FALL TERM OF COURT OPENED MONDAY

Unusually Heavy Docket, Owing to Many Matters From Last Term to be Disposed of

GRAND JURY GAILY GETTING "GOATS"

The regular Fall term of District Court of the Third Judicial District opened at 9:00 a. m. Monday, with Hon. Edward L. Medler as presiding Judge, H. B. Hamilton District Attorney, Chas. P. Downs Assistant District Attorney Albert H. Harvey Clerk, John Cole Sheriff, C. S. Pedregon Interpreter, C. W. Curtis as Court Stenographer and Walter C. Miller and Florencio Chavez as Bailiffs.

Court proceeded immediately toward the impaneling of the Grand Jury and it being found that one more member was needed to complete its panel the vacancy was filled in the regular manner, resulting in the drawing of Ed. Queen of White Oaks as the last member.

Clarence Spence was chosen as foreman, and the panel as completed makes up one of the best Grand Juries ever drawn in the county, being as a whole, mostly composed of men exceptionally well-fitted to perform the peculiar duties devolving upon them. Paul Benly is acting as bailiff and Clement Hightower as interpreter.

The large number of witnesses being brought before the Grand Jury indicates that they are very active, and they are "getting the goats" of many of those whose conscience is not entirely clear, wondering where the lightning will strike next, but as we go to press it has not yet struck, as they have not reported.

The completion of the Petit Jury panel was taken up on Wednesday and the completed panel is as follows: Olden Norton, Joe Clements, Jesus M. Luercas, Celso Gonzales, Oliver Peaker, Tom Lovelace, Jose Barola, W. G. Wells, Padlino Alidas, Lorentz Olsen, Pearce Perry, Fred Gonzalez, Aniceto Luercas, Jr., Francisco Zamora, Clay Van Schoyck, Jose Herrera, Bernareo Salazar, Frank Gurney, Phil Blanchard, Manuel Zamora y Salas, W. E. McBrayer, Esequiel Lujan, J. W. Dale and Ygnacio Olguin. This list also contains the names of many of our representative citizens, and the verdicts rendered by them will no doubt be rendered strictly upon the law and evidence.

The Court rendered a final decree of divorce in the case of Felecita Rosalina Barola Chavez v. s. Zelso Chavez, granting the divorced wife the custody of the two children.

Case of P. G. Peters vs Francisco Gonzalez, suit on note, was dismissed at plaintiff's cost.

A judgement for plaintiff by default was rendered in the case of Geo Haviland vs The Rico Mining and Milling Co.

Judgement by default, and writ of injunction made permanent in the case of John H. McCutcheon vs Y. H. Porter, writ restraining Porter from entering upon certain mining claims in Gallinas District.

Order vacating former judgement was entered in case of Hurim M. Miller vs Lillie C. Klesner, and the case which was based upon certain water rights on the Rio Hondo, and was ordered re-docketed.

FIELD DAYS A BIG SUCCESS

Large Crowds, Clean Sports, Good Eats, Good Racing and Big Dances the Main Features

EVERYBODY HAS A BIG TIME

Last Friday and Saturday, the Lincoln County Field Days at Carrizozo, brought out record-breaking crowds, and everyone of them seemed to enjoy themselves to the full. It seemed that every town and settlement in the county (and several outside) was represented and some of them notably Corona, had a large number of its citizens present. The several events were pulled off about on schedule time, and with the possible exception of a dust storm Saturday, (which was the first of the fall season) nothing occurred to spoil the pleasure.

The first event Friday was the basket ball game between the girls of Corona and Carrizozo High School, which was attended by a goodly crowd, including a big delegation of rooters from each side and resulted in the defeat of the home team by a score of 20 to 5, the Corona girls proving to the satisfaction of all that they are "some basket-ball team".

The next event was a quarter-mile horse race, free-for all for a purse of $75, which was carried away by Frank Wallace's sorrel, the only other real contestant being Marshall West's bay, ridden by Jake Peck.

This concluded the field sports for the first day, and the visitors then proceeded to attend the "movies" at the Crystal, after which a big dance was held, and a crowd of about 150 tripped the light fantastic until the "wee small hours."

The second day opened with a basket ball game between the girls of Corona High School the winners of the day before, and the Tularosa High School team, and it was a game well worth going miles to see. The Corona team, flushed with yesterday's victory, played a very aggressive game it being won by them mostly on account of their superior weight and size, the Tularosa girls putting up the game of their lives. The final score was Corona 19, Tularosa 12.

The next event was a boys foot race 50 yards, in which there were about 8 entries, which resulted in a blanket finish, Wayne Brazel winning by a neck with "Pat" Hamilton a close second, purse $3.00 and $2.00.

This was followed by another foot-race, free-for-all, 100 yards which was won by Kroogler, principal of the Tularosa School, Grover Hightower or Fort Stanton, a close second, Fred Cleghorn of White Oaks third, purses $7.50 and $2.50.

The goat-roping contest was next to be pulled off, and proved very interesting, resulting in a victory for John Kane of Tularosa, who "got his goat" in 20 seconds flat, Pete Johnson Jr. won 2nd money, and Jimmie Cooper 3d., in 22 and 24 seconds respectively, purse $7.50. The big crowd then flocked to the tables where the barbecue was being served, and were liberally helped to barbecued meat, done a turn, bread, pickles and "coffee like mother used to make", and from the jovial appearance of everyone and the satisfied expressions heard on every hand, it was the most successful "feed" every pulled off in this vicinity.

Following the "putting on of the nose bag" came the exciting baseball game between Carrizozo and a picked El Paso team, for a purse of $75. Dolan was on the slab for the home team, and pitched a nice game throughout, striking out eleven men, and allowing but four hits. Fisher, who officiated for El Paso was at his best and struck out 12 of the home team, allowing seven well scattered hits. El Paso took the lead in the first inning, when a walk, a steal, a hit and an error netted them two runs, which led the Carrizozo boys were never able to overcome, the final score being 4 to 2 in favor of El Paso.

This was followed by a basket ball game between the Carrizozo High School boys and the Tularosa High School boys, which was a hard fought contest every minute of its duration, resulting in a clean out victory for the Tularosa boys, by a score of 15 to 5.

Clarence Spence's cow pony won the cow pony race, and Ed. Harris' sorrel the two year-old race, which completed the field sports for the day, and the tired but happy visitors, then proceeded to enjoy another visit to the "movies" followed by a big dance.

FROM THE FOREST SERVICE

During the month of September, 1914, a total of 80 acres of land within the Lincoln National Forest, New Mexico, were listed with the Secretary of the Interior and will shortly be opened to entry under the Forest Homestead Act. The land thus listed was examined by a Forest Officer and found to be more valuable for agriculture than for Forest purposes.

The person whose application within the Lincoln National Forest was favorably acted upon during the month of September is: Charles O Ferris, Capitan, New Mexico. In addition to this, 1357 acres were listed to applicants within other National Forests in Arizona.

Benj F Adams of Corona was a court visitor Monday.

T. E. Kelley and Dr. R. T. Lucas took a trip to Tison Mountain last Wednesday evening returning Friday with two big deer, as evidence of their skill as Nimrods.

