Supreme Court Hands Down Decision in Favor of Mrs. Klasner in two Different Cases

GEORGE SPENCE, SR., MOVES TO EL PASO

Judge M. H. Bellamy, an old time resident of the county, came in this week from Roswell where he has spent the winter. Mr. Bellamy will assist John Cole in the clerical work of the Sheriff's office.

J. H. C. Pope who purchased the Winfield and Hill homesteads east of town, has moved his family here from Plainview, Texas, and is now residing on the Winfield place.

Dr. Robert T. Lucas has leased the building formerly occupied as a post office and will take possession as soon as the remodeling of the room is completed.

George Sharp has taken sixty days leave of absence from the E. P. & S. W. shops to make some improvements on his ranch near here. Mr. McCaffrey of Nashville, Tenn., is relieving him.

Mrs. R. E. Stidham returned Tuesday from Hotel Dieu in El Paso, where she was taken about ten days ago by Dr. Lucas. She is much improved now and her speedy recovery is predicted. Mr. Stidham went down Monday and brought her back.

Geo. D. Tarbell, one of Lincoln County's old-timers came in last week for an extended visit with his daughter Mrs. W. C. McDonald at the Bar W. Ranch. Although 88 years old Mr. Tarbell is as spry as some of the youngsters of 18.

W. J. Doering, a prominent resident of Lincoln county was in the city to attend the Democratic Meeting—Santa Fe New Mexican. Mr. Doering will spend a few days in Kansas City on business before returning home.

L. U. Morris, division superintendent of the Southwestern came in Tuesday in his private car "Cloudcroft" on an inspection trip, remaining here until Wednesday noon. He made a short pleasure trip to White Oaks with S. L. Northlane Tuesday afternoon.

On the 27th Governor McDonald issued an order commuting the sentence of Dan Bullion of Carrizozo serving a sentence of three and one half to five years, to three years. Bullion was sentenced at the May term of court, 1912, and has a good record at the penitentiary.

Note the beautiful designs of our latest arrivals in Rugs. Even the most inexpensive have the look of exclusiveness you so much admire. We invite our friends to look at our new designs and late patterns in Axminster, Brussels, Ingrains, etc. You will see something that will interest you.—Keller & Sons.

G. J. Dingwall has made arrangements with the Alamogordo Ice Plant and will handle their product here during the coming season. He will put on a wagon to serve the needs of the retail customers, and expects to ship a good deal of ice to the surrounding country.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bohling, Thursday afternoon, a fine seven pound boy. Mrs. Bohling was formerly Miss Myrtle Tinnon.

Wm Kahler, Sr., is confined to his home with a seriously sprained ankle. The accident happened Wednesday evening.

Geo. Spence returned Friday from a short business trip to El Paso, and reports that city as having a very warlike aspect, with soldiers patrolling the streets, and artillery planted in the various sections.

D. S. Donaldson who was recently elected school director to succeed John E. Bell, has tendered his resignation, the railroad company having objected to his serving as director. John E. Bell has been appointed to fill the term.

Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Watson entertained Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hamilton and sons, Wayne and Pat, and Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Nye at a turkey dinner Wednesday evening in honor of their eighteenth wedding anniversary.

State Engineer James A. French has acknowledged the receipt of the water application of Jas. O. Nabours of White Mountain for the use of five eighths of one second foot of the flow of Three Rivers for the purpose of irrigating about seventy-five acres of his ranch.

George Spence Sr., returned from El Paso today and has announced that J. F. Bonham of Las Cruces and himself have formed a law partnership and will set up offices at 516-517 Caples Bldg. El Paso, where they will make a specialty of mining litigation. They will both practice before Lincoln county and other New Mexico courts, and will be glad to see old friends when in El Paso. Mr. Spence will move his family in the fall.

In the United States District Court at Santa Fe, last week Judge Pope appointed R. C. Hammet as United States Commissioner at Capitan succeeding Clemente Hightower, transferred to Hondo. A Melugin plead not guilty to a charge of cutting and removing timber from the public domain, on his homestead near Corona.

While Gov. W. C. McDonald was here last week he was telling of an incident that occurred during his recent visit to Gov. Hunt of Arizona. The gubernatorial party were visiting the battlefield of Agua Prieta near Douglas, and one of the party got into conversation with a negro private belonging to the United States Regiment stationed there, and during the conversation asked the darky what he would do when the regiment crossed the line. He promptly replied "Mistah, we aint goin to cross no line, we aint goin to take the line with us."

The Supreme Court at Santa Fe Tuesday denied the motion of the state for a rehearing in the case of the State vs. Lillie O. Klasner which had been reversed by the Supreme Court, the Lincoln County District Court having found Mrs. Klasner guilty of the larceny of cattle at the spring term of 1912. This decision remands the case to the lower courts for retrial, but it seems that the matter will now have to be dropped under the statute of limitations. The Supreme Court also reversed the lower court in the case of Miller vs. Klasner. This was the case where Hugh Miller brought suit against Mrs. Klasner to enjoin her from diverting water from a ditch out of the Rio Hondo. It was found that the water rights were owned jointly by Mr. Miller and Mrs. Ellen Casey, the latter being the mother of Mrs. Klasner, and that she (Mrs. Casey) had not been made a party to the suit, although the District Court in its decision had attempted to adjudicate Mrs. Casey's rights to the water.

ANCHO AND THREE RIVERS HAPPENINGS

Base Ball Dance at Ancho With Special Features Proves Great Success. Many Outsiders Attend

THREE RIVERS CITIZENS ATTEND FUNERAL AT ALAMO.

ANCHO

J. A. Coomes went to El Paso Wednesday on business.

Mrs. J. A. Coomes and children spent a few days visiting the Pitts family this week.

R. A. Fowler of Tularosa checked in at Ancho as agent Friday, relieving J. A. Coomes.

Mrs. R. R. Blair and daughter of Alamogordo visited friends here and took in the dance Saturday evening.

It is reported that Carrizozo base ball team will cross bats with Ancho on the Ancho diamond Sunday. We feel for Carrizozo and hope for Ancho.

Martha Virginia Warden arrived at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. P. Warden, Monday at 1:30 p. m. Pick is now dispersing cigars and accepting congratulations.

The Ancho Base Ball Dance was pulled off Saturday night according to schedule. An excellent time was the verdict of everyone present. However, Ancho dances are always synonymous of a good time. Four prize cakes were given for best dances. The waltz was won by Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Cooper of Ancho; two step won by R. A. Fowler of Ancho and Miss Alla Blair of Alamogordo; shottish won by Tom Straley and Miss Carter of Ancho; polka won by Andrew McBraver of Jicarilla and Miss Leona Richardson of Ancho. A good crowd was present although Carrizozo was not represented. Ancho magnanimously assumes that it was on account of the big dance in Carrizozo Friday night.

THREE RIVERS

Mrs. A. Bennett is now in El Paso transacting business.

Mrs. A. G. Carlson of Alamogordo is spending the week with her sister, Miss Freda Greenberg.

Frank Woodside has recently presented his wife with a Knabe player piano.

Mrs. R. R. Blair and daughter, Alla, spent the week end visiting friends at Carrizozo and Duran.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and E. F. Funk attended the funeral of Mrs. Wingfield at Alamogordo last week.

Herbert Read, the 18 year old son of J. M. Read of Capitan, died after an operation for appendicitis at the home of his parents at Capitan at seven o'clock Wednesday evening. He had been very sick for the past week, and his sister, Mrs. F. A. Schirrer of Tucuman, and other relatives were at the bedside. Funeral services were held at the residence in Capitan Thursday, conducted by Rev. Haywood.

The Civic League will hold their next meeting on Tuesday May 5th at the office of the president, Mrs. W. L. Gumm in the court house. There are many important matters to consider and it is hoped that all members will be present. They are now planning to give their next dance at an early date in May, at which time some special features will be introduced, including a May dance and other dances by the children.

Newt Kemp of Capitan was here Tuesday on a business trip.

Dr. Guido Ranniger of Oscura was in town Wednesday on a business trip.

