MURDERED BY HIDDEN FOE

R. S. Connell, Prominent Ranchman, Shot Down from Ambush Near His Home at Tularosa

THREE HELD AWAITING AN INVESTIGATION

Tularosa, New Mexico, June 17.—R. S. Connell was shot from ambush in front of the residence of L. J. Porter this morning at 8:30 o'clock. Mr. Connell, with the assistance of W. M. Bullard, his little daughter, Florence, and two Mexicans, were driving a herd of cattle to pasture in the Mescalero reservation. He and a Mexican were in the lead of the herd, with Mr. Bullard, little Florence and the other Mexican perhaps a hundred yards in the rear following the herd. Without warning a shot was heard and Mr. Connell fell from his saddle. By the time Mr. Bullard and his daughter could reach him he was dead, the bullet having entered his left shoulder and passed through his lung and heart. Sheriff Hunter at Alamogordo was notified and came at once.

A coroner's jury was impaneled and Mrs. S. L. Porter and Mr. Talley, Mr. Porter's foreman, were ordered held for investigation before the coroner's jury.

MURDERED MAN PROMINENT

Mr. Connell was one of the most prominent poultry men in New Mexico, having a large chicken ranch at this place. He is also an extensive dealer in cattle and horses. For several years he has been regarded as the leading spirit in a series of law suits for the control of the water supply of Tularosa river, and only recently was acquitted of a charge of perjury growing out of these suits.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter were leading witnesses for the prosecution in this suit. Bad feeling has existed in the town over the water question and by some it is suspected the shooting originated from this feeling. It is not known who fired the shot, or that either Mrs. Porter or Mr. Talley had any knowledge of the plot to kill Mr. Connell.

At first it was feared that further trouble would arise from the shooting, but Sheriff Hunter took the situation in hand and no further trouble is now anticipated.

Mrs. Porter and Mr. Talley were placed under arrest and lodged in jail at Alamogordo to await a preliminary hearing.

Mr. Porter was not apprehended at the time but came into Alamogordo Thursday and surrendered to Sheriff Hunter.

ANCHO

Coomes Bros. are in the Jicarilla's this week on a job.

A moving picture show at the school house Tuesday was well attended.

Mrs. Fair from El Reno, Okla., and Mrs. Pitts of Jacks Peak are visiting in Ancho this week.

Mrs. J. L. Street returned from El Paso Sunday night where she has been visiting.

Dan Rathbun of the Rathbun Mix Co. El Paso was in town on business Saturday.

A new school house for Ancho containing two rooms to better accommodate the increase in number of children is now being considered.

Chas. Spence of White Oaks with a party spent Friday night in Ancho. They were on their way from the Gallinas to Carrizozo. They had a pair of young wild cats which they had captured in the hills.

CAPITAN

A C. Dahlke and wife of near the Capitan divide were in town shopping the first of the week.

Several car loads of steel pipe for the Eagle Creek pipe line has arrived, and all the teams that can be secured are being engaged hauling out the pipes to the creek.

Ed. Arnold of Lust, Wyoming, has been here about eight or ten days buying up steers and mixed cattle for his ranch and will ship twelve car loads from Carrizozo in the next few days.

W. E. McDaniel former Fort Stanton agent at Capitan, but now with the Denver Salt Lake R. R. as station agent at Arrow, Colorado, is visiting his father here for a few days.

We are having more rain this season than usual. Crops and pastures are better than they have been for years. The farmers and stockmen are very much encouraged over the prospects.

Dog days with us are fast drawing to a close. As some person or persons who hasn't a very warm place in their anatomy for the canine race, have been distributing poison and in the last week about eighteen dogs have died.

The stork has been hovering over here for some time but on last Sunday lit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Reed, where it tarried a short time and deposited its precious burden of nine and a half pounds. It is a girl. Mother and daughter doing well.

William Hazelwood who conducts a ranch five miles east of the Block ranch, was in town Friday, and was taken with a severe attack of appendicitis when within about nine miles of his home. He stopped over night at a neighbors being unable to proceed, and dispatched a messenger for Dr. Cody who had him brought back and put in bed at the Doctor's residence. At this writing he is improving rapidly and the Dr. thinks he will recover without an operation.

Two men driving a Ford car, came in Monday on their way to Roswell, and told the following incident. They had some trouble with their car and had lost their tool bag. On seeing a small cabin drove over to it and asked the woman in charge if she had a monkey wrench. In replying she said she had not, but she had a small cow ranch, and two miles farther on was a goat ranch, and over the mountain was a sheep ranch, but she did not know of any monkey ranch around there but that they might inquire at Capitan as there may be one farther south but she had never heard of a monkey ranch before.

CELEBRATION AT CORONA

Corona is planning a big celebration on the Fourth to consist of a barbecue, for which at least 4 steers and 12 sheep will be killed. Horse pony, and foot races, goat roping an automobile road race, a baseball game with the Willard team, and winding up with a big dance in the evening. Over $300 has been made up as prizes in the different events. Special rates on all railroads have been granted, and arrangements are being made to run a special train from Estancia to Torrance on the New Mexico Central.

This is expected to be the biggest event ever held in the town of Corona and everybody is cordially invited to come and celebrate.

NEWS FROM LIVE COMMUNITIES OF COUNTY

John H. Boyd of Oscuro has been commissioned United States Commissioner. Boosters attend Road meetings.

BIG TIME AT FT. STANTON JULY FOURTH

OSCURO

NEWS OF LOCAL AND PERSONAL INTEREST

Two Well Known Young Couple are United in Marriage in the Past Week by local Baptist Pastor

REV. HAYWOOD STRIKES GOOD FLOW AT 195 FEET

You are invited to attend a dance at Women's Club Room White Oaks, New Mex., June 20th 1914. Good music, Good floor.

Geo. W. Smith has a gang of men repairing the bridge across the arroya near Jefferson Rock on the Capitan-Lincoln road.

On Sunday, June 27th, there will be two masses at the local Catholic church. At 7 a. m., preaching in English, at 9 a. m., preaching in Spanish.

Miss Rotha Soper of Bryant, Ark., came in Wednesday morning to spend the summer with her sister, Mrs. O. T. Nye.

H. V. Lipe, representing the West Coast Refining Co., spent several days here this week, calling on the trade.

L. A. Gillett of the field division of the U. S. Land Office of Santa Fe has been here for the past week investigating several matters concerning Public Lands.

The Central Needle Machines are so rapidly replacing the side needle that it will not be long before the entire demand will be for "Standard" Central needle Machines—For sale by Kelley & Sons.

Messrs. Olsen and Boge have struck water on Mr. Haywood's place at a depth of 195 ft. Though his cisterns are fairly full of rain water, Brother Haywood is glad for the stream that runs below, which rises some 39 ft. As soon as casing arrives the well will be tested and the quality of water analyzed. Many people considered the drilling was going on in a dry dyke, but this discovery is calculated to redeem a large area, being on the highest point of that section.

GILETT-TEXTOR

On Saturday night as pastor Haywood was finishing supper at Cottage home a surprise party of young people and the father of the bride drove up, and in a very short time the words were said which united in marriage Otis Gillett and Katie Textor, the latter of whom has been a citizen of Carrizozo several years. Then there was music on the plains, and the gay bunch drove back to town, the bride and groom leaving for El Paso on No. 1, where they will make their home. We wish them all the joy that the union can possibly afford.

ROSELLE-DOERING

Much to the surprise of his congregation on Sunday morning, Rev. Haywood asked the people at the service to remain standing after the benediction, when A. F. Roselle and Miss Callie Doering stepped up to the hymeneal altar and took up on themselves the vows of wedlock. This was one time when a preacher kept a secret, even from his wife. May all the joys that can possibly be afforded the union of this well known couple be theirs.

The ISOLATED CONTINENT

A ROMANCE OF THE FUTURE

By GUIDO VON HORVATH and DEAN HOARD

COPYRIGHT, 1913 BY W.G. CHAPMAN IN THE UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN

SYNOPSIS.

For fifty years the continent of North America has been isolated from the rest of the world by Z-rays, the invention of Hannibal Prudent, president of the United States. A message from Count von Werdenstein, chancellor of Germany, that he has succeeded in penetrating the rays hastens the death of Prudent. Dying, he leaves his daughter, Astra, to the foreign invasion is now certain. Astra succeeds her father as president. Napoleon Edison, a former pupil of Prudent's, offers to assist Astra and hints at new discoveries which will make North America impregnable. A man giving the name of Chevalier de Leon offers Werdenstein the secret of making gold in return for European disarmament. The chevalier is made a prisoner. Countess Rosita, an spy, becomes a prisoner in the hope of discovering the secret. She falls in love with him and agrees to join him in an attempt to escape. By the use of rockets he summons a curious flying machine. He captures and sends a message to Astra which reveals the fact that he is Napoleon Edison. He warns Astra that the consolidated fleets of Europe have sailed to invade America. He calls on her to follow him and explains his plans for defense. By the use of aeroplanes made of a new substance which is indestructible he expects to annihilate the European forces. He delivers a note to von Werdenstein on his flagship demanding immediate withdrawal. He is attacked and by destroying two warships and several aeroplanes, forces von Werdenstein to agree to universal disarmament. The countess, who has remained in America as a guest of Astra, receives an offer from von Werdenstein of the principality of Schomburg-Lithow in return for Edison's secret. Edison and his assistants, Santos, go in search of new deposits of the remarkable substance, crynith. They find it on the estate of Schomburg-Lithow. The countess gets Santos into her clutches. She promises to reveal Edison's secret as soon as von Werdenstein turns over the Schomburg-Lithow estate to her. On the day of the wedding of Astra and Edison the countess and Santos flee the country.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Continued.

"I am afraid," said the Count von Werdenstein, "that he is preparing a surprise for us. I do not like his silence."

"Or is he simply enjoying a long honeymoon?" was Rositta's sarcastic comment.

But the count shook his head doubtfully.

A year had almost passed when the first European aerodrome was finished and ready for its trial trip. It was as perfect as mechanical genius could make it.

Count von Werdenstein had invited several reigning monarchs to attend the trial flight and Suemeg rivaled the ancient Roman pageants in splendor. Only a few besides the royal spectators were allowed on the plateau near the aerodrome plant. The police compelled the uninformed thousands who lived in the neighborhood to keep a respectful distance.

Santos Duprel's heart beat high when he and Rositta stepped into the waiting machine. Rositta had decorated this first aerodrome with a gorgeous princely crown, and it glittered bravely in the morning sun.

Rositta was clever and studied the aerodrome under Santos' direction until she was expert in its control and manufacture. When they entered the aerodrome, Santos went to the wheel, moved the starting lever and the wings rose slowly, then swooped downward, causing the machine to rise swiftly and surely. Everything worked exactly as desired and the machine soon disappeared from the view of the watchers, behind a bank of clouds.

They went up and swam in the heavy clouds that billowed in the gold-

The crowned heads were happy to witness the marriage ceremony.

CHAPTER XIX.

The Garden of Eden.

Napoleon and Astra kept the flight of the Countess Rosita and the disappearance of Santos reversed the machine, turned off the power and they slid downward. Rositta stood by his side, embracing him with one arm. In her exuberance she reached up with her free hand and pulled the lever that emptied the brass receptacle; a blinding flash came, striking downward, zigzagging through the clouds, and mighty thunder echoed through space.