Mrs. A. J. Perret and daughter, Thelma, left for Carrizozo Wednesday where they will remain. Mr. Perret has the R. R. section at that place—Alamogordo News.

S. C. Bender mining man of Nogal, was a Carrizozo visitor Friday he is an enthusiastic believer in the future of the Nogal Mining District and predicts a general renewal of activity there in the near future.

Among those in attendance at District Court this week are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mathews of Oscura, Dean W. Bloodgood of State College, T. J. Guilfoif of Santa Fe, and also about twenty people from Las Cruces, who were summoned as witnesses in the Ascarate case.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS MEET

Tax Levies Lower for Ensuing Year. Donation Made to San Diego Exposition of $500

ELECTION PROCLAMATION ISSUED

The Board of County Commissioners began their regular October meeting on Monday Oct. 5th, with all members present and transacted much business of importance to the tax payers of the county.

A donation of $500 was made to the New Mexico exhibit at the San Diego Exposition. The new furniture for the court room (which by the way, is some furniture) was paid for, twenty gallons of bug killer was purchased for John Cole, or rather for his use in the jail as sheriff, and many bills were approved and paid.

A committee of viewers was appointed, consisting of A. F. Roselle, D. L. Byron and D. B. Tennis to view a mile of new road to be opened along a section line about five miles south of Carrizozo, from the E. P. & S. W. railroad through to the Three Rivers-Carrizozo road.

An election proclamation was issued covering the election of a Representative in Congress, a Corporation Commissioner, and a Member of the State Legislature, and election boards were appointed throughout the county, and polling places selected.

The tax levy for the ensuing year was fixed, and the total of State and County levies for the year amounts to 4.00 as against 4.41 for last year, a total reduction of about 10 per cent for the State and County levies, with the school levies in each district substantially the same as last year.

The commissioners are to be congratulated on the fine financial condition of the county, which enables them to make so substantial a reduction in the tax levy for next year.

The Grand Jury is reported to be investigating the case of the mysterious death of a Mesclero Indian woman near Capitan last week.

T. J. Evans, one of the lessees of the Yellow Jacket Mine was painfully injured Wednesday by a premature explosion causing severe injuries to his right hand.

Mr and Mrs. R. C. Sawder of Picocho, were county seat visitors Wednesday and Thursday. Mr. Sawder is running the old Miller ranch across the river from Picocho and one of the finest ranches in New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crosby of Alamogordo were in attendance at the Field Day sports Friday and Saturday remaining over until Monday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Garven.

Among those from outside the county, present at Court this week: Hon. E. L. Medler Presiding Judge of the Third Judicial District, Attorneys, H. B. Holt, M. O. Llewellyn and W. H. H. Llewellyn of Las Cruces, J. F. Bonham of El Paso, W. C. Pritchard and Lorin C. Collins of Santa Fe, Lee R. York of Capitan, Ed. Mechem of Alamogordo, C. L. Kennedy and John Y. Hewitt of White Oaks, W. W. Gatewood of Roswell.

CHAPTER I.

Hope and Disappointment.

Lieutenant Thomas Holton, commander of the Scorpion, made as though to place the dispatch in his pocket, then, taking pity upon his "second," who was all eyes, he turned the paper over to his junior lieutenant, known throughout the flotilla as "Bobby" Frost.

"You will leave Newport News at ten o'clock tonight with the destroyer Scorpion and proceed south to the parent ship of the First Torpedo Boat Flotilla off Key West, prepared for action."

This order was warmly welcomed by Holton and by his second in command of the grim, lead-colored Scorpion.

"It looks like business, doesn't it?" observed Frost, with tentative inflection in his voice.

"It does, sure," chuckled Holton. "I'm glad we had those baffle-plates fixed in the boiler. I suppose we might as well have the war-heads fixed on the torpedoes, too. The orders say 'prepare for action.' Attend to it, will you, Frost?"

"Aye, aye, sir," and Frost hurried along the grimy, oily deck to the after companionway.

The somewhat informal nature of the dialogue between the two will be forgiven by the fastidious when it is pointed out that for a month the Scorpion had been laying at Newport News on detached duty of a confidential nature under direct orders from Washington, and that Holton's sole companion aboard ship to that time had been his young second. But the period of loneliness was evidently to end in a burst of glory and Lieutenant Holton was truly thankful.

In the preceding month the mighty battleship Maine had wallowed down into the slimy ooze of Havana Harbor, a great hole torn in her forward compartment. In her lay one of Holton's best friends, a shipmate of pleasant days following graduation at the Naval Academy. The cry, "Remember the Maine," was sounding from Maine itself to California. The entire country was on the qui vive. Osgood, the hero of many an American football gridiron, had, as a Cuban volunteer, given up his life at the side of a machine gun. Frederick Funston had served valiantly against the tyrants of Castile and Aragon, and other Americans had given evidence that the fighting spirit was by no means dormant in the heart of a nation of "pigs and tradesmen."

With the situation thus there was little cause for wonder at Lieutenant Holton's emotions of mental exaltation. Whatever the future might hold for him, at least this seemed certain: there would be action, and that is something for which your true gentleman of the service is ever on the watch.

Something of the mood of the two young officers was communicated to the crew. There were broad grins on all the men's faces as they hurried about the performance of the various tasks, and many of them did not forbear to turn inquiring faces toward their officers whenever occasion offered which expressions, naturally their officers "failed" to see.

At sunset everything was in readiness, and with a sigh of relief Holton stretched himself on the narrow seat running along the mess-room and lovingly filled his pipe. Frost did likewise and then looked over at his superior.

"By George!" he cried. "Think of having the opportunity of putting into practice all the things we've learned!"

"It won't be bad fun at all," replied Holton.

Frost was about to utter another thought when the doorway was darkened by the figure of a messenger.

"A telegram for Lieutenant Holton," he said, saluting.

Holton took it hastily and ran over the contents. His face clouded and he read it again. A good strong word was trembling on his lips, and he was about to crumple the dispatch in his hand when his eye fell on the messenger standing at attention.

"Oh, thank you," he said; "there is no answer."

As the messenger departed Holton handed the telegram to his second without a word.

"You will proceed at once to Washington and report to me at the earliest possible moment. Lieutenant Frost will assume command of Scorpion in your absence. ROOSEVELT."

As Frost read the message aloud his voice quivered with excitement. "What does that mean?" he exclaimed.

"Hanged if I know," growled Holton. "Isn't that just my luck! I've been working on this old pot trying to get her into shape and hoping and praying for a chance to make good, and then when there appears to be something doing, why I get skinned this way."

Frost knew exactly how the commander felt, and his natural exaltation at being placed in command of the destroyer was quite swallowed up in his sympathy for a man who was his good friend as well as his superior officer.

Holton sat for a while blowing blue clouds of smoke to the ceiling, outwardly calm, but inwardly seething. He went over every act in the past month or so, but could think of nothing he had done that would warrant his recall in disgrace.

"Well, Bobby," he said at length, "you're a real live captain now. And I congratulate you."

"I feel like a man who is going to put on a pair of boots that are too big for him," remarked Frost.

"Oh, nonsense!" smiled Holton. "You're in every way qualified. I'll vouch for you, Bobby."

Frost smiled.

"Thanks," he said; "I'd rather have that from you than from almost anyone I know."

