Conserve Food Aim of Council In New Mex.

Santa Fe, N. M. The National Food Administration headed by Herbert Hoover, in one week's time, since the appointment of Ralph C. Ely as federal food administrator for New Mexico has inaugurated a comprehensive and vigorous campaign, in co-operation with the State Council of Defense, to ascertain the supply and conserve the food of New Mexico. The first business of the state food administration, with Malvin T. Dunlavy of Santa Fe, as executive secretary and J. H. Toulouse as field agent, has been to secure the "food position" of New Mexico—get estimates from every county on probable yields of staple crops and amount that probably can be exported. With the aid of the county agents, figures on nearly all the counties have been secured for reporting to Mr. Hoover. Other features of the program now under way are:

Sending of Hoover Demonstration Teams, in the white Hoover uniform, composed of five women in each county, into all districts in volunteer automobiles to demonstrate the Hoover methods of canning and drying. Securing co-operation of "Motor Minute Men" in transporting demonstrating teams.

Organizing all fruit districts with the object of drying and canning every bit of fruit not shipped or consumed. Ex Governor Bradford Prince heads this committee.

Protecting growers of 50,000-100,000 pounds of beans from speculators.

Aiding Woman's Auxiliary to Council of Defense in getting all Hoover pledge cards signed up and returned to Washington. A grand "clean-up" week is to be conducted in October to the end that every woman in the state be enrolled as Hoover Conservationist and have the Hoover card in the window of her home.

Securing lectures to tour the state in the interest of practical food conservation.

Holding down prices of food and keeping trade in normal channels despite the war conditions.

Spence's Entertain

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Spence was the scene of a delightful party Friday night, Sept. 14th. The diversion of the evening were games and dancing. Those present were: Misses Lorena Haley, Marion Place, Ruth Edmonston, Harriett Kimbell, Florence and Kathryn Spence, Messrs Dean Gumm, Homer Donaldson, Wm. Spence, Joe Spence Jr. and Mayo Hamilton.

Cut the weeds and Boost.

Disgraceful Desertion

Officer Brockway arrested three men Monday night, who were found prowling around the railroad yards. They were taken to jail and upon being searched they were found to be deserters from Fort Bliss, strange as it may seem the men had not discarded their uniform's, but were seeking to avoid detection by wearing civilian's clothes over them.

They confessed desertion and gave their names to the officers, they are from the Thirty-fourth New York Infantry, and their names are: Dominir Demere, Co. H. Robert Collins, Co. G. and Bernard Van Billard of Co. K.

The men said they were looking for work being arrested in the yards would dispute such statements, for it was undoubtedly their intention to get as much distance between them and the border as possible.

They will be returned as soon as word can be received from Fort Bliss.

Recruits Galore

On Wednesday afternoon, 320 new recruits on the draft list, enroute to Fort Riley, from Arizona, landed in Carrizozo. They were a jolly set of fellows and seem to possess a determination to exercise their liberty while the time of grace remained. The Carrizozo Eating House prepared abundantly to receive them. Every available space was taken up with tables daintily arranged and no pains was spared to make the boys feel at home, and while a great many availed themselves of this hospitality, some seemed to take more pleasure in seeing the sights of the town, and providing themselves for the balance of their trip with certain necessities and—Everything—the train left late in the afternoon, some of the boys not caring just when, and others not knowing just how.

They will arrive in Ft. Riley about Sunday where they will begin the work of training in the service of Uncle Sam.

One of the coaches was labeled "Berlin Special" and this seem to carry the heaviest load. The boys went on their way rejoicing.

Missionary Society

The Missionary Society of the M. E. Church will meet with Mrs. R. T. Cribb Wednesday, Sept. 26 at 8 o'clock P. M. This will be the last meeting before Conference, and all members are urged to be present.

BAPTIST CHURCH

(Rev. J. M. Gardner, Pastor.)

On account of the absence of Rev. Gardner, who is conducting revival services at Durand, there will be no regular services at the Baptist church Sunday.

Business is Good In New Mexico Says Bankers

That business is good in New Mexico, in practically all lines, and that the state is prospering is the opinion of delegates to the meeting of the New Mexico Bankers' Association, in session in Las Vegas Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

Bankers from every county in the state reported on conditions in their home communities. They declared the war has given them new problems to solve, including that of financing farmers and stockmen who wish to increase their products. Gregory Page of Gallup reported that the coal strike in his section has about ceased to have any influence on production and that in a few weeks the mines will be turning out as much coal as ever before.

Episcopal Notes

Archdeacon Walter S. Trowbridge will conduct Episcopal Services at the Crystal Theatre Sunday morning Sept. 23rd. Archdeacon Trowbridge will probably conduct services regularly twice a month in the future, as the present Rector Rev. Hoering, will deliver his farewell sermon on Monday evening Oct. 1st.

METHODIST CHURCH

(Rev. Marston, Pastor.)

Next Sunday night the service will be especially in behalf of our Soldier Boys. We earnestly invite all who are to leave soon to attend this service. Let the friend of these boys tell them of this service please. Both Mexican and Americans will be welcome.

"Our worn out Preachers" will have special attention at the Sunday morning service, a special offering will be made for their relief.

The special meeting just closed under the earnest preaching of the Cowboy Preacher have been fruitful of good. The special lecture was well attended and bore good fruit.

On account of the absence of the teacher, the Womens Bible Class will be conducted next Sunday morning by Prof. Conway. Let all the ladies attend. Subject "Daniel in the Lions Den"

Prayer meeting every Wednesday night—this means you.

The 3rd Quarterly Conference for the Mexican Congregation was held on Monday night. Rev. Fitzgerald in the chair. Reports of the pastor showed that progress had been made.

Ernest O. Prehm with the Carrizozo Trading Company knows how to dress windows. The display is arranged so that you can't get away from it—See.

A Delightful Party

In honor of the 8th birthday of little Helen Rolland, a most delightful party was given in her honor, by Mrs. W. C. McDonald, at the McDonald Ranch Home.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the color scheme of pink being used throughout. Covers were laid for forty five children, and delicious refreshments of pink ice cream were served. Favors were presented to each child, which occasioned much delight.

