MORTGAGE TAXATION VEXING THE PEOPLE

Many Believe Law Should be Revised to Conform to Principle That One Shall Not Pay Tax on Debts

HARD TO LAY DOWN RULE WITH DOGMATIC CERTAINTY

The taxation of mortgages is worrying the people in other states as well as in New Mexico. Some of the legislatures now holding forth in other states are attempting to wrestle with the subject, but it is not receiving a great deal of attention in New Mexico at this time, other than from those who hold these evidences of indebtedness. And they are not altogether satisfied with the taxing status of these instruments now prevailing here. But, with the supreme court having construed the statute on the subject back in 1902 John R. McFie, then a justice of the supreme court, and with the attorney general of the state this year giving it as his opinion that mortgages should be taxed as all personal property, it is not likely that the holders of these securities can expect any relief from the hard hearted tax assessor. Many are of the opinion that the mortgage tax laws should be revised to conform with the principle that no man should be taxed upon his debts; and that if mortgages are taxed then the property representing the security for them should not be taxed full valuation. This is an ancient and troublesome question. The Outlook believes that the New Mexico law as it stands—and the same law exists in most other states—exact double taxation for that part of the real estate which is encumbered by mortgages, because it not only taxes the property itself but the holder of the mortgage as well. It would hardly be safe to down with dogmatic certainty any rule which has to do with this subject. About the only thing that may be said with safety is that double taxation is indefensible and unjust.

In order to make the proposition plain, let us assume a hypothetical case: Mr. Brown, a farmer, owns land and improvements worth $5000. On this land he has placed a mortgage for $2000 on which he pays interest. Mr. Smith holds this mortgage as a lien upon the Brown farm for $2000 cash advanced to Brown. Now the theory of many lawmakers is that Smith who holds the mortgage should be taxed upon $2000; yet it is plain that Smith for the time being in reality owns two-fifths of the Brown farm and therefore should merely pay two-fifths of the taxes levied against that farm. In many instances this would represent quite a substantial difference between a tax on $2000 and a tax upon two-fifths of the levy against the farm. On the other side of the proposition we find this state of things: By executing a mortgage for $2000 against his farm, Brown has relinquished just that much of his title to it until such a time as the mortgage shall be paid off. In justice to Brown, therefore he should not be required to pay all of the tax against his farm, but only three-fifths of it. But Brown has received and enjoys the benefit of $2000 which he has received from Smith, so that he is in reality just as well off financially as he was before Smith therefore is in duty bound to make some sort of an accounting to the tax assessor for this $2000. If the money is spent in improving the farm, then we find that the property instead of being worth the original $5000 is now worth $7000. If Smith, the holder of the mortgage, is called upon to pay two-fifths of this new valuation, he is paying more taxes than he should. If Brown takes the $2000 and buys himself an automobile then he himself should pay the tax upon the amount of this investment. As the case now stands, under the law Smith pays taxes on $2000 and Brown upon the full value of his farm, and thus we have $2000 taxed twice.

So, this problem of taxing mortgages is not as simple as it appears. The mortgage is merely a lien, just as a lumber bill or a wage bill would be. The lumber company does not pay a tax upon the claim for lumber, though it is just as much a lien upon the farm as the mortgage.

And there you are.

CRYSTAL THEATRE

"I could get cheaper pictures but I won't."
"I would get better pictures but I can't."

These were the remarks made to the Outlook editor this week by Geo J. Dingwall, the proprietor of the Crystal Theatre. Since this popular house of amusement opened its doors to the public some time last summer, it has been giving performances three times each week, and the pictures shown there would give credit to any town or city in the entire Southwest, or any place else, as for that matter, as Mr. Dingwall uses the best film service obtainable.

On Wednesday night of this week one of the films shown was the life of Abraham Lincoln from a rail splitter to president of the United States which was quite an interesting picture, and one of the best produced pictures ever shown in Carrizozo. The part of Mr. Lincoln was played by Mr. Francis Ford who appears in the Universal films. Mr. Ford is one of the best actors before the camera today, and is appearing quite often in the films shown at the Crystal.

Mr. Dingwall promises the public a special feature tomorrow evening. Don't fail to see it.

PLENTY OF MOISTURE

The rains and snow of the past few weeks have put a smile on the faces of our farmers and stockmen and a bumper crop year is now assured.

The abundance of moisture at this season of the year will put the ground in fine shape for spring plowing and planting, and also insures a good crop of early grass.

Get wise and make your land valuable by joining back to the farm movement. The darkest hour is just before day and that hour for this country has just passed. We believe that a new day is dawning for New Mexico and that the hardships endured by the old timer is a thing of the past.

The oldest inhabitants of this county assert that there is more moisture in the ground at this time than has been at any previous time. It should make us all smile. It means more prosperity.

WILL OF ED. R. BALL PROBATED THIS WEEK

J. M. Cravens Appointed Executor, While Ernest Mathews and W. M. Reily Will Appraise the Property

FRITZ ESTATE DISTRIBUTES $800 AMONG THE HEIRS

The regular March term of the Probate court convened at the court house in this place last Monday, but owing to the lateness of the hour, adjournment was taken to Tuesday after Judge Lucero arrived opened the court and appointed W. S. Brady interpreter.

On Tuesday morning, the court opened at the office of the county clerk, A. H. Harvey, who was present in his official capacity, as was Sheriff Chavez.

In the matter of Chris Warren incapacitated for handling his own affairs, Leopoldo Pacheco was appointed guardian and his bond of $2500 was filed and approved by the court.

The last Will and Testament of Robt Fauvet has been closed in accordance with the law and in a very satisfactory manner to all concerned. The case was heard Tuesday morning before Judge D. Lucero and was disposed of in a very short time after it was introduced in court. H. S. Haaner was the principal beneficiary and also the executor of the estate, and experienced no difficulties in winding up the affairs of this estate.

Hilario Perez was appointed the guardian of the minor children Demetria and Felix Pera.

The court considered the last will and testament of Edmund R. Ball, heretofore filed and after due consideration J. M. Cravens was appointed executor of the estate of the decedent and Ernest Mathews and W. M. Reily were appointed appraisers of the estate.

In the matter of the estate of Willie Fritz deceased, J. M. Penfield, through O. T. Nye, filed his report which was approved by the court. This report showed sufficient funds in the hands of the administrator to enable the court to enter an order distributing $800 among the heirs of the deceased.

George Spence, as guardian of George Manuel May, a minor, filed his final report, which was duly approved by the court.

The matter of the appointment of an administrator of the estate of the late John Cole is for consideration of the court at the present term, but owing to the unavoidable absence of H. B. Hamilton, who is in Las Cruces with the Dona Ana grand jury in his official capacity, Judge Lucero took a recess until such time as Mr. Hamilton can appear before the court in the interest of this estate. This will no doubt be disposed of Saturday of this week or Monday of the next week.

COUNTY ROAD BOARD TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the Lincoln County road Board on Monday, March 15, at which time general business will be transacted and bills paid. All bills being presented to the board must be sworn to before a notary public or justice of the peace, and should be mailed to H. B. Dawson, the clerk of the Board, at Carrizozo, to reach him before the meeting, as bills received after the opening of the meeting will not be considered.

J. W. Laws, Chairman.

THEY LEARNED A LESSON

A town in Illinois, about the size of Carrizozo, is advertising for a newspaper and offering a liberal cash bonus for some newspaper man to install a plant and begin the publication of a weekly newspaper.

A few years ago this town had two good papers but the merchants combined to cut down expenses and agreed to stop advertising in the newspapers. They figured that there was just so much business to be acquired and everybody in town knew where each store was located and what each handled for sale therefore advertising was a useless expense. The owners of the papers soon exhausted all means of support and could not secure enough foreign advertising to pay their bills so they closed their shops and left town.

The mail order houses of Chicago heard of the plight of the merchants and placed their catalogs in every home in that town and vicinity. The plea made by the merchants to patronize home industry went no farther than their own store and the town was dead. Now they are offering financial aid to any man who will come to their town and start a paper.

The best way to fight fire is with fire and the best way to fight these mail order houses is advertising in the local newspaper—a privilege denied these outside mercantile stores.

If you have a good newspaper in your town don't begrudge what little you spend for advertising as it will pay you in more ways than one. Don't put the ad in just to secure the editor's business, but write your message in such a way that it will be read and believed by the public. Stand by the prices you advertise and don't tell your customer the printer set it wrong after you have made a sale. Be content with a smaller profit and do a larger volume of business. Keep busy and you won't have time to knock the town and country. Your customer never believes you when you say you are selling goods for less than cost. Tell the truth, advertise, keep busy and the town will appreciate you and the citizens will buy your wares.