"Well," laughed Holton, "take it then; it's sincere. He arose and called to the steward."

"Oh, you, Koko," he said, "come in here and help me pack. I'm going to leave you for a while."

Dinner that evening was rather a mournful affair, neither Holton nor Frost trying to make light of the mysterious situation.

He shook hands with Frost at eight o'clock, and with Koko carrying his bag, started for the station. He had delayed rather longer than he should have done in writing supplementary letters to his parents, and now he found it was necessary to make haste if he was to catch the train for Washington. Eventually, indeed, he and Koko had to run, and as he reached the station the cars were pulling out.

The Jap threw the bag into the open doors of the rear one and Holton made the steps with a flying leap. As he did so a man who had been following the two essayed a similar flight, but his feet missed the steps and he clung to the glided rail with his left hand.

As Holton reached down to assist him the man lost his grip and went plunging head over heels into the gravel. Evidently his fall did not injure him, for as Holton peered back along the rails he saw the fellow rise slowly and shake his fist at the departing train.

If he had known the circumstances under which he was to meet this stranger at a time not far distant, his feeling of relief when he saw that the man was not seriously injured might have been tinged by emotions of various sorts.

Having put up at the Metropolitan club, Holton passed such time as had to elapse before the assistant secretary would be at his desk in the Navy Department building in a fever of impatience.

Having at length finished his cigar and his morning paper—which bristled with bellicose matter—Holton put on his hat and overcoat and sauntered slowly toward the Capitol. At ten o'clock he went over to the Navy Department and sent his card in to the assistant secretary.

Presently his summons came while yet another man was engaged in the inner office. This man, however, brushed off past Holton as the young officer, with mingled emotion, walked into the presence of Secretary Long's assistant.

"Good morning, Mr. Holton." Certainly no evil augury was to be detected in the hearty cadence of the greeting. "Sit down, sir. I'm glad you were so prompt. That's what we need in these days."

"Thank you, sir," said Holton dubiously.

The assistant secretary observed him keenly for a moment, and then apparently satisfied with his scrutiny, he arose and paced up and down the length of his office.

"By George, Mr. Holton!" he said, "when you realize that war is coming—coming as sure as guns, and then consider our unpreparedness for it—it makes you glad it's Spain and not someone else."

"I think the navy's pretty fit, sir," ventured Holton.

"Ah, the navy!—And the army!" The words came out like bullets. "The navy is all right, and the army, too, what there is of it. The fighting men of both arms of the service are the best this world ever saw; getting things started, that is 'the trouble. Well, thank Heaven, Dewey's—" the assistant secretary stopped short, and craning his neck forward, characteristically thrust his square jaw close to the officer's face. We've all got to do the best we can and be sure that when the blow comes it will come from, and not toward us."

Holton nodded slightly.

"I liked your action in diving overboard and rescuing two of your men last summer," resumed Mr. Roosevelt. "And I may say that a study of your record has convinced me that just at present a little respite from duties aboard the Scorpion will accrue to our mutual advantage."

The assistant secretary paused, and then as Holton made no reply, he continued:

"We are not yet at war with Spain—not yet, and in the meantime I think it will be just as well for you to remain in fairly close touch with my office—personal touch. By the way, there's a ball at the Willard tonight—"

"A ball!" exclaimed Holton. Then he caught himself. "Yes, sir," he added.

"Yes, a ball at the Willard. Here is a card—you'll note it is a personal invitation to you."

Holton glanced at it.

"I see it, sir," he hesitated. "I am—merely, merely to go there and dance? I mean—mean, sir, are there any instructions?"

"I should keep my eyes and ears open if I were you."

"Yes, sir, I'll do that, and I hope I'll be able to be of some service," he was rising to go. "Although—although I'm afraid I lack—that is, and—" Holton paused and glanced irresolutely at his chief.

"That you lack definite information," said the assistant secretary, who seemed to have the faculty of reading his thoughts and expressing them before Holton himself could frame them in suitable, or, we'll say, diplomatic terms.

"Why, yes, sir—I have a feeling that the situation is indefinite."

"Yes. Sit down, Mr. Holton." Holton resumed his chair and his chief leaned forward, talking rapidly in a low tone.

"Here is the nub of the situation," he began. "In the first place we have reason, excellent reasons, for suspecting that there are certain elements among the Cubans, both in the United States and in Havana, that are strongly inclined to doubt the good faith of the United States in this brewing trouble with Spain."

Holton, thrilled by the promise of revelations which these opening words conveyed, thrilled, also, by his induction into the inner affairs of the government mill, flushed and regarded the eyeglasses turned toward him, with unblinking eyes, impatient for the next word.

"Naturally," continued Mr. Roosevelt, "the Cubans are eager to avail themselves of our armed forces afloat and ashore, but after the work is all done they want us to clear out. Which, of course, we shall do, having first established some decent and stable system of government down there."

"I had not any idea our good faith was in question," observed Holton.

"It is," was the reply, "and it is taking the form of preparations for an attack upon our troops by Cuban forces after we have cleaned the Spaniards out of the island."

"What a chance!" exclaimed Holton, with patriotic fervor.

The assistant secretary smiled.

"I myself regard the project as crack-brained in its conception, but nevertheless it exists and must be met. We must learn their plans at all hazards, and I can tell you now that while we have a general idea as to the situation, it is little more than general, and details of a specific nature would be very welcome. I want you to see what you can do. Your record is that of a clear-headed man of initiative and common sense. You speak Spanish, you are equally at home in a ballroom or in roughing it. You're the man we want."

"Thank you, sir."

"I have been extremely confidential," resumed the assistant secretary, "as naturally it was necessary I should be. Any further information I receive from the Secret Service will be transmitted to you, and in turn I shall expect you to keep us in touch with matters as you develop them. Now then, at the ball tonight you are to become acquainted with the following if you can locate them."

He handed Holton several sheets of typewritten matter, headed by half-tono photographs.

"That man especially is worth watching," continued Holton's chief, pointing to the portrait of a well-appearing Cuban, apparently about fifty years old, "and this girl also."

"I understand," said Holton. "I have a good idea of what you want, I think, Mr. Secretary, and I hope I don't have to tell you that I shall leave nothing undone to carry out your wishes."

"You don't," was the smiling reply. "It is rather new ground, but it will be interesting work, and will give me a chance to see action, perhaps, before the rest of the crowd."

The assistant secretary smiled.

"Thinking of the Scorpion, eh," he laughed. "Well, I'll wager a new suit of clothes against an apple that you'll soon have so much to occupy your mind that your destroyer will be nothing but a hazy memory."

"I'll try to make it so, at all events," laughed Holton. "Good morning, sir."

"Good morning. You may report here until further orders every day at this hour."

"Yes, sir," Holton turned and left the office.

The assistant secretary wheeled around in his swivel-chair and thought deeply for a moment. Then he picked up a paper.

"By George!" he murmured, "that young chap is in for a bully time."

Meantime Holton walked cheerily to his club, and there met several brother officers who were keen for billiards. So the remainder of the day was spent at this diversion.

He had a table at the Willard for dinner, whence he intended to proceed to the dance. He dressed with great care, and at the last thrust into his hip pocket an article not usually regarded in polite society as a complement of evening attire—a short, thick, very serviceable-appearing revolver.