During the afternoon various games were indulged in, Aileen Haley being the successful winner of the first prize in the peanut hunt, and George Vent the second. Miss Helen received many beautiful tokens of esteem from her little friends. Assisting Mrs. McDonald were: Mesdames Spencer, Sager and French.

Dean Gumm Entertains

Dean Gumm, entertained informally a few of the younger set Wednesday evening at his home, in honor of Joe Spence, this day being the birthday of the young man. Games were indulged in, and refreshments were served. Those present were: Lorena Haley, Katherine Spence, Florence Spence, Marion Place Harriett Kimbell, Ruth Edmonston, Dean Gumm, Mayo Hamilton, Homer Donaldson and Joe Spence.

Sad Intelligence

The sad news reaches us that the newly born baby of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Doering of Anthony, N. M. formerly of this city, and brother of John and Mike Doering is not expected to live. The little one was born Wednesday and seems to be suffering from inanition.

Lost—between Carrizozo and White Oaks, near the old Manchester house, two Cravenette coats. Finder please report to Outlook Office and receive reward.

New Mexico Excites Interest As Oil State

That New Mexico, principally that portion extending from the north to the south through Torrence, Lincoln and Otero counties, containing an oil deposit, is the belief of a number of geologists and is the subject for an extensive article in the El Paso Times of Sept. 19th by Lew Davis. He says in part, "It is the belief of a number of oil experts who have spent considerable time in studying the geological conditions, signs and indications, that there is an oil belt in that portion of New Mexico, extending from north to south, thru Torrence, Lincoln and Otero counties to the northern boundary line of El Paso county, Texas. In the opinion of one oil geologist there is a river of oil flowing under all of these counties. Already at least three companies with ample capital are operating at different points in that oil belt.

One of these is a big syndicate of Oklahoma oil people, who have leased over 400,000 acres of land from the state of New Mexico and have a large oil rig operating in Torrence county. They have agreed to expend half a million dollars in exploring with drills on the leased land. Still further south in the western part of Lincoln county a representative of one of the biggest oil companies in California has just leased nearly 30,000 acres of land from the state of New Mexico, covering about 20 miles of an anticline, with a north-south course, with synclines on each side thereof. Their oil geologist spent over a week in canvassing the belt and found the conditions ideal for the existence of one of the greatest oil fields in the United States."

In addition to the above facts it should not be forgotten that as a further evidence of the existence of oil deposits in this section of the state, a company is now being organized and preparations are being made for starting the drilling for oil in Oscura. So certain is the promoter of this enterprise, and so confident are the prominent business men of Oscura and Carrizozo that funds are being supplied to carry out the test.

It has long been the opinion of geologists that oil in deposits exist in this locality and some efforts have been made to locate it but without success, but the latest movement comes with a push and determination that gives a promise of success.

It happened this way: Sam Fambrough understood that a neighbor of his who had been out of town on a visit, had left a trunk at the Carrizozo Eating House. And Sam, who is always ready to befriend someone, hastened to the Eating House, loaded a trunk into his car and with his usual "Smile of the Overland," tried to break the record for speed between Carrizozo and "Jack's Peak." But the best of intentions are sometimes met with the worst reverses so Sam returned the trunk. Who did that trunk belong to anyhow?

CONVICTS AID THE RED CROSS

"Doing their bit" while "doing time," might be the motto of the convicts of the Eastern penitentiary, Philadelphia. Some of the prisoners are set at the task of rolling bandages for the Red Cross. The men in the picture, along with others, roll 1,000 bandages a day. Three hundred bandages are placed in each bag. The work is done under the most sanitary conditions and under the supervision of a trained Red Cross nurse.

Mother's Cook Book

Wash the grapes well, just cover with cold water and let simmer until the juice seems to be well extracted. Then strain through a jelly glass and add a cupful of sugar to each quart of strained juice. Put on fire and bring to the boiling point, bottle and seal in well-sterilized receptacles, and the juice will be perfect after a year in the cellar.

Peach Butter.

Take partly ripe peaches, thinned from the trees, or windfalls may be used. Be careful to discard all bruised parts. Stew the peaches until tender, then rub through a sieve. To 12 pounds of the fruit pulp add six pounds of light brown sugar, three teaspoonfuls of ground cinnamon, two teaspoonfuls of ground allspice and one teaspoonful of cloves. Cook until thick, stirring often.

Grape Jelly.

Take a basket of perfectly ripe Concord grapes, six Duchess or other apples which cook quickly, and with a little water to keep them from scorching, cook until the juice is extracted. Then drain and to each cupful of juice add two cupfuls of sugar. Stir until every grain of sugar is dissolved and turn into glasses. This makes a jelly that tastes like fresh grape juice. Be sure to try it.

BOOK FOR FIGHTERS

President Wilson Urges Soldiers to Read Bible, Key to Own Heart.

Bibles for American soldiers and sailors, to be given by the Scripture Gift mission of Philadelphia, will carry a foreword by President Wilson urging the troops to read the Scriptures diligently. The president has written this inscription:

"The Bible is the word of life. I beg that you will read it and find this out for yourselves—read, not little snatches here and there, but long passages that will really be the road to the heart of it.

"You will find it full of real men and women not only, but also of things you have wondered about and been troubled about all your life, as men have been always; and the more you read the more it will become plain to you what things are worth while and what are not; what things make men happy—loyalty, tight-dealings, speaking the truth, readiness to give everything for what they think their duty, and, most of all, the wish that they may have the real approval of the Christ, who gave everything for them—and things that are guaranteed to make men unhappy—selfishness, cowardice, greed, and everything that is low and mean.

"When you have read the Bible you will know that it is the word of God, because you will have found it the key to your own heart, your own happiness, and your own duty.

"WOODROW WILSON."

POULTRY

CARE OF DUCKS.

