RECEPTION IS TENDER- ED 'ALAMO' VISITORS

Merry High School Crowd of Alamogordo Well Entertained During Their Visit to Carrizozo

HOSPITALITY OF CARRIZOZO PEOPLE APPRECIATED

A party of Alamogordo visitors, sixteen in number, arrived in Carrizozo on Number Four Friday evening and remained in our city through Saturday night. Besides a basket ball team, substitutes, coach and chaperon, six other girls from the Otero County High School were in the merry party. An informal reception was tendered the visitors in the school auditorium Friday evening. A brief musical program was rendered after which light refreshments of fruit punch and assorted home made cake were served. Ten o'clock was parting hour as both teams wanted a good night's rest in lieu of the basket ball game to be called at three o'clock next afternoon. The game was rather one-sided, but the score of 32 to 3 does not mean that Alamogordo played a bad game, nor that they had a weak or poorly disciplined team; but Carrizozo is playing an especially good game these days and the result was inevitable. Saturday evening at six the Athletic Association was host to the visitors at a specially-prepared dinner at the Railroad Hotel. Covers were laid for thirty and a general good time was indulged in until time to repair to the picture show. The Athletic Association was also responsible for the latter arrangement. After the show, a pleasant time was enjoyed with Mr. Dingwall as host, and dancing was indulged in until ten o'clock, at which time the teams and adherents dispersed. A goodly number were at the station next morning to bid farewell to the cherished guests. Mr and Mrs. Mudge most generously welcomed the visiting students to the privileges of the clubhouse and its many delightful features were heartily appreciated. The visitors brought loads of gorgeous chrysanthemums from their beautiful little city. These floral offerings met with such genuine appreciation locally that the visitors expressed themselves most graciously by sending special-delivery boxes to the various homes of the city, as soon as they could gather them after their return home. This contents comprised not only the beautiful chrysanthemums but many elegant American Beauty roses. In each box was inclosed the names of the entire sixteen of the recent visitors. This occasion will tend to a most cordial relation between the sister cities and their respective high schools. We welcome these delightful people to our midst whenever opportunity makes it possible.

Los Cruces High School wants a girls' basketball game with our team Friday, Dec. 4th, according to a telephone call from the athletic director of that institution, which was received Monday night. The only obstacle is the expense attendant to bringing a team, coach and substitutes from such a distance but it is to be hoped that this team will schedule other games en route and make the expense lighter for each team. Our girls are playing good ball and can win this game or at least, make a creditable showing. Now is an opportune time to bring a fast team to town and see a good game. Not only that, but to establish relations with a more distant school than we have ever before attempted. Boost for this game and help us put it through successfully. Most of the neighboring schools have been playing football, so far this term, and it has been a hard matter to schedule boys' basket ball games; but after Thanksgiving various teams will begin practice and we hope to have some good contests on the local field. Boys, your time is coming.

A program appropriate for Thanksgiving will be offered to the public by pupils of the seventh and eighth grades in the auditorium Friday afternoon of this week. It will be largely musical and consistent practice is now going on. The last program of this kind was most successful and a goodly sum has been placed in the bank to the credit of the bell-erection fund. Come out and enjoy yourselves—you'll get the worth of your dime alright.

School will be suspended all next week to allow the teachers to attend the New Mexico Educational Association's big annual convention in Albuquerque. This is always a source of much encouragement and inspiration to the teachers of state and school boards are always glad to allow teachers their time to attend this annual affair and expense money when finances permit it. The local school will be well represented in the display of school work which will be arranged by specially-appointed committees in the public library building, in the Duke City. School will reopen the Monday after Thanksgiving and continue uninterrupted till Christmas Eve.

Hunting Party from Lincoln Returns with Plenty of Game After a Few Days Hunt in Capitan Mountains

CAPITAN TEACHERS GO TO ALBUQUERQUE

Henry Lutz motored to Roswell Friday and returned Sunday.

J. J. Aragon of El Paso was in Lincoln for a few days, looking after his many busy interests here.

Miss Lupa Norman, who is attending school at Capitan, is spending the week end with her parents here.

The Lincoln school is progressing very nicely with Miss Cook as principal and Miss Brazel in charge of the primary department.

Miss Brazel and Miss Cook accompanied by Mrs. Cook were visitors at the Hulbert ranch Sunday.

The Hunting party consisting of A. L. and Sam Hulbert, Harry Goff and Dick Lindly, who were camping in the Capitan's last week, returned Saturday. They succeeded in killing three deer and one turkey.

Some of our public spirited citizens have been doing some volunteer road work in Lincoln Canyon. The road up this canyon has been impassable for several months and although it is a public road and a great convenience to many people our road commissioners do not seem disposed to spend any of the public road fund there.

CAPITAN

Will Titsworth took a flying trip to the Sunset ranch last Wednesday in the little 'Ford'.

P. G. Peters spent three or four days the first of the week in the Alto country on business.

Born to Mr and Mrs. Will Titsworth last Sunday morning a baby girl. Both parents and baby are doing nicely.

We understand that John Copeland is soon to move back into the country. We are exceedingly glad of this as John is a good citizen.

Mr. and Mrs. Haley, the later of who has been employed in the Welch & Titsworth store for the past several months, left for Mexico last Tuesday.

Prof. Chas. L. Schreck, C. H. Thomason, Miss Fern Willison, Miss Clara Hewitt, and Miss Edith Wells, which constitute the corps of teachers at Capitan will leave Friday for the Teachers' Association at Albuquerque, N. M.

NOGAL

Mr. Geo. Rustin and family expect to move to Arizona first of next month.

Jasper corn of Hurley N. M. is stopping at grandpa Henley's in Nogal.

John W. Henley made a very important business trip to the Hub on the 17th inst.

A wedding will be celebrated this week on the Nogal Canyon. Every body is invited. We hope to have a big time, guess who.

Services Sunday morning by the Rev. Humphrey and in the afternoon by Rev. Skinner. Some of the Nogal singing class met also and had an enjoyable time.

The much needed repairs on the road from Nogal to the Helen Rae and American mines are progressing rapidly. We expect the mines to begin work very soon.

There will be a box supper and speaking at the school house Thanksgiving night also a dance and supper afterwards. The best musical talent will be here, come everybody and have one more good time.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

We are once more drawing near to the day annually designated as a distinctively American holiday. This year it is peculiarly fitting that we be thoroughly impressed with the blessings that are ours to enjoy.

The commanding position of this country was never before emphasized as it is today. While a large part of the civilized world is plunged into a destructive and devastating war, we are at peace with all the world.

Truly "Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war," which we ought fully to realize and appreciate now.

The people of the State of New Mexico have many reasons for thanksgiving and rejoicing. During the past year we have been unusually blessed with material prosperity. The production of our mines, our farms, our flocks and herds has never before been exceeded. From every source nature has yielded abundantly in response to the efforts of man, under the guidance of a controlling Providence.

Now, therefore, I, William C. McDonald, Governor of the State of New Mexico, in accordance with custom and the proclamation of the President, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 26th, 1914, Thanksgiving Day.

I urge upon all that this day be observed as one of prayer and praise to God for the many blessings enjoyed by our people. At the same time may we not forget the poor and needy, making the day what it should be for all. And I earnestly request that all places of business be closed as far as practicable, so that this shall be in fact a day of peace and quiet.