She realized her plight, and in that moment of intoxicating delight she dreamed a dream—she saw herself as the ruler of the world.

"How long will it take to have twenty machines like this, Santos?" asked Rositta, eagerly.

"Five or six months, my queen!"

"Then, then we will see." Her eyes glittered strangely with a fire that was not love.

When they landed on the spot from where they ascended, the Emperor of Germany handed Santos Duprel the parchment with the great Imperial seal attached, and said: "Count von Duprel, I want to be the first to congratulate you."

An hour later the newly married Count von Duprel was receiving the matrimonial blessing from the court vicar. Even Mrs. Edison did not know that Rositta had left.

Astra watched Napoleon's thoughtful face with some apprehension. At times he would sit gazing into space, entirely oblivious to his surroundings. Rositta's flight had made him aware of the harm that could come to his beloved country.

Their honeymoon had been short, as neither could be absent from their posts long. The following week Astra returned to her presidential duties and Napoleon to his aerodrome.

Shortly after their return he talked long and seriously with his wife. Then the American Eagle left the roof of the Crystal Palace and flew toward the west. He stopped at Clryne and questioned Sullivan, and found that Santos and Rositta had left the aerodrome in Russia. So he knew that they had, by this time, perfected their plans, and the fact that Rositta signed herself as the Princess of Schomburg-Lithow alone made it plain that they would try to take warfare into the air.

Jerome Whistler was at the laboratory and Napoleon gave him instructions. He inspected the stock of available crynith, then spent many hours over his drawing table, but when he was through with his work began to whistle a pleasant melody. Rolling up his drawings, he said in a low, exultant voice: "This will come as a surprise."

He called Jerome Whistler and turned the drawings over to him. It was an aerodrome.

"I am glad we have enough material to do this, friend Whistler; besides, we will have enough left over for other purposes."

Napoleon returned to the capital to report and advise Astra that he would make a longer trip for reconnoitering purposes. He left that evening. He visited Suemeg, and there saw what he expected to see. People were busily at work, making the peak like an immense ant hill. He saw Santos emerge from one building and walk across the plain to another, and he knew, then, that Santos had betrayed him; that aerodromes would fight against aerodromes in God's clear, pure air.

He was sad that the man whom he had trusted so implicitly had turned traitor at the instigation of the countess.

Satisfied that his surmise was correct, he turned homeward and after a short conference with Astra left again. This time he traversed the Pacific coast of the Americas. Starting from Mexico, he went southward, watching his electro-spectroscope incessantly, while he circled over the volcanic regions of the Andes.

Day after day he continued his search, going farther and farther south, always near the ocean. His spectroscopes showed signs of crynith several times, but never in large quantities.

Weeks were spent this way. From time to time he returned to Washington, and each time he returned he stopped a few hours at Clryne to see how the work on the new machine was progressing.

He had raked through Colombia and Ecuador with minute care and now was on the border of Peru. He continued his search with unswerving faith in ultimately finding the precious metal that would enable him to build a larger fleet.

He had been circling over the Andes, peering down on steep precipices, rugged slopes and snow-covered peaks where goats and llamas were the only inhabitants, when suddenly he saw an intense greenish light glowing on his spectroscope. He slowed down, and the instrument gave evidence of a large deposit of crynith. Not more than two hundred feet below him stretched a broad snow-covered peak. A lavatic, porous, bare space was visible through the snow, on the northeastern corner, and there he found what he sought. The precious crynith lay in heavy layers, almost perfectly pure. The deposit was not as large as the one in Hungary, but more easily obtainable, and it would be unnecessary to go through a lot of preliminary steps before they could carry it away.

Satisfied with his discovery, he explored the secluded spot that never before had been touched by human foot. The geological formation was of volcanic origin. It seemed as though the mountain had been rent apart and the space left between the raw edged ridges in the course of time had developed into a paradise.

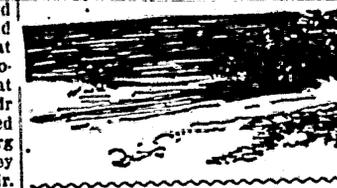

The place appealed to his sentimental instincts. He took his machine over to the meadow and ate his lunch on the green, mossy grass. He filled his cup from the crystal lake and drank deep of the cool, refreshing water.

"Beautiful spot!" he murmured, stretching out his arms slowly, as if extending his blessing. "I name you 'The Garden of Eden!' Then he entered his machine, flew over the crynith deposit, filled some sacks with the irregular, hard crystals and started homeward. His mind was filled with schemes to frustrate the European plans.

The next day he took six aerodromes from Clryne to the Garden of Eden, and they made trips back and forth until the whole deposit of crynith was landed on the Island of Clryne. The spectroscope showed that there must be more under the surface, but Napoleon knew he had sufficient for the time being, and was satisfied to leave the rest until such time as he needed it.

New hangars were built on the island. The work progressed rapidly. Aerodromes after aerodromes of the new type was stored away by the expert workmen.

Napoleon's visits to Astra were his happiest hours. He confided his hopes and expectations to her. She gave him all the sympathy and encouragement at her command. Their lives were attuned to perfect harmony.

CROPS IN JAPAN ARE SMALL.

American Farmers Could Not Live On Such Scanty Returns for His Seed and Work.

Japan is such a mountainous country that the area of arable land is quite disproportionate to the size of the whole empire. It is alleged that barely 12 per cent of the entire surface can be cultivated, and that even the cultivable part is not naturally very fertile. Still there are large tracts of wild moorland which might easily be brought under cultivation, or at least be converted into grazing lands.

Where the farmer lives and labors there are abundant evidences of his diligence and self-sacrifice. Doubtless the major part of the farming land is lean soil. Still the judicious use of fertilizers—mostly night soil applied in small quantities direct to the growing plant; the elaborate and skillful system of irrigation that gets full value from every drop of water; the laborious subsoil working—by hand in the soft ooze of the rice fields—and the incisive weeding out to produce better results in quantity than they do. When the harvest is measured by bushels of rice, or wheat, or barley or whatever else the hyakusho (farmer) may raise, the thorough husbandman of Europe or America would laugh at the scanty crop. Land that ought to yield at least twenty-five to thirty bushels of rice to the acre actually gives less than ten on the average.—From "Our Neighbors: the Japanese," by Joseph King Goodrich.

Contagious. Be good to the depths of you, and you will discover that those who surround you will be glad even to the same depths.—Masterlinck.

The work on Clryne had progressed so well that Whistler was able to oversee it all without Napoleon's assistance and one day he took leave from Astra with the following words:

"I am going to pay a visit to our excellent friend, the Count von Werdenstein, and then, when I have ascertained his attitude toward the peace committee, I will go on a still hunt for the final preventive of war."

The Count von Werdenstein's palace was equipped with a roof hangar, as were all the large private dwellings, and the Eagle found it an easy matter to alight there without molestation. Napoleon had sent a graph message to the count to expect him, but did not mention the time of his arrival.

The quick descent made it impossible for the observers to discern the type of machine that alighted, and the workmen in the hangar did not pay any attention to Sullivan when Napoleon left the craft. Sullivan simply locked the door and sat reading until his return.

The count was very much surprised to receive his card, as the attendants had not announced him. Nevertheless, he received him in his usual suave manner.

Napoleon saw and felt that the count was in an extremely happy state of mind, that he was no more in despair, but hopeful.

"I am very glad to see your excellency drop into our circle once more." He grasped both hands of the president of the peace committee.

"The pleasure is mine, your honor," was Napoleon's reply. "My call is not an official one, it is a private matter. That is why I dropped into your home so unceremoniously."

"You are welcome."

"I thought you would be kind enough to listen to me. You remember my last visit here, when I wanted you to sell me, or to help me purchase the Peak Suemeg in Hungary? At that time I thought the place contained the crystals of crynith, the substance from which my aerodromes are made." Napoleon paused, and the count looked at him cautiously.

"I took some samples of the crystals when I discovered it, and analyzed them. To my surprise I found that it has not the same electro magnetic qualities that the crynith of Clryne has." He paused again; still the count said nothing. "Now, I am sorry that I have troubled you in this matter, as I do not want the property, for my experiments have proved to me that the crystals are worthless for my purposes."

"But you are mistaken," blurted out the count. He realized in the same second that he had made a mistake, but, after all, what difference could it make? Napoleon smiled serenely, and gave no sign of satisfaction at having brought this information from the count.

"All I can tell you is," continued he, "that the chemical quality is not the same, and I cannot make use of the deposit, and for this reason I do not wish to interest myself further in the property."

STUDENT HAS ODD DISEASE

Chronic Case of "Caroanserinusabmetu" Prevented Him From Winning Diploma.

Before a student can be graduated from Columbia college he must be able to swim at least one hundred feet. Felix Metzger Rosenstock of the senior class cannot swim at all.

When Rosenstock found that he was in danger of missing his degree, he called on Dr. George L. Meylan, director of the gymnasium, and explained that he had a serious skin disease, which would be aggravated by contact with water in the university swimming pool.

"Bring a note from your doctor to that effect, and 'I. I. O. K. it,'" said Doctor Meylan.

Rosenstock brought this note, signed by a physician:

"This is to certify that Felix Metzger Rosenstock is suffering from an exceedingly bad case of Caroanserinusabmetu, and his condition will be aggravated if he goes near the water."

The name was new to Doctor Meylan, but he translated it with the help of a Latin dictionary—caro, flesh; anserinus, of the goose; ab metu, from fear—gooseflesh from fear.

Rosenstock was not excused from his swimming examination. He and four others failed to get their degree.

Stimulates Summer Travel. Summer travel is stimulated in Wales. During the summer months one can obtain on the Cambrian railway a ticket which carries one any where he likes as many times as he likes within a prescribed area of about 70 miles, and, for a fortnight, third class, the cost is less than a sovereign ($1.87).

Decision Reversed. "Did he decide to marry her?" "Yes; but she reversed his decision."—May Smart Set.

Fried Cauliflower. Strip off the outside leaves of a cauliflower, cut off the stalks, let stand upside down in salted water for half an hour, then cook in salted boiling water until tender, but not soft enough to fall to pieces. Drain thoroughly, separate into flowerets, dip them in beaten eggs, then roll in fine crumbs and fry in deep, hot fat. Serve with cream sauce.

Barnard Would Unionize Matrimony. Fort Smith, Ark.—Miss Kate Barnard, commissioner of prisons and corrections for Oklahoma, would unionize matrimony. "No matter how much I loved a man, I would not marry him if I had to work more than eight hours a day," she told the Arkansas conference of charities and correction here. Compulsory arbitration between husband and wife and a minimum wage scale she neglected to discuss.

Pays Over "Hush Money." "That's what I call 'hush money,'" remarked a father, as he put down the cash for a bottle of paregoric for the infantile member of his family.

Lumberman's Estate Pays $297,385 Tax. Salt Lake City.—The state of Utah will receive a $297,385 inheritance tax from the estate of the late David Eccles of Ogden, millionaire lumber and sugar magnate. An inventory places a value of $6,340,000 on the estate.

GEO. F. BAER'S WILL FILED. Each of Thirteen Grandchildren Are Given $10,000.

