head. It looked scabby and it itched and burned and she began to scratch it and scratched until it would bleed. Sometimes she could not sleep and felt pretty cross.

"The trouble lasted till she was a year old and I saw an advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, so I sent for some. First I washed the sore part with the Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment and left it on for a while, then I washed it again with the Cuticura Soap. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured the sore in a week without a scar." (Signed) Mrs. Otto F. Heckly, Nov. 22, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Adv.

One Was Enough.

Forbes Bridges, the new British poet laureate, is a fastidious critic, and hence sees little to admire in the commonplace verse of Alfred Noyes.

Noyes once brought to Mr. Bridges two very long odes that he proposed to submit to the English Review.

"I'll read them both aloud," the young man said, "and afterwards you will tell me which is, in your opinion, the more likely to be accepted by the English Review."

Poor Mr. Bridges sighed and settled himself in his chair, and Noyes, in his loud, harsh voice, read the first ode. It was very long, and at its conclusion Mr. Bridges leaped to his feet and said briskly:

"Now, my young friend, I can advise you. Send the other ode to the Review."

Depressing Influence.

"And you spent several weeks at Lake Como?"

"Yes; but there were some people from Indiana who took all the romance out of the place by insisting on calling it Lake Kokomo."

Bronchial troubles weaken the system. Pneumonia sometimes follows. Dean's Mentholated Cough Drops prevent trouble.

Pertinent Question.

"They say that drink loosens the tongue. Do you believe it?"

"Whose tongue, the drinker's or his wife's?"

Some people set foolish and then get sore because their neighbors find it out.

KEEP SEED POTATOES IN COOL PLACE

A Fine Yield of Potatoes.

(By WILLIAM H. UNDERWOOD.) Potatoes intended for seed should be kept hard and plump during the winter and this can be done only by keeping them so cool that they will not sprout.

When potatoes sprout they take part of the starch that is stored up in them and manufacture it into living cells. This energy is all wasted for the sprouts have to be pulled off.

Some farmers make it a point to "sprout" their potatoes once or twice during the winter, this being done to prevent their growing. But the amount of energy thus lost is considerable, and the loss increases as the winter draws to a close.

I raise potatoes in large quantities and each year place them in cold storage. I prefer to pay the expense of the storage and be sure that they are kept in a perfectly plump state rather than to keep them in a room with a high temperature as is done by some.

In the spring the potatoes come out of the cold storage house in perfect condition and it takes but a few weeks for them to develop strong sprouts that rise out of the soil and develop strong stalks and leaves.

Many farmers have not the opportunity to put their potatoes in cold-storage houses, but they should endeavor to keep their potatoes at a very low temperature. The nearer 33 degrees the potatoes are kept, the better.

INJURIES BY THE BAGWORM

Last Few Years Past Has Abandoned Evergreens and Attacked Many Deciduous Trees.

(By L. HABEMAN.) The tough silken bags hanging from limbs and twigs of evergreen, shade and fruit trees in the winter are familiar to many farmers throughout the country. The caterpillar which makes these is commonly called a bagworm, basketworm or dropworm. In the past it has been more or less troublesome on evergreens, but in the last few years it has become destructive to many deciduous trees and shrubs. The rapid increase and spread of the pest to orchards and shade trees and ornamental shrubs in cities, parks and cemeteries have occasioned a great deal of loss in the past three or four years.

The bagworm is easy to control, at least upon trees of moderate size. There are two methods of destroying the pest, by collecting all of the bags and by spraying with poison. If the bagworm is restricted to only a few trees, one can easily collect all of the bags in the winter when the leaves are off. This method is in common use and is entirely effective, if carefully done. It does not work so well on evergreens and, of course, is out of the question in very large orchards or groves. In such cases it is necessary to spray when the young caterpillars begin to feed upon the foliage in the spring. Early spraying should be practiced as the pest is destroyed before the foliage is consumed. The first regular application of poison for the codling moth, just after the blossoms fall in the spring, will also control the bagworm in orchards. One careful application of poison before the first of June will usually control the pest either upon fruit, evergreen or shade trees.

Orchardist and Dairy Animals. If the orchardist with a fair amount of free land will study the dairy cow and her wants, attend dairy conventions, read good dairy literature, post up on feeds and feeding and test his herd for profitable animals, he will prosper.

Don't keep a horse going after it begins to show signs of exhaustion. You will save time by resting a bit.

SOME PURE-MILK PROBLEMS

Most Important Aside From Feeding Is of Barn and Its Accommodations, Says Oregon Student.

For the dairyman whose aim is the profitable production of pure milk, probably the most important problem, aside from the feeding, is that of the barn and its accommodations, writes E. S. Wisdom, a student at the Oregon Agricultural College, in an article in the Oregon Countryman, the student agricultural magazine.

