RESENTS "PARAGON OF JAILERS"

Governor McDonald Says There is Nothing Concealed or Covered Up About the Penitentiary, "NOW"?

NEVER ASKED FOR COMMENT FROM SANTA FE PAPER

In an article which appeared in the last issue of the Carrizozo News headed "Governor Voices a General Opinion" and signed by W C. McDonald it is rather amusing to see what a weak argument the governor puts up against the Outlook copying from other papers without comment, even when the proper credit is given. The article which seemed to give the governor a bad case of indigestion was taken from the Taos Valley News, was headed "Paragon of Jailers" and was published in the issue of June 23 of the Outlook, dealing with the manner in which the penitentiary has been conducted during the regime of John B. McManus, as warden, and is as follows:

THE PARAGON OF JAILERS

Among the fortunate mortals must be included the present warden of the state penitentiary. He has spent one third more money yearly than either Bursum, Trelford and Romero; has been more evasions, disorders, riots and incendiary fires than all of them combined, several ugly scandals have bobbed up during his administration, and the band of famine is reported to have been laid heavily at times among the convicts, but all those drawbacks have disappeared without leaving any trace under the benign influence of constant praise and iron clad official support, and now Mr. McManus has seen himself transformed into the paragon of jailers.—Taos Valley News.

In the first paragraph of the governor's communication to the Carrizozo News in referring to the above said: "I doubt very much, whether this will fool anyone, though it is possible that some "gullible citizen" may think there may be some truth in it. I suggest that those who might be deceived inquire about the standing of the Taos Valley News. I think the Outlook is about the only paper that wants to be considered reputable that would copy anything from that paper without comment,"

Dear Governor: We might have commented on this to the extent of our entire issue but we do not think we could have said enough good things about the warden to vindicate him in the eyes of the "gullible citizens" even though he might be innocent of all he is charged with.

When one of the most inhuman complaints that could be recorded in a civilized country was filed against the warden of the penitentiary last December asking for $45,000 damages, and charging him with wrongfully, unlawfully, violently, wantonly and maliciously assaulting a helpless convict and stripping his clothing from him, and tying him across a barrel with hands and feet securely fastened so that he could not move, and giving him thirty-five heavy blows across the naked body, and having him thrown into a dungeon, and locked up with a tubucular prisoner, and kept in solitary confinment for many days suffering from the wounds of said blows and without any medical treatment, with the exception of one visit from a doctor several days afterwards, and only bread and water to eat.. Why is it we ask? when we published this awful complaint taken from the State Record at Santa Fe and published without comment, you did not insinuate for a minute that you desired the comment of either paper nor did you question the standing of either publication at that time. Why? Can you not explain to the "gullible citizens" why you did not desire any comment on the penitentiary situation at that time.

The above article taken from the Taos Valley News was also published in the State Record at the capitol city before it appeared in the Outlook and they too published it without comment. Now the "gullible citizens" may be anxious to ascertain why you did not put the State Record in the same class with us when you said "I think the Outlook is the only paper which wants to be considered reputable that would copy from the Taos Valley News without comment" There is only one answer to this question and it is this; that you did not have the courage to do so. Why? Because it would be easier to fool the people of Lincoln County in regard to the penitentiary affairs than it would the people who live in Santa Fe county and are acquainted with conditions and you dared not ask the State Redord for comment. If the Taos Valley News falsified in this matter they are certainly not exempt from prosecution under the laws of the state of New Mexico and we suggest that in order to bring them to time for their maliciousness that you sue them for libel and direct the people to investigate conditions as they exist instead of calling their attention to the standing of any newspaper.

However, we wish to thank you for considering the Outlook as being one Republican newspaper in the entire state that wants to be considered reputable.

The "gullible citizens" which you refer to perhaps deserve the title you give them by their actions in 1911, but in some instances people learn a great deal in five years and in November, 1916, they may prove they are not the "gullible citizens" you now brand them as being.

In the last paragraph of your letter we find these words: "The records are available. There is nothing concealed or covered up about the penitentiary NOW" "NOW" according to this, things will bear inspection around the pen, "NOW" nothing is concealed or covered up Do you mean by the word "NOW," governor, that there was a time when things were "concealed and covered up about the penitentiary" and is it as the Taos Valley News says:? "that the scandals which appeared have disappeared without leaving any trace under the benign influence of constant praise and iron-clad official support, and now Mr. McManus has seen himself transformed into the paragon of jailers?" The "gullible citizens" throughout the entire state may be glad to have you answer this question.

HERNANDEZ SPEAKS IN MARYLAND

New Mexico Congressman in Ringing Speech in State of Maryland Says Republicans Are Sure to Win

ALSO TELLS OF THE GREAT "SUNSHINE STATE"

The first big gun of the campaign in Prince George's county was fired in Capitol Heights Monday night by Representative B C Hernandez of New Mexico. Mr. Hernandez is serving his first term as a member of Congress and is making good. He is one of the best informed men in the popular branch of the great legislative body. He votes upon every proposition presented to the house and always votes on the right side. And with him the right side is the right side. He has kept tab on every move made by President Wilson since the present session of Congress convened and hence has the record made by Mr. Wilson on the tip of his tongue.

The gathering at Ryder's Hall to hear Mr. Hernandez was not as large as it would have been if but one meeting had been held that night A flag raising at Greater Capitol Heights, however, attracted a number of people. But the attendance was good and those present listened with close attention to the excellent address delivered by Mr Hernandez, who spoke fifty-eight minutes.

