PHILATHEA AND RELIABLE CONTEST

An interesting Contest Between the two Senior Sunday School Classes of the M. E. Church-Closes

A JOINT BANQUET AND A GOOD TIME IS HAD

It was a merry party of young people which gathered last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Peters for the banquet of the Philathea and Reliable classes of the Methodist Sunday School. Since the first of the current year these two classes, the former being composed of young ladies and the latter of young men, entered a contest for the securing of new members for the Sunday school. It was understood that the side securing the greatest number of new pupils should be banqueted by the other team of workers. But a coincidence was in store; both sides altho subject to varying fortunes from Sabbath to Sabbath came out exactly even. A compromise was made in the form of a joint banquet and a most delightful occasion it proved to be.

After a general good time in the parlor with songs ensemble and a general merry making the guests filed into the spacious dining hall where dainty place cards were arranged, and the banqueters were soon snugly seated at four long tables arranged crosswise of the room.

The decorations were most appropriate, flowing colors radiating from the center of the ceiling above the heads of the assemblage.

After rousing class yells and the singing of a specially arranged song "A good time we've all had working so now we'll have our fun" the blessing was invoked by Mr. Cribb, and the "fun" began.

The table was most efficiently served by Mesdames Schaffer, Tennis, McQuillen, Lewis, North and Hyde, and Mrs. D. L. Donaldson rendered delightful music from the piano in the parlor while the bodily food was served in the dining hall. The menu consisted of roast chicken and dressing, cream potatoes, dressed eggs, hot rolls and butter, coffee, cocoa, pickles, olives, ice cream and cake.

Before the serving of the last course, a congratulatory address was delivered by Andrew McCurdy Superintendent of the Sunday school. Mr. McCurdy's theme was commendation for the past achievement's and encouragement to future effort and maintenance of the high work already set. Bits of humor and repartee evinced frequent peals of laughter tho the general effect was a forceful appeal. The response to this number was most effectively made by Miss Carmie Tinnon representing the young ladies and Eb Jones for the young men.

Miss Hodgdon then sang "Little Grey Home in the West" and responded to an enthusiastic encore with the ever tuneful "Carmena". Mr. Donaldson gave a most valuable and encouraging talk to the young people on the value of the Sunday school as an aid to correct living. Mr. Donaldson declared that the man of affairs today places no insignificant premium on the services of the young man who indulges regularly in Sabbath school and pronounced it an undeniable asset in real success of any kind.

Then Emuel Anderson toasted the girls in a most delightful style and Miss Peters spoke a complimentary note to the young men and the closing song "Reds and Blues United" rang forth to the accompaniment of Mrs. Donaldson at the piano and the crowd began to disperse with genuine good fellowship in the atmosphere.

Too much cannot be said in praise of those who have inaugurated the forward movement which these young people have executed and the sixty odd present presaged the far reaching results which must inevitably come from the work of these two classes in bringing to Sunday school those who did not previously attend.

JACK MANGUM ARRESTED

Sheriff Chaves received telegraphic instructions last Tuesday to arrest and hold one Jack Mangum, the wire coming from Roseburg, Washington. Mr. Chaves located his man but after he had admitted his identity he made a strenuous effort to squirm out after being told what was wanted. He asked the sheriff to allow him to see a business man, who he knew before taken to jail, which request was granted by Mr. Chaves, with the understanding he should consider himself in his custody until the party arrived. But the wanted man did not see it quite that way and he eluded the sheriff and made his getaway. With the assistance of Pat Carrillo, Mr. Chaves very soon located him in a trash house in the rear of a store-building. He had covered himself over completely with waste paper, paper boxes and other refuse matter. He was taken into custody a second time and placed in a cell in the county jail.

FORT STANTON WINS

A large number of the Carrizozo people went to Fort Stanton last Sunday to see the local baseball team beaten in a score of 8 to 9. It seemed to be an off day for the Carrizozo boys, and despite the rooting and the moral support of the Browns' boosters, they were unable to overcome the lead the Fort grabbed from them in the first inning. A return game with the patients is scheduled for the local ground next Sunday, and Manager Rolland is endeavoring to arrange for games for the two succeeding Sundays with Alamogordo and El Paso.

WATER HEARINGS MONDAY

Two important water hearings are to be held here Monday before a representative of the State Engineer's office. One is the Jake's springs case in which Gov. McDonald's application is protested by Mrs. E. Mathews. Mrs. Mathews is represented by Judge Gatewood of Roswell and Judge Meffie of Santa Fe. The other case being a protest by Fred Neighbauer against the application of Jas. O. Nabours for waters from Three Rivers creek. Hon. A. B. Fall and Seth F. Crews represent the protestant Neighbauer while Lee B. Chase represents Nabours.

COMMISSIONERS HOLD SPECIAL SESSION

Contract is let for Building Cement Side Walks Around Court House Square. Joe White Successful Bidder

WORK TO BE STARTED AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

The board of county commissioners were in session here last Monday for the purpose of opening the bids for the construction of cement walks around the court house square. Only two bids were filed with the clerk, and Joe White being the lower of the two, was awarded the contract. It is understood that Mr. White will begin work just as soon as he can get the material on the ground.

The walks will approximate between nine and ten thousand square feet, it is understood. There will be a wide walk in front of the court house, and one walk will lead to this from the front door. Narrower walks will be built on the north and south sides of the yard, but at this time the commissioners will not build a walk at the rear of the court house walks will be built both north and south, to intersect with those at the outer edge of the lot.

This plan was adopted after carefully considering the proposition of building walks diagonally from the front door to the corners of the lot. With the plan adopted the yard on either side of the main walk, leading from the court house to the street walk, will not be cut up, and a beautiful lawn can be made. Some talk of installing rustic fountains in these squares has been had and as soon as Carrizozo can get sufficient water to operate these fountains, it may be done. Built of the malpais rock, these fountains will add greatly to the beauty of the court house front yard.

It has also been suggested that a low fence of the malpais rock surrounding the entire court yard would be both pleasing to look upon and rather unique. In regard to the matters, the board, of course, has taken no action. They are items to be looked after at a later time, when the improvements which are considered necessary have been taken care of.

Aside from the awarding of the contract for the walks, and allowing a few tax corrections, the board had no other business before it.

SMITH-BRADLEY

Charles Smith and Miss Era Bradley of this city were united in marriage at high noon Tuesday by Rev. E. D. Lewis of the Methodist Church, the ceremony being solemnized at the Peters residence in Highland addition. Mr. and Mrs. Smith left shortly after the ceremony on No. 8 for El Paso where they will spend some days of honeymoon returning to make their home in Carrizozo. Mr. Smith is in the employ of the El Paso & Southwestern railway as car inspector in the local yards and is an exemplary young man. Mrs. Smith was for some time previous to her marriage assistant postmaster in the local post office and has made many friends during her stay in Carrizozo. Both parties are well and favorably known here and are the recipients of their many friends' best wishes for a happy voyage on life's sea.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

There will be a number of pleasing entertainments and exercises at the school building the coming week which no one interested in education can well afford to miss. The first event will be the baccalaureate sermon at the Methodist Church on Sunday evening, May 16th. Rev. R. L. Day will preach the sermon to the graduates and a select choir from both churches will render specially prepared music. The service has been placed in the evening this year to make it possible for the greatest number to attend.

