COUNTY UNIT LAW WILL DO WONDERS

Every District in State to Receive Double Money for Schools, According to Circular Issued

MANY WEAK DISTRICTS NOW ASSURED LONGER TERMS

That each public school district, including the cities, will receive double the sum for school purposes from the state, heretofore derived from that source, is set forth in a circular issued by the department of education, which explains how the county unit law will prove of inestimable benefit to the state in reducing taxation as well as in providing better school facilities, longer terms and higher instruction.

According to press reports from Santa Fe. Among other things the circular says:

"Under separate cover we are sending you copies of six school laws enacted at the last session of the legislature. You will be interested in all of these laws and I urge a careful reading of each one, but your particular attention is called to the laws involving the matter of school revenues, senate bill No. 232. The present school year is governed by senate bill No. 75, which amends chapter 51, laws of 1912 under which school revenues have been provided only insofar as it provides for a minimum term of seven months. The only matter in this bill to which attention should be directed is that school must be maintained for seven months where conditions have been met and the amount of state aid allowed is increased to make up what is lacking to provide a total of $420 for each school room instead of $300 as heretofore.

"The matter of vital concern at this time is to see to it that estimates of school needs for the fiscal year, beginning September 1, 1915, are properly made and that levies shall be made by the county commissioners in accordance with the needs of each school district.

SOURCES OF REVENUE CHANGED

"The only change in sources of revenue provided for the maintaining of schools lies in the elimination of the county three mill tax which was distributed pro rata according to school population among the districts of the county and the elimination of a special school district tax for the purpose of maintenance. All other revenues belonging to the district will be placed to its credit as heretofore including a special levy for the purchase of site for, purchase, construction and first equipment of school houses, and the interest on, and provide a sinking fund for the payment of the principal of any indebtedness of such district." Any surplus remaining may be set aside upon petition of half of the legal voters. Chapter 37, laws 1903.

"For maintaining a term of nine months in incorporated city, town, village and rural districts where a graded school of at least four teachers is or is to be established and for maintaining a term of seven, eight or nine months in other districts, house bill No. 232 provides that the board of education shall make an estimate of its needs and a sufficient special county levy will be made on all taxable property of the county from the proceeds of which levy sufficient funds with other moneys belonging to the district will be provided to maintain terms of school as mentioned. Please note that in the rural districts, directors must make the estimate of needs to the county superintendent on or before the first of May, 1915, said county superintendent shall certify the estimate approved by him to the county commissioners on or before the first of June, 1915. Boards of education in incorporated districts must make their estimates of school needs direct to the county commissioners on or before the first of June, 1915. We suggest therefore that for the school year beginning September 1, 1915, estimates be made as provided for in house bill No. 232 on the basis of the expenditures for the school year ending August 31, 1915. It is desirable that expenditures under the new law should be practically the same as for the year ending August 31, 1915, so that a fair comparison of results may be obtained.

SCHOOL BUILDING FUND
"Under the county unit law there will be no reserve fund available for the weak districts, but there is a very good school buildings fund to assist districts having little taxable property in constructing a substantial school house.

"The entire state current school fund will be distributed pro rata and the income for each district from this source will be double that distributed heretofore, because nothing will be reserved for weak districts.

"The county school fund will continue as heretofore and will be filled from the same sources except that there will be no three mill county tax. This county fund will be distributed pro rata among the districts as heretofore.

"There is no limit fixed for expenditures except necessary expenses allowed by the board of county commissioners, in incorporated city towns and village districts, and in rural districts where a graded school of four teachers is, or is to be established. In other rural districts, the expenditures shall not exceed $60 per month for each third grade teacher, $75 for each second grade teacher and $90 for each first grade teacher, allowing one school room for each 50 children or fraction thereof. This limitation, however, does not include the expenditures for construction, purchase, lease, repair, or equipment of school houses, which will be provided for in addition to the amounts as limited above.

APPEAL PROVIDED FOR

"Note that districts which will be aggrieved by any action of the county commissioners have the right of appeal to the district court.

"This law is, of course, one in which we are tremendously interested. It must be kept in mind that the county unit of school administration and school taxation is generally approved throughout the United States and has the endorsement of the strongest and most practical educators throughout the country. In principle it is entirely correct and in administration it has proved successful wherever it has been established. It lies with the people of New Mexico to prove that all the people are interested in the education of all the children of all the people of the state. We are able to show that the burden of taxation for school purposes will be considerably less on account of the equal distribution of the taxes levied and upon this lower levy, considerable more revenue will be provided for the schools than heretofore. It is our confident belief that the people of the state of New Mexico are ready for this advanced legislation, and that we are entering upon a new period of educational progress which shall surpass even the remarkable advancement of the last few years. If New Mexico, one of the two newest states of the union shall be able to provide eight or nine months of school for each district in the state, the state will assume a position in educational matters to which older and richer states have been unable to attain."

MEETING OF LINCOLN COUNTY ROAD BOARD

The Board Re-organizes for the Ensuing Year and Transacts Much Business Under New Organization

BUY ROAD SUPPLIES AND PAY MANY BILLS

The Lincoln County Road Board met here on Monday, April 5th, re-organized for 1915, and transacted much business after the new organization had been perfected.

Dr. J. W. Laws was chosen as chairman for the ensuing year and J. B. French as secretary-treasurer, after which the board got busy and mapped out plans for the spring work.

It was decided by the board to get necessary supplies for immediate road construction, and J. B. French, the secretary was authorized to purchase shovels, scrapers, etc., and to include in the list of supplies a road drag to be used in the vicinity of Nogal Hill and to be left in that community in care of some resident.

A petition was presented to the board by the citizens of the Ruidoso valley relative to changes in roads in that section, but the board took no definite action owing to the fact that they had recommended the expenditure of state funds in that section, under the supervision of the state engineer at a previous meeting, and wished to hear from the State Highway Commission before taking any action.

The petition from the above locality for scraper, plow and other road supplies was granted and will be ordered at once.

It was decided that the two crossings on the Ruidoso, near the Minter place, that have received much discussion among the people of that section recently, be eliminated, Dr. J. W. Laws being authorized to have the work done, provided he can obtain the co-operation of the citizens of that section, together with donation work.

The board desires to have all delinquent road taxes listed and handed to the county treasurer as provided by law.

Bills were allowed out of the Road and Bridge fund to the amount of $1500.

SOME BOOSTERS

Carrizozo has been cleaned up once more and the town looks fine. The tin can, the old shoe, old papers and the other trash that belong to the rubbish family have been gathered up and deposited outside the city and with the frequent showers we are having we will soon realize the city beautiful. But of course the women are responsible for most of it so we are informed, and they are to be congratulated on their success in making the old town look spick and span in a new spring gown. And the men, well, they help out, especially the sheriff's force that did the work, but they wouldn't have thought of it had not the women started it. Carrizozo women are some boosters and when they start to do a thing they always finish their undertaking.

MRS. ROLLAND ENTERTAINS

Wednesday evening was the occasion of a most delightful social event, given by Mrs. A. J. Rolland in honor of her mother, Mrs. Wm. C. McDonald who is visiting here from Santa Fe. Whist was the amusement of the evening, Mrs. Gurney making the highest score among the ladies and John A. Haley carrying off the gentlemen's prize for skill and luck.