The Congressman began his speech by telling his audience something about the faraway state he represents. He told of its growth since it assumed the dignity of statehood and of the great future which lies before it. He spoke about its great ranches, on which thousands of head of cattle and sheep feed, and of its agricultural, industrial and commercial advancement. He described, as well as any man could have done, its splendid climate with its eternal sunshine, and then he told the people of Maryland about its politics. Referring to his candidacy for Congress as the Republican nominee, he said that he had been compelled to make a hard fight to win the office from his Democratic opponent, who had held it for two terms. But in the fifth district of Maryland Mr. Mudd, the Republican candidate, was already in, and in fact that he had faithfully and ably served the people should insure his election by a greatly increased majority

Mr. Hernandez then turned to national politics and discussed in an entertaining and instructive manner the issues which Mr. Wilson has forced upon the country His familiarity with Mexican affairs enabled him to speak at length upon the situation in that distracted country. He told his audience many things they did not know about the southern republic and its people. He then pointed out the mistakes made by the administration and showed that the policy adopted and pursued by Mr Wilson could have no other effect than to widen the breach between the two nations and most likely lead to war. While the outrages committed by Mexicans upon citizens of the United States had justly stirred the angry indignation of patriotic Americans in every section of the Union, it should not be forgotten that the men of Mexico have the same love for the unhappy country in which they live and which to them is their native land, that we have for the great republic born one hundred and forty years ago

Mr. Hernandez' speech pleased the Capital Heights Republicans mightily and when he sat down Attorney James M. Wood arose and moved that he be rendered a vote of thanks for it Instead of expressing themselves in the usual manner, every man in the house arose and stood for a moment.

The meeting was presided over by President Gibbs of the Capitol Heights Republican Club, who introduced Mr. Hernandez in a short speech which made the southwestern congressman feel at home.—Maryland Journal, Capitol Heights, Md.

TRADES DAY AT CAPITAN

In keeping with its policy to boost Capitan and environs the Capitan Commercial club at a recent meeting passed a resolution creating "trades day" to be held on the third Tuesday of each month excepting the opening day which will be held Tuesday July 25. This undertaking is provided for the whole people of Lincoln county and upon them does its success depend. Aside from its business and trade features it will offer a social side enabling friends and neighbors to meet regulary and witness also pleasing programs of athletic sports. Public speaking will add to the entertainment of the visitors and the various candidates for the several county officials will be invited to furnish this portion of the programs Anyone with anything for sale may bring their offierings to Capitan and place it on the market. Attention is called to the fact that trades days are also train days and this should add to the attractiveness of the undertaking, enabling the people to transact business with the railroad and enjoy the outing as well. Capitan is amply able to entertain a large gathering of people and the Commercial club hopes that this invocation will find ready and active support Further information may be had from Neil H. Bigger president, or C C Merchant secretary of the club.—Contributed.

COMMITTS SUICIDE

Either with deliberate suicidal intent or while under the influence of liquor to such an extent that he was not responsible for his actions, Evart Calvert, a young single man, who came to Carrizozo last Monday with a corps of government surveyors, shot himself through the body above the heart Tuesday evening. The weapon used was a 32 calibre revolver. The young man died from the effects of the wound Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

The surveyors are camped near the Humphrey Bros. feed yard, where the shooting occurred. It was known that the deceased had been drinking more or less all day, and his associates noticed that Calvert had spells of despondency but if he was nursing any particular trouble he kept it to himself.

Immediately after the shooting Dr R. T. Lucas was called in on the case. The physician saw that the wound was a fatal one, and made known to the injured man that if he had anything to communicate that he had better talk if he felt like it. Calvert rallied and talked to the medical man, and expressed no regret for his rash act. On the contrary, he said he was sorry that the shot had not brought immediate death.

It was learned that the mother of the deceased lived at Cincinnati, Ohio, and word was sent her there of the death of her son. She immediately wired that the remains be sent to Louisville, Ky., her old home, where the burial will take place.

MANY TREES DIE IN COURT SQUARE

County Should See to It That Trees Are Given Ample Care and Protection in the Future.

LACK OF CARE CAUSE OF YOUNG TREES' DEATH

It is with considerable regret that we call the attention of our citizens to the premature death of the majority of the young shade trees which were planted in the rear courthouse yard this spring.

There were in all about sixty of these trees, purchased at considerable expense to the taxpayers of the county, and with the proper treatment would have been the producers of much fine shade in a few years, to say nothing of beautifying the only public park to which Carrizozo can lay claim.

While we lament the loss of these trees, such lamentation cannot bring them back to life. They were in full vitality and health when planted. The soil is good and would invite the growth of any kind of shrubbery peculiar to this section. It seems not too much to say that these trees, which were the pride of all the citizens of the town, died of neglect and lack of water, or probably an improper rooting during planting. The rooting, however, can hardly have much to do with the life of a tree, provided the plant is in healthy condition, and the soil is in proper condition to receive it.

About fifty five of these trees are as worthless now as so many dead sticks protruding from the ground.

They are an eye sore to the people who paid for them, and the people demand that something be done. All that can be done now is to remove the dead wood, replace the plants, and then see to it that they have that intelligent care and attention so necessary to the healthful growth of trees. The sooner this is done the better.

Let us have the trees. But by all means, when they are replanted let us keep them alive, so that in a few years our town can boast of a park as attractive as any in the state. The city has plenty of water, and water is the most essential element to the life of a tree, after it is properly rooted in the ground. We will not make the same mistake twice.

HUGHES THE CHOICE

Cario (Ills.) Herald—Charles E Hughes for President is the choice of the Republican voters—just voters, not the bosses No act of expert hand pickers, no combination of favorite sons "handed" Justice Hughes to the people. The favorite sons formed an alliance against him. Those who sometimes assume to do the thinking of the voters were not the promoters of his candidacy No interests with ulterior purposes to serve clamored for his nomination. Only the plain everyday class of voters—the men on the farms and the men in the stores, the shops and the mines, who believe in the principles of the party and cast its vote—demanded him of the party.

DEADLY, BRUTAL RAIDS ENLIVEN TRENCH WARFARE

Monotony of Existence Broken by Preparing for Assaults or Against Them.

RIFLE IS OF LITTLE USE

Sandbag or an Indian Battle-ax or Spiked Club the Better Weapon—Inventions Fight Snipers and Trickery — Many Saved by Steel Corsets.

By FREDERICK PALMER.