The requirements of ducks are so few that anyone can raise them. They are less bother than chickens, not requiring such varied feeding, and a fence two feet high will keep them where you wish them to stay, says one writer. They will not dig up the garden, never fly up onto anything, and are never troubled with lice or bowel troubles as are chickens. You can feed them the same kind

American Boy Tells Efforts to Save Wounded Under Fire

The following letter was written by Robert Redfield, Jr., a University of Chicago student, who went to France to serve in the ambulance corps and who is in the section awarded the Croix de Guerre. The letter was written to his family:

"I know there is certainly no way that in writing I can give you any idea of the experiences I have passed through and the things I have seen. I might just as well confine my remarks to 'I am well and hope you are the same.' "At present I am writing on a hard-wood table under an electric desk lamp. I am within a few hundred yards of the German trenches, and hell is loose above me. But here it is perfectly quiet; I am three stories below ground in a sort of catacomb. Here I wait till my car is needed. The air is fresh but somewhat damp; the place is dark, cluttered with stretchers; brancardiers pass in and out. Must Forget All Feeling.

"Across the table sits an officer at a telephone switchboard. Every little while—perhaps once every five minutes—men come in by the communication trenches, bearing silent, dirty, bloody lumps. They are carried under acetylene lights in a small room in the second cellar and the surgeons slit the filthy woolen and begin their work.

"I am surprised at the excellent control I have over my nerves. This afternoon I opened a box of sardines, carefully spread the fish on a hunk of bread, and ate the light lunch with relish while the priest heard confession from a torn and crushed ghastly thing beneath which the red patch grew and grew in spite of the lint bandages. I knew it sounds heartless, but one has to develop the faculty of giving opiates to one's sympathetic reactions.

"It is only afterwards that I remember these horrors and shudder—a man with face torn away; a shameful animal thing out of which came a slight, indescribable sound; a man suffering from shell shock, mind gone, every muscle of his body crawling, crawling. But enough of that.

"Well, if I am 'on deck' and they have a load of wounded ready, I emerge from the quiet cavern into a world where the sky is shattered, split, sundered by report after report. The earth shakes and quivers. Airplanes above, TS's below, German artillery over the hill, mitrailleurs, whirling shrapnel, the shriek of shells passing above—a hell of noises.

"Somehow names and I start the engine; we receive our freight of wounded; we are off, at first through of feed from the fifth day after they hatch until they are full grown, which they will be in 10 or 12 weeks.

Do not feed the young ducklings until they are 36 hours old, taking particular pains to see that they are kept dry and warm. It is not desirable to try to raise them with hens, as they step on so many of them and the ducks are even worse to raise them with. Brooders are much less bother and will raise a larger per cent of them.

For the first five days feed bread crumbled and moistened with milk, adding a heaping tablespoonful of sharp, sifted sand. After the fifth day feed one and a half pounds of middlings, one and a half pounds of chop, three pounds of bran and one and a half pounds of sifted sharp sand, well mixed, and a small amount at a time wet up into a crumbly mash. Never feed only what they will clean up in ten minutes, three times a day, always giving fresh water when you feed them, and be very sure that none of the feed is dry or they will choke to death.

On Foot.

Sir Gold goes by in his motor car. I tramp the road and take his dust; But a friendly wind from the hills afar Sweeps it away with a laughing gust. Sir Gold may ride, if he will it so, But let me follow the winding way That leads to the hills and the streams—I know, Where the birches bend and the fishes play.

He has not seen in the sheltered nook The windflower swing on the threadlike stalk. He never knows how the fern fronds look, Nor listens to Jack-in-the-pulpit's talk. And where the oriole's nest is swung, A web of dreams against the sky—Precious and sweet with her eager young, Blind and stupid he rushes by.

Well, let him go if he likes the pace, So long as he leaves the road behind; In spite of his speed he has lost the race, The fingling zest the foot-wright find. Ho! Ho! I laugh at his sorry flight, A speeding slave, when he might be free In God's green weather of sweet delight, On the good brown road, at tramp with me.

Feed the Fighters! Win the War!!

Harvest the Crops—Save the Yields

On the battle fields of France and Flanders, the United States boys and the Canadian boys are fighting side by side to win for the World the freedom that Prussianism would destroy. While doing this they must be fed and every ounce of muscle that can be requisitioned must go into use to save this year's crop.

The Combined Fighters in France and Flanders and the Combined Harvesters in America WILL Bring the Allied Victory Nearer.

A reciprocal arrangement for the use of farm workers has been perfected between the Department of the Interior of Canada and the Departments of Labor and Agriculture of the United States, under which it is proposed to permit the harvesters of the wheat fields of Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin to move over into Canada, with the privilege of later returning to the United States, when the crops in the United States have been conserved, and help to save the enormous crops in Canada which by that time will be ready for harvesting.

George Quinlan, county superintendent of highways, who recently won the rank of major in the engineering corps, returned to the county building recently. He tells this one: "One day the instructor (captain of the company) came along and called out to a fellow from Missouri: "Send that man up here." "No man here," answered the Missourian. "But I see him," said the captain. "He's not a man; he's my sergeant."

IMPRESSIVE IN HIS SPEECH

Old Soldier Endeavored to Make Vocabulary Fit the Responsibilities of His Position.

An old soldier was for a long time curator of a certain public educational institution. In accordance with the duties of his responsible position it sometimes fell to his lot to remind the students of forgotten regulations. "Gentlemen," he shouted, on one occasion, when a game of leapfrog was going on in a somewhat shaky gallery, "why this violent disturbance?" "Well," was the reply, "what business is it of yours?" "Gentlemen," he responded, indignantly, displaying his full height, "do you know that I am placed here by the governors of this college to conserve this building?"

At another time the prank was played upon him of being simultaneously summoned by two students from different ends of the corridor.

"Gentlemen," he cried out, "I really cannot be unquitting!"

On another occasion, after heavy rains, there was dire disaster of malarious flood in the cellars.

"Sir," reported Thomas, to the principal, "the rain has permeated the soil and has resuscitated all the drains to overflowing!"