A dainty two course supper was served at the conclusion of the events of the evening.

Mrs. Rolland will be hostess to a second division of her friends this evening in honor of Mrs. McDonald and a delightful occasion is anticipated by the invited guests.

SHULDA BABY DIES

Virginia, the two-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Shulda died at their home Friday morning. The little one had for some days been a sufferer from diphtheria and Health Officer Paden had raised the quarantine, but other complications unexpectedly set in and the life of the little one was claimed by death at the time above mentioned. In the absence of all ministers Elder S. W. Perry of the Baptist Church conducted the funeral services which were held from the residence Saturday afternoon. Interment was made in the local cemetery.

CONDOLENCE

The untimely death of our beloved fellow member, Nita Taylor, fell like a heavy blow on the anxious hearts of all of us.

We can ill spare the cheerful and comforting presence of our dear co-worker and friend.

In loving acknowledgment of the bright companionship of her beautiful life, beautifully lived, and in heartfelt grief at her sudden call to her happy reward, we the members of the White Oaks Union Sunday school, extend to her bereaved family and relatives our profound sympathy.

By the committee,
Geo. H. Webb,
Martha F. Wells,
Jennie E. Jones.

ANOTHER JAIL DELIVERY

A man answering to the name of Cecil Jessop, with several aliases, who was under $1500 bond awaiting action of the grand jury on a charge of forgery on the Exchange bank involving an amount of $100, and Daniel Sandoval also awaiting action of the grand jury for horse stealing, escaped from the county jail Wednesday evening about 6 o'clock.

It is said the prisoners made their escape by walking out of the door which had been left open by the jailer who had just entered and gone into the basement, forgetting the importance of keeping criminals behind locked doors.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE DATES

The teachers' institute for Lincoln County will be held here June 24 to 28. J. H. Hofer of Tucuman will be the conductor and Mrs. E. V. Jewett of this city will be the instructor.

NEW DEPARTMENT IN LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL

The Home Credit System has been Introduced in the Carrizozo High School. Has Proven to be Great Helper

INDUSTRIOUS PUPILS TO BE REWARDED

The Home Credit System, which has been thoroughly tested in the leading schools of the country, and found to furnish a stimulus to industry both in and out of school, has recently been instituted in the Carrizozo High School.

The system is a most admirable one, as those of the student body who help at home with the house work, -chores, etc., are allowed credit on their school work. The parent is the judge in this case, and is furnished a report blank upon which to enter the grade which the pupil may be allowed for his share in the burden of home work. A grade of above 90 per cent in home work allows the student an addition of 2 per cent to his lowest grade for the current month, while if the parent judges the nature of his work at less than 90 per cent, out of a possible 100 per cent, he is allowed an addition of only 1 per cent to his lowest grade for that month. Below 75 per cent admits of no credit.

It is often the case that pupils coming from a distance have to leave home too early to be of much assistance at home with the morning chores and household duties; others leave early for school to avoid their share of the burdens of the home, however, investigation proved that there is no member of the local high school who does not do some of the work at home. Those who do not go home at noon have duties to discharge morning and evening. The systems offers not only an incentive to the more thorough discharge of previous responsibilities, but the possible shouldering of new duties. The effect must be mutually helpful and productive of good if it receives the parental co-operation which it deserves.

FOREST HOMESTEADS

During the months of February and March, 1915, a total of 440 acres of land within the Lincoln National Forest, New Mexico, were listed with the Secretary of the Interior and will shortly be opened to entry under the Forest Homestead Act. The lands thus listed were applied for individually by five applicants, and each one of these tracts was examined by a Forest Officer and found to be more valuable for agriculture than for Forest purposes.

Those whose applications within the Lincoln National Forest were favorably acted upon during the months of February and March are: Nancy E. Berry, Parsons, New Mexico, Macario Carreras, Willard, New Mexico, Fred F. Ferguson, Nogal, New Mexico, R. C. Hammet, Capitan, New Mexico, Olliver W. Pausch, Nogal, New Mexico.

In addition to this, 1969 acres listed to applicants within other National Forests in New Mexico, and 3082 acres within National Forests in Arizona.

CHAPTER XVIII—Continued.

"A soldier of England; an aide to Hamilton! You lie. When Hamilton knows what I know he will tear you limb from limb. You come here to frighten us with your threats—you! I spit upon you! Sis-e-tewah, warriors, hear me; you know who I am; I travel with you on the war-trail; I go with you into battle. Now I speak with the straight tongue. You do not know this man, but I do. See; he dare not face me; watch him shrink back afraid. Well! there is reason."

"I fear you, Jules Lappin?"
"Ay! and with cause. Know you ever the time I failed to pay my debts? or break my vengeance? I have you now, and will crush the white-livered heart out of you with these hands. Listen, Shawnees, Miami, Ojibwas, while I tell you who this fellow is. Then give him to me—I ask no more."

He stopped, bent forward, his fingers clinched. The ring of Indians pressed closer, but the old chief waved them back, standing motionless.
"Speak, Englishman," he said with dignity, "we will hear."

Lappin half turned to face them, one hand gripping the knife at his belt. Like a white ghost mademoiselle slipped silently in between the two men. I saw it all over the brown barrel of my rifle, my heart throbbing fiercely.

"He is a renegade, a traitor," and Lappin's hand pointed at the man he accused, "the uniform he wears a lie. How do I know? Because he fought me yonder in the woods on the island; because he was in the cabin with the others. This is the man who was left for dead, who escaped. Do you recognize him now?"

I saw the red faces, and heard the scream of voices.
"Ay! you do; and the woman, the Wyandot squaw, helped him. I said so before; now we have the proof. You drove her out, afraid to treat her as an enemy, and she goes to him, thinking his uniform will frighten you into sparing the hunter from torture. She brings him here to threaten you with what England will do. What say you, Shawnees, to the dog!"

The voices burst into a wild yell that seemed to split the night, but the fur trader hung up his hand.
"Back all of yer!" he roared savagely. "I claim this man as mine! Who has better right? I'll throttle the life out of him with my bare hands before yer all. Have your warriors give us space, Sis-e-to-wah."

The chief of the Shawnees, his eyes blazing under tangled hair, uplifted his arms.
"Tis the white man's right," he ordered grimly. "I have spoken."

I drew in my breath deeply, yet what could I do? The rifle trembled in my grasp, but I dare not use it. The unfortunate Englishman stood in my place, was mistaken for me, but if I revealed myself it could serve no end—would only leave me helpless to aid the girl. I could not think of him at that moment, but only of her.
It was all the work of an instant. Lappin whirled on his victim, flinging his gun to the ground.
"Face me, you cur, you spy!" he shouted. "Come out from behind that squaw. You got me once when my foot slipped. Let's see what you can do now. What! you want! Well, you will!"

He thrust Rene back, hurling her with one sweep of his arm into the crowding ranks of warriors, one of whom clutched her as she fell. Then he struck the shrinking, startled Englishman a vicious blow in the face.

CHAPTER XIX.