British Headquarters, France.—In today's modern machine warfare, where every man was supposed to have become a pawn without initiative of his own, has been developing the deadliest form of sport imagination can conceive, where every combatant places his cunning, his strength and his skill in hand-to-hand fighting against those of his adversary.

Hardly a day passes that there is not a trench raid. No subject is more tabooed in its details by the censor. Commanders do not want to let the enemy know why their raids succeed or fail, or why the enemy's succeed or fail. Invention fights invention; secrecy fights secrecy.

All the elements of boxing, wrestling, fencing and mob tactics plus the stealth of the Indian who crept up on a camp on the plains, and the teamwork of a professional baseball nine, are found of value.

The weapon least needed is the rifle. A sandbag or an Indian battle-ax or spiked club is better. A good slugger without any weapon at all may take an adversary's loaded rifle away from him and knock him down and then kick him to death.

The monotony of trench existence these days is broken by preparing for raids and against them. Battalion commanders work out schemes of strategy which would have won them fame in smaller wars. Fifty men or a thousand may be engaged in a raid. It may be on a front of fifty yards or a thousand.

Its object is to take as many prisoners and kill and wound as many of the enemy as you can in a few minutes; and then to get back to your own trench. If you try to hold on to the piece of trench you have taken, the guns are turned on you, the bombers close up on either side, and machine guns and rifles are prepared to sweep the zone of retirement.

An uncanny curiosity gives the soldiers their incentive for the raids. Ordinarily they never see their enemy hidden in his burrows across No Man's Land from their own burrows. Unseen bullets from unseen snipers crack overhead. Unseen guns suddenly concentrate in a deluge of shells.

Grim Monotony Continues.

For months this sort of thing goes on, and the trenches of the adversaries remain always in the same place; grim monotony of casualties and watching continues.

This arouses the desire to "get at" the enemy which the trench raid satisfies. It means that you are going to spring over your parapet and rush across No Man's Land into the very houses of the enemy, and man-to-man on his doorstep prove whether you are a better man than he is.

To go over the parapet ordinarily means death. In order to make any rush there must be "interference," as they say in football, and the barb wire in front of the enemy's trench must be cut. This is usually done by the guns, which become more and more deadly in their ability to turn accurate sprays of destruction on given points. They cover the rush and they cover the return of the raiders with their prisoners.

But the guns are not all; there are all kinds of organized trickery in order to enable a body of soldiers to get into the enemy's trenches for a few minutes of activity, when the invaded throw themselves on their invaders at such close quarters that it is a question if even a revolver is now a practical weapon.

You cannot throw it over a traverse and you can a bomb. Running into a German around the corner of a traverse, a blow may be better than a shot.

There have been trench raids where every man who went out was responsible for a casualty or a prisoner, while the raiders' own loss was not one in ten to the enemy's. There are also failures.

Success requires that every detail should work out right. The British inaugurated trench raiding, which the Germans promptly adapted. Where its development will end no one dares venture to say. One advantage of any raid is that those who return are bound to bring back some information of value to the intelligence corps.

Steel Corsets Save Lives.

"Score one for breastplates," said an officer who had been doubled over by a shell fragment which hit him in the abdomen. Instead of a flow of blood crimsoning his blouse, all that was visible through the rent in the cloth was an abrasion on a steel surface.

"But for your new corset your aorta would have been opened, and you would have been dead by now," the surgeon told him.

Early in the war an officer who wore protection of this kind would have been frowned on by his fellows as unsoldierly. A type of corselet of small plates of highly tempered steel joined together by steel wires is being more and more worn by officers.

Its structure adapts itself to the movements of the body, it weighs only a few pounds, and, fitting snugly as a vest, it is not cumbrous. If the son of Lord Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific, who was killed recently, had been wearing one, his life would have been saved. Since then Canadian commanders have strongly urged all their officers to buy corselets. This is at any rate better than no protection against bullets, unless they are spent. Such is their power of penetration that they go through the thin steel, "mushrooming" and making a larger wound than if nothing had been in their way. But in the trenches, unless one shows his head above the parapet and in moving about in the shell zone in the rear of the trenches, one is rarely exposed to bullets. When an officer goes into a charge in face of machine gun and rifle fire he takes off his corselet.

On average days in the trenches the main danger is from shrapnel bullets and fragments from shell explosions, which may inflict ugly and fatal wounds preventable by comparatively thin protection to such a vulnerable substance as human flesh. Together a corselet and steel helmet pretty well shield vital parts from missiles of low velocity.

The use of the corselet is practically limited to officers, who pay for them out of their own pockets. The expense and labor of supplying all ranks of a great army with them would seem out of the question.

But gradually all the British soldiers are being supplied with the steel helmet after their successful use by the French, who first introduced them. The French pattern is quite graceful beside the British, which is round and somewhat the shape of a toadstool. The British is heavier than the French, and there is method in its soup-plate grotesqueness. Thanks to its form, a bullet which strikes it in front, instead of going through the head, as is the case with the French helmet, glances and follows the inside of the helmet, passing out at the rear.

The Victoria cross is rarely given even in this war of countless deeds of bravery. The Rev. Noel Mellish, a London curate, is the first chaplain in the British army to receive the cross since the second Afghan war of 1879.

On the occasion of the presentation the units of the famous fighting army were drawn up in division, forming a hollow square on the spring green of an open field. In the center stood Mr. Mellish with another officer, who received the distinguished service order. In the front lines stood other officers who were to receive lesser decorations.

Before pinning the ribbon on Mellish's breast the general read a brief account of the deed of gallantry that won him the honor. When the clergyman came forward those witnessing the ceremony were agreeably impressed with an extremely slender and boyish figure scarcely looking his thirty years, and indeed, looking more a gentle and reserved man of peace than a fighting parson.

The general told how again and again, fighting at St. Eloi under a murderous fire, Mellish had risked his life to attend the wounded and bring them to places of safety. Then there was a call of three cheers from the troops and these were given with a mighty roar.