Mrs. J. F. Kimbell entertained Mesdames W. C. McDonald, Geo. Ulrich, and J. E. Gurney Wednesday afternoon at a little birthday party.

Dr. Roberts president of the Las Vegas State Normal School passed through Thursday on his way to Tularosa to attend the commencement exercises, after which he will proceed to Deming.

A. L. Bartz, traveling engineer of the Southwestern, with headquarters at El Paso, spent Tuesday night here visiting the shops at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gale came in Tuesday from El Paso. Mrs. Gale is visiting Mrs. J. E. Guiney, while Mr. Gale calls on his trade here.

J. W. Stockard of El Paso is posting the Roswell El Paso route with Borderland Route signs this week, and since the cutting out of the bad crossing near the Tully ranch at Glencoe and the repairing of other bridges, the road is in fine shape throughout Lincoln county, and with the opening of the White Mountain road-house near Ruidosa by C. A. Freidenbloom the county will have a section of highway that we may well be proud of.

HOME TALENT PLAY

The Old New Hampshire Home which the Carrizozo Dramatic Club will produce at the school house auditorium, Wednesday May 6th, has been faithfully rehearsed by them, until each member of the cast is now letter perfect in his part, and the production promises to be a side-splitting success. The stage of the auditorium is being raised and an appropriate set of scenery put in place to furnish the required stage effects for the play which is to be the best home talent stunt ever brought out in Carrizozo and will no doubt pack the house to the limit.

Reserved seats will be on sale at Rolland's drug store Saturday, May 2d at 50 cents and a general admission of 35 cents will be charged.

The following is the cast of characters:
Farmer Winthrop, a rugged New Hampshire farmer..... Prosper Sherry
Edward Van Dusen, a poli-hed villain secretly married to Mabel..... G. O. Nickel
Oliver Stanhope, a young blacksmith in love with Mabel..... Wm. Dingwall
Zeb Watkins, a country boy "up to snuff" and not a bit green..... Ed. Jones
Micky Mullins, a traveling tinker, John E. Bell.

Moses Gansinski, a Hebrew glass-put-in-man. Tony Sphagetti, An Italian Banana Vendor. Bud Gifford, a New York Fireman, Restful Mike, a traveling man. Sherlock Holmes Burns, A Detective.

Andrew McCurdy.

Rawlings, in league with Van Dusen.

Louis Adams.

Mabel Winthrop, the farmers daughter.

Mrs. R. T. Lucas.

Tilly, her maid'n aunt—Mrs. Prosper Sherry.

Mrs. Winthrop, the farmers wife.—Mrs. Andrew McCurdy.

Muffins, a lady with a mind of her own.—Mrs. Charles Pierce.

SYNOPSIS

ODD FELLOWS CELEBRATE 95TH ANNIV'Y

Good Music, Beautifully Decorated Hall, Well Conducted Dance, and one of the Best "Feeds" Ever

LARGE CROWD DANCE UNTIL LATE HOUR

Carrizozo Lodge No. 30, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, celebrated the ninety-fifth anniversary of the founding of the order, by a big ball and supper last Friday evening, at which, over two hundred of Lincoln County's people were present. About 300 invitations were issued and about all of the 300 who were physically able to come were present as it seemed to be realized by all that the affair was to be one of the biggest events of the season.

The dance hall in the bank building was tastily decorated in the lodge and national colors, and excellent dance music was furnished by Mrs. Cody as pianist and Chas. Pearce as trap drummer. The floor was in good condition and many of our people "tripped the light fantastic" who had not danced before for years, being enticed thereto by the irresistible combination.

At ten thirty supper was called and was nicely served in the upstairs rooms of the building. A large table seating about sixty was spread with all kinds of good things to eat, too numerous to mention and each hungry dancer was supplied with food and drink until he cried "enough."

Dancing was continued until a late hour in the morning, and every one went home pronouncing the Carrizozo Odd Fellows princely entertainers, and this particular effort a great success.

JAIL KEYS FOUND

When John Cole, newly appointed sheriff, took over the sheriff's office last Monday the missing duplicate set of jail keys, which had never been in the possession of special officer Barnett, appeared. One of the boys in the jail had them in possession, and gave the officers a demonstration of his ability to get out, which to the surprise of the officers was accomplished in about ten minutes.

This explains the way in which the boys got away last Sunday evening. How these keys came into the possession of the inmates of the jail is unknown, but it has been known that the duplicate set of keys has been missing for some months, and according to the boys on the inside, the keys have been in the jail all of this time.

This relieves Barnett of any of the blame in the escape of the four prisoners Sunday evening.

As these keys can easily be duplicated, it would be advisable to have the present locks changed to avoid any further deliveries through the open doors.

FOUND NOT GUILTY

In the District Court of Chaves county, last week the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty" in the cases of the State vs. the Board of Commissioners of Torrance county, being instructed to render this verdict by Judge Richardson, who held the charges against them to be insufficient for removal. Under this verdict the commissioners will be reinstated at once.

The case against County Clerk Gallegos was dropped owing to his having tendered his resignation from office.

District Attorney H. B. Hamilton may appeal the cases.

The ISOLATED CONTINENT

A ROMANCE OF THE FUTURE

By GUIDO VON HORVATH and DEAN HOARD

COPYRIGHT, 1912 BY W.G. CHAPMAN IN THE UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN

SYNOPSIS.

For fifty years the continent of North America had been isolated from the rest of the world by the use of Z-rays, a wonderful invention of Hannibal Prudent. The invention had saved the country from foreign invasion, and the continent had been united under one government with Prudent as president for half a century. Peace and prosperity reigned in this part of the world. This story opens with President Prudent critically ill. His death is hastened by the receipt of a message from Count von Werdenstein of Germany that he has at last succeeded in penetrating the rays. Dying, he warns his daughter Astra that this means a foreign invasion. He tells her to hurry to the island of Cyprus, but dies before he can tell the location of the place. Astra is nominated for the presidency by the continental party. Napoleon Edison calls on Astra, informs her that he was a pupil of her father's, and promises to help her. He gives her a message of a newly discovered substance which, he says, will solve the problem of flying. Chevalier di Leon appears in Europe. He calls on von Werdenstein and offers him the secret of making gold. Astra is alarmed by Edison, whose long silence has worried her, that he has been a prisoner for two months on the island of Helgoland and that he has escaped. He announces that the confederated fleet of Europe has sailed for America. He promises to call on her the following night. Countess Rosita, a spy, becomes a prisoner in hope of securing Napoleon's secret. She falls in love with him. She agrees to join him in an attempt to escape. By the use of fireworks he summons a curious flying machine which resembles a monster eagle. Astra escapes and sends his message to Astra. Edison calls on Astra as promised. He tells her his plans for defense have been completed, but that he will give full details at his workshop on the island of Cyprus in the Pacific. They make the trip in three hours. His plans are based on the peculiarity of the new substance, cyrilith, which is lighter than any known metal and is practically indestructible. The Europeans succeed in passing the line of isolation, but find that the Americans have established a second one. Edison delivers a note to von Werdenstein in his flagship demanding that the fleet be withdrawn.

CHAPTER X—Continued.

The eagle lingered above the right wing of the first line of dreadnoughts. Napoleon could inflict any damage he chose. He could almost count the number of men aboard each vessel. Werdenstein gave hurried orders, and watched eagerly for their execution. A few minutes later two armored monoplanes glided up from the flagship and turned toward the eagle. Napoleon must have suspected their intention, for he circled higher and higher up. The bats followed the eagle; each monoplane carried four men, each of whom carried small caliber, mitrailleuse bombs and other ammunition of war.