Naturally So.

"Butts has a swelled head." "Indeed? Too much self-conceit?" "No; mumps."

Just So It's Beefsteak.
Paul, who lived in the country where at his house pork is the predominant meat throughout the year, had gone to the city to visit his aunt. Thinking, of course, she must have things he liked best to eat, she asked him what kind of meat she should get for dinner, and Paul's reply was, "I don't care, aunty, whether it is horse or cow, just so it is beefsteak."

Queer Corpse.
A western senator of burly appearance was passing an undertaker's shop when a roughly dressed man came out and said: "Say, mister, will you give me a lift with a casket?" The senator shuddered and asked hesitatingly: "Is there—is there anything in it?" "Shure!" came the hearty reply; "there's a couple of drinks in it."—Boston Transcript.

High School Athletics

Carrizozo has an opportunity now to distinguish itself along the athletic line.

We have good material in High School for foot and basket ball teams, and Mr. G. O. Nackle who is well versed in athletics, has signified a willingness to train and coach the boys. Freedom of the open air coupled with athletic exercises is the one thing needed now for as the old saying goes, All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. Let us have Foot and Basket Ball and a good Old Base Ball team.

Everything is ready now, and all that is needed is a little boosting. Get under and help boost, the Outlook has started the ball help us to keep it rolling.

The Fleur-de-Lis.
The iris is supposed to be the fleur-de-lis, or flower-de-luce of the French out of arms, but really has nothing to do with the design, this being of quite recent application. The origin of the design is not known but it is quite generally believed to represent the head of a spear; by others the tower of a lily, the floral emblem of France.

Prophetic.
A calling on the Widow Jones for some time, and it could be said that he had made an impression, although he had failed to realize the fact. She decided to speed him on his way at the first opportunity, and it came that night. He heaved a sigh and said, "I have only one friend on earth—my dog." "Well," she answered, calmly, "if that isn't enough, why don't you get another dog?"

CONVICTS AID THE RED CROSS

of feed from the fifth day after they hatch until they are full grown, which they will be in 10 or 12 weeks.

Do not feed the young ducklings until they are 36 hours old, taking particular pains to see that they are kept dry and warm. It is not desirable to try to raise them with hens, as they step on so many of them and the ducks are even worse to raise them with. Brooders are much less bother and will raise a larger per cent of them.

For the first five days feed bread crumbled and moistened with milk, adding a heaping tablespoonful of sharp, sifted sand. After the fifth day feed one and a half pounds of middlings, one and a half pounds of chop, three pounds of bran and one and a half pounds of sifted sharp sand, well mixed, and a small amount at a time wet up into a crumbly mash. Never feed only what they will clean up in ten minutes, three times a day, always giving fresh water when you feed them, and be very sure that none of the feed is dry or they will choke to death.

He has not seen in the sheltered nook The windflower swing on the threadlike stalk; He never knows how the fern fronds look, Nor listens to Jack-in-the-pulpit's talk. Well, let him go if he likes the pace, So long as he leaves the road behind.

Feed the Fighters! Win the War!! Harvest the Crops—Save the Yields

On the battle fields of France and Flanders, the United States boys and the Canadian boys are fighting side by side to win for the World the freedom that Prussianism would destroy. While doing this they must be fed and every ounce of muscle that can be requisitioned must go into use to save this year's crop. A short harvest period requires the combined forces of the two countries in team work, such as the soldier boys in France and Flanders are demonstrating.

The Combined Fighters in France and Flanders and the Combined Harvesters in America WILL Bring the Allied Victory Nearer.

A reciprocal arrangement for the use of farm workers has been perfected between the Department of the Interior of Canada and the Departments of Labor and Agriculture of the United States, under which it is proposed to permit the harvesters that are now engaged in the wheat fields of Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin to move over into Canada, with the privilege of later returning to the United States, when the crops in the United States have been harvested, and help to save the enormous crops in Canada which by that time will be ready for harvesting.

VISITS COLORADO AND FINDS RELIEF

Mrs. Gilreath Was in a Terribly Rundown Condition She Declares.

GAINS ELEVEN POUNDS

"I Am Very Grateful to the People Who Told Me About Tanlac," She Says—Now Like a Different Person.

"When I came here for a visit to my daughter I had no idea that I would find a medicine that would do me so much good, for Tanlac has not only relieved my suffering but has built me up in weight and strength until I really feel like a different person."

The above statement was made by Mrs. Minnie Lee Gilreath, of Coffeyville, Kansas, at the residence of her daughter at 1740 Sherman street, Denver, Colorado, a few days ago.

"A little over a year ago I began to suffer with my stomach," she continued. "My food did not digest properly and the gas formed by it kept me in distress nearly all the time. My liver got in a bad condition and I suffered terribly with headaches. I couldn't rest well at night and felt tired and worn-out. I also suffered a great deal with rheumatism in the feet."

"I am very grateful to the people who told me about Tanlac, for now I have regained my health and strength and have actually gained eleven pounds in weight besides. I don't think there is a medicine in the world to compare with Tanlac. I have now taken five bottles and every sign of my trouble is gone. My appetite is splendid, the rheumatism has left me, my nerves are calm and I sleep all night long. My visit here has been of untold value to me, and I recommend Tanlac to anybody."

There is a Tanlac dealer in your town.—Adv.

WOMEN! IT IS MAGIC! LIFT OUT ANY CORN

Apply a few drops then lift corns or calluses off with fingers—no pain.

Just think! You can lift off any corn or callus without pain or soreness.

A Cincinnati man discovered this other compound and named it freezezone. Any druggist will sell a tiny bottle of freezezone, like here shown, for very little cost. You apply a few drops directly upon a tender corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it right off.

Freezone is wonderful. It dries instantly. It doesn't eat away the corn or callus, but shrivels it up without even irritating the surrounding skin.

Hard, soft or corns between the toes, as well as painful calluses, lift right off. There is no pain before or afterwards. If your druggist hasn't freezezone, tell him to order a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

TARANTULA FRIENDS.