RETURNS FROM MARKET

O. W. Bamberger, manager of the Carrizozo Trading Co returned the last report of last week from the Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago markets, where he went some few days ago to purchase the spring and summer line of goods for his firm. The Trading Company will this season, have an exceptionally strong line of Millinery, Ladies' and Misses' Suits and Dresses and ready-to-wear of all kinds, as well as a good line of Suits for men and boys. They have added a swell line of Rugs which they have not carried heretofore, and can supply all sizes from the small doorway to the large parlor rug. Draperies will also be a new feature with this firm.

SELLING INDIANS

Ed Long, the tinner, has secured the agency for the Indian Motor Cycle Co and is now prepared to furnish the public with one of the best machines made. The motor cycle is becoming more popular day by day in this country and it will likely not be long until they are as numerous as the little runabout autos. Rev. R. L. Day, pastor of the local Baptist Church, was first to buy a machine from Mr. Long which he will use in making his appointments at different points of the county.

OUR BUSINESS MEN WANT SIDEWALKS

Favor Plan of The Outlook to Provide Needed Improvement, and all are Willing to Dig Up Coin

COME THROUGH SMILINGLY WHEN SOLICITOR FINDS YOU

When the present management took charge of The Outlook, it immediately proposed that we make an effort to get some sidewalks in Carrizozo. We were not particularly selfish in our wish for these improvements, as we were not proposing to run sidewalks around our place of business to the exclusion of other portions of the town; but we were imbued with a spirit of public welfare. We proposed that walks be built from Ziegler Brothers store to the post office and from Bell's corner to the court house. These two sections of the up-town district are traveled a great deal every day by our people—that is, every day that they can be traveled. They haven't been traveled much during the past few days except by those whose business compelled them to paddle through the mud, slipping, sliding, sometimes falling, no doubt, saying a few things softly—things that are better said softly. The conditions prevailing for the past week has brought the contention of this paper home to many of our public-spirited citizens. We all see now what a period of muddy weather means—see the great need of sidewalks.

The Outlook man talked with several of our citizens this week and they are in favor of raising sufficient funds by popular subscription to put down these two pieces of sidewalk immediately.

Realizing that without incorporation, which boon The Outlook is in favor of and which we hope to see consummated within the very near future, we must go into our pockets for these needed civic improvements. The Outlook is willing to do all that it can in every way to help the good work along. We believe what we propose now to do can be done for about one hundred dollars, and with the promises of the few business men interviewed this week, we believe that this amount will be quickly raised.

Now is a mighty good time to do the work—the necessary grading and the applying of the cinders. The soil is in good shape for it and as we want these sidewalks now—now; next winter—it is expected that the necessary funds will be pledged within a very few days and that the contract for the work will be let.

Contributions in any sum will be acceptable. All we want just now is enough money to build a good sidewalk from the court house to John E. Bell's corner and from Ziegler Brothers store to the post office. When that work is completed, and we get used to walking on a sidewalk for that distance, we will then want more. Then we will get it without a doubt. Carrizozo people have always been public-spirited and ready for anything which added to the town, and we believe they are more so now, if possible, than ever before.

When you are asked to help your share on this proposed pair of sidewalks—give as liberally as possible.

SYNOPSIS.

Joseph Hayward, an ensign in the United States army, on his way to Fort Harmar, meets Simon Girty, a renegade whose name has been connected with all manner of atrocities, and is invited to Fort Harmar with a message from the British general, Hamilton. Hayward guides him to the fort. At General Harmar's headquarters Hayward meets Rene D'Auvray, who professes to recognize him, although he has no recollection of ever having seen her before. Hayward volunteers to carry a message for Harmar to Sandusky where Hamilton is stationed. The northwest tribes are ready for war and are only held back by the refusal of the friendly Wyandots to join. The latter are demanding the return of Wa-pe-tee-tah, a religious teacher, whom they believe to be a prisoner. Hayward's mission is to assure the Wyandots that the man is not held by the soldiers. Rene asks Hayward to let her accompany him. She tells him that she is a quarter-blood Wyandot and a missionary among the Indians. She has been in search of her father, she insists that she has seen Hayward before, but in a British uniform. Hayward refuses her request and starts on his way accompanied by a scout named Brady and a private soldier. They come on the trail of a war party and to escape from the Indians take shelter in a hut on an island. Hayward finds a murdered man in the hut. It proves to be Raoul D'Auvray, a former French officer who is called by the Wyandots "white chief." Rene appears and Hayward is assisted by her Indians that they have met before. Rene recognizes the murdered man as her father, who was known among the Indians as Wa-pe-tee-tah. She tells Hayward her father was killed by the French court and had spent his life among the Indians as a missionary.

CHAPTER IX.—Continued.

"Yes, Monsieur Brady, but unknown to them, even to Girty himself. They know me—the Mimis—and I have no fear even of their young men when painted for war." She spoke simply, clearly, as if she would conceal nothing. "This was my father's cabin. No one knew of it but me—not even Simon Girty. It was reported at Fort Harmar that he was dead; I did not know, yet it was that vague report which made me so eager to get back to my own people; made me reckless enough to risk the trail in company with the white renegade, I do not fear, but I despise him. Yesterday we came upon that raiding party, and must needs join them as they journeyed our way."

"What settlements had they attacked?"

"Those of the Moravians; they had scalps and booty."

"And their chief?"

"Black Horse, an outlaw of the Ojibwas; Girty knew him."

"You left them when?"

"I hardly know, monsieur," glancing toward me, "perhaps two hours ago; I had forgotten time. They kept no guard, for there had been no pursuit, nor any sign of danger. It was easy to slip away unseen. None among them knew of this place, not even Girty, and I came alone. There was nothing for me to fear; I knew the way, and I had faith I should find my father."

"This is the truth? The whole truth?"

"Oui, monsieur," and bowed her head.

"Then you know nothing of any new arrivals at the camp? There were some expected?"

"I am sure not," her aroused interest apparent in her voice. "Did others join them? Who were they, monsieur?"

Brady looked at her searchingly, leaning on his gun, the lines of his face stern. I could not forbear stepping forward beside her.

"Never you mind speaking, Master Hayward," he said shortly. "The girl needs no defender; I believe what she says. Now listen, both of you, and see what you make of it. I was within twenty yards of their camp, at the edge of the underbrush, and could see clearly all that occurred about the fire. There was no guard set, but the prisoner lay between two Indians, so that any attempt at rescue was impossible. I could not tell just how many were in the band, for some were lying well back beyond the range of light. I saw Girty, however, get up and put wood on the flame. I had sight drawn on the devil, yet dared not fire. Then he lay down again, and crept around toward where he had disappeared. Thinking I might use a knife to rid the world of such a beast. But before I could reach him there came along the shore a considerable body of Indians. The sand made no sound, and they passed so close to where I lay one fellow stepped upon my hand. Yet they passed by, trooping into the camp, and I counted thirty."

"Of what tribe, monsieur?"

"From the Wabash. I caught words in the language of the Shawnees. They had a white man with them."

"A prisoner?"

"No; he talked with Girty in English, and then to the savages in their own tongue. I could only catch a word now and then I could understand, but he pointed toward the island, and seemed to urge them this way. I dared not stay there longer, for fear I should be too late, and so crept backward, and got away."

She stepped forward and grasped his arm.

"What was the white man like, monsieur? You saw his face?"

"No; never once did he front the fire. I heard his voice, and could see the outline of his figure. He was a big fellow, not unlike the ensign here, and he wore a red coat."

For one moment she stood motionless, one hand pressed against her temple, the other grasping his sleeve. The cheek toward me flamed red.

"You—you are sure?" she faltered.

"He—he looked like that?"

"Yes, mademoiselle," his tone that of surprise. "It was dark but I could see that."

"And this man is really an American officer?" her dark eyes flashing toward me. "He has never been in the north before?"

A grim smile curled Brady's lips, as his keen gray eyes swept over the two of us.

"I reckon maybe it was 'bout a year ago I just met the ensign, mademoiselle, up at Fort Pitt, an' off an' on ever since we've run against each other along the Ohio. I don't know what all this may be leadin' to, but so far as I can see, he ain't no cause to tell you a lie."

She hesitated, glancing from his sober face into mine; then impulsively held out her hand.

"I—I am glad, monsieur," her lips trembling. "I—I cannot tell you how glad. It is such a strange thing that you should look so much alike and bear the same name. Can the other be a relative of yours?"

I shook my head.

"Hardly; we are I suppose of English stock, but my family has been a hundred years in Maryland. But about this Englishman?"