Reading, Pa.—The will of George F. Baer, late president of the Reading Railway Company, has been filed for probate here. It is in Mr. Baer's own handwriting, and is very brief. To his widow he gives $400,000 and his beautiful home, Hawthorne, in this city, together with all household goods, automobiles, carriages, horses, etc., and to each of thirteen grandchildren $10,000, to be invested by their parents until each attains the age of 21, when it is to be paid to them. The servants who have been in the family's service more than five years receive $50 for each year of service. The rest of the estate is divided in equal shares among the five daughters. The estate is valued at over $5,000,000. No public bequests were made.

CITY OF MANILA BOUNTIFULLY MERITS THE NAME OF BEAUTIFUL

Americans Have Made the Philippine Metropolis One of the Finest in the Far East—Yankee Efficiency as Shown in Islands Surpasses That of Germany in China—First Impressions Are Good.

Manila, P. I.—The city of Manila lies on very low ground and is therefore not visible to the voyager until his ship enters Manila bay. Then its massive city walls, its churches, cathedrals, monasteries, forts and palaces spring suddenly into view. The whole effect is entrancing. The domes and spires of the churches, the grand, old Spanish residences and government buildings, are visible above the old gray walls and stand out clearly against the blue sky. The centuries have given the stone buildings a tint of bluish gray. Many of the brick buildings have been covered with stucco, painted either white or pink. These colors together with the soft verdure of the tropical vegetation afford a picture pleasing to the eye and restful to the soul. Above the battlements of old Fort Santiago, the cruel Bastille of the Spanish regime, floats the stars and stripes, guaranteeing peace, liberty and justice to the various tribes and peoples of the Philippine Islands. The great ocean liner, heavily laden with the products of American industry and skill, crosses the placid bay where Admiral Dewey and his brave men sixteen years ago won glory for the American navy and empire for their country.

The ship swings around and is made fast to the pier. Above the snorting of donkey engines and the rattling of cranes are heard the strains of a Filipino band welcoming the travelers to "the land of the palm and the pine."

As soon as one steps ashore in Manila one notices everywhere the visible signs of American occupation. The new, up-to-date docks are able to accommodate the largest liners afloat. Broad, well paved streets stretch across and around the Luneta, the great front lawn of the city. This great carpet of grass extends right up to the walled city. The old moat, where stagnant waters formerly menaced the health of the city, has been filled in and the walled city is faced on two sides by a lawn which covers many acres. This is the playground of the city of Manila.

Not far from the walls of the old Spanish city a great crowd of people has assembled. Now and then ear-splitting yells rend the air. At a distance one might suppose that the Filipinos were holding a mass meeting and yelling for independence, but on coming closer one hears a clarion voice ring out above all the others, "Out on first." The Manila high school boys are playing the crack trade school team from the island of Cebu. "What's the score?" I inquired excitedly. A Filipino, who wears a white starched shirt outside of his trousers, answers, "Two to one, favor Cebu, and the ninth inning." It's like being home in the dear old United States.

There are few cities which portray ancient, medieval and modern life and customs so clearly as Manila. In the suburbs one sees the shacks and huts of the common people. The framework of the humble abodes is made of bamboo poles and the roof and walls are simply mats of nipa palm leaves. As the floor is several feet from the ground the huts have the appearance of being on stilts. Such have been the homes of the Filipinos since prehistoric times.

The walled city is the old Spanish Manila. Here one sees the solid, austere architecture of the middle ages, and the more ornate styles of the renaissance. The pulleys of drawbridges are still in the walls over the city gates.

Between the walled city and the outer suburbs lies the modern city of Manila. This part contains the main business streets and the residential section. In this part of the city one sees a strange mingling of all that is ugly and beautiful in modern architecture: The paved streets, the car lines, the telephone and electric light wires, and especially the Pasig river with its traffic, all bind the three parts of the city together into an economic whole throbbing with life and energy.

Manila was an interesting city long before the Spanish-American war. It was reserved for the Americans to make it a beautiful and a healthful city. The plans which D. H. Burnham of Chicago drafted for the adornment of the city are being carried out and Manila is fairly on the way to become the most beautiful city of the Orient. In that part of the city which lies outside the walls a great deal has been done in the way of draining the swamps, widening the streets, establishing parks, and reserving a desirable site for the government buildings which will be built in accordance with Mr. Burnham's plans.

The sanitary arrangements of the city, inaugurated by the American army and completed by the civil government, have made Manila one of the most healthful cities of the Orient. Plague, cholera, yellow fever, and other epidemics have been stamped out. The water supply is excellent. The highways and byways are clean and the noisome smells usually associated with oriental cities are absent. When I saw Tsingtao, the German colony in China, I thought I had seen the maximum of efficiency in civic government in the Orient, but now that I have seen Manila I am of the opinion that the Germans have been outdone.

The German far eastern fleet is in the harbor of Manila. The officers and the sailors are seeing the sights of the city. They are enthusiastic in their praises of what the Americans have done here. How the Germans would like to have this great city and these glorious islands! How the Japanese would like to lord it over the people of the Philippines even as they do over the Koreans! The English, Chicago. Michael Pietrowski and W. Wukowski were ordered into one of the "dust catchers" of a blast furnace to remove its contents. This, according to the police, is done by means of gas pressure. A third man, on the outside, regulates the flow of gas. The two workmen went into the catcher early in the morning. The third man, whose name was withheld from the police, remained on duty outside near the gas valve. At 5 o'clock the watcher, according to the police, became thirsty and went for a drink of water. While he was gone the two men inside signaled to have the gas shut off. Their order was not executed. A few minutes later the unidentified workman returned and discovered the plight of his comrades, say the police.

the world to understand that we do not want these fair islands there will be inaugurated an era of intrigue for the "Pearl of the Orient" resembling that which has despoiled China of all her harbors and much of her territory. No fragile paper treaty, no open door agreement will ever be sufficient to protect the Philippine Islands from a fate similar to that of China.

DREAM TOLD OF A SUICIDE

And Led to the Finding of a Woman's Body in a Well at Clifton, N. J.

Paterson, N. J.—Awakening from a dream that her missing daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mary Pralevis, had committed suicide, and that her body lay at the bottom of an abandoned well in the yard, Mrs. Julia Pralevis of 69 Lake avenue, Clifton, arose from her bed and going out to the well found the dream to be true.

Mary Pralevis disappeared some time ago. It was then believed that she had either fallen or jumped into the Passaic river. The belief now is that she deliberately walked to the old well, lifted the cover, and dropped in. Her death leaves three children motherless.

FURNACE IS BED; ARRESTED

Red Bud Farmer Surprises Police Captors by Showing $3,000 in Currency.

St. Louis.—Because his clothes were mussed and his face dirty the police here the other day arrested Edward Pelzer as a "suspicious character." At the police station they were shocked to find all his pockets stuffed with greenbacks and goldbacks totaling $2,949.

Pelzer, a farmer of Red Bud, Ill., 60 years old, said he had stopped off in St. Louis on his way to the home of a niece at Naylor, Mo. Fearing he would be robbed if he went to a hotel, Pelzer spent the night in the abandoned furnace of a zinc factory. The police decided to hold the farmer until his relatives can be heard from.

WILLIAM A. RADFORD EDITOR

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 187 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

This is a new modification of the old cottage house idea that is being built in some sections of the middle West. The low roof with a wide projection gives the house a different finish, a sort of plain, aristocratic neatness that everybody likes. The house may be built of wood, brick, cement or stone. It is often built of wood to the eaves and the gables plastered with cement mortar on metal lath. You can get five rooms in a cottage of this style and secure more comfort for the investment than you can get from a five-room, two-story house, and it looks well when nicely kept.

Generally speaking, cottages are now being built more than ever before, not that they are new, but because they may be cheaply built and because they are especially adapted to the suburbs and country places. The women seem to like a cottage house after they become accustomed to it, partly because it is easier to do the housework where the rooms are all on one floor, but at the same time, there is less excuse to neglect things. We have all had the experience of going through a house unexpectedly when the downstairs was neat and clean enough, but upstairs presented a very disorderly appearance. Profuse apologies usually accompanied such an excursion, but the fact is a woman puts off going upstairs to attend to the housework as long as possible. The rooms are out of sight, so that there is not the same incentive to keep it looking nicely.

Small cottage houses extend a strong invitation to American fampeople, the ones Abraham Lincoln said the Lord must love because he made so many of them.

But even a small house like this cannot be made comfortable and homelike unless it is started right. In the first place cellar drainage must be looked to when the excavation is being made for the foundation. This is something you cannot well put in the contract, because you never know when commencing to dig whether you will strike the springy spot or not. In the country no one builds his house on low ground, and in town you have a sewer, but if you strike a spring or the indications of damp ground you can for a few extra dollars have a course of drain tile laid outside of the wall that will carry away any water that might accumulate. Then a plastering of cement mortar on the outside of the wall acts as a further assurance against dampness. One of the greatest annoyances in a house is a damp cellar. You can avoid it by a little personal attention when the house is being built, but it is hard to correct the difficulty afterwards.

Another advantage in a house like this is the ease with which it may be heated by placing a small furnace in the cellar. The furnace should be put under the dining room, near the big chimney; then six short pipes will carry the heat to each room in the house, including the bathroom and about five tons of coal will keep it warm all winter.

The size of the house is 41 feet in width by 25 feet in length, not very large on the ground for a cottage, still you get five good rooms and they are well arranged for convenience.

Light From the Earth.

The darkest part of the sky is always aglow. The earth itself gives off a lot of light. Scientists of the Franklin Institute have measured this earth light and have found that it is lies to settle down and make a home. In cities the practice of living in rented apartments is so common that the home feeling is sacrificed for the questionable advantage of being near the center of the city. This has led to the habit of moving from house to house, or from one flat to another until moving may be almost characterized as a national mania. The members of a family soon get tired of a flat on a noisy street in the city and they move into another flat in the vain hope of finding something more comfortable.

You seldom find among such people the contented home sentiment that means so much to the old-fashioned people we occasionally meet in country places, where they have lived for a number of years, in a permanent home around which the true home sentiment has grown and developed while the children budded into youth and blossomed into young manhood and womanhood. The divinest earthly heritage is a good, comfortable home, whether it be large or small; if it be well managed, it is the only satisfactory way of living. What I particularly wish to see is more little homes like this, homes for the common of the order of one-tenth part of the intensity of a star of the first order of magnitude. It is attributed, at least partially, to a permanent aurora borealis which is revealed by the characteristic green ray observed on obscure nights in the whole heavens.

Not Patented.

Co-operation is the keynote in successful accident prevention work. Many large manufacturers who have designed accident prevention devices for their own use have not patented them in order that others may utilize their ideas. A large railroad company which has designed all of the accident prevention apparatus in use in its machine shops is willing to furnish blueprints of the devices to those who desire to install them in their plants.

Futurist.

The teacher had just read the myth about Perseus and Medusa. She wished to stimulate the imagination of her youngsters and asked them to describe the hero as they pictured him. One little girl wrote: "Perseus was tall and stately with a black waxy mustache and wore a monolog over his left eye."

Queerest Word in Language. Pocket-handkerchief is the queerest word in the language. At first it was kerchief (couvre-chef), a covering for the head; then it became handkerchief, a covering for the head carried in the hand, and at last pocket-handkerchief, a covering for the head held in the hand and kept in the pocket.

Rome.—The death of Duchess Eugenia Bolognini-Litta in her villa at Lambro, revived the memory of her most romantic career. She was an extraordinary beauty and had many admirers, her last and one real love being King Humbert.