Wednesday night the entertainment will comprise pupils from every grade and every effort is being put forth to make this a most interesting evening. A playlet will be given by the 8th grade and, faithful practice now being maintained indicates an exceptionally good production.

Thursday night the class day exercises for this year's graduates. The specially prepared work of the various officers will be presented in a most attractive manner. This is the opportunity to see the pupils at the best in the salutatory, class history, class prophecy, class poem and valedictory. The lower class men of the high school will assist with various musical numbers.

And the last entertainment of the commencement season will be the graduating exercises Friday evening.

The principal speaker will be Gov. McDonald who will deliver the commencement address. The diplomas will be awarded to the graduates and high school promotions will be given those who have within the past year made as many as five credits toward graduation. Special music at every entertainment. And it will all be free except the entertainment Wednesday night for which a charge of 25c and 35c will be made to defray many expenses attendant upon commencement and some outstanding accounts for school improvement made independent of district resources.

The display work all Friday afternoon will be public, and this will give you an opportunity to see what your children's hands are accomplishing in every department of school life.

Make these exercises a record breaker in Carrizozo school history.

CEMETERY IMPROVEMENTS

Joe White has been awarded the contract of building the fence and making other improvements at the local cemetery by the ladies of the civic league. The fence is to be as near rabbit and stock proof as possible. The rabbit wire is to be imbedded in the ground to a depth of several inches, and the wires above this material are to be strung rather closely together. New posts will be installed, and the wires will be placed between these posts so that support will be given, no matter which way the wind comes from, with its usual crop of tumble weeds.

It is hoped the work will be completed by Memorial day, at which time exercises befitting the day will be held at the cemetery under the auspices of the league. It is the hope and ambition of the ladies to have the grounds all cleaned up by that time, and that those having flowers at that time will remember that that is the day for placing them upon the graves of those who are quietly sleeping in God's acre.

SCHOOL BOARD MET WEDNESDAY EVENING

Teachers Selected for the Ensuing Year. Seventh and Eighth Grades to be Supplied Later

PLANS FOR ADDITIONAL BUILDING DISCUSSED

The new school board met at the office of Mrs. Gumm, county superintendent, last Wednesday evening and organized by selecting Julian Taylor chairman and A. J. Rolland secretary, with Pete Johnson a member.

The principal business of the evening was the selection of teachers for the ensuing school year, and the following selections were made: Andrew McCurdy, superintendent; Mrs. E. V. Jewett, principal of the high school.

Mrs. Harry G. Clunn, vocal and instrumental music.

Miss Mamie E. Humphrey, fifth and sixth grades.

Mrs. Nora Massie, third and fourth grades.

Miss Mildred Peters, second and third grades.

Miss Eva Felton, primary.

A teacher of the seventh and eighth grades will be selected at a later meeting of the board. It is also understood that another teacher for the high school department will be selected.

It gives universal satisfaction to the patrons of the school to know that Mr. McCurdy has been retained as the head of the school for another year. His work has been successful of securing results which were wanted. And this of course, could not have been done had Mr. McCurdy not been surrounded by the crops of painstaking teachers in the grades, nearly all of whom have been retained for the coming year.

The new teachers so far selected are Mrs. Clunn, who will succeed Miss Hodgson, and who comes with excellent recommendations, and Miss Felton, who will have charge of the primary department. Miss Felton was for a number of years primary teacher in the Alamogordo schools, but comes to us from Flagstaff, Arizona, where she has had charge of the primary grade during the past year.

Misses Schimpff and Brock were not applicants for reappointment to their positions in the school, which they have filled to the eminent satisfaction of the patrons of those grades.

The Outlook bespeaks a year of far reaching results when our public school opens next fall. Professor McCurdy has a strong teaching staff, and it cannot be gainsaid that the Carrizozo school will not only keep up its reputation as one of the best schools in the state, but it will forge ahead, if possible, and make a record that can't be beat.

The board realizes that additional room is needed, and this matter will receive attention within a short time.

G. B. Barber and A. J. Rolland, members of the board of regents of the New Mexico Blind Asylum, attended a meeting of the board at Alamogordo last Tuesday.

I stood before him, stunned and bewildered by his obstinacy.
"Am I to understand, General St. Clair, that you question the accuracy of my report?"
"No, sir!" His cheeks flushed. "Only, my young friend, there is nothing to it. This expedition is not interested in what Hamilton is doing on the Maumee. He doesn't dare attack us with his mongrel savages. If he did we'd give him a belly full, and a fine story to send back to England. Come, gentlemen, let's get to more serious affairs. You may go, sir."
I passed out, dazed, unseeing. So this was the man in whose hands rested the fate of the northwest. This was the end of my toll and suffering; this the reward for Brady's death. He had sneered at me, turned me away with a laugh. For a moment I stood shaking from head to foot; then hot anger seized me, and brought me back to life. By heaven! he would learn yet which of us was the fool.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Battle on the Wabash.
He had not even assigned me to service simply turned me adrift to go where I pleased. This implied insult put me to the quick, yet, now that I had taken the measure of the man, I cared little enough for his good opinion. Very well, I would choose my own service then—I would go back to Oldham and his Kentucky militia. He was of fighting blood, if his face spoke truth, and his command was stationed where they would feel the first shock of attack whenever it came.

Oldham received me gladly, and about the fire that night I told of my reception by St. Clair.
"Well, I warned yer, Hayward," the colonel commented, chuckling. "I know the bullet-headed old fool. I reckon he'll know more about Injuns a day or two. Told yer he had his scouts out, did he? Why, man, there isn't one of 'em been ten miles from the column since we began this march; ain't that so, captain? The old cock doesn't know tonight what's goin' on two hundred yards ahead of his outposts." He got up, and stretched out his arms. "And so, gentlemen, we march for the Miami towns in the morning. Old Cock-a-doodle-doo says so. I'll wager a year's pay we never get there. What'n takers? Well, I'm going to bed."

Why should I attempt to describe that drear battle on the east fork of the Wabash? Many another has done it already; yet few tell the story as I remember it.

We were up at dawn, but for no purpose, so far as I could see, unless it was to idle through a leisurely breakfast. I had finished mine, and was smoking, cuddled close to the fire, when the storm broke. Our outposts could not have been a hundred yards in advance, or else they ran without firing a shot, for the red devils burst on us without slightest warning. I heard a hoarse shout of alarm, then whoops and yells, such as would strike terror to the bravest. I was on my feet, gripping my gun in an instant. I saw Oldham leap forward, roaring out an order—then they came, pouring out of the woods into the open, a mass of shrieking demons, half obscured in smoke, their rifles spitting fire. The man beside me went down in a heap; Oldham flung up his arms and toppled over; I saw men stare, then turn and run, peering back over their shoulders with eyes full of horror. I threw up my rifle and fired; sprang back, racing for a tree, loading as I ran. Men were everywhere, a frightened, screaming mob. I saw officers strike them with their swords, cursing them as they fled; they fought to get away, they struck with clinched fists, they battered a path for themselves with clubbed muskets; they became fiends from terror, every semblance of men lost. God! may I never see such a sight again! My hand trembles as I write of it.