"He was ever urging the tribes to war, lying to them, pledging them help. He came to my people—I am a Wyandot—often. He met my father there in council, the one ever advocating war, the other counseling peace. He failed in his mission to our people, yet somehow my father liked him; perhaps it was a pleasure to talk again with one who knew Europe and the late books. And the Englishman, hoping thus to finally win my father over to his side, was most cordial. He played a part that he might keep my father on long journeys to other tribes, while he remained behind to poison the minds of our own people. I overheard his words, his lying promises to our warriors. Yet in spite of all, the Wyandots remained at peace; they alone held back the tribes from war. I appealed to them, monsieur; I, a mere girl, held before them a cross, and they listened, and were afraid. They drove the Englishman from the camp, back to his master."

"And what then?"

"My father still trusted him, and he came back once more. They went away together, as I supposed on some mission to the tribes. I heard nothing, no message came back. I came to this island with two of my people, but there was no one here; the cabin was deserted. There came to me a report that they were seen together on the Wabash, and I journeyed there also. The Mimis told me a strange story of treachery and death at the hands of the Americans—I half-believed it a lie; yet I must know. My Wyandots would go no further; they were afraid, so I came by myself to the Shawnees, and then, with French boatmen, journeyed up the great river to the fort of the American commander. You know the rest, messieurs."

She was leaning back against the table, holding herself erect by her hands. Her story had been told swiftly, interjected with French phrases where English failed her.

"Yes," I burst forth, "you came here again and found him dead—murdered—and—and you believed I did it."

"And you believed I did it?"

"But he was killed."

"By no Indian hand. Please, monsieur, do not urge me any more. As it is I am balanced between two duties—to go with you, guard you, and see you safe, or remain and condemn my father's murderer."

"You believe then—"

"That he was the Englishman who bears your name. That man alone had knowledge of this hut on the island; he alone possessed opportunity. The scarlet jacket left behind, and his sudden appearance in the Indian camp, all point direct to his guilt. I remain to make sure; that is my duty, Monsieur Brady."

The scout rose to his feet, a black smudge in the night, and came up the low bank to where we stood.

"You called, mademoiselle?"

"Yes; I was talking with the officer, but perhaps you do not understand all. Captain D'Auvray was known to the Wyandots as Wa-pe-tee-tah. He is dead, and his body will be taken to Sandusky; I shall tell the Wyandots how he died. There is no longer need that monsieur should meet them in council. It is better that you return to Fort Harmar."

She paused, but neither of us spoke, and she held out her hand.

"Good-by, Monsieur Brady."

He accepted the proffered hand awkwardly, dropped it almost instantly, and stepped back.

"I reckon that would be the best way, miz," he stammered, "so maybe we better go. Are you ready, air?"

"Yes, run out the canoe; I'll be there in a minute, Mademoiselle."

She turned toward me, as he went noiselessly across the sand beach. Her hand was not extended, but I had the courage to reach out and grasp it in my own.

"Do not say good-by to me," I whispered.

words of mine will restrain them, or save you. There will be blood and war. You must not wait, messieurs; you must go!"

"And leave you here with those demons?"

She made a swift gesture.

"If—Mother of God, you do not understand. There is nothing for me to fear. They dare not touch me. They know me—I am a Wyandot. To do me evil would mean war. It is of yourselves you must think. I will remain here with my father's body; they will find me alone when they come."

She stepped past Brady to the door, opened it and glanced out into the night.

"'T is an hour yet until day," she said coming back. "That will give you time. They will be here with the first light of dawn. There will be no attack until then. You must delay no longer."

We followed her out into the night, across the narrow clearing into the fringe of woods. There were clouds overhead, and very dark, but there seemed to be a path winding through the dense tangle of underbrush. Only for a moment did the girl hesitate, bending down and listening. Then she led the way around a narrow point of sand, pressed back some bushes, and revealed the sharp prow of a canoe.

Brady flung down his pack, and hauled the light craft down to the edge of the water.

"Lay hold there, Schultz," he ordered in low voice, "till we get her afloat."

I stood alone back in the shadow, hesitating, uncertain. It was in my heart to refuse to desert her there. She turned toward me.

"You must get away at once," she said. "There is little enough time. Head straight out for the opposite shore."

"But I have no wish to go without you."

"Without me?" her voice questioning. "There is nothing for me to flee from; I have nothing to fear from Indians. Is it so hard for you to recall what I am?"

"Yes, it is, mademoiselle," I pleaded earnestly. "My thought will not associate you with these savages. Perhaps I might if I knew your people, but not such ruthless murderers as those yonder, wearing the scalps of women. Who is to protect you from that motley crew? Will it be Girty? or that English agent?"

Her eyes met mine even in the darkness.

"I shall need appeal to neither, monsieur. You do not in the least understand. I am not a mere squaw of the Wyandots, but a teacher they love. There is not a tribe from the Wabash to the upper lakes among whom my name is not known. I have even sat in council with the chiefs, and spoken. Touch me, those outlaws! Not one would dare lay a finger upon me. I am as safe among them as my father was."

"But he was killed."

"By no Indian hand. Please, monsieur, do not urge me any more. As it is I am balanced between two duties—to go with you, guard you, and see you safe, or remain and condemn my father's murderer."

"You believe then—"

"Do not say good-by to me," I whispered.

pered, feeling my voice tremble. "I go because you wish it, because it seems to be the wise thing to do; but I will not believe we are never to meet again."

"Yet that is not likely, monsieur."

"If I seek you it might be."

"It will require more than peaceful travel to do that," she replied soberly. "There is going to be war."

"War! The Indians of the north-west?"

"Yes; the time has come—is here. The council at Sandusky was for no other purpose. Girty's message was merely an excuse for the Wyandots to join the other tribes. He confessed as much to me. It was because my father realized his helplessness longer to restrain British influence, that he disappeared. It is war, monsieur."

"But not between us," I insisted, shocked at the picture. "Mademoiselle, come with me. There is nothing left to hold you to this life among savages. With your father dead, why should you continue to bury yourself in these woods? You have education, refinement, gentleness; why should you not go now, before war breaks along the border?"

"And desert my people?"

"But they are not your people; you are white, not red. That small drop of Indian blood in your veins does not make you a Wyandot. You have nothing else in common with them. Why not be yourself, choosing life among those of your own race?"

I thought she hesitated, and I grasped her hand more closely, the hot blood leaping in my veins. In the dim light I could see her lowered face, the eyes downcast.

"No, monsieur," she said at last, very low. "It is good of you to think thus of me, but—I cannot do that. You must not urge. The Wyandots need me—more now that my father is gone than ever before. They are my people; I was born to them, and played as a child in their villages. They love me, trust me, and I help them by teaching them the Christ. To desert them would be to desert him. I cannot do that, monsieur, merely to gratify myself."

"But have I no call upon you?" I insisted in desperation.

"No, monsieur," and she was looking at me now with some amazement. "T is scarce an hour since I believed you a murderer. We do not know each other. Let me trust, and believe in you; do not speak like that."

"I meant nothing wrong, mademoiselle," I broke in hastily, stung by her words of reproof. "You have come to me out of the woods like a new life. I know it is strange, all strange, but there is already something between us that can never be severed."

"Is there, monsieur?"

"Yes; race makes no difference. I thought it did once. When you said back there in the shadow of the stockade that you were a Wyandot it was as if you struck me a blow in the face. I swore then I would think of you no more, yet, even that night, you were in my dreams, and ever since your face has been in my memory."

I felt her handclasp tighten on mine, although her body remained motionless.

"You do not believe me in earnest?"

"If How can I, monsieur? I think you jest, you amuse yourself. Let us stop it all now. You go back to your people, I to mine, and we will both forget. No! Do not say more! I will not listen. Come with me to the boat."

I followed her down the bank, words burning on my lips she gave me no chance to speak, for she moved with quick decision. The two men had the canoe turned over, at the very edge of the water, and the scout was upon his knees in the sand. He looked up hastily at our approach.

"I reckon we stay here, miz," he said soberly. "Somebody has smashed a hole through the bottom with a stone."

She uttered a little cry of alarm, leaning over his shoulder.

"A hole! How could that be? Surely it was no accident!"

He arose to his feet, brushing off his knees.

"That's what I told the Dutchman, though neither of us could find the rock. I reckon the Englisher did that job; he had it all figured out, and meant to keep us here."

I saw her look up at the man's face, and then about in bewilderment.

"You think that—why?"

"Cause it seems ter me nat'ral. I reckon it's 'bout what I would 'a done if I was in his fix. He had proof against us, if he could get some in June along as witnesses. Nobody would ever believe what we said, or even wait ter listen. All he had to do was catch us yere, charge us with murder, an' turn them devils loose. That would let him out slick as a whistler."

She stood erect, one hand pressed against her temple.

"Then—then what is to be done?" she questioned blankly, "why—what—quik, look there!" She was bending forward and pointing out at the lake. Some dark, moving object was visible in the water only a few yards from shore.