The dairy cow requires, for the highest production, comfortable and healthy quarters which are protected from the inclement weather, he continues. A warm, substantial stable is almost imperative in the cold climate. It must not be forgotten, however, that the health of the herd is likely to be impaired unless proper precautions are taken to insure rigid cleanliness and abundance of light and fresh air.

An expensive structure is unnecessary, but one that will be convenient for the labor and furnish contactment to the herd should be provided. The location should be chosen to maintain the highest degree of sanitation, depending largely upon the drainage. The tile-drained barnyards often eliminate the undesirable conditions found commonly. Whenever it is possible, the barn should be built on a knoll, though never on an elevation higher than the house occupies.

Convenience of access from different parts of the farm saves labor and time. Barns near a main road or across a road from the house are not recommended. The landing should face north and south, so that the sunlight might enter from both sides during the day.

Weed Control. Frequent tillage is the secret of weed control. If the weeds are permitted to get a start it costs more to destroy them, to say nothing of the sacrifice to the crop.

Remedy for Scaly Legs. About the best remedy for scaly legs, which is the work of parasites, is an application of melted lard and sulphur once a week.

Regarding article as to mining in issue of October 24, 1913.

At the head of the fifth column I note what you say regarding mines and New Mexico. One would think you were catering for the "plungers" only. That is good of you and it is true about the climate, and we are always glad to show our ozone with them. We frequently have more than is needed for our use any way, also we take particular notice how much lucre they are to share with us. You also pop it to us "Wild Cats." It is not exactly clear what you actually mean by Wild Cat mining, and Wild Cat promoting. As to the man who does the pioneering and prospecting it could be supposed he is one wild cat, for more than likely he has gone hungry many times and had to scratch around early and late. I am here to tell you that the supposed wild cat promoter is a necessary evil, he is the plunger and has to be soured (layed his full length in the mud) and you wise acres stand by and see him flounder wishing like a house cat, sort of a I told you smile. You could just as well let him alone, if he has energy enough he will come back to the trough again or he may break away and hunt greener fields. If he goes let him go in peace. His cowardly capitalist "capital is always a coward" will soon be around looking for a way to get even and if there seems a ghost of a show he will go to it, and very likely win out. For the agriculturist it takes science; for promoting it takes great fortitude, science and luck. The wild cat promoter whom you see fit to fetch your foot from and say you have had plenty of him, is really what your prayers call for. Let 'em come from east, west, north or south as far as El Paso, no Muretas need apply. Those statistics were just the stuff, let the plungers see them, give them more, repeat the White Oaks and Nogal, tell them of the past records, of the enormous dumps susceptible to modern treatment left there by those wild cat miners, tell how the wild cat miners perched on the top shelves, lived on caviar and the best vintage those days.

TO GIVE FARMERS' COURSES

Five short courses will be given to the farmers and ranchers of New Mexico this winter by the State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts. It has been decided to adopt the Colorado plan in offering these courses, so far as the number of instructors in the institution permits, which is to give a five-day course along lines of special local interest and value, in such counties as pledge an enrollment of one hundred at the nominal fee of two dollars each for the whole course. With its present appropriations the institution cannot spare its instructors for more than five weeks during the college year and it has therefore been found necessary to limit the number of these county courses to five for this year; and in order to determine which counties shall get the course it has been decided to offer it to the five counties in the State pledging the largest enrollment under the above terms, with a minimum of one hundred. The decision as to which counties shall be selected will be made on January 1st, 1914, and the courses will be given during January and February.

The large enrollment for a course of this kind which is now being given in the Mesilla Valley has led the College to adopt this plan for these courses, and it is expected that with the hearty co-operation of the farmers and ranchmen of the State they will be of great value to the agricultural interests. The president of the College, Dr. George D. Ladd, urges the farmers, ranchmen and others in every county of New Mexico to hold meetings and make efforts to get one of the five day short courses for their county.

In various counties of the state people are pawing up the earth over the rates in valuations made by the state board of equalization but there appears to be no stir in this county over the matter. Whether the absence of agitation on the subject is due to the belief that we have plenty of money to pay whatever is demanded, or to the fact that we are just taking a nap and are disinclined to have our rest broken, is not apparent at this time.

CAPITAN CORRESPONDENCE

(Too late for last week)

J. P. Perry received his portable saw mill last week. Mr. Perry will set the mill first on Tonsel Canyon south of Ruidosa. We are glad to see this enterprise started, and we are sure that Mr. Perry is one who will make it go.

E. A. Lamirand, forest ranger in charge of the Gallinas division of the Lincoln National Forest arrived at Capitan, Wednesday, November 5th, en route to the Baca Ranch Canyon station where Supervisor Kinney is located.

