Grand Jury's Special Report Far Reaching and Asks Changes

COURT HOUSE AND JAIL REPORT

On last Friday evening the Grand Jury in addition to the regular report printed last week also returned several special reports. Among the reports were the committee reports as to the various officers books inspected and two special reports as to citizens approaching members of the Grand Jury alleging John Owens attempted to talk to a Juror and another that Eusebio Carbajal urged a juror to procure an indictment. In as much as we cannot give all of the reports in full we are printing below the special report as to the Committee findings as to the conditions of the Court House and Jail and their recommendations.

SPECIAL REPORT ON COURT HOUSE AND JAIL
To the Honorable J. O. Nabours, Foreman and members of the Grand Jury, March, 1914 Term:
Gentlemen:

We your committee appointed to examine the Court House and Jail as to the Court House and Jail, beg leave to offer the following report: We find that the gang way or hall in the jail is in a very dirty and filthy condition and should be cleaned. The toilet and lavatory are also in a very dirty and filthy condition and at times when there is no water in the tank with which to flush the toilet they will use the toilet at night and it will be sometime during the next day before it is flushed out. That on the ceiling of the jail as well as on the cages there have been vulgar and obscene words painted or marked which have been allowed to remain there. We were informed by certain inmates of the jail and especially one who has been confined in the jail for some 45 days that during the entire time he has been in jail the jailer has never been in the jail and has not inspected the jail. All of the prisoners claim with the exception of two that the jail is filled with flies and they are lousy. They have not sufficient bed clothing in the jail and in many instances the prisoners have to sleep on half of a quilt and cover themselves with the other half. There is one prisoner who refuses to use the bed clothing on account of the same being infested with lice. That the only food furnished them is beans three times a day with a small piece of bacon, no fresh meat of any kind being furnished while the present prisoners have been in jail. There are nine prisoners in the county jail now.

We would recommend that the jail be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected and cuspidors be furnished, a cover for the toilet be put on the same and that new bedding be furnished, including a light mattress in place of the only bedding they have which is infested with flies. We also recommend that a sufficient amount of a disinfectant be purchased in order that the jailer or prisoners may see that this is used frequently in order to keep the jail clean. The prisoners offer to use this if it is furnished. We are informed that there is an oil preparation which is a disinfectant and which is put on the iron bars in the cages or cells which not only acts as a preservative of the paint but keeps the jail in a sanitary condition.

We find that the gasoline tank for lighting the jail is in the jail runaround. We think that this is not a proper place for keeping a tank and that it should be moved to some place where the prisoners would not have access to the same. As to the county court house we beg leave to offer the following report:

We find the building in a fairly good condition with the exception of the windows which are not properly fitted and admit dust and sand to the extent that on at least one day the Court could not be held on account of the dust.

The roof also shows that there are numerous leaks. The floor is considerably worn but this is being remedied by a covering of rubberoid. We also note numerous cracks in the floor and walls apparently the result of defective foundation. We also find the rooms intended for use of Petit Jury used as living rooms by the Sheriff and family greatly to the inconvenience of the business of the Court. We find that the only furniture in any of the county offices except in the office of the County Clerk and one in the office of the Sheriff belong to the County. All other furniture in the different offices being private property and being supplied by the different county officials.

We respectfully offer the following recommendations:

That a competent janitor be immediately employed at the expense of the county who shall have full charge of the building and the grounds whose duties shall be care and attention of the water and lighting systems of the county buildings including the street lights furnished by the city around the block upon which the said grounds the said buildings are located, that all of the windows in the Court House be supplied with weather strips.

We find that the old county records lying in a room of the Court house and not properly protected. We recommend that these records be placed in vaults for proper protection and reservation and that shelving be fixed in all of the vaults in the court house for use and convenience of preserving the records. We would further suggest that an arch or door be cut in the wall to connect the present Clerk's office with the room originally intended for the County Treasurer in the plans and specifications of the building as the present quarters of the Clerk's office are cramped, especially so in the matter of vault room for the county records. The vault in the office is altogether too small for current records making it necessary to keep a large part of the records in the vault in the quarters mentioned above originally intended for the Treasurer. That the room intended for use as County Commissioners be connected with present office of the County Clerk by means of an archway for the

COURT GRINDS ON

District Court Resumed Sessions on Tuesday Morning

SHEFFIELD CASE NOW ON TRIAL

Edward L. Medler, Judge, returned from Estancia on Tuesday morning and resumed District Court which had adjourned Saturday in order that the Judge and District attorney might open and close Court for Torrance county on Monday.

The usual grind is on and it is expected that Court will be in session for two or three weeks yet.

SHEFFIELD CASE NOW ON TRIAL

The trial of Dan Sheffield alias Dan Jackson is now on, the obtaining of a Jury being in progress at this time the regular venire was exhausted at noon yesterday and a special venire of 25 names issued. Court resumed this morning. The charge against Sheffield grows out of a murser of Felix Kilpatrick alias Jim Jones at Hondo last July. Kilpatrick was shot through the back while at the supper table. Sheffield lived with the family. The prosecution will be based on circumstantial evidence. The wife of Kilpatrick, Mrs. Myrtle Kilpatrick has been held under bond as a witness. Many relatives of the deceased and accused are here for the trial. Attorneys Barber and Prichard represent the defense.

ASCARATE MURDER CASE

The case of Ricardo Ascarate has been set down for hearing tomorrow but will likely not be commenced until the first of next week owing to the trial now in progress of Dan Sheffield. Attorney general Frank W. Clacey will be here to assist Dist. Atty. Hamilton in the prosecution. W. H. Lowellyn and F. H. Boham appear for the defendants. The case was first tried here a year ago with the result of a disagreement of the Jury. Ascarate is the son of Guinalupe Ascarate, now Receiver of the Las Cruces land office, and the parents are prominent in Don Ana county. The son is accused of shooting and killing his wife a bride of nine months the bullet passing through it is alleged, the bride's arm and piercing the heart. Ascarate's defense is that the weapon was discharged while he was scuffling with his wife to take the revolver away from her with which she threatened to kill herself one midnight.

COUNTY NOTES

Ed Mechem of Alamogordo has been employed by Peter Burleson to assist the States attorney in the prosecution of A. A. Highfill alleged to have assaulted, with intent to kill, Fred Burleson. The trial of this case is expected to follow the Sheffield case now on and is of much local interest. Geo. B. Barber represents the defendant.

Ed Peters was tried on Tuesday on a charge Assault while armed. The Jury found the defendant guilty and recommended a fine and clemency.

Cases have been set as far ahead as April 15th, so court is expected to last at least that long. It is understood that Judge Medler wishes to clear the docket this term.

Among the 48 indictments returned last week were 19 against persons for not sending their children to school. Attorney Geo. Prichard argued a demurer to one of the indictments on the grounds that the indictment did not show notice had been given to the parent and was sustained by the court. It is expected the other 18 cases will be disposed of in like manner.

The presentments against A. H. Harvey, Clerk, and Profirio Chavez Sheriff were served Saturday and answer will be made by the defendants in a few days it is expected. The court can suspend the officers pending trial at his discretion after the filing of answer. In case of suspension or removal, the Governor appoints. The presentment against each officer are voluminous affairs. Wm. Barnett was appointed special officer of the court Saturday to serve papers upon Sheriff Chavez.

