SANITARY SENTIMENT SMILINGLY SNUBBED

Several Sentimental Scions of Stanchly Sober and Sedate Settlers Sweat, Swash and Swim in Serene Security

SENESCHAL SLOWLY SINGES. SOCIALLY SINFUL SHAVERS

The full intent of the sanitary laws from the national acts to the local regulations, has not filtered through the gray matter of everybody yet; or, if it has, it has been at times rather ruthlessly ignored. Anyway, what's the use of being sanitary if you can't keep clean—and with water tanks fenced in, no towels or drinking cups unless you have a nickel to slip into the slot and bathtubs only in the advertising sections of the magazines, it is sometimes a hard matter to obey the hygienic laws and keep yourself in that soft and delicate physical condition which comes with an occasional application of agua pura to the exterior angles of the human body. While this goes as a general rule, it also goes in Carrizozo; and there are a few who insist on taking a bath though the heavens fall and despite the fact the reservoir above town was not originally intended for a swimming pool, but to house the water used by the citizens for domestic purposes. Billy Peck, Sam Kennedy, Scott Kennedy, Ivory Phillips and Dayton Herron were accused of thus serrepticiously splashing around in the water tank last Monday, and after being rounded up by agent Jones, officer Hyde and Dr. Paden, the county health officer, they were taken before Justice Massie and told what the real intent of the railroad company had been in erecting the reservoir, and while they were not too severely criticized for their innate desire to take a bath, they were fully informed what the penalty for plunging into the town's supply of drinking water would be—a simple little six months' loaf in the county jail. Then the boys promised to be good, if they couldn't be clean, and they were allowed to dust out into the free ozone once more.

This is the first offense of this kind for a good long period of time, and it will doubtless be the last, as the reservoir will be carefully watched hereafter and any boy, big or little, old or young, found trespassing on the premises will be reported to the health officer who will immediately lodge a complaint against them and the jail sentence will be imposed. Boil your water.

Roman Pacheco was a business visitor to the county seat Thursday from his home at Rabenton.

Mrs. Anna Buchanan and son Cole, who have been the guest of Mrs. Buchanan's brother, Sheriff Cole, for the past month, left this morning for their home at Douglas, Ariz.

Miss Rothie Soper, a sister of Mrs. O. T. Nye, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Nye for the past seven weeks, left last Wednesday for her home at Bryant, Ark.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

The Teachers' Institute for Lincoln county opened at the local school house Monday morning, under the direction of Prof. J. S. Hofer, of Tucumcari, as confiductor. Professor Hofer is assisted by Miss Jean Forsythe, of Silver City and Professor McCurdy of this place. Twenty-eight are in attendance, most of them being from this county, the register showing as follows: Miss Donnie Franks and Theo. Richardson, Corona; Mrs. Edna Burnett, Ancho; Misses Edith Wells and Mildred Taylor, White Oaks; Prof. J. E. Koonce, Richardson; Mrs. Lurlyne Lane and Miss Ethel Phillips, Fort Stanton; Mesdames Smithson and Craddock, Capitan; J. F. Davis, Angus; Miss Agneda Basa, Lincoln; Prof. G. E. Cardwell, Nogal; Mrs. C. E. Hubbert, Taos; Mrs. Bessie Case, Three Rivers; Miss Gertrude Keller, Nogal Mesa; E. A. Haggard, Varney; S. R. Moss and Mrs. Moss, Mrs. de Nission, Mrs. Mary Orr, Mrs. E. V. Jewett, Mrs. E. H. Nickels, Misses Bernice Barber, Beulah Brazel, Vera Harris, Inna Stevens and Olive Kennedy, Carrizozo.

The classes are starting with great earnestness and the schools of the county should receive great benefit from the excellent methods and professional work that is being discussed.

The public is invited to attend any of the sessions.

HARRY COMPTON WINS WITH HABEAS CORPUS

Accused of Embezzlement of Saddle and Bound Over to Grand Jury. He is Discharged by Judge Medler

MARCH TERM OF COURT HAS FINALLY ADJOURNED SINE DIE

The thirty-first day of the March term of court for Lincoln county opened at the court house here last Monday morning, Judge Edward L. Medler, presiding, and there being present Hon. H. B. Hamilton district attorney, Hon. W. H. Osborn, assistant district attorney, A. H. Harvey, clerk, John Cole, sheriff and Ed Massie, Crier.

The Court's attention was given to the habeas corpus proceedings instituted by Attorney George Spence in behalf of Harry Compton a young man who had been before Justice Massie on a charge of embezzlement and whom the Justice had bound over to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $500. The defendant was unable to furnish the bond and had been boarding with the sheriff since about the first of the month. It was alleged against the defendant in the lower court that he had deliberately appropriated to his own use a saddle belonging to another party, and it appeared to the court that the evidence was sufficient to hold him. However, when the matter was presented to Judge Medler, he was of a different opinion and the defendant was discharged.

In the matter of Thomas Keehn et al against Monroe Harper et al, the defendant's motion to strike from the files the complaint of the plaintiff was by the court overruled and the defendants were given the customary twenty days in which to plead.

In the case of James Alexander et al against Henry M. Corn et al the demurrer interposed by the defendants to the plaintiffs' complaint was sustained as to Mr. Alexander, but was dismissed as to the other plaintiffs.

These few matters cleared the docket, so far as the present term was concerned, and court was adjourned sine die.

William Franklin, largely interested in the mining business in the Jicarilla district, arrived here last Thursday from a business trip to Chicago

Chas H. Brown, formerly of Nogal, but now a resident of Mesilla, N. M., was in town the first of the week on business, leaving for his Dona Ana county home last Wednesday.

The ladies of the Home Missionary society will give a lawn festival at the home of Mesdames Brown and Cribb next Thursday evening, commencing at 8 o'clock; There will be plenty of music, homemade ice cream, sherbert and cake, and the price asked for all you want is only 15 and 20 cents. Everybody be there.

ROBBERS RAMPANT

Last Wednesday night the Williams shoe shop was broken into by some gentlemen who were evidently sadly in need of shoes, as the proprietor reports the loss of goods to the amount of $25.

Thursday night the Headlight saloon was entered quite clandestinely and in addition to the loss of a large quantity of wet goods and cigars, the cash drawer was relieved of its contents, which Mr Chavez, the proprietor, reports to be in the neighborhood of $25. The perpetrators of these burglaries have not at this writing been apprehended, although clues are being followed by the officers with prospects of arrest in a day or two

FERGUSON'S TIGERS DEFEATED

The Ball Game Sunday between Ferguson's Tigers of the Mesa and the local team resulted in a score of 5 to 2 in favor of the locals. The game was an interesting one and a large crowd was in attendance.

John B. Baird has taken unto himself a big 320 acre Homestead just two miles out of town.

General Manager Simmons of the E P & S. W. Ry. passed through town Thursday on a trip of inspection.

W. N. Kennedy is improving his property in Highland Addition by building an addition to his house

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Johns of Tucumcari are visiting friends in Carrizozo

H. B. Dawson, Secretary of the County Road Board is in Santa Fe this week to attend the big Road Meeting that is being held there.

H. S. Campbell brought in some fine samples of his big crop to the Outlook Office Thursday. The crop of beans, cane, mill oats and feterita are as good as can be raised anywhere.