Into that terror-stricken, fleeing mob the naked warriors came, hacking with tomahawks, slashing with knives, battering with clubbed guns. The snow was red with blood, covered with dead bodies. It was massacre. I know not how I got out of it, but I fought back from tree to tree, firing as I halted, loading as I ran. There were others with me, cool-headed fellows, and we held the painted demons back until a hundred of us, or more, gained the opening by the river, where the regulars and artillery were. But the savage hordes, infuriated by victory, struck with slaughter, were at our very heels. They lined the edge of the woods and poured in deadly volleys. There was no sound now, no yelling—only the incessant rattle of firearms, as they crept from log to log, and tree to tree, slowly drawing closer. They filed off to either side and hemmed us in, the river alone protecting our rear. Through the clouds of smoke we caught glimpses of their flitting figures, distorted, horrible, of faces striped black and red, of waving feathers, and brandishing arms. Never before or since have I seen Indians fight as they did that day—rushing to the charge, leaping straight at us through the smoke, and firing with deadly aim into our very faces. They shot us down with no rest, no cessation, no time in which to breathe.

Twice they took the guns, swarming forward with a fierce rush that flung us back, and crushed the gunners under foot. But they were in the open now, and we could see; with bayonets and clubbed rifles we charged home, driving them back to the woods. There they held us, while from every hollow and grass patch, every tree and fallen log, their rifles spat fire. The bands of my gun flew off, and I picked up another; I was out of powder and ball and took them from a dead body. The dead lay everywhere, alone, in heaps; cries of the wounded, rose above the din. We charged over the bodies, crunching them under foot, seeking to reach our invisible foes. They would not stand, would not meet us. Helpless, bleeding, dying, confused by many orders, we fell back, yet still retained line, and fronted that blazing wood. Frightened, panic-stricken men were everywhere, running and shrieking in terror, seeking vainly for some means of escape from the savage cordon. Indians crept forward under the smoke to scalp and mutilate the dead and dying. Horses from the artillery and staff, breaking loose, charged wildly about, trampling living and dead alike under their feet. Women, camp followers, were wedged in the mob, their shrill screams piercing the mad uproar. Only the regulars stood intact, a thin blue line, with here and there among them a few militiamen who kept their heads. About the guns, not a dozen powder-grimed artillerymen remained. Not an officer of the battery was left; not one of the regulars un wounded.

I heard St. Clair storming up and down behind us, swearing and shouting orders in his high, cracked voice, yet took no time to glance toward him. The smoke settled down upon us in a cloud; we fought blindly, in the dark, hardly certain but we stood alone. I was beside Butler when he was struck, and helped drag him aside out of the rout. Then I saw St. Clair, and, as I stopped a second, staring into his face to be sure of his identity, an officer rushed up through the smoke cloud, knocking me aside, everything forgotten but his urgent message.

"General St. Clair," he cried, "we must get out of here, sir. My men cannot stand five minutes longer. If that line breaks it will cost every life. For God's sake, let us go."

"Yes—yes, Colonel Darke, but how is it to be accomplished, sir? See those fool cowards!"

Darke swept his hand out to the south in sudden gesture.
"There is only one way, sir—there by the road. I can hold the regulars steady; they'll cover the rear, and give the others a chance. One fierce charge forward with the bayonet will drive those devils back, and open the way. May I try it, sir?"

"Ay, try it. Hold! I'll lead them myself. Here, Simmons, Cauley, lash those skulkers into the road there, while we clear a path."
I sprang forward with the others in response to swift orders. We made the woods and plunged into their shadows. There was a fierce, mad struggle face to face, bayonets and clubbed muskets, knives and tomahawks. St. Clair, on an artillery horse, led the way. We swept the front of the broad road clear, the impetuosity of our reckless charge forcing the startled savages into full retreat. Then we dropped to our knees, loading and firing to hold the advantage. Behind us, into the open road, surged the mob of panic-stricken men, fighting and crowding, beginning their long race back to the Ohio. It was a sickening sight, the white, ghastly faces, the wounded limping along, the brutal acts of fear, and over all the ceaseless cries and profanity. I caught glimpses of women among the seething mass, hustled and thrown under foot in the mad terror. The sight of them brought back to me the remembrance of Rene. Was she also crushed in that mob, festering for life, or was she still in the weak seat, trembling as she stared out helplessly on the stricken field? I turned and ran, heedless of all else, plunging through the stream of fugitives, blowing a passage with my blnk. I had done my duty—now I must save her!

CHAPTER XXV.

The Retreat.
I had no faith I should find her there, but I fought my way through to the tent. It had been knocked half over, the camp stove overturned, the long bench smashed into kindling wood. With stinking heart I flung back the sagging canvas, and cast one glance within. As heaven witnesses, she stood there, the blanket still wrapped about her, her hands grasping a rifle, her face turned toward me. Unconsciously her lips gave utterance to a cry of relief, and her expression changed. I sprang forward, eager, glad.

"Rene, you are here!" I cried out. "Why did you stay?"
"It was the word of monsieur," she answered simply. "Monsieur said stay till he come."

"Yes, yes, I know; but I never thought of this; never dreamed of such a defeat. But there is no time to waste in talk. There is nothing to do but run for it now. Come, lass!"

Before she realized what I was going to do, I had flung away my rifle and seized her in my arms. She was a light, slender thing, and I held her tight in the folds of the blanket, scarcely feeling her weight. She made no effort to resist, yet her eyes—bewildered, half-frightened—looked into my face. I gave them no heed, my whole purpose concentrated on the one effort to save her, to fight a passage through that mob of frightened men. The spirit of panic had gripped me also—not for myself, but for her! Here was my duty now; not back yonder where those regulars stood grimly in line, and died with their shoulders touching; not where I had fought all day in the powder-cloud facing those forest demons—but in the mob of fugitives, battling and cursing for their lives. The road was littered with guns thrown away, with discarded blankets and powder horns. I dared not look back, straining every muscle, staggering forward over the ruts. The roar of guns behind grew faint in the distance; the spit of rifles from the thickets ceased. Exhausted, breathless, reeling from fatigue, I put her down, and, with arm about her, stood an instant looking back.