Still the eagle went higher and higher, hovering above the north wing of the long line of war boats. It was so high now that it appeared only a spect to the naked eye. The planes ascended in a spiral, and they were far behind. The eagle turned and led the two planes along the line, near the flagship. It descended quickly and made a dip similar to the swoop of the eagle on its prey that caused the thousands of spectators to believe it was falling, but before it touched the water it darted forward and skimmed the waves. Its great wings touched the water occasionally. Napoleon watched the spectacle who were now above him. One had dropped several bombs, but none had touched the swiftly moving aerodrome. A turn of the wheel caused the eagle to make a stroke before the Brigitta, then it went higher and higher until it reached the two monoplanes. Before

Napoleon knew what they were about the two planes had opened fire; he was so close to them that the bullets fell on his aerodrome like hail. The result was surprising. The deadly missiles rebounded from the sides without leaving a mark on the glittering body. Napoleon had cleverly led them directly in front of the flagship, so that the scene was enacted before the eyes of the count and his staff. It was marvelous, the greatest play a man's eyes had ever rested upon.

Napoleon turned to face the ascending bat. The count saw him reach up to a lever that he had not used before. He hesitated for a moment, but when the first bomb was thrown at him he pulled the lever; a flash followed. Zigzag lines of lightning burst forth and the once armored monoplane was shattered into a thousand bits. Its fate seemed to shatter the nerve of the engineer on the other plane, for he turned and raced for the flagship. It was too late. Napoleon pulled the lever again and it followed its comrade into space.

The count was pale; he had been given a terrible example of his enemy's power; still he did not turn back. Orders were flashed to the two boats nearest the eagle to open fire with their heavy guns. Napoleon read the order on his plate and was sad, but he knew that the only way to save the masses from annihilation was by a painful operation.

His right hand was on the lever, the left on the wheel; as the guns below thundered, the bird man was far away, and their shells were wasted. But the next moment brought the avenging answer; lightning after lightning darted toward the two boats, the powder magazines exploded and the dreaded giants were wrecks, sinking. A few minutes later the boats were gone, leaving a mass of floating debris and dead men.

The Count von Werdenstein looked at the scene helplessly. For the first time in his life he realized how puny he was.

He looked for the eagle, but it had disappeared. Boats were put out at once to rescue those who had not been killed by the explosions; but the experiences of that day had spread terror over the whole fleet and the effect was demoralizing.

The Count von Werdenstein ordered all the commanders to gather at the flagship, for he felt that he had to decide on some action. He paced the bridge of the Brigitta. The navy and army under his command, that he had thought great enough to conquer the whole world, had been defeated by a single man.

When the council of war began the count stood to talk, but before he said a word a message from one of the transport boats was handed him. It read:

"We can see the other boats toward the east, but we cannot communicate with them. They are trying to reach us, but can make no progress. Please send orders."

CHAPTER XI.

Astra and Rosita.

The excitement caused by Napoleon's encounter with the enemy was indescribable. The automatic electro-stylograph on board the American Eagle had recorded the action of the fleet and had made a copy of the count's answer to America's demand. The attack on the aerodrome was shown and the subsequent destruction of the monoplanes. Napoleon Edison's name was in large print on every board. The hourly stylograph said "God bless our deliverer!" The American's comment was "The hero of America." He was compared to Washington, to Lincoln and many other great American patriots. His name was on the lips of every citizen.

No one watched the bellboard with such interest and none prayed for Napoleon's success more sincerely than Astra as she sat in her library with the Countess Rosita.

Astra's kindness toward the countess had not soothed the pain she suffered. She would have preferred a dagger of assault than, where she could rave at her and curse her, but she was a secret service agent, and had early learned the art of concealing her feelings.

With passion burning in her heart she was able to respond graciously to Astra. Even while she watched the conflict of the American Eagle and the European fleet she was scheming. She lived for intrigue. Her soul craved the excitement of battling minds. She considered herself still in the employ of the Count von Werdenstein, so she planned as she thought the count would have demanded.

Santos Duprel came to report the events of the day at the Z ray station, and to put before Astra suggestions for further defense. Napoleon could not come personally, so he sent his trusted assistant.

He was admitted to the library where the countess sat.

Santos Duprel was a pleasant individual, having, as most fat men, a keen sense of humor. He greeted the two beautiful women with a broad smile.

When Rosita retired to the rooms that had been assigned her she sat for a long time motionless, mulling a plan for the benefit of the Count von Werdenstein.

Astra was still at work in the library, completing preparations for the following day's duties as she closed her desk a sigh, a prayer left her lips: "God save our country, and shield Napoleon."

The next morning the admiral of the united navies of America received orders to sail with the fleet toward the enemy. Even the formation of the great squadron was planned in detail.

The gray boats steamed toward the east in a broad line; they arrived at the isolation and could see hundreds of men-of-war before them, flying the flags of almost every European nation, but no sound penetrated the invisible ray that stretched before them.

The Count von Werdenstein was in despair. He and all his boats had been imprisoned between two Z rays for a week. He had held councils of war and the quickest boats and air crafts were sent out to break-through the lines of resistance. He was ready to retire to Europe.

The word retreat did not seem so shameful as it had.

He had not seen the eagle during this time, but the arrival of the obsolete men-of-war told the count that some preparation had been made by his enemy to end this terrible state of affairs.

The eagle's appearance was reported early one morning. It came majestically sliding downward from a great height, flying the beautiful tricolor flag of liberty. This time Santos was at the wheel. Napoleon and a woman stood behind him.

The bird flew directly to the flagship. Not even the flag of truce was shown. When it reached the Brigitta, the eagle dropped down toward the count, who stood on the bridge. His face was pale and careworn, and his eyes spoke of many sleepless nights.

"Brigitta, ahoy!" shouted Napoleon through the speaking tube. "A message for the commander." He dropped a large sealed letter at the count's feet. The eagle then turned and disappeared in the clouds toward the west.

Thought and care had been put into the message. It was a great document in itself, but its greatest beauty was in its expression of brotherly love, in its magnanimity in extending mercy to the enemy.

Rosita was present when that document was read finally. She was one of the last to touch it before it was carefully wrapped in the silk covers. It was she who placed the great seal on the imposing envelope.

The count took the message and retired into his cabin, where nobody dared disturb him. He cut the envelope, unfolded the silk wrapping and began to read. It was a long, concise resume of the present state of affairs;

HARMONY IS BIG FACTOR

Men Who Can See No Way Out Their Own Are Detrimental to Society.

Some matters are properly entrusted to the discretion and the energy of one man to carry out; others are necessarily—or at least advantageously—assigned to the composite wisdom and activity of several persons composing a committee. A committee is like a jury—it must decide one way or the other. One obstinate man can seriously impede and embarrass the principles or preconceptions—though he may not know it—which are bound to be respected. There are always men who can see no way but their own way, no safe and proper policy that is not born and bred of their own inspiration. Such men make serious in a committee difficult for others who realize that all the wisdom does not lie with the most pertinacious and venturesome. It does not imply lack of backbone to be willing to march part of the way toward a compromise. Many an important decision must be a compromise matter, to which the wisdom of several constitutes construct, and the attitude of the chaplain was touched by the kindness of his enemies. Notwithstanding the degrading defeat, he knew now that the loss would not be as great as he feared.

The document decided upon the following:

1. The whole navy of the confederate European navies shall be delivered into the hands of Admiral John Barle, the American commander, who will see that all men and officers are safely returned to European ports.

2. The war vessels shall be the property of the United Republics of America, in consideration of which the said United Republics of America will pay a sum of money to be decided upon; however, not less than one-third of the actual value involved.

3. The European armies shall be immediately disarmed and the men in service shall be returned to their homes.

4. No other force, save for policing and a number of bodyguards for the reigning rulers, shall be allowed to exist in any of the countries. The United Republics of America will see that this item, in particular, is enforced.

5. The United Republics of America will open its ports to all foreign commerce, will give free entrance to all European products, and also insures free exportation into Europe for American products.

6. The oriental foes on the eastern hemisphere will be treated with when a final settlement is agreed upon, but until that time the isolation in Pacific waters will be maintained.

7. Peace shall reign over the earth; national differences shall be settled before an international committee that will make its headquarters in Washington, the capital of the United Republics of America.

8. Any further points that may arise in the course of events will be decided upon after the final settlement with the rulers of all the countries.

When the count turned over the last page a tiny slip of paper fell to the floor. He picked it up and glanced at the words that were written and typed, as was the rest of the message. It was a writing that he knew well.