In the Hands of Savages.
I saw the red welt on the white cheek left by the fur trader's rough hand, his arms hung up, a sudden passing of anger darkening his eyes. This was more than flesh-and-blood could stand, and not retaliate. Wild rage usurped the place of courage; his lips snarled like a cornered wolf; he had forgotten all but hate. It was not a man, but a maddened animal who crouched for a spring.

"Fight you! I will! Yes, to the death," he snapped out hotly. "But you lie when you say I fought you before; when you say I was in the cabin—you lie, you dog of a white savage—you lie!"
"Monsieur, it is a mistake," I caught the girl's protesting voice in the hush. "It was not—"
"A lie, hey!" Lappin broke in crazed with rage. "What am I—blind! I saw you, you hound, with my own eyes. Shut the squaw up. Oh! you will; then have it now!"
They met like two enraged bucks in the forest, clutched at each other in a deadly battle. They were big men, evenly matched, fired with hatred. Never did I witness such fighting, such mad barbarism, the ferocity of which stopped at nothing. The soldier I knew was unarmed, but a knife dangled at Lappin's belt. Either he forgot it, or in his rage disdained to use the steel. Oh! how they fought—like two cats, snarling and snapping, throttling each other, occasionally an arm breaking free to send a clinched fist crashing into an exposed face. Once the soldier went down to his knees, and Lappin kicked him, only to be gripped himself and flung headlong. But they were up together, bleeding both, panting for breath, clothes half ripped off their bodies, cursing fiercely, as they rushed at each other once more.

Merciful Mother! What a sight that was! I, a soldier, and border-bred, hid my face in my arms—and yet I looked and saw. The very ferocity of it was a fascinating horror—the black, black night above, around; the forests shutting them in; the howling dogs snapping at their heels; the red glare of fire, and that ring of yelling savages, dancing back and forth to give the combatants room. Rene had disappeared—forced back into the half-crazed mass, as the savages surged forward; of Brady I caught no glimpse.

That was no scene to ever forget, to blot out with passing years. The wild savagery of it burned in on the brain; those dark faces, with wild eyes and dangling hair; the waving arms, and leaping bodies, the gleam of weapons tossed aloft, the jangle and din of excited voices in jargon of unknown tongues. How the red flames danced over them all, now in shadow, now in glare of light, making them appear fiends incarnate. And those two battling in the midst, huge men in death grapple, fighting as tigers fight—merciless, merciless; tearing each other's flesh, battering each other's faces, gripping, clutching, straining in effort at mastery. Again and again they crunched into the crowd, reeling from blows, or hurled back by sheer strength of muscle; they sobbed forth curses, staggering with weakness. I saw Lappin drive his head into his opponent's stomach as though it were a battering-ram; I saw the soldier sink his teeth into the fur-trader's hand, as if he were a mad dog. 'Twas then the brute reached down and fumbled for his knife—found it, and with one hoarse cry of triumph, sent the bright blade home. Twice he struck, and they went staggering down together, locked in each other's arms, the soldier dead ere he struck the ground.

It was bedlam then, followed by a breathless hush as Sis-e-to-wah pressed forward with uplifted arms. Two warriors lifted Lappin to his feet, and as his gripping hand plucked out the knife from the wound, I saw the gush of blood crimsoning the dead man's side. An instant the victor stood glaring down, reeling in weakness, upheld by others. Then he laughed, waving the dripping blade.

"Ah! good!" he cried. "There is one more recruit for hell. Bring me the girl here. 'Tis time she had her lesson also."

They brought her forward, a red bravo grasping either arm. I caught sight of her face, white, drawn, but not with fear, and sighted my rifle across the log at the white ruffian's breast. With clinched lips I lay, finger to trigger. Yet I waited—thank God, I waited. I know not what restrained me, only it was no fear of consequences to myself. It must have been the expression of the woman's uplifted face, the quick glance she cast about, as though in silent warning to me. I took it as a signal, a message of restraint. The fur trader, burly and brutal, still panting for breath, yet able to stand alone now, and conscious of his victory, thrust his reeking knife back into his belt with a coarse laugh.

"How do you like that, you Wyandot squaw?" he asked, leaning down into her face.
"When you have these men release my arms I will answer you," she returned quietly.
"Oh, you will, hey! You'll be glad enough to talk before I am through. Let go of her there—yes; that's what I mean. Now look here—there lies your English officer. He's paid the price of being a fool. Look at him; are you ready to speak now?"

"He was nothing to me," she said slowly, "nothing. But he fought a man's fight, and was killed by cowardly treachery."
"What! You squaw, you dare—"
"Of course I dare. Do you suppose I fear you, Jules Lappin, or your gang of outlaws?" his voice scornful. "Why, I challenge you to lay hand on me. You know who I am; you have eaten in the tepee of my father. I know who you are, and I despise you. You call me a Wyandot squaw; threaten what you will do; point me to this dead man whom you have murdered. Why? To frighten me—me? Very well, I'll answer you—I am a Wyandot; I am Running Water; but in my veins flows also the best blood of France. Mine is not a race of cowards and murderers, thieves and traders; my ancestors were soldiers and men. And you think I am afraid of you—you cur of the woods; afraid of you! Touch me, Jules Lappin, if you dare; I challenge you. Come, I wait for you to lay hand on me."

He stared at her sullenly, angry enough, yet with the bullying look gone from his mottled face. Something about the girl—her sharp words, her cool defiance—had left him uncertain.
"More than that, Jules Lappin," she went on passionately, "you are going to pay for all this," and she pointed down at the dead body, "pay for it, do you understand! That man was what he claimed to be—an aide to Hamilton. England pays her debts, Monsieur Lappin. Ay, and so do the Wyandots; have you forgotten that so soon? Have you forgotten what befell the Frenchman, Philippe Bridau? Have you blotted from memory already the fate of Michael Cozad? You were in our village when the chiefs of the Wyandots dealt out justice to these renegades. Answer me!"

The cool boldness of her words stunned the fellow. I could see him glance about into the dark woods, and then at the faces of the savages pressing about them. Few among them understood what was said, and their gestures, the fierce expression of their eyes, gave the renegade courage. He had already gone too far for retreat; his only chance now was to proceed—to browbeat this girl, frighten her, and trust to the wilderness for a hiding place.

"Stand aside, all of yer; get back and give us room, yer red scum!" he roared, his rage increasing as he gave it vent in words. "Well, I've heard yer talk, all of it, you breed, an' that's what I care for your threats," and he snapped his fingers in her face. As she stood silent, motionless, looking straight at him with scorn unutterable in her eyes, the brute clinched his red fist, stepping forward as if he would strike.

"Curse yer! I'm a mind to let yer have some of the same medicine I gave him. You'll laugh at Jules Lappin, will yer? Oh, ho! but I know a better way than that to make yer cry. By all the gods, we'll roast that Yankee friend of yours, to a turn; and you'll stand by and watch. That'll fetch the two of yer to yer senses. Here Shawnees, two of yer come here. Pick up this carrion, and throw it out of the way, over there in the edge of the wood. We'll want this place presently. Sis-o-to-wah?"

"The chief is here," with dignity.
"Twas your vote that the hunter die by torture?"
"It was so spoken."