Explanation of Potlatch.

The word potlatch is a corruption of an Indian word common among the Pacific coast tribes, meaning festival of gifts. At a potlatch (potlatch) celebration the more personal property an Indian gives away, blankets, ornaments, etc., the higher he stands in the estimation of his neighbors, and the more he expects to receive in return at the next potlatch. The festival is also accompanied by music, dancing and feasting.

An Old Stone Weapon.
A remarkable stone weapon, extremely heavy and shaped like a "mere"—a small and effective Maori club—but fitted with a long handle, was recently found by a New Zealander in a cave in the Walkaremoana district. It was so heavy that it required two hands to lift it, and it is not therefore likely to have been a weapon carried in battle. Some of the Maoris themselves suppose it was merely used for dispatching prisoners taken in war, others that it was left in the cave by Te Kooti in his historic trek from Walkaremoana in the seventies. The probability is that it is very much older, and belonged to the Tuhoos or Urewera people, who fought in earlier days all over that district.

The Manufacture of Rosaries.
At Kandahar rosaries are extensively manufactured from soft crystallized silicate of magnesia. This is quarried from a hill about 30 miles northwest of the city, where soapstone and antimony are also obtained in considerable abundance. The stone varies in color from a light yellow to a bluish white, and is generally opaque. The most popular kind is straw colored and semi-transparent. A few specimens are of mottled greenish color, brown, or nearly black. Rosaries and charms of various sorts are made for exportation to Mecca. The waste powder from the rosary industry is used as a remedy for heartburn.

FOOD FACTS
What An M. D. Learned.

A prominent Georgia physician went through a food experience which he makes public.

"It was my own experience that first led me to advocate Grape-Nuts food and I also know, from having prescribed it to convalescents and other weak patients, that the food is a wonderful rebuilder and restorer of nerve and brain tissue, as well as muscle. It improves the digestion and sick patients gain very rapidly, just as I did in strength and weight.

"I was in such a low state that I had to give up my work entirely, and went to the mountains of this state, but two months there did not improve me; in fact, I was not quite as well as when I left home.

"My food did not sustain me and it became plain that I must change. Then I began to use Grape-Nuts food and in two weeks I could walk a mile without fatigue, and in five weeks returned to my home and practice, taking up hard work again. Since that time I have felt as well and strong as I ever did in my life.

"As a physician who seeks to help all sufferers, I consider it a duty to make these facts public." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Trial 10 days of Grape-Nuts, when regular food does not seem to sustain the body, works wonders. "There's a Reason."

MEASURE MOUNTAIN SNOWFALL.
Information Sought to Show Water Available for Irrigation.

Denver.—Forest officers on the national forests in Wyoming will cooperate with the United States Weather Bureau during the coming winter by securing an accurate record of the depth and density of snowfall in the mountains. This data is sought by the Weather Bureau, it is said, for the purpose of basing its forecasts on the probable amount of water available for irrigation throughout the state. It is also of value to the forest service in its study of the climatic conditions throughout the various national forest regions of the West.

According to local forestry officials, the general plan provided for the installation and reading of snow scales located at elevations ranging from eight to eleven thousand feet and on representative sites. In the different types of forest growth and drainage areas. Beginning the last of November these scales will be read by forest rangers at the end of each month during the season of snowfall. It is planned to place no less than twelve snow scales on each of the seven forests in the state, covering the following principal drainages: North Platte, Green, Snake, Upper Yellowstone (including the Big Horn and Shoshone rivers), and the Lower Yellowstone (all east of the Big Horn range.)

1 ton soft coal at $3.00 per ton	$3.00
Paid	$138.00

GONE UP IN SMOKE

One-half of your coal—and it did you no good. Hard luck that. But there is a way to fix it. Here's how:

That stove of yours has seen its best days. You need a new one. You know it—but you have let things drift along.

Meanwhile, you have been losing HALF of every hod of coal you have put in it.

Of course, you knew it, but you did not think of it that way. You know that half of every lump is gas. Fail to burn that gas and it is like throwing into the ditch half of every dollar you spend in coal.

Rather extravagant? Yes?

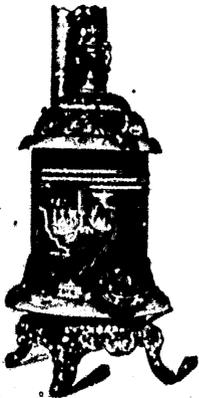

The ordinary stove made of a lot of separate castings leaks air. They leak air at the wrong place. Places you can not control.

RESULT—the best part of your coal—the 14,000 cubic feet of common illuminating gas that is in the average ton of $3.00 soft coal—goes up the flue unburned.

You have lost it. It has gone up in smoke.

Save that gas—mix it properly with air and you have the hottest kind of a blue flame. But there is only one way to do this—

Buy the only heater that is made tight—holds tight—stays tight.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

It leaks no air.

This is the heater that mixes the gas and air and gives you all the heat in the coal.

This is the heater that burns any kind of coal and makes a ton of $3.00 soft coal do the work of $8.00 hard coal in a high priced base burner.

This is the heater that is a joy and comfort to the housewife. It makes no dirt or smoke in the house.

This is the heater that saves labor—fix it in the morning and at night and FORGET IT THE REST OF THE TIME.

This is the heater that gives a steady, constant heat from soft coal or lignite.

This is the heater that will hold its fire untouched for a day and a half.

This is the heater we sell you under a guarantee that is as "good as old wheat at the mill." Burns soft coal, lignite, slack, hard coal or wood.

It is just the kind of a heater you want. Come in and see it.

See the name "Cole's" on the feed door of each stove.

Clement Hightower passed thru Capitan this week en route to the county seat in behalf of his candidacy as representative to the legislature:

Charles P. Downs, Assistant District Attorney, was over from Carrizozo last Friday taking testimony in a case in which he was by the court appointed referee.

J. W. Stuart, of Alto, was in town this week in his new car. The farmers are getting the automobile fever and it is expected to see many of them selling old roan and gray and purchasing a "Ford."

Geo. Coe, of Glencoe, passed through this week on his way to El Paso hunting an apple market. There is a bumper crop this season and if prices stay up much money will come into the county.

The Sophomore class of the County High School gave a poverty party at the school building last Friday evening. It was well attended and everyone present enjoyed themselves very much. The girls of the class prepared a meal in the domestic science room and prepared a special table for the faculty. It is believed that this is a starter of what will be an interesting contest between the freshmen and sophomore classes. The freshmen class is expected to organize at once and begin plans for pulling off a "stunt" which will make the sophomores ashamed. The high school has ordered a piano and we expect much music when it arrives.

CORONA

Mr. Jennings of Encino who is interested in sheep was in town several days last week.

Gladys and Leland Bond who have been in El Paso for the past twelve months are in Corona now.

Tom Rodgers and wife of Roswell visited relatives and friends in Corona last Monday.

John McCutcheon left for Roswell where he will attend the Military school.

Ernest Johnson has sold his sheep and left for his home in Hope.

The Western Hotel is prepared to give better satisfaction to customers this winter since a number of new flues have arrived.

Mrs. Suttan and two little daughters who have been visiting friends in the north, arrived last Thursday night and is now visiting her daughter, Mrs. Walter Jones.