"CASCARETS" ACT ON LIVER, BOWELS

No sick headache, biliousness, bad taste or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box. Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken or cause any inconvenience, and cost only 10 cents a box from your store. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipation. Adv.

Quite Obvious. Tramp—it is needless to ask the question, madam. You know what I want.

Lady—Yes, I know what you want badly, but I've only one bar of soap in the house, and the servant is using it. Come again some other time.—London Tit-Bits.

GIRLS! GIRLS! TRY IT, BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Make It Thick, Glossy, Wavy, Luxuriant and Remove Dandruff—Real Surprise for You.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Dandorine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Dandorine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Dandorine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Dandorine from any store and just try it. Adv.

Quick Work. "Rome wasn't built in a day." "That just goes to show how much more powerful than human agencies the forces of nature are."

"Explain." "What it took man centuries to build, a little old earthquake can destroy in about forty seconds."

SUFFERED FOR FOUR YEARS.

Mr. J. M. Sinclair of Olivehill, Tenn., writes: "I strained my back, which weakened my kidneys and caused an awful bad headache and inflammation of the bladder. Later I became so much worse that I consulted a doctor, who said that I had Diabetes and that my heart was affected. I suffered for four years and was in a nervous state and very much depressed. The doctor's medicine didn't help me, so I decided to try Dodds Kidney Pills, and I cannot say enough to express my relief and thankfulness, as they cured me. Diamond Dinner Pills cured me of Constipation."

Dodds Kidney Pills, 50c. per box at your dealer or Dodds Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Write for Household Hints, also music of National Anthem (English and German words) and recipes for dainty dishes. All 3 sent free. Adv.

FRUIT LAXATIVE FOR SICK CHILD

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver and bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs" that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Adv.

Pierre Rodzestvensky, the Russian consul at San Francisco, said in a recent military argument:

"These assailants of the Russian campaign are ignorant. Their arguments show a military ignorance as great as the sea, ignorance that was shown by the young tripper on his first visit to Coney Island."

"As the tripper and his girl stood on the Coney Island beach, the young woman said:

"Al, is the tide going out or coming in?"

"Comin' in, of course, you dunce," Al answered. "Can't you see which way the waves are turnin' over?"—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

QUIT MEAT IF KIDNEYS BOTH AND USE SALTS

Take a Glass of Salts Before Breakfast if Your Back is Hurting or Bladder is Irritated.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

Sick Women Made Well

Reliable evidence is abundant that women are constantly being restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The many testimonial letters that we are continually publishing in the newspapers—hundreds of them—are all genuine, true and unsolicited expressions of heartfelt gratitude for the freedom from suffering that has come to these women solely through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Money could not buy nor any kind of influence obtain such recommendations; you may depend upon it that any testimonial we publish is honest and true—if you have any doubt of this write to the women whose true names and addresses are always given, and learn for yourself.

Read this one from Mrs. Waters:

CAMDEN, N.J.—"I was sick for two years with nervous spalls, and my kidneys were affected. I had a doctor all the time and used a galvanic battery, but nothing did me any good. I was not able to go to bed, but spent my time on a couch or in a sleeping-chair, and soon became almost a skeleton. Finally my doctor went away for his health, and my husband heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got me some. In two months I got relief and now I am like a new woman and am at my usual weight. I recommend your medicine to every one and so does my husband."—Mrs. FIZZIE WATERS, 530 Mechanic Street, Camden, N.J.

From Hanover, Penn.

HANOVER, PA.—"I was a very weak woman and suffered from bearing down pains and backache. I had been married over four years and had no children. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proved an excellent remedy for it made me a well woman. After taking a few bottles my pains disappeared, and we now have one of the finest boys babies you ever saw."—Mrs. C. A. RICKBODE, R.F.D., No. 5, Hanover, Pa.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman continue to suffer without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs. It has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

BEWARE OF THE KNOCKER

"Beware of the knocker," a pessimist is the most despicable fellow running loose. Let's all agree on this one point and run him out of our growing and prosperous little city.

There are other places that are many times harder up for the ready cash than Carrizozo.

You see the straggler coming back to town every few days and he is glad to be back, too, take it from me. He will always be a booster in my opinion. The man that never boosts is the "Yap" that is narrow and has never been out of town. You brand yourself with all thinking people to make those little remarks as unthoughtedly.

"STOP MY SUBSCRIPTION"

More attention than has yet been given to it is deserved by the psychology of the people who, having seen something in a newspaper, usually an editorial article, with which they strongly disagree, immediately write and mail an angry letter announcing the firm intention to take that paper no more.

The apparent purpose of this action—assuming it to be carried out—is to punish the expression of the resented opinions by withdrawing a fraction of the paper's revenue, but underlying that aim is probably a desire, conscious or unconscious, to inspire fear of other losses of the same kind and so to coerce the paper by an appeal to its material interests into a reversal of its policy and attitude on the question at issue.

Of course, such a reversal for such a reason, says the New York Times in a recent editorial, would be dishonest as well as cowardly, but he who proclaims the stopping of his subscription doesn't think of that. And how hard to explain is it that anybody should be without the willingness, or even without the eagerness, to hear what can be said against his own views or conclusions? Either his confidence in his own judgment is weak or he prefers to hold to notions already accepted, regardless of whether they are right or wrong.

The reader who will not take a paper with all the utterances of which he cannot agree does not want a newspaper at all, or to know what can be known about the subjects he considers important or interesting—he wants a partisan organ that will keep him in a comfortable twilight. Papers of that kind were once numerous, but they are scarce nowadays, and they are fewer every year.—Pub. Auxiliary.

WANTS TO BE PUT RIGHT

Hondo, N. M., Feb. 21, 1915.
Editor Outlook,
Carrizozo, N. M.

Dear Sir:

Under the caption of "That Hondo School House" in the last issue of the Outlook, you comment on a letter written by me recently to Mr. A. White the States Supt. of Public Instruction; the closing paragraph of the article states: "He also prefers to see the compulsory school age from 8 to 18 years instead of from 7 to 14 years, and that all students over the age of 21 shall pay tuition."

The above is just the opposite of my views in the matter of tuition for persons over the age of 21 years: My recommendation would be to allow persons of any age to receive tuition free. I am opposed to any barrier to the acquirement of an education.

Referring to the proposition of acquiring title to a plot of land for school gardens and demonstration in agriculture, it is being done elsewhere with the greatest benefit, and the communities that take such action early are the ones that are going to build up and prosper far more than others which fail to take advantage of their opportunities as presented today. Land is enhancing in value every day and the vacant government lands, even areas that were considered absolutely worthless only a year ago, are now being taken and homes established upon them, by the land hungry people flocking in from the east, and the communities having good schools are the ones that will attract the desirable immigrants.

SAYS NEWSPAPER ADS BEST

Banker Declares Better Results Come Than When Magazines Are Used.

Newspapers were pronounced far superior to magazines as an advertising medium by V. O. March of E. B. Smith & Co., bankers, in an address on "Financial Advertising" at a round table luncheon of the Poor Richard club, Philadelphia, the other day.

Experiments have recently been made by New York firms. Mr. March said, in advertising with syndicated and individual newspapers in most of the big centers of the country. The carefully tabulated record of results shows that heavier and quicker response came from the newspapers than from similar advertising placed with magazines.

"Financial advertising has changed considerably in recent years," said Mr. March. "Financial houses are coming to realize that bonds and stocks are subject to the same laws of distribution and sale as potatoes. They accordingly are not satisfied with merely inserting a card in the paper calling attention to the number of years they have been in business, but specifically state why the bonds they offer are best."

Mr. March pointed out that advertisements in old city directories show that only a short time ago the "card" advertisement was not used by the grocer. He said that bankers usually balk at more blatant methods of displaying their wares on ethical grounds.

"Having determined the nature of the advertising," continued Mr. March, "where it shall be placed becomes the next problem. We have found that the newspapers are by far the best medium."

GOOD ROADS

GOOD ROADS PROVE BENEFIT

Improved Highways Increase Attendance at Rural Schools—States Making Greatest Progress.

While it is true that various factors contribute to increase or decrease the attendance at schools in given sections of the country, it is worthy of comment that in the states having a high percentage of improved roads a much larger percentage of the students enrolled regularly attend the schools than in the states having a small percentage of improved roads. In five eastern and western states, which have a large mileage of improved roads, the average attendance of enrolled pupils in 1903-4 was 80 per cent, while in four southern states and one northwestern state, which are noted for bad roads, the average attendance for the same year was 64 per cent—80 per cent in the good roads states as against 64 per cent in the bad roads states. In the states first named 85 per cent of the roads have been

A Good Road in New England.