W. H. Sexton from the Mesa was in town today, and reports his big crop of Cauliflower in fine condition. Mr. Sexton intends hereafter to devote most of his time to the business of raising Cauliflower on his Mesa ranch as he is an expert in the culture of this plant.

The Phelps-Dodge company is planning to make the new camp of Tyrone in the Burro mountains, another Douglas, according to report, and will shortly throw open the townsite which has been laid out for a city of at least 10,000 people. Employment is to be given to 6,000 men about the mines and mills, which with the railroad spur and other improvements represent an invest of $8,000,000.

Twenty four copies of the sacred Scriptures are enumerated in an inventory of the Franciscan convent at Santo Domingo, dated 1788, according to Father Jeronimo Hesse who denounced the inventory of New Mexico churches in 1796, recently obtained by Historian Ralph E. Twitchell as incomplete because it does not enumerate a single Bible in all the churches of the southwest in 1796.

CIVIC LEAGUE WANTS TOWN POLISHED UP

Clean up your premises without delay as the wagon will be around next week to carry rubbish to the mal pais

DANCERS ENJOY ANOTHER JOLLY HOP AT BANK HALL

Now is the time to clean up the town of Carrizozo. Read these lines in the Outlook and then—get busy!

Those of the present population of our thriving little community who have had past acquaintance with the energy and determination of the ladies of the Civic League, have only to be given notice that, as an organization, they have decided that the time for another "cleaning" has arrived. They know that this means business. Those who have become citizens since the last clean-up campaign conducted by the League, may be assured that they are working for a clean, and, consequently, a sanitary town. That is enough for most people. The League desires to announce this week that the clean up decision was made at the meeting of the ladies this week, and all residents are therefore requested, and very politely urged, to polish up their respective premises and any adjoining lots. Put the rubbish in a convenient place for the teamsters and next week wagons will be sent out for the purpose of hauling it away.

Now, don't forget. Let us all do our full part in making Carrizozo a slightly, cleaned-up, sanitary town. And while you are cleaning up—swat the fly.

The dance given by the young men of the town last Monday evening in the Exchange Bank hall was delightful in every sense of the word. Over a hundred guests were present, and while all did not indulge in every dance, they declare it was mighty hard to sit out a number, "cause George Ferguson certainly did make good dance music," the kind that gets into your toes in spite of your determination to be moderate. Punch was served throughout the evening until the wee sma' hours, the order of business was on with the dance; let joy be unconfined.

H. S. Scheffey of White Mountain came in today on business.

J. L. Van Zant and Dr. McKehan of Fort Stanton drove over in Mr. Van Zant's New Buick today.

Henry Fritz was in town last week delivering a consignment of peaches raised on his ranch below Lincoln.

If the Civic League will open its official eye it is more than probable that portions of Carrizozo will get a cleaning up.

LOST—Gold cuff button with quartz set. Finder will be rewarded by returning to Frank J. Sager.

Chas Hentley who is in the employ of the Ry. water service on the Bonito was in town a few days this week.

CHAPTER I.

He paused on the platform and glanced at his watch. The train on which he had just arrived was late. It hurried away from the station, and was swallowed up in the blackness of the tunnel, as if it knew its own shortcomings and wished to make up for them.

It was five minutes of six, and as the young man looked back at the long flight of steps that led to the bridge across the tracks, a delicate penciling of electric light flashed into outline against the city's deepening dusk, emphasizing the lateness of the hour. He had a dinner engagement at seven, and it was yet some distance to his home, where a rapid toilet must be made if he were to arrive on time.

The stairway was long, and there were many people thronging it. A shorter cut led down along the tracks under the bridge, and up the grassy embankment.

Under the center of the bridge a slight noise behind him, as of soft, hurrying footsteps, caught his attention, and a woman's voice broke upon his startled senses.

"Please don't stop, nor look around," it said, and the owner caught up with him now in the shadow. "But will you kindly let me walk beside you for a moment, till you can show me how to get out of this dreadful place? I am very much frightened, and I'm afraid I shall be followed. Will you tell me where I can go to hide?"

After an instant's astonished pause, he obeyed her and kept on, making room for her to walk beside him, while he took the place next to the tracks. He was aware, too, of the low rumble of a train, coming from the mouth of the tunnel.

His companion had gasped for breath, but began again in a tone of apology.

"I saw you were a gentleman, and I didn't know what to do. I thought you would help me to get somewhere quickly."

Just then the fiery eye of the oncoming train burst from the tunnel ahead. Instinctively, the young man caught his companion's arm and drew her forward to the embankment beyond the bridge, holding her, startled and trembling, as the screaming train tore past them.

The man's first thought was to get out of the cut before another train should come. He grasped his companion's arm and started up the steep embankment, realizing as he did so that the wrist he held was slender, and that the sleeve which covered it was of the finest cloth.

As they emerged from the dark, the man saw that his companion was a young and beautiful woman, and that she wore a light cloth gown with neither hat nor gloves.

At the top of the embankment they paused, and the girl, with her hand at her throat, looked backward with a shudder. She seemed like a young bird that could scarcely tell which way to fly.

Without an instant's hesitation, the young man raised his hand and hailed a four-wheeler across the street.

"Come this way, quick!" he urged, helping her in. He gave the driver his home address and stopped in after her. Then, turning, he faced his companion, and was suddenly keenly aware of the strange situation in which he had placed himself.

"Can you tell me what is the matter," he asked, "and where you would like to go?"

The girl had scarcely recovered breath from the long climb and the fright, and she answered him in broken phrases.

"No, I cannot tell you what is the matter," she paused and looked at him, with a sudden comprehension of what he might be thinking about her—"but—there is nothing—that is—I have done nothing wrong—" She paused again and looked up with eyes whose clear depths, he felt, could hide no guile.

"Of course," he murmured with decision, and then wondered why he felt so sure about it.

"Thank you," she said. Then, with frightened perplexity: "I don't know where to go. I never was in this city before. If you will kindly tell me how to get somewhere—I suppose to a railroad station—and yet—no, I have no money—and—then with a sudden little movement of dismay—"and I have no hat! Oh!"

The young man felt a strong desire to shield this girl so unexpectedly shown on his mercy. Yet vague fears hovered about the margin of his judgment. Perhaps she was a thief or an adventuress.

The girl was speaking again: "But I must not trouble you any more. You have been very kind to get me out of that dreadful place. If you will just stop the carriage and let me out, I am sure I can take care of myself."

"I could not think of letting you get out here alone. If you are in danger, I will help you." The warmth of his own words startled him. He knew he ought to be more cautious with a stranger, but impetuously he threw caution to the winds. "If you would just tell me a little bit about it, so that I should know what I ought to do for you—"

"Oh, I must not tell you! I couldn't!" said the girl, her hand fluttering up to her heart, as if to hold its wild beating from stifling her. "I am sorry to have involved you for a moment in this. Please let me out here. I am not frightened, now that I got away from that terrible tunnel. I was afraid I might have to go in there alone, for I didn't see any way to get up the bank, and I couldn't go back."

"I am glad I happened to be there," breathed the young man fervently. "It would have been dangerous for you to enter that tunnel. It runs an entire block. You would probably have been killed."