Done at the Executive Office, this the 11th Day of November, 1914. Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of New Mexico.

WILLIAM C. McDONALD.

ANTONIO LUCERO,
Secretary of State.

Mr and Mrs. Thos. O. Luster, John E. Bell and A. B. Hamilton spent Sunday at the M. B. Foreman ranch near the malpais.

NEWS OF LOCAL AND PERSONAL INTEREST

The Carrizozo Girls' Basketball Team Wins from the Alamogordo Team by the Score of 32 to 3

TWENTY FIVE "WEARY WILLIES" CLEAN-UP CITY

More changes are taking place in the line up of train and engine crews running out of this place almost daily. B. G. Haire, who was a few weeks ago assigned to the El Paso-Carrizozo local has been displaced by conductor Rogers, Haire transferring to the Carrizozo Duran District, displacing conductor I. E. Schaeffer.

Messrs. Ed Kelley and W. H. Osborn spent Saturday and Sunday in the White Mountain district in search of a Thanksgiving turkey returning Monday with nothing but the gobbler's lure which had been placed in their pack before starting out.

John H. Boyd, the well-known merchant of Oscuro, is reported to be very sick at this writing, the details are lacking, but his case is considered very serious, and grave doubts are entertained as to his recovery.

Carrizozo is a beautiful little city but just a little backward in civic pride, her streets have been somewhat neglected, her drain ditches filled with autumn leaves, large masses of tumble weeds have accumulated in her courthouse yard. Ah, such a shame boys, let's stop and clean her up, and twenty two "Weary Willies" after partaking of the County hospitality fell in line Wednesday morning last and under the leadership of Sheriff Cole and Daddy Kahler have been quite busy ever since giving our little city the shine of its life.

The Basketball game played on the local grounds last Saturday afternoon between Alamogordo and Carrizozo High School girls resulted in an overwhelming victory for the home team; score 32 to 3. It was a fast game from start to finish with but very few errors made by either side. The local team played in fine form from the first toss up, keeping the bystanders constantly on the crane and duck to keep an eye on the pig skin as it darted hither and thither with clock-work precision on its way to the goal ring. And while the visitors at no stage of the game seemed dangerous opponents, they put up such a crisp clean game that the rooters for the home team often yelled "Alamogordo" in hearty appreciation of their good work; but somehow or other "Mary just couldn't put it in." There was a large crowd out to see the game and everybody had a good time. No lover of outdoor sport can afford to miss one of these games when it is possible to attend. They are well worth many times the time and price. Every Carrizozoian may well feel proud of the home team. They are there with the goods. Seeing is believing, attend the next game and be convinced.

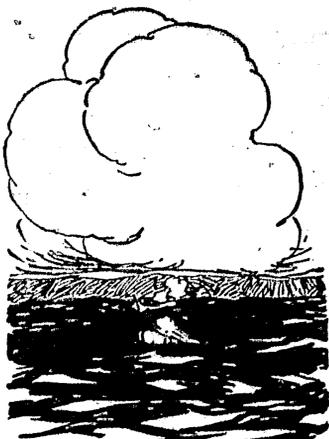

HOLTON OF THE NAVY

A STORY OF THE FREEING OF CUBA

SYNOPSIS.

Lieutenant Holton is detached from his command in the navy at the outset of the Spanish-American war and assigned to important secret service duty. While dining at a Washington hotel he detects a waiter in the act of robbing a beautiful young lady. She thanks him for his service and gives her name as Miss La Tossa, a Cuban patriot. Later he meets her at a ball. A secret service man warns Holton that the girl is a spy. Senior La Tossa hides his daughter for her failure to secure important information from Holton. She leaves for her home in Cuba. Holton is ordered to follow her. They meet on the Tampa train. Miss La Tossa tells Holton she is a Cuban spy and expresses doubt regarding the sincerity of the United States. Holton is ordered to remain at Tampa to guard the troop transports. He receives orders to send Miss La Tossa, who is considered a dangerous spy, on Cuban soil. At sea he is overtaken by another warship which takes Miss La Tossa aboard and Holton is ordered to return to Tampa. He saves the transports from destruction at the hands of dynamite and a port Admiral Sampson for further duty. Holton is sent to General Garcia's command in the guise of a newspaper correspondent to investigate Cuban plots against the American troops and to learn the plans of the Spanish navy.

"Nevertheless," persisted his inquisitor, "I ask you what you would do. Come, come." Holton recognized by his manner a personage of some authority in the Cuban cause—"it would be so easy for you to say that until Cuba is absolutely free no drop of blood in your body is your own."

"It would be easy to say that," was the sad response, "but I have shed my blood. I am old. I have struggled and suffered for my country. In the intervention of the United States I see the answer to all my struggles and to all my prayers. I am like a man who has come to the end of a long journey. I see the brightness ahead, the load is eased from the back. God's hand is now at work in this island. And as his hand moves, so will I abide. He has sent the Americans here and he will send them away in good season after their work is done. If not, then so be it."

For a moment there was silence. Then Garcia spoke again.

"You have nothing to fear. It is my thought that unless our American friends make a speedy ending of this campaign they will be routed by disease, and if they do not fly they will die, surely and certainly. And thus even if I agreed with you in your contentions, I should still advocate leaving the matter to God."

"Time will tell. And now you must sleep, general. Who was that American," he added, "who remains with you?"

"An Englishman, a newspaper writer," was the reply.

"He is not English; he is American." "Admiral Sampson vouched for him. But at any rate, suppose he is an American? He might be that and still be a writer for the English press."

General Garcia arose decisively.

"As you suggest," he said, "I must sleep. There is yet much before me." "There is much yet before us all," grumbled the officer. "Good night, general."

As Garcia turned to his tent the man walked to the fire; he leaned down, seized an ember and lighted a cigarette. The flames shone full upon his face.

With a half gasp Holton arose in his blanket, and then, as the fellow straightened up, he sank back upon the boughs. But his eyes never left the man's face.

At length, with quick motion, the Cuban turned toward Holton, who had just time to close his eyes. Thus he lay tense, listening for the sounds that would have caused him to spring to his feet—the sounds of the man's footsteps approaching him.

But the sounds did not come. As Holton at length opened his eyes he saw the man writing by the light of the fire upon a small pad lying on his knee.

"You are indeed a good waiter, my friend," muttered Holton to himself, and rising from his blanket he walked noiselessly toward the fellow he had first seen in the dining-room at the New Willard.

So deeply was the man engrossed in his writing that Holton's movement was unnoticed by him. And for this Holton thanked him sincerely before he had gone two steps.

He acted upon impulse in rising from his blanket, and without any definite intention save that of accosting the man. But now the utility of doing this in the camp, with Garcia not yet asleep, and without any well-informed plans for dealing with him appealed to him forcibly. He stopped suddenly in his tracks and then stole back to his bed of boughs.

Holton's mind was in sore quandary as to what to do. Unquestionably this man held a high place in the esteem of Garcia, who just as certainly had no idea that he was a Spanish spy.

As to the conversation, Holton believed he had the key to that; the spy was engaged in the process of poisoning the minds of Cuban leaders against the Americans, a plot which, if carried forward successfully and rapidly, might seriously affect the present campaign, and at the same time have a decided tendency to give point to certain relations already strained with several powerful foreign nations.