APPLES WORTH MORE THAN ORANGES

(By S. M. Johnson)

"I would not exchange an acre of my orchard for the best acre of orange grove I saw in California." This statement was made to me last evening by Mr. Frank B. Coe, who has just returned from Los Angeles where he and his family spent the winter.

As I sat and listened to Mr. Coe, I heartily wished that every property owner of southeastern New Mexico could have heard what he had to say. Mr. Coe comes home more satisfied than ever, valuing his land at four times the valuation placed on it before he had compared it with land in southern California, and a booster for the Southern National Highway, and especially the section from Roswell to El Paso.

Mr. Coe says that he saw the finest oranges sell in Los Angeles for $1.35 per box of eighty pounds, shortly after he had sold his apples at $1.50 per box of fifty pounds at Capitan, New Mexico. A bearing orange-grove costs from $1,500 to $2,000 per acre, the expense connected with orange culture is much greater than that in connection with an apple orchard. Mr. Coe looked into the matter carefully and came to the conclusion that southeastern New Mexico was better than southern California.

The lure of the highway is strong. Mr. Coe is likely to head his Studebaker eastward and keep it going all the way to New York City. He has seen the road in building across Arizona, he will see nine million dollars being expended on it between Roswell and Washington with an additional six million being expended on the bridge at Memphis. He found a good road from Los Angeles and Roswell, and by next Christmas he will find a good road from Roswell to Washington and he will not find between Roswell and Fort Worth anything to equal this wonderful Pecos Valley. He says El Paso is the best city this side of Los Angeles, but leaving out El Paso, the fact stands out clear and strong that from Fort Worth to San Diego along the great Southern Highway, a distance half way across the United States, there is not another region so highly favored as the Roswell region.

Let those who are disposed to take a gloomy view of things consider the undisputable facts herein set forth. It is more than possible that were the people now living in the Pecos Valley lifted up and set down in southern California with the same handicap of lack of capital as they are here, and with oranges instead of apples to raise and market, they might not prosper as they prosper here. And if the Pecos Valley were surcharged with multi millionaires as is southern California; and if orchard culture here were backed by unlimited wealth as orange culture is backed there, the Pecos Valley would be just as fair, just as much a land to be desired, as the world famous region at our western terminus.

According to my view the successes now being made with limited means in our region are far better than the victories won by vast capital. It is the success of manhood. I would not see our region become a second southern California, let it remain as it is, the land where health, freedom and prosperity come to the man who has the enterprise to go in and win them.

 Them big Baldwin Engines has sure hit this town, they hit it so hard they jarred up the ground: You'd think from the moans, groans an' squeals you can hear, that the Kaiser an, all of his army'd been here.
 There are scores of good men who've lost their jobs, but they're not the ones that indulgin' in sobs; it's the fellow whose next in line for the "can" that's makin, a noise like an "also ran."

There's another big bunch that's raisin' a yell; they say that the town has gone plum to h-l, their knees are so weak an, their nerves like a string they've sure lost their "Nanny" and, everything.
 An, these are the men that stay indoors, in offices, shops an' various stores. Their glorious prospects are that full of holes; they couldn't look pleasant to save their souls.
 An' where is the gore they're yellin, about? Only their prospects wuz hit on the snout; an' what if they were, there's others as good that's ready for reapin' if only they would.

To the east, to the south, to the west of this town are acres an' acres of crops gold an' brown that the farmers will sell for just a fair price, if you'll only quit frownin, an, try to be nice.

With crops an, with cattle this country is blest, an, they're good for the coin when put to the test. Our farmers need money the world needs their crops, the merchants need business or close up their shops.

Now don't it look simple as A B C? The answer is plain to a man up a tree; but the man's in the branches where seem' is good, an' not in a hollow a-lookin' through wood.

Just get you some buyers to handle the grain, a warehouse, if need be, to keep off the rain; then the merchant wake up an' go after biz, then things will be comin, our way with a whiz.

New Indian Animal Stories

The Brother of the Panther

By JOHN M. OSKISON

Children, Color Up This Picture.

(Copyright, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Long time ago, when a panther cried in the woods, for all the world like the cry of a woman in pain, an old man would wake up from his light sleep and mutter:

"So, you are calling to your brother! Well, you may go on calling, for your brother is sound asleep."

And the old man would draw his blanket over his head to shut out the sound of the panther's crying. Next morning, while everybody was eating, the old man would say that he had heard the panther in the night calling for his brother; and then one of the little boys would ask for the story of how the panther got—and lost—a brother.

Once, as the old man told the story, a hunter was in the woods in the middle of the afternoon, and he met a panther coming toward him. At once the hunter put an arrow against his bowstring and got ready to shoot, but then he was surprised to hear the panther speak to him.

"Where are you going?" asked the panther. The hunter said that he was looking for a deer.

"Well, so am I," said the panther. "We are going to hold a dance, and seven of us panthers are out hunting for the finest buck deer in the woods. Come along with me and we will hunt together."

So the hunter went along with the panther until the panther had killed the finest buck the hunter had ever seen and slung it over his shoulder.

"Now," said the panther, "we will go to the dance ground." And the two went along the stream until they came to the place where the stream began; and there they found a door opening into the side of the hill.

"We will go inside," said the panther. As they went through the door in the side of the hill, the hunter looked ahead and saw the finest town house he had ever gazed upon, and the finest dancing place he had ever put his foot upon. Everywhere the trees were green and the air was soft as if it were summer, though the hunter had been tramping through the snow when he met the panther.

There was a great company of dancers there, but they were all panthers; and when the other six hunters who had been sent out to kill deer by the panthers had come back, the dance began.

After he had watched the dance for some time, the hunter said that he would like to join in. So the panther who had led him into the underground place came up to the hunter and passed his tongue across the hunter's cheeks and said:

"You are now my brother, and you may join the dance."

It was the best dance the hunter had ever had; and after he had made a few rounds he wanted to go back to his people and bring some of his friends to the place. So, when none of the panthers was looking, he slipped away to the entrance. And when he was once outside in the snow, he hurried as fast as he could to the settlement. As he came to his home he met a party of hunters going out to look for him. He had been away for a great many days, though he thought it was only a few hours.

He told the people about the house of the panthers, and started out to lead some of them to the place. But the snow had covered up his tracks and he could not find the door in the side of the hill.

And in seven days the hunter who had been made brother to the panther died, because he could not longer live with men. The day after the hunter died the panther came to look for him, and when he found out that the hunter was dead the panther began to cry. Ever since the panther has gone about in the night seeking his brother.

Tips for Cyclists.

To insure comfortable riding see that the point of your saddle is slightly tilted up.

Never start on a journey without first examining your machine carefully, paying special attention to the action of the brakes.

Should you cut your tire, always detach it, and place a piece of canvas over the hole (inside). This will prevent future punctures.

Should your repair outfit lack sandpaper, the inner tube, when punctured, can be successfully cleaned with the damp head of an ordinary match.

POLLINATION OF CORN

CONTAMINATION OF SILKS BY FOREIGN POLLEN AVOIDED.

Tassel is Covered While Still Immature and Before Anthers Have Protruded, With Ten-Pound Manila Paper Sack.