The girl shut her eyes and pressed her fingers to them. In the light of the street lamps, he saw that she was very white, and also that there were jewels flashing from the rings on her fingers. It was apparent that she was a lady of wealth and refinement. What could have brought her to this pass?

The carriage came to a sudden stop, and, looking out, he saw they had reached his home. A new alarm seized him as the girl moved as if to get out. His dignified mother and his fastidious sister were probably not in, but if by any chance they should not have left the house, what would they think if they saw a strange, hatless young woman descend from the carriage with him? Moreover, what would the butler think?

"Excuse me," he said, "but really, there are reasons why I shouldn't like you to get out of the carriage just here. Suppose you sit still until I come out. I have a dinner engagement and must make a few changes in my dress, but it will take me only a few minutes. You are in no danger, and I will take you to some place of safety. I will try to think what to do while I am gone. On no account get out of the carriage. It would make the driver suspicious, you know. If you are really followed, he will let no one disturb you in the carriage, of course. Don't distress yourself. I'll hurry. Can you give me the address of any friend to whom I might 'phone or telegraph?"

She shook her head and there was a glitter of tears in her eyes as she replied:

"No, I know of no one in the city who could help me."

"I will help you, then," he said with sudden resolve, and in a tone that would be a comfort to any woman in distress.

As the young man let himself into his home with his latch-key, he heard the butler's well-trained voice answering the telephone.

"Yes, ma'am; this is Mrs. Dunham's residence. . . . No, ma'am, she is not at home. . . . No, ma'am, Miss Dunham is out also. . . . Mr. Dunham?"

phoned me, and I don't know what to do. Isn't Cornelia at home? Couldn't you persuade her to come and help out?"

"Well, now, that's too bad, Mrs. Bowman," began the young man, thinking he saw a way out of both their difficulties. "I'm sorry Cornelia isn't here. I'm sure she would do anything in her power to help you. But she and mother were to dine in Chestnut Hill tonight, and they must have left the house half an hour ago. I'm afraid she's out of the question. Suppose you leave me out? You won't have any trouble then except to take two plates off the table—he laughed pleasantly—"and you would have even couples. You see," he hastened to add, as he heard Mrs. Parker Bowman's preliminary dissent—"you see, Mrs. Bowman, I'm in somewhat of a predicament myself. My train was late, and as I left the station I happened to meet a young woman—a friend." (He reflected rapidly on the old proverb, "A friend in need is a friend indeed." In that sense she was a friend.) "She is temporarily separated from her friends, and is a stranger in the city. In fact, I'm the only acquaintance or friend she has, and I feel rather under obligation to see her to her hotel and look up trains for her. She leaves the city tonight."

"Now, look here, Tryon Dunham, you're not going to leave me in the lurch for any young woman. I don't care how old an acquaintance she is! You simply bring her along. She'll make up my number and relieve me wonderfully. No, don't you say a word. Just tell her that she needn't stand on ceremony. Your mother and I are too old friends for that. Any friend of yours is a friend of mine, and my house is open to her. She won't mind. These girls who have traveled a great deal learn to step over the little formalities of calls and introductions. Tell her I'll call on her afterwards, if she'll only remain in town long enough, or I'll come and take dinner with her when I happen to be in her city. I suppose she's just returned from abroad—they all have—or else she's just going—and if she hasn't learned to accept things as she finds them, she probably will soon. Tell her what a plight I'm in, and that it will be a real blessing to me if she'll come. Besides—I didn't mean to tell you—I meant it for a surprise, but I may as well tell you now—Judge Blackwell is to be here, with his wife, and I especially want you to meet him. I've been trying to get you two together for a long time."

"Ah!" breathed the young man, with interest. "Judge Blackwell! I have wanted to meet him."

"Well, he has heard about you, too, and I think he wants to meet you. Did you know he was thinking of taking a partner into his office? He has always refused—but that's another story, and I haven't time to talk. You ought to be on your way here now. Tell your friend I will bless her forever for helping me out, and I won't take no for an answer. You said she'd just returned from abroad, didn't you? Of course she's musical. You must make her give us some music. She will, won't she? I was depending on Miss Mayo for that this evening."

"Well, you might be able to persuade her," murmured the distracted young man at the 'phone, as he struggled with one hand to untie his necktie and unfasten his collar, and mentally calculated how long it would take him to get into his dress suit.

"Yes, of course. You'd better not speak of it—it might make her decline. And don't let her stop to make any changes in her dress. Everybody will understand when I tell them she's just arrived—didn't you say?—from the other side, and we caught her on the wing. There's some one coming now. Do, for pity's sake, hurry, Tryon, for my cook is terribly cross when I hold up a dinner too long. Goodby. Oh, by the way, what did you say was her name?"

"Oh—ah!" He almost succeeded in releasing his collar, and was about to just wait a moment, please. I think Mr. Dunham has just come in. Who shall I say wishes to speak to him? Mrs. Parker Bowman?"

Yes, ma'am; just wait a minute, please. I'll call Mr. Dunham."

The young man frowned. Another interruption! And Miss Bowman! It was at her house that he was to dine. He took the receiver, resolved to get out of going to the dinner if it were possible.

"Good evening, Mrs. Bowman."

"Oh, is that you, Mr. Dunham? How relieved I am! I am in a bit of difficulty about my dinner, and called up to see if your sister couldn't help out. Miss Mayo has failed me. Her sister has had an accident, and she cannot leave her. She has just hung up the receiver, when this new difficulty confronted him.

"Oh, yes, of course; her name—I had almost forgotten," he went on wildly, to make time, and searched about in his mind for a name—any name—that might help him. The telephone book lay open at the R's. He pounced upon it and took the first name his eye caught.

"Yes—why—Remington, Miss Remington."

"Remington!" came in a delighted scream over the phone. "Not Carolyn Remington? That would be too good luck!"

"No," he murmured distractedly; "no, not Carolyn. Why, I—ah—I think—Mary—Mary Remington."

"Oh, I'm afraid I haven't met her, but never mind. Do hurry up, Tryon. It is five minutes of seven. Where did you say she lives?" but the receiver was hung up with a click, and the young man tore up the steps to his room three at a bound.

He was settling his coat into place when a queer little bulge attracted his attention to an inside pocket. Impatiently he pulled out a pair of long white gloves. They were his sister's, and he now remembered she had given them to him to carry the night before, on the way home from a reception, she having removed them because it was raining. He looked at them with a sudden inspiration. Of course! Why had he not thought of that? He hurried into his sister's room to make a selection of a few necessities for the emergency—only to have his assurance desert him at the very threshold. The room was immaculate, with no feminine finery lying about. Cornelia Dunham's maid was well trained. The only article that seemed out of place was a band-box on a chair near the door. It bore the name of a fashionable milliner, and across the lid was pencilled in Cornelia's large, angular hand, "To be returned to Madame Dollard's." He caught up the box and strode over to the closet. There was no time to lose, and this box doubtless contained a hat of some kind. If it was to be returned, Cornelia would think it had been called for, and no further inquiry would be made about the matter. He could call at Madame's and settle the bill without his sister's knowledge.