They were coming, a dark mass bearing down upon us, but ahead of them, wild with terror, his harness flapping at his heels, his head flung from side to side, charged an artillery horse full tilt. In his mad terror he saw and knew nothing. He came straight at us, running as if crazed. I flung the girl into the side of the road and leaped recklessly for his head. My hand gripped the mane, then the leather rein; I was flung from my feet, jerked into the air, but hung; my moccasins touched ground again. I was dragged forward, rendered half unconscious by a blow, but weight told. I got fingers on his nostrils, and he stood still, panting and trembling. Clinging to him, warned by shouts to hurry, I stripped the harness and hoisted her onto the bare back. Even as this was accomplished the head of that shrieking mob was on us; one brute grabbed her by the arm seeking to pull her down, and I struck him with all the force I had. Then I ran forward, clasping the horse by the bit, crunching our way, heedless of who opposed or blocked our passage. And they made way for us; even in their blind terror, they swept aside to escape being trampled under the animal's hoofs, and left before us a clear path.

I looked eagerly for some place in which to turn aside, saw the faint trace of an Indian trail, seemingly leading down the bank of the stream, and, with instant decision, turned into it. I walked the horse now, and Rene sat up straight, and fastened her disarranged hair. The narrow trail led through dense thickets and about a slight hill; in five minutes we were out of sight of the road, alone in the wilderness. To the right through trees was the glimmer of the river. The horse panted heavily, and the way was rough. There was blood I noticed now, on his flank, and he limped slightly as he walked. I staggered and reeled from weariness, feeling reaction from excitement, yet kept grimly on until we must have covered two miles, wandering in and out among the low hills. No sounds reached us, and as we came into a narrow ravine, promising concealment, I released my grasp on the bit and staggered back against the bank. Mademoiselle slipped from her seat and hastened to me.

"You are worn out, monsieur, wounded!"
"Worn out, yet, but nothing has touched me save a blow or two. I—I think we can rest now."

Then it occurred to me, a thought that had swept into my mind once before—we had no provisions, no chance to get away and we dare not shoot, nor build a fire.
"What is it, monsieur?"
"Why, we have nothing to eat, Rene," I admitted reluctantly. "It is a long journey to the Ohio, and how are we to keep from starving? Faith! but I am near that now."
She stood before me, slender, erect, the blanket draped about her, her eyes lowered.

"It was mine to remember, monsieur," she said simply, as if it was all the most ordinary thing in the world. "I knew not what would happen, and there was food there. When the women ran away, and I would not go, because you told me not, I knew it would be best that I take some. You do not blame me, monsieur?"

"Blame! you are a jewel; but I see nothing of it! Where—"
"Tis here, monsieur; I am glad if I please you."

She flung aside the blanket, dropping it to the ground, revealing a black ammunition bag strapped across her shoulder. I remembered now feeling it when I held her in my arms, vaguely wondering what it was. She unclasped and opened it.

"Monsieur must eat," she said gravely, "and sleep. Then he will be strong again."

I tried to do as she said, munching a few mouthfuls. Her actions, her words, her manner toward me, both bewildered and angered. She had assumed the part of a servant—phosent it, as if she would thus teach me my own place. In every possible way she showed me she was not there from choice, but necessity. I lay back, toying with the food, my appetite gone. The wounded horse had been down to the river and drank; now he was pawing the snow in an effort to discover feed. Over in the east, but some distance off, a rifle cracked ominously in the silence. My head fell back against the bank, and I was sound asleep.

It was two days later when we toiled up a long hill, and came out upon the summit. I no longer needed to lead the horse, and was plodding along wearily behind. Much of the snow had melted, leaving the soil soft, and the trees appeared bare, phantom-like, against the sky. Rene rode silently, wrapped in her blanket, for the air was chill and damp, her head bent, her eyes straight ahead. I have no remembrance that we had spoken for an hour. Beyond the hill summit there was an escarpment of rock, giving an open view ahead. As I gazed off, over the trees below, my heart gave a great bound—there, scarce a mile away, flowing between leagues of forest, was the broad Ohio, its waters silvery in the sun. I turned to her and pointed.

"At last, Rene," I cried, forgetting. "We are safe now; see! There is the river."

She lifted her eyes and looked.
"Yes, monsieur."
"Why do you ever speak to me in that tone? You answer me always as if you were my servant."

"Your servant!" She was looking at me now. "Am I not, monsieur?"
"Of course you are not. You are free; whatever put that in your head? I haven't known what to think, what to do since we have been together. Back on the Maumee I—I thought you loved me."

"I do love you, monsieur."
"You—you love me," I stammered. "And yet bear yourself as you do?"
"Yes, monsieur; how else could I do? You are white; I am an Indian."
"Is that all? You think that makes it different? Rene, I love you; out yonder is my home; I would take you there; I would say to those who know me—here is my wife."

"Your—your wife!" There was doubt, questioning in her eyes.
"Yes; of course; how could you think otherwise?"

"Oh, monsieur, how could I know? How could I believe? I was an Indian girl, a Wyandot. It is not so the white men come to our villages. I have seen them—the red-coats, the traders of France. They take with the strong hand, and then laugh, and go away. Then you came and grasped me, and said get into the canoe. I tried to not go, but you said yes, I must. You did not ask me, monsieur—you spoke stern, angry. I was frightened, I dare not say no, so I did as you said—I was your prisoner; you had taken me as the warriors of the Wyandots take the maidens of the Ojibwas."

"Then if that was so, why did you not leave me—that night the Indians passed us in camp?"
Her cheeks flamed.
"I—I could not, monsieur—I loved you."

"And now?—now you will go with me down there—a prisoner no longer, but my own?"

"Always and forever?"
"Always and forever," I answered gravely.

There was something new, wonderful in the depths of the dark eyes that looked into mine. I saw her hands clasp the white cross at her throat, then they were held out to me.
"I am so glad, monsieur," she said softly, "so glad!"

Oversupply of Stomachs.
Two stomachs have been discovered in a male inmate of a hospital at Interlaken, Switzerland. The youth in question, who is aged nineteen, was under examination by the Roentgen rays for stomach disorders when the doctors found that he was possessed of two stomachs. The case has caused a great sensation in the medical world, and the youth is going to Berlin for further investigation to be made.

Have You a Bad Back?

Does your back ache night and day, making work a burden and rest impossible? Do you suffer stabbing, darting pains when stooping or lifting? Most bad backs are due to hidden troubles in the kidneys and if the kidney secretions are scant or too frequent or passage, proof of kidney trouble is complete. Delay may pave the way to serious kidney ill. For bad backs and weak kidneys, use Doan's Kidney Pills—recommended the world over.

Joseph B. Hankins, of Block, Pueblo, Colo., says: "My back and kidneys gave me no end of trouble. I couldn't rest well and when I caught cold or a fever, my back ached constantly. The kidney secretions were irregular. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They removed all the aches and pains and made my kidneys normal."

NEWSPAPER ERRORS

The capacity of some people for detecting errors in newspapers is marvelous. Also it is singular how many unexpected meanings these people can find.

If the reporter writes that a man wore a coat of such a character, some one may call up and ask if the coat was all the man had on? To satisfy these literarists you must enumerate item by item the other articles of attire, or they will accuse you of making the victim appear half naked.