DRAMATIC CLUB ACTIVE

The Carrizozo Dramatic Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Bell Monday evening. Many new members were added to the club, and plans are underway to produce a series of plays, the proceeds to be given to charity. The first play entitled "The Old New Hampshire Home" is one of Mr. Frank Dumonts best productions, a melodrama in three acts requiring eleven characters, including several strong dramatic as well as comedy characters whose parts are so arranged that although the plot is easily followed, there will be something to keep one laughing most of the time. Cost of characters and date will be announced later, but it is expected they will have it ready to be staged in the three or four weeks.

(From column two)

more convenient handling of the business of the county, under the arrangements of these rooms there is necessary in going from one room to another to pass thru two doors and a corridor which is extremely inconvenient and unsatisfactory as the door opening from the Commissioner's room opens into the corridor leading to the ladies' toilet.

We recommend that the County Commissioners be required to furnish seats in the court room for the convenience of the taxpayers who under the present conditions are compelled to either stand up or sit on the floor, and that cuspidors be placed in convenient places in the Court room and corridors for the maintenance of proper sanitary conditions. We recommend that a proper and substantial fence be constructed around the entire Court house grounds; that as soon as practicable that the grounds be broken and seeded to suitable lawn grass and that the janitor be required to see that the grass be planted be properly irrigated together with the trees already planted.

We further recommend that proper measures be taken for fire protection by the purchase and installation of apparatus including hose and fire extinguishers; also that a gasoline engine be supplied for pumping purposes in addition to the windmill already in place for the purpose of maintaining sufficient water on hand at all times for use of the buildings and grounds.

We recommend the immediate purchase of fourteen folding cots and light mattresses and quilts for use of Pe. ii. justices which when put in use shall be stored in the small room designed for that purpose.

Respectfully submitted,

ASSURE ROAD TO SOUTH

Will Build Road from Carrizozo Along Railroad to Alamogordo

STATE ENGINEER COMING

The much talked of and urged road from Carrizozo along the west side of the railroad track thru Oscura and on to Alamogordo is an assured fact from developments resulting from the Road Commission's action the past week. The County Road Commission has appropriated $1300 for the work from the Otero County line between Three Rivers and Oscura to Carrizozo, with the understanding that the State Highway Commission duplicate the amount.

Otero county had previously thru its road commission appropriated a like amount for the work from Tularosa to the line and had been assured by the State Commission that the amount would be duplicated. So there now stands available $2600 to complete this road which is considered sufficient to place the road in fine condition and the Road Commission of Otero and Lincoln county have agreed to cooperate at once and put the work thru.

The Road Commission of this place, has been informed by letter this week that James A. French, the State Engineer expects to arrive here within two weeks and will commence a complete survey of the road from Carrizozo south. This will be the first step toward the building of a permanent road. The road will doubtless follow the railroad right-of-way to Tularosa. The only difficulties to be encountered is some sand between Oscura and Three Rivers and this will be the main engineering problem to be met. The balance of the route is simple grading work with a few arroyos to be crossed or bridged. It is suggested that inasmuch as Otero County has a Traction grade that that county for the use of the machine in this county. Lincoln County has about 22 miles of the road to build, and $2600 with which to build it if the State Commission cooperates as has been indicated.

The state engineer while here will take up the matter of the bridge north of Carrizozo across the Bar W arroyo which bridge has been urged repeatedly by the Carrizozo people. With this bridge in place a good road to the north to Corona Ancho and White Oaks can be put in shape at little expense.

The south road is also of vital interest to the town as it means the outlet for the town that has been desired for sometime. With this road in condition travelers over the Borderland and All Southern routes can come thru Carrizozo as an optional route and it will mean that in the winter the travel will be this way instead of via Ruidosa which road is often out of condition because of snow in the mountains. Captain, Lincoln and Nogal are all interested alike with Carrizozo in this outlet.

The state will have much available money for road work this year and Lincoln county expects much improvement in its highways.

The ISOLATED CONTINENT

A ROMANCE OF THE FUTURE

By GUIDO VON HORVATH and DEAN HOARD

COPYRIGHT 1913 BY W.G. CHAPMAN IN THE UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN

SYNOPSIS.

For fifty years the continent of North America had been isolated from the rest of the world by the use of Z-rays, a wonderful invention of Hannibal Prudent. The invention had saved the country from foreign invasion, and the continent had been united under one government with Prudent as president. For half a century peace and prosperity reigned in this part of the world. The story opens with President Prudent critically ill. His death is hastened by the receipt of a message from Count von Werdenstein of Germany that he has at last succeeded in penetrating the rays. Dying, he warns his daughter Astra that this means a foreign invasion. He tells her to hurry to the island of Clymth, but dies before she can tell the location of the place. Astra is nominated for the presidency by the continental party. Napoleon Edison calls on Astra, informing her that he was a pupil of her father's, and promises to help her. He gives her a ring made of a newly discovered substance which, he says, will solve the problem of dying. Chevalier di Leon appears in Europe. He notes that preparations have been completed for an invasion of America.

The count's face was disturbed for a second, when his own cold blue eyes met the gray ones; they clashed like two swords, both blades keen, hard and elastic.

"Chevalier di Leon?"

The chevalier bowed.

"Your business must be very important, since you ask to see me in my private residence."

"It is, your excellency, and as I know your time is valuable I shall not delay you long."

"Please!"

The chevalier took a small package from his pocket and unwrapped it, then he placed a piece of yellow metal on the table.

"Will your excellency examine this?"

The count picked up the metal with a bored expression and its weight surprised him.

"Gold?"

"Yes, it is gold."

"And what is its meaning?"

"I am willing to build and equip a factory for your excellency, enabling you to produce the metal for 25 pfennigs the kilogram."

"Then it is not gold."

"Have it examined by an expert."

"I will do that."

"When may I return for your answer?"

"Tomorrow morning at nine sharp."

The two bowed and turned to go, but the count stopped them.

"Who knows the secret of the composition besides yourself?"

"Only one man. He lives in South Africa."

"And this gentleman?" and the count pointed to Kalmar.

"He knows as much about it as your excellency."

The count thought for a moment. Suddenly he came nearer to the chevalier and, stopping before him, looked steadily into his wide, gray eyes.

What the chancellor felt no one knows, but he looked as if he were the applicant and the other the all-mighty chancellor upon whom the eyes of four continents rested hopefully. At least that was the impression Herr Kalmar received.

Slowly he asked: "And what is the price of your secret?"

"I will tell you tomorrow."

CHAPTER V.

The Countess Rosiny.

Chevalier di Leon and his companion hardly had left the room when the count gave orders that caused two men to emerge from the side door at the instant the two men approached the waiting conveyance. These two men took separate cabs and found it an easy matter to follow the quarry, as they had no desire to avoid the detectives.

Herr Kalmar returned to the editorial rooms and Chevalier di Leon went to his hotel, where he bought a number of papers and magazines.