He poked back into the closet and discovered several wraps and evening cloaks of more or less elaborate style, but the thought came to him that perhaps one of these would be recognized as Cornelia's. He closed the door hurriedly and went down to a large closet under the stairs, from which he presently emerged with his mother's new black rain-coat. He patted his coat-pocket to be sure he had the gloves, seized his hat, and hurried back to the carriage, the hat-box in one hand and his mother's rain-coat dragging behind him. His only anxiety was to get out before the butler saw him.

Backhander.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, en route for the suffrage congress at Budapest, said on the Minneapolis:

"I see that a number of influential women have appeared as anti-suffragists before the senate committee. I'm sorry for this.

"These women declare that they wish their sex well, but it is hard to understand their attitude. To me they seem to be striking a back-handed blow at progress. They are like the spiteful woman who said to an old friend:

"'You don't show your age at all, darling.'"

"'Oh, don't I?' cried the old friend, delighted.

"'No,' said the other, 'I was looking for it in the sitting-room. When did you scratch it out of the family Bible?'"

Ad Astra Per Repartes.

"All right," said Chollie, as he gathered himself together after her father had thrown him out of the house. "I'll have you indicted for this."

"Assault and battery, I presume?" grinned the old gentleman.

"Not on your life," said Chollie. "Under the Sherman act your daughter and I were about to swap vows, and that kick of yours was distinctly in restraint of trade!"

And the old man was so pleased that he relented and the next day the engagement was announced.—Harper's Weekly.

OIL OUTPUT IS SMALLER.

The Price Advance in 1912 Stimulated Drilling.

Washington.—Production of petroleum in the Appalachian oil field declined 1.72 per cent or 452,876 barrels in 1912, compared with 1911. Figures by the Geological Survey show that the total output in 1912 was 25,885,640 barrels, against 26,338,516 barrels in the preceding year. The value of the product, however, was $43,619,617, an increase of 48.58 per cent over 1912. The average price per barrel increased from $1.63 in 1912 to $2.46 in 1913.

The increase in the price of petroleum, which began at the end of 1912, resulted in stimulating drilling activity in all Appalachian states, which embrace New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

Fall Kills Woman Aged 102.

Solomon Rapids, Kan.—Mrs. Rebecca Holcomb, 102 years of age, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henry Thierolf, as the result of a fall. The body was taken to Gridley, Ill., for interment.

ARIZONA RAISING COTTON.

The 1913 Cotton Crop Was Most Valuable Ever Produced.

Washington.—Final figures on the 1913 cotton crop, announced by the census bureau, place it as the largest the United States has ever grown, with the exception of that of 1911. At the same time the estimate of the total value of the crop shows it was the most valuable ever produced, it being worth $1,043,760,000.

The quantity of cotton ginned from the 1913 crop, counting round as half bales and excluding linters, was 13,982,811 running bales, or 14,156,486 bales of 500 lbs. gross weight. Cotton seed produced was 6,305,000 tons, of which 4,575,508 tons were crushed. The value of the cotton is estimated at $887,160,000 and of the seed $150,600,000.

An interesting feature of the 1913 production was the crop of the Imperial valley, in southern California, where 22,838 bales were grown. It has been reported the acreage planted this year in the Imperial valley will show a large increase, while the production is estimated at from 50,000 to 100,000 bales. Last year's production was more than double that of any previous year there, where commercial growing of cotton has been in progress only a few years.

Another feature was the production in Arizona, where 2,299 bales were ginned, the largest part of which possessed the same characteristics as that grown in Egypt. The 1914 area shows a large increase, variously estimated at from 12,000 to 15,000 acres.

Pompons made of all-colored fronds or ostrich feathers are enjoying a popularity that will be soon worn out.

STORE MANURE FOR GARDENS

Best Practice is to Place Fertilizer in Obscure Corner—Spade and Turn Frequently.

A common practice is to manure the garden every year, late in the fall, or before planting in the spring, no further attention being given. This practice, however, is not the best.

The manure for the garden should be kept in a large box with a lid, or so screened that flies cannot enter it. Manure heaps are the natural breeding places of these pests and if they are allowed to remain near the house, uncovered, will prove a great nuisance.

A good plan is to use a very close wire screen nailed to a frame with hinges for the top. The manure should be spaded often on the top so that the water from the clouds or the sprinkling pot may penetrate to all portions of it.

If kept in a box a spout should be placed in one corner, at the bottom, so that the water may drain into a sunken barrel.

This will supply liquid manure which can be used at all seasons when vegetables and flowers are growing.

The manure in the box should be worked over once or twice a month, working the bottom to the top so that the entire heap may rot.

Manure may be kept in this manner if the boxes are placed at the farthest point in the garden from the house, and if surrounded with vines their presence will never be noticed from the dwelling.

BAD WEED IN THE PASTURES

Burdock is Typical Back Yard Plant, But is Found in Fence Corners and All Waste Places.

Burdock is a biennial plant with a large, deep tap root. The leaves, which are large, are generally fuzzy beneath, and the leaf stock is hollow. The first year the plant merely develops a leaf and root system. The second year the branched flowering stalk is sent up, sometimes six feet high.

Burdock—Showing Top of Plant With Burs, Also Large Leaf.

At the ends of the branches purple tipped flower burs are formed. The burdock is especially bad in sheep and horse pastures, as the burs get into the wool of the sheep and manes and tails of the horses. Burdock flowers in July and August and seeds in September. It is a typical back yard weed, but is found in fence corners and all waste places.

Continued cutting will exhaust the plants, and, in time exterminate them. The process may be hastened by cutting off deeply below the surface and applying a handful of salt or a few drops of gasoline or kerosene to the root of each plant.

WATCH THE HORSE'S TEETH

Very Often Elongated Molars Prevent Animal From Masticating Its Food in Proper Manner.

If your horse shows difficulty in eating or loses flesh without apparent cause, it is time to examine the teeth. Very often elongated teeth prevent a horse from properly masticating its food, thereby rendering it impossible to obtain much benefit from it.

Ulcerated teeth also are a source of great trouble and prevent a horse from eating well. Sometimes broken teeth cut the sides of a horse's mouth and form painful sores, which, of course, interfere with mastication.

It is a good plan to examine the teeth of all horses two or three times a year and in the case of broken or elongated teeth, treat them with a file. If the teeth of a valuable animal are badly affected it should be treated by a veterinary surgeon.

Ground for Hog Houses.
Hog houses should be built on high, dry ground.

TREAT HOGS FOR PARALYSIS

Unbalanced Ration, Inbreeding and Parasites Have Each in Turn Been Assigned as Cause.

(By GEORGE H. GLOVER, Colorado Agricultural College.)
Partial or complete paralysis of the hind legs of hogs is seen so often in swine herds that a common cause has been suspected but not definitely determined.

Inbreeding, parasites and an unbalanced ration, have each in turn been assigned as the probable cause of this particular form of paralysis, and now it is quite generally attributed to a lack of phosphate of lime. This salt in a form that can be appropriated may be deficient in the ration or not properly appropriated by the tissues of the body, or again, it may be because of a drain on the system for phosphates to nourish the growing fetus or the young afterbirth.