Improved, while in the latter group of states there are only 1 1/2 per cent of the roads improved.

That improved roads would benefit our country school system there would seem to be no doubt. Improved roads make it possible to consolidate or centralize the schools and to establish graded schools in the rural districts. Such schools centrally located will accommodate all of the children within a radius of from four to five miles. In many communities having the advantage of improved roads commodious buildings have been provided, more competent teachers have been employed, and modern facilities for teaching have been supplied at a minimum cost. For instance, since the improvement of the main highways in Durham county, North Carolina, the number of school houses has been reduced from 65 to 42, of which 17 are graded and have two or more rooms and employ two or more teachers.

There are at the present time about two thousand consolidated rural schools in the United States. It appears that Massachusetts, Ohio and Indiana have made the greatest progress along these lines, and it is rather significant to note that in these states about one-third of the roads have been improved. According to statistics of the agricultural department there was expended in 1899, $22,116 in Massachusetts for the conveyance of pupils to consolidated schools, but in 1908 the expenditure for this purpose amounted to $292,212. In Indiana the expenditure for this purpose in 1904 amounted to $36,000, while in 1908, $290,000 was expended. This expenditure for transportation reflects, in a general way, the extent and progress of this new educational movement. It must not be understood that this is an additional burden, as the expenditure thus made is saved in other directions.

SUCCESS OF H. G. SELFRIDGE

The career of Harry G. Selfridge in London has been watched with a great deal of interest by American business men on account of his activities in Chicago, as well as his popularity with all classes.

Recently a report was issued by Selfridge & Co. covering their operations for the year 1912. It shows that the profits of that firm for that year were $702,000, as compared with $250,000 for the year 1911. After charging off nearly $100,000 to dividend interest and $120,000 dividend on preferred stock, Selfridge & Co. had a profit balance for the year 1912 of more than $300,000, as compared with $32,000 for the year 1911.

Closing their books for the year the firm has charged off practically $190,000 for preliminary expenses $100,000 for commission to underwriters and about $18,000 for fixtures. After disposing of interest dividend and other expenses mentioned, the company shows a net balance of $40,000.

On the basis of the figures for 1912 and having disposed of all charges relating to preliminary organization, Selfridge & Co. should have more than $500,000 for dividends in 1913.

Chicago business men regard this as a remarkable showing considering the energetic competition Mr. Selfridge encountered soon after opening his store. London papers agree that the phenomenal success of the store is due to the liberal advertising policy Mr. Selfridge has maintained since opening his store.

Advertising.

The man who has advertised unsuccessfully and says advertising doesn't pay is like the man who believes all doctors are fakes because one failed to cure him.

Modern business is war—war where quality, price and service, coupled with boldness, bigness and sureness of vision, win power and wealth.

Don't let your copy hit below the belt. Time is your referee—and he will get you if you don't play fair.

The successful fisherman is he who uses tempting bait, then casts it skillfully in the pool where the fish live. There is a great advertising moral in this—but remember, the ultimate consumer is not a fish; it is essential that the bait be more than tempting—it must also be truthful.

HONDO

There has been enough water gone to waste down the Hondo this winter to fill the 'Hondo Project' if it did not leak.

The Hondo canteen changed hands some time ago and the new bar keep has made testotlers out of two or three old "stand by's" by refusing to sell them booze, also some little boys.

An apricot tree in blossom and covered with snow was a novel sight in the Fritz orchard last week. Mr. Fritz has one apricot tree that always blooms in February, and he states that it has been known to have blooms in January.

A meeting is called at the school house at Hondo for Sunday, March 7th, to discuss the proposition of using bonds for the construction of a modern school house and the purchase of ten acres of irrigated land for school gardens and demonstration farm.

Unless the Ruidoso and lower Hondo valleys receive some recognition from the powers behind the Public Road Funds during the next five or six months, these sections are liable to get peevish, say unpleasant things about their "nighbors" across the way. A mighty good way for people to hold the friendship of their neighbors is to treat them fairly.

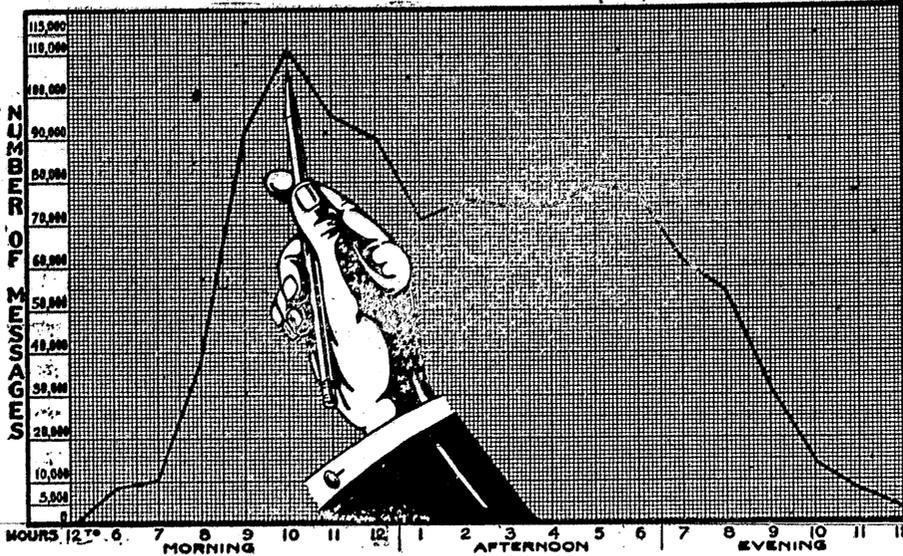

The native people as well as the home hunters from the east are getting busy in the land business, your correspondent has prepared eleven homestead applications for the purchase and lease of State lands so far this month, and has engagements to survey and locate three more before the end of the month.

The farmers in this valley are now busy with the preparation of their land for the coming season. Some have already sown wheat and oats, and others are preparing land for corn. Large tracts of alfalfa land is being broken and made ready for planting corn this season the farmers having been dissatisfied with the prices received for hay in the past are turning their attention to the production of corn and hogs.

The Reclamation Service is looking for a good place to get off, in the suit against the water users and the railroad company, and a bunch of water users are wanting to know just where they are at, and what the aforesaid Reclamation Service meant by causing them to dig up two or three thousand dollars for lawyers fees and court costs.

And now comes Capitan, through the secretary of her Commercial Club, Prof. Schreck, and makes a loud noise because Carrizozo, not able to get what she wants in the way of a County High School, by popular vote has gone to Santa Fe for a little bit of a bill for aid through that "awfully vile legislature," and Schreck's shriek is a sad and mournful wail. It's mighty nice to have a friend in the legislature, and Carrizozo is not nearly as sleepy as she looks on a windy day. But why should we worry, has not the Governor spoken?

The abandonment by the reclamation service of the Hondo Project, which appears to have been a joke on the engineer from the beginning, and the relinquishment of the surplus water of this stream system for irrigation of lands in the upper valleys, would be a move in the right direction. The Hondo Project has proved to be the one great big engineering mistake of the Reclamation Service and it has retarded the development of the mountain valleys without benefiting any one in the Pecos

Big Business

Big Business does not always hold a menace

Sometimes it is a necessity and works for the public it serves

Handling a million telephones messages every day is the biggest kind of Big Business

Our task would be easy if the million messages were evenly distributed during each twenty-four hours

But the telephone business doesn't work that way, people use the telephone when they want to and we must be ready to serve them when they want to be served

In one single hour every morning, "the busy hour," over one hundred and twelve thousand telephone messages pass over our wires

It is our task to provide switchboards, equipment, apparatus and operators to meet the needs of this "busy hour" and to handle each call as soon as it is received

A good part of this expensive equipment is not in use during the rest of the day, but it must be ready for use when needed

All of these things cost money—big money—and a portion of this big investment brings no return during many hours of the day

Combinations of capital and combinations of brains, industry and labor make Big Business

It is only because of this kind of Big Business that such investments and such service are possible

The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co.

"The Corporation Different"

Valley Roswell and vicinity would derive greater from the increased production of the upper valley than it may ever expect through the completion of the Hondo Project.

NOTICE

Carrizozo, N. M. Feb 20, 1915:
To Our Patrons:
We quote below extracts from a letter addressed to all State Banks by the Traveling Auditor and Bank Examiner of this State under date of February 16, 1915:

"To the Board of Directors of the Exchange Bank Carrizozo, New Mexico.

Gentlemen:
The granting of Overdrafts in any form or by any subterfuge will no longer be countenanced by this department. This form of accommodation is not only illegal but is diametrically opposed to sound business principles, and you are hereby advised that the permitting of Overdrafts must be discontinued.