The secret service reported at 11:45 p. m. that he had retired, and considering him safe for the next eight hours they did likewise. There they made a mistake. The chevalier read until twelve. Then, cautiously opening the door, he looked into the hall and listened.

No one was in sight and he stepped into his room, so he turned and picked up a small box and hurried with it to the fire escape at the end of the hall.

It was a clear, starry night, but no moon was shining. He mounted to the square, set out, and listening again advanced to the center and leaned against the chimney about which the snow had melted. He looked at the sky for a long time until he discovered the star he was looking for. Was it a star? It gleamed like one, but it winked like an old-fashioned revolving lighthouse.

Chevalier di Leon took the object he brought with him, and directing it toward that winking star he manipulated something that gave a metallic sound. A hiss followed, like the hiss of a bullet.

A minute later another star appeared near the winking one. It was large and bright and seemed to split fire. Suddenly it disappeared in a small white cloud, looking like a shrapnel exploding in midair.

The winking star vanished entirely. Then the chevalier returned to his rooms and went to bed.

The following morning at nine o'clock he stood before the chancellor. The count bowed to him more cordially than he had the day before.

"The experts report that the ore you gave me is chemically pure gold, purer than any they have ever seen."

"What is your intention?"

He thought for a moment. "For some reason I cannot doubt your words; I am, so to say, forced to believe in you." He looked inquiringly at the chevalier, but as he did not answer the count continued: "Do you realize the far-reaching influence of your invention?"

"I do to the most minute detail."

"What is your intention?"

"To give my invention to you—for a consideration!"

"And that is?"

"The young man weighed every word he said.

"Absolute disarmament and peace."

The count showed no surprise. He felt that he stood before an extraordinary man.

"Sir, who are you?"

The chevalier stood up and smiled pleasantly.

"I expected this question, your excellency, but if you will permit I shall not answer it. All I can say is that I believe I am a true apostle of brotherly love. My ideal is to overthrow tyranny and make not only the leaders but the masses happy and contented. What I am offering you is a mighty instrument to forward this movement. True, it also means destruction if judiciously used. I came to you, sir, the chosen leader of the armies of four continents." He looked earnestly at the man standing before him.

"Do you not think that it is your duty to accept my offer—to send home the million who are anxious to break peace; whose final destination is to break into a happy, peaceful continent where every man is free and where the hearts of the people are not poisoned with the passions of selfish greed? It is my own wish, also, that those invisible walls which separate the American continent from the others shall disappear, not be destroyed by ruthless hands, but opened to receive brothers!"

The enthusiastic young man stepped when he saw a sarcastic smile play round the corners of the count's mouth.

"I know enough, chevalier!" His voice was cool and cutting. "You are an American."

The chevalier did not say "yes" or "no," but according the cold expression on the count's face he almost ordered him to hear him out.

"Your excellency must listen to me to the end. Who I am or whence I come does not matter. I have offered you a secret that will enable you to make your country, and through your country the world, happy if used with discretion. It not, it may bring conditions that will break all your ambitions. Your tremendous armies, men of war and fortifications, figuratively speaking, are all made of gold. You can easily imagine what chaos will reign if I give my gold away—make it no more valuable than iron. Don't you realize that it will break you, in spite of your might, and drive your armies to work instead of wasting time in pursuing the scientifically perfected exercises and studies of devastation? You ought to realize that gold is only an image created by man; that yellow metal has no real value. Work is the only thing of value to a nation."

"I have one thing more to say. You have evidently selected for your life's work the invasion and conquering of the American continent, claiming that the United States had refused to yield to the wishes of the European powers fifty years ago. Do you think there are no more men like Hannibal Prudent? Do you think that after breaking the isolator all you would need do would be to land your armed puppets and kill the people who have nursed at the bosom of Liberty? I have spoken, your excellency!"

The chevalier made a courteous bow. The count seated himself before his desk.

"Chevalier di Leon, no man has ever spoken to me as you have." His voice was dull. "I will think over the far-reaching perspective you have spread before me; I will have to consider it from every side. For that reason I cannot set a date for my final decision and the decision of his majesty the kaiser."

"Above all, you have awakened my admiration; you are a strong man, chevalier, and I am a friend to strong men. I welcome you." He rose and offered his hand to his visitor.

"I want to introduce you to his majesty and the chief diplomats," continued the count. "I hope you will accept the invitation to the 'Hot-ball' given day after tomorrow."

The chevalier bowed. The count filled out an invitation card personally and escorted his caller to the door.

In the afternoon the chevalier sought aeroplane hangars and stores and bought a small monoplane of the "Belt" style. After trying the machine, he inquired for a large private hangar and succeeded in finding one near the count's residence.

The court ball was one of the formal social events of the week. The room in which the court marshal and his assistants received the guests was in the ultra-secession style. When the chevalier entered it he received the impression of entering a gigantic wedding cake that had been hollowed and decorated artfully on the inside.

The stiff courtesy that once prevailed at the court of Frederick the Great still was in existence during ceremonious affairs.

The Count von Werdenstein approached the chevalier with unusual kindness and introduced him to many of the guests. The plain, black evening dress, without stars, crosses, ribbons or other signs of distinction, was strange under this roof and among these gorgeous uniforms.

Baron von Koeser was asked by the chancellor to take care of the chevalier, and the little hussar led his host to entertain the interesting chevalier, whose sole reason for being there was that he had some great and valuable inventions for military purposes.

At 10:45 p. m. the great double doors were swung open. The master of ceremony came in with his big gilt cane and knocked on the door to announce the arrival of his majesty.

The emperor, a tall, typical Prussian, came first, leading the Princess of Wales, then came the Prince of Wales, escorting the Princess Isold; the young emperor was not married.

The hidden orchestra played the old melody, "Die Wacht am Rhein." When his majesty finished the regular circle the chancellor introduced the chevalier. The courtiers fell back at a motion from the emperor and he and the chevalier spent some time in what was apparently an intimate conversation. When the dance began he was dismissed and the emperor waltzed around the great hall once with his cousin, the Princess of Wales.

Chevalier di Leon stood alone for a short time, watching the dancers with interest; then the Baron von Koeser came and whispered in his ear that the Countess Rosiny desired to dance with him. Di Leon smiled pleasantly and followed the baron, who led him to a young woman of great beauty.

Her large, dark eyes rested on the bowing chevalier; her rosy cheeks dimpled in a smile as she stood up to take his arm. They waltzed away from the baron, who looked after them with admiration.

The chevalier proved to be a master of waltzing; disregarding the usual habit, he did not stop after the first tour of the room, but continued. The countess smiled at him coquettishly.

"Chevalier, you dance wonderfully."

"Ah, you, countess, are the dream of a dancer."

They arrived at the countess' chair; but the chevalier showed no signs of stopping and carried her along as easily and gracefully as the morning

"I Am Very Much Honored," He Said Simply.

breze carries the fragment of this side down.

"We are creating a sensation, Chevalier di Leon."

His majesty and the princess left the ball at midnight and soon after the Countess Rosiny found an opportunity to talk once more to the chevalier.

"Am I asking too much of you in inviting you to our house ball on Saturday next?"

The chevalier bowed and smiled at the countess, whose long, silky eyelashes shaded her beautiful eyes with such apparent innocence.