Although the late king had somewhat roving affections he remained faithful to her for many years, and until his death went to her for advice and companionship. These she gave him freely, thereby arousing the jealousy and pride of Queen Margherita.

So strained were the relations at one time that the then Princess Margherita insisted that her father-in-law, King Victor Emmanuel II, banish her rival from court. She obtained her wish.

However, as she grew older, she forgave and even brought herself to

The Glencoe Sunday school had a picnic on Sunday afternoon under the cottonwood trees, where an elaborate dinner was served under the auspices of Mrs Geo Coe, Supt. assisted by Mrs. Bert Bonnell, Mrs. Tully and Mrs. Chapman. The children comprising the several Sunday school classes spoke their pieces, and vocal selections were rendered by Miss May Pierce of Alamogordo, Miss Evelyn Kinsinger of Roswell, Mr Hill of Glencoe, accompanied by Miss Edith Coe. Readings were given by members of the Sunday school Mr Wilber Coe spoke in an interesting strain of boyhood days at the Sunday school, also of his recent experiences in California, where he has been attending college at Stanford University. Owing to the threatening weather the program which was arranged for the afternoon was given at the school house where all who were present at the dinner, numbering some 60 people, assembled. Later in the afternoon refreshing drinks were served.

It has been announced to have a box supper at the Glencoe school house on the evening of June 26 for the benefit of the school house. Everybody is cordially invited to attend, each lady to bring a basket and the gentlemen reminded not to forget their pocket books. The baskets will be sold at auction to the highest bidders and the proceeds devoted to the school house fund.

Thirty residents of the Glencoe district were guests at the Frank Coe ranch on Saturday evening to participate in a social gathering arranged by Mrs. B J Bonnell and Miss Edith Coe in honor of Mrs Coe's return from Roswell, and Miss Kinsinger who is visiting at the Coe ranch. The guests arrived early and participated in playing progressive pitch, after which music and singing enlivened the occasion affording great pleasure to those present. Mr Coe, Sr, rendered war time pieces on the violin, accompanied by Wilber and Ray Coe on the guitar and Mrs. Bonnell on the piano. Miss Kinsinger delighted the guests with a number of vocal selections. By a pre-arranged plan the spacious front room was quickly cleared of rugs and furniture and under the influence of the inspiring music dancing was indulged in until midnight, when refreshments were served consisting of delicious pitted cherry sauce, cake and coffee. Among the invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Gen A Titaworth, Mr. and Mrs Will Titaworth, Mr. and Mrs Belknap, all of Capitan;

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Laws, Mr. and Miss Luiz and Mrs. Fred Burleson, all of Lincoln; Mr and Mrs. J. V. Tully, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Bonnell, Mr. and Miss Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Elza Perry, Ray and Mina Coe, Misses Gilmore, Miss Pierce, Mr. Hill, Miss Evelyn Kinsinger and C. L. Leavitt. The guests departed with universal expressions of having spent a delightful time.

To the Editor of the Outlook,

Dear sir:
May I second Mr York's letter in your last issue that there may be no misunderstanding as to the article copied by you from an exchange? Most of the reports of districts from my office are by number and post office address and as four clerks of school-districts beside the local clerk receive their mail at Capitan, hence the confusion. Every district in the county has had at least five months school, except No 2, the teacher of which was ill at the completion of four months and too long a time had elapsed by the time another teacher could be installed to make a single month profitable, so the directors will add an additional month to the early fall term.

Thanking you for the many courtesies you have extended the school cause, I am

Supplement to Carrizozo Outlook

CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, JUNE 19, 1914

GOOD ROADS MEETING BIG SUCCESS

Two Important Highway Associations Complete Organization. Boosters here from Various parts of State

MUCH ENTHUSIASM DEVELOPES

The good roads meeting held here yesterday was attended by a large number of Lincoln County's good roads boosters, and a number of delegates from other counties including J. A. Whitehurst of Sayre, Okla., the field secretary of the Interstate Postal Highway Association, and one of the prominent good roads men of the Southwest.

The highway which Mr. Whitehurst is boosting starts at Oklahoma City, where it connects with the Ozark Trail and other important highways leading eastward from that point to Kansas City, Memphis, New Orleans and other points in the middle east. From Oklahoma City it comes west paralleling the Rock Island Railroad through Sayre, Okla., Amarillo, Texas, Tucumcari, Santa Rosa, Corona, Carrizozo, Alamogordo, and connecting at El Paso with the Borderland Route. It is a proposition well worthy of the united efforts of the New Mexican people as the Oklahoma and Texas people are carrying their section of it to completion rapidly and they have many larger difficulties to overcome than those presented in this section. A large bridge over the Canadian River on the highway is being completed, and the road between Amarillo and Oklahoma City will be entirely completed within ninety days according to the statements made by Mr. Whitehurst. The road from Amarillo to El Paso is all in fair condition with the exception of a few miles between Oscura and Tularosa and the money for the improvement of these few miles is now in the hands of the state and the work will start in a short time. The bridge across the Carrizozo draw north of town will soon be under way, as the material for it has all been shipped, some of it now being on the ground. It is likely that construction of this bridge and of the road south will start at the same time as the State will send an engineer here to take charge of the work and he will have supervision over both projects.

A bunch of delegates in the interest of this road came in on the morning train, among them being, Mr. Whitehurst, R. A. Prentice, J. W. Corn, Jno. L. Dunwoody of Tucumcari, Chas. H. Kohn of Montoya, Fred Braun of Santa Rosa, E. L. Moulton, of Corona, C. F. Grey, Dr. Ranniger, Joe Ashford and Lee B. Chase of Oscura.

The delegation was taken in by the entertainment committee, loaded in automobiles and were shown to various points of interest in the locality, including the Mal Pais, governor's ranch etc.

At 2:30 p. m. a meeting was held in the office of Nye and Osborn and the organization of the New Mexico State Division of the Interstate Postal Highway was completed. Jno. A. Haley was chosen as temporary chairman, and A. J. Rolland temporary secretary of the meeting. Mr. Haley presented J. A. Whitehurst of Sayre, Okla., and Mr. Whitehurst addressed the meeting explaining fully the plans, methods and progress of the proposed highway. Mr. Whitehurst is an eloquent speaker and certainly full of good roads enthusiasm. His talk made a profound impression upon those present, as he brought out the magnitude and importance of the project.

At the close of his speech, which was heartily applauded it was unanimously decided to perfect a State organization, to be a part of, and cooperate with the State organizations of Texas and Oklahoma. R. A. Prentice of Tucumcari was unanimously chosen as president of the State Association, and A. J. Rolland as Secretary-Treasurer. A vice president of the State organization is to be chosen from each county through which the road passes, and the president of each County organization becomes, by virtue of his office, a vice president of the State organization. An executive committee was appointed by the president consisting of Chas. H. Kohn, Montoya, C. E. McGinnis, Santa Rosa, and Dr. J. R. Gilbert of Alamogordo. The president next appointed a committee on resolutions consisting of A. J. Rolland, J. A. Haley and C. H. Kohn, which committee drew up and presented the following resolution which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved that we, the New Mexico Division of the Interstate Postal Highway Association, organized on this the 18th day of June, 1914 hereby tender to J. A. Whitehurst the thanks of the organization for his entertaining address, giving an outline of the purposes and plans of the general organization and for his complimentary remarks on the activity, interest and enthusiasm of the people of New Mexico have shown in the establishment of the great Postal Highway, paralleling the Rock Island System, and appreciate to the fullest extent his generous action in devoting his time, energy and intellect to the establishment of this great Highway; and

Resolved further, that this organization pledge its efforts to bring to a successful conclusion the commendable purposes for which Mr. Whitehurst is so unselfishly working

Jno. A. Haley
A. J. Rolland
J. W. Corn

One of the rules of the Interstate Association is that each county along the highway contribute one hundred dollars to The Interstate fund, which fund is distributed over the entire highway and used for markers, publicity etc. Mr. Whitehurst spoke of the plan which had been adopted by the association in the eastern states for raising funds by the sale of "Interstate Highway Association" buttons at one dollar apiece, and this plan was adopted by the State organization and the buttons will be for sale here as soon as they can be furnished.

Jno. W. Corbett of Mountain Air made a suggestion to the meeting which was favorably considered and which was to the effect that the newly organized highway association recommend to the New Mexican representatives in Congress that the $25,000,000 appropriation bill now before Congress be amended to make the appropriation contingent upon the exclusion of narrow gaged vehicles from the State and Federal highways, as they have a tendency to cut up and damage the roads.

J. W. Corn of Tucumcari presented a resolution of thanks in behalf of the visiting delegates, thanking the people of Carrizozo for the hospitality and entertainment extended to them.

President R. A. Prentice then extended a cordial invitation to visit Tucumcari sometime during the summer, for a get-together meeting, or the meeting could possibly be arranged for some point between here and Tucumcari.

E. L. Moulton representing Corona, then extended an invitation for all to attend the Fourth of July Celebration at that place, see the big automobile road race, and note the road improvement in that section.

J. W. Corbett of Mountain Air then invited all to be present at the big Mountain Air Chautauqua, especially on "Good Roads Day" August 3d, when there will be several lectures given by celebrated road experts, and demonstrations given showing the most approved methods of building and repairing roads and methods of handling different road materials.

As all counties in the state through which the highway passes are now organized with the exception of Otero county. Mr. Whitehurst was asked to go to Alamogordo and perfect the organization there. He is also to proceed to El Paso where he will perfect plans for cooperation with the Borderland Route west of that point. These plans will undoubtedly be well received in El Paso as it will mean that a large number of our roads will be routed via that point.

After the adjournment of the meeting the visiting delegates were taken another automobile ride to the top of Nogal hill and to Watson lake.

While they were taking this trip the local County Organization was perfected. John A. Haley was chosen as president, which makes him ex-officio a vice president of the State organization, and A. J. Rolland was elected Secretary-Treasurer. The president appointed as members of the County Executive Committee, H. S. Campbell of Carrizozo, E. L. Moulton of Corona, C. F. Grey of Oscura, R. E. P. Warden of Ancho, and Wayne VanSchoyck of White Oaks. It is the duty of the members of the executive committee to raise by subscription funds for the appropriation of one hundred dollars to the Interstate organization, and for the purpose of logging and posting of the road in the county. The members of this committee are requested to raise what funds they can at once, forwarding same to A. J. Rolland so that the logging and posting of the road through Lincoln county can be carried out immediately.

The meeting adjourned after an announcement by the president that another meeting would be held at the same place at 7:30 p. m. for the purpose of conferring with the Mountain Air delegation in regard to the Carrizozo-Gran Quivera Mountain Air Highway.

METHODIST CHURCH

(J. W. Hendrix, Pastor)

Sunday school 9:45 a. m.

Preaching both morning and evening by the pastor. Theme of the morning sermon, "The Prominent Christ." Theme for evening "The Supreme Question Asked and Answered."

So many are seeking cool places. The church is set off from other buildings and is always cool. Then be sure you do not spend all your time in this mundane sphere seeking a cool place well watered; and in the next, sink to a place where the temperature is hot and water is not to be had.