(By H. F. ROBERTS.)

In the breeding of corn, some difficulties are encountered in the technique of pollination, in respect to the prevention of contamination of the silks by foreign pollen, carried on the hands or instruments of the operator, as he goes from plant to plant engaged in the work of artificial pollination. To obviate these difficulties the following method has been devised by the writer and has been used with success. The simplicity of the method and its complete effectiveness seem to justify a description.

The tassel is covered while still immature, and before the anthers have protruded, with a ten-pound manilla paper sack, such as is commonly used in grocery stores. The mouth of this sack is securely gathered around the stalk beneath the tassel and pinned with a rather stout long pin. Ordinary pins are too small. The ear is likewise covered with a similar sack, which is drawn tightly over the top of the ear, folded around the stalk on the opposite side and the folds pinned. The sacking of the ear must be done before the silks have begun in the least to protrude from the husks. Otherwise pollination of the protruding silks from vagrant pollen is almost certain to occur.

When the silks have grown to a length of five or six inches within the sack, the ear is usually in the best condition for pollination, since by that time most of the silks have grown out. The first silks to appear are those from the basal kernels, and so on progressively outward, the tip silks being the last to develop. In natural wind pollination of corn, the pollen is blowing about the field for a period of a week or ten days, during which time the drifting pollen falls on the successive silks as they appear. In artificial pollination, if but a single application of the pollen is made, naturally only those silks will be pollinated which happen to be developed and receptive at the time. The consequence is a "nubbin" ear. For this reason, the same ear is usually gone over by the pollinator two or three times, in order to secure the successful pollination of the greatest possible number of silks.

In the method devised by the writer, it is believed that a greater number of silks can be reached in one pollination, and that the danger of contamination from foreign pollen is practically eliminated. The pollen is applied to the silks by means of a common insect powder "gun" or spring blower.

Fruit in Fancy Packages.

The idea of packing tree fruits in what are called "fancy packages" is not an old one, and there is no reason to suppose that we have reached perfection in this operation. Western fruit growers have set the pace in this system of packing, and all of their plans and methods are being copied by growers in all parts of the country.

Examine the Ewes.

Every ewe should be examined twice each day to ascertain whether the lambs take all the milk, or whether they use only one side of the udder. If there is a surplus it should be removed in order to keep the udder from caking. It will be wise to examine the udder of each ewe for at least three days.

Advantage to Growers.

Many vegetable and fruit growers find it an advantage to put their name and address on every package.

Remove All Suckers.

Remove all suckers from fruit and ornamental trees. They are unsightly and use plant food.

TRAPPING MOTHS AT NIGHT

Effective Means Provided by Ordinary Lantern, Shallow Tub and Very Little Kerosene.

(By W. E. HINDS.)

Many destructive worm moths are readily attracted to lights and may be trapped in large numbers, thus preventing many worms, but of course this cannot be considered as a substitute for poisoning. It will be helpful to test the emergence of the moths in this way and thus to know just when to begin applications of poison.

A lantern or light trap may be easily and cheaply made as follows: Arrange in some way by using a box, barrel or stake with a board on top, to raise the trap a foot or two above the plants you are trying to protect. Place on this a shallow pan or tub containing an inch of water with just enough kerosene oil to form a film over its surface to kill insects that may fall into it. In the middle of the pan set an ordinary lighted lantern. Let this burn brightly through the night, to attract the moths. No one knows how far this will attract them. Doubtless much depends upon the brightness of the light or the darkness of the night. This is a very simple and effective method of exterminating the moths of many injurious insects. Flying against the lantern, the moths simply drop into the oil and water and their career of uselessness is over.

ALFALFA AS A FORAGE CROP

Most Valuable of Deep-Rooted Legumes and Is Long Lived Under the Best of Conditions.

Alfalfa is an exceptionally deep-rooted legume, and under the best conditions it is long lived. Like other legumes, it has the capacity, under the right conditions, of assimilating nitrogen from the atmosphere, but until the root system and the nodules which it bears are well developed its growth is greatly promoted by the presence of readily assimilable nitrogen in the soil. It is without doubt one of the most valuable forage plants known to man. It has long been cultivated in various parts of Asia and Europe, whence it was brought to Mexico by the Spaniards, who took it with them to California and the semi-arid portions of our southwest-ern states. During the last fifteen or twenty years its culture has been steadily pushed eastward, and it is now successfully grown in most parts of the United States and in a few parts of Canada. In many essentials and in feeding value alfalfa resembles the clovers; and as these are so generally known its characteristics will be perhaps best brought out by comparison.

Source of Contamination.

Milk pails are sometimes made with double bottoms so as to prevent rusting. The inside bottom is made of zinc. This after a time may get a hole in it and then it becomes a veritable hotbed for propagation of germs. When the warm milk comes into the pail the air under the false bottom expands, as will be noticed by the bubbles rising in the milk. When the milk cools the air under the false bottom contracts and draws milk between the bottoms, where it can never be washed out. Here it putrefies and is a constant source of contamination.

Artificial Brooding Troubles.

There are many causes of death in artificial brooding, among which are overheating, chilling, overcrowding, cannibalism, leg weakness and white diarrhoea. After allowing for all causes, 80 per cent raised to maturity by artificial means is a very good percentage. Sometimes one can raise 90 per cent or more, but more often, especially in large flocks, the percentage is under 80 per cent. Don't be discouraged if you succeed in raising only 50 per cent of all chicks hatched. You can make it pay with 50 per cent mortality.

Pruning Red Raspberries.

Red raspberries should be pruned about the middle of the summer, and in the early spring. The summer pruning should be given when the young shoots have grown about eighteen inches or two feet. This simply consists of pinching off the top of the young shoots so as to cause them to send out side shoots.

Cause Discontent.

Bad roads cause discontent on the farm, good roads peace and prosperity.

Too Dangerous to Overlook

Kidney trouble is too often overlooked and too often neglected. But the kidneys give early signs of distress that should not be mistaken. Backache, headaches, dizzy spells, rheumatic pains, too frequent, scanty or painful urination are all signs of kidney weakness and should not be mistaken.

When these warnings appear, use Doan's Kidney Pills, the reliable, successful, strongly recommended kidney remedy. Help the medicine by drinking water freely, hold to good habits and a serious attack of kidney disease may be avoided. Public testimony is the best proof of merit.

A Colorado Case.
Mrs. Alvira Day, 227 E. Second St., Montrose, Colo., says: "I suffered from pains in my back and there was a swelling over my kidneys which was more noticeable in the morning when I first got up. My hands swelled, too. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills strengthened and toned up my kidneys, proving effective in every way. I haven't needed any kidney medicine for the past year."

The WORLD'S MOST TRAVELED MAN

BY KARL LEHMANN, FIELD SECRETARY OF THE UNITED SOCIETY OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

WILLISTON CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, PORTLAND, ME.

REV. FRANCIS E. CLARK, D.D., LL.D.

of Dr. Francis E. Clark, the world's most traveled man.