As already told in dispatches, Second Lieut. Arnold Whitridge, Yale 1914, son of F. W. Whitridge of New York, was among those receiving the military cross for gallantry in continuing to direct the fire of his battery in the face of some of the hottest fighting recently experienced, and with the enemy trenches but a few hundred yards away.

Whitridge is one of a group of young American college men who joined the British artillery early in the war.

BULLETS YEARS IN BRAIN

Sacramento, Cal.—Carrying in his brain two bullets that were fired at him by a posse in 1893, when he and George Sontag, train robbers, terrorized the people of Fresno and Tulare counties, Chris Evans, who has been on parole from Folsom prison since May, 1911, walked into the county hospital here recently and asked that the doctors remove the lead and relieve him of pain.

Accordingly, Evans, who is now seventy years old, was operated on by Dr. W. J. Harris, superintendent of the hospital. The bullets were causing his right side to become paralyzed. One bullet was in the brain above the right eye, and the other behind the right ear.

Evans, on obtaining his freedom from prison, worked for a time as a city watchman at Portland, Ore.

MEAT RATION NOW NUMBERED

Holders of Tickets Must Appear in Rotation in Order to Prevent Rioting.

London.—In order to prevent rioting in front of butcher shops the commune of Griedenau, near Berlin, has decided to number meat tickets, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company quoting the Berliner Tageblatt.

The holders of tickets will get their meat according to number at the butcher shops and those who do not appear at the specified time will not receive any.

According to reports reaching the Exchange Telegraph company the supply of eggs in Berlin is so nearly exhausted that the price is $1.68 a dozen, or 14 cents each.

MAKES RESCUER HIS HEIR

Californian Wills $500,000 to Salesman for Heroism During Forest Fire.

Omaha.—Eber Smith, a traveling salesman of this city, has received notification from San Bernardino, Cal., that he is named sole heir to the estate of Thomas Simpson, a California rancher, who died a short time ago. The estate is valued at $500,000.

Two years ago, it is said, Smith saved Simpson's life when a forest fire was sweeping upon his California ranch house, where he lay, alone, suffering from a broken leg.

Smith was the only man among the fire fighters who dared to attempt the rescue. Smith did not see Simpson again, but the rancher remembered him and willed him all his property.

Followed Mother's Example.

Pittsburgh.—Miss Harriet Gertrude Blum, aged sixteen years and leading soprano in the Calvary Methodist church, and Hearne Neely, organist in the same church, eloped to Cumberland, Md., and were married. The mother quickly forgave the daughter, declaring that she did the same thing when she was sixteen years of age.

Triplets by Cesarean Operation.

Omaha.—Triplets were born by a Cesarean operation to Mrs. Anna Richter, wife of a farmer of Murray. According to Omaha surgeons, this is the first case of the kind on record. The operation killed the mother, while the babies died later.

PREACHES AND STICKS TYPE

Pastor Installs Press and Will Divide Time Between Preaching and Printing.

St. Louis.—Rev. W. F. Kirkpatrick, the pastor of the Pentecostal church at Upper Alton, is going to divide his time between preaching and printing. He has installed a job press and fonts of type in the church building at College avenue and Washington street, and will alternate between setting type and preaching the Gospel. He thinks he will be able to do both acceptably, as he is a union printer as well as an ordained minister. The auditorium and the print shop are in adjoining rooms. The pastor will only have to step through the doorway to become the printer, and the printer will only have to step back through the same doorway to again become the pastor.

OUR FIRST MEDICAL SCHOOLS

Up to the Nineteenth Century There Were Only Five Such Institutions.

The first medical college in the western part of the United States was Rush Medical college, founded in Chicago in 1837 by Dr. Daniel Brainard, who was born in Whitesborough, N. Y., 104 years ago, May 15, 1812. Rush college commemorates the name of Dr. Benjamin Rush, who was born near Philadelphia of Quaker parentage, in 1745. Doctor Rush served as an apprentice to a Philadelphia physician for six years, and then completed his medical education in Edinburgh, London and Paris. He was a signer of the Declaration of Independence, one of the founders of the first American antislavery society and the greatest physician of his day. During the yellow-fever scourge in Philadelphia in 1793 he visited more than 100 patients daily. Up to the nineteenth century there were only five medical colleges in the United States, all in the East. In 1819 a medical school was started in Cincinnati, and in 1825 the first institution of this kind in the South was founded in South Carolina, the University of Georgia soon following suit. The first medical college west of the Mississippi was established in St. Louis in 1842.

BLUEJAY ENDS CHICKEN FIGHT

Interested Referee Finally Steals Prize From Hen, Rooster and Guinea.

A black hen, a game rooster and a guinea hen on the farm of Samuel Dodd, near the Passaic county line, discovered and fought for nearly an hour over a good-sized rat which had been crippled by the rooster.

Each bird asserted its claim to the prize in the best way it could. When the fighting was tiring the combatants, along came a bluejay which settled the ownership by picking up the rat and flying into a corncrib.

The farmhands and others who had watched the battle asserted that the bluejay's trick entitled the bird to all the honors that have been heaped upon the species.

The Delight of Children

The self-developed, inner-flavour of New Post Toasties bear a unique attraction for the kiddies—they even like them dry from the package for their lunches. A box of Toasties provides "eats" that will delight the children.

New Post Toasties are usually served with cream and sugar, in which form the flavour is more pronounced and the flakes more delicious. These New Toasties do not "chaff" or crumble in the package and they don't mush down in cream—both common defects of old-fashioned "corn flakes."

Then, too, notice the tiny bubbles on the flakes, produced by the quick, intense heat of a new patented process of making which imparts delightful crispness and a substantial body to the flakes.

New Post Toasties are a vast improvement over any old-style "corn flakes."

THE GREAT ISSUE.