"Don't hesitate! Accept the treaty! The future rests in the aerodrome, the secret of which will be delivered to you, sooner or later. I have kept my contract; will talk of my reward when circumstances permit."

This was not signed, but it was not necessary.

"And I," murmured the count, after a moment, "I never thought of Rosita. What a wonderful, clever woman she is. But what will be her price? What is the difference," sighed the man who had suffered so much the last few days. "The next time we meet it will be in the air."

He regained his calmness, finished the paper and refolded it. He placed Rosita's message in his pocketbook.

Twenty-four hours were given for consideration. He called his admirals together at four o'clock that afternoon. The council sat until late that night. When the admirals and captains left for their respective boats they were depressed. The world seemed to have reached the millennium.

One thing they were certain of. That was that they did not know how they would earn a living when released from military duty.

When Napoleon came for the answer, he received the original document signed by the commander in chief and all the commanders of the respective nations of the European confederacy.

When the American Eagle appeared for the first time above the capital its mission was to announce that peace on earth would be established.

HOBSON TELLS CAMPAIGN COST.

Alabama Man Makes First Report Filled Under New Law.

Washington.—First reports of a campaign expense in senatorial primaries under the new direct elections amendment were made public by the senate.

Representative Hobson of Alabama sent in a detailed account of expenditures aggregating $5,367.34, of which $2,174 was spent in traveling and $3,013.19 in newspaper and other advertising. Contributions to his fund amounted to $1,825, of which $600 came from the National Women's Temperance union.

From South Dakota, Senator Crawford, who was defeated by Representative Burke, reported spending $2,056, while Representative Burke's list totaled $3,328.80.

Senator Clark of Arkansas reported $360.30, and his opponent, William F. Kirby, $1,631.50. Senator Shively of Indiana reported he had spent nothing.

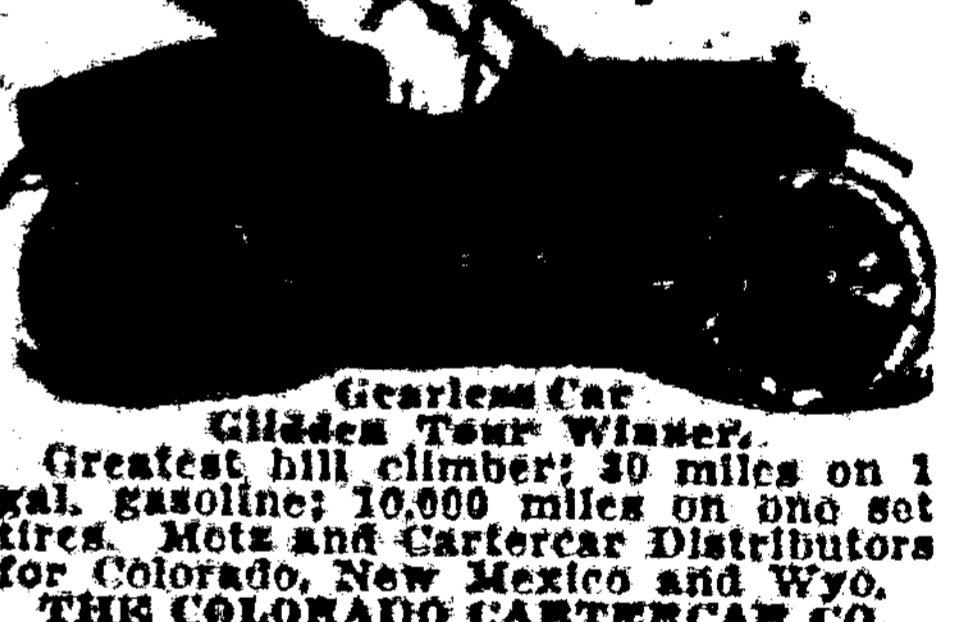

Underwood Files Expenses.

Washington.—Representative Underwood, candidate for the Alabama senatorial nomination, filed his campaign contribution and expense statement, showing expenditures of $3,477.58, with contributions from private sources amounting to $2,126.65.

narrow real Valenciennes insertion set around the face by little frills of Valenciennes lined with soft silk of very delicate pink and trimmed with tiny bows of narrow pink liberty silk matching the ties.

Others are made of fine sheer lingerie material in minute shirred tucks, alternating with frills of the narrowest real Valenciennes, while a two-inch border all around the face is fashioned entirely of closely set lace frills.

Even after the first baby stage is passed the round, close caps may be worn, but for the child of two or three years and from that age to six years there is much variety in the line of headwear.

One extremely pretty lingerie bonnet with a double frill of delicate shadow lace next the face was headed by an inch band of fine net shirred on cords, above which the crown was slightly fluted in.

Fancy Basket Weave.

Another attractive lingerie model was a close-fitting cap made of fine net lace, lace frills and trimming cords made of twisted pale pink ribbon.

Straw bonnets are made of the finest lacy braids, soft enough to be handled like lace itself, and follow much the same lines as the lingerie bonnet, with a very moderate flaring brim, faced with softening lace or chiffon, among whose folds tiny flowers may or may not be tucked.

MARY DEAN.

Stringing Necklaces.

There is quite a cult for exercising self-indulgence in the stringing of bead necklaces now, and girls who can induce their relatives to give them the old clear amber ones are finding them to their liking as a change from the clouded kind generally seen.

Yellow and scarlet look exceedingly well, and that combination of color is newer than the amber and amethyst chains already much admired.

Velvet the Style.

Velvet is to be in force for summer clothes. It forms girdles, hems, buttons, cuffs and collars on many lingerie frocks, and is used as well for evening gowns, coat trimming and hats.

BEAUTIES OF THE ORIENT

Women There Spare No Pains In Efforts to Preserve Their Health and Good Looks.

The belles of the far East make a fine art of beauty culture. These oriental beauties spend most of their days in preserving their health and good looks.

Oriental families guard as secrets the making of certain subtle perfumes. One family has its method of capturing the scent of the rose; another that of the jasmine, and the skin, hair and clothes of the women of these families are always saturated with delicious scents.

After the hot bath each morning the scalp is massaged, and for this an oil made of aloe wood or coccoanut is used. Next the hair is dressed in a manner to suit the contour of the face.

COMFORTABLE MULES

They may be easily made from half a yard of red satin and finished with a narrow border of quilled satin ribbon and a jaunty red bow.

WASHING CREPE DE CHINE

By No Means a Hard Task, Though That Impression Seems to Be a General One.

Washing crepe de chine is no more difficult than washing a dress of colored muslin. If tepid water and good soap are used with care it will come from the laundry as triumphantly as a piece of linen.

Black crepe should be cleaned with alcohol, as this does not injure the color and give that grayish hue which is so undesirable.

The best way to clean white chiffon is to wash it in warm soap-suds. Be sure that the water is only tepid—not hot, and add a pinch of borax to soften it.

Harmonious Baskets.

Scrap baskets are very often only a disfigurement in a room, but there is no reason why they should not be as pretty as any other piece of furniture.

Over the upper portion of the outside of the basket should be draped some very pretty fine lace, which should also extend about one inch inside the basket.

Some fine embroidery just at the top of the stand, to keep the folds of the silk in place, and a very narrow edging of lace right at the bottom, will give the basket just the final touch that is required to finish a most useful and decorative piece of furniture.

Crosses in Silk.

Marks of platts remain in soft tafeta silk after washing and pressing. Unfortunately nothing will remove these folds. Dressmakers have tried every means without avail.

Uric Acid is Slow Poison

Unseen in its approach, hard to detect in its early stages, and cruelly painful in its later forms, uric acid poisoning is a disease too often fatal.

Bright's disease is one of the final stages of uric acid poisoning. It kills in our country every year more men and women than any other ailment except two—consumption and pneumonia.

When uric acid is formed too fast and the kidneys are weakened by a cold, or fever, or overwork, or by indulgence, the acid collects, the blood gets impure and heavy, there is headache, dizziness, heart palpitation, and a dull, heavy-headed, drowsy feeling with disturbances of the urine.