"I am very much honored," he said simply.

He met the chancellor once more in the buffet that adjoined the great ball-rooms. He took the chevalier by his arm and led him to a table. There, in the company of high nobles and diplomats, they clinked glasses and drank to the health of His Majesty, the Emperor of Germany.

HE RECOGNIZED THE NAME

Not Only That, But He Could Give The Correct Expression That Englishman Made.

A certain London clergyman who had been traveling in Greece found himself compelled to stay the night at a monastery on Mount Athos. The welcome was warm, but the food execrable, in particular the soup, which the guest could hardly force himself to swallow.

Being a classical scholar, his knowledge of ancient Greek helped him to some understanding of the monks, who spoke the widely-different modern tongue, and he was astonished to hear that the unpalatable soup was an English dish.

"English," cried one of the monks, adding that an English sailor had been there not long before and recognized it.

"What did he call it?" asked the clergyman.

The monk had to think for a moment before he could recollect the strange English name of that soup. Ah! he had it. It was "beesly muck!"—Stray Stories.

TESTING SMALL SEEDS

EXCELLENT METHOD FOR OATS, WHEAT, ALFALFA, ETC.

Ordinary Blotting Paper With Squares Marked Off Will Be Found Entirely Satisfactory—Make the Test Every Year.

(By BERT ZALL, National Crop Improvement Service.) A simple method of testing small grains for germination is to take an ordinary piece of white blotting paper, about five or six inches wide by 19 inches long, fold twice, making paper about square, as in cut.

Seeds Wrapped in Blotting Paper. of blotter after folding. Place one kernel in each square, fold as shown in Fig. 1 after wetting thoroughly. Wrap test in waxed (buttered) paper after inserting a strip of cloth about ten inches long to act as a wick.

Pile up the tests as in Fig. 2 with wicks leading into a glass of water. Keep cool but do not let the test freeze. Read the test in six to ten days. Ninety-six seeds should germinate.

It is important to test all of the seeds every year, because, for many reasons, there are times when the germination of the seeds is very low, and many a poor crop, as, for in-

Better Cows. Let the serious, earnest watchword be, fewer cows and better. If the cows that bring no profit to the owner were put to the shambles the price of milk would at once advance to where it ought to be to correspond with the cost of production. Sell the robber cows now!

Poultry Experiments. As a result of feeding experiments conducted at the Missouri station it was concluded that whole grain does not fatten chickens, that it is cheaper to feed the grain finely ground; and that the best grains can be had by feeding birds finely ground feeds when confined in crates. The best returns resulted from a ration consisting of 24 parts white bolted corn meal, 8 parts low grade flour and 1 part each of oatmeal, pea meal, buckwheat middlings, and wheat middlings. The flesh of the birds fed on this ration was creamy white in color, and the fat was distributed over the body, and the entrails were encased with fat.

Early Vegetables. Some of the early vegetables, such as onions, radishes and beets, are profitable for nearby marketing. They should be planted in rich soil that is comparatively free from weed seeds.

Look Out for Rabbits. Have a care that the rabbits do not gnaw the bark from the young trees while the ground is covered with snow.

MANAGING SHEEP IN WINTER

Where the Weather is Severe Ample Shelter and Food Must Be Furnished to Prevent Loss.

Even at the far south, sheep should be provided with comfortable sheds, and in those portions where snows fall, and the food is destroyed by frost, hay and roots of good quality and in abundance should be furnished. Where the winters are severe, shelter and food must be provided. The sheep should be brought to the pens early in the season. At the very first of the feeding season, the oldest and poorest of the flock should be separated from the others and put upon higher keeping. They should have grain in abundance and be made ready for the butcher as soon as possible. Too many sheep must not be kept in a single pen. If the pens are small, or the food is poor, large flocks will soon become diseased, and the owner will sustain a heavy loss.

A good shed, which is comfortably warm and thoroughly ventilated, should be provided. Sheep can endure cold much better than they can impure air. Still they should not be exposed to the action of wind or rain, and the temperature of the pen should not run extremely low. Small pens, which are quite warm, should be provided for the use of sheep at lambing time, and for sheep which do not own their lambs. The bottom of the shed should be kept constantly dry. Plenty of straw or waste hay should be used for bedding.

An occasional feed of bright corn-stalks will be relished by sheep, and do them good. If it is not well to keep breeding ewes very fat; on the other hand, it is simply ruinous to allow them to get very thin in flesh. A variety of food will be relished, and will

A Thrifty Trio. give better results. As in summer, salt should be kept in a box to which sheep can have free access.

DAMAGE BY POCKET GOPHERS

Little Animals Are Very Destructive to Orchard and Nursery Stock and to Garden Truck.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

According to the biological survey of the department of agriculture, the pocket gopher are very destructive to orchard and nursery stock, and to garden produce. Apricot trees six inches in diameter have been destroyed by the gopher. In one orchard in California alone an assistant of the survey counted seven trees that had been killed by gophers. The ranchman did not seem to know what was the trouble, but thought it was due to some blight. A gopher was seen boring under one of the trees and later on was caught in a trap. One of the greatest enemies of the gopher is the barn owl. One-half bushel of the remains of gophers was found near the nest of an owl of this species, and yet almost every ranchman would shoot an owl at sight. The survey is trying to educate them to the value of owls.

The best method of killing the pocket gopher is to destroy them by the use of poison mixed with chopped sweet potatoes. The potatoes are very acceptable to the gopher owing to the fact that they keep well under ground. In one experiment of 20 different runways, dead gophers were found in 19, and in the twentieth the potato had been stored up by the gopher for a future meal.

NECESSITY FOR PLANT FOOD

Can Farmer Afford to Take Risk in Seed, Kind of Fertilizer Used and Culture Employed?

The crops which you are growing average to mature in 60 to 90 days. The seasons are short. The plants must have their food every hour they are in the soil, and it must be available or they will not grow.

If you think you can trust quick-growing crops on insoluble fertilizers, that is for you to determine, but in my judgment, taking the seasons as they go, wet and dry, hot and cold, you will find you will be the loser, says a writer in an exchange. You have to take a great risk as to the weather. That is the largest factor in raising crops.

Can you afford to take any risk in the seed, the kind of fertilizer used, or the culture employed, factors over which you have control?

"But I don't know God like I do you and papa, and it's hard work to love some one I have never met," was the unexpected comeback of little Charley. "Besides, I love papa so much and you so much and Lucy Johnson so much more than all the rest that I'm just bursting with love, and I haven't any room left to love God in."

ENDS DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" cures sick, sour stomachs in five minutes—Time It!

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that's just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction. It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.—Adv.

GIRLS! GIRLS! TRY IT, BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Make it Thick, Glossy, Wavy, Luxuriant and Remove Dandruff—Real Surprise for You.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Dandering hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Dandering and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Dandering dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Dandering from any store and just try it. Adv.

To Cultivate Cheerfulness. Sydney Smith once gave a woman a score of recipes for cheerfulness, and among them was to remember all the pleasant things said to and of her, to keep a box of candy on the chimney-piece and a kettle simmering on the hob. ## IRRIGATION BY PUMPING

The New Mexico experiment station has done some careful work in determining how far a man can afford to raise water for irrigation by pumping and secure a profit. They used the various field crops such as alfalfa, corn, oats, wheat, orchard and garden truck. They took into consideration the cost of fuel as well as the varying depths the water would have to be raised by the pump.