"No one can say," said the tarantula, "that I cannot make a beautiful web."

Our Bite is Considered Dangerous.

"That is so," said a neighbor tarantula, "but you have many bad habits. In fact, you are a very different kind of spider than the ones about houses. They do not work all the harm you do. They build webs. To be sure they invite foolish bugs and flies to call upon them, and then they catch them and hold them fast. But that is not the fault of the spiders. That is the fault of the bugs and flies."

"You are blaming me quite unjustly," said the tarantula. "Why do you not say that it is the fault of the birds I kill not my fault? If the other spiders are not to blame because they catch flies and bugs in their webs, why, oh, why, should I be blamed for catching birds?"

"Of course, when one thinks of it that way," said neighbor tarantula, "I suppose I am just the same. I do what you do. Perhaps neither of us are to blame. That is a happy thought."

"It is indeed," said the first tarantula.

"Yes, I think we are rather fine," said neighbor tarantula. "Our bite is considered very dangerous. But we do not know many people."

"They don't come where we are—that is, not often. They know better. And, of course, we wouldn't go to live where they did, as we like our own homes best."

"Imagine living the way our tame cousin spiders do!" said neighbor tarantula.

"I couldn't," said the first one. "And we are so much finer than they are," said neighbor tarantula;

"We are, and I know why you say so. It is because they can only spin webs. We can do that. And in addition to spinning webs we have fine nests to live in and we make them ourselves. Our nests are as fine as any birds'."

"When you speak of birds," said neighbor tarantula, "it makes my mouth water."

"You haven't got much of a mouth to water," said the first tarantula.

"However, we can eat! Yes, and we can kill. We can spin webs and build nests. We are fine, fine, indeed."

"Of course," said neighbor tarantula, doubtfully.

"There are some creatures," said the first tarantula, "who are jealous."

"Maybe so," said neighbor. "I wonder if you have heard the old story about us?"

"What old story?"

"Shall I tell you?"

"Pray do," said the first tarantula.

"My grandfather told it to me when I was a little spider. It was when my claws and legs were beginning to amount to something, but before they were very strong. This was his story:

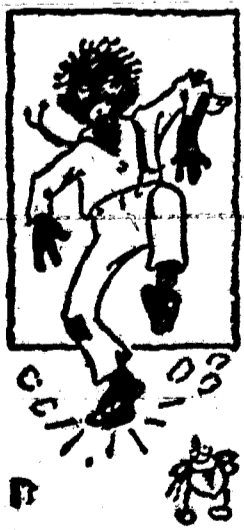

"Years and years ago," he said, "there was an old saying that the bite of the tarantula was so dangerous that it could only be cured by dancing and singing. So they named a dance after us which they called the tarantula."

It is an old-fashioned dance, and many folks dance it these days. But still they named a piece of music after us, too—music to fit the dance. For they said this music would heal the bite we had given. Ah, that is fame! Not only can we bite! Lots of creatures can do that! In fact, I don't know of any creature who can't at least get his food within him. But we can bite so hard that they have to dance and sing to cure our bites."

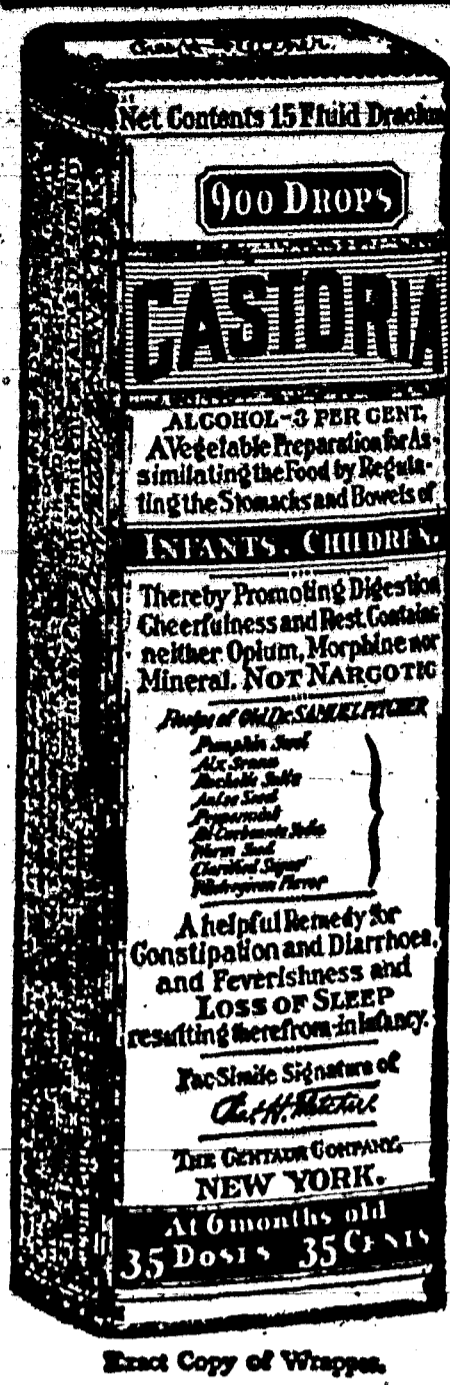

"Is that really true?" asked the first tarantula.

"My grandfather said that it was a superstition, which he explained was something people believed but which was not true. It is like thinking witches and goblins are bad when they really aren't at all! But, all the same, it is a fine story, and it is nice to think they named a dance and song after us."

But children needn't worry about the bites of the tarantula friends, for they are not around our parts of the world.

They Dance to Cure Our Bites.

Canadian Farmers Profit From Wheat

The war's devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and wheat near $2 a bushel offers great profits to the farmer. Canada's invitation is therefore especially attractive. She wants settlers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves by raising her raise immense wheat crops.

You can get a Homestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands at remarkably low prices. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 30 bushels to the acre many yields as high as 46 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flax.

Mixed farming as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses full of nutrition are the only food required for best or dairy purposes. Good schools, churches, markets convenient, climate excellent.