Real torture begins when the uric acid forms into gravel or stone in the kidney, or crystallizes into jagged bits in the muscles, joints or on the nerve tubings. Then follow the awful pains of neuralgia, rheumatism, gout, sciatica, neuritis, lumbago or kidney colic.

"I don't know what ails me."

It is but a further step to dropsy of Bright's disease.

Be warned by backache, by sediment in the kidney secretions, by painful, scant or too frequent passages. Guard the weakened kidneys. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a medicine made just for weak kidneys, that has been proved good in years of use, in thousands of cases—the remedy that is recommended by grateful users from coast to coast.

SCREAMED ALOUD In Agony With Awful Kidney Ailments

Mrs. Clara Branch, 200 N. 14th St., Lexington, Mo., says: "My whole system was filled with uric acid poison. I had terrible, sharp, shooting pains in my head and sometimes I was so dizzy, I staggered and nearly fell. The poisoning affected my whole body and my hands, arms, limbs and ankles were swollen and sore. The pains got so bad I screamed and I thought I would die. I was nervous and languid and at times had blinding spells. Remedies and physicians' prescriptions did me no good. In 1911 I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and had some procured for me. After I had taken them a few days, the soreness and pain began to ease up and I felt a little stronger. In almost no time, I was up and around, in good health. Doan's Kidney Pills purified my whole system and there is no doubt that they saved my life. Since I was cured, I have had no further trouble."

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS. "When Your Back Is Lame—Remember the Name" Sold by all Dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBirn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., Proprietors.

CLEVER WIFE Knew How to Keep Peace in Family.

It is quite significant, the number of persons who get well of alarming heart trouble when they let up on coffee and use Postum as the beverage at meals.

There is nothing surprising about it, however, because the harmful alkaloid—caffeine—in coffee is not present in Postum, which is made of clean, hard wheat.

"Two years ago I was having so much trouble with my heart," writes a lady in Washington, "that at times I felt quite alarmed. My husband took me to a specialist to have my heart examined.

"The doctor said he could find no organic trouble but said my heart was irritable from something I had been accustomed to, and asked me to try and remember what disagreed with me.

"I remembered that coffee always soured on my stomach and caused me trouble from palpitation of the heart. So I stopped coffee and began to use Postum. I have had no further trouble since.

"A neighbor of ours, an old man, was so irritable from drinking coffee that his wife wanted him to drink Postum. This made him very angry, but his wife secured some Postum and made it carefully according to directions.

"He drank the Postum and did not know the difference, and is still using it to his lasting benefit. He tells his wife that the 'coffee' is better than it used to be, so she smiles with him and keeps peace in the family by serving Postum instead of coffee."

Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15¢ and 25¢ packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 25¢ and 50¢ tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.—sold by Grocers.

The Language. "English is very queer sometimes." "How do you mean?" "We go for people to make them stop, and put stops on organs to make them go."

Important to Mothers. Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the Signature of Charles H. Fletcher in Use For Over 30 Years. Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria.

Not Likely. "Do you think it is really true that man married Maud thinking she had money?" "Well, you don't suppose he took her at her face-value, do you?"

Nature Never Intended Woman to be Sickly

As a matter of fact it is her right and her duty to enjoy perfect health and strength—to be just as strong and healthy as man—perhaps more so—in view of the fact that it is she who brings into the world the offspring.

Rheumatism, Sprains Backache, Neuralgia

"Yes, daughter, that's good stuff. The pain in my back is all gone—I never saw anything work as quickly as Sloan's Liniment." Thousands of grateful people voice the same opinion. Here's the proof.

Relieved Pain in Back. "I was troubled with a very bad pain in my back for some time. I went to a doctor but he did not do me any good. So I purchased a bottle of Sloan's Liniment, and now I am a well woman. I always keep a bottle of Sloan's Liniment in the house."—Mrs. M. J. Smith, 1000 N. 14th St., St. Louis, Mo.

Sciatic Rheumatism. "We have used Sloan's Liniment for over six years and found it the best we ever used. When my wife had sciatic rheumatism the only thing that did her any good was Sloan's Liniment. We cannot praise it highly enough."—Mr. Wright, 1000 N. 14th St., St. Louis, Mo.

Sprained Ankle Relieved. "I was ill for a long time with a severely sprained ankle. I got a bottle of Sloan's Liniment and now I am able to be about and can walk a great deal. I write this because I think you deserve a lot of credit for putting such a fine liniment on the market and I shall always take time to recommend Dr. Sloan's Liniment."—Mrs. Theo. Brown, Baltimore, Md.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT. At all Dealers—25¢, 50¢, and $1.00. Sloan's instructive book on rheumatism, backache, sprains and neuralgia sent free. Address Dr. Earl S. Sloan, Inc., Boston, Mass.

Dr. S. M. Johnson announces the holding of a series of summer Bible conferences by various denominations in New Mexico to be held in July and August in the White Mountains, at the headwaters of the Ruidoso, Lincoln County. Each denomination participating is to be given two weeks for that purpose. The camp will be on the Southern National Highway and on a spot noted for its beautiful and magnificent scenery.—New Mexican.

Senator A. B. Fall of New Mexico declared Monday that the state department has failed to give the senate foreign relations committee the information it asked on conditions in Mexico, and he asked Senator Stone, chairman of the committee, to request the same information from the secretary of war. Senator Fall received a telegram from J. B. Wood, an American from Tampico, now at Galveston, urging action which would allow Americans to return to the protection of their property in Mexico. Wood criticised removal of American war vessels from Tampico.—El Paso Herald.

The writ of prohibition against District Judge E. L. Medler was asked for in the supreme court this morning by County Clerk Harvey of Lincoln county, and the court set May 11th for the respondent to show cause why the writ should not be issued.

The last Lincoln county grand jury returned a presentment against Harvey on the report of the traveling auditor of the state. Judge Medler quashed the petit jury panel for irregularities and set May 2d for the hearing under a preliminary investigation to determine whether Harvey should be suspended from office pending trial.

Harvey raises two points; one, that under the state constitution a county official cannot be suspended as in the miscellaneous provisions of the constitution it is provided that the county officials shall hold office until their successor is appointed unless removed for cause; the other, that an investigation to suspend can only be had if the continuance of the cause is at the request of the defendant. Since the continuance was not at the request of the defendant he maintains that Judge Medler is without jurisdiction.—Albuq. Morning Journal.

A prisoner escaped from the road gang at San Marcial Sunday night. Under Sheriff Dick Lewis was notified yesterday by Warden John B. McManus, of the State penitentiary. The prisoner is Lula Tapia, who was sentenced from Lincoln county to serve from three to four years for larceny of a horse. He is 47 years old.—Albuquerque Journal.

EXTRACT OF THE LAW

A poll tax of one dollar shall be levied upon all able bodied male persons, of the age of 21 years or over, residing in the district. Old age is not a sufficient excuse for not paying poll tax, unless a man is bodily disabled because of old age. Only about two thirds of those who are subject to the taxation, have paid up, although the Clerk of the Board has made an extension of the time limit, for the payment of same.

The requirement of the law is very plain, if poll tax is not paid thirty days after the first demand (posting in a conspicuous place is considered a demand by law, which was done in the post office the first Monday in February) the clerk may bring suit in the name of the district.

Thus you will readily see, it is not an optional matter with the Board, but is compulsory. And it will be the duty of the clerk to enter suit for the collection of all delinquents. However, as the limit of time is optional with the Board, as to how soon they will bring suit, after the limit has expired, the Board not wanting to inflict any penalty on those who possibly through neglect, have failed to pay, has decided to make another extension until the 15th of May, on which date the names of all those who have failed to make their payments will be handed to the Justice of the Peace with instructions to enter suit.

Signed

P. M. Johnson, Pres.
Jno. E. Bell, Clerk.

NATIONAL HIGHWAYS

The people of this country are building a National Highway as a lasting monument to a great man.

Through fertile fields, thriving cities, across rivers and over mountains, the Lincoln Highway will extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

San Francisco will be joined with New York, and the thousand cities and towns along the way will be benefited.

Another National Highway—The Telephone Way—will be opened to the Public before the Lincoln Way is ready for travel.