One thing was sure, the moves of this man must be checkmated, and sharply. Just how was the question.

Holton lay there deliberating what he ought to do for more than an hour, and still undecided when the spy settled things for him by slipping his pad in his pocket and walking toward his horse. He stood for a moment there, his head turned toward Garcia's little hut of leaves and grasses, and then mounting he rode off down the trail.

Holton now lost no time in deciding on his course. Obviously it was to the interests of his government that this man be watched, and so waiting for a minute until the bushes had closed behind the spy, he stealthily started in pursuit.

After leaving the lines, Holton quickened his steps, keeping well within the shadow of the bushes until he was within fifty feet of the rider. Presently the bottom of the mountain was reached, and the spy continued on through the mangia jungle. As he broke through into the open, Holton made a little detour and came out on the beach, crawling now, about seventy-five feet from where the man was standing, holding his horse by the bridle and gazing out over the bay, where could be made out the light of a dispatch boat.

As the officer watched him, the spy raised his hand, and a low but penetrating whistle broke the stillness of the night. A lantern waved from a craft in the bay, and in a few minutes the rattle of oars in their locks sounded.

As the boat came shoreward, Holton, now breathlessly interested, wriggled his way nearer the spy and flattened against the sand and shielded by small growths of chaparral, he awaited the arrival of the boat.

As it grated on the beach, a tall officer sprang out, and Holton had no difficulty in recognizing him as one of General Shafter's aids.

"Well, Montez," said the latter, "I thought you were never coming."

"I thought so, too," was the reply. "There was difficulty in getting out of the camp, but now I am here and I have information the general wishes."

"All right. What is it?" "Callisto Garcia is not your friend. He is one of the leaders in a plan to attack you once you have rid Santiago province of the Spaniards. I can give you proof." The spy drew from his pocket the pad upon which he had been writing and, tearing off a sheet, handed it to the officer, who read it by lighting a match and holding it in front of the paper.

"That is a copy of a letter which General Garcia wrote tonight to General Castillo and General Rabi."

"Are you sure of this?" "Absolutely." But I will say this much: The message, as I have it, is not word for word. I read it after he wrote it, for he showed it to me; after he fell asleep I wrote it from memory."

"Very well. Have you anything else to tell me? Will Garcia carry out the arrangements made with General Shafter this afternoon?"

"Oh, yes; he will. You will understand that nothing which will hinder American success against the Spaniards will be done; Garcia and the other Cuban generals are looking to the future."

"Very well; I'll report to the commander-in-chief. What are your future intentions?"

"I should like to accompany you to the Segaranga. General Shafter may have some questions, and, in any event, I shall feel safer at sea just at present."

"You see," the spy added, "my role as one of the leaders of the Cuban Junta, coupled with my supposed belief in the absolute integrity and disinterestedness of the United States as regards Cuba, sometimes lead me into danger. Garcia, who is my friend, believes in me, but Castillo, I have reason to think, is suspicious. Garcia meets Castillo tomorrow, and so—" he shrugged his shoulders and lifted his hands.

"All right," grunted the American; "jump into the boat."

Before the spy obeyed, he turned for a moment and repeated his whistle. Then, in a very mild voice, he said:

"It is time, senior, for your salad—with dressing."

Holton, knowing the words were addressed to him, was on the point of scrambling to his feet when a powerful arm was thrown across his throat, throttling him, while, at the same time, his hands and feet were seized and bound in a twinkling. A gag was then slipped into his mouth, and he lay there helplessly, regarding the four figures who stood over him.

"What is it?" he heard the officer say.

"Merely," was the reply, "an inquisitive soldier from Garcia's camp. They bother me so—you have no idea."

"Well," was the laughing reply, "you certainly seem to know how to deal with them. Now, come on, if you are coming."

"Thank you; yes."

He delivered a volley of commands in Spanish, speaking so rapidly that Holton could not understand a word. The men replied in kind, and then the officer and the spy stepped into the boat and were rowed offshore.

CHAPTER VIII.

A Grim Announcement.

The men, who proved to be three gigantic negroes and a white man, attired in the blue drill uniform of a Spanish officer, with a little cockade in his felt hat, jerked Holton to his feet, cut the lashings about his ankles and hurried him toward the trail.

Finally, as hints of dawn appeared overhead, the party arrived at a small clearing where were picketed some score of horses, with their riders, evidently a contingent of Spanish cavalry.

There was a short conference, and then the gag was taken from Holton's mouth and he was lifted upon a pony. The cavalcade took up the trail which ran alongside the mountain, below the camp of Garcia, in the direction of Santiago.

As the sun rose, a halt was called in a little valley, and preparations were made for what Holton believed would be a stay of considerable duration. It was then that for the first time a word was spoken directly to Holton.

A Powerful Arm Was Thrown Across His Throat.

An officer—not the one who had figured in his capture, but the man in charge of the detachment—confronted the American as he sat on the ground, and, releasing his hands, placed a guard over him.

"You will have opportunity for two hours' rest," he said, bowing. "Then we shall proceed at once to Santiago."

"But why have I been captured?" protested Holton. "I am a non-combatant."

He produced his credentials as correspondent of the London Standard. The officer examined them carefully. Then he placed them in his pocket.

"I am convinced you are lying," he replied simply. "Our information concerning you is exceedingly accurate. For your sake I trust the papers may be found correct. For otherwise"—he shrugged his shoulders—"you are a spy."

A chill passed over Holton. He had not thought of that before. A spy! And in war time they had a summary way of dealing with such.

After a very meager breakfast, the men threw themselves upon the ground, chatting and smoking, and Holton did likewise. He felt in its fullness the relief of having his hands free, and, in large measure, despite the guard standing over him and the men all about, he became possessed of greater confidence in his ability to meet this situation, the most dangerous that had ever confronted him.

Fearing, no doubt, the proximity of Garcia's men, the soldiers did not move until late afternoon, and then with great stealth, all talking in the ranks being rigidly silenced, Holton had had opportunity for several hours' sleep. He was thereby greatly refreshed, and, under reaction, his fears for himself were considerably lessened.

Dusk fell, and still the march continued. On through the night went the men, and without a stop until dawn, when camp was made in a clearing which had been cut where two of the mountain trails met and crossed. Here, as the heavens grew bright, fires were lighted, and a meal prepared, after which sentries were posted. Then the camp settled down for sleep.

Holton had no idea how many miles had been covered since his capture, but felt it must be a great many. Standing up he could now see far away over the hills the twinkling lights of Santiago, and these he could not help viewing with dread.

At nightfall the march was again taken up, and at dawn the force was within a few miles of the city. A squad was sent on ahead to report to General Linares, but came flying back in a few hours with messages to the effect that the soldiers were leaving for El Paso, and that the troops of the United States would shortly advance from Siboney.

There were other matters, too, in the papers brought by the messenger, and one of them seemed to concern Holton, for the officer, while reading it, glanced at him with a troubled face. At length he came up to Holton and drew him to one side.

"I am sorry to inform you," he said, "that I have orders here to hang you at once."

Holton stepped back as though he had been struck in the face.

"Hang me at once!" he cried.

"Those are my orders, signed by the commander-in-chief of this province."