The reader who digests his paper in the quiet of his home feels that he has shown great brilliancy if he detects an error in grammar or capitalization. It is one thing to find mistakes at your leisure in another man's work, quite another to turn out high degree of accuracy and precision in the haste of newspaper composition.

The banker makes blunders in his figures, the lawyer draws up incorrect papers, and the business man submits erroneous bills. Such blunders are known only to the few persons whom they concern. The newspaper man is like the actor on the stage, whose slightest slip is manifest to all.

It would be perfectly possible to produce a newspaper having the same degree of accuracy as the best edited magazine. But this would either cost about twice as much for a more costly force, or else the scope and field of the newspaper would have to be reduced, and less matter printed. The public would not pay the bills in the first case and it would not be satisfied with the curtailment of service. So the newspapers struggle along as the best they can in their eternal effort to accomplish, that impossibility, a snapshot of daily life that shall be permanent and absolutely truthful history.

The newspaper man is not offended when he is jollied on such mistakes as creep in. He merely wishes his critics could have his job about one week.

And another thing; the person that can tell the editor how to conduct his business is the one who knows the least about it, and who gives the paper little, if any support. But of course there will always be "croakers" at the newspapers as long as there is one in existence.

NOTICE OF CONTEST

Department of the Interior,
 United States Land Office
 Roswell, New Mexico,
 May 6, 1915.

To Thomas J. Givons of Carrizozo, New Mexico, Contestee:

You are hereby notified that John H. Hoffman, who gives Carrizozo, New Mexico, as his post-office address, did on April 26th, 1915, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your Homestead, Entry No. _____, Serial No 019803, made August 28, 1909, for N 1/4 SW 1/4; S 1/4 NW 1/4 Section 31, Township 7 South, Range 11 East, New Mexico Meridian, and as grounds for his contest he alleges that you have wholly abandoned said claim for more than one year last past, and have not complied, nor are not now complying with the requirements of the homestead laws as regards residence and cultivation on said claim.

You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken by this office as having been confessed by you, and your said entry will be canceled thereunder without your further right to be heard therein either before this office or on appeal, if you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the fourth publication of this notice, as shown below, your answer, under oath, specially meeting and responding to these allegations of contest, or if you fail within that time to file in this office due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail. If this service is made by the delivery of a copy of your answer to the contestant in person, proof of such service must be either the said contestant's written acknowledgment of his receipt of the copy, showing the date of its receipt, or the affidavit of the person by whom the delivery was made stating when and where the copy was delivered; if made by registered mail, proof of such service must consist of the affidavit of the person by whom the copy was mailed stating when and the post office to which it was mailed, and this affidavit must be accompanied by the postmaster's receipt for the letter.

You should state in your answer the name of the post office to which you desire future notices to be sent to you.

EMMETT PATTON,
 Register.

WHIM WHAMS

Years of loafing make a good checker and pool player

It is said the katy-dids have begun their annual didding in Roswell.

"She dropped him instantly" "Oh, I see and that broke their engagement"

There is a good use for everything in this world. Lightning struck a man who was practicing on a corner in Roswell last week.

A certain New Mexico town has an ordinance against "chickens running loose," which causes an exchange to ask if it covers the kind seen at depots and postoffices.

We heard a Lincoln county farmer tell another last week that there isn't but one fault to befalling hay, and that is, there's no place to hide the jug when you're finished.

Now while we are all thinking of swatting the fly and doing our Christmas shopping early, let us not overlook the fact that Carrizozo will probably have a fall festival.

We look for a sudden increase in the popularity of the spider, inasmuch as a Socorro county man was arrested recently for celebrating too hilariously and declared that his hilarity was due to a spider bite.

In speaking of a woman being sick an exchange says: "The doctors who have been treating her, pronounce her case helpless." Now the Outlook wonders what kind of a new disease that is?

It is said that a Carrizozo minister went into a drug store at Tularosa a few weeks ago and asked the proprietor if he kept the Sabbath. The druggist replied: "No sir, but I have something just as good."

When a young lady places a flower in the lapel of a man's coat, she always tilts up her chin and looks at it sideways. The fellow that doesn't tumble is slow enough to get run over by a funeral procession, says an exchange.

Mother Eve lived in the garden of Eden long ago entirely nude until the apple episode, but when she ate the apple a change came for the better. Judging from the kind of dress many of the women are wearing these days, its about time to pass the apples again.

A hen stood on the garden lot, whence all but her had fled; and didn't leave a planted sport, in the early onion bed. With vim she worked, both feet and legs, and the gardener says he bets she was trying to find the kind of eggs on which the chicken sets.

A teacher in a southern New Mexico district recently received the following note from a sarcastic parent: "Pardon me for calling your attention to the fact that you have pulled Loyd's right ear until it is longer than the other. Please pull the left ear for a while and oblige his mother."

MAY

In May the barefoot boy appears, reminding us of bygone years when we, too, suffered all the woes of busting brickbats with our toes. The girl graduate will come and tell us how the world should run. Orations on both war and peace will startle men from Main to Greece. Let's hope the kings will comprehend and bring their present strife to end.

Speaking of war and peace, the month of May seems always to have taken a pretty free hand in both. A man named Dewey, you will remember, pulled off quite a stunt in Manila Bay once. It was May 1, seventeen years ago. The treaty of Aix la Chapelle was signed May 2, 1668. Chicago's Haymarket riots occurred in May, 1886. The war god persuaded Diaz it was a good time for him to quit Mexico four years ago this month. Ticonderoga surrendered May 10, 1775. The last bloodshed of the civil war is said to have been on May 22, 1865, and the first declaration of war in the colonies was made May 28, 1672. These historical facts however, are mere incidents compared with the real battles the little Love God is framing up all over the world this month.

But why talk of marriage and war, when both fishing and baseball are at hand? If Europe had three or four good baseball leagues she wouldn't have to go to war to attract attention. And if it wasn't for the inter-marriages the ruling heads wouldn't have so much to scrap over. But we should worry over them; we'll let 'em fight it out, and then when devastation is their lot we'll sell 'em everything we've got. So while 'tis May go sow the seed to raise the grain our world will need, and while we're sowing let us pray and thank our God for U S A

TO THE WASTE BASKET

The fellow who continues to send in stuff to "please publish, exclusive in your district," at the same time saying, "this matter is of vital interest to the public and of course your readers are interested," might look into the newspaper office waste basket if he wishes to find out what becomes of his dope. The state institutions in New Mexico are the biggest beggars for free space the press has to contend with.—Coffax County Stockman

WHITE OAKS

Spring is here, the spring is here,
Cause it is the time of year,
Now will come the birds and bats,
Garden sass and chipper hats,
Gauzy togs and lingaree,
The kind you shut your eyes to see,
pening buds and tango hop,
Joyous rides and ginger pop,
Lazy bones and hazy skies,
Howling winds and microbe flies,
And the native who last fall,
Crept inside his 'dobe wall,
Seeks once more the outer side,
In the sun to bake his hide,
Yes spring is here, each guy betimes,
Now twists it into scrambled rhymes,
And hopes thereby, though for a miss
To dope the reader same as this.