From New York to San Francisco the big copper wires of the Bell System extend in an unbroken line—the broad highway of the Universal Service.

This highway, too, is a lasting monument—to the energy of private enterprise. To that spirit of service that has made the Bell System one of the largest and most useful corporations in the country.

In your own telephone company's territory alone—the seven Mountain States—there are 80,000 miles of long distance highways open for your messages every day.

NEWS OF THE COUNTY

OSCURO

Geo. Morris, the local telephone man is installing several new phones around town.

John Orr and family left this week for St. Louis where they will visit for a short time.

Miss Hazel Thornton is here from El Paso visiting her parents for several weeks.

Chas. F. Grey has returned after a trip up and down the line. The Greys are busy building a nice concrete home on their homestead near town.

L. B. Chase was down from Carrizozo on business Monday and Tuesday and will move here May 1st, to accept a position with the Oscura Development Association.

Dr. and Mrs. West and children left for Chicago Monday evening after a visit of several weeks with Mrs. West's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ranniger.

All the orchards in the vicinity are looking prosperous and no frost is reported as having hurt any of the trees. A good harvest is anticipated.

The 12,000 fruit trees in the Raffety nursery are throwing out leaves after their first irrigation. Practically every one of the trees are alive.

E. G. Raffety, manager of the Oscura Development Association is in El Paso this week on company business. The drilling for deep water, oil or gas is about ready to commence, we are informed.

Governor W. C. McDonald is preparing to plant twenty acres of his land which adjoins Oscura townsite into an orchard. The dam for irrigation purposes was installed last year and has proven after a test, to be adequate. The dam stores the overflow from the Governor's Malaga, spring and this is the water to be used in the irrigation of the twenty acres of apples soon to be planted. Surveyor Smith of Santa Rosa came down with Truman Spencer this week, Mr. Smith remaining to do some work in the vicinity.

NOGAL

Mr. Garvin and family passed through Nogal Monday, traveling at the rate of sixty mile an hour.

Tom Whitaker is busy these days installing a wind mill on his homestead north of Nogal.

The range in the mountains looks fine and the apple crop to date is certainly immense.

The Misses Lucy and Grace Brown were at the singing Sunday. Both young ladies are fine singers besides being fine organists.

A. S. Mayes is having lumber from the Eagle Creek saw mill stacked in Nogal. We understand he contemplates building south of Oscura.

Prof. George E. Cardwell has rented the Byfield place from Frank Bright and school will begin next Monday.

JICARILLA

John W. Dale paid a brief visit to Corona in his Ford one day last week.

Loco in this part of the country is commencing to show what it can do for horses and cattle.

Roy Owens passed through here with a bunch of cattle which were purchased from Mr. Hanner.

The Gallacher Bros. have brought their sheep over from Indian tank to the place they purchased of Spence & Lusk, to lamb.

Mrs. E. Fox has returned from Chicago and other points where she has been for several months where her daughter has been attending school.

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Economic Mining and Milling Company for the election of Directors for the ensuing year and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting, will be held in Carrizozo, New Mexico, on Tuesday, the second day of June A. D., 1914, at 2 o'clock, p. m.

By order of the president.

HOOVER RETURNS FROM INSPECTION TRIP

Santa Fe, April 26.—Engineer D. S. Hoover returned yesterday from an examination of the proposed road from Carrizozo to Alamogordo, a distance of fifty-seven miles. At present those traveling by auto or wagon from Carrizozo to the county seat of Otero county, must make a wide detour via Capitan, so that the distance is over a hundred miles and much of it over steep grades. The survey recommended by Mr. Hoover not only cuts the distance in half but offers no difficulties in the way of steep grades, in fact twenty miles of it can be built as straight as the crow flies and without any perceptible grade whatever. As a matter of fact, part of the proposed road, already is built and in good condition, that is the stretch from Carrizozo to Oscura and from Tularosa to Alamogordo, leaving only twenty-nine miles to be constructed by the counties of Otero and Lincoln, co operating with the state. Near Three Rivers, there are about four miles of sand but as plenty of gravel can be obtained in the cuts, it will be easy and inexpensive to surface the road. The El Paso & Southwestern has placed at the disposal of the state all of its surveys and plats which will make another survey unnecessary as the road is to parallel the railroad.

Mr. Hoover also inspected the site for the proposed seventy-five foot bridge across the draw which carries off all the drainage water that pours down from the mountains. Mr. Hoover recommended action upon both projects. The completion of both will give Carrizozo direct connection with Santa Fe, Roswell and El Paso.

The entire road was gone over by representatives of Otero and Lincoln counties and Mr. Hoover, in fact, three automobiles of Lincoln county citizens met Mr. Hoover on the Otero county line and escorted him over the rest of the road. Mr. Hoover also examined the roads over Nogal hill and via Capitan toward the east, and the proposed state road from Oscura to Carthage via Mockingbird gap, toward the west. Governor McDonald was with him when he examined the Carrizozo bridge site.

AGRICULTURE IN RUSSIA

In a country of such vast dimensions as that ruled over by the czar, the methods of agriculture naturally vary enormously in the different districts; but during a visit of three weeks' duration—a visit now just drawing to a close—I have been able to see a good deal of the methods of the Russian peasant and landowner.

In the Petersburg district scientific agriculture is practically unknown. Here the summer is too short to allow the successful raising of crops, and tillage is confined to the lands belonging to the village communities. In Russia practically every village is state-owned—that is, under the control of no landlord, and every village has within its bounds a certain acreage of common land. The inhabitants of the village have each one a fixed amount of this land assigned to them; but, to avoid favoritism, a peasant does not farm the same strip two seasons running, but a rotation is practised where by each member of the village in time goes over the whole land of the community. The birth of a son is a source of great joy on the part of a Russian peasant, for on such an occasion an extra grant of land is given to him. In the north of Russia wheat is never grown. Oats are produced, but rye is the staple crop, and it is from this cereal that the peasant makes his bread. The rye is put into the ground in September, and thus is able to make a start before the advent of the winter snow, early in November. Between Petersburg and Moscow agriculture is in a primitive condition. The fields are extremely small and have a neglected appearance, while the houses of the villagers are in a dirty condition, the cattle and pigs in some instances sharing the dwellings with their owners. The rotation here practised is rye, oats and then fallow, to allow the land to recover somewhat. Proceeding south, however, one finds better conditions prevailing. The fields become larger, wheat takes the place of rye, and one gradually enters the enormous wheat producing district of Russia. Passing through this district, which extends from Khar'kov to the beginning of the Crimean peninsula, for hundreds of miles the country, as far as the eye can reach, is given over almost entirely to the raising of cereal crops. The fields are enormous, more than one field stretching for several miles by the railway line, and as the whole district is sparsely populated, the problem at once presents itself: From where are the landowners to obtain an adequate supply of labor? They must depend entirely on the services of the villagers, and as the latter are quite independent of them, they have no power to force them to work should they be disinclined to do so. An instance of this occurred a short time back. A landlord who owned a farm of 40,000 acres had a fine crop of 900 acres of beets. When the time arrived for the harvesting of these roots the peasants of the village—on the excuse that, as their own harvest was an abundant one, there was no necessity for them to work—point blank refused to do the harvesting of the beets, and the whole of the country had to be scoured—naturally, at considerable expense—to procure laborers. Throughout the extensive corn-growing district referred to above there is an almost entire absence of root crops, with the exception of beets, and only a very small proportion of the land is under grass or hay. Now the stock can be maintained under these conditions through the winter months is difficult to understand, but the animals seem to be in poor condition as compared with the English cattle. The most important breed of Russian cow is the Yaroslav, but on the estate where the writer has been staying the stock consisted of Jersey cattle, and crosses between these latter and the Yaroslav are looked on favorably. English pigs, Yorkshires and Tamworth, are also kept. Very little stock is kept on the majority of Russian farms. As well as the cereal crops, one frequently noted fields given over to the raising of sunflowers. These are raised for the production of seed oil, which is used extensively during Lent, and the seeds are also eaten largely by the poorer classes. The farm land of a village community is easy to distinguish from that owned by the landlord, from the fact that the former is invariably in narrow strips. On making embankments over gullies, these embankments being ironicaly known as "golden bridges." The Russians depend mainly on leaving their fields periodically fallow for the recuperation of the soil, and a certain amount of good is also effected by the grading of the rye by the stock in early spring—the wheat and oats are never put into the land in the autumn, and so are not grazed. A point perhaps worth noting is the fact that little land is under leguminous crops, which enrich the soil by virtue of their power of fixing atmospheric nitrogen, so a powerful factor in the amelioration of the land is absent.