It is a well-known fact that there is a deficiency of phosphate of lime in the bones and other tissue of pregnant animals and in those that are suckling their young. This is especially true of the sow. But this condition is not confined to pregnant animals. In one instance a herd of 44 hogs, of both sexes and ages, ranging from ten months to two years, nearly all of them were affected with partial or complete paralysis of the hind legs. The ration had been largely raw potatoes.

They appeared to suffer no pain, the appetite was quite normal. A balanced ration would probably have prevented this condition. The following treatment has been recommended and should be helpful in these cases: One tablespoonful of cod liver oil, 15 grains phosphate of lime and three drops of fluid extract of nux vomica mixed with the food twice a day.

GOOD HINTS ABOUT FENCING

Of Importance to Note Shape of Fields Because It Has Much to Do With Material Needed.

When building fences note the shape of the fields, because it has much to do with the amount of fencing and material required to inclose or reconstruct it.

Thus: A square ten-acre field is 40 rods each way, and will therefore need half a mile of fencing.

A ten-acre field four times as long as wide is 80x20 rods, and will consequently require 200 rods of fence, or 40 rods more than before; so that a square field needs less fencing than an oblong one of the same size.

Mangels for Cows.

Mangels are good cow feed, but are not of high value as a horse feed. They contain about nine per cent of dry matter and 91 per cent water, 1.1 per cent protein and six per cent carbohydrates and have a nutritive ration of 1:5.5. They are valuable as succulence in feeding milk cows, a very important consideration when animals are being fed on dry hay or fodder where one has no silo to keep silage in. The mangels are far more valuable for maintaining the healthfulness of the animal than for the food in them. Carrots are the best horse's root feed in preference to all others and the sugar beet for swine and turnips for sheep.

Spraying Outfits.

A barrel sprayer will spray from five to ten acres of orchard and costs, complete, from $12 to $30. A bucket sprayer is useful for whitewashing or spraying a dozen trees or less; costs $3.50 to $8. The small hand compressed air and knapsack outfits are used for spraying potatoes, nursery trees, berries and vineyards. They cost from $5 to $15. All sprayers should have brass working parts which are not injured by acids.

Summer Diet for Pigs.

In summer the animal heat is kept up with but little effort, and in consequence a lighter diet should be fed to pigs. The food should be thinned down with some good sweet whey, kitchen slops or waste milk. The pigs will drink this with a relish, and it will be better for them in every way than thick, heavy food.

Fatal to Nursery Trees.

Hot lime and sulphur dip is fatal to young nursery trees. Better have your nurseryman guarantee to send you trees that do not need dipping. But then—all guarantees are not good.

HER ABSENT-MINDED MAN

If Any Wife Has an Affliction Worse Than This, Now is the Time to Declare It.

They were talking about their husbands over the tea things. Husbands and the weather supply the same vacuum between the gales of gossip.

"Theophilus, you know, is very absent-minded, and so wrapped up in his new study of photography that that's all he thinks of. You can't imagine the time I have with him."

She paused a moment to imagine it herself, while her listener found an idle interest in creasing the lace ends with her fingers.

"Oh, this is what I was going to tell you! Theophilus came out of the dark room the other evening just as dinner was set. I says to him: 'Theophilus, what are you standing up there rolling that plate of soup around like that for?' 'Just a minute,' he says to me—'just a minute. It's developing nicely. See that high light coming up?' 'High light nothing!' I says; 'that's a cracker. Sit down!'"

ECZEMA. ITCHED AND BURNED

R. F. D. No. 2, Seymour, Mo.—"My scalp broke out with fine pimples at the start. They itched and burned so much that I was compelled to scratch them and they would fester and come to a head and break out again. The trouble was attended by such burning and itching I could not sleep, also when I sweat it burned the same. My hair fell out gradually and the scalp kept rough and dry with itching and burning. After about two years the pimples broke out between my shoulders. My clothing irritated them. I was troubled with that eczema five or six years.

Must Have Been.

Says Mr. Filson Young in the Pall Mall-Gazette:—"I began yesterday by swimming in a sunlit sea, continued it by motoring through a hundred miles of lilac and gorse, and ended it listening to the most perfect concert program at Queen's hall that I have ever heard. . . . Was it not a happy day?" The answer, Filson, is in the affirmative, Mr. Punch remarks.

Many a woman who wants her husband to be honest is sorry that his honesty keeps him so poor.

A Century Ago.

The trial of the editors of the Gazette Universal, which took place in Madrid 100 years ago, affords an illustration of the severity with which the freedom of the press was restrained in practically all of the continental countries in those days. Ferdinand VII, who but recently had been restored to the Spanish throne as one of the consequences of the overthrow of Napoleon, had become involved in serious controversies with the cortes, the law-making body of the land, because of the latter's liberal views. A revolution appeared to be imminent. The Gazette Universal printed a statement to the effect that the officers of one of the Spanish armies had declared their determination to support the constitution and the cortes. For thus daring to take sides against the throne the editors of the newspaper were condemned by order of the king to labor six years in the galleys, on the coast of Africa.

Era of Submarines.

The day is approaching when sea-going submarines of high surface speed will accompany the main fleet on the high seas. Large vessels of this type, of 21 knots speed, have been designed for the United States navy. Great Britain is building, in the Nautilus, the largest submarine in existence, which is intended to be as seaworthy while on the surface as the latest type of destroyer. Its surface speed will be not less than 21 knots, and it will have a submerged speed of from 15 to 16 knots; it will carry six torpedo tubes, and the surface displacement will be about one thousand five hundred tons.

WOMEN CAN HARDLY BELIEVE

How Mrs. Hurley Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Eldon, Mo.—"I was troubled with displacement, inflammation and female weakness. For two years I could not stand on my feet long at a time and I could not walk two blocks without enduring cutting and drawing pains down my right side which increased every month. I have been at that time purple in the face and would walk the floor. I could not lie down or sit still sometimes for a day and a night at a time. I was nervous, and had very little appetite, no ambition, melancholy, and often felt as though I had not a friend in the world. After I had tried most every female remedy without success, my mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and gained in strength every day. I have now no trouble in any way and highly praise your medicine. It advertises itself."—Mrs. S. T. HURLEY, Eldon, Missouri.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For sale everywhere.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it? Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

If King George succeeds in untagging the Ulster soul, he will be entitled to an eight line paragraph on the first page.

Although the Kansas farmers have been endeavoring to entice harvest hands thither by offers of chicken dinners, it is officially reported that not one single preacher has responded.

A recent political forecast from Santa Fe proposes to run our neighborly quill driver, John A. Haley, for the house of representatives on the democratic ticket in this county. We are inclined to believe that John prefers his job as postmaster to the honor of boosting around Santa Fe for sixty weary days.

Another rumor from Alamogordo is to the effect that the commercial club will inaugurate a three-hundred-dollar-a-month advertising campaign for the purpose of putting the town on the map that will be the drawing card is not mentioned—whether it will be the new amusement pavillion foundation or the blue print of the now whiskered tourist hotel.

What a terrible thing is the ever-widening breach in the republican ranks in New Mexico—and the "same old gang" and the "graft" according to the lurid editorials of the nervous democratic editors of the state. How industriously the poor sumps are working to deceive themselves—verily, "how doth the busy little bee" O, piffle!