The basket ball game between the Carrizozo school and the Lincoln County High School played here Saturday in which the Capitan team went down in defeat 28 to 0. It is the first defeat that our girls have ever had, but they took it in good spirits and declare it shall never happen again. The girls arranged dinner for the visiting team and all visiting parties in the Domestic Science room of the County High School. The High school gave a social that night to which all the Carrizozo team and visitors were invited. Prof. McCurdy and wife and Mrs. Chas. A. Stevens attended.

The hand printing press has arrived and a body of the students are to be organized for the purpose of getting out a county school paper. The first issue will appear about December 1. Prof. Schreck, Supt. of the County High School will be general manager of the paper. A great deal of literature for advertising purposes will be gotten out and mailed to the public before the opening of another school year. Everybody in Lincoln County will know about the County High School and its work. This will certainly double the attendance for next year.

Regarding article as to mining in issue of October 24, 1913.

At the head of the fifth column I note what you say regarding mines and New Mexico. One would think you were catering for the "lungers" only. That is good of you and it is true about the climate, and we are always glad to show our ozone with them. We frequently have more than is needed for our use any way, also we take particular notice how much lure they are to share with us. You also pop it to us "Wild Cats." It is not exactly clear what you actually mean by Wild Cat mining, and Wild Cat promoting. As to the man who does the pioneering and prospecting it could be supposed he is one wild cat, for more than likely he has gone hungry many times and had to scratch around early and late. I am here to tell you that the supposed wild cat promoter is a necessary evil, he is the plunger and has to be soured (layed his full length in the mud) and you wise acres stand by and see him flounder wishing like a house cat, sort of a I told you smile. You could just as well let him alone, if he has energy enough he will come back to the trough again or he may break away and hunt greener fields. If he goes let him go in peace. His cowardly capitalist "capital is always a coward" will soon be around looking for a way to get even and if there seems a ghost of a show he will go to it, and very likely win out. For the agriculturist it takes science; for promoting it takes great fortitude, science and luck. The wild cat promoter whom you see fit to fetch your foot from and say you have had plenty of him, is really what your prayers call for. Let 'em come from east, west, north or south as far as El Paso, no Murats need apply. Those statistics were just the stuff, let the plungers see them, give them more, repeat the White Oaks and Nogal, tell them of the past records, of the enormous dumps susceptible to modern treatment left there by those wild cat miners, tell how the wild cat miners perched on the top shelves, lived on caviar and the best vintage those days.

TO GIVE FARMERS' COURSES

Five short courses will be given to the farmers and ranchers of New Mexico this winter by the State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts. It has been decided to adopt the Colorado plan in offering these courses, so far as the number of instructors in the institution permits, which is to give a five-day course along lines of special local interest and value, in such counties as pledge an enrollment of one hundred at the nominal fee of two dollars each for the whole course. With its present appropriations the institution cannot spare its instructors for more than five weeks during the college year and it has therefore been found necessary to limit the number of these county courses to five for this year; and in order to determine which counties shall get the course it has been decided to offer it to the five counties in the State pledging the largest enrollment under the above terms, with a minimum of one hundred. The decision as to which counties shall be selected will be made on January 1st, 1914, and the courses will be given during January and February.

The large enrollment for a course of this kind which is now being given in the Mesilla Valley has led the College to adopt this plan for these courses, and it is expected that with the hearty co-operation of the farmers and ranchmen of the State they will be of great value to the agricultural interests. The president of the College, Dr. George D. Ladd, urges the farmers, ranchmen and others in every county of New Mexico to hold meetings and make efforts to get one of the five day short courses for their county.

In various counties of the state people are pawing up the earth over the raise in valuations made by the state board of equalization; but there appears to be no stir in this county over the matter. Whether the absence of agitation on the subject is due to the belief that we have plenty of money to pay whatever is demanded, or to the fact that we are just taking a nap and are disinclined to have our rest broken, is not apparent at this time.

LINCOLN COUNTY NOTES

FORT STANTON NOTES

A movement is on foot to give a minstrel before the holidays.

Captain Van Zant has returned from a business trip to El Paso.

Mr. McElhone of Number 4 returned Saturday from a week's visit in El Paso.

The Rev. Father Teribus O. F. E. of Roswell visited with the Chaplain last Thursday and Friday.

Dr. F. C. Smith and family spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday visiting with friends at Parsons.

Dr. Alison Brown returned from an extended visit to El Paso last Tuesday.

Mrs. Geo. Oliver of Picocho visited with relatives here Friday and Saturday.

"Society" was the subject treated at the non-sectarian services in Library hall last Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Coe of the Ruidosa stopped over with friends while on their way to El Paso to have their baby treated by a specialist.

The many visitors to the Post who have the pleasure of attending our moving picture shows pronounce them as the best to be seen in the entire southwest.