this common land the whole of the cattle and sheep of the village are pastured together, looked after by one of the villagers, and the mixed stock presented a remarkably pretty sight. On the large farms horses are largely employed for plowing, and one often saw a young foal following its mother patiently up and down the furrows. A noteworthy point is the entire absence of hedges—as far as the eye can reach, field after field stretches away with monotonous regularity, often not so much as a single tree breaking the uninteresting landscape. Comparatively little of the cereal straw is stored up, but most of it is burnt in the engines driving the threshing machines. Where farming is practised on so extensive a scale as in the wheat-growing districts of Russia, the farmer naturally is unable to have his servants under his eye, and cases are on record of farm laborers carting the corn to their own standings instead of those of their employer. The absence of any organized system of manuring the fields is all the more evident after one has passed through the rich agricultural district of Eastern Austria. In Russia, I have it on the authority of an eye-witness that a certain heap of manure exists of the age of no less than sixty years, and no steps are ever taken to distribute it over the fields. Again, the peasants actually use their manure in ing atmospheric nitrogen, so a powerful factor in the amelioration of the land is absent. A large proportion of the wheat grown in the South Central district of Russia is exported to England and Germany from the port of Odessa by steamers which reach that port with cargoes of coal. On several occasions, on the journey from Moscow to the Crimea, we saw a dead pig enveloped in burning straw, and learned that the pig, as soon as killed, is placed on straw, which is then set fire to in order to burn the animal's hair. After the desolate and monotonous country of the wheat producing district, one was most favorably impressed by the Crimea. The Crimea may be said to be the wine and fruit-producing district for the whole of Russia, and at the moment I am writing these lines (April 27) the vines are just commencing to shoot. The Crimea is essentially a land of hills, and it is on these hillsides that the vines are grown. Cereals are produced only in small quantities—the climate is too dry and the soil too rocky to permit of extensive operations in this line. A little wheat and oats are grown, and occasionally one sees a field of rye already bursting into ear, while far up the hillsides orchards with fruit trees—apple, pear, apricot, plum—laden with blossom, throw their perfumes far over the land.

For shade, trees should be planted wherever it is desirable to be shielded from the hot rays of the summer sun. Not all shade is agreeable. The shade of some trees is too dense and others too light. A heavy wooden plank properly supported will make a shade; so will mosquito netting, but it would not be best to use either. Trees with a close, compact head and large, heavy leaves may make too dense a shade.

There is much to be said for planting, and even worse lack of care after planting. Much has been written about how planting should be done. It may be well to note a few things that should not be done. The following are some of the things to be avoided:

1. Don't plant trees that are more than from four to six years' old.

In central Russia rye is cut with sickles; other cereal crops, as a rule, with scythes. Falls are used throughout the country, except in the south, where threshing is done by means of stones dragged by horses, etc.

HEAD BEGAN TO FESTER

P. O. Box 55, Greenville, Cal.—"Last fall my baby boy, two and a half years old, fell and hit the back of his head on the door-casing, cutting quite a gash. I thought it would heal right away, so when I poked him up and washed his head I put some—on it and he soon was playing again. The next morning there was a scab over it, but after a few days it began to fester and other sores came near it. They commenced at his neck and gradually spread to the top of his head. The eruption was like ulcerated pimples and itched and irritated him awfully, especially at night, when he would scratch and dig his head. I had hard work to keep him from scratching them. His hair fell out where the sores were thickest.

"The sores looked red and mattered. I had all his hair cut close to his head so I could get the Cuticura Ointment on well night and morning and I washed his head well with the Cuticura Soap. After a few applications night and morning the itching stopped and no more new sores came. In two weeks it was healed nicely and in three weeks he was cured and there is not even a scar on his head." OLD KING LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM MADE TWO ROYAL LOVERS WAIT

Prince Victor Napoleon for Six Years Was Refused the Hand of Princess Clementine Who Was Kept a Prisoner in the Palace Until Death of Aged Monarch and the Accession of Albert.

Paris.—An heir has been born to the official pretender to the throne of France. The Bonapartist party is rejoicing over the arrival of a prince imperial, and the mother of the little prince, who was Princess Clementine of Belgium, declares she is the happiest woman in the world. She has prayed for a son, and now the son is born.

It was a real royal romance, that of Prince Victor Napoleon and the Belgian princess. For six years the two waited for each other; for old King Leopold, the father of the princess, forbade their marriage. The mere prospect of it helped to embitter his last days, and even on his deathbed he warned his youngest daughter against the fatal prompting of her heart and fancy. He reminded her, almost with his expiring breath, of the Bourbon blood in her veins, of the position of her fiancé as the undisputed head of the Bonaparte family, and of the irreconcilable feud between the two sets of pretenders to sovereignty in France—the royalist and imperialist.

The engagement between the princess and the pretender to the hypothetical throne of the French was a somewhat romantic one. For 24 years, since he was exiled from France, the chief of the Bonapartists had lived in Brussels. His life, to outward appearance, was of somewhat morose resignation. He did not plot in his great house on the Avenue Louise, but neither did he show contentment with his lot.

Brussels is a comparatively small city, but the first inkling of the fact that the prince and the princess were affianched was given at one of the horseback paper chases which are among the favorite recreations of Brussels society. At this paper chase Prince Victor was victorious and Princess Clementine attached the trophy, a bunch of ribbons, to his coat. Her act appeared significant. At once the engagement was declared to be certain.

Shortly after this Prince Victor drove to the great royal palace in Brussels to ask the old king for the hand of his daughter. And now the subtle genius of the crafty monarch displayed itself in all its power. Receiving the French pretender with the exquisite deference his manner could assume, the wily king professed his perfect willingness to accept the prince for a son-in-law. "But since the French republic has raised objections, Leopold must forbid the nuptials."

Princess Clementine had intimated a purpose to avail herself of her legal advantage of being thirty-two years old by marrying her lover. In that event, Leopold assured the pretender, he should be put to the painful necessity of disowning Clementine as he had disowned his two other daughters. It was of the utmost consequence to the Belgian sovereign, as head of the Congo state, to maintain friendly relations with the foreign office in Paris. The safety of Belgium itself depended upon French good will.

When the Bonaparte pretender, after listening to this exposition of dynastic diplomacy, ventured to speak of love, Leopold's only reply, it was said, was "inextinguishable laughter." But the prince had formed an enduring affection for the princess and he was resolved to bide his time.

And the grim old king kept his youngest daughter a prisoner. It was the time when the moral wreck of the king of the Belgians had filled the world with scandal. His character, colossal in every respect, lost no vigor in the capacity of jailer, and the helpless Clementine durst not stir from her room without the prior permission of her inexorable parent. Daily she was summoned to the presence of her father, who put to her the query: "Will you swear never to see this man?"

The answer of the princess was the sweetest, but the firmest; for she never forgot her sense of duty to her parent, whom she tenderly loved when all the world was filled with loathing for his vices. And the old king who hated his wife, hated his sister, hated his two elder daughters, loved jealously, selfishly, his youngest child, Princess Clementine.

When he came home to Brussels from the dancing girls of Paris, from his squalid junketing on the Riviera, it was she who nursed him back to a kind of health and decency. She drove abroad with him, and when she was with him the people did not hoot him in the streets. With kindly respect they lifted their hats to the Princess Clementine, and her old father grinned and bowed and took the salutes to himself. He never appeared in public in his own kingdom unless she were by his side.