There is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government is urging farmers to put extra strength into their fields. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Dept. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or

Certain-teed

Certain-teed is tangible something you can take hold of. It means certainty of quality and guaranteed satisfaction. Behind the name is the definite responsibility of a great business which has reached commanding position in its field because of its ability to manufacture and distribute the best quality products on the most efficient basis. An extensive system of factories, warehouses and sales offices makes possible low manufacturing costs and quick, economical distribution.

Certain-teed Roofing

Is the best quality of roll roofing. It is recognized and used as the preferable type of roofing for office buildings, factories, hotels, stores, warehouses, garages, farm buildings, etc., where durability is demanded. It is economical to buy, inexpensive to lay, and costs practically nothing to maintain. It is light weight, weather-proof, clean, sanitary, and fire-retardant. It is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply).

Certain-teed Paints and Varnishes are good, honest, dependable products made as good paints and varnishes should be made, from high grade materials, mixed by modern machinery to insure uniformity, and labeled to truthfully represent the contents. They are made by experts long experienced in paint making, and are guaranteed to give satisfaction. Made in full line of colors, and for all different purposes. Any dealer can get you CERTAIN-TEED Paints and Varnishes.

YOUR FLAG AND MY FLAG

This memorandum confirms an agreement heretofore made by and between the National Surgical Dressings Committee of America [herein for convenience referred to as "Surgical Dressings Committee"], represented by Mrs. Mary Hatch Willard as chairman, proceeding on full authorization by her committee, and the "American National Red Cross [called Red Cross for convenience], acting by and through R. S. Lovett as chairman of its committee on co-operation, and by authority of its war council.

1. The Surgical Dressings Committee is hereby accepted and established as a National Auxiliary of the Red Cross, upon the terms and conditions and for the length of time hereinafter specified.

2. The Surgical Dressings Committee shall be known as a National Auxiliary of the Red Cross and use this title in conjunction with its own, it may retain its name and organization and carry on its present work in the United States, both centrally and through its local branches, and solicit funds in its own name, but no solicitation shall be made in the name of Red Cross unless all proceeds thereof are to be accounted for and turned over to the Red Cross organization.

3. The Surgical Dressings Committee shall furnish such statistics and information as the Red Cross may request, including amounts of money received and expended, reports of activities and other data upon forms supplied or approved by the Red Cross.

4. It is understood that an effort will be made by the Red Cross to perfect the standards of materials to be sent abroad that it will keep informed of the requirements at the front, and will disseminate among all chapters and organizations doing relief work information respecting the nature and quantity of materials and supplies most needed. It is expected that the Surgical Dressings Committee in manufacturing for American hospitals will conform to such standards as may from time to time be prescribed by the Red Cross for its chapters doing similar work.

5. A policy of co-operation and mutual helpfulness is to be followed by the Surgical Dressings Committee including its various branch Committees and by the Chapter officers and members of the Red Cross chapter in the various localities where both organizations work.

6. If it be found that duplication of effort exist in any locality the Red Cross organization and the Surgical Dressings Committee or its branch shall be prepared to confer with the Committee on Co-operation of the Red Cross to determine in what manner such duplication may be adjusted.

7. The foregoing six paragraphs are applicable to the work in the United States. This paragraph, shall be controlling as to France.

The French Section of the National Surgical Dressing Committee of America, retaining its name and organization, will be designated as "Surgical Dressings Service Department of American National Red Cross," which will administer in France all of the Surgical Dressings work of the Red Cross Mrs. C. K. Austin, who is at present director in Paris of French Section of the National Surgical Dressings Committee, will be in charge of the Surgical Dressings Committee Service Department of American National Red Cross under the general supervision of the Red Cross.

8. This agreement shall be in effect for the period of the War, provided, however, that either party may terminate the same and discontinue the arrangement hereby established by giving to the other party thirty days written notice of its intention to do so. Signed in duplicate copies in New York City, this July 30, 1917.

EGG PRODUCTION CUT

LICE AND MITES MATERIALLY REDUCE YIELD OF LAYERS.

Effective Control Is Most Thorough Sanitation—Give Poultry House Thorough Cleaning and Then Disinfect.

That lice and mites materially cut down egg production, is the belief of F. E. Fox, assistant in poultry husbandry.

"Lice and mites, by feeding on laying hens, cause a reduction in egg production," said Mr. Fox. "The lice live continuously upon the fowl, eating the tissues and causing much annoyance by scratching and irritating the bird. Mites suck the blood of the victim, and thus, in addition to annoyance and pain, rob the fowl of needed nourishment.

Lice have biting mouth parts, and are therefore easily poisoned. For this purpose, blue quinoline is the most effective and easiest to apply. A piece about the size of a pea should be well rubbed into the fluff well up into the skin just below the vent. As the lice necessarily must come here for moisture, they are readily poisoned. The treatment should be repeated in a week or ten days to assure killing those that hatch later.

"Another common remedy for lice is pyrethrum powder, which should be thoroughly dusted into the feathers. This powder is rather expensive, however, and homemade powder that is just as effective may be made at a saving. Use three parts of gasoline and one part coal tar dip. Mix these together and add enough plaster of paris or building cement to take up the moisture. This powder must be used often and is therefore not so effective as the method first described.

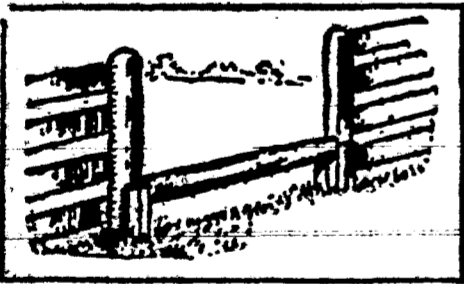

"Mites are combated in a different manner, because of a vital difference in their life habits. They live upon the fowl only at night, sucking the blood. They then leave the bird and hide in cracks, crevices and filth during the day.