You are requested to adopt a resolution directing that no officer or employee of your bank shall pay or charge to the account of any depositor any check or other item of such depositor, when there are not sufficient funds on deposit to the credit of such depositor to pay the same.

This department is co-operating with the Comptroller of the Currency in this movement, and for your information I beg to advise you that that official has issued similar instructions to all national banks:

Very truly yours,
HOWELL EARNEST,
Traveling Auditor and Bank Examiner
These instructions are self explanatory and leave us no discretion in the premises. Hereafter we will be compelled to return without payment all checks drawn on us against insufficient balances. We ask for your hearty co-operation in the observance of this ruling, to the end that the pernicious practice of making and permitting overdrafts may be abolished and mutual embarrassments avoided.

Sincerely yours,

COUPLE STARVE TO DEATH

Out of Work, Husband and Wife Give Up Fight—Woman Dies Days Before Man

Passaic, N. J.—With nothing to eat and after they had searched for weeks for employment, Steven Farley and his wife gave up their struggle. They were found by Policeman Vander Haven, who broke into their home. They lay in each other's arms in bed.

The woman had been dead for days. Farley died as he was being rushed to St. Mary's hospital. He was about fifty years old and his wife forty-eight. The Farleys were old residents here. Farley was born in New York City. Mrs. Farley, it is believed, also came from New York.

Farley, a mechanic, lost his position shortly after the European war showed its effect on the mills here. For several weeks he could obtain no employment whatever. The couple were too proud to beg for help, and not even their closest friends knew of their need. They had not attempted suicide. The authorities at the hospital say death in each case was caused by starvation.

Rush to Water Wagon

Gary, Ind.—Toppers who looked at a two-headed rattlesnake owned by V. B. Austin hastily boarded the "water wagon." V. B. Austin of Kalamazoo, Mich., who is visiting his brother, Merrill Austin, of the Gary post office, brought the two-headed reptile to town and the temperance cause has been gaining ever since.

The Fool, He Died

Chaudes-Aigues, France.—For a wager of one dollar, M. Falour undertook to eat 50 eggs and a pound of bread at one sitting. At the forty-fifth egg he fell dead.

CASHIER FOILS HOLDUP MAN

Locked in Vault by Robber Who Took $18,000. He Gets Out and Recovers Money.

Bingham, Utah.—A man who gave the name of Bert Heasted held up Cashier Earl Randall two other men and a boy at the Bingham State bank, took $18,000 in currency and was arrested without resistance soon afterward. His quick capture was due to the fact that the cashier carried a screwdriver in his pocket to be used, he said, in case he was held up and locked in his vault, as was the cashier in another Utah bank robbery recently.

Heasted locked the three men and the boy in the vault. Randall used his screwdriver to open the door and was able to escape in a few minutes. Policeman White overtook Heasted, arrested him without trouble and found all the money in his pockets.

Booze by Airplane

Wheeling, W. Va.—Following the court decision, making it illegal to deliver intoxicants by common carrier, a liquor company of Dillonville, O., doing a business with customers, here, will deliver wet goods by airplane, thus evading the law.

Drug Victim Crawls Sixty Feet on

Five Inch Projection of Denver Hotel

Denver, Colo.—Two companies of firemen were called out to rescue W. A. Tracy from a five-inch ledge skirting the seventh story of a downtown hotel. Tracy, who according to the police, was crazed with drugs, had climbed out of a window and crawled about sixty feet along the ledge when discovered. While firemen were attempting to rescue Tracy with ladders, a member of another department lassoed him from a nearby window and dragged him to safety.

SEES WRATH OF HUBBY; ENDS LIFE

Pittsburgh.—Fear-stricken and remorseful as a result of the nightly visits of what she believed to be the ghost of her dead husband remonstrating with her for the life she had been leading, a woman listed at the morgue as Mrs. Anna Shaw, aged thirty-three years, but whose last name is said by her sister to be Rush, took her own life at her home, by swallowing a quantity of poisonous disinfectant.

After swallowing the poison, the woman is said to have written a letter to a sister telling of her life since the death of her husband in the Dixmont Hospital for the Insane, six months ago, and warning other women not to follow in her steps.

Ghost Remonstrated With Her.
According to other residents of the house where Mrs. Shaw resided with her two children, the woman had been in constant fear for the past several weeks because, she said, the ghostly figure of her husband confronted her at every turn, both day and night, beckoning her to come, and remonstrating with her, because she was not leading a proper life.

The woman, after swallowing the poison, lived an hour, in which time she told residents of the house she was sorry for the act, and pleaded that a physician be called.

The woman's own story, according to the residents of the house, was that she was awakened early in the morning by the figure of her husband. Despondent, she said, because the figure haunted her both day and night, she went to a bathroom and drank the poison.

Mourned Life She Led.
Following is the note left by the woman:

"Dear Sister: I am sorry for what I have done. The best job I could get Haunted Her Day and Night.

paid only $4 a week, and it took that to keep John and Harry in the Sunshine Home. When Ed died I was left to care for the children, and then I couldn't keep them and myself on the salary I could earn, and I had to do something else. I have seen Ed lately, and he is calling me to him in heaven, and I am going to meet him there. Forgive me, dear sister, and don't let my boy and girl know of the awful fate of their mother. Let this be a warning to others who might want to lead the life I have led. Your loving sister,

ANNA.
The "Ed" referred to in the note is Mrs. Rush's husband, Edward Rush, a former resident of Washington, Pa., and an electrician. He died in the Dixmont hospital, according to Mrs. Marie Laughlin, a sister of the dead woman.

LIKES THE CROWN PRINCE

French Officer, Taken Prisoner, is Favorably Impressed With Kaiser's Oldest Son.

Paris.—A French officer who was badly wounded and made prisoner was taken before the crown prince of Germany. In a letter he wrote to his home, he said he was most favorably impressed by the prince. He is slender and very refined in bearing and speaks French like an educated Frenchman without the slightest accent. He wore a helmet over which was a cover and he had not the slightest badge or stripe which would betray his rank.

POULTRY HOUSE SITE

Convenience Is Main Thing to Be Considered.

Locate the Structure So That the Strong Winds Will Be at Its Back. With Windows in Front—Drainage of Importance.

The builder of a farm poultry house should carefully consider the available sites, and put it where the fowls will do best, and where it will be easiest to look after them.

Convenience is the main thing to be regarded on a farm where there is much work to be done other than tending care of the chickens. Put the house or houses close enough to the residence that it will be easy to look after the inmates.

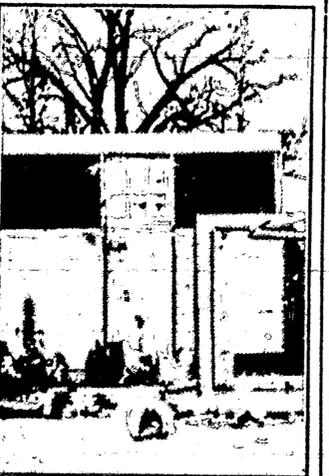

At the same time, all natural advantages of location should be considered. If there is a sheltering hill near enough to be used as a wind break, place the house so the strong winds from the west, northwest and north will be fended off by the higher ground. Set the house so the wind will be at its back, and this means, in most localities, that the doors and the greater number of windows should be on the south, the southeast or the southwest.

Where there is a windbreak of trees or even of buildings, take advantage of them if the site is suitable otherwise. These windbreaks will make a lot of difference in stormy, blustery weather. There are many cold days when the birds could very well stay outside if they were protected from high winds.

Another thing to be watched is the problem of drainage. Damp, low ground, no matter how well the hen house will be sheltered, is not suitable for a chicken shelter. There should be slope downward from the building to make certain that it will not be damp and clammy on the inside.

Thorough drainage should be assured even if it is necessary to lay a few rods of tiling. Where a sandy and naturally well drained site can be chosen, the drainage will take care of itself if nothing is done to hinder it. Never build a house in a hollow as it will be just about impossible to keep the chickens healthy in such a structure.

The building itself can be adapted to the pocketbook of the builder. Where the climate is not unreasonably cold in winter, unreasonable from the standpoint of poultry management the house may be built very cheaply. It must turn the rain, shut out drafts and be dry under foot, but it need not be heavy, built of expensive material, or very permanent in character.

In fixing on the site for the house care should be taken not to get the building or any part of it where it will be shadowed by any other building.

Raising Dairy Ration.

It is impossible for the farmer to raise the entire dairy ration on his farm, but the man who raises the largest part of it is usually the one who gets the best returns.

Less Work and More Money.

Are we learning that there is a good deal more profit with less work to be made raising 75 bushels of corn on ten acres than 35 bushels on 100 acres?

Unsatisfactory Conditions.