Miss Teresa McDonald is up from El Paso stopping at the Littells.

The Spences and Rudiselles went over to Ancho Tuesday to visit friends and later experienced the exhilaration of hunting a perambulating sheep camp in an automobile.

A very enjoyable dance was held at the club rooms Saturday night—so enjoyable in fact that they ran it into the morning of the night before.

J. W. Kniffin returned Monday from El Paso bringing his family with him, and will proceed at once to remodel the Wild Cat cyanide plant and put in the very latest contrivances for corraling refractory ore.

Paul Mayer, Jr., and family are now living on their ranch near the mouth of Dark canyon in Carizo mountain. Paul was lucky in capturing the position of ranger on the Lincoln Forest Reserve and his new home will be right inside of the line.

The Spences entertained the La Forces and other friends at a very enjoyable picnic out on the mal pais the first of the week. The writer was fortunate enough to be one who partook of their solid and overflowing hospitality, in fact he was right on top of the overflow.

Dr. W. B. La Force, one of the prominent physicians of Iowa, though late, one of the faculty of the state medical college at Keokuck, that state, is now in this locality in quest of rest and health of which this climate is so abundantly endowed. The doctor's wife is a sister of Mrs. Wills, the superintendent of the brick plant at Ancho. The two families spent the week end with the Rudiselles at White Oaks. The doctor and Mrs. Rudiselle are cousins.

Miss Edith Wells, one of Lincoln county's school teachers, who for the past winter has been teaching in the county high school has turned her little flock out to graze for the summer and is now resting beside the running brook and amid the apple blossoms at the home ranch—the place of her birth and her "Heart's Desire."

NOTICE OF CONTEST

Department of the Interior,
United States Land Office.
Roswell, New Mexico, April 24, 1915
To Harold P. Clarke of Los Angeles, California, Contestee.

You are hereby notified that Manuel Vilji who gives Glencoe, New Mexico, as his post office address, did on April 8, 1915, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your homestead, Entry No. —, Serial No. 027280, made 1913; for S 4 SW 1 and NE 1 SW 1, Section 24, Township 10 S, Range 15 E, N. M. Pr. Meridian, and as grounds for his contest he alleges that said Harold P. Clark has abandoned the said land for more than six months last past; that he has removed from the State of New Mexico, and he is now outside of the State of New Mexico, having totally abandoned the said land; that he has failed to break and cultivate any portion of the land as required under the homestead law.

You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken by this office as having been confessed by you and your said entry will be canceled there, under without your further right to be heard therein, either before this office or on appeal, if you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the FOURTH publication of this notice, as shown below, your answer, under oath, specifically meeting and responding to these allegations of contest, or if you fail within that time to file in this office due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail. If this service is made by the delivery of a copy of your answer to the contestant in person, proof of such service must be either the said contestant's written acknowledgement of his receipt of the copy, showing the date of its receipt, or the affidavit of the person by whom the delivery was made stating when and where the copy was delivered; if made by registered mail, proof of such service must consist of the affidavit of the person by whom the copy was mailed stating when and the post office to which it was mailed, and this affidavit must be accompanied by the postmaster's receipt for the letter.

You should state in your answer the name of the post office to which you desire future notices to be sent to you.

THE STORY OF JANE

Jane was a good girl, but she had been an only child and it had made a difference to the lad.

Then, too, Jane's mother had the foolish idea that it was fine to slave in the kitchen, washing dishes and peeling potatoes, while Jane, dolled up, sat in the front room and read trashy novels or thumped rag-time on the piano.

Then, when Jane grew older and had to be "educated" of course nothing would do but a polishing school, where they teach you most everything except the things that are really important.

So after all, it was not Jane's fault that when she had arrived at womanhood and was ripe for a home of her own she didn't have a single qualification for running one and was as helpless, almost, as a doll.

Besides, she had never been taught to save. She was an extravagance that no ordinary man could afford. She, therefore, had to marry money, become an "old maid" or take desperate chances of breaking a poor man's pocket book and heart.

What really happened was that Jane met the right man and came down from her high horse. She learned to cook, to plan and to save—after marriage, at a great expense.

But wouldn't you think a common sense scheme of education would have made sure of these vital things earlier?

NOTICE OF CONTEST

Department of the Interior,
 United States Land Office.

Roswell, New Mexico, May 6, 1915.
 To Charles T. Robertson of Carrizozo,
 New Mexico Contestant:

You are hereby notified that John H. Hoffman who gives Carrizozo New Mexico, as his post office address, did on April 26th., 1915, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your Homestead, Entry No. 15372, Serial No. made May 27th., 1908, for SE 1/4 NE 1/4 NE 1/4 SE 1/4 Section 31 and N 1/4 SW 1/4 Section 32, Township 7 South, Range 11 East, N. M. P. Meridian, and as grounds for his contest he alleges that you have wholly abandoned said claim for more than one year last past, and have not complied, nor are not now complying with the requirements of the homestead laws, as regards cultivation and residence.

You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken by this office as having been confessed by you, and your said entry will be canceled thereunder without your further right to be heard thereon, either before this office or on appeal, if you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the fourth publication of this notice, as shown below, your answer, under oath, specifically meeting and responding to these allegations of contest, or if you fail within that time to file in this office due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail. If this service is made by the delivery of a copy of your answer to the contestant in person, proof of such service must be either the said contestant's written acknowledgment of his receipt of the copy, showing the date of its receipt, or the affidavit of the person by whom the delivery was made stating when and where, the copy was delivered; if made by registered mail, proof of such service must consist of the affidavit of the person by whom the copy was mailed stating when and the post office to which it was mailed, and this affidavit must be accompanied by the postmaster's receipt for the letter.

You should state in your answer the name of the post office to which you desire future notices to be sent to you.

WOMAN WOULD NOT GIVE UP

Though Sick and Suffering; At Last Found Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Richmond, Pa. — "When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was in a dreadfully rundown state of health, had internal troubles, and was so extremely nervous and prostrated that if I had given in to my feelings I would have been in bed. As it was I had hardly strength at times to be on my feet and what I did do was by a great effort. I could not sleep at night and of course felt very bad in the morning, and had a steady headache.

"After taking the second bottle I noticed that the headache was not so bad, I rested better, and my nerves were stronger. I continued its use until it made a new woman of me, and now I can hardly realize that I am able to do so much as I do. Whenever I know any woman in need of a good medicine I highly praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. FRANK CLARK, 3146 N. Tulip St., Richmond, Pa.

Women Have Been Telling Women for forty years how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health when suffering with female ills. This accounts for the enormous demand for it from coast to coast. If you are troubled with any ailment peculiar to women why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? It will pay you to do so. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

MAKING BEST USE OF NUTS

They May Be Employed in Innumerable Ways, and Are Nutritious and Appetizing.

Nuts add attractiveness and nutrition to many a plain dish. They are especially valuable for the school luncheon basket, as they make tempting sandwich fillings when combined with chopped celery, olives, fresh and dried fruits. They give the same nutrition as does meat. They give the needed touch to a pudding, dessert, cake filling or salad. Consequently we are including the toothsome nut meats more plentifully in the various cooked dishes.