"Then he shall—to spite this squaw of a Wyandot, if for no better reason. Bid your warriors tie the dog up."
For the moment, in the confusion, the noise and rushing back and forth of figures dimly seen in the red light, I lost sense of what was being done. There was a babel of yells, a wild mingling of half-naked forms dancing about through the shadows. Those whose identity I could comprehend had been swallowed up by the rush of bodies. Occasionally Lappin's voice sounded above the din, as he cursed out some order. Then, forth from the surging, excited mass of savages, two braves came directly toward where I lay concealed, staggering under the weight of Hayward's dead body. I drew back my rifle, sinking lower behind the rotten log. The weight of the dead man caused them to shuffle forward, grunting to each other, glad enough to be rid of the burden. In the first dark shadow they let go, flinging him down against the very log behind which I lay, holding my breath in fear.

Even as I gazed with eyes of horror, my mind a chaos, every nerve throbbing in physical pain, there came to me the one hope, the one chance for me to meet alone the situation.

CHAPTER XX.

The Ghost of the Lieutenant.
With eyes on those figures blotting out the fire, their discordant yelling deadening all other sound, their whole attention centered now on savage vengeance, crept over the log, and crouched low beside the motionless body. Ugh! but I dreaded to touch it, to feel the awfulness of clammy flesh. As the upturned face, with staring dead eyes, revealed indistinctly by the red glimmer, met my gaze, it was like looking into my own. For an instant it seemed as if I stared down at myself, bent above my own insensate body. A shudder ran through me, my hands shaking as with palsy. Yet I rallied, crushing back the benumbing horror of that vision, as the hateful voice of Lappin rose above the din.

Recklessly I stripped the red jacket from the body, ripped in the struggle with Lappin, and showing clearly the rent made by the knife, and crawled back over the log, to put it on. Beyond my cover, not a dozen feet away, was a shallow ravine, and the light streaming through tree branches, fell upon a clay bank, gleaming a yellowish white. I reached it on hands and knees, streaking my face with moist clay, until it must have been ghastly, and plastering even more on my hair in horrible representation of the scalped victim.

Still unsatisfied, yet knowing of nothing else I could add, and warned by the shouts that I must act without delay, I stole forward to the edge of the wood, pausing there a moment to muster my courage, and take one last glance at the scene revealed by the firelight. All the center of the opening seemed alive with Indians crowding forward about the prisoner, who stood bound to a stump, facing me. Other savages were running swiftly back and forth bearing armful of dried wood, which were cast down at Brady's feet, the mass already rising above his knees. Excitement was evidenced in shouts, and wild cries, in frenzied leaping, dancing, and mad gesticulation. The Shawnee chief stood silent, with folded arms, but burning eyes, while Lappin grasped mademoiselle's shoulder, holding her to place in the front rank of those red demons, his voice shouting forth orders, or taunting the motionless hunter, who made no reply. Rene was upon her knees, her face hidden, but I could see the white gleam of the crucifix as she held it forth in the glow of light. Brady's face was not toward me, nor revealed clearly by the fire, yet he held his head erect, his eyes roving over the devilish faces. The wounded jaw was bound about with a strip of bloody rag. Without speaking, it yet seemed to me he mocked them. Once he twisted in his bonds, and gazed at her as if he would utter some word, but changed his mind, and, for the first time, a look of pain swept into his face. Lappin saw the effort, called out some foul insult, and a warrior sprang forward, striking the defenseless man across the lips, and driving his head back against the stump.

The vicious act drove me mad, and I stepped forth into the open, flinging my gun down in the underbrush. No eye in all that swarm was turned my way. In silence I moved forward until I was within a few yards of the struggling mass. Then I stopped, full in the red glare of fire, my arms uplifted, and gave utterance to a deep, sepulchral groan. God alone knows how awful was the apparition. To them, in startled horror, I was the dead man, standing there with ghastly face, and arms outstretched, my appearance rendered more terrible by the fitful gleam of fire, revealing features and form, glowing on torn red jacket, and head slashed by scalping knife, behind me the night and the black woods. No doubt it was a sight to bring fear to any heart, but to those murderers, their minds poisoned by superstition, it brought panic—a terror too terrible to resist. They knew me in the instant; I was the spirit of the dead; I had come back for vengeance; with clammy hands I was clutching for them; with sightless eyes I was seeking them out. There was one yell, breathing forth the terror of their souls; I saw eyes, wild with horror, staring at me; I saw men run and fall, scramble to their feet, and run again; I saw leaping bodies light like fiends in an effort to get free. Sis-e-to-wah, struck by the rush, shrieked like a woman, stared toward me from where he lay on the ground, found his feet and ran. I caught glimpse of Rene's face uplifted, the cross still before her eyes; of Lappin, hurled over by the rush, trampled into the earth by flying feet, finally regain his knees, his face white as death, as he stared back toward me with protruding eyes.

Again I groaned, the unearthly sound rising even above the din, seemingly echoed by the great forest and flung back to earth again by the black curtain overhead. Ay! it was an eerie sound! It even made my own flesh creep. Crazed by the terror of it, panic-stricken by the fears of others, the fur trader leaped to his feet, flung forward his rifle and fired. The ball sang past my ear, and I walked straight toward him, my ghastly face exposed to the fire, my hands reaching out in blind clutching. With one yell, piercing, the yelp of a frightened wolf, he turned and dashed for the woods, starting back over his shoulder even as he crashed headlong into the underbrush. For fear they might pause when once under cover—the first spasm of terror gone—I ran forward to the forest edge, giving utterance to another groan to spur them on. But this was not needed—terror, awful terror had struck into their very souls.

Hard to Beat That.
"I always knew women were inconsistent, but I heard of one today that takes the cup cake."
"What did she do?"
"Chased her husband out of the house with a stove lifter and then cried because he left her without kissing her goodbye."

Some Jump.
Bix—They say a flea can jump over a thousand times his own length. Fancy if a human could do that!
Dix—He can. I know a man who jumped his ball in New York and landed in Liverpool, 2,000 miles away.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls! Beautify Your Hair! Make It Soft, Fluffy and Luxuriant—Try the Moist Cloth.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable luster, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any store and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all. Adv.

He'd Change His Wooling.
"If you had it to do over again, would you marry?"
"Yes, I think I would."
"The same girl?"
"Yes, the same girl."
"Then you have no regrets whatever?"

"I wouldn't say that exactly. If I had it to do over again, I shouldn't be so reckless during my courtship days with promises of the things I would buy for her after marriage. I'd have more common sense and fewer electric motor cars and fur coats and servants and unlimited charge accounts in my wooling."

THE PROFESSOR'S STATEMENT.

Prof. Aug. F. W. Schmitz, Thomas, Okla., writes: "I was troubled with Backache for about twenty-five years. When told I had Bright's Disease in its last stages, I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. After using two boxes I was somewhat relieved and I stopped the treatment. In the spring of the next year I had another attack. I went for Dodd's Kidney Pills and they relieved me again. I used three boxes. That is now three years ago and my Backache has not returned in its severity, and by using another two boxes a little later on, the pain left altogether and I have had no trouble since. You may use my statement. I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills when and wherever I can." Dodd's Kidney Pills, 50c. per box at your dealer or Dodd's Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Pretty Poor Punch.
"Rome was one of the wickedest cities on earth."
"I dunno," replied Uncle Bill Bottletop. "I've heard so. But people that could have taken Roman punch as serious licker must have been purty mild an' unsophisticated, seems to me."