Associated with Doctor Clark in the direction of the work of Christian Endeavor in North America is a very efficient group of executive officers. The vice-president is Dr. Howard B. Grose, missionary editor of the Northern Baptist churches. Doctor Grose has been on the board of trustees of the United Society of Christian Endeavor for twenty-five years. He designed the emblem of the society, a Christian Endeavor monogram. The general secretary is William Shaw, LL. D., a Massachusetts Endeavorer, who has served as an officer of the united society for more than twenty-five years. The treasurer, Hiram N. Lathrop, is a prominent Boston business man, who as an unpaid officer gives a vast amount of time to the work of Christian Endeavor. Amos R. Wells, Litt. D., LL. D., came from Ohio; there is no more efficient, eloquent or prolific pen in the world than his. Doctor Wells is the editorial secretary of the movement. A. J. Shurtle, the publication manager, was field secretary of the Pennsylvania Christian Endeavor union. Under his efficient management the publication department has done more for the cause than ever before; he earns the money that supports Christian Endeavor on this continent. Rev. R. P. Anderson, superintendent of the Builders' union, is a Scotchman, who organized the first Christian Endeavor societies in Denmark and Norway; he is also associate editor of the Christian Endeavor World. Daniel A. Polling is the newest officer of the united society; he was field secretary of the Ohio Christian Endeavor union, and is now president's associate and citizenship superintendent. He is leading the campaign for "a saloonless nation by 1929." Karl Lehmann, formerly field secretary of the Colorado and New Mexico Christian Endeavor unions, is the field secretary of the united society.

The official organ of the society is the Christian Endeavor World, published at Boston. Dr. Francis E. Clark is the editor-in-chief. Amos R. Wells is managing editor. Arthur W. Kelly and Rev. R. P. Anderson are the associate editors.

Reconstructing Delinquents.

Duluth is one American city that has learned to treat petty offenders with some degree of humanity and with the view to helping them by punishment rather than to make them worse. A work farm has been established, and there men who have been arrested for drunkenness and the numerous offenses to which reckless and unfortunate men are prone, are sent there to work in the fields or in a sawmill, and under the eyes of humane guards. There is every indication that the treatment is being appreciated and that the prisoners are being helped. It is to be hoped that the same plan may be successfully worked out for this city. On a larger scale, Cleveland is doing it with conspicuously good effect, and of still greater magnitude will be the new Ohio penitentiary, in Madison county, which is one of the great reforms of the present state administration.—Dayton News.

Slums at Sea.

Many will be surprised to read of slums at sea, and yet, as the London Times says, the statistics of mortality in the British mercantile marine give a very clear indication of the unsanitary conditions prevailing in many slums at sea.

The death rate per 1,000 from disease during the last 20 years has been consistently higher than that in the navy and army, and among the male civil population between the ages of twenty-three and forty-five years. Even during the South African war, with the exception of one year from July 1, 1899, to June 30, 1900, the death rate in the mercantile marine exceeded that in the army. The most significant figures are those which show that during the last ten years the death rate in the mercantile marine per 1,000 has been considerably higher than that from all causes in the navy, and very much the same as that from all causes in the army.

BILLY'S COMPLAINT.

"Men are queer animals."
"I know it; but what prompted you to make the remark?"
"You know Buttles, don't you?"
"Billy Buttles? Sure."
"He was complaining this morning—complaining bitterly."
"What's his trouble?"
"He paid $500 several years ago for 200 shares of mining stock which has turned out to be utterly worthless."
"Well, that's enough to make almost anybody complain."
"But it wasn't the worthlessness of the stock that he complained about. It seems that he had been renting a safety deposit box in which to keep the stock and the fact that it had cost him the price of two tons of coal made him bitterly declare that he was sorry he had ever made the investment."

The Morning Program.

"Miss Vanessa, have you got your hair and complexion fixed for the day?"
"Yes, sir."
"Got your chewing gum going nicely?"
"Yes."
"Read the morning installment on the daily love story in the paper?"
"Yes."
"Then take this letter, please."

Modes of Expression.

"Oratory isn't what it used to be," said the veteran statesman.
"Well," replied Senator Sorghum, "our modern life tends to discourage oratory. If a man finds he has material for a good oration, the probabilities are that he can do better with it by turning it into a lecture or a magazine article."

HER GAME.

Maisie—She always plays safe in the game of love.
Daisy—What do you mean?
Maisie—She never turns a fellow down until she gets the engagement ring.

Good Ones, Too.

"Don't you want to put in a talking machine for the amusement of your customers?" asked the agent.
"What would I do with another one? Haven't I got four talking machines here already?" replied the barber, with a gesture in the direction of his assistants.

A Space Killer.

"Did you read my new book?" asked the Literary Cuss.
"I did," replied the Grouch.
"What do you think of it?" asked the Literary Cuss?
"The covers are too far apart," replied the Grouch.—(Cincinnati Enquirer).

A Paradox.

"Are you still talking about your income tax?"
"Yes," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "I can't get my mind off it. It's sure to cause dissatisfaction. I'm resentful because I have to pay so much and yet I'm sorry my assessment isn't larger."

Exactly.

"Why are you so opposed to our daughter's marrying such a promising young man?"
"Because a promising young man is not always a paying investment."

Popular Appeal.

"The Declaration of Independence is a noble document."
"Yes, but a lot of people have failed to memorize it. Don't you think it would have been more effective if it had been set to music or illustrated with comic pictures?"

High Pitched.

Willie—Paw, what is the higher criticism?
Paw—That's what a woman gives her husband when he gets home late, my son.

A FEW.

Mr. Henpeck—Oh! well, anyway, some men are smarter than women.
Mrs. Henpeck—And who are they, pray?
Mr. Henpeck—Bachelors.

One Good Point.

"My motor car set fire to the garage and then went out and struck a man," said Mr. Chuggins.
"Arson and assault!" exclaimed the lawyer.
"Yes. It seems to have all the vices. About the only thing I can think of in its favor is that it doesn't use profanity."

Heroic Treatment.

"Doctor," said the druggist, "this is a bitter mess you have ordered for Mr. Wombat."
"I know it is."
"What are you trying to cure?"
"Trying to cure him of calling me out in the middle of the night when there's nothing the matter with him."

Unreasonable Demands.

"How much is radium worth an ounce?" asked the man with an arithmetical mind.
"That," replied the practical person, "is an idle question. After you get through imagining an ounce of radium, you haven't imagination enough left to imagine the price."

The Important Consideration.

"Are you fond of horses or dogs?"
"What difference does that make?" exclaimed the timid man. "When I get into the company of a horse or a dog my entire interest is centered on the question of whether he is going to take a fancy or an aversion to me."

Not Difficult.

"I suppose preparing the first meal for John was quite a problem," said a friend to Mrs. Youngwife.
"No," answered Mrs. Youngwife, "it was quite simple. I sent him down the street to a delicatessen store after it and all I had to do was to unwrap it."

Impressions.

"What poet said 'Things are not what they seem?'"
"Are you sure it was a poet?" responded the man who was reading statistics. "Mightn't it have been an expert accountant?"

Tame Stuff.

"I admire the way that soda water clerk mixes drinks."
"But think how much more pride he would take in his work if he were mixing something that had a punch in it."

ANCIENT ART.

"Dorothy—That quaint Miss Past looks like an old portrait, doesn't she?"
Marion—Not exactly. She reminds me more of a mural painting.
Dorothy—How's that?
Marion—She's a perpetual wall flower.