"But there must be some mistake," Holton went on, "I am not a spy; but even if I were I certainly have done nothing to justify an act so unfair, inhuman and outrageous."

"I do not see how any mistake could have been made," came back the answer. "Here you see the warrant signed by Muller, the general's aide."

"Then General Linares did not sign that warrant?"

"No. It reads General Linares' orders, and is then signed by Muller."

"But surely—" Holton began.

"There is no time for argument, my brother. We are ordered to Guaismas and have no time to waste with you. I am sorry, but—" the fellow shrugged his shoulders and pointed to the order.

Holton's mind worked like lightning. The men were engaged in breaking camp and the one who had been guarding Holton had turned aside at the officer's approach, and now, with his back toward the two, was extracting a clip of bullets from his Mauser. Behind Holton was an apparently impenetrable jungle of mangia.

The muscles of his body grew tense, and then with all the skill and all the sureness of direction of the champion middleweight boxer at Annapolis, he sent his fist swiftly and silently into the officer's jaw. Without a sound the man crumpled to the ground. Holton stepped back into the thicket, was blocked a few feet from the trail, but exerting all his power, forced his way into the depths of the jungle.

During a full minute silence reigned in the camp. It was all of that period before the prostrate officer, hidden by the long grass, was discovered by Holton's guard. Then his outcry sounded through the clearing, and in another instant loud commands were being uttered, and bullets were cutting branches of mangia on all sides of the fugitive American. Then followed the crashing of bodies through the maze of underbrush.

As he worked his way along a little lane, apparently formed by nature or by the deer that used to inhabit that section, opened before him, continuing for a clear quarter of a mile. This he took with the speed of one of the former denizens of the jungle, never letting up until he had traversed its length and had broken once more into the bushes.

Department Store Manager Found No Difficulty in Placing Nice Looking but Stupid Girl.

"I am afraid," said the assistant manager of the mammoth metropolitan department store, "the young woman who has just inquired for a job isn't up to our standard."

"I thought she seemed like a very nice-looking person," said the manager. "You know it pays to have good-looking people back of the counter. Have you ever considered that point?"

"Yes, I have. I agree with you. But she struck me as being extremely stupid. She certainly was not very well educated."

"Could she read and write?"

"Barely."

"Did she have any knowledge of literature?"

"Apparently none whatever."

"The manager's face brightened up. 'She's too nice-looking a person to let go by. In that case, why don't you employ her as a saleswoman in our book department?'"

A NURSE TAKES DOCTOR'S ADVICE

And is Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Euphemis, Ohio—"Because of total ignorance of how to care for myself when verging into womanhood, and from taking cold when going to school, I suffered from a displacement, and each month I had severe pains and nausea which always meant a lay-off from work for two to four days from the time I was 16 years old.

"I went to Kansas to live with my sister and while there a doctor told me of the Pinkham remedies but I did not use them then as my faith in patent medicines was limited. After my sister died I came home to Ohio to live and that has been my home for the last 18 years.

"The Change of Life came when I was 47 years old and about this time I saw my physical condition plainly described in one of your advertisements. Then I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot tell you or any one the relief it gave me in the first three months. It put me right where I need not lay off every month and during the last 18 years I have not paid out two dollars to a doctor, and have been blessed with excellent health for a woman of my age and I can thank Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it.

"Since the Change of Life is over I have been a maternity nurse and being wholly self-supporting I cannot over estimate the value of good health. I have now earned a comfortable little home just by sewing and nursing. I have recommended the Compound to many with good results, as it is excellent to take before and after childbirth."

The public spirited citizen who refuses to give a cent toward the improvement of the town, is a human being who is a hindrance to the wheels of progress and a new break with a big road for a project in some other town.

The tax amendment carried by a vote of 18,631 to 11,384. The two year term for state officers carried 17,688 to 13,231 and for county officers 16,576 to 11,718. For congress the vote now stands Hernandez 22,513 Ferguson 18,150 Wilson 1,579 Metcalf 1,014 For corporation commissioner Williams 21,215 Hill 18,959 McTeer 1,500 Welsh .093.

Years ago an election was looked upon as a thing of luxury and a joy forever while today it is regarded as a horrid nightmare which must be endured with patience and fortitude. The effort to break down party lines and all the attempted reforms of the uplifted coupled with all kinds of sillyisms have put elections on the hog.

When Italy comes in, a that great shell game now going on in Europe there should be an early demand for our macaroni only we will have none of it to sell. The agricultural expert set up a great clamor for the planting of macaroni wheat on the dry plains as the only thing that would save the nation but the bug soon met up with a deadfall and never came through as a lasting benefit to Italy.

LINCOLN COUNTY HAS BEST SHOWING IN TAX COLLECTION

Of the delinquent taxes due in the various counties of New Mexico for the years 1912 and 1913, 89.65 per cent of the former and 80.63 per cent of the latter had been collected at the end of last month. This is shown by the traveling auditor's office for the month of October.

The total amount on the tax rolls of the twenty-six counties at the end of the month was, for the year 1912, $3,503,150.26, and the total amount collected $3,136,851.51, leaving a balance of $367,198.75 still due. For the year 1913 the total on the tax rolls was $4,370,530.65, the total collected $3,515,831.46, leaving a balance of $854,706.19.

The highest percentages of delinquent taxes collected are shown by Lincoln county, 98.32 per cent of the 1913 taxes. The lowest percentages are those of Sandoval county, 63.83 per cent of the 1912 taxes and 52.07 per cent of the 1913 taxes—Santa Fe New Mexico.

A woman in Pennsylvania does the hesitation at 101. I won't be long before she won't. Isn't she old enough to begin to hesitate?

It is the democrats who now complain that the constitution of New Mexico is too easily amended. They point out that three counties, San Miguel, Rio Arriba and Mora, casting less than one fifth of the registered vote of the state on the constitutional proposition, carried the three amendments. The republicans smile cynically, for it was they who proposed in the constitutional convention that it should take a majority of the counties to amend the constitution and were denounced by the democrats for it.

A RABBIT DRIVE PROPOSED

Lovington, N. M., Nov.—A big rabbit drive for the benefit of the starving people of Belgium has been suggested here, and is arousing much interest throughout the plains district.

It is proposed to capture thousands of rabbits and turn them over to the Red Cross Society for shipment to Belgium.

The plan of capture contemplates the establishment of half-circle barriers of fine mesh wire and the driving of the rabbits against these barriers. Men on horseback, aided by dogs, will do the driving. Rabbits are very numerous in the plains country, and thousands can be taken and shipped. Besides doing much toward the relief of the Belgians, the drive would rid the district of animals that often prove very destructive.

It is believed here that the suggestion will be taken up, and the drive organized at an early date.

The steels are made to formula. Each part is given vast over-capacity. Each must stand radical tests.

To insure against troubles and to give super strength, we spend $200 per car on extras.

The beauty, the finish and equipment are as perfect as the chassis. The one control is embodied here. You will find it in no other car.

Men who want the best will find it here—even in the smallest factors.

All this means small up-keep. It means years of perfect service.

That is what men want today. They are buying cars to keep. In the past few months we have sold more than 10,000 of these cars, and men are buying them now faster than we can build them.

This car once cost, with full equipment $220 more than now. The present price shows the greatest value you will find in any car in this class.