For Alfalfa, when it can be sold for only ten dollars a ton, there is no profit in pumping to irrigate except under the most favorable conditions. When alfalfa may be sold for $15 a ton and gasoline only costs 16 cents per gallon, water may be pumped 95 feet; if gasoline costs 22 cents a gallon, 70 feet is the limit. With fuel oil at 4 1-2 cents per gallon it will pay to pump as deep as 110 feet. These estimates were based on a yield of from six to seven and a half tons per acre each season. This evidently explains why some of our folks have not been getting rich pumping water on alfalfa in Oklahoma, says a writer in the Oklahoma Farm Journal. Of course this test was made under conditions where practically the entire water supply had to be furnished by pumping. In localities where normal rainfall will take care of at least half the water supply, the chances are a little more in favor of the pumping plant as a supplementary supply of water. Here of course the cost of maintaining a condition by which the water might be supplied when needed would have to be considered.

For oats, 45 feet is as deep as the water for irrigation can be profitably raised with a fuel cost for gasoline of 16 cents a gallon; with fuel oil at 1 1/2 cents a 48-foot lift could be used; wheat 52 and corn 73 feet, with the gasoline cost the same as for the other crops mentioned. For orchards, where conditions are favorable to fruit, water may profitably be pumped from almost any depths within the reach of modern pumping machinery.

For truck gardens the limit of profit is being approached when the water has been lifted over 170 feet with gasoline costing 16 cents and 200 feet when fuel oil may be had for 4 1/2 cents per gallon. It is not expected that these figures will come true in every case to the exact foot, but it is good to have them to refer to in case you are planning some irrigation by pumping during the coming year.

THE BIBLE STUDY ON "HIS SERVANTS SHALL SERVE HIM"

Luke 9:1-5; 9:57-62; 10:38-43—Jan. 25

"Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even these I will do unto you."—Matthew 25:40—R. V.

The opening verse of this Study furnishes the key to all Jesus' preaching, so far as recorded. His one Message was the Good Tidings of the Kingdom of God. Any Christian who has not learned that God's Kingdom is the very essence of the Church's hope and the world's hope has not profitably read and believed the Bible.

The Jews, not being ready for the Kingdom, were as a nation rejected from being Messiah's associates in that Kingdom. But not all were rejected; hence we read that to as many as received Him gave He power to become sons of God—by the begetting and anointing of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost.

While thus declaring the Kingdom, Jesus was not begging His way. We have no suggestion that he ever took up a collection or in any manner solicited money. Many think this a suggestion that His followers should likewise make no appeals for money, but merely use of their own substance and whatever is voluntarily given into their possession. However, each must decide for himself. Amongst those healed was Mary of Magdala, out of whom the Lord had cast seven demons. In other words, the poor woman was in the condition of many in insane asylums. Her trouble was not organic, but caused by the harassing of the fallen angels who had taken possession of her. Whoever believes the Bible must believe that there are fallen angel-spirit beings who exercise a malevolent influence upon those under their control and who must be resisted with the will. Mary, apparently, was wealthy. Released from the power of the demons, she was so grateful that she did her best to serve Jesus on every occasion. Other honorable women are mentioned as contributing to our Lord's support.

"Let Me Bury My Father." Some were attracted to Jesus, evidently, with the thought that one so gifted and so well supplied with life's necessities must be wealthy. One such said, "I will follow Thee whithersoever Thou goest." But apparently his order cooled when Jesus informed him that He had no home of His own, although there were numerous homes to which He was welcome. Poverty attracts few.

Another said in substance, Lord, count me as a disciple, but I feel that I must stay with my father until his death. Jesus' reply shows the importance which He attaches to every service rendered to the Father's Cause. He said, "Let the dead bury their dead, but go thou and preach the Kingdom of God."

The whole world is already dead from the Divine standpoint. Adam's death sentence involved all his children. The only ones whom the Scriptures recognize as alive are those who become related to the Life-giver, Jesus. The Master intimates that all such should take a different view of life from others. There are many to attend to earthly things; few to attend to the more important work of proclaiming the Kingdom.

Another said, I will follow Thee; but first I will spend a little time in bidding my friends farewell. It was not heartlessness that suggested Jesus' answer: "No man, having put his hand to the plow, and looking back, is fit for the Kingdom of God." According to these searching words, who, even among the Lord's consecrated people today, is fit?

We are not to judge others, but to judge self. Yet, in a general way, are not many not only looking back and making special provision for social amenities, but also plunging into many of the world's luxuries, pleasures and frivolities? The question is a searching one. How many of us will the Lord consider fit for a place in His glorious Messianic Empire, which we trust is nigh—at the door!

The story of Martha and Mary concludes the lesson. Both loved the Savior, but mentioned that here differently. Jesus did not disapprove of Martha's carelessness in providing for His comfort; but He especially appreciated Mary's work.

The Task of the Century

- The United States Government has nearly completed the biggest job in the world.
- Two oceans have been wedded and a continent cut in two.
- The total cost of the Panama Canal is $375,000,000 00.
- Three Hundred and Seventy Five Million Dollars to dig a ditch.
- That's a lot of money, but—
- It's less three-fourths of its money the Bell Telephone System has paid in wages to its employes in the last five years.
- Right here in the Mountain States we paid our own operating employes last year, over three million dollars in wages alone.
- You see it does cost a lot to make your telephone service.

LINCOLN COUNTY NOTES

WHITE MOUNTAIN

Mrs. Chas. Williams who has been quite ill is rapidly recovering. B. F. Nabours and wife visited with relatives here for a few days last week.

Mrs. S. E. Barber transacted business in White Oaks, Carrizozo and Oscura last week.

M. H. Cook was here recently from Dexter, N. M., looking after his property.

Miss Agnes Bennett returned to her home at Three Rivers Sunday, after a week's visit with Miss Florence Nabours.

W. H. Weber and wife drove up from Alamogordo Sunday in their new Ford car to spend a few days with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benkendorf.

Our citizens who visited the county seat last week were H. S. Sneffey, J. O. Nabours, Monroe Harper and family, Fred Neighbour, Miss Minnie Hall and brother, Sam.

Miss Florence Nabours entertained friends and relatives at dinner on her homestead Friday of last week, the honored guests being Miss Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Nabours.

From all indications the recent freezings and unsettled weather killed some fruit if not the most of it. Up to date we know nothing definite about it.

One of our old citizens Joe Wingfield was in our midst shaking hands and with the usual welcoming smile for the old timers. Mr. Wingfield has just returned from a trip through the states of Missouri and Oklahoma in view of locating, but the many friends of the family are hoping they decide to remain in the Sunshine State.

FT. STANTON NOTES

Miss Emma Acuna from Clifton Arizona, arrived Sunday to join the local nurses at No. 10.

The usual high-class movies were had this week at the Post theatre. A two reel speciality "Father and Son" was exceptionally good.