GRAN QUIVERA HIGHWAY ASSN. FORMED

Bunch of Boosters from Mountain Air Present and an Enthusiastic Meeting Held

ROAD WILL BE PUSHED THROUGH

At 7:30 p. m., yesterday, a meeting was held at the office of Nye & Osborn to discuss the completion of the road from here to Mountain Air via Gran Quivera. A good crowd was present including a delegation from Mountain Air composed of J. P. Dunlavy, J. W. Corbett, Dr. Chadwick, and W. R. Oime all of whom are good roads boosters of the first water.

John A. Haley was elected as acting chairman, and W. H. Osborn as acting secretary of the meeting.

Mr. Haley in a short speech asked the Mountain Air delegation to state their plans and ideas to the meeting, upon which request J. P. Dunlavy made a very interesting talk upon the Seven Cities of Cibola one of which was Gran Quivera, and the ruins of other of the seven cities which are located along the proposed highway; of the ancient apple orchard at Manzana, over 300 years old and still bearing; of the great spring issuing from the crater of an ancient volcano; of the beautiful mountain scenery and timber; and other beautiful and interesting things which are located upon, or easily reached by the route. He then spoke of the progress that has been made with the road stating that it is in first-class condition from Mountain Air to Gran Quivera and that his party had driven through in a Ford with only three cylinders working and had experienced no difficulty, and that the entire section from Mountain Air to Gran Quivera had been dragged from one to four times.

His talk was followed by a short talk by J. B. French of Carrizozo, who spoke upon the difficulties to be overcome in the completion of the road from Carrizozo to the ruins, which he stated was in good condition with the exception of less than one mile of sand just this side of the ruins, and asked that J. W. Corbett of Mountain Air advise the meeting just what method he would suggest in overcoming this sand.

Mr. Corbett spoke of the road in a general way, of its beauties and attractions and of the difficulties that had been overcome by the people of Torrance Co., on their end, and asked for the advice of J. A. Whitehurst, of Sayre, Okla., who was present, and who has had a wide experience in such matters. Mr. Whitehurst suggested that a grader be used to throw back the sand on each side of the road for a space of about 14 feet getting down to a solid foundation and then filling up the space with gravel and clay or broken stone and clay. He stated that the Interstate Postal Highway Association had overcome difficulties of the same nature, but much worse, in Wheeler County, Texas, by the adoption of this plan, which plan was there carried out under the supervision of a government road expert.

After the conclusion of Mr. Whitehurst's talk a motion was made and carried providing for the perfection of a highway organization, and the organization was immediately carried through.

The name of "THE GRAN QUIVERA HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION" was unanimously adopted as the name of the organization. J. B. French of Carrizozo was elected as president; Neil Jansen of Estancia as vice-president and Dr. B. E. Hedding of Mountain Air as Secretary-Treasurer.

President French then appointed as an executive committee J. W. Corbett of Mountain Air, for Torrance County, Mr. McCullough of Carhage for Socorro County, and Clarence Spence of Carrizozo for Lincoln County.

It was decided that should Santa Fe and Chaves Counties wish to participate in the extension of the highway to Santa Fe and Roswell that the president should appoint a member of the executive committee from each of the two counties; that the financing of the proposition should be left to the president and executive committees; and that a uniform white sign post should be used throughout, to be placed in the angle of necessary turns, and that printed signs be used at all points of diversion.

A committee of three was appointed by the president to draw up a set of by laws and present them at the next regular meeting. This committee is composed of Messrs. Corbett, Chadwick and Haley.

It was then adopted as the sense of the meeting that the proper publicity be given this meeting and the progress of the highway from time to time.

The next meeting is to be held at Mountain Air on August 3d, which is Good Roads Day at the Chautauqua.

After many expressions of thanks from the visitors for the entertainment and hospitality extended, and mutual expressions of good will from all present, the meeting adjourned.

Rev. Farley of Mountain Air, who was to have been present and delivered a lecture upon the Ancient Ruins of New Mexico, was unable to come, much to the disappointment of all.

AUTO RACE JULY FOURTH

About a year ago the automobile speed kings of America, Cliff H. Tetzlaff, Depalma, Cooper and others, strive for supremacy in the Corona Road Race at Corona, California. On July 4th of this year the speed kings of Torrance and Lincoln counties, will strive for supremacy in the Corona Road Race at Corona N. M.

The California race was run by racing cars only. The New Mexico race will be run by touring cars only. At Corona, California the distance was 300 miles; at Corona, N. M. the distance will be 25 miles. But the same daring and recklessness of the chauffeur; the same sturdiness of the car, the same flexibility of the motor which won that race will be the necessary requirements of the winner of this race.

All preparations possible are being made to make this a great race. A first and second prize will be given. Rules governing the race have been adopted of the Automobile Association of America.

Besides furnishing excitement and thrills for the throngs at Corona that day, the race will be an incentive for better roads and a big boost for good roads movement. Entries to the race must be in the hands of the Secretary on or before July 1st. Rules governing the race and entry blanks may be secured by addressing J. A. Kranawitter, Secretary, Corona, N. M.

How the Rattlesnake Killed the Sun's Daughter

By JOHN M. OSKISON

Color This Picture to Suit Yourself.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure News-Paper Syndicate)

Long time ago, when the sun was hot overhead, the old men would call to the little boys to come into the shade and stop playing for a time.

"The old lady Sun is stopping at the house of her daughter for dinner," they would say, "and you better wait till she is on her way toward the cool land in the West before you go out again."

And the boys would come into the house and beg the old man who had called them in to tell about the time the rattlesnake was sent up to kill the sun, but only succeeded in killing the sun's daughter. This is the way it was:

In that time the sun had no home at all, but had to keep traveling up the sky from the east and down the sky in the west and under the earth while it was dark day after day and day after day.

But the daughter of the sun had a nice house right up in the middle of the sky, and every day the sun would stop there for dinner. And every day the sun and the sun's daughter would have a dispute about how the people on the earth looked. The sun said that the people were ugly, for they screwed up their faces when they looked up at her; but the sun's daughter said that the people were smiling and handsome, for she never went out of her house until the sun was down past the edge of the west, and then the people could look at her without squinting their eyes.

And the sun would get angry and shine down on the earth so hot that the people would swelter, and many of them became sick. That pleased the sun, but it did not please the sun's daughter, who was friendly with man. So the sun's daughter sent a message saying that the little people of the woods (the Yunwi Tsundis) would tell man how to stop the heat sickness.

When the chief or the Yunwi Tsundis came to see the wise medicine men, he told them that the only thing to do was to send some one up to the house of the daughter of the sun to kill the sun when she stopped there for dinner. And the wise medicine men said they would do that.

For a long time, the wise medicine men talked about who would be best to send, and finally they decided that the copperhead snake and the spreading-adder snake ought to go, for they would be sure to kill the sun if they bit her.

So the copperhead and the spreading-adder went and hid themselves just outside the door of the house of the daughter of the sun while the sun was inside eating dinner. But when the sun stepped out, she was so red and angry that the spreading-adder snake was blinded and all he could do was to swell up and spit out yellow slime—just as he does to this day when he is stirred. And when the copperhead saw that the spreading-adder couldn't do anything, he ran away.

Then the wise medicine men had to come together again and find another messenger to send up to the house of the daughter of the sun. This time it was the rattlesnake who went, and he coiled down right beside the door, with his eyes closed. And when he heard some one coming out of the house he sprang like a flash of lightning and struck.

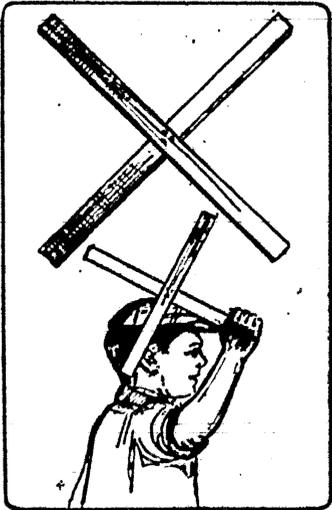

But it was the daughter of the sun who had come out, and so it was she who was killed. As soon as he had struck, the rattlesnake came back to man and said that he had done his work.

At first, the people did not know that the rattlesnake had killed the daughter of the sun instead of the sun herself, and so the people all thanked the rattlesnake and said that they would never harm him. And so to this day men who know will not disturb the rattlesnake, and the rattlesnake does not bite man unless he is bothered.

BOOMERANG IS EASILY MADE

Two Pieces of Light, Hard Wood, 14 Inches Long Are First Needed—How It Is Thrown.

In making a boomerang first procure two pieces of light, hard wood, 14 inches long, 1 1/2 inches wide and 3-10 of an inch thick. Nail them together in the center as shown. The nails should be clenched on the other side to make a strong joint.

Figure 2 shows how to throw it. It will go in a circle and most always come behind the thrower. A light wind should be blowing to make it work properly.

Cleaning of Books.

To take grease and inkstains from books without injuring either the paper or printed matter requires some care.

Grease may generally be removed by placing the paper between two sheets of blotting-paper and passing a hot iron gently over it.

For inkstains, let the leaves lie in a solution of oxalic acid for two minutes, put them in clean cold water for a few hours, and then soak in a weak solution of chloride of lime, to remove the stains left by the oxalic acid.

Foundation for Eminence.

Some boys lay the foundation for eminence in the evening hours that other boys waste hanging around the loading places.

BOTH STUCK.

She—I never would have married you if I'd known you were a poor man.
He—I notice all my friends say "poor man" whenever they see me now I'm married to you.

Tied Up.

She waited at the church in vain. Where could the bridegroom be? "I fear this wedding will go off without a hitch," said she.
—Columbia Jester.

Wouldn't Work Twice.

"Hello! Just the man I wanted to see! I was just telling my friends, or trying to tell them, that story you told me last week, but I could not begin to make it as exasperatingly funny as you made it. Come on, tell it to them."
"I cannot tell that story again until—"
"Until what?"
"Until you have repaid the $5 you borrowed from me the last time you laughed at it."

From Bad to Worse.

"Oh, my poor friend! All my sympathy! What misfortune to find, one fine morning, that your wife is gone!"
"Yes; but how much worse it is to see her return three days later!"—La Rive (Paris).

MEANT HIS AUTO.

Mr. Jinks (meaning gossiping)—I never run down people behind their backs.

Mr. Winks—No; your auto is such a rattle-trap that nobody ever need be unaware of your coming.

Folled.

The early bird got up one morn and then bewailed his luckless fate, which left him hungry and forlorn—The worm, it seems, was sleeping late.

The Browning Club.

"I want you to join our Browning club."

"Really, I'm not cultured enough for that highbrow stuff."

"Oh, all we do is to dance the tango and go to musical comedies once in a while."

High Cost of Living.

Clerk—Here's a book just out: "How to See Europe on Two Dollars a Day."

Married Man—Huh! What I want is a book on "How to Exist at Home on Two Dollars a Day."

Too Risky.

Bill—Go in an' tell de bartender dat if he don't give yer a drink you'll drop dead.

Red—I dasn't. If he did I would.—New York Globe.

The Real Wonder.

"Edison says we sleep too much."
"He's the man who invented these pesky graphophones that our neighbors operate. It's a wonder that we sleep at all."

WHAT DRIVES PAPA WILD.

No matter how smart and intelligent your little boy is, he is sure to drive you mad some evening with the following sort of thing:

"Papa!"
"Well, what on earth do you want now?"

"Papa, didn't Adam have more than one name?"

"Of course, he didn't have more than one name. Now, please don't bother me any more; I'm reading. One more silly question, and you'll go to bed. Do you understand that?"