"It is not a question of men but of measures," says Ralph C. Ely, candidate for Governor of New Mexico. It is natural for men to seek personal advantage wherever it is possible. Commenting upon this phase of the public business Mr. Ely said recently:

"In 1914 our party in its state platform declared for a number of state measures. Among these were reasonable county salaries, the creation of a tax commission, and the passage of laws regulating taxation which would impose the burdens of government equally and fairly upon all forms of property throughout our state. These questions will be vital issues in the coming election. The people may like this man, or that man or the other one, according to the appeal of their personalities; but when they pay their taxes, they want to know that they are paying their fair share and not one dollar more. They believe—and they are right in believing—that there is a little group of active politicians whose influences are most in evidence at our state conventions and in the lobbies of our legislature, whose chief purpose is and always has been primarily selfish. That these men are very wealthy, and that their wealth often consists of more or less non-productive grants of land or of vast areas of coal land and other natural resources. That they are clinging to this property with the expectation that the development of our country, the increased demand for coal or meat and farm products will result ultimately in a tremendous increase in the valug of these raw materials or the natural resources—which they have often purchased for a song and which they hope to hold for a song until this time comes. They know that it is vitally important to these men or interests that they wholly escape taxation or secure to themselves the lowest possible valuations upon these properties so that they can carry them. Our people not only know this. They know who the men are. They know where some of the property is, and they know perfectly well that every time a rich man's wealth escapes taxation, some other man's burdens are necessarily increased, if the expense of government remains the same.

DEADLY, BRUTAL RAIDS ENLIVEN TRENCH WARFARE

Monotony of Existence Broken by Preparing for Assaults or Against Them.

RIFLE IS OF LITTLE USE

Sandbag or an Indian Battle-ax or Spiked Club the Better Weapon—Inventions Fight Snipers and Trickery — Many Saved by Steel Corsets.

By FREDERICK PALMER.

British Headquarters, France.—In today's modern machine warfare, where every man was supposed to have become a pawn without initiative of his own, has been developing the deadliest form of sport imagination can conceive, where every combatant places his cunning, his strength and his skill in hand-to-hand fighting against those of his adversary.

Hardly a day passes that there is not a trench raid. No subject is more tabooed in its details by the censor. Commanders do not want to let the enemy know why their raids succeed or fail, or why the enemy's succeed or fail. Invention fights invention; secrecy fights secrecy.

All the elements of boxing, wrestling, fencing and mob tactics plus the stealth of the Indian who crept up on a camp on the plains, and the teamwork of a professional baseball nine, are found of value.

The weapon least needed is the rifle. A sandbag or an Indian battle-ax or spiked club is better. A good slugger without any weapon at all may take an adversary's loaded rifle away from him and knock him down and then kick him to death.

The monotony of trench existence these days is broken by preparing for raids and against them. Battalion commanders work out schemes of strategy which would have won them fame in smaller wars. Fifty men or a thousand may be engaged in a raid. It may be on a front of fifty yards or a thousand.

Its object is to take as many prisoners and kill and wound as many of the enemy as you can in a few minutes; and then to get back to your own trench. If you try to hold on to the piece of trench you have taken, the guns are turned on you, the bombers close up on either side, and machine guns and rifles are prepared to sweep the zone of retirement.

An uncanny curiosity gives the soldiers their incentive for the raids. Ordinarily they never see their enemy hidden in his burrows across No Man's Land from their own burrows. Unseen bullets from unseen snipers crack overhead. Unseen guns suddenly concentrate in a deluge of shells.

Grim Monotony Continues.

For months this sort of thing goes on, and the trenches of the adversaries remain always in the same place; grim monotony of casualties and watching continues.

This arouses the desire to "get at" the enemy which the trench raid satisfies. It means that you are going to spring over your parapet and rush across No Man's Land into the very houses of the enemy, and man-to-man on his doorstep prove whether you are a better man than he is.

To go over the parapet ordinarily means death. In order to make any rush there must be "interference," as they say in football, and the barb wire in front of the enemy's trench must be cut. This is usually done by the guns, which become more and more deadly in their ability to turn accurate sprays of destruction on given points. They cover the rush and they cover the return of the raiders with their prisoners.

But the guns are not all; there are all kinds of organized trickery in order to enable a body of soldiers to get into the enemy's trenches for a few minutes of activity, when the invaded throw themselves on their invaders at such close quarters that it is a question if even a revolver is now a practical weapon.

You cannot throw it over a traverse and you can a bomb. Running into a German around the corner of a traverse, a blow may be better than a shot.

There have been trench raids where every man who went out was responsible for a casualty or a prisoner, while the raiders' own loss was not one in ten to the enemy's. There are also failures.

Success requires that every detail should work out right. The British inaugurated trench raiding, which the Germans promptly adapted. Where its development will end no one dares venture to say. One advantage of any raid is that those who return are bound to bring back some information of value to the intelligence corps.

Steel Corsets Save Lives.

"Score one for breastplates," said an officer who had been doubled over by a shell fragment which hit him in the abdomen. Instead of a flow of blood crimsoning his blouse, all that was visible through the rent in the cloth was an abrasion on a steel surface.

"But for your new corset your aorta would have been opened, and you would have been dead by now," the surgeon told him.

Early in the war an officer who wore protection of this kind would have been frowned on by his fellows as unsoldierly. A type of corselet of small plates of highly tempered steel joined together by steel wires is being more and more worn by officers.

Its structure adapts itself to the movements of the body, it weighs only a few pounds, and, fitting snugly as a vest, it is not cumbrous. If the son of Lord Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific, who was killed recently, had been wearing one, his life would have been saved. Since then Canadian commanders have strongly urged all their officers to buy corselets. This is at any rate better than no protection against bullets, unless they are spent. Such is their power of penetration that they go through the thin steel, "mushrooming" and making a larger wound than if nothing had been in their way. But in the trenches, unless one shows his head above the parapet and in moving about in the shell zone in the rear of the trenches, one is rarely exposed to bullets. When an officer goes into a charge in face of machine gun and rifle fire he takes off his corselet.