See the latest model. Go through it part by part. Note the unusual features, the costly construction, the exactness, the luxury of it.

Cars built by lower standards will lose their attractions when you learn what these things mean.

Equipment includes mohair top, side curtains and slip cover, clear vision ventilating windshield, speedometer, electric horn, extra rim improved tire bracket, complete tool and tire outfit, foot and robe rail, etc.

"IF YOU'LL GO, I'LL GO"

Say that to some friend when you leave him on Saturday night. Of course you will mean that you will go to church Sunday if he will go too. That's a fine way to start off. If you are undecided as to which church to attend, select the one your mother used to go to. You can't go far wrong. Any fellow's mother's religion ought to be good enough for him. So next Sunday give up the lazy hour in bed. Have your best clothes ready. Put 'em on and start out with your head up and your shoulders back. You're doing one of the best things you ever did in your life and if you keep it up you will never be sorry and you'll be surprised to see how good it feels to be in church. And above all things, if there is congregational singing, sing. Don't merely hold the book and bluff at singing. Fill up your lungs and out the music. You'll know it, all right. You may have forgotten the words but the tune, never. Why your mother used to sing it! She will be a happy woman when she knows that her boy was at church.

FORM IN LINE, PLEASE

We are doing a superior line of printing in our job department just now, and our sale bills are the talk of the county. Week before last we got out an order of bills for a rancher east of town and they were so attractive and nifty that he couldn't begin to take care of the crowds that flocked to the sale. After getting the top price for every animal, implement and article on the bill, the auctioneer simply couldn't stop. The people just clamored for more. The rancher, in the hope of driving them away, put up his mother-in-law. She brought $160 on the hoof. Then he offered his mortgage for sale. A lifelong friendship between two old neighbors was shattered as each tried to outbid the other. It was finally knocked down to the richer man who was promptly knocked down by the poorer. He sold the weeds along the roadside. He sold a gold brick that he bought in Chicago during the World's Fair. He sold the ruts in the road in front of his place and then offered to sell the secret of where he had the sale bills printed. We cannot give the results as the returns are not all in. They are bidding yet. That's the kind of sale bills we print. Give us a call.

SIC TRANSIT GLORIA TANGO

Last winter, in a period of rashness and inconceivable folly, we took a few dancing lessons. We learned the tango, the one step and the hesitation, with all the dips, drags, grape vines and lame ducks thereunto appertaining and in such ease made and provided. We thought we had Terpsichore lashed to the rudder of a Zeppelin. As we glided about the hall or ricocheted from divan to davenport, just missing the piano lamp in our mad flights through some friendly parlor, we used to feel sorry for poor Mr. and Mrs. Castle. We were the dancing demon of the day. We were. But last night we happened to drop in on some friends, whose victrola, as we entered, was tearing off "By the Sea, By the Beautiful Sea." We shall forever hate that tune, for it is inextricably intermingled with the wreck of our fondest conceit. We learned last night that we can't dance. No more than a rabbit, we can't dance. There was a young fellow in that parlor who had brought with him, from the city, a slew of new steps and motions and gestures and poses and by the time we got there he had taught the young ladies such delicatessens as the "Half and Half," "The Fox Trot," "The Silo Slip," and "The Ford Flop," or something like that. Why, we didn't even know the holds any more. Everything we did was passee or Aisne or przemysl. We were Major-general Dub. Last year if you didn't hesitate, well—you needn't come around. This year if you hesitate you are lost and no reward offered.—Ex.

FAMOUS TRAMP LOVES HOME

A baby's voice has proven stronger than the call of the Wanderlust to "A No-1," the world's most famous tramp. For more than thirty years Leon Ray Livingston was on the road as a tramp; not because he was forced to take up the life because he loved the freedom of it all.

There isn't a traveling man in the country who hasn't seen Livingston's "mark," on railroad stations and water tanks throughout the country. Even now one can follow his latest trip through Georgia and Tennessee by watching for "A-No. 1's arrow and initials."

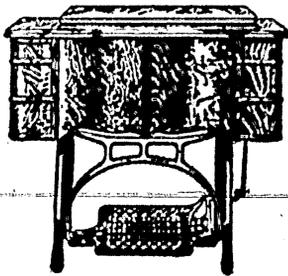

His latest tramping trip, and he says it will be his last, led him into Erie, Pa. last January. A crowd was at the station to greet him as he slid from the rods underneath a railroad car. In that crowd was a young woman. She timidly shook hands with "A-No. 1." The "tramp" was interested in her and soon learned that her name was Miss Abigail Trohoski. For the first time in thirty years "A-No. 1" was interested in something besides his carefree life on the road. That "something" was Miss Trohoski.

In a few weeks the "Miss" was changed to "Mrs." and everyone wondered just how long "A-No. 1" could resist the call of the road.

But he settled down to writing the book he had long planned. A few days ago a uniformed nurse crept noiselessly from a room in "A-No. 1's home and walked up to him. "It's a girl!" she whispered. "Thank God for that," answered "A-No. 1, I'm glad it's not a boy for he might have decided to be a tramp, too; just like his father. The road has no more attraction for me now; for with a wife and a youngster at home, what use has a man for the life of a tramp?"—Hearthstone Magazine.

WARNING

No one can legally close any well established road or put gates upon same, or in any way obstruct or change roads, without permission from the road board. NEW CATTLE SHIPPING ORDER

The New Mexico Cattle Sanitary Board has just issued the following order:

Whereas: It has been determined that foot and mouth disease exists in a great many districts in the Eastern and Central States

And, Whereas: The presence of this disease is a menace to those districts not now infected or under quarantine by possible conveyance of healthy cattle in unclean cars, the Cattle Sanitary Board of New Mexico has issued Live Stock Disinfectant Order No. 1, strictly prohibiting the shipment of cattle and other ruminants into New Mexico unless all stock cars conveying said shipments of Live Stock are thoroughly disinfested immediately prior to shipment into the State and also that release of the disinfecting of said cars, signed by duly authorized county state or Veterinarian, accompany said shipment

This order is made effective and continues in force from this date until the lifting of quarantine by Federal Government for the aforesaid mentioned disease or until such a time as all danger of contagion from these causes are manifest

This order executed this 9th day of November.

THE CHRISTMAS THOUGHT

Ideas on Christmas giving are rapidly changing among the sensible. Those who think as they give are looking for a year round service as the important thing

In a week of shopping, with all its strain, you will not find a better gift than a year's subscription to The Youth's Companion. It offers its service, its clean entertainment, its fine suggestiveness week after week: and the end of the year, which finds many a gift in the attic, dust-covered and forgotten, brings The Companion again, with all the charm of last Christmas tide

No American monthly at any price offers the same amount of reading, and none can offer better quality. Less than four cents a week proves this best of Christmas gifts—$2.00 a year. If you subscribe now, all the remaining issues of the year will be sent free, and The Companion Home Calendar. A copy of the Calendar is also sent to those who make a gift subscription. Send for sample copies, and the Forecast for 1915.