"Yes, of course. But can't I ask you something about the same question?"

"Yes; what is it?"
"Was Adam his first name or his last name?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Faithful in Adversity.

James (who is broke)—I have one faithful friend left.

Hulks (also broke)—Who is it?
James—My pipe. I can still draw on that.—Stray Stories.

HE NEVER CALLED AGAIN.

Mr. Bore—I'm rather late in leaving.

Miss Caustique (yawning)—Better late than never.

All Scratched Up.

The busy hen comes down the pike, Persuades your fence to yield, And makes your garden plot look like A Turkish battlefield.

Misunderstood.

"I've come," said the woman politician, "to ask you to support me."

"I'm sorry, miss," replied the man, "but you're too late. I've been married for years."

Some New Disease.

Doctor—And, now, what do you think is the matter with you?

Would-Be Fashionable Patient—I hardly know. What is new?—London Opinion.

In Front of the House.

Footie Lighte—I understand he has given up the stage and has become a ticket speculator.

Miss Sue Brette—I always said he would get to the front some day.

Not Alarming.

"I received some blackmail this morning—"

"Good heavens! Who was it from?"

"Uncle James' widow. She uses mourning stationery."

Concentrated Effort.

Cynicus—It seems very hard for a woman to make up her mind.

Witticus—It might be easier if she did not spend most of her making up efforts on her face.

Not Patriotic.

Bacon—I see it is stated that the public debt of this country per capita at its last calculation was $10.74.

Egbert—Well, some men don't consider they owe even that much to their country.

Inspiration.

"Is the doctor taking the proper interest in your case?"

"I think he is doing his best. I told him there was nobody to pay unless I got well."

Slow Progress.

Bill—I see a Philadelphia scientist is on his way to the Hawaiian Islands to spend three months studying the habits, evolution and variations of tree snails.

Jill—Oh, well, they'll wait for him."

A Natural Obstacle.

"Your honor, it is a physical impossibility for my client to have uttered these forged notes."

"Why so?"
"He can't utter anything. He's dumb."

After a man has spent a few nights in a sleeping car he can appreciate a home in a small flat.

Constipation causes many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One a laxative, three for cathartic. Adv.

Force of Habit.

"What made you think Mr. Lovet-wet had been drinking?"

"Why, when the charlotte russe was set before him he tried to blow off the foam."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Women's Dilemma.

Patience—A mirror supported by a bracket to be held in the mouth has been invented by a Parisian to leave a woman's hands free to arrange her hair.

Patrice—Yes, but if the mirror is in her mouth, where in the world is she to hold the hairpins?

Best Way to Open Boils.

It is exceedingly painful to touch a boil, even when it is large enough to open. A correspondent writes that the best way to do this is to paint a ring of collodion, which can be purchased in any drug store, around it, being careful not to put any directly over the boil. As the alcohol evaporates the collodion in drying will exert a gentle but firm pressure all around the boil, not only opening it, but forcing out its contents, which should be absorbed by a perfectly clean handkerchief or piece of sterilized cotton.

Using Up Mistakes.

A mother was showing her small daughter how to do something. Later the child made a mistake, but the mother advised her not to worry about it, but to remember never to make that same error again, and explained that if we profited by our mistakes they were useful after all.

"Oh, I know why," answered the little one. "Because if you keep on making and making mistakes by and by there won't be any more mistakes left."

If only true, how nice this would be!

Cabbages as Real Estate.

Wonders never cease in American law. Here comes a judge in our own state, trying the case of a man who entered his neighbor's garden and pinched a head of cabbage. The judge decides that it was not larceny of personal property at all, and hence not a basis of criminal action; but the cabbage heads are real estate, and that the neighbor's remedy is to bring a civil action contesting title. We have eaten garden truck—spinach and lettuce for instance—which tasted like real estate. But we never knew before that to steal it was not theft. And after a cabbage head is eaten what good is the title? Now, if it had been a franchise or an election that was stolen, it would have been less surprising in the law to let the culprit go free; but who would ever have thought that the science of judicial hairsplitting would finally be successfully invoked to protect a plain, everyday cabbage thief?—Pittsburgh Press.

LIVING ADVERTISEMENT

Glow of Health Speaks for Postum.

It requires no scientific training to discover whether coffee disagrees or not.

Simply stop it for a time and use Postum in place of it, then note the beneficial effects. The truth will appear.

"Six years ago I was in a very bad condition," writes a Tenn. lady. "I suffered from indigestion, nervousness and insomnia.

"I was then an inveterate coffee drinker, but it was long before I could be persuaded that it was coffee that hurt me. Finally I decided to leave it off a few days and find out the truth.

"The first morning I left off coffee I had a raging headache, so I decided I must have something to take the place of coffee." (The headache was caused by the reaction of the coffee drug—caffeine.)

"Having heard of Postum through a friend who used it, I bought a package and tried it. I did not like it at first but after I learned how to make it right, according to directions on pkg., I would not change back to coffee for anything.

"When I began to use Postum I weighed only 117 lbs. Now I weigh 170 and as I have not taken any tonic in that time I can only attribute my present good health to the use of Postum in place of coffee.

"My husband says I am a living advertisement for Postum."

Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

LAYING OUT A GARDEN

ERRONEOUS IDEA THAT MUCH TIME IS REQUIRED.

Plot 150 by 100 Feet Will Produce Enough Fruit and Vegetables for Family of Six—Run the Rows North and South.

(By H. PARKER.)
There is an important economical side to this question of a garden. Beef, for instance, in its various forms is notoriously expensive, especially where it is eaten twice or three times a day, whereas beans, peas, spinach, etc., when served with meat would make up half the amount eaten, thus reducing the cash cost of the whole. And the impression that a vegetable garden requires much time and care is such an erroneous one! Two or three hours a week will suffice for a garden 150 by 100 feet, which is capable of producing fruit and vegetables enough for a family of six, provided the rows are three feet apart so that a horse may be used.

In laying out such a garden the rows should be run north and south, for planted thus vegetables receive the greatest amount of sun. The first four rows should be six feet apart, and the first of these might contain twelve currant and twelve gooseberry bushes set six feet apart. In the second row plant a hundred raspberry canes three feet apart, with two canes at each place. The third row will be for strawberries and will hold 150 plants grown in hills set one foot apart, no runners being allowed to grow. The next thirteen rows will be three feet apart and may be planted to the following vegetables in the order given: Asparagus plants, 50 one-year seedlings, set three feet apart in the row; parsnips, 50 feet; then a hundred feet of onions, of which 25 feet may be young sets for early summer; beets and lettuce, 50 feet; early cabbage, a hundred feet; late cabbage, a hundred feet; cauliflower, 50 feet; peas, three full rows, corn, four full rows; tomatoes, a hundred feet; beans, 50 feet; okra, ten feet; then 50 feet more of string beans and 150 feet of dwarf lima beans. The remaining four rows should be eight feet apart to allow the vines to spread. In the first row plant 25 muskmelons six feet apart, then a row of cucumbers set six feet apart, five eggplants and ten early squash, all six feet apart. The next row may be planted to eight Hubbard squash and twelve rhubarb plants, set six feet apart, and the last two rows may very properly be given over to herbs and flowers for cutting.
It is frequently forgotten that a great many people abroad, notably the drawers of water and hewers of wood, live almost entirely on vegetables, considering meat a luxury only to be indulged in once a week, while we in America, having the most delicious and greatest variety of vegetables grown anywhere, discard them for meat.

NOTES OF THE POULTRY YARD

Whitewash Improves Looks of House and is Good Disinfectant—Give Turkeys Free Range.

(By MRS. A. J. WILDER.)
Lime is a very good thing to use about the poultry houses. An occasional coat of whitewash on walls and on the nest boxes greatly improves the looks of the house, besides being a good disinfectant and vermin killer.

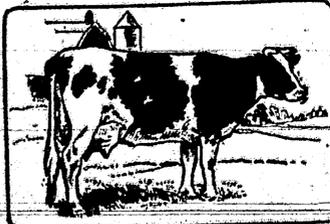

Pullets hatched in April or the first of May, make late fall and winter layers, and they are the ones that pay. Hatch all you can of them.

If a sitting hen leaves the nest, do not throw away the eggs unless they are cold. If you have another broody

RAISING BEST DAIRY BREEDS

No More Profitable Line of Stock Growing Than Raising Good Cows for the Dairyman.

Any farmer is safe in breeding and raising for sale large milking or butter-producing cows. As an industry

A Good Milk Producer.

there is no more profitable line of stock growing than raising good cows and selling them to the dairymen who are making a specialty of producing market milk or selling their milk to hen, put her on the nest. She will finish the hatchling, and it will save her just so much time, as well as saving the eggs.

Give the little chicks skim milk to drink. It is very good for them, as well as for the older fowls. The more milk your poultry drink, the less meat it will be necessary to feed them.

Do not keep too many hens in one flock. Much better results are obtained from the smaller flocks, and it is the results that count.

If you want the pullets to mature early, and begin laying at five or six months old, feed them properly and well from the start. Give them a properly balanced ration; and crowd them as fast as you can. There is no need having to feed pullets from eight to ten months, before getting any returns.

Hasten the growth of young cockerels, by feeding them all they will eat. Keep them fat enough for the table all the time, and they will reach the required weight for the market much sooner. It is the earlier markets that pay the best prices.

Don't make the mistake of thinking you can half feed your hens and make a success of the poultry business. The wants of the hen's body comes first.

A Nice Sunny Yard for the Chickens is Necessary.

If there is any surplus it goes into the eggs. Where there is no surplus there are no eggs. It is your business to provide enough food for the body and the eggs.

If you are keeping hens for egg-production only there is no need for keeping any males. It costs about $1 to feed each one, and their room might better be given to that many more hens.

Turkeys must have free range in order to do well. Do not keep them closely confined. If you have fed them regularly, they will continue to come up at that time for their feed, even if allowed to run free.

No Use for Cholera.

If it were not for hog cholera pork raisers would be living in the lap of luxury. The time will come when there will be no more excuse for hog cholera than for human cholera that until a century or so ago periodically devastated Europe and America. Both are essentially filth diseases.

The Colony Plan.

Where the hens are kept in colony houses they may be moved to different grain fields as soon as the crop has been harvested, and find plenty of feed for several weeks.

Green Food for Ducks.

Ducks must have green food of some kind, and if they cannot have a run on tender grass, give them sprouted oats.

condensing plants where they do not have the by-product returned to their farms to feed out to the calves that are being raised to replace the cows that are annually discarded from their herds.

The keeping of more cows for creameries and cheese factories is also encouraging and many men are willing to pay a good price for well-bred dairy cows.

Freedom for Colts.

It is not best to keep the colts tied up day after day, nor is it best to allow them to run with the mothers while the latter are at work in the fields. Keep them in a lot that has good fences, where they can run and play and yet be in the sunshine.

Soil for Onions.

Onions do better in rich soil, and an abundance of fertilizer will not only furnish the food but the warmth to promote rapid growth.

The time to ship poultry is when the demand is good and the market steady.

METHODS OF TILLAGE

RESULTS GIVEN FROM NORTH OKLAHOMA AND KANSAS.

Superiority of Fall Plowed Land Proved Invariably by at Least One Bushel Increase Per Acre—Manuring is Also Good.