Postmaster Joseph Gentry returned a few days ago from a month's visit at his home in the East. Mr. Gentry feels much better physically and is busy relating experiences he had during his trip.

The train days being changed from Monday and Thursdays to Tuesday and Fridays causes the "movies" at the local theater to be changed from Monday to Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Miss Elenor Vivian Able was solemnly christened in the Sacred Heart Chapel last Sunday afternoon. Quite a number of friends were present to witness the beautiful ceremony, Chaplain Frund officiating.

CAPITAN CORRESPONDENCE

(Too late for last week)

J. P. Perry received his portable saw mill last week. Mr. Perry will set the mill first on Tonsel Canyon south of Ruidosa. We are glad to see this enterprise started, and we are sure that Mr. Perry is one who will make it go.

E. A. Lamirand, forest ranger in charge of the Gallinas division of the Lincoln National Forest arrived at Capitan, Wednesday, November 5th, en route to the Baca Ranch Canyon station where Supervisor Kinney is located.

The basket ball game between the Carrizozo school and the Lincoln County High School played here Saturday in which the Capitan team went down in defeat 28 to 0. It is the first defeat that our girls have ever had, but they took it in good spirits and declare it shall never happen again. The girls arranged dinner for the visiting team and all visiting parties in the Domestic Science room of the County High School. The High school gave a social that night to which all the Carrizozo team and visitors were invited. Prof. McCurdy and wife and Mrs. Chas. A. Stevens attended.

The hand printing press has arrived and a body of the students are to be organized for the purpose of getting out a county school paper. The first issue will appear about December 1. Prof. Schreck, Supt. of the County High School will be general manager of the paper. A great deal of literature for advertising purposes will be gotten out and mailed to the public before the opening of another school year. Everybody in Lincoln County will know about the County High School and its work. This will certainly double the attendance for next year.

WHITE MOUNTAIN

Uncle Ben Robinson from Parsons spent a couple of days in our vicinity last week.

J. O. Nabours Jr. transacted business in Oscura Thursday of this week.

Fred Neighbour left Friday for Kansas City with two car loads of cattle, one for himself and a car load for Monroe Harper.

Mrs. A. B. Fall after spending several weeks on the ranch here, left the first part of last week for El Paso to join her family.

Mr. Williams and family from Mexico have moved in the Wingfield house. Mr. Williams will take charge of the Wingfield ranch recently purchased by Mr. Everhart.

J. B. Wingfield, J. D. Terry and H. S. Scheffey left Monday for the Rinconita, where they will help gather cattle for the Hatchita outfit, whom they recently bought of Frank Smith.

WHITE MOUNTAIN

(Crowded out last week)

Miss Minnie Hall was a business visitor in Oscura Monday.

Al. Roberts and Mr. Howell from Carrizozo were in our vicinity Tuesday.

Mr. Everhart has returned from El Paso where he purchased more cattle.

Sam Hall was called to Lexington, North Carolina his old home and where he now owns some property.

Fred Neighbour and wife drove up to Carrizozo the latter part of last week transacting business and visiting friends.

James O. Nabours and daughter, Miss Florence, transacted business in Carrizozo the first part of the week.

H. S. Scheffey was in Carrizozo Friday of this week making final proof on his homestead and was accompanied by J. B. Wingfield who was one of the witnesses.

Burglars broke into Matt Cook's shack while he was away and stole his six-shooter. They also succeeded in getting a few groceries from Miss Hall's store.

NOTICE OF CONTEST

Department of the Interior
United States Land Office Roswell, N. M.
October 8, 1913

To Thomas J. Givins, of Carrizozo, N. M.

Contested.
You are hereby notified that Jose Lopez, who gives Carrizozo, New Mexico, as his post office address, did on September 17, 1913, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your Homestead, Entry No., Serial No. 019863 made August 28th, 1909 for SW $\frac{1}{4}$  and N $\frac{1}{2}$  SW $\frac{1}{4}$ , Section 31, Township 7 S., Range 11 E., N. M. P. Meridian, and as grounds for his contest he alleges that said Thomas J. Givins has wholly abandoned said above described land and claim and has been absent therefrom for more than two years, last past; that he is not now residing upon the same.

You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken by this office as having been confessed, by you, and your said entry will be cancelled thereunder without your further right to be heard therein; either before this office or on appeal, if you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the publication of this notice, as shown below, your answer, under oath, specifically meeting and responding to these allegations of contest, or if you fail within that time to file in this office due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail. If this service is made by the delivery of a copy of your answer to the contestant in person, proof of such service must be either the said contestant's written acknowledgment of his receipt of the copy, showing the date of its receipt, or the affidavit of the person by whom the delivery was made stating when and where the copy was delivered; if made by registered mail, proof of such service must consist of the affidavit of the person by whom the copy was mailed stating when and the post office to which it was mailed, and this affidavit must be accompanied by the postmaster's receipt for the letter.