GOOD JOKES

A RARE BIRD.

"Did I understand you to say that you were a reformer?"
"Yes."
"Well, I must be going."
"What's your hurry?"
"I haven't time this morning to hear a lecture on my shortcomings."
"Don't be alarmed. I'm trying to reform myself before I start in on anybody else."
"Your hand, most noble creature! You are the first true reformer I've ever met."

Nothing On a Mule.

"Oh, doctor, I have sent for you, certainly; still I must confess that I have not the slightest faith in modern medical science."

"Well," said the doctor, "that doesn't matter in the least. You see, a mule has no faith in the veterinary surgeon, and yet he cures him all the same."—Sacred Heart Review.

Heard in the Shopping District.
"Why do you always have your bargain sales in the basement?" queried the woman who was doing a shopping stunt.

"Because it fibes with the eternal fitness of things," explained the proprietor. "An article in the basement, you see is bound to be lower than a similar article on the floor above."

PAINFUL SUGGESTION.

Clarence—I was—aw—out late last night, and the aw—result was I had a head on me this mawning, doncher know.
Clarice—Well, if I were you I'd stay out late every night.

Choice.
The fresh air staid; as you may know, is often a complainer.
Yet, I'd prefer a score like him To one hot air container.

Sorrows of Song.
"The old songs used to talk about unrequited affection," said the bald-headed man.
"Yes. Somebody was supposed to be heart-broken about something all the time."
"There's no danger of heart trouble with these up-to-date songs. The only risk you run is that they will make you catch your breath till you get asthma."

Fixing Up a Date.
As Jimpkins had partly torn a leaf off the calendar, Ned Nitwit came into the office.
"Ah, going to take a day off, I see," said Ned, with an expansive grin.
"Naw," growled Jimpkins, sourly. "I'm just fixing up a date with my stenographer," he replied, as he called that pretty young lady over to help him adjust the partly torn leaf.

Matter of Taste.
Herlock Sholmes, the detective, had just made another great deduction.
"Our baby," he remarked, "has a natural taste for music."
"But how do you know that when he isn't two years old yet?" queried Doctor Squatson.
"He has got nearly all the polish gnawed off the lower half of the piano," explained the peerless sleuth.

Not That Kind.
Client—I want to sue for a divorce and an allowance of fifteen hundred dollars a year.
Lawyer—What is your husband's income?
Client—It's about that. I wouldn't ask for more than a man makes. I'm not that kind.

Human Nature.
"How did you manage to keep my seat for me?" queried the belated diner as he hurried into the restaurant.
"Easy enough," replied the head waiter. "I suggested to everyone that they take it, and, of course, they all refused."

TOO BAD.

"Is he shrewd on sizing up the female character?"
"He only failed on two occasions."
"When were they?"
"Before he was married and after."

Ate Too Much.

There was a dame in our town Whose appetite was hearty; She always made her hostess frown When she went to a party.

His Station.

"What was your station in life before you became a social outcast?" queried the lady who was beginning to carry weight for age.

"I fergit what it wuz, mam," replied the husky hobo who was engaged in storing a handout where it would do the most good, "but now it's de perillece station most uv de time."

Didn't Notice Her.

"Did you notice that lovely girl in the pretty brown dress, waiting in the lobby?" he asked his wife as they took their seats in the theater.
"What! That frowsy thing with the false puffs, enameled face, gold teeth, made-over dress, imitation mink fur, and torn gloves? No, I didn't notice her. Why?"—Puck.

Doubtful Compliment.

She—How do you like my singing?
He—Well, I've heard Tetraxini and Mary Garden, but you're better still.—The Club Fellow.

UP TO DATE.

The Naturalist—I tell you the S. P. C. A. stands for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The Autolot—No, sir. It stands for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Automobileists.

Happy Then.

Who drains his glass And brims with laughter Fears not, alas, The morning after.

Rather Heartless.

"That fellow earns $10 a week and spends eight of it on you."
"He is rather reckless," admitted the girl, carelessly.
"I shouldn't think your mother would want you to receive his attentions."

"Oh, mother knows that a financier of his type will never be able to talk matrimony."

A Rebukey.

"Mary followed Edward," mumbled the high-school girl, who was trying to fix the sovereigns of England in her mind.

"What's that?" spoke up grandma, who had been dozing.

"Mary followed Edward."
"Then you keep away from Mary. I don't want you to go with them kind. Girls is getting too bold."

Marine Intelligence.

He—Isn't that steam yacht a beauty?
She—But how high she stands out of the water; but, then, I suppose she was built for deeper water; besides, it is low tide.

KEEP ANIMALS FROM DRIFTING

National Foresters Build Fences to Confine Cattle to Certain Specified Districts.

Many miles of "drift" fences have been built by the government in recent years for controlling the movement of stock, grazed under permits on the national forest lands.

These fences do not serve to inclose areas, but are simply intended to prevent the animals from going in certain directions, or "drifting," to use a cattleman's expression. In many cases they are used to restrict the animals to certain areas during the winter, as well as to prevent grazing on lands where poisonous plants are found.

In one case five miles of drift fence was built to prevent a city water supply from contamination by forest-range cattle. In one forest, a four and one-half mile fence was built to keep cattle on one range.—Popular Mechanics.

SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR DARKENS YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look Years Younger! Try Grandma's Recipe of Sage and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Adv.

The Wrong Time.
"You can't blame people for not taking good advice. It's so tiresome."
"That's true. And it is usually offered at a time when the person advised is tired of everything."

Just put a few drops of Sloan's on the painful spot and the pain stops. It is really wonderful how quickly Sloan's acts. No need to rub it in—laid on lightly it penetrates to the bone and brings relief at once. Kills rheumatic pain instantly.

Mr. James E. Alexander, of North Harpswell, Me., writes: "Many strains in my back and hips brought on rheumatism in the sciatic nerve. I had it so bad one night when sitting in my chair, that I had to jump on my feet to get relief. I at once applied your Liniment to the affected part and in less than ten minutes it was perfectly easy. I think it is the best of all Liniments I have ever used."

A Message To Women

Those of Middle Age Especially.

When you have found no remedy for the horrors that oppress you during change of life, when through the long hours of the day it seems as though your back would break, when your head aches constantly, you are nervous, depressed and suffer from those dreadful bearing down pains, don't forget that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the safest and surest remedy, and has carried hundreds of women safely through this critical period.

Read what these three women say:

From Mrs. Hornung, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—"I am writing to let you know how much your medicine has done for me. I failed terribly during the last winter and summer and every one remarked about my appearance. I suffered from a female trouble and always had pains in my back, no appetite and at times was very weak."

"I was visiting at a friend's house one day and she thought I needed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and have gained eight pounds, have a good appetite and am feeling better every day. Everybody is asking me what I am doing and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may publish this letter if you wish and I hope others who have the same complaint will see it and get health from your medicine as I did."—Mrs. A. Hornung, 91 Stanton St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Made Me Well and Strong.

MACEDON, N. Y.—"I was all run down and very thin in flesh, nervous, no appetite, could not sleep and was weak, and felt badly all the time. The doctors said I had poor blood and what I had was turning to water. I took different medicines which did not help me, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and strong, and I am recommending it to my friends."—Mrs. Fred Chase, R. No. 2, Macedon, N. Y.