In considering the methods of tillage, only the results can be given, as time will not permit of any details. Data is rather hard to obtain and none could be secured bearing on corn, the great crop of Iowa. The results given are from North Dakota, Oklahoma and Kansas.

In experiments with fall vs. spring plowed land, the results invariably prove the superiority of the fall plowed land by at least one more bushel per acre.

The Campbell system, or the inter-tillage system was not found at all practical, for the crops were less and the expense high. On fall plowed land, the yield was 6 1/2 bushels less and $4.77 less profit. On spring plowed, it was even more marked, being 8 1/2 bushels less, and $5.77 less profit. By means of extra tillage on fall plowed and spring plowed land, we get the following: On fall plowed, four extra harrowings and one rolling gave 3.4 bushels more wheat than the ordinary treatment, and $2.02 more profit. On spring plowed land, one sub-surface packing, one rolling and two harrowings, gave 2.5 more bushels than the ordinary treatment, and $1.01 more profit. It pays to work the land. These results are from the North Dakota station. At Oklahoma similar results have been obtained, but they are here even more marked. Here early and late fall plowing entered more thoroughly into the test, and the early plowed land gave the better results, on account of the increased tillage holding more moisture, and killing weeds better. Land plowed in July at Oklahoma yielded 23.1 bushels per acre of wheat, while that of one of the adjoining fields plowed in September gave 16.8 bushels per acre. Manuring is also good, as manured plots at Oklahoma yielded 27.5 bushels per acre against 14.5 on unmanured land which had grown wheat continuously for seven years, and one plot manured and another not. Manured plot yielded 30.6 bushels per acre, unmanured 12 bushels per acre. At the North Dakota experiment station shallow plowing gave 1/2 bushel less per acre and 23 cents less profit on fall plowing, and one bushel less and 40 cents less profit on spring plowed. The sub-surface packer gave 24 cents more profit per acre on both fall and spring plowed land. Harrowing right after plowing gave 46 cents more profit per acre. Sub-rolling gave a little better yield but it did not pay for the extra cost. Disk plowing gave the best results in a large series of experiments the first year, but later it dwindled away rapidly. Rolling with a smooth roller after sowing, gave 1.2 bushels more per acre and 68 cents more profit. Next year there was an increase of 7.5 per cent on fall plowed land and a decrease of 22 per cent on spring plowed land. This phenomenon is not explained. Wheat rolled and harrowed just after sowing, and then harrowed again as the wheat was coming up gave two bushels increase in yield and 72 cents in profit, on spring plowed land. In 1899 yield was increased 2.5 bushels by harrowing when the wheat was six inches high. It also took less water for this plot.

It was computed that one inch of rain would make two bushels of wheat under favorable conditions, so it is readily seen that the increased tillage is simply a saving of water.

Alfalfa Hay.

Alfalfa hay produces more increase in weight on colts than prairie hay during the winter.

Feed Sows Separately.

Feed the old and young sows separately as the old ones may hurt the younger ones and they will get more than they should. The mature sows are more desirable but it is always necessary to grow a few gilts to replace some of the older ones.

Patent Shepherd Best.

If the shepherd at lambing time has not far more than the patience of Job, and kindness unbounded he had better quit the job. A rough, kicking, swearing man is as dangerous in a sheep fold as a coyote, and will often do more harm.

Cause of Hoof Troubles.

If you can't get a competent blacksmith to shoe the horses, they are better off without any. The cause of most hoof troubles may be traced back to ill-fitted shoes.

Income From Lambs.

Ten dollars a head is not an impossible income from lambs and wool from good ewes. Even as high a return as $12 has been reported by sheep growers.

Sign of the Times.
When a man like A. J. Drexel Biddle of Philadelphia, society leader and millionaire, preaches in the city streets from a gospel wagon on the "Inasmuch Mission," and when we see other young millionaires in various parts of the country joining the Salvation army of uplift and human betterment, it is calculated to make the world think a bit—to make it stop, look and listen. There is something which comes home to everybody in such a spectacle, and which is not to be dismissed as an "emotional" crusading outburst. In many ways the religious impulse of the age shares the democratic spirit that is dominant in political and economic spheres, and is coming out from high places into the highways and hedges in order to get face to face with the masses.

SEEK EASTER DATE

Proposed That the World Adopt Fixed Day.

International Chambers of Commerce Say Variable Time Causes Trade Complications—Would Regulate Time by the Sun.

Brussels.—A proposal to have the world adopt a fixed date for Easter will be discussed and acted upon at the biennial meeting of the International Congress of Chambers of Commerce, which is to meet in Paris next June. Such is the announcement made by the permanent committee of the congress, which met in Brussels to approve the program prepared for the Paris meeting.

The fact that the variable date for Easter causes much embarrassment and loss in certain lines of trade is responsible for the movement to have the festival celebrated on a fixed date. It is suggested by the supporters of the movement that the fixed date could be brought about by regulating Easter by the sun instead of the moon.

The program prepared for the meeting of the congress shows that numerous other important subjects will be brought up for consideration. Postal money orders and checks, bills of lading for steam navigation, insurance policies in international traffic, dock warrants, arbitral procedure and the utility of the proposed international action regarding unfair competition are among the questions that will receive attention.

A possible source of discussion relative to competition may be the operations of great combines such as the Standard and Russian Oil companies, the German syndicate which controls the trade in potash and other concerns whose fields include the world. The British system of marine insurance, evolved by centuries of experience, will be closely examined for models to improve the phraseology of policies.

The program as prepared by the committee indicates that American thought and practice have largely influenced conditions under which trade and commerce are carried on. The United States and Great Britain, for example, have made the largest use of the postal money order and the bank check, and the congress may consider plans for broadening the service rendered by both and making them better understood. The need of uniformity, or at least a better understanding, is illustrated by the fact that under article 16 of The Hague convention the death of a maker of a check has no influence upon the validity of the check, whereas, according to English law, the check became void on the death of the signer.

One object of the coming meeting will be to constitute the congress as active influence between the biennial meetings. The plans in this direction will be framed along the lines of the work accomplished by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which is able to back up its resolutions with a permanent organization.

It is expected that the commerce and trade bodies of America will take an important part in the sessions in Paris. The international congress and its work are well understood in the United States, since the last meeting of the organization was held in Boston in 1912. It is expected that the coming meeting will be attended by a large delegation of representative American manufacturers and business men.

The French government, in cooperation with the business organizations of France, is preparing for the elaborate entertainment of the visitors. The delegates from abroad will be regarded as the guests of the republic, and the two weeks following the sessions of the congress will be given up to more or less formal visitations at Lyons, Grenoble, Valence, Dijon and other places of historic interest and industrial importance. Excursions also will be arranged to points in Italy, Switzerland, Germany and other countries.

SHE WENT A-PLAYING

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART.

Everybody said it was a wonderful chance for me, but mother wasn't so sure. She didn't mind the stock company, where father could take me home at night, and Anne could sit around at rehearsals; but this was different. And then I think she was afraid of Mr. Cunningham. He was supposed to have as much temper as he had professional reputation, and, of course, that was colossal.

I coaxed mother over at last. Tommy had the mumps, and she was so worn out with him that she gave in. The whole family had a hand in getting my costumes ready, and I borrowed Anne's feather boa, little thinking what use it would be put to!

The rehearsals were pretty bad. One morning Mr. Cunningham made me go through a six-line speech—the one where I find the revolver and take out the bullets and then snap it at him—17 times. I was pretty tired, and when he said, "Now—again," I turned on him like a wildcat.

"If you make me do it again," I snapped, "I—I won't take out the bullets!"

He laughed—can you believe it? He laughed, and I fumed, and it was bedlam all around. I went home and wept it out on Tommy's pillow—which made him think he was going to die, and his poor, comical face went all mottled. But—Mr. Cunningham kept me. That's where the tragedy comes in.

He was very particular with me on the road. Once or twice he said that some day I would learn to act, and I walked on air for days.

Baldwin, the juvenile, was very nice to me, and we took long walks in the mornings, picking up post-cards to send home, and sometimes running over our scene in the second act, where my guardian—Mr. Cunningham—steps in and says: "Do you love him, Billa? He—he is a splendid fellow." And, of course, every one in the audience knows the guardian is in love with me, and is going to Africa if I take Baldwin. The guardian is married, you see, and Miss D'Arcy played the wife.

The funny thing was that Baldwin was really crazy about Miss D'Arcy, and talked about her all the time.

"I wish you wouldn't," I said one day. "I know she's beautiful, and can act like a dream, and all that; but you needn't rub it in."

"How about you raving over Cunningham all the time?" he retorted sulkily; which was so absurd that I went back to the hotel without speaking to him again.

And then the most awful thing happened! You know the scene at the beginning of the last act—when we are all at breakfast and the wife sweeps in in a rage? Well, it starts with grapefruit, and I have a line when I taste it and say—to Mr. Cunningham:

"It's as bitter as—as you have been—to me, this last week."

Well, I put that stuff in my mouth, and at once the most dreadful pain began just in front of my ears and seemed to go all over me. My tongue drew up and my jaws locked perfectly tight! I tried to swallow and couldn't, and there I sat, while Mr. Cunningham looked at me and waited for his cue.

At last he went on without my speaking, which caused a titter and made him wild. However, the rest of the act went well. In the farewell scene, where he goes to Africa—to the war, I tried to warn him to kiss me on top of my head, because by that time I knew that I had the mumps and I was in a fever of fright; but Mr. Cunningham's big scene always carries him off his feet, and that night, to my horror, he kissed me twice.

Hopper, the stage manager, nearly went crazy when I told him.

"Now I'll get it!" he groaned. "No, not the mumps, but the devil! You'll have to go on—that's all. Wear a nightcap—anything—but don't put Cunningham up against a new ingenué when he's up in the air with a new play!"

"Then you'll have to cut out the grapefruit," I said with a shudder. "It will have to be bananas, and I can wear big mull ties to my garden hat in the last act and a feather boa in the second."

So we fixed it. I was not very ill, and, after all, Mr. Cunningham took the news like a lamb, even sending me some jelly his chef had made.

But a week later Baldwin stopped suddenly and made an awful face over his lemonade in the tennis scene. I knew then what had happened; and when he came to rehearsal the next morning with his neck-line entirely obliterated, and with a silk handkerchief instead of a collar, we all knew.

Then he sent for me. I went in fear and trembling. He was in front of his dressing-mirror, graying his hair on top. It is naturally a little gray over his ears. When I came in he got up very courteously and drew out a chair.

"Will you wait just a moment?" he said, and finished what he was doing.

The dressing-room was a litter, of course, and right at the bottom of the mirror was a picture in a silver frame. It was a girl in a black gown, and it was exquisite—the picture, not the gown. I thought that very likely it was the girl he was in love with, for, of course, he would be in love with some one.

I knew what was coming before he said it. I clasped my hands tight together to keep me from crying, and my feet felt numb and cold. I was horribly, awfully afraid of him, and yet I had the most dreadful inclination to pat down his hair.

"Now, Miss Eleanor," he said, turning round and facing me, "I'll tell you why I want to talk to you. You are looking ill and tired; what would the little mother say to me?"

That was the worst thing he could have said. I choked up in a minute and put my head down on the back of my chair.

"I—I know I can't act!" I sobbed. "But it's mean to put it off on mother!"