The democratic state press has had its hand on the bell cord for some time past, now, making the welkin ring. Every good thing that the state has ever had has come to us this year. Even the plentiful showers which has made our state a veritable garden, is credited to the democratic administration—whether to President Wilson or Governor McDonald, dependents saith not. The damage the democratic rains have done to the alfalfa crop is a little matter overlooked by the exuberant quill pushers. But, "let em howel," they have a pretty stiff defense to put up, and if they do appropriate some of the prerogatives of the Almighty, they shouldn't be criticised too severely. They are now having the one time of their lives!

Jim Anderson admits, in his last issue, that his Tularosa Tribune is the only real democratic paper in Otero county, and takes another swat at the chairman of the county central committee of that political faith for not printing the call for the convention in the official organ of the party. As Jim admits his newspaper is the "organ" of the party, it will not have to be proven, which is a matter of congratulation; but possibly when Jim gets through with the chairman now at the helm of the party in our neighboring county, some one else will sincerely wish he had admitted the charge and saved trouble. Hit 'em again, Jim! 'Taint no use to be shief unless you get something to creak!

Do our democratic friends think we have forgotten the unsavory record they made the last time they had a chance to make a record in the territorial days? That record says the Socorro Chieftain, was well suited to make the man in the moon hold his nose, and the effluvium of it lingered in the high ways and byways of the territory until long after the democratic party of New Mexico had been scoured into a retirement from which it has never yet been permitted to fully come forth. And yet democratic editors are now prating about political virtue as though they really knew what political virtue is. Nay, nay, gentleman; the republican party of New Mexico may have made some mistakes but its record, even as you yourselves paint it, is vastly better than the record made by your own party, and it will not serve your purpose merely to "assume a virtue though you have it not."

Just now the democrats are dozing over in Quay county, so far as the state representative from that district is concerned. In fact, the newspapers of democratic faith are even willing that the republicans elect the representative, with the help of the democratic vote. But neither at Tucumcari nor at Clayton are they dozing as to the re-nomination of Congressman Fergusson. The Clayton Citizen and the Press, of Tucumcari, demand that some one else beside the present incumbent be the democratic standard-bearer this fall. In all probability the reason for this may be found in an editorial paragraph in the Socorro Chieftain last week. That paper says that "it looks as though Mr. Fergusson might even yet meet with substantial opposition in the convention that is to nominate the next democratic candidate for representative in congress. It is seriously to be doubted whether Mr. Fergusson really has the instincts of a statesman about him, but even if he had—statesman go hang! What the hungry faithful want is a pie dispenser, and as a dispenser of pie New Mexico's present representative in congress is a bright shining failure, judging by the disappointment and anger that prevail in the state wherever there is an appointive political office to fill.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES

The republicans of the Carrizozo precinct held their primaries at the office of O. T. Nye last Monday evening and elected delegates to the county convention, which will be held at Capitan tomorrow. After organizing by making O. T. Nye chairman and A. H. Harvey secretary of the meeting, it was the sense of those present that eight delegates with one half vote each be named, instead of four with a full vote each. The delegates selected were: Andreas Luerae, T. W. Watson, H. B. Hamilton, W. M. Barnett, A. H. Harvey, O. T. Nye, C. Sandoval and J. F. Kitwell.

NEWS OF THE COUNTY

FORT STANTON

Mrs Weber is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rice, at Parsons.

Miss Bell Lutz, of Lincoln, was the house guest of Mrs H. D. Leech for a few days this week.

Mrs. F. H. McKeon left Friday of this week for a two months' trip to various coast points.

Miss Ethel Phillips is attending the meeting of the State Teachers' Association at Carrizozo.

Government Boiler Inspector Seville made his annual visit to Fort Stanton during the week.

Saturday and Sunday last were very busy days at the Fort. They might be called the BBB days.

A son was born to Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Ruoff on Sunday, July 26th. The young man will set the world afire under the name of John Kemp Ruoff.

Dr. S. E. Cooper who has been the dentist at Fort Stanton for the past few months, left on Tuesday for Alamogordo, where he will engage in the practice of his profession.

It is hoped that there may be a ball game here on Sunday between the Carrizozo and Fort Stanton. Manager Leech advises that there'll be nothing to it, but Fort Stanton is hoping.

F. C. Berry received his new uniform during the week, and looks all puffed up in it. After his recent successes it is expected that he will be invited to join the Burns or Pinkerton detective agency, in which case it will be mighty hard for a poor hard working crook to make a living.

Mr. Nichols, the water man, gave a very select party up the river on Monday of this week. Mr. Gentry, the postmaster, was greatly disappointed at being unable to accompany the party. Mr. Nichols is expected to put his experiences in the shape of a song entitled "Ride, Ride, Ride."

The ladies of Fort Stanton entertained at bridge on Saturday, July 26th at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Smith. Those present were: Mrs. Frances Weil, of El Paso, Mrs. George Titaworth, Mrs. Will Titaworth, Mrs. John Norton, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Belknap, of Capitan, Mrs. J. W. Laws, Mrs. Penfield, Miss Belle Lutz, of Lincoln, Mrs. French Simpson, of Columbus, Texas, Mrs. F. C. Smith, Mrs. F. H. McKeon, Mrs. J. S. Ruoff, Mrs. H. D. Leech, and Mrs. G. W. Bagg of Fort Stanton.

NOGAL

John Henley has gone to Ancho to visit his sister, Mrs. Lucy Cooper.

Charles Wornock has bought the McIver place in Nogal and moved into the house.

Mrs. A. E. Moore is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Foreman at their ranch near Carrizozo.

R. H. Henley has gone to Carrizozo to help finish the carpenter work on the H. S. Campbell residence.

James Gatewood is losing some of his cattle with the black leg. It would be a good idea to vaccinate all the young cattle on the range.

Rich Hust made a trip last week to Ancho and vicinity and unfortunately broke one of his auto wheels.

There will be a small load of roasting ears in Carrizozo Saturday and if the corn don't push the fence down and get outside there will be many more loads to follow.

The finest crops of all kinds, especially corn, that has been produced in the last thirty two years, can be seen in this part of Lincoln county now. Some of the corn is now in roasting ears.

The Rev. Hoover, a seven day adventist, has been conducting a protracted meeting for a week in the chapel in Nogal and it is understood that the meetings will continue another week. The gentleman is a fine orator and has large audiences every night.

MEEK

Messrs. McCoy and Van Horn of Roswell visited the iron mines Sunday.

J. E. Hamilton returned to Roswell Saturday after spending a week's vacation at this place.

Mrs. Dye and children, Mr. Dow and family formed a week end party at Pine Lodge.

Ben Davidson, wife and baby are guests at the Lodge making the trip from Roswell in their auto.

The Misses Lucas are entertaining their father from Illiopolis, Illinois, at canyon cottage, Pine Lodge.

U. Burns of Wellington, D. C., who has been sojourning here for the past month, returned to Roswell Saturday.

Jim and Frank Johnson have returned from Dexter and will spend the balance of the summer here camping with their families.

Misses Evelyn Merchant and Marie Rains, James Alexander, Paul Ferguson and Mr. Hays have returned from a visit to White Oaks.

On account of the recent fine weather the number of campers here in the jungles has greatly increased.

There were about sixty people at the Lodge Sunday evening, a number being Roswell people who were spending the week end here.