"Effective control is mostly through sanitation. Give the house a thorough cleaning. Throw out all litter and straw, clean out all filth, brush down the sides, and sweep the ceiling. Scrub out the house with warm water. Spray thoroughly with coal tar dip, carbolic acid mixed with water, or pure kerosene. In applying these solutions, a brush may be used, but a spray pump is the most desirable. Repeat the spraying in a week or ten days to assure the death of those that hatch after the first spraying."

HOG GATE FOR CONVENIENCE

Horses and Cattle May Pass From One Field to Another, but Pockers Are Turned Back.

Sometimes a farmer wants to keep the hogs shut up in an inclosure and at the same time let horses or cattle pass back and forth from the inclosure to another field or lot. This gate will permit cattle and horses to pass over it, but it will turn the hogs. A log or pole, six inches through will serve the purpose. It should be spiked at either end so that it cannot be lifted. Placed at the right height, it will keep the hogs from passing, but it will not, of course, keep pigs from crawling under it.

LITTLE THINGS ABOUT CALF

Give Whole Milk Until One Month Old, Then Change to Skim Milk—Time for Breeding.

If calves are weaned they should be fed whole milk until they are one month old, when they should be changed to skim milk until they are six months old. While they are on milk they should be given some grain and alfalfa hay.

A good mixture for grain feed is four parts of corn or corn chop, one part of oil meal, and two parts of wheat bran. After taking the calf off the milk, increase the grain gradually to two pounds a day in addition to silage and alfalfa hay.

The heifers should be bred so as to calve when from twenty-four to thirty months of age, depending upon the breed and growth of the animal. If bred so as to calve earlier than this, their growth is apt to be injured.

Hay for Young Stock.

Young dairy stock should have all the hay they will eat, and grain in proportion to weight.

KEEP WINTER APPLES

Winter apples may be kept in the storage room in the basement of the house, in out-door storage cellars, or in banks or pits. Conditions suitable for the keeping of potatoes answer fairly well for apples. They demand cool temperatures; in fact, they may be kept near the freezing point, without injury.

When stored in the basement of the house, they should be kept in barrels, boxes or crates, and placed near a window. When stored in banks or pits, they should be handled in the same way as potatoes, but do not need to be covered quite as deeply as potatoes. It is a good thing to store small quantities in the basement storage room, or in the storage cellar, and the main supply in out-door banks or pits.

For further discussion of the storage of apples, see Farmers' Bulletins 852 and 870.

PLAN FOR HORSERADISH CROP

Plants Need Little Attention, and Profits Are Always Good—Deep Digging Is Recommended.

When it comes to a small crop that needs little attention and affords a good return, the horseradish is not to be despised. Nearly everyone wants enough of the crop for home use, and many persons find it a most profitable commercial venture. A couple of dozen roots will be sufficient for the use of a small family and the number may be increased at will to suit the purposes of the grower.

Instead of seeds, sets, or small pieces of roots are planted. They are perfectly hardy and can be taken up in the fall or in the early spring just as one wishes. Plenty of moisture and a deep rich soil are the chief things to be desired from the cultural viewpoint. The advantage of deep digging for straight roots is illustrated by the picture, and the same advantage is obvious for all root vegetables.

BEST VARIETIES OF APPLES

Estimates in United States Show That Baldwins Lead With 13.4 Per Cent of Total Crop.

Estimates on the total production of 35 leading varieties of apples in the United States show Baldwin leading with 13.4 per cent of the total crop. Ben Davis is a close second, and Northern Spy third. Fourth place is held by the Winesap and fifth by the Greenging.

CHANGE WORK HORSE'S DIET

Where Animal Loses Appetite It Must Not Be Assumed It Has Some Disease.

If a work horse loses its appetite, it must not be assumed that it has acquired some serious disease. It probably has been kept on a too steady diet of one kind of food. The diet must be changed, and if an improvement is not noted quickly, it is evidence that the animal needs both a purgative and a tonic. A tablespoonful of aniseed in the feed is an excellent tonic, as it sweetens the stomach and stimulates the appetite.

WASTE TURNED INTO PROFIT

Enough Pasture and Roughage Material on Many Farms to Support Cattle or Sheep.

There is enough waste pasture and roughage material on many farms where live stock is not carried to support a few steers or a small flock of sheep. What would otherwise go to waste can thus be converted to profits.

TO PUNISH GERMANY FOR GENERATIONS

The world will not soon forget Teutonic terrorism visited on women and children—the rape, murder, enslavement, torture, vandalism, air raids, plots and insults of Junkerdom

The picture is reproduced from a drawing printed in Black and White, an English magazine, in October, 1908. The artist illustrated an article describing the development of Zeppelin airships by the Germans, and he aimed to picture the horrors of an air attack on London if Germany and Great Britain should ever engage in war. He was more prophetic that he knew, for six years later Zeppelins dropped bombs on the English capital with deadly effect.

An important part of the German gospel of making war is the program of spreading terror among non-combatants of enemy nations. How has this policy been carried out? We all know the black history made by the Teutons the last three years in Belgium and northern France, in Serbia and Russian Poland. It has been a cowardly warfare of the most outrageous kind, against women and children and old men—an unspeakable record of rape, murder, deportation into slavery, torture, savage vandalism, that will never be forgotten or forgiven.

The United States knows official Germany for its plots against us and conspiracy within our borders against friendly nations, while protesting friendship for us. It knows official Germany for its secret attempt to incite Japan and Mexico to make war on us with promise of aiding them. It knows official Germany for swinish insults to our diplomatic representatives in Germany time and time again. It knows official Germany as a liar, a murderer, a thief, a home-wrecker, a child-killer—in short, a criminal government of the most degenerative type.

For these crimes the world will punish Germany through many generations. Germany will have no friends outside her border lines. Germany as a nation will be shunned and mistrusted. German individuals will be snubbed and suspected for a hundred years to come. We shall listen to the German's story. We shall hear his solemn protestations of sincerity. We shall give ear to his assertions of high honor. But we shall remember our bitter experience with all his kind. And we shall refuse to accept his pledges. We will refuse his proffers of friendship. We will refuse him our hospitality. We will refuse to visit him or trade with him or aid him. Come decades of reckoning for him that has poisoned our minds, our hearts and our bodies.