"You can act," he said very gently. "That's the trouble. In fairness to you, I'll have to tell you that. But it's a hard life, and—I want you to give it up. You're too young, and you've been too much sheltered, to—"

"I'm twenty-one, Mr. Cunningham," I broke in defiantly. "Even grown people get the mumps. I'm not a child; I'm as old as—the girl in that picture."

I rushed out then, and in the first act, where I have the scene with my guardian's wife, I burst into real tears at the end and got a curtain call. I was very unhappy; there were a number of things—but it doesn't matter. One thing was certain—I hated Mr. Cunningham!

I was quite ill for a day or two at home. Then, nothing terrible occurring, I tried to put the whole thing out of my mind and to forget that my theatrical career had died of the mumps. But the day before the New York opening I heard Ella admit some one. I had just time to slip a picture I had been looking at under some of Tommy's stockings I had been mending when he came in. It was Mr. Cunningham!

I shook hands with him and tried to hide the basket with his picture and the stockings. Mr. Cunningham did not sit down. He stood by the fire and looked down at me severely.

"You're a bad child!" he said at last; "a runaway. What made you do it, Eleanor?"

"I had to," I pleaded. "It was too dreadful—every one getting sick and blaming it on me. Won't you take off your overcoat and—have some tea?"

I was quite breathless with excitement and reaction, and I was still terribly afraid of him. My hands shook so that I could hardly pour the tea. It dropped into a chair and looked around.

"Jove, what a thing it is to be in a real home again!" he said, looking very human indeed with his feet out before him. "I always pictured you doing something like this—tea and mending—instead of roaming around the country with a theatrical company."

I gave him his tea, squeezing a bit of lemon in, and then—suddenly—he clapped his hand to his left ear, and I knew it had come. He waited until he could speak, and then all he said was "Good Lord!"

He looked at me helplessly. There were only two things I could do—laugh or cry. I had cried so much that now I laughed—laughed while I knew that there would be no New York opening; laughed while the great Mr. Cunningham glared at me; laughed until he looked injured and then got over it and laughed himself.

"Well!" he said, when we both dried our eyes and got our breath—"I never expected to laugh over a tragedy like this. You make me do anything you want, Eleanor."

"Oh, I hope you won't be very ill," I said quickly.

"But I shall be; I'm sure to. I always have things hard," he replied, getting up and coming over to me. "I took you very hard indeed, Eleanor. I don't care anything about 'The Pillars of Society.' I only know I want my little ward again; Eleanor, the day you left I was wild. I can't act—I can't live without you, dear. Why, see—you've put your mark on me!"

When he said that, what could I do? Anyhow, I forgot completely that this was the greatest tragedy of his time. All I knew was that he was lonely and that I—well, that I didn't hate him. He crushed me to him—I'll admit that; but Anne told it as a great joke, when the engagement was announced, that as she came into the hall she heard me say:

"Of course you may. I'm not afraid. I've had them!"

NEW DRUG AIDS SURGERY

Anaesthesia Much Easier When Urethane is Used, and Less Dangerous.

London.—Urethane, the new anaesthetic, is exciting immense interest in the scientific world. Various experiments from which great hopes are aroused have been made at Cambridge, with animals as the subjects. The drug is a combination of urea and alcohol, administered hypodermically.

After a short period of drowsiness the subject passes into a state of deep unconsciousness, becomes insensible to all pain, and, therefore, any operation may be carried out with perfect security.

The advantage claimed for urethane is that heart failure never occurs where it has been properly used. Another advantage is that its administration is not accompanied by the choking sensation experienced with ether and chloroform.

GIRLS MAKE WAR ON MICE

Fair Stenographers Give an Unprecedented Exhibition of Bravery in Ohio City.

Cleveland, O.—Stenographers in every office in the Federal building are conducting war on an army of mice which for days have been eating stamps, weighty government documents, money orders and money.

The Misses Emma Dean, Vera Lynde and Grace Schliely of the district court clerk's office are the generals in command of the army of stenographers. Through their efforts contributions have been taken and traps and cheese have been purchased. Uncle Sam has no appropriation for buying such things.

It was announced after the first attack on the mice that 23 had been trapped. Hundreds and possibly even thousands are believed to be playing about in the walls of the building. In several offices the rodents gnawed their way into cash drawers and attacked official papers and greenbacks.

HAIR CAME OUT IN HANDFULS

Hughson, Cal.—"Last winter my hair began to fall out and later my scalp began to itch terribly and my hair was full of dandruff. There were pimples broke out on my scalp, especially around the edge of my hair. Sometimes I would wake up at night and lie awake an hour or so with the itching. My hair came out in handfuls when I combed it. It was dry and lifeless and the dandruff was so thick it could be plainly seen. "I used several different kinds of shampoo and soap but it got worse all the time for five or six months. When I had lost about half of my hair I started using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In about six weeks my scalp stopped itching and in two or three months my hair began to come in new. My head is clear of dandruff now and new hair is coming in all the time." (Signed) Mrs. W. R. ITALIAN SIDE OF THE MATTERHORN

TOURISTS in general know little of the considerable stretch of country that extends northward from Turin to the southern slopes of Mont Blanc. Apart from its interest to mountaineers in containing the two highest peaks in Italy, there are few of its hundreds of valleys that do not possess relics in the shape of giant aqueducts and arches half sunk amid the vegetation of centuries, which testify to their importance in Roman times. The district around Cogne, the center of the mountainous region, is strictly preserved as a hunting ground for the king of Italy. Numerous keepers traverse the mountains, and heavy penalties are enforced against any person disturbing the game. As a consequence, chamois have greatly multiplied, and it is now the only locality in the whole Alps where the noble bouquetin or ibex may be seen in its native wilds.

It was, however, mainly to photograph, if not to climb, the Grand Paradis and the Grivola that the writer and a friend made a recent visit to this country. We had journeyed in easy stages by way of Chamoux and the St. Bernard, occupying several days, although the district itself is within 24 hours of Charing Cross, and reached the village at dusk, when its inhabitants had already retired with their cocks and hens. While in Aosta we had heard much of the habits and manners of the natives of Cogne. The Aostans, who consider themselves to be in the front rank of European civilization, were never tired of pouring ridicule on the doings of the simple villagers. "They had no use for beds, but slept in cupboards on shelves, one above the other. The women made up for a scarcity of linen by a superabundance of cloth, which they wound round their waists in many layers under their skirts, swelling themselves out to an unnatural size. They were childishly fond of wearing medals and beads, and wore aprons, which they carefully tied up on six days of the week, only letting them down on the seventh."

The day following our arrival was the occasion of a festival. The village church was the center of the celebrations. At various times the villagers issued forth in procession, preceded by white-gowned bearers of banners and images, making the circuit of the adjacent cemetery and giving vent to a mournful dirge as they marched. It was difficult to approach the natives; a sight of the camera I carried sufficed to send them scurrying to an immense distance. A few half-francs, however, judiciously distributed worked wonders; the news quickly circulated through the village, and I forthwith had no lack of models. Their attentions, indeed, became wearisome. We were continually met by damsels arrayed in voluminous garments who appeared unexpectedly from corners or chased each other with conscious laughter and elephantine grace across our path. Two even waylaid us, stating that in consequence of waiting for an appointment (which, however, they had not kept) they had lost time. We compromised this matter, but began to think that the natives were less simple than had been described, and that the statement regarding their Jewish descent might not be wholly without truth. A beautiful vista of snow peaks and glaciers at the head of the Val Nonstand what it was that induced Englishmen to climb mountains, and he now repeated the statement with several variations: I suggested that the atmosphere of Aosta restaurants and glass shops was hardly the right sort of preparation. The mention of these luxuries seemed to touch a responsive cord, for he replied, with emotion, "Ah, if I ever get down, I will never climb a mountain again. Oh, what a wind! Oh, Corpo di Dio, what a wind!" As we rose the Grivola grew more majestic. The beautiful curving snow ridge, which is the mountain's chief distinction, was seen throughout its length from the summit to the glacier, which latter, from its steep inclination, was broken throughout by numerous ice-falls and gaping crevasses. We were at a height of over ten thousand feet and less than four miles from the mountain, and could see in a moment that we occupied the finest possible point of view and the only near position from which its grand northern face could be seen. The view towards the north was indescribably imposing. The whole of the central Pennines from Mont Blanc to the Matterhorn were free from cloud. Seen from a southern view point there is never any doubt as to the absolute predominance of the Great White mountain, and from here her height and bulk fairly dwarfed all others. Now, while scores of mountains separated by intervals of hundreds of miles were clear, the one for which the ascent was made was not. In Alpine photography this is almost invariably the case. Faint mists formed in the vicinity were driven against the summit and speedily developed to enormous dimensions; these disappeared and others took their place. Patience, however, was ultimately rewarded, and for a few minutes the welcome sun rays poured over the ridge, striking the tops of the seracs and filling the crevasses with a thousand shadows. The foreground had already been chosen, and the exposures were made just in time to escape a mass of cloud that covered the summit for the rest of the day. All this consumed much time, and it was late afternoon before we left the summit. We were scrambling over these rocks in semi-darkness when the figure of a man suddenly materialized on a neighboring ridge. He carried a gun slung bandoleer fashion across his back, and further astonished us by calling upon us to stop and demanded to know what we were about. Explanations that we climbed the mountain for the pleasure derived from the exercise seemed only half satisfactory. "But tourists never come here, you are too late, besides which you carry a gun." I held up my gun. "Ah, ma foi, I took you for poachers, and thought you were after the chamois." He expressed himself as bitterly disappointed. He had seen us from a distant summit four hours before.

Sick Women Made Well

Reliable evidence is abundant that women are constantly being restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The many testimonial letters that we are continually publishing in the newspapers—hundreds of them—are all genuine, true and unsolicited expressions of heartfelt gratitude for the freedom from suffering that has come to these women solely through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Money could not buy nor any kind of influence obtain such recommendations; you may depend upon it that any testimonial we publish is honest and true—if you have any doubt of this write to the women whose true names and addresses are always given, and learn for yourself.

Read this one from Mrs. Waters:

CAMDEN, N.J.—"I was sick for two years with nervous spells, and my kidneys were affected. I had a doctor all the time and used a galvanic battery, but nothing did me any good. I was not able to go to bed, but spent my time on a couch or in a sleeping-chair, and soon became almost a skeleton. Finally my doctor went away for his health, and my husband heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me some. In two months I got relief and now I am like a new woman and am at my usual weight. I recommend your medicine to every one and so does my husband."—Mrs. TILLIE WATERS, 1135 Knight St., Camden, N.J.

And this one from Mrs. Haddock:

UTICA, OKLA.—"I was weak and nervous, not able to do my work and scarcely able to be on my feet. I had backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, trouble with my bowels, and inflammation. Since taking the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am better than I have been for twenty years. I think it is a wonderful medicine and I have recommended it to others."—Mrs. MARY ANN HADDOCK, Utica, Oklahoma.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman continue to suffer without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health. Write to LYDIA E. ## The Measure of Value

When you buy anything whether it be a suit of clothes or an automobile, you must judge the value of your purchase by comparison. Take our clothing as an example.

$22.50 will buy here the same quality of materials that you would expect to pay $28 or $30 for, which you will realize when you see and try on one of our Suits.

The same will apply to our entire line of Ladies and Gents furnishing goods.

We give you the best values for your money
In other words, we save you money, when you trade at our Store.

"THE HOME OF STANDARD MERCHANDISE."