The McCoy party, Mr. Van Horne and family, Mrs. Geyer and daughter, Grace, and Mrs. C. Allison were Sunday visitors at Pine Lodge.

T. West and a party of friends made the trip from Hagerman with a camp outfit. They will spend some time at the Lodge.

Mr. Billings brought his father and mother to their cottage above the lodge Friday. They will spend some time here.

Mrs. Harry Bell returned to Roswell Saturday after spending a month in the mountains. Mr. Bell will remain here another month.

The guests of Pine Lodge, also the campers in this vicinity, had a marshmallow roast Saturday evening, when the "Weekly Round Up" a paper published weekly by the guests, was read.

A party consisting of C. H. Gibson, C. M. Ehart and family, Mrs. C. Hartman, Dr. H. V. Fall and family left Roswell Saturday by auto for Pine Lodge. They lost the road and did not arrive at their destination until early Sunday morning.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN N. MEX.

Officials of the organized Sunday school work in New Mexico are busy with plans for the State Convention of Sunday School Workers at Albuquerque this fall. They announce that W. C. Pearce of Chicago and Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner, international department leaders, will be in attendance. Prof. E. O. Excell, the noted singer, may also join them in a tour of the southwest.

The Sunday school field secretary for the southwest is the Rev. W. C. Merritt, of Claremont, Calif. At the great International Sunday School Convention lately held in Chicago, Mr. Merritt gave a report of his territory, which included the following facts and figures for New Mexico:

Every one of the 26 counties in the state is organized. There are a total of 553 Sunday schools in the state, with an enrollment of 36,043 officers, teachers and scholars. Of these schools, 449 are white, 84 are Spanish, 10 Indian, 10 Negro.

The amount of contributions reported was $2,348.58, including offerings for missionary work.

The dates of the Convention are Sept. 29, 30 and Oct. 1. The state officers and the Albuquerque committee are planning to make the program, in point of talent, interest and value, the "best ever."

To Kill Dandelion Plants. The best way to kill individual dandelion plants is to cut off their tops and put a pinch of salt (about a thimbleful) on the surface of each exposed roots. As salt is generally applied ruins soil, the salt should be used sparingly and applied only to the root-tops of the dandelion. The United States department of agriculture has for some time been testing various poisons to discover the most efficient means of eradicating this troublesome weed from lawns, but, although others have been found satisfactory, the common salt is best for general use, as there is no danger accompanying its application.

Monhegan has a population of about one hundred, whose living is derived from lobster fishing and the entertainment of summer visitors and artists.

RIVER OF WONDERS

Ship Captains Tell of Strange Experiences on Amazon.

Pests Assail Travelers on 2,150-Mile Journey to Iquitos—Ravages of Vulture Bat and Fish That Are Dangerous.

Chicago.—The emergence of Colonel Roosevelt from the interior of Brazil directed public attention more than ever to a journey probably the most weird and picturesque in the world, says the New York World.

It is 2,150 miles from the mouth of the Amazon to Iquitos, where the government of Peru maintains a large dockyard, barracks, iron works, machine shops, etc., and an inland navy consisting of two gunboats.

If one wishes to travel from the Pacific side of Peru to Iquitos, only five hundred miles apart, he ascends the west coast in a steamer, crosses the Isthmus of Panama, embarks at Colon for New York and transship here for Iquitos up the Amazon.

Few have any idea of the tremendous volume and coloring of the Amazon current, its influence upon the Atlantic, the immense distance it carries nearly fresh water into the brine of the ocean, its serpentine windings, its overhanging vegetation, its rapids, its wild life, its pests, perils, pleasures and all sorts of strange sights. Some of the tributaries of the Amazon are mightier than the Mississippi.

Two Booth line skippers, Capt. O. L. Beck and Capt. J. W. Couch (the Booths relieve their master mariners by sending them on leave to England after a certain number of trips into the South American interior), gave a sort of duet in the narration of the wonders of the Amazon on board of their ships, their peculiar cargoes, their eligibility to fly the American flag if they chose, and their adventures on the river of rivers. They characterized Alexander P. Rogers' description of the country as faithful and sincere.

While they were talking in the cabin of the Denis longshoremen were shoveling out of the holds 1,600 tons of Brazil nuts at the old Robert pier in Brooklyn. Only 2,600 tons of the nuts were imported during the year 1913. Captain Beck, who was just packing up to catch the Cunarder for Liverpool, denied that the mosquito was a pest or peril on the Amazon. He said that for about three days in the navigation of the river it was necessary to shut up the passengers and use the mosquito ports, but this was the only stretch in the long journey out and back for nine weeks in which there was any mosquito fighting.

"There is something worse than the mosquito," said Capt. Couch. "I refer to the vulture bat, which always attacks either your bald head or the soles of your feet. It always bites you in the tenderest spots and draws blood."

Capt. Couch did not say how the vulture bat was circumvented.

"Yes," said Capt. Beck, continuing the dialogue, "there's another pleasant little habitue of the Amazon, the 'smell bug.' If you smell him once you never forget him. He's brown, less than an inch long and half dead when he comes aboard on feeble wing. I've seen them cover the deck seven inches deep, and we had to shovel them overboard."

Everybody took a fresh swallow of claret after this story and Capt. Couch turned to again.

"It's against the rules of the company for any man to go overboard for a swim in the Amazon. One of our men disobeyed this rule once, and was never seen after he dropped over the side. We lay at anchor at the time."

"It was probably a small fish that got him," remarked Capt. Beck. "A small fish in the Amazon, about six or seven inches long, attends school in thousands. They dart at a man under the surface and bite him in hundreds of places and he never rises."

"A 'bacu' got him, I think," rejoined Capt. Couch. "A bacu is a black fish, about six or seven feet long, with no teeth, but with rows of suckers in each long jaw. The bacu scoops men alive."

The talk turned to natural phenomena, and Capt. Beck said the difference between high and low water at Manaos was about 42 feet.

There is an old story about a crew that was dying of thirst when its ship anchored in the mouth of the Amazon and the skipper didn't know it, and another captain, anchored near by, belatedly through his trumpet, "Let down your buckets; you're in the mouth of the Amazon."

"Is that story true?" Capt. Couch was asked.

"It is," he replied. "I learned at school that the Amazon carried fresh water seaward, and I put it to the test once. I was 167 miles from the mouth of the Amazon. I noticed that the water was discolored around the ship. I dipped some up and tested it in the hydrometer. That water dipped from the ocean was three-fourths fresh."

Corpse and Mourners Fall

Funeral Party Crashes Through Floor into Cellar of House—Body Trampled Upon.

Philadelphia.—Tragedy by fire was capped with gruesome horror when the body of Mrs. Yetta Siegal, of 1312 South Seventh street, who was burned to death last week, was precipitated with 50 of her mourners into the cellar of her home by the collapse of the floor. While only minor injuries were suffered among the funeral party, the body of the dead woman was thrown from the coffin and trampled upon by the panic-stricken men and women. With the assistance of the police and the undertaker, the corpse was replaced in the coffin and taken to the cemetery.

Several houses have collapsed in the neighborhood recently, and the funeral party became panic-stricken in the belief that they were about to be buried under tons of brick and plaster. Their terror was increased by a flow of gas which was liberated by the falling floor. The policeman and the barber called to the struggling men and women that the danger was over, and helped them to climb out.