The Change of Life.

BELTSVILLE, Md.—"By the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I have successfully passed through a most trying time, the Change of Life. I suffered with a weakness, and had to stay in bed three days at a time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to perfect health, and I am praising it for the benefit of other women who suffer as I did."—Mrs. W. S. Duvall, Route No. 1, Beltsville, Md.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Some men farm all their lives with their feet. Others farm with their head and feet, and they are the ones who succeed. There are others that farm with their mouths and we need to look out for them.

The more the people are rebuffed the greater their prosperity. It is strange anomaly in the perverted philosophy of the railroads asking for an increase in freight rates, but the wheels are run by Missourians who can not see it.

Nobody is coming over a drought right now and our earlier fears for the sun's summer days have been much allayed. We can largely provide insurance against trouble by doing our spring work in the proper manner.

There is no use grumbling because the good things are not coming your way, when you will make no effort. Too many believe in an old saying, "all things come to those who wait." There is absolutely nothing to it, for the man who waits and doesn't work will not find any of the good things coming his way. Since the beginning of man it is known that he has had to help himself.

With the coming of spring all smiles just as if there had been no winter. What a sad old world it would be if mother earth would put on black for months to tell folks she was in mourning for old father winter. But instead she puts on green and wears her brightest smile and if April sheds showers of tears, it is to bring up May flowers to make folks glad instead of sad.

Someone has advanced the opinion that the letter "e" is the most unfortunate letter in the English alphabet because it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger and in hell all the time. For some reason he overlooked the fortunes of the letter, as we call his attention to the fact that "e" is never in war, always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat, no life and no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect and without it there would be no printers, editors, devils, or news.

The curtain rose on a beautiful nearby level stretch of valley country at the base of low rolling foothills, back of which arose snow capped mountains to adorn the land in all its beauty. It was early spring and everything seemed to take a new hold on life. The birds the trees, and the flowers. A farm house here and there specked the landscape, a farmer and his helper were busy engaged plowing a nearby field. Altogether it was a pleasing picture because it was one of nature.

The film moved, two men crossed the land afoot, maps in hand, they looked this way and that with anxious interest, a party of six men with surveying outfits next on the scene spent a busy day, things began to take on new life. There was animation. The engineers walked day in and day out, little stakes ran in every direction, a mule and a plow with good strong arms between the handles came on the scene, furrows were left behind the plowman, a street was in the breaking—another man and a force of laborers came, they worked and as a result other streets were laid out. A load of lumber came, another and another, carpenters with hammers and saws were added to the list of workers, a house went up, then another then more houses, a great industrial plant went up, two bands of steel came from the east that gave transportation, families moved in. The transformation from a rural to an urban scene was matchless. Men worked like bees in a hive. A town was being built—not a man woman or child were idle. Smoke began to curl from the factory smokestacks, wheels began to turn, men and women hastened into the great industrial plant. Everything smacked at progress, and all the time the town was building there was not an idle day. Happiness was on every countenance. There was plenty of work and plenty of play. The town grew, and grew and grew, half a dozen years passed, the population numbered three thousand, and still the unceasing activities went on. The next six years surpassed the first, the town doubled in size, lights and paving lined the principal streets, the thirteenth year and the fourteenth year passed which brings the climax and the final of the picture thrilling and full of life.

The curtain is rung down on a picture matchless and inspiring. A beautiful city of culture, of homes of churches and schools and pretentious commercial and industrial structures a city of men, women and children who are healthy, home loving and happy. A city where great commercial industry abounds. And why we ask, why this wonderful success, why these great industrial strides? Loyalty is the answer, men and women with the right attitude of mind and heart. That is what we need in Carrizozo, loyalty and cooperation—let every one possess of a civic pride and boosting spirit, that in a few years our state may well feel proud of this community. Help to make this a more prosperous community by trading in your home town with your home merchants who have a personal interest in you. Live as one big family, always for the betterment of the town. Do this and in the coming years the reward of your efforts will be amazing in its monstrosity.

Dr. R. E. Blaney who has been absent the past three weeks on account of the illness and death of his aged father is expected home the last of this week.

The school grounds are improving with the community. Arbor week a Spanish cedar hedge was set on the south and west sides near the fence and forty trees to shade our little ones in the future, if the wind blows enough to keep our wind mill going.

In the recent school election Ernest Mathews was elected to succeed J. H. Kimmons who goes out with many thanks for his untiring interest. It is expected that the new member will take up the yoke and travel in the same progressive path.

NEW MEXICO THE LEADER

Where would you look, in the United States, for the communities of home owners; the communities where the great majority of families live on unincumbered land, and pay rent to nobody? Wouldn't you look to the old states where wealth has been accumulating for centuries, where there has been time to be thrifty, where interest rates are lower, and the fight with nature not so intense? Perhaps you would look there, but if you should, you would be disappointed.

New Mexico is the state, of all the 48, where the largest proportion of homes are owned free, and where the fewest homes are encumbered. Also, with one exception (North Dakota,) New Mexico has the smallest proportion of rented homes among all the 48 states.

In these figures, "homes" refers to all homes, rural and urban. But New Mexico leads all the states of the union also in the percentage of farms owned free, considered separately from urban homes.

It is a splendid record, of which too much cannot be made. The authority is the latest United States statistical atlas, issued by the census bureau. The facts should be displayed in attractive form and circulated everywhere as one of the best advertisements New Mexico could possibly get. This is the remarkable showing:

Percentage of all homes, owned free, 66.3 per cent.

Percentage of homes encumbered 4 per cent.

Percentage of rented homes, 29.7 per cent.

Percentage of farms owned free, 88.9 per cent.

The figures offer splendid encouragement for the man who is looking for a place where he can have a home of his own, free of rent and encumbrance. What nine out of ten farmers have done, acquiring a freehold in New Mexico, the tenth man can do—El Paso Herald

Since taking charge of the Outlook we have mailed out several hundred dollars worth of statements to those who were indebted $1.50 or more, and those whose subscription had expired we mailed statements to them for the advance subscription now due. Some have remitted, but the majority have remained as silent as the seven spirits. We kindly ask every one indebted to us to send in their remittance at once. It seems a little unfair for us to pay interest to keep our business going when we have due us in amounts from $1.50 up, enough to pay all we owe. In fact we cannot understand why a subscription to a newspaper should be the last obligation considered, when most of those indebted are able to pay promptly. A payment now will be appreciated.

GAS, DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" settles sour gassy stomachs in Five minutes—Time It!

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach troubles has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any dealer and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.—Adv.

The Effect of War.

Of course warfare diminishes the population by the sum of the killed, and to that extent decreases the demand for food. Nevertheless, the supply of food diminishes rapidly. That is brought about, says the Malthusian, through the killing of a relatively large proportion of the producers, the putting of efficient laborers at unproductive work, the destroying of the machinery of production, and the checking of agriculture. Thus war immediately increases the pressure of population on the means of subsistence, and the pressure cannot be entirely removed until the normal number of laborers is again reached. In other words, war, like emigration, leaves in the country an excess of women and children and other non-producers, and so, although reducing the actual number of the people, has all the ill effect of overpopulation.