You should state in your answer the name of the post office to which you desire future notices to be sent to you.

Fishing with Cormorants

FISHERS WITH CORMORANTS: THE BIRDS HARNESSSED

FISHING WITH CORMORANTS IN FULL SWING

HARNESSING A CORMORANT

JUST as hawks and falcons were formerly used in Europe, not only for sporting purposes, but to replenish their masters' larders with furred and feathered game, so do the Chinese and Japanese still employ trained cormorants, but in their case they are used solely for economic purposes. This may at first appear to be a somewhat primitive method of obtaining fish, yet it seems to be a very serviceable one, and has at least the merit of being exceedingly picturesque. The antiquity of this form of fishing is incontrovertible, and is conclusively proved by the existence of very early Japanese paintings, which, if we allow for a somewhat crude and Oriental treatment, otherwise faithfully depict the sport as it is practiced down to the present day. We have also documentary evidence to show that these birds were similarly utilized in China as far back as the sixteenth century. In many parts of the latter country cormorants are used on still-water lagoons or sluggish rivers, where they are allowed to swim free; but in Yunnan and Japan, where they are fished in swift-running streams, the birds are invariably harnessed.

I have not had the opportunity of seeing them handled by the Chinese, but a few years ago, when on a visit to Japan, I made a point of going to Gifu to study the methods adopted by the Japanese on the River Nagara. Here the season lasts from May to October, during which time the river is visited by a small migratory fish, locally called al. This fish belongs to the Salmonidae family, and is known to ichthyologists as Plecoglossus altivelis T. and S. In size, it hardly ever exceeds a foot in length, and is more often only six or seven inches long. The Japanese epicures praise it very highly as a table delicacy, though it must be admitted that the uneducated Occidental palate usually fails to detect its culinary merits; in fact, when I tasted it, I thought it compared rather unfavorably with the smelt, a fish it superficially resembles. The market value of the al appears to be comparatively high, so that even if the season be a short one, the cormorant fishers are enabled to reap a sufficiently rich harvest, which more than compensates them for their many months of enforced idleness. But even in midsummer, there are many nights when the meteorological conditions preclude all possibility of fishing. A heavy downpour of rain—and how frequent this is in a Japanese June!—speedily fills the river with a turbid flood that renders fishing wholly impracticable. Nor can the birds do any good on bright moonlight nights, for then, in the beautifully clear waters of this mountain stream, the fish can see their enemies approaching and, moreover, they are not attracted by the glare of the great, flaring braziers which are placed, in the form of an iron basket, on the bows of each of the vessels.

On the Nagara the mode of fishing is for some six or seven boats to work in company. These drift slowly down stream for eighteen or twenty miles in the form of an open line that usually extends right across the river. As a rule, each boat possesses about fifteen or sixteen cormorants. These are controlled by means of reins attached to a small collar round the bird's neck, which serves the additional purpose of preventing all but the finest fish being swallowed outright. The man standing in the bows, and therefore deriving full benefit from the light of the brazier, has some twelve birds in his charge, while the less experienced man posted amidships usually controls four or five only. The dexterity of these fellows is really one of the most remarkable features of the whole proceeding. It seemed inexplicable how one man could manipulate so many birds—swimming and diving as they were in all directions—without their reins becoming hopelessly entangled. Yet by sorting them with a lightning hand-over-hand movement, these leads were always kept clear, and never once did I see a man in real difficulty. When a cormorant has completely filled its gullet, it naturally takes no further interest in the proceedings, and will then swim idly upon the surface. When this is observed, the unfortunate creature is promptly hauled in board, and by a gentle but firm pressure of the hand it is forced ignominiously to disgorge its booty, whereupon it is thrown back to recommence its thankless task. In this way a single bird will account for a large number of fish during the night, and as the flock numbers upwards of a hundred individuals, the total catch is sometimes considerable. In the morning, when all is over, the cormorants are allowed to rest on the gunwale of the boat, each bird, known by name, having its allotted perch, which it defends with angry croaks and peeks should a neighbor dare to dispute its right. The birds are absolutely fearless of their masters, and can be freely handled.

There could hardly be a more interesting experience, than to follow a flotilla of cormorant boats at work on a still midsummer night. Even the Japanese themselves appreciate the picturesqueness of the proceedings, and every evening numerous boatloads of spectators may be seen on the river awaiting their arrival at Gifu. The fishing appears to be at its best in August, during which month the late Mikado used frequently to visit the scene.

The great braziers—huge, crackling baskets of flame—cast a strange and lurid glare over the surroundings. In their dazzling light the brightly illuminated figures of the fishermen seem to stand out with almost unnatural sharpness against the velvety blackness of the night, while the men's harsh cries of encouragement, the loud clatter of their oars, and the showers of hissing sparks falling upon the water all add to the weirdness of the scene.