And the sweethearts waited, growing older. Now and then they saw each other—at the opera, at the court, at the chase. They still loved each other devotedly; they were of the race of great sweethearts, in spite of the fact that the princess was slowly withering and that the prince was turning bald and waxing fat. In those long years of waiting the princess grew to be a symbol—a symbol of unhappy love for the entire nation.

Albert of Belgium.

Calm Belgian sweethearts promised each other to love like Clementine. Six years they waited. And then King Leopold died and King Albert ascended the throne.

With his accession the royal objections were removed. This was due largely to the attitude of Prince Victor himself, who always refrained from attending official fetes and ceremonies in Brussels and from in any way embarrassing the relations of Belgium and France. As soon as court etiquette allowed the two faithful sweethearts were married at Moncalieri, Italy.

Prince Victor is a cousin of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy. And the ceremony took place in the royal castle erected in the fifteenth century, to which Princess Clotilde, sister of King Humbert of Italy and mother of Prince Victor Napoleon, retired after the overthrow of the French empire. Public rejoicing marked the occasion. The members of the Savoy and Bonaparte families were present, including Prince Louis Napoleon, the younger brother of the pretender, who for some time had not been on good terms with the bridegroom. The wedding was in 1910. The princess was thirty-eight years old and the prince was forty-eight.

The prince imperial is their second child. The first was a girl, the Princess Clotilde. The Empress Eugenie was always heartily in favor of the marriage and the bulk of her vast fortune will go to the little prince imperial and his sister. And there are some who believe that Emperor Napoleon IV, as Prince Victor is called by the Bonapartists, will some day ascend the throne and that the prince imperial eventually will be emperor of France.

Wealthy Bought Cheap Groceries.
Chicago.—In the crowds that flocked to the municipal grocery, where the city of Chicago sells food at cost prices, County Agent Meyer recognized a dozen maids and butlers who admitted they were buying for families whose incomes are more than $200 a week. He refused to sell groceries to them.

Kid Gloves for Cooks.
Paris.—To prevent bacilli from getting into food, Prof. Andre Chante-meuse urges that all cooks wear kid gloves.

USE OF FERTILIZERS FARM IMPLEMENT IS HANDY

SANDY SOILS REQUIRE SUPPLY OF MINERAL ELEMENTS.

In Growth of Clover for Increasing Organic Matter on Exhausted Land Potassium Will Often Be Found of Benefit.

The maintenance of fertility on sandy soils requires a supply of the mineral elements, phosphorus and potassium and of organic matter including nitrogen.

Where live stock farming is followed and all feed produced on the farm is consumed there, the potassium is conserved and under these conditions it is not ordinarily necessary to add this element, especially where the supply of organic matter in the soil is fairly good. In the growth of clover for increasing the organic matter on exhausted sandy soils, potassium fertilizer will probably often be very beneficial.

Truck crops, such as potatoes, beets, etc., use large amounts of potassium and where they are grown on land not having a good supply of organic matter or where manure from nearby towns is not available, the use of potash fertilizers is important. In growing such crops as potatoes, beets or other truck crops extensively, the turning under of some kind of legume is essential and the best method of adding potash to the soil under such cases is to apply it to the land at the time of seeding of the legume since by so doing it adds greatly in the growth of the clover or other legume and becomes available along with the nitrogen from this crop the following year.

Where an abundance of organic matter, either in the form of barnyard manure or green manure, is contained in the soil, use may be made of the cheapest sources of this element.

Clover Sod With Potash and Phosphorus Fertilizer Yielded 26 bushels of Corn Per Acre, Shown at the Left; 13.5 bushels Where Potash and Phosphorus Were Used Without Clover, in Culture, and 23.5 bushels Where Potash and Phosphorus Were Used. This Shows the Importance of Adding Nitrogen and Organic Matter to Sandy Soils.

namely, untreated, finely ground rock phosphate. Where this is incorporated with the manure in the stable it is acted on by the fermentation of the manure so as to cause it to become readily available. However, where the organic matter is small or moderate, and this is generally the case in sandy soils, the use of either acid phosphate or ground steamed bone meal is advisable.

Fortunately, not all plants are dependent for their supply of nitrogen directly on the soil. The members of the legume family, including clovers, alfalfa, peas, beans, etc., as is generally known, have the ability through the action of the bacteria which develop nodules on the roots of these plants, of taking their supply of nitrogen from the soil air.

Educated Man Best Farmer.
Farmers with a high school education make nearly double the average income of those with only a common school education, according to the department of agriculture. The educated man makes the most successful farmer and, states the same authority, those who start farming the earliest in life reap the largest profits.

Our Egg Exports.
Reports show that 121,000,000 dozens of eggs were exported to foreign countries during twelve months. From this it would be reasonably safe to estimate that the egg crop of this country crowds the corn crop very closely, or would if accurate returns could be obtained of the number of eggs consumed in the homes of the farmers.

The number of eggs exported has rapidly increased in the last few years. It is reported that in 1903 the value of hen's eggs exported was $33,297, and in 1913, $4,391,653.

Seed for the Garden.
Be sure seed of the best possible quality is purchased for the garden. Neither the gardener nor farmer can afford to use poor seed because it is cheap. It is the most expensive in the end.

Make Sheep Grow Rapidly.
One of the important items in sheep raising is to make them grow rapidly during the summer on grass and to have them in fine condition in the fall to start the winter.

One of Most Useful Devices for Cultivating Corn Crop is Double Smoothing Harrow.

The double smoothing harrow is one of the most useful implements that we have on our farm for cultivating corn, beans and potatoes just before they come up, and when they are from two to six inches tall, says the Western Farmer. The material for the construction of the frame of the harrow is 3 by 3 inches, and should be made of oak or other hard wood. Bore the tooth-holes after the frame is put together. Let the teeth all slant backward about forty-five degrees. Set them diamond fashioned, so the edge will strike the soil. Paint the harrow, and by keeping it dry it will last for many years.

SIMPLE WAY TO TEST SEED

Complicated System of Numbered Boxes and Squares Not Necessary—Record Easily Found.

(By WALTER B. LEUTZ.)

It is not necessary to have a complicated system of numbered boxes and squares in order to test seed and keep a record of it. The best seed tester I have seen consisted of a strip of heavy cloth, such as an old blanket, and a tin fruit can.

Lay the strip out on the table or board the required length, which may be from two feet to a rod, and, beginning a foot from one end, place the seed in groups four inches apart along the strip till the other end is reached.

It is not necessary to number the groups of seed on the strip, as they will come in rotation when they are to be unrolled and examined after germination, but the bulk of the seed or ear from which they were taken may be numbered if necessary.

If more than one of these cloth strips are needed, each one may be numbered. When the seed are in place roll the cloth around the can, beginning with the end left blank and continuing to the end which is tied or pinned tightly.

Throw this roll and such others as they are prepared into a pail of warm water, where they should remain for several hours, then pour the water off and cover the pail to retain the moisture, placing it in a warm place.

Sprinkle to keep moist, if necessary, and in a few days the seed will have germinated. Unroll the cloth on the same table or board as before and, beginning with the first seeds placed, compare the percentage of germination and consequent vitality.

In this way the record of every lot of seed or ear of corn is before you.

Hog Cholera.

Hog cholera is a disease which seems to be stopped to a degree by the frosts of winter, although frost cannot be said to stop a case after it has taken hold of its victim. However, it seems to prevent the rapid spread of the disease. The result is that in spring time the affection is, as a rule, at the lowest ebb, but increases rapidly from that time until fall.

Two Sheep Pastures.

Sheep owners should realize that having two or more feed lots is economy. As wool as one pasture is picked bare a change should be made. In this way the pasture becomes freshened and the weeds will be kept down better. Sheep do much better on less ground when this system is used and many more sheep can be kept.

No Excuse for Poor Seed.

There is absolutely no reason why farmers should plant poor seed of any kind. If you doubt your dealer your state experiment station will test it for you and tell you how and where to get pure seed.

Dairying is Supreme.

The fertility which live stock makes on the farm is one of the advantages to be derived from this class of farming and in all live-stock farming dairying is supreme.

Breed Up Dairy Cows.

Breed up the dairy cows. It takes no longer, costs no more and gets you somewhere in the dairy business.