On average days in the trenches the main danger is from shrapnel bullets and fragments from shell explosions, which may inflict ugly and fatal wounds preventable by comparatively thin protection to such a vulnerable substance as human flesh. Together a corselet and steel helmet pretty well shield vital parts from missiles of low velocity.

The use of the corselet is practically limited to officers, who pay for them out of their own pockets. The expense and labor of supplying all ranks of a great army with them would seem out of the question.

But gradually all the British soldiers are being supplied with the steel helmet after their successful use by the French, who first introduced them. The French pattern is quite graceful beside the British, which is round and somewhat the shape of a toadstool. The British is heavier than the French, and there is method in its soup-plate grotesqueness. Thanks to its form, a bullet which strikes it in front, instead of going through the head, as is the case with the French helmet, glances and follows the inside of the helmet, passing out at the rear.

The Victoria cross is rarely given even in this war of countless deeds of bravery. The Rev. Noel Mellish, a London curate, is the first chaplain in the British army to receive the cross since the second Afghan war of 1879.

On the occasion of the presentation the units of the famous fighting army were drawn up in division, forming a hollow square on the spring green of an open field. In the center stood Mr. Mellish with another officer, who received the distinguished service order. In the front lines stood other officers who were to receive lesser decorations.

Before pinning the ribbon on Mellish's breast the general read a brief account of the deed of gallantry that won him the honor. When the clergyman came forward those witnessing the ceremony were agreeably impressed with an extremely slender and boyish figure scarcely looking his thirty years, and indeed, looking more a gentle and reserved man of peace than a fighting parson.

The general told how again and again, fighting at St. Eloi under a murderous fire, Mellish had risked his life to attend the wounded and bring them to places of safety. Then there was a call of three cheers from the troops and these were given with a mighty roar.

As already told in dispatches, Second Lieut. Arnold Whitridge, Yale 1914, son of F. W. Whitridge of New York, was among those receiving the military cross for gallantry in continuing to direct the fire of his battery in the face of some of the hottest fighting recently experienced, and with the enemy trenches but a few hundred yards away.

Whitridge is one of a group of young American college men who joined the British artillery early in the war.

Sacramento, Cal.—Carrying in his brain two bullets that were fired at him by a posse in 1893, when he and George Sontag, train robbers, terrorized the people of Fresno and Tulare counties, Chris Evans, who has been on parole from Folsom prison since May, 1911, walked into the county hospital here recently and asked that the doctors remove the lead and relieve him of pain.

Accordingly, Evans, who is now seventy years old, was operated on by Dr. W. J. Harris, superintendent of the hospital. The bullets were causing his right side to become paralyzed. One bullet was in the brain above the right eye, and the other behind the right ear.

Evans, on obtaining his freedom from prison, worked for a time as a city watchman at Portland, Ore.

MEAT RATION NOW NUMBERED

Holders of Tickets Must Appear in Rotation in Order to Prevent Rioting.

London.—In order to prevent rioting in front of butcher shops the commune of Griedenau, near Berlin, has decided to number meat tickets, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company quoting the Berliner Tageblatt.

The holders of tickets will get their meat according to number at the butcher shops and those who do not appear at the specified time will not receive any.

According to reports reaching the Exchange Telegraph company the supply of eggs in Berlin is so nearly exhausted that the price is $1.68 a dozen, or 14 cents each.

MAKES RESCUER HIS HEIR

Californian Wills $500,000 to Salesman for Heroism During Forest Fire.

Omaha.—Eber Smith, a traveling salesman of this city, has received notification from San Bernardino, Cal., that he is named sole heir to the estate of Thomas Simpson, a California rancher, who died a short time ago. The estate is valued at $500,000.

Two years ago, it is said, Smith saved Simpson's life when a forest fire was sweeping upon his California ranch house, where he lay, alone, suffering from a broken leg.

Smith was the only man among the fire fighters who dared to attempt the rescue. Smith did not see Simpson again, but the rancher remembered him and willed him all his property.

Counterfeit Machine Costly.

Depue, Ill.—Anton Sorchych has brought suit against Isaac Deutsch and Meyer Katz of West Frankfort, Ill., charging that they sold him a machine for $5,000 with which he could make $20 bills. Sorchych alleges he is the victim of a confidence game.

Followed Mother's Example.

Pittsburgh.—Miss Harriet Gertrude Blum, aged sixteen years and leading soprano in the Calvary Methodist church, and Hearne Neely, organist in the same church, eloped to Cumberland, Md., and were married. The mother quickly forgave the daughter, declaring that she did the same thing when she was sixteen years of age.

Triplets by Cesarean Operation.

Omaha.—Triplets were born by a Cesarean operation to Mrs. Anna Richter, wife of a farmer of Murray. According to Omaha surgeons, this is the first case of the kind on record. The operation killed the mother, while the babies died later.

There are now in the United States 4,003,028 persons native to Germany, Austria and Turkey, and 6,885,724 native to the nations fighting in the opposing alliance.

PREACHES AND STICKS TYPE

Pastor Installs Press and Will Divide Time Between Preaching and Printing.

St. Louis.—Rev. W. F Kirkpatrick, the pastor of the Pentecostal church at Upper Alton, is going to divide his time between preaching and printing. He has installed a job press and fonts of type in the church building at College avenue and Washington street, and will alternate between setting type and preaching the Gospel. He thinks he will be able to do both acceptably, as he is a union printer as well as an ordained minister. The auditorium and the print shop are in adjoining rooms. The pastor will only have to step through the doorway to become the printer, and the printer will only have to step back through the same doorway to again become the pastor.

OUR FIRST MEDICAL SCHOOLS

Up to the Nineteenth Century There Were Only Five Such Institutions.