Cormorants are apparently not very difficult to train, and have been used in Europe for sporting purposes far more often than is generally supposed. Early in the seventeenth century James I. was enamored with the sport, and appointed someone "Master of Cormorants," while he even went so far as to have ponds cut in a meadow-land near Westminster for the reception of various kinds of fish which were to be afterwards captured by his tame birds. Of recent years the well-known fisherman Captain Sulvin proved highly successful with his cormorants, and there are still some French sportsmen who keep these birds for their own entertainment.

PRACTICAL DRY FARM

There Are Three Essentials for Farmer to Consider.

Depth of Soil, Amount of Precipitation and Evaporation Are Conditions That Go Far for Success or for Failure.

(By NORMAN E. HOLDEN.)

In speaking of dry farming from a practical standpoint, it would seem that the conditions which go to make dry farming possible should be of first consideration. There are three essentials for the dry farmer to consider before attempting to dry farm. They are, depth of soil, amount of precipitation, and evaporation.

One attempting to dry farm with less than four feet of soil is handicapped to commence with. There are many places in the west where there is from 18 to 20 inches of soil on top of a bed of gravel. Some of the most beautiful laying land that I have ever seen has this condition, and the worst feature of it is that it has been filed on by prospective homeseekers, because it means utter failure for those and also a black eye to others.

Take, for practical results, this season on my own farm in Dillon, Mont. Everything has done well, the farm has paid, despite the fact that it has been dry. A crop has been raised with one and one-half inches rainfall from the time it was planted until harvested. There was no rain during the main growing season; we have had hot winds continuously. The results are most encouraging. Why was this possible?

With a soil averaging 10 feet every drop of moisture it was possible to store was stored. When the crop was taken off this land in the fall of 1908 a disk harrow was used immediately. In 1909 the first treatment it had was an early double disking. Then the common spike-toothed harrow was continuously used until freezing weather in the fall. The spring of 1910 it was seeded to different crops, consisting chiefly of Durum wheat (Kubach), although there were other crops, among them Red Turkey winter wheat, seeded the middle of August, 1909, which has given most excellent results. There was flax, corn, potatoes and almost every kind of garden produce.

And right here the success of garden truck on dry land should be mentioned. I have either read or heard some speaker say that one should have a little spot that is susceptible of irrigation to supply the table with garden delicacies. This is not necessary. If I were asked what one line of dry farming I considered the most successful, the answer would be gardening. The most splendid results can be obtained from the dry-land garden. It is a general belief that lettuce, radishes, young onions and the like are not up to quality in the dry-land garden. This is not true, as the very highest quality of this stuff can be produced on the dry-land garden.

This past season, while it has been the driest we have any record of, we have had lettuce, onions, radishes, cauliflower, tomatoes, cabbage, carrots, parsnips, garden peas, kohi rabi, turnips, and in fact everything that can be grown in our altitude, which is 5,300 feet. This garden produce takes rank right along with that of irrigation. The tonnage is not quite as large, but the quality more than offsets this.

This year we have tried out the sugar beet, and while there has been no tests as yet for the sugar, the yield has been splendid, averaging about 10 tons per acre, some individual beets weighing nine pounds, while garden beets went 3 1/2 pounds, carrots 1 1/2 pounds and onions one pound.

An acre or two thoroughly prepared for the garden is the best investment a dry farmer can have. This land should be tilled a whole year in advance with a view of conserving the moisture, and, if possible, fertilized.

Apples for the Fair.

For exhibition at the fairs, apples should be picked when ripe as carefully as possible, wrapped in soft paper, and not allowed to become bruised or injured in any way.

Make Parishes Smooth.

Have your parishes well smoothed off. The smoother they are the easier it is to keep them free from vermin. They should also be made removable.

Peanuts as Feed.

Peanuts make a splendid feed for both hogs and cows and wherever they can be grown they should be used for their furnish nourishment and variety.

Differences in Breed.

The difference between the large producer of butter-fat and the unprofitable cow is often in the breed as well as the feed.

Have Two Cream Cans.

It is a good plan to have two cream cans, one to be strung and running while the other is in use.

TORTURING TWINGES

Much so-called rheumatism is caused by weakened kidneys. When the kidneys fail to clear the blood of uric acid, the acid forms into crystals like bits of broken glass in the muscles, joints and on the nerve casings. Torturing pains dart through the affected part whenever it is moved. By curing the kidneys, Doan's Kidney Pills have eased thousands of rheumatic cases, lumbago, sciatica, gravel, neuralgia and urinary disorders.