Buy nuts in the shell whenever possible, as it is a much safer plan, but if you are obliged to get nuts that are shelled subject them to the following treatment to free them from any germs that may be lurking round them. Place them in a colander and pour boiling water over them very quickly, and at once immerse in very cold water, then drain and wipe dry in a folded napkin. This does not affect the oils and crispness of the nut meats if it is done quickly.

Choose almonds with thick shells, as they have the richest and sweetest meats. To blanch them, pour boiling water over them, turn them upon a clean towel and rub the brown skins from them. To extract pecans whole from the shells, pour boiling water over them and let them stand until cold. Crack them at the small ends. The kernels of English walnuts that are a trifle rancid for use can be sweetened if boiling water containing a pinch of soda is poured over them. Rinse in cold water and dry in the sun.

TO SERVE WITH BOILED FISH

Sauce That is Exceptionally Good, Recommended by One of the Best-Known Chefs.

Fish sauce is almost more important than the fish. This is something good: Take the yolks of two eggs, one cupful of brown sauce and one tablespoonful of vinegar or lemon juice. Make the brown sauce by browning two tablespoonfuls of butter in the frying pan, stir in a tablespoonful of flour, salt and pepper and add a cupful of the water in which the fish was boiled, and boil until it thickens. Beat the yolks of the eggs and stir the hot brown sauce into it. Put it on the stove and let it boil a minute or two, add the vinegar or lemon juice and serve hot with the fish.

Here is another delicious recipe for a sauce to serve with boiled or steamed fish: Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until well blended. Then pour on gradually, while stirring constantly, one cupful of white stock and one-half cupful of cream. Bring to the boiling point and add one-fourth cupful of blanched and shredded almonds, eight olives (stoned and cut in quarters), one-half a tablespoonful of lemon juice, one teaspoonful of beef extract, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a few grains of cayenne.

Honey Gingerbread

Heat together one cupful of honey and one half cupful of butter, blending well, and just before it reaches the boiling point remove from the fire, add one-half cupful of sour milk, two well-beaten eggs, two cupfuls of flour, one-half teaspoonful each of cinnamon, ginger and salt and one and three-fourths teaspoonfuls of soda. When baked and nearly cool coat with a thin icing.

Cheap Clothes Hamper

Get a cardboard box at the department store, that which Berlin kettles come packed in. Stand it on end, and if there is no cover one can be easily made. Cover it with wallpaper that you happen to have, or cretonne, and you will have a nice light clothes hamper, and it holds a good-sized Monday wash.

Lamb Flank Roast

Buy two pieces of lamb flanks, which will weigh about three pounds and cost from five to eight cents a pound. Make bread dressing, as for chicken. Place four or five pieces of twine on the table and lay one piece of flank on the twine, spread the dressing over the meat and place the other on top, then tie each piece of twine around the whole to keep them together and hold in shape. Put in the roasting pan, salt and dredge with flour. Bake two hours. This makes a very pretty and delicious roast.

No Greasy Smell

Many a good cook will be surprised at the excellent results obtained by the use of a raw furnip for "greasing" the pancake griddle. Cut the vegetable in two and rub the griddle with the raw surface and then bake the cakes in the usual way. The cakes are beautifully browned, and there is no greasy smell or smoke.

To Drive Away Roaches

Common bracken fern laid down in places frequented by cockroaches will drive them away.

C. M. CONROY FINDS WAY TO HEALTH

Conquered Stomach Trouble in "One, Two, Three" Order.

Here is the cheerful story of how C. M. Conroy of Monte Vista, Colo., won back his health in a hurry, after suffering for a long time from stomach derangements and liver troubles.

Mr. Conroy's experience shows in a striking way how quickly and surely Mayr's Wonderful Remedy does its work. "My medicine came all right. I took it as directed. The first bottle removed fifty gall stones, the second only three gall stones and the third none. The tonic regulated my system in good shape. I feel like a new man now. I think I have all my troubles banished and I do not think I will need any more medicine. I believe I am cured."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.—Adv.

WHEN CONFIDENCE IS LOST

Man Who Fails to Do What He Says Cannot Expect to Be Held in Any Great Respect.

I have long received with amiability, I hope, the professions of all sorts and conditions of men. But after I have heard their professions, I wait patiently to see their performance. If a man wishes me to consider him to be loyal, for example, I must really trouble him to show his quality when put to the test; and if he cannot do so I may not say anything the next time he comes around and professes his loyalty, but I will do a lot of thinking. I wonder within my own head if he really thinks that I am deceived; if he really thinks that I am as innocent as I look. That is the rigid and stern standard to which we hold each other, whether we realize it or not. You know the slang expression, "He is a bad actor." You are not speaking of the stage. You mean he does not do what he says; and the minute you find he does not do what he says, then it is all up so far as your trustfulness and admiration and willing dealings with him are concerned.—Woodrow Wilson.

PUT IT OVER THE CENSOR

German Prisoner in France Cleverly Contrived to Send Information to Home Folks.

According to the Germans, German prisoners of war in France are not always cared for as luxuriously as they might be if they were French prisoners of war in Germany with no harder task in hand than the cleaning of Berlin's streets. They tell of a certain Hans Schmidt from a town in Saxony who was so unlucky as to be surprised with his companions on outpost duty and carried off to a French prison camp. He fared no better than many of his countrymen in captivity. In fact, he fared very badly. But he couldn't even try to let his friends at home know how things were going for fear of making bad worse. At last, however, he managed to give a hint. To an inquiry from home as to his welfare he replied: "It is just as if I were at home in our Forest Home."

The French censor could not know that Forest Home was the name in Schmidt's part of Saxony for the prison devoted to the worst criminals.

Lull in the Day's Work

The instruction in folk dancing which the children now receive in the public schools and recreation centers has done much to develop a wholesome and delightful form of exercise, and has given picturesqueness to the dancing in the streets. But yesterday I found myself pausing on East Houston street to watch a group of children assemble at the sound of a familiar dance from a hurdy-gurdy, and looking up I met the sympathetic smile of a teamster who had also stopped. The children, absorbed in their dance, were quite unobservant that congested traffic had halted and that busy people had taken a moment from their engrossing problems to be refreshed by the sight of their youth and grace. For that brief instant even the cry of "War extra" was unheeded.—Lillian D. Wald, in the Atlantic.

The reasons for Certain-teed Roofing

Every buyer needs the proper assurance, when he pays for the best quality, that a second or third quality will not be delivered. The market is flooded with too many brands. Some manufacturers with poor facilities too often meet competition by cutting quality. Some wholesalers buy any old quality, put their labels on it, and say it is the best. Our Certain-teed label is backed by the written guarantee of the world's largest manufacturer of asphalt roofings. It gives each buyer the assurance wanted, and our unequalled facilities for manufacturing enable us to sell it at a very reasonable price.