When nearly all the mourners had been lifted from the cellar, Katie Siegal was found stretched upon the body of her mother in a faint. The girl was carried to the yard and revived, while the undertaker lifted the body back into the coffin.

Woman Elected Judge.

Macomb, Ill.—Miss Jessie Westfall has been elected judge of the city court. She carried every precinct.

OLD PLATE FOR MRS. WILSON

Part of Buchanan's Service Presented to President's Wife at White House.

Washington.—Another addition has been made to the White House collection of presidential ware in the form of a handsome Sevres dinner plate from a set which belonged to President Buchanan. The gift has just been received by Mrs. Wilson from James Buchanan Henry of Annapolis, Md., a nephew and ward of President Buchanan, who served as his private secretary during Mr. Buchanan's occupancy of the White House.

The plate has an interesting history. It belonged to an exquisite set of pink banded Sevres, each piece of which was elaborately decorated, which Mr. Buchanan purchased at the sale of household belongings of the French minister at Washington during the time Mr. Buchanan was serving as secretary of state under President Polk in 1845-49. Mr. Buchanan prized the china highly and it was used by him in the White House and subsequently in his home at Wheatland, near Lancaster, Pa. Upon his death the china came into Mr. Henry's possession.

BIDS $500,000 FOR PAINTING

Henry C. Frick Is Reported to Have Made Offer for Velasquez's "Pope Innocent X."

Rome.—Henry C. Frick is reported to have made an offer of $500,000, which he is said to be prepared to increase to $600,000, for Velasquez's "Pope Innocent X," the most famous picture in Rome. The owner, Prince Alfonso Doria-Pamphili, has refused to consider the offer.

Husband Spanks Wife.

Jamaica, N. Y.—"I disobeyed him and he did right to spank me," said Mrs. Louis Laparcone, twenty-one, who appeared in court to withdraw her charge of assault against her spouse.

MUSTN'T WORK OVER 9 HOURS

Oklahoma Prison Commissioner Will Refuse Man Who Labored More Than Eight Hours.

Fort Smith, Ark.—"No matter how much I loved a man I would not marry him if he had to work more than eight hours a day," declared Miss Kate Barnard, commissioner of prisons and corrections of Oklahoma, before the Arkansas conference of charities and corrections here today.

She declared for shorter hours for workers and voiced opposition to contract prison labor.

Miss Barnard attacked the present system of management of prisons and asylums, and declared a convict left a prison in a worse condition than when he entered.

Wife's Stoutness Caused Trouble.

New York.—Alleging that her husband said he would cease to love her if she got any stouter and that he bought her an obesity treatment, Mrs. John W. Smith seeks a separation.

GOOD JOKES

AN IRONICAL SUGGESTION.

"Our country place will have to be painted," said Mrs. Cumrox. "Yes," replied her husband. "And the grass will have to be mowed, and the barn needs a lot of fixing up."

"Yes." "And the plumbing is out of repair and the roof leaks. There are so many things to be done that I think you ought to be on hand to oversee the work."

"All right." "I hope you're not annoyed." "Not annoyed; only puzzled. I can't understand how I let you persuade me to name that place 'Idle-Ease.'"

Rubbing It In.

"Why does that lady grin so every time she sees you?"

"She knows I'm only getting $10 a week."

"But why the grin?"

"I was engaged to her once and broke it off, and she afterward married a millionaire."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Great Bar.

"It is of no use bringing out that man for office. His early life would be against him."

"Why so?"

"He was a messenger boy."

"What has that to do with his candidacy?"

"The force of early habit. He never could bring himself to run for office."

ONCE ENOUGH.

Miss Homeleigh—Perhaps you won't believe it, but a strange man tried to kiss me once.

Miss Cutting—Really? Well, he'd have been a very strange man if he'd tried to kiss you twice.

Statesman and Politician.

The statesman can explain all tricks By just a passing glance at 'em. But, owing to shrewd politics, He seldom gets a chance at 'em.

Costly Habit.

"My husband sees pink elephants when he drinks."

"Mine has a worse delusion than that. He sees green dogs. It's very expensive, too."

"How's that?"

"Why, he goes and buys licenses for 'em."—New York Globe.

Formalities.

"What's the trouble about that salute?" asked the impatient warrior.

"There's a slight delay. A search is being made."

"You haven't mislaid the cannon, have you?"

"No. But we can't find our handbook of etiquette."

False Impression.

She—How can baseball men wear furs in warm weather when they're playing?

He—Wear furs? Of course, they don't wear furs. That's nonsense.

She—Well, I saw in a paper describing a game that one of the players had a costly muff.

Deceitful Appearances.

Minister (calling on inmate of prison)—Remember, Mr. Kenney, that stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage.

Kenney—Well, they've got me hypnotized, then; that's all.—Dallas News.

Irreverence.

Were old Beethoven here today He'd find this world exceeding rough. "Cut out the symphonies," he'd say. "Tear off some real tango stuff!"

The Wedding Present.

Young Bride (after placing the new vase aloft)—I suppose there's no fear of it falling?

Groom—You mean, no hope.—The Tatler.

WOULD BE USEFUL.

Wife—I wish you would get some of those baseball players to spend the coming summer with us. Hubby—What for? Wife—The papers say they are "death on flies."

An Accident.

Somer—What's the matter with Bill? Sault—He was in a railroad accident.

Somer—Too bad.

Sault—Yep. In getting into an upper berth he slipped and stood on the face of the fellow in the lower. And the guy in the lower was a white hope.—Penn State Froth.

His Status.

"Are you making much social progress?" asked the intimate friend of a newly-rich man.

"Oh, yes," answered the millionaire. "I've been playing the game for a year and I estimate that I am about six feet nearer the inner pale of society and about six miles nearer the poorhouse than I was when I started."

Locating It.

"You ought to be contented and not fret for your old home," said the mistress as she looked into the dim eyes of her young Swedish maid. "You are earning good wages, your work is light, everyone is kind to you, and you have plenty of friends here."

"Yas'm," said the girl, "but it is not the place where I do be that makes me vera homestick; it is the place where I don't be."—Youth's Companion.

A Hint.

Mother—I can't have that young man staying here so late at night. You must give him a hint of some kind.

Daughter (in the evening)—I am much afraid something will happen to you on the streets at night. You must be more careful of yourself, and not be out so late. If anything should happen to you, I'd—I'd die!—New York Weekly.

Historic.

"Say, waiter," said the traveling man to the hotel waiter, "what kind of chicken do you call this?"

"That's a Plymouth Rock, I believe," replied the waiter.

"I'm glad it has some claim to historic mention," said the man. "I thought it was just an ordinary cobblestone."

Of No Use to Him.

Coal Dealer—Why don't you wheel the barrow along more quickly, Pat? It's not a very heavy job; there's an inclined plane to relieve you."

Pat—Aye, master, the plane may be inclined, but hang me, if I am!—Pearson's Weekly.

NOT VIOLA'S FAULT.

Eileen—Viola is to be married in July. She always said she meant to be a June bride. I wonder how it happened she wasn't?

Eleanor—I think it was the fault of the man, who neglected to ask her in time.