Sometimes unsatisfactory conditions surrounding the co-operative creamery arise from working the butter too little and the buttermaker too much.

Clover With Oats.

Clover seeded with oats sown with the drill is less likely to be killed shortly after harvest than clover seeded with oats sown broadcast.

Unsatisfactory Hog Houses.

Modern hoghouses are, as a rule, too close, too warm and too comfortable.

or by a dense clump of trees. The sunlight should strike the building all day long. In summer it should shine in at the east windows at sunrise. It should reach to the back of the building in winter when the sun is low at noon. The windows should be arranged to take every advantage of the sunlight all day long.

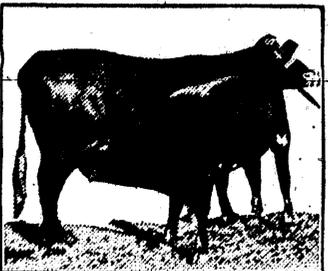

There is no germ killer like sunlight and it is far cheaper than anything that will ever be placed on the market.

HINTS ABOUT WINTER DAIRY

Feed Liberally of Best Hay Obtainable—Little Can Be Expected of an Uncomfortable Cow.

Got to have a good warm barn, in the first place. Can't expect to get the most out of a shivering, uncomfortable cow. Start right by building a warm barn.

Then have the cows come in fresh in late fall of the year. Cows that have been milked all summer long are not worth fussing with through the cold winter months. They have done their work. Their milk is now scanty in quantity and their cream hard to churn, because they have been giving milk so long. Begin with fresh cows.

Make up your mind to feed well. The cows cannot get grass now. You must make up to them as nearly as you can for this lack. Feed liberal allowances of the best hay you can get. Never say or even think that any kind of hay will make good milk. It will not.

Give allopathic doses of ground feed. Got to do it, to make a balanced ration. And by the way, this subject of a balanced ration is one that every man must study for himself. He knows his cows better than anybody else does. He can prescribe for them more intelligently than a man can at a distance. Study is the farmer's salvation.

Finally, keep just as accurate an account with your cows as if they were your summer boarders from the city and you wanted to know whether it paid or not. Weigh the milk, weigh the butter, weigh the feed, estimate the cost, set down the amount your products bring in, figure up the cost of making and subtract. Be a business man and you will make it pay.

IMPROVE OLD APPLE TREES

Carefully Remove All Dead and Cross Branches—Scrubbing the Bark Destroys Many Insects.

All dead and cross branches should be removed. Make a clean cut close to the branch, cover the wound with grafting wax or shellac varnish. Scrape the dead bark and moss off the larger limbs and then scrub them with warm water and soft soap, using a stiff brush. This scrubbing will cleanse the bark and kill many worms and their larvae. Select a mild day for this work. Such methods require considerable judgment in their application, but with proper care they are successful. Old apple trees given the above treatment will gradually increase the yield and quality of their fruit. It will take several years of careful culture to bring the trees into full bearing, but it will pay handsomely.

Winter Kitchen Garden.

A little kitchen garden can easily be maintained at any sunny window. Sow lettuce, onions and mustard seed in shallow boxes, keep well watered and they will turn a surprising amount of green delicacies for the table right through the winter.

Midwinter Work.

Sorting the seed potatoes and grading the seed grain is midwinter work that helps mightily toward midsummer's full harvest.

Rotation and Handing.

Before cross-fencing the farm plan out the fields with a view both to a good crop rotation and to ease of handling.

See to Ventilation.

Is the barn well ventilated? Lack of fresh air means possible tuberculosis in your dairy herd.

Keep the Hawks Away.

Why not put up a tin toy windmill? It will keep hawks away from your chickens.

FOR THE CARD TABLE

CLOTH OF ODD DESIGN IS MOST APPROPRIATE.

Tan Linen the Preferred Material, and Decorations May Be Stencil Work—Some Hints as to Appropriate Prizes.

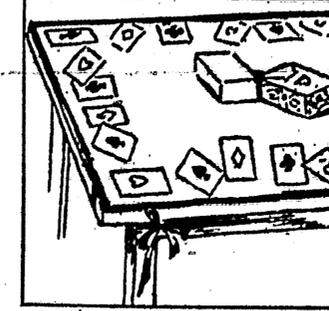

Card playing is a winter pastime, and hostesses will welcome anything novel in connection with the game. I have in mind an odd-looking cloth for covering the card tables while playing, writes Helen Howe in the Washington Star.

Tan linen is the material, though any preferred plain fabric can be used. White should be avoided on account of soiling quickly, but wood browns, also greens and gray, would be effective.

The tan linen is cut to fit the table, and is bound with red ribbon about one and one-half inches wide. The decoration is a row of card figures worked a few inches from the edge of the cloth in reds and blacks, alternately, using a heavy linen thread and an outline stitch. If preferred, the decoration could be stencil work.

Ribbons are sewed at the four corners to tie to the table.

A prize given at a card party recently was very novel. It was a white organdie turnback collar fitted with pointed cravat-ends, embroidered with the figures of the cards in miniature worked solid, in reds and blacks. The outlines were so perfect as to resemble printing rather than hand embroidery.

HOLDS THE ODDS AND ENDS USEFUL IN THE KITCHEN

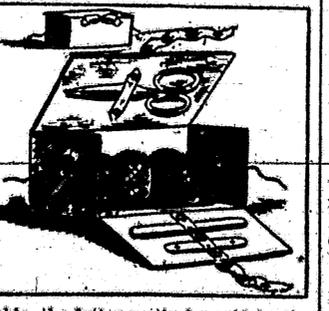

Small Box Easily Fashioned Will Be Found Extremely Useful for That Purpose.

This extremely useful and handy little article for holding two balls of string (thick and thin), a pair of scissors, sealing wax and a penknife, can be made from a large cigar box or any other box of suitable size.

In constructing it, in the first place, remove all papers from the box and thoroughly clean it. Then take out the front and hinge it on either with a strip of cloth or tiny brass hinges and make a small hole in either side, through which the string may be drawn off as it is required. The box from which our sketch was drawn was painted with dark green enamel, but if preferred, it could easily be covered with silk and lined inside with satin, the material to be fastened on with a strong adhesive.

On the inner side of the lid a strap of elastic is fastened on with two tiny brass-headed nails under which a pair of scissors may be slipped and held in place and on the inner side of the front of the box there is another strap of elastic fastened on with three brass-headed nails so that it forms two loops, one for a stick of sealing-wax and the other for a penknife. Ribbon strings are provided to secure the box when closed, and this is shown accomplished in the small sketch on the right of the illustration, and the string can, of course, be drawn off without opening the box.

Should the box be covered with silk instead of being painted, and if it is to take its place upon the writing table, the latter method would be the better, then some pretty floral design might be worked upon the material covering the lid.

Window Draperies.

Curtain nets are woven in patterns after the various "periods," so that one need not hang Colonial curtains with Jacobean furniture or Queen Anne patterns in a Louis Quatorze drawing room.

ery. The needlework appeared in the corners of the collar and upon the ends of the cravat, and the whole thing was very much admired.

Not every hostess is sufficiently skillful to give a prize of this kind of her own handwork, but a linen case for holding two packs of cards should not be difficult to make. A long strip of linen a little deeper than the long side of a card is lined with a soft silk and then brought together to form two pockets. A binding of red ribbon is sewed to the edges. When the cards are slipped in, the case is folded and the upper side decorated as desired.

Another simple prize might be a very fine sheer linen handkerchief hemstitched and decorated in the corners with the four aces. This handkerchief should be kept for card parties exclusively.

A shaving pad is another suggestion. This could be a round of tan linen bound with red, the decoration four miniature cards outlined on the linen with a fine gilt thread, and an ace worked in each in the correct colorings. The cards should be apparently scattered over the surface of the shaving case. A bit of ribbon passed through a ring and sewed to the linen furnishes the hanger.

Then there is the idea of a dainty apron in organdie decorated with mock cards worked in with fast cotton or washable silks. This would be a novelty if worn by a hostess serving tea or a luncheon at a card party.

One dozen small tea napkins displaying one of the card figures in each corner would be a really handsome prize, and not cost very much, after all. The napkins would be kept for card parties only, of course.

Don't Give Up!

Nervousness, death due to weak kidneys are 73% more common than 20 years ago, according to the census. Overwork and worry are the causes. The kidneys can't keep up, and a slight kidney weakness is usually neglected.

If you have backache or urinary disorders, don't mistake the cause. Fight the danger. More care as to diet, habits, etc., and the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, ought to bring quick relief.