The first medical college in the western part of the United States was Rush Medical college, founded in Chicago in 1837 by Dr. Daniel Brainard, who was born in Whitesborough, N. Y., 104 years ago, May 15, 1812. Rush college commemorates the name of Dr. Benjamin Rush, who was born near Philadelphia of Quaker parentage, in 1745. Doctor Rush served as an apprentice to a Philadelphia physician for six years, and then completed his medical education in Edinburgh, London and Paris. He was a signer of the Declaration of Independence, one of the founders of the first American antislavery society and the greatest physician of his day. During the yellow-fever scourge in Philadelphia in 1793 he visited more than 100 patients daily. Up to the nineteenth century there were only five medical colleges in the United States, all in the East. In 1819 a medical school was started in Cincinnati, and in 1825 the first institution of this kind in the South was founded in South Carolina, the University of Georgia soon following suit. The first medical college west of the Mississippi was established in St. Louis in 1842.

BLUEJAY ENDS CHICKEN FIGHT

Interested Referee Finally Steals Prize From Hen, Rooster and Guinea.

A black hen, a game rooster and a guinea hen on the farm of Samuel Dodd, near the Passaic county line, discovered and fought for nearly an hour over a good-sized rat which had been crippled by the rooster.

Each bird asserted its claim to the prize in the best way it could. When the fighting was tiring the combatants, along came a bluejay which settled the ownership by picking up the rat and flying into a corncrib.

The farmhands and others who had watched the battle asserted that the bluejay's trick entitled the bird to all the honors that have been heaped upon the species.

The Delight of Children

The self-developed, inner-flavour of New Post Toasties bear a unique attraction for the kiddies—they even like them dry from the package for their lunches. A box of Toasties provides "eats" that will delight the children.

New Post Toasties are usually served with cream and sugar, in which form the flavour is more pronounced and the flakes more delicious. These New Toasties do not "chaff" or crumble in the package and they don't mush down in cream—both common defects of old-fashioned "corn flakes."

Then, too, notice the tiny bubbles on the flakes, produced by the quick, intense heat of a new patented process of making which imparts delightful crispness and a substantial body to the flakes.

New Post Toasties are a vast improvement over any old-style "corn flakes."

THE GREAT ISSUE.

"It is not a question of men but of measures," says Ralph C. Ely, candidate for Governor of New Mexico. It is natural for men to seek personal advantage wherever it is possible. Commenting upon this phase of the public business Mr. Ely said recently:

"In 1914 our party in its state platform declared for a number of state measures. Among these were reasonable county salaries, the creation of a tax commission, and the passage of laws regulating taxation which would impose the burdens of government equally and fairly upon all forms of property throughout our state. These questions will be vital issues in the coming election. The people may like this man, or that man or the other one, according to the appeal of their personalities; but when they pay their taxes, they want to know that they are paying their fair share and not one dollar more. They believe—and they are right in believing—that there is a little group of active politicians whose influences are most in evidence at our state conventions and in the lobbies of our legislature, whose chief purpose is and always has been primarily selfish. That these men are very wealthy, and that their wealth often consists of more or less non-productive grants of land or of vast areas of coal land and other natural resources. That they are clinging to this property with the expectation that the development of our country, the increased demand for coal or meat and farm products will result ultimately in a tremendous increase in the value of these raw materials or the natural resources—which they have often purchased for a song and which they hope to hold for a song until this time comes. They know that it is vitally important to these men or interests that they wholly escape taxation or secure to themselves the lowest possible valuations upon these properties so that they can carry them. Our people not only know this. They know who the men are. They know where some of the property is, and they know perfectly well that every time a rich man's wealth escapes taxation, some other man's burdens are necessarily increased, if the expense of government remains the same.

LIBERTY AND SERVICE

In 1776 the people of this country threw off the shackles of kingly rule and proclaimed themselves free from the domination of any foreign king, prince or potentate.

One hundred years later Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone, which was destined to free the people from the unsatisfactory coach-and-four methods of communication.

As the Spirit of Liberty has been the guilding power in the development of the nation, so has the Spirit of Service been the directing force in the development of the great Bell Telephone System.

In the brief period of forty years the telephone has developed into a utility that not only enters intimately into the very life of society, but its service has become so comprehensive and so potent that it is now a factor in our national strength and national efficiency.

Our country's greatness is built upon the Spirit of Liberty. The efficiency of the Bell System is promoted and maintained by the Spirit of Service.

SMILES

A GOOD PROVIDER.

"Is he a good provider?"

"I should say he is. He keeps his wife busy over a hot stove every day cooking the stuff he provides."

What's the Use.

I'm told the monkey language
Close study will repay,
But e'en could I converse with them,
I'd nothing have to say.

Oh, Certainly Not.

"I want to tell you something about that Gadders girl," said Mrs. Twobble in a half whisper.

"I'm all attention," said Mrs. Dubwaite, leaning over so as not to miss a word.

"She read Boccaccio!"

"Oh, but she reads his stories in Italian. That isn't half as bad, you know, as reading an English translation."

Couldn't Touch Him.

"I hear we are face to face with a diamond famine," remarked the talkative old gentleman.

"Umph!" replied the occupant of a neighboring stool in a lunchroom, who was making a meal on coffee and "sinkers." "I could be face to face with a diamond famine for ninety-nine years and not be aware of it."

Reasons.

The stingiest man in the world sued for divorce because his wife was wasteful and extravagant.

"Will you give the court some specific instances?" asked the lawyer.

"Well, one day she goes and buys three toothbrushes, one for herself and one for each of the kids. And the worst of it was, we already had one good one."—Gargoyle.

Different.

Redd—An automobile is so different from a horse.

Greene—Why, of course.

"You see, a horse goes faster when he's going home than when going away from home."

"Well, doesn't an automobile?"

"Oh, no; you see, an automobile often has to be towed home."

Unusual Politeness.

Mrs. Myles—Hear your husband is just back from Paris.

Mrs. Styles—Oh, yes.

"How did he find Paris during the awful war?"

"Tiresome. You see they have woman conductors in Paris, and my husband will never keep his seat while a lady is standing in a car."

The Quality of Mercy.

Country Justice—I find you not guilty and fine you $1.