These are the reasons for Certain-teed Roofing

We invite every one interested to come to our mills and see how we make the goods. We know that our Certain-teed Roofing is the best quality that we can make. It's the best quality that can be made to last and remain waterproof on the roof. It is made with that one purpose in view. We also make cheap grade, poor quality roofings to meet the demand for very temporary roofs, but the Certain-teed label goes only on our best quality, longest life product. It is the grade which carries our Company name and endorsement and guarantee—1-ply 5 years, 2-ply 10 years, 3-ply 15 years.

If for any reason you do not care for the highest quality—if you want a temporary roof, we also make goods sold at the lowest price on the market, because we have unequalled facilities, and are making approximately a third of the entire asphalt roofing and building papers of the whole world's supply. Our facilities enable us to beat all competition on price goods as well as on Certain-teed quality. The difference between the total cost of the goods, the freight, the laying etc., between quality goods and price goods is insignificant. It is much better policy to cut out the guessing and let the manufacturer of real responsibility insure you on all the vital points. He knows what he puts into the goods and what they will do—you can then insist upon getting everything as represented.

LET'S DOOB BUSINESS! Ken Feltice—More Prosperity. We have had enough starvation business—enough of political "curia" of every party, with their sneaking and biting—enough of belittling who promise economy and honesty in order to get into office and then practice unscrupulous extravagance and then play for voters or party rather than for principle and right, etc. The cost of living is not going down. Let's go after good times and make enough money to pay for the cost of a living, whatever it may be. We don't want cheap living—we want good business and good times for everybody and if we all pull together we will get them. The game of the politician is to promise everything. Many of them ought to be prosecuted for fraud on account of the different promises that they promise and what they deliver. They're worse than the business man who evades, adulterates the quality of his goods, and the farmer who takes the laborer to the superintendent, from the office boy to the president, from the brick mason to the farmer and the farm, remember that they have a serious interest in good business and a square deal in business. We're listening to the farmers and hear some outrageous lies and good news. It can be done. We're more interested and more prepared to do it. We are going to be the best of it to any except those who promise "good business" legislation.

WM CHISHOLM INJURED

Will Chisholm, a popular brakeman on E. P. & S. W. and a substantial citizen of Carrizozo suffered the loss of a considerable portion of his hand and evidently a narrow escape from death between the cars of a north bound freight train upon which he was discharging his duties. The accident happened Saturday evening just as the heavy freight was clearing the yards at Torrance. The "high ball" had been given and Mr. Chisholm had begun to mount a box car of the moving train when a hand hold well up the side of the freighter pulled loose thereby swinging him in his unexpected fall between the cars. By some miraculas feat he was able to keep most of his body clear of the death-dealing trucks, but his hand remaining on the rail met with the above mentioned injury, a diagonal slice being removed by the massive wheel.

The train was immediately reversed and backed into Corona where Dr. Stone the company surgeon gave first aid to the injured man. Mr. Chisholm was transferred on the first passenger train to El Paso where he is receiving surgical treatment at Hotel Dieu. Latest reports are most encouraging and those in charge hope, by the skillful treatment accorded him there, to save most of the injured member.

In speaking of the accident, as he passed through Carrizozo en route to El Paso, Mr. Chisholm said he regarded his escape from almost certain death as little short of miraculous, and his many friends and neighbors, although deploring his injury, are gratified that his presence of mind prevented one accident such as might be feared from the sudden fall between the cars from such an unexpected cause.

WHY I BELIEVE IN THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

During the County Sunday School Convention held in Carrizozo, May 13 and 14, Rev. Edward D. Raley International Secretary for the states of Arizona and New Mexico, gave the following reasons for believing in the Sunday school.

1. All Sunday schools of all denominations place Christ in the midst of all the teaching and efforts. Christ is the theology of the Sunday school.

2. The Bible is the text book for all Sunday Schools and it is the only book. It is a sufficient book for all grades and for all teachers.

3. The Sunday School places the child in the midst, where Christ placed him, and where all Christian teachers are today placing him. Out of 80,000,000 in the Sunday Schools of the world, 23,000,000 are children.

4. The Sunday School today embraces and ministers to the entire family, from the baby in the Cradle Roll to the grand mother in the home department.

5. The program of the Modern Sunday School is comprehensive. It includes every activity of Religious life. It takes in the social, philanthropic, civic, domestic, patriotic, and every thing that is good for any community.

6. The Sunday school is comprehensive, denominationally. Very few real Christians care about the insignificant theological differences in this Western country. Thirty denominations were represented in the International Convention in Chicago last June.

7. The Sunday school is the pioneer of the church, 97 per cent of the churches began in a Sunday school.

8. It furnishes the church with 85 per cent of all its members. The Church would perish without the Sunday school.

9. The Sunday school prepares and furnishes the church with its best men and women. Most of the big Christian men of this nation came from the Sunday school.

10. I believe in the Sunday school because of its achievements, in conversions, in literature, conventions, education, democracy, and a myriad of benefactions.

MOTHERS' DAY LAST SUNDAY

Kipling has given us a picture of mother love that touches the sublime:

If I were hanged on the highest hill
I know whose love would follow me still,
Mother of mine, O mother of mine!

If I were drowned in the deepest sea,
I know whose tears would come down to me,
Mother of mine, O mother of mine!

If I were damned of body and soul,
I know whose love would make me whole,
Mother of mine, O mother of mine!

There we have it—a man's belief that his mother will never fail him. Should we then fail to honor our mothers?

Mother's Day was observed last Sunday, the second Sunday in May having been designated as the day upon which we should do honor to our mother. Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia inaugurated the movement in 1907. It occurred to her while commemorating the death of her mother on the second Sunday of May that the day, falling in a season of blue sky and blossoms, might be set aside as an annual festival upon which due tribute of affection and remembrance should be rendered to all mothers.

Miss Jarvis then began a campaign of personal appeal to men prominent in public life, clergymen, philanthropists, business and professional men, asking them to further the movement. She pleaded her case so eloquently that in 1910 the day was celebrated not only in Philadelphia but in many other cities. On May 10, 1913, a resolution passed the United States house of representatives and the senate commending Mothers' Day for observance by the two houses of congress, the president and his cabinet and other heads of government departments.

In the same year the legislature of Nebraska made Mother's Day a state flag day in honor of the patriotism of Nebraska's true homes and mothers. In May, 1913 the legislature of Pennsylvania made Mother's Day the state holiday. The day is planned to be observed by some distinct mark of kindness—visit, letter, gift or tribute, showing the remembrance of the Mother and father to whom affection is due. Mother's day is equally a father's day and is designed to deepen and perpetuate family ties.

An international association has been formed to promote and protect the observance of the day in all countries and to carry forward the work. President Wilson and our ex presidents are honorary national officers of the association. The white carnation has been selected as the emblem of the day because, as explained by Miss Jarvis, "it seems the least perishable, is not costly and can be worn by men and women alike. Then, too, its sweet wholesome fragrance and white purity make it stand out as an appropriate symbol."