Do you doubt? Then read here how German airplanes have sown a heritage of hate in London:

"I should like German people to know that raids of this kind are preparing for them an ordeal which will try their souls for a generation."

So wrote Harold Begbie, English author, in the London Daily Chronicle two days after the raid of July 7 that killed and wounded 178 persons, seventy-six of them women and children.

"They will find themselves, after the peace," the writer continues, "confronted by a social boycott such as no nation has ever experienced. They are proud of themselves now: they think that the whole world must be full of admiration for their valor, their discipline, their patriotism; but when the barriers of armed men are removed, and they begin to move about among other nations, they will come up against a spiritual barrier which will be likely to break their hearts. There are some memories which nothing can destroy.

"I have heard opinions expressed in London during this raid which lighted up for me the social future of the German people. They have sung their Hymn of Hate till they are hoarse, and now perhaps they are ashamed of such emotionalism. But other nations, colder and more restrained, have a hate in their hearts for the German spirit which is too deep for ballad singing and too real to pass away. The Englishman does not rave and does not call upon Jehovah, and does not fuss; but there are some things he never forgets. Truly, I do not think it will be safe for any German to go about the world after the war for many years."

It is asserted in England that the raids have done no military damage. Hall Caine writes that in a tour of the city following the raid he saw no property damage that could not be repaired by the mason, the street paver and the glazier within six days. Materially, the raid was contemptible.

London has seven hundred square miles of territory. Miles and miles of streets were untouched. London stands where it always did. By the slaughter of a comparatively few civilians the Germans have succeeded only in piling up a heritage of hate for the future. London has seen women and children crushed and blown to bits and mangled bodies in the streets. The memory will linger with English men and English women. It is not well to have a nation feel as one old charwoman expressed it:

"By God, I wish some of them Germans would come down Mare street! Hackney'd give it to 'em. Ah, wouldn't it. I'd tear the eyes out of them."

There is talk of reprisals. Sections of the enraged populace demand it, but the official mind is all against it. English hands will be cleaner if they disdain German methods. The authorities have said there would be no retaliation unless there was a military object to be obtained.

London newspapers for several days after the raid were crammed with details of it. When the airplanes came a little group huddled in an arch formed by the juncture of two three-story buildings. A bomb dropped on the roof and the debris, pouring through the shattered floor, buried the victims. Four men were killed. Three children and a woman were severely injured.

Horses were killed in the streets and vans took fire. In one short street where the houses are occupied by working people the bombs killed eight; another is missing and a tenth was driven insane. Literally, scores of women and children suffered injuries, more or less severe. Twelve small houses were demolished.

A woman who lived in what is now the shattered remnant of a little home told a pathetic story:

"As soon as I heard an explosion," she said, "I ran into my neighbor's. There I found her, another woman, and five or six children. They were all in the kitchen, and one woman was trying to comfort the other. Then a bomb burst in the middle of the road and the whole front of the house seemed to come in. I saw one of the women fall and the terrible wounds revealed to me even in that glance showed that she could not be alive. I called for help and a man came in and covered the poor mangled body. I had one of the children in my arms. Fortunately, we were both uninjured."

A torpedo fell in the play yard of a large school. As it was Saturday no children were present; otherwise there probably would have been many casualties. Horses bolted in the streets and there were cries of anguish from the wounded. In West London at the height of the raid three motor lorries of soldiers were proceeding eastward. They continued their journey unconcernedly, singing "Keep On Carrying On." In one district four wounded soldiers strolled along the pavement, and a woman invited them into the shelter of her house. "Thanks, but it doesn't matter," replied a tall guard-man. "One of these bombs is not half as bad as a Jack Johnson."

"To the present writer," said an article in the Chronicle, "they were no dragon flies or fluttering birds. They were huge, sharply defined, mobile magazines of death. They came to the metropolis, down and down, searching with contemptuous deliberation. After the first bomb a piece meal avalanche followed. The demons who drove and dealt death cared as little for us as the earlier Zeppelinists cared."

The London Globe published a Berlin dispatch, by way of Amsterdam, in which the Teutons said they had hit Charing Cross station, the great railway station, several times. The claim is printed without comment. Only the people in London can vouch for the truth of it. One of the bitterest estimates of the bombing was written by Hall Caine:

"I think of what war was in the days when, with all its brutalities, it had the virtue of courage and the splendor of bravery," he wrote. "I remember the battles recorded in the old Norse sagas when it was only glorious to fight a man who could fight back, when it was a disgrace to take one's adversary unawares, and an everlasting shame to attack the weak, the disabled, or the unarmed.

"And then I think of these young German airmen, hiding behind the clouds, until they come upon the enemy unprepared, striking him with an arm that can be long or short, according to conditions of their own safety, and then sailing off in the comparative security of the illimitable sky.

"War? It is manslaughter and murder. Brave men? In the category of soldiers the creatures who condescend to such methods of assault ought only to be classed among the bullies and cowards."

The papers were filled with articles demanding an improvement in the air defense. In the successful raid—if it can be called a success—the enemy escaped with slight loss. It is estimated that there were twenty-five attacking planes. The English say that four of the raiders were downed, while admitting the loss of one of their own craft. The government, however, denies that the English airmen deserve the abuse that was theirs after the raid.

Prisoners Unable to Agree.

Thirteen natives of the Trentino, Carso, and adjoining districts of Austria, who were serving as blue-jackets on the Austrian cruiser Kaiserin Elizabeth, which was sunk at Tsingtau, and who were taken prisoners at the surrender of the fortress, have been released by the Japanese authorities and are to be returned to Italy. Although nominally enemy prisoners, all their sympathies were with the aquatic allies, and their relations with the other prisoners were, in consequence, strained. One of the men was discovered attempting to commit suicide, his explanation being that life was unbearable under the conditions in the camp.