Defendant—But—er—

Justice—Now, shut up! If you'd been guilty I'd er fined you $10!

SURGICAL NEEDS.

"Do you have to be examined by a physician before joining the Aviation club?"

"No; not until after you have made your first flight."

NOT THE SAME.

Booth Tarkington, congratulated on his vivid and poetical portrayals of colored characters, told a story at a dinner in New York:

"An old colored man," he said, "went to the polls one day to register.

"'What's your name, uncle?' the clerk asked.

"'Mah name am George Washington, sah,' the old fellow answered.

"'George Washington, eh?' said the clerk. 'Well, George, are you the fellow that cut down the cherry tree?'

"'No, sah,' said the old man. 'No sah, I ain't. I ain't done no work at all, sah, fo' nigh onter free years.'"

Not Such a Fool.

"Here's a strange case," said Mrs. Spotter to her husband. "A man they called the town fool up in New Hampshire died, and they weighed his brain. It was heavier than the average."

"Is that all it says about him?"

"Yes—except that he was for many years entirely dependent on well-to-do relatives."

"Huh—he was no fool. If you have well-to-do relatives, why use your brains?"—Judge.

Pleasant as Could Be.

"A number of women attended this prizefight."

"I hope none of them felt sick during the bout," said the humane man, who thought perhaps the sight of blood had upset the gentle creatures.

"Oh, no. The men were not permitted to smoke, because of the fire risk, and there were no rank cigar fumes to offend their delicate nostrils."

NO WAY OUT OF IT.

Reggy—What do you suppose I said when she called me a fool?

Peggy—Said! What could you say?

Supervision.

A business man exclaimed:: "How nice!
So many strive my shop to run,
That I may simply take advice
And give my time to rest and fun."

Handicapped.

"What's de reason," inquired Loitering Luke, "dat you can't go ahead an' git yourself reformed?"

"It's jes' hard luck," replied Plodding Peter. "I never could manage to git arrested in a way dat would give me de advantage of de right kind of a penitentiary."

Let It Go at That.

Peckem—Why is the telephone like matrimony, my dear?

Mrs. Peckem—Oh, I suppose it's because one doesn't always get the right party.

Peckem—That isn't the right answer—but it is good, and we'll let it go at that.

Really!

Miss (at the piano, angrily)—As soon as I open my mouth that miserable dog at the neighbor's begins to howl.

Cook (consolingly)—Never mind, miss, that dog howls even when I sing!—Fliegende Blaetter (Munich).

Mixed Benefits.

"We want to introduce the blessings of civilization among you."

"Yes," answered the savage. "The only trouble is that when you also introduce your improved war mechanism so many of us won't live to enjoy them."

Works Both Ways.

The Bear—Isn't it strange that a few gallons of oil will calm a storm at sea?

The Bull—Oh, I don't know. A few drops will start a storm in Wall street.

His Specialty.

Hokus—Scribbler has had no less than nine plays rejected.

Pokus—What is he doing now?

Hokus—Writing essays on the decline of the drama.—Life

Then the Star Twinkled.

Long had he worshiped her at a distance, but his shyness prevented him from proposing.

Then, one night, for the sweet sake of charity, a theatrical performance took place, in which the charmer was the leading woman and more adorable than ever. Afterward the shy admirer drew near his sweetheart, made valiant by the sight of her beauty.

"You are the star of the evening," he said, as they stood alone in a corner.

"You are the first to tell me so," said the damsel, with a happy blush.

"Then," he retorted promptly, "may I claim my reward as an astronomer?"

The woman looked puzzled.

"What reward?" she asked.

"Why, the right to give my name to the star I have just discovered!" the young man said, speaking boldly at last.—Answers, London.

Up to Date.

"I'm sorry, mum, but I've got to leave you. I've taken another place."

"Another place? Why, Mary, is it a matter of money?"

"No, mum, the new folks are going to pay me just the same wages as you."

"Are they offering you easier work?"

"No, mum, the work is just about the same."

"Then why are you leaving us for them?"

"Well, you see, mum, they have a 1916 model auto, and we servants can't afford to get behind the times any more than other folks."

Line Turns in Fire Alarm.

Albert Brewer, eighteen, of Reilly avenue, went fishing a few days ago at Ivory slough. The fish did not bite, so Brewer shouldered his pole and started for home.

At Marceau and Reilly avenues he passed a fire alarm box. The door was open. The line caught the hook. It was the first bite Brewer had all day. The line jerked the hook down with such force that an alarm was sounded.

Brewer heard the jingle of the alarm and ran home. The police arrested him ten minutes later and charged him with turning in a false alarm.—St. Louis Times.

His Mind Elsewhere.

"Does it require mental concentration to write a 'best seller'?"

"I hardly think so," replied the man who loves good literature. "The last popular novel I glanced through was dictated by the author to his secretary, I understand, while on a fishing trip, and judging from the style of the novel, he must have caught some fish."

Where Memory Counts.

Hemmandhaw—I must say that you have the most remarkable memory I ever heard of.

Shimmerpate—Thank you.

"In fact, I would advise you to go into vaudeville."

"As a mental phenomenon?"

"No, as a comedian. You could remember the old jokes so well."—Youngstown Telegram.

Between Man and Wife.

"You ought to go over and see Jim before the honeymoon is over and congratulate him."

"Yes, and then after the honeymoon is over he'll remember my congratulations and all his life he will think I am a hypocrite. I'll wait awhile and then go over and sympathize with him."

"You brute!"

On the Contrary.

"What a lot of mail you've got this morning!" exclaimed the poet's wife. "But then, of course, this is your birthday, and those are 'many happy returns of the day' from all your friends."

"No," said the poet, pushing aside a heap of rejected manuscript. "These are unhappy returns of the day from the publishers."

Rather Annoying.

"Don't you admire a reposeful woman?"

"That all depends on the circumstances."

"Yes?"

"Some women cling to a strap in a crowded trolley car with such an air of dignity that against my better judgment I get up and offer them a seat."