GIANTS and DWARVES of the INSECT WORLD

By HAROLD BASTIN

EURYCANTHA HORRIDA, EPON AUSTRALIA. (ABOUT NATURAL SIZE)

SOUTH AMERICAN MEGASOMA BEETLE COMPARED WITH AN ENGLISH LADY-SPOT (LADYBIRD)

MOST people believe that all insects are very small, and in a certain sense this is true, for the largest known insect appears diminutive when contrasted with the vast bulk of such a creature as a whale or an elephant. But this is hardly a fair comparison, because insects are in every way dissimilar to vertebrate animals, having developed along entirely different lines. In place of physical hugeness we find amazing delicacy of structure and adjustment; and if we liken the vertebrate to a locomotive engine, the insect must be represented by a lady's watch to complete the metaphor. In fine, multum in parvo has been the watchword of insect evolution. Nevertheless, when judged in their own sphere, insects display a remarkable range of size.

Take, for example, the beetles. The largest living representatives of the clan are the Goliaths of Africa and the Megasomas of tropical South America. A fair-sized male specimen of the latter measures four and a half inches from the tip of the horn to the extremity of the abdomen. The male of the Hercules beetle, also of South America, may be two inches or more longer, but wellnigh half its length is made up by the great hornlike process which springs from its thorax. A good idea of these beetles' huge proportions may be gained by placing one of them side by side with a common two-spot ladybird. Yet the ladybird is by no means a small beetle as beetles go.

Comparisons no less striking may be made among the moths. The largest British moth is the "Death's Head"—a truly noble insect with a wing expanse of four and a half inches. But its proportions are easily dwarfed when we contrast them with the huge Owl moth, the Noctua atrix of science—which is not uncommon in many parts of South America. It may measure ten inches or more across. Then there is the giant Atlas moth, from India, which may measure as much as a foot from tip to tip of the fore-wings. For the sake of familiarity we may place the little clothes moth of our wardrobes at the other end of the scale—though it is not by any means the smallest of its kind.

The Atlas and the Owl moths mentioned above have larger wings than any other living insects, so far as is known; but they are not the largest flying insects on record, for some of the extinct dragon flies of the carboniferous period measured two feet across the wings. The largest British dragon fly, with a wing expanse of four inches, is a pygmy, contracted size for size with one of its gigantic prehistoric ancestors.

Among the largest existing insects must be reckoned the giant water-bugs, some of which attain a length of nearly five inches. In the United States these insects are known popularly as "electric light bugs," because they have the habit at night of leaving the pools and lakes, where they get their living, and flying around arc lamps, especially when these are mounted upon high buildings. The British water scorpion is a well-known denizen of ponds and sluggish streams. It belongs to the same family as the giant bugs, besides which it may fairly be termed a dwarf.

The longest of living insects are found among the phasmids, or "walking sticks." Some attain nine inches from head to tail, while if the outstretched legs are included the measurement is much greater. Two of these strange insects are in marked contrast with a Stag beetle—the largest British beetle, by the way. Clearly these phasmids are "long drawn out" in a very literal sense of the phrase; but a few of the species are much heavier in build. This is the case with the very remarkable creature known as Eurycantha horrida from Australia. It is not only long, but bulky, and what with its hard armor plate integument and formidable array of prickles, it looks a decidedly dangerous customer. One is relieved to learn that its tastes are exclusively vegetarian.

The vast majority of the hymenoptera (the ants, bees, wasps and their relatives) are comparatively small insects, but among the solitary spider-killing wasps (Pompilidae) we find some notable exceptions. Some of these giants measure two inches or more from head to tail, and withal are exceptionally strong and vigorous insects. The largest species are found in South America, where they deal death and destruction to the spider population. Even the formidable bird-eating spider—a grim and hairy monster with fearsome fangs—is attacked and destroyed. It should be noted that these wasps do not themselves eat the spiders that they kill, but store them away in cunningly contrived nests for the benefit of their young. Our little Pompilus viticus (unfortunately it has no popular name) behaves in precisely the same way, but naturally chooses spiders proportionate to its own size. Even in this instance, however, the spider is usually several times heavier than the wasp itself. For these "dwarfs" of the insect world are by no means weaklings, but on the contrary, possess marvelous muscular force and what certainly is a well-nigh inexhaustible fund of energy.

Probably most insects are stronger, and more enduring, in proportion to their size, than any of the higher animals. They are always active, and apparently quite beyond the reach of fatigue while life lasts. But ceaseless, rapid movement imposes a serious tax upon the machinery. Consequently we find that the insect is almost always short-lived. It is said that the worker bive bee literally wears herself out, and dies, after a few weeks of toil for the benefit of the commonwealth in which she plays this brief part.

May Pick Cotton From Trees.

Experiments are now being made to cross the cotton plant of the southern states with the cotton tree of Panama. As our native cotton plant is an annual and has to be planted each year, while the producing life of the cotton tree is about ten years, the great saving is self-evident.

Replanting will only have to be done once every ten years or more and the boll of the hybrid is much larger than that of the plant. Bolls from the hybrid average 18 to the pound, while ordinary cotton bolls sometimes run as high as 80 to the pound.

PRIDE OF GALLANT NATION

Three Boer Leaders, as Famous in Statesmanship as They Were in War.

Gen. Jacobus Hendrik de la Rey, who was accidentally shot and killed by Johannesburg police, will be mourned by many a British officer now serving at the front. Knightly was a term worthily applied to Gen. de la Rey in the Boer war. A braver, gentler, more magnanimous soldier never faced an enemy. His countrymen called him the lion of the western Transvaal. Englishmen said that he was one of the three military geniuses among the heroic burghers whose defense of their country compelled England to put 400,000 men in the field. The other great soldiers who won fame in the Boer war by their brilliant tactics were Louis Botha, now premier of the Union of South Africa, and Christian Rudolf de Wet, who is minister of agriculture of the Orange River colony.

Louis Botha, the youngest of the three, born in 1862, commanded the Boers at the battles of Colenso and Spion Kop, and upon the death of Petrus Joubert ("a soldier and a gentleman and a brave and honorable opponent" in the words of Lady Smith's defender, Sir George White) succeeded to the command of the Transvaal forces. De Wet and De la Rey, the latter the older, were fighting men of the same type, and it would be hard to say which showed the greater skill in surprising and capturing British detachments and afterward eluding pursuit. De la Rey had more solid achievements to his credit, among them Klerksdorp, where Lord Methuen, sorely wounded, fell into his hands and was released so that he could obtain medical treatment.

All three of these able soldiers aided the British in the reconstruction of South Africa. De la Rey visited India in 1903 to persuade the Boer prisoners detained at Ahmednagar to take the oath of allegiance. He was returned unopposed to the first Transvaal parliament of the union. Of the Boer leaders none had a more attractive personality. It was a fine race of people that could produce such soldiers and statesmen, and never was there stronger proof of the excellence of British administration in our times than the winning of Botha, De la Rey and De Wet to the new order in South Africa. The empire has known no more loyal citizens.—New York Sun.

RYE IS A GOOD CROP

Saves Lives of Many Farm Animals in Spring Time.

If Not Pastured Too Close It Comes Out Wonderfully Fast—Seed Is Better for Swine Than for Other Stock—Plant in Fall.

P. Byrnes, an enthusiastic and successful dry farmer as well as news paper man at Pueblo, Colo., has come to the front in the defense of rye. For Dry Farming and Rural Homes Mr. Byrnes has written the following article:

"There is no more profitable crop to raise on the farm than rye.