Soldier Poet Wins Dainties.

Sergt. Max Schwertfeger, attached to one of the regiments in Flanders, says the Frankfort correspondence of the Associated Press, offers remarkable evidence of the fact that the power of poetry is not on the wane. When, recently, he broke into verse in an appeal for dainties to vary the monotony of military fare, the poem, which was published in a local paper, prompted such a number of contributions of packages and boxes of delicatessen that Sergeant Schwertfeger was fairly swamped with them. By the time of the Kaiser's birthday, January 20, he had received 1,027 bundles, containing so many varied eatables that he was able to share them with about a thousand members of his battalion.

When, however, the stream showed no signs of stopping, he was obliged to appeal once again, this time asking that the dainties be sent to other soldiers on other battle fronts.

CHILDREN SHOWED IT

Effect of Their Warm Drink in the Morning.

"A year ago I was a wreck from coffee drinking and was on the point of giving up my position in the school room because of nervousness.

"I was telling a friend about it and she said, 'We drink nothing at meal time but Postum, and it is such a comfort to have something we can enjoy drinking with the children.'

"I was astonished that she would allow the children to drink any kind of coffee, but she said Postum was not coffee, but a most healthful drink for children as well as for older ones, and that the condition of both the children and adults showed that to be a fact.

"I was in despair and determined to give Postum a trial, following the directions carefully. It was a decided success and I was completely won by its rich delicious flavor.

"In a short time I noticed a decided improvement in my condition and kept growing better month after month, until now I am healthy, and do my work in the school room with ease and pleasure. I would not return to nerve-destroying coffee for any money."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 25c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicious and cost per cup about the same. "There's a Reason" For Postum.—sold by Grocers.

The Baking Powder Question Solved

—solved once for all by Calumet. For daily use in millions of kitchens has proved that Calumet is highest not only in quality but in leavening power as well—unfailing in results—pure to the extreme—and wonderfully economical in use. Ask your grocer. And try Calumet next bake day.

Received Highest Awards

World's Pure Food Exposition, Chicago, Ill. Paris Exposition, France, March, 1912.

You don't save money when you buy cheap or big-name baking powder. Don't be misled. Buy Calumet. It's more economical—more wholesome—gives best results. Calumet is far superior to sour milk and soda.

IF TRUTH SHOULD BE SPOKEN

There Would Be Many Broken Friendships and Possibly a Few Violent Quarrels.

"How are you, Miss Smith? How cheap and vulgar you are looking today!"

"I always get tired, dear, when I have been kissing you steadily for three-quarters of an hour."

"Yes, thank you; I never slept worse or in a worse bed than yours."

"Can you let me have two good seats, please?" "No, madam. All the good seats have been sold to speculators. But I can let you have a couple of poor ones at twice what they are worth."—Life.

KEEP THE SHEEP DRY

Wet Ewe Is Not Likely to Do Her Best for Owner.

Greatest Damage Resulting From Wetting Is Discomfort Following—Water-Tight Shed Will Prove Quite Satisfactory.

(By E. HENDERSON.)
A few days ago, while returning from our home town, I was struck by the sad and forsaken appearance of a flock of sheep subjected to a beating rain.

Their backs were humped up, their heads drooping and the general appearance gave the impression that they were the victims of a careless and thoughtless farmer.

It is true that the fleece of a sheep is quite long and dense and in an ordinary rain it is quite improbable that the fleece should become thoroughly saturated, but it is also true that all rains are not "ordinary" ones, and we can never tell just when one of these beating, driving rains will come to cause misery to the ewes and loss to the farmer's pocketbook.

It is at once apparent that the wet ewe is not one to do the best for her owner. As long as she is soaked she will not graze, or if she does it will be only enough to furnish the actual needs of the body.

Southdown is Good Breed.

This is not enough. The breeding ewe should secure more feed than maintenance requires if she is to do well for her owner—she must be continually gaining in flesh.

Probably the greatest damage resulting to a ewe on account of a rain is the discomfort that follows the wetting. Think how unpleasant it is to work in wet clothes! How much worse it is, therefore, for the ewe who is naturally of a tender nature, to undergo the discomfort resulting from carrying around a damp fleece. In the summer time when it is warm it is bad enough, but in the winter it is awful.

The fleece, being very dense, it is days before the water will entirely evaporate. Then the greatest amount of the evaporation is caused by the heat of the animal's body.

Just try to think of the heat necessary to evaporate the large amount of water that a thoroughly saturated fleece would hold. Many sheep have caught colds from this very cause that resulted in inflammation, even worse, catarrh.

Rheumatism is often one of the results and a sheep once the victim of this disease is of very little value.

What, then, is the remedy? It is simple. Provide your sheep with dry shelter close to their pasture. It need not be a costly barn. A shed is plenty good enough provided it is water-tight, and it need not be especially warm if it is only dry.

Mongrel Sheep Dogs.

The sheep dog generally used on hill farms is of the collie type, usually a mongrel. Intelligence is sometimes highly developed in oddly bred dogs. Occasionally one comes across an old bobtailed sheep dog at work on the sheep runs and excellently does he discharge his duties.

GENERAL FARM NOTES

Good care goes as far as good feeding with a horse.

Let the sun in through large windows in the stable.

A well ventilated barn gives good return in healthy animals.

Hens make good use of milk. Give them plenty of it, if you can.

Keep the calf pen clean and dry, and give plenty of clean bedding.

It's cheaper to fill the old well with dirt than with a three-year-old colt.

The action of a draft horse is receiving much more attention than formerly.

Buckwheat straw is not good for pigs, often causing an eruption or irritation of the skin.

PICKED UP IN POULTRY YARD

Bantams More Than Pay for Keep in Number of Eggs They Lay—Allments Spread Rapidly.

Many persons are of the opinion that bantams, because of their small size, are valuable only for ornamental purposes. They are mistaken, however, for while they are rather too small for table use, they will more than pay for their keep in the number of eggs they lay.

For those who do not have much room for poultry bantams are excellent chickens. They thrive well in close confinement; a flock of a dozen can be kept in a yard ten feet square, and a good-sized dry goods box will serve as a house.

They are small feeders, yet the females will produce on an average 100 eggs each year, and the eggs are almost as large as those laid by some strains of Leghorns.

Don't let disease of any kind get a start in your flock. As soon as any disease appears, isolate the affected birds in a coop kept for that special purpose, or, if the cases are very bad and the birds are not of special value use the hatchet and destroy the bodies.

An ailment will spread rapidly, hence better sacrifice a few fowls at the start than run the risk of losing many. Disease is sometimes introduced into a flock of birds that have been purchased at other places, so care should always be used in purchasing additional stock.

Everyone who has ever had experience with poultry knows that cleanliness is absolutely imperative if the flock is to prove profitable.

Fowls will do something toward balancing their own rations, and they will take more or less exercise if they have the chance. But they cannot rid their quarters of filth and vermin. No doubt, however, but that the fowls on many farms would be glad if they could perform such work. It would be done then.

The development of the cold storage business in eggs has made it difficult for city people to secure fresh eggs, or good quality eggs, therefore there is a good business for the farmer.