"Look out for the cars" when driving down Easy Ave., for the B. & A. is making daily runs, with several branch lines to Rudolph's Bead Factory, Johnson's wholesale Tailoring house, and the Fort Stanton Ice Factory.

The Patriotic singing each Sunday evening in Library hall during the non-sectarian services is becoming more interesting as time goes on. The Chaplain insists that we all learn each and every one of the U. S. Hymns and as well that we shall sing them with the spirit of old.

Were you wise—Why the bonfire at the rear of No. 3 the other day? Because Mrs. Harry Leach wanted to see how her faithful husband would act since his promotion recently in the service. He proved quite a fire chief and now she can vouch for it that Harry deserved the promotion.

We regret very much to have to announce a loss in our social circle, because of the departure of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Lovett who will take up their residence in Oregon. We wish them every success in their new field and ask them to remember always their many friends left at Fort Stanton.

We are in receipt of letters from Dr. M. T. Sloan the "Gas Specialist" who has returned to his post as superintendent of the Eudowood Sanatorium at Towson, Maryland, telling us how he misses his many friends at Fort Stanton, and the pleasure he had while with us. We return compliment by saying the same of you Dr. Sloan, and we hope they will see fit to send you back every now and then.

(e) To acquire the good will, rights and property of all kinds, and to undertake the whole or any part of the assets and liabilities of any person, firm, association or corporation, and to pay for the same in cash, stock of this corporation, bonds, or otherwise.

(f) To hold, purchase or otherwise acquire, to sell, assign transfer mortgage, pledge, or otherwise dispose of shares of the capital stock, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness created by other corporations, either municipal or private and while the holder of any of such stock to exercise all the rights and privileges of ownership including the rights to vote thereon, to the same extent as a natural person might or could do.

(g) To make and enter into contracts of every sort and kind with any individual, firm, association, corporation, private, public or municipal, or any other body politic.

(h) To do all and everything necessary suitable or proper for the accomplishment of any of the purposes or attainments of any one or more of the objects herein enumerated, which shall at any time appear conducive or expedient for the protection or benefit of the corporation, either as holders of, or interested in any property.

It is the intention that the objects, purposes, and powers specified and clauses contained in this Article shall, except where otherwise expressed in said Article, be no wise limited or restricted by reference to or inference from the terms of any clause of this or any other Article in this charter; but that the objects, purposes and powers specified in each of the clauses of this Article shall be regarded as independent objects, purposes and powers.

ARTICLE III

The total capital stock of this company shall be TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND Dollars, which shall be divided into TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY SHARES, of the par value of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS each; and said corporation shall commence business with a capital stock of FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS.

The rights, privileges, conditions and limitations following shall attach to the shares aforesaid—that is to say:

This company shall not be at liberty without the consent in writing first obtained of the holders of two-thirds in amount of the capital stock of this corporation:

(a) To create or issue any other or further shares of capital stock, or increase the capital stock of this corporation.

(b) Nor to create any charge, except as herein provided, upon the net profits of this corporation which shall not be subordinate to the rights of the holders of the capital stock of this corporation.

(c) The balance of the net profits of the corporation, after the payment of all legitimate charges and expenses of said corporation, may be distributed as dividends among the holders of the capital stock of this company, at such times as and when the Board of Directors of this company shall in its discretion determine.

ARTICLE IV

The term for which this corporation is to exist shall be fifty years from the date of the filing of these Articles of Incorporation in the office of the State Corporation Commission of the State of New Mexico.

ARTICLE V

The principal place of business and the principal office of this corporation is at Corona in the county of Lincoln, in the State of New Mexico, and the agent of this corporation in charge of said office is EARL L. MOULTON, whose post office address is Corona, State of New Mexico.

ARTICLE VI

The names and post office addresses of the incorporators, and the number of shares of stock subscribed by each, the aggregate of which is FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS, are as follows:

ARTICLE VII

(a) The corporation shall have no power to mortgage its real property or to dispose of its business as an entirety or mortgage the same except upon the assent in writing first obtained of the holders of two-thirds of the issued capital stock of the company, or upon the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the said capital stock at a meeting of the stockholders duly called for that purpose; however, upon such assent so obtained, or upon such affirmative vote so had and not otherwise, the corporation shall have power to mortgage its real property:

(b) The Board of Directors shall have power to make, alter, amend and rescind the by-laws of this corporation.

(c) With the assent in writing, or pursuant to the vote of two-thirds of all the issued capital stock, the directors shall have power and authority to sell, assign, transfer, convey or otherwise dispose of the property and assets of this corporation as an entirety on such terms and conditions, and for such consideration as the directors shall deem fit, right and just.

(d) The Board of Directors in addition to the powers and authorities by the statutes of the state of New Mexico and by the by-laws of this corporation expressly conferred upon them are hereby empowered to exercise all such powers and to do all such acts and things as may be exercised or done by the corporation, but subject nevertheless to the provisions of the laws of the State of New Mexico, of this charter and to such regulations as may be made from time to time by the stockholders.

(e) The stockholders shall at their first meeting elect by ballot or viva voce, a board of directors, to manage and control the affairs of this corporation, subject to the provisions, clauses and limitations contained in this charter; and said Board of Directors when so elected shall immediately, or as soon after their selection as is convenient, hold a meeting and elect a president, a Secretary and a Treasurer of said corporation.

(f) The Directors shall determine by a vote the compensation to be paid to the officers of this corporation.

(g) The Directors shall, from time to time, determine whether and to what extent and what times and places and under what conditions and regulations the accounts and books of the corporation, or any of them, shall be opened to the inspection of the stockholders, and no stockholder shall have any right to inspect any account or book or document of the corporation, except such right as is conferred by the laws of the State of New Mexico, or authorized by the directors.

PROMOTION EXAMINATION

At the last meeting of the State Board of Education the following provision was made for the holding of the Eighth Grade Promotion Examination.

There shall be one examination on the first Friday and Saturday in April of each year. A fee of fifty cents shall be charged to defray the expenses of such examination, each applicant to furnish such material as is needed for holding the examination.

The examination shall be at such places as may be designated by the County Superintendent and such persons as County Superintendents may name, under such restrictions as may be imposed by the Department of Education.

All examination papers are to be read by the County Superintendent or a committee named by County Superintendent and the same shall be graded in accordance with instructions of the department of Education. A duplicate transcript of grades shall be made by the reader—the original to be filed in the office of county superintendent, and duplicate copy sent to the office of state superintendent.

Examination papers after being read by persons designated to do such work shall be filed with the county superintendent and remain on file for a period of six months.

An honor list giving the names of pupils having the highest grades in each county in the eighth grade promotion examination will be published by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction on June 1st, 1914.

The subjects in which the applicants for promotion will be examined are the same as last year, reading, penmanship, orthography, grammar, geography, arithmetic, physiology history, and civics.

Questions will be sent out, also, in agriculture, and if pupils pass a satisfactory examination in this subject, two per cent will be added to the general average secured in the other subjects. In reading the examination will be based upon the following selections: "The Building of the Ship," "Christmas," "Sella," "The Last Leaf," "Michael," "Ode on the Duke of Wellington," "The Recessional," "Gettysburg Address," "Each and All."