"Rye pasture in the spring is the first green stuff that horses and cattle get and is a relish for them after feeding for several winter months on dry grass and fodders. It loosens their hides, cleans out their stomachs and tones them up for a season of improvement. Rye pasture has saved the lives of many animals in the spring time.

"Then along comes haying time. Rye hay is the dry farmer's alfalfa. If not pastured too close it comes out wonderfully fast and in this altitude it is ready to cut along about the middle of June. It should be mowed when in bloom and before the grain begins to form, for then the stems will core and remain soft and sweet and make excellent hay. If allowed to stand too long the straw becomes hard and unpalatable and stock do not like it.

"Rye hay will run a ton to the acre and at from $12 to $18 a ton it is worth while.

"When cut green and a wet spell follows it there is a chance for a second cutting, for the stubs remain green and will continue to grow right along after the main stems are removed.

"Then comes the grain. A farmer can afford to let some rye go to grain in order to provide for seed and to have the grain for the hogs. It is better for hogs than for other stock. It should be either boiled or soaked for several hours before feeding. It is too hard to feed without being soaked beforehand, and is not properly masticated nor digested. It is a mistake to say that rye grain is no good as a stock feed. It is good when properly prepared.

"Fall rye will withstand the drought better than wheat. It does not pay to plant spring rye. Plant fall rye so that it can have the benefit of getting rooted in the ground before cold weather sets in and then with the first warm days of spring it starts up a growth and makes itself before the droughty season sets in.

"Rye will yield from 10 to 18 bushels of grain to the acre. It should be drilled in from about the 1st to the 20th of September, so that it can get the benefit of the equinoctial storm. Forty pounds of seed to the acre is plenty, but 32 to 35 pounds is better if properly distributed and covered. It is one of the cereals that stools greatly and thickens after it gets rooted.

"Rye can be drilled in between the corn rows with a one-horse drill. It is heavy pulling, and besides, it is warm work in a corn field, hence horses should be changed off every quarter day.

"If dry farmers would plant more rye and less corn and wheat they would find it to be a profitable experience."

Fight the Mites.

Keep down the mites. Young poultry cannot make satisfactory growth where mites are numerous. Often mites mean actual loss of life, and always loss of vigor. Plenty of vigilance and kerosene oil will keep mites under control. Apply the oil with a spray or sprinkler generously every two weeks throughout the hot weather months. A dollar's worth of kerosene will save many times its cost.

Harvesting of Apples.

There is a very close relationship between the rapidity at which apples decay after being gathered and the way they are handled in gathering. A bruise, ever so slight, gives the spores of the different apple rots a splendid place to germinate and begin their growth. An insect injury does likewise. In the harvesting of apples, as well as other fruits, they should not be thrown into a basket or box, nor should they be hauled in the bed of a wagon unless they are put into baskets or boxes.

Don't Force Molting.

Don't force molting. Nature will provide for that when the time comes. This thing of starving poultry for a long time and then feeding them highly nutritious food that they may grow a new crop of feathers is all nonsense.

Top Grafting Next Spring.

If you expect to do any top grafting next spring, it will be well to select the scions this fall before it freezes up. Keep them packed in moist sand, sawdust, or moss, in a cool, dark place, until spring.

Talleyrand's Victory.
One hundred years ago the congress of Vienna met for formal organization. Nearly all the monarchs of Europe were assembled to take part in the deliberations, or were represented by their most eminent statesmen. The Porte alone was not represented in this great congress of the nations. It is said that the four great allied powers—England, Austria, Prussia and Russia—had made a secret agreement to exclude France from participation in any of their territorial arrangements. But in this they reckoned without Talleyrand, the great French statesman and diplomatist, who not only insisted that his country be admitted to take part in all the deliberations, but himself became the leading spirit of the whole congress.

Offhand Suggestion.

WHITE GRUBS IN 1915

Among the Most Serious Pests to Farm Crops.

Conservative Estimate of Damage to Corn, Timothy and Potatoes Placed at Over $7,000,000 in Three Infested States.

(By J. DAVIS.)

The common white grubs or grub-worms, as they are often called, have for years been recognized as among the most serious pests to farm crops, notably corn and timothy, while strawberries, potatoes and nursery plantings have all been frequently and seriously affected. Probably the most serious outbreak of white grubs occurred in 1912, following an abundance of beetles in 1911. In the worst infested districts it was not unusual to find from 40 to 60 grubs in a single hill of corn. Indeed, in a corn field in Iowa, devoted to timothy in 1911, the writer found 77 grubs in an area 2½ feet square and five inches deep. This really represented less than a single hill of corn, for the hills in this field were 3½ feet apart. From a personal survey of the infested territory made in 1912 in three states, as well as from reports of farmers and others, we have a very conservative estimate of the damage to corn, timothy and potatoes in these states aggregating not less than $7,000,000. Available records show that May beetles were numerous in 1914, hence we may be reasonably certain that in 1915 the grubs will again be destructive and exceedingly abundant, unless their numbers are materially reduced by natural enemies, by artificial means, or by adverse climatic conditions.

White grubs and May beetles are preyed upon by numerous birds, mammals and insects, all of which are useful in reducing their numbers. The most important of these enemies are the birds, especially crows and crow blackbirds. Domestic fowls may properly be classed as natural enemies of white grubs. All farm poultry are fond of these insects, and where possible should be given the run of infested fields at plowing time. Turkeys are especially valuable in this capacity. Among the mammals which feed on the grubs the skunk is most valuable, and, indeed, some farmers attribute the increase in these insects to the decrease in numbers of skunks, which are being killed off by trappers.

An infested field may be cleared of grubs by pasturing it with hogs, which are fond of the insects and will root to a depth of a foot or more in search of them.

Where it is impracticable to pasture hogs in an infested field much good can be accomplished by fall plowing. The plowing should be done late, but should not be delayed until the ground becomes chilly and frosty, for then the grubs will have gone down beyond the reach of the plow.

Since the beetles usually deposit their eggs in fields of grass, timothy and small grains, the crops planted in these fields the year following a season of beetle abundance should be those which are least susceptible to grub injury, such as buckwheat, clover, alfalfa and peas. Care should always be exercised in the selection of a crop to follow sod or old timothy ground.

FEED FOR FATTENING SWINE

Largest Daily Gains in Nebraska Experiment Were Made on Corn and Cut Alfalfa Hay.

In Nebraska last winter an experiment in feeding alfalfa as a substitute for corn in feeding pigs showed that the largest daily gains were made on three-fourths corn and one-fourth shorts, but a gain practically equivalent was made at a lower cost where either cut or ground alfalfa was substituted for shorts in the ration. The cheapest gains were made on corn and cut alfalfa.

Bran does not prove equal to either shorts or alfalfa when fed as one-quarter of the ration to pigs.

A ration three-fourths corn and one-fourth alfalfa produces greater gains than when one-half is fed.

Where alfalfa is raised on the farm, and when there is no particular need to hasten growth in pigs a ration one-half alfalfa hay and one-half corn may give cheaper gains than when a heavier corn ration is fed.

OIL MEAL IS A GOOD FEED

Product of Linseed-Oil Mills Can Be Used in Cattle Feeding With Excellent Results.

(By S. C. PLUMB.)