CARING FOR THE BROOD SOW

Animals Intended for Breeding Purposes Should Be Matured, but Not Fat—Induce Exercise.

As the breeding season approaches it is necessary to have the sows in the best of condition. Animals intended for breeding purposes should be matured but not fattened; if immature animals are to be used at all, they should be at least eight months old before being bred.

During pregnancy, sows should have abundant exercise and a variety of feed. During the winter months, unless extra care be taken, brood sows are particularly liable to lie in their quarters and become inactive. Effort should be made to induce them to exercise. This may be accomplished by having them travel around the barnyard for feed, or by housing them some distance from their feeding place, or by making them root for grain scattered under litter on a barn or shed floor. They should not be given too much of any one kind of feed. If excessively fed, corn is particularly objectionable.

GET "STAND" OF ASPARAGUS

Plant Requires Deep, Sandy, Black Loam—Fertilizer Is of the Greatest Importance.

Asparagus requires a deep, sandy, black loam soil, the deeper the better; subsoil of a porous nature and well tilled drained.

The best of fertilizer is one of gigantic importance. Fertilizer in some form must be procured in liberal quantities. Asparagus is not a dainty feeder; it devours alike the fine ground bone of commerce and the dead cat picked up in the back alley.

In starting a family asparagus bed plow the ground at least six inches deep. The plants should be one year old, set in rows three feet apart and eighteen inches apart in the row.

Dig the holes for the plants large enough to receive the roots in their natural position, and eight inches deep.

Two hundred will supply a good-sized family all they can use. Cultivate and fertilize well for two years before cutting and you will have plenty of good asparagus.

"CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

For sick headache, bad breath, Sour Stomach and constipation.

Get a 10-cent box now.

No odds how bad your liver, stomach or bowels; how much your head aches, how miserable and uncomfortable you are from constipation, indigestion, biliousness and sluggish bowels—you always get the desired results with Cascarets.

Don't let your stomach, liver and bowels make you miserable. Take Cascarets to-night; put an end to the headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, sick, sour, gassy stomach, backache and all other distress; cleanse your inside organs of all the bile, gases and constipated matter which is producing the misery.

A 10-cent box means health, happiness and a clear head for months. No more days of gloom and distress if you will take a Cascaret now and then. All stores sell Cascarets. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a cleansing, too. Adv.

Actors Fight Well.

The large number of actors now in the field for Germany is indicated by a recent remark of the emperor while on one of his flying trips to Berlin. Bent on a visit to Staff Physician Dr. von Illberg, his majesty encountered a well-known playwright and Gustav Kadenburg, the actor. Summoning them to him, he announced that many others of their profession were at the front, including two famous actors who have received the Iron Cross. "I am very well satisfied with them," the kaiser declared. "They fight very well, indeed."

KIDNEYS CLOG UP FROM EATING TOO MUCH MEAT

Take Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers—Meat Forms Uric Acid.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or your bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach, rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salt; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with alkalis, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.—Adv.

ECONOMY IN BOILED BEEF

Many and Variable Ways by Which the Meat May Be Used to the Best Advantage.

Since soup bones now cost twenty cents where they used to cost five cents, it is more economical of time and fuel to buy a good holling piece of beef than the shank. Of the several cuts that nearest the shank—namely, the heel of the round—is a good one to get. Every scrap of the meat is usable either when hot or when warmed up in sauces, a nice curry sauce perhaps, or one made by cooking a number of vegetables in the same stock. The stock or bouillon is not only used for soup but for vegetable dishes nowadays; even bouillon potatoes are popular—that is, potatoes hollied in bouillon.

Buy two pounds and a half of the heel of the round of beef. This will make three quarts of medium strong soup stock or bouillon. The cooked meat itself is what the French call "bouilli." The brisket is a favorite piece for this holling with them.

Wash the meat quickly, and if it is to be sliced when cold tie it up compactly. Cover with the amount of cold water necessary. Three quarts may be used for a medium stock, but three pints will make a very strong stock for gravies. Bring slowly to a boil and add enough salt to bring the scum to the surface quickly. For three quarts of liquid an even tablespoonful of salt will not be too much. This may be simmered over the simmering burner, or heat one stone of a fireless cooker to the point where the already boiling meat will continue to boil when set on it; put in a cooker, set covered vessel containing the meat on it, and leave on for five or six hours.

SERVE APPLES IN THIS WAY

What is Known as Fire Balls May Be New to Some of the Younger Housewives.

Select bright red apples, cut off the tops and with a pean knife remove the meat, leaving only sufficient wall to hold apple in shape. Make a filling of the following:

To six apples allow about twelve tablespoonfuls of very dry cooked rice, six tablespoonfuls cracker crumbs, six tablespoonfuls chopped apples, six tablespoonfuls sugar, six tablespoonfuls seeded raisins, six tablespoonfuls chopped almonds.

Whip one egg thoroughly, place in a cup and fill the cup with milk; stir well and place in a double boiler, adding one-half teaspoonful butter, grated rind and juice of one-half lemon and a dash of nutmeg. Cook until it thickens, cool, then mix it into the filling, being careful not to get it too soft. Mold lightly with the fingers and fill the apples, sprinkle with sugar, add a cupful of water and bake in a moderate oven. Serve with whipped cream or custard sauce.—Exchange.

Jelly Whip.

Dissolve one package of gelatin in a cupful of cold water. Add to that two cupfuls of sugar and one quart of boiling water. Divide the mixture into three parts, in one of which place marshmallows and white grapes, in the second one put pineapple and oranges and in the third luts. Fill individual glasses with different mixtures and serve them with whipped cream. Decorate with preserved cherries, candied orange peel and nuts.

Excellent Nut Bread.

Two cupfuls of white flour (sifted), two cupfuls of graham or entire wheat flour (sifted if one chooses), one-half cup of New Orleans molasses, little salt, two cupfuls of milk or water, one cupful of walnut meats (cut up fine), one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in milk, about two tablespoonfuls melted butter. Let raise 20 minutes. Bake about one hour in moderate oven.

Lemon Hard Sauce.

Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter until soft, add one tablespoonful of lemon juice and a little nutmeg, then beat in enough sifted confectioner's sugar to make a light, fluffy mass. Let it harden a little before serving.

Some Special Recipes.

Cook's delicious fudge was made with sour cream instead of fresh milk or cream. What gave the peas she served such a nice color and taste was the adding of a lettuce leaf and a tablespoonful of sugar.

Rising Bread.

Do not cover rising bread in bowls and tins with a dry cloth. Instead, cover with a damp cloth which has been wrung out in warm water. In cold weather the damp cloth should be placed over a dry cloth.

As a result the dough will not dry on the top and the loaves when baked will be much more uniform.

To prevent holes appearing in brown bread prick twice with needle, once when loaves are placed in tins and once immediately before loaves are placed in the oven.

MOTHER! LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs"

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

If All the World Lived in Texas.

If the entire population of the world resided in Texas there would be only an average of ten persons to the acre, according to figures compiled by John Adams of Fort Worth. The population of the world is about 1,500,000,000. If all the inhabitants of the world lived in Texas the density of population would be about equal to the density of Fort Worth's population, which is 5,440 a square mile. There are 265,780 square miles in Texas.—Dallas News.