The state Department of Education will prepare and print the questions and distribute them to the county superintendent who will send them to the various persons conducting the examinations. With the questions will be sent rules governing the examination grading of the papers. It is suggested that class grades be sent to the county superintendent in such form that he may combine the grade for the term with the examination grades, that is the term grade should be given for each pupil taking the examination on the scale of 100 in each subject pursued.

Except as indicated above each county superintendent will have entire charge of the examination in his county and will provide for distribution of questions, reading of papers, the preparing of certificates, etc.

Very truly yours,

ALVAN N. WHITE

State Supt. of Public Instruction.

A LOST PEOPLE AND THEIR LANGUAGE

NOTHING in the exciting archaeological history of the last half-century has so stricken the imagination of men as the wonderful discoveries in Crete, and perhaps nothing is likely to prove of such solid service to the student of history. The ghastly legend of the Minotaur preying upon the bodies of the tribute youths and maidens in his impenetrable labyrinth has been proved to have had a solid foundation of historical fact.

The Labyrinth has been brought to light, an extraordinary complex of halls, stairways, chambers, cells, and corridors, which thoroughly explains how the unfortunates who entered it as captives came to believe that no stranger could escape. Strange and terrible must the labyrinthine palace of Knossos have appeared to foreign beholders, and grim and barbarous indeed—though hiding their cruelty beneath a veneer of culture—must the people that built and inhabited it have been, unless all the evidence has been grossly misread and misinterpreted. It is to be feared that the tribute of youths and girls from subject states was a fact. To Knossos they were brought, and there, confined in deep, smooth-walled pitlike enclosures, they dragged out their lives until the day when they were brought forth, unarmed and defenseless, to face the charge of bulls in the arena. Their one faint hope, as we may see by the frescoed pictures, was to catch the beasts' horns and vault over them. In nine cases out of ten, as we may be only too sure, the fate of the hapless captive was to be gored to death to make a Minoan holiday.

In many ways, however, Minoan civilization was of a very high type. The towns were well planned and well built, with commodious and comfortable houses, provided—wonder of wonders—with a proper drainage system. In art and architecture the achievements of the Minoans were noteworthy. Most remarkable of all, they possessed a well-developed system of writing, thus exploding the old theories of Greek and pre-Greek illiteracy. So secure they seemed behind the guard of their ships that they dwelled fearlessly in unfortified cities, not, as the lords of Mycenae and Troy, behind gigantic wall-rings. Yet a time came when the erstwhile over-victorious navy failed in its task, and a catastrophe occurred whereof some record lingered long in Hellenic tradition. The foe—were they Achaeans?—ran their galleys ashore on the beaches of Crete, and the end came. Imperial Knossos vanished in sack and conflagration; her people were dealt such measure as they had often meted out. But the memories of Minoan lingered long, and at last, after the lapse of more than thirty centuries, Sir Arthur Evans wrung from the soil of Crete convincing evidence of the might of the Minoans if not, as yet, of an actual being named Minoan.

From the ruins of the Minoan cities have been disinterred thousands of inscribed tablets, very largely, as it would seem, dealing with administrative and financial matters—like the vast hoards of clay documents found among the remains of the cities of Mesopotamia. A regular system of numeration has been detected, and it is thought that certain tablets relate to chariot wheels, arrows, and other warlike stores. Others appear to be lists of men and women belonging to the great palace—probably slaves. But all as yet await interpretation. Crete has so far yielded no representative of the Rosetta Stone.

The stages by which the picture-writing of early Crete developed into an elaborate system of hieroglyphs and thence into the linear script, with which the Knossian tablets are for the most part covered, are fairly well marked. With a keen and practical people the necessity of simplifying a cumbersome hieroglyphic system for everyday needs would be apparent. Certainly the Minoan script appears to be much simpler than the cuneiform writing of Mesopotamia. Nevertheless, the old system and the new appear to have flourished side by side, and perhaps to some extent in conjunction, until Minoan culture was destroyed or displaced by the new inhabitants of Crete.

Perhaps the most famous of the Cretan hieroglyphic inscriptions is that of the "Phaistos disc." The disc is a roughly circular clay plate about 6.67 inches in diameter, covered on both faces with a hieroglyphic inscription which in each case coils round from the center outwards. It is by far the largest hieroglyphic inscription yet discovered in Crete. It contains some 241 signs and 61 sign groups, and it exhibits the remarkable peculiarity that every sign has been separately impressed on the clay while in a soft state by a stamp or punch. It is, in fact, a printed inscription.

So much appears certain, that the Phaistos disc was not inscribed by Minoans. The signs differ greatly from those of the Knossian deposits. Four-fifths of them are quite different and the remaining part do not always closely resemble those of Crete. There is no trace in the human figures of the wasp waist we have already learned to seek in the portraits of the men and women who moved about the palace of Minos. The male figures all seem to have shaven heads. Those of females are broad, squat, and ugly, very different from the slim Minoan damsels with their dainty "Parisian" dresses. There is a ship unlike those depicted at Knossos and a building astonishingly like the Lycian tombs, whereof specimens are preserved in the British museum.

Sir Arthur Evans came to the conclusion that the inscription probably had some religious significance. He also thinks that it was the work not of Cretans but of some parallel and closely-allied culture, and suggests that this culture was that of Lycia in southwestern Asia Minor. As to its religious bearing, he considered that it is probably a hymn to a nature-goddess. A sign apparently intended to represent a female breast is a prominent one, and it is a reasonable inference that it refers to some such deity as Kybele, the Great Mother, or the Diana of Ephesus with her multitude of breasts. Such a divinity was worshiped in Minoan Crete and may have been the same as Ephesian Diana.

Two attempts have been made to interpret the disc inscription, one by Professor Hempl of Stanford university, California, the other by Miss Stawell of Newham college, England. Professor Hempl makes it to be a record of the restoration of plunder to a shrine. Miss Stawell, on the other hand, interprets it as an archaic hymn. Certainly on the face of it this interpretation seems the more probable, and agrees with Sir Arthur Evans' view. The shape of the disc appears to indicate that the inscription is not an ordinary one, and it may very well have been a written prayer or psalm. Miss Stawell's interpretation is based on the assumption that the language of the inscription is Greek—necessarily Greek of a primitive type. Having decided the identity of a pictured object she attaches to it its name in Greek, and then takes the first syllable as the sound value. For example, the human head, with the curious crown-like covering is taken to signify "man." The Greek words for man are aner and anthropos, and therefrom the sound value is given as an. A face marked on the cheek is interpreted as "branded man," therefore "criminal." From this the meaning is deduced as kakos (bad) and the sound value as ka, and so on. Of course it is evident that independent observers might interpret many of the signs differently. One does not see, for example, why sign 20, an obvious jug, is not to be interpreted as one, instead of, according to Miss Stawell, "mead" (in a jug).

To conclude, it would seem that interpreters hitherto have assumed much; and the results of their labors, though highly interesting and creditable to them, are not altogether convincing. They assume that the language of the inscription is Greek, and there is no evidence that the tongue of the Minoan Cretans was Greek at all. So far as can be seen the Minoans were a totally different race from the Greeks, and it seems rather early days to assume that they spoke their tongue, much less that the goddess of the disc is Athena. Further, it is probable that the Phaistos disc is Anatolian, and not Cretan.