A COLORADO CASE

John W. Scantling, 240 Johnson St., Trinidad, Colo., says: "I was helpless in bed for three months with rheumatism. When I did get up, I had to use crutches. Besides backache and rheumatic pains, I had trouble with my kidneys. After doctoring unsuccessfully, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured the terrible pain and I have been able to work every day since. I feel like a different man."

CURRENCY NO ONE DESIRES

Two-Dollar Bill More of a Nuisance Than Its Value Can Be Made to Justify.

Countless persons who have some time or other accepted change for one dollar for a two-dollar bill will be interested in the story of "Ole Prince" Robinson, the colored barber in the House barbershop at Washington. When the sergeant-at-arms offered him five $2 bills the other day as part of his pay, Robinson waved them widely away, declaring that every $2 bill carries with it the "Egyptian curse," that he would rather break a looking-glass walk under a ladder or turn back without making a cross-mark than take a $2 bill, because it was a sure sign of ill luck.

Whether there is an "Egyptian curse" on the $2 note or not, there has certainly been many an American curse put on it. It is the easiest thing in the world, victims will tell you, to pass out a two for a one and not discover the loss until you begin search for that other dollar you had, but haven't any more. A currency reform that would eliminate the $2 bill and the hoodoo at the same time would be a reform that would save money for generations to come.

Invalid's Sweet Patience.

Who does the most complaining in this world? Not the invalids. For hours on hours they lie there, secretly resolving, "Let me make myself less a sorrow to others than I was yesterday." And these are the victories, grander far than those of war. When these moral conquests are extended over months, perhaps years, the heroic sufferer's room often becomes a chamber of comfort to all who are unhappy. What a triumph when to the chair of some grand martyr come the friends of a wide circle that her gentle hand may wipe away their tears. These are the uncrowned queens of our race. In almost every home there is a name above every name—that of the sweet and patient invalid.

There are now more than 1,800 aeroplanes in regular and active service in France.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girl! Beautify Your Hair! Make It Soft, Fluffy and Luxuriant—Try the Moist Cloth.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable luster, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any store and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all. Adv.

Fly Caused Serious Fire.
A fly caused a fire in a large house at Westport, New Zealand, not long since. The fire, by which the house was burned to the ground, was due to the fly which escaped from a burning mass from a gas jet into which it had flown, and alighted on the window curtains, set them ablaze.

A CLERGYMAN'S TESTIMONY.

The Rev. Edmund Heslop of Wigton, Pa., suffered from Dropsy for a year. His limbs and feet were swollen and puffed. He had heart fluttering, was dizzy and exhausted at the least exertion. Hands and feet were cold and he had such a dragging sensation across the loins that it was difficult to move. After using 5 boxes of Dodde's Kidney Pills the swelling disappeared and he felt himself again. He says he has been benefited and blessed by the use of Dodde's Kidney Pills. Several months later he wrote: "I have not changed my faith in your remedy since the above statement was authorized. Correspond with Rev. E. Heslop about this wonderful remedy."

CUTTING OF $140,000,000 IS UP TO HIM

W. Averill Harriman, just twenty-one years old, has set the speculators of Wall street guessing as to how he will cast his deciding vote in the cutting up and distribution of the juiciest melon that Wall street has feared of in years. The Union Pacific railroad, which was the pet road of E. H. Harriman, the boy's father, has accumulated the tremendous surplus of $69,000,000. To this has been added the $81,000,000 which came into the coffers of the railroad with the sale, by court orders, of the Southern Pacific railroad. Now, young Harriman, Yale 1913, holds the deciding vote in the distribution of this vast sum of money.

ODD CITY TRADES

Sawdust Wholesaler Who Handles Refuse of Mills.

Men Make a Specialty of Putting New Faces on Old Stores and Dwelling Houses—Role of Chimney Expert.

New York.—Among the occupations of New York city are many of an unusual nature, which could not exist elsewhere than in a center of vast population. Specialized occupations these are, which demand a huge population from which to draw their patronage. New York is the city of specialized trades. Innumerable articles which in smaller cities could be but a by-product of some more general business find here a sufficient market to make their separate existence possible.

There is the sawdust man, for instance, who in New York is a very important business man. The wholesale sawdust dealer advertises all kinds of sawdust and requests that you will telephone your needs so that there may be an early delivery.

It used to be that anyone who wanted sawdust went to the sawmill and asked for as much as he wanted. There was only one kind of sawdust in the good old days and that was an important product which anybody could have for the asking. Now the sawdust wholesaler will tell you that sawdust is a very valuable product and that the sawdust business is offering greater opportunities every day. There are about sixty kinds of sawdust on the market, so says the sawdust expert, and all of them have their stated uses in the realm of trade. Mahogany sawdust is just as aristocratic and elegant a product as mahogany furniture. It is useful for smoking—not as tobacco. Mahogany sawdust is employed because of the good, clear kind of work that it does in smoking hams, fish, etc.