A Colorado Case

Mrs. C. R. Foreman, 113 S. Eighth St., Canon City, Colo., says: "For three or four years I had rheumatic pains, dropsy and kidney complaint. My heart was affected and I was in bad shape. I had fallen and all hope for my recovery was given up. I couldn't walk across the room and my whole body bloated. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me as soon as I took them and continued use cured me. Whenever I have taken them since I have been benefited."

An Ominous Selection.

A Baltimore man tells a story of a minister who, rising to address his congregation, announced that the subject of his discourse would be "A Man's Wife."

"And now," he added, "we will first sing from the hymn, beginning: 'From every stormy wind that blows,

From every swelling tide of woes, There is a calm, a sure retreat— 'Tis found beneath the mercy seat.'"

And he couldn't imagine why the wives of the congregation present all looked daggers at him.—Baltimore American.

We use it on everything, sores, cuts, burns, bruises, sore throat, headaches and on everything else. We can't get along without it. We think it is the best liniment made.'"

The Asylum's Advantage.

At the orphan asylum the childless Mrs. Hathaway, who had selected an infant for adoption, suddenly showed trepidation.

"Will I have to keep the baby if it doesn't suit my husband?" she asked, hesitatingly.

"Of course you won't have to keep it," responded the accommodating matron. "You can bring the kid back and exchange it any time. We're not arbitrary, like the stork."

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Don't Look Old! Try Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Gray, Faded, Lifeless Hair.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair. A well-known druggist says every body uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. Adv.

Curious Cure.

In one of the back counties of Texas is a negro doctor who enjoys an extensive practice among the colored population.

A white physician accosted him on the road one day, saying: "Well, Doctor Sam, where have you been?"

"Ben to see Bill Johnson, sah. He was wrastlin' wid Moses Jones and busted a blood vessel."

"Indeed! that's serious. What did you prescribe?"

"Oh, I fixed him 'all right, sah, wid alum and gum arabic. Alum was to draw de parts togedder and de gum to stick 'em." It may be interesting to add that Bill Johnson completely recovered.

OUR NATIONAL DISEASE Caused by Coffee.

Physicians know that drugs will not correct the evils caused by coffee and that the only remedy is to stop drinking it.

An Arkansas doctor says: "I was a coffee drinker for many years and often thought that I could not do without it, but after years of suffering with our national malady, dyspepsia, I attributed it to the drinking of coffee, and after some thought, determined to use Postum for my morning drink."

"I had the Postum made carefully according to directions on the pkg. and found it just suited my taste."

"At first I used it only for breakfast, but I found myself getting so much better, that I had it at all meals, and I am pleased to say that I have been relieved of indigestion. I gained 19 pounds in 4 months and my general health is greatly improved."

"I must tell you of a young lady in Illinois. She had been in ill health for many years, the vital forces low, with but little pain. I wrote her of the good that Postum did me and advised her to try it."

"At the end of the year, she wrote me that she had gained 40 pounds in weight and felt like herself again."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled, 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—Is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same. "There's a Reason" for Postum. —sold by Grocers.

Beyond Its Power.
"That rich Mrs. Stiggins doesn't speak to me now. She used to be my next-door neighbor—and they were awfully common."

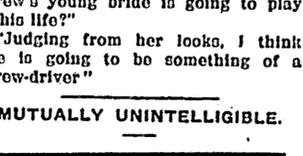

"Well, there are some things money can't do."
"What?"
"Make old-time neighbors forget the early days."

Right on Her Job.
Muggins—They tell me Mrs. Henpeck is a neat and tidy housekeeper.
Guggins—Why, yes; her husband can't even drop a remark at home but what she picks it up immediately.

Too Effective.
"But how did he happen to get engaged to the girl if he doesn't love her?"
"Why, he says he was convincing when he merely meant to be plausible."—Judge.

Her Role.
"What part do you suppose that old crew's young bride is going to play in his life?"
"Judging from her looks, I think she is going to be something of a crew-driver."

MUTUALLY UNINTELLIGIBLE.

Hodge—Bronson and his wife seem to have a deep respect for each other's superior wisdom.

"What do you think!" exclaimed Mrs. Twobble. "While the Belgian relief committee was holding an important meeting yesterday afternoon in my drawing-room a ragged woman came to the house and asked for food. She had a baby in her arms, too!"

"What did you do?" asked Mrs. Gadsden.

"Sent her about her business, of course! I was reading my report to the committee and had no time to bother with stray beggars."

Evidences of Bravery.
"Some of those old-time statesmen were remarkable whiskers," said the observant person.

"They weren't very ornamental," rejoined Miss Cayenne.

"Nor useful."
"I'm not so sure of that. They indicated great moral courage. They proved the indifference of their wearers to the frivolities of popular comment."

A Necessity.
"You seem to have a large number of picturesque characters about here," said the tourist.

"We have to have 'em," answered the proprietor of a western hotel, "for travelers who come here expecting to find 'local color.' All these Indians and cowboys you see are paid by us to loaf about the premises and keep within easy range of kodaks."

PERPETUAL BONDAGE.
Mrs. Henry Peck—I rule my house absolutely. When I am at home Mr. Peck minds me implicitly.

Mrs. Herdso—What does he do when you are away?
Mrs. Peck—When I am not at home he minds the baby.

Not Deliberately Chosen.
"We are a swift, commercial race"—A cynic sadly said it.
"While poverty is no disgrace, it's no especial credit."

Not So Easily Caught.
Miss Thirty-Eight (cooly)—I had a strange dream the other night, Mr. Jones. I dreamed—only think!—that you and I were married and on our wedding tour. You don't know how real it seemed. Did you dream the same thing, too?

He (firmly)—No. Miss Thirty Eight, I did not. In fact, I haven't had the nightmare for a good many years.—Stray Stories.

Raising the Cash.
"Wasn't the doctor's decision that an operation was necessary in that case made rather suddenly?"
"Well, yes. You see, his wife wanted to go to Europe."

Lost Business.
"This is a losing year for Europe."
"Yes—the war."
"Well, the war is a bad thing on its own account, but it has also caused some 40,000,000 prospective tourists to abandon contemplated trips abroad."

Interests Them All.
"What can I put into my shop window to attract attention?"
"Nothing simpler, my boy. Just keep a good mirror in the window all the time."

Too True.
"Every nation has signed extradition treaties with this country," observed the old fogey. "Where can a criminal now go and find safety?"
"New York," replied the grouch.

Comes About Naturally.
"Why do so many actresses get the big head?"
"Well, I suppose they get to believing what their press agents say about 'em."—Kansas City Journal.

Proverb Didn't Apply.

PHYSICAL WRECK RESTORED TO HEALTH BY GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY.

I feel it my duty to furnish you with my testimonial as to what your remedy Swamp-Root did for me when I was a physical wreck from kidney and bladder trouble.

Some years ago I was not able to do any work and could only just creep around and am satisfied that had it not been for Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root I would not have lived. After using the preparation for one month I was able to work some and when I had used $9.00 worth of Swamp-Root I could do a good day's work. I used about $10.00 worth altogether and would not take $10,000 for the good that it did me. I consider it a God-send to suffering humanity for the disease for which you recommend it and have recommended it to many sufferers.

THE DECEASE AND FUNERAL OF REV. AND MRS. HAYWOOD'S CHILD

The baby born to Mr. and Mrs. Haywood seemed to be doing well for a day or two, but on Thursday last, Feb. 25th, sinking spells developed and at 7:45 p.m. the little fellow passed away.

We fully appreciate the faithful efforts of Dr. R. T. Lucas to save the child's life, and words cannot express our gratitude to the good work of the nurses, Mrs. D. N. Timmon, that cultured woman of incalculable worth to mankind in such circumstances. Never woman endeavored so hard as did she to keep the child alive during the last spell until the physician arrived.

For the sake of Mrs. Haywood's health, the interment took place in a very quiet way at the Haywood home on Saturday afternoon at five o'clock, only a few friends having been invited. Notwithstanding the heavy and pelting snow storm three autos forged their way from town. Dr. E. B. Atwood, Secretary of Missions of the Baptist Convention of New Mexico, conducted the service.

We desire to express our thanks to the many friends who came to our help in this trying time. Especially do we appreciate the assistance rendered by Miss Spellman, Mr. O. Z. Finley, Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Watson, Mrs. Donaldson, Mr. J. G. Textor, and Mr. Duke.

And may we be given space to say that while we believe the dear child was given in answer to prayer yet we realize the loving hand and tender heart of our Heavenly Father in the return of his spirit to the God who gave it. We had hoped the child would have grown and be most useful in the kingdom of God on earth; hence the name John Wycliffe Judson. We had given him to the Lord and we can but submit to His will, as we now picture our darling babe "ministering to those who inherit salvation".

All God's words are music, Though they make us weep— Infinitely tender, infinitely deep... HERBERT HAYWOOD