DOUTBLESSE no other man in the world has traveled so many miles and done so large a work for the world as Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., LL. D., founder of the Christian Endeavor society and president of the World's Christian Endeavor union.

Doctor Clark was born at Aylmer, Que., Canada, September 12, 1851. Thirty-three years ago Doctor Clark was pastor of the Williston Congregational church of Portland, Me. He was then a young man just fresh from college and seminary. Williston church was a typical New England church, with all of the problems and difficulties that those churches had to meet. In the winter of 1880-1881 a series of special evangelistic services in the church had led a great many young people into church membership. This wise young pastor realized that if those young people were to be held for the church they must be trained for service, they must have something to do, and they must be shown how to do it. He called his young people together, and on February 2, 1881, the first Christian Endeavor society was formed, the first Christian Endeavor pledge was signed, and the following Sunday the first Christian Endeavor prayer meeting was held.

From that small beginning in Portland the society has spread and grown, until today there are more than 80,000 Christian Endeavor societies in the world, with more than 4,000,000 members.

There are Christian Endeavor societies in every country of the world, and each week meetings are conducted in more than eighty different languages; the literature of the society has been printed in as many tongues. Something like 1,500 dailies, weekly and monthly periodicals carry Christian Endeavor news; more than 200 periodicals are devoted entirely to the work of Christian Endeavor. There are more than 750 different kinds of books, leaflets, cards, etc., published for use in the work of the society and as aids to it. Millions of pages of special printed matter are issued every year.

From almost the very beginning of the movement Christian Endeavor has been interdenominational in its scope and work. Though it began in a Congregational church, today there are 87 different denominations that take Christian Endeavor as their young people's society. Throughout the world there are probably more Methodist Christian Endeavor societies than those of any other denomination, though in North America many of the Methodist churches have a purely denominational young people's society. On this continent there are more societies in Presbyterian churches than in those of any other denomination; the Christian church has the second largest number of societies, the Congregational third, the Baptist fourth. In England, Burma and India the Baptists lead in Christian Endeavor, while in Australia, Spain, France and other countries the Methodists lead; in Norway, Denmark, Germany and Russia the Lutherans lead; in Italy the Waldensians, etc.

No agency has done more to bring the Christian people of all denominations closer together than has this great society. The present tendency toward a unity of Christian people and churches is due, in a large part, to Christian Endeavor, with its more than 12,000 union meetings every year, ranging from local and county Christian Endeavor union gatherings of one hundred or less to the state, international and world's conventions, with thousands and tens of thousands of delegates present. Some of the county conventions in this country are large;

Los Angeles county, Cal., seldom has fewer than 1,000 at its county convention; Middlesex county, Mass., had 2,406 at its convention this year. The twenty-seventh international and fifth world's convention is to be held in Chicago July 7-12, 1915.

Because this work is world-wide in its character the time came when it was necessary that some one man should give all of his time to the work, traveling from state to state, province to province and country to country. There were no funds available for this work from which to employ a worker; but twenty-nine years ago Francis E. Clark gave up the pastorate of the Phillips Congregational church, Boston, where he had gone from Portland, and through all these years he has given himself to this work, without one penny of salary from the Christian Endeavor movement. Doctor Clark has earned his own living by the use of his pen, the books he has written, and the special articles for magazines and newspapers. Not only has Doctor Clark earned his own salary thus, but he has paid practically all of his own salary, steamship and hotel bills, as he has traveled in foreign countries for Christian Endeavor. Doctor Clark has gone five times around the world, and many times to Europe and Great Britain. There is no country in which he has not traveled and spoken for Christian Endeavor. It is estimated that he has traveled at least 825,000 miles—325,000 miles of this by water, 435,000 miles by rail, and fully 25,000 by wagon, horseback, camel, in jinrikishas, in man-carried hammocks, etc. He has addressed at least 2,000,000 people; he has been in the midst of danger by land and by sea, in religious riots, in earthquakes, tornadoes, cyclones, blizzards, shipwreck, train wreck and a score of similar catastrophes.

Doctor Clark has been received by presidents of the United States, of Panama, Peru, Argentina, Brazil, the kings of Norway, Sweden, Greece, the mikado of Japan and scores of other celebrities. There is no American citizen who has been more greatly honored, and there is no more modest citizen anywhere.

Christian Endeavorers have decided that they wish to build a memorial for Doctor Clark in appreciation of the many years of service for the cause, and they don't want to wait until he is dead to do it. They want to bring roses to him—while he is alive. The matter was fully considered, and it seemed to all that the wisest and most substantial thing to do was to erect a building which should be the international Christian Endeavor headquarters. The plan calls for a five-story building, two stories of which shall be used for the offices of the movement, and thus save the $5,000 a year that is now paid in rents for that purpose, and three stories of the building to be rented to provide an income for the extension of the movement in this and other lands. This, with the profits of the publishing department, which has paid all of the expenses of the work in North America for more than twenty-five years, will be sufficient to permanently finance this world-wide work of this movement.

This headquarters building is to cost, when complete, including lot and furnishings, $300,000. One-half of this amount has been raised, and it is the purpose of the society to raise the last $150,000 by November of this year. A continent-wide campaign is being organized, and will be waged this fall. Every former Endeavorer, as well as present member of the society, will be urged to have some part in this matter, which will mean so much to the world-wide work of this great society, and will be a fitting testimonial of their appreciation of the great work

A CARD OF THANKS FROM THE PARSONAGE

The last week of another conference year is here. We have spent a year as a citizen of your town, as your neighbor, and as the pastor of the Methodist Church in your midst. We have met you in public meetings, in your homes, and in the church. We have tried to enter into every interest of your commonwealth and endeavored to make known that we were a friend to every worthy element of your town. Then what we have not agreed to, or thought was for the abiding good of the town and church we have frankly but kindly denounced. Our view point may not be yours, for our standpoint is always that safety and security is in moral and religious living. It is our conviction that permanency in prosperity and happiness is established alone in the character of the people. It has been our desire to meet and greet every one, both in and out of the church cordially, and have desired to make such greetings genuine. There may have been some whom we have not understood but it has been our effort to cultivate the friendship of our people. We have been the recipients of many favors. Two or three have invited us to share the hospitality of their homes, others have driven by in their cars, others have favored us with vehicles, others have called in our home, some formal and a few informal, the editors have opened their columns to us, granting space unostentatiously. To all of these we extend our hearty appreciations and hope for them many friends and many happy days in this life, and invoke the favor of Him who sent us upon them. Many have contributed to our support. Some who attend church regularly, those who rarely attend, and some who have not attended at all. We take this way of extending to them also our thanks and pray that our Father and theirs may bless their homes, granting security from the inroads of sin and that having this share invested in bringing about His kingdom they may be careful to invest themselves so as to win a place when His kingdom is established in the world to come.

We leave in a few days for the session of the Annual conference which meets in Pecos City, Texas, Oct 14th. We never know where we will be sent, may be changed to another charge or we may be sent back. In case we are sent back we will serve you as best we can. We have tried to walk circumspectly and leave a clean record for right living in your town. As to our success in this all important line you may judge for yourself. If we return by God's grace we hope to live so no one can gain say. Mrs. Hendrix joins heartily in sending thanks.