All the way from the preparation of food to the polishing of precious metals, ranges the usefulness of sawdust. The hardwood dusts are used for polishing in some jewelers' shops and cheaper sawdusts are used for polishing less valuable metal work. In packing and making cushions, for the covering of floors and in the fur business sawdust is useful.

There are several firms in New York who have no other care in this world than to discover the dark secrets of why chimneys smoke. They don't bother to attend to the big buildings, either. They are almost entirely devoted to solving the secrets of the domestic hearth. Business is plentiful, too, for nowadays everybody who builds a new house in the country or the suburbs of New York wants at least one open fire in it, and, strange

RATS MAKE TRIPS BY WIRES

Rodents Travel Overhead on Their Foraging Raids in Order to Escape Cats.

Huntingdon, Pa.—Residents living near Fifth and Church streets have been astonished by the spectacle of twenty or twenty-five rats walking on electric wires.

The rodents make their home in a stable of the Adams Express company, and every evening, as soon as the shades lengthen, they begin their raid on a home a city block from the stable. Reaching the top of an electric light pole, they creep out on the wires and begin the procession, which is watched by a crowd.

The reason the rats do the slack wire stunt, it is supposed, is because they wish to evade the cats in the neighborhood.

Find $300 Diamond in Oysters.
Wakefield, Mass.—While eating dinner, Mrs. Margaret Barrett found in a plate of oysters a diamond, finely cut and polished.

to say, there are more new chimneys that smoke than there are new chimneys that don't smoke. So there you are with an excellent opportunity for the smoking chimney doctor—and all directly in the New York zone. In less closely populated regions the new householder with a smoking chimney is obliged to consult an architect, a mason or an oldest inhabitant—usually with results much more doubtful than when the chimney specialist is called in.

Making over store fronts is an industry which has found so many patrons in New York that a number of firms have found it profitable to get aside all other forms of building and devoted themselves wholly to helping New York merchants improve the appearance of their establishments by putting a new face on the matter. All classes of merchants, from the small dealer in the suburb to the great dry goods firms which do millions of dollars' worth of business in a year, indulge in the luxury of a new kind of front to their business homes every once in so often. The new store front builder is also an architect and his art demands all the taste, discretion and sense of appropriateness which are required for the erection of an entire new building, with perhaps a greater degree of ingenuity. In line with the new store front enterprises there are certain firms of architects which have made a reputation for their ability in the making over of house fronts in city houses, so that, while the remodeled residences fit perfectly into their place in the city block, they at the same time are greatly improved in appearance and are given an originality of aspect which enables the occupants of the mansion and the friends of the family to recognize a residence without referring to the number on the transom.

TO WEAR BYZANTINE CROWN

King Constantine of Greece Will Be Hailed as "Augustus" at the Coronation.

Vienna.—An invitation had reached Emperor Francis Joseph to participate as an honored guest at the splendid and unique coronation ceremonies in Athens next May, when King Constantine of Greece and his royal spouse will be crowned.

The feature of the ceremony will lie in the fact that the Byzantine Imperial diadem of old will be placed on the brow of the ruler of a small but ambitious kingdom, and that with the crowning will go the assumption of the ancient title of "Augustus."

The very crown of the old Byzantine empire, kept hitherto in the monastery of Mount Athos, will be used on this occasion, with the purple robe of old.

Simultaneous with the coronation festivities there will be a fortnight's athletic games in the stadium at Athens and historical plays will be given in the Acropolis.

Austrians are wondering how Russia will like this assumption of succession by Byzantium.

DOES STONE HIDE FORTUNE?

British Savant Makes Archaeological Find in West Donegal—Great Interest is Aroused.

Belfast.—Great interest has been aroused in archaeological circles by the discovery made by Prof. Edward Spencer Dodgson of Jesus college, Oxford. The peculiar markings on the stones found by the savant at Killult, Falcarragh, West Donegal, are believed to provide a clue to the whereabouts of an extensive treasure, by long to an ancient Irish chieftain, and supposed to be hidden in the immediate neighborhood. Several rare gold ornaments were found near by during the digging of a mound sixty years ago.

Professor Dodgson found the stone, which is over a yard in length, partially exposed in a field less than a hundred yards from the local Protestant church. The position of the stone and its peculiarities attracted the savant's attention, and he obtained permission to have it removed to Gortahork Gaelic college, where it attracted the attention of many teachers and students. Some of the markings have been deciphered, one group being interpreted as signifying soul or spirit, but no further light on the message can be obtained pending the arrival of experts. The markings resemble Ogham, a peculiar alphabet of straight lines used by the ancient Irish. Some parts of the surface of the stone bear resemblance to the body of a petrified fish.