Oil meal can be used in cattle feeding with excellent results. It is a product of the linseed-oil mills, being the residue of ground flaxseed, from which the oil has been mostly removed.

This is at first taken from compressors in the mill in the shape of cakes about two by one feet and three-fourths of an inch or so thick.

One may buy the oil cake or get it in broken pieces, of which the mills sell several sizes, as, for example, nut or pea size, or else ground fine. Where purchased in cake or broken in small pieces adulteration is not usually possible.

When sold as meal it is sometimes adulterated with cheaper feeding stuff.

The oil cake or meal is very pleasant to taste, is exceedingly rich in protein and is highly relished by all animals on the farm. This is a very common feed and any elevator man or grain dealer should be able to supply it in large or small quantities.

Oil meal is not usually fed excepting as a part of the grain ration, and it meets with much favor with those who have used it. Unquestionably two or four pounds a day fed to steers, with corn and oats, would give good results for oil meal supplies much valuable protein, and not only that but this food puts a finish and quality to skin and hair that almost nothing else will.

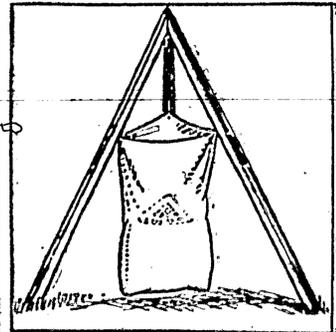

The writer has found many successful steer raisers using it on a liberal scale, and when the cost is not too great profit is sure to follow its use with good feeders. Where the cost is not much outside a cent a pound its use is to be advocated.

HANDY BAG-FILLING DEVICE

By Means of Arrangement Illustrated One Man Can Perform Work of Man and a Boy.

A handy device for filling bags can be made by following the plan given herewith:

Set up three posts as shown in picture. The apex should be about six feet from the ground. Screw into each part a stout hook at the height that will let the bag rest lightly on the ground when filled. If they are too high, the bag will tear out. By means of this arrangement, one man can do the work of one man and a boy. It can easily be moved from one place to another, as the posts can be made of 2 by 4-inch pine material, light enough for a man to carry easily.

Maintaining Regularity.

Poultry stock in the hands of professionals is expected to begin laying about the same time every year. It is expected to lay about so many eggs and about so many eggs are estimated to be fertile and so many to hatch, and about so many will live. These people seldom miss it very far. Their regularity is maintained by the constant infusion of vigorous new blood.

Make the Hens Scratch.

Hens in confinement must certainly be made to scratch. A failure to enforce this rule will prove disastrous to the health of your birds as well as the eggs.

Color of Yolks.

Feed makes the difference in the color of the yolks. Yellow corn, clover or alfalfa fed green will make them more yellow.

Must Have Big Supply.

The farmer who is feeding only corn to his steers or hogs literally must have corn to burn.

Things Being Equal.

Real Strategy.

The fat plumber and the thin carpenter were discussing the European war.

"I'd like to be in the English navy," said the plumber.

"I'd take the Belgian navy for mine," the carpenter remarked.

"That's why I'd like to be in it," grinned the carpenter. "The smaller the navy the harder it would be to hit."—Youngtown Telegram.

Cause for Doubt.

James A. Patten, the noted wheat operator, said to a reporter in New York:

"Edward Bok and other dress psychologists declare that this war is going to transfer the fountainhead of women's fashions from France to the United States. Well, on the Finland, on the way back home from the war zone, I noticed a thing or two that made me have my doubts.

"For example, I was describing to a group of women on the promenade deck one afternoon the way the Belgians had ruined a road into Liege—a road that blew up afterwards and killed 5,000 Germans. The women all seemed interested in my description and when I finished it I said:

"And now are there any questions any of you women would like to ask?"

"A pretty and well-dressed Baltimore woman said anxiously:

"Can you tell us, Mr. Patten, if Paris had got all her fall fashions out before the war came on?"

Seeking Information.

Bob Burman, record-holder in motor car racing, tells the following story:

Recently I was talking with a woman whose husband has acquired considerable wealth suddenly, and who was quite new to the social world and its customs. She was particularly anxious to appear as if accustomed to all the luxuries of life.

"Have you purchased your new car this season?" I asked.

"No, Mr. Burman, not yet," she said. "I can't make up my mind just which make of car to buy. Maybe you will help me."

"What is it that you cannot decide about them?" I asked.

"Why, I can't decide whether I should get a gasoline or a limousine car. Tell me, does limousine smell as bad as gasoline?"—Everybody's Magazine.

Natural History.

"What is natural history?" asked the teacher of a small pupil.

"I guess," said the small pupil, "that it's the kind where people are always fighting and killing each other," was the unexpected reply.

FOUND OUT.

A Trained Nurse Discovered Its Effects.

No one is in better position to know the value of food and drink than a trained nurse.

Speaking of coffee, a nurse in Pa., writes: "I used to drink strong coffee myself, and suffered greatly from headaches and indigestion.

"While on a visit to my brothers I had a good chance to try Postum, for they drank it altogether in place of coffee. After using Postum two weeks I found I was much benefited and finally my headaches disappeared and also the indigestion.

"Naturally I have since used Postum among my patients, and have noticed a marked benefit where coffee has been left off and Postum used.

"I observe a curious fact about Postum when used by mothers. It greatly helps the flow of milk in cases where coffee is inclined to dry it up, and where tea causes nervousness.

"I find trouble in getting servants to make Postum properly. But when it is prepared according to directions on package and served hot with cream, it is certainly a delicious beverage."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 20c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, made a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

THANKS FROM "ALAMO"

Alamogordo, N. M., Nov. 18, 1914
The Carrizozo Outlook,
Carrizozo, N. M.

Dear sirs: We wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. McGurdy, the teachers, Mrs. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Mudge, the basket ball girls and all who opened their homes and assisted in our entertainment; for the good time we had while in Carrizozo.—The Alamogordo Basket Ball Girls.

METHODIST CHURCH

REV. E. D. LEWIS, Pastor

Read this and think. Where do you intend to spend the Sabbath? What do you think you will do at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.?

Come to the Methodist church. We will not do you any harm and will try to do you good.

If the church is worth while it should receive the hearty support and enthusiastic encouragement of every person in town.

If it is not worth while the sooner it ceases to exist the better. Think: Would you like to live in a community with no churches, with no religious influence?

Subject of the morning: "The Burning Bush." subject of the evening: "Jesus on Trial."

Sunday school at 10 a. m. Junior League at 6:30 p. m. Senior Church at 3:00 p. m.

There will be no prayer meeting Wednesday evening, but at sunrise Thursday we want to meet in a thank and praise service. Let every body come to this sunrise prayer meeting, Thanksgiving Day.

The swellest line of Furniture ever shown in Carrizozo is now on display and awaits your inspection at Kelley & Sons.

W. J. Barker and Mr. Green, both of the Field Department of the United States Land Office, were in town Thursday investigating land matters in this vicinity.

GOT ANY PROPERTY TO TRADE? Come in and list it with us, we can handle it for you. Denny & Osborn.

Rugs! Rugs! Rugs! We have just received a large assortment of Axminster and Oriental Seamless Rugs. Call and see them.—Kelley & Sons.

Oscar W. Bamberger, manager of the Carrizozo Trading Company, will spend Thanksgiving with friends in El Paso.