Chinese Are Thrifty Farmers.
"In the utilization of every square foot of soil and every leaf or root that is grown thereon, the patient, working farmers of China could give points even to the thrifty rural population of France," says the Philadelphia Public Record. "Land is never wasted. There are no such pastures and meadow lands as we know here. If a traveler wants to pitch a tent anywhere in the settled provinces of China, he must drive the stakes in a bean patch or a rice field or amid potato hills. The native would react with scornful amusement a suggestion of a public pleasure ground. The only 'parks' are the groves about the temples."

"To the top of the hills the terraced climb, holding their tiny plots of wheat and corn, sometimes at a horse's head angle of 45 degrees. Inhabitants of every hill and every derrick, busily making room for themselves to sleep and cook at the intersections of the vast checkerboard, climb out of their holes and herds at dawn. How grandiose dogs or rabbits in a warren, and light the soil till dark for a madder living."

WAS AHEAD OF HIS TIMES

Man Who Introduced the Now Popular Tango Into New York Was Chased From City.

"It's great stuff to be a pioneer," says Sweeney. "The best you get is to be shot full of arrows." Meaning that Sweeney brought the turkey trot to New York seven or eight years ago. At that time the town was hardly ripe for it. So that Sweeney's dance hall had about all the defenses of a battleship. One got in by presenting a card which certified that the bearer was a regular member of a club with a wife's Indian name. Two or three times the police tried to raid it. Then there were battles all over the street, while the patrons were slipped to safety by subterranean routes. It was his boast that he did not pay license to the city or graft to the police. The upper circles used to visit Sweeney's when out slumming. It was a poor night when one failed to bounce a bottle off some other one's resilient bean. Sweeney himself had a pretty trick of knife throwing.

"They closed me like a book," said Sweeney. "Said that the dancing in my place was a little too gritty. Moralists said that the contiguous wiggle as practiced at Sweeney's would jar the susceptibilities of a Piate. But I give you my word that if anyone had pulled any of that physical fox passes in my place that you can see in the middle aisle of any restaurant nowadays you could a heard me holler on Ellis Island."

COLDS

An up-to-date remedy for colds. That is what Peruna is. In successful use over 30 years.

Colds are caught in many ways: illy ventilated rooms; rooms that have direct draughts; crowded rooms; damp houses; stuffy school rooms; offices illy heated.

A dose of Peruna at the right time, at the first symptom of cold, before the bones begin to ache, before the sore throat manifests itself, or the cough, or the discharge from the nose, just a dose or two of Peruna before these symptoms begin is generally sufficient. But after the cold is once established with the above symptoms prominent, a bottle of Peruna, or maybe two, will be necessary.

No Change.
The young men of the town had bought the vacant lot opposite Miss Martha Billingsby's "fashionable school for young ladies" purposing to build a club house thereon.

"I am sorry for you," said one of Miss Martha's friends; "I fear having these young men opposite you instead of that empty lot will seriously injure your school."

"Oh, never fear," answered Miss Martha promptly; "I can assure you that it will still be an empty lot."—Neale's Monthly.

Sick Women Made Well

Reliable evidence is abundant that women are constantly being restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The many testimonial letters that we are continually publishing in the newspapers—hundreds of them—are all genuine, true and unsolicited expressions of heartfelt gratitude for the freedom from suffering that has come to these women solely through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Money could not buy nor any kind of influence obtain such recommendations; you may depend upon it that any testimonial we publish is honest and true—if you have any doubt of this write to the women whose true names and addresses are always given, and learn for yourself.

Read this one from Mrs. Waters:

CAMDEN, N.J.—"I was sick for two years with nervous spells, and my kidneys were affected. I had a doctor all the time and used a galvanic battery, but nothing did me any good. I was not able to go to bed, but spent my time on a couch or in a sleeping chair, and soon became almost a skeleton. Finally my doctor went away for his health, and my husband heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me some. In two months I got relief and now I am like a new woman and am at my usual weight. I recommend your medicine to every one and so does my husband."—Mrs. TRILINA WATKINS, 1186 Knight St., Camden, N.J.

And this one from Mrs. Haddock:

URICA, OKLA.—"I was weak and nervous, not able to do my work and scarcely able to go on my feet. I had backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, trouble with my bowels, and inflammation. Since taking the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am better than I have been for twenty years. I think it is a wonderful medicine and I have recommended it to others."—Mrs. MARY ANN HADDOCK, Urick, Oklahoma.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman continue to suffer without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ailments. No one that with women's ailments does not feel the need of it. It does not try to force upon you any medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

CARRIZOZO SCHOOL NEWS

Friday of this week will be observed, according to the Governor's proclamation, as Arbor Day at the school. Special exercises will be held in the auditorium in the afternoon. The public is cordially invited. Immediately following this programme will be the ceremonial planting of six trees—one for each room represented and one for the Senior Class. We hope to make this a profitable day.

We truly appreciate the parental co operation which we have enjoyed during the days past since the present school year began. It has been all that anyone could ask for. To this end, we feel perfectly free, since no rules and regulations have been printed and circulated, to call the attention of parents to the fact that only those who have a class, at 8:20 a. m. will be allowed on the school grounds before 8:30 a. m. A moment's reflection will reveal the reason for this regulation, and now that the days are rapidly lengthening, be sure that your child does not get to school too early, for we have made this rule because it seemed necessary, and all must be governed by it alike. We feel sure it will only be necessary to have it generally known that such is the case. Pupils may come on the grounds after 8:30 a. m. and school does not begin till 9:00 a. m. so this gives ample time if the pupil will cultivate regular habits.

As April the first seems to be the day for general irregularities among the pupils in the local school and some seem to have the idea that it is the proper thing to fail to show up at school that day, we wish here and now to say that this day has never been recognized as a national holiday, that the teachers will be on the job and if your child is not there, he will lose just that much. If parents uphold their children in cutting school that day, we have nothing to say about that part of it, but we are moving along rapidly now on the "Home Stretch" of school and any irregularities of attendance or conduct will cost your child dearly. We want you to cooperate with us at this special time for we want to earn our money and school will be in session, and those who are not there will lose out on their work and deportment.

BAPTIST CHURCH

(Herbert Haywood Pastor)

Bible school at 10:00 a. m.
Preaching services by Evangelist Cocksay in the morning at 11:00 o'clock and at 7:45 p. m. Among the special items of music will be solos by Mrs. Haywood and a ladies' quartette.

Despite the cold stormy weather and much sickness there has been good attendance, and good interest in the Revival services, which will continue throughout next week. Everyone is cordially asked to come and attend the services. Good singing, a faithful message of salvation, and a hearty welcome greet you.

Ladies' prayer meeting every afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in the church house, and the pastor will be glad to call on anyone desirous of knowing the scriptures relative to salvation and service. Be in earnest and seek the Saviour.

METHODIST CHURCH

(J. W. Hendrix, Pastor)

Sunday school 9:45 a. m., Frank J. Sager, Supt.

Preaching both morning and evening by the pastor.
